Wholesale Prices Keeping Pace with Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) -Wholesale prices soared by 1.4 percent in March, an 18.2 percent compounded annual rate, while unemployment edged up to 6.2 percent, the government reported today.

March's increase in wholesale, or producer, prices was only slightly less than the huge jumps recorded in January and February.

Food prices at the wholesale level turned up in March following two months of decline while energy costs continued to soar at an annual rate of nearly 110 percent, said Janet Norwood, commissioner of the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Wholesale prices are watched carefully by economists because they tend to preview similar increases at the consumer level in later months.

Consumer prices rose at at an 18 percent-plus annual rate through February, far beyond last year's 13.3 percent pace.

The disturbing boosts in prices since January set in motion President Carter's budget-balancing efforts as well as new credit control steps by the Federal Reserve Board.

The Labor Department's report on unemployment showed joblessness rising from a 6.0 percent level in February. March's 6.2 percent figure matched the

Despite the 1.4 percent increase in the Producer Price Index, Ms. Norwood pointed to some favorable signs on the inflation front.

Excluding food and energy, all other finished goods - those ready for retailer's shelves - rose only 0.5 percent in March, less than half the increases in January and February.

"In addition, the sharp dimunition of price increases at both the crude and intermediate stages processing is encouraging," she said in testimony prepared for Congress.

The Producer Price Index measures three stages of processing: finished goods, ready for sale to reatialers; intermediate goods, which are partially processed; and crude materials, such as grain and livestock which have yet to be processed.

Among finished goods, the Labor Department reported a 7.2 percent increase in energy costs, nearly as much as in February and considerably more than in any other month in the last six Gasoline prices shot up 8.5 percent, and prices for home heating oil were up 6.3 percent.

Consumer foods advanced 1.1 percent after declining 0.8 percent and 0.5 percent in January and February, respectively, the department said. Prices turned up sharply for eggs, pork, fresh and dried vegetables, fish and confectionary products. Beef and veal prices went down.

The slowdown outside of food and energy was due mainly to slides in the prices of precious metal jewelry, which declined 11 percent overall last month after climbing 55.3 percent from November through February, the department said.

Prices for apparel, household furniture, appliances, mobile homes and health products rose, but not as much as in recent months. Capital equipment prices at the wholesale level went up 0.8 percent, about the same as in previous months.

This equipment is used in the production of other goods. Intermediate goods rose 0.5 percent in March, much less than January's 2.8 percent increase. This was due partly to lower costs for

Iran Charges President with Rejection

School Board Races Opposed

For the most part, Saturday's local elections will be routine affairs--a couple of uncontested races and an uncontroversial bond issue.

However, voter interest may be high in the Hereford and Walcott school-board elections since incumbents seeking re-election will be opposed in both races.

Hereford Independent School District trustees James Gentry and Paul Ramirez will be opposed by housewife Stephanie Ramirez. In the Walcott ISD election, candidates include incumbents Gaylen Jack, Ernest Brown and Gene Bradley, and hopefuls Macey Fuqua, Bobby Hammock and Sandra Martin.

In the Hereford city election, incumbents Bud Eades of Place 3 and Emory Brownlow of Place 4 are unopposed. Deaf Smith County Hospital District directors Jerry Smith, Frank Zinser and Deward Roberson also are unopposed in their bids

Voters also will decide the fate of a $1.225 million revenue-bond issue for city water and sewer improvements and expansion. The issue, if passed, will not result in a tax increase or an additional hike in residential water and sewer

City commissioners already have raised water rates, effective May 1, to pay for improvements and expansion.

Mrs. Ramirez, a Hereford resident for 17 years, said when she announced her candidacy that her interest in her four. children is the primary reason she is running for the HISD board of trustees.

She also declared that she is more qualified than the two incumbents "because I'm a mother, and as a mother, I can do a better job than they can-the children bring their work home from school, so I know what's going on. Fathers, because they work, don't have a chance to."

Gentry said he is seeking re-election 'in order to contribute to the further improvement of all aspects of our local educational system.'

Gentry is past president of the school board. Ramirez, a Hereford police lieutenant, has served the last two years on the school board. He has lived in Hereford 13 years and has been the third-ranking officer in the police department since 1974.

Ramirez is seeking re-election "because I still feel that I can contribute to the school system--I am strictly interested in providing the highest standard of education to the young people in this community."

Voting in all elections will be from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Hereford Community Center.

Tehran Radio declared today that President Carter apparently has turned down the Revolutionary Council's request to clarify his response to Iran's demands for transferring the American hostages to government control.

"It seems that the U.S. president has rejected the Iranian Revolutionary Council's call to clarify his stand candidly," the broadcast said in reporting Washington's position on the issue.

The Foreign Ministry said the Carter administration seems to be engaging in a war of nerves, and a spokesman for the militants who seized the 50 hostages in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran 153 days ago said, "We didn't expect the great satan but make empty threats."

About 200 demonstrators gathered outside the embassy, meanwhile, declaring support for the militants and protesting what they said was U.S. pressure to release the hostages before the issue is decided by Iran's new Parliament.

The Revolutionary Council delayed taking control of the hostages Thursday and

Volcano Emergency Declared

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) - Ominous tremors again rattled Mount St. Helens, and Gov. Dixy Lee Ray declared a state of emergency around the rumbling, smoking volcano to clear a path in the event of a major eruption, which scientists say is likely.

"Harmonic tremors" twice shook the 9,766-foot peak in southwest Washington Thursday night. Scientists have said the tremors, which first occurred Wednesday, indicated movement of molten rock beneath the mountain that could erupt at any time.

"We do know the magma (molten material) is moving," geophysicist Bob (See VOLCANO, Page 2) demanded clarification from Washington of the U.S. response to Iran's conditions.

In response, White House press secretary Jody Powell "The American said, position has been clearly stated. We hope the authorities in Iran will carefully consider that position and the full implications of the situation before making a final decision."

