Department Of Energy To Be Born

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, with flourishing pen and abundant praise, is signing into being a Department of Energy, the first new Cabinet office in 11 years.

It's being born in one of the biggest government shuffles ever and it raises the number of Cabinet offices to an even dozen.

Carter scheduled a ceremony today in the Rose Garden at the White House to sign legislation establishing the department, which absorbs nearly all of the federal government's energy programs. They number about 50.

The new department will have 20,000 employees and a budget of $10.6 billion. It will be run by James R. Schlesinger, presently the President's chief energy adviser.

Asked whether Schlesinger will become an "energy czar," White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Carter aides are avoiding those words.

Schlesinger said he hopes to put the department into operation by Oct. 1, the start of the new fiscal year.

"An outstanding job," Carter declared Tuesday when Congress approved the new department. He had asked that Congress create it to administer his comprehensive energy program, the details of which are now before the House. The program is surviving relatively intact.

In a major victory for the President, the House refused Wednesday to remove federal price controls on natural gas. Carter praised that as "a courageous action," and Powell told reporters the President was "extremely pleased" with Congress.

The Senate energy committee held a confirmation hearing for Schlesinger even before Carter formally submitted his nomination to head the department. Schlesinger, who headed the Defense Department, the CIA and the now defunct Atomic Energy Commission under past Republican administrations, is expected to be approved overwhelmingly.

Schlesinger's credentials have been applauded even by critics who say legislation creating the department puts too much power in the hands of a single person. Senate leaders plan to put his expected nomination to a vote before the end of the week.

Bombings Kill 1 In NYC Office

NEW YORK (AP) - Bombs exploded in two midtown Manhattan office buildings Wednesday, killing one person and injuring at least eight others. Police began searching other buildings after warnings from a Puerto Rican terrorist band that more explosions would follow.

Communications to police and news organizations from a group called FALN said bombs were planted in as many as five other buildings, including the World Trade Center and buildings housing headquarters of the National Football League and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. One FALN note said the bombings were to dramatize the group's demands for Puerto Rican independence.

Police began searching the five buildings, including the two 110-story towers of the World Trade Center is the world's largest office complex. The Chase Manhattan Bank on Park Avenue was also evacuated.

The main floor and basement of the Empire State Building were evacuated at midday.

Explosions went off at the Mobil Oil Co. building on busy 42nd Street near Lexington Avenue and at Defense Department offices on the 21st floor of a nearby building at 43rd Street and Madison Avenue.

A Pentagon spokesman in Washington said the New York office is staffed by "investigators who perform security duties in connection with background investigation checks" for security clearances.

No injuries were reported at the building housing the Defense Department office, but one man died and at least six others were injured in the Mobil blast.

Police said one person suffered a heart attack during evacuation of the 45-story Mobil building.

Other evacuations were ordered on the basis of communications from FALN, a Puerto Rican independence group about which police have learned little and which authorities have been unable to penetrate.

The blasts bring to 50 the number of bombings connected to the group in the last three years.

"A telephone call has been received claiming that the FALN did it," said Police Commissioner Michael Codd, who said later that authorities had "no specific leads" in locating the persons who planted the bombs.

Sirens wailed on congested Manhattan streets, and police roped off many of them from day traffic. Officials said at least three suspicious devices were found in their searches, including a bomb in an American Brands building on Park Avenue.

The New York Post was directed by telephone to a note signed by the FALN Central Command which was found at a Central Park statue of Jose Marti, a Latin American independence fighter.

The note said the bombings were to dramatize their "just struggle" for Puerto Rican independence and that targets were "yanqui" imperialist corporations that exploit Puerto Rico.

The first blast went off at the Defense Department office at about 9:35 a.m., followed about an hour later by the Mobil building blast.

Police declined to identify the dead man. They said at least three of the injured were in serious condition.

Most Interviewed Residents Don't Favor Decriminalization

President Carter might believe his plan to partially decriminalize marijuana usage is necessary, but a cross-section of Hereford residents disagrees with his call to make minor possession of the weed less serious by four-to-one margin.

Carter announced Tuesday that he wants federal agencies to concentrate on the larger-scale drug dealers rather than on the casual marijuana user. He cited various examples for the proposal to decriminalize the weed, which is regularly used by an estimated 11 million Americans.

In an effort to determine how local residents feel about the presidential proposal, the Brand conducted a telephone survey of 18 randomly-selected Hereford adults on Tuesday afternoon.

Of the 18 residents asked, 12 people did not agree with Carter's plan (66.6 per cent), three felt Carter was right (16.6 per cent), and three felt it would make no difference in local marijuana consumption and arrests (16.6 per cent).

"No, I don't agree. It should not be that easy to get," a local mother of three said. "If the penalty is cut, more kids might think they can get away with using it."

"I believe it's a criminal offense. I hope it stays that way," another Hereford woman said.

"I can't see why he's (Carter) is trying to make it easier to get. There's already enough of a problem," a man said.

"Sounds good to me. I see no harm in it. People are gonna get in trouble no matter what," commented a man in favor of Carter's plan. "It might as well be pot instead of alcohol."

"If someone is intent on doing it (smoking marijuana), not too much can stop him. I think the politicians are wasting money on its control," said a woman.

Carter's plan stems from the 1972 National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse which recommended that pot be decriminalized.

The immediate effects of Carter's proposal are not yet known, but if the majority of Hereford residents had their say, legalization of the drug might be in the wings for a long time to come.

Vance, Assad Discuss Peace

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) - Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance meets today with President Hafez Assad to seek Syrian approval of a new plan for preliminary Middle East peace negotiations.

There was no immediate indication whether Assad would join Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in supporting the proposal that Middle Eastern foreign ministers gather in the United States to prepare for a resumption of the Geneva peace conference.

The concept of "working group" consultations of foreign ministers, announced Tuesday after two days of talks between Vance and Sadat in Alexandria, Egypt, appeared designed to circumvent the main obstacle to resumption of the Geneva conference - Arab insistence that the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) be invited to represent the Palestinian people.

Israel and the United States oppose PLO representation. U.S. officials contend they cannot recognize the PLO as long as it advocates destruction of the Jewish state.

The proposal to limit talks to foreign ministers would side-step the issue, leaving it open for negotiation among members of the "working groups."

But it was not known whether Assad, the most militant of the Arab leaders directly involved in the conflict with Israel and the prime champion of the Palestinian cause, would approve such a compromise. Vance held his first talks with Syrian officials at a dinner Wednesday night given by Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam.

On arriving here Wednesday from Lebanon, Vance appealed for Syrian support of the new plan, saying the working group meetings would "make very good sense." Acknowledging potential difficulties, he told reporters: "It is too early to say whether all the parties would think this a good idea. We would welcome it if they would."

Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin endorsed the proposal in a speech Wednesday to war widows and orphans in a Tel Aviv suburb. "This will be a negotiation for a peace agreement between us and our neighbors," he said.

The structure of the proposed foreign ministers' meeting remained uncertain. Israel advocates face-to-face discussions, but Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy reportedly has ruled out direct talks between Arabs and Israelis.

Sadat told the same news conference he had no objection to direct Arab-Israeli talks at the proposed meeting.

Weather Modification Election Expected for Castro County

The County Commissioner's Court of Castro County was expected to approve a weather modification election for October 23 during a session today.

Citizens for Natural Weather in Castro County have requested the election and more than the required 10 per cent of qualified voters in the county have signed petitions calling for the election, according to a spokesman for the Castro County clerk's office.

The vote would be in two parts of the county south of Hereford. Voters would indicate their support or opposition to issuance of permits for weather modification activities to two firms operating in separate portions of the county.

The firms are Atmospherics Inc. and Plains Weather Improvement Association, both of which are currently operating under temporary permits issued by the Texas Water Quality Board. The permits are effective until further CNW, the organization in opposition to cloud seeding, charges that the operation causes the dissipation of rain clouds and cuts down on natural rainfall. Farmers from dryland areas are particularly vehement in their opposition to cloud seeding.

On the other hand, members of Carter Weather Inc., a group of farmers supporting cloud seeding, charge that opponents of cloud seeding are "trying to use political means to accomplish what they can't accomplish in the courts" and add that the Texas Water Quality Board has accepted evidence presented at three hearings and allowed permits for weather modification activities.

CNW counters this charge with statements from its farmer members that they are entitled to determine what practices are carried out over their own property, and that the "decision of one group of farmers to conduct cloud seeding should not be forced on us all."

Opponents also claim that rainfall has increased in the High Plains area since cloud seeding began in 1970, that cloud seeders cannot prove that their activities have decreased hail, and that all parties agree that cloud seeding changes weather patterns downwind as far as 150 miles.

Summer Recess Speeding Up Action

WASHINGTON, AP. President Carter's energy program incubating quietly in Congress since April is emerging swiftly this week much as the President conceived it.

The spur is Congress' summer recess due to begin Saturday. Congressional leaders set aside the fall week for action on the President's program. Among developments:

Carter scheduled a Rose Garden ceremony today to sign the bill passed Wednesday creating the new Energy Department, the first new Cabinet office in 11 years. With his signature a bureaucracy of 25,000 employees, now in other energy-related agencies, will come into being.

The Senate Energy Committee planned a vote today on Carter's nomination of James R. Schlesinger Jr. as secretary of energy. Committee approval was expected to be routine and the nomination could go to the full Senate on Friday.

Mexican Pipeline Being Considered

HOUSTON, AP. A spokesman for the Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. confirmed this morning that Texas Eastern was among six United States interstate pipeline companies that have cancelled a memorandum of intention with the national utility company of Mexico to import Mexican natural gas into the United States.

A second company, Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp. also of Houston, announced simultaneously its participation in the agreement.

The Texas Eastern spokesman said, "It is contemplated that initial deliveries would commence at a rate of approximately 36 million cubic feet per day this year and would build up to a maximum of two billion cubic feet per day after full development of the producing area and completion of a 48-inch pipeline to be constructed by PEMEX Petroleum Mexicana from its gas treating facilities in the Reforma area in southern Mexico, a distance of approximately 450 miles.

