

Tie bids put city in bind

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

The Hereford city commission will ask for the re-submission of bids for seal coating city streets after two contractors submitted practically identical bids.

"I think to exclude our company because we don't live locally... I don't think that's fair," said Amarillo road contractor L.A. Fuller in last night's Hereford City Commission meeting.

Fuller's lengthy plea to reconsider a recommendation to accept a bid made by Appian Corporation, a local company, motivated city commissioners to re-open the bids for the road seal coating contract.

In an unprecedented situation, the initial round of bids saw two contractors, Appian and Fuller, submit the exact same bid at $91,492.

"In 35 years as city attorney, I've never seen this happen before," said Earnest Langley.

The tie led to a dilemma for city officials.

"After reviewing the proposals, it would be staff recommendation that we would award the contract to our local company," wrote City Manager Darwin McGill in the commission meeting agenda.

Also taken into consideration were the number of days given for job completion in the contract bids. Fuller submitted a 60 day time frame while Appian submitted 45 days.

Fuller was adamant in his presentation to the commission that his firm, as a local company, did not receive preferential treatment when bidding against Appian on Amarillo contracts. He said that he did not feel Appian should receive preferential treatment from Hereford officials.

"That's not necessarily true," said Ted Reece, a representative from the Amarillo City Manager's office, concerning Fuller's assertion that Amarillo would not award a tie bid to the local firm.

In a telephone interview, Reece indicated that state law instructs city officials to do just that. House Bill 1100, Chapter 243, indicates that, in the instance of a tie bid between a local and a non-resident, the bid should be awarded to the local business.

Following Fuller's statements, city commissioners decided to re-open the bidding procedure for the project. Previous bids will be (See CITY, Page 2)

Belcher resigns as girls' coach

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Hereford athletic director Don Cumpton is searching for a head girls' basketball coach today after Frank Belcher, who had filled that post for the past two years, resigned Saturday at the regular meeting of the Hereford school board.

Belcher's resignation means that both head basketball coaching positions are vacant. Boys' coach Mike Fields resigned that job earlier this month.

Cumpton and the board are also considering changes in the way the girls' athletics program is structured, and a public meeting has been scheduled for Monday at 7 p.m. at the school administration building to hear public comments about possible changes in the way the basketball programs are structured in the Hereford public schools.

One possible change would be establishing an assistant athletic director in charge of girls' programs.

If approved, the assistant AD would be involved in all personnel in the girls' program; evaluate coaches; oversee and administer the volleyball, cross-country, girls' basketball, girls' track and tennis programs, and administer budgets for those sports.

All coaches in those program would answer to and go through the assistant AD. The assistant would keep the athletic director informed about all personnel and program, work directly with the athletic director concerning all aspects of those sports, and help set up and approve schedules before they are presented to the athletic director.

Another change that is being considered is a reduction in the number of basketball teams in grades 7-9.

This year, there were four seventh grade teams of equal strength, two "A" and two "B" teams in the eighth grade, and two equal teams in the ninth grade in boys' and girls' basketball.

"The original plan was to have two "A" and two "B" teams in the seventh grade," Cumpton said. "However the junior high district voted to make the seventh grade teams equal because of 'the newness of the kids,'" Cumpton said.

"After some research and talking to people around the state, a possible change would be to have the better athletes play together more and give them an opportunity for more individual instruction," Cumpton said. "We would consider two seventh grade teams that are equal teams, and an 'A' and a 'B' team in both the eighth and ninth grades." (See CUMPTON, Page 2)

Seats still open in local election

Not only is the political pot not boiling for city, school and hospital candidates, it's not even lukewarm.

With the filing deadline coming up Wednesday for city commission and school board places, only the three incumbents have filed for the city race, while the school board has two places up for election and only one incumbent has filed.

The filing deadline for the hospital board is April 1. The local elections are scheduled May 6.

Mayor Wes Fisher has announced for reelection on the city commission, as have incumbent commissioners

Tom LeGate, Place 3, and Sylvana Juarez, Place 1.

Shirley Wilson will seek reelection to the school board from single-member district 5. The term of Kathy Moore, single-member district 4, also expires but she had not announced as of this morning.

Three places are up for election on the hospital board and one incumbent, Dr. Gerald Payne, has announced he will not seek reelection. Incumbents Ralph Detton, current board president, and Raymond Schroeder have not announced.

Schools turn down DHR

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The Hereford school board will go back to the table with the Texas Department of Human Resources (TDHR) after turning down a $10,400 grant from TDHR for a pilot program to encourage school-age parents to remain in school.

The program would have provided for a person to contact teen-age parents who have not returned to school after their child was born, to help find and possibly provide day care for their child, and to encourage the parent to return to school.

The program would also have provided in-home care when the child is sick and provided materials on parenting skills.

A motion to approve the plan failed 4-3. The biggest roadblock: providing day care for parents who could not afford day care, and the time of the year.

Students who have been out of school for the spring semester or longer could not earn credits toward graduation, even if they attended summer school. The funding was earmarked to run only through August 31.

Board members, by consensus, instructed Superintendent Charles Greenawalt to talk with TDHR officials to see if they could have the funds needed to pay the salary of someone to try to contact as many school-age parents as possible to encourage them to return to school.

According to figures supplied by board member Sylvia Flores, there were 99 school-age mothers in Deaf Smith County on Jan. 1, eight percent of the county's 1,231 females from ages 13-19.

