Feds May Suggest Amnesty for Illegal Aliens

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A national commission charged with revising U.S. immigration law reportedly is moving toward support of a plan to grant amnesty for illegal aliens, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

Nearly all 16 members of the Select Commission on Immigration and Refugee Policy appear to favor an amnesty plan that probably would be quite generous in its terms, the newspaper said.

Eight congressional leaders, four Cabinet members and four public commission is to produce a major proposal to revamp American immigration law by Jan. 1, 1981.

Commission sources were reluctant to discuss specific terms of any amnesty proposal with the newspaper, saying past public disclosures have increased the tide of illegal aliens crossing the

"We don't want to start a stampede," the newspaper quoted one commission source as saying. "Any amnesty would have to be back-dated, naturally, but there are always those who believe they will be allowed to stay, so long as they are here," the source

One congressional immigration expert said none of the commissioners have voiced support of deporting the millions of illegal aliens now living and working in the U.S.

"Amnesty of some sort is the only alternative, and, as such, is attractive to everyone," he told the newspaper.

Amnesty for people who enter the country illegally was a major component of President Carter's 1977 immigration package, which died for lack of Congressional support.

"Amnesty is seen much more in the self-interest of the country than it was when it was proposed by President Carter in 1977," commission staff director Lawrence Fuchs said.

"There is going to have to be better analysis of the effect on population growth" before amnesty can "be sold to the general population," an aide to a Cabinet secretary on the commission

"And there are going to be added social welfare and education costs in some parts of the country if these people are legalized," the aide said.

Some commissioners also believe a special family reunification provision might have to be made for Mexico, believed to be the homeland of 60 percent of America's illegal aliens, the newspaper said.

The panel also is concerned over enforcement measures to curb the flow of illegal aliens, and employer sanctions may become a major part of an enforcement package, one source told the

"Everyone feels we need to regularize the status of those who are already here," one commissioner reportedly said, "but the question then becomes 'How do you avoid having to give amnesty to a new crop of illegals in a few more years?""

The commission is expected to discuss the enforcement issue when it meets in Washington next month.

Recession May Have Finally Arrived

WASHINGTON (AP) - After months of fits and starts, the nation's economy apparently is finally moving into a longpredicted recession - its seventh since World War II. A range of economic indicators, from housing to jobs, say the downturn has begun. "While there was a brief period of doubt earlier this year about which direction the economy was going, the preponderance of evidence in the last several weeks all seems to point toward the fact that a recession is now setting in," said William Cox, deputy chief economist at the Commerce

Department. Most analysts, including those for the Carter administration, predict the downturn will be mild. But they admit that before it's over, as many as 1 million or 2 million persons could lose their jobs. A recession traditionally has been defined as two consecutive quarters of declining national output. Government statistics due for release Friday are expected to show that the economy continued to grow in the first quarter, leaving the "official" start of the downturn for the second-quarter -

April through June. But Nancy Teeters, a member of the Federal Reserve Board, told a gathering of bankers Wednesday that she thinks the recession has already started, probably in March or early

"I personally think the peak of the last cycle is behind us," she said, referring to the period of economic growth since the last recession in 1974-75.

There are many reasons for the current recession, which is expected to last six to nine months. They range from the rapid increase in world oil prices - which is diverting money from non-fuel uses - to high interest rates engineered by the Federal Reserve in an effort to get a tighter rein on money and credit.

The auto and housing industries began slumping last year. Drop-offs in those industries have increased, and signs now point to problems in other sectors.

While unemployment will be the cost of this slowdown, the benefit could be some relief from inflation, which has been soaring at an 18 percent annual rate in recent months.

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller told a Senate Finance subcommittee Wednesday that he expects the rate of increase in consumer prices to drop to an annual rate of 10 percent or less by early next year.

Among the signs that recession is finally at hand:

HOUSING: The Commerce Department reported Wednesday that construction of new homes fell 22 percent from February to March — to an annual rate of 1,041,000 units. That was 42 percent below the annual rate of 1,800,000 housing starts reported in March 1979 and the lowest construction level since the 1974-75 recession.

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY: The nation's factories operated at only 83 percent of capacity last month, the Federal Reserve reported Wednesday. That is down nearly a full percentage

Reagan Chances Improve

WASHINGTON (AP) -Ronald Reagan is beginning to look mighty lonely out there, but that doesn't necessarily mean he's unhappy.

Reagan, who at one point faced 10 opponents for the Republican nomination, today was up against but two challengers who could at all be considered serious.

One, Rep. John Anderson, has dropped off the campaign trail for the week and is considering dropping an independent. The other. George Bush, admitted Wednesday he is "far behind" Reagan in the crucial primary next week in Pennsylvania:

And the withdrawl of Rep. Philip Crane from the race today adds another marker to the political graveyard Reagan is leaving behind as he battles his way toward the GOP nomination.

Crane, like Reagan a conservative, was the first Republican to announce his candidacy, way back on Aug. 2, 1978. Sources said the Illinois congressman would (See REAGAN, Page 2)

A--According to City Manager Dudley Bayne, it was never officially decided to put a parking lot, or anything else specifically, on the area occupied by the old building 'until it was ready to come down." Bayne added that, contrary to newspaper articles on the matter, a parking lot had never really been seriously considered for the property since adequate spaces to park already are provided for city employees. Liddy Says Killing Anderson Justifiable

NEW YORK (AP) - G. Gordon Liddy, the Watergate conspirator, said today that killing columnist Jack Anderson would have been justifiable homicide because the writer's articles were endangering U.S. intelligence operations abroad.

"You were a pain in the butt" to the White House, Liddy told Anderson as the two men met for the first time in a television studio. "But you also were seriously damaging American ability to conduct foreign policy," he added.

Liddy, promoting his newly published autobiography, "Will," was interviewed with Anderson on the ABC "Good Morning America"

Anderson shook hands with Liddy and questioned the one-time White House operative who says he advocated the columnist's murder in the early 1970s.

More Refugees Taken from Havana

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) - A third plane load of about 250 Cuban refugees from the Peruvian Embassy in Havana was expected to arrive in Costa Rica today, leaving 9,900 still to escape, according to the Peruvian government's count.

The airlift was begun Wednesday by two Costa Rican airliners that brought 236 of the horde of Cubans who crowded into the embassy's 20-acre compound nearly two weeks ago, fleeing from Fidel Castro's communist rule.

A third plane left San Jose late Wednesday to continue the airlift. The refugees being brought out first were to go on to Peru, and unconfirmed reports in Lima said three Peruvian Air Force transports were flying to Costa Rica today to begin ferrying

Court Okays Suits Over Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) - Persons whose civil rights are violated by a local government always have the right to sue, the Supreme Court says.

After Wednesday's ruling, the nation's cities and counties no longer enjoy any immunity from such suits, even when their policies were carried out in "good faith" that no rights guaranteed by the Constitution or federal law were being abridged.

The 5-4 decision completed a dramatic, two-year turnaround from the high courts rulings that until 1978 gave cities and counties absolute immunity from such civil rights suits.

In 1961, the justices ruled that local governments could not be sued under a civil rights law passed by Congress in 1871. That changed two years ago when the court reversed itself and said no such absolute community from the 1871 law existed.

