CRP payments total $6 million

Deaf Smith County farmers who have land in the Conservation Reserve Program will be getting payments in October that will total almost $6 million.

Ted Peabody, executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in Hereford, said there are 422 CRP contracts in the county, with 152,410 acres in the program. Annual rental payments, made in October, average $39.20 per acre each year, with a total of $5,951,400 in annual payments for the 10-year life of the CRP contract.

"Statistics indicate seven businesses and/or individuals benefit from each dollar spent at the local level," Peabody said. "Deaf Smith County benefits from the economic stability and the conservation and environmental benefits provided by the CRP."

The CRP was started in 1987. Under the 10-year contract, participants agreed not to use the land for crop production, harvest hay from the land or graze the land, and devote the acreage to grass.

In return, the Commodity Credit Corporation (another arm of the U.S. Department of Agriculture) agrees to provide annual rental payments based on the bid placed by the producer. Annual rental payments are used by the producer to cover the cost of establishing the grass cover and to maintain the grass stand during the life of the contract.

"The CRP provides long-term environmental benefits by allowing the land to rest, thereby controlling erosion and preserving the land for future generations," Peabody said. "The native grass cover provides a natural habitat for wildlife, too."

Clark, who was interviewed last November by Danee' Wilson of the Brand, said the thing that affected him most was people thinking that "I'm retarded." while the disease has robbed him of physical abilities, he is as mentally sharp as ever.

Open records allow sale of information

By CHARLES RICHARDS Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Have you ever gotten a letter trying to talk you into a life insurance policy and wondered how they knew how old you would be on your next birthday?

The state of Texas quite possibly told them.

Your driver's license has not only your name and address, but also your date of birth and other vital statistics. For $28,000, the Department of Public Safety will sell the information it has on all 13 million licensed Texas drivers.

Ms. Trower wants to get the law hanged.

Vandals caught at high school

Two juveniles were apprehended a gunpoint early Saturday morning, caught in the act of vandalizing Hereford High School.

The juveniles were apparently unaware they had tripped a silent alarm system shortly after they entered the school. The juveniles entered the building by breaking out windows, and police said the juveniles, once inside "began to destroy everything in sight. They broke glass, turned over tables, pulled books from shelves, everything they could do." Damage is expected to total over $4,000.

Other persons arrested Friday included a man, 25, for driving while intoxicated; two men, 20 and 23, for fighting in public; and two persons, 14 and 20, for minor in possession.

Reports included disorderly conduct in the 600 block of Irving; domestic dispute on West U.S. Highway 60; criminal mischief in the 600 block of Bowie; fights among juveniles; damage to mailboxes on 16th; and theft from a convenience store.

Vehicles and the Secretary of State's office provide the same type of the individual's right to privacy, and Carter, R-Richland Hills, proposed information on people who have bought a hunting or fishing license, registered a car or boat, or registered to vote.

A company that wants to target newlyweds or new parents can acquire the names and addresses of everyone in a particular geographic area who has gotten a marriage license or had a baby.

All this information, and more, is available in Texas because of the Texas Open Records Act, enacted to guarantee First Amendment rights of free access to public documents. Although the state agencies charge for the information, the fees only cover the costs of gathering the information.

Elizabeth Trower of Austin worked for Texas Gov. Mark White a few years ago. Now, at the age of 52, she doesn't work any more and leads more of a private life.

Or so she thought until the morning of Thursday, Aug. 8, when an employee of Austin's city-owned electric utility company telephoned to tell her that her home address and unlisted telephone number had been given to "an old friend of yours in town for a week. She wants to give you a call."

Ms. Trower objected, saying she had never heard of the woman, but the city employee told her she had no choice, that under the Open Records Act the city was obligated to provide the information to anyone who wanted it.

Days later, after calling state and city officials and city-owned utility companies across the state, a perplexed Ms. Trower said:

What they told me is absolutely true. You can go down (to the electric company) and sign a form, even use a fictitious name if you want, whether you're a foreign agent, a Colombian drug lord or the Welcome Wagon, and get a copy of any information they have on file of their customers."

But access to public documents is not restricted to the news media, and state agencies and city-owned utilities have proved to be an invaluable aid to companies in their search for potential new customers.

About a year ago, a subscriber to the Department of Parks and Wildlife's monthly magazine called in to complain.

"She was quite irate about receiving some junk mail," said Peter Allen, a computer-analyst for the Parks and Wildlife Department. "She called the source and they told her that particular piece came from a list we sold them.

"The news media is well aware of we do everything we can to protect another amendment to the Business that," Henry said.

"There's nothing that makes us shudder more than to see an abuse of the public's right to know that does invade somebody's privacy. But people who go willy nilly at the Open Records Act, thinking that's going to cure some invasion of privacy, need to tread carefully.

"The problem," Henry said, "is that if you get into the Open Records Act and start to make changes, you can make changes that do more harm than good. It has to be done gingerly."

Earlier this year, State Rep. Bill and Commerce Code to broaden the prohibition against exploitation of crime victims and their families to include the victims of vehicle accidents, if their names were gleaned from police accident reports.

Texas Media, an Austin-based coalition of media groups fighting for freedom of information, agreed Carter's bill was fine.

"It wasn't a First Amendment issue or a threat to the news media. It was aimed at folks trying to sell you insurance," Henry said.

Mertz said the study showed that 81 percent of the subjects had been eating 25 percent more calories than they admitted. On average, all 266 participants had been eating 18 percent more calories than they admitted, he said.

The study is significant because the government relies on eating habit surveys to judge the nutritional status of Americans and determine how much food the populace needs. It also uses the information to compare the United States to other countries when studying the differences in the frequency of certain ailments such as heart disease and cancer.

But the studies of the past have been based on what people recalled or recorded that they ate. Mertz's was the first government study to test participants' eating claims.

If Mertz' findings are true for the entire country, many of the government's assumptions could be wrong.

Mertz said previous surveys have concluded that Americans get too little of certain nutrients such as vitamin B6, zinc, magnesium and iron for women.

But the nutrient intake increases substantially when 18 percent more calories is added to those estimates, he said.

Mertz, who was reporting on his findings today at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology in Atlanta, said he can't explain why people under-reported their calorie intake. He said he doesn't think people consciously lied.

He said the findings help explain, however, why the nation's recorded food consumption doesn't square with the population's increasing weight gain.

"Average body weight of the American population went up between the late 1960s and the late 1970s, while reported food intake went down," Mertz said. The USDA study used average-sized men and women between the ages of 21 and 64 who all lived or worked near the nutrition center in Beltsville, Md.

For at least a week, they were supposed to eat normally and keep a record of the food they consumed. The subjects were within 10 pounds of the ideal weight for their height and build. The first week was supposed to reflect the eating habits they'd followed for years to maintain that weight.

Researchers then translated those records into calories and designed meals that contained the same number

Have Americans lost their sense of duty? This question was asked by some of the media at the start of the Persian Gulf War.

The reluctance of some military people to serve in the Gulf was widely reported. Are Americans becoming less sensitive to duty, or did the new media overplay reports of those who wanted to be conscientious objectors instead of soldiers?

The results of the war answered some of the questions. The abilities and courage of those young people in volunteer military service drew an A-plus. And, the small percentage of those who complained is no more than a reflection of our society.

We Americans are becoming an over indulged people. We want wealth without work, prosperity without investment, freedom without sacrifice, education without study and government services without taxes.

A survey was reported recently of some 1,000 young Americans between the ages of 15 and 24. The survey found that young people have learned only half of America's story. They placed top priority on personal happiness, but the emphasis was on personal freedom and license with almost complete exclusion of service or participation.

They have not learned that citizenship requires duty and certainly responsibility. It's no wonder that some who joined the Army for the pay and benefits, recoiled in horror when asked to fight.

The young people are not alone. We of an older generation do not demand that our Congress balance the budget. Instead, we are willing to ddle our children and grandchild

The Texas Press Association maintains a clipping bureau in Austin that earns good money providing a service to clients around the state. A room full of clerks scan all newspapers in Texas for stories or comments about their clients--candidates, politicians, state agencies, corporations, trade associations, professional societies and large businesses all pay to find out what is being published about them.

Hotel chains, car rental agencies, airlines, travel agencies--all are particularly sensitive to either praise or criticism.

Roy McQueen, Snyder publisher, tells the story about a woman who encountered a cockroach in her swank hotel room. She complained in a letter to the hotel's chief executive officer that the traumatic experience spoiled her vacation.

She received the following reply: "Thank you so much for calling our attention to the insect you encountered in one of our guest suites. We maintain a staff of resident exterminators to assure that our facilities are insect free. It is one of of our chief concerns, and we have been very successful in this program.

"In fact, this is the first complaint we have had of such an occurrence in many years. Thank you so much for alerting us to this situation. You can rest assured that we are already addressing this problem so as to prevent future occurrences."

When the woman opened the letter, there were hand-penciled instructions from the hotel executive to his secretary still attached. It read:

Austin American Statesman on ethics reform:

When state lawmakers passed a joke of an "ethics reform" measure during the regular legislative session, Gov. Ann Richards should have vetoed it and told legislators to start over. ...

There is something extremely odd about Richards' post-electic attitude toward ethics reform.

Her "absolute minimum" set of 13 points for an ethics law, a standard she once demanded of the Legislature, vaporized during the regular session, as she passively allowed the lawmakers to set up loophole after sweetheart arrangement in the name of reform.

She silenced her ethics advisers, and signed the fraudulent "reform" legislation in private, probably to avoid questions about whatever happened to her 13-point minimum standard.

U.S. Rep. Bill Sarpalius is mad because he lost Boys Ranch.

Big Bill has traded more on being a Boys Ranch alumnus than on his voting record, it seems to me.

Now, if this redistricting plan goes through the courts, he's losing Boys Ranch

What the people of Amarillo and others in the Panhandle that are in the 13th Congressional District need to worry about is not ineffective representation from Bill. They should worry about somebody from Denton or wherever down southeast winning the seat and trying to take care of "Metroplex" needs instead of Northwest Texas needs.

Let's talk about this Old Texas dea some more.

As you'll recall, State Rep. David Swinford of Dumas had a big press conference a few weeks ago in Austin, calling for the top 26 counties to secede from the rest of the state and create "Old Texas."

Why Old Texas? Well, it has omething to do with Ann Richards' call, during her inaugural speech, for a "New Texas."

As we have seen, and will discover beginning today or sometime soon when you go fill up with gas, the "New Texas" seems to have much higher fees and taxes. That's about it, so far. The "New Texas" of the first eight months of Ann Richards term has seen our schools and state government in disarray. We still haven't done much about the growing population in our prisons, other than build more prisons. State agencies, instead of expanding services, have had to cut back what they can do because of cutbacks in their hours.

The "New Texas" still does not seem any more responsive to the Panhandle than any of the past regimes. We still are pretty much getting the short end of the stick.

It may be a longshot to ever establish "Old Texas" or "West Texas" or whatever we might call it, but it's a shot worth taking.

There are some things we need to ensure for "Old Texas" to work.

We want to make sure we have a workable state constitution, not some instrument we have to go to the polls and update once or twice a year.

We want to make sure we have initiative and referendum, so the voters can make laws directly.

The governor of "Old Texas" must have line-item veto power.

We must have a limit on terms for all officeholders and appointees, including federal representatives from our new state (just think, two senators to represent us!).

And above all, we must develop the best state school system (with well-paid teachers) in the United States.

The plan ... calls for spending more than $150 million to settle lawsuits brought against the state by Dallas and other counties for holding state prison inmates in crowded county jails. ...

The new legislation also calls for building maximum security prisons for 13,500 inmates, more severe penalties for dealing and possessing drugs in the vicinity of schools and a comprehensive rewrite of the penal code that would give violent offenders longer sentences and redirect less serious offenders to rehabilitative programs.

But perhaps the most cutting-edge, reform-minded element of the plan is the construction of drug and alcohol treatment facilities for 12,000. That would give Texas three times the capacity of the next largest program in the country, New York's, which can treat only 3,900.

While the $1.1 billion megabond issue needed to fund these reforms may be a bitter pill for the voters to swallow, it is the only pill we know of that can again make our prison system well and our streets safe.

example of government's shortsighted inclination to actually reduce revenues by increasing taxes and fees.

Despite an increase in postal rates that took effect in February, the U.S. Postal Service has announced that it is once more facing a deficit. At least part of the reason for the $1.6 billion shortfall can be attributed to a decline in the volume of business.

That decline is directly linked to the increase in rates.

Instead of responding to its competitors by boosting efficiency and improving its service to customers, the Postal Service continues to behave as though it has a monopoly on mail delivery and insists on boosting its rates to make up for lost revenue. That foolish avenue of relief is sending the Postal Department diving deeper into red ink.

Unless the U.S. Postal Service responds to its customers, it is certain to see a worsening of its financial woes instead of any improvement. And if that happens, the agency will have only itself to blame.

