

$16.3 Billion Tax Cut Passed by House

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House on Thursday passed a $16.3 billion tax cut bill after rejecting a version backed by President Carter and one on which the Republicans have made a campaign issue.

The bill was sent by a 362-49 vote to the Senate, where prospects are that the tax reduction will be enlarged.

As approved by the House, it would reduce the taxes of an average single taxpayer with $10,000 income next year by $15, one earning $15,000 by $71 and one earning $20,000 by $105.

For a family of four in the same income brackets, the savings would be $62, $77 and $146.

The measure also contains a once-in-a-lifetime capital gains tax break by allowing up to a $100,000 exemption for those who make a profit when the sell their primary home.

The House moved swiftly to pass the measure after rejecting by a vote of 240-177 a last-minute Republican drive to substitute their own plan.

Earlier, the House rejected by a 224-193 vote President Carter's preferred version of a tax cut. After the succession of votes, the surviving bill was one recommended to the House by its Ways and Means Committee.

The White House had only one sentence comment, indicating displeasure about the House vote. "If you make $50,000 or more the House vote is great," said White House press secretary Jody Powell.

The GOP measure has been pushed by Rep. Jack F. Kemp, R-N.Y., and Sen. William V. Roth Jr., R-Del.

Opponents, headed by Democratic Leader James Wright of Texas, termed the Republican measure irresponsible, citing estimates that when fully effective it would add $100 billion to the deficit.

Congressional specialists calculated that the Kemp-Roth measure would reduce taxes by $31.9 billion in 1979, $69.8 billion in 1980 and $120.7 billion in 1981. Kemp and other supporters, however, said the stimulus to investment and employment would make up the lost revenue.

In an earlier vote, the House approved by a 249-167 margin a provision that would greatly reduce taxes on capital gains beginning in 1980. The tax cut would be based on a formula that takes into account the rate of inflation.

While none of the tax-cut bills that remained before the House came close to Carter's original recommendations, the administration was supporting one that would make an $18.1 billion reduction.

The House, however, refused to substitute the Carter plan for the $16.3 billion version developed by the House Ways and Means Committee. Carter has criticized the committee's bill as too generous to the wealthy and those enjoying capital gains.

Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, despite recent instances of coolness with the administration, took the floor to make the final plea for the Carter-favored measure.

He called it a more equitable bill and (See TAX, Page 2)

Getting a Manicure

The grass at Whiteface Stadium is being groomed daily in preparation for the season high school football opener scheduled for the night of Sept. 8, when Hereford hosts Pampa. Although that game is nearly a month away, the field already appears to be in excellent shape under the supervision of assistant superintendent Larry Wartes, new athletic director Cumpton and La Plata Coach Eddie Helms. "We've still got some places that need work out there," Wartes said, "but we've still got some growing time. I'm not just proud of the field out there; I'm proud of the whole area. It looks good."

Motion Ruling Forthcoming

Judge Recesses City Lawsuit Trial

AMARILLO — A federal district judge Thursday took under advisement a request by Hereford City Attorney Earnest Langley to dismiss a $25,000 civil rights suit against the City of Hereford and certain past and present city officials.

Judge Halbert O. Woodward in U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Texas recessed the trial to consider the motion for dismissal. The defendants and plaintiff Ray Richie, an Amarillo electrician, were asked to submit briefs and responses pertaining to the motion.

Richie contends his civil rights were violated when he tried to obtain a master electrician's license in order to do business in Hereford. He filed suit in April, 1976 against then-commissioners Paul Abalos, Frank Barrett, James Boyd and Emory Brownlow; electrical board members Charles Laing and Charles Owens; then-mayor Jim Sears; City Manager Dudley Bayne; and City Building Inspector Bill Phipps. The City of Hereford was added to the list of defendants this year following a Supreme Court ruling that cities, in certain cases, could be sued.

Richie claims that the electrical test which he would have had to pass to renew his license in Hereford discriminated against him. Other electricians, Richie says in his suit, obtained licenses without taking the test.

Richie also contends: --since the city commission did not approve the test, it was not a valid means of issuing an electrician's license.

--he was not notified by mail that his license was about to expire (in 1972) and that other local electrical contractors received such notification.

--the testing procedure is an arbitrary and unreasonable examination designed to prevent new electrical contractors from becoming licensed.

Richie's attorney, Robin Green of Amarillo, Wednesday asked Woodward for dismissal on the grounds that the plaintiff had not proved his case. The judge said he would take the matter "under advisement" and requested that the plaintiff respond to the motion in a week and the defendants in two weeks.

Woodward recessed the trial following arguments on the motion by both the plaintiff and the defendants.

Pioneer To Seek 26% Rate Increase

Pioneer Natural Gas Company, in a supplement to the rate application made June 30, today announced that the proposed rates would result in an average for all classes of service of 26.36 percent.

The increase to the average domestic customer on the Pioneer West Texas distribution system will be about $6 a month, according to the company's statement of intent to change rates.

Nick Farris, local office manager, delivered the statements to Hereford city officials and the news media this morning. The proposed effective date of the rate increase is Sept. 15, and will apply on a system-wide basis to all domestic and commercial type, small industrial, and large gas air-conditioning and/or electric generating gas service customers served by Pioneer.