But until Wednesday, the court had left unanswered whether local governments themselves are entitled to the same "good faith" immunity their individual employees enjoy.

Drifter Convicted Of Killing Couple

EL RENO, Okla. (AP) - A Utah drifter was convicted Wednesday for his role in the murders of an Oklahoma City minister and his wife and the wounding of their teen-age children.

Steven Keith Hatch, 26, was found guilty of first-degree murder in the Oct. 15, 1979, shootings of the Rev. Richard B. Douglass and his wife, Marilyn, and the attempted killings of Brooks, 16, and Leslie, 13.

Canadian County District Judge, Floyd Martin said a penalty will be determined during a hearing Thursday. Hatch faces life imprisonment or death by lethal drug injection.

When Martin announced the verdict, Hatch, as he had throughout the trial, showed no emotion as he sat next to his attorney.

Hatch testified earlier Wednesday that he had nothing to do with the shootings but admitted that he went to the home to rob the family.

point from February and is the lowest level since March 1978. Earlier this week, the Fed said production at the nation's factories fell a sharp 0.8 percent in March following a 0.2 percent drop in February. "Reductions in output (were) widespread," the report said.

RETAIL SALES: Sales at retail stores - a key measure of consumer spending - slumped for the second consecutive month in March, the Commerce Department reported late last week. March sales of $77.2 billion were 1.3 percent below February sales, which, in turn, had been down 1.6 percent from January sales.

AUTOS: Industry figures released Tuesday showed domestic car sales got off to the worst start for an April since the recession year of 1975 and were down 25 percent from a year ago. Ford Motor Co. announced Tuesday that it was closing three plants and reducing work at four other locations, eliminating about 15,000 jobs. More than 200,000 auto workers already are on layoff because of poor sales. Then on Wednesday, General Motors announced 12,000 layoffs. INTEREST RATES: The bond market, which had been depressed for weeks, rallied Wednesday after Henry Kaufman, chief economist of the investment banking firm of Salomon Brothers, said he thought the peak in interest rates had been reached as the economy was on the "precipice of another recession.'

As bond rates plunged, the Chase Manhattan Bank lowered its prime lending rate from 20 percent to 191/4 percent in the first reduction by a major bank since December. Some smaller banks reduced their prime rates to as low as 181/4 percent. EMPLOYMENT: Labor Department figures released earlier this month showed unemployment rose to 6.2 percent in March from February's 6 percent. The ominous signs were a drop in the total number of jobs in the economy and an increase in unemployment among adult males, which hints of trouble in the construction and manufacturing industries.

Coyote Drug Lauded

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Texas rancher is scheduled to tell a congressional panel today about his success in protecting livestock from coyotes by using the banned chemical compound 1080.

Charles Howard of Meridian works under an Interior Department contract to study the chemical's effects in a "toxic collar" program.

"To date, the results have been positive and I feel they will continue to be so," Rep. Marvin Leath, D-Texas, said in testimony Wednesday before the House agriculture subcommittee studying the Interior Department's predator control program.

"The toxic collar appears to be effective and is very restrictive," the Marlin congressman said.

The collar, filled with poison, can be strapped around a sheep's neck. The coyote or other predator aiming for the jugular vein breaks the collar and gets a mouthful of poison in the bargain.

The system is billed as an improvement over the once commonly used method of leaving poisoned bait in the wild because the collar kills only the animal for which it is intended, a predator that attacks livestock.

new evidence shows the chemical does not have secondary killing effects. When banned, one argument used was that compound 1080 is so powerful that it lingers in the environment and kills animals other than the targeted predator.

Last November, Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus called a halt to further federal research and experimental use programs on the chemical that livestock producers say could be their best tool against predators.

Federal research programs using the toxic collar could continue with other chemicals.

Sheep and goat producers claim the highest losses from predators, particularly coyotes.

Texas is the No. 1 producer of sheep and goats, and some of the state's congressmen are taking leading roles in complaining that the Interior Department's new predator control policy is too mild.

Hearings on the program started Wednesday in the oversight and investigative agriculture subcommittee chaired by Rep. E. "Kika" de la Garza, D-Texas.

The Mission congressman joined Rep. Wampler, R-Va., in calling for Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus to explain for himself why compound 1080 research was halted.

necessary. An assistant interior secretary testified that Andrus excluded 1080 research in favor of using available funds to find a less controversial substitute.

"After considering all sides of the issue the secretary decided that continuing to study compound 1080 would be a waste of taxpayers' money, and even if its use were to be tentatively approved, that decision would almost certainly be subject to long and costly litigation," Robert Herbst, the assistant secretary for fish, wildlife and parks, said.

D-Texas, have introuced a similar bill.

They would give more authority for the federal predator control program to the Agriculture Department. They also stipulate that the program balance lethal and non-lethal methods. In the revised policy announced last fall, Andrus set long-term goal of minimizing lethal methods once effective alternatives can be developed to control predator damage.

Loeffler, of Hunt, said sheep and goat raisers are suffering increasingly severe losses from coyotes and other predators.

"In 1978 alone, predator attacks were responsible for 58 percent of all losses to sheep and lambs, compared to 25 percent in 1967, and a staggering 72 percent of goat and kid losses in Texas," he Loeffler's vast West Texas district includes the heart of the state's sheep and goat industry.

He called the decision to stop 1080 research an indication of "a deeper lack of commitment by the department toward insuring the development of an adequate predator damage management program."

Texas Agriculture Reagan Brown said government in the past 10 years repeatedly has taken predator control methods from livestock producers.

"In some cases, it appears to ranchers that bias against any means of animal damage control has blurred the vital scientific objectiviy necessary for government to make decisions that affect millions of dollars in income," he said.

Administration ' officials testified that the bill was ill advised because the agriculture and interior departments already have the authority to conduct predator control programs and research.

Herbst said the legislation would affect only a portion of the federal animal damage control program and in addition it "does not consider the adverse impact on wildlife resources or the environment."

GM, Ford To Trim

By GUY DARST

Associated Press Writer DETROIT (AP) - Two months ago, the nation's two biggest automakers saw signs of a sales upswing. Today, 27,000 workers are part of the carmakers' latest and biggest layoffs in a nearly year-long sales slump.

General Motors Corp. announced Wednesday the indefinite layoffs of 12,000 production workers. The announcement came one day after Ford Motor Co. said it will lay off 15,000 blue- and white-collar workers.

GM's actions, to take effect by early May - Ford's extend through August will swell the company's indefinite U.S. and Canadian layoffs from 81,200 this week to 93,200 out of a production force of 482,000. Already. three assembly plants are closed until summer.

An additional 17,000 GM workers are on temporary

PEORIA, III. (AP) — The home-building business is about played out in Peoria.

Tight money and soaring interest rates have sent the ailing industry skidding into its deepest recession in memory, say homebuilders who are scrambling for odd jobs, remodeling projects and an occasional new house.

"I figure that I have another two months and I'm going to have to close the door," said Wesley Wenger, who has built houses for 28 years. "Right now, we're taking jobs that normally we wouldn't even consider years." he said.