Asked if this indicated President Carter might order new sanctions against Iran, Powell said it "generally was not productive to fix deadlines." But he conceded that his reference to the "clearly stated" U.S. position included past official pronouncements on possible retaliation.

The strong implication was President Abolhassan BaniSadr's demand Tuesday that Carter promise to refrain from hostilities, propaganda or provocation against Iran until its new Parliament now being elected decides whether the hostages should be freed. ABC-News reported that Bani-Sadr asked Carter in a telex to say he understood it was the Iranian Parliament's "right" to decide the fate of the hostages. The report said Carter responded in a telex that he understood that was the Iranian position and made no mention of Parliament's "right."

Publicly, however, Carter said Bani-Sadr's speech was a positive development and he would defer further sanctions for the time being.

Bani-Sadr said Wednesday that as far as he was conthat Carter has gone as far as cerned the United States had he is willing to in meeting met the conditions for the Senate Hikes Defense Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) -Senate budget-writers are proposing a balanced 1981 budget that pays for hefty defense spending increases by deeply cutting domestic programs and by trimming the federal bureaucracy by 5 percent.

On an 11-7 vote Thursday, the Senate Budget Committee added more than $5 billion to President Carter's proposed $150.5 billion defense budget. In all, the committee endorsed a $612.9 billion spending package.

The panel would compensate for the higher military spending largely through domestic cuts far deeper than either Carter or the House Budget Committee have recommended in their proposed budgets for fiscal 1981, which starts Oct.

The Senate panel approved Sen. James D. Exon's proposal to trim 5 percent from all government administrative functions, both civilian and military. That would save an estimated $2.9 billion. The Nebraska Democrat said his amendment was designed to tell the bureaucracy "we want a little · more productivity."

Added Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., "Some message has to be sent to the Department of Defense and every other agency that they can't do business as usual."

The committee's gunsover-butter approach was achieved by a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats that frequently overrode proposals from the panel's chairman, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

"We have really done a very, very evil job as far as the American people are concerned," said liberal Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio. "One by one we truly cut the guts out of the American people and the programs they need."

While the House committee and the president called for cuts in many social programs, their proposed reductions were much less severe. The House panel also recommended about $8 billion less for defense than the Senate committee.

Speaking to Young Farmers

State Senatorial candidate Bill Sarpalius, D-Hereford, addresses the local Young Farmers organization Thursday night at Hereford State Bank. Sarpalius told the group he understands the problems West Texas growers and ranchers face, such as the need for parity and the water shortage. Sarpalius is hoping to unseat Republican Bob Price of Pampa for the 31st District seat. His message to the Young Farmers will be carried in the farm section of Sunday's Brand. Holy Week Celebrated

JERUSALEM (AP) -Thousands of Christians of both Eastern and Western faiths labored under the weight of wooden crosses this Good Friday in a pilgrimage up the Via Dolorosa, the Street of Sorrows, to commemorate the crucifixion of Jesus. In a rare concurrence of calendars. Western and Eastern Orthodox churches celebrated Holy Week together this year, and the holy sites of Jerusalem's Old City were jammed with pilgrims saying devotions in a babel of languages.

Israeli security forces kept a discreet watch over the procession from Praetorium, where Christ was sentenced to the cross, to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre - the route of His walk to the crucifixion.

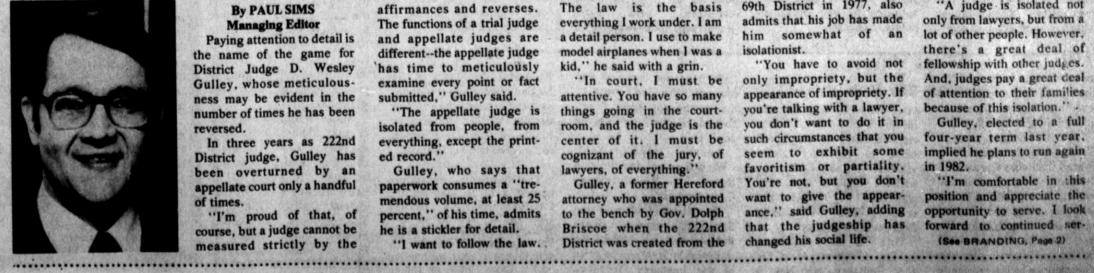

Led by Franciscan friars preceded by Moslem guides in medieval dress, the Roman Catholic procession stopped for prayers at the nine Stations of the Cross along the Via Dolorosa before filing into the Crusader church encompassing the last five stations.

Long lines of the devout moved slowly up the steep stairs inside the church to the site revered as Calvary site of the crucifixion - and formed outside mausoleum over the cave where tradition says Christ was entombed.

Gulley Works District Judgeship with Meticulousness

By PAUL SIMS Managing Editor

Paying attention to detail is the name of the game for District Judge D. Wesley Gulley, whose meticulousness may be evident in the number of times he has been reversed.

In three years as 222nd District judge, Gulley has been overturned by an appellate court only a handful of times.

"I'm proud of that, of course, but a judge cannot be measured strictly by the affirmances and reverses. The functions of a trial judge and appellate judges are different--the appellate judge has time to meticulously examine every point or fact submitted," Gulley said.

"The appellate judge is isolated from people, from everything, except the printed record.' Gulley, who says that paperwork consumes a "tremendous volume, at least 25 percent," of his time, admits he is a stickler for detail. "I want to follow the law.

The law is the basis everything I work under. I am a detail person. I use to make model airplanes when I was a kid," he said with a grin.

"In court. I must be attentive. You have so many things going in the courtroom, and the judge is the center of it. I must be cognizant of the jury, of lawyers, of everything." Gulley, a former Hereford attorney who was appointed to the bench by Gov. Dolph Briscoe when the 222nd District was created from the 69th District in 1977, also admits that his job has made him somewhat of an isolationist.

