-Exploratory Talks Not Sanctioned by Company, Union

Controversy Brews Over Armour Meet

By JIM STEIERT

Controversy is apparently brewing over a meeting of Armour Foods Company employees which is scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday at the Bull Barn.

The meeting has been scheduled as an independent move to determine if negotiations between Armour Foods Co. and the United Food and Commercial Workers Union can be

According to Thomas Reed, who is an employee at the Hereford Armour plant and is also a member of the UFCW, the ultimate aim of the effort which will begin with Sunday's meeting is "to keep the Armour Foods Company plant here."

Reed explained, "The purpose of the meeting is to see how much interest employees have in seeking re-negotiations between the company and the union. It is strictly an information-type meeting and no vote will be taken.'

Reed reported that since his efforts early this week to get the Sunday meeting set up, rumors that he has been fired at Armour have begun circulating, along with allegetaions that the Sunday meeting is part of an effort aimed at breaking the UFCW union here.

"I haven't been fired at the local plant. That claim isn't a rumor, but an outright lie," Reed stated.

"In no way am I trying to break the union, and people from local businesses here won't be at Sunday's meeting. It is for Armour employees, and only those who are union members, or potential union members. We are not talking about a move to dissolve the union...our purpose is to determine if talks can be started between the union and the company," he

According to Reed, no vote will be taken at Sunday's meeting, but following presentations a round table question and answer session will be held.

The economic situation in the country compared to the Hereford area is expected to be one of the topics covered during Sunday's meeting.

Professional individuals who will explain economic situations relating to their jobs compared to three years ago and projecting into the future will be among Sunday's speakers.

Among special guests for Sunday's meeting will be state senate candidate Bill Sarpalius, local lending institution officers, and possibly representatives from the offices of area legislators. The news media has also been invited. Reed stressed that the guests will be on hand to monitor the

The local Armour employee emphasized that Sunday's meeting is not sanctioned by the company nor the union. Earlier this week Reed asked the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce to support the employee meeting and directors agreed to provide the meeting place.

According to Ken Rogers, C of C president, the chamber board supported the independent move "simply as a means of trying to initiate talks between Armour and the union."

Rogers added that he felt most citizens of the community are supportive of any possibilities that could help keep the Armour plant in operation.

Armour announced April 29 that it would cease operations at those of its beef slaughtering plants which operate under a Master Labor. Agreement with the United Food and Commercial Workers Union effective Oct.31.

In addition to the Hereford facility, other plants affected in the shutdown include the Green Bay, Wisc. and the Nampa, Idaho plants.

The local shutdown affects 450 workers and with fringe benefits included would mean the end of a yearly payroll of $8-$9 million in Deaf Smith County.

The Hereford Armour plant has averaged purchasing 400,000 head of finished cattle yearly, and the shutdown of the Armour facility would deprive the area of a $260 million market for finished cattle, most of which come from feedlots in the Texas Panhandle.

Donald J. Shaughnessy, president of Armour, reported at the April 29 announcement of the shutdown here that "the major factor in our decision to close the three facilities was the fact that a discriminatory labor contract...from which we were unable to secure any relief from the union...forced us to operate at a competitive disadvantage that could no longer be sustained."

According to Armour headquarters in Phoenix, Armour's average wage and fringe benefit costs at the three plants totaled $14.12 per hour, compared to Armour's major competitors whose rates...under contract with the same union...are 50-60 percent lower.

In Demo Runoff Contests

Light Turnout Seen Saturday

Democratic races for a Texas Supreme Court judgeship and 'two positions on the Court of Criminal Appeals will be decided in Saturdy's runoff primaries.

Deaf Smith County voters are expected to turn out in light numbers for the election. Ballot boxes will be the same as for the May 3 primaries.

There are no Republican races on the local ballot.

In the runoff for Place 1 of the Texas Supreme Court, John C. Phillips, 62, former chief of the Austin Court of Civil. Apeals, faces 51-year-old Jim Wallace, a former state senator and now on a Houston court of civil appeals.

