

Census Questions Not Too Personal but Probing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau doesn't care what your religion is, who you sleep with or whether you have a pet. But it does have lots of other questions and the census forms arriving in tomorrow's mail may seem too probing for some people.

If that is your impression, please don't blame the Census Bureau, pleads director Vincent Barabba. "These are not the Census Bureau's questions," he said. "They are what the American people brought forth in 70 public hearings or were suggested by Congress or federal agencies."

The questionnaires being delivered to 86 million homes Friday are the basis of the nation's 20th census. Bureau officials hope at least 80 percent will be filled out and mailed back by Tuesday.

For most people that will be a simple exercise, taking 15 minutes or less, to answer the 19 questions on the short form.

But for one family in six — more in rural areas — it will take about 45 minutes to handle the long form, which has an extra 20 personal and 26 housing questions.

Your answers and those of other Americans are compiled to develop a statistical profile of the nation and no information on any individual is made public. The count itself is required by the Constitution.

"The questions have to have some relationship with an identifiable national interest," said Census Bureau spokesman Henry Smith. "We don't ask your religion, or who you sleep with or whether you have a pet." Even though rejected by the Census Bureau, those are all questions one group or another sought to have included.

Ray Bancroft of the bureau recalled that other rejected suggestions included some dealing with sexual preference, what type of leisure activity is most enjoyed, whether a person is left-handed and whether he or she snores.

The bureau held hearings starting in 1974 to develop questions.

The first question on all forms asks the name of each person living in the house as of April 1.

Question No. 2 deals with how the people listed are related to one another and the next two questions ask the sex and racial background of the individuals.

Question No. 5 is on age,

No. 6 on marital status and No. 7 on whether the individual is of Hispanic origin or descent.

The housing questions everyone will be asked cover such things as number of living quarters at the address, whether there are complete plumbing facilities, the number of rooms, (See CENSUS, Page 2)

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says judging others often prevents us from appraising ourselves.

Someone has suggested that the outer garments of patriotism often cover the underwear of self-interest.

FROM TIME TO TIME we need to remind persons to write letters to the editor that they must be signed if they are to be published. If the letters are mailed, The Brand also needs a phone number as we confirm the authors of the letters.

Letters to the editor usually make excellent reading, and they provide a forum for readers' opinions on public issues. We simply ask that writers try to restrict the letters to 400 words or less, refrain from personalities, and deal with issues. We reserve the right to edit letters for content and grammar.

WE RECENTLY READ ANOTHER editor's column which quoted from a book on the things that made America great. One of the principles, thought the professor who wrote the book, was the fact that the nation had one voice, one people, with one common language.

He pointed out that despite the fact that this country has been a melting pot for people from all over the world, all speaking different languages, the progress of that particular nationality was measured upward in their ventual usage of the English language.

He also pointed out that many countries around the world have compiled long records of strife, dissent, discord and without exception, each country contained citizens speaking with many different tongues.

Only in America has the goal always been one language for one people...until recently.

We have a movement underfoot, especially at the national level, to make the nation bi-lingual. The Chinese, the Irish, the French, the Indians, the Japanese, the Swedes, the Jews, and the Poles all came to this country in immigration waves, and all eventually learned the English language—to their ultimate benefit.

We should expect no less from Spanish-Americans. We think it is a dis-service and we are treating them with disrespect to publish election ballots, legal notices and the like in both languages. No other country prints ballots in both the native and English languages, nor should they.

Texas Education Commissioner Alton Bowen recently proposed that the expansion of bi-lingual education be halted until there is proof the program is working. Bowen said that the responsibility for maintaining a culture's language lies with the home and the community and not the school.

"Without proficiency in the dominant language of this country, joining the mainstream is impossible," he said.

The statement brought complaints from Hispanic groups in the state, some calling for his resignation. Some called him a "racist" and said he was insensitive to the needs of Mexican-American students. They did not, as far as we know, attack the logic of his proposal.

Bowen called for a concentrated program of teaching reading for the next five years in hope the current trend toward functional illiteracy on the part of public school students can be wiped out. Nowhere did he say anything about confining teaching to members of any particular race, and the fact that he refused to inject race into the discussion is to his credit.

Banks May Use Of Cards Expensive

NEW YORK (AP) — The squeeze on consumer borrowing has tightened once again with actions by Bank of America and Citibank — the nation's two biggest banks — to make credit card use more expensive and loans harder to get.

Finance companies, retailers and other banks also are instituting stricter credit policies to meet new Federal Reserve requirements to hold down loan growth and President Carter's program to cool inflation by reducing consumer spending.

Beneficial Corp., the nation's largest finance company with $4.3 billion in loans outstanding, plans to reduce its loans by 5 percent this year. Sears, Roebuck and Co., with 23 million charge customers, has boosted its minimum monthly payment on charge accounts from $8 to $10.

As the largest bank issuer of credit cards with 8.3 million cardholders, the San Francisco-based Bank of America said Wednesday it will boost its minimum monthly payment requirements on Visa and MasterCard accounts and stiffen criteria for new card applicants.

Credit card customers with the country's largest bank will have to pay 6 percent of each month's unpaid balance or $25 — whichever is greater — instead of the current minimum of 4 percent or $10.

Meanwhile, Citicorp announced plans to move its credit card operations from New York to Sioux Falls, S.D., so it can

Iranian Elections Postponed

By The Associated Press

Iran's foreign minister says the runoff elections for the new Parliament have been postponed as expected, indicating delay until the summer at least in the legislature's decision on whether the American hostages should be released.

Meanwhile, a member of the U.N. panel probing Iran's charges against the shah, Adib Daoudi of Syria, told the Beirut newspaper Al Sharq the shah's "escape" to Egypt "will doubtless have adverse effects on the case of the American hostages."

He suggested that Iranian leaders may fear that the United States is conspiring with the shah and his followers to overthrow the revolutionary regime in an Egypt-based plot.

Famed American surgeon Dr. Michael DeBakey was in Cairo examining the exiled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi preliminary to an operation for removal of his cancerous spleen.

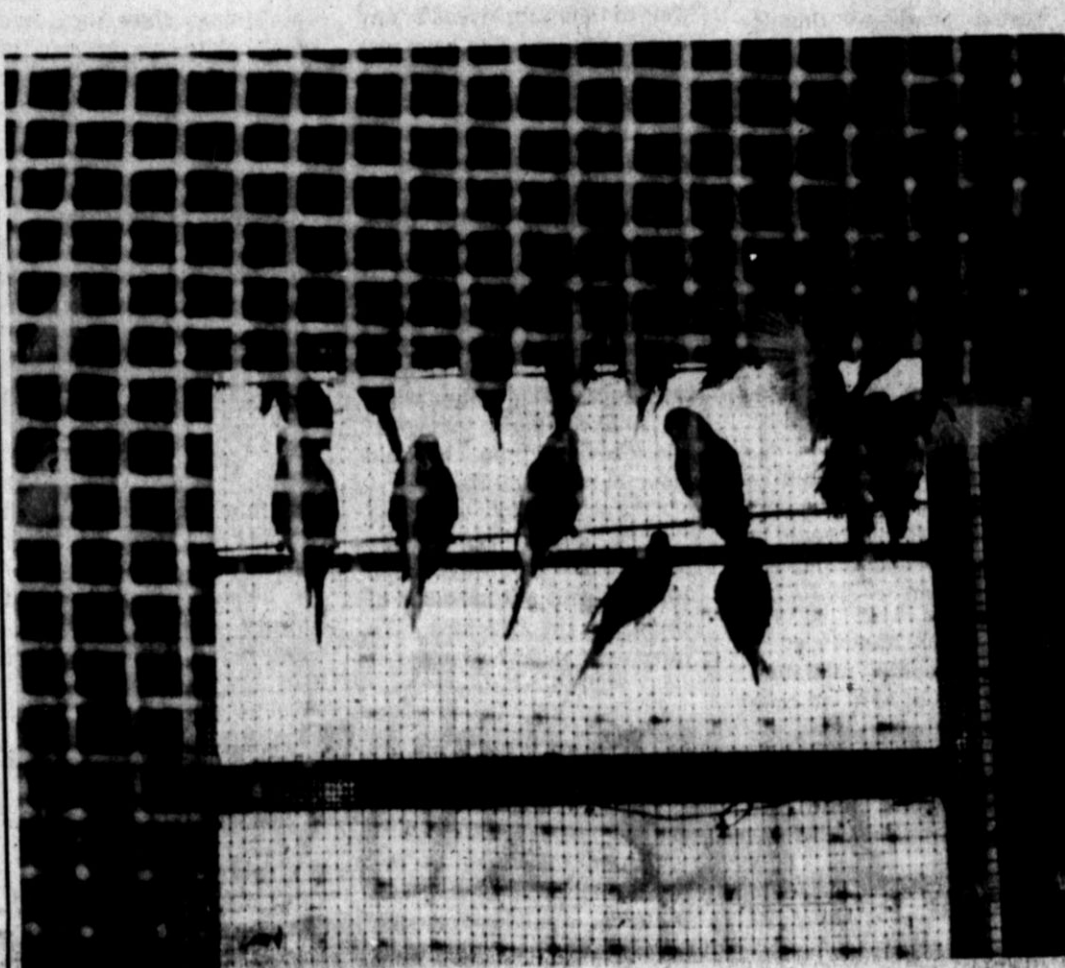

Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh announced after a meeting of the ruling Revolutionary Council Wednesday night that it delayed the second-round election, originally scheduled for April 4, to permit investigation of charges of vote fraud in the first round of balloting March 14. He said the investigating commission began work Tuesday and had a month, until April 25, to finish.

With this timetable, the voting for legislators not elected on the first ballot probably would not be held until some time in May. And this could be delayed more if the results of the first round were thrown out in some districts and new elections held.

In view of the slow counting of votes that followed the March election, the results of a May ballot are not likely to be known before June. Leaders of the revolutionary regime said earlier that it would take some weeks for the Majlis, or Parliament, to get organized and dispose of pressing domestic matters before it got around to the hostages.

Expectations that the Majlis will determine what happens to the Americans are based on a statement by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the leader of the revolutionary regime, that it should decide their fate. But there is no assurance that Khomeini will not change his business. The two Hereford men hope to ship around 4,000 birds to aviaries around the country this year. (Brand photo by Paul Sims)

Producing baby birds (in right photo) is the goal of Calvin Edwards and Gerald Hamby who apparently have become quite successful at it in the aviary behind their real-estate

Their Business Is for the Birds

By PAUL SIMS Managing Editor

People are turning more to subcompact these days, even when they buy a pet, and a couple of Hereford residents are making the most of it.

Calvin Edwards and Gerald Hamby ship exotic birds by the thousands to several states from an aviary behind their real-estate business on S. Highway 385. They expect to wholesale around 4,000 birds, mostly parakeets, this year alone.

"Business couldn't be better," said Hamby, a real-estate broker who joined Edwards in the bird business in November, 1977. "People will buy small items when they can't afford to buy larger items."

And, the fact that there are more important dwellers than ever hasn't hurt their business, either.

"A bird is a small item, easy to care for. A bird stays inside with a minimum amount of problems. And, bird seed is cheaper than dog food," Hamby added.

In 1977, 82 million birds were sold in the United States—more than double the number five years ago. Edwards took advantage of their popularity 19 years ago.

"It started for me as a hobby, but it got so good, it turned into a business," said Edwards, who has sold real estate with Hamby for the last 11 years.

During their first year together in the wholesale bird business, they hauled 4,000 baby parakeets from Oklahoma in the back seat of Edwards' Cadillac. "We had to pick up 400 at a time because we didn't have room in the car, so you can see we did a lot of driving," Edwards said.

Today, they sell cockatiels, lovebirds, finches and, of course, parakeets. They are selective breeders, striving to produce parakeets in colors most desired by customers—albinos, lutinos, harlequins and pieds (blue).

"We go mostly for rares, but we sell a lot of normals—blues and greens," Edwards said.