"You have to avoid not only impropriety, but the appearance of impropriety. If you're talking with a lawyer, you don't want to do it in such circumstances that you seem to exhibit some favoritism or partiality. You're not, but you don't want to give the appearance." said Gulley, adding that the judgeship has changed his social life.

"A judge is isolated not only from lawyers, but from a lot of other people. However, there's a great deal of fellowship with other judges. And, judges pay a great deal of attention to their families because of this isolation." -

Gulley, elected to a full four-year term last year. implied he plans to run again in 1982.

Cantu Put in House

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - A federal judge has ruled that self-styled revolutionary Mario Cantu does not have to go to prison but must serve five months in a halfway house and endure further restrictions for violating his five-year probation. The 42-year-old activistrestaurateur faced four years in prison after his probation was revoked last month for unauthorized 1978 trips to Mexico and a self-imposed, 14-month exile in Europe.

Cantu admitted making the trips, but said they were meant to call attention to what he claims are human rights violations against Mexican peasants and American Chicanos.

Cantu felt compelled by "deep moral convictions" to make those trips, his attorneys claimed.

But at the time, Cantu was serving a five-year probated sentence from a 1976 conviction for harboring illegal aliens at his popular Mario's Restaurant. The conditions of his probation prohibited unauthorized trips outside the Western District of Texas.

U.S. District Judge William Sessions said Cantu's constitutional freedom to speak out against the alleged violations overrode "technical" violations of his probation.

"I feel the court has shown compassion," Cantu said after the hearing. "I'm very happy to be free, to have time with my family."

"I think it was a fair decision, the right decision," said noted activist attorney William Kunstler of New York, one of Cantu's attorneys. "Even with the five months in the halfway house, it leaves him free to run his business and be with his family."

Offenders assigned to halfway houses usually are free during the day to attend to business and family matters, but must return to the facility at night.

Sessions was deluged with messages of support for Cantu, including letters from five Mexican-American Texas legislators and Roman Catholic Archbishop Patrick Flores, the church's first Mexican-American archbishop.

Among those letters was one from State Rep. Matt Garcia of San Antonio, who is considered the leading candidate to become commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. That agency, ironically, initiated the 1976 prosecution of Cantu.

The judge also received petitions signed by more than 500 supporters of Cantu.

Cantu's attorneys called nine witnesses, who testified that Cantu was a sincere man with deep political convictions, who is dedicated to helping others and working against human rights violations.

But during crossexamination, Assistant U.S. Attorney Fred Rodriguez brought out published reports in which Cantu was quoted as saying he supplied guns to Mexican revolutionaries and supported armed revolt.

Austin writer Dick Reavis, who accompanied Cantu on a trip to publicize a Mexican peasant uprising, said Cantu admitted helping smuggle the guns.

Under cross-examination, Cantu denied supplying any guns directly. But he acknowledged raising thousands of dollars for the rebels, which he said might have been used for weapons.

Cantu also said he supports armed revolution

Rodriguez pointed out Cantu's federal prison term in the 1960s for heroin trafficking, and several other; unauthorized trips Cantu made while on parole or probation. Cantu returned Feb. 19 from his exile in Europe. He was promptly jailed in lieu of : $100,000 bond, and later freed when his family posted $10,000 and guaranteed the rest.

Cantu claims the "ridiculous" bond was just another example of how the federal government has persecuted him for his political activism. He claims the 1976 jury conviction was. "selective prosecution."

Cantu never sought to have the $100,000 bond reduced, but said several times that it was political persecution.

Sessions sharply admonished Cantu for those "careless" statements, saying, "You have a responsibility, sir, to speak, but you must speak the truth." Sessions said he was accepting Cantu's word that Cantu would not violate his probation again. If he does, Sessions vowed he would not hesitate to put Cantu in prison.

Cantu said he has completed his political 'mission," and would live within the new probation restrictions. His probation will expire in 1982 since Sessions did not give him credit for the 14 unauthorized months in Europe.

In his closing statement, Kunstler said Cantu feels compelled by deep moral convictions to "accede to a higher law" like American revolutionaries John Hancock and Samuel Adams.

NEW YORK (AP) - Bus and subway workers demanded amnesty and transit officials served notice strikers will be docked doubles wages for the duration as thousands of New Yorkers trudged to work for a fourth day -this time under the threat of "lousy" weather. Mayor Edward Koch urged businesses in the nation's largest city to consider fourday work weeks in the face of the mass transit collapse.

And some officials began to worry that a prolonged shutdown of bus and subway lines could hurt New York's fragile economy - especially in the garment center.

"A strike settlement is not imminent," said Walter Gellhorn, head of the mediation panel that Thursday brought the striking union together with the Metropolitan Transportation Authority. "I'd say the parties' positions have hardened by reason of this stoppage."

John Lawe, head of the Transport Worker's Union, said the MTA had "taken a hard-nose position at the moment." He said the authority was holding to its 12 percent wage offer and had repudiated a mediator's suggested 16 percent boost.

Bus and subway workers, who earn an average $18,000 annually, are seeking a 25 percent raise over two years. The 5.5 million people who use mass transit were blessed the first three days of the strike with warm weather for walking and biking. But a National Weather Service forecaster abandoned meteorological jargon to predict today as "lousy...the whole day."

Worker's leaders were due in court today to hear MTA arguments that the union should be cited for contempt because it ignored a preliminary injunction against a strike. The MTA also contends the 35,000member union should be fined $1 million a day to offset overtime and other city.

Court agreement with his assessment could remove the threat of sanctions under the state Taylor Law, that prohibits strikes by public employees and provides for

Attorney Speaks To Study Club

Earnest Langley touched on a number of legal issues Tuesday afternoon when he addressed members of La Afflatus Estudio Club during a meeting in the Medallion Room of Rural Electric Cooperative building.