In his letter of transmittal to mayors and city councils, K.B. Watson, company president, said, "The enclosed Statement of Intent is being filed simultaneously with all 63 cities and towns served by Pioneer on our West Texas Distribution System. As we advised you before, we stand ready to meet with you and representatives of all our cities to consider this application."

In filing the original application, Watson had told the cities that a comprehensive study was being made of Pioneer's operations by H. Zinder and Associates, Inc., as well as company personnel. This study was to determine the amount of deficiency in the gas service revenue at Pioneer.

Watson said that study, as well as the company's related research, has not been completed and the company was submitting its formal statement of intent to change rates to city officials.

Watson pointed out in the original application that Pioneer's last base rate increase was effective in 1970. He said that since that time, in spite of the increased cost of gas to the consumer, the company's rate of return has decreased substantially due to many factors.

He went on to point out that the increase in the customers' cost of gas over the past several years has come (See PIONEER, Page 2)

Corn Crop Exceeds Prediction

WASHINGTON (AP) - The "weather gods" threaten to undo the Carter administration's carefully laid plans to bring balance and better prices to the farm economy by next year or 1980.

To the surprise of just about everyone, the largest corn crop the nation has ever produced is standing tall in the field.

The Agriculture Department estimated Thursday it would reach 6.5 billion bushels with a national average yield of 96.1 bushels an acre, just shy of the record 97 bushels of 1972.

Just a month ago, the Crop Reporting Board foresaw a crop 4 percent smaller than last year's record 6.37 billion bushels. Farmers had been idling some corn acreage - as the administration directed, if they want price supports and income subsidies on the harvest.

But good rainfall in most places and cool, crop-protecting weather in the dry spots offset all that during July.

"That's proof that the weather gods have more to do with what happens than federal policy.... that we don't have the final say," commented Howard W. Hjort, the department's chief economist and maestro of the now-shaky supply-balancing act.

In addition to the corn estimate, the board reported that its Aug. 1 surveys indicate a record 1.77-billion-bushel soybean crop, 3 percent more than last year, and a potential sorghum harvest of 172 million bushels, a 10 percent decline.

An estimated 35 percent of the corn will be fed to the animals on the farms where it is grown, rather than enter the cash-grain market or government storage programs. None-the-less, it will be coming in with about 1.3 billion bushels still left over from three bumper crops.

Hjort couldn't contain his uneasy surprise as he outlined for reporters the problems that could present for farmers and taxpayers. Consumers, too, should worry, even though the huge supply will tend to hold food-price increases down in 1979 after their expected 10 percent climb for this year, he said.

For farmers, it means continued low grain prices, he said. But that could encourage more of them to store their crops in the three-year reserve stockpile and get it off the market to boost prices by restricting supply, he said.

For taxpayers, low prices mean more spending on payments to make up the difference between the post-season market average and a target price geared to production costs. The potential is $65 million for each penny's difference in corn alone.

Consumers, Hjort said, "are a little better off," unless the beef-cattle industry over-reacts to cheap grain and upsets a farm economy that he says has been moving toward balance between supply and demand for 18 months.

Corn and soybeans are the basic ingredients of the feed for the animals (See CORN, Page 2)

Lack of NWS Stations May Have Upped Toll

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - The death toll in last week's devastating Hill Country flood might have been reduced if the National Weather Service had more monitoring systems in the area, according to the chief of a NWS disaster survey team.

The team made an on-site review of the effectiveness of the service's "total warning system" during the disastrous flash floods of Aug. 1-2 in Bandera, Kerr and Kendall counties which killed 24 persons.

Earl Estelle said the NWS was kept from knowing the magnitude of the record flood due to a shortage of rainfall-measuring stations and river level-measuring stations in the area.

"We knew something was going on," he said. "But only after the fact did we realize we had a monster of a storm on our hands."

If there had been more monitoring stations, Estelle said, "we could have given an accurate warning of what turned out to be the storm of the century here."

Although flood warnings were issued hours before the flood, Estelle said the danger was not adequately stressed, he said. As a result, Hill Country residents, "did not feel sufficiently threatened."

Better warning could have been given - and the death toll reduced - if "the National Weather Service and the local officials had been in possession of more (See FLOODING, Page 2)

Hill Sets Public

Reception Today

A public reception for Attorney General John Hill will be from 5-6 p.m. today, followed by a press conference, in the Hereford State Bank community room.

Hill, who won the Democratic nomination for governor, will answer questions and talk to members of the community during the reception. The press conference also will be open to the public.

A $25-per-plate fund-raising dinner for Hill will begin at 7:30 p.m. at Hereford Country Club.

Hill will be accompanied today by his wife Bitsy.

CofC Selection Group Hunts Executive VP

Ken Rogers, C of C vice president, has been named to head a selection committee to seek candidates for the position of executive vice president and manager of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, it was announced today by president O.G. Nieman.

Also appointed to the committee were Margaret Formby, president of the Women's Division, and Tom Hamlett, director. Nieman will serve as the fourth member.