Inside the temperature-controlled aviary, their birds are busy breeding to soft music. Hamby and Edwards, as they check nestboxes on a routine basis, seem to have a close working relationship with their birds, who protest loudly when a stranger nears their breeding grounds.

"It's almost like a house in here. We have a heater and air conditioner. We try to keep the temperature about 68 degrees year round," Hamby said.

The two men claim their business—AEH Bird Company—is earning a nationwide reputation for producing high-quality, hardy birds.

"We don't lose three percent of the birds we haul in here. One reason we've done so good is we don't ship them till they're old enough. If you ship birds too young, and a lot of aviaries ship them when they're four weeks old, you lose birds. We don't ship parakeets until their six

Needed Moisture Soaks Area

By JIM STEIERT Brand Farm Editor

Overcast skies brought a sunny outlook to the farmlands of Deaf Smith County this morning as sorely-needed rain dotted scattered portions of the area.

For those locations fortunate enough to receive moisture the rainfall spells a new chance for the winter wheat crop, battered by weather and greenbugs in recent weeks, and the showers will also help put moisture in the soil reservoir that is in need of filling for planting time.

Showers were widespread across Texas this morning, and to add to the air of optimism that arrived with this morning's damp weather, forecasters say there is a chance for additional rainfall by tonight.

Heavy pre-dawn storms were reported in the Texas Hill Country with measured rainfall usually about half an inch.

Showers of less severe nature were reportedly roaming the entire state.

The heaviest rain clouds in the local area apparently skimmed over the western portion of the county, where dryland wheat is in need of moisture to help it hold on.

A spokesman for Walcott School reported only light mist in that area this morning while Clint Homfeld reported "a good shower to settle the dust" early this morning at his farm 47 miles northwest of Hereford.

No rain was reported from Westway Fertilizer west of Hereford this morning, with only thin clouds in the area.

Rain of varying intensity fell in an area ranging from Easter, south of Hereford to about the Farmer's Corner area north of Hereford, and to the Dawn community to the east.

One excellent rain report this morning came from the Bob Strain farm at Dawn, where an inch of precipitation fell in about 30 minutes.

A spokeswoman at Dawn Co-Op at the Dawn community estimated rainfall there at .25 inches and Farmer's Elevator north of Dawn also reported good shower activity at about 8 a.m.

Light showers began in Hereford just before 8 this morning and increased in intensity.

Rainfall totaling .36 inches was recorded by KPAN radio by 8:30 as clearing conditions set in.

Heavy rainfall was reported at the H.L. Hershey farm 13 miles northeast of Hereford, with "just a sprinkle" reported from Northwest Grain, west of Farmer's Corner. A spokesman at that firm reported that cloud conditions made it appear that additional rain

Committee Cancels Draft Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today abruptly called off a planned vote on money for President Carter's draft registration program even though supporters and opponents had predicted the measure would be approved.

It was not clear when the proposal would be brought up again.

The delayed vote involved a bill to provide the Selective Service System $13.3 million to begin registering young men this summer. The president has legal authority to order registration for men but needs money to revive the machinery for getting it done.

Members of the panel were notified of the cancellation just 20 minutes before the start of a scheduled committee meeting.

Committee officials offered no explanation for its action, and said the vote was postponed indefinitely. Several sources suggested that Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-

Miss., the committee's chairman and a supporter of Carter's plan, was disturbed by the closeness of a House vote Wednesday on a resolution that had some similarity to the draft registration proposal.

By a 216-201 vote, the House approved a resolution providing stopgap funding for the Federal Trade Commission. The money was transferred to the FTC from another agency to get around the spending freeze imposed by the congressional budget ceiling. The administration had planned to fund its Selective Service program by transferring money from a Pentagon account.

Rep. Lawrence Coughlin, R-Pa., called the transfer scheme "an end-run around the budget" and said the committee's postponement was "based on the question of making a travesty of the budget process."

Senate To Vote

On Compromise Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate is ready for a final vote on a compromise "windfall" tax on the oil industry, a $227.7 billion measure designed as a cornerstone of President Carter's energy policy.

Senate leaders predicted the bill would pass its last test in Congress today - 11 months after Carter recommended it. That would send it to the president for his signature.

Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., asked the Senate to send the bill to the Appropriations Committee, which would study how the suggested allocation of the tax revenues-including 60 percent for income tax deductions-would affect efforts to hold down federal spending.

Volcano Quakes

Alarm Scientists

SPIRIT LAKE, Wash. (AP) - Earthquake activity on Mount St. Helens had eased slightly by early today, as scientists prepared to check seismograph stations on the mountain and continued to speculate on the likelihood of volcanic eruptions.

Local officials, with assistance from government geologists, planned for evacuation in case eruptions sent lava or mud flows cascading into mountain valleys and streams. Volcanic ash also could pose a danger to local water supplies.

Rhonda Brooks, coordinator with the Washington Department of Emergency Services, said the quakes were less frequent and intense, but half a dozen temblors still registered between 3.0 and 4.0 on the Richter scale Wednesday afternoon.

The pattern of quake activity is similar to that which often precedes volcanic activity in Japan, said scientists.

Inflation Takes

'Dangerous' Turn

WASHINGTON (AP) - Double-digit inflation, which was blamed mainly on soaring energy and housing costs last year, now appears to be spreading to the economy in general.

"It's a very, very dangerous development," Charles L. Schultz, chairman of President Carter's Council of Economic Advisers, said.

Speaking to a political action conference of the Communications Workers of America on Wednesday, Schultz said January and February consumer price reports showed that "for the first time, inflation began to spill out...into the economy more broadly."

In other economic developments: Carter was reported ready to propose even deeper budget cuts than those outlined in his new inflation-fighting program two weeks ago.

New government figures indicated Americans are putting less money in savings accounts and withdrawing more. That could mean less money available in coming months for home mortgages.

Dollar Soars

On World Markets

LONDON (AP) - Gold and silver prices slumped and the U.S. dollar hit a four-year high against the Italian lira and a 10-month peak against the West German mark on world financial markets today.

Bullion prices fell sharply in the morning and were still well below Wednesday's levels even after a slight recovery later in the day.

By mid-afternoon gold was selling in London and Zurich for $490.50 a Troy ounce, down from $505.50 and $504.50 respectively late Wednesday but a recovery from morning lows of $472.50 in London and $485.50 in the Swiss center.

Silver, which fell to $13.75 an ounce early in the day, traded in London at $16, down $1.50 from Wednesday.

"It's all part of the big clearout, with holders tired of holding onto metal and waiting for the big rise, especially in view of the heavy cost due to high interest rates," said one London dealer.

The dollar, meanwhile, continued to benefit from investment-attracting U.S. interest rates.

Weather

West Texas: Scattered thunderstorms most sections today. Scattered light rain north tonight. Decreasing cloudiness south tonight becoming partly cloudy most sections Friday. Cooler today and tonight and mainly north Friday. Highs today 55 to 71 except mid 80s Big Bend. Lows tonight 33 to 48. Highs Friday 52 to 71 except low 80s Big Bend.

charge a higher interest rate on its 5.8 million credit cards.

Citicorp, whose chief subsidiary Citibank is one of the country's biggest consumer lenders, said it is losing money under a New York usury limit prohibiting interest rates of greater than 18 percent on credit card balances of less than $500 and 12 percent on greater balances. Starting May 1, South Dakota's usury limits will be 18 percent on the first $500 charge balance and 24 percent on greater amounts.

The company has no specific target date for the move, although it could occur as soon as July, a spokesman said. He added the company still is hoping the New York usury limit will be lifted soon.

Citibank has not yet decided what rate it will charge when the move is completed, but a spokesman said it would be higher than its current rate.

A spokesman said most of the 2,500 jobs affected would be filled in Sioux Falls, and the move would add about $90 million in revenue to the South Dakota economy.

Earlier this week, No. 2-ranked Citibank announced it would issue no new MasterCard or Visa cards; minimum monthly payments of $15 up from $5, limits of $300 on cash advances and no installment loans to new customers.

A spokesman for No. 3-ranked Chase Manhattan Bank said the bank also has been considering moving its credit card operations from New York.

Birds

weeks old," Edwards said.

"We just have good birds. We dispose of those that aren't good, healthy birds," he added.

Expenses are minimal in their bird businesses, with most of the cost absorbed in utilities.

"We spend about $20 a week on seed and bread," Edwards said. "I'll guarantee you one thing--for the cost involved, this business is better than cattle. You give $800 for a cow, and I'll give less than $20 for a pair of birds. And a good working pair will make 24 offspring a year."

Hereford-raised birds are shipping regularly to Pennsylvania, Arizona, Kentucky and Mississippi.

Birds also are sold to an aviary near Dawn which Edwards established for a woman wanting a business in her home.

"We don't mind setting up aviaries for other people. We don't look at it as competition," Hamby said. "these folks are our

The outlook for the local aviary? "We're going to make a living at it. When I started in this business, I was selling parakeets for a buck apiece and making money. Now they're bringing six bucks. Inflation just hasn't hurt us," Edwards said.

Rain

might be forthcoming.

Fog was reported in the Ford area this morning, but no rainfall.

A brisk shower was also reported early this morning from the Raymond Schlabs farm five miles north of Hereford with the activity tapering off by shortly after 8.

To the south of Hereford, Easter Grain at the Easter community logged .50 inches of moisture in a brief burst of shower activity.

At 6 a.m. this morning rain or drizzle was reported in Beaumont, Austin, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, College Station, Alice, San Antonio, Palacios, Dalhart and Brownsville.

Over an inch of rain had fallen at Houston before dawn.

Pea-sized hail was reported north of San Angelo at 4 a.m.

The statewide shower activity is expected to end by tonight with warmer temperatures predicted for most sections of the state tomorrow.

Local farmers are looking for substantial rainfall to give them a good start on a new crop year, and to help along a wheat crop that is faltering for the most part, suffering from the ill-effects of a sharp freeze that struck recently and a heavy infestation of greenbugs.

Much of the area wheat has failed to respond to irrigation, although natural moisture has a way of spurring on a crop.

The moisture should also assist pesticides in controlling exploding greenbug numbers.

Whopping energy costs also have farmers looking to get by on as little irrigation as possible this year, and with sufficient early rainfall, producers might be able to put their crop in and get by one less irrigation.

Iran

mind. And at last report, about half the seats were being won by the hard-line Islamic Republican Party, which opposes releasing the Americans unless the shah and his fortune are returned to Iran.

U.N. commission member Daoudi told the Beirut newspaper he believes any decision on the hostages will have to await the convening of the Parliament. But he said the five-man U.N. panel "will return to Tehran to complete its mission, when circumstances permit."

The leader of the IRP, Ayatollah Mohammad Beheshti, who is justice minister and first secretary of the Revolutionary Council, said on Wednesday the majority of the council feels if the shah is not returned, the hostages should be tried. But Ghotbzadeh told reporters "no trial will be held." He said the same thing on Monday after another revolutionary leader, Ayatollah Sadeq Khalkhali, said some of the captive Americans should be tried as spies because the shah was allowed to leave Panama and escape extradition proceedings.

Today was the 145th day of confinement for the 50 Americans held by militants in the U.S. Embassy and three in the Iranian Foreign Ministry.

DeBakey, who was to have operated on the shah in Panama until Panamanian doctors objected, arrived in Cairo Wednesday night with a full surgical team, seven boxes labeled human blood and several larger boxes believed to contain surgical equipment.

He examined the 60-year-old Pahlavi at the Maadi Military Hospital overlooking the Nile, where he has been since arriving in Cairo Monday, and a brief medical bulletin was issued afterward saying the shah's 104-degree fever had dropped slightly. No date for surgery for announced, although it is expected to take place within a week.

Robert Armao, the shah's spokesman, said the ex-monarch was "holding his own but still very, very weak. He is also very relaxed and comfortable."

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said Fuad Nour, head of the hospital's tumor section, told it the condition of the shah's spleen "warranted a speedy operation" and that it could Egyptian President Anwar Sadat paid a brief visit to Pahlavi at the hospital today.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

We have lived in Hereford since 1964. I can reflect briefly on our arrival and subsequent treatment; first impressions are often lasting.