The Carter ministration's effort to fight inflation by curbing the money supply has forced up interest rates to 17 percent. Nationally, new homes construction is off 42 percent - to recessionary levels.

People are not buying or building, and nowhere is that more evident than in Peoria the classic middle American city where the dream of building a new house has become a dream deferred.

For builders, it's a nightmare.

During the first three months of 1980, only 10 building permits were issued in Peoria, compared with 202 in that quarter a year ago.

Last year, 845 new housing units were built here. At the current rate, only a fraction of that number — perhaps 20 percent to 30 percent - will be constructed in 1980.

What this means is unemployed workers now, bankrupt builders later and, in the long run, a housing shortage, according to Paul Kroeger, vice president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, the area's largest mortgage lender.

"The problem is that it's all over the country," he added. "It's not isolated to certain geographic regions, so craftsmen can't go to other areas where it is booming as they could in the past." John Gay is 36. Five year ago, he started a construction company, which has grown and prospered. But now, he is in trouble.

Gay's new-home business is virtually nonexistent. His company normally would. employ between 80 and 135 persons at this time of year. Now they are somewhere else, many collecting unemployment.

Gay says a healthy climate for homebuilding requires loans for those who want to build houses and mortgages for those who want to buy them. With today's high interest rates, neither is

EL PASO, Texas (AP) -Closing arguments were to be presented this week in the trial of a 17-year-old youth charged with raping a teenage girl and shooting her in the head.

The 17-year-old girl remains partially paralyzed from the Sept. 15 attack. She testified she and a friend were on their way home from a Fort Bliss dance and walking near an El Paso schoolyard when they were attacked, raped and shot.

Defendant Victor Allen testified one of the two girls he said he and two other youths met on a street voluntarily submitted to sexual intercourse.

William Medauss, neurosurgeon who operated on the wounded girl, testified she "cheated death several times" while hospitalized after the shooting.

Mildred Smith, known locally as the Tin Can Lady, has lobbied for can recycling for the past nine years.

The El Paso City Council this week endorsed voluntary recycling of cans and paper and directed the Sanitation Department to devise a plan to collect the items.

"Can't we understand that future generations are going to need (the metal in cans) and we are going to have to mine the dump?" Mrs. Smith asked the council.

HOUSTON (AP) - A murder charge has been filed in the case of a man who was shot to death after honking his horn at a car whose driver ran a stop sign.

Bond of $20,000 was set for Dwain Barnes, 42, a security guard, in the Monday shooting of Salvador San Miguel, 26.

Police said the driver of the vehicle that failed to observe the stop sign turned his vehicle around and followed San Miguel, fired a semiautomatic rifle out a window, left the scene, and then returned and began shooting

Gaston Tuesday proposed reforms he said would "spread the accumulated powers of the Speaker to all members of the House" and give urban area representatives more power on top

'The end result is that the urban areas just aren't fairly represented," he said of the present system.

His proposed changes include reforms requiring the Speaker to announce the appointment of the chairmen of standing committees before other members announce their committee preferences.

He also said seniority should remain the primary actor in determining committee assignments, but chairmen should be excluded from the seniority system.

DALLAS (AP) - Dr. Bobby Mac Via, 43, has pleaded guilty to federal charges of prescribing drugs illegally to patients who did not need them.

The guilty plea came Tuesday as Via's trial was under way. Defense attorney Fred Time said Via agreed to change his plea after a former patient testified Via's prescriptions turned him into a drug addict.

Via, who lives in nearby Irving, pleaded guilty to twice prescribing drugs for no medical reason in 1979. and prosecutors dropped the remaining 20 counts against him. He will be sentenced May 16.

DALLAS (AP) - If interest rates don't tumble soon home builders are going to "be dropping like flies," according to Mike Mahaffey, past president of the Dallas Home and Apartment Builders Association.

"This has come upon us fast. If the prime (interest rate) stays up at 20 percent for three or four months, it's going to be a blood bath.

"Over the next seven to eight months, we're going into a very severe housing shortage caused by the demand we're having. When interest rates start to ease, an explosion is going to occur, and there's going to be a mad scramble for housing," Mahaffey said.

By MAURI MONTGOMERY Brand Sports Editor

If head varsity tennis coach Robert Cox remained dissatisfied with anything while discussing his squad's final outcome of the season this past weekend during the district tourney in Lubbock, it had to be the fact that his underwear were riding him the wrong way.

The 'Fruit of the Looms' were definitely going to go. but he figured he would just keep his netter squad around

OFFICE HOURS Mon.-Fri., 8:30 to 5 p.m. for next year's competition.

"Even though we didn't put anybody in the finals-that is the district contention lineup--we played exceptionally well I thought," said the head mentor. "We were basically a young team this year and we made a lot of mistakes throughout the season, but I saw a great deal of improvement in our play during this last tournament,' he said. Earlier in the fall, we were just barely able to take one game, on the average away from Lubbock Monterey and Coronado people, but in the last tournament we were winning whole sets. And that, to me showed a marked improvement."

The only big highlight of the tournament in the A Division for the Herd, came as doubles pair Tim Hamlet and Roy Rodriguez took a two set victory over Lubbock er and Jim Butler 6-2, 1-6, 6-3. But the combo later met their match as Monterey duo Doug Culp-Chuck Rodgers (the MHS team later took second in the tourney) crippled the HHS team with

In the B Division segment of the tournament, Trent Thomas blitzed Monterey's Mark Hayden 6-0, 6-0 in singles competition, but later lost two sets to CHS's Mark

The HHS girls singles team were unable to win their matches as LHS netter Jane Butler clipped Beth Frye 6-2, 6-4 and HHS player Kim Sims gave two sets to Cindy McKee of LHS 6-1, 6-2.

"We've gained a lot of ground since the beginning of the year and providing we can maintain that progress over the summer layoff, we can capitalize on what we've learned and win a few more tournaments than we did this year," added Cox.

Statistics can misleading, but they tell the whole story of why the Cincinnati Reds are 7-0 in the first week of the baseball

The Reds have committed three errors and given up 15 runs in seven games while scoring 44 runs, aided by 11 opposition errors.

"It's a very nice feeling," said Cincinnati Manager John McNamara after the latest victory, a 5-3 triumph over the San Francisco Giants, who are 1-6. "Our guys are picking one another up from day to day, and we've been getting good pitching, timely hitting and the most important thing - we haven't been making mistakes."

Regardless of the bare statistics, the Reds have done whatever is necessary to win, sometimes scoring early to win going away and sometimes coming from behind in the bottom of the ninth.

"We're just very happy we've been playing good, fundamental baseball," said McNamara.

In other National League games Wednesday, the Philadelphia Phillies rolled to an 8-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, the New York Mets edged the Montreal Expos 3-2 and the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the San Diego Padres 10-4. In his first appearance at the La Costa Country Club two years ago, as the Greensboro Open champ, he led through three rounds. But he played the last 18 holes in a fat 79 and let the title slip away.

"I played very good for three rounds, but bad the last round. I want to try again," he said, and shrugged off any possibility of a letdown in the wake off his Masters victory. The two ranked as co-favorites for the $54,000 first Other major contenders inthe field of 30 included Lee Trevino, U.S. Open titleholder Hale Irwin, PGA champ David Graham of Australia, who had a very good performance last week in the Masters, Hubert Green and Ray Floyd.

