Cov. Campbell Calls Special Session of the Legislature

FRAME UP DON'T WORK

Old Timers Slip one by the Whitefaces.

What was scheduled to be the base ball sensation of the season was pulled off at Toxela Park last Saturday when the Old Timers handed the regulars the small end of a 3 to 6 score.

Thomas, who worked for the Old Timers the first two innings, allowed three clear hits, which coupled with as many errors enabled the regulars to check up three scores. Mathis took the mound for the Old Timers in the third and dealt out an assortment of pill puzzles, the sum total of which was some nice goose eggs for the regulars. On the other hand, Mooney, who worked for the regulars, held the Old Timers scoreless until the ninth, when the regulars apparently "set down" and allowed the Old Timers three scores and then tightened up, but there was a hitch in the tighting apparatus and before the kinks could be uncured three more men had crossed the pan, a lead the regulars could not overcome in their half of the ninth. In a case like this the generous spirit that the youngsters showed their elders is, of course, very commendable but wouldn't it be better to veil the fact a little and not let it appear as a park fence sign. Some people are loath to accept such open faced charity.

The grand stand seemed to enjoy the game to the limit, as most of the two teams were local players, some of whom had not handled a ball for years.

Batteries for the Old Timers, Mathis, Thomas and Hasser. For the Whitefaces, Mooney and Alban.

The home team left, Wednesday, for five games on the road, three with the Amarillo Bob Cats and two with Childress. This will give us a chance to see how well the Whitefaces acquit themselves as a road team. The lineup will be a little different as Bennett and Wilson were unable to take the trip on account of illness.

If the team happens to get beat, don't be one of the "I told you so's," boost them up.

Juicy Lemon to Bob Cats.
Thursday's Daily Panhandle.

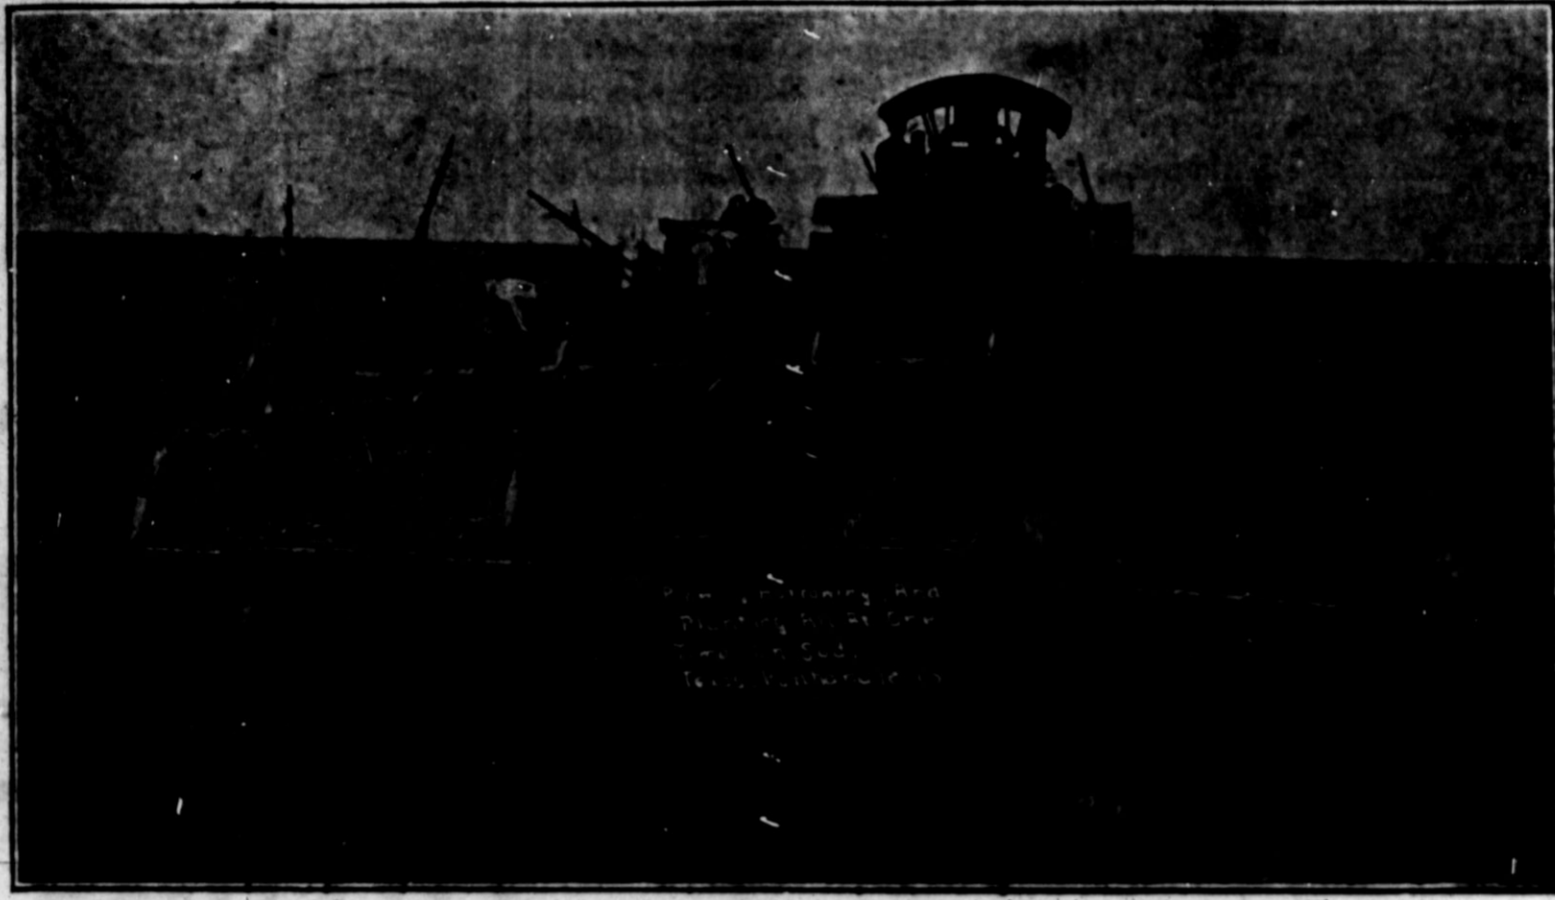

In a score of 5 to 1 the Bob Cats of the Santa Fe league were handed their second lemon of the season, this time at the hands of the Hereford team, yesterday afternoon at Glenwood park. The victory of the Hereford contingency was due, it is said to superior work upon the part of the visiting team, taken in connection with work somewhat below the average upon the part of the locals.