The winner faces Republican attorney Jim Brady, 59, of Austin, in November.

For Place 2 on the Court of Criminal Appeals, incumbent Judge W.T. Phillips, 67, meets Austin attorney Michael McCormick, 34. In Place 3, incumbent Tom G. Davis, 58, is opposed by Austin attorney Edith Roberts, 47.

Voting sites are as follows:

Precinct 1, driver's license examiner room; 2. county commissioners' courtroom; 3. Zinser residence, west of Westway; 4. Simms Community House; 5. Hereford Community Center; 6. Ford School; 7. Dawn Community Building, 8; Walcott School; 9. Bippus Community House; 10. Wildorado Church; and 11. Northwest School.

"They're the only street names we've got that makes sense. How about changing Union and Grand to 10th and 11th instead of changing 13th through 15th to other names?" she asks.

COUNTY CLERK B.F. CAIN tells us a record was set in the absentée voting for Saturday's runoff contests. Not a single absentee ballot was cast, and that's the first time Cain remembers that happening.

Since there are no local runoff contests for either party and the Republican party has no statewide runoff contests, little interest has been shown among voters here.

And, the Democratic ballot has only three statewide contests--two for the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals and one for the Texas Supreme Court. These are not offices which normally arouse much voter interest, and many citizens are not familiar with the names. With that in mind, we talked to several attorneys around town to see who they'd recommend in the runoff contests. There appeared to be no favorite in the Supreme Court runoff. for Place 1, where John C. Phillips, 62, faces Jim Wallace, 51. The winner will go against Republican Jim Brady, 59, in

The recommendations we got for the Court of Criminal Appeals were Michael McCormick, 34, for Place 2 and Judge Tom G. Davis, 58, for Place 3. Both elections are strictly Democratic with no GOP opponents in the fall. McCormick faces incumbent Judge W.T. Phillips, 67, in the runoff, while Judge Davis is matched against Edith Roberts, 47, an attorney. The men who made the recommendations of McCormick and Davis generally based their views on knowledge of the candidates, a preference for the more conservative judges, and legal qualifications.

Ready for Election

County Clerk B.F. Cain holds an envelope of election supplies for Saturday's Democratic Party runoff contests. There are no local or statewide runoffs for the Republican Party. For the first time that anyone can remember, not a single absentee ballot was cast for the upcoming election, which Cain believes indicates a very light turnout of voters. There are no local contests on the Demo ballot, either.

House Overrides Carter Veto; Senate Poised for Death Blow

WASHINGTON (AP) -The Senate was poised to deliver the final death blow to President Carter's dime-agallon gasoline fee, a day after his veto of the fee's repeal ran into a 335-34 override vote in the House.

If at least two-thirds of the Senate votes against the veto, the repeal bill would be forced into law over Carter's objections.

It would also make him the first Democratic president to have a veto overridden since Harry S. Truman in 1952.

The override vote was expected to be closer in the Senate than Thursday night's ten-to-one margin in the

But Senate leaders aren't holding out much hope that veto can besustained - especially in the face of a 73-16 vote earlier this week disapproving the Carter cast 21 previous vetoes, all of which were sustained. Although no Democratic president had been overriden since 1952, Republican Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower, Richard M. Nixon and Gerald R. Ford had a total of 19 vetoes overidden.

Democrats have controlled both houses of Congress for the better part of the last 50

In his veto message Thursday, the president told Congress that while he knew the fee was politically unpopular, members should rise above politics and let him impose it. He called the levy an important step in oil conservation, "good policy and good common sense."

His veto took two hours to reach the House and two minutes to discuss. "We've talked the matter to death," said Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, as the roll call was ordered. Carter wanted the fee to help the nation begin withdrawing from its 8-millionbarrel-a-day consumption of foreign oil. But opponents -Democrats as well as Republicans — called the fee a $10.3 billion tax on drivers that would serve little purpose but to help balance the budget.