Craig Stadler and John Fought, each a two-time winner in the last year, top a list of a dozen men making their first appearance here. Others are Wayne Levi, Peete, D.A. Weibring, Howard Twitty, Ed Fiori, Curtis Strange, Jeff Mitchell, George Burns, Jack Renner and Doug Tewell.

Also in the field are Chi Chi Rodriguez, Al Geiberger, Jerry McGee, Gil Morgan, Andy Bean, Larry Nelson, Lou Graham, Lon Hinkle, and Johnny Miller, Angels edged the Minnesota the Cleveland Indians 8-7.

On those days, Oakland's Matt Keough became a twogame winner. The big difference, other than five months, is that when the luckless Keough posted his second triumph of 1979, he had lost 16 times en route to a 2-17 record after an 0-14 start. Today, Keough ranks with Baltimore veteran Jim Palmer and Minnesota rookie Doug Corbett as the only two-game winners in the American League. The 24year-old right-hander, who blanked Minnesota on four hits last Friday, hurled a six-hitter Wednesday as the A's whipped the Seattle Mariners 6-1.

"Last season speaks for itself," said Keough, who obviously prefers to dwell on this year.

"We're going to be tough this season. I believe that. I really do," he added after pitching the A's to their fourth triumph in seven games. They were never above .500 all last season when they finished last in the AL West with a 54-108 record.

In other AL action, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Kansas City Royals 2-1, the Boston Red Sox outslugged the Detroit Tigers 10-9, the Toronto Blue Jays clubbed the Milwaukee Brewers 11-2. the New York Yankees blanked the Chicago White Sox 6-0, the California

Twins 2-1 in 10 innings and the Texas Rangers downed

The A's scored all their runs in the fifth inning, highlighted by Dave Revering's two-run triple. The A's sent 11 batters to the plate and scored all their runs off Jim Beattie, with Rob Picciolo, Dwayne Murphy, Jim Essian and Tony Armas adding RBI singles.

Although the season is still in its infancy, Keough said Manager Billy Martin has made "an indescribable difference" in the A's, who have virtually the same players as last year's motley "His intense concentration creates the same for everybody," Keough said. "He's not going to tolerate the same mistake being made twice and we all know that and are bearing down. We all know that if we stay close, we're going to steal a game now and then."

"Matt has his confidence back. That's the big thing," said Martin.

Seattle had only four hits, all singles, before scoring in the eighth on Julio Cruz' double and Bruce Bochte's single, breaking Keough's string of 16 shutout innings.

Orioles 2, Royals 1 Rich Dauer, a notoriously poor early-season hitter, singled home the tiebreaking run in the seventh inning as Mike Flanagan pitched Baltimore over Kansas City with a sevenhitter. Dauer's single off Larry Gura followed infield hits by Rick Dempsey and Al Bumbry and was only his second safety in 16 at-bats this season. Dauer went 0for-22 during April as a rookie in 1977, was 3-for-28 during April 1978 and started last season with two hits in his first 27 at-bats.

The Orioles' first run was a solo homer in the third inning by Ken Singleton, who has hit 37 of his 98 Baltimore homers in support of Flanagan, including two of three this season.

Red Sox 10, Tigers 9 Tony Perez had four hits, including a two-run homer his first in the AL - and a two-run double, and Boston withstood a three-run Detroit ninth inning. Perez, signed as a free agent last November after 15 years in the National League, also walked to complete a perfect 4-for-4 day. With two out in the bottom of the eighth, Perez singled and scored what proved to be the deciding run on Carl Yastrzemski's double, giving the Red Sox a 10-6 lead.

Begin Announces Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) -Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin says his talks with President Carter produced, in addition to agreement for marathon negotiations on selfgovernment for 1.2 million Palestinian Arabs, "some progress" toward easing srael's security concerns.

Begin refused to be specific before discussing the issue with Egypt's President Anwar Sadat.

But while apparently only procedural agreements were reached in Carter's matching summits with Sadat and Begin, the Israeli leader told reporters Wednesday, "Some progress was made, indeed," on the security

The Washington Post reported today that Begin agreed to a plan that could permit election of a selfgoverning council for Palestinians living in Israelioccupied territory, even if the extent of its authority remains unresolved.

The Post quoted unidentified sources as saying that agreement, coupled with intensified negotiations, could enhance the chances of a breakthrough in the effort to give some measure of autonomy to the Palestinians living on the West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Begin was heading back to Israel later today after addressing a group of Jewish leaders at a Washington hotel.

A major obstacle in 10 months of deadlocked autonomy talks has been Israel's fears that establishment of a self-governing body could lead to a Palestinian state and treaten Israel's security.

Asked who's main function would be to deal with refugee questions, leaving the major autonomy issues to the current negotiations. "You will learn about it very soon," Begin said.

EPA Announces Waste Standards

DENVER (AP) - The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency on Wednesday proposed new standards for cleaning up 25 open land areas and buildings contaminated with radioactive waste from inactive uranium processing mills.

The proposal, which applied to several Western states and Pennsylvania. marked the first in a series of standards that eventually will clear the way for cleaning up waste from active and inactive uranium mills around the country.

But the standards proposed Wednesday applied only to cleanup of inactive sites, said Roger Williams, EPA regional administrator in Denver.

They did not apply to active uranium mills, nor did they set standards for disposing of the radioactive materials once they have been cleaned up, Williams

In other business considered Tuesday, the club voted to discontinue membership in the County Women's Forum, although the club plans to attend the Forum luncheon on Monday, April 28, in the Community Center. Correspondence included letters from the local chapter of the Kidney Foundation and Deaf Smith County Library as well as a card of thanks from the

E.B. Black House committee, expressing gratitude for a donation to the Gazebo Fund. Alberta Higgins presided.

The guest program speaker was funeral director Charles Watson, who focused on old and new laws concerning burial. He explained that embalming is required by law if burial does not occur within 24 hours following death. A document of consent must be signed by a surviving family member before the embalming process can begin. He added that each individual is entitled to a Christian burial in decent clothing, regardless of economic status.

Members in attendance were Irene Markham, Mrs. Higgins, Mary Williamson, Allyne Johnson, Lydia Hopson, Tresa Hale, Opal Elliston, Eva Gililland, Della Stagner, Pet Ott, Aileen Montgomery and the hos-

Ann Landers Is It Puppy Love?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 16-year-old son has gotten his girlfriend pregnant. They insist they are in love and want to get married. The girl's mother has offered to put them up until they graduate from high school and are able to support themselves. (They both have one year to go.)

I don't think a 16-year-old boy has any business getting married. I also believe that moving in with her parents will give these kids a false idea of what marriage is all about, because they will have no responsibilities.

What do you think of letting kids that age marry when they get into trouble? What are the chances for such a marriage? Is it possible to be in love at 16? Please discuss this in your column. There's a lot of it around lately .-- Salinas DEAR SAL .: I believe 16-year-olds can be in love, but this doesn't mean they are ready for marriage. In many states, however, 16year-olds can marry without parental permission, which means some will if they want to. Also, an offer of free room and board is a very attractive incentive.

