Frito Assumes Control of Grain Handling

BY JIM STEIERT Brand Farm Editor

Prito-Lay Inc. of Dallas has acquired the facilities of Grain Handling Corporation, a prominent food corn handling firm in the local area.

Wister Clevenger of Hereford, a co-owner of Grain Handling, confirmed that the Dallas-based firm had taken over GHC facilities as of the first of the year.

"Frito Lay will operate Grain Handling's facilities, and Garland DePrang. Larry Garvin and myself will retain possession of a feed mill in Olton." stated Clevenger.

"I would rather not comment on any details of the settlement at this time.

Frito-Lay should begin contracting with area farmers for food corn production right away," he added.

The Frito-Lay takeover will involve Grain Handling facilities in Hereford, Hart, Olton, Hart Camp and Springlake, according to Clevenger. Corn storage and cleaning facilities are involved in the transaction.

"DePrang, Garvin and myself will no longer be associated with Grain Handling, but will be associated only with the mill in Olton," Clevenger stated.

The announcement of the Frito-Lay acquirement of Grain Handling Corp. facilities draws to a close a series of incidents which had created serious doubts about the future of food corn production contracts over wide areas of the Panhandle and South Plains.

Frito-Lay and Grain Handling were entagled in lawsuits since October, when Frito-Lay filed suit against a former executive of the firm, five associates, and two other firms, including Grain Handling Corp. for alleged schemes to defraud $18 million from Frito-Lay.

Grain Handling Corporation then filed a $45 million civil suit against Frito-Lay in late October, alleging breach of contract, and claiming that Frito-Lay had no right to repudiate an agreement to purchase four crop years of corn, beginning in Concern over the lack of availability of food corn production contracts for the 1979 crop year led to a special hearing of the Texas House Agriculture Committee here in December, at which time farmers testified on the importance of food corn contracts and the role GHC has played in the area economy.

It was during the hearings that Texas Speaker of the House Bill Clayton announced that GHC and F-L had reached a "very tentative" agreement that would allow corn contracts to be offered to farmers on an individual basis sometime after the first of this year.

In a subsequent turn of events, Garland DePrang of Olton reported to

The Brand that GHC and F-L had reached a "tentative agreement to agree," and by the latter weeks of December, he stated,

"Frito-Lay will probably be taking over."
The announcement of the F-L takeover comes just scant weeks prior to initial Clevenger refused comment on any details of the settlement, or on the effect that the House Ag Committee hearings here had on an eventual settlement.

"I might have some things to say off the record, but nothing for publication at this time concerning these matters,"

"A statement may be issued byGHC officials on the settlement at a later date," he added.

Procedures for the turnover of local GHC facilities were apparently moving ahead today, as Clevenger reported that Joe Wilson, vice president of purchasing for Frito-Lay was at the Hereford GHC office for meetings.

An employee at the local facility answered a Brand phone call with "Frito-Lay, Grain Handling Division," but indicated the name of the firm may be changed at a later date.

According to the employee, Wilson was "in conference," and unavailable for

Iran To Cut Off Oil to Israel, Africa

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Prime Minister-designate Shah-pour Bakhtiar has threatened to cut off oil to Israel and South Africa, promised to curb the secret police and the army and again indicated Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi will leave the country temporarily.

"We must not refuse to sell petrol to countries that request it," Bakhtiar told a news conference Wednesday. "But given the conflict that we have on a religious plane with Israel...I think my government wouldn't do that."

Asked to elaborate, Bakhitiar said he thought Israel, which gets 60 percent of its oil from Iran, "should settle its

But in Washington, U.S. Energy Secretary James Schlesinger said the United States would fulfill a 1975 commitment and see that Israel was supplied if Irian shipments to the Jewish nation were cut off.

Schlesinger urged Americans to reduce oil consumption until the resumption of Iranian production, which has been almost completely cut off by a strike against the shah. He said there was no immediate supply problem, but shortages could develop by fall if Iran isn't exporting by then. Bentsen Seeks Deportation Of Protestors

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, called Wednesday for the speedy deportation of any Iranian student demonstrators found guilty of breaking U.S. laws.

Bentsen made his demand after 500 Iranian students Tuesday stormed the grounds of the Beverly Hills, Calif., mansion in which the sister and mother of the shah of Iran are residing.

The students were repulsed by police after a 45-minute melee in which 35 demonstrators were injured and at least eight persons arrested. An automobile was burned, windows of police cars smashed and numerous small fires set in the shrubbery surrounding the home.

"They are guests in our country and when they mock our hospitality with a blind and violent disregard for the law, I want them sent home," Bentsen said in a letter to Attorney General Griffin Bell.

"I call on you to institute immediate deportation proceedings against any student from Iran, or any other country, who illegally resorts to violence. Bentsen told Bell.

He said the United States should continue to permit and even encourage peaceful dissent.

But there is no reason to tolerate violence such as that which occurred in California this week," he said.

Workmen's Comp Reductions To Save Businesses $60 Million

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) . Workers compensation rate reductions that will save Texas businessmen an estimated $60 million over 12 months were ordered Wednesday by the State Insurance Board.

Rate cuts averaging 5.3 percent statewide will take effect Feb. 1. The cuts are the first since December 1969. Since then, the cost of insuring workers against on-the-job injuries has soared.

Some industries will receive reductions greater than the statewide average - 7.6 percent for contractors and 8.8 percent for oil companies.

Manufacturing firms have averaged a 4 percent decrease in premiums, and the "all other" category that includes commercial establishments will experience an average reduction of 4.3 percent.

A firm's actual workers compensation premium will vary according to several factors, including number of employees, wages paid and accident experience.