I am sure we would be long gone were it not for these first few weeks here during July, 1964. People we didn't know helped in finding a home, moving furniture, bringing in food, helping care for the Mrs. while she was so ill, sharing rides to work, getting the kids oriented to a new school. These things we remember with a grateful heart.

As pleasant as these things were, other impressions--just as nice--are still with us. Our son and daughter graduated from high school, WTSU, married successfully and are doing well in their vocations in El Paso and Amarillo. We have four grandchildren--another plus for Texas.

I have worked for five companies in and around Hereford since '64. All of these companies have been fair to their employees of any color. I am proud to have met and become acquainted with so many Texans. When any of them got a break or promotion, it was great. I wept when old timers like Cap Oldham and Fred Moreman left us. Likewise when youngsters like Jeff Coleman and Brent Goheen were fatally injured. I rejoiced when Roy and Mrs. Martinez had a baby; when Jess Escamilla's four-year-old recovered from what could have been a fatal disease.

Now to the heart of the matter. I had always been pleased with the harmony of the races in Hereford. We have lived in several areas of town and have had good neighbors, without exception. Back in 1913, President Wilson made a speech to a group of new American citizens. Titled "America, Hope of the World," he said:

"My urgent advice to you is not only always to think first of America, but always also to think first of humanity. You do not love humanity if you seek to divide humanity into jealous camps. Humanity can be welded together only by love, by sympathy, by justice--not by jealousy and hatred. I am sorry for the man who seeks to make personal capital out of the passions of his fellowmen. He has lost the touch and ideal to unite mankind by those passions which lift and not by the passions which separate and debase."

President Wilson went on to say that we (all of us) came to America, either ourselves or in persons of our ancestors, to better the ideals of men, to make them see finer things than they had seen before, to get rid of things that divide, and to make sure of the things that divided.

It seems to me that there are outsiders interfering in the internal problems of Hereford. The social leopards from Washington, D.C. cannot make Utopia here. Sure, we have problems, but I am certain the majority of them can be handled better without outside interference. Daniel Webster said, "The first object of a free people is the preservation of their liberty."

I believe we have good County and City government--better than any state I have resided in. I believe also we should back our elected officials; we can always return them to the boondocks if they don't perform their duties honestly.

Speaking generally, it is true now, as it was in the days of the Hebrew seer, that the most useful citizen is apt to be the man who is neither bowed by grinding poverty nor rendered arrogant by excessive wealth. Hereford is blessed by having a minimum of poverty. Mike Todd stated that being poor is a state of mind, being rich is temporary...or words to that effect. And a wise Jewish man reportedly said "It's no sin to be poor, but then it isn't anything to brag about either!"

Well, I ain't rich in material things, but I have good friends, family, church, job, community to be proud of, and an unquenchable hope that justice shall be done for every man, woman and child in our area.

Yours truly,
Robert N. Lohr

Vandalism, Theft On City Police Report

Hereford police had a busy day Wednesday, investigating two reports of vandalism, the theft of several pounds of meat and numerous other offenses.

Dr. Wesley B. Owen, 109 Douglas, told police that someone broke a window in his car while it was parked behind his office at 909 E. Park.

David Hutcherson, 424 Paloma, reported that his mother-in-law's house at 709 Grand had been entered several times in the last few weeks and vandalized. Someone also reportedly stole two motorcycles from a shed behind the house.

Lee W. Jones, 415 Ave. K, reported that someone stole 100 pounds of sausage, eight pounds of steak and 45 pounds of calf fries from a freezer in a building behind his house Thursday.

A tailgate was removed from a 1980 pickup at Stagner-Orsborn Buick-Pontiac-GMC sometime between March 17 and Tuesday.

Warren Brothers Motors, 1410 E. Park, reported that someone stole a battery from a car Wednesday night or early this morning.

Francis Day of Bloomfield, N.M., told police that someone had let her sister's dog out of the house while the two women were away Wednesday. The residence is in the 500 block of Ave. J.

Emelda Donjuan, 201 Higgins, reported that she heard a person rattling her door knob Wednesday evening. When she went to the front door, she saw a person run from the residence.

Police arrested a Lubbock man for public intoxication Thursday and picked up three juvenile males for allegedly stealing a necklace from Gibson Discount Center. Two other youths were arrested for truancy and turned over to the juvenile officer.

Police issued 14 traffic citations and investigated a minor traffic accident Wednesday.

School Tax Exemptions Explained

Certain taxpayers in the Hereford Independent School District qualify for tax exemptions, but they must sign forms at the school tax office in order to claim those exemptions.

Fred Fox, tax assessor-collector for the school, points out that his office is audited by the state and the signed forms must be on file in order for the district to grant exemptions.

The deadline for filing on most of the exemptions is April 30, 1980.

There are at least five categories of exemptions with which taxpayers should be familiar. One is the general homestead exemption, which is available to the general public if they file their residence homestead with the school district. The residence homestead is entitled to a $5,000 exemption off the market value of the homestead for school tax purposes.

In other words, if your homestead has a market value of $20,000, the exemption will reduce the market value to $15,000 and this is the figure that will be used for tax purposes. The amount of exemption which you receive cannot exceed the market value of the homestead. If the market value of the homestead is $4,000, the exemption would reduce the market value to $0.

Persons 65 years of age or older are entitled to an additional $10,000 exemption off the market value of the residence homestead. This exemption applies to school taxes only and application must be made by April 30. You cannot receive both a $10,000 over-65 exemption off the market value of your homestead and a $10,000 disability exemption (discussed later). A person eligible for both must choose one or the other.

The disability exemption

also entitles a $10,000 exemption off the market value of the homestead, and applies to school taxes only. "Disabled" for purposes of this exemption means either that, because of physical or mental disability, you are unable to engage in any substantial gainful work, or that you are 55 years of age or older and blind, and by reason of the blindness are unable to engage in your previous work.

Persons who receive disability benefits under the Federal Old Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance Program administered by the Social Security System will qualify as long as application is made by April 30. Those receiving benefits under any other program will not automatically qualify. They must meet the definition of disability as stated above.

Texas law also provides for a disabled veteran or survivors exemption. Certain disabled veterans or their survivors may be entitled to a partial exemption from property taxes. This exemption can be applied to any property--not just a homestead--that is owned on Jan. 1.

Depending on the percentage of a person's disability, he or she may be entitled to an exemption ranging from $1,500 to $3,000 of the assessed value of any property owned on Jan. 1 of the year in which he applies. In order to qualify, he must be a Texas resident and fill out an application annually, at the tax office. Documents must be presented stating the percentage of a service-oriented disability.

In addition to the exemption described above, qualified farmers and ranchers may enjoy another form of tax relief. Two amendments to the Texas Constitution permit agricultural and open-space land to be taxed generally at its productivity value instead of market value.

For agricultural land, it must be currently devoted principally to agricultural use to the degree of intensity generally accepted in the area. The land must have been in agricultural use, or timber use, for at least five of the last seven years. The tax assessor has the sole authority to determine whether the applicant qualifies and three provisions are effective only if applications are filed with the tax office by April 30.

What Doesn't Cause Cancer

Don't breathe; the air is toxic! And it's worse indoors than out.

Don't eat; the food is contaminated! Don't drink water with chemicals in it.

And for goodness sake, don't drink water WITHOUT chemicals in it!

If Americans don't die of cancer they may worry themselves to death!

Again, if Americans don't die of cancer they may worry themselves to death.

There is much more evidence against "stress" in the news than there is against nitrosamines in beer.

There is much evidence of anxiety-related heart disease; almost none against nuclear power plants.

The pickets are picketing the wrong places.

The National Center for Health Statistics recently compiled all available statistical evidence on cancer incidence, cancer varieties and probable cancer causes.

Wait'll you hear!

Much of the cancerphobia results from one pair of numbers. Cancer deaths in the United States increased from 351,000 in 1973 to 396,000 in 1978.

But the major reason for the increase in the number of cancer deaths is "old age." Americans are living longer, long enough to become more likely candidates for cancer.

So the National Center for Health Statistics has adjusted its mortality tables to allow for this longevity factor.

And now the numbers take on new meaning.

Now the cancer death rate, instead of increasing 12 percent in this past decade has increased only 2.5 percent.

These newest statistics, which I am about to review, will tell us what our odds are for getting cancer--and what kind--and (how we might improve those odds in our own favor).

Over the past 50 years the incidence of stomach cancer has DECLINED--dramatically.

The rate - per - thousand population of colon and rectal cancer has declined fractionally.

The incidence of prostate cancer is about what it was 50 years ago.

Also the chance of anybody dying from cancer of the pancreas, the esophagus and the bladder is essentially unchanged.

Odds on dying of leukemia are about what they were.

This would seem to indicate that we've been worrying about the wrong things. There is here no evidence that increased radiation exposure is a significant factor.

But one kind of cancer makes all cancer statistics look bad.

Lung cancer has multiplied itself 5,000 in 50 years! And ironically, this is the one cancer we can prevent.

Governor Announces Agreement For Mexican Produce Imports

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements has topped off a state visit with the governor of Tamaulipas by announcing exchange agreements that will allow Mexican vegetables to come into Texas.

Gov. Enrique Cardenas Gonzalez was at Clements' side as he made the announcement. Cardenas Gonzalez was the third governor of a Mexican state bordering Texas to get the red carpet treatment from Clements. Clements said he did not expect the vegetable agreement to precipitate a repeat of a 1978 riot at the international bridge by farmers protesting imports of Mexican produce.

"Most of that rumpus (on the bridge) was caused by farmers (from northern states) who were down here to get out of the cold," Clements said.

He predicted there would be no "dumping" of produce at low prices by Mexican farmers. Dumping undermines United States farm prices while giving consumers cheaper groceries.

"I would rather let the free market place work," Clements said.

Clements also announced that exchanges of students, teachers and technical information between Tamaulipas and Texas would begin immediately.

Clements and Cardenas Gonzales also talked of the value of "twin plants" in border cities. Many firms have set up operations in adjacent cities along the Rio Grande.

The Texas governor said labor organizations should not object to twin plants because they "provide jobs and well-being and prosperity on both sides of the river."

He said he did not care if those jobs in the Mexican cities resulted from plant closings elsewhere in the United States.

"I'm not really concerned about what some of these cities in other states have problems about. That's their problem," he said. "My decisions are based on what's right for Texas."

Cardenas Gonzalez presented Clements a large drop of oil — encased in plastic — from the runaway Ixtoc I well in the Gulf of Campeche. The blowout, capped only this week, has been a source of some political embarrassment to Clements because the well was drilled from an offshore platform leased from SEDCO, Inc., which he founded.

At a luncheon, Cardenas Gonzalez was given 19th century city documents from the Mexican border town of Camargo. The documents "were taken by unknown elements and only recently came into the hands of Texas state archives officials," according to a release.

Cardenas Gonzalez praised Clements for his support of Mexico during the Ixtoc oil spill and said the runaway well has been "totally controlled."

PLO Winning West's Support With Ties to Oil Nations

By STEVE K. HINDY
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Palestine Liberation Organization's success in winning the support of the Arab oil-producing nations is paying off with increasing recognition from oil-thirsty Western nations.

France, Britain and West Germany all in the past month recognized the right of the Palestinians to "self-determination," and French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing has declared the PLO should participate in Middle East peace talks.

Austria granted the PLO office in Vienna virtual full diplomatic status earlier this month. India, which has supported the Palestinian cause on many occasions,

Silver Dollar Sells For $400,000

BEVERLY: HILLS, Calif. (AP) — The most expensive silver coin ever sold will be displayed in a Texas museum by the pair of El Paso coin dealers who paid $400,000 for a silver dollar at an auction here, spokesmen said.

Bidding opened at $175,000 and increased in $25,000 increments for the 1804 U.S. silver dollar sold on the first night of a three-day rare coin auction Wednesday at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, said publicist Roger Beck.

The silver dollar sold "in about 60 seconds," Beck said.