The committee will receive and review applications, screen and conduct interviews and recommend final candidates to the board, according to Nieman. "The final responsibility for selecting the executive rests with the entire board," stated the chamber president.

The board will be seeking a successor for Bob Duckworth, who recently resigned effective Sept. 1. He had served in that post here for almost a year and a half. Duckworth said this week he is considering an opportunity to enter private business.

GI Forum Slates

Enchilada Dinner

An Enchilada Dinner, sponsored by the American GI Forum, will be held Saturday from 12:30 to 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

The dinner is open to the general public. Cost will be $2.50 a plate for adults and $1.75 for children.

Day Care Branch To Open Monday

Enrollment continues at Hereford Day Care Center, 215 Norton, for the center's new branch to be located at Wesley Methodist Church, 410 Irving.

The Wesley branch will cater to youngsters between the ages of 18 months and 9 years. It will begin operations Monday.

Parents will be charged a scale fee depending on family income, according to Hereford Day Care Center director Betty Roberts. Meals will be included in the program.

The day care center is a non-profit organization.

School Registration Scheduled

All right, Hereford students, registration schedules have been released, and you know what that means!

For students, it means the first day of classes after the summer vacation is near. For teachers, it means they must report a week earlier than students. For moms, it could mean their annual recuperation period is about to begin.

Registration for most Hereford students will be held on Aug. 24—two weeks from yesterday. School will begin on Monday, Aug. 28.

Elementary school and kindergarten kids must bring their parents to registration some time between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. on Aug. 24 to the principals' offices, and those enrolling for the first time, must also have their immunization records and birth certificates. Elementary students transferring from another school district are asked to bring their school records.

Students will register at the respective elementary schools which they will attend during the school year. Questions concerning elementary-school district boundaries should be directed to any of the six principals.

Students enrolling in the 5-year-old kindergarten program must be 5 by Sept. 1, 1978. Those wanting to enter the 4-year-old migrant kindergarten program must be 4 by Sept. 1.

Junior high registration will be from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Aug. 24 in the principals' offices. Students new to the district are asked to pre-register between 8:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. any day during the week beginning Monday, Aug. 14.

Pre-registration in high school also will be next week for those students enrolling in the Hereford Independent School District for the first time.

All other high school students will register on Aug. 24.

Seniors will register from 8-10 a.m., juniors from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and sophomores at 1:30 p.m. Sophomores will meet in the high school auditorium at that time for orientation. Parents have been invited to attend sophomore orientation, according to a spokesman for the school administration office.

Sophomores and juniors are asked to wear coats and ties to registration for yearbook pictures. Female students also are asked to dress appropriately.

Teachers' inservice will be Aug. 22, Aug. 23 and Aug. 25.

Rights Guidelines Being Considered

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) - A top assistant to Attorney General Griffin Bell says new guidelines are being worked out to protect the rights of Mexican-Americans mistreated by law enforcement officers.

He told Mexican-American leaders the Justice Department will be more aggressive in the future regarding allegations of civil rights violations.

Drew S. Days III, head of the Justice Department's civil rights section, said a major stumbling block in the past has been that the U.S. attorney general has learned of many of the controversies months after they occurred.

He urged those at a workshop on police brutality here Thursday to make sure the complaints are forwarded to Washington as soon as possible. The workshop was held during the 30th national American GI Forum convention in Corpus Christi.

Days said the Justice Department is establishing specific guidelines to determine which cases disposed of by state and local law enforcement officials will be investigated.

Days said he will outline specific proposals after he returns to Washington. Among other things, he said he will tell Bell "speedier methods should be implemented to investigate and prosecute civil rights violations."

His comments followed a verbal barrage by Mexican-Americans against the federal government's alleged sluggishness in prosecuting civil rights violations and cases of police brutality against Mexican Americans.

Memphis Officers Go on Strike

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - The city's 1,100 police officers walked off the job and set up picket lines at all four precinct stations Thursday night, hours after rejecting a wage proposal by a 2-1 margin.

said Carter would sign it. At the same time, however, he criticized the administration for slowness in coming to Congress with proposals.

At the outset, the House rejected an effort by many members who wanted to add to the bill a special provision to offset in part the Social Security payroll tax increases beginning next year. The House turned this down by a 284-130 margin.

In so doing, the House sustained the Rules Committee's recommendation that no vote be allowed on an amendment that would, in effect, reduce income taxes by 5 percent of the money deducted for Social Security. Proponents were promised a full review of Social Security funding next year.

However, the report said, prompt evacuation efforts "helped to keep the death toll much lower than it might have been; hundreds could have died."

"The most serious flooding and resultant deaths took place in the early morning hours of Wednesday, Aug. 2. Many people were asleep as the flood waters rose to record or near record heights," the report stated.

"They had gone to bed with full knowledge that the area was under a warning. The problem was that they did not feel sufficiently threatened. Previous floods with which they had experience never approached the same incredible severity," it said.

The 30 inches of rain which fell within the affected area caused flash flooding of "extraordinary magnitude...all-time record floods occurred at several places," the report said.