The president announced the fee last March 15 and it was to have gone into effect

May 15. But a federal judge blocked it, saying Carter overstepped his authority in trying to place the levy on all gasoline instead of limiting it to oil imports.

The administration is appealing that order. However, an override of Carter's veto could make the outcome of that appeal a moot issue. It was not immediately known if government lawyers planned to pursue the appeal if the veto is overturned.

Carter reiterated his claim Thursday that he moved to impose the fee in part because congressional leaders urged him to do so last winter.

seven months ago. Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh called the resolution "a big victory for Iran," and said what "we Iranians needed we got" from the four-day conference that ended Thursday.

Ghotbzadeh also attacked the Soviet drive against anticommunist Moslem rebels in Afghanistan, accusing Russian troops of torture, wide-spread killings and other horrors in Iran's eastern neighbor. Soviet delegates to the conference listened in stony silence.

Clark, the former U.S. attorney general, headed a delegation of 10 Americans attending the conference in Tehran in violation of a U.S. travel ban.
Ghotbzadeh said their proposal to mention the hostages in the resolution would have led to inclusion of many other problems. "There are many other issues which are outstanding and, as far as we are concerned, are more important than the hostages," he said.

However, he said the hostage issue was covered implicitly because the measure calls for peaceful settlement of "all" Iranian-U.S. problems.

Rev. The Washington, rector of the Church of the Advocate in Philadelphia, 'said the American delegation was ready to accept Ghotbzadeh's explanation. "What wasn't written explicitly, was stated explicitly," he said.

Although Iranian officials have repeatedly said the fate of the hostages will be determined by Iran's new Parliament, Ghotbzadeh, in his statements Thursday said the next move in solving the crisis was up to Washington.

As 'a result, payments averaging nearly $100 a week to eligible workers will be cut off until Congress acts, the Labor Department says. One official said it appears the checks will not start coming again for at least two weeks.

The official, Robert A. Schaerfl, said, "It appears that most states will exhaust their funding (today)," adding, however, that "a few states may not run out until early next week."

Other government programs, including disaster relief and benefits to coal miners suffering from black lung disease, also may run dry soon because of the deadlock over a fiscal 1981 spending plan. The dispute has distracted Congress from increasing 1980 spending for programs now running out of

The first fund to go bankrupt affects auto workers and other employees laid off due to foreign competition, and those not covered by regular state unemployment insurance, including jobless federal workers, military personnel and CETA public job holders.

Regular unemployment benefits, now going out to about 31/2 million people, are not in jeopardy.

The Labor Department estimates that between now and next Friday, checks will stop going out to 334,000 blue-collar workers, 190,000 federal civilian and military personnel and 73,000 CETA workers.

The payments usually supplement other jobless benefits that auto workers receive, but may be the sole source of income for the unemployed federal workers.

The nearly bankrupt fund, called the Federal Unemployment Benefits Account. received $450 million from Congress last fall. Because lavoffs in the auto industry were much larger than expected, however, the administration says it needs another $1.1 billion to keep the fund operating.

Since March, a rapidly developing recession has swelled unemployment by 1.6 percentage points - the largest two-month climb since World War II, the Labor Department said. Some 1.7 million Americans were added to jobless rolls in April and May.

The unemployment rate rose 0.8 percent for a second straight month, climbing from 6.2 percent in March to 7 percent in April and then 7.8 percent in May. It was the highest rate since November 1976.

At the same time, the Labor Department said wholesale prices during May rose by a mere 0.3 percent, down from April's 0.5 percent rise and the smallest monthly increase since September 1977.

OPEC To Attempt

OPEC's crude prices have been in disarray since early 1979, when militant members began to add "surcharges" to their previouslyagreed prices. As a result some members are currently asking as much as $7 a barrel more than others for virtually identical grades of oil.