Police, FBI Search For Bombing Group

NEW YORK, AP. Federal and city police investigative teams stepped up their search for a Puerto Rican terrorist group today following bombings and bomb threats which started at least 100,000 workers to evacuate skyscrapers in Manhattan's business district.

The FALN, the Puerto Rican independence group whose bombings have frustrated authorities for three years, claimed to have struck again with two explosions Wednesday in busy office buildings.

One person died, several were injured and the economic impact from bomb damage and lost work time has cost the millions of dollars. The bombings also touched off a spree of more than 200 bomb threats to police.

Israelis Defend Guerilla Attack

TEL AVIV, Israel AP. Israeli troops caught at least 200 guerrillas today infiltrating from Jordan today and crushed what the Israelis called a terrorist mission to disrupt Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance's peace efforts.

Two guerrillas were killed, one was critically wounded and two were captured but there were no Israeli casualties, the Israeli military command said.

Israeli troops discovered a break in the border security fence and fast-paced Israeli radio said. The soldiers tracked the guerrillas and cornered them in a cave near Kibbutz Ashdot Yaacov, a collective farm three miles south of the Sea of Galilee.

The showdown was brief and the guerrillas barely managed to fire a burst before they were overpowered, Israeli radio reported.

Police Report

Jan Louz Elizondo, 23, of 302 Ave. B was released on $2,000 bond Wednesday after his arrest on an aggravated assault charge.

Vernon Hope, Hereford Police Department detective, made the arrest at 2 p.m. Wednesday in connection with the shooting of Richard Garcia, 21, 910 Union.

Garcia was stabbed Sunday evening in Dameron Park. He is in satisfactory condition at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Bill Brooks, 320, 16th, reported vandalism at 200 Greenwood, where someone kicked in a window pane and a residence currently under construction.

Gregory Banner, 708 Stanton, reported the theft of two citizens band radio antennas from a car parked in his driveway. The theft was either Tuesday or Wednesday nights.

Terri Russell, 710 Stanton, reported the theft of a CB radio antenna from his car Tuesday night.

Police investigated a minor traffic accident at 1140 a.m. Wednesday at 521 W. Park.

Jail Story

McPherson Speaks To Noon Lions Club

Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson brought an update report on the construction of the county jail and centered his talk on jail detention as he spoke to the Hereford Noon Lions Wednesday at the Civic Club Center.

Our new jail will not be an elaborate structure due to the high costs of steel and concrete," McPherson told the Lions. "But we don't have to build another maximum security structure in the next 20 years."

The jail, which will be complete within about two to four weeks according to the sheriff, is intended to house around 65 prisoners. "We currently house an average of 35-40 prisoners, but at last count there were 81 in the jail," he said.

Many of the prisoners are on the work release program here.

MRS. ELIZABETH SKYPALA
Services were held this morning for Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Skypala, 58, of 406 Ave. G in St. Anthony's Catholic Church with the Rev. Bernard McGorry, pastor, officiating. Burial followed in Rest Lawn Memorial Park under the direction of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home.

A longtime resident of this area, Mrs. Skypala died Tuesday afternoon at Deaf Smith General Hospital following an illness.

Born Nov. 19, 1918 at Cedar, Neb. she married Norbert Skypala Oct. 14, 1941 at Hereford. The couple came to Hereford in 1946.

A member of St. Anthony's Catholic Church, she was a member of the congregation's women's organization and Christian Mothers.

Survivors include the widow; a son, Greg, of Hereford; three daughters, Mrs. Mary Sims of Sultry, Mrs. Christine Marnell of Hereford and Mrs. Kirby Margrave of Lubbock; four brothers, Louis Wiecek, Joseph Wiecek, John Wiecek and Edward Wiecek, all of UMBERGER two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Friemel of Canyon, and Mrs. Alfred Reinart of Dumas; and seven grandchildren.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests memorial donations to the Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis Research Foundation.

Serving as pallbearers were Mike Betzen, Joe Arthro, Ronny Pagett, Raymond Arthro, Charles Schlabs and Kenneth Arthro.

LEWIS EDWARD WEST
Services are being conducted at 3:30 p.m. today at First United Methodist Church for Lewis Edward West, 77, who resided north of the city.

Officiating are the Rev. Bob Miller of Adrian and the Rev. Douglas Gossett, associate pastor.

Burial will be in West Park Cemetery under direction of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home. Pallbearers will include Cliff Robinson, Cliff Hutson, Roy Carter, Hilton Higgins, C.B. Worthan and W.P. Lutten.

Mr. West, a local resident since 1947, died at 8:45 p.m. Tuesday in a Friona hospital following a lengthy illness. Born April 28, 1900 in Cook County, he married Eunie Lesley Jan. 14, 1922 at Wheeler.

The couple came to hereford in 1947 from Post. Mr. West was a farm owner and was a Methodist.

He is survived by the widow; a son, Bill of hereford; two daughters, Mrs. Elsie Lloyd of Hereford and Mrs. Odie Clayborn of Friona; two brothers, Ernest of Clovis, N.M. and Alph of Pampa, a sister, Estle Gaskins of Woodburn, Ore.; 13 grandchildren and six-great-grandchildren.

Army trained them for 1945 attack on Japan Kamikaze bats await call to arms

CONCAN, Texas — (NEA) — Houston has the oil, Dallas the Cowboys and San Antonio the Alamo. But there is no more spectacular attraction in Texas than the patriotic bats of Concan.

The bats, eight to 10 million of them dwell in a remarkable cavern on the edge of a cattle ranch here. During the day they hang by their toes from sandstone ceilings as spacious as auditoriums. Then at night, seeking food and recreation, they swarm from their grotto in an awesome display of animal world surrealism.

The bats show no courtesies on their nocturnal excursions. They all try to flutter from the cave at once. Hence they form an eerie black cloud so agitated that it changes the immediate air temperature so noisy that it frightens animals for miles, and so intense that it does not diminish for 30 minutes to an hour.

Dracula would love it. Other observers have been less enthusiastic. A scientist who has conducted tests here says the bats are so omnipresent that even the atmosphere is infected with rabies. Science believes the disease is borne on the must of bat urine in the air. Naturally enough few people visit here to test the theory.

But if the bats of Concan are avoided they are not unappreciated. The mammals are Mexican Free-tailed insect eaters, and ranchers say their appetites are voracious. Each evening they range for hundreds of square miles eating many times their weight in mosquitoes and bringing joy to aficionados of the Texas barbecue.

Besides this the bats are chauvinistically public spirited. Records on file at the Pentagon's archives indicate that they have served the nation albeit with mixed disinction in three wars. For the most part the creatures have served in a round about way. Their excretion called guano, contains prolific amounts of potassium nitrate, a chief ingredient in the manufacture of gunpowder. The guano cave was thus mined for the element during the Civil War and again during the world conflict with the Kaiser.

Then in World War II Uncle Sam decided to employ the bats themselves instead of just their waste. The idea took root on the day the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. A Pennsylvania dentist named Lytle Adams had just visited the bat cave and formed the notion that the nighttime things might have application in the coming battle.

Adams was no small thinker. He worked out a plan to capture a legion or more of the mammals outfit them with incendiary devices and drop them by plane over Tokyo. He wrote the White House regarding this idea and attracted the attention of Franklin Roosevelt, who gave the go ahead for one of the most curious plots in combat history.

The inspiration was given a name, Project X-Ray. And the Chemical Warfare Service was given the job of putting it together. Very small fire bombs were created, each having delayed action igniters. Once device was to be attached to each of the bats by means of a surgical clip and a short piece of commonplace string.

Military personnel scouted hundreds of locations for bats. When they found the Concan cave the search ended. Biologists believed there were more than 20 million bats in the grotto at the time. Several thousand were captured for initial testing. Traps were readied for the catching of millions if and when it became necessary.

Project managers decided they would transport the Concan bats to Japan in canisters. When dropped, the canisters would open in air and the bats would emerge to settle in Tokyo's homes and factory buildings. Once down, theoretically the bats would chew through the string and deposit their bombs to burn down the city.

Unfortunately the plot wasn't to work. For one thing, handlers had a difficult time keeping the bats alive during transport from Concan to military depots. Then too, during test flights the bats had a proclivity for releasing their fire bombs in unauthorized places, one general's automobile was burned up during the practice

Bud Adams, chairman of the board, and Spencer Murchison, president, discussed the company's progress and outlined some of the future plans—specifically in regards to expansion in coal production.

Other Ada officials attending from Houston included Jim Holland, corporate secretary, and directors George Nye and Sid Adger. Alton Clavez, farm manager for Adams Enterprises, also attended. Gentry introduced the visiting officials, as well as local Ada and Southwest Feed Yard directors. Southwest Feed Yard is owned by Ada Resources.

The value of Ada stock has risen in recent months, and Murchison told stockholders he felt it was partly due to the company's expansion into coal production. "We are making a strong pitch to be recognized as an energy company," he stated.

Trade Deficit Causes Problems

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - The growing American trade deficit, which totaled $12.6 billion through June, is recharging old disputes and reinflecting old wounds, some of them on an international scale.

Workers in various industries throughout the country are complaining of jobs lost to imports. The value of the dollar has been under pressure. Americans are claiming Germany and Japan are following anti-import economic policies. The U.S. steel industry is claiming unfair, sometimes subsidized, competition from imports, particularly from Japan. The shoe, television manufacturing, textile and sugar industries - in fact, industry in general - are making similar claims. The Special Committee for U.S. Exports this week called a news conference to stress again the need for retention of incentive programs for U.S. exporters, particularly what is called the DISC program of tax deferrals.

At the same time, two researchers have issued a paper claiming floating exchange rates, which were supposed to have restored dollar competitiveness, have turned out to be far from a panacea.

The separate issues, difficult in themselves to resolve, are made all the more so by the larger context of which they are a part, that is, the pursuit of free trade and the avoidance of protectionism.

Protectionism, in the form of tariffs on imports and subsidies on exports, is seen by some as required to restore competitive balance. But a preponderance of views, including that of the Carter administration, fears it as a form of economic warfare that could collapse world trade.