The attorney stressed the importance of having a will and keeping it up to date. He added that it is especially important to have a current will when there are minor children involved. He also recommended that an individual grant power-of-attorney so that necessary business can be conducted if none is unable to function due to

Ann Landers

Messy In-Laws

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been married to a wonderful man whose mother passed away unexpectedly. My husband was the only child.

I am writing this letter in the middle of the most incredible mess I have ever seen in my life. It's the bedroom of one of three residences my mother-in-law owned. She was a widow and lived alone.

In this four-bedroom apartment there are 44 coats. hundreds of pairs of slacks. several dozen blouses and racks of dresses, some 40 years old. She had shoes in every color and matching pocketbooks--about 30 pair.

Cothes are stacked on the floors of the closets and there are worms crawling all over them. The drawers are so full of junk I will have to get a crowbar to open them up. I'm sick to my stomach at the sight of the filth behind the couches and bookcases-wearing gloves to pick up things and throw them into the trash can. I would be ashamed to call the Salyation Army and ask them to come get this rubbish. We have two more houses to go, and I hope to heaven I last through this one.

The reason I am writing is to let your elderly readers know that one day they are going to leave this earth, and it's a terrible burden to surviving relatives to leave messes like this. Please. Ann, print my letter--Short on Compassion in Long Island

DEAR SHORT: Surely you realize your mother-in-law was unbalanced, or she could not have lived like that. Make allowances for her illness and don't feel that she laid this on you intentionally. Even though she was a fruitcake, she raised your "wonderful" husband, and that should count for something.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Bravo for your comeback to the gal who said she made the bars after work because they are the only places to meet men.

Tell that loony to open her eyes and look around. Men are everywhere. For example, at the grocery store checkout. Single males do their own marketing. They also take their clothes to the dry-cleaners. I've met some swell guys there--and at the laundromat, too.

The public libraries are great places to meet fellows who are into books. And this is a good year to do volunteer work for your favorite candidate. I have even met men at the veterinarians (and I don't have a dog--I was doing a favor for a friend).

The only men I ever met in bars were married--with wives who didn't understand them. But I did--and that's why I gave up prowling the pubs. You're on target. Ann.--Sandi From St. Pete

DEAR SANDI: So are you. Thanks for the tips, Honey. DEAR ANN LANDERS: I attended a luncheon at the home of a friend recently. Before we were seated, the hostess announced that her son had something to say to the guests. This 13-year-old lad got up

Inflation Causes 'Easter Blues'

By CORDA GLOVER

The old saying "some-thing old, something new, something borrowed and something blue" doesn't necessarily refer to blushing brides.

Easter, inflation, and instant poverty have all blown in together this year. I took the troops down to shop for some new spring duds and to my surprise all those numbers on the tag IS the price not the lot number. Somehow I'd rather have the feeling 79 and a half other people were wearing the same style dress than to have such a close relationship with the banker.

It came as a relief to both my banker and my small son when I decided he really didn't need a new suit after all; a new pair of slacks and sweater would do just fine.

Being a devoted and loving mother I had decided (during my shopping spree) that the children needed the clothes more than I and what I had would be fine. Wash day was a tremendous lift to my "Easter Parade Blues." Somehow a blue water color square had escaped the "pocket inspection" and to my surprise my spring clothes are blue.

With ecstatic joy I rushed to the store to buy some darling shoes and borrowed a hat from my grandmother (seems those things are in style again). So there I'll be in something old, something new, something borrowed, and something very, very AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -Gov. Bill Clements said Thursday President Carter's proposal to reduce federal anti-crime funds by $400 million is the equivalent of "giving aid and comfort" to criminals.

In recommending a budget of $177 million for the Law Enforcement Assistance Clements Administration, said, the president "turned his back and shut his eyes to the critical needs of law enforcement with full knowledge of the crippling were mailed to law officers, Boy Scout Uniform Changes with Times

A uniform to establish immediate identity for its members is a prime concern of the Boy Scouts of America. At the formation of the movement in 1910, providing a uniform was among the first of the major tasks accomplished by the founders. Illustrator and outdoorsman, Dan Beard, a National Scout Commissioner, and artist Ernest Thompson Seton, the first Chief Scout, are given credit for the first uniform.

Always conscious of the need for functional clothing and aware of the public's interest in wearing current styles, the Boy Scouts of America has modified the uniform through the years.

However, it has been 58 years since the redesign of the entire uniform. In 1922 a major change was announced as a new official model was proclaimed. Modified in style to become more of a field uniform, the components included hat, coat, shirt, breeches and stockings. For an expenditure of $3.50, a Scout could have a coat made of standard khaki. The regulation hat was $2.50; winter shirt, $2.20; and breeches, $2.55.

Lest prices bring nostalgia, consider the care required by the fabrics of that day. The catalogue gives the following instructions for washing:

"The cloth should be washed in luke warm water, with a soap similar to Ivory or any other which does not contain much alkaline matter. Lay the garment on a board, scrub thoroughly with a coarse brush. Do not under any circumstances rub the soap directly on the khaki, as this is injurious. Rinse, first in warm water, and then in cold water, to which at least two cups of coffee grounds have been added, which will help to maintain the original appearance of the khaki

"When rinsing it is not advisable to leave the impact it would have."

"The reduction of $400 million deals a killing blow to the LEAA program," the governor said, and "the people who will be most adversely affected by his actions are the poor and elderly - the most preyed on victims of crime."

Clements said if Congress fails to restore the funds, he would not "turn my back on our local and state law enforcement efforts."