The eruptions of May 18 and 25 killed at least 24 people and will cost taxpayers and consumers at least $2.7 billion. Preliminary loss estimates just for farmers are over $190 million. But those charged with picking up the pieces now are looking beyond the immediate emergency and ahead to a return to normality. In a round of interviews with The Associated Press, government officials and businesses in the area were upbeat about the future, despite the staggering they still must impacts absorb.

"People are resilient. There is no defeatist attitude," said Ray Walters, ess secretary to Gov. Dixy Lee Ray and a mber of her committee charged with long-range

"I guess it's the pioneer stock. There's nothing wrong with Washington that a lot of money and a

"But overall, after we recover from this initial impact, it should be back to what we would call normal in three to five years."

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., announced this week that President Carter will ask Congress for $860 million in aid to last through Sept. 30, the end of the current fiscal year.

Magnuson said he would support additional appropriation requests "as far into the future as necessary."

One big question is how much the state's farmers will be hurt by ashfall.

State agriculture official Marvin Carlson created a stir last week by saying if the ashfall were to continue, eastern Washington could become "uninhabitable" and that "we may not have a Yakima." He later backed off, saying his statement had been in answer to "what if" questions from a reporter and did not reflect probabilities.

"There's no damn way farms are going to die,' said Agriculture Director Robert Mickelson. "Farms do not die because farmers won't let them. The agriculture community may be hurt, but we're a long way from dying."

Initial testings of the ash shows it to be inert and non-toxic. It destroyed or damaged hay, wheat, barley and fruit and vegetable crops. Testing continues on whether future crops . will be affected by the tons of extra ash in the soil.

"We won't know what the bottom line on agriculture will be until it's time to harvest the crops," said Walters. "Just how devastating the damage will be, we just don't know. Our cherry crop, for instance, will be great."

Miserable Youth

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Whenever I am blue or depressed (which I am a lot lately), my mother says. "What's the matter with you anyway? Your teenage years should be the happiest time of your entire life!" Well, I am NOT happy. In fact, I am miserable. And so are a lot of my friends. Will you please get this message across to my mother so she will get off my case? Thanks heaps. -- The

"I know of no greater fallacy, nor one more widely believed, than the statement that youth is the happiest time of life. As we advance in years, we grow happier if we live intelligently. The universe is spectacular, and it is a free show. Difficulties and responsibilities strengthen and enrich the mind. To live abundantly is like climbing a mountain or a tower. To say that youth is happier than maturity is like saying the view from the bottom of the tower is better than the view from the top. As we 'ascend, the range of our views widens. The horizon is pushed farther away. Finally. as we reach the summit; it is as if we had the world at our decide the bride (or birthday girl) is a slob, write or call to make sure the gift was received."

Listen to this: I sent out 58 thank-you notes for wedding gifts four days after the ceremony. An additional 28 notes went out six days later. We have now been married one month. I did some checking and learned that 12 of my thank-you notes are missing in action.

I would hate for a friend or relative to think I am so rude that I would not acknowledge a gift. I'm going to the post office tomorrow, as the man on the phone suggested. I don't know what they can or will do about the lost notes, but maybe I will learn something. Perhaps they will refund my $1.80 in stamps and I will only be out the cost of the cards. -- Carol In

DEAR CAROL: Don't hold your breath waiting for a refund, but your letter will remind millions of readers that it's a good idea to check before condemning a person as a slob. Incidentally, dear, gifts get lost as well as

thank-you cards. DEAR ANN LANDERS: 1 am a 16-year-old girl with an unusual problem. I excel in golf, tennis, swimming and racquetball. I thought this would make me popular with the fellows but it seems to be doing just the oppoiste.

Clocks 4th Fastest Qualifying Time In 800-Meters

ames Mays Competes In NCAA Meet

AUSTIN (Special)--Texas Tech's James Mays admitted that he wasn't holding anything back during Thursday's qualifying run in the 800 meters here at the University of Texas Memorial Stadium, site of the 1980 NCAA Track and Field

Championships. Mays turned in the fourth best time of the night to advance to Friday nights final qualifying run as the field of 37 runners was trimmed to 15 for tonight's action. Five heats were run off Thursday with the top three finishers in each flight advancing.

