A GROUP OF Hustlers from Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce are in Carlsbad, N.M. today on a goodwill visit. A Carlsbad group visited Hereford last summer, and this is sort of a reciprocal trip. The Hustlers serve as goodwill ambassadors for the local chamber. They conduct ribbon-cutting ceremonies for new businesses, help to host public events in the community, and work with the membership committee. Carrell Ann Simmons is this year's chairperson.

MARK YOUR calendars on July 7th for a big barbecue "happening." Officials at King's Manor are planning a big barbecue and open house that day. More information and the start of ticket sales will be announced soon for the mid-summer event!

IF YOU SPILL some salt and toss a few grains over your left shoulders, or if you balk at walking under a ladder, you're only one of millions suffering from the ageless affliction known as superstition. There are many superstitions, and we came across a list that had many which were common to us, but some we'd never heard of.

Most folks know that seven years of bad luck results from breaking a mirror. We always wondered about the one, because the number "seven" is usually considered lucky.

It is bad luck to throw a hat on the bed and, of course, it's bad luck if a black cat crosses your path. If you are going down the street and fall over a stone, you best go back and touch it to avoid misfortune.

To play cards without a table cloth is unlucky. It is bad luck to seat 13 persons at a table, because superstition says one will die within a year. In the past, hotels with more than 12 floors skipped the number 13 when numbering the floors, and usually avoided having any rooms with the number 13. A bed should head to the north for good luck. To carry a hoe into the house is to carry bad luck with it.

If was once thought many years ago that if a child slept with a book under his pillow, he would know the lesson the next day. A strange dog following you either means you will have good luck or your socks need changing! When a cat washes its face, company is coming.

Did you know it's bad luck to count the teeth of an infant child? Or, that you shouldn't play cards with a cross-eyed man? Then there is an old remedy to get rid of a headache—stand the person

Superintendent To Announce 2 Principals

Superintendent Harrell Holder will recommend the hiring of high school and La Plata Junior High principals at a special school board meeting Thursday night, but may make a public announcement of his choices as early as the morning.

"The reason I'm not making an announcement yet is I haven't personally talked to each of the candidates who have been interviewed for the positions," Holder said.

"I will possibly make an announcement at 11 o'clock in the morning—if all my notifications have been made."

Holder said he interviewed "about seven" candidates for the high school position out of 15 applicants. He interviewed three persons for the La Plata principalship from a list of seven candidates.

Hereford High principal Jerry Don George resigned April 30 to accept the principalship at Plainview High School. George, whose resignation becomes effective July 15, has been high school principal in Hereford for 10 years.

Jerry Richburg, La Plata principal for one year, resigned last month to enter private business. He had served as assistant principal at La Plata before his promotion.

Also Thursday, the school board will discuss the effects of the state Legislature's implementation of the Tax Relief Amendment on the Hereford Independent School District budget.

FAA Grounds DC-10s Indefinitely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration today ordered all 138 DC-10s flown by the nation's air carriers grounded indefinitely after finding new cracks in the engine mounting systems of two of the jumbo jets, an agency spokesman said.

Jerry Doolittle, an FAA spokesman, said the grounding order came in the form of an emergency suspension of the DC-10's certification, an apparently unprecedented step involving a commercial jetliner.

"It's too early to tell" exactly what the inspections will entail, said another FAA spokesman, Jerry Lavey. "We're going to have to satisfy ourselves that the aircraft now in operation conform with the original design we approved. We're going to look at everything."

Lavey said it also was not known how long the DC-10 fleet will be out of service.

The DC-10, a tri-engine, wide-body transport built by McDonnell Douglas Corp., carries an estimated 33,000, or 12 percent, of the nation's air travelers daily. Eight U.S. airlines operate the plane.

At least two of the eight airlines, United and Continental, said they were cancelling all DC-10 flights immediately.

United said it hoped that it could substitute other aircraft for the grounded jets, but Continental said it had no spare equipment.

There was no immediate reaction from foreign airlines that use the DC-10. The FAA's order does not affect them legally. The order was to be hand-carried to McDonnell Douglas' plant in Long Beach, Calif., Doolittle said.

Special inspections of the engine mounts of the DC-10 came after an American Airlines DC-10 lost an engine and crashed in Chicago May 5, killing 272 persons aboard the jet and three on the ground. It was the nation's worst air disaster.

The FAA's action early today came only hours before the agency was to return to federal court here to try to convince a judge that the jumbo jet was safe to fly. Doolittle said the agency acted after receiving information Tuesday night that two American Airlines DC-10s, previously inspected under recent government directives, were found to have 2-inch cracks in their engine pylon mounting systems.

"We obviously haven't found the cause of these cracks," said Doolittle, who called the situation "disturbing."

Rain After-Effect

Tuesday night's rainfall in Hereford should keep the city street department busy the next few days, cleaning off the mud. The corner of Juniper and Moreman (above) was particularly dirty this morning. Compounding the situation was a traffic accident, in which a car struck a fire hydrant, prompting water to spew until city workers shut it off. [Brand photo by Marc Herring]

Showers Soak Local Area Again

Already-soaked ground in the Hereford area received additional amounts of moisture ranging from .19 inches east of town to 2.75 inches at Summerfield as familiar-looking clouds Tuesday moved in from the west.

Thundershowers moved into the area early Tuesday, dumping around an inch of rain near Summerfield and light amounts in most other parts of the area. Another soaker Tuesday night brought rainfall totals up to respectable amounts in all but the most eastern parts of Deaf Smith County.

Big Tex Grain at Summerfield reported 2.75 inches, while Easter Grain to the south recorded 1.9.

Other reports included J.E. McCabe, east of Dawn, .19; Easter Fertilizer, 1.1; H.L. Hershey, 1.3 miles northeast of Hereford, .8; Summerfield Fertilizer, 1.6; and Holly Sugar, 1.05. Hershey has reported 3 1/2 inches in all this week.

Hereford proper received one of the lightest amounts, .45 inches, according to KPAN Radio Station.

No severe weather was confirmed during the thunderstorm activity in the Panhandle Tuesday evening, according to the National Weather Service in Amarillo, although reports of funnel clouds near Plainview prompted a tornado watch for Hale County.

"We didn't have anything confirmed though," a NWS spokesman said. "It was just a good, general rain."

Rainfall amounts in the area included Clovis, N.M., .03; Dumas, .25; Bushland, .22; Pampa, .46; Borger, .36; and Amarillo, .49.

The weather service spokesman said a 20 percent chance of rain was forecast for the area this afternoon and tonight. Today's high was predicted to be in the mid-80's.

Hundreds of residents scrambled for higher ground as more than five inches of rain Tuesday sent three creeks spilling over their banks and raised the Wichita River to threatening levels.

Floodwaters inundated about one third of the area devastated by the massive tornado that killed 48 persons when it cut a swath April 10 through the southwest side of this city, which sits near the Texas-Oklahoma line.

But flooding problems were reported in low-lying areas in several other sections of Texas, also. Flood warnings were issued in several other places and at least three funnel clouds were spotted in widely separated locations about Texas.

In Wichita Falls, a fire department spokesman said Tuesday at least 12 persons had to be evacuated from their flooded homes. There were no reports of injuries.

Officials said as many as 200 families may have heeded warnings to seek higher ground.

Red Cross chapter manager Jan Beall said survey teams reported at least 50 to 100 homes had been flooded. She said the teams, which were still checking homes late Tuesday night, found many streets impassable.

Floodwaters swirled about four feet deep in some of the houses along the Holiday, Plum and McGrath creeks, said Red Cross worker Pat Root.

The rampaging waters washed out at least three bridges in Wichita County and inundated others, the sheriff's department said.

Assistant City Manager Bob Haley said employees would survey the extent of the damage today.

Residents living near the banks of the Wichita River were urged to move to higher ground Tuesday as the river approached flood stage.

Severe thunderstorms dumped torrents of water and twirling funnels snaked out of dark clouds at opposite ends of the

Senate Votes To Give Carter More Powers for Fuel Shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate plan giving President Carter new powers to deal with fuel shortages — including authority to ban home gas hoarding and to require states to meet fuel-saving targets — is awaiting House action.

The plan, viewed by many backers as a substitute for the president's rejected proposals for gasoline rationing and energy conservation, was approved by a 77-13 Senate vote Tuesday night.

Action is expected next in the House Commerce Committee, where a group of Democrats led by Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., are vowing to replace the Senate bill with their own plan.

Their proposal includes a sticker plan under which motorists might be required to leave their cars at home one day a week to save fuel.

A proposal by Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., for a similar but stricter driveless-day plan was rejected 70-10 by the Senate.

Under the overall plan passed by the Senate, the president could set national fuel-saving targets during serious energy shortages. States failing to meet these targets with their own plans would be subject to mandatory conservation orders issued and enforced by the president.

The bill sets no guidelines on what type orders Carter might issue, although backers said they could range from limits on gas sales to banning parking on city streets to encourage mass transit. The Senate rejected a suggestion that Congress be given veto power over plans the president issues despite arguments [See ENERGY, Page 2]

USDA Opposes Price Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration's senior farm officials are standing with the private grain industry against advocates in Congress who want the government to control the export prices of U.S. wheat and other grains.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said today "there are no quick fixes" that would have ten long-term trade development.

"Even if we could by some hocus-pocus convince the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to trade $18-a-barrel oil for $4-a-bushel wheat, a year's supply of U.S. wheat to the 13 OPEC nations — 195 million bushels — would return only enough oil to keep U.S. refineries running for about 10 days," he said.

streets to encourage mass transit.