The governor's comments garment an excessive time in water. "Garments should be wrung out with the hand and rough dried. Iron by using a piece of ordinary white drill material, as an ironing cloth.

to cover the garment." In 1926 the new outdoor service uniform was introduced and described as an 'undress' uniform for knocking about at camp and on the hike, cleanup campaigns, bird study up a tree, and all that sort of 'rough stuff.' Scouts could choose between an outdoor service outfit consisting of shirt with low v-neck collar and shorts or a dressier version with long sleeved shirt for merit badge use and cooler evenings. Through the 20's and 30's the official uniform was composed either of shorts or breeches with stockings. Commissioned Scout leaders could choose puttees made either of leather or of genuine

In 1943 trousers were introduced as part of the new official leader's uniform. Wartime fabric conservation dictated the elimination of the back belt and bellows pocket on the leader's coat. Trousers replaced the breeches for Scouts the following year. At the same time, field caps were introduced for leaders and Scouts as an optional selection in addition to the official hat. When Cub Scouts joined the group in 1930, they were given navy blue uniforms consisting of knickers with long stockings, and a jersey pullover. It was not until 1947 that full length trousers with western styling replaced the knickers.

Women leaders have found their uniform skirts following fashion's up's and down's. By the 1950's, women's uniforms evolved into sportswear separates that could be coordinated into the kind of outfit that best suited the

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -Two legislators said Thursday they would introduce legislation next year to require all quasi-public bodies created by the Legislature to comply with the Open Meetings Law.

Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, and Rep. Jerry Benedict, D-Angleton, said the 1979 Legislature created entities such as housing finance and industrial development corporations, and a number of these public bodies are trying to avoid open meeting requirements.

"Our state policy is clear and simple," Schwartz and Benedict said in a joint statement. "Public business must be handled publicly in open meetings."

DALLAS (AP) - A construction company owner, indicted Monday on theft charges arising from his dealings with the Dallas Independent School District, has become the target of a $1.3 million damage suit.

Carpet dealer Bob Atteberry filed the suit, claiming Oswalt - acting as head of the Maxwell Construction Co. - awarded him a contract for installing carpet at Sunset High School.

But Atteberry says in the suit that Oswalt caused construction to be delayed, then cancelled the contract prematurely. He claims actual losses of $662,000 and seeks a similar amount in punitive damages.

Oswalt was indicted by the Dallas County grand jury in connection with more than $250,000 in checks received from the school district's Foundation for Quality Education, Inc.

Another subcontractor. John Controls, Inc., filed suit last week claiming Oswalt owed the company $6,130 for Dallas schools.

PASADENA, Text. (AP) -William Lawrence Perrault, who will be 80 next month, is trying to figure out why a couple abducted and threatened to kill him and then released him without even robbing him.

Perrault, associate pastor of Faith Assembly of God, said the couple forced him into his car at gunpoint at a shopping center.

Perrault said his hands and legs were taped as the couple drove around some while before cutting the tape and telling him to lie on the back seat five minutes before moving.

"They were a little bit decent," he said. "My arm went to sleep and she rubbed it to restore the circulation. And she asked me to forgive

HOUSTON (AP) - An oil refinery supervisor is among four men indicted in a case involving the alleged theft of 2,000 gallons of gasoline.

George Godwin, an assistant district attorney, said the indictment alleges Rouse Lester Simpson, 53, the supervisor, was in a position to "allow the theft to occur" at the Atlantic-Richfield refinery.

Godwin said a second man handled the financial arrangements, a third hauled the gasoline, and a fourth sold it at a service station.

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) -Police say a marijuana raid near the Robert E. Lee High School led to the arrest of 15 students.

Lt. W.G. Sanders said the arrest of eight adult students and seven juveniles ended two weeks of surveillance in the area. The adults were charged with misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

HOUSTON (AP) - The State Board of Morticians has suggested Harris County change a practice under which private funeral homes notify the next of kin about deaths investigated by county medical examiners. In a letter to County Judge Jon Lindsay, Ann Lloyd, executive secretary of the board, said the practice opens the door for funeral homes to illegally solicit business from the families involved.

She said the state board recommends the county consider having personnel in the medical examiner's office notify the families.

HOUSTON (AP) - Riley Ray Fultz, 38, has received his second life prison sen-

Fultz was convicted as a habitual criminal on a charge of robbing the Texas Independence Bank in Pasadena of $23,000 in 1978 while an escapee from the Texas prison system.

Chris Hanger, an assistant district attorney, said Fultz was serving a life sentence for robbery when he escaped from prison in March 1978 and also robbed banks in Des Moines, Iowa, and Memphis, Tenn., before being arrested in Splendora early last year.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -The State Board of Education will hold a two-day meeting at Sam Houston State University in Huntsville, April 11-12.

The agenda includes a discussion of how to help school districts design more effective programs for students who were found deficient in basic skills in the statewide testing that ended March 12.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -Celanese Chemical Co. has given $20,000 to the University of Texas. The gift included $6,000 each to the departments of chemical engineering, mechanical engineering and chemistry.

WASHINGTON (AP) -President Carter on Thursday named Blandina "Bambi" Cardenas Ramirez of Austin, Texas, as a member of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

She is the director of development for the Intercultural Development Research Association in San Antonio, Texas.

From 1977 to 1979, she was the director of the children's bureau at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

HOUSTON (AP) - Robert

James Franks, 44, has been sentenced to life in prison after his 16th felony conviction. Matt Leeper, an assistant district attorney, said most of the convictions have been for theft. He said Franks has been in prison five times.

A jury convicted Franks as a habitual criminal on a charge of robbing a filmdeveloping store. He was sentenced by visiting District Judge Gene Jordan of Amarillo.

HOUSTON (AP) - A pilot automobile air pollution inspection program is getting off to a slow start.

California Angels Hope To Garner ALW Pennant

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Gene Autry, the Cowboy, the good guy in the white hat, owner of the California Angels, finally triumphed over the bad guys in the American League West last season. A half-pennant won't be enough satisfaction this

"I think we have the best team in our division and we should win again providing we play well," says Manager Jim Fregosi. "We gained a lot of experience by going through a pennant race and a championship series. It's part of maturing, part of growing up. I feel the team is ready to go all the way now."