As an example of the flood's magnitude, Estelle said an old house built in the 1870s, which the local sheriff

The strike comes as the city faces an influx of thousands of Elvin Presley fans gathering to observe the first anniversary of his death. The rock idol died last Aug. 16, and hotels and motels are reporting solid bookings for the next week.

The Memphis Police Association membership voted 528-266 against accepting a modification of the city's last offer.

The offer rejected called for a 6.653 percent increase effective last July 1, plus additional raises of $22.50 and 7.5 percent by Oct. 1, 1979.

The offer would have boosted a veteran patrolman's monthly pay from $1,148 to $1,224 immediately.

Dollar Sinks Again In Europe Markets

LONDON (AP) - The price of gold set new record highs on both the London and Zurich bullion markets today, while the dollar hit new record lows against the West German mark and the Swiss franc for the second day in succession.

The price of gold jumped to $210-210.75 an ounce in Zurich and $210.50 in London, then London's five major bullion dealers pulled it back to $209.85 at their morning session fixing the rate for trading. The previous high in both markets had been $208 last Wednesday. The closing rate Thursday was $206.875 in Zurich and $207.65 in London.

On the foreign exchange markets, the dollar was being traded in Frankfurt at 1.9675 marks, down from Thursday's record low of 1.9710, while in Zurich the early rate was 1.6595 Swiss francs, nearly two centimes below Thursday's record of 1.6765.

The dollar also dropped on other European exchanges and in Tokyo. The early rate in Paris was 4.2950 French francs, down from 4.3075 at the close of trading Thursday. In Milan, it was 830.30 lire, down from 834.55.

In London, the British pound rose from $1.9520 at Thursday's closing to $1.9640, its highest quotation since February.

In Tokyo, the dollar closed at 186.5 yen. The closing rate Thursday was 187.25.

One London dealer said the drop in the dollar was due not only to the call by the Shah of Iran for the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to increase its price of crude oil at the end of the year, but also to the 0.5 percent rise in July in U.S. producer prices. The dealer said the increase was "very disappointing."

Man Forgives Cousin For Not Giving Marrow

PITTSBURGH (AP) - David Shimp, who turned away the pleas of a dying cousin for donations, of life-prolonging home marrow, was forgiven by the sick man shortly before the cousin was killed by a brain hemorrhage.

Robert McFall, a 39-year-old unmarried asbestos worker, died Thursday in Mercy Hospital, where he was being treated for aplastic anemia, a disorder that had threatened to kill him within the year.

"I feel like I could throw up right now," Shimp was quoted in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette today. "I feel terrible about Robert dying, but he asked me for something that I couldn't give."

"I don't think I'll go to the funeral," he added. "I'll stay home and say my prayers."

McFall had asked Shimp for a bone marrow transplant that might have given him longer to live, but Shimp repeatedly turned him down. Shimp's decision was declared legal by an Allegheny County court.

Mercy Hospital spokeswoman Mary Beth Dickson said McFall might have suffered the hemorrhage even if he had undergone the transplant.

The hospital said McFall suffered a "massive intracranial hemorrhage which occurred in spite of vigorous transfusions of blood and platelets." His two brothers and sisters were at his bedside.

"One of the last things he said was that he forgave his cousin and asked us to forgive him, too," said Beverly Hope, McFall's sister. "My brothers and I feel the same way as Bobby. We forgive him because we know he's an individual and has his own rights to make a decision. Since Bobby forgave him, we forgave him."

the capital gains provision, said it would simply provide for taxation of real capital gains, but not false values created by inflation. Opponents said it would eventually cut capital gains taxation in half, reducing the revenue yield from this source by $4 billion in 1983. Archer contended that economic stimulus would offset the tax reduction.

Carter opposes sharp reductions in the capital gains tax which he said would give too much of a tax break to people with high incomes. A capital gain is the profit earned from the sale of stocks, real estate or other assets held at least a year.

Carter had asked Congress in January to enact an overall $25 billion tax cut as part of a package containing several administration-sought "tax reforms," including a limitation on the businesses' deductions, such as for the so-called "three-martini lunch."

In the seven months that have elapsed since then, the administration toned down its hoped-for income tax cut for individuals and businesses, settling on a $20 billion proposal.

The options the House considered on Thursday bore little resemblance to Carter's original proposal.

There was little so-called tax reform in the bill sent to the House by the Ways and Means Committee, or in two alternative proposals.

The alternative, backed by the administration, would have provided an $18.1 billion general tax cut, directing more reduction to incomes under $15,000 and less to those over $50,000, as compared with the approved bill.

Poll Shows Carter Down

NEW YORK (AP) - Half of the American people do not want President Carter to run for re-election in 1980, compared with four out of ten who want him in the race, an Associated Press-NBC News poll shows.

This substantial opposition to the White House incumbent has been built as Americans' rating of Carter remained at the lowest levels of his administration, the poll found.

Carter's job rating has dipped so far in the last six months that it is below that which the public now gives Richard Nixon in looking back on his years in the Oval Office.

More than a third of those who voted for Carter in 1976 say they do not want him to run again in two years, the poll also showed.