"Schools are being told to take on more responsibilities, to teach every single thing, including morals," said board member Kathy Moore, who visited with state officials recently in Austin concerning a similar program being pushed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby along with other concerns. "Once you start a program like this, you're into it, and if you accept their dollars, you have to follow their guidelines."

Moore and board member Steve Coneway suggested the board look at instituting a program using local-taxpayer dollars.

"I'd like to poll the taxpayers on this," Coneway said. "I would bet the (See SCHOOL, Page 2)

DSEC celebrates good 1988

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Members of Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative celebrated a better 1988 at its annual meeting Saturday at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn in Hereford.

Members attending the meeting received capital credit checks for $354,173 on profits made by the cooperative in 1974 and learned that 1988 was, overall a good year.

"The cooperative is in good shape," said board member Donald Wright. "It was a year of contrast because the first eight months of the year we had above normal rainfall, and it was dry in the last four months."

"We recently filed a rate case with the Texas Public Utilities Commission to restructure some charges and raise some of our rates to fill in the valley between winter and summer."

Wright also told the crowd which packed the Bull Barn that a reduction in the wholesale fuel cost had led to price reductions for DSEC members.

DSEC manager James Hull said the cooperative netted $402,482 in 1988, compared with $103,583 in 1987.

"Your cost was considerably lower (18 percent) per kilowatt hour," Hull told the crowd. "In kilowatt hours used we were down 28 percent, and that is significant. We would have had a $2.5 million reduction in revenue had the usage and rates been the same as in 1987."

"We have requested the PUC to make some changes, and the irrigation rate is probably the most important. The $4 charge for the last seven years has not been universally liked. We would like to go strictly on the kilowatt hours based on horsepower, and reduce the minimum to five horsepower."

"The rates changes by the month, so you need to be very aware of when your irrigation meters are read."

Hull said the rate for a total electric home would be lowered about 25 percent if the proposal is approved by the PUC.

"The entire package would have an overall increase of four percent," Hull said. "That should increase our revenues by $500,000."

"Our equity is very high, and all financial indicators say the cooperative is sound."

During the business session, members re-elected Jerry Roberts and Wendol Christian to the DSEC board.

Patty Bryant, who works in public relations in Amarillo and is the wife of Bob Bryant, president of Golden Spread Electric Cooperative, spoke to the crowd about her involvement in the National Rural Electric Women's Association and urged increased involvement in NREWA.

Bryant said the NREWA is involved in national projects that have included literacy, fire safety, women's health and children's safety; assisting local and state organizations to promote better life in rural America; and help improve communication skills.

"The cooperatives began with people helping one another, and that continues today," Bryant said.

"The cattle industry is a vital spoke in the economic wheel of Texas," Gramm said in a news release. "Cattle was a mainstay of our state's economy long before oil and is an important partner in our future."

"thrown out" and the entire process begun again.

"I don't want to discourage outside bidders. I'd sure go along with a re-bid," said City Commissioner Tom LeGate.

Commissioners also continued a discussion of water rates for industrial customers and a proposed waste water plant at the vacant Swift's plant southwest of Hereford.

"If we're going to be able to develop that area out there into a food park... we almost have to have a method of waste disposal to offer," said City Commissioner Bud Eades.

A recent study of the site indicated that an investment of $637,000 would be needed to create an adequate waste water facility. City officials are researching a possible grant which would fund 60 percent of that project.

No action was taken by the commission concerning the proposal.

"I don't think there's anything we can do until there's a project to consider," said Mayor Wes Fisher.

Commissioners voted to raise the senior citizen and student weekday rates at the Hereford Municipal Golf Course. Senior citizen rates will go from $1 to $3, and student rates will increase from $2 to $3.

The $100 annual senior citizen fee will remain the same. In last night's vote, commissioners also decided to offer students the $100 annual fee as well.

Langley was instructed to make specified changes to Electrical Ordinance #819 and Plumbing Code Ordinance #802 in a unanimous vote by the commission. Once those changes are made, the commissioners will vote on the amended ordinances at a later date.

A bid was awarded to Baker Graphics of Amarillo for the purchase of a Harris/3M photocopier to be used in the police department. Cost of that machine is $2,920.25.

In a final action, commissioners instructed McGill to prepare specifications to replace the carpet and drapes at the Municipal Airport.

CUMPTON

Cumpton said that no students would be "cut" from the basketball program in the lower grades.

"We won't eliminate anyone," Cumpton said. "Every student who has an interest in baseball will participate in basketball during the athletic period in the school day, where basic fundamentals will be stressed.

"Players coming back after school will be members of teams that are suiting out. Every child may not suit out for every game, but the opportunity for each child to improve their skills would be there during the athletics period of the school day.

"This plan would allow us to keep every student in the program, the more accomplished student could play together, and every student would have the chance to improve. It would allow for more competitive teams, and all coaches could give more individual instruction to their basketball players.

"The actual students suiting up for game may change from week-to-week. That will depend upon the progress they make during the workouts that take place within the school day."

Cumpton stressed that all youngsters in the program will be treated fairly, and said the plan is only one possible suggestion.

"When we have employed our head basketball coaches, I feel very strongly they need to have some input into what we need to do with our feeder program," Cumpton said.

"Our philosophy for the feeder program to the varsity level will remain the same, which means as long as a youngster goes to practice, is eligible, and has a good attitude, they will be allowed to participate in game situations.

"Our No. 1 goal is still to do what is best for the kids of this community and give them a chance to develop to their full potential."