Letters to the Editor letter was submitted to the Amarillo Daily News and to The Hereford Brand)

Dear Editor:

Recently the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce brought a delegation of Amarillo businessmen to Hereford for what could be termed a goodwill visit. They met for lunch with a group of Hereford civic and business leaders. I was invited to attend as a resident of Amarillo but one who works in Hereford and as a past president of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

During the discussion after lunch, County Judge Tom Simons brought up the fact that approximately $2.5 million of the $6.5 million that is raised thru the 1/2 percent sale tax for the Amarillo Economic Development Corporation is raised by sales to those people from outside the city who come to Amarillo to shop. He then raised the question as to whether the AEDC had any plans to assist the outlying communities with economic development.

Mr. Brown, chairman of AEDC, spoke to this question and basically said that the AEDC board, still being in its first year of operations, hadn't made any decisions along this line. But the tone of his answer left mostof us with the feeling that no decision/ was imminent in the foresceable future.

A quote that has been attributed to Mike Boren, executive director of AEDC, is: "it doesn't make any difference where the sales come from, the money is raised in Amarillo and this is where it should be spent." This writer didn't hear the statement so the accuracy cannot be confirmed.

If this attitude is correct, it is extremely short sighted. As a about Amarillo's image in the other Panhandle communities. I had intended to mention this image problem during that meeting, but

Mike Carr, executive director of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, said that he would prefer to keep the meeting on a positive note. Mr. Randy Jeffers and Mr. Tom Patterson handled the meeting in a very professional and positive manner for the Amarillo group and everyone left the meeting feeling that their mission of promoting goodwill was accomplished. The image problem still exists. A good example of Amarillo's attitude was best expressed by Mr. Bob Reed on his Open Line program on KGNC a few weeks ago when the announcement was made of the Theme Park at Clarendon. Bob's remark was to the effect that if Amarillo can't have this park, we are happy for Clarendon. This isn't intended as a criticism of Bob Reed, but it does demonstrate an attitude.

Most of the citizens of Amarillo have no idea how many folks in the other communities feel about Amarillo. It is so easy to reason that if 40 percent of our sales come from outside the city, we must be doing something right. I have known of many people in the southern part of the trade area who will drive further to shop in Lubbock because they feel taken for granted in Amarillo.

So much could be accomplished for Amarillo if the AEDC would spend no more than 10 percent of the $2.5 million to assist the other communities in their economic development. If you help create 50 jobs outside Amarillo, those employees will spend a good part of their wages in Amarillo.

- I would urge the Amarillo City

Amarillo Economic Development Corporation to give this serious consideration.

Dear editor,

I was amused by the fact that yet another borderline racist article was printed.

I realize that your readership is not meant for anyone of color, witness. the many photos of minorities accepting some token monetary aid or assistance from a nordic type and then that nordic type later receiving an award for his/her "outstanding contributions to the community" from another nordic in any Sunday Brand.

Nonetheless, I refuse to let you get away with this as my conscience won't allow me to swallow your hypocrisy, let alone your reinforcement of a stereotype of women as being nothing more than baby machines who rely on federal assistance to subsist.

The remark stating that Comptroller John Sharp promised state employees a raise is misleading because the reader is led to believe that Mr. Sharp is directly responsible for them not receiving their raise. Is it not the gutless wonder congressmen who decide whether or not Mr. Sharp's recommendations should be implemented? I'm willing to bet that John Smithee was among those gutless wonders who voted not to give raises and yet, around here, judging by the papers reviews, he's regarded as a lap dog for the conservatives in this community (vour readership).

Furthermore, isn't one of the biggest expenses to the budget the dairies that advertise. payroll (which includes insurance)?

For years, I've heard conservatives in the Panhandle whine about this. The natural scapegoat on which to vent their frustrations on are the sensationalized stories of "welfare queens" harped on by papers like the Brand.

> The real needy (usually the elderly on fixed incomes) do not seek out assistance for three reasons: One, the red tape involved in filling out form after form; two, the attitude of the cynical case worker (the case worker acting as if the poor persons was asking for a personal check from the case worker), and, three, the shame of having to admit to someone, usually a stranger, that you're poor and hungry.

> So where's the hypocrisy in your column? Well, it's pointing the finger at poor people and not bothering to comment on your own greed, i.e. the Texas milk scandal of price fixing among dairy owners in an effort to profit off of school children who are poor. Is it because that maybe, just maybe, local dairies could be implicated and some of your biggest advertisers are dairies?

Buttons for many elevators are too high for some wheelchair users to reach unless they have a pointer.

Drinking fountains also are too high, or have push-buttons or knobs rather than easier-to-manipulate levers.

Fixed seating in the Legislature's public hearing rooms may require people in wheelchairs to be in the aisle.

And problems are compounded for those who cannot see or hear.

Offices do not have Braille signs; a person may have to search for a telephone equipped with a special typewriter device for the deaf - there is one in the House sergeant-at-arms' office; and public meetings aren't posted in Braille.

She is an organizer with American Disabled for Attendant Programs Today, which pushes for programs to allow disabled people to live in the community rather than in institutions. She also helped with a Capitol accessibility guide that ended up pointing out the building's inaccessibility.

Asked to name a bright spot in the Capitol, Ms. Thomas said: "I wouldn't say there's anything that's good. They've improved the electric door on the East entrance (with the ramp) so it doesn't break down as much as it used to."

But with the Capitol in the midst of renovation efforts, state officials say change is coming.

And disabled activists, who say they got little more than a pat on the head when they voiced concerns in the past, are working to ensure that

"It's not really a matter of, 'It would be nice,' any more," said Ms. Thomas, citing accessibility requirements in the federal Americans with Disabilities Act.

"This is a law, and I know a lot of disabled advocates are tired of being nice about it," she said,

The Capitol will be more accessible when renovation and restoration is completed in 1994, said Dealey Herndon, who this year became executive director of the State Preservation Board.

A new underground Capitol office complex to be finished in 1992 also will be completely accessible to the disabled, she said.

Although the Capitol grounds are not slated for work for several years, Ms. Herndon said it's possible that some improvements could be made much sooner.

She is a former member of the Preservation Board, which oversees Capitol renovation and new construction. She, Capitol architect Allen McCree and staff members have begun meeting regularly with advocates for the disabled to go over plans and get suggestions.

The State Purchasing and General Services Commission's division on eliminating architectural barriers also has been reviewing the plans during the project.

Among planned improvements, McCree said, are outside elevator kiosks that will allow people to move directly from public transportation drop-offs to the new complex, which will be connected underground to the Capitol and other buildings.

He said the latest in hydraulic lifts will be installed at the House and Senate galleries, and meeting rooms will be designed to accommodate the disabled. Restrooms will be accessible.

Laurie Limbacher, design director for the Preservation Board, said Braille signs on offices and meeting notices are not in current plans, but that they could be considered. Ms. Thomas said an alternative to Braille meeting notices might be a telephone information line.

Pay telephones will have hookups needed for the special typewriter devices for the deaf, Ms. Limbacher said. The devices themselves are not part of contracts, but could be installed as needed, she said.

The new "front" of the building will be considered the north rather than the south side, McCree and Ms. Herndon said, and ramps will be incorporated into the design. More parking is planned for the disabled. "Of course, we're working with

The Hereford Whitefaces made a good showing Friday in a three-part scrimmage against the Amarillo High Sandies at Randall High School Field. It was the Herd's last scrimmage before the season-opener at home against Tascosa.

Each team scored three touchdowns in the main portion of the scrimmage.

The second part of the scrimmage, in which both teams got eight plays from the opponent's five-yard line, saw the Herd score four times while only being scored upon twice.

Finally, the teams simulated a full quarter of football, leaving out only the kickoffs. Hereford won that 12-6.

"We played well," Herd coach Danny Haney said. "We haven't won the Super Bowl; we haven't won the state championship, but we played well.

"The players came to an understanding of what it's like to play hard. We had lots of players mature ... You have to use (the scrimmage) to gain confidence and get on with the season."

The scrimmage started out with the Herd on defense. The Sandies' first play went for a 50-yard pass play, but the Herd defense got better after that. Mark Kreigshauser and Jason Cochran combined for a sack to slow the drive, and Richard Sanderson intercepted a pass to stop the drive.

Amarillo started over at their own 30. The Sandies mounted a sustained drive, but again were stopped near the goal line by an interception, this time by Petey Colvin.

Hereford, on the other hand, plays later, Colvin ran in from 13 scored during its first offensive set. Colvin ran it in from five yards out.

During Amarillo's next offensive turn, the Sandies scored twice on long pass plays. The first was a short pass to the flat which ended up going 35 yards. The second TD pass went over the top for a 61-yard score.

Hereford scored in each of its next two sets. In the first, quarterback Ben Perry connected with Clay Wallace for an 11-yard TD.

In the second set, the Herd was driving, but a holding penalty put them in a third-and-18 hole at the Amarillo 39. Tight end Derek Mason caught a pass from Chad Sandoval over the middle, was immediately popped by Sandie safety Jason Baskin, but held on to the ball for a first down at the Amarillo 20. A few

That completed Hereford's scoring. Amarillo got one more score in their last chance--a 28-yard touchdown scramble by the quarterback.

In the goal line portion of the scrimmage, Amarillo went first and scored twice. One attempt was spoiled by a fumble, and another was spoiled by Jason Tatarevich's interception.

When the Whitefaces got their chance, they scored four times: three on runs by Colvin, and once on a Sandoval pass which Sean Smith caught while falling down.

Buechele goes to Bucs

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - The Pirates needed one more piece for the postseason puzzle, and they figured Steve Buechele was that part.

So Pittsburgh traded a highly regarded minor-league pitcher and a player to be named later to the Rangers on Friday night to get the third baseman.

"He'll play right away," Pirates manager Jim Leyland said. "He's a fine all-around player who will be a good addition to this team. We've had excellent reports on him.

"We just felt that we could add a quality player right now with the situation we have with injuries to both third basemen, and that's what we've done," Leyland said. Buechele, 29, has made only three errors this season, fewest among major league third baseman. He's hit a career-high 18 home runs and is batting .267.

The trade came one day before the deadline for setting postseason still eligible for free agency. rosters. Pittsburgh won in San Diego * on Friday night, increasing its lead in the NL East to seven games over St. Louis.

"I even kiddingly said today that I was going to stay in the clubhouse until midnight tomorrow to make sure nothing happened," Buechele said.

"I think it'll take time for me to realize the gist of what happened, but I heard if I was going anywhere it would be Pittsburgh," he said. "My initial reaction is that I'm not surprised. The way the season has gone by, I couldn't see that I was going to be here next year."

The Pirates have been using rookie for rookie third baseman Dean John Wehner at third base. He's batting .340 and is considered a good fielder, but Pittsburgh wanted to add stability with a veteran at the position.

Also, Wehner has been hurting. To make room for Buechele, Pittsburgh put Wehner on the 15-day disabled list because of back spasms. Jeff King, the Pirates' starter last season, is still on an injury rehabilitation assignment at Triple-A Buffalo.

"I don't think Pittsburgh is going to trade for me for a month's worth of work," Buechele said. "Of course, I would have liked to stay a Ranger. wanted to sign a three or four year contract and play here for 10 years but that's how baseball is."

Buechele went 2-for-4 against Kansas City on Friday night in his final game for Texas. He has been with the Rangers since 1985, and is

"It's a weird feeling. I've been playing here my entire pro career and I have a lot of good feelings especially for the fans," he said. "My wife and I have talked about it, so it really isn't anything that takes me by surprise."

The trade was well received by Pittsburgh outfielder Bobby Bonilla, who had been filling in at third base. Bonilla doesn't like playing at third, and was happy to be going back to the outfield.

"This is good news. It's beautiful news," Bonilla said.

Palmer, a power hitter recently promoted from the minors. Palmer split time in left field and third base while Texas tried to trade Buechele. "I'm glad it gives me a shot,"

Palmer said. "But on the other hand, it's sad to see a guy like Buechele traded."

Texas general manager Tom Grieve said the Rangers traded Buechele because they "felt some uncertainty about signing him. We needed to improve our pitching depth and we made the move.

"Steve was a Ranger through and through and a fan favorite. He was very involved with the community and it's a tough day for all of us. We had to do what we did for the team," Grieve said. "At least he will step into a pennant race and has a chance to play in the series."

In return, the Rangers got Kurt Miller, 19, the Pirates' No. 1 pick in the June 1990 draft, and the fifth player taken overall. He was 6-7 with a 2.50 ERA this season at Class A Augusta of the South Atlantic League. Miller was 3-2 with a 3.29 ERA for Augusta last season.

The Rangers beat the Royals 6-2 Friday night with Nolan Ryan getting his 311th career victory, and the game ended when Buechele began a double play. Ryan said he was sorry to see Buechele go.

"It's part of the game I don't like, and I like it less when it is a friend," Ryan said. "It's the personal part of The Rangers wanted to make room baseball that doesn't agree with me."

Stich conquers heat outlasts Washington

NEW YORK (AP) - Wimbledon champion Michael Stich crumpled in a sopping heap in the courtside flower bed at the U.S. Open on Friday and looked ready for burial.

The searing sun beat down on his bare head and the 120-degree court burned through his sneakers. A soaked handkerchief drooped around his neck. Across the net, MaliVai Washington was doing deep knee bends after breaking Stich's serve to win the fourth set and tie the third-round match.