The Senate rejected a suggestion that Congress be given veto power over plans the president issues despite arguments [See ENERGY, Page 2]

Bergland's remarks, issued by his office here, were prepared for a joint White House and National Governors Association seminar today in Seattle.

On Tuesday, Congress heard similar views by one of Bergland's aides, Under Secretary Dale E. Hathaway. He said government control of export prices for U.S. grains wouldn't hurt Arab oil-producing nations but "would be cumbersome, expensive and generally not suited to U.S. agriculture or the U.S. economy."

Panels from the major commodity futures exchanges, 30 grain exporters and the National Association of Corn Growers backed Hathaway's opposition to a popular "food for crude" campaign. They testified before two subcommittees of the House Agriculture Committee on the latest version of a three-year-old bill sponsored by Rep. James Weaver, D-Ore.

It would establish in the Agriculture Department's agency that manages farm programs a board to raise prices for foreign sales of grains above U.S. production costs. Sales still would be made by private firms.

Weaver did not call for oil-grain price equality but said, "It's time we started using our grain resource in a rational way to benefit the people of the United States...to close the gap between grain prices and oil prices."

The board would rebate profits to farmers after its costs were deducted and could barter U.S. grain for others' oil or other crucial resources.

That agency doesn't use its authority to buy grain for foreign sales now.

Hathaway said USDA opposes any bill to make it the sole marketing agent for any crops, replacing the competitive free-market system. "All centralized marketing systems tend to concentrate errors," he added.

Wheat sold for about $2 a bushel in 1970 when a barrel of OPEC oil sold for the same price. Wheat, which reached $5.52 in February 1974 when supplies [See EXPORTS, Page 2]

Firemen Move Past Halfway Mark In 'Jaws' Campaign

Hereford volunteer firemen, who received two civic club donations Tuesday, still have tickets available for "The Golden Years of Country Music," a fund-raising concert scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Friday in Whiteface Stadium.

Firemen are raising money for a $6,000 "jaws of life" rescue tool. Noon Lions Club directors Tuesday morning voted to donate $1,000 towards purchase of the extrication tool, while Rotary Club board members decided to give $100.

The total raised thus far is approximately $3,200.

Tickets for the country music show, which will be staged by musicians from South Plains College in Levelland, will be available at the gate. Tickets are also available from any fireman and at both banks, the chamber of commerce office and fire station.

Hereford High cheerleaders will operate the concession stand at the stadium Friday night.

Tempers 'Hot' over Thermostat Regulation

BEAUMONT (AP) — Marguerite Waldman had no intention of watching the Internal Revenue Service reach the boiling point.

So when the thermostat at Beaumont's federal building hit 80 degrees, she hit the road for home and a cooler environment.

"Our humidity in this area is something terrible," Mrs. Waldman said Tuesday. "When it gets that hot, it's just not worth living."

Mrs. Waldman, who had worked for the IRS Taxpayer Services Division since October, said she "will rest up a while" at home, where the thermostat will be considerably below the 80 degrees ordered in all federal buildings during the summer by President Carter.

"If anybody comes to my house" turn up the thermostats, they're going to be looking down the barrel of a gun," she said.

"This heat will make me very ill. I've enjoyed working here, and I'm sorry to leave. I'll come visit you next winter," Mrs. Waldman told co-workers.

Mrs. Waldman, who quit her job Monday, said other IRS employees are "not very happy" about the heat. "There were a lot of wilted people up there yesterday," she said.

While the 63-year-old widow doesn't know what will happen in the long run, she predicts other workers will follow her lead.

"It's ridiculous," she said. "They'll lose a lot of people here."

Stripped of his coat and tie, Doyce

Jones, the General Services Administration building manager, admitted the 80-degree mark is going to be rough to take in muggy Beaumont, where the temperature passed 90 on 78 days last summer.

"It's a little on the warm side," he said of both the temperature and temperament of federal employees trapped in windowless offices.

A similar spirit was stirring in the state's largest city, south of Beaumont. Houston Mayor Jim McConn said chances are good his city will appeal the presidential directive because the high setting would make the high Gulf Coast humidity unbearable.

Jones said feisty federal employees in Beaumont already are refusing to close windows and have smuggled forbidden electric fans into their offices.

"We realize this temperature is going to be uncomfortable, but perhaps with dressing a little differently than we have in the past, we can learn to live with it," he said.

Several female employees countered by suggesting they skirt the dress codes and wear cooler but briefer shorts and halter tops to work.

The warmer setting also may put a cramp in the style of many federal judges who require coats and ties for men in their courtroom and dresses and stockings for women.

"I don't intend to make myself miserable for the IRS," said Mrs. Waldman.

"It's been a hectic day," said Jones, wiping his brow.

OB Department Plans Reception

A new service being offered by the hospital is the reception for prospective parents held on the first Thursday of each month at 8 p.m. in the Conference Room at the hospital which is hosted by administrator, Jim Bullard and O.B. Supervisor, Carolyn Andrews.

Refreshments are served and there is a discussion of admission procedures, financial arrangements and an overview of what to expect during the hospital stay. A tour of the OB department including the labor and delivery areas and post partum floor follows. Mrs. Andrews says that couples who participate in the reception seem to be more comfortable during the labor and delivery experience. "Just knowing what to expect and recognizing a few familiar faces really seems to help reduce some of the anxiety and tension," she added.

Although the birth of a new baby is usually one of the most exciting and eagerly awaited events in the life of any young couple, the great is naturally accompanied by varying degrees of anxiety, tension and apprehension.

Some of the factors contributing to these feelings include the fear of the unknown, concern about the health of the mother and newborn, the necessity of sharing a deeply meaningful personal experience with strangers in unfamiliar surroundings, and justified financial concerns.

In the past few years there has been a growing concern among health care providers and consumers to create a warmer, more human environment in which to give birth. Gone are the days when the expectant father was deposited in the waiting room to pace and smoke while his wife was whisked away by nurses in stiffly starched uniforms into a cold, white, and sterile environment to undergo mysterious ministrations until some undetermined time when the tired doctor would return to inform the haggard father of the sex of his offspring and tell him that he would be allowed to see his wife at the appropriate time.

In Hereford we are fortunate that the staff at Deaf Smith General Hospital is deeply committed to the concept that birth should be a rewarding family experience.

For years they have encouraged the father to be present throughout the labor to provide support and encouragement to his wife, and more recently many have chosen to remain during delivery.

All prospective parents are encouraged to attend the reception during the month their baby is due. If you have any questions contact Carolyn Andrews at the hospital at 364-2141 ext. 240.

COMMENTARY Martha Angle and Robert Walters The Kremlin's old folks

The really interesting information likely to come out of the June 15-18 meeting in Vienna of Jimmy Carter and Leonid Brezhnev will not be the details of their discussions on Salt II or any other specific issue, but whether they are able to do much serious discussing at all.

The Soviet leader, reports have had it for some time, is not a well man. It is his health, or lack of it, that is responsible for the selection of the Austrian capital as the meeting site, reasonably close to home. Protocol would dictate that it be in the United States since the last meeting between leaders of the two nations, former President Ford's visit to Vladivostok for the signature of the Salt I agreement, took place on Soviet soil.

Brezhnev, once about as close as a dedicated Marxist is likely to get to being a bon vivant, suffers from various medical complaints. But the basic problem is something else — age.

Brezhnev is 73, nothing unusual in itself as world leaders go. Winston Churchill was 77 when he became prime minister for the second time around, and he held on for another four years. Also at 77, Georges Clemenceau saw France through to a costly victory in World War I.

But it does make Brezhnev by quite a bit the senior among his peers on today's world scene. Jimmy Carter and Britain's Margaret Thatcher, both 54, and France's Valery Giscard d'Estaing, 53, are mere striplings in comparison. West Germany's Helmut Schmidt is a vigorous 60.

In his own country, Brezhnev's age is not unique but symptomatic of the entire Soviet leadership, with the partial exception of the military. It is, in effect, a geriatocracy, with an average age of 69.

The Soviet leadership has not been renewing itself in recent years by natural internal political processes, a not unusual situation for an authoritarian regime. And it is soon going to have to pay a not unusual price — a wholesale generational change with very likely deeply unsettling effects on the Soviet system.

The best analyses in Washington and other highly interested Western capitals are that Brezhnev himself is more likely to be succeeded initially by a contemporary rather than an entirely new face. But very shortly thereafter, the real changing of the guard must come.

Little is known about the rising generation, the men in their 40s and 50s who have come to maturity since World War II devastated the country and catapulted it into world power. They are believed, however, to be better educated and trained than the post-revolution generation now in power, more sophisticated in their concept of the Soviet relationship with the outside world. Many may look to the West for their models in economic and technological development. But at the same time they may be highly nationalistic, interested in learning from the West not in order to cooperate but to compete more effectively.

This new generation of Soviet leaders is going to be faced with some serious problem-solving. Economic growth has flattened out and is highly uneven. The USSR lags increasingly behind the West in technological advancement and in industrial and agricultural productivity. The East European empire, never completely quiet, is showing signs of increasing restlessness.

Internally, the population balance is changing. Russians, with a lower birthrate than the great melange of Asian ethnic groups occupying most of Soviet territory containing most of the resources, are becoming a minority. The change raises real questions for the future in the filling of top party posts, with which goes political control, and the manpower necessary to maintain the huge Soviet military establishment.

Times are about to change drastically for the Soviets. And merely because of inflation, energy shortages and an imminent presidential election, we thought we had problems.