The home run of Shirley of the Hereford team, following his batting a ball over the fence, the first of the season was the sensation of the game. The score is as follows:

Hereford.....112 001 000—5 12 1
Bob Cats.....001 000 000—1 6 3

Batteries for Amarillo: Lee and Wells. For Hereford, Phillips and Alban.

Telegram just received from Childress reports a ragged game with a score of 10-9 in favor of Hereford, the score being a tie up to the ninth inning.

Schmidt—Blacet.

Karl E. Schmidt and Esther E. Blacet, a well known couple of Hereford, Texas, were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Blacet, in the presence of the intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties, at 5:30 p. m., June 12.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. M. Lohmann of Canyon City, Texas, and the wedding march was played by Miss Clara, sister of the groom. The bride was dressed in peach colored messalin satin and the groom in conventional black.

After congratulations were extended to the newly wedded, the guests were invited into the dining room where a three course luncheon was served, consisting of fruited jello with cake and whipped cream and lemanade; second course, ice cream and bride's cake; third course, bananas, oranges and candy.

The evening was spent by having a social time with music. At a late hour all the guests departed to their homes wishing the bride and groom a happy and prosperous life here on earth. Many beautiful and useful presents were received.

In about three weeks the bride and groom expect to go to Wichita Falls by auto, where Mr. Schmidt expects to enter into the plumbing business.

ONE PRESENT.

A deal was consummated a few days ago by which E. H. Smith of our city becomes the owner of a stock of dry goods in Mexico, Mo. The purchase was made of J. P. Snyder, also of Hereford. Mr. Smith is already in Mexico, and Mrs. Smith will leave for her new home in a few days. Hereford regrets the departure of these estimable people from her midst, and hopes it may not be for all time.

SILVERTON TAKES A HAND

Endorses Woodburn's Contentment for Inalienable Rights and Circulates Petition in his Behalf.

The Brand is in receipt of the following communication from the city of Silvertown, the former home of Adj. E. T. Woodburn. It appears that his friends of that city have taken umbrage at the action of the Hereford city council and marshal and they take this method of giving the aforesaid authorities a "piece of their mind." This petition comes without the knowledge and consent of Mr. Woodburn and will no doubt be as much of a surprise to him as to the city council.

THE PETITION.

STATE OF TEXAS)
BRISCOE COUNTY)

WHEREAS, the city of Hereford has deprived our former fellow citizen, Mr. E. T. Woodburn, of one of his inalienable rights and the pursuit of happiness by removing his luxurious benches from in front of his place of business, thereby putting a period to his usual avocation; therefore be it

RESOLVED, that we, the undersigned citizens of the town of Silvertown, whose names are hereto attached do hereby protest against the same and pronounce it an outrage against our former citizen, and we further petition the said E. T. Woodburn to return to his old home where a padded chair awaits his pleasure on the shady side of any side-walk or street in our town.

And we will ever pray, etc.

This deprivation of rights on the part of the city authorities will likely bring on a hot city campaign at the next election. It has been strongly hinted on more than one occasion that Adj. Woodburn will be a candidate for mayor and that he will have only one plank and that plank long enough to reach from one end of main street to the other and on the shady side. And this will be a "sure nut" plank (bench) attached to all the store fronts except across the doors. This plank will be upholstered in raw hide and furthermore, spittoons will be provided. The new mayor, if elected and his friends claim that he will be on such a plank, will have the city fire chief to clean the cuspidors every day. Such a platform will undoubtedly be popular with the politicians and curb stone loafers. Bill collectors and book agents will have no trouble in locating their victims. In fact, each politician and professional loafer will have a reserved seat, numbered and labeled, with a push button attachment. The latter will be used to call for ice and soda water dished out by the "soda jerkers." Small sized automatic machines will be attached to the side arms of the benches. These will deliver free, cigars and chaws of tobacco and pepsin gum, but will be so timed that only 3 cigars, 9 "chaws" and 1 block of wax will be allowed each registered loafer per day. Drummers may push the rod and have delivered to them a cigar scented with cloves upon the narration of a new road story, but if the tale falls flat, he must deposit 30 cents in cash with the fire chief.

Dollar—Lindsey.

Again, the chiming wedding bells pealed forth, and again, two lives were linked together for all time.

On Wednesday afternoon at 3:30, Squire J. H. Turnbow at his home on Lee Avenue, spoke the words that made Mr. J. J. Lindsey and Miss Manzie Dollar husband and wife. Each of these young people belong to representative families of Castro county, and are very popular with their friends and acquaintances.

It is the wish of the Brand that these young people may have a happy voyage on the stream of time and at last find a safe anchorage.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Messenger of near Fipley were in town Saturday making purchases on account of the fire which destroyed everything they had in the way of wearing apparel.

Mrs. Hanson and son, D. W. Hanson, Mrs. J. W. Karr and daughter, Miss Zelma, all of Friona were in the city Tuesday, coming up by private auto.

COMMERCIAL CLUB HOLDS SESSION

Regular Monthly Meeting Well Attended—Railroad and Other Matters Up.

Tuesday night, the Commercial Club met in the basement of the First Christian church with an unusual large attendance. President A. J. Lipscomb was in the chair and placed before the Club the business on hand. He read letters from the promoters of the North and South railroad. These letters were encouraging to all present. They told of what progress was being made in furthering the road, and after some explanation, it was thought Hereford would be called upon to raise the necessary bonus in a few weeks.

Some members of the board reported that it was thought that a bonus of $75,000 in cash, the right-of-way thru the county and necessary yardage would be asked. This is equal to about $100,000.

The bonus for the extension of the Stamford-Northwestern will require the same amount of bonus; in fact, an authorized letter from the Club to the promoters makes this identical offer.

These two offers then amount to $200,000 and Hereford has no apology to make in offering that little or that much which ever way you may put it.

$200,000 for two railroads makes a fine display head line and so it appears again this week. If any one is tired looking at it, that's your fault.

After the railroad matters were disposed of, speeches for the "good of the order" were made. Messrs Shirley, Ray, Gilliland, Dunlap and others made short speeches.

Mr. Parker made a report for the College committee and offered a resolution endorsing the action of the mass meeting in an agreement to raise $25,000 for Hereford College, same to be paid in five equal installments.

