Reagan To Attack Demo Strongholds

Economy Falls During Period

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's economy tumbled at an annual rate of 9.1 percent from April through June, equal to the worst quarterly decline during the last recession in 1974-75, the government said today.

The steep decline in real gross national product — the inflation-adjusted output of goods and services — proved even greater than Carter administration economists initially predicted.

They had expected a drop of between 8 percent and 9 percent, seasonally adjusted.

During the first quarter of 1980, the gross national product rose 1.2 percent.

Despite the precipitous plunge last quarter, administration economists point to new signs the economy will begin to recover soon, including a sharp increase in housing starts, lower interest rates and easing inflation.

Nevertheless, private and government economists now see unemployment reaching about 9 percent and then remaining somewhere around 8.5 percent through most of next year. Moreover, signs of industrial lag continue with production at the nation's factories expected to continue declining for several more months.

The Commerce Department reported that before adjustment for inflation, the nation's output from April through June stood at an annual rate just exceeding $2.52 trillion, slightly above the first quarter level.

However, when adjusted for double-digit inflation, the nation's output was at an annual rate of $1.41 trillion.

An annual rate figure indicates what would happen over the course of a year if this quarter's economic conditions continued for three more quarters.

Inflation, as measured by the so-called implicit price deflator rose 10.4 percent in the second quarter, compared with a 9.5 percent increase in the first quarter, the department said.

The decrease in real output last quarter was attributed to a sharp 9.6 percent falloff in final sales, following a 1.5 percent rise in the first quarter, the department said.

The sales plunge occurred primarily in the consumer sector, where people cut back purchases in the housing and auto sector.

The output figures are preliminary and will be revised in coming weeks, the department said.

The decline in the GNP reported today was identical to the worst drop during the last recession, when the gross national product fell at an annual rate of 9.1 percent in the first quarter

C-C Meets With Industry Prospects

A new emphasis on seeking industrial prospects for Hereford is underway, according to Ken Rogers, president of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

At a regular monthly meeting of chamber directors Thursday afternoon, Rogers reported the industrial development committee was currently in discussions with three prospects. One of these is the Thermometrics company, which has already announced plans for a plant here with construction to start when financing becomes available.

Rogers said one company has announced that Hereford is one of three remaining sites which the firm is considering. It would employ about 75 people initially and is projected to grow to 200 employees after three or four years.

The other prospect is for a gasahol plant, but no additional information is available at present. Rogers also announced the chamber is involved in discussions with a local industry on expansion of that firm.

The C of C president said no new developments had been reported in the Armour plant situation. The corporation apparently still plans to close the plant down this fall.

In other business Thursday, directors heard progress reports from several committees, discussed the new county Industrial Development Corporation, and approved the monthly financial report.

Frances Berry, president of the Women's Division, announced that Diane Warden, Miss Hereford, would be entered in the Miss Wheatheart Contest at Perryton next month. Mike Carr, executive vice president, reported on a recent West Texas C of C luncheon here, and told directors about a WTCC trip to seek industrial contacts.

Carr said the WTCC

DETROIT (AP) — Ronald Reagan and George Bush, accepting their roles as the Republican presidential ticket at a festival of party unity, are opening a campaign that will be directed at traditionally Democratic strongholds in the Northeast and industrial Midwest.

"We're obviously going to concentrate in the Eastern and Central time zones," Drew Lewis, a top Reagan campaign aide, said Thursday night, on the floor of the GOP National Convention as delegates waited to hear the acceptance speeches of the two nominees.

Bush, who spent his youth in Massachusetts and Connecticut and was educated in the Northeast, is a key element in that strategy.

Accepting the presidential nomination he had sought for 12 years, Reagan expressed his strategy with a speech that called on Americans to cross party lines "to build a new consensus with all those across the land who share a community of values embodied in these words: family, work, neighborhood, peace and freedom."

Reagan closed his acceptance speech by urging the delegates to "begin our crusade with a moment of silence." With that, he bowed his head, his eyes closed. The hall fell silent.

A moment later, Reagan opened his eyes, jerked his head upright and said, "God bless America." The delegates erupted into a tumultuous demonstration.

Reagan, Bush and their families stood on the podium waving to the joyful throng. Joining the 1980 Republican ticket on the podium was former President Gerald R. Ford and his wife, Betty.

All day Wednesday, even through the balloting that gave him the presidential nomination, Reagan had sought a way to convince Ford to take the vice presidential nomination and when the negotiations failed settled on Bush as his choice and made a dramatic midnight appearance before the convention to announce it.

Thursday's final session of the convention had none of the high drama of the night before. It was a happy show staged by a party confident it had named a strong ticket and buoyed by polls showing Reagan with a substantial lead over President Carter.

Bush, Reagan's former rival and now running mate, warned Republicans that "though Jimmy Carter has in the past four years been a failed president, he is a formidable campaigner who can be expected to use the power of his office to suit his own political ends."

"Remember only that political victories are won by hard dedicated work — and that in this crucial election year, the stakes for America and the free world are too great to allow ourselves to become complacent."

Attempting to tie down loose ends of potential dissent, Reagan and his campaign managers agreed to give Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina, an arch conservative unhappy with the choice of Bush, a chance to address the convention.

When Helms strode to the podium, a delegate shouted: "Give 'em Hell, Jesse."

"I will," replied the senator. But his speech was

Heat Fatalities Near Thousand in 20 States

By DAVID GREEN, Associated Press Writer

The unofficial death toll from the 27-day heat wave that is smothering the South and Midwest numbered 1,000 today, with close to 700 of the fatalities reported in the past week alone.

There have been 986 deaths in 20 states, according to an unofficial count by The Associated Press. Last week at this time, there had been 294 fatalities.

There were no prospects of immediate relief.

The National Weather Service predicted that the searing heat will continue at least through the beginning of next week. Temperatures over 100 degrees were reported in many areas Thursday, with Hutchinson, Kan., among the hottest at 112. The thermometer at the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport hit 100 for the 25th consecutive day.

In Georgia, Gov. George Busbee declared a state of emergency Thursday, saying the state's farmers face disaster if the heat wave continues. Emergencies have also been declared in Alabama and Missouri.

The U.S. Agriculture Department said a variety of crops, including cotton, sorghum and soybeans, have suffered in the heat belt. Millions of chickens have died.

In Illinois, heat-relief centers opened throughout the state, but the turnout has been low.

"People just don't seem to want to leave their homes," said Alexander County Coroner Tom Bradshaw.

"A lot of older people have air conditioning, but they don't use it because it's too expensive to run," said Judy Bogart, a spokeswoman at Jewish Hospital in Cincinnati.

Glenn and Lorinea Graham of Wichita, Kan., don't have an air conditioner, but have discovered a cooling-off device that children have known about for a long time — a lawn sprinkler.

"We just sit on the porch in the afternoon and set the sprinkler so it hits us every time it comes by," Mrs. Graham said. "People think we're nuts, but it feels so good."

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said Thursday that the hot weather is being caused by an unusually persistent wind pattern in the upper atmosphere.

There is a strong clockwise flow of air at about 10,000 to 20,000 feet over most of the country.

Pickers Expected To Return to Sheds

Texas Farm Workers Union pickets were expected to return to vegetable packing sheds along New York Avenue in Hereford today following a pattern similar to activity on Thursday when union representatives passed out literature concerning the farm strike here.

There were reports of at least one verbal confrontation between picketers and an employee of a local packing shed who allegedly tore up a copy of the literature being handed out by picketers.

TFWU strike organizer and supporters announced earlier this week that they were shifting tactics in their protest over working conditions and wage scales in the onion fields of West Texas.

During the initial weeks of their strike activities TFWU organizers targeted the fields of area growers as they were under harvest.

Now, picketers are concentrating on the packing sheds themselves, hoping to draw workers away from the sheds and disrupt the harvest.

Picketing activity has continued to remain isolated and the area's onion harvest is progressing with the gathering of the early onion crop already virtually complete here.

Harvesting of hybrid onions is expected to continue into August.

President: We Will Whip GOP 'All Over'

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — President Carter, throwing his hardest punches yet in the early rounds of the fall political slugfest, says Republicans offer narrow vision and simplistic solutions, and "We will whip the Republicans all over our great nation" in November.

Campaigning in Florida even before the final gavel had fallen at the Republican National Convention in Detroit, Carter lost no opportunity to take both subtle and direct jabs at newly crowned GOP presidential nominee Ronald Reagan.

And even with his own expected renomination still subject to the Democratic National Convention in New York next month, Carter challenged Reagan to a series of debates. The challenger quickly accepted.

In an appearance here and in Jacksonville before returning to the White House late Thursday night, the president mentioned Reagan by name just once — while calling the former California governor's tax cut proposal inflationary. At the same time, however, Carter all but promised a tax reduction program of his own next year.

Carter said the GOP is a party that "opposes Social Security, the minimum wage, Medicare; the party that brought us the disgrace of Watergate."