Today is Wednesday, June 6, the 157th day of 1979. There are 208 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1944, Allied forces landed on the Normandy beaches of France. It was D-day of World War II.

On this date:
In 1660, the Peace of Copenhagen ended war between Sweden and Denmark and opened the Baltic to foreign warships.

In 1871, Alsace was annexed to Germany after the French were defeated in the Franco-Prussian War.

In 1942, the U.S. aircraft carrier, Yorktown, was sunk in the Pacific War Battle of Midway.

In 1967, the Six-Day War began in the Middle East, with Israel carving a 30-mile front along Egypt's Mediterranean Coast.

In 1968, Senator Robert Kennedy died after being shot while at a hotel in Los Angeles, and Sirhan Sirhan, 24, was charged as the assassin.

In 1973, West Germany completed ratification of a treaty to normalize relations with Communist East Germany.

Ten years ago, Communist forces launched heavy attacks north of Saigon after shelling more than 100 towns and military bases in South Vietnam.

Five years ago, the Nixon administration scored a major victory in Congress when the Senate rejected proposals to reduce the number of U.S. troops in foreign countries.

One year ago, The Rhodesian guerrilla leader, Joshua Nkomo, acknowledged for the first time that his forces were being trained in Zambia by Cubans.

Today's birthdays: the exiled Tibetan leader, the Dalai Lama, is 44 years old. U.S. Comptroller General Elmer Staats is 65. Bill Dickey of the baseball Hall of Fame is 72.

Thought for today: In charity, there is no excess. Francis Bacon, English philosopher and writer, 1561-1626.

The use of the word "martinet," used to describe a stickler for rules, came from Col. Martinet, Louis XIV's uncompromising drill master.

Michigan State Dominates Draft

NEW YORK (AP) - Major league baseball gave retiring University of Michigan Coach Moby Benedict a little going away present Tuesday, selecting three of his players in the first round of the annual free agent draft.

The Detroit Tigers made Michigan outfielder Rich Leach

the first Wolverine selection. Then the Los Angeles Dodgers chose two of Benedict's pitchers, left-hander Steve Howe and right-hander Steve Perry.

Leach was the 13th player chosen. Howe was No. 16 and Verry No. 25 as Coach Benedict's team dominated the early selections. Leach, of course, also is highly-rated as a quarterback and must decide between football and baseball. He was picked by the Denver Broncos in the fifth round of last month's National Football League draft, the 132nd player selected in that lottery.

One player who already has made up his mind about the football-baseball dilemma is Al "Choo Choo" Chambers. Chambers is a slugging outfielder from Harrisburg, Pa. who was the first player selected in the draft, chosen by the Seattle Mariners.

Chambers said that being the nation's No. 1 choice was something he'd always dreamed about.

"I didn't think it would happen," he said. "But I thought if I worked hard and was determined, I might go early. Then, when Seattle's scout came around, and I knew they had the No. 1 pick, I figured I could be No. 1 in the nation."

When the Mariners decided on Chambers, the New York Mets, picking second, selected right-hander pitcher Tim Leary from UCLA.

Then Toronto picked catcher Jay Schröder of Pacific Palisades, Calif., another quarterback, who signed a letter of intent for UCLA.

Atlanta, which came up with the National League's rookie of the year when they picked Bob

Rangers Select Texas' Gleaton

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer

The Texas Rangers reached out to grab unbeaten Texas Longhorn pitching ace Jerry Don Gleaton, and the Houston Astros selected, among others, a player who set a collegiate home run record this season.

In all, 14 Texans were chosen Tuesday in the major leagues' annual summer free agent draft. Five are high schoolers, and the other nine are Southwest Conference players.

One player was chosen from the University of Arkansas and University of Oklahoma teams also. "I was a little surprised to go in the first round," said Gleaton, the 17th player chosen through the six rounds of Tuesday's draft.

Gleaton was drafted by the Baltimore Orioles after his senior year at Brownwood High School, but chose to go to college instead.

"I knew there were supposed to be a lot of excellent high school players in California this year, so I thought they might be looking harder at the young pitchers in the opening round. It feels great," Gleaton said at

Texas Bats Silent In BoSox Rout

BOSTON (AP) - Carl Yastrzemski, the Boston Red Sox slugger gradually moving out of the Jack Benny age of 39, is rolling on with pride.

"I never find a game boring," Yastrzemski said Tuesday night after driving in three runs with a single and a homer in helping the Red Sox to a 9-3 victory over the Texas Rangers.

"The day that happens, I'll walk away," said Yastrzemski, who will be 40 in August. "What it all amounts to is pride, intense pride. I'll never embarrass myself."

With his homer, Yaz boosted his career RBI total to 1,560, moving him ahead of Hall of Famer Tris Speaker into 19th place in that department. And with his 995th extra base hit, he tied another Hall of Famer, Al Simmons, for 15th place in that category.

Fred Lynn, the American League's leading home run hitter, triggered the two-game sweep of Texas, helping the Red Sox back into the East Division lead, percentage points ahead of Baltimore, for the first time since May 17.

Lynn drilled a two-run shot into the Boston bullpen in right-center in the first inning. His 15th homer extended a personal hitting streak to eight games.

"Things kind of snowball when a club starts to hit again like we are," Lynn said. "However, it's up to the individual to hit. You can't do it just because another guy is hitting."

Jim Rice, the league's most valuable player last year, capped Boston's 12-hit attack by drilling a shot into the left field screen for his ninth homer in the eighth.

It was tough the past year. There was a lot of responsibility

"I can't explain it," Texas slugger Al Oliver said after going 0-for-9 in the two games here. "We did better in Texas last week when they got only seven runs and we won two out of three. There's no explanation for the two games here. Give Boston credit. You can't knock us. They outpitched and outhit us. There's no excuse."

"Our bats have come to life," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer, particularly pleased with Carlton's Fisk's three hits as designated hitter while he preps his arm for return to fulltime catching. "Having Fisk back in the lineup means another tough out."

Helped to a 7-0 lead, right-handed ace Dennis Eckersley breezed to his fifth victory in eight decisions. He gave up 11 hits, including three by Johnny Grubb as the Texas outfielder extended his streak to 18 games, but never was in trouble.

With three victories in a row, the Red Sox try to keep rolling tonight, sending Bob Stanley, 5-3, to the mound against the Chicago White Sox. Chicago plans to counter with Francisco Barrios, 4-3.

Hogs Take Top Role

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - Arkansas has gained the upper hand in the 33rd College World Series, thanks to the hitting and fielding exploits of a part-time farmer who had to chop wood to keep warm this winter.

Marc Brumble, who manages a 100-acre farm outside Fayetteville in addition to going to class and playing baseball, sparked at the plate and in the field Tuesday night as the Razorbacks whipped Texas 9-4.

The victory leaves Arkansas the only undefeated team in the series and assures the Razorbacks of a berth in the championship game. Texas, the nation's No. 1-rated team, will be eliminated if it loses one more game.

"Everyone was talking about a low-scoring game," Brumble said. "But I couldn't see us not hitting and I know Texas is a good hitting club."

Brumble certainly contributed to the hitting, smacking a three-run double to highlight a seven-run third inning and belting a solo homer in the seventh.

He also made four outstanding catches in left field, including a diving grab that took an extra base hit away from Terry Salazar.

Brumble became a farmer when he and his wife, Cayla, agreed to manage an acreage owned by a Fayetteville

Tennis Winners Named

Hereford winners in the Hereford Open Tennis Tournament were hard to come by as only three categories were captured by local residents.

Pudgy Vargas and Tim Ruland took the only first by local competitors in the junior division as they won the 18 and under boys doubles in an all-Hereford finals over Kevin Downing and Roy Rodriguez, 6-3, 6-4.

In the finals of the women's divisions, Sharon Loerwald took the top honors in the 'B' division, edging Martha Cole 6-4, 7-6. The 'B' doubles were also residents of Hereford as Jenny Cassels and Sandra Reinauer swept Zinsner and Harrison 6-4, 6-4.

In the 'B' division of men's doubles Hereford resident James Williams combined with Jim Williams of Sudan to take a straight set victory over the team of Weldon Knabe and Julius Bodner 6-2, 6-2.

Winners in the rest of the 24 division field included Chuck Peek winning the 18 boys singles and the 16 and under boys singles. Tim Brown of Plainview in the 14 and under boys singles.

Anne Scholl captured first in the 12 and under girls, Annette Shelby was the best of the 14 and under girls and Rhonda Bryant took top honors in the 16 and 18 and under girls.

Doubles competition in the junior division had the team of Barbara Oden and Sandy Honath win the 16 and under girls, and in the 14 and under bracket, Amy Irons and Shawn Hoffman won first place.

The adult division had a grueling match in the 'A' mixed doubles as the team of Rastetter and Rastetter won the three set, three hour marathon match over the team of Guerrero and Battle 7-6, 6-7, 6-4.

The mixed doubles in the 'B' division had team of Bryant and Bollen of Amarillo take the top trophy. In other 'B' division matches, Dan Lewis of Odessa won the mens trophy, 6-1, 7-5, and Jerry Barton of Plainview won the 35 and over singles.

The finals of the women's 'A' single had Nettie Battles finish on top and the team of Rastetter and Barton winning the doubles of the women's 'A' group.

Lopez After LPGA Championship

MASON, Ohio (AP) - Nancy Lopez is shopping this week - for a second successive Ladies Professional Golf Association Championship and a new house. She worked on both Tuesday.

After testing the Nicklaus Golf Center for 18 holes, the LPGA's biggest name toured the Cincinnati area looking for a house.