The buyers, Larry Hanks and Bill Pullen, both 31, said they will display the silver dollar in an El Paso museum before possibly reselling it.

"It's the highest price ever paid for a silver coin in the world," Beck said, "and the second-highest ever paid for any coin."

A gold 1787 Brasher Doubloon was auctioned off for $725,000 in New York about two months ago, he said.

The silver dollar commanded a high price because only 15 silver dollars were minted in 1804 "and only 12 are still known to be in existence," Beck said.

The sale was the first time "in over 20 years" that an 1804 U.S. silver dollar has been on a public auction block, Beck said.

About 325 bidders attended, paying an average of about $8,000 per coin in the first two hours, he said.

A rare coin dealership organized the event and expect the auction to bring $7 million in three days. The Garrett Collection of rare coins left to Johns Hopkins University also will go on the block, Beck said.

Two more auctions — one in Los Angeles and the other in New York — are planned this year in the series, Beck said.

The lilac, a native of the Orient, was not introduced into Europe until the 16th century.

extended full diplomatic relations to the PLO on Wednesday.

PLO leader Yasser Arafat has met with a number of Western government leaders in recent years. Dozens of parliamentary delegations and other groups, including Americans, have flocked to Beirut for meetings with him.

Over the past decade, the influence of the 16-year-old organization has grown as rapidly as oil prices, despite its previous reputation among many as a terrorist organization.

"Everyone is beginning to see that without solving the Palestinian question justly, you will not have durable peace in the Middle East," said Khaled Fahoum, speaker of the Palestine National Council, the 301-member parliament-in-exile.

He said the West European states are not becoming more pro-Arab, just more "realistic." Both Europe and the Arabs want peace in the area, he said, and "the Europeans need Arab energy and the Arabs need European technology."

Arab influence in the West skyrocketed after the 1973 oil embargo. Arafat's influence on the Arabs was cemented the next year when the nations of the Arab League, most notably Saudi Arabia, recognized the PLO as the "sole legitimate representative of the Palestinian people."

Also in 1974, 105 nations voted to invite Arafat to speak in the U.N. General Assembly debate on Palestine, and nine days after his appearance 95 nations voted to give the PLO observer status at the world organization.

Since then, envoys of the conservative Persian Gulf states as well as more radical Arab leaders have been pleading the case for the PLO. And the organization's financial support from Arab nations has grown from $29 million in 1974 to about $250 million a year now.

Rape Prevention To Be Discussed

Rape prevention will be the topic of an informative program to be presented during the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division's quarterly membership meeting on Tuesday, April 1, at the Community Center.

Sheriff Travis McPherson and Helen Ward will be the featured program speakers. Mrs. Ward is one of the surviving victims of the "traveling rapist" who terrorized Panhandle women two years ago.

The general membership meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday with a meal to be catered by Caison's Bar-B-Que at a cost of $5 per plate. All Women's Division members are urged to be in attendance and all guests are welcome.

A business session is also planned with announcements pertinent to the Chamber Women. Conducting the meeting will be the Women's Division president Frances Berry.

EH Agent Gives Program

Louise Walker, County Extension Agent, presented a program on "Fiber in the Diet," to West Hereford Extension Homemakers Club Tuesday afternoon in the home of Christine Larson.

After Mrs. Walker's presentation, she served homemade bran muffins. She was also recipient of the hostess gift.

The next scheduled meeting of West Hereford will be April 8 in the home of Almeda Penman.

Those present were Mr. Roy Boyd, Mrs. Robert Boyd, Alice Cox, Almeda Penman, Wilma Nell Pierce and Evelyn Bell.

Families are frequently better equipped to handle functional tasks than they are to handle interpersonal relationships, reminds Diane Welch, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

Club Discusses Area Rock Shows

Tentative plans to participate in upcoming rock shows were discussed Monday evening by members of Plainview Gem and Mineral Club. They showed slides of the various exhibits which were featured during the Plainview Rock Show. Also, Milstead discussed meteorites, examining the various types and the current market price, which exceeds that of silver. He stated that there are approximately 11 lbs. of meteorites per square acre in the Plainview vicinity.

Refreshments were served by the hosts and hostesses, including Mr. and Mrs. Tim Dawson, Mr. and Mrs.

HHS DE Students On Radio Today

In observance of Public Education Week in Hereford, local Distributive Education students from Hereford High School will be taking to the airways today via KPAN Radio. The students, who will be broadcasting from 8:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m., will showcase various aspects of the local education system.

Messages are to be broadcast during DE Radio Day by school superintendent Dr. Harrell Holder, HHS principal Ron Geyer, athletic director Don Cumpston and vocational director Kenneth Helm. All of the programming and advertising to be aired by KPAN today will involve the 35 DE students.

G.C. Graves, DE director, expressed appreciation to KPAN station owner Clint Formby, who has sponsored DE Radio Day for more than 15 years. The local radio station was among the first stations in Texas to partake in this type event.

On behalf of the school system and the DE program, Graves also thanked local merchants and other members of the community for their support of the vocational program and education, as a whole.

Stanton Dogie Roundup

Compiled By Stanton Journalism Staff

The Red Cross Representative volleyball games between students and faculty was a success. Besides raising more than $100 for the Red Cross, everyone seemed to enjoy the fun and the break from classes. Three students and three teachers were presented with Red Cross T-shirts for their outstanding participation in the event. Those students receiving shirts were Joe Castillo, Gilbert Silva, and Vincente Vasquez, and the teachers who received them were Darwin Wilbanks, Dale Smalts, and Mrs. Roberts.

The high school speech department presented a one-act play for the Stanton students yesterday. The play, entitled "The Lark," held the interest of the student body and hopefully the program will encourage freshmen to consider speech as a part of their schedule in high school.

Before the early dismissal time tomorrow for the Easter vacation, the Dogie Staff will be selling a special edition of the school newspaper. There will be four more editions of the newspaper this school year.

On April 7th, the freshmen will be viewing "Romeo and Juliet" during the first three periods of the school day. The book of the same title has been read by the freshmen classes.

Congratulations to the seventh grade girls' track team on their accomplishments at the track meet Saturday.

Band members will be going to UIL contest on Wednesday, April 9, after spring break.

Improvisational Workshop Scheduled Here in April

A workshop in improvisation techniques is to be held Thursday, April 17, from 7-10 p.m. at the Community Center as a Hereford YMCA program.

The workshop is designed to "make individuals more aware of their own creativity and body movement as well as learning to be self-expressive and explore inter-relationships at the most basic level." A YMCA spokesman stated that the techniques encourage a release of inhibition and helps the individual develop and channel discipline and creativity.

Participants should wear loose, comfortable clothing and soft shoes.

Registration for the workshop will be open at the YMCA office from April 1-11. Enrollment will be limited.

Cost of the three-hour workshop will be $5 for YMCA members and $7 for non-members.

Further information is available by calling 364-6990.

Ballet Company Offers Chance to Adopt Props

Panhandle residents are invited to "Adopt-A-Prop, Dress a Dancer, Consider a Scene, Select a Set." They are urged to study a small catalogue which is being issued this week end and from it to find a way of dancing in their imaginations, of being represented on the stage by giving something to be used in a dance production: a set for the Civic Center stage for several thousand dollars, a single ballet shoe for ten dollars, or perhaps a drumstick for one.

Ballet ticket holders and known supporters are receiving their catalogues in the mail this week end, and others are urged to order theirs from the Lone Star Ballet office (P.O. Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015-or call-806-655-2181)

In the catalogue, the members of the Lone Star Ballet Inc. have listed two hundred items which make a dance company possible, and invite their neighbors to have a part in the production by choosing and giving an item or two or three from the catalogue.

The idea for ADOPT-A-PROP grew from a comment made by Mrs. Tim O'Brien at a meeting of the Lone Star Ballet Guild, saying that it might be fun to give a costume and then follow it with a feeling of identification as it appeared on the stage. As the idea grew, it was named by Mrs. Garland Eslick, manager for the Ballet company and mother of Cindy Eslick who has added much to the pleasure of area theatregoers as a dancer and who is now at the School of American Ballet in New York.

The lists were prepared by the costume committee which Mrs. George Mager chairs, aided by Mrs. W.D. Parker and Mrs. Marge Wilson. The sets and props were identified by Lee Kirby, stage manager of "TEXAS" in 1979 and of "NUT-CRACKER" that year who is now operations supervisor for the Amarillo Civic Center. Margaret Harper served as consultant and organized the material.

Steve Cost, aided by his wife Sharon, drew the figures. The Costs have recently moved to Amarillo where he is teaching Commercial Art at TSTI. Since Mrs. Cost is a dancer, they found ways to help the dance program from the time they arrived in the city from Florida. Their first gift was the layout for the "Nutcracker" brochure.

Season ticket holders and others who have shown interest in the dance program are receiving the small catalogues in the mail. Everyone who is interested may obtain copies by writing: "ADOPT, Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015.

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

I was watching a policeman being interviewed on the 10 o'clock news the other night.

Instead of saying, "I chased that sucker for three blocks before I finally nailed 'em," he stood erect, his eyes staring straight ahead, and recited, "I pursued the suspect for three blocks on foot before radioing a code five."

Even the newsmen was a little unsure of what happened. "Does that mean you caught him?"

The policeman remained at attention and said mechanically, "That is correct. The subject, upon being apprehended, fired three shots before being restrained and remanded into custody."

It's happened so many times it makes one wonder if policemen are able to stop speaking in fluent law enforcement when they get home and take off their uniform.

Somehow I visualize a wife greeting her officer-husband at the door, smiling, "Hi, honey, dinner will be ready in a few minutes. Who was that I saw you waving to?"

"The white Caucasian adult, approximately 62 inches tall, weighing 119 pounds, green eyes, brown hair and no visible distinguishing mark?"

"That's the one."

"She has been identified tentatively as our new neighbor, but we'll have to check it out. By the way, where is 4517?"

"I wish you'd stop referring to our son as the code number for 'accident.' If you want to know, he's being punished for playing ball in the living room and nearly breaking a lamp."

"Where is the suspect?"

"Watching TV."

"I'll see if he's ready to make a statement yet."

"The last time you tried to interrogate him he took off on you."

"Yes, that is correct, and you remember I charged him with a moving violation."

The domestic scene ends with the father rushing into the television room, grabbing the TV remote and shouting, "Freeze!"

Things may get worse before they get better. In a sheriff's newsletter recently, I noted an English-Spanish lesson for policemen. It was clipped and to the point. "Buenos dias. Como se llama? Gracias. Suba al coche, por favor. Usted esta arrestado."

Translation. "Good morning. What is your name? Thank you. Get in your car, please. You are under arrest."

It doesn't sound like English to me.

The show will feature special lighting effects and will have a finale of a patriotic nature.

Tickets can be purchased from any Scout or Cub and will also be available at the door. Tickets are $1 per person or $3 for a family.

General chairman of the event is Boyd Foster.

Easter Egg Hunt Slated

Plans for an Easter egg hunt on April 4 were made by members of Dawn Extension Homemakers Club who met last week in Dawn Community Center.

Pam Wilson, club president, called the meeting to order. Program leader Kim Golden introduced the guest speaker, Extension agent Louise Walker, who discussed "Fiber in the Diet."

Melodi Betzen served as hostess.

The club's next meeting will be on April 4th at 9:30 a.m. in the Dawn Community Center.

Others attending the recent meeting were Doris Johnson, Linda McCabe, June McCabe, Martha Paetzold, Arlene Paschel, Mary Reinart and Sharon Johnson.

Just Clowning Around

Cub Scouts Russell Rayburn, left, Scout Hunt Foster and Carl DeLozier demonstrate some of the clowning that will be a part of the Scout Circus scheduled for April 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the Bull Barn. Approximately 200 Scouts will perform in the show. Tickets are available from any Cub Scout or Boy Scout or may be purchased at the door. [Brand photo by Denise Smith]

Officers Elected By XEA

A new slate of officers was elected recently by members of Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority during a meeting in SWPS Reddy Room.