One exception to the rate cuts will be shippbuilding firms and ship repair yards the so-called "F Class," which will have a 25 percent increase. Board actuaries said the shipyards' accident experience indicated a 40 percent rise in rates, but the board has had an unofficial policy for years of limiting increases to 25 percent.

Another group that was unhappy with the board order was the Texas Trial Lawyers Association, whose directors will decide within the next two months whether to appeal to the courts.

Even larger reductions are warranted than the board granted, the trial lawyers

The trial lawyers built a voluminous record during almost three days of hearings in an attempt to show that board formulas give insurance companies too much money.

Spokesman for the lawyers said the record might be used in a court appeal. "Certainly you make a record so you have options open to you," said Tony Korioth, a former Texas Industrial Accident Board member who heads the Smith County since early December.

Three of the juveniles, all Mexican-American males and 16-year-old, and the woman, Rachel Panalber of 327 W. 2nd, were arrested Tuesday. The juveniles were charged with burglary and Miss Penalber with receiving and concealing stolen merchandise in her home.

Deaths Continue in Winter Blast

By The Associated Press

It was icy cold from Florida to the Great Lakes today, and at least two persons were reported killed while battling freezing temperatures that sent citrus growers into the fields with heaters. sapped power supplies and set cold records.

An exposure death was reported in Wisconsin.

The cold temperatures worried farmers in Texas and parts of the Southeast, but were called a boon to Georgia peaches.

The National Weather Service said the cold "improves the prospects of a good peach crop this spring," by sending peach trees into a rest period.

Florida citrus growers set up heaters in their fields, but the cold was not seen as a substantial threat. "It will brighten up the fruit and start trees into dormancy.' said Bob Gibson of the Florida Citrus Mutual.

The National Weather Service reported early today that an unexpected wind shift added moisture to the air over the Florida citrus belt, further reducing the threat of crop damage.

In Texas, where less than 10 percent of the $40 million citrus crop is protected by artificial heating devices, growers began gathering oranges and grapefruit for juice. Cabbage and broccoli crops were reported damaged.

Power outages attributed to the cold were reported in widely scattered areas Wednesday, including Birmingham, Ala.; Miami, Key West and Jacksonville in Florida; and Detroit. Schools were closed in upstate New York Wednesday after the area was blanketed by 16 inches of snow. More than 26,000 youngsters got the day off in Syracuse, N.Y. In Columbus, Ga., temperatures fell to

Defense Tries To Link Cullen's Brother Bill

HOUSTON (AP) - Attorneys defending industrial czar Cullen Davis say they can show he was trapped in a conspiratorial web financed by his younger brother Bill. But, they insist, they must be permitted to question investigators allegedly hired by Bill Davis before the elaborate scheme can be exposed. Therefore, lead defense lawyer Richard "'Racehorse" Haynes was to try again today to persuade a wary judge that such testimony is relevant. Haynes vowed outside the presence of the jury to link Bill Davis financially to FBI informant David McCrory, 40, the state's key witness.

Judge Wallace Moore, labeling Haynes' tactics a "fishing expedition," indicated a deep-seated reluctance to allow Haynes to launch his exploratory odyssey.

"I just don't see how this connects at all." Moore told Haynes at the end of a madcap day in the murder-for-hire trial of the millionaire industrialist. Davis, 45, is accused of plotting the contract killing of his divorce judge.

The defense maintains he was framed by a vindictive wife, McCrory and a Fort Worth karate instructor. But Haynes alleged Wednesday that Bill Davis, ousted from the family industrial empire in 1973, may be bankrolling a private investigation against his brother.

And he said he could prove the alleged investigation is part of an "ongoing conspiracy" that he said he could trace back to the events leading up to the defendant's arrest Aug. 20.

Haynes indicated the "heavy financial expenditures" associated with the "sidebar" investigation could come only from Bill Davis, who surrendered his interests in Kendavis Industries for a reported $100 million. Earlier, prosecutors managed to cast some doubt on Davis' claim that he was duped into "playing along" with the alleged mass murder scheme that led to his arrest. Davis had testified previously that he had discussed the situation with a friend, Fort Worth attorney Hershel

Payne, before Aug. 20. Payne confirmed some things Davis' said, but did not give a wholesale corroboration of Davis' testimony. Payne said Davis told him last June of his discussions with McCrory about "killing people." Davis testified Payne told him there was nothing illegal about discussing murder as long as the act was not "consumated." But, said Payne Wednesday, "I (See DAVIS, Page 2)

Nursing Homes May Advertise Ratings

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A new point system that will grade probably 20 percent of Texas' nursing homes 'superior' and let them flaunt that rating in their advertising takes effect Feb. 1.

The State Health Department announced its final rules for the rating system this week.

A bill passed by the Legislature in a 1977 special session that dealt with nursing home abuses revealed by the Lufkin News authorized the rating

"Under the system, a facility could achieve a superior grade without the necessity of large expenditures," the health department said.

Homes that get a superior rating must display their certificate and may mention the rating in their advertising.

A nursing home will keep its superior rating for a year unless it is disciplined later for a violation.

Inspections to determine if a home deserves a superior grade will be unannounced. A home's certificate and advertising must include the date it received its superior rating.

The health department said it expected only about 20 percent of all nursing homes in Texas to receive a superior rating in the first year.

Bergland Recovering

WASHINGTON (AP) - It may be next week before Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland feels well enough to return to Bergland was ordered by doctors to go home Wednesday and take it easy for at least "a couple of days" to recover from a sore back resulting from excessive exercise over the holidays.

An aide, Tom Sand, said Bergland was released late Wednesday from Bethesda Naval Hospital, where he was X-rayed and given medication to use at home.

"If there is no improvement, he'll return to Bethesda for further tests."