Stich, bent double by New York's heat and humidity, pulled himself slowly out of the flowers, ambled over to the baseline, then did what all champions must. From some inner reserve, he got his serve going hotter than the weather, resumed his dogged net attack, struck a few blazing forehands and won 5-7, 7-5, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3 in 3 1/2 hours of sheer torture.

No. 2 seed Stefan Edberg was stretched to nearly three hours by former doubles partner Jim Grabb before winning 7-6 (10-8), 4-6, 6-3, 6-4. No. 5 Ivan Lendl also took about three hours to beat Todd Woodbridge 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Women's No. 5 seed Mary Joe Fernandez fell 6-1, 6-2 to Radka Zrubakova, a 20-year-old from Czechoslovakia. No. 11 Katerina Maleeva lost 2-6, 6-3, 6-3 to Regina Rajchrtova, another Czech. Jo Durie beat No. 15 Helena Sukova 6-4, 2-6, 6-1.

Three other women's seeds had a much easier time. No. 3 Gabriela Sabatini beat Gretchen Magers 6-3, 6-4; No. 7 Jennifer Capriati beat Patricia Hy 6-1, 6-4; and No. 9 Jana "It's always important to prove to Novotna beat Dominique Monami

WILL THEY BUY?

Many people read the real estate ads regularly. But, I've discov-ered, that very few actually buy the particular property they called about. Some can't afford the property. Some really want something else. And some are "just looking," visiting houses for entertainment. That's three good reasons why I don't show your house to just anyone who calls about it. First I meet the prospects and qualify their interests: Do they really want a house like that? Can they afford it? Can they buy by the time you want to sell? Then, and only then, do I bring them to see your home. Home owners trying to sell on their own often end up wasting their time on non-productive "lookers," the folks who can't buy, or don't really want to, but just like to go visiting. By BEN WALKER AP Baseball Writer Few people ever confused Nolan Ryan and Tom Seaver, even when they played together. And back then, no one ever doubted who would win more games.

Seaver was a pitcher, bound for greatness. Ryan was a thrower, betrayed by wildness.

Now, two decades later, there's still no debate about who will be the bigger winner. It will be Ryan, just like everyone expected, right?

Ryan tied Seaver for 14th place on the all-time victory list Friday night, winning No. 311 as the Rangers beat the Royals 6-2.

"Tom and I were teammates and close friends with the New York effort for 5 1-3 innings. He won Mets," Ryan said,"I didn't even following his briefest outing of the Ryan is 311-278 with a 3.16 ERA. He has struck out 5,465 and pitched seven no-hitters, both records, and is considered - or should be - a lock for the Hall.

It's nice to reach that plateau with innings because of arm trouble. 'Everything was fine," he said.

"I think the humidity was up today. I haven't been pitching much in the last 10 or 12 days."

Ryan struck out four, walked two and asked for relief help after Brian McRae hit an RBI double. The Rangers' relievers preserved the lead, with Jeff Russell getting the last three

McKinney favored in 4A; 5A

By MIKE DRAGO Associated Press Writer DALLAS (AP) - Predicting high school football champions in August is like buying a lottery ticket: the possibilities are too great to venture anything more than a guess and chances are you'll be wrong. Some championships, such as Groveton's 1990 repeat in Class 2A, are more predictable than others. The Indians, who had finished a perfect 1989 season, returned largely intact, including its firestorm offensive duo of running back Rodney Thomas and quarterback Gerald Farley.

But a glance at some classifications, such as this year's Class 5A crop, leaves the prognosticator scratching his head.

Perhaps Eddy Peach, coach of No. 2 Arlington Lamar, says it best: "I think there are eight or 10 teams in the state that you could pick. It's just opinion."

With that in mind, the state powerhouses. champions will be: Houston Lamar. in Class 5A Division I; Aldine in the "small school" Division II; McKinney in 4A; Fairfield in 3A; Schulenburg in 2A; and Garden City in Class A.

1990 at 11-2-1 with a 25-17 big school quarterfinals loss to Humble Kingwood, should breeze through its regular season. But the Redskins could face playoff challenges in Alief Elsik or Houston Yates on its way to the semifinals.

On offense, Lamar is led by Kweli Thompson, who ran for 1,595 yards and 22 touchdowns in 14 games last year, and Brian Smith, who passed for 1,673 yards and 19 touchdowns. The defense is anchored by 6-4 235-pound Cedric Jones, who averaged nine tackles a game.

Lamar lost 35 lettermen from last year's team, including Associated Press All-State selection Tharon Tircuit, but a junior varsity squad that went 10-0 will help fill the holes.

Selecting the 5A Division II winner is more difficult because the bracket figures to be loaded with many of the state's perennial

Even Peach had trouble picking the best team.

You take Arlington Lamar, Aldine, Huntsville, (Dallas) Carter," Peach said. "You can take any of those teams and rank them number Houston Lamar, which finished one. There's not much difference."

the consensus.

We were really impressed with Aldine," he said. "(But) Huntsville's got more kids coming back and, in all fairness, I'd have to pick Huntsville."

So why does this crystal ball show Aldine repeating? Championship experience, mostly. And there's this quarterback, Eric Gray, who ran for 1,495 yards and passed for 1,099 more last year. He also set a state rushing record with 236 yards in the small school title game against Arlington Lamar.

Yes, Huntsville's Chuck Clements threw for 2,919 yards and 29 touchdowns last year. But Gray, who was starting for the first time, led Aldine's veer offense to more than 400 yards per game.

"We certainly feel like Eric is as good as there is in the state," said Aldine coach Bill Smith. "He'll not take a back seat to anyone."

Gray will throw often to speedy Will Skinner, who caught nine passes for 249 yards (27.6 yards per catch), and hand off to Elmer Brown, who ran for 450 yards last year.

"Last year (during) the first few games our defense held some people off until the offense got in gear,"

But when pressed, Peach joined Smith said. "With Eric coming back, title, coach Smith? our offense has to pick it up a little." "I'd have to go with Huntsville."

That doesn't mean Aldine's defense is lacking, Smith said.

Ervin Briley (6-4 250 pounds) and Cleotha Childress (6-1 230) are two of the best defensive tackles in the state, he said, and linebacker-John Lacy and defensive back DeUndre Williams return from a defense that shut down Arlington Lamar for the championship. Still, Smith is humble.

'We're missing a lot of good players from last year," he said. "I don't know that we'll be better than or even as good as last year, but we'll have a good football team."

Oh well, it's just opinion. In the other classifications: -4A: McKinney has plenty to prove this year. The Lions rose to No. 1 in The Associated Press Schoolboy Poll before dropping critical district games and missing the playoffs with an 8-2 record. It was the third straight year for McKinney to miss the playoffs, including two consecutive on coin flips. It won't happen again.

-3A: Fairfield, with 10 defensive starters returning, probably won't surrender many points this year. And the Eagles could score quite a few, led by running back Lee Cyrus, who carried So who do you think will win the for 1,026 yards for last year's 9-2 district runner-up. Linebacker Jeff White led Fairfield in tackles with 91, while noseguard Tony Brackens had 71 tackles and eight sacks. -2A: The Shorthorns have the momentum after giving Rodney Thomas and Groveton a 41-36 scare in the state semifinals last year. Seven returning starters on either side of the ball won't hurt, either.

The Hereford Brand-Sunday, September 1, 1991-Page 9A

-A: Any school with more than a fourth of its students returning as football lettermen automatically gets this vote. Garden City, a school of 100, was 11-2 last year while advancing to the quarterfinals. The 26 returning players, including eight starters on both offense and defense, might not be challenged.

Last season, three teams from each district qualified for the playoffs. The school with the smallest enrollment among the three teams advanced to ointment, like Marshall and Aldine a 32-team small school division. The other two went to a 64-team large of gives it a black eye. But if it had school bracket.

The ironic result had Marshall, with just under 2,000 students, winning the big school title and Aldine, with about 2,600 students, mixed reviews from Texas coaches taking the small school championship.

Problems still exist, he admits. For The Class 5A two-tiered playoff example, take districts 7-5A and 8-5A in Arlington and Fort Worth, up on the two-tiered system.

"It's hard to find something perfect these days," Farris said. "Usually there's a fly in the winning the championship. That kind been one up and two down last year it wouldn't have turned out that way.

John Tyler. The scoreless tie, which was played on a sloppy field in the rain, went to John Tyler on a tiebreaker, handing the Lions second place in the district.

"I think if there had only been two teams (in the playoffs) then our approach to the ball game would have been different," Peterson said.

Huntsville coach Joe Clements, whose team was victimized by the number of top teams in the small schools playoff bracket, also doesn't care for the format. Region II included Huntsville, Dallas Carter, Waco and Richardson Lake Highlands, all Top 10 teams.

"Being a small school, I kind of wanted to go in the big division," Clements said. "All the good teams are in our division."

Yet another complaint is that no true champion is crowned in 5A. A game between the Division I and II champions could solve that, but the UIL so far has resisted the idea. The game would have to be played after Christmas, when most UIL activities Marshall's district, and advanced to . are forbidden until after New Year's.

Farris said those results should be positive, but not perfect.

Feaff still going strong after 20 years

By JONATHAN FEIGEN Houston Chronicle

WACO, Texas (AP) - The faithful began filling the hallways early. Just as they have done for 20 summers before, the congregation hurries in to hear its leader preach, to be lifted somehow by hope and promise and unashamed, full volume conviction.

Grant Teaff woke up that Tuesday morning, the day of the most recent pilgrimage to one of those preseason revivals, muted, his voice sacrificed to post-nasal drip. By 10 a.m. he forced out a Fort Worth press conference. By noon he was at the podium in Dallas, greeting a packed-house crowd of the Dallas chapter of the Baylor Bear Club.

Within five minutes his voice was booming, the faithful suddenly silent, until erupting like a cross between

Rossley insists SMU will win

An AP Sports Analysis By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Tom Rosslev wasn't dressed in the usual coaching togs.

He wore shorts and Polo shirt and looked for all the world like a tennis instructor instead of a football coach.

He wore no whistle around his neck or a sweat shirt that read: "SMU Football" like you might expect. He didn't have a coaching hat jammed down over his eyes.

Chomping on a pizza and washing it down with an RC Cola, the balding Rossley fit in with a bunch of media types on Southwest Conference press day much like a middle-aged booster of Mustang football, not the guy who could decide the fate of the sport at the school.

Rossley chattered with enthusiasm about the upcoming season. He was certainly a positive force in a negative field: the sports writers had picked the Mustangs to be the sole inhabitants of the SWC cellar this fall.

Cynics abound about the state of the SMU football program since the crippling NCAA death penalty accomplished its purpose: knocking the sport back into the dark ages because of an alumni slush fund.

SMU has yet to win an SWC game. Last year the school beat only Vanderbilt. Two years ago there were miracle victories over Connecticut and North Texas. Three wins in two years under now-athletic director Forrest Gregg gave the impression that remaking SMU into a football power again will be a long hike in the woods. So, when Rossley said, "We're going to win because we have the attitude that we want to do it," a backbench cynic sneered: "General Custer had a good attitude, too."

Congress at a postwar State of the Union address and the yokels packed in for Morton Downey Jr.

"We are not, my friends, one of the "have-nots," Teaff said, his voice echoing on the 'nots.'

"With the facilities we now have, if we do the kind of job we're capable of doing and sell our university the way we should sell it, we're going to recruit year in and year out because we're the best thing going," Teaff said.

"There's nothing to compare with it. We're in a community and an area that's outstanding; the education at our university equals any in the nation; we've got the stadiums and the facilities. It is all right there for the taking.

'Our goal and desire is to win a national championship. I expect to be coach at least 10 more years. My goal is clear ...

The faithful could stand no more. They felt again like "the best thing going." They burst into applause and laughs and shouts. Teaff raised his right hand, summoning silence for a final whammy.

"What we want, it is not just a dream, it is a possibility. A real possibility. We want a national championship." Hallelujah.

Can it really be the 20th season since Grant Teaff first convinced hungry followers of Baylor football that the Bears could win in the Southwest Conference?

It seems the nearly two decades have passed in a blur:

Moving rapidly, considering how far Baylor football has come. And, at the same time, moving slowly when finding how few people remember the state of the Bears after Teaff, in December 1971. Edwards the 1971 season and how Teaff came to become Baylor's definitive coach.

It seems impossible now that Baylor football was so mired in the muck of a downward spiral that Teaff estimates 100 coaches turned down the job before he became a candidate. "Coaches come up to me all the time and say they turned Baylor down," Teaff said. "They (the school) must have looked under every rock in the country."

Someone named Rudy Feldman, the hot commodity of the time after some success at New Mexico, actually accepted the position. He then thought better of the career suicide most thought he would commit by moving his upwardly mobile resume to Waco.

Strange as it may now sound, Baylor settled for Grant Teaff, then the completely unknown coach at Angelo State who was grooming for a return to Texas Tech.

"I always had Grant in mind because I knew he recruited so well (as an assistant) at Tech," former Baylor athletic director Jack Patterson said. "He's being humble when he says he was the 100th choice. He wasn't the first phone call, but he wasn't the 100th."

Teaff has since become the nation's second-most tenured coach at one school. Only Penn State's Joe Paterno, beginning his 26th year as the Nittany Lions head coach, has been the head coach at one school longer.

