Lubbock Rep's First Weeks in Office Eventful

By DON RICHARDS

WASHINGTON -- Over the years, says Kent Hance, the people of West Texas have gotten used to having a congressman who knows how to gain influence in Washington while remaining close to the folks back home.
Hance, newly-elected congressman for the 19th District, adds that he hopes to maintain that same tradition in representing Constituents.

representing Constituents.
Although the new Congress has been in session less than two months, Hance this week reflected on his initial thoughts about replacing the 19th District's previous congressman, pow-erful George Mahon, and how he hopes to provide strong representation.

"There is absolutely no way we can substitute for the 44 years of seniority Mr. Mahon had built up." Hance said.
"He provided excellent leadership and I only hope I can replace him by working hard for the people of West Texas."

Hance started his congressional tenure by being named chairman of the 41 freshmen Democratic congressman. He presided over meetings of the new congressmen and aided them through the crucial period of committee appointments. This year more freshmen congressmen were named to major House of Representatives committees than of any freshmen group in years.

Hance himself sought and received an appointment to the House

Agriculture Committee and, in addition, Cotton, Livestock and Grains, and Conservation and Credit.

Hance, who grew up in Dimmitt and lives in Lubbock, was also named to the House Committee on Science and Technology, which oversees the U.S. space program.
"I felt I was very fortunate in being named to my committees," Hance said. "My district is one of the major agricultural areas in the nation and hopefully I will be able to provide significant input into the Agriculture Committee. I also was extremely pleased to secure a position on the Science and Technology Committee.

Hance drew recognition in Washing-ton early in the new 96th Session of Congress when he became the first member of his freshman class allowed to speak from the House floor. Only a few hours after his inauguration. Hance was called on by the House leadership to take the floor and close the order of business for the day.

Hance's congressional office stayed busy during the first weeks by playing host to many visitors from West Texas. A group of about 50 flew to Washington for the inauguration in addition to numerous West Texas residents on vacation who stopped by his office.

Most recently, Hance has welcomed more than 700 visitors, mostly with the American Agriculture Movement, into Hance welcomed the farmers to Washington with a special "Texas chili supper." He and his wife, Carol, sponsored a 40-gallon chilli supper which fed more than 400 of the Tractorcade members.

It was in line with agriculture that Hance began his initial congressional legislative work. He joined a resolution calling on President Carter to fully inact the 1977 Farm Act and questioned Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland concerning Bergland's recent statements about farmers. ments about farmers.

Hance drew applause and ovations twice during a recent Agriculture Committee hearing in which he questioned remarks by the ag secretary. that "farmers were greedy and had exercised bad judgment.

Mardi Gras Parades Cancelled

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Mardi Gras season in New Orleans had a new look today - stripped of its gaudy parades by Carnival captains who said they wanted to keep the festival from being held "hostage" by striking police.

Carnival captains canceled all remaining city parades Tuesday - the first such action since the Korean War - to eliminate them as a factor in negotiations with the Teamsters-affiliated Police Association of Louisiana.

The decision means the city will be without the showpiece of its $50-million festival and merchants will face a painful economic loss, although no specific estimates were available.

"Devastating," said one captain. "It's devastating to the economy.

Negotiations, with a federal mediator professing optimism, were to resume today - along with a civil district court hearing on a back-to-work order which, so far, the union has ignored.

Harlan Vander Zee announced today that he will resign as president of March 15 board meeting. Vander Zee was associated with the First National Bank of Tulia for five years before moving to Hereford. After graduation from North Texas State University and two years in the U.S. Air Force as a second lieutenant, Vander Zee taught school and coached for three years. According to a spokesman for the Hereford AAM office, farmer assistance was requested by the Red Cross in Washington after heavy snowfall of up to two feet virtually paralyzed that city on

At least 100 tractors and four-wheeldrive vehicles were reported to be aiding medical patients and stranded motorists in Wasington.

Hershel Wilson of Dimmitt, one of the AAM supporters in Washington. reported that the AAM has used its tractors and support vehicles to deliver medication to 28 convalescent homes, a VA hospital and several other hospitals.

Tractors were also reportedly helping to move police and fire vehicles, and had delivered kidney patients and expectant mothers to hospitals.

The snow-clearing and rescue work opportunities came as a chance for protesting farmers to bolster their public relations in the capital after coming under heavy editorial fire for blocking traffic on the day of their arrival in Washington over two weeks ago.