Chosen to serve were JoAnn Richburg, president; Sandy Owsley, vice president; Mary Sledge, recording secretary; Dixie Williamson, treasurer; and Linda Brown, corresponding secretary. Named as Cit Council representatives were Mrs. Richburg, Mrs. Sledge, Linda Thorell and Jean Holbert. Alternate delegate will be Brenda Thomas.

In other business, Mrs. Sledge reported that BSP Founders Day will be observed at a dinner April 29 at Hereford Country Club. Also, a reminder was extended that Sorority Rituals will be conducted at 7 p.m. April 15 at the Community Center.

Opal Glenn, ways and means chairman, announced that the garage sale staged recently by XEA members was a financial success. She expressed appreciation to those who helped with the fund-raising project.

Members were reminded that they will sponsor a local teen dance on April 25 at the Community Center as a ways and means project.

Toni Jones read a card of thanks from Alpha Alpha chapter members, who were guests at XEA's March 4th meeting. Gratitude was extended to Secret Sisters from Mrs. Richburg, Mrs. Sledge, Betty Davies, Mrs. Williamson, Debra Cook and Bonnie Decker.

Members discussed the nomination of an XEA member for the "People Helping People" award offered by the international office of Beta Sigma Phi.

Mrs. Owsley presented a program on the population explosion for the 25 members in attendance.

The chapter's next meeting is scheduled April 1 in the Community Room of First National Bank for programs to be given by Mrs. Thomas, Cheryl Bullard and Ronna Howell.

VFW Supper Slated Tomorrow Evening

Final plans for a joint supper with members of the VFW were made Monday evening when the VFW Auxiliary convened in the clubhouse with Marie Goheen presiding.

The dinner is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow evening in the VFW Clubhouse.

In other business, the Auxiliary voted to change their meeting time from 7:30 to 8 p.m. beginning with their next meeting, scheduled April 7.

It was also announced that the VFW and Auxiliary raised

$1,061 for the Easter Seal Society during a telethon held here this past weekend. Also helping with the fund-raising drive for the handicapped was Hereford Key Club.

Ten members were in attendance for the meeting.

Before closing or reducing the length of a slit in a straight skirt, check that adequate width is allowed at the hemline, cautions Becky Saunders, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Ann Landers

Cheating On Taxes

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is cheating on his income tax returns again this year. He has been doing it for a long time, and I can't get him to stop. He doesn't cheat a lot, but every year he gets a little braver--and dumber.

We file joint returns, which means I put my signature with his. Every time I write my name on a form, I worry. He says, "Sign here and stop being an idiot."

I need to know if I will be held legally accountable if our returns are audited and the IRS finds out I put my name on a form I knew was not on the up-and-up. What are the ramifications for both of us? Please answer in the column. I'm scared stiff to sign my name to this letter.--Don't Look Good In Stripes

DEAR DON'T: I checked with my tax man, Frank Takahashi, and he said you and your husband are equally responsible if you both sign the forms. The IRS will then insist on additional money. If you and your husband are investigated, and it can be proven that there was a deliberate attempt to defraud the government, both of you would face criminal charges. It could mean jail, but the government rarely resorts to such extreme measures. Usually they sock it to chiselers by fining them heavily.

Mr. Takahashi hopes you succeed in getting your husband to stop cheating. Every person who has been caught will tell you it was a lousy idea and not worth the sleepless nights.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have printed letters for telephone operators, waitresses, newspaper carriers and appliance servicemen. Will you do the same for resident managers of apartment complexes?

Please inform the tenants that resident managers don't want things to break down. Plumbing equipment, air conditioners, refrigerators and stoves are pieces of machinery and occasionally will malfunction. It isn't our fault.

Also, we are not social workers. Please don't expect us to act as marriage counselors or child guidance clinicians. We aren't trained to handle such problems and don't have time to become involved in family squabbles.

Last but not least, make sure you have your keys when you leave. It is no fun to be awakened out of a sound sleep at three o'clock in the morning by a resident who needs to be let in. Thanks for letting me have my say.--A Spokesman For Many In Charlotte, N.C.

DEAR SPOKESMAN: On behalf of all resident managers on seven continents, I thank you for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you printed a letter from a woman who was furious because her husband's ex turned up at all family affairs. As an ex-wife who was dumped without notice, I'd like to say my in-laws are terrific people. They were there when I needed them.

My mother-in-law and her two daughters asked me how I felt about being in the same room with my ex and his new wife. I said, "It's perfectly OK with me. After what I've been through I can handle anything." However, they decided on their own to exclude them and invite me.

Please print this letter for those of us who are on the "preferred list," although we didn't ask to be.--South Dakota Reader

Real Estate Tips by Tommy Bowling

Will it be easier or harder to buy a house in 1980?

Not even the nationally-known "experts" can agree on the answer to this question. One group believes that the selling prices on homes will ease in coming months, but that tight money and high interest rates will make it hard to finance home purchases. Another group of forecasters thinks that home values will remain near present levels, or perhaps rise slightly... but that inflation will continue to rise too. But homebuyers should not despair. Both groups point out the fact that 1980 is a presidential election year. Politicians maneuvering for votes will likely bring a temporary respite for home-seekers. The word, here, is to work with a broker who can anticipate the market and help you take advantage of every "break".

YMCA Light Bulb Campaign

The Hereford YMCA will conduct a fund raising campaign starting on Saturday, March 29, 1980. They will be taking orders for a variety of Westinghouse light bulb packages at less than factory list price.

The money received from this campaign will be used for funding YMCA programs. In order for them to reach their goal, they need the help of everyone in the community.

They will be calling on every home and offering them an opportunity to order one or more packages of light bulbs. The special pricing will afford the customers a genuine bargain. Included in the selections are a package of 60-watt bulbs; a package of 100-watt bulbs; and, a package of assorted sized bulbs. A 150-watt outdoor floodlight and a package of three 3-way bulbs will also be offered.

Everyone needs and uses light bulbs daily, so let's all support this fund raising campaign.

Economy Not Without Chances For Those With Cash, Nerve

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The weakening economy is not without opportunities for those with cash, wits and willingness to assume risk. In housing, for example, buyers can find perhaps more bargains than a month or two ago, despite the almost prohibitive cost and shortage of conventional mortgage money, by using the seller's financing. Some buyers are surprised by the willingness of sellers to cooperate, until they learn that the sellers stand to gain too, especially if they have big capital gains on which they wish to avoid taxes. The seller can sidestep a good deal of the potential tax liability by agreeing to accept a down payment of less than 30 percent, with the remainder to be paid in installments over a period of years. To close the sale, the seller is likely to offer a lower interest rate than a commercial lender, although he is likely to seek quicker repayment, perhaps in 10 or 15 years.

West Texas, New Mexico Eyed for MX Missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon official said today that the West Texas-New Mexico region is under active study as a possible location for an MX missile base, but still ranks second to the desert valleys of Utah and Nevada.

Air Force Undersecretary Antonia Chayse told the House Appropriations subcommittee on military construction that population density and land costs are likely to knock the Texas-New Mexico area out of contention but that further study is needed.

"Applying the criteria of the military operational analysis to all candidate areas reinforces the strong advantage of the Great Basin of Nevada-Utah over all other areas" for locating the 200-missile MX program, she said.

Ms. Chayse said the Mojave Desert of California, the Sonoran Desert of western Arizona and the Highlands of Arizona and New Mexico have been eliminated because they are within 200 miles of either the coast, an international border or another major strategic target.

The Northern High Plains of Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska were eliminated because of the lack of suitable operational corridors in the area for airborne command aircraft, she said.

"The Southern High Plains of West Texas-New Mexico is not eliminated by these criteria and is being studied now to determine the exact distribution of population," she said, adding that county-wide averages appear to make the area too densely populated.

She also questioned whether the United States would be willing to spend the $1 billion or so it would take to buy private land for the base, rather than using the government land of Nevada and Utah.

In her second day of testimony, Ms. Chayse also repeated her earlier testimony that the Pentagon feels splitting the MX system among several bases, while easing the social impact of the massive system, would make it less effective and more expensive.

Providing two separate bases — one in the Nevada-Utah area and one in the West Texas-New Mexico area, would add some $3 billion to the cost of the project, she said — "and even that cost might go up when we find out where all those farmhouses are."

A third site, she said, would add about $7 billion to the cost of the project. Estimated cost is now $33.8 billion.

The Pentagon's preference for the Utah and Nevada sites, which Defense Secretary Harold Brown described Tuesday as "the best I've seen," is being harshly questioned by area congressman. But Ms. Chayse said that "the Texas delegation need not be concerned, because basically all that we're doing is looking at population density."

"From our experience, they'd better be concerned," commented Rep. Gunn McKay, D-Utah, the subcommittee chairman.

In testimony prepared for today's hearing, Nevada Gov. Bob List said the MX program is being rushed without either proper concern for the environment or full consideration of alternative defense systems.

"The more I learn about MX, the more I wish the Pentagon would develop a better method to protect the nation," List said.

He said Utah Gov. Scott Matheson agreed with him that major decisions on the project should be delayed until "Congress has given careful, rational consideration to all reasonable alternatives."

The MX system is eyed dubiously by residents of Utah and Nevada, who note the project will require about 25,000 construction workers and could mean a permanent population gain of 13,000 people.

Brown said Tuesday that he will consult closely with local citizens in making decisions on the MX program. He said some 6,000 people have attended meetings to discuss the MX

List said neither he nor Matheson has received an outline of the preliminary environmental impact statement due by June.

"It is unbelievable to me that the (environmental impact statement) is only three months away and the Air Force does not even know what is going to be in it," he said.

"Frankly, the thought also has crossed my mind that they know that it will be inadequate and they do not want Nevada and Utah to have a minute of extra time to prepare a legal challenge."

The MX program, similar to the old "shell" game, would put 200 intercontinental ballistic missiles on mobile launchers. Each launcher would be based on a racetrack-shaped road lined with 23 reinforced missile shelters.

The launcher would secretly shuttle the missile from shelter to shelter. Since the Soviets would not know exactly which shelter held the missile, the theory goes, they could not aim their missiles accurately enough for a direct hit — and a near-miss would not knock out the MX.

Brown said the MX is essential to the national defense because Minuteman missiles are increasingly vulnerable to ever-more-accurate Soviet missiles.

Quality of Life Improves for Smoker Who Quit

NEW YORK (AP) — Yes, I occasionally think about smoking. No, thanks, I don't want a cigarette. I became a non-smoker a year ago, waking up after thousands of morning coughs, cancer warnings and too much bad breath.

In fact, I'm almost an anti-smoker now — indignantly shunning elevators carrying illegal smokers, wailing my co-workers' smelly cigarette butts and bringing out my lone ashtray at home only for the best of friends.

After 12 years — I started smoking at 18, when I knew better — I'd had enough. Statistics on lung cancer in women were rapidly approaching the fatal forecast for male smokers, and I felt an outcast among my mostly non-smoking friends.

I signed up for one of those courses promising "You WILL stop smoking in five weeks," paid my $295, and quit after wholeheartedly, even excitedly, swallowing the brain-washing — er, behavior modification — the course handed out.

I chanted their jingles, counted my cigarettes, brushed my teeth, drank orange juice and gargled — keeping to their rules. On the appointed day, I deserted two packs of cigarettes on a table in a French restaurant in Greenwich Village while a friend applauded.

I felt nauseous and light-headed the next day. I decided it was the wine.

I haven't had a cigarette since. I used to be a nearly-two-packs-a-day-when-I-was-honest smoker. And while a year is just a start on a non-smoking life, it's a milestone nonetheless.

I expected to be miserable, and I did, about five pounds. I lost it later, and regained it during a luscious week off in New York City — much of it spent in restaurants. Food always tasted wonderful, so I can't really say it's better now. But at least I no longer rush the meal for the cigarette.

I haven't burned a hole in a skirt — or anything else — in a year. Or almost run off the road reaching for a fallen butt while driving. Or started a fire in an ashtray or singed Marlboros. And my teeth — I finally went to the dentist and had the nicotine scraped off — are whiter without cigarettes. Fillings, sadly, hurt just as much.