There is confusion also about the trade imbalance, which simply means that Americans are spending more abroad than foreigners are spending here.

Some analysts maintain that the competitiveness of American goods is still strong but that the level of oil imports, running at a rate of $44 billion versus $31.8 billion in 1976, ties the scales into imbalance.

But others, such as Merrill Lynch Economics Inc., point to weak export growth - sluggishness in exports of machinery and food, for example - as important contributors to the problem.

Carrying the analysis further to determine why exports should be weak - involves one immediately in the intricacies of international trade and the myriad pressures and policies that seem to produce chaos where order is sought.

The countries that make up the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, for instance, have slowed their imports of capital goods, in part because of an inability to make use of what already has been imported.

Another cause of reduced world trade, it is claimed, are the slow growth policies of Germany and Japan, which seek to stabilize their internal economies and protect them from the threat of rising inflation.

David Garfield, vice chairman of Ingersoll-Rand and chairman of the Special Committee for U.S. Exports, believes one way to help industry is to reinstate the full tax benefits of DISC - Domestic International Sales Corporations - incentive program.

The main benefits of the program, begun in 1971, were taken away last December because, some congressmen said, the benefits represented a windfall for the companies involved.

Now, with the trade deficit mounting - perhaps to $23 billion for the year, compared with $5.9 billion in 1976 and surplus of $11 billion in 1975 - those incentives are needed, Garfield said in an interview.

The paper questioning the effectiveness of dollar devaluation and floating exchange rates in relations to exports was the work of Lawrence Fox, vice president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and S. Stanley Katz, of the Commerce Department and George Washington University.

It's Not Just Laetrile

Jonathan Spivak set out to find out for the Wall Street Journal what the laetrile squabble was all about, and what he found out was that much of the public support for laetrile had nothing to do with the drug itself.

That most of those opposed were not debating its merits. That much or most of the resentment and resistance is from people who are fed up with Big Government telling us what we can't wear, can't eat, can't smoke, can't do.

Laetrile is about to get the kind of scientific test--controlled clinical test on humans--which its proponents have urged. After that, the controversial underground cancer remedy may go the way of krebiozen and other unorthodox cancer cures.

Because different individuals have differing chemistry, varying vulnerabilities, hereditary or dietary imbalances--it would seem possible that apricot pits might help some people and not others.

Anyway, the controlled clinical test, officially, is supposed to be "the last word."

It won't be. Because laetrile has become more than a controversial medication--it has become a symbol of resistance to Big Government. Historically, the gadfly has served the very useful function of shouting warnings--which you and I might heed or not as we chose.

But in recent years, the sprawling government bureaucracy has shifted from "warning" of potential hazards to a policy of legal restraints against real or potential hazards.

And yet, despite the FDA's ban on interstate shipments of laetrile, a dozen states have enacted laws protecting the rights of physicians and patients to use if they so choose this drug--or vitamin--or whatever it is.

And there is everywhere a revival of the suspicion, however unworthy, that "the medical professional does not want us to cure cancer."

That premise should be destroyed by its own absurdity but, on the contrary, it gets credence from the emotional testimony of those doctors who use their strongest language against a remedy which--at worst--is harmless.

If the FDA and the AMA stake their credibility on a showdown over laetrile, both could get their wings clipped.

Idaho's Rep. Steven D. Symms says, "Now, I'm not claiming that laetrile is a cure for cancer--but I do not think there should be a law against eating apricot pits by anyone who wants to eat apricot pits."

And the Symms bill to modify the federal drug law has more than 100 sponsors in the House.

The FDA has lost a lot of public support with its ban on laetrile and its proposed ban on saccharin, and the Congress has already overruled the FDA on vitamins and mineral preparations.

The AMA's prestige has been eroded by its backtracking on X-radiation and its inconsistency on whether bureaucrats or doctors should have the final say on drug-effectiveness.

In the court of public opinion, both the FDA and the AMA are on trial--and both are making a mistake if they force a showdown over apricot pits.

Salty Deal
The state of New York has been handing salt to Indians for 187 years. Under a treaty with the Onondagas in 1788, New York is obligated to give a bushel of salt every October to any member of the tribe who requests it. In return, New York received 15,000 acres of salt lands.

CIA Experiments Include Drugs, Shock Treatments

WASHINGTON (AP) - CIA Director Stansfield Turner testified Wednesday that newly discovered documents disclosed the CIA sponsored 149 projects involving drugs, hypnosis, shock harassment and even magicians as it experimented with controlling the human mind.

Turner told a joint hearing of the Senate Intelligence Committee and the Health subcommittee that the project, known ultimately as MK-ULTRA, took place from 12 to 25 years ago.

"I assure you that the CIA is in no way engaged in either witting or unwitting testing of drugs today," he said.

Turner told the committee the documents, hitherto unreported to Congress, were found in seven boxes along with financial records in a records center near Washington.

The documents, in the form of fiscal records, do not include status reports of progress analyses of the various parts of the project.

But he said the agency is "now in possession of the names of 185 nongovernment researchers and assistants who are identified in the recovered material dealing with the 149 subprojects."

He said the names of 80 institutions where work was done or with which these people affiliated are also mentioned, including "44 colleges or universities, 15 research foundations or chemical and pharmaceutical companies and the like, 12 hospitals or clinics...and three penal institutions."

Adm. Turner did not name any of the individuals or institutions, but said most involved "are not aware of agency sponsorship."

He said, it should be assumed that those researchers and institutions having cooperated with CIA on a witting basis "acted in good faith and in the belief that they were aiding their government in a legitimate and proper purpose. I believe we all have a moral obligation to these researchers and institutions to protect them from any unjustified embarrassment or damage to their reputations which revelation of their identities might bring."

Turner said one $375,000 contribution to a private medical institution's building fund was made through an intermediary to make it appear as a private donation.

He said the institution was not told the true source of the gift.

Turner said the CIA now has information that some unwitting drug testing was carried on in San Francisco and New York City, involving three individuals.

"We also know now that some unwitting testing took place on criminal sexual psychopaths confined at a state hospital and that, additionally, research was done on a knockout or 'k' drug in parallel with research to develop pain killers for cancer patients."

Turner said he is working with Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell and also Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of health, education and welfare, to determine whether it is practical to attempt to identify any of the persons to whom drugs may have been administered unwittingly.

'75 Suicide Death Termed As Murder

MASON, Tex. (AP) - In late summer 1975, Dr. James Bodenhamer died of a "self-inflicted" gunshot wound. Now, nearly two years later, authorities say it was murder.

The country doctor awoke from a nap that hot August afternoon, kissed his wife, Sadie, and said he was going to see a critically ill patient.

It was the sort of trip he'd made a thousand times in his 30 years as a general practitioner in this Central Texas hamlet.

Five days later, on Sept. 2, Doc Bodenhamer's body was found in Honey Creek woods, just eight miles south of town. Police said he was lying on top of his own pistol. An autopsy report stated he had been shot once in the chest.

The report said: Cause of death "undetermined." But now retired Justice of the Peace Marvin Lange said his records show the 62-year-old physician died of a "self-inflicted" gunshot wound.

Months passed. Suspicions that the full story did not come out remained. Last week, Travis County Dist. Atty. Louis Crump ordered the body exhumed and a second autopsy performed.

Two entrance wounds were found this time. One in the chest. One in the back. The suicide verdict was changed to murder.

Bodenhamer didn't fit the stereotype of the country doctor. His neighbors said he was a flashy dresser "who made a lot of money and bought a lot of things."

Few townspeople, including Police Chief J.T. Gibbs, said they were convinced Bodenhamer's death was suicide, especially since most were aware of his fondness for poker and racetrack betting.

"He'd know a quicker way of dying than two haphazard shots in the chest," said Dr. Douglas Mims, a friend of the victim. "The average doctor has narcotics in his bag that he could have given himself a big dose of."

Gibbs said he returned to the death scene five days after the body was found and discovered two intact bullets. He said he told then Sheriff John Alexander and the district attorney "but I just couldn't get anyone interested in it."

Alexander said his office conducted the investigation "as thoroughly as we could with the evidence we had to go on." He added that he never completely discounted the possibility of murder.

In mid-July, it became official as far as law enforcement officials are concerned. The state attorney general's office entered the investigation.

Travis County's current sheriff, Don Grote, announced, "We've got an unsolved murder on our hands. The ultimate goal is an arrest or arrests."

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, August 4, the 216th day of 1977. There are 149 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1914, Britain declared war on Germany at the beginning of World War One. On this date:

In 1790, a U.S. naval force which later became the Coast Guard was formed.

In 1805, the United States concluded a peace treaty with Tripoli.

In 1892, Lizzie Borden was arrested in Fall River, Mass., for the hatchet murders of her father and stepmother.

In 1916, the United States bought the Danish Virgin Islands for $25 million.

In 1944, during World War Two, Nazi police captured 14-year-old Anne Frank and seven other Jews in their hiding place in Amsterdam.

In 1962, President John Kennedy announced that the highest American award for a civilian would go to Dr. Frances Kelsey, the Federal official who kept the harmful drug, Thalidomide, off the American market.

Ten years ago: Nearly 200 American Air Force, Navy and Marine planes were striking at targets in North Vietnam.

Five years ago: Arthur Bremer was found guilty and sentenced to 63 years in prison for shooting Governor George Wallace of Alabama and three other people at a political rally in Laurel, Md.

One year ago: 81 people were executed in the Sudan on charges they had tried to overthrow the government.

Childhood Diseases Fought By Innoculation

COLLEGE STATION--Immunization for the whole family is the goal of "August-Immunization Action Month"--as public and volunteer groups promote that campaign across Texas, says Carla Shearer, health education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The danger is that immunizations are often delayed or forgotten. Childhood diseases don't seem threatening now. However, it is only by immunizing that we prevent epidemics, she says.

Here's what "immunity" is about: They body's immune mechanism--once activated--is a defense system of antibodies that fight infection.