Her husband, Tim Melton, has accepted a position with Cincinnati television station WCPO-TV.

"I'm pretty excited. Tim is moving up in the market. We want to get into a home and raise a family," she said.

Lopez comes to Cincinnati on the same record-shattering timetable she was following as a sensational rookie in 1978: three straight tour victories and No. 1 money-winner.

In fact, the ever-smiling 22-year-old says her game is even more dominant than it was a year ago, a season that produced an unprecedented five triumphs in a row, a total of nine and unequalled earnings of $205,000.

In 1979 she has won five times, finished second on three more occasions and settled for ninth in her opening start. Her earnings have shot past $118,000 with her last three victories.

"I'm more confident and I'm not as afraid of golf courses as I was last year. And I'm hitting the ball longer," said Lopez.

"I'm hitting my drives 245 yards, 20 more than last year. I was in the top five long hitters then. Now I think I can outthit anybody - Beth Daniel, JoAnne Carner, Jo Ann Washam.

"Mentally, I think I'm stronger than all of the girls."

Despite her brilliance, Lopez harbors no ambition to stretch it for a long time on the tour.

"I don't want to make golf my life. This gets old fast. I feel like I've been out her for years," said the pro tourist of 22 months.

Lopez established an alltime

LPGA Championship record with a total of 275, 13 under par in 1978 in this, the first of three major tournaments for the women. The others are the Canadian Open and the U.S. Open.

"I think scores will be higher this time. Maybe 5 to 9 under will win. The course is going to play longer. And if the wind blows, the greens will be hard to hold," she said.

The 110 professionals on hand include all but two of the Top 60 money-winners, four-time-winner Mickey Wright and Marlene Floyd. They are chasing the first prize of $22,500 in the $150,000 tournament.

Portions of the final rounds Saturday and Sunday will be carried by NBC-TV.

Carlton Subdues Houston With 1-Hitter

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Steve Carlton isn't having a Cy Young Award-winning year so far, but he usually looks like a Cy Young winner to the Houston Astros.

Like Tuesday night, when the two-time winner of baseball's most prestigious pitching award led the Philadelphia Phillies to an 8-0 victory with a one-hit beauty.

That masterful performance improved Carlton's lifetime record to 23-9 over the Astros, and gave the faltering Phillies a shot in the arm. They had lost eight of their previous nine games.

Rookie Jeff Leonard got the only hit off Carlton - a line drive single to left-center in the seventh inning.

While Carlton pulled his record over the 500 mark at 7-6, the Phillies brought their offense back to life with a 17-hit attack that included Mike Schmidt's 17th home run of the season. In their previous nine games, the Phillies had scored but 13 runs.

In other National League games, the Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-1; the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the San Francisco Giants 5-4; the Cincinnati Reds beat the New York Mets 6-1; the Atlanta Braves stopped the Montreal Expos 4-1 and the San Diego Padres routed the Chicago Cubs 11-3.

Carlton gave up four walks and struck out four in pitching the fourth one-hitter of his career. The Phillies scored all the runs they needed with five in the fourth inning on eight hits, including McCarver's two-run double. Schmidt added a sixth run with his towering homer in the fifth inning.

Pirates 3, Dodgers 1

Dave Parker hit a two-run homer in the first inning, triggering Pittsburgh over Los Angeles behind the combined seven-hit pitching of Bert Blyleven and Kent Tekulve. Parker's homer, his 11th of the season, came off loser Don Sutton and followed a one-out single by Tim Lincecum.

Blyleven yielded a leadoff home run in the second to Gary Thomas, his sixth of the season, and left the game in the eighth in favor of Tekulve after issuing consecutive walks to Dusty Baker.

Cardinals 5, Giants 4

Jerry Mumphrey drove in the tying runs in the seventh inning, then tripled in the ninth and raced home on a passed ball to give streaking St. Louis a tight victory over San Francisco. Mumphrey opened the Cardinal ninth with his triple off reliever Randy Moffitt, and after intentional walks to Keith Hernandez and Ted Simmons, dashed home when Giant catcher Mike Sadek let a Moffitt pitch get past him.

Reliever Mark Littell pitched out of a ninth-inning jam to claim the Cardinals' sixth straight victory.

Reds 6, Mets 1

Dave Concepcion hit a three-run homer and Dan Driscoll hit a solo shot to power Cincinnati over New York. Winner Fred Norman had a five-hitter through eight innings before getting relief help from Pedro Borbon.

Norman retired the first 11 Mets he faced and was in trouble only once, when New York scored in the fifth inning on a double by Steve Henderson and a single by Doug Flynn.

Alex Trevino got a landmark single for the Mets in the fifth inning. It was the first successful pinch-hit by New York in its last 27 attempts.

Braves 4, Expos 1

Bob Horner broke a scoreless tie with a three-run homer in the sixth inning, leading Atlanta past Montreal. Jerry Royster was on base with a single and Gary Matthews with a walk when Horner connected against Montreal starter Scott Sanderson, sending a drive over the left-field fence for his sixth homer. Right-hander Rick Matula was the winner, yielding five hits in seven innings. Matula was removed for a pinch-hitter in the seventh when his back tightened.

Reds 11, Cubs 3

Dave Winfield slugged a double and a triple and Gene Tenace and Dan Briggs smashed home runs to pace San Diego over Chicago behind Eric Rasmussen's six-hitter. Loser Dennis Lamp was racked for seven runs, three of them in 2½ innings.

British Amateur Appeal Follows Player, Alcarcan

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) - The British Amateur may well be won this year by the sound and solid golf of one of America's victorious Walker Cup squad.

But the crowd-pleasers at this year's championship at the Hillside Club's 6,951-yard, par-72 course are a small and chunky 17-year-old from South Africa and a tall and willowy Mexican with a drive like a kick from a mule.

The South African is Wayne Player, whose father Gary is one of the game's all-time greats. The Mexican is 20-year-old Rafael Alcarcan, who plays on the Oklahoma, State University team.

Alcarcan, brimming with self-confidence, is already through to the third round of the tournament after beating two Britains - Roger Chapman 4 and 3 in the first round, and Tony Shingler by a crushing 7 and 5 in the second.

Player, who says he prefers stroke to match play, has only played one round so far. But in that he dropped the first hole then reeled off a string of nine pars and two birdies to win the next 11 holes for an 8 and 7 victory over Australian antique dealer Ray Vanderluis.

But the way to tame Hillside, a bewildering mixture of dunes, hillocks and copses, has already been shown by a couple of experienced and mature Americans.

One is Jim Holtgrieve, 30, a manufacturer's representative from Kirkwood, Mo., who reached the third round Tuesday with a 4 and 3 win over Charles Green, a Scottish international. The other is 34-year-old Jay Sigel from Philadelphia who has only played one round so far and beat George Parkhill of Britain 5 and 2.

They showed the way to play straight down the middle, without any frills or what Mike Gove, a 21-year-old Weber State student and a first round loser, called the "smarty" shots. Plus, of course, the ability to pull out something special when necessary.

Both did that Tuesday - and both on the par 4 15th. Sigel, going for the kill against Parkhill, was on the green 20 yards from the pin in two, sank that chip for a birdie and Parkhill immediately conceded.

Holtgrieve, fighting to contain a sudden Green resurgence, found himself bunkered on the 15th in his match. A tremendous last dash out from 150 yards and a chip to within two feet of the pin were enough to destroy Green 4 and 3.

Holtgrieve was joined in the third round by Scott Hoch, one of the most dangerous of the younger Americans, who beat Dany Burrow, of Britain 3 and 1. There are still 12 Americans playing in the tournament out of 22 originally entered.

The other first-round victors were Doug Fischesser, Griff Moody, Sigel, Doug Clarke and Mike Peck, plus Dick Siderowf, Dick Runkle, Wesley Mohr, Bob Gaiser and Bob Dickerson.

All of them were due to play their second round matches Wednesday.

Red Sox Drafts Owner's Son

BOSTON (AP) - Shortly after 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the business executive picked up his office telephone and called home to speak to his 20-year-old son.

It was no ordinary call. The young man was waiting anxiously for a call, but dad's news came as a shock.

For the first time in major league baseball history a young prospect had been drafted by a team, directed by his dad, not only as general manager but as a co-owner.

"I was very surprised, but very happy, too," catcher Marc Sullivan said after being picked by the Boston Red Sox.

"I had absolutely nothing to do with it," said Haywood Sullivan, a one-time Red Sox bonus baby who has done much better in the front office than he ever did as a backup catcher.

Young Sullivan, completing his junior year at the University of Florida, figured to go high in the draft despite a broken thumb in February and a badly cracked right forefinger on April 1. Neither he nor the Red Sox brass, including dad, figured he'd be around when Boston got

Amarillo Splits With Arkansas

By The Associated Press

A 4-for-4 performance by Tulsa's Ron Carney carried the Drillers to a 12-7 victory Tuesday night over El Paso in the Texas League.

In the only other league action, Amarillo and Arkansas split a doubleheader. Arkansas' Travelers took the first game, 7-0, but the Ould Sox came back for a 3-0 decision in the second game of the twinbill.

Rain postponed Midland's game at Jackson and Shreveport's game at San Antonio.

Carney hit a two-run homer in the second inning to get Tulsa off to an early lead. But Rick Oliver of El Paso hit a solo homer, first round-tripper of the season, in the fourth to tie the game at 6-6.

Rick List of Tulsa hit solo home runs in the seventh and ninth as the Drillers took a 12-6 edge which El Paso could not overcome. John Butcher, 4-4, got the win over Mike Heaton, 2-2.