The X-rays "showed nothing except he does, in fact, have a spine." Sand said. Bergland apparently over-indulged in exercise over the holidays at his family's farm in Roseau, Minn.

Sand said Bergland's wife. Helen, gave the secretary a pair of cross-country skis for Christmas.

In a memorandum to reporters, Sand said "secretaries of agriculture - even those who have farmed all of their lives don't get much exercise" and that consequently Bergland "has a sore back."

No. 2 USDA Man To Be Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former Lt. Gov. Jim Williams of Florida is the administration's top candidate for the No. 2 job in the Agriculture Department. according to informed sources.

Williams was said by the sources Wednesday night to be in the final. process of being cleared by the White House for the $57,500-a-year post of deputy secretary.

One of the sources said Williams "is the only name we hear" for the job.

Both sources, who asked not to be identified, said the decision is up to President Carter and that Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has not been deeply involved in the selection. They did say the secretary "gave Williams an enthusiastic endorsement."

Williams lost a bid for the gubernatorial nomination in the Democratic primary in Florida last fall.

The deputy's job has been vacant for a year, since the resignation of John C. White to become chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

A number of names were considered in the last year for the post, but no nomination was announced by Carter. At least one candidate dropped out after deciding not to divest himself of business interests as required by the president, the source said.

trial lawyers' workers compensation

Korioth said the trial lawyers' board of directors has 30 days after the effective date of the rates to decide whether to appeal. Their first step would be to ask the insurance board for a rehearing.

The trial lawyers contend the board formula allocates too much of the premium dollar for company expenses and taxes and, therefore, too little for payment of claims.

For instance, the formula treats all insurance companies as if they paid the full 3.85 percent gross premiums tax.

At a hearing in November, board actuary Charles Porter said premiums could be cut another $22 million this year if the formula allowed only the average gross premiums tax payment of 1.74 percent.

Wilderness May Be Doubled

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland announced today a proposal to preserve 15.1 million acres of public forest land, nearly doubling the nation's wilderness system.

The proposal also asks that more than 36.1 million acres in the national forests be opened for "multiple uses" that could include recreation, timber cutting and livestock grazing.

Additional areas totaling about 10.8 million acres would be set aside for 'further planning' to decide how those will be used in the future. The 62 million acres comprise land in

2.919 roadless areas scattered among national forests and national grasslands in 38 states and Puerto Rico. Wilderness areas must be designated by Congress. Bergland said he will work with members of Congress and state governors in the next 45 days before sending his final recommendations to President Carter. "I expect that shortly afterwards, the president will transmit the wilderness proposals to the 96th Congress with his recommendation that these areas be designated as wilderness," he said.

Bergland added in a statement that no action will be taken on the 36.1 million acres proposed for multiple use until 90 days after Congress is in session. Congress opens its session Jan. 15.

The 10.8 million acres suggested for further planning "do have wilderness values" and will continue under review. Bergland said.

Pending completion of forest. resource or project planning for these areas. these lands will remain undeveloped." he said.

The wilderness system now totals about 19 million acres officially designed by Congress. About 15.2 million acres of the total is in the national forest system. The remaining land is administered by the National Park Service, the Bureau of Land Management and the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Additionally, the administration has endorsed proposals for 22.9 million acres of wilderness from lands administered by 2 the agencies, including 3.3 million acres in the national forest system, Bergland

That land was not included in the review of the roadless acres by Bergland today. The review of the 62 million acres involved about one-third of the 187 million acres administered by the Forest Service, an agency of the Agriculture Department.

Called RARE II, for Roadless Area Review and Evaluation, the 18-month project included a tentative plan announced last June 15 that presented a list of possible ways the 62 million acres could be used.

More than 264,000 public comments were received, heavily weighted by timber interests and others seeking commercial use of the land, and by environmental advocates who sought to preserve it as wilderness.

Surgeons May Restore Legs

NEW YORK (AP) - Once no more than a surgeon's dream. the re-attachment of severed limbs is an operation coming of age in modern medicine - a fact reflected in the restoration this week of an 11-year-old Long Island girl's leg.

But doctors are expressing only guarded optimism in the case of Elizabeth McFadden, who regained her leg in a six-hour operation after she fell in front of a train Sunday. The reason is that while surgeons have gained much experience in restoring fingers. hands and arms, restoration of a full leg is still quite rare, with perhaps fewer than two dozen operations ever attempted in this country.

Doctors who worked on the Central Islip, N.Y., sixth grader say it may be years before they know if the operation was a

The city council approved the ban after homeowners complained their lawns were being trampled. And some Pittsburg mail carriers say they were only following orders.

The carriers, who asked not to be named, said Postal Service brass told them last year to cut across lawns to speed up mail delivery. And they say one carrier was reprimanded for failing to do so.

Fred Quesada, president of Local 2405 of the National Association of Letters Carriers, said carrying out the short-cut order brought threats from homeowners. "A lot of people take care of their lawns. That's all they have to do, so they get mad," he said.

But regional postmaster Simon feels differently. "I don't think we're telling letter carries to do anything different than they've done for the past 50 years," he said.

The case filed by Ms. Marvin, which is scheduled for trial in Los Angeles Superior Court beginning Tuesday, is considered by some as likely to produce a precedent-setting ruling for separations and property settle-ments in relationships not formalized by marriage.

The admissibility of the letters, attached to a defense motion filed with Judge Arthur Marshall, has not been decided. The motion asks that Ms. Marvin's attorney be barred from using the emotional aspects of the relationship as proof that an "implied contract" existed.

The defense wants arguments restricted to "property related behavior" - joint bank accounts. legal papers or contracts.