By contrast, he said, Democrats represent "compassion and courage" and don't try to avoid controversial issues. And, borrowing from traditional Republican themes, Carter stressed his own commitment to defense, "peace through strength," and his opposition to a "free lunch" for those able to work.

The president said the GOP was a party "with a narrow vision, whose leaders are inclined to shoot from the hip, a party that will be defeated in November if Democrats in an honest way present their record to the American people."

The president arrived here from Sapelo Island, Ga.

BARTLEY DOWELL
Dowell Named President Of Region II

AMARILLO — Hereford Mayor Bartley Dowell Thursday night was elected president of Texas Municipal League Region II, which encompasses the entire Panhandle.

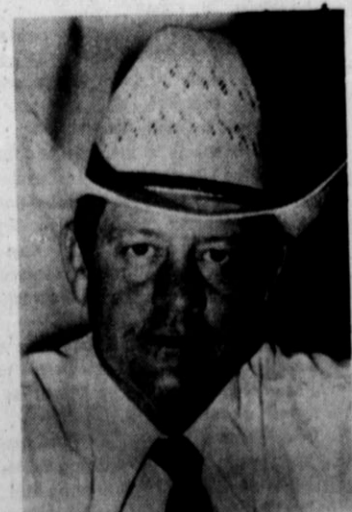

Dowell was elected unanimously during the league meeting, which was held in the Amarillo Civic Center.

Other officers elected were Canadian Mayor George Harrington, first vice president; Borger Mayor Judy Flanders, second vice president; and Amarillo personnel director J.L. Hammond Jr., secretary-treasurer.

Amarillo Mayor Jerry Hodge and City Manager John Stiff spoke to league representatives about their city's recent tax referendum.

'Rabbit' Butcher Adds Spice to Sheriff's Airways

By JIM STEIERT

"Nine-oh-four to Hereford S.O. I'm on my way to talk to 'Quarterhorse' on a 'hot one.' Then I'll be out at 'Fat Daddy's' for 15 minutes or so on break. Tell old 'Woodchuck' to come by out there and join me if you see him."

The voice crackled over the radio receiver at the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's office in its country drink of water draw, emanating from a patrol car somewhere in the countryside of Deaf Smith County.

For the dispatcher at the sheriff's office, the message was a familiar one, made colorful by the nicknames which its sender had attached to the folks of whom he spoke.

Ole "Rabbit" himself had a hot check case going and planned to take it up with Assistant District Attorney Jerry Smith. From there he would proceed to a coffee break at Big Daddy's Restaurant on East Highway 60, and was inviting state game warden Chuck Cospoer to join him.

"Rabbit" is Dean Butcher, chief deputy with the county sheriff's office.

His colorful, laid-back style of speaking and easygoing manner bely the fact that "Rabbit" is a dedicated "county mounty" of considerable talent who feels a little humor not only spices up the job, but makes the efforts of workers more productive.

Butcher, 40, has been a Deaf Smith County deputy for some 11 years.

His roots sink deep into a background of farm work in East Texas, and in farm and ranch work in the sprawling "Caprock Country" in Briscoe County at Silverton.

From that background, Butcher draws on a rich store of "plain old country horse sense" that stands him in good stead to handle a myriad of duties that present themselves to a deputy.

"If you look at any law enforcement officer worth his salt, on a scale of one to ten he'll rate about a nine in the common sense category," Butcher maintains.

The chief deputy was born and spent a part of his childhood on a 120 acre farm in east Texas, and working the cotton harvesting circuit was part of the way of life for Butcher in his early years.

"We'd spend nine to 14 weeks a year pulling bolls. Conditions for workers could not be any worse now than they were then. It was hard and tough and you learned what work was all about," he recalls.

The Butcher family came to Silverton in 1949 when Butcher's father managed to save enough money to buy some equipment and rent a farm.

The deputy split time between labors on the farm and working cattle on ranches in the Silverton area.

Tragedy became part of Butcher's life at the age of 12 when his mother, a brother and his best friend were all killed in an auto accident

Driver Wounded In Lubbock Attack

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Lubbock County authorities said today they have few leads in the bizarre shooting of a Fort Worth man wounded while driving his family home from New Mexico.

Fred Allen, 63, was in critical condition today at Lubbock General Hospital with a bullet lodged near his spine.

Allen was wounded when several shots were fired at his pickup from a passing car on U.S. 62-82 near Idalou.

Allen, along with his wife and two grandchildren, were en route to Fort Worth from Clovis, N.M., when the shooting occurred.

Allen told deputies he was driving east on the highway about three miles west of Idalou when shots were fired from a couple that had pulled alongside his pickup camper.

Investigators said numerous bullet holes, presumably made by a .22 caliber or .25 caliber slugs, were found in the camper.

Curfew Enforced At Liberty City

MIAMI (AP) - Driving rain brought quiet to the streets of Liberty City for the first time in three days, as police enforced a curfew and 400 National Guardsmen stood by as a "precautionary measure."

County officials declared a "state of emergency" at a two-square-mile area around Dade County's largest low-income, public housing project. They ordered a temporary ban on sales and public displays of firearms, on sales of gasoline other than that put directly into fuel tanks and on carrying alcoholic beverages in public.

Helmeted patrolmen watched for loiterers as motorists were stopped at checkpoints during the 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew.

The National Guardsmen, called up by Gov. Bob Graham as a "precautionary measure," spent the night in Dade County armories. Graham also put 50 Florida Highway Patrol troopers on alert.

By 4 a.m., 29 arrests had been made within the sealed-off area, mostly for curfew violations, said police spokesman Tom Banks. Several people also were charged with carrying concealed weapons. All of those arrested were black. Banks added.

Overcharges Case Nets $5.25 Million

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - OKC Corp. of Dallas agreed to pay a $5.25 million fine and its president plead guilty in connection with oil pricing overcharges in U.S. District Court here Thursday.

OKC President Cloyce Box, once of Amarillo, pleaded guilty to 23 misdemeanor charges and was fined $115,000.

He has been under investigation by the Department of Energy, the FBI and a federal grand jury for two years.

The criminal charges and a civil consent decree worked out with the petroleum conglomerate, concerned the selling of oil to "friendly brokers" who resold the products at prices higher than the DOE allowed.

Charges against Box, a former professional football player and self-made millionaire, related mainly to deals between his firm's Okmulgee oil refinery and brokers Edwin W. Gummelt Jr. and Robert A. Whitley, both of Waco, Texas, and J.B. Adams, owner of J.R. Adams Oil Co. of Guymon.

8 Executed By Iranian Firing Squad

By The Associated Press
Seven men and a woman were executed on a street in Tehran's red-light district today on orders of Ayatollah Sadegh Khalkhali, but the stern judge withheld immediate comment on the failed assassination attempt against Shahpour Bakhtiar, leader of exiled forces opposed to the regime.

Those executed were put to death on Jamshid Street on charges ranging from drug trafficking to sodomy and running bordellos, Tehran Radio said. It was the second time Khalkhali has had executions carried out on an Iranian street. The theory is that it deters crimes against the regime.

Khalkhali told a reporter he had no comment for the moment on the attempt to kill Bakhtiar outside Paris today but that he would have something to say later in the day. Khalkhali's men claimed responsibility for assassinating a son of the shah's twin sister, Princess Shraf, in Paris last year.

But George Schultze, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, predicted a recovery from the recession will begin soon, although he said it would be a slow recovery. Schultze pointed to indications that the housing slump has bottomed out and auto sales — while still down — are improving.

Starts of privately owned single- and multi-family houses rose to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.019 million units last month, compared with 913,000 in May, the department said.

While June's figures clearly mark a turnabout in the depressed industry, last month's activity still was far below levels of a year earlier, the Commerce Department reported.

Department officials said the 538,600 single- and multi-family housing units started during the first six months of this year were down 38 percent from the 867,000 during first half of 1979.

Last June, housing starts stood at an annual rate of 1.91 million units.

Reagan

conciliatory, referring to "a common commitment to the pro-American and pro-family principles."

Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas placed Bush's name in nomination and told the delegates "this is not a time to stress our differences; this is a time to stress agreement."

And one of the earliest references in Reagan's acceptance speech was directed at supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment, many of them bitterly disappointed by the candidate's opposition to the amendment and to the decision of the platform committee to drop party support for it.

"As president I will establish a liaison with the 50 governors to encourage them to eliminate, wherever it exists, discrimination against women," said the candidate. In addition to its appeal to a new coalition, Reagan's speech was a restatement of familiar campaign positions and attacks on President Carter and a government he called "overgrown and overweight."

"I will not stand by and watch this great country destroy itself under mediocre leadership that drifts from one crisis to the next, eroding our national will and purpose," said Reagan.

He restated his pledge "to impose an immediate and thorough freeze on federal hiring" as his first act as president.

"We are taxing ourselves into economic exhaustion and stagnation," he said and went on to call for enactment of the across-the-board tax cuts that he has made a keystone of his economic program.