Arkansas erupted for 13 hits in its victory. The Travelers scored seven runs in two innings. Tito Landrum led off the first with a double, and singles by Joe DeSa, Gene Roof, Fred Tisdale and Jy Waller brought in three runs, and Tisdale scored Arkansas' fourth run of the inning on a throwing error.

Landrum doubled again to open the second and scored on Neil Fiala's single. Fiala was tagged out, but DeSa and Roof singled, and Waller followed with a double.

Dave Johnson, 5-2, got the win over Eric Mustad, 2-6.

In the second game, Amarillo scored three runs in the first inning, and George Stablen, 4-3, shut the Travelers out. John Littlefield, 1-4, got the loss.

Gary Ashby tripled in one run and scored on a single by Joe Hicks. Hicks then stole second, and moved to third when the throw from the catcher sailed into center field. Hicks scored on Tim Derryberry's sacrifice fly.

Hartzel Stops Orioles 3-1

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Mike Marshall saved the game for Paul Hartzel, then saved the night for the media. "I don't know why everybody is around me," Marshall protested to reporters after he had made his 30th appearance and posted his 12th save of the season. "Paul Hartzel did the pitching tonight." Then, when reporters became impatient as they waited for Hartzel to finish icing his arm in the off-limits trainer's room, Marshall carried the container of ice to the locker room, giving newsmen a shot at the winning left-hander. Hartzel, 3-3, allowed only three singles and retired 13 consecutive batters before being lifted in the ninth following a one-out pinch double by Pat Kelly and a single by Eddie Murray as the Minnesota Twins beat the Baltimore Orioles 3-1. In other AL games Tuesday, Boston defeated Texas 9-3, Kansas City downed the New York Yankees 3-1, Milwaukee stopped the Chicago White Sox 5-3, California edged Toronto 3-2, Cleveland bombed Oakland 12-3 and Detroit downed Seattle 3-1. Marshall, who has won eight games and has figured in 20 of Minnesota's 29 victories, retired the final two batters to end the game.

Angels 3, Blue Jays 0
Frank Tanana pitched his first complete game of the season, a four-hitter, and Bobby Grich and Don Baylor homered to boost California over Toronto. Tanana walked two and struck out three to raise his record to 5-3. Grich hit his 11th homer of the season to right field with two out in the sixth and Baylor, who leads the majors with 56 RBI, hit his 12th home run of the season to lead off the eighth.

Indians 12, A's 3
Cleveland struck for two five-run innings as Rick Waits coasted to his sixth straight victory as the Indians downed Oakland.

Ted Cox and Andre Thornton each hit three-run homers and Paul Dade added a solo home run in the Indians' 15th victory in their last 22 games. Left-hander Waits, 8-3, allowed nine hits as the Indians gave him a 7-0 lead by scoring five runs in the second inning and two in the fourth off A's starter Rick Langford, 1-8. Two of Oakland's runs came on Larry Murray's first homer of the season.

Tigers 3, Mariners 1
Jack Billingham and John Hiller combined for a four-hitter and Jerry Morales slammed a solo home run as Detroit edged Seattle.

Alan Trammell drove in Detroit's winning run with a two-out double in the fourth inning. The Tigers picked up their other run on Rusty Staub's two-out single in the first inning off Seattle starter Glenn Abbott, 2-7. Seattle's Willie Horton clobbered an apparent home run that became a single when it hit a loudspeaker suspended 110 feet above the playing field.

Royals 3, Yankees 1
Larry Gura scattered three hits to hurl Kansas City past New York. Gura, 3-5, struck out three batters and walked two as the Yankees' lone run was unearned.

Kansas City scored twice in the second with the help of an error. Pete LaCock and Hal McRae singled. Then losing pitcher Luis Tiant, 1-2, fielded Fred Patek's bunt single and hit him in the back of the head with the throw. LaCock scored on the play and McRae wound up on third. McRae came home on U.L. Washington's sacrifice fly.

Brewers 5, White Sox 3
Milwaukee downed Chicago as Cecil Cooper and Sixto Lezcano each singled home a run in the fifth inning, snapping a 2-2 tie. With one out, Paul Molitor bunted for a hit and went to third on Jim Gantner's single. Cooper then singled to score Molitor and Lezcano's single drove in Gantner. Jim Slaton, 5-3, got the victory while rookie Fred Howard, 0-2, took the loss.

Top Bowler

Cathy Betzen captured top honors in the Hereford Women's Bowling Association Bowler of the Week competition, rolling a four game score of 900. Other top finishers were Charlene Sanders, Deborah Noland, Jean Farmer and Linda Collier.

Players Strike Next Problem For Baseball

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Major league baseball is heading toward another 40-million-plus attendance record, the game has had a sudden burst of hitting power and 21 of the 26 clubs at this early stage remain in contention, so all must be at peace with Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. Right? Well, not exactly. The players are gearing up for negotiations on the new wage agreement, effective in 1980, amid dour predictions of the kind of strike-lockout situation that staggered the sport three years ago. The rich are getting richer and the poor poorer from the re-entry draft. The Oakland-San Francisco and Washington-

Baltimore franchise headaches are no nearer a cure. And there's Charles O. Finley. There's always Charlie O. "I haven't heard anything from Charlie lately - I'm getting concerned," the commissioner told the Associated Press Sports Editors convention here Monday night. "I don't know what he might be up to. I find myself thinking about him." One detects a veiled jest when Kuhn discusses the maverick owner of the Oakland A's, a longtime adversary. One of the intriguing sidelights in the normally somber machinations of big-time baseball is the inevitable "Charlie O. and Bowie Show."

The two have been at loggerheads since 1970 when Finley, in a pique, sought to send Reggie Jackson, already an established star, down to the minors. Bowie vetoed it. Charlie blew a gasket. Relations went from bad to worse. Kuhn, asked if Finley had been the greatest problem in his 10 years as commissioner, replied: "No. The biggest problem has been player relations." "This is a hot potato that has been intensified by free agency and escalating salaries. Kuhn is concerned lest wealthier clubs, such as the Yankees and Angels, grab the bulk of the available talent and tip the game's delicate competitive balance. What of Oakland, which is averaging only 4,000 fans a game? "One of three things," Kuhn said. "The club could be bought by local interests, moved elsewhere or Charlie might just decide to tough it out. It could be the last." What are the prospects of returning a franchise to Washington, D.C.?

"My sentiments on this are well known," the commissioner said. "I would like to see Baltimore and Washington share a franchise, dividing play in both cities. Baltimore doesn't want it."

Is further expansion in sight? "If the National League announced tomorrow it would like to expand, you would see a lineup of bidders - Denver, Washington, Indianapolis, St. Pete-Tampa, maybe Nashville." How about Charlie O. going to D.C.? Bowie blinked.

Palmer Makes Cut

In his heyday, Arnold Palmer's absence from a golf tournament meant only one thing: he didn't feel like playing that week. Monday, however, the circumstances were different. The revered veteran was at the mercy of the U.S. Golf Association, whose rules dictated that he undergo the U.S. Open's 36-hole qualifying sectional at the Charlotte Country Club course with all the amateurs, no-name pros, etc.

Palmer, the 1960 Open champ and a virtual stranger to these qualifying affairs in the past, barely made the cut for the tournament which starts June 14 in Toledo, Ohio. He fired rounds of 72 and 69 for a 141 total, surviving by three strokes.

Irwin Favorite In Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) - If recent history is a guide, Hale Irwin is due to win the $250,000 Atlanta Golf Classic this week. He's taken the last two Atlanta events that were played in odd-numbered years and would like nothing better than to continue the string in the tournament that starts Thursday on the legstraining hills of the Atlanta Country Club course. "It's certainly time to win again," Irwin said before a practice round over the 6,883-yard course that ranks as the hilliest of the touring pros encounter all season. "The last year and a half has been frustrating. But I supposed, in all honesty, you would have to say it's pleasantly frustrating," said Irwin. "It's been frustrating in that Irwin has failed to win in this country since 1977. He did win the Australian PGA last season but is the first to admit "it's not quite the same thing as winning here." The pleasant part of the frustration involves his money winnings. While he hasn't won, he could hardly be described as being in a slump. Last year he won more than $191,000 a record for a man who didn't win a tournament, and this year has collected almost $80,000 - again without winning. He's been close, however. Last year he was fourth or better in eight events. This year he's recorded three third-place finishes. "Of course the money is important," he said. "After all, this is the way we make our living. But after you reach a certain level, winning is the most important thing." A definite threat in any tournament he enters - and doubly so on the tougher golf courses, such as this one - Irwin had to be considered a strong challenger for the $45,000 first prize. Among the other major contenders in the field of 156 were South African Gary Player, opening his second swing around the American tour this year in a tournament in which he has played very well before. Also in the field are three men who have scored two victories this season: Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller, Hubert Green and Lanny Wadkins. Also on hand are Jerry McGee, still riding a high from his victory in Charlotte last weekend, Johnny Miller, Al Geiberger, Andy Beans, Ben Crenshaw, Ray Floyd, J.C. Snead, who appears to have fought his way out of a protracted slump, and defending champ Jerry Heard. CBS will provide national television coverage of portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Belmont Entries Up To 9 Horses