C. C. Furgeson Hurt.

Last Monday at his ranch 7 miles out, C. C. Furgeson met with a painful accident. He was working a not too-gentle horse and had gotten out of the buggy to open and shut a gate. On attempting to get in the vehicle, the horse suddenly lunged and threw him down and it is supposed the buggy ran over his ankle as it was badly wrenched. The horse ran on towards the house and Mr. Furgeson followed. Again he attempted to hold the frightened animal by the bits, when a more sudden jump carried both over a plank fence. As a result, Mr. Furgeson is suffering from a broken nose and a lacerated face. He is resting at his home on 25-Mile Avenue and as no serious complications have set up he will no doubt be out in a few days.

L. Fertsch and wife and Prof. Guy Rogers and family returned to their homes in Farwell, Texas, on Monday after a week's visit with relatives and an outing on the Tierra Blanca. The above named gentlemen were teachers in the Farwell School the past year. Miss Lillian Rogers accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Rogers home for a short visit.

Science Helps Soil

Decided progress is being made in the Panhandle with regard to practical application of the methods of scientific farming. Farmers who come here from other sections find that the soil is good and the growing season long, but the rainfall is lighter than in the East and other conditions are different. The problem is to modify old methods and change the nature of the crops to suit the new conditions.

The Panhandle is only one portion of the great West where the old and the new have clashed. Formerly large herds of cattle grazed throughout this region and were driven long distances to the railroads. But as the settlers came the ranges were restricted and fences were introduced. The settlers kept coming until today the large ranches are regarded as relics of old times.

The settlers have had some ups and down, but the fact that land is cheap and the soil fertile, encouraged them. The department of agriculture has established an experimental farm near Amarillo. The especial purpose of this farm is the improvement of seed selection. The farm includes 225 acres and is divided into small plats, each of which is used for trying out some variety of grain that promises well.

Feed from Product to Stock.

"After the last of the big ranches has been broken up I believe this will once more become a stock raising country," said John F. Ross, who is in charge of the experimental farm. "But instead of using the open range only, the stock raiser of the future will feed his herds the produce of his farm. In this way the fertility will be returned to the soil, the land will be benefited and the quality of stock will be better. This plan will also increase the number of cattle, hogs and horses that can be raised. It is probable that half a section of land will prove to be about right for the average farm."

"Our experimental farm is located on a former cattle range. The work is conducted under the direction of the bureau of plant industry and seeds sent here are gathered from all parts of the world. Many of the experiments are with wheat, the seed having been obtained by our agricultural explorers in Russia, Algeria, Spain and other countries.

"The tests show that some varieties do well in this climate. A variety of winter wheat known as the Turkey red has proved satisfactory. This variety was brought from Crimea and evidently is well adapted to conditions here. A spring wheat called 'Galgalos' thrives here and has yielded an average of eighteen bushels an acre for four years. Another variety of soft spring wheat known as 'Fretes' averaged nineteen bushels to the acre during the same length of time."

Seek Good Durum Wheat.

"Up to date this has not proved a good country for durum wheat, yet it is possible that this grain might turn out to be the best in an exceptionally dry year, for it is drought resisting and extremely hardy. Two or three good durum wheats have been found, among them the Saragolia, the Marouanni, and the Kulkanka.

"Emmer and spelt do well. They are useful for feed and yield better than oats, although their feeding value is not as high as that of oats. Either of these grains will yield thirty-five to forty bushels in an ordinary year. Oats do only fairly well here. We are experimenting with a beardless barley that gives some promise.

"Observations extending over eighteen years have shown that the average rainfall in this immediate portion of the Panhandle is twenty-two inches annually.

"Plants of the sorghum family—milo maize, kaffir corn, sweet sorghum and broom corn—do especially well in this locality. Milo yields an average of forty bushels, kaffir thirty-five bushels and from five to eight tons of sweet sorghum are produced to the acre. Milo is the grass that seems destined to take the place of corn with us, for corn does not do especially well here. Cowpeas thrive and make from one to three tons of hay to the acre. We are now testing field peas.

Panhandle has Great Area.

"The Panhandle contains 26,000 square miles, or about 16,000,000 acres. This is more than the combined areas of Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts. It is claimed that twenty states, each the size of Rhode Island, could be carved out of the Panhandle alone. The fact that it is of such immense size has tended to check development in the Panhandle. Those who sought to improve conditions were discouraged by the enormity of the task that confronted them.

"At one period there was a rush of settlers to this region. The lure of cheap land was responsible for the coming of many of these pioneers and a large number of them did not understand the new conditions. Some have done well and some have not. It is claimed that those who did not do well were the men who came without sufficient means."—Chicago Live stock World.

Stop the Paper.

She came down the street three steps at a time and sailed into the country newspaper office like a whirlwind. She waited for no ceremony but wildly asked: "is this the printing office?" "Yes madam," "I want to stop my paper." "Alright Madam." "Stop it right now too."

"Its stopped, we replied, making a blue line through her husband's name on the subscription list. "Maby now that will learn you some boss sense and how to do the square thing next time, and not slight people just because they are poor. If some rich stuck up folks happen to have a bald-headed, knock-kneed, cross-eyed brat born to 'em you're in an awful hurry to put it in the paper and make it out an angel, but if poor people have a baby you can't say a word about it even if it's the purest child borned, that's what I'm stopping the paper fur."

This or to be a lesson to every paper in Texas, and she went out of the office as mad as a wet hen.—Ex.

Grandmothers' Day.

A beautiful scene was that, when on Friday afternoon, June 10, seventy-five ladies, the greater number being grandmothers, were being entertained at the home of Mrs. E. B. Black by the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Church.

Of all the relationships in life, the sweetest, purest, strongest, and most unselfish, is that of mother. Some one has aptly said, "God could not be present everywhere, so made mothers." Nature, who has permitted no two leaves to be alike, has given a still greater diversity to human souls. To meet the necessities of this infinite variety, she has given to each a mother. No child has a chance in life who fails to be well born and well mothered.

It is the mother who loves and trusts and hopes when all the world condemns. Mother's room, mother's heart means home to the prodigal. No position in life is superior to the influence of a mother's love. Then all honor to the mother!

As a part of the afternoon's entertainment, a short literary and musical program was rendered, consisting of the following numbers: Piano Solo, Miss Nellie Black; "A Greeting to the Grandmothers," Miss Millicent Griffith; Vocal Solo, Mrs. H. S. Rowland; Reading, Mrs. Dr. Price; Vocal Solo, Mrs. Lee Clark; Reading, Mrs. F. T. Roloson.

Refreshments of coffee, cream and cake were served in the dining room, and while enjoying this little repast, each grandmother was presented with a white rose.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. M. F. Barcus of Waco, Mesdames Coulter, Cathey and Douglas of Dallas, Mrs. E. G. Bender, St. Louis and Mrs. J. M. Gillam, Wilmington, Ohio.