Cumpton interviewed one coach for the girls' position on Monday, and has "14 or 15 good prospects" for the boys' position.

Today's highlight in history:

On March 21, 1963, the Alcatraz federal prison island in San Francisco Bay was emptied of its last inmates at the order of Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, after three decades of housing some of America's most notorious criminals, including Al Capone and George "Machine Gun" Kelly.

On this date:

In 1685, composer Johann Sebastian Bach was born in Eisenach, Germany.

In 1804, the French civil code, the "Code Napoleon," was adopted.

In 1918, during World War I, Germany launched the Somme Offensive, hoping to break through the Allied line before American reinforcements could arrive.

In 1945, during World War II, Allied bombers began four days of raids over Germany.

Ten years ago: The Egyptian Parliament unanimously approved a peace treaty with Israel while the Knesset continued debate on the pact and Saudi Arabia's press called for all-out war with the Jewish state.

Five years ago: Prosecutors in Dallas announced they were dropping aggravated robbery charges against Lenell Geter, a black man who had been convicted of the crime and sentenced to life in prison. (Geter, who claimed to have been the victim of racism and shoddy police work, had been freed the previous December after news reports raised questions about his conviction.)

One year ago: The Sandinista government of Nicaragua and U.S.-backed Contra rebels began three days of talks in the border town of Sapoa by exchanging cease-fire proposals and agreeing to a truce during the negotiations.

Today's birthdays: Bandleader Mort Lindsey is 66. Actor Al Freeman Junior is 55.

Famous Americans portrayed at Walcott School program

The students of Walcott Elementary School recently participated in a program commemorating many of America's most famous historical figures.

The program included the entire student body and was highlighted with many familiar songs.

The story was about a young girl, played by Katie McWhorter, who was trying to finish a homework assignment. Several historical figures who traveled through time came to offer their assistance.

The characters and the children who portrayed them were: Sam Adams, Emily McWhorter; Benjamin Franklin, Len Secrest; Paul Revere, Tracy Forester; Betsy Ross, Yvonne Meiwes; George Washington, Goyo Chavez; Harriet Tubman, Bree Perrin; Davy Crockett, Keith Meiwes; Annie Oakley, Meredith McGowan; Mark Twain, Colt Perrin; Wright Brothers, Cameron Turner and Brent Coleman; Susan B. Anthony, Misty Meyer; Amelia Earhart, Brenda Perry; Martin Luther King, Jody Hodges; and Sally Ride, Sarah Perrin.

The program provided students with an opportunity to learn about many history-making Americans and ended on a patriotic note as the American flag was unfurled and the group sang, "God Bless the U.S.A."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a sponsor of a Third World Child, but I feel strongly that we should teach the women in the underdeveloped countries about birth control. They should not be breeding like animals, out of ignorance. I don't understand how those undernourished women have the strength to carry and give birth to babies.

Can't the organizations that do such a good job of organizing the feeding of these people figure out how to address this problem? If birth control methods were taught and provided in these countries, the health and well-being of these people would improve dramatically and they would no longer need so much aid.

I realize that all people, underprivileged included, have the right to be parents, but I also believe that if they can't feed their children they have no right to bring them into the world. What kind of love is it that can look into the eyes of a starving child, knowing that the child will die of malnutrition?

Feeding these children is like trying to empty the Atlantic Ocean with a teaspoon in a rainstorm. I am happy to do my share, but I know it is not the answer. Do you have the courage to address this issue?--E.H., Victoria, Tex.

women has been sharply reduced. How shortsighted can we get!!!!

To those who feel that birth control is a sin, I'd like to ask, is it less of a sin to bring children into the world who are destined to die of starvation?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We have been married for 20 years. My husband's idea of love is paying the bills. "Joe's" life revolves around alcohol, the club, his bookie and watching TV. We do nothing together. Sex is squeezed in at half-time.

We had friends and family over for Christmas dinner. Joe took his plate and went into the bedroom to call his bookie.

I've tried to talk to him and have written several letters in an effort to get him to understand what alcohol and his lack of interest in his family is doing to our marriage. He says, "You're right," but nothing changes.

Joe complains because our teenage son doesn't spend time with him. How can you "spend time" with someone who is never home or is passed out in front of the TV? I have learned to look to family and friends for companionship.

Have men changed in this generation? Are they afraid of a relationship or have we spoiled them? They seem to be living separate lives. I need some new idea because nothing I do is working.--Greensboro, N.C.

DEAR GREENSBORO: Your husband's problem is booze and

Today's Herd-Canyon game postponed

The Hereford Whitefaces will have to savor their win last Saturday at Pampa while longer: the snow and cold weather has led to the postponement of the today's Canyon-Hereford baseball game until 4:30 p.m. Thursday at Whiteface Field.

The Herd is coming off a 10-7 win at Pampa last Saturday that improved the Herd to 2-0-1 in District 1-4A.

The Herd boosted Jason Scott, now 4-0 on the year, to the win with a five-run fourth-inning outburst when the Herd sent 10 batters to the plate that gave Hereford a 6-0 lead.

Scott had pitched three perfect innings before Pampa touched him for two runs each in the fourth and seventh innings and three runs in the fifth.

Scott drove in two runs with a double, while right fielder Keith

Brown and center fielder Clint Cotten also doubled for the Herd.

Hereford is now 1 1/2 games behind Estacado, who is 3-0 in district after a 24-3 blowout at Dumas on Saturday.

The Eagles are 6-2-1 on the year and are coming off an 8-7 win over 3A top-ranked team, Brownfield, in last weekend's Snyder Tournament.