There was at least one bright spot for the president in the findings: public trust in Carter - as distinguished from his job rating - rose again this month. That upward move continues a trend which began earlier this summer after 15 months of decline.

The latest poll was taken Monday and Tuesday. The majority of the 1,600 telephone interviews were completed before it was announced that Carter would meet with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat at Camp David.

13 cigarettes a day for New Menthol to three a day for King Sano, King Sano Menthol, Merit, Merit Menthol, Real and Tempo.

Details of their findings are to be published soon in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Gori said.

The two researchers define tolerable levels in terms of cigarettes per pack, when tar and nicotine contents were much higher than today and studies first identified the long-term risks of cigarettes smoking.

The government research project has tested more than 150 modifications of the ordinary cigarette in efforts to reduce the hazards, and some of the modifications are showing up on the market, Gori said.

Scientists have substantially lowered the smoke's poisonous elements by changing the porosity of the paper, the soil in which the tobacco is grown, the leaf's texture, the curing process, the filter, the burning temperature and the method of manufacture, he added.

The results have been turned over to the tobacco industry, and "some of these new cigarettes are a direct result of this work," he continued. "The industry has never admitted that cigarette smoking is hazardous."

Among those who said Nixon

was guilty of an impeachable offense, he and Carter got identical job ratings.

The bright spot for Carter is the public's trust rating. Forty-seven percent said you can trust Carter to do what's right at least most of the time. Half said you can trust him only sometimes or almost never.

That 47-50 split compares to the 45-53 trust rating in the June survey. Prior to June, the rating of the president who had made trust a major campaign pledge had fallen steadily since he took office.

As with any sample survey, the results of the AP-NBC News polls could differ from the results of interviews with all Americans with telephones because of chance variations in the sample.

For polls with 1,600 interviews, the results should vary no more than three percentage points either way simply because of sample errors. That is, there is only one chance out of 20 that the results of interviews with all American adults would vary from these results by more than three percentage points.

Of course, the results could vary from other polls because of differences in the wording of questions, timing of interviews or the method of interviewing.

significant because it shows substantial opposition to a Carter re-election bid, regardless of who the opponent is.

Carter's job rating was down slightly this month, but not significantly.

Twenty-six percent of the public gave Carter a "good" or "excellent" job rating. But 73 percent labeled his performance "only fair" or "poor." One percent was undecided.

In the June AP-NBC News poll, 27 percent gave Carter good or excellent marks while 70 percent rated his work only fair or poor. Since the error margin for a poll of 1,600 people is 3 percent, one cannot say the change from June to August is a significant one.

Four years after Nixon resigned as president in disgrace, 36 percent of those questioned rated his performance good or excellent, 10 points above Carter's rating. Sixty-two percent rated his work only fair or poor. Two percent was undecided.

While Nixon's rating is overall higher than Carter's, 34 percent rated Nixon as poor, versus 20 percent who gave Carter that rating.

Seventy-two percent of those questioned said Nixon was guilty of an impeachable offense, about the same level as found in a January AP-NBC News poll. Twenty percent said he was not guilty.

Among those who said Nixon was guilty of an impeachable offense, he and Carter got identical job ratings.

The bright spot for Carter is the public's trust rating. Forty-seven percent said you can trust Carter to do what's right at least most of the time. Half said you can trust him only sometimes or almost never.

That 47-50 split compares to the 45-53 trust rating in the June survey. Prior to June, the rating of the president who had made trust a major campaign pledge had fallen steadily since he took office.

As with any sample survey, the results of the AP-NBC News polls could differ from the results of interviews with all Americans with telephones because of chance variations in the sample.

For polls with 1,600 interviews, the results should vary no more than three percentage points either way simply because of sample errors. That is, there is only one chance out of 20 that the results of interviews with all American adults would vary from these results by more than three percentage points.

Of course, the results could vary from other polls because of differences in the wording of questions, timing of interviews or the method of interviewing.

significant because it shows substantial opposition to a Carter re-election bid, regardless of who the opponent is.

Carter's job rating was down slightly this month, but not significantly.

Twenty-six percent of the public gave Carter a "good" or "excellent" job rating. But 73 percent labeled his performance "only fair" or "poor." One percent was undecided.

In the June AP-NBC News poll, 27 percent gave Carter good or excellent marks while 70 percent rated his work only fair or poor. Since the error margin for a poll of 1,600 people is 3 percent, one cannot say the change from June to August is a significant one.

Four years after Nixon resigned as president in disgrace, 36 percent of those questioned rated his performance good or excellent, 10 points above Carter's rating. Sixty-two percent rated his work only fair or poor. Two percent was undecided.

While Nixon's rating is overall higher than Carter's, 34 percent rated Nixon as poor, versus 20 percent who gave Carter that rating.

Seventy-two percent of those questioned said Nixon was guilty of an impeachable offense, about the same level as found in a January AP-NBC News poll. Twenty percent said he was not guilty.

Ann Landers

Big Loss Can Be Gain

DEAR ANN LANDERS: At the age of 26 I got sick and tired of being fat so I went to a doctor who has known me and my family for years. He put me on a sensible diet and I lost 52 pounds in five months. I feel terrific and could kick myself for not having done it years ago.