When the body first meets a certain type of infection, it may be slow to respond in developing antibodies. But at the second meeting, the body has learned and is able to respond to the invasion more efficiently.

"Immunization, then, is artificial activation of this defense mechanism.

"Once the body has produced the antibodies, it is ready for an invasion of the real thing," the specialist explains.

Check with the doctor, she suggests. Bring family immunization records up to date and keep them that way.

"DON'T DO AS I do--do as I say do" is a good, weathered version of hypocrisy and it seems to be the new creed of Congress. According to a recent AP wire story, legislators are in violation of the antidiscrimination laws which American businessmen are expected to obey.

Congressmen pay their top male staffers 18 per cent to 129 per cent more than they pay women staffers with the same job titles, says the survey by a House panel.

The House Commission on

Administrative Review found that male administrative assistants make an average of $39,000 a year while women make $17,000; male legislative assistants make an average of $20,000 and females make $17,000, and male press aides make $20,000, while women make $17,000.

The commission, which has rejected a proposal to make House members subject to the same antidiscrimination laws that apply to businessmen, is considering a proposal that would set up a three-member grievance panel that could hear discrimination complaints. The panel then could make recommendations but would have no power to enforce them.

IF THE PROPOSED grievance panel could not work out a voluntary settlement, it would have power only to refer any alleged violations of the House's own antidiscrimination rules to the House Ethics Committee.

The commission, chaired by Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., was set up after last year's Wayne Hays sex scandal to draft a new ethics code and to recommend ways to make the administration of the House more efficient.

The new ethics code was adopted earlier this year, and two commission task forces will vote on the present set of proposals starting Tuesday. The full commission will act in September, after holding hearings, and Obey said he expects a House vote in October.

The proposal for a grievance panel may be too strong to win House approval, according to Obey, who said a number of his colleagues have reacted unfavorably to the idea.

"ANYBODY WHO bets against its being adopted is going to make some money," Obey said in a briefing for newsmen Friday.

In a separate interview, Rep. Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., a member of the commission, said he had urged Obey simply to recommend making the House subject to existing equal-opportunity laws that now apply to business. Those laws are enforced by such agencies as the Justice Department or the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

But Frenzel said Obey rejected that idea on grounds that it would violate the constitutional separation of powers by making the executive branch responsible for enforcement.

Obey said among other recommendations now being considered would:

--Create a professional administrator and a professional auditor to take over many housekeeping tasks now performed by congressmen or political patronage employees.

--Give each House member one new staff member, at a salary of more than $30,000 a year, to work on legislation, and expand House member's office allowances by $12,000 a year to purchase computer services.

BRIAN CLARK, who married Leesa Cherry Friday night at First Christian Church, was surprised when two of his college friends, David Perko and Greg Perse, drove from Pueblo, Colo. in order to attend the wedding.

Other out-of-town guests included Mrs. Joe V. Hinds of Plainview; the Herbert Clark family of Pueblo; Mr. and Mrs. D.W. Sheppard of Amarillo and George Puckett of Amarillo.

The Clarks' relatives remained after the marriage for a family reunion at the Arthur Clark farm, south of the city. Among the clan were Mrs. J.E. Ayres and Mrs. John Musso, who assisted the bridegroom's parents at the rehearsal dinner, a barbecue at the Clark farm.

Miss Caison Honored With Chance at Crown

Having accepted an exclusive invitation to participate in the Miss Texas Universe Pageant, Miss Hereford Dee Anne Caison will be boarding a special flight Sunday for El Paso.

Competition for the state title will begin Thursday, Aug. 11 with personal interviews with pageant judges. Evening gown and swimsuit competition will commence Friday and the actual crowning will take place Saturday night.

The Miss Texas Universe Pageant is in its third year and serves as preliminary competition for the Miss USA Pageant, which in turn provides an American entrant for the Miss Universe contest.

The Texas pageant is directed and produced by Richard Guy and Rex Holt, owners of Guy-Rex, a fashion design firm. In addition to the actual competition, the pageant incorporates enjoyment for the entrants, who will attend the dog races, an outdoor theatre production and a party honoring the current Miss Universe and Miss Texas Universe.

During the pageant, Miss Caison will have the privilege of staying in the same motel as Miss Universe and Miss Texas Universe. The local title-holder will be chaperoned by her mother, Mrs. G.D. Caison Jr., 147 Liveoak, and will be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division.

Entry in the Miss Texas Universe Pageant is by invitation only.

Let's Cook Mother of Six 'Loves Cooking'

By DIANNE BANNER
Brand Staff Writer

A longtime resident of Hereford, Mrs. Dean Herring is a homemaker and fits the title well. She enjoys cooking and taking care of her home which is north of the city.

Asked what her cooking specialty was, Mrs. Herring laughed and said, "I enjoy trying new things. Anything that is printed I try it. My family doesn't always like it, but we try a variety of foods."

She later confessed that her favorite was making desserts.

A mother of five sons and one daughter, the homemaker has gained a good sense of humor.

"When my children all get together, they have a blast, she remarked with a sense of pride in her voice, they get along with one another real well."

Her oldest son Greg is married and has a week old baby which counts up as her second grandchild. Next in line is Cliff, who is also married and has a two year old son. Along with his brother Greg, they own and manage the Railroad Crossing Steakhouse in Canyon. Mark, the third son of the Herring's attends college at Central State and is majoring in English.

The only daughter of the family, Monica, former Miss Hereford of 1975, is attending Texas Tech and is a psychology major. Kent who was among the Hereford High spring graduates is living in Canyon and will attend West Texas State University in hopes of being a history major. Reed, the youngest son of the family will be a junior at HHS this fall. He is a member of Key Club.

Her husband Dean, is self-employed, but spends a lot of time in his huge garden.

Mrs. Herring is the chairman of a committee which prepares meals for bereaved families of First Baptist Church where the Herring's are members. Another church activity she is involved in is working with the senior citizens once a month.

She is also a member of the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division, La Madre Mia Study Club and has hobbies such as reading, sewing and playing bridge.

She is also on the steering committee for the Hereford Pageant and is the chairman for the decorations committee for the New Teachers Banquet.

Mrs. Herring shares the following recipes:

- GARDEN CASSEROLE
1 c. sliced almonds
1/4 c. bacon
1 c. zucchini, sliced
1 c. eggplant, diced
1 large onion, chopped
1 T flour
2 c. chopped tomatoes
2 c. chopped tomatoes
1 t. minced garlic
1 1/2 t. salt
1/4 t. pepper
6 oz. sliced Swiss cheese
Fry bacon until crisp. Saute almonds, remove with slotted spoon. Add vegetables and seasoning in pan and cook 15 min. or until done but still firm. Put into 2 qt. baking dish. Top with cheese slices then with crumbled bacon and almonds. Bake 400 degrees for 15 or 20 min. Makes 6 servings.
- GREEN BEAN SAUSAGE CASSEROLE
2 lbs. green beans
1 lb. new potatoes
8 oz. pkg. "Little Smokie" sausages (cut into bite size pieces)
2 cans Cream of Mushroom soup
3 t. prepared horseradish

Cook beans and potatoes, drain and season to taste. Add soup, sausage and horseradish. Pour into 2 qt. casserole pan. Bake 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Top with canned onion rings, or salad croutons or chips. Bake 5 min. Served 6-8.

Tamale Sale Scheduled Today

Proceeds will go to benefit the church.

Garage Sale Scheduled Saturday

As a fund-raising project, Hereford High School's twirlers will be staging a garage sale beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday at 226 Cherokee.

A variety of items will be on sale, including clothing and housewares.

Terrie Beth Rush, sponsor of the twirlers, explained that proceeds of Saturday's sale will be spent on uniforms. She asked the public to support the HHS twirlers by attending the sale.

The 1977-78 twirlers will include Jana Green, Teresa Lambert, Lynn Mitts, Kim Oswald, Sandra Ward and Sheri Whitaker.

CPR Class Scheduled Aug. 8-9

A two-day course in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) will be held from 6-10 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 8 and 9 at First National Bank of Hereford.

The 8-hour course is free of charge and the public is invited to participate. Sponsoring the training is the American Heart Association.

Ronnie Wood will be instructor and all persons participating will be certified. Interested persons are asked to enroll by telephoning Rosie Wall at 364-4374.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I have written two books, play a ukelele and can drive a car without looking at my feet, but do you know what singular thing impresses women when I am in a group? The fact that I have survived a two-year-old.

In all modesty, I must admit I am not the only woman in North America to endure the terrible 2's, but I am possibly one of the few who can talk about it without knotting my handkerchief.

One of the reasons I think I was so successful is that I adjusted earlier than most women. My kids were born being two years old. They seemed to have a full set of teeth for biting, an emergency supply of saliva for spitting and little legs that ran the mile under three minutes.

One evening, I said to my husband, "I cannot go on like this. I am exhausted."

He said, "You're just a little tired."

"When you fall asleep on an obscene phone call," I said, "You're exhausted."

"Do you mean to tell me a bald baby a yard high with a smile that could defrost Mount Everest is getting you down?"

"You don't understand," I said. "Between 8:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., he put the cat in the dryer, got his arm caught in a rake, put his training pants in the oven, ate a guppy, pulled over the flour canister, sat on my geraniums, put his orthopedic shoes in the bathtub, dropped a television knob down the stooper, tore up my card for jury duty and talked 15 minutes without operator assistance to a housewife in New Mexico."

"Have you tried naps?" asked my husband.

"I've tried, but he keeps crawling in my playpen and slobbering. 'Mama, play...'"

Then, my husband remembered an old Burt Lancaster movie in which he was a prisoner of war. In order to maintain his sanity, he disciplined his mind to concentrate on things other than the pain he was enduring.

The next time my two-year-old oiled his tricycle with my $5.50 jar of cream that was to bring everlasting youth to my chin, I smiled and recited the Declaration of Independence.

When I looked up from bridge one night and saw him sitting on the steps with nothing on except a 45 rpm phonograph record slung over one ear, I recited the alphabet backwards.

Come to think of it, I was the only woman on our block who could recite all the vice presidents from John Adams to Alben Barkley.