In one letter, the actor describes an imaginary scene in which he tells a judge he would accept a life sentence with Ms. Marvin as penalty for "robbing a 33-year-old cradle." After sentencing. Marvin tells the judge: "Yes sir, I accept life with her. ... Will the jury please get out of that cradle:

In other letters, littered with misspellings and grammatical errors, the now 54-year-old Marvin writes:

-"I get so nervous when I think of your coming that I either fall asleep or eat something. Even my drinking has fallen off and as of now I am down to wine and champagne. or is that up to?"

-"Oh baby. I want so much for you, please."

But in another letter, Marvin writes: "I think that I am slowly beginning to hate, hate, hate you, but I guess that is a very fine line that we will have to examine in great detail."

3 MISSION: IMPOSSIBLE

IN WASHINGTON

Martha Angle and Robert Walters Pure poppycock?

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Happy New Year, and welcome to a bright and shiny 1979. It may not look like much at the outset, but at least it's still five away from 1984.

Not that anyone should flinch at the approach of that ominous numeral on the calendar. After all, who's afraid of George Orwell in this day and age?

"Big Brother Is Watching You" may have sounded pretty scary 30 years ago when "1984" was first published, but it's obvious by this time that Orwell's dyspeptic vision of the future was pure poppycock.

but it's obvious by this time that Orwell's dyspeptic vision of the future was pure poppycock.

Here we are, just five years shy of 1984, and nobody is watching us. Unless, of course, you count all those hidden television cameras at the bank, the airport, the department store, the apartment lobby ... Our society bears no resemblance to Orwell's mythical "Oceania," with its mass-produced food, vulgar entertainment for the proleterians, constant shortages of essentials like energy and declining standard of living.

Why, hardly a month goes by when the government doesn't report a rise in the personal income of Americans. And if "real" wages are actually falling, because of inflation and taxes, surely that is just a fleeting aberation.

There's no way that "more" could mean "less" in our society; we don't engage in "double-think" or "Newspeak." No lexicographer in 1979 would tolerate the kind of fiddling with the language that "Newspeak" involves ... replacing "good" and "bad" with "good" and "ungood," for example.

(Would someone kindly reach in the fridge and get us a soft drink — the Uncola?)

Americans certainly do not all dress alike "in a uniform which was at certainly do not all dress alike "in a uniform

Americans certainly do not all dress alike "in a uniform which was at one time peculiar to manual workers." No manual worker ever wore jeans quite like those on the streets today which were expected of the populace in "1984." Can you imagine the snickers that would greet anyone who "mechanically shot his arms back and forth, wearing on his face the look of grim enjoyment which was considered proper during the Physical Jerks ... "?

And nobody goes in for the sort of "Physical Jerks"

(Dear, on your next jog around the block would you stop by the store for some milk?)

The power structure of our society is likewise totally different from the Party oliogarchy which ruled Oceania in "1984." In Orwell's book, "the new aristocracy was made up for the most part of bureaucrats, scientists, technicians, trade-union organizers, publicity experts, sociologists, teachers, journalists and professional politicians."

All of those people "had been shaped and brought together by the barren world of monopoly industry and centralized government," a world obviously alien to our own.

Oceania, in "1984" was just one of three world superpowers (the others being Eurasia and Eastasia) that were locked in perpetual warfare which none could ever win, since none dared use atomic weapons.

"None of the three superstates ever attempts any maneuver which involves the risk of serious defeat." Indeed, they spend most of their time shifting alliances among themselves, so that Oceania may one year be at war with Eastasia and aligned with Eurasia, while the next year fighting its erstwhile ally with the aid of the former enemy.

This peculiar lineup, like the rest of "1984," is difficult to imagine in 1979, when "once an enemy, always an enemy" is the prevailing rule. (Mr. President, must you play the China card quite so forcefully?)

All in all, it's a great comfort to reread Orwell's preposterous novel now that 1984 is actually within hailing distance. Big Brother recommends it highly.

MRS. JIM BULLARD ... prepares meal for family

By DENISE SMITH Brand Staff Writer

Mrs. Jim Bullard, having moved her family five times in connection with her husband's occupation, feels they will make a home of Hereford.

The Bullards came to Hereford this summer, when he became administrator of Deaf Smith General Hospital. They reside at 124 Nueces.

"The first move is the hardest. The other ones were taken fairly well. It mostly depends on your attitude toward the move and your attitude toward the people, she explained. "If you're willing to accept the town and not judge it. I think you can be happy. The children have gotten used to it. It's like, 'Where are we going to move next, Mommy?"

Through the moves from town to town, Mrs. Bullard has found her husband's job an interesting and educational experience for herself.

"Jim doesn't bring his stress from work home with him.

General Hospital has an adequate staff, doctors that seem to be excellent, and everyone works for the betterment of the hospital and the community, which makes Jim's job a lot easier for him and his family," stated the young homemaker.

Bullard, a native of Freeport, has been employed in Oklahoma, Arkansas, San Antonio, Kingsville and Hereford. He started the first hospital personnel office in Lawton,

Mrs. Bullard's only experience in the hospital field was during high school when she was a candy striper. The enthusiastic woman stated. 'Right now I'm content to be a homemaker. I'm glad Jim's the one that has to be the breadwinner and not me."

Mrs. Bullard is the mother of two children, Jason, 8, and Jennifer, 5. She finds her family her main interest at present. She has plans to continue her education in Physical therapy time. The Lord doesn't give us any more than the moment we're living in. I try to be happy and I try to make the people around me happy. I think we need to be content with our lives. Strive to do better but accept yourself for what you are and learn more about yourself so you will be happy." advised the domestic woman.

Mrs. Jim Bullard Enjoys Family, Home

Mrs. Bullard was born in Fort Worth where she graduated from high school. She moved to Kilgore and attended Kilgore College. She received her associate degree in physical therapy, married, and moved to Denton where her husband finished his college career.