Reagan political aides involved in planning the campaign in the major industrial states of the Northeast and delighted with the choice of Bush for second spot on the ticket.

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Moon Landrieu called the June housing figures an important sign that the Carter administration's economic policies are working.

"We are turning the corner on the recession. This is an important step in the right direction," he said.

"There's no question we have reached the bottom of the housing recession," said Michael Sumichrast, chief economist of the National Association of Home Builders.

The sharp turn, he said, is the direct result of sliding interest rates and feverish efforts by builders to help homeowners find relatively reasonable financing.

The Commerce Department reported Thursday that personal income of Americans rose by $8 billion in June, but that was only 0.4 percent higher than May. Personal spending up was 1 percent in June, but savings dropped 12.2 percent from May.

Private economists foresee the jobless rate reaching about 9 percent before beginning a slow retreat, and the administration's mid-year budget review due Monday is expected to predict a similar level.

One said Bush would effectively appeal to "the white, Protestant, upper-class Republicans" who were uneasy with Reagan's western conservatism.

"The selection of Bush speaks to that fear as much as Bush himself," said the aide.

The Reagan campaign has drawn up a budget for use of the $29.4 million in federal funds allotted to each presidential candidate. The Reagan budget calls for spending about half the total for advertising, nearly all of it on television.

In the euphoric atmosphere of the closing night of the convention, aides were reluctant to concede any states to the Carter-Mondale ticket, expected to be renominated in New York City next month.

They described Reagan's base as the West and South, and they including the South, with its conservative tradition, despite the fact Carter is a Georgian.

Georgia is the only southern state they were willing to concede to Carter.

Break Not Due In Hot Weather

WASHINGTON (AP) - Government weather experts and crop watchers say there is little chance for a significant break soon in the massive hot-weather system that has baked fields and livestock in much of the nation.

"Widely scattered, localized showers may provide some temporary relief, but there is nothing in current weather patterns to suggest a significant change from present conditions within the next week and a half," the Agriculture Department said Thursday.

Even in areas where drought has not taken hold, the hot weather saps moisture from the soil and puts severe stress on crops and livestock.

Although crop and livestock prices have increased significantly over the last couple of weeks, officials said the dry weather is not the only factor.

"Livestock and poultry prices have responded to declines in slaughter and seasonal increases in demand, as well as some delays in slaughter due to hot weather," officials said. "Crop prices reflect the outlook for continued good demand in 1980-81."

The heat wave continues in the southern Great Plains for the fourth straight week and has expanded into the central Plains, the Corn Belt and the Southeast, the report said, adding: "Crops continue to deteriorate in the Southwest as soil moisture is depleted and stock ponds dry up due to the heat and lack of rain."

But the harvest of winter wheat — which provides about three-fourths of the total U.S. wheat output — is "nearly completed from Texas to Kansas and is progressing well in other states," it said.

"The intense heat is not expected to cause widespread deaths for cattle and hogs, as it has with poultry," the report said. "The heat will slow weight gains for livestock and will impair milk production from dairy animals in the most severely affected areas. The major milk-producing states have not, however, suffered much from high temperatures."

The report also said that: "In Texas, new growth of pastureland is non-existent. The condition of dryland cotton and sorghum, which has advanced to the heading stage, is poor. Irrigation supplies are low. In Arkansas, several million poultry have reportedly died from the heat."

"In the western Corn Belt, crops are showing signs of stress from the heat wave, though soil moisture reserves are generally adequate at present. "Corn and soybean crops have advanced into the critical reproductive stages in the major producing states of Iowa, Illinois and Indiana. Weather over the next two weeks will be critical to the development of crops in the Corn Belt."

"Soybeans are suffering from the heat and dryness in the region stretching from Missouri to Mississippi and Louisiana that normally accounts for about a third of annual production. "Scattered showers have brought some relief to the drought-stricken northern Plains. These rains are, however, too late for substantial recovery of the early-seeded spring grains that have been severely stressed."

between Memphis and Silvertown.

Butcher, a passenger in the vehicle, reported the accident seemed "like a bad dream" to him at the time, but he never awoke from it to have it go away.

"They say today that if you lose parents at a young age that you're eligible for a life of crime, and that society owes it to you to look the other way. I don't see it that way. You get out of life what you make of it," stated Butcher.

According to Butcher, his rural background and a father who believed in discipline and respect went a long way toward preparing him to get along with people, a vital ability in his present job.

"My Dad always made us say "sir" to anyone two years older than ourselves out of respect. He also taught us to look to a person's feelings and help them if we could," he remarked.

Butcher, who graduated from Silvertown High School and attended Amarillo Junior College and West Texas State University began his law enforcement career in Dallas in 1960.

"When I first went to Dallas a gentleman named Foster of the Dallas Police Department who was working security at a store I was working at got to talking to me about law enforcement work, and that's how I got interested," stated Butcher.

Butcher became a member of the Dallas Police Department, working there until 1963 before coming to Silvertown to serve as a deputy for a year.

From there he moved to Tulia where he served as a deputy for two years, and then came to Canyon, working with the police department... there three years prior to his arrival in Hereford. He made a home here with his wife, Betty, and three children.

Butcher prefers the role of a county sheriff's officer to that of a city police officer, having had a chance to play both.

"I think you have to have a greater span of knowledge in sheriff's office work. You're handling criminal, civil and traffic cases through a sheriff's office and to me, that's more complicated than just criminal and traffic cases. There's so much you can be sued over if you're not properly prepared," he related.

Butcher finds the variety of work in a sheriff's office setting to his liking.

Particularly interesting to him are forgery cases.

"I work about 90 percent of all the forgeries in the county. Right now, all 1980 forgeries but one are cleared," he stated proudly.

"I've always been interested in forgery work. It's a crime I'm comfortable in working. I've been to a number of schools on it," Butcher commented.

What's the key to remaining in law enforcement work as far as Butcher's concerned?

"I'd say you've got to be dedicated to serving, especially when you only make the money we make and work the hours we do. When you get to be chief deputy, when that harness comes empty in the sled you gotta fill the hole. Your family suffers for this. You can't ever really plan on things. The possibility of getting your plans messed up is pretty great," he commented.

"I like the satisfaction of being able to help someone, especially when they've tried to get help from other sources and then they come to you and you're able to help them. It's especially rewarding when you can help more unfortunate people," Butcher added.

Butcher's manner of speaking as he goes about his job would be fitting material for a comedy series.

"I've always thought that regardless of the job, you're better off with a happy person working under relaxed conditions than you are with someone working under the pressure of a lot of strict rules," he commented.

"If you can put a little humor into the situation I think people can produce more. The relaxed attitude that results from this helps, and we're real fortunate that Sheriff Travis McPherson favors this relaxed attitude," Butcher continued.

The county's chief deputy never knows a person long before he has that individual tagged with a moniker that either plays on the person's name or his occupation. When attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes copped big press out of the Cullen Davis murder trials, Butcher decided that Assistant County DA Jerry Smith, "a pretty sharp lawyer" in the deputy's estimation, was deserving of the title "Quarterhorse."

Sheriff McPherson is known to Butcher as "Fearless Trapshot" because of a case in which the sheriff had to carry a shotgun to arrest a suspect.

Local photographer Bill Brady is known to Butcher simply as "Snapshot" while DPS trooper Darrel Matthews is "Cockroach."

Sheriff's Reserve member Gerald Parker, a crack pistol shot, was dubbed "Grandson of Quanah" after the Indian leader Quanah Parker.

Hereford surgeon A.T. Mims was promptly dubbed "Attaboy" by Butcher.

Butcher hedges a bit when questioned about his own moniker of "Rabbit," but reports it was hung on him by Don Sanders, a DPS trooper once stationed here, and the name stuck.

The chief deputy doesn't confine his humor to colorful nicknames. He generally has some country fun to inject into any situation.

He described a goat tying run in a recent high school rodeo by stating, "This kid's gotten so good at goat tying on account of she's had her Daddy down on all fours tying him. He looks more like a goat than the goats do."

To Butcher, anyone who puts good effort into his job is "whuppin' and spurrin'" in the vernacular of his ranching background.

What's evident as you watch the county's chief deputy, who'd as soon be called simply "deputy," without the "chief" attached, is that with all his country style he's "whuppin' and spurrin'" with the best of them in county law enforcement.

where he had spent the week fishing and relaxing, for a day of politicking.

As he campaigned, Carter told reporters he thought Reagan and his vice presidential nominee, George Bush, were "a very good ticket." He said he looked forward with confidence to a "hard-fought and thoughtful campaign."

While decrying the tax cut advanced by Reagan — starting with a 10 percent, across-the-board reduction effective Jan. 1 — Carter held out the strong possibility of initiating a 1981 tax cut himself after the election.

He said the GOP tax plan eventually would lower taxes 30 percent, $280 billion over five years.

"The shock of that and all that flood of extra money coming into the economy, I think, would restimulate the inflationary cycle in a devastating way," Carter said.

