NOTHING DOING.

Bro. Blake, of the Chronicle, takes his periodical shot at the Banner-Stockman in his issue of last Saturday and in a lengthy, somewhat silly and altogether useless article accuses us of being jealous of the Chronicle. Why, bless your soul, Brother Blake, we ain't jealous of you. We don't covet a thing you've got nor a dollar's worth of business you receive. The jealous thrusts to which you refer were only pleasant rejoinders to squibs of a like or worse character which you had been throwing our way for months. There's business here enough for both of us and we get our share, and haven't time to quarrel with you if we wanted too. Besides, our readers don't want to be inflicted with newspaper squabbles. They say so, as witness the following:

GOODNIGHT, TEXAS, March 12.

DEAR BANNER-STOCKMAN:

We have been interested readers of your paper, also the Chronicle, from their first issues. We always feel like congratulating Clarendon on having two clean, up-to-date papers worthy of a town which is in the front rank on account of the same characteristics.

Now pray don't spoil it all by squabbling. There are plenty people on the outside who will attack one or both of you just as soon as you give him a chance. Of course each of you thinks he has the best paper, but don't you pay any attention to that fellow who agrees with you; he is on the way to the Chronicle to do the same thing; then, after contorting one eye and elevating his heels, he waits for the next paper and says, "Let's see what these two fool editors are fussin' at now." (I heard him at it). Now as a matter of fact if both papers were produced along the same lines one of you would have been out of business long ago.

I'll close by paraphrasing an old hymn (with apologies to Dr. Watts.)

"Let dogs delight to bark and bite.
For God hath made them so,
Let bears and lions growl and fight
For 'tis their nature, too.
But editors, you should never let
Such angry passions rise,
Your wordy weapons ne'er were meant
To tear each other's eyes.
Birds, in their little nests agree,
And 'tis a shameful sight
When Kurus Kusse and Bro. Blake
Fall out and scratch and bite.

With best wishes for both of you.

—AN OLD SUBSCRIBER

THE Dallas News of Friday last contained a full list of the poll tax payers of the state by counties. General Freight Agent Sterley, who was here Saturday, called our attention to some interesting figures in connection with the publication of the list. The list shows that the state has had an increase of voters of 4% per cent. The Panhandle country shows an increase of 20 per cent. This is directly attributable to the heavy influx of new settlers during the past year, and even then an adequate idea of such increase is not gained, for without doubt a large per cent of the new comers either paid their poll tax in the county of their former residence or failed to pay at all for various reasons. While the entire state has enjoyed an increase in population during the past year, by far the heaviest part of the immigration has been to the Panhandle.

WE HAD TO DO IT.

The Banner-Stockman has been forced to invest in a folding machine and last week placed the order for an Eclipse folder with the Barnhart Type Foundry Co., of Dallas. The growth of our circulation has made a folder a thing of necessity in this office, as the old method of folding by hand is both laborious and expensive to a paper with a large number of subscribers, to say nothing of being too slow. In buying this machine the paper is but keeping up with the march of progression of the county and equipping itself in such manner as to reflect credit on its constituency and give its readers the best possible service. The machine will be received within the next few weeks, and when installed our friends are invited to come in and see it operated.

SATURDAY afternoon the Banner-Stockman received a telephone call from a prominent Clarendon lady who stated that she had just finished reading our editorial concerning the disposition of worthless negroes and wanted to add her endorsement to our stand. At the same time she wished to call the editor's attention to the fact that Clarendon was cursed with the presence of some worthless whites as well as negroes, and that the color of their skin only enhanced their utter worthlessness. "While I talk to you," said our fair informant, "I can see a poor white woman who has been hard at work all day over the wash tub, now splitting wood in the yard while her worthless husband, whose laziness is town talk, sits by the stove in some store down town, gossiping and loafing." A lazy white man is of as little use to a community as a lazy negro, and should be shown the same consideration by the citizenship of the town in which he exists at the expense of his wife's labor. Every time he is greeted as an equal by a citizen he is encouraged in his laziness and worthlessness, and instead of so treating him the Banner-Stockman would advocate showing him the road out of town.

IN view of our soon-to-be-completed system of fire protection is it not in order for the younger men and boys of the city to now organize a fire department?

We devote several columns this week to the cantaloupe raisers. This is indeed an important industry, and, we believe, one that is destined to be a financial success in Donley county.

KURUS KUSSE suggests that it would be appropriate to change the name of the Banner-Stockman to "The Clarendon Cantaloupe," or "The Donley County Sugar Beet." We ain't a-goin' to do no sich thing.

THE Vernon Hornet issued a most creditable special edition last week. One especially good feature of it, not often seen in similar editions, was the picture of the editor lined up with the other prominent men of the town.

County Melon Growers' Association

Cantaloupe Raisers Met Saturday and Organized.
Big Acreage Assured in County.

Pursuant to the call by the Banner-Stockman for a meeting of the prospective cantaloupe raisers of Donley county a large number of farmers and other assembled at the court house Saturday afternoon at 2:30, the session continuing until nearly six o'clock.