Hereford baseball fans don't have to be reminded of what happened last season between Canyon and Hereford, but just in case:

Hereford won the District 1-4A championship, while Canyon won a mini-tournament that included Dumas and Estacado here for the second-place berth in the playoffs.

The Eagles caught fire in the playoffs, and came through to meet the Herd in a best-two-of-three series in the state quarterfinals.

Hereford won the first game, but the Eagles came back to win the next two games and a berth in the state tournament.

After last school year, Canyon was split into two high schools, Canyon and Randall. Canyon High is now a Class 3A school, and retains some of the underclassmen on last year's team.

Rose facing 'serious allegations'

PLANT CITY, Fla. (AP) - Pete Rose is being investigated by major league baseball over "serious allegations" that, according to a source, could result in a suspension for the Cincinnati Reds manager.

Rose's gambling reportedly is the subject of the investigation, revealed Monday in a statement by Commissioner Peter Ueberroth and Commissioner-elect A. Bartlett Giamatti.

"The office of the commissioner, which was founded to preserve the integrity of the game, has for several months been conducting a full inquiry into serious allegations involving Mr. Pete Rose," the statement said.

The statement made no mention of any possible action against Rose, noting major league baseball's investigation isn't complete. But a baseball source, who asked not to be identified, said a suspension is a possibility.

John M. Dowd, a trial lawyer with the Washington firm of Heron, Burchette, Ruckert & Rothwell, is leading the investigation as special counsel to the commissioner. Dowd, 47, headed a Justice Department organized crime task force from 1972 to 1978 and led investigations of the FBI and of former Pennsylvania Rep. Dan Flood.

Dowd said Monday he has been investigating Rose for about a month. He said he didn't know how much longer the inquiry will last.

"It's dictated by the facts and circumstances. I have no idea," Dowd said. He would not discuss the nature of the investigation.

The statement from the commissioner's office said that when the investigation is finished, "the commissioner will consider the information presented and take whatever action is warranted by the facts." Rose and Reds general manager Murray Cook declined comment on the investigation.

Rose, normally outspoken, answered all questions about the investigation with "no comment," then apologized for being tight-lipped.

"Sorry. I know you're just trying to do your job," Rose told reporters in his office. "I appreciate that."

"If something happens, when it happens, I'll talk about it then."

Asked whether he expects something to happen, Rose said, "No comment."

Cook said he hadn't asked Rose the particulars of the allegations, and that the Reds aren't conducting an investigation of their own. He said he'll wait for the commissioner's office to make its decision before taking any action.

Asked whether he was concerned about the possibility of losing his manager, Cook said, "I have no comment on any of that. How can you make a comment if you don't know what it is? I don't want to speculate on anything."

Rose served a one-month suspension last May for shoving former umpire Dave Pallone over a disputed call at first base. Giamatti, the National League president, handed down the suspension and declined to rescind it following a hearing with Rose in New York. Rose contended the one-month suspension was too severe a penalty.

Rose was summoned to New York last month for what the commissioner's office termed a meeting to get Rose's advice on an undisclosed matter. Rose's gambling reportedly was a subject at the meeting Feb. 20.

Rose later denied a published report that said he bet on college basketball games. He declined to say whether track wagers were discussed in the meeting with Ueberroth, Giamatti and other baseball executives.

"Sure, I go to the racetracks - I own a couple of thoroughbreds," Rose said at the time. "But I never patronize race tracks like some guys, when I'm supposed to be at the baseball park; only on off-days."

Baseball personnel are prohibited from betting on baseball games, but they are allowed to make legal bets at tracks, a common pastime for baseball players and managers. However, baseball personnel have been suspended for associating with gamblers.

Schramm pushing new whistle

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) - Tex Schramm, who has lobbied for four years to keep his instant replay dream alive, thinks he's finally discovered what he calls "the missing link" to retaining it permanently.

An electronic whistle. An electronic whistle that reproduces an asterisk on videotape when a whistle is blown.

An electronic whistle that demonstrated to NFL owners Monday that a disputed call that may have decided the Houston-Cleveland AFC wild-card game was wrong on two counts.

The owners are expected to vote either today or Wednesday on keeping instant replay - perhaps making it permanent. And, as it has been for the past four years, the 21 votes it needs from the 28 teams is only a maybe.

Enter the whistle, which places on the monitor of the replay official an asterisk at the exact time it is blown. That allows the replay official to know when the play has ended and, in Schramm's opinion, will eliminate long delays that have plagued the system.

"It takes away one of his options," said Schramm, president of the Dallas Cowboys and chairman of the league's competition committee. "Now he knows when the whistle blew. It's very unsatisfying to have to sit and wait to know when he blew the whistle."

To demonstrate the system, Schramm and Miami Coach Don Shula showed a tape of the key play in the Houston-Cleveland game, which came Ed Jucker of Cincinnati posted the best winning percentage for a coach in the NCAA basketball tournament for a minimum of 10 games. His squads won 11 and lost one for a .917 percentage from 1961-63.

The Cincinnati Bengals wore a small blue patch on their uniforms for the 1988 season. It read: "Cincinnati 1788-1988," connoting the city's bicentennial.

with the Oilers leading 14-9 in the third quarter. Warren Moon dropped back to pass, threw the ball backward to running back Allen Pinkett, who dropped it at his own five, where Cleveland's Clay Mathews recovered.