She enjoys sewing, doing hand-craft items with her children, needle craft, crocheting, needlepoint, square dancing with her husband, macrame and yard work.

"I'm not an artistic cook or an experimental cook. I'm a stick - to - the- good-basic-recipe type. And I enjoy recipes that are tried and true, and that are remaining cornmeal batter over given to me by friends."

commented Mrs. Bullard. She has shared with The Brand some of these recipes

Drinking And Sexuality

DEAR ANN LANDERS: 1 need to know once and for all. Does alcohol improve a male's sexual performance or not? My husband insists that it does --BEFORE he takes those few extra drinks. Then when he can't hack it he refuses to admit he was wrong. We get into an argument and he blames me - says I "turned him off."

Will you please get me some recent data on this subject? Nothing I say will convince him. Thanks so much. -- Lancaster.

DEAR LAN: Although there is plenty of modern scientific data on this subject. Shakespeare said it best in Macbeth."

Discussing the contradictory effect of alcohol on sexual performance, the porter tells Macduff in Act Two. Scene

'It provokes and unprovokes. It provokes the desire but it takes away the performance. Therefore much drink is said to be an equivocator with lechery. It makes him and it mars him. It sets him on and it takes him off. It persuades him and it disheartens him..."

In simpler terms: Alcohol heightens the desire in males. It reduces the inhibitions. BUT it also has a physical effect on his body that makes it extremely difficult or impossible to perform. In other words, the spirit is willing but the flesh is oh, so weak. DEAR ANN: If you can solve is one, you're a genius.

I am 22 years old (female) still living at home with my dad and brother, who is 25. We all have different working hours. Dad gets up first and sets the alarm clock for me. I in turn set it for my brother.

The problem is, my brother could sleep through the San Francisco earthquake and the Chicago fire combined. He does not hear the alarm go off. Both Dad and I phone him from work. because we know what a heavy sleeper he is. The telephone is right by his head. He doesn't hear that either.

Almost every night there's an argument at the dinner table because Brother insists I did not set the alarm and we forgot to phone him. So -- he was late

When he loses his job, of course, it will be our fault. Do you have a solution to this? --Dumped On

DEAR DUMPED ON: Is your brother a pothead -- or is he perhaps on another drug? Beer or alcohol before bedtime can also konk out a person. Also, what time does he turn in?

Buy Rip Van Winkle an alarm clock with the noisiest clang available. Set the phone on its heaviest ring. If this doesn't do it, he's no normal sleeper -- and I suggest he'd better stop doing whatever he's doing that knocks him unconscious at night.

DEAR ANN: I'm the mother of three good-looking sons, ages 14, 15 and 17. I'm tired of having our dinners interrupted by girls. Last night I announced there will be no telephone cords dragging in the plates while the food gets cold.

Do you think girls who phone boys are chasing them? When I was growing up, boys called

Marketing Costs Blamed For Higher Food Prices

One of those things that is increase which resulted from a billion exceeded the farm value always going up seems to be the worldwide grain shortage in cost of food.

A recent U.S. Government Accounting Office report, "What Causes Food Prices to Rise? What Can Be Done About h?" states that major reasons for high food prices are bad weather, increased food marketing costs, and inflation.

Between 1970 and 1977. consumers paid 72 percent more for U.S. farm produced food. Part of this increase is annual inflation, added to a 41 percent

These increases have brought charges of unfair pricing policies against the food industry; increased the concern over high food prices; and led farmers to complain about the low prices received for agriculture products, compared with their production costs.

The largest single cost for farmers is the cost of labor. In 1977, for the first time, food marketing labor costs of $62 of the commodities by $5 billion. While farmers are complaining of low prices for their products, consumers are complaining they never see the savings passed on, say Dairy Council, Inc. home economists. Some of the reasons are:

-increased marketing costs for the middleman (assembling, transporting, processing, wholesaling and retailing);

-- retail pricing methods that follow competitor's prices, retaining retail price when wholesale cost decreases, and offering cents-off coupons rather than reducing the established price; and

-- no price competition when a few stores attract most of the

At Wits End BY ERMA BOMBECK

I read a spine-chilling statistic the other day.

Educational theorist John Holt predicts that within the next ten years, more than 500,000 U.S. families will be schooling their children at home.

Have you any idea what that means at our house? It means our kids will be close to 35 by the time they graduate. My husband holds three college degrees. I hold one. We have never been able to tell our children anything.

If I said, "Children, today is Tuesday...ergo, tomorrow is Wednesday." they would cock their heads to one side, squint at me suspiciously and say, "Are you sure?"

I know it seems like a wonderful idea having the children sitting around a study table at night singing "Inchworm," but trust me. I'm a pioneer parent who goes back to the days when parents alone shouldered the responsibility for preparing a child for his place in the world...the days before they offered driver's education in the schools.

Now, there's a bit of home education guaranteed to stunt your growth. Maybe home education would have worked when the kids were younger. I had the "fear factor" going for me then. I would reach out to pick a piece of lint off their jacket, put their collar outside a sweater, or pat them on the head, and they would flinch. They were never really too sure. As years went by, they came to know me too well and they stopped flinching.

I stopped by my son's room the other night, poked my head in the door and said, "How's it going?" He said, "The Celtics are ahead by two."

"C'mom, fella," I said, "That will never do. I'll help you with your homework. Got a pencil?" He spread out on the desk his "School Organizer," a notebook that looked like a General Services warehouse. "Could we talk about math?" I asked. He turned on his calculator with the printout and asked, "What do you want to know?"