The problem is I have lost my fat girlfriends. At first they seemed happy for me and everything was fine. I offered to share my diet with them, but not a single gal could stick with it.

The real chill set in when I began to get asked out by some attractive men. It is awfully hard for me to believe these girls are envious, but I can't think of any other reason for the big freeze.

Have you ever heard of anything like this before? -- Cold Shouldered In Sheboygan

DEAR SHOULDERS: Success can be awfully hard to take -- especially if it's someone else's. The girls you describe in your letter were not friends. They were merely acquaintances with whom you shared a common misery. You have lost nothing of value. Forget it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's father passed away 18 months ago. My mother-in-law (who treated her husband like dirt) suddenly became a grief-stricken widow. She fainted in the church, threw herself on the coffin -- the whole bit.

The biggest mistake my husband made in his life was saying to her, "Don't worry, Mother. You will never be alone." She took him up on it and moved into our home the following week.

She couldn't bear to part with her dining room set so mine had to go. Her new refrigerator and freezer (which we could have used) went to her daughter. She had strong sentimental attachments to several statuettes, vases and assorted pieces of junk, so our once-lovely home now looks like a second-hand store.

If all she was ruining was the looks of my home I could stand it, but she is also ruining my health (she insists on cooking), undercuts my disciplining of the children and butts into small arguments between my husband and me.

Don't tell me I shouldn't have allowed her to move in. It's too late for that. Tell me what to do NOW because I am really -- Going Nuts

DEAR GOING: Tell your husband he'd better start looking NOW for some other place for his mother. If he says he can't afford it, tell him it's cheaper than a mental hospital for you -- or separate residences after you divorce him. There is no other way out of this mess.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My cousin left her purse at my house the other night. When I looked in her wallet for identification, I saw her driver's license on which she listed her age as 36. The woman is 41.

The next day when she came over to get her purse, I called this small "error" to her attention. She replied rather haughtily, "It's nobody's business how old I am."

Could she get into trouble over this? -- Just Inquiring
DEAR J.L.: State laws vary. In Illinois if a person knowingly makes a false statement when applying for a license, it could be revoked. But that doesn't alter the fact that you are a Nosy Parker.

BE A FRIEND,
HAVE A FRIEND

JOAN DWYER
DIRECTOR

One of the remarkable qualities associated with being human is our ability to feel and to express our feelings.

Why in the world do we work so hard to hide them?

Mixed messages are the toughest that we send out. How many times have I said to you "What's wrong?" or "Is something bothering you?" Was your answer "Oh, nothing!"

Your body language was screaming loudly- "I am furious!"

What a hard dilemma to deal with!

Many times as an adult I immediately assume that something I have done or said caused you to be so angry.

I have learned to work thru my feelings of guilt.

But a child has not.

If your state of mind does not have anything to do with him, say so. Otherwise, it is a sure bet he will assume the blame.

You might say, "I had a disagreement with our neighbor and I'm mad."

This unscrambling and openness accomplishes two things. It 1) lets him know that he "sees" matches what he "hears", and 2) he didn't have anything to do with it.

Hopefully, he'll grow up sending unmixed messages!

FAITH DOES NOT FLUCTUATE WITH THE SEASONS

The waning days of summer are often accompanied by a feeling of lethargy and depression of the spirit that occurs when the pleasures of the season have begun to pall, but the oppressive heat persists. However, help is always at hand, for faith in God is never restricted by the boundaries of climate and season; it is a continuing source of energy, vitality and inner joy that can be yours whenever you seek it. The best remedy for your sagging spirits can be found in the Church of your choice. It's as near as next Sunday.

"To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven."
— Ecclesiastes 3:1

Gods fade; but God abides and in man's heart
Speaks with the clear unconquerable cry
Of energies and hopes that can not die.
— John Addington Symonds

POLLUTED WATER
WASHINGTON (AP) - "Water produced by municipal plants is degraded on its way from the waterworks to the home tap," Donald L. Porth told a recent meeting sponsored by Resources for the Future. Water passing through antiquated mains, water meters and home plumbing can pick up undesirable pollutants, Porth explained.
"Home systems can contain a variety of metals, such as black iron, galvanized iron, copper and brass," he said.
Porth is president of the Water Quality Research Council, a non-profit group devoted to research and education.

Restaurant Chain In Brouhaha Over Name

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP) - Almost 80 years after "Little Black Sambo" first lullied children to sleep, the tale about a boy who watched tigers turn to butter is tripping up a national restaurant chain.
Pickets, political debates, outraged petition drives and threats of court suits have popped up since the chain decided to branch into the Northeast. And all because of its name - Sambo's.

"Sambo" is offensive, the opponents say, because the word was once an insulting nickname for black people. When the California-based string of restaurants began putting up Sambo's signs in New England, protests followed. Now, one town is holding up its permit while officials consider banning the name. Another has the town lawyer looking into the same thing.

Because of the opposition, the chain has changed the names of 13 of its restaurants to "Jolly Tiger." But Sambo's does not like to do that because these restaurants cannot take advantage of Sambo's national advertising, says the chain's spokesman, David Severson.