Residents of the District of Columbia were reportedly responding to the farmer assistance with 'cooperation, and some D.C. cab drivers were charging half fares or no fares for farmers.

While the AAM effort in Washington continues, Panhandle farmers staged demonstration at ASCS offices in Dumas, Dalhart, Hartley and Panhandle yesterday as a protest of the type of agriculture program handed down by the USDA, and as an indication of support for those farmers in Washington.

Denny Fuston, office manager of the ASCS facility in Panhandle, reported that his office was shut down "for a while" in recognition of the farmer protest.

Tanks, Weapons Reported Destroyed

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - Vietnam claimed today that its army put more than 3,000 Chinese troops out of action in a major battle on the eastern front of their five-day-old border war. At the other end of the front, the Chinese captured Lao Cai, northwest Vietnam's major communications and railway center on the Red River. The invaders were said to be 10-12 miles inside Vietnamese territory at some points, and they, too, claimed inflicting thousands of casualties. Radio Hanoi reported a big battle Tuesday between Lang Son, the major town in the northeast frontier area, and the border village of Dong Dang seven miles away and 78 miles northeast of Hanoi. In an assault on Peak 409 south of Dong Dang and at Marker Post 15, 31/2 miles northeast of the village, Vietnamese forces "put a company of Chinese troops out of action, destroyed five tanks, and captured all the enemies' weapons," the broadcast said. Radio Hanoi also reported the Chinese extended the invasion front eastward to the coast Tuesday. It said a Chinese division "attacked the area of Than Phung, Po Hen and Cao Ba Lanh" in the coastal province of Quang Binh, but Vietnamese forces "trounced three battalions and wiped out 700 Chinese aggressors.

The Vietnamese government took a party of foreign correspondents to Lang Son Tuesday, and the garrison commander there told them fighting was raging around Dong Dang.

The commander said the Chinese appeared to be regrouping after making a partial retreat from five towns along the border they had overrun.

Kazuhisa Ikawa of the Toyko newspaper Asahi reported Vietnam was rushing reinforcements to the Lang Son

"Several thousand men of regular and regional units with heavy arms are advancing toward Chinese positions in the Lang Son area," he wrote. Ikawa said Vietnamese trucks were miles from the frontier, and that vehicles carrying troops, weapons, ammunition and fuel streamed northward on the main road to the border, while columns of refugees poured south. Ikawa reported Vietnamese 130mm guns south of Lang Son were firing at the Chinese and anti-aircraft batteries also had been set up. He said Lang Son was filled with troops, security men and government officials, and at least 33,000 of the city's 46,000 civilian population had been evacuated. The garrison commander told the reporters Chinese troops, tanks and artillery crossed the border Saturday morning but moved back under a Vietnamese counterattack Saturday and Sunday. He said 25 Chinese tanks were destroyed and one was captured, along with "many Chinese soldiers."

The fall of Lao Cai was reported by the Soviet news agency Tass from Hanoi. It said units of two Chinese divisions captured the town Tuesday behind a punishing artillery barrage.

Lao Cai, a town of 70,000 or more, is on the Hanoi-Kunming railroad as well as the Red, the major river in northern Vietnam.

Vietnam's ambassador, to the United Nations, Ha Van Lau, Claimed that the Vietnamese killed 5,000 Chinese troops in the first three days of fighting. The BBC's Peking correspondent, Philip Short, said usually reliable sources told nim the Chinese army killed or wounded 10,000 Vietnamese and had 2,000 to 3,000 casualties of its own in the first two days.

Iranians Charge U.S. Marine Guard

Entezam's brief statement did not say when Sgt. Ken Kraus of Lansdale, Pa., might be brought to trial, what sentence he might get if convicted, where he was being held or what condition he was in.

Kraus received a slight head wound during the attack last Wednesday, was treated at a hospital near the embassy and was taken from the hospital by U.S. Embassy spokesman Jack Schellenberger maintained last week that Kraus and all other embassy personnel had been accounted for. But on Tuesday he admitted the Marine was missing and the embassy was trying to get information about him from Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan's provisional government and Avatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's security committee, which in effect is a parallel government.

Schellenberger indicated that the embassy believed Kraus was being held by leftist guerrillas who heed Khomeini's orders only when it suits them.

PUC Recommends That Utilities Refund

AUSTIN. Tex. (AP) - Customers of three Texas electric companies would suffer in the long run if the utilities are ordered to refund $20 million to consumers, a company official says.