Mrs. M. F. Barcus, mother of G. W. Barcus of our city, had the distinction of being the oldest grandmother present, her age being 78; and Mrs. W. B. Robinson the youngest, her age being 42. Mother Barcus has fifty-one grandchildren and seven great grandchildren; Mrs. Robinson has four grandchildren.

Those present were Mesdames: Barcus, Tomamichel, Ferrel, Cox, Turrentine, Buttram, Galloway, Coulter, Cathey, Hough, Bender, Sheer, Johnson, Burford, Burns, Moreman, Jones, Morrison, Carlyle, Davidson, Criss, Head, Mooney, Ross, Douglas, Chidester, Cobb, Robinson, Simpson, Julian, Dunlap, Norton, Killian, Patton, Mercer, Vanderburg, Bullock, Stocking-Clark, Thomas, Story, Caveness, English, Ramsey, Witherspoon, Gillam, Underwood, Dean, Webb, Roloson, Parmer, Snyder, Edwards, Hicks, G. Everybody enjoyed the day's services. Everybody placed their dinner on the tables and all ate as one family. The tables almost groaned under their loads, they were so bountifully spread with good things to eat. Eld. Story preached an excellent sermon to a large audience at 3:30 p. m. House Burns.

The home of J. N. Messenger of near Findley, this county, was entirely destroyed by fire last Friday. Mrs. Messenger was at home preparing dinner when the oil cook stove suddenly flamed up and baffled all attempts of the brave woman to put out the fire. A lamp near the stove soon exploded and the oil thus released added "fuel to the fire." Mr. Messenger, who was in the field, saw the smoke and hastened to the house, but when he arrived the house was in ruins. The house was valued at about $1,000 with some insurance. No furniture, bedding or clothing was saved, besides the loss of $16 in money, a gold watch and several pieces of jewelry. Miss Aba Sandifer, who boarded with the family and is teaching the Findley school, also lost heavily, including some $14 in money. This is certainly a misfortune for these people.

Soil Moisture Conservation

Scientific Method Employed to Conserve Natural Precipitation to Be Used by Plants at a Time When Required

"Dry farming" is a name given to designate the difference between farming in the arid and semi-arid sections by natural precipitation and the artificial application of water known as irrigation. It is a scientific system providing methods of conserving moisture to be used when plants require the same. The system is not complex—is in fact simple to those who are willing to learn, but the rules laid down for the guidance of those undertaking to raise crops when the precipitation is not too plenty, must be followed, the work done properly and intelligence used, because no hard fast rule can be made to apply to all conditions.

Dry farming has been carried on in California for forty years and in Eastern Washington and Oregon since 1885. When the big influx of Nebraska and Kansas farmers sought that section of the United States for cheaper land and larger holdings. It is a long way from being a new proposition in the states west of the Rockies. One of the most important things in connection with it is to understand why the different kinds of work are done—why the farmer is taking big chances when he scratches the soil three or four inches deep—call it plowing and then in a half-hearted way run the harrows over the plowed ground, possibly half as much as should have been done.

A great many people have never considered how soils will become packed through wild animals, also domestic stock roaming over it for ages. The natural result cannot fail to make such land all but impervious to moisture. Every farmer knows that if he opens up the soil fairly deep such soil will absorb rain and snow when it melts. Further, he knows that cultivation after heavy rains, when the land is sufficiently dry to take a team and harrow on it, that he will make a surface mulch (which should not be too fine) which will help to conserve or hold that moisture in the soil.

Relative to plowing and moisture conservation an article from the Dakota Farmer, by George Edward will prove of interest to the reader:

"The depth to cultivate should be governed by the depth to which the rainfall wets the soil," writes a Nebraska farmer in the Dry Farming Congress Bulletin. "If we cultivate deeper than the falling rain penetrates, we cannot conserve the moisture, because the clods lying below the layer wet by showers will dry out and the grain sprouts and dies for want of moisture before the next shower comes."

The majority of dry farmers operating in the semi-arid West will take issue with the statement. The experience of many of the older dry farmers as reported in the official reports of the Dry Farming Congress and in the agricultural papers has been that the depth to which the rainfall wets the ground depends largely upon the depth to which the ground is opened by deep plowing.

Getting moisture into the soil is one of the most important problems before the dry land farmer. It is purely a physical problem and its solution is found in the application of simple physical laws. According to the most successful dry farmers. On the hardbaked, compact soils of the high Western plains, the moisture does not penetrate beneath the sod except where the ground has been opened by plowing. In order to get moisture into the soil to sustain the growing crops, men are forced to open the ground so that it will absorb the rainfall. It has been the experience on these lands that the moisture is held in the soil to a depth proportionate to that to which the ground is opened by plowing. If the sod is not broken, the moisture which falls upon it in the form of rain, runs off in tiny rivulets that become creeks in the deep arroyos and swell the volume of distant rivers to flood stage. The falling water will not take the trouble to break open the surface of the ground in order to penetrate the soil; it naturally will take the easiest course toward its level, which always is the level of the far-off sea.

On the other hand, if the farmer will break open the surface of the ground and shatter the compactness of the soil mass, leaving numberless tiny interstices to the extreme depth of the furrow, the water, naturally, will sink into these interstices and following its tendency to seek its level, will penetrate to the depth to which the ground is broken.

Deep plowing experiments have been conducted at many points in the semi-arid West during a number of years. Deep plowing has found a place in the established farm operations of hundreds of successful farmers. George L. Farrell of Utah; Dr. V. T. Cooke, state director of dry farm experiments of Wyoming. E. R. Parsons of Colorado, A. M. Axelson of Colorado, Prof. B. C. Buffum of Wyoming and a score of others might be mentioned among the more eminent advocates of deep plowing. Deep plowing has been so commonly accepted as essential to the highest in agriculture that farm machinery manufacturers are making plows and traction outfits suitable for breaking the greatest possible depth. Specially constructed deep tilling machines were exhibited at the Fourth Dry Farming Congress and are being utilized on the dry land farms in this and other countries.

Deep plowing does accomplish what the farmer wants done; it enables him to get moisture into his ground to practically any desired depth. As a result of ten and twelve inch plowing through a series of years, soil reservoirs have been created in the midst of the desert. In deep-plowed, properly cultivated tracts, moisture is perceptible to almost unbelievable depths, whereas, on the sod adjacent where the ground has never been broken by plowing, moisture is not perceptible to any appreciable depth. The records of the experimental dry farm at Cheyenne, Wyo., of Mr. Parsons' farm on the high, dry plains of Colorado, and of farms in many other parts of the west, are proof of this.