NEW YORK (AP) - The list of horses mentioned as possible starters for Saturday's Belmont Stakes has grown to nine, but when the flak clears, the number probably will be closer to five or six. LeRoy Jolley, trainer of Belmont probable General Assembly, let drop Monday that he was considering entering another colt for the 11th running of the third jewel of Triple Crown racing - Sir Ivor Again. Sir Ivor Again last won on May 26 at Belmont under the guidance of Angel Cordero Jr. Presumably, however, if Jolley does enter Sir Ivor Again, Cordero won't be aboard. He'll be riding General Assembly. Sir Ivor Again probably is in much the same position as Gallant Best, owned by Vila Sommers and trained by Frank Martin. "Gallant best will go only if it's a small field," Martin said. Heavily favored Spectacular Bid, who won the Kentucky Derby and Preakness and is, seeking to become the third consecutive Triple Crown winner, worked out Monday. He went one mile over a sloppy track in 1:39. He breezed the half mile in 48.5, six furlongs in 1:13.25 and went out 1-1/8 miles in 1:52.5. "Bid went good," said Bud Delp, who trains the Hawksworth Farm colt. "He tried, but it was a tiring track." Exercise rider Bobby Smith said it was a "beneficial work out. Just what the doctor ordered." Delp said Spectacular Bid would go out for a light gallop today, and he would give him a blowout later in the week "because he is a big eater." The 3-year-old son of Bold Bidder will be ridden by Ron Flanklin. Bert Firestone's General Assembly, a son of Secretariat who was second in the Derby and fifth in the Preakness, worked a mile in 1:36.25 on a fast track over the weekend. He probably will be the second choice. The other more-or-less sure starters for the $200,000-added, 1 1/8-mile Belmont Stakes are Oldknow and Phipps' Golden Act, second in the Preakness and third in the Derby, and Flying Zee Stable's Screen King, third in the Preakness and sixth in the Derby. Then comes a list of five others including Sir Ivor Again, Che-Bar Stable's King Celebrity, Mrs. M. Valentine's Evasive John and Harbor View Farm's Picturesque. King Celebrity, who passed up the Preakness after finishing fourth in the Derby, still is at his home track, Monmouth Park, and his owners apparently have not reached a decision.

BECHENHAM, England (AP) - Pam Shriver, the 16-year-old surprise finalist in last year's U.S. Open tennis championships, won her first two matches in a grass court tournament here. Shriver defeated Kim Sands 6-2, 7-5 in her first-round match, then advanced to the third round by defeating Nancy Yeargin 6-4, 6-4. Top-seeded Evonne Goolagong of Australia beat South African teen-agers Ros Fairbanks 3-6, 6-4, 9-7. In men's action, top-seeded Roscoe Tanner beat Australia's Chris Kachel 6-3, 7-6, and Phil Seaman of New Zealand 6-3, 6-0, while second-seeded Peter Fleming topped England's Roger Taylor 6-3, 6-4.

PARIS (AP) - Bjorn Borg and Viras Gerulaitis put down stubborn opposition and qualified to play each other in the semifinals of the French Open tennis championships. The top-seeded Borg outlasted Hans Gildemeister of Chile 6-4, 6-1, 7-5; while Gerulaitis defeated Jose Higueras of Spain 6-1, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

NEW YORK (AP) - National Football League owners, showing concern over the growing number of player injuries, outlawed the use of the helmet as a battering ram and moved closer to barring some forms of the "chop block."

The club presidents voted unanimously to bar tacklers from using their helmets to "butt, ram, or spear an opponent" and to prohibit players from using the top of the helmet unnecessarily. Violations will be punished with 15-yard penalties.

NEW YORK (AP) - The Seattle Mariners opened baseball's free agent draft by selecting Albert Chambers, a first baseman-outfielder from John Harris High School in Harrisburg, Pa. The New York Mets, choosing second, took right-handed pitcher Tim Leary from UCLA. The Toronto Blue Jays then picked Jay Schroeder, a catcher-outfielder from Pacific Palisades, Calif. In all, 226 players were selected during the day's activities, which covered the first six rounds of the regular phase of the draft and the first six of the secondary phase.

NEW YORK (AP) - Catcher Lance Parrish of the Detroit Tigers, and outfielder Dave Winfield of the San Diego Padres were named the Players of the Week in the American and National Leagues, respectively. Parrish hit .519 last week and compiled 23 total bases and a slugging average of .852. Winfield batted .500 for the same period, including five home runs and 13 RBI's.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newfeatures

Q. — Last summer, I put up gutters and downspouts around the eaves of my house. It worked out fine, because we no longer have large quantities of water around the foundation of the house. However, there is one problem. On one side of the house, at two points along the gutter, water leaks from places where there are seams, especially during heavy rains. I realize that somehow I must have failed to connect the gutter sections properly at those points, but I don't understand why these leaks have not occurred on the three other sides of the house. I seem to remember connecting all the sections the same way. Any ideas?

A. — There is one strong probability. In connecting sections of a gutter, it is necessary that they be joined so that flowing water does not enter the joins. This happens if the overlaps are in the wrong direction. You might have done the overlapping properly on three sides of the house and incorrectly on the fourth. For a proper repair, you would have to take down the gutter sections and reset them, quite a job. Instead, try forcing a waterproof sealer into the joints that are causing the trouble. Get as much of the sealer into the joints as possible, but if any falls into the gutter, wipe it up quickly before it hardens. This repair could last indefinitely. Before making it, be sure the joints are completely dry.

NEW SOLOISTS

TORONTO (AP) — Three National Ballet of Canada dancers have been promoted to first soloists with the ballet.
They are Esther Murillo, Constantin Patsalas and Raymond Smith.

DOG STATUE

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Standing in front of an old three-story house here is a 4-foot-tall, 340-pound iron statue of a Labrador.

It has been there for three-quarters of a century, having weathered attacks from vandals and pranksters.
It is believed the statue was erected after the dog had performed some heroic deed. It is also believed the dog's name was Rover.

Mrs. Robert Carrel, whose family bought the house in 1970, says the dog is a hero to children now growing up in the neighborhood. And four buses slow down and sometimes stop for a better look at the dog.
"If we sold our house and moved, we could never take the dog," she says. "It would be a terrible thing to do."

PARIS (AP) — Paris fashion houses are going all out for ostrich leather, importers of the skins report.

The leather is being used to create a wide variety of clothing from coats to belts and boots.

The Lighter Side

TORONTO (AP) — Want to lose weight without a diet? Armed Forces researchers have discovered that two hours a day in temperatures of 40 degrees below zero can take off a pound or so a day without a sweat.
"When's the last time you saw a fat Eskimo?" asked Dr. William O'Hara, who started thinking about no-sweat, weight loss while examining troops on Arctic maneuvers.

O'Hara has been duplicating Arctic conditions in a "cold room" where people inhaling super cold air have lost about a pound a day even while eating all they wanted partly because the body must burn calories to warm the inhaled air.

The department of tourism in the Northwest Territories says there are tourist accommodations available for those, who might like to take advantage of the technique in the Arctic, but it warns that summer temperatures have warmed to 20 degrees below zero.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Its pedigree is lost in antiquity, but the Catahoula car has a shot at becoming the nation's first state dog.

Kline Rushing of Baton Rouge told a Louisiana House committee Monday that her dog, "Nap," was owned by former Gov. Jimmie Davis.

Governor Davis was the first person to ride a horse into the Capitol and his dog is the first Catahoula here," she said. Davis gained publicity in the early 1960s when as governor he rode his horse up the Capitol steps to the rotunda.

Rep. Frank Patti wanted to know the origin of the hound. Replied Mrs. Rushing: "Never call a Catahoula a hound. They are cur's."

The cur has its origins with the Catahoula Indian tribe that stalked northeast Louisianas. The Indians' mutts met up with Spanish war dogs in the 1500s and the result was the Catahoula, she said.

FRIENDLY, W.Va. (AP) — Being mayor of a town of 190 sounds like an easy job. But Geneva Cambridge, mayor of Friendly, says nobody would believe how complex her problems are.

"I'd never dreamed I'd get so much publicity, that there would be so much controversy," said Mrs. Cambridge, who has held the $300-a-month job since October when the previous mayor resigned.

Mrs. Cambridge has seen a policeman and a judge hired and fired, a battle over whether the community has a charter from the Legislature and a stormy nominating convention for officers of the town that has a reputation of hosting care of the state's most persistent speed traps.

The town holds elections today. But because the convention ended with no candidate on the ballot, the next mayor must be elected on write-in votes.

Mrs. Cambridge said she had mixed emotions about the election.

"It would flatter me if I won for mayor, because I'd think someone was trying to tell me I was doing a good job," she said. "But I'm almost to the point I wish they wouldn't."

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Lifestyle change can help

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 73-year-old male who has experienced irregular heart beats (or extrasystoles) for 15 years. I've been having annual physical examinations and each time my doctor assures me that there is nothing that I should be concerned about. Nothing that I do, not even physical exertion, causes the skips. Recently my doctor prescribed a tablet of Inderal each day. I thought Inderal was used for high blood pressure. Mine's on the low side — usually about 110 over 80.

Is Inderal the kind of medicine that I should be taking? What is it supposed to do? Is there a better medicine? Or do I need any medicine at all?

DEAR READER — There are many different types of irregular heart beats. They can occur in individuals without any heart disease at all. If you were to take continuous heart tracings on anybody, in the course of a day or two you would see some irregular heart beats, or skipped beats as people sometimes call them.

I observed these in all the astronauts because we had records on them for hours and hours at a time while they were being studied in space chambers and in other conditions. I also saw them in many of the healthy members of the Air Force flying population. They can be caused by heart disease as well. To use the other end of the spectrum, the onset of a heart attack may be associated with extra beats.