The president said he believed instead in a "steady course," adding, "probably a tax reduction and other stimulating efforts in 1981 is the best course to follow."

Maintaining that it is difficult to resist cutting taxes this year, Carter said, "It is not easy in an election year because it is easy to promise magic answers from massive cuts...I will not do that until I am sure that the federal government has exercised proper discipline in setting an example for the rest of the nation."

In his debate challenge, Carter told Reagan he hoped "at least three or four debates can be scheduled so that we can thoroughly discuss issues of national concern and of interest to the people of particular sections of our nation."

Later, he told reporters he wanted to debate Reagan first, with additional debates scheduled later to include independent presidential candidate John Anderson and others.

sponsored trip would be to Detroit, Cleveland and Pittsburgh. The chamber would like to send two representatives on the trip, and the manager asked for interested persons to contact the chamber office. Firms interested in helping send a representative are also invited to call the chamber.

Rogers and Carr had attended a Deaf Smith County Commissioners meeting to request a resolution on formation of the County Industrial Development Corporation. It would allow prospective industries to use industrial revenue bonds to build in the Hereford area.

The bonds would also allow local industries to expand, explained Rogers. Commissioners approved the resolution and appointed a board of directors.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN

Bob and Brenda Campbell were in Hawaii Wednesday, their sixth wedding anniversary, so she probably had all the fresh pineapple she wanted to eat but it wasn't the West Texas-grown fruit she had planned for. That wasn't ready to eat.

The pineapple story began on the Campbell's trip to Hawaii on their first anniversary. They brought back some pineapples, as travelers to the islands are wont to do, and gave them to various relatives.

Several of the recipients planted the pineapple tops to grow house plants--and they do make attractive ones. Bob's mother, Robert Campbell, planted a couple and they took root and flourished for a time, but both finally died.

Roberta's cousin at Silverton gave her the plant she had been cultivating and under Roberta's care it began growing a little pineapple this summer. That seems to be quite rare, unless the plant is kept under controlled greenhouse conditions.

At first it was so tiny it could hardly be identified as a pineapple, but it has grown to the size of a teacup, a perfectly shaped pineapple.

Roberta was surprised when it bloomed--small purple flowers, one on the tip of each scale, or whatever you call the points on the pineapple skin.

Brenda had claimed first right to the fruit and hoped it would be ready to eat on her anniversary, but she will have to wait a while. Meantime it is a perfect conversation piece for Roberta's living room.

In the DSC museum the other day I ran into Jane and Judge Wes Gulley and their son Cameron, showing a visitor through the "Deaf Smithsonian." The guest is the judge's aunt, Shirley Haygood of El Paso, who is spending this week here.

Mrs. Haygood is something of a western history buff, and a collector of Indian artifacts, so the Gulleys are taking her not only to our museum, but the one on WTSU campus, to Boys Ranch and the Alibates National Monument up at Lake Meredith so she can see where some of the arrow points in her collection were made a few centuries ago.

When I left the museum Cameron was escorting her to his favorite spot in the museum, the Santa Fe caboose.

The Carl Perrins' niece, the former Carolyn Kirby of Hereford, her husband, Dr. Bob Eisenstein, and their sons, Dan, and Bill, of Pittsburgh stopped for a short visit recently on their way to Los Alamos, N.M.

Karolyn (she is Dr. Eisenstein now, and Bob also has that title) is assistant dean of the school of science at Carnegie-Mellon University and Bob is a professor of nuclear physics. He will be working in that field at Los Alamos for a month, and the Perrins plan to go over for a visit in the New Mexico city while the family is there.

Karolyn's parents are former residents Jim and Sally Kirby, who are now in Quebec, on a leg of a year-long period of traveling.

Ten-year-old cousins, Wheeler Moore Sears Jr. of Dallas and Christopher Cox of Houston, will be guests of their grandmother, Ruby Kendrick Sears, and uncle, Jim Sears for a while. Christopher was to fly from Houston to Dallas to join Wheeler for the flight to Amarillo.

Their parents are former Hereford residents. Christopher's mother is Helen Sears Cox of Houston.

There was a little shop talk about the Brand newsroom when I met Diane Banner Clevenger downtown Wednesday, as she and I both put in quite a bit of time on the society desk there a while back.

She and Mike with five-month-old Michael Paul live at Lubbock now, and are visiting the Clevengers and her parents, the Gerald Banners.

The woman in his family say Jigger Rowland sort of likes to rub it in whenever one of them commits a blooper, so his mother, Opal Rowland, can't be blamed when she gleefully reports one of his little mistakes.

His wife, Dolores, reminded Jigger to keep her house plants watered when she took their daughter Phylecia back to school at Fashion Art College in Dallas recently, then went on to visit her parents in Henderson.

He told Opal during Dolores' absence that he had just watered all the plants, "and she has so many; they're all over the house" and that they looked very healthy. When Dolores came back she found he had watered them all well, including her prized silk flower arrangements.

Be a Friend, Have a Friend Getting Ready For The Soiree

By JOAN DWYER

This year we decided to participate in the Big Brothers-Big Sisters Art Soiree. It's all very exciting and I don't want to miss a thing. Due to the excitement it seems we donated at home and at the office. One invitation had to go, or as my husband explained, "MY Christmas was coming a little early this year." Thanks to eager friends who reimbursed us for our extra ticket life will continue at our house and Christmas is back on schedule.

The time is passing quickly and I have so much to do. The art that has been donated by professional artists as door prizes is on display at The Funny Farm, the First National Bank, and the Hereford State Bank and I've been spending a little time there looking and dreaming. They're all so beautiful and its fun to plan where I might hang each one. My husband also finds it interesting that I know all the friendly bank personnel by name.

My special dress for the gala evening was a big decision. I have only one you see, or as my husband exclaimed in total surprise, "I knew things would work out, you usually don't have a thing." "Besides, that dress looks lovely even with the Chiquita banana sticker on your forehead."

I'm looking forward to our gala evening the Art Soiree will provide. We'll enjoy a fine meal, get to meet and visit with the artists and feel good to know that our donation will also help a small child in our community through the Big Brothers-Big Sisters Program. And just in case, I have a nail and hammer by the door.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You must enjoy writing definitions of maturity. Since I have been reading your column you have come up with at least four. Actually, the most comprehensive definition appeared in your encyclopedia, but the opening paragraph of the first definition which I read in 1956 hit so close to home I was sure it was written especially for me.

I realize I have a lot of nerve to ask this, but will you print that first paragraph of the first definition, which I am enclosing, and the last definition in its entirety? I'll sign this--Gutsy Gordie

DEAR GORDY: Sure I will. Why not? I had forgotten about that first definition and enjoyed seeing it again. It wasn't bad for a beginner.

MATURITY
Maturity is the ability to do a job whether you are supervised or not; finish a job once it is started; carry money without spending it, and be able to bear an injustice without wanting to get even.

Maturity is the ability to control anger and settle differences without violence.

Maturity is perseverance, the ability to sweat out a project or a situation in spite of heavy opposition and discouraging setbacks.

Maturity is the capacity to face unpleasantness and frustration, discomfort and defeat without complaint or collapse.

Maturity is humility. It is being big enough to say, "I was wrong." And, when right, the mature person need not experience the satisfaction of saying, "I told you so."

Maturity is the ability to make a decision and stand by it. The immature spend their lives exploring endless possibilities; then they do nothing.

Ann Landers

Definition Of Maturity

Maturity means dependability, keeping one's word, coming through in a crisis. The immature are masters of the alibi. They are confused and disorganized. Their lives are a maze of broken promises, former friends, unfinished business and good intentions that somehow never materialized.

Maturity is the art of living in peace with that which we cannot change, the courage to change that which can be changed and the wisdom to know the difference.--Ann Landers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing for all the tired moms who were "mean" to their children and prayed for forgiveness. I say to them, "You have the upper hand now. Keep it."

Be thankful you are a parent and not a pal. Be thankful your children may grow up too scared to go to someone's house and steal cigarettes and money; too scared to start on pot and drugs at the age of 11, too scared to be sexually active at age 12, too scared to skip school and bring home bad grades, too scared to go in for foul language and a sassy mouth.

I, too, am a tired mom because I was scared of my children. They got the upper hand and I never got it back. May God forgive me.--Virginia Pilot Fan

DEAR FAN: There is, of course, a middle ground, and it's often hard to find. But if a parent must err, I say it's better to be too strict than too permissive.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged by Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Texas Briefs

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A selection committee seeking a successor to the Rev. Jimmy Allen as pastor of the First Baptist Church has recommended that the Rev. Franklin D. Pollard, a well known preacher from Jackson, Miss., be given the job.

Pollard, one of Time magazine's "seven star preachers," has been invited to preach at morning and evening Sunday services at the downtown church before the congregation votes on his acceptance.

Allen, former head of the Southern Baptist Convention, resigned the pastorate of the 9,000-member church last January to become president of the denomination's Radio and Television Commission at Fort Worth.