As to how this marraige will work out, Lord only knows. Adult marriages are not faring very well these days--and teen marriages are three times as risky.

The latest statistics show that one out of five 14-year-olds is sexually active, and the percentage accelerates from there. We must see to it that boys and girls get sex education in school by the time they are 11, or prepare to deal with the consequences of millions of children having children.

DEAR ANN: Today there are so many unmotivated young people around it's sad. I found something that just might make a difference. Will you print it, please?--Merle S., Calif.

DEAR MERLE: I will, indeed. Here it is:

"I am the foundation of all business. I am the fount of all prosperity. I am the parent of genius. I have laid the groundwork for every fortune, in America, from the Rockefellers down.

Early Chance Given For CCA Renewal

Saturday evening's Community Concert featuring the New York Vocal Arts Ensemble will mark the conclusion of the 1979-80 season and will provide the opportunity for CCA supporters to renew their membership for next year.

The concert will begin at 8 a.m. in the high school auditorium for Hereford Community Concert Association members. Immediately afterwards, the opportunity to renew individual or family memberships for the 1980-81 season will be offered. CCA memberships can be renewed Saturday night or during the month of June.

New CCA members will be recruited for next year during the month of June. This is a change from previous years, when the annual membership drive was conducted in the fall. Headquartered at the Chamber of Commerce, the summer drive will be under the direction of Cynthia Streun and Jean Ballard. President of the Hereford CCA is Ted Panciera.

The local concert season will conclude Saturday evening with the appearance of The New York Vocal Arts Ensemble. Since their New York recital in May, 1971, the Ensemble has been invited to perform on many distinguished concert serie: throughout the United States and Europe.

Most recently, the Ensemble has completed its second European tour with appearances in Berlin, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Vienna and several capitals of Eastern Europe. Their first recording, "The Great Sentimental Age of American Music' was recently released by Vox Records, and will be followed by a series of discs presenting Russian, French, German and Italian vocal chamber works, most of which have never been recorded.

Children Denied Day Care Force Mothers on Welfare welfare grants.

"This is a blow to those mothers who have been progressing toward economic self-support," said Jerome Chapman, commissioner of

would be $90 a year to the cost of caring for each child in

"I think it'll be more than that," Chapman said. Texas has 15,079 children being cared for in subsidized day care centers.

Federal-state financed day care is offered working parents whose income is less than 56 percent of the state median income so that they can train, work, and gain skills to advance to being self-supporting.

program by 20 percent, or about 3,000 children.

Some of the factors mandated by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare that will increase day costs include:

Altering child-staff ratios for infant care by decreasing the number of children one adult can care for from four to three; allowing the care center to charge on the basis of enrollment rather than attendance; a breakfast if the parents request it; health assessments and immunizations, and orientation programs for new caregivers.

The DHR commissioner said the present average daily cost per child from 0 to 2 years of age in day center care is $12.42. The new regulations will jump it to $18.53, Chapman said, an increase of $6.11 a day per child.

"This is going to be disheartning to the parents who are earnestly trying to work themselves out of poverty and into self-sufficiency," Commissioner Chapman said.

He also said HEW is guilty of "poor timing" in forcing day care costs up, considering the national climate of fiscal conservatism and budget-cutting.

"I think it is absolutely incredible that the Secretary of HEW signed these regulations right after Congress found out it had overspent its budget ceiling. by $10 billion, and right before the President made his announcements that this country is in a financial crisis," Chapman said.

He pointed out that the Congressional budget ceiling overrun had a costly impact on the passage of Title XX (social services) funding. Texas lost $28.6 million in federal funding for social services--including some day care money--while Congress was struggling with its spending problems.

In spite of this, HEW announced the new regulations, Chapman said, which unnecessarily raised costs at a time when national demand is to bring them down."

"This is particularly damaging to people who want to be in the work force, off welfare, and enjoy the satisfaction of paying their own way."

The new regulations take effect October 1, 1980.

Green Thumb Workers Attend Area Seminar

Basic skills developed during years of housekeeping and farming are among skills most valued by employers, a rural job specialist said at a Texas Green Thumb meeting last week.

Local Green Thumb workers and sponsors attending the seminar at the Dimmitt Library were Debbs Knox. Claudia Roundtree, George Frerich, Leonardo Martinez and Johnnie Davis, all from Hereford.

Green Thumb On-the-Job Training Specialist Susan Armstrong, Waco, said people with basic abilities-such as dealing with people, staying calm in a crisis. giving good directions, following instructions or using the eyes and hands to adjust controls--are needed in many jobs such as aides, clerks, dispatchers, house officers, guards and machine opera-

Ms. Armstrong explained Green Thumb's training program as an opportunity for advancement into private employment for the older worker now on the Green Thumb program or for other older Americans needing job opportunities.

'Green Thumb has an on-the-job training program which benefits both the older job seeker and the employer," Ms. Armstrong said.

"An employer gains a valuable employee when hiring an older worker in addition to receiving partial reimbursement of the wages paid to that worker during the first few months. The older job seeker receives assistance in finding a suitable position and the opportunity to enjoy needed financial and personal rewards."

Planning Ahead Can Ease Budget

COLLEGE STATION --Although there's no quick remedy for budget stress with today's inflation and rising costs, families can relieve some of the pressure by planning, one expert says.

In short, this means planning with a major goal in mind -- to balance the family budget, says Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist.

Mrs. McCormack is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"When we say balance the family budget, we mean a family must make its income cover living expenses, debt payments and emergencies," she explains.

"Another way of looking at it is this: plan so that all these expenses don't go higher than the family income," she

FHA/HERO Chapter Delegates To Attend 1980 State Meeting

Representatives of the 'ocal FHA and FHA/HERO (Future Homemakers of America) Chapter will be leaving today to attend the 1980 state meeting of the Texas Association of FHA. along with over 7,000 members and advisors from across the state.

"FHA/HERO-A Pocket of Life-Reach In and Find Yourself" is the theme of the 1980 state meeting which will be held at the Astrodomain in Houston, today and Friday. Local members will leave for Houston today and return Sunday, spending Saturday at Astro World. Members will go by chartered bus.

Attending from Hereford will be Dana Barber, voting delegate-Royal Rose Chapter; Lisa Layman, Darlene Stovall, voting delegate-Chapter I; Mary Ann Rodriquez; and Caema Gonzales, who will be recognized during the Friday afternoon session for having completed the requirements for Encounter Level III.

Miss Gonzalez will receive a gold torch as a symbol of this achievement. Level III of Encounter represents preparation for adulthood and working toward accomplishing goals involving continued education, career choices, and marriage. It requires a focus on values and attitudes. All of the above girls are students of Hereford High School. Advisors attending with them will be Martha Layman, Royal Rose Chapter; and Linda Cumpton. Chapter I.

Attending from La Plata Junior High will be FHA Chapter delegates Stephanie Valdez, who will serve as chapter voting delegate at the House of Delegates meeting Thursday evening; and Valerie Shaw. Beryl Burelsmith will attend as advisor.

La Plata FHA/HERO chapter delegates will be Patricia Cover, chapter voting delegate; and Lenora Traylor. Louise Witkowski will attend as advisor for these girls.