General Freight Agent Sterley was present, as was also Mr. F. M. Dorsey, of Vernon, who came at the request of Mr. Sterley to give the meeting the benefit of his experience in the raising of cantaloupes. Mr. Dorsey has been a large grower of the fruit for a number of years and his remarks were attentively heard. The gentleman knows his business and his hearers learned much from him.

T. H. Peebles acted as chairman and called the meeting to order, introducing Mr. Dorsey who gave a brief outline of the work necessary in raising cantaloupes, then called for questions, stating that that was the best way to get the information required. Many questions were fired at him, and to all he gave concise answers. From Mr. Dorsey's talk and his answers to questions our reporter gathered the following facts of interest to those who expect to put in an acreage of cantaloupes:

The land must be well prepared; should be turned deep in fall and in the spring bedded up with four horses and a lister. Beds 4 to 5 feet apart. Plant in the trench between beds, in drill, seed dropped from 18 to 24 inches apart, planting just deep enough to give the seed the benefit of the moist earth. Should be well cultivated, but cultivation should be shallow and mostly done with a hoe, the crust of the ground to be kept broken to kill weeds and attract all moisture.

In cultivating the most extreme care must be used. Plant should be cultivated as long as it can be done without disturbing the runners. Plant has a main tap root 8 to 10 inches long. No plant will stand a drouth better than the cantaloupe, while too much rain is very damaging.

The selection of the seed is very important; home grown seed are no good; the genuine Rocky Ford seed the best; speaker always goes to Colorado and selects his seed in person. Seed will cost from 75c to $1.00 per pound, and it takes one pound to each acre. There are a number of reliable seed houses whose seed can be depended upon. At Vernon he plants the latter part of March but season should be some later here. The Vernon crop generally comes on the market from the 4th to the 15th of July, while the Colorado crop comes on about the middle of August. It was brought out here by discussion that Clarendon crop would come on the market between these two dates and a good market would be assured, more especially where carlot shipments were had.

In harvesting much care is also necessary; the fruit must be handled very tenderly, as a light blow will bruise the melon and cause the seed inside to become loosened which will unfit the melon for the market. The rows are placed wide apart to prevent the pickers from trampling the vines. Pickers should use seamless sacks strung from the shoulder, and the melon should not be dropped into the sack but must be placed carefully down in the bottom of the sack without jarring. The same care must be shown in emptying the sack at the end of the row, in loading the melons into the wagon to be hauled to packing place, and in placing the fruit in the crates; then the crates must be loaded carefully into the cars. The fruit must not be roughly handled at any stage of the process. The speaker stated that the big reason so few cantaloupe raisers were successful was because the majority of the growers were not careful enough in handling of the fruit after it had ripened on the vines. After picking the melons must be kept in the shade at all times; never allowed to lie in the sun. In packing several sizes of crates were used; the standard crate holds 45 melons of the proper marketable size; then there are smaller and larger crates, generally used for the off-sized fruit. The white pine crate was the best for various reasons, particularly because it looked better; the appearance of the crate has a good deal to do with the selling of the product. Crates can be had from various sources, all the way from Dallas to San Francisco, and will cost about ten cents each, laid down in Clarendon in carload lots. Cantaloupes are usually shipped in refrigerator cars, with from 350 to 400 crates to the car. By fast freight the average cost of a car to St. Louis is about $200. The freight rate is 33c per cwt, while the icing charges are $65 for a car of 24,000 pounds.

Asked as to what insects or pests the fruit was in danger of Mr. Dorsey stated that the cantaloupe louse was the only pest which had bothered him. This insect gets under the leaf and sucks the life out of the plant, and is uncertain in its attacks though mostly encountered in wet seasons. The best plan for handling the pest is to have the men cultivating the field watch closely for such plants as are affected, and when one is found to dig it up by the roots and bury it between the rows.

As to labor, one man can plant and attend to 5 acres of cantaloupes without interfering greatly with his other farm work. When the time to gather comes, however, it will require two men to pick, crate and attend to the shipping of the product of that number of acres. The larger the field the less expense per acre for labor. The speaker last year had 55 acres planted; two or three men cultivated this acreage, and 40 men were required during the two weeks of heaviest shipping period. During the busy season 45 to 50 acres will ship a carload of melons each day. The melons must be pulled at just the right time, or when the golden color begins to show under the rough surface netting of rind; if pulled too ripe the melon will spoil before it reaches market; if too green it will shrivel. The speaker advocated the organization of a Melon Growers' Association and the employing by the association of an experienced man to oversee the work of harvesting. Only perfect fruit should be shipped in carlots; the small and overripe fruit can be disposed of at home and by express to nearby points. If rabbits bother the field put out arsenic poison on sliced sweet potatoes or apples; that method will usually kill all the rabbits round about. Or rabbit proof fence may

Awake, Awake.

Awake! Awake! the stars are pale; the east is russet gray; They fade; behold the phantoms fade, that kept the gates of day; Throw wide the burning valves, and let the golden streets be free; The morning watch is past—the watch of evening shall not be.

Put off, put off your mail, ye kings, and beat your brands to dust; A surer grasp your hands must know, your hearts a better trust; Nay, bend back the lance's point, and break the helmet bar— A noise is on the morning winds, but not the noise of war!