Brigham Young's LaVell Edwards is beginning his 20th season at BYU. But, as Teaff often reminded his friend in Provo, Baylor hired him, was not hired until January 1972.

'We did contact a lot of people about the job," former Baylor president Abner McCall said. "They just weren't interested. But as soon as Grant arrived, he fit. And I don't think there has ever been as good a fit of coach to school, and of philosophy, anywhere since. I couldn't imagine him coaching somewhere else.

"I've heard people say he's a better preacher than coach. I don't know about that, but at the time, we needed both," Twenty seasons ago, the faithful came to hear Teaff more as a curiosity. Baylor football had sunk to about as far as it could go and still be considered major college. The Bears were 3-28 in the previous three seasons, 7-43-1 the previous five years. Baylor managed six points total in the final four games of the '71 season, leading to the unceremonious buyout of Bill Beall's contract.

There was even a movement, met with limited interest by the Baylor administration, to drop the school from Division I competition.

"When I took the job," Teaff said, 'I was told there were only two things they asked: that the football team make some first downs and that they play hard enough not to be embarrassed. I thought, 'What am I hearing? I have bigger goals in mind' The Baylor people had been beaten over the head so badly, it was just terrible.

"There's never been any question in my mind I could win at Baylor," Teaff said. "Everyone said it was a graveyard. 'You won't last three years.' It never occurred to me. I never gave one instance of thought of failing. I had so much determination and belief in myself."

Teaff's conviction bubbled over and somehow convinced Baylor fans winning was possible. At a time when the fans of the powerful state schools ripped their rivals over Monday morning water coolers as never before or since, Teaff inexplicably gave Baylor fans what they needed most: a reason to believe.

"I always knew Baylor could come back," Rev. Charles Cockrell, one of the most faithful of the faithful said. "I remembered when we won it in 1924, so I knew we could again. But a lot of people must have forgotten about '24.

How fans could have forgotten the championship season of '24 remains a mystery to Cockrell. It was, after all, a mere half-century later that Baylor won another SWC championship. The second, however, came just three seasons after Baylor "looked under every rock in the country" to find a coach.

And Cockrell admits, he was in the minority among the believers. When Baylor upset Texas on the way to the 1974 championship, members of the Baylor administration, including current president Herbert Reynolds, were so stunned they couldn't take their eyes off the scoreboard until they fell asleep. Many spent the night in the stadium press box - with the scoreboard turned on.

Beginning his 20th season at Baylor, Teaff hasn't finished at Baylor. "I instituted a 10-year plan in 1990." Teaff said.

Not that Teaff hasn't had chances to leave Baylor. He came close a few times. The work just wasn't done. "That's the way Grant is," his mother Inez said. "He is always going to stay with something until it's done. It's natural."

It was how he was taught. But after the 1974 season, Tech finally came calling.

Teaff had brought Baylor an SWC championship. And he had always planned on coaching at Texas Tech.

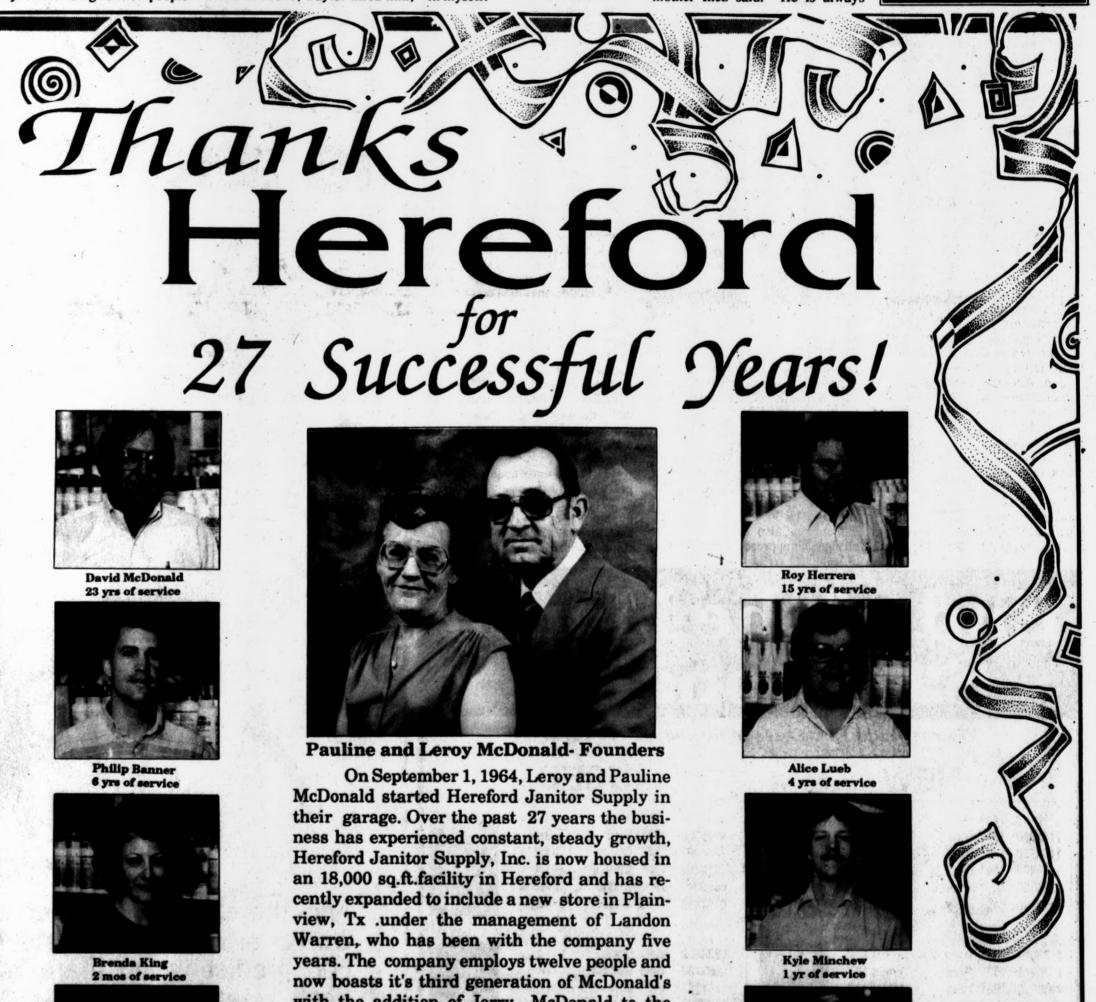

"But I thought of the Baylor people," Teaff said. "They had been so maligned, so mistreated in football over the years. We won a championship, but one of the things that kept ringing in my ears was the Baylor people would be told, 'Yeah, sure, you won a championship, but you're not good enough to keep the coach.""

Teaff has since considered, and turned down, LSU, Tech (again), Oklahoma State ("I still don't know why I turned that one down," Teaff said, "It just didn't feel right.") and Southern California.

"I've been up at night lots of times trying to make a decision," Teaff said. "I've always marched to the beat of a different drum, especially to what the media and the public might consider a prudent decision. I always try to weigh not only my family, but the investment I had made in the university at that point and what could still be accomplished.

"We have what we feel is one of the best kept secrets in Texas," said Rossley, who last year was offensive coordinator for the NFL's Atlanta Falcons. "I think we have a good football team. We've suffered together. It makes you stronger."

Cynic No. II: "And the Russian people suffered for 70 years before they got rid of Communism."

Whoa. We're talking sports here. This isn't life and salt mines.

"It's going to take a darn good team to beat us," Rossley said. "I'm not going to say we're going to win them all. We're trying to gain some identity. For a long time we've been the little baby brother on the schedule, an automatic 'W.' We've got confidence we can compete."

Compete, but not win this soon, surely.

Rossley looked straight at his doubting Thomases and promised: "The plan is to win this year, not wait until 1992."

He could see the smirks coming back at him in the audience.

Rossley greeted the skeptics head On.

"I think you (the media) are going to say at the end of the year 'Well, we missed on that one,' "Rossley said. Then he said without wavering:

"We're not going to be dead last." You've got to admire the man's style.

He didn't hedge.

Then he went on to say a little more about how he'll feel when the Mustangs do win their first league game.

"It will be some big celebration," Rossley said. "It will be something special. We'll have showed that smart people can win and we did it the right way.

And we all can say Rossley told US SO.

"If I ever felt at one of those times Baylor had reached ... where we are right now, it would have been easier to leave. But I always felt I was needed."

So he stayed. He did not always know why at the time, but he always stayed. Even when Oklahoma State came courting after the 1978 season, when he considered himself in trouble at Baylor, he stayed. The '78 season, was a disappointment, even with the season-ending, "worming-eating" upset of Texas. And Teaff was in his final season of his contract.

A Memphis newspaper reported Bob Tyler of Mississippi State had already been offered Teaff's job. Teaff's relationship with Patterson had grown strained, many in the program at the time said. Patterson said that was never true, but Teaff wasn't sure and began the '79 press tour in Waco by saying, "I don't know where I'll be coaching next year, but I'll be somewhere."

Five days after a 55-0 rout of Army, Teaff had a new contract. The Bears finished 8-4, beat Clemson 24-18 in the Peach Bowl and, the following season, rolled unbeaten through the 1980 conference season to another league title.

"But considering the circumstances of the time, I find it interesting I didn't leave," Teaff. "I don't know. It's something that's in me. It didn't make any sense. Nothing gets my motor running like telling me I can't do something. And there was still more to do here."

In 1987, Teaff signed a five-year contract at Baylor. He thinks. He's not sure, but it doesn't really matter. A year or two remain, and athletic director Bill Menefee will let him know when it's time for another.

These are high times at Baylor. After the three most punishing years of his life, Teaff considers his problems behind him, his coveted stadium addition opened and the fourth phase of building Baylor into a national power begun.

But for three years, Teaff suffered through one calamity after another.

"When you get to this level of visibility and competitiveness, people think you've got it made," Teaff's wife, Donell, said. "You never do. I don't think anything could have prepared us for these past years."

Three years ago, Donell developed potentially fatal viral pneumonia. Two years ago, Teaff's daughter Tracy, developed Bell's Palsy, paralyzing one side of her face in a condition doctors believed was brought on by her anguish over the football team's fortunes. Before last season, Teaff had major surgery to repair his back. And the football team struggled to compete in college football's passing age. Donell's condition needs only NCAA rules is a result of a duped NCAA rather than actual practices. His oft-described pious methods of running his program have been called an act carefully crafted for Baylor.

But even those quiet charges have gone out of style in recent years, the result of years gone by without hard evidence.

"For someone like myself that aspires to be a head coach, just being associated with him is a boost to my career in this business," Baylor offensive coordinator Chuck Reedy said. "That's especially true for me, coming from Clemson, which did not have a good reputation. Around the coaching profession, he is considered the epitome of integrity in the business."

Teaff said, "My reaction (to criticism) is always, time will out. Over time, you let the chips fall where they may and the truth will become apparent."

Still, some coaches have referred to Teaff as an "Elmer Gantry," a slap he clearly considers distasteful. To Teaff nothing can be so inaccurate as to question his conviction about anything. And with Teaff, every conviction is emotionally charged.

It was Teaff who called the Southeastern Conference "the Iraq of college football," then recruited state legislators to help scuttle thoughts of Texas and Texas A&M to defect from the SWC. "To see it (the SWC) destroyed in any way is not only repugnant but it is a cutting knife blade to the heart of this state," he said.

It was Teaff who became one of the country's most active voices on coaching issues. "We're making progress in getting some of these grievous, misguided errors corrected," he said.

And for Teaff, every fight is met with Saturday afternoon fire, with competitive zeal.

"Grant Teaff never said anything he didn't mean," former Texas A&M coach Jackie Sherrill said. "Even when he is standing on a table screaming, he means every word. That's the only way you can motivate players, because you can never fool them."

Teaff knew. He knew in December 1971 that Baylor would win championships. He knew the program would grow, that he someday would sit in a state-of-the-art office in a glittering, three-story, $8.5 million monument to 20 years of growth and faith.

He knew. And Teaff made Baylor people believe. He talked and shouted and whispered, until by the sheer force of his conviction, he made the faithful believe again. "They needed," Teaff said, "to feel proud." Whether the Bears won or lost, Baylor fans never again felt like the doormats in a league of schools and teams constantly looking into the neighbor's yard. Teaff told them they were as good, as worthy, then built proof for those who needed it. When the SWC filled the NCAA's crime blotters, Baylor fans pointed to Teaff and a spotless football program. When the state schools in College Station and Fayetteville began collecting trophies, they waited, pointing again to Teaff, and assuming their time will come.

medication now. Tracy is almost healed. Teaff's surgery and rehabilitation were successful.

But last Sept. 14, Baylor sophomore John Karkoska collapsed while running laps around the field. He died eight days later.

"Nothing could have been as much a horror," Donell said.

"I've never had anything hit me or affect me like the loss of John Karkoska," Teaff said. "As I approach this season, it's

"As I approach this season, it's something I still have to deal with. One of my responsibilities is to see to it that the players are conditioned athletes. I just have a real tough time facing this season - the heat of the August days, two-a-days and conditioning - because John had a heat stroke and the result of that heat stroke was death. John's dead.