History of Westway Reviewed at Reunion

The Annual Westway Reunion was held Sunday at the Westway Community Building with sixty persons present. The covered dish meal was served at one o'clock with Joe Landers giving the invocation.

Vernon Wilson, vice-president for the reunion, presided at the business session and program which followed. Nina Hartman Simpson, president has recently graduated as a registered nurse from Amarillo College and was unable to attend.

Vesta Mae Nunley, secretary-treasurer, read the minutes of last year's meeting and during the election of 1978 officers, accepted this duty again for next year.

Vernon Wilson was elected as president and Homer Rudd as vice-president.

Joe Landers presented the "Honorary Westway Mayor" by Bernon Wilson; Faith Cotten daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Cotten was the youngest present; members of the late R.M. Gunn family were recognized for having the most members present; Galen Kaul of Fort Worth came from the farthest distance; and G.C. Davis, 92, of Westgate was the oldest present.

Mrs. Merlin Kaul, historian, reported 17 weddings, the anniversaries of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Wilson, Sturgis, S.D., 64 years, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Landers, 57 years, Mr. and Mrs. A.A. Rhodes, 50 years, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Auten, 40 years.

There were 16 high school graduates: Beverly Auten graduated from Wayland College, Reed Green received his doctorate from A&M College, Nina Beth Simpson, R.N., Amarillo College, Melba Gay Lawrence Cooper, R.N. Gallup, N.M. and June Rudd will receive her degree in nursing this month from WTSU.

Those recognized for feature stories in The Brand the past year included Frank and Margie Ford, Paul Rudd, Phillip Zinser, Douglas, Sharon Brinkman Cramer, Brenda Thomas, Violet Reinauer, Irene Merrit, Bess Werner and Linda Rickman McDowell.

Selected by the historian as the "Family of the Year" was the descendants of the late Luther and Fannie Gore. They came to the community in 1919 and lived in several places in the community.

Their youngest daughter Gladys (Mrs. Clay Angelo) was born on a farm 6 miles southwest of the present Westway community and at that time a little school not far from them was called Tierra Blanca. The family lived in the community until after the death of Mrs. Gore when Mr. Gore moved into Hereford where he spent the remaining years of his life.

Present to receive the traditional bag of brown beans Sunday were the daughters Mrs. Stella Mae Flowers, Mr & Mrs. Clay Angelo, their daughter & family, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Cotten and their daughter Faith, 10 months old. Howard Gore and his wife were unable to attend. Homer Gore, the oldest son of the family, died after his family moved to Hereford.

Fourteen names were listed in the necrology report and a prayer and a moment of silence was held in their memory.

To close the day's festivities, Rebecca, Elizabeth, Wesley, and Vaavia Rudd, Jim Ed and Kirby Kaul entertained with violin selections and songs.

Joyce and Bussy Kaul and Maurice Means added an interesting item for the day when they found the original stage curtains used at the former school in the attic, got them down and hung them in the auditorium and in one of the rooms. These curtains, first hung in 1923, were used when entertainments were held and, besides a beautiful hand-painted picture, exhibited ads from some of the leading businesses in Hereford at the time. Some of the firms remembered were those of Brumley, Fox, Rosson, Baker, Huckert and Rice.

The curtains were completed by a sign painter in Clovis, and it was he who interested Maurice Means in the business of sign painting, a business he still owns on Avenue K.

Women Honored With Nomination

Trini Gamez, a 30-year resident of Hereford, has been nominated for inclusion in the forthcoming publication of "Directory of Significant 20th Century American Minority Women."

Mrs. Gamez, who resides at 310 Ave. J, was notified of her nomination last month in a letter from Jessie Carney Smith, Federal relations officer and librarian of Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn.

The directory, which will include Negro, Indian, Hispanic and Asian American women, is to be published in 1978 by Gaylord Professional Publications. This first volume will be limited to approximately 1,000 women who have pioneered in a particular field, made outstanding contributions in artistic, cultural, scientific, social or other areas, served as community leaders, made significant contributions in broader geographical areas or accomplished other activities that deserve recognition.

The mother of nine, Mrs. Gamez will soon be working as assistant director of low income housing at the Community Action Agency. She was employed for seven years as a parental involvement aide by Hereford Independent School District. She has also been employed as manager of Li'l Charro Too at Vega.

Mrs. Gamez has served on the local Camp Fire Girl Council board of directors and the United Way. She is a member of Deaf Smith General Hospital Auxiliary and the Red Cross.

Last year, Mrs. Gamez attended the National Women's Federation Seminar at Phoenix. She has been a candidate for the local school board of trustees.

Book Winners Cited

Amarillo-Twenty-Six 4-H record books were named the best in their division in district level competition as a result of record book judging Friday (July 29) in Amarillo. The winning books will be forwarded to Texas A&M University for state judging.

In District 1 record book judging, High Plains 4-H's place their records of achievement on the line. Records include project summaries, information detailing the activities, experiences and leadership development, narrative about their 4-H experience, photos and other pertinent information.

The books now will be forwarded to Texas A&M University to compete at the state level against the best book from 13 other districts of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Senior 4-H'ers are competing for scholarships, plaques, government bonds, a trip to the national 4-H congress in November and other awards.

Record book competition is the critical measurement of achievements of these youths over the years, according to Paul Gross and Sue Farris, district agents for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, who coordinated the event. Records reveal their consistency in achieving goals, their experience in 4-H projects and activities, their experience in leadership development, and their growth and development in personal, community and civic responsibilities.

The 4-H program in Texas is administered by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The following are the results of the district contests.

Hawaii's capital city, Honolulu, which means "sheltered bay" in the Hawaiian language, was a small village when visited by westerners for the first time in two British ships in 1786, eight years after Capt. James Cook had discovered the islands.

Honolulu's present metropolitan population of more than 700,000 accounts for 82 per cent of the population of the state of Hawaii.

Take all of the unpleasant things you've ever known about banks. And forget them. Forget that you've ever felt uncomfortable asking for a loan. Forget that you've ever had to wait in a long line to make a transaction. Forget that banks are cold buildings that lock your money up in a safe. Forget all of that!

Now... think about what you'd like your bank to be. And think about how you'd like to feel when you visit it.

Think about how you'd like to be treated by the people who work for your bank. The way you'd like to be treated as a person and not just another customer.

Think about the trust you put into your bank. How much you depend on it when you need assistance. And why it's so important to have faith in the people who run it.

Think about all of the reasons why you don't want to feel uneasy when you visit your bank. And why you should feel at home.

We've thought about them. That's why we're the way we are. When you visit our bank, we do whatever we have to do to make it the best of all possible banks for you.

We don't want you to think of us as just another bank. We'd like you to think the best of us.

MR. & MRS. THOMAS WAYNE WORD
.....settle in Alcova, Wyo.

Couple at Home After Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wayne Word are at home in Alcova, Wyo. after their marriage July 23 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dillard, Casper, Wyo. The Rev. Herbert S. Whitten of Mountain View Baptist Church officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Alex Schroeter of Hereford and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Word of Amarillo. Nee Denise Annette Schroeter, the bride attended Hereford High School and the bridegroom is a spring graduate of HHS.

During the wedding service, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Grimland attended the couple. Mrs. Grimland is the bridegroom's sister.

Delonna Dillard was flower girl and Johnny Grimland served as ring bearer. Chaminade's arrangement of "Serenade to Autumn" was rendered on the piano and Miss Barbara Dillard sang "Evergreen."

The bride was given in marriage by Jack Dillard, uncle of the bridegroom. She wore a formal gown of ivory polyester cotton, enhanced by a Chantilly lace caplet attached to the shirred bodice and ending above the fitted waistline. Lace bells, trimmed in lace and embroidered red braid with miniature pink roses, adorned the sleeves. Matching lace and braid edged the ruffled flounce of her skirt.

She carried a cascade of white daisies and babybreath with satin streamers.

Mrs. Grimland wore a melon-colored dress designed with empire waistline. She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies with pastel ribbons.

The Dillard home was the site of a reception immediately after the wedding. A tiered wedding cake decorated with pastel daisies was served from a table draped in white and appointed in silver. Mrs. Jack Dillard served cake while Barbara Dillard laddled pink punch chilled by pastel ice hearts.

Guests were also served chocolate cake and sugared grapes by Miss Paula Byrd.

The bride will graduate this year from Natrono County High School at Casper, Wyo. The bridegroom is employed by Young Northern Exploration Company of Oklahoma City.

Rachel Jackson, wife of President Andrew Jackson, at the advice of her doctor relieved her bronchial condition by smoking a corncob pipe.

Hints For Cleaning And Freezing Fish

HOW TO CLEAN

Remove fins, tail and scales; then had and entrails. Wash. Cut large fish into small pieces, but freeze small fish whole. Dip fish in 1-1-1 solution: 1 cup salt per 1 gallon water for 1 minute.

The addition of salts, fats and proteins allows more rapid freezing—the key to success in preserving fish and shellfish quality.

Quick freezing creates many small crystals; this is the best system, because tissue cells are not ruptured, and quick freezing also reduces the time bacterial enzymes have to act upon the product, says Mrs. Sweeten. Freezing takes longer if packages are bulky and poorly spaced for air circulation in the freezer.

When the fish is frozen, unwrap and dip in water to form glaze; rewrap (moisture/vapour-proof) and refreeze.

To free fish: Pre-set control on COLDEST and return to NORMAL once the food is frozen. Wrap the fish tightly in moisture/vapor-proof wrapper and freeze immediately, says the specialist.

product, says Mrs. Sweeten.

Ann Landers Divorce Flaw

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you told a woman to throw the bum out. Do you have any advice on how a 120-pound wife can throw out a 194-pound bum?

If I knew I'd have thrown mine out long ago. In Missouri there is NO law to help a wife throw the bum out. If you have a few guidelines, I'm sure thousands of women would be happy to have them.—Sign Me Living A Nightmare

DEAR LIVING: You've put your finger on one of the worst flaws in the divorce laws of most states. It's a crying shame that a woman has so much trouble throwing the bum out even though he's a liar, a loafer, a cheat, gets drunk and violent and rearranges her bridgework periodically.