The Angels were plagued by injuries last year but still scored 866 runs, most in the majors in 15 years. The ringleader was Don Baylor. who hit 36 homers, drove in 139 runs, scored 120 and won the Most Valuable Player Fregosi's major worries concern outfielders Dan Ford (knee surgery) and Joe Rudi (Achilles tendon) and the pitching staff - free agent Nolan Ryan has gone home to Texas and the Houston Astros, while Frank Tanana and Chris Knapp missed much of 1979. Hopefully, Tanana and Knapp will join Dave Frost and Bruce Kison, who jumped the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates, in the starting rotation.

In the bullpen, rookie standout Mark Clear slumped badly after a superb start and only the late-season acquisition of John Montague from Seattle enabled the Angels to fend off Kansas City.

California made a major off-season trade, sending first baseman Willie Aikens to Kansas City for outfielder Al Cowens. The presence of seven-time AL batting champion Rod Carew at first and Baylor for DH made Aikens expendable. Other

Kansas City stuck with Whitey Herzog through three division championships and no pennants - then fired him for finishing three games out. The new boss is long-time Baltimore coach Jim Frey.

Speedy Willie Wilson (83 steals), Amos Otis and Clint Hurdle, the heralded phenom flop of 1978, form the outfield. Veteran Hal McRae is the DH.

Dennis Leonard, Paul Splittorff and Larry Gura are capable starters but the key to the Royals' season probably will be how well Renie Martin and Dan Quisenberry man the bullpen with Al Hrabosky gone.

The Texas Rangers have a new owner and a- new starting pitcher. The former, septuagenarian Eddie Chiles, may be only slightly older than Gaylord Perry, who admits to 41.

The Rangers finished five games out last year despite one horrible stretch in which they lost 30 of 40 games. A healthy Jon Matlack, who missed most of last season with elbow miseries and won only five games, is a must. Ferguson Jenkins, Steve Comer and Doc Medich are the other starters, but one of them could lose out to fireballing Danny Darwin. Jim Kern and Sparky Lyle form a top-flight relief corps.

To guard against deep slumps in the Texas summer heat, Manager Pat Corrales will try not to use anyone in more than 130 games.

The Minnesota Twins keep losing free agents. Nevertheless, they finished only six games out last year but now must find a replacement for Dave Goltz in the rotation. There are serious questions behind starters Jerry Koosman and Geoff Zahn and bullpen ace Mike Marshall.

The Twins have a fine young catcher in Butch Wynegar, a solid infield of Ron Jackson, Rob Wilfong, Roy Smalley and John Castino, and a budding star in outfielder Ken Landreaux.

Like Minnesota, maverick Bill Veeck's Chicago White Sox have stayed away from the millionaire free agent market. Nevertheless, they have managed to develop an outstanding young pitching rotation - all left-handed of Ken Kravec, Richard Wortham, Ross Baumgarten and Steve Trout - plus Ed Farmer in the bullpen.

Elsewhere, however, there are too many questions, except for Lamar Johnson at first base or DHing, Alan Bannister and Jim Morrison somewhere in the infield, Chet Lemon in center field and Claudell Washington in left. Veeck is counting on a heralded young right fielder named Harold Baines whose nickname is "Cooperstown." The Seattle Mariners have promising pitchers in starters Mike Parrott, Rick Honeycutt, Floyd Bannister and Jim Beattie, with Shane Rawley and Byron McLaughlin in the bullpen. Bruce Bochte at first, Julio Cruz at second and DH Willie Horton are proven performers but the outfield received a blow with Juan Beniquez' shoulder injury.

And that leaves the Oakland A's of Charlie Finley ... and Billy Martin. Baseball's new Odd Couple should keep things hopping.

The A's have fine catching, led by Jeff Newman; dangerous bats in DH Mitchell Page, first baseman Dave Revering and third baseman Wayne Gross, and talented young outfielders in Rickey Henderson, Dwayne Murphy and Tony Armas.

Defending NBA Champ Seattle Downs Portland In Second Contest

By ALEX SACHARE

Associated Press Writer How effective is Seattle's pressure defense? Coach Lenny Wilkens feels it helped the Sonics win the National Basketball Association championship last year, and also helped them beat Portland in the opening game of the playoffs in defense of that title Wednesday night.

But Jack Ramsay, coach of the Portland Trail Blazers. remains confident his team can cope with Seattle's pressure tonight when the teams meet in Portland in the second game of the best-ofthree miniseries.

"Against their press, we THE THE PARTY OF T should score every time." said Ramsay. "It comes down to very basic things, like passing before we were ready to receive the pass or passing to where a person was maybe a half-count before."

Not doing those basics has brought the Blazers to the brink of elimination from the playoffs, whose field would be cut from 12 teams to eight if all the visiting teams win. In tonight's other first-round games, it's Phoenix at Kansas City, Houston at San Antonio and Philadelphia at Washington.

"Portland never has been a good ball-handling club," said Wilkens. "We will utilize the press again tonight, possibly a little more."

"Defense - that's how we really built the lead," said guard Gus Williams, who scored 35 points as Seattle raced to a 19-point thirdquarter margin and then held off the Blazers 120-110 in the series opener. "The fullcourt press got us some points. It got them out of their game a little."

The Sonics' pressure defense helped their guards account for 75 points against Portland, but Ramsay was more concerned by Seattle's 59-42 edge off the boards and ability to get Phoenix Coach John MacLeod felt the same way as he watched the Kansas City Kings put on a 17-3 spurt in the final four minutes before bowing 96-93. Kings guard Otis Birdsong felt his team was going to pull out the victory.

"We didn't think we were out of it," said Birdsong, who finished with 23 points after shooting just 2-for-12 in the first half. "I knew we could hang in there because of our defense. We were shooting so lousy, you knew we were going to start getting them to fall in."