Singles Bars

DEAR ANN LANDERS: she said, "I really want to start Shame on you. A young woman wrote and asked what you thought about "singles bars" as a place to meet respectable men. You replied, "If you are looking for trout, don't fish in a herring barrel." You then suggested volunteer work, adult education classes, political groups, seminars, etc. These "decent" men you are talking about are either impotent or they have a very low sex drive. I know what I'm talking about. I've been there.

Finding company in the singles world is a numbers game. The more people one meets the better the chance of finding someone suitable. The place doesn't matter. It could be a singles bar, an elevator or a supermarket.

I've been divorced for a year and have been to dozens of singles bars. I have also been "properly" introduced by friends and relatives to doctors, lawyers, judges and businessmen. (Your idea of "decent." no doubt.) Well, they ALL want to bust the stitches on your britches.

Decent isn't where you go. it's where you're coming from Kiddo, so why don't YOU wake up and smell the coffee? --Dating But Not Always Mating

DEAR DATING: If your theory is correct -- the more men one meets the better the chances of finding someone suitable -- why not concentrate on Yankee Stadium and Madison Square Garden?

I agree that "decent" isn't where you go, but your complaint about impotence and the low sex drive of men one meets at seminars and in political groups leads me to believe you are scouting around for a bed partner.

Yes, I know some respectable people go to singles bars because they are lonely, but the chances of finding a man who is interested in a one-night stand is still a lot higher in the singles bars than any of the places I have recommended.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please give me some advice before I go crazy. I've been married 15 years and have three children, ages 14, 10 and 7. The 14-year-old girl is my problem. We've been having trouble with her since she was 13.

Last year she kept skipping school and going where, I don't know. In January I found out she was bringing a boy to the house and sleeping with him while we were at work. I was beside myself and decided to send the child to my sister's in San Diego, thinking it would be a good way to get her away from bad company:

As belts get tighter...

Dressed up in a cardigan sweater to dress down the public for our wasteful, inflationary ways, Jimmy Carter summoned us to war just two years ago.

He reminded us that the easentials — food, health, housing and energy — have ballooned far above costs for housing and energy — have ballooned far above costs for luxuries.

He asked all of us to tighten our belts, to forgo hefty wage increases, to keep price rising reasonable. He promised in turn to balance the budget and to slice off was'e.

But the traditional anti-inflation policies Carter and Company have pursued don't touch the prices we pay for eggs or electricity, for houses or hospital beds.

Instead, the president's program threatens to further squeeze the pocketbooks of 80 percent of all American families — who are now spending 70 percent of their incomes on groceries, lodging, fuel and health care.

The National Center for Economic Alternatives, codirected by Gar Alperovitz and Jeff Faux, believes the president's policy of wage restraints will have little effect on the explosion of costs in the basic necessities.

The Center notes that wage settlements have decelerated since 1975, but that costs of the four basics had increased by 11.6 percent through November of last year. Alperovitz says that inflation isn't caused by wages chasing prices; it's the other way around.

Vernon Jordan, president of the National Urban League, accuses the president's planners of making the poor carry the fight against inflation themselves: "On the one hand, they are subjected to higher inflation than the rest of us since almost all of their budgets go to pay for necessities. On the other, they're asked to accept unemployment and limited wage increases to fight that inflation."

Alperovitz's research has produced Consumers Opposed to Inflation in the Necessities (COIN), a coalition of groups

Alperovitz's research has produced Consumers Opposed to Inflation in the Necessities (COIN), a coalition of groups ranging from Ralph Nader's Public Citizen to George Meany's AFL-CIO.

COIN believes that inflation in the four necessaries will continue despite the president's prayers and his economic advisors' reliance on public — read "wage-earner" —

In the health care industry, COIN notes, pay increases for nurses and other hospital workers have barely kept pace with inflation. Meanwhile, doctors' fees have stayed comfortably ahead of the cost of living and drug companies recorded a record 18.2 percent return in 1978.

Food inflation can't be blamed on greedy farmers or overpaid workers in the food processing industry, COIN says. American farmers get only 3 cents of the consumer dollar spent on bread, and hourly wages in the food industry haven't increased nearly as fast as the 94 percent gain in margarine costs between 1970 and 1977.

Energy prices — utility rates, gasoline prices, food bills

Energy prices — utility rates, gasoline prices, food bills — increased 99 percent in the first seven years of this decade. But the nine largest oil companies' profits doubled in the same period, COIN says.

Unless the Administration rethinks its connection between inflation and employment, the battle against the fading dollar will continue to be fought by those least Until now, popular wisdom has been that inflation's answer was found in "high profit" solutions, in higher unemployment, in lessened spending on human needs and lower wages for the lowest paid among us.