Mays, a junior from Hereford, turned in a time of flight, which turned out to be the toughest of the night's competition. Three of the five top times of the day emerged from that flight.

The Raider trackster, a former stand out Hereford athlete, clocked the fastest 800 meters in Southwest Conference history in May Invitational Track and Field Championships in Austin.

Mays churned out a second place 1:46.6 time in the 800-meter run which qualified him for the NCAA Championships and the U.S.

Olympic track and field trials. In addition to his most recent track feats. Mays win a SWC track title in 15 years when he clocked a 1:48.85 in the 800-meters run during the SWC track and field meet.

As a 1977 graduate of Hereford High School, Mays was an all-district performer in both track and basketball.

He was named to the All South Plains basketball team and to the Panhandle Super Team by the Lubbock Avalanche Journal and Amarillo Globe News.

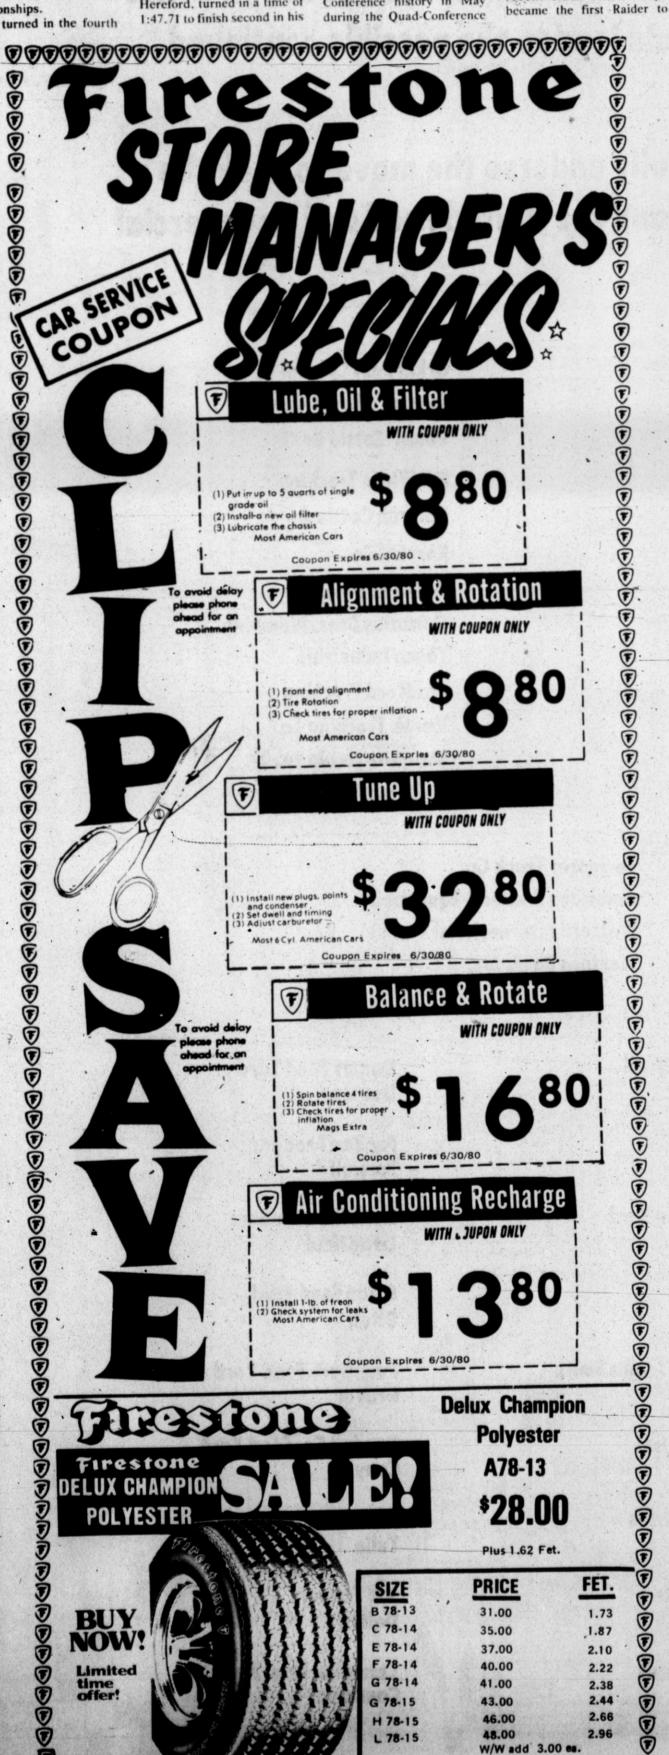

He was named HHS's Outstanding Athlete, as well as the top track and basketball player. In his senior year at Hereford, Mays was undefeated in the half mile.

He set a new school and regional record at Lubbock in 1977 with a 1:52.0 clocking.

He broke a school record that previously belonged to his brother Luther, who ran a 1:53.9 in 1974.

Then Mays, went on to capture the state title in the 880 in 1977 after netting a time of 1:52.4.

MONTREAL (AP) - Just about everyone who had a hand in organizing the 1976 Montreal Summer Olympics came under fire as the Malouf Commission's huge report on cost over-runs was made public.

The 908-page report was the result of lengthy public hearings by a commission headed by Superior Court Justice Albert Malouf into why the cost of the Games swelled to $1.6 billion from an early estimate of $120 million. The report lays most of the blame on Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau, saying he "must assume the greater part of the blame for the decisions made and initiatives undertaken with regard to the organization and construction of the Olympic installations."