"Want me to read through your essay?" He flipped the cover off his electric typewriter and said, "It's done. "I can give you Spanish words." He pointed to his audit cassette tapes and said, "No need." "Hey, how about some history questions?" he said, "I borrowed a computer from the library. It's all there. I just push a button.

I closed the door softly. Why did I have the feeling that it was only a matter of time before I would be replaced by a box. a beep and a two dry cell batteries.

Pastorini Leads Houston In Super Bowl Quest

After eight years, both parties are still waiting but as the Oilers prepare for Sunday's American Football Conference championship game against Pittsburgh, a Super Bowl celebration appears more in Pastorini's future than a wedding reception.

Pastorini admits he's an individualist but he doesn't apologize for it.

Every quarterback is an individual. He has his own way of thinking and his own way of leading his personal life."

There is little doubt that Pastorini went his own way. His playboy reputation likely started with his Hollywood good looks, his marriage and divorce to former Playboy pinup June Wilkinson and a much publicized pre-dawn auto accident after an important division game in COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Lou Holtz has issued a strong denial that he will even consider replacing the fired Woody Hayes as Ohio State University's football coach.

Rams Want Super Bowl

By JACK STEVENSON AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP). Veteran guard Tom Mack says his Los Angeles Rams are tired of knocking at the Super Bowl door and now they want in.

The 35-year-old Mack, who played on Michigan's last Rose Bowl winning team in 1965, has now played in 185 consecutive games for the Rams and wants a Super Bowl title to cap his

To get there, Los Angeles must beat Dallas on Sunday in the Coliseum, but three times in the last four seasons, the Rams have been thwarted at this point.

"I personally believe this is the best team that I've been on," said Mack, in his 13th season with Los Angeles. Other teams have had as good talent, but this team plays best when it has to. The bigger the challenge, the bigger the response.

He admits that the wild card Dallas team of 1975 "humiliated" the Rams with a 37-7 victory but vowed that would not happen this time.

However, he said Dallas is much better than the Minnesota team the Rams whipped 34-10 last Sunday.

Mack said, "We've been so close so many times that we may be running out of chances. I think we're working with more intensity probably for that reason. I've played in 11 playoff games and that might be close 25-year-old Dallas defensive to a record for someone who has never been in the Super Bowl." Mack has never missed a game as a Ram and asserted. "It's either mental toughness or monumental stupidity because I played hurt a lot of times. In this game we have a fierce desire to try to break through."

The veteran says is the Super Bowl is final goal he seeks in the game of football.

A mechanical engineer working for the Bechtel Corporation in the off-season, he has a job when he decides to quit football, a decision he has not yet made. Mack will be working against tackle Randy White, whom he rates as one of the three beat in the league - the others being the Rams' Larry Brooks and Derland Moore of New Orleans. In many past games, it was Mack against the Cowboys' Bob Lilly, who now is retired.

Randy has some styles similar to Lilly." the offensive lineman said, "but Randy uses his strength more than Bob did. Bob was the most instinctive player I've ever played against."

As for the Rams, Mack says that new Coach Ray Malavasi has brought in an offense "appreciably different" from that of Chuck Knox, who coached the Rams the past five seasons, during which they won divisional titles each time.

"We have more weapons and we mix things more," Mack said. "The aim is to keep the opponent off-balance. With more plays, we don't execute as well, but Ray is willing to take more chances." Mack said the defenses of the two NFC title-seeking teams are similar, "coordinated and disciplined, structured so everybody does his job."

"If you let somebody in and he sacks his quarterback, he is the hero and you are the bum.

Hero, Goat Awards Given In Football

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Corresponde

It was college football's last gasp of the season - millions of holiday-idled buffs glued to their TV sets, the screen clogged with marching bands. skimpily attired majorettes. cleated legions banging helmets against fragile flesh.

High hysteria and bitter disappointments. Heroes and goats - enough to go around. Here's a bleary-eyed look-back at the weekend's college bowl madness:

HERO: Joe Paterno, the

who saw his national title hopes dashed by a stubborn Alabama 14-7 in the Sugar Bowl. No alibis, he said, "We were outplayed and outcoached."

GOAT: Woody Haves of Ohio State, who never learned the art of losing gracefully. To him, football always has been a war. Players are pawns on the field, to be pushed and manipulated toward a single goal - "winningisn't everything, it's the only thing." Like his idol, General Patton, who slapped an invalid soldier in a hospital bed, old Woody ended his career in disrepute by slugging a Clemson player guilty of intercepting a pass that sealed a 17-15 victory in the Gator Bowl.

DOUBLE-HORNED GOAT: Broadcasters Keith Jackson and Ara Parseghian of ABC, who 'didn't see a thing" although the Haves incident was visible to the world on their screen and monitors. Confused fans had to wait until the next day to find out what really happened.

HEROES: Alabama's defensive back Don McNeal, who thwarted a sure Penn State score by smashing Scott Fitzkee out of bounds on the 1 yard line in a one-in-a-million defensive play, and linebacker Barry Krauss, who stopped the Lions' two subsequent smashes at the goal from the 1. This was a game won in the trenches - and Bear Bryant's head.

GOAT: Paterno's board of strategy that failed to notice an extra man on the field when a shanked Alabama punt went out of bounds on the Tide 20 late in the game - the mental error nullifying a Penn State chance to tie or win the game.

HERO: Billy Sims, Oklahoma, a driving, squirming dervish, who measured up to his Heisman Trophy credentials by hammering out 134 yards and two touchdowns in the Sooners' 31-24 triumph over Nebraska in the Orange Bowl. "The best runner I've seen in professional coach of Penn State college all year." said O.J.