JOURDANTON, Texas (AP) — A Pleasanton man has been charged with embezzling more than $10,000 in connection with the construction of the San Miguel lignite and coal electric generating plant being built in south Atascosa County. James R. Park released $50,000 bond and was released Wednesday after he was arrested at his home by Sheriff Tommy Williams and a Texas Ranger.

Williams said an investigation was continuing into alleged theft of funds at the new plant and that an Atascosa County grand jury would begin probing the situation next Monday.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The current drought is causing more wild animals to enter the city limits looking for food and water, according to an official of the Texas Rodent and Predatory Animal Control Service.

Bill Clay said an opossum that had to be retrieved from the steps of city hall this week was just one of numerous opossums, raccoons, armadillos and skunks that may be visiting the city as their natural food and water supplies diminish.

Clay Wednesday detailed the services his agency provides in helping the public with wild animal problems. "Whenever you have wild animals in the city, it will conflict with man's interests," he said.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — South Texas cattle are being rushed to market early this year because of the draught, a survey showed. "The numbers are increasing every week because of the dry weather," said Roy Wheeler of the Atascosa Livestock Exchange. "What we're doing now is selling cattle that should be sold in September and October. They (ranchers) can't afford to keep them."

At Beeville, R.E. Handy of the Bee County Livestock Market said sales were up at least a third and similar increases were noted at other South Texas markets.

"If we don't get any rain, people are going to have to cut down their herds and sell their calves," said Karnes County agriculture agent Charles Pfluger. "And the farther south you go, the worse it gets."

Both grazing and hay supplies were reported bleak in the region. Cattle were being sold because supplemental feeding is very expensive when hay has doubled in price to $2.50 a bale, according to Atascosa County extension agent Hollis Duke.

HOUSTON (AP) — An off-duty police officer working as a security guard at a housing development died early Thursday after being shot with his own gun during a scuffle with a real estate salesman, police said.

G.A. Jensen, 30, a Galena Park police officer working his first night as a security guard at a housing development in east Harris County, died about 1 a.m. Thursday of gunshot wounds to the leg and chest, according to police.

The real estate salesman who had apparently gone to the housing development to show a prospective client some property, was in stable condition Thursday afternoon in a Houston hospital with a gunshot wound to the leg.

Police said the salesman and his client arrived at the subdivision and were asked for identification by Jensen. A scuffle followed and Jensen was apparently shot with his own gun, police said. An investigation into the shooting is continuing.

HOUSTON (AP) — The former police chief of Taylor Lake filed suit Thursday in state district court, asking for $250,000 in damages from the town because he claims he was fired illegally.

Allan G. Cleveland, dismissed in May from his job in the southeast Harris County town, claims the mayor of Taylor Lake "and others" conspired to dismiss him without cause and failed to follow city charter provisions.

Cleveland contends that because of the dismissal, he has lost wages and benefits and suffered "slander and ridicule."

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who pleaded guilty to charges he shot his wife to death in front of their two small children was sentenced Thursday to 20 years in prison.

Joseph Clebert Robicheaux, 44, had pleaded guilty to a charge of murder in connection with the death of Elaine Gordon Robicheaux, 30, and was sentenced by state District Judge I.D. McMaster.

Robicheaux reportedly took his 12-year-old son and 9-year-old daughter from school and confronted his wife last Nov. 20 in their home after the victim told him she was leaving him.

Prosecutors said the woman told her husband she would rather die than stay with him and that he shot her five times in the head while the children watched.

Police said Robicheaux later called them to inform them of the shooting. AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Heat is killing white-tailed deer and other game animals in Texas, the State Parks and Wildlife Department reported Thursday. Biologists report deer losses in Dimmit, Kinney, LaSalle, Maverick and Zavala Counties.

Other counties from the Trans-Pecos to Brownsville could face deer losses if there is no rain soon, the department said.

Biologist Jerry Cooke of Pearsall said Kinney County this fall might have half the deer it did in 1979.

"Texas historically experiences a severe drought about every 20 years," said Cooke. "We had one in the 1930s and one in the 1950s. We got through the 1970s without one, but it looks like it has finally arrived." Quail in the region also are suffering. "Normally during July we see plenty of quail with chicks," said Cooke. "This month the birds already have gathered into coveys and we're not seeing many young quail."

Sam Brownlee, a biologist in Alpine, predicted mule deer and antelope losses.

Names Are Personal Labels Effecting Personal Esteem

COLLEGE STATION — What's in a name?

"Everything," says Dorothy Taylor, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

"A name is a person's label, and hopefully it gives an insight of what is inside," she explains.

People who are happy with their names usually approve of the kind of person they are, personality studies indicate.

In addition, people who dislike their names tend to be dissatisfied with themselves or have low self-esteem.

The U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., was founded in 1802.

Eureka, the state motto of California means "I have found it."

Men particularly prefer common names, while women show a preference for distinctive, uncommon names that have a pleasing sound.

Women also prefer names that indicate they are someone special, the specialist continues.

"Parents tend to name children after relatives. This practice is more common for boys than for girls."

"Often, extremely unusual names are inherited in this manner," Ms. Taylor points out.

Children and their social acceptance are often related to their label or name. Popular children are usually the ones with popular names.

Children with bizarre and unusual names are often regarded as different, strange or peculiar, she adds.

Many adults find it difficult to call in-laws by name.

"It's not that they don't like to acknowledge in-laws as human beings—it's just easier to evade the issue by not calling them anything," Ms. Taylor contends.

"A name is a name is a name—a person by any other label probably would not be the same."

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, July 18, the 200th day of 1980. There are 166 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On July 18, 1969, Sen. Edward Kennedy's car lurched off a road into a tidal pool on Chappaquiddick Island, Mass. Mary Jo Kopechne died in the accident.

On this date:
In 64, the Great Fire of Rome began — the fire during which, it is said, Nero played his fiddle.

In 1938, pilot Douglas Corrigan arrived in Ireland after leaving New York with the announced intention of flying to California. The flight earned him the nickname "Wrong-Way" Corrigan.

In 1944, during World War

II, the Japanese General Tojo quit.

In 1972, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat ordered the Soviet Union to pull out its military advisers.

Ten years ago, Britain's Prince Charles ended an American visit with a ZPITE House dinner.

Five years ago, Portuguese authorities, afraid of a coup attempt, put security forces on alert.

Last year, in a self-declared turning point in his administration, President Carter asked his 34 top aides to resign.

The Newspaper Bible

HAVE YOU MET THE GREAT HIGH PRIEST?

THE Jewish high priest is merely a man like anyone else, but he is chosen to speak for all other men in their dealings with God. He presents their gifts to God and offers to Him the blood of animals that are sacrificed to cover the sins of the people and his own sins too. And because he is a man he can deal gently with other men, though they are foolish and ignorant, for he, too, is surrounded with the same temptations and understands their problems very well.

Another thing to remember is that no one can be a high priest just because he wants to be. He has to be called by God for this work in the same way God chose Aaron.

That is why Christ did not elect Himself to the honor of being High Priest; no, He was chosen by God. God said to Him, "My Son, today I have honored You."

And another time God said to Him, "You have been chosen to be a priest forever, with the same rank as Melchizedek."

Yet while Christ was here on earth He pleaded with God, praying with tears and agony of soul to the only one who would save Him from premature death. And God heard His prayers because of His strong desire to obey God at all times.

And even though Jesus was God's Son, He had to learn from experience what it was like to obey, when obeying meant suffering.

It was after He had proved Himself perfect in his experience that Jesus became the Giver of eternal salvation to all those who obey Him.

For remember that God had chosen Him to be a High Priest with the same rank as Melchizedek.

There is much more I would like to say along these lines, but you don't seem to listen, so it's hard to make you understand.

Reunion Planned On Sunday

The 21st annual reunion for residents of the Old Progressive Community will be held Sunday at the Community Center.

The center will be opened at 10:30 a.m. and persons attending are asked to bring basket dinners. Cold and hot beverages, napkins, paper plates, and silverware will be furnished.

All former and present residents are invited to attend.

HHS Class To Hold Reunion

The reunion of the Hereford High School Class of 1940 will be held Saturday at the Community Center.

The reception will begin at 2 that afternoon and last until 5 p.m. followed by a dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Special guest for the event will be HHS 1940 principal, G.M. Hudson.

The dinner is open to the public, but reservations need to be made in advance by calling Mayor Bartley Dowell.

Swimming Party Scheduled For Scouts, Webelos

A swimming party will be held Monday night from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the city pool for all current cub scouts and webelos members.

Refreshments will be served, and older scouts with safety badges will act as lifeguards.

The event, sponsored by the Scout Council in Hereford, will count as one of three summertime activities to be provided for the boys.

Orioles Take 3rd Win Over Brewers

By HERSCHEL NISSEN
AP Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles were hoping the return of pitcher Dennis Martinez would help provide a pennant race in the American League East. Now that he's back, they're doing their best to see that there is no semblance of a race.