The Nebraska farmer, quoted above, appears to have gotten his premise reversed. Instead of plowing to the depth to which rainfall penetrates, the successful dry farmer makes the rain penetrate the ground to greater depth by plowing as deeply as possible.

The same farmer continues: "If we cultivate deeper than the falling rain penetrates, we cannot conserve the moisture, because the clods lying below the layer wet by the showers will dry out and the grain sprouts and dies for want of moisture before the next shower comes."

Here again, he runs counter to the theory and practice of dry farming. If it is important for the dry farmer to get moisture into his soil it is equally important that he keep it there. The conservation of moisture in the soil is a fundamental principle of dry farming. Deep plowing has been proven the most effective way to get the moisture in the soil. Systematic cultivation has been found the most effective way to keep it there.

In all the discussion of dry farming the mulch is emphasized. Every authority on dry farming constantly urges the farmer to get a mulch on his ground and keep it there. Without the mulch, the moisture will escape and be lost. What is mulch?

The mulch, as generally described by dry farming authorities, is a layer of loose earth, one to three inches thick on the surface of the cultivated field. The theory of the mulch is this:

Soil moisture by action of capillarity, rises to the surface whence it vanishes by evaporation; shallow surface cultivation, by pulverizing the upper layer of the soil, destroys the capillarity of that layer and provides a blanket of loose earth through which the soil moisture will not easily pass, and loss by evaporation is thereby reduced to the minimum.

The idea expressed in the words quoted from the Nebraska farmer is the same that has been held by old fashioned farmers in many districts from time immemorial. It is not a coincidence that in those same districts the crop losses from periodical drouth are recorded at the maximum. The idea of making the tillage subservient to climatic conditions is responsible for the drouth losses. Make the climatic conditions subservient to the tillage methods, and you will have solved the drouth problem. Having gotten the moisture captive in your soil, cultivate the surface according to the systems advocated by successful dry farmers and described in detail in the official reports and publications of the Dry Farming Congress. Follow the plow with the harrow the same day. When the surface begins too dry and bake, harrow the ground before the moisture has a chance to escape. Eternal harrowing is the price of harvests, according to the Patrick Henrys of dry farming, and since these sages of the new agriculture are proving the wisdom of their theories by harvesting successful crops with minimum rainfall, it seems reasonable to believe that they know what they are doing. During one season 50 per cent of the rainfall was held in the soil by dry farming methods of cultivation at the North Platte station according to a report recently issued by the United States department of agriculture. Clean and constant tillage has resulted in storing and holding moisture in the soil on many farms so that the roots of grain always have a supply to draw from, while waiting for the next shower to come along.

But up to date there is no record of a soil reservoir having been created by tillage methods where deep plowing and constant, clean cultivation have not been practiced.

Farmers should eat more oatmeal.

Although the farmer of today is able to buy almost anything he wants to wear or to eat he isn't paying enough attention to food values when it comes to his own table.

If he has been watching the extensive researches and experiments on the question of the best human food for muscle and brain he will heed the advice from all sides to "eat more Quaker Scotch Oats."

Quaker Scotch Oats is mentioned because it is recognized in this country and Europe as the best of all oatmeals. Feeding farm hands on Quaker Scotch Oats means getting more work out of them than if you feed them on anything else.

For hot climates it is packed in hermetically sealed tins; and in regular packages.

Wanted!

I want 2 or 3 sections of good land in Deaf Smith or Castro counties. I want to put in a good 20-acre, well improved place at the edge of Hereford and some other properties as first payment on the land and I will assume or execute Vendor's Lien notes for the remainder, if the time and rate of interest suit. Want unimproved land. Do not care whether it is even fenced or not. Land must be priced right and the title must be perfect. See me next door to postoffice next week.

Texas Gold Mine.

Chicago, June 7—(Special)—A wholesale dealer in produce here, who has just returned from an extended southern and western trip looking up crop prospects, said to the representative of the Texas Commercial Secretaries Association that the average gold mine is not to be compared to the gold that can be mined out of some of the Texas crops.

"For instance," said he, "buyers have been scouring the whole of the broom-corn growing sections of Texas, and offering as high as $250.00 per ton. While I was in Texas some alfalfa was sold there in the western section at $22.50 per ton, and as many as nine crops per year have been grown in that state; an East Texas man sold strawberries to the amount of $1,000.00 from an acre of ground, and a south Texas man's strawberry patch brought returns at the rate of $1,750.00 per acre; a west Texas sheep ranch returned 108 percent of lambs; 34 acres of irrigated land in the lower Rio Grande Valley produced about $20,000.00 worth of onions; the potato crop from 3 acres in South Texas sold for $491.00; cabbage has netted a Brazoria, Texas man $45.00 per ton; and onions in Zavalla and Dimmit counties paid up to $1,035.00 per acre. These are all actual facts for which I have names and addresses.

"In regard to other Texas products, the returns from some of them would range about as follows per acre: Tabasco peppers $300 to $500; tomatoes $100 to $300; cabbages $75 to $250; dewberries or strawberries $100 to $300; beans and peas $75 to $150; cauliflowers $50 to $150.

"It will be seen from this that Texas has plenty of gold mines for the farmer and gardner as well as the miner, and it looks so much better than the wholesale produce business that I feel like going down there and getting some land."

Wheat in Crosby County.

This week we have met several of the wheat raisers of our county and they inform us that they expect to raise not less than 25 to 30 bushels to the acre. It will be ready to harvest in the next few weeks and they have begun already to oil up the old harvest machines and secure twine, etc. that goes in the saving of the abundant crop. Wheat is going to be a good price and all will be well pleased to have sown many acres in wheat. The crop is almost sure on the Plains under the Campbell system of farming and as soon as the farmers get the habit they will save all the work of not making good crops. We have many here who are well acquainted with the system that assures success and as soon as the experimental and demonstration farm at Crosbyton proves a success wheat will be the money crop.—Banner.

WEEK END PARTY.

Last week Mr. and Mrs. Harvey G. Hays favored a limited number of friends with invitations to a week end party on "Sanora Farm." About five o'clock Saturday afternoon the crowd left town by various means and although the distance is only 7 "Panhandle" miles a few of the merry ones did not arrive until nearly dark. Then supper was served in such a home like manner that even the most backward forgot his timidity and joined in the general pleasure. After supper, from some mysterious cause, all but one set of dominoes disappeared and a young man and his lady friend quickly consented to go in search of another set, but when they returned it was too late to play. Fruits and candies were passed and Masters Bertram Fredrick Hays furnished some good numbers on the phonograph. Just at twelve o'clock the boys ascended to the upper region and left the girls to occupy the lower one. Silence reigned for a few minutes while plans were being formulated and the way in which Mrs. Hays planned for the amusement of her guests plainly showed that several years of matrimonial bliss had not blotted out the recollection of college tricks. Then strange noises filled the house which sounded, as one listener said, like a herd of cattle being fed in the reception hall. Sometime between two and three Sunday morning the place was quiet again, excepting occasional evidences of sound sleeping, which came from the upper part of the house.