The only way you can determine the significance of extra beats in a specific individual is through a medical examination. If they occur sporadically in a young, healthy individual, they're not likely to be very important. But if they're noticed for the first time in a person who is having chest pain and other difficulties, they are probably part of that process and can be quite important.

To help you I'm sending you The Health Letter number 6-12, Heart Irregularities, Skipped Beats, Tachycardias to help you sort out this problem. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

A person with recurrent skipped beats should not smoke or use any coffee or beverages containing any caffeine. He should maintain a regular exercise program if his health permits and avoid any digestive distur-not something that you can do but a dentist must do.

If there's nothing wrong with your teeth, and your comments concerning your dentist's reaction suggests that would be the case, your bad breath may come from totally unrelated problems. A frequent cause for bad breath is an infection in the sinuses. It can be chronic. You might be wise to see an ear, nose and throat specialist to see if you have any problem in these areas that contribute to the disorder.

To help you, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 9-4, Halitosis: The Breath Problem And What To Do About It. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The Health Letter that I'm sending you will give you detailed information on all the different things that can cause bad breath. You need to know it can even come from an upset in your body chemistry.

Unpleasant chemicals will escape through the lungs from your bloodstream and be exhaled causing the bad breath. Clearly, if the problem is odory coming from the lungs, a simple mouthwash or toothpaste isn't going to solve the problem.

One of the best examples of bad breath on a chemical basis is alcohol. The alcohol in your bloodstream escapes through the lungs and is exhaled. That's the basis for the breath analysis tests done by the police to measure your blood alcohol level.

If there's nothing in the dental area that is causing your problem and nothing in your ear, nose and throat area that causes difficulties, then you need to see your internist to find out if you have any other medical problems that may be contributing to your difficulties.

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I have tried every polish I know of on my laminated plastic kitchen table and counter tops but nothing will restore the shiny surface. Do you or the readers know of any way I could polish these surfaces? — G.M.Z.
DEAR G.M.Z. — Sounds as if you have been using abrasives for cleaning. One of the leading manufacturers of such products suggests a spray wax that dries and waxes in one operation and leaves a high shine. It may take a few treatments. Boiled linseed oil (bought at the paint or drug store) is often recommended for protecting counter or bar tops and it should leave some luster. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Are you tired of fighting with bacon? While it is in its plastic wrap roll up one side, unroll and then roll up the other side. Unroll and flatten out and this will guarantee the strips of bacon will not stick and will come apart with ease. — CAROLYN

DEAR POLLY — When I get paid twice a month the money is automatically deposited into my checking account. I frequently write out my checks the week of deposit, put them in sealed envelopes, and mark the MAILING TIME in the stamp area. I am all set for when I know the money is in the bank. Just add stamps and drop in the mail. Maybe nothing is left in the checking account but the bills are paid. — MRS. S.S.

DEAR POLLY — A plastic coffee can lid, trimmed around the edges; can be a great cooking tool for camping or for around the kitchen. It can be used as a bowl scraper, or a small cutting surface of a scoop. — CHARLENE

DEAR CHARLENE — I agree with you. I find mine is indispensable but I cut the circle in half and find it easy to hold the flat side and then the rounded side makes the best bowl scraper ever and gets out that last little bit of cake batter or whatever. — POLLY

FBI Releases Sketches

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The FBI released composite sketches Friday of two men sought in connection with Tuesday's assassination of a federal judge. An official said, "We're not saying these people are connected to the case in any way, but we're not saying they're not either."

The FBI, mobilizing at least 40 agents and numerous other federal investigators, has mounted a massive investigation into the sniper slaying of U.S. District John H. Wood Jr., 63, known as "Maximum John" for his stiff sentences in drug cases. It was the second time in seven months a Western District of Texas official involved in West Texas drug smuggling cases has been ambushed.

Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr escaped serious injury Nov. 21 when his car was riddled by bullets as he drove to work. No one has been arrested in that case.

Daniel Shaffer, the assistant director of the intense investigation, said the two men were seen by "more than one witness" in the "immediate vicinity" of Wood's townhouse the morning he was slain.

The sketches — one showing a man with brownish long hair, glasses and a mustache and another showing a clean-shaven man with medium length light hair and glasses — represent a composite of the reports from the witnesses, said Shaffer.

"We're just trying to identify who these men are," he said. Both men in the drawings appeared to be in their late 20s or 30s.

Shaffer refused to comment on whether there had been any eyewitnesses to the shooting. The Chateau Dijon townhouses were sealed off and witnesses were rounded up shortly after the assassination. The FBI has since kept a tight lid on the investigation.

FBI spokesman David Casens had said Tuesday afternoon that agents were checking out reports of several cars in the area at the time of the assassination, but Shaffer would not elaborate on exactly where in the area the two men had been spotted or if they were in a car.

Rewards totaling $125,000 have been posted in the case and a special 24-hour telephone — 512-223-3581 — has been installed to handle tips. Shaffer said the reward, which he called "substantial by anyone's standards," had prompted numerous responses.

"We can't tell you whether any have been productive or not but the telephone has been ringing," he said.

Dallas millionaire industrialist H. Ross Perot, who financed a commando team last February to rescue some of his employees from an Iranian prison, reportedly contacted U.S. Attorney Jamie Boyd on Thursday about increasing the reward fund.

Perot's secretary said Friday, however, that Perot was not posting any rewards in the case.

A $100,000 reward was offered Thursday by a group of local attorneys and the FBI is offering $25,000.

Shaffer said any other possible reward offers must be screened before being considered legitimate by the federal government. "We certainly wouldn't support any 'Wanted: Dead or Alive' offers," he said.

Wood was gunned down outside his townhouse as he prepared to leave for work. He was killed by a single shot to the spine with a .243-caliber bullet, the FBI said. The .243-caliber bullet is usually fired from a high-powered deer rifle, but Shaffer refused to speculate Friday on what type of weapon was used.

FBI lab technicians said they have not been able to determine from how far away the shot came.

Boyd and Kerr have been conducting federal grand jury investigations in El Paso and Midland into alleged multi-million dollar interstate narcotics trafficking. That West Texas crackdown will be accelerated in the wake of Wood's slaying, Boyd vowed Thursday.

The ongoing inquiries have focused on the Bandidos motorcycle club and the slaying Dec. 23 of flamboyant El Paso defense attorney Lee Chagra. Sources said in March that the names of top organized crime figures in Arizona and Las Vegas have surfaced in the investigation in connection with Lee Chagra.

Wood was scheduled to preside over the narcotics trafficking trial of Las Vegas gambler Jamail "Jimmy" Chagra, Lee Chagra's younger brother. The trial was scheduled to begin Tuesday in Austin, but had been recently reset for July 23 in Austin.

Joe Chagra, Jimmy and Lee's brother and Jimmy's defense attorney, said the Wood assassination is the "worst thing that could happen to us" because it will not be forgotten by any judge or juror in Texas. The Chagras had vainly sought to have Wood removed from the case.

A federal grand jury in San Antonio investigating the Kerr case has also heard testimony from Bandidos. In March, several Bandidos took lie detector tests and participated in a police lineup viewed by Kerr.

One former Bandido member awaiting trial on federal firearms charges has been named by an FBI agent in a court hearing as a "prime suspect" in the Kerr case.

Polio Outbreak Slowed By Shots In Amish Group

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — More than 80,000 Lancaster County residents have been immunized in special polio clinics set up to stop an outbreak of the paralyzing disease among members of the Amish religious sect.

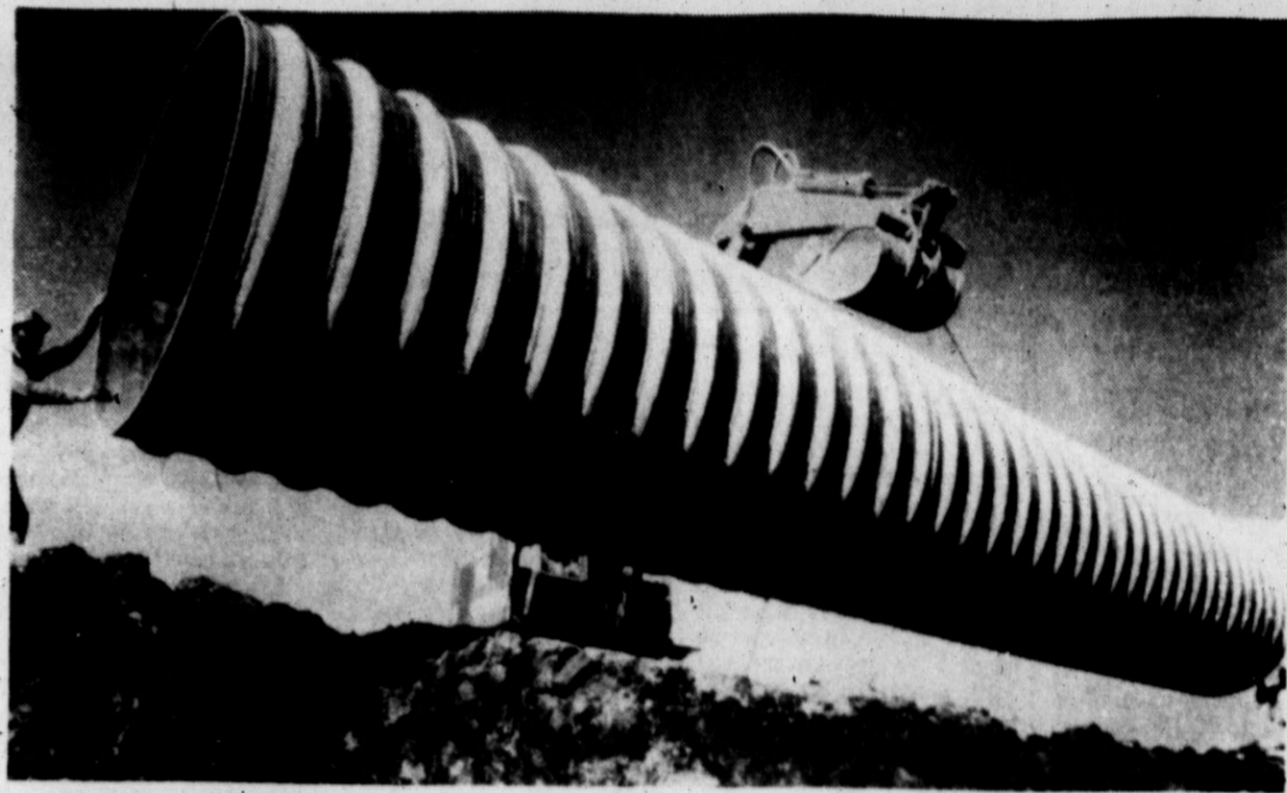

State health officials said 56,452 people were immunized Sunday and 30,081 others received the vaccine Saturday. Several Amish families were among those who took the oral vaccine on Sunday.