The replay showed the pass was clearly a lateral, but after five minutes of review at the game, it was ruled that the whistle had blown - when the ball was dropped - by an official who believed the pass was forward. The experimental whistle, in use at the game, showed, however that the whistle didn't blow until after Mathews had recovered.

So instead of Cleveland getting possession, Houston retained it and went on to win 24-23.

"This was the missing link in the whole system," Schramm said. "Now we can unequivocally say what happened."

Opponents, however, weren't satisfied.

"Change? Hah!" said George York Giants and an opponent of replay from the start. "The game should be decided by the officials on the field. The officials are there to officiate and that's what they should do."

Monday's meeting was devoted to a state of the league speech by Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who strongly urged teams to hire more blacks for front office and coaching jobs.

Rozelle said later that he hoped that an international minor league with 10 to 12 teams might be able to start play by the spring of 1990. But he said no concrete plans had as yet been developed for the league.

"It's possible that we could begin as soon as next spring," he said. "Probable, I don't know?"

The NFL has discussed international play since 1974.

But not until the last four years, when a series of exhibition games in London has whetted the appetite of British fans for American football, has going overseas become likely. It became even more likely after NBC became interested in televising a spring minor league and Rozelle broached that proposal at a meeting three weeks ago of the NFL's long-range planning and finance committees in New Orleans.

But others think the idea has gone back even longer.

"I've been saying it for 20 years," said Al Davis, managing general partner of the Los Angeles Raiders.

"We really had that idea in mind back in 1964, when we started what was the first mini-camp. The difference is we couldn't see them against regular competition."

Rozelle said the new league might include four different classes of players: free agents; players coming off injuries; backups "like third string quarterbacks," and players chosen in low rounds of what might be an earlier draft.

The meeting was also marked by the first national news conference by

Abbott will start, but where not known

By The Associated Press

Jim Abbott, the California Angels' one-handed pitcher, will be part of someone's starting rotation this season. The question is whose?

"I'm being convinced that if he's not starting his ability wouldn't be best served," California manager Doug Rader said Monday after Abbott was roughed up in relief by the Cleveland Indians. "There has been no decision made on him, but he'll either be starting (with the Angels) or going elsewhere (Class AAA Edmonton or Class AA Midland) to start."

Abbott inherited a 2-0 lead after Mike Witt held Cleveland to three hits in six innings. The left-hander immediately gave up three runs in the seventh on Joe Carter's pop-fly single which second baseman Mark McLemore lost in the sun, a wild pitch, Pete O'Brien's RBI single and Cory Snyder's two-run homer.

That was enough to give the Indians a 3-2 victory.

Abbott has been used exclusively in relief this spring, giving up 12 hits and seven earned runs in 10 innings, not including a 'B' game.

"The pitch that he (Snyder) hit was a fastball that he had to reach out for," Abbott said of the opposite-field homer. "It wasn't that bad a pitch. A hitter who hits a pitch like that is awfully strong. I definitely wouldn't want to throw the ball there against him again."

Montreal and Toronto got shutout pitching, the Expos blanking the Baltimore Orioles 1-0 and the Blue Jays blanking the Houston Astros 4-0. Elsewhere in spring training, it was Los Angeles 6, Atlanta 5; Philadelphia 6, New York Mets 4; Kansas City 13, Boston 8; St. Louis 2, a split Pittsburgh squad 1; another Pirates squad 4, a split Chicago White Sox squad 2; Texas 4, the rest of the White Sox 2; Cincinnati 4, Detroit 3; San Diego 7, Milwaukee 1; San Francisco 11, Chicago Cubs 5, and Minnesota 9, New York Yankees 5.

Expos 1, Orioles 0 Kevin Gross pitched six scoreless innings, stretching his spring shutout streak to 13.

Blue Jays 4, Astros 0 John Cerutti continued his outstanding spring by checking

Houston on three hits in five innings. Dodgers 6, Braves 5

Mike Scioscia hit a pinch home run with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning off Tommy Greene.

Phillies 6, Mets 4 Mike Schmidt's two doubles and Tom Herr's two-run homer helped Philadelphia to its sixth straight victory.

Royals 13, Red Sox 8

Larry Owen broke a tie with a seventh-inning sacrifice fly and Kansas City added six more runs off relievers Deanis Lamp and Tom Bolton.

Cardinals 2, Pirates (ss) 1

Mike Fitzgerald singled home the winning run off Jim Gott with one out in the ninth inning.

Pirates (ss) 4, White Sox (ss) 2 Bob Walk allowed one run and five hits in six innings.

Rangers 4, White Sox 2

Bobby Meacham's two-run double in the top of the eighth off Jose Segura broke a tie.

Reds 4, Tigers 3

Terry McGriff drove in two runs with a homer and sacrifice fly.

Padres 7, Brewers 1

Bruce Hurst allowed four singles in six shutout innings and Carmelo Martinez hit his fifth spring homer.

OU president believes in Barry

AUSTIN (AP) - University of Oklahoma interim president David Swank blamed society's emphasis on sports as the underlying cause of problems plaguing the Sooner football team, and said head football coach Barry Switzer has about a year to shape up his team in discipline and academics.

Swank, speaking to Texas newspaper executives on Monday, expressed confidence that Switzer could turn around the football program that has been at the center of controversy.

"If he cannot, then we will have to find someone who can," Swank said.

He told members of the Texas Daily Newspaper Association that Switzer must implement stricter discipline and a recruiting system that emphasizes academic as well as athletic achievement.