"It concerns me that the game of football through the years." we teach macho, live with pain, play with pain. I'm constantly haunted by the fact that John could be alive if he'd just told somebody he didn't feel good."

Ask about Grant Teaff - what's he like after a game? - and you get a testimonial.

Ask about his background, his family, his coaching style, and you get praise.

Ask about that temper, the fire that allowed him to grab a heckler by the shirt last fall in College Station, and you get more tributes.

But there have been whispers over the years - stabs that Teaff's careful, if occasionally lonely walk within

"He has gotten more (success) out of Baylor," Sherrill said, "done more for Baylor, then anyone else could have."

So the faithful rejoice at his plan for a third decade. They visit the stadium addition and celebrate a two-decade ride from dungeons to an 11,000-square-foot weight room. From as Teaff put it, "last and nowhere near second-to-last, to on an even field with anyone."

"Even before he won any games, Grant made Baylor people believe again," Cockrell said. "Many people gave up before he got to Baylor. He made them proud again. And what better can football do than that?"

Chris Doleman of the Minnesota Vikings had 21 quarterback sacks in 1989 to lead the NFL.

Thurman Thomas of Buffalo led the NFL in total yards from scrimmage in 1989 with 1,913.

Stark readies for year in Venezuela

By DANEE' WILSON Lifestyles Editor As the summer draws to an end, school-aged children and teen-agers prepare themselves with great anticipation for the year ahead.

Unlike most, who are worried about what teacher they will have or what their are going to wear, Amy Stark, a junior at Hereford High School, is concerned about who she will live with and if she will learn the language well enough to do well in a foreign school.

Stark will leave Wednesday for Venezuela. She is a participant in the Rotary Foreign Exchange program.

"I've always wanted to go to school in foreign country," Stark said. "We looked into sponsors from here and Amarillo. My uncle, Larry Malamen, suggested the Rotary Club and we checked into it and decided it was the best way to go."

The process of getting accepted was not an easy one for Stark.

"I had to fill out forms with questions that required really deep thinking. In November, I went for personal interviews. I was asked some of the hardest questions of my life. They also interviewed my mother."

After the grueling interview process, the mind-raking questions finally paid off in January when Stark received her acceptance letter.

"I went to orientation in March and met a lot of people from other countries," Stark said. "I met the son of the family I'll be living with. He won't be there when I am because he is an exchange to the U.S."

Stark will be living at Ciudad Ojeda, Venezuela that has an average temperature of 88 degrees. The city has around 100,000 people and sits near an oil-rich lake.

Stark doesn't know much about the school she will be attending, except she will be required to wear a uniform of jeans and a brown t-shirt.

"I don't know what kind of classes I'll be taking," she said. "I know that the classes have to be comparable to the ones I would take here in order to. get credit.

"The school day is from 7:50 a.m. until 12:45 p.m. I hope to get a Spanish tutor for the afternoon.

"Going to a new school is going to be challenging. I'm excited. I know everyone will help out. Being in Rotary Club will help. I'll go to meetings and get use to everything. School doesn't start there until October so I'll have a month to get over culture shock."

Although she has read many books on the area, she isn't sure what to expect.

"I try not to think about how it is because I don't want to be disappointed or have too low expectations. can't tell about the cultural differences yet. The only thing I know is they are more open minded. A picture of a naked women is an art form to them.

"As far as the teens being different, I think they are about the same. When it comes down to it, teens are teens."

Stark is excited to be able to live by a lake.

"I love the water," she said. "It will be nice being so close to the Caribbean.'

The family she will be living with is older than her own and she said it will take time to get used to that.

"The family has three boys and only one lives at home. The city seems up-to-date. I'm getting excited. I'm driving all my friends crazy because that is all I can talk about." Stark admits the holidays will be difficult because of the slow mail systems.

"I'll be upset if I don't hear from anyone until after Christmas or my birthday.

Although it may be difficult at times, living far away, Stark is looking forward to the educational experience.

AMY STARK...prepares for the exchange

"I hope to learn other languages and gain a lot of friends. I want to meet new people and see new things. I know I am very fortunate because most kids don't have a chance that I have.

"It will be a challenge for me. I'll be representing the whole United States, not just Texas or Hereford. I have to set a good example. I'm probably the only American teen-ager they will have to go by."

Amy said she would be more scared if she were getting married or something of that nature, but admits she sometimes has to pinch herself just to make sure she isn't dreaming.

Stark has lived in Hereford for six years and will be returning to Hereford sometime next summer.

First Baptist Church plans church social

Nutrition of medical research often is designed to show the incidence, distribution and control of disease in a population; or the sum of all the Guidelines for Americans that factors controlling the presence or absence of a disease. However, "Epidemiological" research results often can be misleading if misinterpre-ted to prove cause and effect instead of showing relationships.

One such epidemiological study, published December 13, 1990 in the New England Journal of Medicine, claims that women who eat red meat at least once a day have twice the chance of contracting colon cancer as those who only consume it once a month or less.

the report recommended to stop eating lean meat entirely. This interpretation is wrong. When meat is eliminated from the diet, many important nutrients are lost.

People who think they can substitute meat with a spinach salad for their iron needs are mislead. The iron available in the vegetable source is not nearly as well utilized as meat. Many nutritionists found this dictary recommendation to refute those determined by the USDA and the Department of Health and Human Services. The recently revised Dietary recommend including lean meat, fish and poultry in a balanced diet is strongly supported. Another inaccuracy in the epidemiological findings was the use of outdated food composition tables. The nutritive value of lean meats such as pork and beef were taken from data collected as old as 1976. Animals at that time had more fat reported in relation to muscle. Today's animals are raised through improved management practiced to have more muscle in relation to fat or for leanness.

One of the latest USDA studies on The consumer press indicated that pork and beef revealed that today's pork is 31 percent leaner and today's beef is 27 percent leaner than the produce referred to in the Harvard report.

The survey of nurses' cating patterns used in the report was recorded in 1980, but this data was not analyzed statistically until years later. Conclusions are not supported by the study's findings. The study statistics reveal variable results. For example, female nurses who said they ate fish or chicken once a week had a higher incidence of colon cancer than those who ate red meat once a week. The difference between colon cancer incidence in women who ate chicken and fish and women who ate red meat are so minimal they could easily be accounted for statistically by random variation.

The guidelines from all health organizations as well as USDA supported by the Recommended Dictary Allowance still support inclusion of lean meat, lean poultry and fish prepared by methods that do not add excess fat such as deep fat frying. These meat choices should be eaten for moderation and variety.

CENTRAL CITY, Ky. (AP) -When this small town's civic leaders decided to honor the Everly Brothers three years ago they had no idea they were laying the groundwork for an annual music festival.

All they wanted to do back in 1988, Mayor Hugh Sweatt Jr. said, was thank native sons Don and Phil Everly for helping the Police Department buy new radios.

"We were just hoping they'd be kind enough to bring their guitars," Sweatt said. "We were going to see if we could clear Lester's used car lot, tell people to bring their lawn chairs and put Don and Phil up on the roof of the old city fire building as their stage."

But the brothers responded with a full-scale concert at which they and folksinger John Prine performed for 6,000 people.

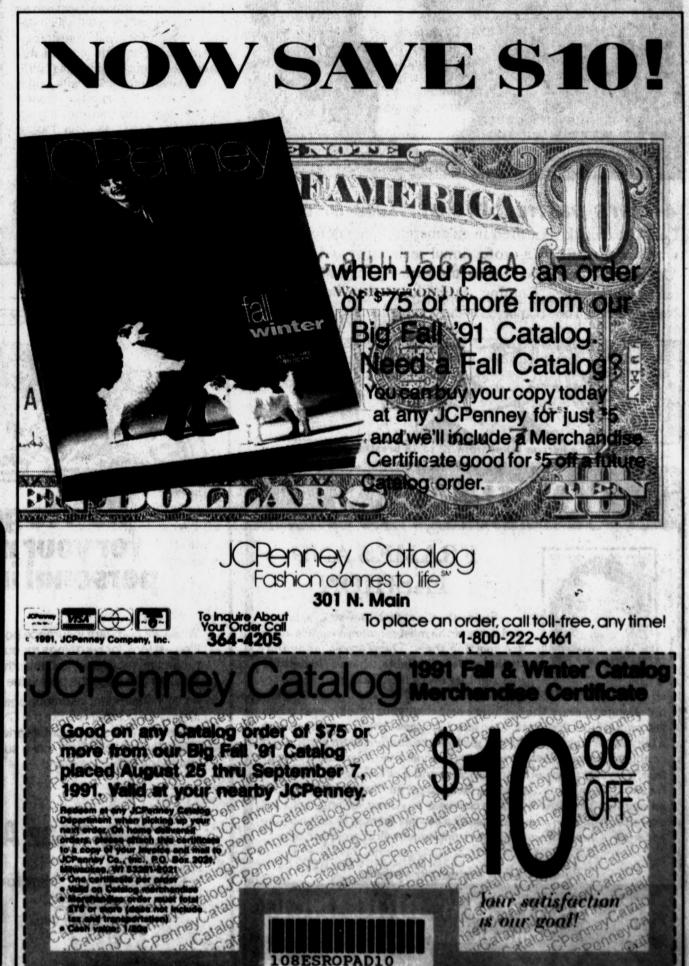

The show has since mushroomed into the annual Everly Brothers

The biggest problem we had was finding a place for Molly to have her litter. My son had the greatest idea. He ran out to the yard, emptied his small plastic distance, I put one piece in the drawer, pool and dragged it inside. I couldn't believe that my young son thought of using that for Molly.

It was perfect! We put newspapers on one side and a nice soft blanket on the other and it was easy to wash out. It was large enough for the pups to crawl around and play and also big enough at

FRAMES AND FASHION

Suddenly, it's stylish to wear eyeglasses, and some of the most glamorous movie stars are sporting them. There are so many flattering styles available, there's something just right for every face. Take the time to try on lots of different frames. What to look for? Choose frames that are big enough to cover the eyebrows and clear your cheeks, even when you smile. How does your nose look? Frames should not exaggerate a big nose or a small one. Dark glasses are ill-advised for work; clear or slightly tinted lenses are better. Frames should be scaled to your face, no wider than your temples. A round face looks good with wide frames that angle up. An oblong face can get an illusion of width with an angular frame. An oval face can wear anything, as long as it's not oversize. And a square face needs upswept frames to balance the wide jaw. Choose frame color to complement skin and hair color.

Kim says the Sassoon stylists are using these techniques to create soft volume:

- Blow dry until hair is almost dry. Then lift small sections away from the head and use hairspray inside the cut. Finish blow drying, then spray all over in a circular motion, taking care not to focus spray in one place. - While diffusing textured or curly

The weaverbird, a relative of the sparrow, lives in large nest colonies—with as many as seventy birds populating a single tree.

is the true story of serial murder, black magic, and drug-running on the U.S. border.

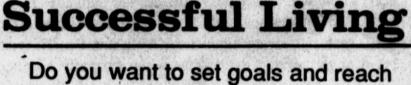

The investigation began with the discovery of a mutilated body at an isolated Mexican ranch. The body was identified as Mark Kilroy, one of thousands of U.S. college students spending spring break in the border town of Matamoros, Mexico, "where the beers were cheap and the drinking age negotiable.

"Mark had been missing for a month when the body was discovered and the resulting manhunt unearthed 24 victims and a cult of "true believers" The cult members were convinced that human sacrifices made them invincible. Adolfo de Jesus Constanzo, a Miami-born ex-altar boy was identified as the charismatic cult leader.

Adolfo's twisted mind hungered for money, power and blood enslaved a circle of adoring followers. "Bring me someone I can use," Adolfo commanded, "someone who will scream." Seemingly ordinary men and women would kill again and again for their priest.

TIPS ON – HOW TO WRITE A CLASSIFIED AD THAT SELLS

REFRIGERATOR/FREEZER, General Electric, 19 cu. fs., three years old, gold, automatic ice maker, automatic defrost, like-new condition. $400 or best offer! Moving, must sell immediately. Call Saturday between SAM and 9FM. 000-0000

1. Use a KEYWORD. This immediately tells the reader exactly what it is you have to sell.

2. Make your description CLEAR and FACTUAL. State the year, make, model, color, size, and tell what condition the item is. Also state the special features.

5. State the PRICE. Successful Classified advertisers have learned that the price in an ad helps increase the chances for results.

313 N. Lee

4. If there's a genuine sense of URGENCY, say so. The words, "We're Moving" or "Must Sell Fast" suggests that readers respond immediately.

8. Include your PHONE NUMBER. Classifieds get results fast and often generate immediate sales. If you cannot be available to answer the phone at all times, be sure to specify special calling times such as "after 6 PM" or "Before 11 AM".

If you need assistance ask one of our friendly AD-VISORS to help you word your ad.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS Don Taylor

The Three R's Of Advertising

"Doing business without advertising is like winking at a girl in the dark. You know what you are doing, but nobody else does."--Steuart A. Britt agree wholeheartedly with Mr. Britt and would take L his analogy a few steps farther. Some businesses wink with their backs turned - they don't aim the message toward the customer. Some businesses wink when the customer is looking the other way - their timing is off. Some businesses wink and get a favorable response but don't know what to do next - they didn't plan ahead.