Martinez, making his first start since May 8 after being sidelined with a sore shoulder, allowed just five hits in 82-3 innings Thursday as the Orioles made it three in a row over the second-place Milwaukee Brewers with a 1-0 triumph.

Coupled with New York's 10-3 thrashing of the Minnesota Twins, it dropped the Brewers 9 1/2 games off the pace, giving the Yankees their largest bulge of the season. The Orioles, 10 games out, slipped past Detroit into third place when the Tigers were beaten by the Oakland A's 5-2.

Elsewhere, the Boston Red Sox hammered the Kansas City Royals 12-4, the Texas Rangers edged the Chicago White Sox 3-2, the Cleveland Indians defeated the California Angels 5-3 and the Seattle Mariners downed the Toronto Blue Jays 5-3.

The Orioles managed only two hits off Milwaukee's Bill inching home run, his seventh of the season.

Meanwhile, Martinez retired the first 12 Milwaukee batters before Gorman Thomas led off the fifth with a double. He then retired the next seven hitters before Cecil Cooper and Thomas singled with one out in the seventh. He eventually needed last-out help from unrelated Tippy Martinez.

Yankees 10, Twins 3
Tommy John scattered eight hits while Reggie Jackson and Ruppert Jones homered as the Yankees won for the 23rd time in the last 31 games. John, 14-3, tied Baltimore's Steve Stone for the league lead in victories and Jackson took over the major league home run with 24.

New York jumped on Geoff Zahn for four runs with two out in the second inning on a

All 7th thru 12th grade boys and girls who plan to be in the athletic program for the 1980-81 school year need to begin to take physical exams. These exams are required before participation can be allowed.

Three Players Steal 5 Bases In Win Rangers Cap 3-2 Victory Over Chicago

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Pat Corrales said the fact that Chicago's young Rick Seilheimer was catching his seventh major-league game had nothing to do with the Texas Rangers' running at every opportunity Thursday night.

"We've got guys who can steal on anybody," the Texas manager said after three of his players stole five bases in a 3-2 victory over the White Sox.

"It didn't matter who was catching?" someone asked him.

"Well," he said with a grin, "you've got to run to find out if the kid can throw. He does have a good arm, but he's a young kid and can get excited."

Bump Wills' steal of second with two out in the ninth inning was crucial to the victory. The White Sox walked the league's leading hitter, Buddy Bell, intentionally and brought in the league's top reliever, Ed Farmer, to pitch to Richie Zisk.

Zisk singled into center field, scoring Wills from second with the winning run. Danny Darwin, 7-1, who came in for starter Gaylord Perry in the top of the ninth, was the winner over Mike Proly, 1-4, who replaced Chicago starter Ross Baumgarten in the sixth.

Wills and Billy Sample stole two bases each for Texas and Mickey Rivers got one. On the other hand, Chicago runners were thrown out twice. Bob Molinaro got his team's first hit but was out trying to steal second in the fourth inning. Mike Squires doubled off Perry in the ninth, which resulted in Darwin's being summoned from the bullpen. But catcher Dave Roberts' one-hop throw nailed Squires on his attempt to steal third and set up a sacrifice fly.

Chicago manager Tony LaRussa argued heatedly about the call at third. Moments later, with the game still tied 2-2 in the bottom of the ninth, he told Proly to walk Bell.

"I wanted Farmer to pitch to Zisk. I know both of them (Bell and Zisk) have been hot but after I saw the way Bell had been hitting, that was the way I wanted it," LaRussa said.

Bell singled in the tying run for Texas in the seventh, running his hitting streak to 21 games since recovering from a pulled rib muscle and coming off the disabled list last month.

That came after Rivers had singled, stolen second and moved to third on Wills' sacrifice.

A double by Rusty Staub, a single by Sample and Al Oliver's sacrifice fly in the sixth scored Texas' first run. Chicago scored in the sixth on an infield hit by Seilheimer, a double by Todd Cruz and a sacrifice fly by Molinaro. Harold Baines led off the seventh with his sixth homer of the year for the White Sox.

Zisk said it made sense for the Sox to walk Bell to get to him, "but if I can continue to produce in RBI situations like I have been lately, they won't be able to pitch around him like that."

Zisk added, "I had two other chances to drive in runs in the game and didn't do it, so maybe the third time was the charm."

WT Tennis Coach Offers Net Program

CANYON (Special)—Todd Reed, head tennis coach at West Texas State University, is continuing his summer tennis camp program at WT with the second session beginning July 27 and concluding August 2. The third session runs from August 3 through August 9. With limited enrollment, Reed would like to urge all those interested to contact him at his home, (806) 655-3086.

"Anyone interested in tennis, who wants to work hard, learn the fundamentals of tennis, and have fun at the same time should attend this camp. It's the 11th year of the camp and we have made it bigger and better," said Reed, who is beginning his third season as head mentor. Co-directing the camp with Reed is former National High School Coach of the Year, Jim Reed from Winfield, Kansas. This tennis enthusiast has been President of the Winfield Tennis Association since 1958 and has written articles for the magazine, "The Coaching Clinic." He has one year of co-directing the West Texas Tennis Camp under his belt.

The camp features individual attention with campers and coaches concentrating on strategy, drills, and training methods. The directors will be assisted in their instruction by leading collegiate players and coaches of the Southwest.

West Texas Basketball Camp Is Scheduled

CANYON (Special) -- The second annual Ken Edwards West Texas State University basketball camp is in the final planning stages. Edwards, head basketball coach at WT, will be offering two summer camp sessions. The girls session will run from July 28 to August 2, followed by the boys session, August 4 through August 9.

To be eligible the girls must be 10 years or older and the boys, eight years or older.

The staff will consist of Edwards, WT assistant coach Mose Adolph, and local high school coaches.

"We want to provide every youngster with the opportunity to develop his or her individual skills and team play," said Edwards. "Our staff will devote their time toward the camper to develop sportsmanship, leadership, and personal pride, with professional instruction in all areas of the game."

Emphasis will be placed on shooting, ballhandling, rebounding, passing, team offense, individual defense, and team defense.

For an application or more information contact the basketball office at WT, (806) 656-3707.

Tickets Available For Plainview's High School Girl's All-Star Clash

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (Special)—Tickets for the 11th annual Texas-Oklahoma High School Girls All-Star Game, set for July 26 in Plainview, are now on sale at three locations.

The game, matching some of the top basketball talent to come out of the Sooner and Lone Star States in 1980, is slated for an 8 p.m. tipoff in Hutcherson Physical Education Center on the campus of Wayland Baptist College. Tickets are priced at $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students, and are available at the Plainview Chamber of Commerce, 710 W. 5th, Cleveland Athletics, 513 Broadway, and the Wayland Athletic Department in Hutcherson Center.

The Texas squad will be out to avenge a lopsided 100-69 Oklahoma romp in last year's game, held in Lindsay, Okla. The all-star tilt alternates between Plainview and Lindsay each year.

In that contest, former Canyon star Nancy Walling fired in 24 points to lead all scorers, while Terri Henry of Hale Center, now a member of Wayland's Hutcherson Flying Queens, had 20 points. However, all six Oklahoma forwards scored in double figures as the Sooner team rolled to the victory.

Oklahoma leads the overall series by a 7-3 margin and has won three of the last four meetings between the teams, Texas' only victory in four tries coming via a 66-57 margin in 1978 in Plainview.

The game will be played under Oklahoma rules, with four 10-minute quarters and each team fielding six players (three guards and three forwards).

Cathy Wilson, beginning her second year as coach of Wayland's Flying Queens after an outstanding high school coaching career, will guide the Texas team in the contest. The Lone Star roster will include all three of Wilson's recruits for 1980-81—Darla Armes of Gruver, Susan Creel of Duncannon and Betty Brown of Pleasanton. The remainder of the Texas team will be named later this week at the Texas High School Girls Coaches Association meeting in San Antonio.

The Oklahoma team and coaches will also be named later.

Ali, Holmes Decide On Tentative Bout

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For the boxing community, it was a case of deja vu.

If you get the feeling that you've been through this scene before, well, that's because you have. A couple of times, in fact.

Taiwan ... Rio de Janeiro ... Cairo. At various times the Holmes-Ali confrontation has been reported on its way to each of those exotic places. But it wound up in a familiar setting — Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, which has hosted nine of Holmes' last 11 bouts.

The date is Oct. 2 for the record $14 million closed circuit promotion and this time the details — including a reported $8 million for Ali and $6 million for Holmes — are in place. So is a $1 million down payment check delivered by Caesars Palace at Thursday's signing ceremony.

The date and the site had changed but the rest of the routine was familiar. King called the fight "an epic," and "mind-boggling." Holmes recited a brief poem, borrowed from Ali's repertoire. Ali recited a longer one and goaded Holmes, just to show he could make the champion lose his cool.

"I cannot lose," murmured Ali in a stage whisper loud enough to be heard all over the swank St. Moritz hotel, where the fight crowd gathered for the announcement.