Stanton Junior High FHA chapter delegates are Juliet Coronado and Esmeralda Barrientes. Miss Coronado will attend as chapter voting delegate. FHA/HERO students attending will be Sandy Cagle and Rosemary Castillo. Miss Castillo is the chapter voting delegate.

Advisors attending from Stanton will be Dean Bradley and Karlene Moore. Grant Teaff, popular coach of the Baylor Bears will bring his own message of inspiration and faith to the delegates Friday night.

Workshops on topics of concern to young people such as careers, crisis, self-image. parenting, family, teenage pregnancy, and dynamics of FHA/HERO chapters will be held.

The business of the Texas Association will be conducted at the House of Delegates session Thursday evening followed by a talent show featuring representatives from Areas I-V. The theme of the show is "Main Event."

A special treat for House of Delegates attendees will be a talk by 1978-79 National FHA president, Laura Riggs from Indiana. Future Homemakers who have achieved unusual accomplishments by completing all levels of Encounter, a special growth and development program, will be honored at the Friday afternoon session. A state choir, composed of 130 Future Homemakers, will be featured. Peggy Bain, choir director, Lockney High School, Lockney, will direct the group.

Installation of the 1980-81 state officers will climax the Friday evening session At this time, 11 officers elected through chapter participation throughout the state will be placed in officers. A newly elected president will receive the gavel from Lori Rubio of El Paso, outgoing president.

The Future Homemakers of America is a vocational student organization sponsored by Homemaking Education, Texas Education Agency, with Mrs. Elizabeth F. Smith, director, and Mrs. Betty Romans, state advisor.

All chapter members attending from Hereford, earned the expense paid trip by earning the highest number of points by participating in chapter programs and projects.

Rehearsals Underway For All-School Play

All-school play practice is underway with rehearsals held nearly every school day. The play, "The Stuck Pot," under the direction of Carole Marrs, will be presented May 2, with matinee and night performances. Four of the cast members, JoAnn Brown, Chris Crowley, Jennifer Eggen and Jeff Morris will be interviewed on Hereford Cablevision Monday, April 21, at 9 a.m. for a tape to be shown before May 2.

The math and science teams came back emptyhanded from the Portales meet they attended Saturday. The members are back at the practice sessions, though, and will be better prepared for the next competition.

Report cards were handed out to students today. This is the last report before the final grades on May 23.

The girls' track teams will travel to Dumas tomorrow for a track meet there. The Girls' District Meet will be hosted by Hereford next week. The boys' teams have an open date this week and their district meet will be held in Borger next week.

Civil Defense System Could Create Havoc in NH

By ANDREW SCHNEIDER sociated Press Writer MANCHESTER, N.H.

(AP) - In Boston, an extensive system of air raid sirens doesn't work. Most of the sirens were knocked out in the 1978 blizzard and never repaired.

Hartford, Vt., has four bomb shelters, but the civil defense director says no one knows where they are because no one cares.

And people here in Manchester would create "chaos and pandemonium in the streets" if the town's sirens went off - an official says they wouldn't know what to do.

A $2 billion warning and protection network designed to save Americans in the event of nuclear war is almost useless - at least in New England, say regional civil defense officials.

And, officials add, even more money must be spent to make it work.

Congress ordered creation of the instant civil defense notification system and shelter network 30 years ago. It was to be accompanied by a force of people trained and equipped to monitor radiation fallout.

But civil defense officials in all six New England states say people can no longer count on finding shelter or receiving quick notice of enemy attack.

Associated Press members in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont checked more than 100 sites that were supposed to have radiation monitoring equipment. They found that most of the equipment was not in place and those responsible had little or no knowledge of what was expected of them.

Of the equipment that was in place, much of it did not work, the AP survey found.

William Chipman, director of population preparedness for the Federal Emergency Management Agency, the department responsible for maintaining the system. would not say categorically the system was a failure.

But he noted, "It's a simple fact that the program isn't what it is supposed to

Chipman said it could work if states would pump more money into it. He noted that local warning systems are funded with matching federal and state money: "If the locals don't provide the first buck then nothing happens. We have no leverage to make state or local governments protect their people."

Wes Williams, New Hampshire deputy civil defense director, said, "The Russian invasion Afghanistan and the Iranian crisis has done more to remind people of civil defense than anything else in years, but now the question is: Can we still do our old

Many New England officials answer, "No."

"The best we could do is have police, fire and other public safety vehicles cruise the street with their sirens and public address systems on," said Frank Roumacher, Boston's deputy civil defense director. "We have no money to do the job (repair the sirens). There's not a penny in our budget."

The coastal New Hampshire city of Portsmouth bounded by Pease Air Force Base, with attack bombers, and the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard, with nuclear submarines — is designated a "first strike target" by the Department of Defense. Yet none of the city's 11 sirens has worked in years.

"In case of attack we'll just kiss the entire city and its people goodbye," said Civil Defense Director Herald Good. "We've got a city council that thinks civil defense is a joke so they won't give us any money to do anything."

The four air raid sirens in Portland, Maine, have been out of service for years. "The people will have to hear about the attack on the radio," said Fire Chief Joseph McDonough.
Officials in those few cities with working air raid systems said their people wouldn't be any better off.

"We'd set the sirens off and we'd have instant panic," said Joe Cerullo, civil defense director in Lawrence, Mass.

"There would be chaos and pandemonium in the streets" once people realized the 12 sirens in Manchester, N.H., were not being sounded for a test, said civil defense director Julie Potter. "The sirens are absolutely useless because no one knows what to do." In the mid-1960s, federal engineers surveyed every community and listed the buildings strong enough to serve as shelters. But most officials say the buildings haven't been checked in years and emergency supplies are long gone.

"We've got 460 shelters on the federal list, but a lot of the buildings have been torn down so we're really not sure what's left that's safe enough to put people in," said Robert Hannigan, civil defense director in Worcester, Mass.

FEMA has a computer list of 1,749 people, businesses and agencies in New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont which were issued vellow radiation monitoring kits and trained to use them.

A random check of more than 100 names showed most knew nothing about the kits. And of those who remember getting the instruments during the Berlin or Cuban crises of the early '60s, few know where they are. Those who do said they don't know how to use them.

Richard . Taylor, who directs civil defense activities in Hartford, Vt., is also deputy fire chief and head of the town's rescue squad. He has a box of radiation monitors in a closet, but said, "I don't have the slightest idea what's in here or how to

A woman in Laconia, N.H., said she found a kit in her attic last year "and threw it out because I didn't know what it was."

"We're spending $100 billion a year on military defense and almost nothing on protecting the public if the country is attacked," said John McConnell, associate FEMA director of population preparedness.

"We keep cutting and pasting to keep the mission patched up, but it's obvious that without enough money to do the job, the patches are going to keep on leaking."

AUSTIN- The windfall profits tax, even as it was signed into law last week by President Immy Carter, caught flak from one more Texan: Attorney General Mark White

White said he thinks the new law and an old one regulating severence taxes on natural gas are classic examples of bad energy policies. Into that rap he also includes misguided federal funding to study potential oil spills in

He's upset because the feds are spending about $20 million a year to study potential offshore oil spills in the frozen north and have not furnished $7 million needed to study the effects of Ixtoc I, the record-setting blowout which blackened Texas beaches for weeks before engineers capped it two weeks ago.