The wife has to call the police while he's hitting her (a neat trick) or enlist the help of the children or the neighbors. By the time the police show up, the skunk is acting like a pussycat. He says, "She's nuts," the police believe him and that's the end of it.

Then of course there are women who won't file charges because they have small children and are afraid they can't make it on their own.

I still say if a woman really wants to get out of a bad marriage she can find a way to do it. The same goes for a man. And these days HE can get the kids if his wife is a lousy mother—and some of them are.

DEAR ANN: When I saw in your column the words to that old song, "Does Your Chewing Gum Lose Its Flavor on the Bedpost Overnight?" it brought back some wonderful memories. Your Iowa version was different from the one we learned around Bucks County. Just for old time's sake will you print mine?

"If you put it on the left side will it turn up on the right?"
"If you pull it out like rubber will it snap right back and fight?"
"Does the chewing gum lose its flavor on the bedpost overnight?"—Different Version

DEAR D.V.: You wouldn't believe the dozens of "different versions" that came in from all over the country.

Here's one from Memphis: "If your wife's a restless sleeper will it cause a family fight?"

"A wad of gum in golden curls is not a pretty sight.

"Buy another package, fella, please don't be so tight—'Cuz the chewing gum loses flavor on the bedpost overnight."

DEAR ANN: Several of us women get together once a week to sew, knit, crochet, embroider, and just talk. We agreed to exchange gifts once a year, the ground rules being we draw names and no one can spend more than $2.

Mrs. M came with a magnificent hand-knit sweater on which she had embroidered a design. It was gorgeous. Of course, the person who won it was thrilled.

The question: Did Mrs. M. adhere to the rules? She insists she spent only $2 for the yarn and thread.—Split In Michigan.

DEAR SPLIT: She must have had the yarn and thread on hand. At today's prices, she couldn't have bought the materials for $2. (Maybe she spent $2 for the needles?) Her gift was worth at least $40—but if she wanted to do all that work, I see no cause for criticism.

Barbs

Add to your dictionary of collective nouns: a smear of gossip.

Gone to join the Dodo: People who say "thank you" when a door is held open for them.

Where do all the taxis go the instant it rains?

We love the coined word describing faulty computer programming — "Gigo" — garbage in, garbage out.

Illegal Alien Proposals Delivered to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, after months of soul-searching, is seeking to stop the flow of illegal aliens into the United States while granting amnesty to those who have been in the country for several years.

The White House is scheduled to send a package of proposals to Congress today, outlining its ideas for dealing with a flood of illegal aliens across U.S. borders in recent years.

The government estimates that traffickers in illegal aliens, primary targets of the proposed crackdown, have escorted from 4 million to 12 million illegal workers into the country.

Congressional sources, who were briefed on the proposals this week, said they would include:

—An amnesty for aliens arrived before 1970 and have clean records since then. This would allow them to claim legal resident alien status and eventually become naturalized citizens.

—A new "non-deportable" status for aliens who arrived before this year but have not been in the country long enough to qualify for the amnesty. The new status would allow them to stay and work in the United States. It would not allow them to partake of social services like welfare or to bring their families into this country.

The administration hopes the non-deportable status will prompt aliens who now live underground to report themselves and be counted. Now, the only way to estimate the number of illegals in the country is to interpolate from the number caught, which was 876,000 last year.

A civil penalty of up to $1,000 per alien for employers who "knowingly" hire illegal aliens. The sources said the White House has not made clear how its plan would expect employers to distinguish between legal aliens and illegal aliens, who often have forged identification.

The administration some time ago rejected suggestions that a national identification system be established under which every citizen and legal alien would have to carry a counterfeit-proof identification card.

—Criminal penalties for those who help smuggle aliens across the border or act as brokers for employers.

—An addition of 2,000 men for the Border Patrol, which now has about 5,000 men trying to catch the illegal aliens.

The sources said the White House has not yet decided what to do about expanding programs that allow employers to temporarily import foreign laborers. Currently, those programs are strictly limited.

But large farmers who have become dependent on foreign labor are pressing for some provision to allow it. One advocate of an expanded program is Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., who, as chairman of the Judiciary Committee, will have jurisdiction over the administration proposals in the Senate. Eastland is a plantation owner in Mississippi.

Mislabeled Pipes Lead To Investigation of Hospital

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Authorities may not know until Friday how many patients died as a result of mislabeled oxygen and nitrous oxide lines in the emergency room at nearby Suburban General Hospital.

Allegheny County Coroner Cyril Wecht, a pathologist hired by the hospital to study emergency room deaths, said that his preliminary findings indicate some deaths apparently were linked to the mixup, but he declined to give a number.

"It is not a great number, but I would not want to express a number," he said. "Quite candidly, I have not in my own mind arrived at such a final judgment."

Wecht said he hoped to deliver a final report by Friday. "In some instances, there are further records to study such as autopsies. I have looked through the 35 death cases. There are some that I have to spend more time on," Wecht said.

By examining individual records of a patient's treatment and response, Wecht said he hoped to determine whether "the administration of nitrous oxide of deprivation of oxygen was related to that patient's death."

Richard Anderson, the hospital's administrator, said a plumbing contractor had mislabeled pipes while extending existing gas lines into the hospital's emergency room, which opened Dec. 15.

As a result, 11 outlets labeled oxygen actually were carrying nitrous oxide, or "laughing gas," and four lines labeled nitrous oxide were carrying oxygen, hospital officials said.

The error went undetected for almost seven months, until the hospital's chief anesthesiologist, Dr. Leonard Becker, tried to revive a man with oxygen on July 6 and noticed him turning blue, Anderson said.

Hospital officials said 300 of the 9,000 persons processed in the emergency room may have been treated with the wrong gas. A total of 35 persons died in the emergency room during the seven-month period, but hospital officials noted that not all were treated with gas and some were dead on arrival.

William Walkup, president of the hospital's board, said Tuesday that "a preliminary review by the professional staff at the hospital indicates there will be a maximum of five cases - five deaths" linked to the mixup.

Revised Nuclear Waste Policy Expected Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Schlesinger, President Carter's choice to be the nation's first energy secretary, said Wednesday the administration will probably announce soon a new nuclear waste policy in which the government would acquire all spent nuclear fuel rods.

These rods have been accumulating at commercial atomic reactors for years, and questions over the proper disposal of this radioactive material have spawned protests against nuclear power around the country.

Responding to questions from the Senate energy committee, Schlesinger said the utilities which run the reactors would pay a "fee" to the government that would cover the cost of removing the rods and storing them on federal property.

He said such a plan is needed because of the administration's decision not to go ahead with plans to reprocess these rods to extract plutonium and uranium.

Schlesinger also told the committee that reorganization of the federal energy bureaucracy has begun already.

Praising Congress for giving "us the tools" to carry out a national energy policy, he said the new Department of Energy will probably get off the ground by Oct. 1, the start of the new fiscal year.

He said that dismantling existing energy programs and transferring them into the new agency will be a difficult job. But, he said, "this task of organizational integration is currently underway."

He appeared at a confirmation hearing even before his nomination was formally submitted by the White House to head the new Cabinet agency, which won final approval of Congress only Tuesday night.

Senate leaders plan to put Schlesinger's expected nomination before the full Senate for a confirmation vote by later this week, before Congress begins a scheduled five-week recess.

Once head of the Defense Department, the CIA and the now-defunct Atomic Energy Commission under past Republican administrations, Schlesinger was praised by committee members from both parties. He seemed assured of confirmation to run the first new Cabinet agency since the Department of Transportation was created in 1966.

Stage Star Dies At 84

CHICAGO (AP) — Alfred Lunt, for decades one of the great stars of the American stage, died early Wednesday at 84.

He had undergone surgery for cancer of the bladder at Northwestern Memorial Hospital on July 21.

Actress Lynne Fontanne, Lunt's wife and stage partner of more than 50 years, was not at his bedside when he died at 4:05 a.m. Now 90, she had visited him after he entered the hospital July 20, but had remained most of the time at the couple's long-time home at Genesee Depot west of Milwaukee, Wis.

Lunt, born on Aug. 19, 1893, made his Broadway debut as a bit player in the October 1917 production of "Romance and Arabella." A critic for the New York Evening World said Lunt had done "capital work."

The future star attended Milwaukee schools until he turned 18, when he entered Carroll College at Waukesha.

He moved to Boston three years later to further his education.

The next four years were spent in the arduous apprenticeship typical of the era - including a whistlestop vaudeville tour with Lily Langtry.

Two years after his Broadway debut, Lunt landed the title role in the Booth Trakington play "Clarence." Tarkington had met Lunt before the play was written and had created the part for the young actor, who continued in the role for a two-year Broadway run. In the summers, Lunt went to the stock theater circuit, which is where he met Miss Fontanne. They appeared together several times.

Miss Fontanne already had established a reputation as an actress of great ability on the London and Broadway stages.

The British actress had been appearing in the hit "Dulcy" at the same time Lunt was running in his first major role.

T-V Death Rule Reversed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Texas judge who ruled that a television cameraman could film executions of condemned prisoners was reversed Wednesday by a federal appeals court.

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals said First Amendment protection of a free press does not cover "matters not accessible to the public generally, such as filming of executions in Texas state prison."

In appealing, Texas said allowing television cameras at executions would amount to having public executions, and the state stopped those in 1920.

Texas has not used its electric chair since 1964 but may resume executions soon, under a new capital punishment law.

State policy is that there may be eyewitnesses, but no tape recorders or cameras.

Tony Garrett, a television cameraman in Dallas, filed suit in U.S. District Court contending the policy deprived him of rights as a newsman, guaranteed by the federal Constitution.

U.S. Dist. Judge William J. Taylor Jr. agreed, and ordered Texas to permit Garrett to attend and film executions, if and when any are held.

In ruling, the 5th said the U.S. Supreme Court has held: "The First and Fourteenth Amendments bar government from interfering in any way with a free press. The Constitution does not, however, require government to accord the press special access to information not shared by members of the public generally."