Defending champion a 6-foot-41/2 righthander who warmed up Thursday by striking out six Snyder hits in an 8-4 victory.

Smajstrla's three hits raised his playoff average to .714 - 20 for 28. He leads his team in seven offensive categories, including homeruns with six and stolen bases with 31.

Machin, already named to the North schoolboy all-star team, was 17-1 before lefthanded pitches. The Houston-area team also took an extra base on each of three deceptive pickoff plays by Machin. Pearland's alertness on the pickoffs accounted for four runs.

Speedy Ned Plum dashed home on Bob Meloni's single edged Houston Cypress Creek, 4-3. Roosevelt scored its other three runs in the first on Mike Ellis' basesloaded single, which centerfielder Scott Wagner kicked into right field.

Cypress Creek got only three hits, including two infield safeties, off Roosevelt lefthander Harold Litzner. Plum and Meloni each had two hits for Roosevelt, which collected six off Jeff Cordera. Plum also had a stolen base and used his speed to sprint to second after a third strike on him skipped past the DeSoto rallied for three runs in the fifth on Kevin Smith's two-run triple and Damon White's single driving in Smith to beat Wharton, 5-2. DeSoto had six stolen bases as Philip Taylor, 10-2, outpitched David Dolejsi, 15-3, who left in the Westlake jumped to a 7-0 lead after three innings, and Coach Howard Bushong removed Schiraldi, 17-1, obviously saving him for DeSoto. Bushong inserted freshman reliefer Dirk Tidwell, who pitched the final four innings as Westlake walloped Snyder, Schiraldi gave up only one hit and walked none.

Nine walks by Tony Degrate of Snyder led to seven Westlake runs. Westlake also had six stolen bases, including two by shortstop Kelly Gruber, a first-round pro draft choice of the Cleveland Indians.

Kildare defeated Crockett, b-

0, and La Grange eliminated Aledo, 6-1, to set up another championship match. Ronnie Conley of Linden-Kildare and Jeff Cook of La Grange each pitched one-hitters, with Cook striking out 13 and Conley six.