Sunday morning was a typical one on the farm, which means late rising and very late breakfast and this was greatly exaggerated on this particular morning. Soon after breakfast two of the men started for Hereford in an automobile for the purpose of bringing back additional members of the party. Several hours later they returned in a different car. They would never tell how far they had to walk but anyway, they secured the addition to the jolly company. In the meantime, the girls were showing their ability to set a house in order and were constantly hindering the hostess with offers of assistance in preparing the meal, all of these she kindly, yet wisely refused.

An excellent dinner was served and the happy participants did it full justice. The dainty place cards were the products of the skillful hand of the hostess and were done in purple and gold pansy designs. As soon as dinner was over, preparations were begun to attend Sunday School at the Wyche school house, which was about three miles away. Despite the high wind, every member was pleased to attend. It seemed strange to some that the young men were so willing to join a class and so readily sat at the extreme front of the building and helped to lead the singing when they very seldom approach a church in town. The little Sunday School is a credit to its neighborhood and the town people enjoyed it very much.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent in playing games and reading and all too soon night made its appearance. With much packing and crowding the big hearted boys found seats for all the extra people and with profuse expressions of appreciation for the pleasant occasion and a reluctant good bye, the following people left for Hereford:

Misses Nannie Jowell, Mary Glenn, Agnes Long, Mary

Wenona Arthur, Willia Beatris Elliott and Mate Graye Hunt. Messrs. Odell Elliott, Roy Long, Jason B. Frizzell and Ralph W. Smith.

ENTERTAINED SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

Mr. Geo. W. Barcus entertained his Sunday School Class of young men and a number of their lady friends at his cherry home on 25-Mile Avenue Tuesday evening.

An invitation to the Barcus home always means a "good time," for every one is made to feel free and easy from the time they enter this home until the leave-taking is made.

Twelve tables having been made ready, the popular game of "42" was enjoyed the greater part of the evening. At the opportune time refreshments consisting of ices and cake were served.

At a late hour, and when the cup of enjoyment was about to overflow, the young people bade Mr. and Mrs. Barcus goodnight, with another beautiful picture: hung on memory's wall.

Mr. Barcus has one of the largest Sunday School classes in Hereford numbering about fifty.

WRIGHT-GREGG.

A wedding beautiful and impressive was that solemnized at the Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening, June 15, when Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gregg gave their daughter, Miss Lella, in marriage to Mr. Clyde Wright. Rev. W. M. Baker officiated.

Palms and pot plants were tastily arranged about the altar as an effective back ground for the bridal party. With Mrs. C. G. Ocheltree at the piano the Lohengrin bridal chorus was very sweetly rendered by Misses Roberta Nance, Bulah Potter Ruth Ricketts, Glenis Coulson, Bertha Witherspoon and Winona Author, all wearing white lingerie dresses and carrying bouquets of daisies, carnations and ferns. They sang as they came in couples down the center aisle and to position on the choir rostrum. Next came the ushers, Mr. Chas. Woodburn and Mr. John McLean. Following were the bride's maids, Miss Mildred Vaughan and Miss "Tot" Mercer, gowned in exquisite white lace-trimmed dresses and carrying bouquets of bridesmaid roses. Then the maid of honor, Miss Ina Gregg, sister of the bride, wearing a dress of silk batiste trimmed in lace bands and pink rose buds, and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations. In sweet childish simplicity little Lura Gregg scattered the rose petals for the feet of the bride who was attended by her father. The groom and his best man, Mr. C. L. Carter, came down the left aisle and met the bride before the altar. The ring ceremony was used. The bride was especially pretty in her bridal robe of Dutchess satin made princess en train and trimmed in pearl passementerie and rare old rose point lace which had been used by Mrs. Gregg on her wedding dress. The veil of tulle was kept in place by white rose buds. The bride's bouquet was a shower cluster of bride roses and white carnations.

An informal reception for the bridal party and a few friends was given at "Willow Wood," the suburban home of Mr. and Mrs. Gregg.

The guests were received by Miss Ina Gregg and Mrs. B. S. Arnold, and served to fruit nectar by little Misses Louise Oberthair and Jane Gregg. The Guest Book, in which many good wishes were written, was presided over by Mrs. B. S. Arnold. Miss Pattie Estes sang very sweetly "I Love You Truly Dear," and "There Let Me Rest."

Brick cream and cake were very daintily served. Many and beautiful were the presents displayed in the dining-room, one of which received special notice. This was a set glass stand which had belonged to Mrs. Gregg's great grand-mother. The bride's gift to her attendants were hand painted opera bags, made from goods of the wedding gown. The groom's gifts to the bride was a ring having an opal set with pearl. It had belonged to his mother. The out of town guest was Miss Carolee Younglet of Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright will be at home to their many friends at their little bungalow on H Street.

FAREWELL TO BACHELOR FRIENDS.

Clyde G. Wright gave an informal "farewell" to his friends at his Bachelor rooms' on Tuesday night when about a dozen young men were received. "Forty-two" and other diversions passed the hours away. Light refreshments being served at the tables during the progress of the game.

WITH MRS. LIPSCOMB.

The Ladies Bible Study Class met with Mrs. A. J. Lipscomb Wednesday afternoon. A number of subjects were discussed by the ladies in regard to their work and plans. After which the regular bible study of the Life of Christ was pursued, dainty refreshments of cake and cream were served by the hostess. All departed feeling glad to have met with Mrs. Lipscomb.

A Merry Fishing Party.

Last Friday morning a merry crowd of young people bound for Sulphur Park, passed through town. They were on a large hay frame covered with canvass and by the looks of the wagon they were well equipped for camping.

About 1 p. m. they landed at the Park and prepared their noonday meal which was relished with a good appetite, then the fun began. Every body fished that afternoon but Mr. Tice was the only one who could induce the finny tribe to leave the water. Saturday morning every one's luck changed and the ladies were kept busy preparing the fish for dinner. That night Mr. Tice and Mr. Charles Hagenstoz fished most of the night and landed 15 fine catfish and they didn't count the turtles. If any one thinks turtle soup isn't good, just ask some of the crowd. While the crowd wasn't fishing or eating they spent the time roaming round the park and boat riding and other sports as every one want to have a good time and they meant to have it.