All businesses, large or small, home-based or at the mall, cash rich or up against the wall, can benefit from good advertising. Advertising, when properly targeted and timed, is a good investment in future business.

Many small business owners confuse advertising awareness with advertising expertise. They see a style they like and try to use the same technique to promote their business. Frequently, this method is not effective. The Three R's

You can increase the effectiveness of your ads by understanding the three R's of effective advertising. The three R's stand for getting the Right message to the Right audience at the Right time. However, it's not as simple as it sounds.

Let's begin the second R, the right audience. The first question to ask is "Who do you want to reach with your ads?" Your advertising should target your most likely customers. The more you can define your customers, the easier it is to execute the other two R's.

Recently, I asked participants in an advertising workshop to rate potential customers for a business. The business we were discussing was an upscale ladies dress shop. I asked if a 60-year-old confirmed bachelor with no female friends or relatives would be a likely customer for the store. Most shook their heads negatively or murmured no. Then, one bright person in the back said, "It all depends on how he likes to dress at home." It was good for a laugh and helped drive home the point. Not everyone is a good target.

You can target potential customers by sex, age, income level, lifestyle, ethnic origin, type of business or geographic location. Once you can identify your most likely customers, move on to creating the right message. The Right Message

Recently, we studied more than 350 ads in 14 local, regional and national newspapers. Thirty-six percent of the advertisements touted big savings, huge sales and tremendous discounts. To me, these ads infer that the merchants' prices are too high, so they are cutting prices to see if I'll buy at a lower price. Is that what you want to sell your customer?

The right message to the right audience, you may still fail if the timing is off. Let's assume you sell Daygo snow tires (Daygo in snow, Daygo in slush and Daygo lots and lots of miles). If you buy a full-page newspaper ad in July, you may waste much of the message. By the time snow flies, your value, quality, store name and location may be forgotten.

The right time is when your customers have a need. It may also be when they have the money. Many small businesses have increased their advertising success by timing their ads to coincide with local paydays.

TWO STORY PLAN BOASTS EXTRA ROOM OVER GARAGE

O BY W.D. FARMER, A.I.B.D.

A towering two story foyer will be the first view your guests will have. The foyer is shown with an open L shape stair and a balcony above in full view. Second story access is from the family room and the foyer and basement access is below the foyer stair.

A formal living room and dining room are isolated to one side and run full depth of the plan. The important breakfast room will accommodate a large family.

Great atmosphere is reflected by the flow of the dining room, pleasing kitchen, large breakfast room, family room and sun deck. The full breadth of the rear of the first floor plan yields to perfect compatibility and presents the best arrangement for the family and/or guests.

A guest room is shown for the first floor along with a full tub bath to accommodate that room or daytime use. In addition, the second floor is drawn to include three bedrooms, a bonus room and two full baths, one private to the master bedroom. Note the vaulted ceiling shown for the master bedroom.

The traditional exterior style is enriched by brick veneer construction with corner quoins, richly adorned window treatment and a combined hip and gable roof design.

The plan is Number 3407. It is a computer generated plan. It includes a total of 3,499 square feet of heated space. All W. D. Farmer plans are drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements and include special construction details for energy efficiency. For further information write W. D. Farmer, P. O. Cheerleader's mom says she never wanted deaths initially thought Terry Harper was kidding about hiring a hitman to kill the mother of her daughter's cheerleading rival. But after he persisted in several more conversations, Mrs. Holloway said she believed Harper just wanted to bilk her out of some money.

"I have never wanted Verna or be given a life sentence.

Mrs. Holloway said she ran into Terry Harper, the state's star witness, at a convenience store last fall. She had been divorced from Harper's brother, Tony, since 1980 and rarely saw Terry Harper.

In conversation about her children, she told how Shanna had been disqualified from cheerleader competitions the previous spring for distributing rulers and pencils with her name on them in an effort to attract student support.

Mrs. Holloway told Harper she blamed Mrs. Heath for meddling with school authorities to get Shanna disqualified and she was angry with Amber Heath for laughing at her daughter.

"During all this cheerleading, I felt Verna was manipulating the school system to her advantage," Mrs. Holloway said.

But she said she took the blame for the ruler idea.

"I felt like I had caused my daughter to be disqualified. It was a bad judgment call," she said tearfully. Mrs. Holloway said Harper seemed to have sympathy for his niece's predicament. He acted angry," she said, adding he told her he knew people

"I didn't think he was serious," she said. But "I was a little curious" about what he had to say.

Harper told jurors earlier in the week he contacted his brother and authorities about the plot, saying Mrs. Holloway was considering a deal and offering to tape record his conversa-

But Mrs. Holloway said when she realized Harper meant business, she called him and asked him to call it off.

"I had no intentions of having anybody killed," she said.

But she said Harper threatened her, saying it was already too late because "I was afraid ... I didn't know what he was going to do," she said. She said she and her husband are worth more than $2 million and frequently keep $5,000 to $7,000 in about her mother's death or disap- cash in the house. But when Harper suggested diamond earrings instead If convicted, Mrs. Holloway could of cash to pay the hitman, she became suspicious.

"I thought then that Terry was just trying to rip me off for some money," she said, adding that she eventually gave him the earrings to get rid of him.

Throughout her testimony, Mrs. Holloway seemed calm, but said she was very nervous. She spoke quickly, at times her voice broke as she fought back tears and other times she cried openly.

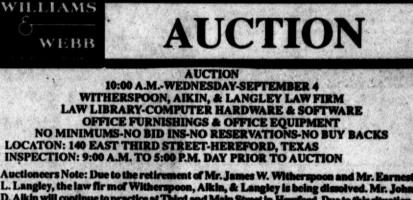

Marla Harper, Terry's estranged wife, testified Wednesday that her husband and his brother, Tony Harper, framed Mrs. Holloway in an attempt for Tony Harper to gain custody of the children.

Since Mrs. Holloway's Jan. 30 arrest. Tony Harper has been awarded joint custody of Shanna and her brother, Anthony Shane Harper. Marla Harper said Terry, who has been married seven times and had 15 jobs in the past three years, had been written out of the family will and hoped helping Tony would get him back into the family's good graces. In addition, she said her husband hoped to become rich and famous in retelling the tale.

Young people today often face though decision about sex and drugs. Unfortunately, you will not be there when your child faces theses choices. Talking to them now about AIDS prevention can help them resist the peer pressure an make informed choices to protect their health now and for the rest of their lives.

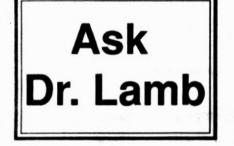

The following suggestions, complied by the surgeon general, help parents initiate a conversation about AIDS and how to keep the conversation going.

Before you begin, it is important to ask yourself some questions: Is it possible even remotely, that your child is sexually active? Has you child tried drugs? Does he/she spend time with people who do these things? In addition, consider your family's religious and cultural values. Do you want to convey these in the conversation? How till you get them across?

These are important questions, answering them before you begin will help you to stress the information that is most vital to your child.

The following are communication guidelines.

Look at your own feelings, talking about AIDS and HIV can be difficult and embarrassing. Don't be afraid to

DEAR DR. LAMB: For the past year I have awakened about 3 a.m. with a tingling pain in my right hand. When I dangle my hand over the edge of the bed and let go straight down, the tingling goes away. When I pull it back in bed, the tingling and pain starts again. So I am unable to sleep much after 3 a.m. I am a male, 71 years of age, and did have an operation on my right shoulder about two years ago for a torn rotary cuff.

The doctor here took a blood test and my blood pressure, even an electrocardiogram, and found nothing. He said I had good circulation. I would be most grateful if you could help me with this problem.

DEAR READER: With your history say so, a young person will sense it anyway.

Review the facts. You should understand the basic facts so that you deliver the right information. See your child's perspective. The better you understand the young person's point of view, the more effectively you'll be able to communicate. The world a child grows up in today differs in many ways from the one you grew up in.

No lecturing. A conversation is an exchange of ideas and you may be teach you. Listen carefully and intently when your child speaks to you as you hope he or she will listen to you. Give your full attention and stop talking when your child starts to speak.

Be upbeat and try to show a positive attitude as you lead the discussion. A critical and disapproving tone will turn your child off.

surprised at how much your child can them. If your child questions what you say, try and not get into an argument. Encourage your child to check your information with another source, such as the national AIDS hotline (1-800-342-AIDS).

Learning the skills to make smart decision about education, social life and health is important. You can help your child understand that he/she has the ability to make these key Don't get discouraged. Young decisions. Our children make decisions every day of their lives. For example, the decide the music they listen to, the friends they spend time with and other items that vary family to family. Point out that they also make, or will make, though choices with serious consequences about sex and drugs.

Many young people do not realize that there is a direct relationship between the decisions they make and the consequences that result. Parents are sometimes not consistent in enforcing consequences and our children are understandably confused. You can help them by pointing our that thoughtful decisions can bring direct benefits and save them from harsh consequences, such as HIV infection and AIDs.

Recognize peer pressure because young people's decisions are often strongly influenced by pressure to conform with friends and acquaintances. Talk to them realistically about the difficulties they may have

Tony nominee Charles Dutton stars

By Suzanne Gill So you thought you knew the Fox network. They got your attention with America's Most Wanted and Married... With Children. They broke into the Nielsen top-20 with hits the big three wouldn't have touched, like The Simpsons and In Living Color. They established their appeal to the young and the restless with Get a Life and Beverly Hills 90210. They've fallen on their faces with Good Grief and Women in Prison.

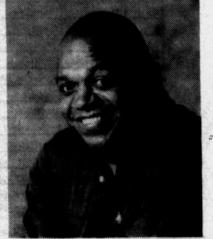

You've thought of Fox as raunchy, outrageous and by all means unsubtle. Now, Fox Entertainment president Peter Chernin hopes you'll use a more charitable term: distinctive.

Distinctive programming, says Chernin, has been a goal at Fox ever since he was hired two-and-a-half years ago. He concedes, however, that the term applies more to the network's ambitions than its accomplishments to date.

In Roc, a new Sunday-night comedy Fox is putting front and center in its new season, the network seems to be taking the high road to attract new viewers. The show is blessed with a cast of veteran stage actors capable of giving Broadway-quality performances each week. After two sneak peeks, the series makes its official debut on Sunday, Sept. 1, on Fox.

Series star Charles Dutton (known to his friends as "Roc" — hence the show's title), a Yale Drama School graduate and a recent Tony nominee for his performance in August Wilson's critically acclaimed play The Piano Lesson, was initially reluctant to work in television.

"The show started with a sort of idea that I didn't want to do, and I resisted," says Dutton, a sweet-faced man in his 40s with the physique of an exlinebacker. His performance in The Piano Lesson reminded some critics of a Jackie Gleason-type character. "We talked about getting a show where I could explore some comic possibilities. I loved comedy, but I was never able to do it as a serious stage actor. I couldn't get arrested in a comedy role." Roc finally began to take shape when Charles Dutton stars as Roc Emerson, a hardworking Baltimore garbage collector in Roc.

Dutton met writer-producer Stan Daniels (The Mary Tyler Moore Show, Taxi). Under the auspices of HBO Original Productions, a new production arm of the premium cable network, Dutton and Daniels conceived a comedy about a working-class couple living under the same roof with his retired father and rolling-stone younger brother. Dutton's character, a sanitation worker who dreams of moving out of a Baltimore row-house into his own home, is modeled on a real-life Baltimore garbage man.

When the rest of the show's cast was announced last spring, it included two of Dutton's Piano Lesson co-stars, Rocky Carroll and Carl Gordon.

New life breathed into NBC's 'Real Life'

By Amy Schmidt She may be America's TVjournalism sweetheart, but how have real ratings treated NBC's Real Life With Jane Pauley?

"Lousy," says Steve Friedman, producer of NBC Nightly News and now Real Life With Jane Pauley. "That's why we're changing it. Most people who saw the show last year thought she was great and the show wasn't."

Real Life makes its season premiere on a new night, Friday, Sept. 6, and the new producer plans to do right by his star. There's no reason not to, given the fact that Pauley holds more audience appeal than just about any other female journalist on TV. "If you just do an acceptable program, she's enough to carry you over the top." Part of the problem has been that Real Life lacks a format. People don't know what they're going to see when they tune in, says Friedman. This year's new model will feature additional journalists building an ensemble news group around Jane, a signature piece by Pauley at each show's end, and tougher issues.

"I think what they did last year was what I would call 'nice pieces," says Friedman. "What they tried to do is only deal with little problems affecting a lot of people. When they talked about real life, it was with real people not in real trouble. There was very little conflict and very little emotion," says Friedman.

As the new television season begins to fire up. Real Life will face opposition from ABC's Family Matters, CBS' Princesses, starring Twiggy Lawson, and America's Most Wanted on Fox. Friedman is also careful to point out that all news and information series take time to find an audience, and that no program, including 60 Minutes, 20/20 and Primetime Live, scored big its first year. "What we're going through, everybody else has already gone through," he says, but no matter what the ratings, don't look for Deborah Norville to sub-host anytime soon. O TV Listing Inc

James Bond (in disguise) fights to save the free world from communism in Octopussy, Sunday on ABC.