"I think actually within this next year we have to see signs of major changes in the program, or changes will have to be made," he said.

Problems began for the Sooners in December, when the NCAA placed the Oklahoma football program on three years probation for recruiting violations.

In January, a football player was accused of wounding his teammate in a dorm shooting. Three football players have been charged with an alleged gang rape in a dorm, and starting quarterback Charles Thompson has been accused of selling cocaine to an undercover FBI agent.

The incidents have cast the university into "dark days," Swank said. "An idol has been toppled from its pedestal," he said.

Swank said the easiest reaction would have been to fire Switzer, who has coached at OU for 23 years, the last 16 as head coach. His teams have won three national championships and 12 Big Eight conference titles.

"There are changes that will need to be made, but that does not include Coach Switzer at this time," Swank said.

Swank said society in general has placed too great an emphasis on sports, but he also blamed himself and other administrators at the school for the problems in the athletic department.

"There has been a lack of discipline in our football program off the field."

Swank said he initially refused to read a book by former Sooner football player Brian Bosworth, which detailed accounts of wrongdoing on the part of football players while coaches looked the other way.

"I thought it was a book of fiction. Now I know that I should have read it," Swank said.

Switzer's response to the team's problems could help other schools facing similar woes, Swank said.

"I believe that because of Barry's reputation, he can actually be a guide for improvements, not only at the University of Oklahoma, but across the nation," Swank said. "If he can't, then we're going to have to do something else."

Stewart: team has helped his health

DALLAS (AP) - Norm Stewart, recovering at his home from cancer surgery, says some of the best medicine he's received is watching his Missouri Tigers on television and seeing their confidence grow with each NCAA tournament win.

He's hoping his Tigers are now confident enough to pay back Syracuse, which beat them in the championship of the Big Apple NIT back in November. The teams play Friday in the NCAA Midwest Regional semifinals.

Illinois and Louisville meet in the other Midwest semifinal at Minneapolis.

Stewart said he's feeling better health-wise and tournament-wise after watching the Tigers' 108-89 victory over Texas Sunday.

"Now that I've had a little time, feel a little stronger, it's fun to watch the games," he said by telephone from his home in Columbia to radio station KCMO in Kansas City.

"Now that they've gotten a couple of wins under their belt in the NCAA, they know they can play with anybody," said Stewart, who has frequently talked with interim coach Rich Daly by telephone.

Sixth-ranked Missouri 29-7 suffered an 86-84 overtime loss to No. 7 Syracuse in the Big Apple NIT final early in the season.

Syracuse, 29-7, beat Colorado State 65-50 in Sunday's other second-round NCAA Midwest game at Reunion Arena.

Syracuse coach Jim Boeheim agreed with Stewart that the Tigers are more dangerous than they were early in the season.

"Missouri's a veteran, solid team and very improved from when we played earlier," he said.

Colorado State coach Boyd Grant picks Syracuse to win again.

AGRICULTURAL APPRAISAL

MAY LOWER YOUR LAND'S PROPERTY TAXES

Texas law allows farmers and ranchers to lower their property taxes through agricultural appraisal of land.

If you qualify, your agricultural land will be taxed on its capacity to produce crops, livestock, or timber, instead of its value on the real estate market. This can lower your property taxes.

If your land has never received agricultural appraisal, you must apply to the appraisal district by May 1 to get tax benefits for 1989.

For more information and application forms, contact the appraisal district office at the address shown below:

Seeking voting rights

Contestants invited to coke party

The Community Room of Hereford State Bank will be the site of Thursday evening's annual Coke party acquainting local girls with details of the Miss Hereford Scholarship Pageant.

The informal party, set to begin at 7 p.m. Thursday, will offer information about the pageant to local girls and their mothers. The pageant has been scheduled for Saturday, April 22 in the Hereford High School auditorium.

"Attending the party will not obligate a girl to participate in the Miss Hereford Scholarship Pageant," said Lanette Leasure, who is serving with Betty Drake as co-chairmen of the pageant's steering committee.

Girls who are sophomores in high school or are age 16-20 may compete in the pageant. Although freshman girls cannot compete, they may help with the production back stage or can participate in one of the pageant's dance numbers.

Sponsored by the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce, the pageant annually crowns a winner who is eligible to compete in other pageants. The local pageant offers prize money, a scholarship, and other awards.

Steering committee members and assistants include Leasure, Drake, Judy Barrett, Linda Daniel, Gayla Sanders, Danell Culp, Kathie Allison, Lacy Driver, Kim Buckley, Julia Laing, Kyla McDowell, and advisors, Keith Ann Gearn and Donna West, Women's Division president.

Currently serving as Miss Hereford is Deanna Hobbs.

On the average, a city dog lives longer than a country dog—eleven years compared to eight.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: My husband has a cyst on his upper back, close to his spine. When I met him, six years ago, it was the size of a pea. A year ago it was the size of a nickel, and now it's the size of a golf ball or a large meatball.

He says it burns and itches and has repeatedly requested that our physician to remove it. Our doctor seems unconcerned and is reluctant to remove it. He doesn't say why.

The cyst is interfering with my husband's sleep and it looks awful. Can you give us some insight as to why he won't remove it? I have told my husband to tell the doctor to either remove it or he'd find one who would.

DEAR READER: Without seeing the lump I cannot be sure what it is. If it is a lipoma, a fatty tumor, your doctor may simply think that it will not cause any harm and that it can be safely ignored. These are fairly common and are harmless. Or it could be a sebaceous cyst, which is also harmless. If it is either of these, and it bothers him that much, there is no good reason why it should not be removed.