I expected to gain weight, and I did, about five pounds. I lost it later, and regained it during a luscious week off in New York City — much of it spent in restaurants. Food always tasted wonderful, so I can't really say it's better now. But at least I no longer rush the meal for the cigarette.

I haven't burned a hole in a skirt — or anything else — in a year. Or almost run off the road reaching for a fallen butt while driving. Or started a fire in an ashtray or singed my hair with a match.

I didn't expect pleasures from not smoking.

But there they were:

—Shakespeare at Stratford, Ont. Five plays in seven days — including the two Henrys — without a cigarette or a nicotine fit. (I did get restless at times. Too much Shakespeare.)

—Flying. No need to stare at the "No Smoking" sign. Just get on, buckle up, grab a book and forget the world.

—Camaraderie with other former smokers. Of the people I know best in my quit-smoking group, two are not smoking at all, one is smoking on occasion and the fourth is back to his normal half-pack-a-day habit.

—Cross-county skiing.

Uncounted miles at the family farm, with no need to take time for a smoke, no sully of the western Massachusetts woodland and only occasional shortness of breath.

—Small Purses. Without the cigarettes and matches, I just don't need a big saddlebag.

—Wrinkles. Fewer wrinkles, that is. My mirror doesn't prove this one yet, but I believe the scientists who say smoking aggravates the lines of care. I know I squint less.

—Stress, and dealing with it alone. I got mugged on a dark corner after working late — a week after quitting — and didn't smoke. It was, however, a long night.

—Staying home. Also known as never being forced out into the rain, cold or dark of night because you're out of cigarettes.

—Parties. One hand to drink with, one hand for snacks and never a search for an ashtray.

—Fresh air. Even inside my too-small Manhattan apartment.

—Children. I don't feel like I'm setting a bad example anymore.

—Money. About $500 a year, or more, that I'm not spending on cigarettes.

—Freedom. Let the others worry about where their next cigarette is coming from, and how soon.

—Kissing. You figure it out.

It's believed that goldenrod growing near a house means that residents will have unexpected good fortune.

Indiana Slips, Bucks Win In NBA's Title Playoff Chase

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Indiana won but came up a loser; Milwaukee didn't play and came up a winner.

The Indiana Pacers beat the Detroit Pistons 124-114 Wednesday night but were eliminated from the National Basketball Association playoff chase anyway when the Houston Rockets topped the San Antonio Spurs 113-101.

The Milwaukee Bucks had the night off but gained a first-round playoff bye when the Kansas City Kings dropped a 106-100 decision to the Golden State Warriors.

The Kings can still tie Milwaukee for first place in the Midwest Division by sweeping their remaining games, including one against the Bucks Friday night. The two teams would then be 3-3 against each other, but Milwaukee has the better record within the conference and thus would get the bye through the best-of-three first-round series.

In other games, the Boston Celtics beat the New York Knicks 129-121, the Philadelphia 76ers edged the Atlanta Hawks 89-84, the Phoenix Suns defeated the Seattle SuperSonics 109-99 and the Chicago Bulls topped the Denver Nuggets 122-115.

Pacers 124, Pistons 114
Rookie guard Dudley

Bradley scored all 13 of his points in the final period as the Pacers handed the Pistons their 12th straight loss.

Indiana trailed by as many as 13 points in the first half, moved ahead 86-84 just before the third quarter ended and pulled away in the fourth quarter.

Rockets 113, Spurs 101
Moses Malone and Robert Reid each scored 19 points for Houston, which led 65-49 at halftime and was never caught. The Spurs had clinched a playoff berth Tuesday night by beating the Rockets.

Of the three teams battling for the final two Eastern Conference playoff spots, Houston has the best record at 39-41. New York is 39-42 and Washington 37-42.

Warriors 106, Kings 100
Phil Smith's short jumper with two minutes remaining snapped a 100-100 tie and Sonny Parker added a basket and two free throws as the Warriors beat Kansas City.

Clifford Ray played nearly the entire game at center for Golden State because of an injury to Robert Parish and blocked a three-point field goal try by Phil Ford and grabbed several rebounds in the closing minutes.

Celtics 129, Knicks 121
Boston got a season-high 29 points and 17 assists from Nate Archibald in beating

New York and raising its record to 60-20, best in the NBA.

The Celtics need one more victory or one Philadelphia loss to clinch the Atlantic Division title and a first-round bye. The Knicks, meanwhile, finish their season against the 76ers tonight.

76ers 84, Hawks 81
Julius Erving, who missed the last three games because of a sprained foot, scored 20 of his 30 points in the final period as the 76ers kept pace with Boston. Center Darryl Dawkins scored seven points in the last three minutes for Philadelphia.

Suns 109, Sonics 99
Walter Davis scored 31 points and Paul Westphal added 25 as Phoenix pulled within one game of second-place Seattle in the Pacific Division. The Suns outscored Seattle 27-12 in a 7:18 span to lead by nine at halftime and stayed in front the rest of the way.

Bulls 122, Nuggets 115
Scott May scored 12 of his 18 points in the fourth quarter as the Bulls defeated Denver. The Nuggets trimmed a nine-point Chicago advantage to three with 47 seconds remaining on three-pointers by Gary Garland and Bobby Wilkerson, but Reggie Theus and Ricky Sobers converted two foul shots each to thwart the Nuggets' surge.

Baseball Pendulum May Stop Swing for Owners

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Life is a pendulum and the pendulum always swings...and swings...and swings.

Major league baseball is learning the bitter truth as it strives to reach a new working agreement with the players—a hassle that poses the threat of a strike before opening of the 1980 season.

For too many years—close to a century—the pendulum swung in favor of the owners. They operated under the reserve clause—a chain that bound a player to one club for life or until he was sold.

Then the pendulum swung. After several unsuccessful attempts to shatter the reserve clause through the courts—the latest by Danny Gardella in the 1950s and Curt Flood in the early 1970s—the siranglehold finally was broken by Peter Seitz' arbitration in the Dave McNally-Andy Messersmith case.

Seitz ruled the two pitchers were free agents because they didn't have a contract. Thus was created a new set of rules. A man whose contract had not been renewed could put himself on the open market.

The dam broke. Star players, completing their contract, put themselves up for auction. The result: A crop of instant millionaires—Reggie Jackson, $2.9 million; Don Gullet, $2 million; Joe Rudi, $2.9 million; Bobby Grich, $1.75 million, just for starters. Then came the deluge: Pete Rose, $4 million; Nolan Ryan, $4 million; Dave Parker, $4 million-plus, Al Hrabosky, $5.89 million on a contract extending to year 2014. They keep escalating.

So the pendulum had swung the other way. For nearly a century, players screamed "unfair" and carried their grievances all the way to the Supreme Court only to be rebuffed by naive rulings that the game was just a sport not subject to antitrust laws.

Now the screams are coming from the bosses. "It's a bomb ticking away," Commissioner Bowie Kuhn says of free agency. "We're all headed for bankruptcy," moan club owners.

Ballplayers, like labor unions, having struggled for decades to achieve what they regard as just reward for their toil, are reluctant to yield their hard-got gains.

What's the answer? Where do we go from here? Who's to blame?

The owners must bear much of the responsibility. They have been their own worst enemy. With less greed and more understanding of the players' plight, they might have preserved the basic merits of the reserve clause.

But they refused to budge. Now the players hold the whip hand. For the sake of the game, they should yield on the compensation issue.

As now structured the compensation plan, giving a club only an amateur draft choice for a man lost to free agency—even a star of the Rose or Parker ilk—is grossly imbalanced.

To thrive, perhaps even exist, baseball must adopt a compensation rule patterned after that of the National Football League. An NFL club, losing a player, is compensated by a draft choice.

Dallas Cowboys Are Stunned By Unexpected Harris Retirement

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Cliff Harris, an all-pro safety and cornerstone of the Dallas Cowboys' doomsday defense, says he's leaving the football field for the oil field.

"Pro football is not a real world. It doesn't last forever. I wish it could," Harris told a news conference Wednesday at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

The 6-foot-1, 192-pound Harris said had contemplated the change since the 1979 National Football League season ended "to take advantage of a good business opportunity" with U.S. Companies. The Dallas-based organization is headed by Max Williams, a former coach of the Dallas Chaparrals of the American Basketball Association.

"There comes a time when you have to make it. I've made my decision and I'm going to stick to it," Harris said. "I want to pursue the oil business the same way I did football."

Nicknamed "Captain Crash" by his teammates for his reckless pursuit of ball carriers, Harris came to the Cowboys 10 years ago as an unheralded free agent from Ouachita Baptist University

ABC Locks Up Coverage On Heavyweight Title Bout

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

The step-by-step process of reunifying the heavyweight boxing title now has reached the stage of the two champions fighting different opponents on the same night—but in different cities—on the same television network.

While looking toward the time when John Tate and Larry Holmes try and knock the crown off each other's head, ABC has the two heavyweight champs as part of a four-fight, four-hour TV extravaganza Monday night.

At 8 p.m. EST, World Boxing Association light heavyweight champion Marvin Johnson defends his title against Eddie Gregory at Knoxville, Tenn. Then WBA heavyweight champion Tate meets Mike Weaver in a 15-rounder, also at Knoxville.

The next fight has Sugar Ray Leonard, the World Boxing Council welterweight champion, defending against David Green of England at Landover, Md. And the finale, emanating from Las Vegas, will match WBC heavyweight champion Holmes against LeRoy Jones.

ABC seems to have locked up any possible heavyweight merger fight—with or without Muhammad Ali—along with any title bout in between. Yet when it comes to wearing the heavyweight crown, ABC does not feel two heads are better than one.

"ABC is trying to present heavyweight boxing to the American public on a regular basis in prime time," said

Jim Spence, senior vice president of ABC Sports. "We feel there should be one champion."

ABC has the rights to the winner of Holmes-Jones against the winner of Tate-Weaver—the unification fight—in August or September, plus first refusal on any interim fight of the two Monday night winners.

Personally, Spence would rather not see Ali return to the boxing wars—even though a comeback bout would be highly rated and ABC would have first refusal on it. That stems from ABC's coverage of Ali's phenomenally rated re-match victory over Leon Spinks in September 1978 at New Orleans.

Ali's retirement has certainly not kept boxing off TV. But four straight hours—prime time is only three—is rather unusual. The extra fight hour arose because ABC made a deal for three fights, "then the Sugar Ray fight came up," said Spence. "We considered Sugar Ray as a separate entity, but ultimately decided to couple it with our heavyweight night. Sales were a major consideration."

Leonard, who was made a prime time star by ABC, will occupy the 10-11 slot, the premium TV time. ABC's forecast is for that period to have the night's biggest audience—a rating of 24.4 (percent of total sets watching). Commercial time will be $120,000 for that hour, the most expensive of the night.

Owners, Players Remain Far Apart In Major League Talks

By CHUCK MELVIN
AP Sports Writer

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — The meeting that will determine if and when major league baseball players will go on strike is less than a week away, yet club owners and players remain miles apart on a new four-year basic agreement.

"I'm not optimistic until I see a reason to be," said Marvin Miller, the director of the Players Association, after negotiations between owners and players reopened Wednesday. Miller said no movement was made on any of several key issues during the session, which lasted just under two hours.

"The owners are not seeking a strike," said Ray Grebey, chief owners' negotiator. "But at the same time, they feel very strongly about their proposals.

"We've had very constructive negotiations so far," he added.

The two sides planned to meet again today and Friday.

Miller is also meeting this week with members of several teams to outline what is going on in the talks and to discuss the possibility of a strike. He met Wednesday with 40 members of the San Francisco Giants and 22 players from the Cleveland Indians, who voted unanimously to authorize a strike if no agreement is reached by April 1. Of the nearly 800 players to vote thus far only one, on the Kansas City Royals, has voted against strike authorization.