Lump No. 2: White criticized a federal law which prohibits Texas from putting severence tax on natural gas like the one Montana has on its coal, much to the vexation of many Texans.

This law, and the windfall profits tax, are energy policies heavily weighted against Texas, he said. "If they put lid on coal mining like this, no one would be mining coal."

Bullock Wins One

The Texas Supreme Court last week upheld State Comptroller Bob Bullock's method for determining utility company franchise taxes.

The decision means an immediate $8.5 million for the state treasury and more in the future.

A Bullock spokesman said the state can now keep some $3 million in taxes paid under protest by five electric power companies who sued to have the revenue returned . plus $5.5 million more in back taxes from other companies.

Governor Bill Clements, a former deputy secretary of defense under Nixon and Ford, said last week he would not accept a cabinet post "of any kind," but left the door open for the veep spot on the Republican tick-

That's not likely to happen, according to him. "No one has ever talked to me about being a vice-presidential running mate. I'm Rita's (his wife) running mate," he quipped.

No MX Missiles Here

The Governor was serious in his opposition to locating a proposed MX missile system in the Texas Panhandle. The feds are eyeing Texas after officials in two western states protested missile sites in their home states.

Clements said the program requires "a tremendous amount of money" to locate the missiles on huge tracks to avoid pinpoint targeting by foreign enemies.

Clements is basically opy posed to the mobile concept of missile installation and said he favors installing the new missiles in existing silos.

Iranians Leave

Meanwhile, Iranian diplomats left their consulate in Houston, six hours before President Carter's deadline for expulsion. Ninety-three Iranian pilot trainees sta-tioned in Texas are still here under the military's protection. None are reported asking for political asylum.

Brilab Charges Nearing

Legislators are expecting the federal grand jury to deliver up their indictments in the Brilab investigation sometime after it reconvenes April 28, probably after the May 3 primary election if it indicts central figure House Speaker Bill Clayton. A formal charge on Clayton just before the primary could cause voter sentiment to "throw out" all incumbents in the Legislature, some Clayton himself is reported optimistic he will eventually be cleared, but he is expecting to be indicted. In his opinion, there is too much pressure from the U.S. Justice Department for an indictment.

Those watching the Speaker's race are divided into two camps: the ones who think it has settled into a three-way contest between Gib Lewis of Fort Worth, Bill Carraway of Houston and John Bryant of Dallas ... and those who think the one who will be speaker has not emerged.

t's Not Too Late To Be Counted in the Census

It's not too late to be counted in the 1980 census. the U.S. Bureau of the Census announced today.

Questionnaires were mailed to every household on March 28, and most people were instructed to mail back a completed questionnaire on Census Day, April 1. Millions did so, but the Bureau reports that a number of households have not yet been heard from. People not counted in the census will in effect be "invisible" when census statistics are used to reappor'ion seats in the House of Representatives and to guide the distribution of Federal Funds--their tax dollars -- for programs in communities across the Nation.

There is no penalty for a late return of the census questionnaire, but census answers should be given as of the April 1 date regarding births, deaths, changes of address, and other facts.

To be sure everyone is counted, after April 16 census takers will contact households that were asked to mail back a completed done so. The Bureau emphasizes that this follow-up work increases the cost of the census. It is estimated for every one percent of the households that mail back a fully answered form as asked, $2 million in follow-up costs will be avoided.

Every person's answers to the 1980 census are confidential by law and cannot be obtained even by other government agencies, whatever their purpose. Census answers are seen only by census workers, sworn to secrecy, who are liable to a questionnaire but have not jail term of up to 5 years and/or a fine up to $5,000 for violating that law.

Khomeini and Co.

Credit him at least with consistency.

In declining to nudge the Tehran hostage crisis toward a resolution, Ayatollah Khomeini was true to the refusal to deal directly with the situation that has been his form throughout the six months since seizure of the American embassy

The only thing really surprising in the latest dashing of hopes is that anyone of consequence in Washington actually thought there might be a possibility of coming to reasonable terms with the Iranians. You don't negotiate with chaos, and that is still the best description for the Iranian revolution with its powerless president, venomously divided Revolutionary Council and irresolute iman who has proven himself infinitely better at the seigure of power than its everying better at the seizure of power than its exercise.

So now it is back to more nerve-straining watching and waiting, at very likely some political cost to Jimmy Carter despite the all-new get-tough policy on Iran. You can only go so many times to the well without bringing back water before washing out your own credibility.

But likely also at some cost to Iran and Khomeini. Iranians, to be sure, have responded with heightened revolutionary fervor, as they have each previous time the malevolent United States and satanic Carter have been rebuffed. The old David

The highs, however, must be getting progressively lower as the same confrontation script is repeatedly replayed. Instead of producing the shah or anything else of substance, they are pre-empting attention and sapping energy urgently needed elsewhere, for the rescue of a disintegrating economy and the construction of a political system operating on some basis

Khomeini has been remarkably successful to date in letting others take the falls for his repeated failures to provide post-revolutionary Iran with much more than rhetoric. But there is a question as to bw long it can continue.

The continuing support for Khomeini within Iran is, however, much less surprising than continuing efforts by some quarters outside Iran to explain him in rational, even sympathetic

Such as the recent first-person report of an American minister who came away from an audience with the news that Khomeini is not the "lunatic" envisaged by most Americans. How could he tell? Well, in response to the oft-asked question as to how the holding of hostages could be reconciled with Islamic injunctions to protect the foreigner, Khomeini responded with a "hard" question of his own: How could Western followers of a Christ concerned for the downtrodden remain silent as on the plight of the contemporary world's remain silent as on the plight of the contemporary world's

Well, there are various definitions of "lunatic", one of which is "given to extravagant folly," which might fit. But that aside, Khomeini's question neither answered the original query nor was it "hard". It primarily demonstrated his inability or unwillingness to comprehend the world outside his own

There are, of course, multitudes in the West, practicing Christians and otherwise, who care deeply about the world's disadvantaged and persecuted and attempt to do something for them, individually and through numerous organizations. As examples of the latter, name Amnesty International, Oxfam, Freedom House, the International Rescue Committee and you've only started. Their area of concern is broad enough to include Indochina's refugee masses, harassed Soviet dissidents, South Africa's repressed black majority, the victims of authoritarian Latin American regimes, racial minorities in the United States still striving for full economic and political equality and even, pre-Khomeini, many Iranians who suffered for their opposition to

Their concern often leads to conflict with government policy. This is a plurality of principle and purpose that may not always be easily accommodated but is comprehended in Western democracies.

Not, however, in Khomeini's Iran. His comprehension is that of many in history before him who similarly claimed a monopoly on truth. That there is no other reality and no other right than his own. And as a result, their rule becomes not a revelation of truth but a despetism of lies.

Now that, unfortunately, is consistency.

Drugs, Sheriff Connected?

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) -Tucked up the Roaring Fork Valley 180 miles west of Denver, Aspen has always been a place where you could go to get away from the rest of the world.