Garrett also argued that barring cameras from executions denied him equal protection of law. The 5th said that doesn't hold water because the print reporter is also denied the use of a camera, and the radio reporter the use of a tape recorder.

Miners Feared Dead In Blast

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — About 150 miners were trapped and feared dead Wednesday after an explosion in a coal mine in central Mozambique, and nine foreigners were killed in subsequent rioting at the mine. Radio Mozambique reported.

The radio, monitored here, said rescue operations were under way and troops were sent to restore order at the Chipanga mine, in the village of Moatze in Tete province, about 720 miles north of the Mozambican capital of Maputo.

The radio said there was "little hope of survival" for the 150 men, trapped by a massive explosion in Chipanga's No. 3 shaft.

The raid gave no details of how the foreigners were killed, but it said they died in "grave disturbances" after the explosion. It identified them only as being of "different nationalities."

President Samora Machel's pro-Marxist government immediately declared three days of national mourning and ordered an inquiry into the disaster.

It was the second such tragedy at Chipanga in 11 months. Last September 95 men were killed in an underground explosion.

MISCONCEPTIONS ABOUT EGGS

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — A lack of basic information prevents consumers from using poultry products most effectively, says Robert C. Baker, professor of food science at the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, Cornell.

"There is nothing dangerous about eating cracked eggs," he points out. "Eggs are mainly protected from infection by their membranes. If an egg's shell is cracked but the membrane remains intact, there is no reason to discard it."

Another common misconception, he adds, is that the milky cord in eggs is a fault. "The cord is not an indication of bacterial infection or fertilization," he says. "It is a normal, safe component of eggs and, indeed, is necessary to keep the yolk centered in the egg."

Institutionalizing inflation

The most astonishing thing about inflation today is not that it is high or low, galloping or creeping. It is that we seem to have come to accept inflation as a permanent and inevitable fact of life, and more and more are adjusting our lifestyles and workstyles to accommodate it.

Much of the current boom in new housing is attributed to young couples who are mortgaging themselves to the hilt in the thought that housing will never be "cheaper" but dollars will be.

The contracts of most major unions have long had automatic cost-of-living escalator clauses. Social Security recipients now enjoy the same "inflation insurance."

So does Congress — although its members are valiantly foregoing a scheduled cost-of-living supplement this year in favor of making do with a $12,900 increase in their basic salaries.

Now, if Congress passes an administration-proposed and labor-backed bill, the minimum wage will be "indexed" to the cost of living by being permanently pegged as a certain percentage of the average wage in manufacturing.

With each such step this country is institutionalizing inflation and weaving it more deeply into the social fabric.

With each such encouragement to the self-feeding aspects of inflation, Americans are forfeiting a little more control over their individual and collective destinies.

Insufficient postage

The 16,000 members of the National League of Postmasters are suing their boss, the U.S. Postal Service, to prevent the agency from making their salaries public.

The Postal Service has been releasing statewide lists of postmasters and their salaries to various newspapers, and this, the league contends, is a violation of the Privacy Act of 1974.

What the postmasters are really upset about, of course, is that people are discovering that their friendly local postmaster is very often a handsomely remunerated gentleman.

In small towns, especially, salaries on the order of $17,000 put the postmaster right up there with the president of the bank.

As the old saying goes, he who pays the piper calls the tune. In this case it is the American taxpayer and mail user who has every right to know what his public servants are earning.

The League of Postmasters' suit should be sent to the dead letter office.

Mother wears army boots

One reason the volunteer Army may be resisting advice that it enlist more women to, ah, round out its ranks is their high casualty rate — on the field of love, that is.

In 1975, about 5.4 per cent of women in the U.S. Army were pregnant, a study by the Army found, and of these 40 per cent left the service after giving birth.

On the average, every pregnancy carried to term causes at least 105 days of lost time from the job, says the report. This impairs military efficiency and causes "personal turbulence."

Pending results of a new study, however, the Army has decided to continue its policy of allowing pregnant GIs to remain in the service if they wish.

Concern over FBI's choice

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Confidential documents in the files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation raise serious questions about the competence and independence of the man favored by the FBI hierarchy to be the bureau's new director.

John A. Mintz, an FBI assistant director and its chief legal counsel for more than three years, has emerged in recent weeks as the choice of other senior officials within the bureau to lead the organization.

But the bureau's own secret files show that when Mintz was in charge of an internal investigation of a potential FBI scandal in late 1975 he failed to aggressively pursue leads indicating that his colleagues may have misappropriated government property and violated the bureau's written policies.

At the center of the probe was the U.S. Recording Co., a Washington electronics firm which sold the FBI more than $2.6 million worth of tape recorders, electronic surveillance gear and other audio equipment from mid-1970 to mid-1975.

In a number of cases, the equipment was supplied by other firms, sold to U.S. Recording and then secretly transferred to the FBI — a "cut out" arrangement common in intelligence work.

Some FBI officials wanted the "cut out" to shield from the original suppliers the identity of the bureau as the actual purchaser — those firms might provide criminals or foreign intelligence agents with information about the type of equipment used by the FBI.

There also were public allegations that the "cut out" arrangement was a source of kickbacks from U.S. Recording to high-ranking FBI officials, but the three-man FBI investigating committee headed by Mintz said it couldn't find evidence of any such corruption.

The committee did find that U.S. Recording took a 14 per cent markup on items which it purchased from a Maryland electronics firm, then immediately transferred to the FBI. But the committee found nothing unusual about providing U.S. Recording with a healthy profit for very little work.

Mintz concluded that U.S. Recording did receive "favored treatment" and he found that John P. Mohr, the third-ranking FBI official during most of J. Edgar Hoover's directorship, maintained a "close personal association" with Joseph X. Tait, the president and sole owner of U.S. Recording.

Mintz also reported that in 1963 Mohr ordered "no recorders are to be purchased by the bureau outside U.S. Recording" — an apparent direct violation of the FBI's formal, written policy requiring competitive bidding when procuring all electronic equipment.

That 1963 policy statement specifically rejected the use of "cut outs" in electronics purchases. According to FBI records, Mohr was present when that decision was made, but he told Mintz's committee he had no recollection of it. The committee's final report failed to resolve any of those conflicts affecting Mohr.

In another case, Mintz's committee was told by a retired FBI special agent that a former official of the FBI laboratory might have taken home some electronic equipment owned by the federal government.

After the suspected official was interviewed and denied any wrongdoing, Mintz's committee apparently dropped that inquiry. Six months later, after the Justice Department had taken over the investigation, two station wagons full of electronic equipment were seized at the suspect's home.

The search committee appointed by President Carter to recommend five candidates for FBI director specifically rejected Mintz as a contender, reportedly because of his reputation as an apologist for the bureau.

The newly disclosed documentation appears to reinforce those concerns, but those resistant to reform within the FBI continue to press the White House to select Mintz — a move which would be a disservice to both the bureau and the country.

Senior Congressmen Wrestle With Aid Issue

Policies on Wheat, Sugar Remain Major Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) - How far the federal government will go in helping wheat and sugar growers out of a financial slump remains the major problem for senior congressmen trying to decide farm policy for the next four years.

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., ranking GOP member among the Senate conferees, stopped further discussions of wheat when the panel first met Monday and again Tuesday. Feedgrain support levels for this year through 1981 also are at issue, but Rep. Thomas Foley D-Wash., House Ag Committee chairman, said that they should be quickly settled once wheat is decided.

The sugar issue still has not been addressed except by lobbyists for and against a two-year, House-passed price-support program the Carter administration strongly opposes.

More than $1 billion in federal spending is involved in the grain differences, while foreign-trade policy is at stake in the sugar sections because high import barriers would have to be erected.

The lobbyists, including USDA officials, have worked outside the doors for most of the two days spent trying to resolve differences between the House and Senate versions of new and revised programs for the Agriculture Department.

The major programs all expire Sept. 30. Foley has said he wants to reach final compromises by Friday night, so congressional action can be completed soon after the Aug. 8-Sept. 6 recess. USDA on Tuesday announced a second two-week delay in the start of its proposal to help sugar growers through special one-year payments that would not manipulate the market the way a price-support program would.

Officials said that sugar and competing sweetener processors had asked for the delay while the Justice Department rules on the legality of the USDA plan and the conferees come to a decision.

While wheat and sugar negotiations continued privately, conferees on the second day:

-Agreed on new rules for operating the Food for Peace program, which would be extended four years. The rules are a response, led by Republican, to allegations of attempted South Korean influence-buying in Congress, mainly among Democrats.

Settled on the details of the nation's first official grain reserve system, designed to stabilize both farm and some food prices. Between 300 million and 700 million bushels of wheat and an unspecified amount of feedgrains would be stored from three to five years unless prices shot up above certain levels.

Began work on the differences in the plans to overhaul the $5.4-billion food-stamp program. Angry exchanges over Indian-related sections and an argument over the extent of special allowances for persons with high housing costs led to a postponement on the subject.

Under the reserves program, farmers would be encouraged to sign contracts with USDA to hold their grain off the market in times of price-depressing surplus.

When market prices rise to between 40 and 60 per cent above the support rate, they could take the grain out of storage and sell it. When the market passed a point 75 per cent higher than the support, the contract would expire as a way to encourage sales to bring down prices.

An additional, government-owned reserve of 2 million tons of foods to be held for international emergencies was stricken from the package. Carter sought both reserves. Dole, sponsor also of the Food for Peace changes, has said that the money for the alleged influence-buying attempts by South Korean businessman Tongsun Park apparently came from U.S. funds for financing of rice sales to developing nations under the program's long-term credit arrangements. Park received agent's commissions on many sales. The compromise version of the rule includes a prohibition on commissions to sellers' agents on food sales, mandatory open bidding on purchases of foods moving to the approved countries, mandatory disclosure of fees paid buyers' agents and new conflict-of-interest rules for officials and traders. The conferees dropped a rule prohibiting one shipper from handling more than 25 per cent of the sales of a commodity. Cornell Rice and Sugar Co. of Westfield, N.J., allegedly connected with Park, has handled between 50 and 80 per cent of the rice each year for seven years.