MacLeod said both teams were tight early in the game. "That's typical of first games of miniseries. You don't have time for error because of the shortness of the series, so the teams try to get everything done. In Kansas City, I think you'll see two better teams because they'll be more relaxed."

Injuries could be a factor in the two Eastern Conference

Houston center Moses Malone has been hampered by a sprained ankle, and there's no telling how effective he will be against San Antonio. But he did manage to play 36 minutes and contribute 10 points and 13 rebounds to the Rockets' 95-85 opening victory over the

"That was really disappointing - a game that Moses didn't dominate, but we didn't win," said Spurs Coach Bob Bass. "We have just got to break their defense down."

The Spurs, who led the NBA with a 119.4 scoring average in the regular season, got only 11 points in the third quarter and 24 in the fourth quarter of the lowscoring opener, a game that Houston's Rudy Tomjanovich shaking his head.

"If people weren't familiar with the colors of the uniforms, they wouldn't have believed it was Houston and San Antonio," he said. "But the game was decided on defense, and that's what is going to decide the winner of the series. Both teams have such explosive offenses. The team that wins will be the one which can slow the other down just a little," he added.

Another injured player is Caldwell Jones, who had 18 points and 26 rebounds in Philadelphia's 111-96 victory over Washington. He sprained his left foot late in the game. X-rays were negative, but the Sixers said would not know till game time if Jones would play tonight.

Philadelphia is already sub-par physically, with Jones wearing a plastic mask to protect a broken nose, forward Julius Erving at about 75 percent because of a strained right knee and guard Maurice Cheeks battling recurring headaches and dizziness following a collision with New York's Bill Cartwright a week ago.

The Bullets were unable to play their power game in the openet, when Jones and Darryl Dawkins effectively neutralized Elvin Hayes and . Wes Unseld. Washington Coach Dick Motta knows this must change if his team is to

"We've got to attack inside," he said. "We didn't do that enough. Caldwell Jones had a lot to do with it, but again, they just wore us down. They beat us five of six during the regular season, and this is typical of the way they did it.

'What we have to realize is that we had 14 turnovers to their seven," he added. "You can't hope to beat the 76ers with that difference." LPGA's Palmer Says She Needs Game Improvement

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) - Sandra Palmer won the Winners Circle tournament five years ago, but she doesn't want to duplicate that performance in the 1980 edition of the ladies' richest golf tournament.

"I can't win this tournament now playing like I did in 1975; I've got to play better," said the 39-year-old Palmer after her opening round of 6-under-par 66 Thursday gave her a 2-stroke lead in the $305,000 tournament.

NEW YORK (AP) -Outside, on a busy midtown Manhattan street, two models dressed as Easter bunnies handed out chocolate eggs and jelly beans while a Dixieland band serenaded New Yorkers stranded by the city's mass transit strike.

Inside, negotiators for management and the players attacked the baseball strike without benefit of those springtime goodies.

They did have federal

Moffett and the two sides set up a schedule of seven meetings over the next three weeks in an effort to settle the dispute that wiped out the final 92 games of the spring training exhibition season and threatens to interrupt the regular season just before Memorial Day.

scheduled for next Tuesday

The first meeting is Auto Teams Reach Agreement

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) -Peace has come to championship auto racing after a turbulent 17-month struggle that threatened to strangle Indianapolis-style racing.

Representatives of the U.S. Auto Club and Championship Auto Racing Teams have reached agreement, after months of bickering, threats and cajoling, on the formation of a Championship Racing League.

Members of both groups will take part in CART's Twin 200 race at Ontario, Calif., on April 13, as well as the USAC race at Texas International Raceway on April

The original dual schedule of 27 races will be pared to a single slate of "about 15," with each race run this year under the rules set by its original sanctioning body.

The agreement, announced jointly Thursday by Dick King, USAC president, and Pat Patrick, chairman of CART's board of directors, was finalized Wednesday at a marathon meeting in Hot Springs, Ark. The release said the CRL expects by July 1 to develop a single set of rules on such things as allowable manifold pressure and the use of articulated skirts on the recently developed ground effects cars

"USAC did what we asked for 17 months ago, and that was to give us a voice in what's going on," Patrick said. "I just want to get the details worked out and go racing.'

King said he isn't happy * about using two sets of rules this year, but added: "It's a way to get together. It will create difficulties, but if it brings peace in the family, it's the right thing to do."

The CRL will be administered and sanctioned by USAC, with two CART directors - Patrick and car owner Roger Penske added immediately to the USAC Board of Governors. The CRL's six-man Board of Governors will be comprised of King, Patrick, Penske, veteran driver A.J. Foyt and car owners Rolla Vollstedt and Jim Hall. Car owners Sherman Armstrong and Bob Fletcher were named as alternates. The members of CART, most of the top teams and drivers in champ car racing. broke away from USAC in October of 1978 in an effort to gain a stronger voice over the rules and regulations of the exotic sport. Both groups ran their own races in 1979, with each encountering serious problems putting together strong fields and drawing fans.

Sponsors and accessory companies , heavily involved in champ car racing were particularly happy about the end of the feud.

Leo Mehl, director of racing for Goodyear, which supplies all the tires for champ car racing, was the most outspoken.

"Both CART and USAC are to be highly commended for putting aside their differences and forging an agreement in the best interests of the entire sport."

Referring to reports that 27 news cars have been built for the new season, Mehl added, "When you take all the new cars that have been built by members of both organizations and put them together in one series, you're talking about the kind of racing that could draw over a million spectators in 1980."

Dickey Expected To Lead Field

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -Curtis Dickey fans will get their money's worth at the 53rd Texas Relays beginning tonight.

Dickey is the talented Texas A&M University senior who packages a rare combination of power and speed on a 6-foot-2, 215pound frame.