About sundown Sunday, they broke camp and started for home, reaching there in the wee small hours of the morning.

Those who were fortunate enough to be in this jolly crowd were: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Tice and sons Walter and Lloys, Misses Claudie and Samie Sain, Maggie Hagenstoz, Bertha Spraw, and Charlie Hagenstoz, Herman and Wiley Robinson. Pet Israel, who was to have been one of this jolly dozen, was called away on important business Friday morning, making it impossible for him to go with them. Everyone regrets his being called away very much, but a full account of the trip was sent him, and some pictures which were taken of the crowd that will be sent to him later.

Whenever this "jolly dozen" gets together to have a good time, they know just how it's done. This trip is just one of their many pleasant outings.

Lest We Forget!

"Some says the crops is ruined, and corn's failed to sprout; And prophesy the wheat will be a failure, without doubt; But the kind Providence that never failed us yet, Will be on hands onc't more at the 'leventh hour, I bet! Does the medder-lark complain, as he swims high and dry Through the waves of the wind and the blue of the sky? Does the quail set up and whissel in a disappointed way, Er hang his head in silence, and sorrow all the day? Is the chipmuck's health a-fallin'?—Does he walk, er does he run? Don't the buzzards ooze Around up there just like they've allus done? Is they anything the matter with the rooster's lungs er voice?"

Ort a mortual be complainin' when dumb animals rejoice? Then let us, one and all, be contentud with our lot, The Juine is here this morning, and the sun is shining hot. Oh! let us fill our hearts up with the glory of the day, And banish ev'ry doubt and care and sorrow fur away! Whatever be our station, with Providence fer guide, Sich fine circumstances ort to make us satisfied; Fer the world is full of roses, and the roses full of dew, And the dew is full of heavenly love that drips Fer me and you."

The above poem of James Whitcomb Riley furnishes food for thought at the present time, there is no doubt.

Man of all God's creatures is the most discontented, and most fault-finding.

When the season is a little dry or a little too wet, he at once imagines he is ruined and his head begins to droop.

Have we forgotten that there shall be a "seed time and a harvest?" Also that "He that observeth the wind shall not sow, and he that regardeth the clouds shall not reap?" It is a fact that is being exemplified especially at the present time, that the farmer who properly prepared his ground before seeding, then afterwards gave it the proper cultivation, will come out with a fair profit. What this country needs is better farming. "God gives every bird its food but does not thrust it into its nest." Study the soil, then plant those crops best adapted to its nature, but do not expect them to bring an abundance of harvest without care and cultivation.

Those Candies.

It is a fact that Jarrott & Wilkinson's Store is now dripping with sweetness, for they have recently received a large shipment of the very finest candies on the market. These candies were made in New York City, and shipped to Jarrott & Wilkinson by D. Auerback & Sons, via the Atlantic Ocean and Gulf of Mexico to Galveston, then by rail from Galveston to Hereford.

The show window presents an attractive appearance to the passers-by and causes the "mouth to water" at first sight.

IRRIGATION WILL PAY

Facts and Figures About Tile Irrigation.—Estimates of Cost, Etc.

FACTS.

325,829 gallons make one acre-foot; that is, water one foot deep over an acre.

271,520 gallons will cover 10 acres one inch deep.

A pump supplying 500 gallons per minute will put one inch of water on 10 acres in 9 hours; and on 20 acres in 18 hours.

Three inches of water applied by sub tiles will give as much moisture as a 6 inch surface irrigation.

An acre-size tank 5 feet deep will contain 1,633,500 gallons of water and will supply 20 acres with 3 inches of water.

THE EARTH TANKS.

The most economical way to build such a tank is to make it circular. A foot of earth removed from the acre will make a containing wall 9 feet at the base by 6 feet high. A radius of about 118 feet will describe an acre. To build such a tank will require the removal of 1613 cubic yards of dirt. After the wall is completed, a small amount of water may be run in and the bottom and sides packed by an engine or some other means.

THE POWER PLANT.

Two kinds are available and cheap wind and gasoline. For small areas, not to exceed 40 acres, a battery of 4 windmills will do the work. With such a battery each with an actual capacity of 30 gallons per minute will fill the acre tank of 1,633,500 gallons in about 10 days. Accordingly 20 acres could be irrigated every 8 days putting an average of 3 inches water on the field. The cost would depend upon the depth of the well, the size of the pumps and mills. The power, the variable winds, will cost nothing.

TILE IRRIGATION.

The most economical method of irrigation is the tile system. On a plat of 40 acres, it would require 19,000 feet of 2 inch laterals, and 1,320 feet of main, if the surface was practically level. This estimate places the tile 30 feet apart. The ditches should not be less than 15 inches below the surface and may be opened with an ordinary plow and sub-soilers.

SUMMARY OF COST.

Making earth tank	$100
Drilling 4 wells, 75 feet deep	160
Four windmills complete	700
Tiling for 40 acres	600
Making ditches, estimated	140
Laying tile and connections	200
Extras, cut-offs, etc	100
Total	$2,000

This is about $50 per acre, a seemingly large figure, but when the value of the installed plant is considered the estimate is small. Water rights alone cost from $35 to $60 per acre.

After the plant is complete, the expense for power is small. One man can irrigate the entire 40 acres as there will be no ditches to keep open and no water soaked areas. A simple turn of the many inlet valves and the care of the mills constitute most of the labor.

Texas a Good Place to Live In.

The Telegram of Portland, Ore., says of Texas. "Down in Texas they have a very well developed city beautiful and Good Roads program that is statewide. Villages, as cities is embryo, contemplate growth, and the movement is to make provision for that growth by regularity in the laying out of streets, by reservations for parks by modern roads, and by all the methods of forethought which systematic city-building suggests. The wisdom of such education—for the process is but educational as yet—is apparent at a glance."

The Galveston News, commenting editorially on the above says: "It is doubtful if there is any kind that would more quickly arrest public attention, and thus give us more advertisement, and it is certain that no kind of endeavor would give us better quality of advertisement. It is the kind of advertisement that carries conviction. For, to the intelligent man evidence that a number of towns in Texas are interested in such work is proof that the state is passing out of its crude age. It is proof that Texas has educated itself up to the desire for the finer things of life and made itself capable of enjoying them. We believe that the movement for the refinement of urban life in Texas is spontaneous; that is, that it is inspired by a greater desire for a softer and more exalting environment. This desire, this aspiration, and the determination to gratify it, mark an ethical and intellectual advance that is to be regarded as a result of the educational processes that have been at work. It is fruit that has resulted from the work of moral and intellectual forces. It is a consequence, a natural and inevitable consequence of our social evolution."