The early 1970s taught us twice that more jobless Americans doesn't mean more money in the pockets of those fortunate to have work.

Cuthacks in social welfare programs create problems more expensive to taxpayers than the dollars they may save, and won't save a cent at the gas pump or supermarket check-out counter.

supermarket check-out counter.

The poor have always known they pay more; perhaps one unintended benefit of Carter's call to the citizens is that more and more Americans will begin to wonder why they've got to tighten belts that the utilities, banks and business community are already letting out a notch.

He predicts Houston will be the third star in the nation's creative firmament. And the artist hopes to prove his premise by turning guest curator for the Houston Contemporary Art Museum's winter show - an exhibit called "Fire" that consists of one work by each of 100 Texas artists.

"Fire' is a philosophic representation of what the 1980s will be." Surls said in an interview.

"While mainstream art hasbeen reductive and abstract, the southern region has been more romantic," he continued.

Rally Held Against Arms

Exhibition ROSEMONT, III. (AP) - A demonstration by about 2,500 persons opposed to an international arms technology conference and weapons show will make it difficult to hold future "arms bazaars" in the United States and Europe, a rally leader says.

Ron Freund, a leader of Clergy and Laity Concerned. called the protest on Sunday 'fantastically successful."

He noted that because of the threat of demonstrations, more than half the scheduled exhibitors had canceled before the first day of the conference Sunday,

As early as December. Freund said, the Chicago suburb of Rosemont asked the sponsor of "Defense Technology '79" to move the show.

"It's going to make it more difficult for more arms bazaars like this in this country and probably in Europe," Freund said of the demonstration. The conference was originally planned for Miami, but was moved from there after residents objected.

No violence occurred at the O'Hare Exposition Center, the site of the four-day conference. as protesters from across the Midwest chanted, waved pla. cards and held a prayer service during the afternoon.

However, five persons were arrested on charges of criminal trespass to property after they lay down on the snow-covered ground to prevent pedestrian access to the center. Three of the five identified themselves as Roman Cathloic priests from Baltimore and Omaha.

Officials of Copley & Associates: an Australian : owned publisher of defense and strategy periodicals which sponsored the conference, were unavilable for comment.

Myths Explained Eclipse

WASHINGTON (AP) - Next Monday, over North America, a riant drawon will seize the sun in its colossal jaws and try to devour it in a mighty battle across the sky.

That, at least, is what the ancient Chinese thought was happening in an eclipse of the sun - a struggle between light and darkness.

They banged gongs, shouted, shot off rockets and firecrackers, and generally raised a big commotion to scare the beast away.

And it worked. The dragon always released its bite on the

Although there may not be a lot of gong clanging this time, the latest eclipse should attract some attention as sunlight fades and a subdued hue settles across the land.

The event takes on added significance because it is the last total eclipse visible in North America this century. It will be 2017 before the moon's shadow again totally blocks view of the sun from this continent. Solar eclipses occur when the mon lines up between the Earth and the sun on the same plane. The moon blocks out so sunlight and casts shadows upon the earth. To those in the deepest shadow, the moon seems to cover the sun. Actually, the sun's diameter is 400 times greater than the moon's, but the moon is far closer - producing the illusion. Practically all of North America will experience at least a partial eclipse, with a portion of the sun's disk covered over. And over parts of the Northwest and Canada, the whole sun will be obscured because they lie along the narrow path the moon's shadow will follow. The closer a person is to this path of totality, the greater the portion of the sun that will be covered at maximum eclipse. For example, in Bismarck, N.D., 99 percent of the sun will be hidden, compared with 61 percent in New York City and 32 percent in Miami.

The eclipse will begin at and about mid-morning in the these scientists as the earliest East. It should last about two and one-half hours.

The moon's shadow, about 170 miles wide, will race eastward at 1,700 miles per hour from northern Oregon and southern Washington across northern Idaho and central Montana. It then will swing northeastward across north western North Dakota, into Canada and onward through Greenland. A potential hazard posed by this and any eclipse is eye damage from staring directly at people to be careful. All warn against viewing the eclipse with the naked eye. And it also is not safe to use sunglasses, smoked glass, photographic film of negatives, camera filters or other devices, even in combination.