Health officials have stock-pled 200,000 doses of vaccine for the three-day immunization program, which concludes today.

The victims in the current outbreak have been either members of the Amish sect or people who came in contact with the Amish, who avoided immunizations in the past.

Lancaster County is the cultural home of the Amish, who generally spurn outside ways. The Amish have no specific religious opposition to vaccines.

DON'T DROP THAT PIPE: It's made of glass. Actually, the glass-fiber composite pipe is made so it will not shatter into millions of pieces. And the corrosion resistance of such pipes is causing them to be used increasingly in wastewater-treatment and chemical-processing plants, says Owens-Corning.

Judge Selection Detailed

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first in a four-part series on how federal judges are selected.

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In February 1978, Stewart Newblatt, a Flint, Mich., lawyer sat down at his desk in the Old Elks Building and filled out a 20-page application for employment.

It looks like he got the job. The Senate Judiciary Committee will hold a hearing soon on Newblatt's nomination to be a U.S. district judge. Barring an unexpected reversal, he is fixed for life in a prestigious position with an annual salary currently at $54,500 and the promise of retirement at full pay.

The story of his move up the street is also the story of President Carter's chosen and controversial method for filling 152 new federal judgeships, enough to put his stamp on the judiciary into the next century.

Federal judges are appointed by the president. The Senate advises and consents. In fact, however, every president beginning with George Washington has gone along with senators of his party when they chose to pick nominees for positions in their state.

Carter said he was going to try a new tack. For the selection of circuit judges who hear the first appeals he appointed panels to feed him names. For the district judges who conduct trials he asked senators to appoint similar panels. Senators in 24 states appointed such panels.

Not everybody likes the idea. Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., says it could produce "not merit, but mediocrity" because of horse-trading and compromising among panel members.

Because the Massachusetts law is stronger than similar laws in 45 other states, today's ruling likely will be hailed as a shield against constitutional attacks on those laws.

The Massachusetts law was challenged as a form of sexual discrimination against women, a historic practice in the military.

The history of discrimination against women in the military is not on trial in this case. Justice Potter Stewart wrote for the court.

When the totality of legislative actions establishing

Of the first 30 nominees to new district judgeships, only one is a Republican. Six are women, four are black and two are Hispanics.

Other critics say the new system hasn't made much change: senators usually appoint most if not all members of the merit panels in each state. In merit panels in each state. In 14 of the 24 states, the senators pick the proposed nominees themselves after the commission has narrowed the field.

But senators who have used the commission method say it is working well. And a committee of the American Bar Association which rates prospective judges gave its "well qualified" stamp to five out of the first six nominees emerging from panels.

Only three of the first 11 nominees chose by senators who did not use commissions got the bar's "well qualified" rating.

Newblatt's journey from Flint attorney to judicial nominee is a good example of the new process. His story began on Dec. 19, 1977, when he wrote a letter to Sen. Donald W. Riegle Jr., D-Mich.

In a few weeks he received and returned the application form.

On March 15, Riegle appointed a merit selection panel of 15 lawyers and seven lay members, most of them Democrats. To head it, he picked Leon S. Cohan, vice president and general counsel of Detroit Edison Co., whom he said he "knew very well."

They learned Newblatt practiced with one partner, devoting 15 percent of his time to a local supermarket firm for which he was general counsel. They learned that his wife was an assistant Genesee County prosecutor and they had three sons.

Attached to the form were opinions he had written as a judge. In one, he had ruled that the Flint Memorial Park Association, operators of a local cemetery, could not bar the owner of a lot from burying a black person in it. "The law of this land looks to enforcement of the rights of individuals without assuming that there is recognized in the law a social, economic, racial, religious or political caste system," he wrote.

Each applicant supplied the committee with three references. The committee held three day-long meetings, interviewing from seven to 10 applicants at each. Newblatt's turn came April 20.

One thing troubled the panel members. Newblatt had been a judge and had quit. Now he wanted to be a judge again. Why was that, they asked.

Newblatt said the difference between state and federal courts was a big factor. In state court, he said, "You spend an inordinate amount of time with child custody and divorce cases, federal judges deal with much more law."

After each half-hour interview, the committee rated the application on a scale of four. Although the ratings were confidential, Newblatt apparently received the highest.

A week later, all the panelists met in a courtroom at Detroit's Federal Building. A list of 16 names was drawn up from among applicants with the highest ratings.

"Of course, I sat down and analyzed that list," Newblatt said. "And I discovered that I was the only one of the 16 who was from outside the metropolitan area of Detroit."

He thought "geographical balance might be a factor in Riegle's thinking, as Riegle later said it was.

Next, Senatorial Courtesy.

Veteran Preference Given

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Tuesday upheld a Massachusetts law that gives an absolute lifetime preference, in public employment to veterans of either sex, not for men over women," Stewart said.

By a 7-2 vote, the justices said the law does not discriminate unconstitutionally against women.

Because the Massachusetts law is stronger than similar laws in 45 other states, today's ruling likely will be hailed as a shield against constitutional attacks on those laws.

The Massachusetts law was challenged as a form of sexual discrimination against women, a historic practice in the military.

The history of discrimination against women in the military is not on trial in this case. Justice Potter Stewart wrote for the court.

When the totality of legislative actions establishing and extending the Massachusetts preference are considered, the law remains what it purports to be: a preference for veterans of either sex over non-veterans of either sex, not for men over women," Stewart said.

Justices Thurgood Marshall and William J. Brennan Jr. dissented. In an opinion by Marshall, they said the Massachusetts law "evinces purposeful gender-based discrimination."

Because the law "bears no substantial relationship to a legitimate governmental objective, it cannot withstand scrutiny under the equal protection clause of the Constitution," the dissenters said.

The Massachusetts law was struck down by a three-judge court in 1976 and first reached the Supreme Court in 1977. The high court set aside the invalidation, but the three-judge court in Boston once again struck down the law-ruling that its wording clearly showed a bias against women.

The law was challenged by Helen Feeney, a state employee who worked as a clerk and personnel coordinator from 1963 to 1975.

On three occasions, Mrs. Feeney had taken civil service tests as an applicant for better-paying government jobs. Each time her ranking was lowered because veterans, always men, with lower test scores were elevated ahead of her because of the veterans' preference.

The three-judge court's ruling noted that only 2 percent of Massachusetts military veterans are women, and that from 1948 until 1967 federal law prohibited women from making up more than 2 percent of the work force in the armed forces.

June Slow Month In Stock Market's Industrial Averages

NEW YORK (AP) — As the stock market enters June, sometimes an uninspired month, opinions on the future of prices are split wide as the grand Canyon.

Nothing new in this: it's been that way for 15 years, and the fact that the Dow Jones industrial average is no higher than it was in 1964 lend documentation. It tells of a split in opinions, a stalemate.

What is new is that some of those on either side of the split feel that we may not have to wait much longer for the proof of the pudding. That proof, they agree, is in the performance, not the prediction.

On one side of the great divide are those who say the market will now fall into the abyss. Included in the group are some huge institutional traders who, over recent years, have been shunning stocks.

On the other side they're ready to climb the mountain. By 1983 they foresee peaks twice as high as the recent industrial average, which closed last week at 836.37 points, about the same as in June 1964.

On either side they view the same economic probabilities as providing credibility. We are at a watershed, they say. We are headed toward recession. Our red-ink economy is like blood flowing.

Even when invested in stocks, the pension funds have done poorly. A review by A.G. Becker Inc. of 571 pension funds found that since 1964 only 22 of every 100 matched or exceeded the Standard and Poor's 500-stock index.

timidity of portfolio managers, who under the relatively new "prudent man" law can be held responsible for investment decisions. They feel caution is more defensible than risk.

How timid have they been? A Federal Reserve count shows insurers and pension funds added less to their stock holdings last year than in any of the previous 11 years. Private pension funds used only 9 percent of available cash for U.S. stocks. Recently, some have invested abroad.

A perusal of investment letters suggests that as the economy declines so will the portfolio managers' already weak allegiance to stocks. No matter that prices might recover later. A manager saves his job now.

MONTGOMERY WARD

The Fourth Amendment protects individuals against unreasonable government searches and seizures. The court ruled that Dunaway's detention was a "seizure."