The chain, though aware that some find "Sambo's" insensitive, says it has a legal right to keep its name and plans to do so. Opponents say the issue is more than a matter of nursery stories. They worry that Sambo's signs will stir up racial trouble.

"What if black people opened a restaurant and put a sign in the window that said 'kike' ... Wouldn't the Jewish community be upset?" asked Rudy Santos of Brockton, a leader of the opposition.

Severson said Sambo's has been operating for 21 years, but the name brouhaha is new. "We're expanding all over the country, and the Northeast is where the objections have come from," he said.

Sambo's was started in Santa Barbara, Calif., has restaurants in 47 states and plans to open its 1,000th next month. Severson says the name does not come from the children's story but was a combination of the names of the founders, Sam Battistone and Newell Bohnett.

However, the chain capitalized on the coincidence. Signs at its older restaurants show a little black boy and a tiger. Murals from the book decorate the walls.

Now, however, Severson says that tigers are the only vestige of the story left in the new restaurants' decor.

The anti-Sambo's movement has gained intensity in New York and New England, but it seems to be strongest in south-eastern Massachusetts, a mostly white area of mid cities, fishing ports, wealthy suburbs and trendy ocean resorts. In Brockton, a mill city south of Boston, the License Commission is withholding the restaurant's license while the city solicitor decides whether the commission can order Sambo's to change its name.

"When we issue a license, and we see that the name is going to cause problems, it is our business to look into it," said Matthew A. Vosgerchian, one member of the commission. At a meeting packed with Sambo's foes, the City Council voted to ask the commission to ban the Sambo's name.

If the restaurant eventually wins city approval, Santos says, the opponents will try to get a court order to block it.

On Cape Cod, selectmen in Hyannis also have asked the town lawyer to see what can legally be done to get the name changed.

In Raynham, a town with four black families, the new Sambo's was picketed when it opened this summer. And nearby in Rockland, people are organizing a petition drive against a Sambo's planned there.

In two other communities, North Dartmouth and Fall River, Sambo's agreed to rename the restaurants "Jolly Tiger." One Urban League branch requested the state attorney general to prohibit use of the word on restaurant signs.

"Using the word 'Sambo' is tantamount to yelling fire in a crowded theater," said Emergy N. Jackson, president of the Urban League of Eastern Massachusetts. "It stirs up such hostilities."

Jorge Loboton of Brockton's Association San Martin de Porres said people of mixed black and Indian blood are called "Sambo" in the Caribbean. "Right now," he said, "that word is unknown to most people. But I assume that if we have Sambo's restaurants, it's going to be a common term to use against black people."

Most of the critics of "Little Black Sambo" said they had not read the story since childhood and could not exactly remember its plot.

The 1,000-word tale, written by Englishwoman Helen Bannerman in 1899, is about Sambo, a young boy in India. Tigers snatch his new clothes, argue over them, race around a tree and turn into butter. Sambo's mother makes pancakes with the butter, and the lad eats them.

"We want to see that very negative story wiped off the face of the Earth," said the Urban League's Jackson.

Boston is both the largest city and the capital of Massachusetts.

All-American Soap Box Derby Time Rolls Around August 12

The 1977 junior division winners roll past the finish line in last year's national race. Derby Downs in Akron, Ohio, is the most modern racing track of its kind. Fifty-one cities now have special Soap Box Derby tracks like the one in Akron for their local races. Some cities with no hills build ramps for the cars to roll down.

The Soap Box Derby was started in 1933 by a Dayton, Ohio newspaper photographer. The first cars were soap boxes on wheels.

Page 4: _____ is the date of the Soap Box Derby.

Next week! Can you hardly wait? The Mini Page goes to a Shaun Cassidy concert!

On August 12, about 200 kids ages 10 to 15, from all over the country, will compete in the All-American Soap Box Derby in Akron, Ohio. Derby Day begins with a parade.

Later, the first heat (race) rolls down the track. The cars have no motors.

Each heat is made up of one car in each of the three lanes.

The winner of each heat advances to the next round and so on, until a single winner is crowned in each age division.

The average time for each heat is 30 seconds. There is a three-minute break between each heat.

It takes about four hours for both the junior and senior division races to be run.

This will be the first year that a senior car kit can be used. The kit is called "Lightning in a Box." Before this time, seniors built their cars from scratch. Now they have a choice.

The Senior winner will get a $3,000 college scholarship. The Junior winner gets a set of tools.

Kids Build Race Cars at School

BALTIMORE — How would you like to build a car at school? Some kids in Baltimore schools did just that.