Efrem Zimbalist Jr. is no Scooby Do

By Amy Schmidt The Family Channel has promised an outstanding cast will give voice to its new animated adventure series The Legend of Prince Valiant, premiering Tuesday, Sept. 3.

Some actors were specially recruited to do voice-overs for the host of Camelot characters to include King Arthur, Queen Guinevere and Sir Gawain. Others sought out the show's producer David J. Corbett.

"Interestingly enough," says Corbett, "a number of them came to us because they had been wanting to do voiceover-type work in animation and could never find a series because they didn't want to talk like a Smurf. And they didn't want to be a Scooby Doo, and they didn't know how to talk like a robot."

Slated to play the dignified King Arthur is actor Efrem Zimbalist Jr., whom viewers may remember as Stuart Bailey in 77 Sunset Strip (1956-64). Following that series, Zimbalist starred in the police drama The F.B.I. from 1965 to 1974.

Viewer wonders who's who

By Candace Havens Dear Candace: I just started watching the soaps again and I'm really confused. The guy who used to play Cliff on All My Children is now on The Young and the Restless. These soaps also come on at the same time. They didn't used to.

Also, on Santa Barbara, the guy who plays Warren looks just like the guy who played Frisco on General Hospital. I just had a baby and am home from work now. They say you can miss a year on a soap opera and still keep up, but it's not true. It is easy, though, to get hooked again. -Thanks, G.L. in Wisconsin.

Dear G.L.: You are correct. Peter Bergman does play the manipulating Jack Abbot on The Young and the Restless. The role is certainly more challenging for him than wimpy Cliff Warner on All My Children. In fact, Bergman recently won an Emmy for his role as Jack Abbot.

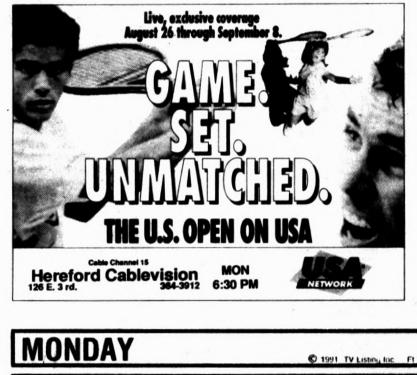

Your eyes are not deceiving you, as far as Jack Wagner (ex-Frisco) is concerned. Wagner recently made the big switch from General Hospital to Santa Barbara.

A few years ago some of the stations changed the time they showed All My Children so that it could directly compete with The Young and the Restless for viewers' attention.

Dear Candace: I'm really upset about Kathleen coming back on Another World. I can't believe she broke up Cass and Frankie. They had worked so hard to build a good relationship, and they are fun to watch together. Kathleen isn't really bad, but I wish they would put her with another man. Thanks for listening; Another World really is my favorite soap. -Cathy J. in Conroe, Texas.

Dear Cathy: Michael Laibs executive producer of Another World, worked really hard to bring Julie Osburn (Kathleen) back to the show. He felt Kathleen and Cass (Stephen Schnetzer) made a dynamic couple. As for Frankie (Alice Barnett), who knows what might happen in her life over the next few weeks?

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, Texas, 76161-1009. O TV Listing Inc

We need your input.

If you enjoy "Entertainment" in your Sunday Brand each week, we need to hear from you. Frankly, because of a lack of advertiser support, we are thinking of discontinuing "Entertainment." However, if we can hear from enough of you, show advertisers that "Entertainment" is widely read, and get more advertisers to participate in this special section, we can at least make this a break-even proposition. That way, we may be able to continue this special supplement to the Sunday Brand. Please, take a moment to let us know how you feel about "Entertainment" and return this form to the Brand, PO Box 673, Hereford 79045, or bring it by the Brand office at 313 N. Lee. Thank you for your time.

September's here and football's back on TV By Steve Paschal

On Sunday, Sept. 1, NBC begins its 27th consecutive season of live NFL coverage when the Seattle Seahawks take on the New Orleans Saints from the Louisiana Superdome. The Seahawks, who suffered through an injury-plagued first-half in 1990, hope to recapture the late-season form that saw them win six of their last eight games and finish tied with Houston and Pittsburgh for an AFC wild-card play-off spot in 1990. The Saints went 7-5 after acquiring quarterback Steve Walsh from the Dallas Cowboys early in the season, and made only their second play-off appearance since oining the league in 1967. But they'll be hard-pressed to repeat the feat in a division that includes the San Francisco 49ers and a rejuvenated Los Angeles Rams team.

CBS kicks off the season with double-header action that begins with four regional games: Dallas at Cleveland, Philadelphia at Green Bay, Atlanta at Kansas City and Tampa Bay at the New York Jets. Then, Phoenix goes against the Rams, while Minnesota and Chicago go head-to-head in the latest chapter of their black-and-blue division rivalry.

ABC saves the best for last when the San Francisco 49ers meet the defending Super Bowl champion New York Giants on the regular-season premiere of Monday Night Football. A Sports Illustrated NFL Preview Special O TV Listing Inc precedes the game.

Time for more MTV Video Music Awards By Dan Rice

It's been ten years since MTV first aired the Buggles' "Video Killed the Radio Star," thus launching their 24-hour music video channel, which has grown from a fresh and innovative medium to a monopolistic dictator of "popular" music. On Thursday, Sept. 5, MTV will broadcast live to the entire world the 1991 MTV Video Music Awards, with finalists for honors in rap, dance, metal and alternative videos, determined by an elite group within the industry. R.E.M. leads the nominees with eight nods for "Losing My Religion," plus a ninth for the new category of Best Long-Form Video.

Arsenio Hall will play host once again, and slated performers include Prince, Paula Abdul, Van Halen, Poison, Mariah Carey, LL Cool J and C&C Music Factory.

Some people will tell you television isn't nearly as entertaining as looking out your window in an urban neighborhood. If emergency sirens sound like a fanfare to you, be thrilled to know that yet another reality-based program is set on a collision course with The Family Channel on Sunday, Sept. 1. Witness to Survival combines actual footage, interviews and those dreaded re-enactments recounting the tales of those who have walked (or crawled) away from tragedy.

Aspiring actor needs luck, talent and hard work

By Taylor Michaels

Q: Could you tell me about movie auditions out here in Tennessee? I am really interested in going into acting. —Dana Claborn, Talbott, Tenn.

A: Unless there is a movie being shot in your area, I would have to say your chances of getting into acting are slim. I don't know your acting background (college plays, community theater, professional productions), but I hope you already know it's a difficult profession. Kevin Costner worked for years before The Untouchables brought him stardom. John Wayne was virtually unknown until Stagecoach.

Acting opportunities are scarce in Tennessee, unless you go to Nashville. The best places to look are New York and Los Angeles. I would suggest you decide what area you want to go into, get as much information about it as possible, make some contacts and save some money. I know this sounds like a lot of hard work, and it is. I'm sorry I couldn't tell you about Tennessee movie auditions. Good luck!

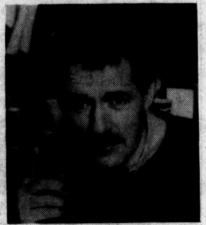

Q: Jeopardy! is my all-time favorite game show. I would appreciate your supplying me with an address so I could write them. I have an idea for making the program even more enjoyable and would also like to suggest a new category. I read your interesting column every week. —Volita Riddle, Prescott, Ariz.

A: The address for Jeopardy! is 1040 North Las Palmas, Hollywood, Calif., 90038. The show is indeed popular. ... It consistently ranks among the top five syndicated shows.

Q: I don't know if you can answer this, but could you give me Larry Bird's address? — Manny Sanborn, Newport, N.H.

A: Write to Bird c/o Boston Celtics, 150 Causeway Street, Boston, Mass., 02114.

Q: My boyfriend and I have an ongoing dispute about the Happy Days cartoon, which aired on Saturday mornings several years ago. In this cartoon, Fonzie had a dog named Mr. Cool. I say he was black and brown and my boyfriend says he was black and white. We have a major wager on this.

Alex Trebek

... Who is correct? This dispute is driving me crazy? —Tanya Patrick, Bozeman, Mont.

A: I'm sorry, I really tried to get this one. I called all over, and the only thing I got was the title of the cartoon. It was called Fonz and the Happy Days Gang. No one could tell me what color the dog was. No one could find a picture. I thought it was black and white, but someone else thought it was black and brown. Another person thought it was blue. We even had one vote for white! So, I'd suggest you call this bet off.

So, 1 d suggest you can this bet on. Q: I wrote you two months ago requesting an address for Roger Daltrey after his appearance on Midnight Caller. It's obvious you have chosen not to respond. Therefore, do you suppose you could tell me who can give me this information? —Dianne Weist, Gilmer, Texas.

A: I have been through all the letters I have received since I began doing this column. There wasn't one from you. We get a lot of mail in every day, and I make a serious effort to answer all of the letters. You can write to Daltrey c/o Marion Rosenberg, 8428 Melrose Place, Suite C, Los Angeles, Calif., 90067.

Q: What has become of Stepfanie Kramer? I think she's the most beautiful actress on television. —Henry Pollander, Pocatello, Idaho.

A: As you probably know, Kramer left Hunter a couple of seasons ago. There is no chance of her returning to that series, because it has been canceled. Since Hunter, Kramer has done a couple of TV movies and is currently filming the big-screen feature Twin Sisters.

By Sherry Jones PBS is dedicating the first week of September to a critical look at education in America. Related programming begins Sunday, Sept. 1, with an encore airing of Stand and Deliver, the 1987 film starring Edward James Olmos as a barrio-school math teacher in East Los Angeles who turns his students into winners. Lou Diamond Phillips co-stars in the fact-based American Playhouse presentation.

On Tuesday, Sept. 3, PBS answers the question: Who Will Teach for America?, chronicling the experiences of the first Teach for America recruits as they enter classrooms in inner-city and rural-school districts.

Wednesday, Sept. 4, offers Math Who Needs It ?! with Bill Cosby, Teri Garr and Paul Rodriguez explaining everyday uses for math. The entertaining hour is aimed at both students and parents. The following hour, Learning in America: Schools That Work, focuses on nontraditional approaches to education.

The decisions that teachers, principals, administrators and government officials grapple with every day are brought under scrutiny in a Fred Friendly special, America's Schools: Who Gives a Damn?, a panel discussion airing Thursday, Sept. 5. Back-to-School week concludes on Friday, Sept. 6, as Michael Kinsley moderates Firing Line Debate, asking if freedom of thought is in danger on American campuses. 4) TV Listing Inc.

Rap-sensation M.C. Hammer is readying his own Saturday morning series, Hammerman, for debut Sept. 7 on ABC. When asked what cartoons he watched as a kid, the Hammer said he spent his time with The Flintstones, The Jetsons, SpiderMan and Superman.

Singer Fontella Bass will record a new version of her 1965 chart-topper "Rescue Me" for the upcoming film of the same name. The movie stars Stephen Dorff as a bookish teenager who witnesses the kidnapping of a beautiful girl (Ami Dolenz). Dorff enlists the aid of a biker (Michael Dudikoff) to rescue the girl from her abductors, played by Peter DeLuise and William Lucking.

Emmy-nominee Veronica Hamel (Hill Street Blues) and Susan Ruttan (L.A. Law) recently completed filming of Deadly Medicine, a dramatic thriller based on a true story. Hamel plays a successful, happily married pedia-trician whose life begins to crumble when an infant in her care mysteriously dies. Her worst fears are realized when she begins to suspect her faithful nurse (Ruttan) of being the killer. No airdate has been set for the NBC-made telefilm.

Viewers for Quality Television (VQT) has given CBS another boost. The organization recently voted the network six awards for the 1990-1991 season. Murphy Brown received three: best quality comedy, best actress (Candice Bergen) and the best comedy writing award; Burt Reynolds and Michael Jeter of Evening Shade were named best actor and supporting actor, respectively; Alice Ghostley of Designing Women was named best specialty player. In the past, VQT has helped save shows such as Designing Women from imminent cancellation. The Questor Tapes ++ An android uses his computerized brain to locate his missing creator. Starring Bryan Brown and George Takei.

This exceptionally fine Australian film is in limited release and may not be available to smaller markets until it is released for video. Nonethe-less, make a note to see Prisoners Of The Sun, a multilayered story based on the war crimes trials held after World War II in Ambon, a Pacific island several hundred miles north of Australia. Ambon was the site of the Tan Tai POW camp where the Japanese held more than 1,100 Australian soldiers. At the end of the war, only 300 POWs were left alive.

Bryan Brown portrays Captain Cooper, an Australian officer assigned to prosecute the Japanese military men accused of the crimes at Tan Tai. The presiding officer of

SEPTEMBER

PRISONERS OF THE SUN: the camp was Oxford-educated, aristocratic Vice Admiral Baron Takashi played by George Takei (Star Trek's Mr. Sulu).

Through the trial, it is revealed that Takashi and his officers authorized brutal treatment of the soldiers. However, in order to find the parties who gave the actual orders for the crimes, Captain Cooper must break through the strangling red tape supplies by the Americans determined to keep the peace and install a democratic government in Tokyo.