Among the grassy mountain paths the glittering troops increase; They come; they come!—how fair their feet—they come that publish peace! Yea, victory! fair victory; our enemies and ours. And all the clouds are clasped in light, and all the earth with flowers.

Ah, still depressed and dim with dew, but yet a little while. And radiant with the deathless rose the wilderness shall smile. And every tender living thing shall feed by streams of rest. Nor lamb shall from the fold be lost, nor nursing from the nest.

For aye, the time of wrath is past, and near the time of rest. And honor binds the brow of man and faithfulness his breast— Behold, the time of wrath is past, and righteousness shall be. And the wolf is dead in Arcady and the dragon in the sea. —John Ruskin written at the age of 47.

Surprise for a Clergyman.

It is on record that the pastor of the only Catholic church in a small town in Eastern Massachusetts was obliged to raise some money for repairing the church. Finding that his appeals met with little response, he decided to make a tour of the parish and solicit contributions. The local Mrs. Partridge saw him approach the house, and, going to the door, she greeted the astonished gentleman with: "Come right in, revenue father."

Vitality of the Ant.

Ants have a wonderful power of existing long periods after losing important parts of their bodies which are not reproduced. They have been known to live two weeks without the abdomen, which is so bulky in proportion to the rest of the insect. Under the most favorable circumstances an ant may live more than a month after its head had been cut off. One case is recorded in which the rest of the ant moved about forty-one days after decapitation. Ants also revive after being submerged in water for many days, although they seem to be dead a few minutes after they are immersed.

Dog Saves Master's Life.

One of London's Troubles.

"The clerk element is one of the great troubles of London," says the lord mayor of London. "Clerks are not much more likely to get employment in the colonies than here. The whole world is overdone with clerical labor."

The Height of Meanness.

"Did you succeed in getting any money out of old Closest?" "Did I? Why, man, he is so mean that even the atmosphere in his office is too close to give a man his own breath."

Miss Annie Laurie Buie visited home folks at Canyon City from last Friday to Monday.

Miss Rollie Gordon's uncle, Mr. Kelley, of Wichita Falls, visited her at the College last Friday.

Mrs. Tresise has organized a little chorus class from Miss Betts' pupils, to meet twice a week after 4 o'clock. Those who have joined the class are entering into it with great enthusiasm.

Mr. Pipkin, who had come up from Matador to attend his brother, Henry, who was sick, returned to his home Saturday, taking Henry with him to recuperate a little while.

Misses Ada Hawkins and Agnes Brummett went up to Claude Friday night for a little visit with home folks. Miss Agnes returned the first of the week, but Miss Ada stayed till the middle of the week.

A piano tuner, Mr. Tolzein, from Trinidad, has been busy at the College most of the week tuning pianos, all of which were needing his attention.

Miss Mary Burkhead is teaching at Mrs. G. C. Ferguson's, there being no piano at the College for her use.

Ed Law was called home to Partales, N. M., last week, by the sickness of his father.

There has been an unusual amount of sickness among the students during the past few days. Nothing serious, however; just a mild form of the gripe.

Miss Marion Barnett and Miss Reeves visited the Sapphos and Euterpeans last Friday. Short programs were rendered, the time being consumed in adopting constitutions and by-laws.

Prof. Sawyers and the other young men who attended district conference at Canadian, returned Monday night, reporting a most interesting conference. George Palmer took the examination and was granted license to preach.

Bro. Hardy occupied the Methodist pulpit Sunday morning in Bro. Dodson's absence.

Dr. Burkhead was unable to be in school Tuesday but resumed work Wednesday.

Bro. Bearden was with us for Monday morning address, giving a bright, interesting talk which was much enjoyed. Bro. Crutchfield, of Chicago, was also with us, holding chapel service and following Bro. Bearden with a short talk in which he quoted one of his poems.

It was announced that Bishop Hoss would spend Tuesday in Clarendon on his return from conference. An appointment was made for him to address the students at the College at 3 o'clock, and to preach at night. It was quite a disappointment when it was found that he had been compelled to return to Dallas Monday night. He has promised to spend a day in Clarendon the latter part of the month. Bishop Hoss is one of the finest preachers in Southern Methodism, and his coming will be quite an event to the church and College.

The new stage curtains are finished and in place. They are a "thing of beauty" and if not a "joy forever," at least they will be a joy for a long while to the College and its friends. They reflect great credit on Mrs. Will Clower who painted them. They were greatly needed and will be much appreciated in all future entertainments.

As a result of being on a continual hard run since 2 o'clock Sunday night Dr. Carroll is, as the boys say, about "all in" with a severe cold and is as hoarse as a raven. Mrs. A. M. Beville is this week removing her stock of millinery and ladies' furnishings to the Noland building where she will have more room to display her stock. Mrs. Beville bought heavier than ever before for this spring's trade, and when the goods arrived she found that her old quarters were too small to accommodate the stock properly; therefore she rented the other building until after Easter, when she will return to her former quarters. She says judicious advertising is at the bottom of her success.