Your husband should be more assertive and ask his doctor exactly what the lump is. Unless there is some good reason not to remove it, he could ask his doctor to refer him to a surgeon who can do the surgery required. Your doctor may simply not care about doing surgery unless it is really needed.

Experts predict food trends

NEW YORK (AP) — Now's the time to pull out the crystal ball and make some predictions for 1989 food and taste trends.

Buzz words for 1989: Oat bran. Calcium. Boron. Beta carotene. Lemon grass. Fiber. Reduced-sugar fruit spreads. Hearty breakfasts. Cheesecakes. Yellow bell peppers. Cranberries. Real Cantonese cuisine. Honest food. Designer menus. Premium toasts.

FOOD & WINE magazine says one of the important innovations of 1989 and the 1990s will be the sous-vide process of warming precooked, never-frozen meals in plastic bags.

Unlike boil-in-a-bag products that are frozen, dried or chemically treated, sous-vide foods are cooked and placed in vacuum-sealed plastic bags that prevent deterioration for up to three weeks. They need only to be refrigerated and heated through for serving. Popular in France for the last 15 years, sous-vide foods will be available in gourmet stores in the United States for $2 to $6 a package, the magazine says.

New in appliances: steam ovens, such as those by Tefal, that cook rapidly and retain moisture, and extra-wide ovens (twice the width of the average model), such as those by Gaggenau, which are perfect for pizzas.

1989 promises to be the "year of the banana," according to FOOD & WINE magazine, with many new varieties making their appearance including manzanos, called apple bananas, from Central America; burros, chunky bananas with a square shape; red bananas, with a purplish skin and reddish tinge inside; and starchy plantains.

Beer drinkers will enjoy dry beer, introduced two years ago in Japan and now available in the United States. The brew is fermented longer, so more sugar is converted into alcohol, making for a drier tasting beer.

And for those who love coffee, the latest innovation is the "espresso pod," a kind of tea bag for coffee that is precisely measured, pressed and packaged to brew a perfectly intense cup of Italian coffee.

Among FOOD & WINE magazine's other predictions:

MEDITERRANEAN CUISINE: Mediterranean cuisine fits perfectly with today's low-cholesterol, high complex-carbohydrate diets. The emphasis is on olive oil, garlic, vegetables, legumes and seafood, instead of butter, cream and red meat.

PROVENÇAL: Look for classic dishes like bouillabaisse and olive-onion-anchovy pizza, which make use of black olives, garlic, tomatoes, capers, saffron, fish and fresh herbs.

PROSCIUTTO: Look for genuine prosciutto from Italy. The federal government has lifted its ban on imported pork products, and lovers of the delicious cured ham from Parma will be able to enjoy the real thing.

MIDWESTERN CUISINE: More folks than New York, less radical than California, this down-home food is always served in generous portions and is exemplified by dishes such as corn chowder with country ham and Indian persimmon pudding with dried blueberries.

ANYTHING SMOKED: Anything smoked promises to be "hot" in 1989, including salmon, scallops, oysters, turkey, quail and venison.

VEGETABLES: We'll also see more jicamas in supermarkets, Asian pears year-round, cheaper shiitake mushrooms grown in the United States, sun-dried tomatoes, fresh cilantro, sugar snap peas and "Champagne" grapes (actually a form of currant).

Executive chef Jon Jividen of Ridgewells Caterer of King of Prussia, Pa., includes "honest" food, "designer" menus and premium toasts among his taste-trend picks for 1989.

Jividen says "honest" food, also called comfort food, down-home cooking, or real food, is the result of the growing availability and appreciation of high quality produce, and the continuing movement away from overwhelmingly complicated ingredients.

"Honest" foods include fresh veal chops, pan-fried and lightly seasoned; homegrown vegetables, steamed and served with a little lemon or butter; homegrown herbs; and made-from-scratch biscuits.

"This is not steak mania," Jividen says, "it is rather a celebration of great ingredients prepared perfectly. There is elegance here, with simplicity."

Those who crave variety will find it in controlled "designer" menus with complimentary flavors unjumbled and separated into different courses or side dishes.

Eggs Benedict great for Easter brunch

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens Magazine
Food Editor

This Easter brunch entree is an overnight success. Assemble it the night before, then, just before brunch, put it in the oven to bake 20 to 25 minutes. Topped with a rich Swiss cheese sauce instead of hollandaise, it's easier to fix and more goopproof than the typical Eggs Benedict.

MAKE-AHEAD EGGS BENEDICT
4 English muffins, split and toasted
16 thin slices Canadian-style bacon
8 eggs

1/4 cup margarine or butter
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon paprika
1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
2 cups shredded Swiss cheese
1/2 cup dry white wine
1/2 cup crushed cornflakes (about 1 cup before crushing)

1 tablespoon margarine or butter, melted
In a 13- by 9- by 2-inch baking dish arrange muffins, cut side up. Place 2 bacon slices on each muffin half. Half fill a 10-inch skillet with water; bring just to boiling. Break one egg into a dish. Carefully slide egg into water.

Repeat with 3 more eggs. Simmer, uncovered, 3 minutes or until just set. Remove eggs with a slotted spoon. Repeat with remaining eggs. Place 1 egg on top of each muffin stack; set aside.