GOAT: Coach Bill Yeoman of Houston, who ordered his team to go for a first down on fourth-and-one instead of punting with the ball on Houston's 29 and 35 seconds to play. The strategy backfired, allowing Notre Dame to rally for a last-second touchdown and an unbelievable 35-34 comeback victory in the Cotton Bowl. HERO: Joe Unis, Notre Dame placekicker, who, after a bad snap ruined a conversion early in the game, kicked the extra point - not once, but twice - that gave the Irish their last tick triumph. "I didn't have time to think about being nervous," acknowledged Unis.

GOAT: Head lineman Gilbert Marchman, who failed to call a fumble when Southern California's Charles White coughed up the ball before crossing the goal line for the touchdown that finally decided the Trojans' 17-10 victory over Michigan in the Rose Bowl. TV reruns showed White clearly lost the ball short of the goal and umpire Don Mason signalled fumble. but the TD call stuck. This tainted touchdown won for the Trojans but may have cost them the No. 1 ranking in the postbowl polls.

HERO: Steve Dils. Stanford. the season's No. 1 passer with 2.943 yards, turned three Georgia fumbles and a short punt into 25 points in a six minute, 13-second span for a comeback 25-22 triumph in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

GOAT: The NCAA, which lacks the wisdom to see that college football cries for a post-season playoff system to determine a national champion.

HEROES: Those armchair quarterbacks who refused to budge or blink during the holiday bowl marathon and now are "getting the red out" for the National Football League playoffs and Super Bowl coming up. A rare bread who dies hard.

Jones To Be Traded To Oakland

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -Quarterback Bert Jones of the Baltimore Colts will be joining the Oakland Raiders, perhaps in a trade for Ken Stabler, it was reported Wednesday night. Barry Tompkins reported that the acquisition of Jones would be announced by the Raiders at a news conference in Oakland.

The National Football League team announced there would be a news conference at 1 p.m. PST Thursday and that it would be 'very important." but no details were given.

Tompkins, sports director for ron-TV, said Jones was in the Oakland area Wednesday. He added that it was not known whether Stabler, the quarterback who led the Raiders to the Super Bowl title two years ago, would be going to Baltimore in a trade.

The Raiders have another veteran NFL quarterback. Jim Plunkett, on their roster. They picked him up after he was waived by the San Francisco 49ers just before the start of the 1978 season.

Jones missed several games this season because of injury. after passing for 3,104 yards and 24 touchdowns in 1977. Stabler, who at 33 is six years older than Jones, had a disappointing 1978 season. allowing a league-high 30 interceptions

Gary C. Goodin, head track coach at Hereford High School was named today as head of the men's track program at Wayland Baptist College by Dr. Roy C. McClung, president.

Goodin, 29, replaces Dr. Bill Hardage, track coach at WBC for nearly 12 years, who was recently promoted to an academic administrative position at the college.

Goodin's assignment at Wayland becomes effective next Monday, Jan. 8.

A native of Hereford, Goodin received his bachelor's degree in physical education and speech communication from West Texas State University in 1974 and is presently working toward a master's degree in the same fields of study at WTSU.

A four-year letterman in track at Hereford High School, Goodin helped his team win the District I-AAA championship and was a state meet qualifier in the 120-yard high hurdles, the 330-yard intermediate hurdles and the 400-yard relay. He lettered three years in track in cross-country team at Hereford the sprints and relays while at West Texas.

He served as a graudate assistant at WTSU in 1973 before accepting a coaching position at La Plata Junior High in Hereford in 1974. His ninth grade track team there finished second in the Panhandle Junior High Athletic League.

Since them, he has served as head track and assistant football coach at Shallowater, Muleshoe and Hereford High Schools. having coached numerous regional and state meet qualifiers at those assignments.

His girls track team at Shallowater finished second in District 5-A competition and qualified three relay teams and six individuals for the regional meet. The boys team was third, landing berths in regional competition in the pole vault and discus.

At Muleshoe, Goodin's teams finished fourth and third the last two seasons in District 3-AA. qualifying five individuals for the regional meet and one for the state finals in 1978. His

We are very pleased to have Gary on our staff and feel he will be an asset to our program." said Dr. Dan McLallen. vice-president for academic affairs at WBC. "Because he will not have some of the administrative duties which Dr. Hardage had, he will be given more time to devote to the track program itself."

In addition to his coaching duties, Goodin will teach some activity and physiological courses in the department of physical education.

Goodin is married to the former Lily Koesjan, who presently teaches ninth grade English at La Plata Junior High. She holds a master's degree in English and music, as well as elementary and secondary

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

Considering that New Orleans was 2-18 on the road this season and the San Antonio Spurs had won six in a row at home and 10 of their last 11 overall, maybe the Jazz did pretty well to battle to an 18-18 tie with Larry Kenon in the last quarter. Unfortunately for Elgin Baylor's club, the rest of the Spurs scored 23 more over the same span to give San Antonio a 123-97 National Basketball Association victory Wednesday Kenon, ignoring a sore wrist. scored 12 of his 18 fourth-quarter points in a six-minute span during which the Spurs scored 21 straight points to go from a 90-89 edge to a 111-89 lead. He finished with 35 points and 17 rebounds.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Los Angeles Rams' pompon problems were solved Wednesday when firemen and a city councilman came to the rescue.

The Rams said following last Sunday's 34-10 playoff victory over Minnesota that they were inspired by the fans' waving 70,000 blue and gold pompons provided at a cost of $14,000 by team owner Carroll Rosenbloom, a man hungry for a Super Bowl.