For quite a while now, state and federal authorities have contended it is also a place where people can escape the drug laws enforced elsewhere in the nation, a place where cocaine and other drugs are transferred and distributed.

And for almost as long, the authorities have objected to the attitudes of Pitkin County Sheriff Richard Kienast, a philosopher turned lawman who has refused to cooperate with undercover narcotics investigations.

For six months, a federal grand jury in Denver heard testimony about Kienast, his department and allegations that the sheriff deliberately tipped drug dealers to an impending federal raid last summer.

The grand jury was believed to be investigating the entire sheriff's department and several other public officials. Last week, it indicted a former deputy on a felony charge of distributing cocaine.

FBI Special Agent Cliff Browning said the investigation would be renewed with another grand jury within the month.

'You don't expect me to give up," Browning said. "That's just the beginning." Aspen's a beautiful backdrop for such an ugly battle. The Victorian frame homes of its mining era now have six-figure price tags, and the business of its four nearby mountains has turned from silver to skiing, making it a plush Rocky Mountain

Three years ago, the people who live amid the mountains surrounding Aspen elected Kienast their resort.

Kienast, a taller version of Richard Dreyfuss. holds a master's degree in philosophy and theology from Notre Dame. In his campaign, he used a poster of a dove floating above a quotation from Thoreau:

OPEN 7 p.m.

JACQUELINE

"Let everyman make known what kind of government would command his respect and that will be one step toward obtaining it."

From that, he was tagged "Dick Dove."

He is not, he says, a dove on drug use — particularly cocaine, which he calls "a very dangerous drug."

He also says, "Sure, I can be fairly certain that it (cocaine use) is going on in Aspen, but I also don't think there's any way to deal with it. Society's doing it, not Aspen."

That is the kind of remark that has enraged some state and federal officials and made them determined, the locals say, to make an example of Aspen.

In Denver, on the other side of the Continental Divide, Chief U.S. District Judge Fred Winner has been heard to warn drug defendants to tell their friends that "Aspen is a part of the United States" and subject to its laws.

Richard Nathan, who heads the state's Organized Crime Strike Force, talks of "some very great philosophical differences between ourselves and those in Pitkin County on what the laws are and how they should be enforced."

The original allegation involving Kienast stemmed from a news conference July 31, 1979, a week before the federal Drug Enforcement Administration culminated a seven-month drug investigation with the arrests of 32 alleged dealers in Aspen, Basalt, Carbondale and Glenwood Springs.

Pressed by reporters about whether the DEA was about to make drug arrests in the area, Kienast said the DEA had told him it was not doing any investigation in Pitkin County.

The sheriff says he made the statement because of rumors of imminent drug arrests in the area. But federal authorities Kienast, by saying there was not going to be a bust, was cleverly tipping off drug* dealers that there was. They believe that Deborah Quinn, then deputy district attorney

Ms. Quinn, who was also a subject of the initial grand jury investigation, resigned her job to protest the district attorney's decision to use undercover agents in further drug investigations. She has since been elected president the Pitkin County Bar ssociation.

Ms. Quinn also prosecuted the cunty's first drug case in more than five years last July. With the help of testimony from several local residents, a guard at the exclusive Starwood housing development was convicted of selling drugs to minors. Kienast says that testimony makes the conviction more meaningful than if it had come from evidence gathered in an undercover operation.

Such work is unethical, he insists, because "an undercover officer is put in the position of breaking a law along with someone else. When it's all over with, he steps back and says, 'I'm going to arrest you for doing this, but not myself."

Nathan's 7-year-old state agency has been a major force in Colorado drug-law enforcement, and he calls Kienast's putdown of undercover investigations "unrealistic."

Ford Boots 15,000

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) - Ford Motor Co., through cutbacks of 15,000 employees and 14 percent of its production capacity, is warning workers from top to bottom to shape up - or get shipped out.

The lesson is expected to save Ford $1.5 billion a year, but it has left some officials in New Jersey wondering how their region will cope with the loss of more than 3,700 assembly plant jobs.

"In our immediate area, this will be a disaster ...' said Joseph P. O'Hara, president of United Auto Workers Local 906 in Mahwah, N.J. "The repercussions will be felt throughout the surrounding counties in New Jersey and New York."

The troubled No. 2 automaker announced Tuesday the closing of three plants — the assembly plant at Mahwah, a specialty foundry at Dearborn, Mich., and a castings plant at Windsor, Ontario.

The closings will add about 8,900 blue-collar workers to the 43,200 on indefinite lavoff from Form. Some 203,000 - more than one in four - already are idled from the five U.S. automakers.

Ford will reduce its whitecollar workforce by 6,100. Most of those got notices Tuesday or will get them today. The company did not say how many would normally be quitting, how many would be retiring or retiring early and how many would be laid off.

THE HONON

It's quite an education to see how education developed in America over the

THEN: Books were a luxury in colonial America. The hornbook was often the student's chief aid in learning. It was a bit of printed paper fastened to a thin board and covered by a thin, transparent sheet of horn to keep it clean. The alphabet and religious passages were written on it, and often one was shared by several students.

NOW: Today, many schools have discovered the capabilities of computers when it comes to teaching children anything from algebra to American history. Many schools (and many parents, too) are buying their youngsters microcom-puters such as TRS-80 from Radio Shack. A relatively inexpensive machine that can help many students, it can also free teachers to help more.

Emergency Must Exist To Enter Residence

WASHINGTON (AP) -Police may not enter a person's home to make an arrest without a warrant if there is no emergency, the Supreme Court ruled today.

In a significant expansion of constitutional privacy rights, the justices ruled by a 6-3 vote that the warrant requirement police must meet for searches also applies to arrests.

"Neither history nor this nation's experience requires us to disregard the overriding respect for the sanctity of the home that has been embedded in our traditions since the origins of the republic." Justice John Paul Stevens wrote for the

The Supreme Court previously has ruled that most often police must have a ching a home. But before today, the court never had invalidated an arrest because the arresting officer failed to get a warrant.

The decision overturned the convictions of two New York City men. State authorities must now retry the men or set them free.

Theodore Payton was convicted in the 1970 slaying of a service station attendant. Police, believing Payton was home, broke into his Bronx apartment while he was out. They found evidence that helped convict him. If a new trial is held, that evidence will not be admissible.

Obie Riddick of Queens was convicted of possessing heroin in 1973 after police arrested Riddick at his home and found some heroin there.

Stevens noted that New York law enforcement officials had argued that the arrest warrant requirement would unduly hinder police work. But he wrote: "In the absence of any evidence that effective law enforcement has suffered in those states that already have such a requirement, we are inclined to view such arguments with skepticism."

The ruling will carry immediate impact in at least 24 states that have allowed warrantless arrests in criminal suspects' homes.

Those states are Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, Florida, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah and Washington.

Eleven states have taken no formal position on the issue. They are Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia and Wyoming.

The remaining 15 states already prohibit such police

"The Fourth Ame.idment protects the individual's privacy in a variety of settings," Stevens said. "In none is the zone of privacy more clearly defined than when bounded by the unambiguous physical dimensions of an individual's home - a zone that finds its roots in clear and specific constitutional terms."