-Cook's team, however, trailed 1-0 until the last inning, when La Grange finally broke through against Aledo pitcher Chris Jackson for s six runs.

A single by Jerald Clark of Crockett and a run-scoring double by Ed Everett of Aledo were the only hits for those teams.

In A, Bobby Gawlik threw a five-hitter as Falls City defeated Diana New Diana, 6-0, and Waskom routed Pottsborg, 11-0, despite 13 strikeouts by Pottsboro's Dwayne Williams. Waskom got 11 hits, including three by shortstop Tom Bowen, a .481 hitter.

Defending champion Palmer held off Johnson City, 5-2, and Colmesneil, the 1979 runnerup to Palmer, edged Windthorst, 2-1, with two runs in the last inning in the Class B semifinals.

Windthorst had lost more games than it had won, but the 8-10 team came close to pulling the upset of the tournament. Pitcher Daniel's Schreiber had a three-hit shutout until a double by Darren Bean, an infield a hit batsman rescued Colmesneil, which is 20-4 for the season.

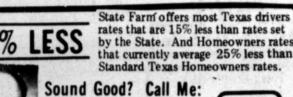

Schreiber also had Windthorst's only hit off Bean, a single.

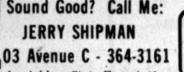

Palmer led 5-0 until the seventh when Johnson City rapped three hits for two runs and had the bases loaded when Zeanon Corpus - the potential winning run popped out to second for the final out.

Wayne Mathis, 12-0, was the winner for Palmer. Corpus, who gave up four runs in the first inning, was the loser. He finished the game in centerfield.

Rainbows, Arizona Meet In NCAA Finale

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) -Hawaii's young, surprising Rainbows, the talk of the Islands and the darlings of the College World Series, take on tough, battle-scarred Arizona Friday night for the NCAA baseball title.

The Wildcats have earned the final the hard way. They were upset by St. John's 6-1 in their opener, but battled back through the losers' bracket to reach the title

Arizona outlasted Pac' 10 rival California, 11-10, Thursday night in an errorfilled slugfest to determine which club would meet Hawaii. The Rainbows had been beaten 6-4 Wednesday night by the Wildcats.

"Not in our wildest dreams did we thing we'd be playing for the title in the College World Series," Hawaii Coach Les Murakami said late Thursday after learning that Arizona would be his Rainbows' opponent.

Dozens of telegrams and telephone calls from Hawaii Thursday night wished the Rainbows well, team spokesman Ed Inouye said.

While Hawaii received a bye into the championship game because the Rainbows stayed undefeated in the tournament longer than any other team, California and Arizona staged a typical Pac 10 donnybrook to earn the right to the finals.

Everytime we play them it's the same kind of game," said Cal catcher Tom Colburn, who did his part by driving in three runs with a night. "They don't quit, we don't quit. If we only had one more inning.'

"This was a typical game," said Cal Coach Bob Milano. "Usually, the team, with the last at-bat wins."

Coach Jerry Kindall of Arizona agreed, saying, "I have a lot of sadness for California. They're from the same mold."

Cal built an 8-3 lead in the fourth, with the big blows coming on a two-run homer and single by Colburn and solo homers by Dan McInerny and Ron Jessen.

The Wildcats scored five runs in a big fifth inning to tie the score 8-8, on singles by Clark Crist and Don Hyman, doubles by Dwight ·Taylor and Terry Francona, and sacrifice flies by Wes

Clements and Pat Roessler. The Golden Bears made it 10-8 when they capitalized on two Arizona errors, the big one a costly overthrow of first base by game winner Jeff

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Why remove the gallbladder?