Barring a major breakthrough soon, "it's been pretty much decided we'll have to take some sort of strike action. The question is when," said Gary Lavelle, the Giants' player representative.

"We're so far apart that everything is questionable," said Indians' player representative Wayne Garland.

"The meetings have been pretty much at a standstill," said San Diego pitcher Randy Jones, who attended Wednesday's negotiations. Player representatives from all the major league teams plan to meet with Miller in Dallas April 1 to decide whether to strike, if an agreement is not reached by then.

The talks apparently are deadlocked over several issues, the most important involving the free agent system.

The owners want a modification in the system that would increase the compensation a team could get after losing a highly-sought free agent.

For example, Grebey noted, when Pete Rose was signed as a free agent by Philadelphia, the Cincinnati Reds in return "got a young gentleman (whose) chance of moving from the rookie league to the major leagues is one in 10." The owners believe the Reds served more than that, Grebey said, and are proposing that a team losing a highly-regarded free agent should be allowed to select a player from the roster of the agent's new team.

The free agent's new team would be permitted to protect 15 players from that selection process, but players believe nonetheless that few teams would be willing to sign a free agent if they could end up losing their 16th best player.

Among other items remain on the bargaining table, including whether players should receive a piece of baseball's television revenues and whether a player of four years service or less should be restricted to a one-year contract.

Jesse Owens Continues Fight With Lung Cancer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Former Olympic track star Jesse Owens is continuing chemotherapy treatments for lung cancer at the University of Arizona Health Sciences Center here, after being transferred from a hospital in Phoenix.

A hospital official said Owens, 66, was in stable condition Wednesday night, although a spokesman said earlier he was "very ill, but comfortable."

Owens spent a week in the University Hospital in January under the care of a cancer specialist, before returning to his Paradise Valley home near Phoenix.

He continued treatments as an outpatient before his emergency admission to Good Samaritan Hospital in Phoenix March 3.

Owens, winner of four gold medals in the 1936 Olympics in Berlin, has operated a public relations firm in Phoenix for several years.

Carter Remains Steadfast On Olympic Games Boycott

By The Associated Press

The Norwegian Olympic Committee voted Wednesday to send its athletes to the 1980 Summer Games in Moscow, following by one day a similar action by the British Olympic Association.

Meanwhile, in Washington, White House Press Secretary Jody Powell reiterated President Carter's opposition to U.S. participation in the Moscow Olympics because of the Soviet Union's military presence in Afghanistan.

"As a matter of principle, Carter is not in favor of participation in the Moscow Games, period," Powell said.

Powell also said he had read a story about Afghan soccer players seeking asylum in Western Europe and added, "Those who feel there is no, and should be no, relationship between what's happened in Afghanistan and Moscow may want to solicit the views of these Afghan sportsmen about whether they see a connection."

Norway's government had left it up to the national sports organizations and the Olympic committee as to whether the country would send teams to Moscow.

A proposal to boycott the Olympics was voted down 28-8 Wednesday, and another proposal to postpone a decision until after the Norwegian Sports Federation meets next month was also voted down 18-16 with two abstentions. The Norwegian Basketball Federation then put forward a proposal calling for participation, and it was passed 19-13 with four abstentions.

In London, a spokesman for the Department of the Environment, which has responsibility for sport, said the decision taken by the British Olympic Association on Tuesday to defy government pressure and send a full team to the Games "is not the end of the matter."

But sports officials warned against further government interference. "Let the athletes get on and make their own choice in their own time and without any sort of pressure," said David Shaw, secretary of the British Amateur Athletic Board.

Britain's Prince Philip, president of the International Equestrian Federation, said he will not attend the Olympics in accordance with the strong stand Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's government has taken against participation.

In other Olympic developments, Hong Kong's government said it favors a boycott because it has "become clear that... participation in the Games would have very definite political implications." But Chief Secretary Sir Jack Carter said the final decision lay with its Amateur Sports Federation and Olympic Committee.

A 28-member Australian track and field team was named Thursday but a decision on whether that nation will send a team to Moscow will not be made until April 19 and 20 when the Australian Olympic Federation meets to consider a call by the government to boycott the Games. Earlier this week, the swimming and athletic associations had voted to tell the Australian Olympic Federation that they wanted to participate.

Japan's chief cabinet minister, Nasayoshi Ito, said his government's position was still "that it is desirable for the Japan Olympic Committee to boycott the Games."

This hybrid's record for consistency has made it one of the most popular hybrids on the High Plains. In 77 comparisons over the last four years against competitive hybrids, 3184 has shown an average yield of 183.7 bu./A. with a yield advantage of 14.3 bu./A. over competitors. Bred with outstanding drought tolerance, 3184 can adjust ear size and kernel depth to match growing conditions. And strong stalks keep 3184 standing straight for speedy harvest. It's just what High Plains farmers need in a dependable, high-yielding corn hybrid. And its maturity makes it a good companion for 3183.

Push this one for highest yields! In 43 comparisons on the High Plains in 1979, this hybrid averaged 192.1 bu./A. A sampling of yields from 1979 includes 216 bu./A. for Sheldon Rapp at Hooker, Oklahoma... 210.4 bu./A. for Larry Kemp of Muleshoe... and 196.7 bu./A. for Doyle Underwood at Dimmitt, Texas. 3183 has demonstrated very good standability and ear retention in this area. Excellent drought tolerance helps 3183 maintain outstanding consistency year after year. And it has been especially impressive on gray soils. Plant 3183 along with 3184. Spread genetic risks and get top performance, too.

"See me for all your family insurance needs."

Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there.

Nuclear Referendum Slated Later This Year in Maine

EDGECOMB, Maine (AP) — When Raymond Shadis talks about the land he cleared or the fruit trees he planted, he also talks of how he and his wife "had every intention of growing old" on their 100-acre farm beside the sea.

But that was before his dispute with a powerful neighbor, two miles away in Wiscasset.

The neighbor is Maine Yankee, the state's only nuclear power plant, and Shadis, 38, hopes to help shut it down through a statewide referendum.

The referendum, to be held later this year, will mark the first time a state has voted on a proposal to close a nuclear plant. Other states have considered proposals to restrict future nuclear development, but none has gone so far as to consider closing a reactor already in operation.

The referendum campaign has meant a dramatic change in lifestyle for Shadis, his wife, Pat, and their six school-age children.

Instead of working on his century-old farmhouse or mending fences, he's been coordinating the efforts of hundreds of volunteers who collected more than 55,000 voters' signatures to force the question to referendum.

For a person who describes himself as private and apolitical, life has turned into a succession of public hearings, debates and media appearances.

"We're on the ragged, thin edge of subsistence. We've spent our full time on this since last June, and we're a low-income family to begin with," said Shadis, a New Jersey-born artist who specializes in wood and metal sculptures for churches.

Shadis and his wife, who he met in her native West Virginia, migrated to Maine in 1968, seeking to fulfill their dream of finding a farm near the ocean.

They bought an abandoned farm house and three acres in 1970, a time when Maine Yankee was still under construction. "We were aware of this very powerful neighbor, but we shunted it to the back of our minds as much as possible," Shadis recalled.

The 840-megawatt plant, which supplies roughly one-third of Maine's electricity, went on line two years later. As the years passed, said Shadis, his confidence in nuclear energy eroded, taking "a sudden drop to zero" following last year's accident at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania and the earthquake safety shutdown ordered for five other plants, including Maine Yankee.

The Shadis' activism is being mirrored around the country this weekend as anti-nuclear groups — bearing such names as "March 28 Coalition," "Remember TMI Coalition" and "Cleveland Mobilization for Survival" — plan rallies and marches to mark the anniversary of the radioactive leak at Three Mile Island.

The Shadis' contend the Maine Yankee reactor endangers their health and the environment, through the threat of a sudden meltdown or the gradual release of low-level radiation.

"We can't reconcile staying here year after year, with the constant dosing that the children get with the regular emissions, never mind the unplanned ones," said Mrs. Shadis.

If they're so concerned about their nuclear neighbor, why not move?

They probably would leave if the referendum question were defeated, said Shadis. But he added that no place along the entire Maine coast offers absolute safety, especially when a Canadian reactor in New Brunswick goes on line in a year or so.

A proposed bill that would outlaw generation of power through nuclear fission in Maine will go to referendum if rejected by the Legislature — an eventuality accepted as a foregone conclusion by everyone concerned. The vote would take place either during the Nov. 4 general election or at a special referendum in summer or early fall.

A recent poll by the Bangor Daily News indicated that voters oppose the bill by

The Newspaper Bible

DID YOU WONDER WHERE THE WORLD CAME FROM?

BEFORE anything else existed, there was Christ, with God. He has always been alive and is Himself God. He created everything there is — nothing exists that He didn't make.

Eternal life is in Him, and this life gives light to all mankind.

His life is the light that shines through the darkness — and the darkness can never extinguish it.

God sent John the Baptist as a witness to the fact that Jesus Christ is the true Light.

John himself was not the Light; he was only a witness to identify it.

Later on, the one who is the true Light arrived to shine on everyone coming into the world.

But although He made the world, the world didn't recognize Him when He came.

Even in His own land and among His own people, the Jews, He was not accepted. Only a few would welcome and receive Him. But to all who received Him, He gave the right to become children of God. All they needed to do was to trust Him to save them.

All those who believe this are reborn! — not a physical rebirth resulting from human passion or plan — but from the will of God.

Committee Places No Blame for Spill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A House committee has refused to blame anyone for the worst oil spill in history but recommends roughnecks sign up for special college courses in how to avoid blow-outs.

The Environmental Affairs Committee also declined Wednesday to say whether oil escaping from the Mexican offshore well Ixtoc 1 had harmed marine life.

The committee, however, added a recommendation — at the suggestion of Rep. Ed Watson, D-Deer Park, to support Attorney General Mark White's lawsuit to collect at least $10 million from SEDCO Inc. of Dallas and Permargo, a Mexican drilling company.

"We did not go into who was responsible — and why" — for the oil spill in the Bay of Campeche, committee chairman Bennie Bock said of the panel's report on the spill. "The chairman felt that was already being done by Attorney General White."

The committee recommendation did not refer to specific defendants but to "proper, responsible and liable parties."

White refrained from filing suit against Pemex, the Mexican oil monopoly, and Bock said, "There seems to be very little hope of ever recovering damages from Mexico."

Commercial and government interests along the coast, however, have filed nearly $500 million in suits against SEDCO, Permargo and Pemex.

Bock, D-New Braunfels, said the report avoided comments on whether the spill "did or did not certainly hurt marine life." That topic, he said, would be covered in a second committee report.

Ixtoc 1 exploded and went out of control June 3 at a depth of 6,207 feet below the sea bed. The explosion and fire wrecked a $22 million drilling platform rented to Pemex by SEDCO, a company founded by Gov. Bill Clements.

The well spewed more than 130.2 million gallons of crude oil before it was capped at midnight Sunday. The worst previous spill was 65.5 million gallons when the tanker Amoco Cadiz sank March 16, 1978, near Port-Salfrance.

"Frankly, I don't know what this (capping the well) portends for us on the coast ... 18 others are being drilled," said Bock.

The committee recommended the use of state universities in the coastal area to teach workers how to avoid blow-outs, and Rep. Henry Allee, D-Houston, said, "We should also invite Mexico to send students."

"We're dealing with a very ticklish international situation," said Bock. "We want Mexican oil, and we want Mexican gas — we just don't want it on the coast where we can't use it."

The committee also recommended:

— A state fund to cover the costs and damages resulting from oil spills, with possible legislation requiring companies to pay into a disaster insurance program. The Texas Coastal Protection Fund covers only the cost of cleanup. It has a ceiling of $5 million, but the Legislature has appropriated only $500,000.

— A legislative resolution encouraging the federal government to create an international commission of all states bordering the Gulf of Mexico.

— Forming an advisory group with representatives of government and the oil, fishing and tourist industries to plan responses for spills.

— Determining whether it would be economical for the state to buy special "coastal defense" equipment.

— Encouraging the oil industry to create a cooperative to combat spills.