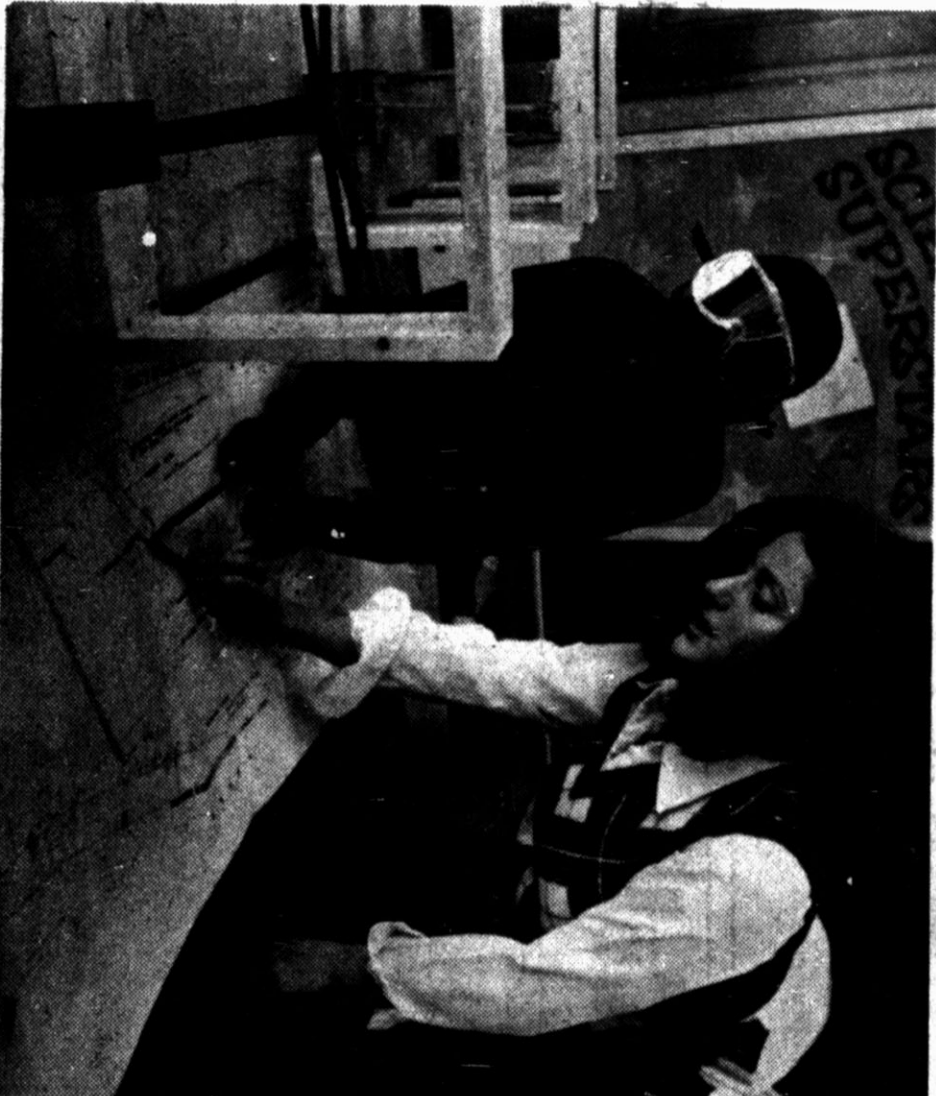

Last spring, they built race cars for the Soap Box Derby. By building cars, they learned a lot about math and following directions.

They learned how to use tools and machines.

They found out something about hard work and competition.

These young students might not grow up to be auto mechanics, but they could turn out to be Soap Box Derby winners.

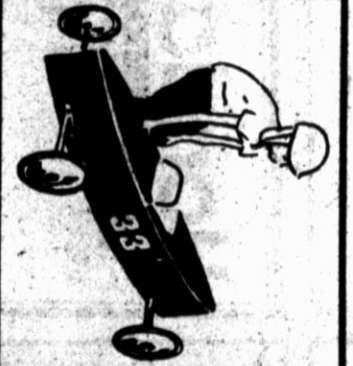

The national All-American Soap Box Derby will be held August 12, in Akron, Ohio.

A fifth grader gets pointers from his teacher about how to assemble the brakes. In the junior division, kids can get help ... but they must do half the work themselves.

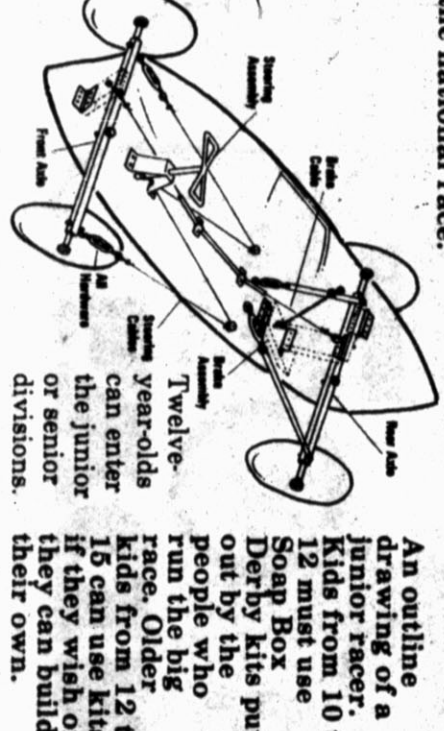

Two girls at work on their cars. The local Baltimore race was held in June. The winners will be going to the national race.

A junior car-builder checks out his steering in the hall of his school. Juniors sit up in their cars. The older senior racers build sleeker cars that they stretch out in.