DEAR DR. LAMB - Would you please tell me the difference between a nonvisual and a nonfunctioning gallbladder? I've had X-rays in 1965 and in 1974 and each time several Xrays on different days. At no time was my gallbladder visualized. I do not think I have any symptoms of gallbladder trouble. I have no pain and I have no problem with digesting my foods. One doctor insisted on surgery. I did not agree to this. A team of doctors at a clinic explained that a person's gallbladder can be removed and he wil fare fine without it but they saw no reason to remove mine. Both Xrays were on routine physical examinations. I am now 67 years old. DEAR READER - The gallbladder is literally a storage reservoir for bile. If the galibladder has been inflamed or the bile duct (tube) to the gallbladder is blocked, there is no way the bile can enter into the gallbladder and be stored there. This is a non-functioning gallbladder. A common X-ray test to visualize the gallbladder involves either swallowing tablets that contain a dye or injecting a dye into the veins. This dye is cleared from the bloodstream by the liver and comes out of the liver in the bile. If a person has a normal functioning gallbladder, the bile containing the dye will be stored in the gallbladder. That way it can be seen on an X-ray.

If the opening to the gallbladder is blocked or the gallbladder has been diseased or scarred so it no longer can function as a reservoir, obviously the bile containing the dye doesn't enter it and it will not be seen. Therefore, it's a nonvisual gallbladder.

There are some technical problems which can some- ation and what is really done? times prevent the gallbladder What about the aftereffects? from being seep. For exam- What is actually cut off and ple, it can contract and empty will I be bedridden? the dye containing bile before the X-ray is taken. Or if you took pills they may not be absorbed adequately and then you won't have enough concentration of dye in the gallbladder to see it. If you eliminate these technical problems, all other things being equal, a nonvisual and a nonfunctioning gallbladder are the same thing.

As discussed in The Health Letter I'm sending you, there are differences of opinion about gallbladder surgery. When a person doesn't have any symptoms of gallbladder disease and it's a nonfunctioning gallbladder, some doctors think it should be taken out because of the increased risk of having cancer of the gallbladder or bile duct at a later date, or the fear that there may be complications from it later in life when a person is not in such a good state of health.

The other side of the coin is the risk of the gallbladder surry itself which, by the way, relatively small in the hands of an experienced surgeon who has done a lot of gallbladder surgery. The risk, of course, is also partially dependent on the general state of health of the patient

DEAR DR. LAMB - My doctor told me I have paraphi-mosis and must be circumcised but I don't have the $175 for the operation. I'm 46 years old and would not care for this circumcision and my wife has stated she won't stand for it. Can you tell me what causes this condition? I can't skin back without a soapy shower.

problem is relatively uncommon today because most male infants are circumcised, although not everyone agrees that this should be a routine procedure. The trouble begins with having a foreskin that covers the glans (head) of the penis. Sometimes this skin becomes very tight and cannot be adequately retracted. This can be complication of local inflammation but it may occur just in the course of time. This makes it difficult to provide proper hygiene.

Not being able to retract the skin adequately is called phimosis. In very young children gradually moving the skin backward on repeated occasions will stretch the skin until this condition is alleviated. It's important, however, to replace the skin back in its normal position at once.

-Wants a tidy Stetson-

DEAR POLLY - Can you suggest something that will clean my husband's Stetson hat? I have tried several cleaners but they turned it down. I tried using cornmeal with cleaning fluid but it did nothing. The hat is a medium grayish tan. — MRS. R.C.

DEAR MRS. R.C. — Did those cleaners refuse to clean your husband's hat because they do not clean hats or because it could not be improved? Ask at a store that sells such hats where one could be sent to be cleaned. It sounds as if you really need a professional job.

You might try a mixture of equal parts flour, salt and cornmeal. Leave it on a day or so and then brush it out.
Of course, such a cleaning would only remove surface soil and grime — not spots. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY - An ideal way to keep your toothbrush clean and dry while traveling is to make a hole in the plastic top of a pill bottle just large enough for the brush handle to go through. Put the top on with the handle sticking up out of the

DEAR POLLY — While traveling, most people carry adhesive bandages for emergencies. I found another good use for them. I had a slip strap that kept falling off my shoulder. I placed a bandage across each strap so that the adhesive stuck