For sauce, in a medium saucepan melt 1/4 cup margarine. Stir in flour, paprika, nutmeg and pepper. Add milk all at once. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly. Stir in cheese until melted. Stir in wine. Carefully spoon sauce over muffin stacks. Combine cornflakes and 1 tablespoon margarine; sprinkle over muffin stacks. Cover; chill overnight.

To serve, bake, uncovered, in a 375-degree F oven 20 to 25 minutes or until heated through. Makes 8 servings.

Nutrition information per serving: 455 cal., 27 g pro., 29 g carb., 24 g fat, 322 mg chol., 758 mg sodium. U.S. RDA: 26 percent vit. A, 11 percent vit. C, 34 percent thiamine, 34 percent riboflavin, 21 percent niacin, 43 percent calcium, 15 percent iron.

Names in the News

NEW YORK (AP) — Donald Trump says the fashion-model wife of a tycoon whose publications have bashed his development projects asked him out for a date.

But Allison Stern, wife of Leonard Stern, dismissed Trump's claim as the false "product of juvenile mind."

The Trump-Mrs. Stern date-or-no-date exchange was triggered by a profile of Trump in Sunday's New York Daily News, which quoted an unidentified source about the alleged invitation. On Monday, Stern accused Trump of planting the rumor.

Trump, who is married, responded: "Leonard Stern understands exactly what's going on. He knows. He knows. ... Maybe he should speak to his wife." He added later, "Allison called for a date. ... and I wasn't interested."

Mrs. Stern fired back: "This absurd charge ... is totally false and designed by him to inhibit and intimidate my husband's publications - The Village Voice and 7 Days - from covering Mr. Trump's public activities. As in the past, his unethical tactics will fail."

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Candice Bergen says that before her daughter's birth, she thought she would have a baby only if it "were more like a chimpanzee."

"But then suddenly Chloe was born. ... I was so overwhelmed and ecstatic to have this baby," the 41-year-old actress said in an interview in April's Redbook.

"I never used to like babies. I had absolutely no confidence that I had any maternal instincts whatsoever. I'd always think, 'Well, if a baby were more like a chimpanzee, I'd have one,'" said Bergen, who is married to French filmmaker Louis Malle.

Bergen, who lived in Los Angeles last fall while playing a TV newswoman in the CBS series "Murphy Brown," said she will try to distance her 3-year-old daughter from the Beverly Hills lifestyle.

"I find the narcissism and self-involvement ... really appalling. People's preoccupation with their looks and their clothes at a time when there's so much suffering in the country - I just find it grotesque," she said.

LONDON (AP) — Longtime James Bond actor Roger Moore says he's giving up the lead role in a new Andrew Lloyd Webber musical because he can't sing well enough.

"I now do not think that the musical stage is for me," Moore said Monday.

The actor who played secret agent 007 in six Bond films had been rehearsing for six weeks. The musical, "Aspects of Love," is scheduled to open in a month

Eating out can be healthy

There's no escaping it. More and more Americans eat out. Nearly half of all food dollars (46 percent) are spent on meals consumed outside the home. In a typical month, nine out of ten Americans will purchase one fast food meal, according to one industry source.

Eating out doesn't have to do your diet or waistline in, says Darlene Dougherty, RD (registered dietitian), president of the American Dietetic Association (ADA). This March, in celebration of ADA's National Nutrition Month, Dougherty offers practical tips to help consumers enjoy dining out the healthful way.

"You don't have to sacrifice taste for nutrition, if you make careful choices," she explains. As an example, Dougherty cites the fork-dip-stab method of using sauces and salad dressings: "Order your dressing on the side, then dip your fork into the dressing and stab the food. You get flavor in every bite and considerably less calories."

One significant problem encountered when eating out is the "clean plate" syndrome. "Many Americans have been taught to clean their plates—not to waste food. Ironically, the food often still goes to w-a-i-s-t, due to eating unnecessary calories," says Dougherty. She suggests leaving some food on the plate and asking for a doggie bag. To prevent accidental nibbling, ADA's president advises putting a napkin over your plate. These will keep you from munching and will also signal the waiter/waitress that you are finished.

Dougherty stresses that it is okay to make special requests when ordering. This is how lowfat and nonfat milk became standard available items in restaurants.

"Be an assertive customer. For example, ask how the food is prepared, ask to substitute a small green salad or fruit for french fries."

Buffets can present a special problem. "There is an inherent tendency to try and get more than your money's worth. This, combined with a visually tempting menu and industrial-sized serving utensils, can make control a bit harder," Dougherty says, suggesting that "your best bet is to fill up on fresh produce like fruits and vegetables, and then return for the entrees-when your appetite is tamed."

Salad bars can be a great source of nutrition, but may also have some pitfalls. A typical ladle of dressing can pack a hefty 300 calories. "A 'little-dab-will-do-you' approach works well here, or opt for lemon wedges to give a fat free zest to your salad," Dougherty advises. "Salad bars are also popping up in many fast food restaurants, and are a good choice there."

Other good fast food choices include broiled chicken sandwiches or plain cheese or broccoli and cheese pizza. To round out a fast food meal, ADA's president suggests lowfat milk or juice rather than soda pop, and a simple baked potato in place of fries. To add some pizzazz to the potato, try using salsa or just one pat of margarine.

"When dining out, if you can leave about half the food on your plate, you're way ahead of the game, regardless of what you ordered, because your calories are not cut in half," according to Dougherty.

The American Dietetic Association, whose 57,000 members comprise the nation's largest group of nutrition professionals, is dedicated to the promotion of optimal health and nutritional status of the population.