"It will be a nuclear explosion," promised King. "It will be a war," interjected Ali. "Knock out Holmes!" he said. "I'm going to knock out Holmes."

It was as if the former champion, now 38 and away from the ring for two years, was trying to convince himself and the audience that he could recapture the magic.

Holmes, of course, did not buy that. Neither did his manager, Richie Giachetti, or, for that matter, King. "This is 1980," began Holmes. "We are not living in the past. He used to be good, but he's shaking hands with Father Time."

Now it was Giachetti's turn. "When Larry looks over to me in his corner for the thumbs up or thumbs down sign, it'll be thumbs up for him, and thumbs down for Ali because he will fall in Caesars Palace," the manager said.

King was next. "I love you Ali," he said, "but you're like Napoleon. You have met your Waterloo."

On and on, they went like that, presenting the repartee that is so much a part of the boxing scene, especially when Ali is involved. Holmes didn't enjoy it and left as soon as he could, only to wind up wrestling briefly with Ali in front of the dais. It was an obligatory confrontation and somehow, wrestling seemed entirely appropriate.

United States Absence Is Felt At Olympic Games

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — Even in absentia, the United States has had a very real presence at the Moscow Games. The U.S. impact is felt by the athletes who sympathize with their missing fellow sportsmen and wonder how the Summer Olympics will be with the boycott — and would have been without it.

lot easier for others to win medals." And the American influence is strongly felt outside the sports arena, in the political dispute over raising the U.S. flag and playing the "Star Spangled Banner" at the closing ceremony Aug. 3. On Thursday, the White House demanded that the International Olympic Committee refrain from its unauthorized use of the American flag and anthem, calling such an action inappropriate since the United States had chosen to boycott the Games in response to the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. The protest came in the form of a letter from Lloyd N. Cutler, counsel to President Carter. "The United States objects to any use of its national flag and anthem at the Games in Moscow, including the closing ceremony," said the letter which was carried to the IOC by Wallace W. Littell, the U.S. Embassy's counselor for press and cultural affairs. Monique Berlioux, the IOC's executive director, acknowledged receipt of the letter and said: "We are studying it." When asked if it would cause a change in IOC policy, Berlioux offered a stiff: "No." IOC tradition dictates that the symbolic linking of one Games to the next be demonstrated by raising the flag and playing the anthem of the host nation four years hence. The 1984 Summer Olympics are scheduled for Los Angeles. "This is our protocol and this is what we're going to do," Berlioux said prior to receiving Cutler's message Thursday. It would be a terrible irony for the U.S. Government if the Moscow Olympics, which the Carter Administration so desperately wanted to destroy, ends Aug. 3 with the flying of the red, white and blue while "Oh, say can you see..." strikes up in the background.

Saturday's opening ceremony. Mercado's government supported the Carter boycott and withheld all funds from Olympic athletes, but the boxer received financial aid from Olympic Solidarity, an IOC faction that aids international amateur sport. Besides the United States, the governments of Canada, West Germany, Japan and Norway, among the major nations, were able to persuade their Olympic committees to support the boycott. Some pro-boycott governments, like Australia and Great Britain, couldn't keep their teams home. The pressure on the athletes who were bucking their governments was intense, and that divisiveness is mirrored by the mixed feeling towards the boycott here.

Australian backstroker said. "When our federation decided to go, that was the clincher. I was given money by the federation to help me keep swimming. (Prime Minister) Fraser never gave us any money." Par Arvidsson, the favored butterfly swimmer from Sweden and the University of California, said he would have been proud to support the boycott if his country had chosen to stay home. "If I were an American, I would have gone along with the boycott, no question." Arvidsson, world record holder in the 100-meter butterfly, said he felt sorry for the American swimmers and touched upon their continual impact here. "The Olympics are the Olympics," he said. "Of course, the Americans have dominated swimming, and their absence takes something away from the Olympics." "It definitely left a hole in the competition," said Snode. "They would have won so many medals. The swimming competition is going to be lacking without them and the Canadians." "Swimming is a one-time peak; they don't go on after 21 or 22, so they've really lost their lifetime dreams."

Diablos Land 6-1 Win Over Captains

By The Associated Press
The New York Yankees once had the "M and M Boys" combination of home run sluggers, Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris. The El Paso Diablos of the Texas League have the "B and B Boys" combination, Mike Bishop and Tom Brunansky.

The first inning helped the Tulsa Drillers take a 4-2 victory over the Amarillo Gold Sox. Chuck Lamson, 6-5, was the winning pitcher. Fran Hirschy, 5-5, was the loser. Mike Marshall came home with the winning run on a wild pitch in the fourth inning as the San Antonio Dodgers edged the Arkansas Travelers, 2-1.

Stabler Not Disgruntled Over Press Arguments

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Houston Oiler quarterback Kenny Stabler says disagreements with the media two years ago while he was at Oakland haven't turned him against the press. "I've never been soured on the press in general," Stabler said Thursday at the Oiler's training camp where he visited with former Oakland kicker Earl Mann, who stopped by as he was passing through. Stabler said he had problems with "a few different members because they dug up garbage about things that didn't have anything to do with what happened on the football field." Oiler coach Bum Phillips shortened Thursday afternoon's practice session by half an hour because of the 100-degree heat and a limited number of running backs. Only four healthy backs remained in camp Thursday after the second day of drills for rookies and free agents. Thomas Barnes of Southwest Texas State injured a knee and Tim Lappano of Idaho left camp for personal reasons. Phillips said he also gave the players the night off Thursday because "they're gonna be sore and some will be discouraged. We wanted to give them a break and try to keep them fresh." Richard Moore, a defensive back-wide receiver from Angelo State University, was added to the Oiler roster Thursday.

Proof of the pervasive "presence" of the invisible American giant is that some of the focus here has shifted to the closing ceremony when the opening ceremony is still one day away. In preparation for Saturday's traditional Olympic pageant, the Olympic flame was to arrive here today at Sovietskaya Square for public viewing at City Hall. The boxing draw was also scheduled for today. Alberto Mercado of Puerto Rico was expected to be entered in the 112-pound class, and there was speculation that two of his countrymen, who came here to help him train, would also be nominated to fight. Luiz Pizzaro and Jose Molina said Thursday they would abide by the decision of Libertario Perez, the head of the Puerto Rican delegation, who arrives here Friday night.

Some of Kerry's teammates opted to boycott. "My conscience is clear," the

Jones Leads Dallas Rookies In Scrimmage

IRVINE, Calif. (AP) — Dallas running back James Jones snared 10 passes, but San Diego defenders grabbed nine during a non-contact scrimmage Thursday between a contingent of Dallas Cowboy rookies and a group of San Diego newcomers. Jones, a rookie out of Mississippi State and the second player picked by Cowboys in last spring's draft, was the leading receiver for Dallas in the scrimmage that involved only pass defenders, receivers and quarterbacks. Mike Hagen, a free agent from Cal Lutheran, caught eight passes for Dallas.

Gary Hogeboom, a fifth-round pick out of Central Michigan, completed 20 of 31 passes, but had five picked off. Free agent Mike Mancuso of Nebraska-Omaha hit 18 of 29 with two interceptions and free agent Doug Woodward of Pace hit on 18 of 30 with two interceptions. Rolond Solomon, a free-agent cornerback from Utah, got the Cowboys' lone interception of the day. Free agent Mike Vaughn, a wide receiver from Southern, suffered a mild concussion in Thousand Oaks, Calif., Thursday where the remainder of the Cowboy rookies worked out.

Bishop hit his 22nd homer of the year with a teammate on base in the sixth inning and Brunansky hit his 17th homer of the season, also with a Diablos on base, in the seventh inning. Bishop leads the Texas League in home runs this season. Steve Brown, 10-8, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Mike Glinatsis, 2-7. Mel Barrow's solo homer in Brian Holten, 10-8, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Bill Thomas. Brian Giles tripled home Mike Howard in the first inning with the only run the Jackson Mets needed to take a 7-0 victory over the Midland Cubs. Tim Leary, 11-5, was the winning pitcher. Henry Mack, 3-9, was charged with the loss.

Phillips said he also gave the players the night off Thursday because "they're gonna be sore and some will be discouraged. We wanted to give them a break and try to keep them fresh." Richard Moore, a defensive back-wide receiver from Angelo State University, was added to the Oiler roster Thursday.