But his plan to provide 70,000 more for Sunday's upcoming National Football Conference Championship game against Dallas were thwarted when Los Angeles fire officials declared the pompons a fire hazard. City councilman Bob Ronka and the United Firefighters of Los Angeles, however, managed to find 12,000 fire-retardant pompons which will be distributed prior to the Rams-Cowboys game in the Coliseum. "We've waited 13 years to

Grain Marketing Pool Approved for Dimmitt Firm

By JIM STEIERT Brand Farm Editor

DIMMITT - Dimmitt Agri Industries, a grain handling and marketing cooperative here, has been approved by the USDA to implement the first Form G type marketing pool for corn in the United States, according to Bill Clark general manager of the cooperative.

Form G loans for corn were made possible by USDA regulations issued in August of 1977 in which wheat and feed grains were added to the list of farm products that could be handled through approved cooperatives for CCC loan purposes. Prior to August, 1977, cotton, honey, rice, and soybeans were the only products eligible. Clark stated that successful cooperative pools have been in operation several years on these four products and have demonstrated the value of farmers joining together to create better markets for their products.

In 1868 Longhorn Texas, a convicted outlaw had two choices: get hung, or get married.

FAR-MAR-CO, a large regional cooperative in the Kansas-Nebraska area, implemented a successful pooling program for wheat producers in January of 1976. Their program coupled with the 1977 USDA regulation, has enabled the wheat farmers to break into the larger domestic markets and open the door for direct export of their wheat.

Clark stated that Dimmitt Agri has been approved to handle corn, milo, wheat and soybeans for its members through the program. The board of directors has approved the implementation of two types of pools. One will be a Seasonal Pool in which the member will committ whatever acres he desires to that pool and the Association will market the product in an orderly manner throughout the year. The purpose being to feed the product into the market each month of the year and obtain an average price for the year.

Corn Growers Eye Bargaining Group

Corn producers from throughout the Panhandle are invited to a meeting on the formation of a bargaining association for corn growers in Dimmitt tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting, to be held at the Castro County Exposition Center, is being sponsored by the Texas Corn Growers Association, which is headquartered in Dimmitt.

Carl King, president of the TCGA, points out that a bargaining association could prove an asset to the area's corn hearing of the Texas House Ag producers.

"Firms which deal in food corn get a Grade-A product from the area's fields while dealing with individuals on a contract basis. Dealing with a bargaining board, rather than additional income for all corn growers," said King.

'Any bargaining association that was formed would be chartered, and a slate of officers would be elected," he added.

Tomorrow night's meeting comes only a short time after concern over the availability of food corn contracts to area growers grew to the proportions of a key question among many northern Panhandle and South Plains farmers.

Farmers were told at a special Committee in Hereford recently that food corn production contracts would probably be available on an individual basis beginning sometime this month.

Some 500 date-palm shoots were recently airlifted from California to Bombay and New Delhi. The shipment, arranged by the United Nations Development Program, is part of a project to assist India to re-establish its self-sufficiency in the cultivation of date palms.

This type of marketing has proven very successful in marketing rice and soybeans and in most cases has given greater returns to the producer. It also assists in leveling out the price and assists in preventing the harvest time price "slump."

The Purchase Pool will allow the producer member to committ whatever acres he desires to the cooperative prior to harvest for marketing, however, he would retain the pricing decision and could fix his price at any time.

The advantage of pooling will be to make large volumes of grain available to the cooperative to be used in effectively dealing with the larger markets. If the pool participation is large enough it will create a large reservoir of grain that assures potential buyers of a dependable supply and will allow the cooperative to take advantage of sales opportunities as they arise. It will also allow the cooperative to seek out markets and make contracts for future delivery because it will have the grain supplies to back up the contracts.

Clark stated the pooling program has been designed to give greater flexibility and efficiency in the handling of members' grain and at the same time leave the pricing decision to the individual producer. The Producer will have complete freedom of selecting the marketing system that works for him.

The staff of Dimmitt Agri is now presenting this program to its members in the Castro County area and has scheduled a series of meetings to be held in various areas of the county. All grain producers are invited to the meetings to receive the information or they may contact Bill Clark or Gary Moore of Dimmitt Agri Industries for further

Stocker Cattle Meeting Planned

The Deaf Smith County Program Building Committee's Livestock Subcommittee is sponsoring a meeting on stocker cattle, to be conducted Tuesday, Jan. 9 in the new meeting room of the Community Center.

The session will get underway at 7 p.m.

Extension Beef Cattle Specialist Dr. John McNeill and Dr. Gene Cope, Extension veterinarian, will present information on feeding grain to cattle on wheat pasture to boost performance and reduce losses due to bloat.

A program spokesman indicated that with current low grain prices and relatively high cattle prices, feeding grain to cattle on wheat pasture makes good economic sense in terms of increasing gain, increasing stocking rate on pastures, and providing an outlet for marketing grain through cattle.

Other feed ingredients such as Rumensin and Poloxylene that offer promise in such a feeding program will also be discussed.

Computerized stocker cattle budget analysis sheets will be available at the county Extension for local producers to fill out on cattle they already own. Producers can compare anticipated returns under their current management program with returns based on implementation of the grain feeding

A computer terminal will be available at the meeting so that producers can determine if the various topics discussed will fit into their systems.

Turnaround Headlines Market

AMARILLO - Most cattlemen will probably remember 1978 as the "Year of the Turnaround," and there's little doubt but what the cattle market was the biggest news of the year for the industry, according to Texas Cattle Feeders Association's annual "Top 10 News Stories" wrap-up.

"The market was certainly the most exciting thing about 1978 for cattle feeders," said Charles E. Ball, executive vice president of TCFA. "We opened the year with $44 fed cattle, and by June we were selling cattle for $62. There were 50 profitable weeks for cattle feeders during the year--and that's good news indeed for an industry just coming out of a wreck period like we've been in since 1973." The "Top 10 News Stories"