Commenting further upon above, the Texas Commercial Secretaries says: "Yes, Texas is a good state to live in as well as invest in. A place for investment is often chosen which is never thought of for a home. Texas, however, has an unsurpassed climate, a state wide effort at municipal, suburban and country-home and road beautification has been inaugurated in Texas, which is making this state one of beautiful home-sites which must soon command the attention of the large numbers in the North and East and elsewhere, who are looking for a place which will embody both modern and esthetic home surroundings with business conditions which mean good investment and rapid valuation increase."

Miss Ethel Edwards, who has been spending the past three weeks visiting relatives in Hereford, returned Monday to her home in Wildorado.

One Million Daily.

There is no more progressive citizen on the globe than the native Texan, and he is by nature a builder, but the task of developing the State is far too great for the present generation to see, completed. To acquire the population that Massachusetts now has per square mile, we would have 110,000,000 people instead of 4,000,000. If all the people of the United States were to move to Texas our population would be less per area than that of Massachusetts. All the money in the world could find profitable investment in Texas. The figure below gives a comparison of the work of the stork and the immigration agent.

Increase in Population.

The stork gives us an increase of 56,000 per annum and the immigration agent 69,000 per annum.

The natural born citizen brings no property into the State. In fact, 30 per cent of our native citizens leave the State and actually take property away with them. It is fifteen years before the child becomes a revenue producer, and during that period he is an expense to the community, but the immigrant brings wealth into the State, and immediately upon arrival becomes a revenue producer.

There is approximately one million dollars per day coming into Texas and making permanent investment in railroads, factories, farms, mines and other industries.

Money Coming to Texas.

We can not develop our State with home capital. A farmer may sell his farm in one section of the State and buy in another section; he has merely changed his location and has added nothing to the State's wealth. A man may sell his farm and buy a factory, he has simply changed his occupation, but has added nothing to the wealth of the State. If this generation proposes to develop Texas, says the Commercial Secretaries' Association, we must get men and money from the outside, and the invitation to homeseekers and capitalists can be cordially extended through an improved system of public highways. A community may not be able to build railroads and factories and other large industrial enterprises, but every section of the State can improve its public highways.

The Rebecca's Picnic.
If life did not afford some little by-paths here and there, where, occasionally, one can leave the beaten path-way of life, who could tread the rugged highway.

For several days past, the members of the Rebecca Lodge and many of their friends had been looking forward to Thursday afternoon when in response to an invitation, they were to picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Carter, two miles south of town. The Carter home is an ideal place for such outings, with its abundance of shade, and large surface tank with a carpet of green grass all about it. The younger members of the party romped and played on the banks of the clear, rippling water, while a number of the "grown-ups," seemed to

"Like to jes' git out and rest, and not work at nothing else." It was at supper time, however, that the climax was reached. There are no words in the English language adequate to the description of the "spread" of pies, cakes, salads, pickles—sour and sweet, mixed and plain,—chickens, baked and fried, "chilly" creams, iced teas, hot coffee and even the "sweet pone" of fifty years ago.

When nothing more could be thought of to introduce as a new pleasure, and when everyone was intoxicated with the "revelries" of the occasion, some of the soberer ones suggested that "We go home." In the parting invitation, Mr. Carter said, "Come again, I will furnish the shade any time if you will furnish the spread."

China and Queensware, Black Co.

Candidates Orr, Worley, Rogers, Baird and Dobbins attended the Ice cream supper given in the Weems neighborhood Thursday evening, and Mr. Dobbins reports the sale of seventeen head of the gentler sex for $16 10. Prof. Cannon Elected Principal of Kentucky School.

Word came to Hereford yesterday that Prof. Harry S. Cannon, last year teacher of Latin in the High School had been unanimously elected principal of the public schools of Nicholasville, Kentucky, his former home.

This comes as a compliment to Mr. Cannon and a deserved recognition. Before returning to his native state to take up his work, Mr. Cannon will spend a few weeks in Mexico, City where he will make a special study of Spanish. While in Hereford Prof. Cannon made many friends who commend him to his own people with confidence that he will succeed in his new position.

Kindergarten Closes.

This morning the Kindergarten which has been conducted by Miss Bulah Wright held its closing exercises from 9 to 11 o'clock. A few friends and the mothers of the children were present. No special program was prepared and only a part of a regular day's work for the Kindergarten was carried out. This included some work at the tables, motion songs, marches, little recitations, etc. At the close of the hour, four little seniors who were finishing the course were given diplomas of graduation.

The graduates were: Mattie Mounts, Marie Estes, Ruth Smith Davis Elliott.

After the exercises the mothers were gracious in their words of appreciation to Miss Wright for the painstaking work in training their children.

The Annual Picnic.

The Annual Fishing Party and Picnic is now on. Thursday, quite a party from Hereford who were joined by a number of their friends from Amarillo, hied themselves to the "Bradley Ranch" to forget for a few days the "activities" of life and to indulge in such moods and pastimes as inclination directed.

This little "restive" has been observed now each year for the past five or six years, and each succeeding occasion seems to bring its full measure of pleasure and enjoyment.

The party will remain on the classic Tierra Blanca until the shadows begin to lengthen at the close of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gilbreath of Dimmitt returned last Saturday from a month's visit at Mr. Gilbreath's old home in Tennessee. The return trip was made by way of Saint Louis where Mr. Gilbreath purchased goods for his mercantile house at Dimmitt.

Her Fourth Birthday.

On Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 7, Mrs. N. M. Patton entertained twenty little people at her home on Lee Avenue, in honor of her granddaughter, Louise Ricketts, it being the little girl's fourth birthday. If anyone who reads these lines is out of tune with the world, and believes everything is going wrong, he should have been present and watched these children in their childish plays, without care or sorrow, and then taken heart again. The Great Father who bends over us, and even regards the sparrow as it falls to the ground, admonishes us not to have a thought for the morrow.

About 6 o'clock, the children were seated in little chairs along the sides and ends of a long, low table, and were served with cream and cake. Leaving off all conventionalities, many asked for a second and even for a third dish of cream.

After each had been satisfied with cream, little souvenir baskets filled with "goodies" were handed each child; then after another good romp, the children were taken to their several homes.

Louise received many beautiful little gifts, and was as happy as a child could be.

Those present were:—Maurine and Newell Hughes, Kenneth Cardwell, Mildred Cross, Jack Collins, Eloise Pitman, Mary Ruth Davis, Virginia Laird, William Black, Rose Mae and Frank Carl, Violet Tucker, Lura and Laura Waterman, Melvin Tucker, Louise Ricketts, Charles Newell and Leila and Fred Patton.