"Those who have used such things in the past and escaped injury were just plain lucky," says AAO President Dr. Whiteney G. Sampson, of Sampson says that when a person looks at the sun, the eye focuses light on the retina, the sensitive layer of cells in the back of the eyeball. These intense rays "cook" part of the retina, causing permanent, incurable damage. And because the retina is insensitive to pain, a person can't tell when the damage is taking place.

The experts say the best way to watch the eclipse is indirectly, using a simple

A projector is made using a white paper. Poke a pin or pencil hole in one end of the box or one sheet of paper.

Standing with your back to the sun, focus light through the hole onto the other end of the box or other sheet of paper. When using papers, the size and focus of the image may be changed by altering the distance between the sheets.

Scientists using much more sophisticated devices than these also will be observing the eclipse. The National Science Foundation is coordinating the work of hundreds of researchers, including those from 20 universities, who will position themselves along the path of

Chained Children Hard To Bear Says St. Louis Policeman

ST. LOUIS (AP) - A St. Louis policeman who found two young girls chained and hungry in a squalid apartment says two puppies were running loose around the apartment.

Rayborn Tuttle, 30, and his wife, Edith, 28, were charged with child abuse after officer John Munier found the girls, ages 4 and 6, while investigating a family disturbance call early Sunday morning.

"They had those little girls chained, while two little puppies were running around the apartment free," said Munier.
"Animal feces were all around. "The sanitary conditions didn't freak me out as bad as the chains," he said. "When I found the 4-year-old chained to the bed with a padlock, my mind went blank for a moment. Then it hit me like a sledghammer. It Significantly, the families don't appear worried about the missing young men and haven't bothered to go looking for them.

Their mysterious disappearance is one of many "provocative things" NCAA investigators have picked up since they spread out across the country three weeks ago with a pocket with cash as he walked list of the top 100 products. "I think we've developed some information that will lead to cases and appearances before the Committee on infractions," Berst said. "From our point of view, it looks like the program is going to be a big success." For example, the NCAA has a description of the plane the two missing recruits took off in.

"We intend to find out who owns the plane, where the kids went and who paid their expenses to get there," Berst said. "There could be a connection between the plane and the school they sign with." To "hide" a prospect from rival coaches just before national signing date is very much against NCAA rules.

The Mustangs, who were crushed 98-62 by Texas earlier this month, shocked the Longhorns 81-66 to knock them in a final regular season tie with 10th-ranked Arkansas.

The Razorbacks rode a last second shot by Sidney Moncrief to a 66-65 road victory over Texas Tech to tie the Longhorns for the second consecutive year. In other SWC games, Texas A&M blasted Rice, 92-60 and Baylor routed Texas Christian.

Texas and Arkansas, both boasting 13-3 SWC records. drew a bye to the league post season tournament semi-finals in Houston March 2.

All the positions were settled except for SMU which can earn a tie for sixth place by defeating Texas Christian in a make up game tonight in Fort Worth.

Should SMU defeat TCU then Houston and the Mustangs will flip a coin for the home court advantage Saturday in the first round of the playoffs.

Other first round games Saturday include Rice at Texas Tech and TCU at Baylor. The third place Texas Aggies draw a bye to the tournament quarterfinals March 1.

SMU, with rumors flying that Allen might be fired at the end of the season, blew Texas out of Moody Coliseum after the Longhorns started fast by hitting their first seven shots. Brad Branson scored 20 points, Phil Hale scored 17, and Allen's son Billy scored 16 before a full house of 10.091.

Texas Coach Abe Lemons was most unhappy after the game saying. "I've had four guys play bad in one night, but I've never had a whole team play bad in one night."

SMU started out in a two-three zone then switched to confuse the Longhorns.

"We can chew up a zone and spit it out," said Lemons. "We usually can do anything we please. Nobody makes us look bad unless we make ourselves look bad."

Asked how he thought the loss would affect Texas in the tournament. Lemons snapped. "If I could predict the future I would be in the stock market."

For the besieged Allen. whose Mustangs are 5-10 in league play, and 10-15 overall. he wasn't all that certain the victory meant he would be back

Told the wolves should be quiet after the victory. Allen said. "Yea, until you lose the contest while Rice hit only Allen added, "If they want my job they can have it.'

"We played good basketball tonight - my coaching philosophy hasn't changed," said Allen. "We just haven't been able to have our strongest lineup on the floor because of injuries. We've been hurting."

SMU Athletic Director Russ Potts has said he will evaluate the SMU basketball program after the season.

Sidney Moncrief's 10-foot jump shot with six seconds left turned the trick for the Razorbacks. But the Hogs' 79.4 shooting percentage from the field did the most to topple the Raiders bid for sole possession of fourth place in the SWC.