— Establishing priorities in the State Contingency Plan for handling spills.

Allee suggested insurance companies should be encouraged to provide oil spill policies, and Bock said, "We'll sure check into that and see what the possibilities might be."

The committee asked its staff to analyze tax data from the State Comptroller's Office and report on the impact of the spill on coastal areas. The data showed, for example, that on South Padre Island the hotel-motel tax for the three months ending Sept. 30 dropped 17.6 percent from the same period in 1978.

Executive Director Frank Hildebrand of the Texas Tourist Development Agency has estimated South Padre lost up to $20 million in tourist revenue. "The middle coast also suffered severe damage," the report said.

It said the Coast Guard had spent $7.6 million through Feb. 28 in cleaning up the spill — removing 13,757 cubic yards of oiled sand and tar balls, 46,975 gallons of oil-water emulsion and 55,080 pounds of oiled debris.

more than 2 1/4-to-1. And even if it were approved, there is doubt whether Maine Yankee would have to close immediately.

Shadis said the utility likely would seek a court injunction against the measure on the grounds that federal regulation of nuclear energy pre-empts state law. There also would be questions about compensation to the plant's owners, an issue not addressed in the bill.

Executives of Maine Yankee and the utilities that own it say a ban on nuclear power would mean higher electric rates, a loss of jobs and a halt to economic development in Maine. They have pledged to work for the defeat of the bill.

The high-stakes referendum battle shaping up around the bill seems certain to generate an influx of money, experts and celebrities on both sides of the issue.

"We'd like to keep this, as much as possible, as a discussion among Maine people. But we will try to match the industry expert for expert. We can't hope to match them dollar for dollar," said Shadis.

So far, the referendum proponents say they have spent $4,000 on the petition drive, most of it from small donations.

The amount budgeted for the coming campaign? "We'll spend as much as we can get," Shadis said.

"Right now," said his wife, "we have $92."

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Country singer Tammy Wynette, deluged by cards and flowers from well-wishers, may be released today from a hospital where she was taken Sunday night for stomach pains.

She was hospitalized after complaining of severe abdominal pains following two performances in Beaumont.

Doctors at St. Elizabeth's Hospital listed her in very satisfactory condition. Miss Wynette's husband and manager, George Richey, said she was suffering from chronic stomach adhesions, for which she has had corrective surgery five times.

He said his wife's doctors reported no surgery was required this time but recommended two or three days' rest.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi says women's liberation in the West is "merely an exchange of one kind of bondage for another."

Speaking at the inauguration of the new All-India Women's Center on Wednesday, Mrs. Gandhi said Western women often equate freedom with "imitation of men."

True liberation for women, she said, involves feeling free to be women — not competitors or imitators of men.

That's the advice he's planning to give to the 94th graduating class of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts at the Music Box Theater on Tuesday.

"It's the kind of business where you have to endure because it's so full of disappointments and frustrations," Scheider says. "If you do have the courage to keep showing up, you can make it."

Scheider, now appearing on Broadway in Harold Pinter's "Betrayal," has showed up in the movies "Jaws," "French Connection," "All That Jazz" and other films.

Parents Complain Over Care for Deaf

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A lack of Austin State Hospital staff members trained in sign language makes it difficult for deaf children in the hospital's psychiatric unit to get the care they need, according to a federal investigation.

The parents who filed the complaint with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare said the children sometimes have to resort to handwritten notes to communicate.

A copy of the federal report obtained by the Associated Press says the hospital is violating a portion of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 that requires equal care for all children, regardless of handicap.

"The investigation revealed that the deaf children do not have the opportunity to develop close relationships with child care workers that are necessary for effective ... therapy," said the report prepared by the HEW office of civil rights in Dallas.

Benny Britton, assistant superintendent at the hospital, said the report was received March 4. The hospital was given 15 days to respond. Robert Gonzalez, deputy director in the Dallas office of civil rights, said hospital officials have asked for more time.

Britton said the changes would be made although "I have a personal feeling that we are not in violation as stated. To say that we are not making services available, I have difficulty accepting that."

The HEW investigation was prompted by a complaint from the parents of a deaf teen-ager who has been in the children's psychiatric unit since September 1978.

The child's mother told The Associated Press the four youngsters now in the psychiatric unit sometimes have trouble communicating with untrained staff members. The handwritten notes do not suffice, she said.

"That's hard for them because some of them are on a third-grade reading level," she said. "They get frustrated."

HEW stated the complaining parents' child and other deaf patients are "often secluded when they present problems to child care workers who have little or no sign skills."

The hospital has sign language-trained personnel during school hours and during an evening period of about 90 minutes, according to Dr. Jimmy Clemons, deputy commissioner for the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

He acknowledged the hospital is short of qualified interpreters during other hours.

A list of investigative findings in the HEW report said:

— Deaf children are unable to participate in special activities in the afternoons, school holidays, or on weekends that require extensive communications.

— There are very limited opportunities for deaf children to interact with other deaf children or with individuals in the deaf community.

— No interpreters are provided for therapeutic group meetings on weekends and during school holidays.

— Most staff members in the children's psychiatric unit have had no experience in training in working with the deaf.

— There is no evidence that child care workers are trained in the psychology of deafness, and sign language classes are taken on a voluntary basis.

By The Associated Press
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texans will get at least five chances to speak up for solar energy, a study committee of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Committee decided Wednesday.

"We are embarked on the most important venture a governmental body can conduct," Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace, chairman of the committee, said. "We are looking for a new form of energy."

The solar advisory committee will hold public hearings May 28 in El Paso, May 30 in Lubbock, June 10 in San Antonio, June 12 in Dallas and June 14 in Houston to get public opinion on solar development. Then the committee will draft a report to the 1981 Legislature by Sept. 25 on the solar supply and demand picture for the next 25 years.

In addition to the public hearings, member of the advisory committee plan to visit solar and other alternative energy sites and plants in El Paso, Lubbock, Bushland near Amarillo, San Antonio, Dallas and Houston.

"We have all the authority we need to do anything necessary to support research and commercialization of solar energy in Texas," said Wallace.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — William Beaumont Army Medical Center here will house and operate the Army's first permanent alcohol rehabilitation center, Brig. Gen. Kenneth Cass said Wednesday.

The El Paso facility was chosen over Fitzsimmons Army Medical Center at Denver, Beaumont's commanding general said. Facilities of this type received public attention recently when presidential relatives were treated at the U.S. Navy rehabilitation center at Long Beach, Calif.

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas County detention officer has been dismissed by Sheriff

Carol Thomas for driving his pickup plastered with signs for Thomas' opponent onto county property.

L.R. Smith was fired Wednesday after Thomas cited a 1976 commissioners court order prohibiting display of campaign material on county property. Smith's truck, which he parked on a county lot while on the job, bears placards supporting Bob Collins for sheriff. Collins is one of six Democrats opposing Thomas, a Republican.

"I told him (Smith) I didn't require anyone to work in my campaign, but I will not tolerate anyone working against me," Thomas said.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A visiting state judge ruled Wednesday against Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, who had sought to have Republican opponent Merle Nash removed from the May 3 Republican primary ballot.

Both men are unopposed in their respective primaries. Gonzalez cited a technical violation, saying the city of residence had been left off the addresses of voters signing petitions Nash used to get a spot on the GOP ballot.

The entire congressional district, however, lies within San Antonio, and State District Judge Arthur Tipps of Wichita Falls ruled that the city therefore did not have to be specified on the addresses.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said Wednesday that Mario "Rudy" Ortiz, an Austin television news reporter, has joined his staff as a special assistant. He said Ortiz, 22, would be working with officials of Texas cities and members of the state's Hispanic communities throughout Texas.

Ortiz formerly was with KTCB-TV, Austin, and KCTV-TV, San Angelo. He formerly was industrial manager for the San Angelo

Chamber of Commerce. GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Eight Colombian nationals have been found guilty on charges resulting from the December seizure of 100,000 pounds of marijuana from an offshore crew boat near Surfside.

A jury deliberated more than four hours Tuesday in returning the verdicts before U.S. District Judge Hugh Gibson. The charges included conspiracy to possess marijuana with intent to deliver and conspiracy to deliver marijuana.

A total of 35 persons were arrested in the Dec. 19 incident, but Gibson separated the defendants into groups for six trials.

The maximum penalties for Tuesday's convictions range from 5 to 10 years in prison and $15,000 to $30,000 in fines.

Gibson set no sentencing date.

HOUSTON (AP) — An early morning fire damaged a processing unit at the Atlantic Richfield oil refinery Wednesday.

A spokesman said the catalytic cracking unit involved was in a shutdown section of the plant and operations at the refinery would not be affected.

The fire was said to have been caused by a ruptured tube containing hydrocarbons and hydrogen. The spokesman said the blaze was extinguished in about an hour.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Maverick County Development Corp. has received an application for industrial revenue bonds that could result in about 250 new jobs for the Eagle Pass area, Gov. Bill Clements said Wednesday.

The county development corporation's first industrial revenue bond application came from the Williamson Dickie Manufacturing Co., for a $1.5 million bond issue. The firm plans to expand an existing facility at the Eagle Pass air field for production of blue jeans. The industrial revenue bonds were authorized by the 1979 Legislature for the purpose of providing low-cost loans to finance industrial plant projects. The bonds are paid off from revenue received from the expansion.

'Human French Fry' Ends Marathon

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — A 23-year-old college student who called himself "the Human French Fry" climbed out of a tub of ketchup after only 17 1/2 hours — but he claimed a world's record.

The stunt by James E. "Rip" Howell was advertised as a 34-hour effort to raise money for Muscular Dystrophy and to get into the Guinness Book of World Records.

Howell, who said he had to stop his ketchup-sitting Wednesday when he got back cramps, said he believes no one else ever tried to stay overnight in a tub of 31 gallons of ketchup.

The University of Southwestern Louisiana geology major said he got the idea when he heard about people sitting in chocolate pudding in Alabama to raise money for charity.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

No love after baby

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 27 years old and my wife is 25. We had a child eight months ago. Ever since the baby was born, almost all affection has gone and things are getting worse. We make love about once a week with no preliminary affection. There's no hugging or cuddling or kissing in our lives. I'm very frustrated and confused. I've tried to do everything I can to try to improve our relationship but with no success. Do I have a right to be concerned or will this pass?

What is usually a normal amount of sex for people of our age? She seems to believe I'm oversexed because I just want to cuddle before making love. I'm really beginning to believe it's me. I wish you'd comment on this as I know of other couples in our age group with this problem.

DEAR READER — Most wives would be delighted if their husbands were more affectionate, judging from the mail I receive. The usual complaint by the wife is that the man is more interested in just sex than he is in providing any affection. Everyone needs love. It's part of a healthy life style. And when I say love in this context, I don't mean just sex.

There is no set number for the frequency of sexual relationships in marriage. It depends entirely on the people and people do have different levels of sex desire. Hopefully, in a marriage the two partners try to adjust to each other's needs, which might require some degree of compromise on both individuals' part. I must say, though, that once a week is certainly not considered excessive. Many couples would consider it infrequent.

If your letter is truly an accurate representation of your marital relations, I believe you would both profit from seeing a marriage counselor at an early date. There has to be a reason why your wife does not want you to be affectionate with her. The sooner this is resolved, the better chance your marriage will have of success.

It is true that the birth of a child will sometimes disrupt the normal marital relations. By that I mean the emotional reaction the couple has toward each other. Nevertheless, most couples adjust to this and find there's room for affection for all — children and parents — in providing a normal balanced family life.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had a baby 14 weeks ago and am breastfeeding. I would like to start a jogging program and am interested in your opinion on jogging after childbirth and while breastfeeding.

DEAR READER — There's nothing wrong with it. The only suggestion I would make would be to be certain and have a well-supporting brassiere. I think women who jog and are reasonably well endowed should all do this anyway to help prevent stretching of internal tendons which a woman might not appreciate later.

READERS WHO ARE concerned about reports of jogging deaths and want information can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 13-4. A Perspective on Jogging Deaths. Address your request to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)