The film does not oblige the audience with easy answers or poetic justice. It does fill the screen with truth, raw emotions and solid performances by an ensemble cast. The cinematography is so tightly drawn that you feel pulled to the very center of the events and, even at the most horrifying moments, you are unable to look away. Rated R for extreme violence.

LONESOME DOVE: (1989) Starring Robert Duvall and Tommy Lee Jones. A made-for-television mini-series in four cassettes with a viewing time of six and a half hours.

Robert Duvall is Augustus McRae, a "wore-out ole Ranger" who, with Captain Woodrow F. Call (Tommy Lee Jones), drives a herd of cattle and a "mess of scratching, squawling cowpokes: from the Rio Grande clear to Montana.

Larry McMurtry's best-selling novel unfolds in Dickensian layers of straight shooting and dirty dealing, full of separated lovers. lost children, grimy brawls and dusty death. Mainly, though, there's Robert Duvall, who makes a simple, sentimental cowboy seem complex and heroic. Duvall's portrait of McRae is, however, always human and altogether enjoyable.

The overall acting of the company is superior to most TV mini-series and the photography of western America is lovely. It is not rated but would be a PG-13 at most.

KING RALPH: (1991) Starring John Goodman and Peter O'Toole. When the entire royal family is electrocuted, the British dig well down in the line of succession to crown a pizza-gulping lounge singer from Las Vegas (John Goodman) as King. Can Ralph adjust to kingly ways? Well, does he want to adjust? (The plot does not get much deeper.)

As Ralph's royal secretary and teacher (perhaps handler would be a better term), Peter O'Toole makes an elegant, acerbic advisor.

DSGH Serves Community Many Ways

he challenges facing rural hospitals are many: costs are up, payments are down, and the economy is struggling, but Deaf Smith General Hospital is aggressively responding to these demands. Recent moves to consolidate services and staff will help DSGH continue to offer acute-care services, and give a more stable foundation for growth.

The reality, however, is that DSGH, like every other small, rural hospital, must have stronger community support and confidence. That it deserves this support is evident on more than one level.

The convenience and cost-savings of quality local hospital care is very important to many residents. They can be treated and recuperate with family and friends close by for comfort. Babies can be born in the city in which they will grow up, and doctors can administer to their patients quickly and efficiently.

Beyond the immediate medical benefits, the hospital contributes to the city in other ways. One is in its everyday economic impact. DSGH's annual operating expenses are $6,004,340 with a gross annual payroll of $2,460,000. The hospital employs local nurses, techs, dietary aides, and maintenance personnel.

National Chamber of Commerce figures indicate that money initially spent in an area turns over seven times. The wage-earner buys groceries, clothing, and gas, a home, a car, and insurance. That wage-earner helps create jobs for other people.

Another benefit the local hospital provides is its contribution to possible community growth. Businesses will more readily consider an area for expansion if there is a local hospital.

One small community in Oklahoma recently discovered just how real an impact its local hospital had on the economy. Cordell Memorial Hospital was one of the 345 hospitals forced to close in the past five years because of declining patient census. Residents chose to go to other area hospitals, and financial losses escalated. After the closing, however, a business which had planned to build in Cordell postponed its move.

To entice the business back, city voters approved an additional sales tax to subsidize the hospital. It reopened a few months later, one of only 16 acute-care hospitals that have closed and reopened since 1986. The business, The Nottowa Gardens chicken plant, opened five months later with 110 employees. The hospital is now used more because residents understand just how important it is to the community; the patient census is up, and so is income.

Deaf Smith residents currently pay $.132 per $100 to support the Hospital. That rate must change in order to maintain necessary services. The tax rate in Dimmitt is $.35 per $100. Amarillo residents pay $.235 per $100 to support Northwest Texas Hospital. The Dallam and n old axiom says that the preacher and the doctor A are always the last ones paid, but in modern times, a third can be added: the local hospital. DSGH shares a problem with hospitals across the country, that of providing health care in a compassionate, caring atmosphere while collecting enough money to keep the hospital fiscally healthy.

DSHG recently formulated a new, aggressive policy to collect debts from those who can pay, but don't. The philosophy is that taxpavers shouldn't have to foot the bill for people who just don't want to pay. Since Texas has no laws about garnishment of paychecks, hospitals have very little recourse in collecting bad debts.

One area which DSGH can control is elective surgeries and services. The hospital requests payment before the service is performed. The patient may negotiate a flat fee, or choose an estimate based on about $1200 for same-day surgery. If the patient can't pay or won't make a deposit, elective services will not be performed.

Some residents have complained about this policy, but the hospital's position is that if the service is elective, the patient can wait until arrangements for payment can be made.

For all other procedures, such as a general hospital admission or an admission through the emergency room, a deposit and payment schedule are established at the time of admitting, usually with the patient or spouse. This schedule of monthly payments is often discussed again at the time of discharge.

If a patient has insurance, DSGH requires proof of insurance at the time of admitting. Many insurance companies, in an attempt to cut costs and prevent misuse of insurance, now require that hospitals call to certify any non-emergency admission. DSGH certifies all insurance admissions.

"The problem for all hospitals is that no one really wants to pay for hospital care," Gary Moore, hospital administrator, said. "It's not fun, like buying a new boat or a new car. Many people just seem to resent it when they have to pay. If they don't have insurance, the $1500 or $3000 or even $10,000 on a hospital bill does become a problem.'

Uncollectable accounts cannot be attributed to any one group of residents. Many former patients make small payments — $5, $10, or $15 a month — but they pay on a regular basis. A number of the bad debts are from people who make $50,000 to $100,000 a year and are either over-extended, or just refuse to pay their hospital bills.

Another factor creating uncollectable debts is contractual adjustments (agreed-upon prices) for Blue Cross, Medicare, Medicaid, and Workmen's Comp:

DSGH Serves Community In Many Ways

Hartley Counties Medical District is currently considering a new tax rate of $.25 per $100.

In the next year, the tax rate in Deaf Smith County will increase to $.22 per $100, a rate that compares very favorably with comparable institutions. But an increased tax rate will be effective only if the community provides the hospital with consistent, positive support.

A shift in the way we use medical services has contributed to the continuing loss of income to all hospitals. The average length of stay in 1987 was 7 days; in 1991, it is 3.45 days. The paradox of declining income is that the population is aging, and should need more medical services. This is particularly true in Hereford. The median age is in Deaf Smith County is 40.5. A little over 25% of the population is over 45. And Medicare repayment continues to be significantly lower for rural hospitals than urban.

Rising medical costs leave most of us looking for ways to save money, i.e., fewer hospital days and more outpatient services. Another way to save is to take advantage of local hospital care-to support these services and work with the hospital to increase capabilities.

DSGH continually reviews services to the community, looking for new ways to increase revenues and ensure continuing service. Our contribution to the community is irreplaceable. We are working to build more public awareness of our services and quality, and to match services to what the community needs and wants. But the community must respond for our efforts to be successful.

UPDATE: On Community Health News

By Robert Clark, M.D., General Surgeon

he newest statistics are startling: one in nine women will develop breast cancer. Even more startling, and tragic, is that 38,000 will die each year, many of them needlessly. Perhaps we have heard so much about mammographies that we ignore the obvious; that is why it bears repeating: MAMMOGRAPHIES CAN SAVE LIVES.

For two years, Deaf Smith General Hospital has offered the quick, simple test to the community. Current mammography procedures are very simple. The test takes only 15 minutes and the X-Ray dosage is less than that used to X-Ray a finger. Our equipment is dedicated solely to breast imaging. The mammography facility, equipment, and techs are approved by the College of Radiology for Mammography.

With all of the attention that the danger of breast cancer has received in the past decade, the most recent studies indicate that women who most need to be checked for breast cancer are not getting mammograms; this might explain why the death rate from breast cancer has not declined in the past 30 years.

New procedures have resulted in more effective diagnoses and treatments, but many of these depend upon early diagnosis. A mammography can reveal the early stages of breast cancer, which can exist for some time without noticeable symptoms.

The earlier the disease is caught, the less chance there is that radical surgery will be necessary. Many women are simply frightened of what will happen if they do have breast cancer. We must continually emphasize what we have already said: " EARLY DIAGNOSIS OF BREAST CANCER, THE TYPE OF DIAGNOSIS THAT CAN BE MADE ONLY THROUGH MAMMOGRAPHY, HELPS ELIMINATE THE NEED FOR RADICAL SURGERY."

The National Cancer Institute suggests that women have a baseline mammogram between the ages of 30 and 35 one every two years between 40 and 50, and one every year after 50.

At DSGH, we offer mammography testing Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. A doctor's referral is not necessary, but the name of an attending physician is requested in case any abnormalities are discovered. Please take the time to make an appointment, or encourage someone you love to come in for this simple, lifesaving test.

ome of our younger readers may think that attention to smoking-related problems is a new phenomenon. Not at all. In fact, from the time Sir Walter Raleigh first introduced tobacco from the New World to the courts of the Old, the "villainous weed" has had both its proponents and detractors.

In this century, smoking gradually became equated with a sophisticated, modern lifestyle. Glamorous movie stars smoked: doctors were pictured in testimonial ads, affirming that "...scientific tests prove"

But in 1964, the Advisory Committee to the Surgeon General of the U.S. Public Health Service stated, "Cigarette smoking is a health hazard of sufficient importance in the United States to warrant appropriate remediation."

Smoking has since been linked to various cancers, emphysema, and low birth weights, among other medical problems. But, true to human nature, we don't always do what's good for us, and people continue smoking.

And just as a century ago, they can find numerous sure-cures, although we've seen none that claim to bring "new blissful life" to the consumer. If you're trying to break the habit, Focus suggests you talk with your doctor. Get all the facts, and develop a plan that's suited to you. After all, it's just a habit, right?

Adult Respite Care Begins August 1 n a continuing effort to match hospital services to community needs, DSGH is developing an adult respite care service. Director of Nursing Renee Hammock is setting up the program.

Respite care is for those adults who need medical attention, and must have around-the-clock care. Charges will range from $75 to $180 a day, depending on the level of care necessary.

"Those who are responsible for the home health care of invalids, or for elderly family members who may need some medical attention, have difficulty finding proper help when they must be away from home," Hammock said.

"This type of responsibility is a heavy one, and we certainly recognize the need for such caregivers to take a vacation, or simply get away for awhile.

"By offering respite care at the hospital, we can help set the caregiver's mind at rest. Families know that their loved ones will be cared for in proper facilities, by skilled professionals, with necessary provision for emergencies."

Gary Moore, hospital administrator, added, "We encourage community residents to let us know how the Hospital can best serve them. Respite care is just one of the programs which we are developing to expand services and increase revenues."

For more information, call Renee Hammock at 364-2141.

Improved Collection Procedures

agreements to settle their bills for less money. All hospitals are subject to these agreements, and allow for a certain amount that cannot be collected.

A new computer system enables the billing department to be more efficient in following delinquent accounts, based on the following protocol, which is a standard procedure for collections:

• If payment is not received per the previously arranged schedule, a letter is sent demanding payment in full.

• A second letter is sent 30 days after, notifying the patient that the total amount is now due and payable in full, or the matter will go to a collection agency.

• A third letter follows, 15 days later, stating that the account has been scheduled to be sent to a collection agency.

• Fifteen days later, the patient is notified that immediate payment is required; if payment is not made, the bill is sent to the collection agency.

Accounts that have become delinquent may run anywhere from 90 to 120 days before they are turned over to a collection agency, giving the patient ample opportunity to pay. The hospital will avoid a collection agency if possible, because the agency may take as much as 30 to 50% of the amount collected.

Phillis Morrison, controller and supervisor of the admitting department at Deaf Smith General Hospital, developed and implemented the current collections plan. The quality of her work is evident both in increased revenues (76% of gross revenues, compared with 66.5% in 1985-86) and in the recent offer from the Mercy Regional Medical Center in Laredo to become Business Director.

Her loss at the hospital will surely be felt, but the opportunity to move to a 388-bed facility, supervising ten middle managers and developing job descriptions, policies and procedures, and training programs for the managers, was too great to pass up.

"When you do good work, others notice," Moore said. "Phillis has done an outstanding job here, developing new procedures to speed collections. Phillis is a life-long resident of Hereford, and leaving the area will be difficult for her. But this is a wonderful opportunity, and we wish her well."

DSGH has added another position which strengthens collections in a far different way. Richard Sierra is a full-time social worker, employed by the Texas Department of Human Resources, but working at DSGH five days a week, eight hours a day, to help people qualify for some kind of aid, whether Medicaid or insurance. DSGH will reimburse the state for half of Sierra's salary, but expects increased revenues to exceed that cost.

1.il

Moore concluded, "A hospital is like any other business. We must get paid a fair amount for the services we render, or we won't stay around long. Some people think that because they pay their taxes, they aren't obligated to pay real costs of hospitalization. Unfortunately, taxes pay only a part of the cost of running a hospital. The rest has to come from the patients.

"Keeping the balance between serving the public and maintaining a sound business is a consistent challenge, and we're continually seeking better ways to do both."