The Aggie four-year football and track letterman, who will likely be selected in the first round of the National Football League draft April 29, is the NCAA 60-yard indoor dash champion.

He is also a world-class sprinter in the 100-meter. Tonight, Texas A&M

Track Coach Charlie Thomas springs a surprise by letting Dickey leadoff the first 200 meters of the 800-meter

Religious Roundup

WASHINGTON (AP) - In the wake of the assassination of El Salvador's poplular Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero, both U.S. Protestants and Roman Catholic leaders are mounting protests against proposed U.S. military aid to that country.

Romero himself had written a letter to President Carter urging the United States not to send arms or military advisers to that strife-torn nation.

Pleas that his advise be heeded were issued by Archbishop John R. Quinn of San Francisco, president of the U.S. National Conference of Catholic Bishops, its secretary, Bishop Thomas C. Kelly, and also by the National Council of Churches. The council, including most major U.S. Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations, launched a letter-writing campaign aimed at Carter and key members of Congress, which is considering a proposed $5.7 million military grant to El Salvador.

"We urge that all U.S. military and economic assistance to El Salvador stop immediately," a sample letter says.

WASHINGTON (AP) -Roman Catholic and several community needs." Protestant bodies are strongly protesting proposals of the Federal Communication Commission to deregulate commercial radio. There is no evidence the "proposed radical changes would benefit anybody," says the Office of Communication of the United Church of Christ in comments filed with the agency. The Communication Department of the U.S. Catholic Conference calls the proposals "an abdication of the FCC's regulatory responsibility in the broadcast field."

Among other things, the proposals would eliminate requirments on license applicants to ascertain community needs and interests, remove regulations limiting commercials to 18 minutes per hour, lift requirements that a minimum amount of time be used for news and public affairs and do away with present program-logging requirements.

The Protestant agency called for a sweeping overhaul of the FCC approach, recommending that station licensees fulfill their public service obligations by contributing 5 percent of station revenues to local groups to "provide broadcast service that responds to

DEAR POLLY - I spilled some car wax on the carit. - DOREEN

DEAR DOREEN - Scrape off any excess wax with a dull knife. Cover the wax with paper towels and then iron over the towels with a warm iron. If you see the towel absorbing the wax keep moving to a clean place, or use fresh towels.

If that does not work use a non-flammable dry cleaning fluid. Sponge with a clean cloth. Get the hot iron out of the way before you bring out the cleaning fluid. —

DEAR POLLY - For the past five years I have lived on a fixed income - pensions and Social Security - and have managed to stay solvent and healthy both physically and I prepare good meals for myself and freeze the leftovers and about twice a month I have a feast that is already prepared. I cook vegetables from scratch - no frozen ones. eat few desserts and those I eat I make with nut or fruit breads and a nutritional spread that I make with peanut butter, margarine, honey and dark molasses. It is great when the bread is toasted. My cure for boredom is to have three or four parties a year with a variety of people with different backgrounds and of different ages. I have wall to wall people who are not all intimate friends and relatives. I put my most elegant recipes to work. Make punch for those who do not imbibe and have mixed drinks for those who do but restrict them so no one Do not place John and Mary who eat together every day side by side — mix them up so everyone enjoys someone different. You can sing, dance, play music or cards or just have great conversations. I have been a widow for more than 10 years. After that first alone period I knew my well-being depended on my own initi-ative, so I have developed warm friendships and enjoy a rea-sonably good social life even though I do not date. I am active in a couple of women's groups, but my social life is mainly with couples. I am involved in community affairs, read extensively, am interested in politics, church and friends of the past Try my plan. It will not be easy for a while but do not give up. — A Small Towner from Illinois.

Thanks for your letter, Small Towner, I am sure many will be helped and inspired by it. — POLLY

What is fast heart?

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a tion about heart rates, I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-8, Your Heart Rate: female, age 48, and I weigh 130 pounds and I'm 5 feet 4. I have a heartbeat of 100 per minute. I've been told that a What It Means. Other readers what it Means. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019 normal rate is from 60 to 80. Is this a normal heart rate for me or should I be on medi-cine? I've read that Inderal and other medicines are given for irregularities. I've been New York, NY 10019. told that I do not have heart In the final analysis, if it turns out that you don't have an overactive thyroid and don't have any medical prob-lems and that your heart and disease and I went through the treadmill examination and electrocardiogram and they just said that my heart was a circulation are perfectly normal, then I think you better look to your lifestyle. Specifically, eliminate coffee, tea and all the beverages that ittle fast. The doctor does want to send me to have my valves checked. He thinks it might be a malfunction of a valve. Does this mean I have heart trou-ble? I was on Inderal for a short time but was taken off because it was making me drowsy. I do have some dizziness but I understand it could be due to my midlife. The doc-tor also told me I had a noise in there. What did he mean by noise? Could the noise be from my nerves or anything other than valve trouble?

DEAR READER - Heart rates are extremely variable. A normal person can have a relatively fast heart rate if he or she gets excited. That's why we see top athletes having high resting heart rates for days immediately before competition. We usually say that the resting heart rate in a normal person should be between 50 and 100 beats per minute but, in truth, in healthy people who are not anxious, the rate should be less than 80 beats per minute. Sometimes it will be faster because a person uses a lot of coffee or cigarettes or is in poor physical condition. But if none of those factors are true and an individual is in good health and good physical condition, resting heart rates are usually below 80. If your doctor heard a noise in there, he's probably telling you that he thinks you have a heart murmur. These are sounds created by the circulation and they're caused by the turbulence of blood. This can be associated with an active circulation as might occur with somebody who's anxious or even a person who has an overactive thyroid gland. Or the turbulence can be associated with a valve defect. Of course, your examinations will have to determine whether you really have a valve defect.

I don't think any meaningful decision can be made about your heart rate until the status of your heart and gen-eral health has been clarified but I would like to reassure you that normal people can have fairly high heart rates if they're anxious.