"It was one of the classic games," said Sutton. "We had great shooting night, the second best in NCAA history. "Texas Tech played a super basketball game. The defense on both teams were outstanding. Texas Tech made us turn over the ball 19 times," said

"They also shot 51 percent against us, and that is only the third time this year an opponent has shot that well," he added.

That loss really hurts," said Texas Tecii Coach Gerald Myers. "We really wanted to get fourth place in the tournament. We had things pretty well under control and didn't play well at the end."

Baylor's senior guard Vinnie Johnson said he wasn't as concerned with scoring records Tuesday night as he was with getting his banged-up knee in shape for the post-season tournament.

But a bad knee did not slow Johnson who scored a careerhigh 50 points, just one short of the conference record, in Bears' 109-72 win over TCU.

"I thought it would be a tribute to the fans to put Vinnie back into the game." Haller said. "The crowd was tremendous in their support of him and Vinnie deserved a shot at the Baylor, tied with Tech for fourth place, won a coin flip to determine the pairings in this weekend's Southwest Conference post season tournament.

Rynn Wright and Rudy Woods combined for 43 points for Texas A&M in their 92-60 win over Rice.

The win gave the Aggies sole possession of third place and a bye into the quarter finals of the SWC tournament.

Platform Tennis Celebrates 50th

NEW YORK (AP) - Plat-form tennis, one of the fastestgrowing "new" sports in ar it ica, is celebrating its 50th anniversary this season. With an annual growth rate of nearly 25 percent, the sport has more than half a million players in the United States, the Ameri-can Platform Tennis Associ-

Platform tennis was invented during the winter of 1928-1929. With the tennis season coming to an end, two Scarsdale, N.Y., enthusiasts of the game, James Cogswell and Fessenden Blanchard, hated to give up their favorite sport, according to the association.

They decided that if they built a wooden platform they could get up out of the mud and snow and continue to practice and enjoy the game during the cold months. Incorporating elements from other net sports, and adding a few innovations of their own, Cogswell and Blanchard began playing platform

Her regimen is enough to break the back of a sturdy mule. Six days a week she rises at 5 a.m., then swims two hours before rushing off to school where books get her attention until 3:15 p.m. Then there are three more hours of intensive practice, 4 to 7 p.m. That doesn't include the weights.

"It is a strength-building process which we copied from the East Germans," Tracy says. "Originally, I lifted weights 45 minutes three times a day. Now do it four times a day -30-minute sessions. It has improved my times a lot."

Tracy, who began swimming at the age of 8 at the urging of her brother, is a strapping girl at 5-feet-9 and 120 pounds.

Last summer in West Berlin, she set four world records and won five gold medals in the ships. Her greatest feat was soundly thrashing Olympic titleholder Ulrike Tauber of East Germany in the 400-meter individual medley, setting a Tracy said she believes the East German domination of women's swimming in the 1976 Olympics - winning 11 of 13 events - was due more to intimidation than superior preparation.

"The young kids aren't afraid of the East Germans at all."

Indiana State Wins 25th

They weren't playing Indiana State's song at the Drake University field house, but the Sycamores managed to make their own kind of music with the basketball anyhow.

Despite some minor harrassment from the organist at hostile Veterans Auditorium, which greatly angered Sycamores Coach Bill Hodges, the nation's second-ranked team defeated the Bulldogs 76-68 in a Missouri Valley Conference game Tuesday night.

"It wasn't overall as good a game as I would have liked to have," said Hodges, "but they got the job done and did what I vanted them to do.

Hodges wasn't in such a good frame of mind during the game, when the organist played music each time an Indiana State player went to the foul

An enflamed Hodges finally jumped off the bench and got into a shouting match with Drake Coach Bob Ortegel. Hodges told reporters that he apparently surprised Ortegel and later apologized. Larry Bird, Indiana State's leading man, scored 27 points to move into sixth place on the all-time NCAA scoring list with

Baldness not rare in women

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a professional woman in my early 60s. My hair on the sides is fairly thick, but it is getting a little thin on top. Please, where do I go for a hair transplant? Is it done by a plastic surgeon?

DEAR READER — Yes, plastic surgeons who do plastic surgeons who do cosmetic surgery usually do hair transplants. If you have good thick hair on the sides of your head, he simply takes plugs out and transplants them to the area where the hair is thin.