Mass-Mail-In Protest Planned By Wheat Farmers for Aug. 8

PAMPA--Panhandle wheat farmers, angered over bankrupt prices and what they term "inadequate and totally ineffective" four-year farm legislation which will come out of Congress the first of August, are forming a mass mail-in protest set for August 8. The protest group is also urging similar action state wide and nationally by all farmers of all commodities.

They are being coordinated by the leadership of the Gray-Roberts Farmers Union and will fill individual boxes with wheat, accompanied by a protest letter for mailing on the same day to President Carter,

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland, and key members of Congress.

"Farmers are being forced out of business by the thousands because we have produced too much, and the government told us to produce it from fence row to fence row!" commented Fred Vanderburg of Pampa, chairman of the area protest. "So we're shipping a ton of this cheap stuff to them. We're not going to grow it for nothing. We can't. We're not getting a fair price, and we want them to know when they receive all this in the mail that we are mad."

Prices for wheat have dropped to below $2.00, less than half the price being received two years ago, due to surpluses before harvest of around a billion bushels, with predictions for the end of this market year calling for a two billion bushel carryover. USDA estimates the cost to produce a bushel of wheat between three and four dollars a bushel.

The Panhandle farmers have been collecting their boxes of wheat in a barn near Pampa and plan to place them all in the mail on August 8, possibly driving a convoy of tractors into town for delivery to the post office.

The Pampa protesters also announced that they are urging every farmer both statewide and nationally to join in their cause by mailing one or several boxes of the commodity that they produce to Washington on the 8th.

"If they received thousands of boxes of wheat and milo, cotton and corn, they might realize what they are doing to farmers," said Sheridan Harnly, president of Gray-Roberts Farmers Union and a farmer's wife. "There is absolutely nothing we can do in a market influenced by a government that is trying to fight inflation at the expense of the farmer. Well, inflation is real on the farm too, and it's killing us! This effort of protest is only a beginning. We'll take what steps are necessary to make the public aware that we cannot continue to feed people if we can't make a decent living."

Public Views Sought On Milk Support

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department has asked the public for its views on whether the support price for milk should be changed this fall and whether the legal year for milk-marketing programs should be changed from an April 1 beginning to an Oct. 1 start.

The support price was increased this past April from $8.26 per 100 pounds to $9, which ultimately meant a jump of between 6 and 8 per cent in the price consumers pay for milk. At the time, $9 amounted to 82.3 per cent of parity, the theoretical measurement used to gauge how a farmer's earnings are balancing out with expenses.

The USDA announcement said that $9 would amount to about 80 per cent of parity on Oct. 1, when a new support level would take effect.

The omnibus farm program legislation now in its final stages in Congress would mandate a minimum support of 80 per cent of parity.

The shift in the dairy year would have little effect on prices, but it would conform to the federal fiscal year and USDA said, put authorities in a better position to judge the outlook for dairy farmers.

USDA said that written comments should be sent before Aug. 29 to the Director, Commodity Operations Division, USDA-ASCS, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013.

ACA to Communicate Farm Price Crisis

SPRINGLAKE, Tex.--K.B. Parish, an area National Director for the Agriculture Council of America reports that leaders from all segments of American agriculture met to consider plans to communicate the economic crisis in agriculture to the urban consumer. These farmers, representatives of farm and commodity groups, and spokesmen for agribusiness, convened in Denver, July 24-26, for the Midyear meeting of the Agriculture Council of America.

The highlight of the meeting was a decision to develop detailed plans for a National Farm Summit-type meeting on the mounting economic problems confronting American agriculture.

The event was called for in a general session by Clifton Meador, ACA's Secretary and Executive Committee member and a cotton, rice and soybean farmer from Dumas, Arkansas. "We are living on borrowed money and borrowed time," Meador told the group.

"This has to be communicated to the American people and this organization simply must find a way to do it. It is a matter of real urgency because the present structure of agriculture is rapidly being stretched to the breaking point."

Meador said the Summit should help dramatize the fact that "the areas of agreement within agriculture's own ranks far overshadow the areas of disagreement...Now is the time to come forth with a national expression of solidarity."

He said the meeting should involve farm organizations, commodity groups, and those in business to serve the farmer. A primary objective should be to develop a platform of principles to deal with the present situation...

ACA's Chairman, Dale Hendricks, called the meeting, "the most exciting, productive and best attended Mid year session ACA has ever held."

The Agriculture Council of America, a non-partisan, non-legislative organization founded in 1973 is supported by individual farmers, farm and commodity organizations and companies that supply farmers. Its purpose is to improve communications between farmers and urban consumers.

Wheat Yields Prove Below Estimates

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) - Final 1977 yields in the main winter wheat belt appear to be about 10 per cent under estimates made last June, the Santa Fe crop report states.

However, the Santa Fe's August report said the production in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado and New Mexico was considerably better than predicted last March before favorable late March rains benefited the crop over the region.

The Santa Fe estimated that 26.1 million acres of wheat was harvested in the five states, producing nearly 727 million bushels, an average of nearly 28 bushels an acre.

The U.S. Agriculture Department's delay in announcing reductions in wheat acreage for 1978, if any, also is confusing farmers, some of whom in the five states must start planting if moisture conditions are right, and to prevent wind erosion from damaging fields.

Holly Promotes Keller

COLORADO SPRINGS--The promotion of Norman A. Keller to assistant controller for Holly Sugar Corporation has been announced by Controller Martin D. Gladem.

Keller had been assistant to the controller since April 1976. He joined Holly Nov. 1, 1970 as a special projects accountant and was promoted to internal auditor Jan. 1, 1972, a position he held until July 1, 1974 when he was promoted to accounting manager for Holly World Foods, Inc., Holly Sugar's wholly owned subsidiary.

Keller is a graduate of Fairview, Mont. high school and Abilene Christian College with a bachelor of science degree, the latter in 1964. In his new position, he will continue to be responsible for liaison with plant controllers at Holly's eight factories in four states.

Ag-safety Tip

The proper safety attitude is a must on the farm. Constantly be concerned about safety, be mentally alert, guard against fatigue and don't try to crowd too much work into too little time without a break.

Tony Orlando Hospitalized

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Singer Tony Orlando, confused and emotionally shattered, is being treated at a private hospital for stress brought on by the deaths of his sister and his pal Freddie Prinze, says a friend of Orlando.
 "I was fortunate enough to get him where he is now without anyone knowing," said Orlando's press agent, Frank Lieberman, on Wednesday. "He is physically and emotionally exhausted. He's under a doctor's care in a hospital outside Los Angeles. His wife is with him."
 Orlando surprised the entertainment world last month by announcing he was quitting. Lieberman said many pressures led to the decision.
 "It's like a balloon," he said. "You can fill it up and fill it up and finally it pops."
 When the balloon popped for Orlando, he was working the summer theater circuit. On July 23, he was a little late coming onstage at Cohasset, Mass.
 When he did appear, he told a stunned audience that he was "quitting show business in the name of Jesus Christ."
 "All the shows I do from now on will be with a guitar beside a hospital bed," he said.
 Orlando also canceled a booking at the Warwick, R.I., Music Theater.
 Buster Bonoff, owner of the Warwick, said he planned to sue the singer for the $200,000 in advance tickets he had to refund.

"We're probably not going to end up with anything," Bonoff said, "because the reason that he was temporarily insane, or a nervous breakdown, or something, I can see it coming."
 Orlando began singing professionally in New York at the age of 16. He had a hit record in 1961, "Half Way to Paradise," but his singing career sputtered. He then worked several years as a promoter for a division of Columbia Records.

He returned to the performing side of the business in 1970, recording two big sellers - "Candida" and "Knock Three Times" as part of a group called "Dawn." It was composed of Orlando and two female singers named Telma Hopkins and Joyce Vincent Wilson.
 But after the two hits, they became "Tony Orlando and Dawn" and went on to an even bigger song - "Tie a Yellow Ribbon" - and a TV variety special for CBS. Things were golden for Orlando.

 Then, in early 1976, Orlando's sister, Rhonda Marie, died. She had been mentally retarded and stricken with cerebral palsy, and Orlando had cared for her since she was a year old.
 His TV show was canceled in December. A month later, his personal world was shattered by the suicide of comedian Freddie Prinze, who, like Orlando, had known the opposite worlds of New York's Hell's Kitchen and glamorous Hollywood.
 "When Freddie died, he was there," said Prinze's mother, Maria Pruetzel. "He was there all 33 hours. He was there at his bedside, he was there at the funeral. He was really a gorgeous, gorgeous, human being."
 Prinze's death apparently haunted Orlando.
 "The time I spent with him afterwards, there was a lot of rambling, a lot of things said," Lieberman said. "What happened, why it happened..."

Sterile Workers Reported at Plant

LATHROP, Calif. (AP) - The men noticed it first, swapping stories over lunch at the chemical plant where they worked in this tiny central California town. None had fathered children lately.
 That was a few years ago. Today, part of the Occidental Chemical Co. plant is closed and doctors are scrambling to figure out what has made several young workers sterile.
 Twenty-six men work in the section of the plant which makes farm chemicals. According to a company spokesman, 23 of the men agreed to tests a month ago after initial studies raised questions about their sexual fertility. Eight of them had already had vasectomies.
 But James Lindley, Occidental vice president and Western Division manager, said that of the remaining 15 men tested, 10 were totally sterile or had almost non-existent sperm counts.

began efforts to persuade the men to get tested for sperm counts about a year ago, but Hodges said it was a "delicate matter."
 Finally, last month, the men submitted to the tests. Results disclosed last week confirmed the sterility. Farm chemical production at the plant was halted last Thursday. On Tuesday, limited production resumed but stopped a short time later at the request of the state.
 Steffan said the farm chemical section will remain closed until the state investigations further. Watching for results with special interest, of course, will be the worker.
 Said employee and father of one Mike Trout, 24: "My wife and I have been trying to have another child. It got me a little depressed."