Kerry Competes In Games Despite Boycott

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
MOSCOW (AP) — Australia's handsome Mark Kerry should pick up a medal or two, possibly a gold, in the Moscow Olympics unless he suffers ill effects from all the arm-twisting he's undergone. "I've had a lot of it, both from my own government and the United States," says the 20-year-old backstroke swimming specialist as he prepares for next week's events in the Olympic Pool. "My conscience is clear. I have spent most of my life preparing for this day and I have no feeling of disloyalty at all over what I am doing. "When I was pressured not to compete, I told them that if they would quit selling wool and wheat to the Soviet Union I would gladly go along. I see no reason that the athletes should be made to suffer while business goes on as usual. "That's a double standard." Kerry is a fully Americanized Australian. Born and reared in the town of Woolongong, a seaside resort south of Sydney, he received a college swimming scholarship from Indiana University at age 17, spent two years there at the knee of the great Dr. James Counsilman and then headed west. "I had been active in stage work in high school and college," he said. "I decided that if I wanted to be an actor, I should go where the action was. After deliberating between New York and Hollywood, I chose Hollywood." Kerry took up residence in Los Angeles in May, 1979, got a modeling job and started making periodic checks of the movie studios while continuing his intensive training routine. "I don't have an acting agent yet," he said. "I've been spending a lot of time in training and I had this Olympic trip on my mind. If I got a call, I didn't want to have to say, 'Sorry, you will have to wait until after Moscow.'"

Although he hasn't resumed his undergraduate studies, Kerry has been working out with the Southern California team. With no big John Naber to contend with, the rangy Australian is co-favorite with the USSR's Viktor Kuznetsov in the 100-meter backstroke and with Hungary's Sandor Wladar in the 200. His best time in the 100 this year is 57.43 seconds, just back of Kuznetsov's :57.36. He has been timed in 2:04.34 in the 200, second only to Wladar among Olympic competitors. At Montreal in 1976, at age 16, Mark finished fifth in the 200 backstroke and seventh in the 100. "I wasn't ready," he said. "It was just poor little me against 6-foot-6 John Naber." Kerry is 6 feet, 2 inches tall, slender with blue eyes and a shock of blond hair that fits all Hollywood specifications. Kerry said prior to coming to Moscow he received telephone calls from the U.S. State Department, as many as twice a day, urging him not to compete in the Olympics. "They were very insistent," he added. "They even read headlines from Australian papers telling how badly the Russians were treating the Afghans."

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Insomnia and drugs

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm writing about my mother-in-law who is 78. She's had a sleeping problem for the last 20 years. Lately she has started taking Meprobamate, 500 mg nightly. This worked for a time and then it had to be increased. Now she's taking more than three a night and sleeps maybe two hours and then she's awake for four hours. The medication doesn't seem to help anymore. She's tried to stop taking the medicine but she gets sick without it. Her doctor says she has some high blood pressure and a little emphysema along with other ailments that people have as they get older. We're most concerned about her condition and would appreciate any suggestions you can offer.

DEAR READER - Your letter is an excellent testimony to the fact that sleeping pills, even those prescribed by physicians, often lose their ability to induce sleep in a matter of weeks. The usual pattern is as you've described - to increase the dosage. And those sleeping pills that are tranquilizers or include phenobarbital can be habit forming or cause drug dependency. That's certainly true with Meprobamate, which is also known as Equanil and Milton. Now you've got two problems. Your mother-in-law's dependency on Meprobamate and her insomnia.

Anyone who has been taking relatively large amounts of Meprobamate for an appreciable length of time will need to be gradually withdrawn from the medicine if they're going to stop it. The withdrawal should occur over a one to two-week period of time. The dose should gradually be reduced until it can be discontinued without causing side effects from stopping the medicine.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 10-6, Sleep and Insomnia. It will give you a better appreciation of the problem and what might be done for your mother-in-law. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I've included information on what you can do to help induce sleep in the Health Letter I'm sending you. Your mother-in-law might do better temporarily by using one of the antihistamines such as Benadryl. This can gradually be started as the Meprobamate is discontinued. Hopefully, she will be able to get off all medicines and sleep naturally.

Insomnia is sometimes a symptom of an underlying depression and depressions are fairly common in older people. Unfortunately, they sometimes go unrecognized because they don't present the symptoms of a complete withdrawal from social contacts or a masklike face and copious weeping that many people associate with depression.

A person can have a depression and appear to be the untrained observer to be relatively normal. It's only when one looks at other symptoms, such as insomnia or fatigue, and understands what's really causing them that the presence of the underlying depression becomes recognized.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband was found to have protein in his urine. The doctors said, "The function of the kidneys seems to be decreased and the amount of protein spilled in the urine is abnormally high." They plan to do a kidney biopsy where a needle is stuck through the skin and into the kidney.

We are not doubting our doctor but we were wondering what your diagnosis would be. My husband is a farmer and does not smoke. He has asthma and did have ulcerative colitis. He has no swelling of his feet and ankles. The doctor has been watching for that and told him to cut down on salt.

DEAR READER - There are quite a few causes for protein in the urine. Sometimes a reasonable amount can be associated with posture. In some people standing upright affects the kidney's function and causes protein to be found in the urine. Protein can also occur in the urine because the kidneys have been damaged from a variety of diseases. I'm sure that's what your husband's doctor is concerned about, particularly in view of the comment that the kidney function has been decreased. Often it's almost impossible to tell exactly what kind of disease of the kidney is present without doing a kidney biopsy. It's important to have an exact idea of the type of disease present because that can greatly influence the form of treatment that is required.

Broadway, New York City's main thoroughfare, was nicknamed the "Great White Way" when it was illuminated by electricity for the first time between 14th and 26th Streets.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 12-12, Your Kidneys and How They Work. This will help you understand your husband's problem. Other readers who need information about the kidney can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for this issue. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My granddaughter suddenly developed a rash over her legs and feet and the skin turned a deep purple. Her legs and feet were also very swollen. The doctor had blood tests done and asked her to stay off her feet for about three weeks. The blood test showed that he could rule out leukemia and he gave her some medicine. He said she had a chemical reaction called idiopathic thrombocytopenic purpura. When the rash cleared up he wanted her to have another blood test.

She lives about 10 miles from Three Mile Island and this happened about two weeks after the TMI accident. Could this condition have possibly been caused by radiation and is it likely to recur?

DEAR READER - No, I doubt that the condition had anything at all to do with the Three Mile Island accident. The medical problem is well known and it tends to occur in young children, particularly in girls. It's associated with a decreased number of platelets in the blood. These are the little tiny cells that help promote blood clotting.

As a result of the disturbance in the blood clotting mechanism, rashes and bruises tend to develop. That's really what you're describing. In many of these cases, the cause is never known but apparently the body itself develops some kind of antibody that attacks the individual's platelets. Fortunately, about 85 percent of these cases are cured and do not recur. In the remaining 15 percent, if recurrences do develop, some can be helped by removal of the spleen. There's a very good chance that your granddaughter may not have any further difficulties.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer
Redoing laminated plastic

DEAR POLLY - The laminated plastic on my kitchen cabinets has come loose on the outer half. The back is still down and under the rear ceramic tile. I thought you might know of a good spray-type cement that I could use to reglue this without removing the sink and the rest of the top. I would appreciate any advice. - Mr. W.J.N.

DEAR Mr. W.J.N. - I discussed your problem with the manufacturer of one of the best-known brands of laminated plastic. There is a difference in the approach to a straight edge front and a cove edge. There is a cement available from the distributors of such products. If the front edge is straight and quite loose, it might be possible to sand off the old glue underneath - an emery board might do it. The cement would then be applied according to directions and weighted down so it adheres flat and smooth. A cove edge is a different and even more difficult matter. Consult your local distributor and you can give him more specific information. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - Often we read inquiries about how one could remove water lines, etc. from glass vases or dishes. I just put a small amount of toilet bowl cleaner in such a vase, swish it around and can see the lines coming off. I have cleaned glass that has been so marked for an indefinite period of time. Of course, you must handle with care. - M.H.

DEAR POLLY - I am past 80 and often see pictures in the paper of couples celebrating their wedding anniversary, and the captions only Mr. and Mrs. So-and-So. Lots of us would enjoy seeing the bride's maiden name, since after many years even a friend might not be recognized from the pictures. - MAGGIE

DEAR POLLY - My polyester blouse got a big snag in the sleeve from a grocery cart and I tried for some time to pull it through to the wrong side, but had no luck and put it away. Later I thought of using an old-fashioned needle-threader and an embroidery needle. I put the embroidery needle through the snag hole, put the needle-threader through the needle's hole, then put the snagged thread through the needle-threader and pulled it through the embroidery needle, which was put through the blouse. This sounds complicated, but it's easy and worked great. - Mrs. K.C.

YOU LIVE YOUR FAITH WHEN YOU SHARE WITH OTHERS

There is no greater expression of faith than the translation of it into good deeds; the sharing of our blessings with those less fortunate than ourselves. However, the concept of sharing goes far beyond the mere distribution of our material wealth to the poor; it also includes the gift of your time, patience, understanding and friendship. Visit the old and the sick; talk to them, read to them, run errands for them, give a ride to someone who is in need of it. Remember that the finest gift of all is that of yourself, given quietly and without fanfare; and you will be the better for it. Learn more about the true spirit of giving by attending your Church.

"He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the Lord; and that which he hath given will he pay him again."

— Proverbs 19:17

Those who bring sunshine to the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves.
— Sir James Matthew Barrie