If your family doctor doesn't recommend one for you, you might call the county medical society and ask for the names of plastic surgeons who do cosmetic surgery in your community. I see that you are from a large city so I am sure there will be a number in your city who do this type of work.

Baldness in women isn't all that rare. Of course, you might consider other cosmetic aids, depending upon how much hair you've really lost. You wouldn't be the first woman who has added extra hair to her natu-

Balding occurs in about 8 percent of women. There loes seem to be a familial characteristic in some instances. It's probably related, in other cases, to the changes in hormone balance that occur after menopause.

Unfortunately, the situation can't be remedied by simply giving female hormones either.

To give you more information on what affects your hair, I am sending you The Health Letter number 12-6, Hair Care. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. DEAR DR. LAMB - My DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband suffers acutely from cold sores on his lips. They show up at once when he has a cold, the flu or simply when I kiss him on the lips. It is very annoying and painful. His lips swell, ache and it takes a long time for the cold sore to clear up.

We heard that a smallpox vaccination is effective in some people but not always. Our doctor recommended a series of a full dose of five

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — Please advise the readers that they should tear or cut with a pair of scissors any six-pack rings that are going to be tossed out. Tiny animals can be strangled to death in these inadvertant "traps." —

DEAR POLLY — If postage stamps are stuck together put them in the freezer for about an hour and then they can be separated with the glue intact.

Save old socks to use as shoe bags when you are packing a suitcase. — IRENE

DEAR POLLY — I find that rubbing a sheet of fabric softener over one's hair eliminates static and makes it is easier to brush in place. Also it is a fantastic grooming aid for a cat that is to be judged at a cat show. Just rub the sheet over the cat's fur and he looks beautifully groomed.

DEAR POLLY — Save three two-pound coffee cans and cut the bottoms out of two. Stack the three, one on top of the other, tape together and cover it all with pretty adhesive-backed paper. Put a plastic lid on the bottom and save one for the top. You now have a handy and pretty container that will hold four rolls of toilet paper in the bathroom. —

DEAR POLLY - I received a wallet as a gift but

DEAR POLLY — I recently bought an antique hand-sewn (and very fragile) quilt top that has dark brown spots on it. I wonder if any of the readers might know how to remove these spots without damaging the fabric. It must be handled very carefully. I have heard such spots called linen spots. DEAR SUSAN — Old quits are much sought after today and should be handled with great care. I would not recommend any strong spot removers because the fabric might go to pieces. Such quits should not even be laundered unless each color is tested for color fastness. Many are made of silk, velvet and non-washable materials. non-washable materials.

When one does want to risk washing, never do it in the washing machine but in the bathtub with no rubbing or wringing — just sonking and gentle working with the palm of the hand. Only use a detergent for fine washables, repeat two or three times and then rinse perhaps a half dozen times. Press the water out with the hands and dry on three or four parallel clotheslines in the shade. — POLLY

Gov. Clements In On Perot Plot Letter To The Editor

tycoon H. Ross Perot's government in connection with successful plan to rescue two employees from an Iranian prison surprised a lot of people, but Texas Gov. Bill Clements wasn't one of them.

Clements said in Austin Tuesday he ran into Perot by chance in Washington Feb. 11.

"He told me what his plans were and what he had in mind." Clements said. "He didn't ask me to concur. I listened to him. He's my friend."

Perot made known the commando-style operation Monday, only a few days after Clements named him chairman of a blueribbon citizens committee to fight drug traffic.

Perot said he dispatched an elite, 15-member squad-most of them EDS employes with prior military experience - under retired Army Col. Arthur "Bull" Simons to free engineers William Gaylord and Paul Chiapparoni, who work for Perot's Dallas-based Electronic Data Systems, Inc.

Perot said the engineers, both 39, were being held for a $12.75 alleged corruption involving a computer contract.

Perot left many details out, citing the fact that some Americans remain in Iran and full disclosure could affect

'We went to the Department of Defense, the State Department, the White House and every other level of our government. But there was nothing, absolutely nothing. they could do," said Perot.

So the crew-cut tycoon said his men paid Iranian revolutionaries in Tehran to storm the Gasre prison Feb. 11, freeing about 11,000 prisoners. Among them were Gaylord and Chiapparoni.

Simons' squad then led the men 450 miles to the Turkish border and safety.

The adventure was right up Simons' alley. The 60-year-old veteran in 1970 led an Army mission to the outskirts of Hanoi in an unsuccessful attempt to rescue American prisoners of war in North Vietnam.

The former Green Beret

"I spend my whole life in high-risk situations," he said. "I don't know of any other company in the world that would have tried something like this.

"I had the best people in the world, highly sophisticated machines, and everything I asked for I got without bureaucratic quibbling around, without military property offices asking you why you need it, without delays in the military establishment," Simons said.

"Everything you asked for, you got instantly. Even over 8,000 miles, it was delivered as fast as it could get there."

Perot's story could not be independently confirmed, and the State Department said in Washington it knew only that the two men had been jailed in Iran at one time.

Dear Editor:

Help! I'm reeling; trying to understand the Democrat's

This past weekend I read the American Agriculture Movement's ad entitled "Carters Goal: Abolish Family Farms in Favor of Megafirms" with both amusement and consternation.

> Last November Deaf Smith County voted to sustain Mr. Carter and his Democrat Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Bergland, by electing Democrat Kent Hance to go to Washington to support this very same Democrat platform. I recall very clearly the debate held right before the election between the two Congressional candidates, here in Hereford, when certain AAM leaders played a very dynamic role in support of Hance. I also recall distinctly Hance's statement that, if elected, he certainly would support the Democrat

Trilaterial Commission was quite an emotional and negative issue to these very same Democrat AAM leaders (as well as amongst their distaffs in the WIFE organization). Hooboy! Now we learn that Democrats Carter, Mondale, and Bergland are members of Trilaterial and I would not be surprised to learn any day of Hance's nomination

Indeed, since we voted for Hance, and Hance supports Carter and Bergland, and C & B are Trilateralists, and Trilateralists want to abolish family farms, then we are in favor of Megafirms in agriculture. This is a dizzy thought but that is what the ad leads me to conclude. No wonder the newspaper editors around the country write that the farmers in Washington just don't make

I am a strong believer in citizens becoming involved in the political life of their government. I see the tractorcades as a political action seeking a political solution to an economic problem created by Democrat politicians for their political objective; and that objective is "Low Food Prices" in order to keep George Meaney and his big labor unions in the Democrat camp. And as long as we keep sending people like Hance, who is one of them. to sustain this Democrat objective then I forecast we will continue to have the agriculture markets controlled with low farm prices. Certainly C & B know how we voted. Obviously, there are many here and elsewhere in our agriculture heartland that like and want government interferences, controls and subsidies - but I don't. While I was amused by the ad I certainly don't find the economic situation of agriculture or of our country, amusing at all. I am fed up with Democrat politicians and big labor unions interfering in what should be a free market. Frankly, I found much of the theme of the ad disgusting and frightening; even I think better of C & B than what that ad says. I am most concerned that such crap is written, published, and believed by many.

I believe that we in agriculture can find new uses (i.e., gasohol) for our products, develop new markets, and will take back Washington's control of our business affairs. We must · we can · we shall --not by tearing up a little grass nor acting like the Iranians - but by using some ol' time free enterprise ingenuity and initia-

Now I'm happy. Garth B. Thomas P.S. Incidentally, I still think McC. and F. sincerely care about the agriculture situation and that they are trying.

"Effective Feb. 28, 1979, I will resign my position as adult probation officer for the 222nd Judicial District and in doing so I would like to elaborate on the statement I made when I was appointed to this position.

If you will recall the statemen I made when I was appointed Adult Probation Officer by Judge Gulley on Nov. 1, 1977: the people I'm working with and be more useful to society in this position." I still feel the same way and I feel that our community needs to know what we are working with and what some of our duties and responsibilities are. Any person in good standing with our community can join various civic organizations that do a lot of good for individuals, but very few people in our community work or deal with those people in our community that have been branded as criminals.

Our office, the adult proba tion office, is charged with working with these individuals. We work with people that have gone astray or committed a wrong to society in working with these people we try to help them conquer their problems, rehabilitate and some day they too will become a useful member of society.

Probation is a communitybased correctional program where the offender is allowed to remain in the community to lead a normal life and Jearn to assume the responsibilities of a law-abiding member of society. Since ultimate adjustment must be in the community and not in the institute, the probationer is in the best situation in which to develop the qualities needed for this adjustment. The interest of the public are paramount in working with these people. Probation therefore is not a satisfactory substitute for commitment unless the interests of the public are taken into consideration.

I have enjoyed working for my supervisor, Harold N. Wheeler, the judges and citizens of this community and of the 222nd Judicial District. I have found my job both personally rewarding and fulfilling over the past 15 months and I believe that I have indeed come to be closer to some of the people that I have worked with and in my own way feel that I have been of
