Carter Promises Cooperation In Investigation of Brother

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is promising full White House cooperation, perhaps even his own testimony if necessary, in the special Senate investigation of his brother Billy's Libyan connections.

Presidential press

secretary Jody Powell said Thursday that Carter did not expect to invoke executive privilege for either himself or his aides to keep them from testifying or providing information. He will instruct his staff to cooperate fully, Powell said.

The Senate Judiciary Committee was meeting today to discuss details of the probe by a nine-member panel — five Democrats and four Republicans — into the Billy Carter-Libyan ties and whether the White House influenced a Justice Department investigation of the president's younger brother.

Hearings are expected to start next week, and the committee is under orders to produce a report a month to the day before the Nov. 4 election.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chairman of the special panel, vowed to "pursue the truth wherever it may lead and let the chips fall where they may."

"We plan to investigate...anything that (Billy) Carter may have done while representing a foreign nation that may have had impact on the policy of this country," Bayh said. "We plan to investigate the propriety or lack thereof and what the governmental response has been to that undertaking."

He called on White House aides and Billy Carter to testify voluntarily, rather than under subpoena.

Clements Seeks Suit over Tax

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements has opened a possibility that the Legislature could increase state oil production taxes by about $2.6 billion a year and blame it all on Congress.

The added revenue would greatly ease the financial pressure on the 1981 Legislature for major spending items such as teacher pay raises and higher welfare costs.

Clements raised the issue publicly in a letter urging Attorney General Mark White to sue the federal government immediately to invalidate the Windfall Profits Tax.

He said the Windfall Profits Tax would "invade the sovereign power of the state by coercing Texas" to increase its own oil tax from 4.6 percent to 15 percent of market value.

The Windfall Profits Tax Act allows oilmen to deduct up to 15 percent for state taxes before computing what they owe the federal government.

"By not raising the rate in Texas to 15 percent, the state would deprive its citizens of tax dollars which would otherwise go to the federal government for distribution to the other states," Clements said in his letter to White.

Texas' oil production tax is one of the nation's lowest and is less than half of Louisiana's 12 percent.

Comptroller Bob Bullock's office estimates a 15 percent oil production tax would raise $3.8 billion a year, compared with $1.2 billion under the present rate, assuming June oil prices and no drop in production.

Prices will be decontrolled in October, however, and are expected to rise. Clements predicts the Windfall Profits Tax would cause oilmen to shut down some marginally productive wells.

Clements said at his weekly news conference he has discussed the 15 percent production tax with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker Bill Clayton and the staff of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council.

Asked if raising the production tax would violate his no-new-taxes policy, Clements said:

"I could make a case it does not violate it. ... We would in fact be retaining a major portion of that Windfall Profits Tax within the state."

Oil Giants Blame Economy on Woes

NEW YORK (AP) — Mobile, Gulf and several other major oil companies say rising world petroleum prices are continuing to fuel profit gains, but recession and reduced oil use are beginning to take their toll.

Mobil, the nation's second-largest oil company, Thursday reported a 64.6 percent earnings gain in the second quarter to $688 million as profits rose on petroleum inventories overseas. In the first quarter, Mobil reported an earnings gain of more than 100 percent.

No. 5 Gulf, meanwhile, posted a 27.1 percent rise in operating profits to $370 million. Gulf's final net was $470 million, however, reflecting a $100 million gain on its sale of 10 million shares of Gulf Canada Ltd.

Mobil said its U.S. petroleum product sales fell 2 percent in the second quarter to 760,000 barrels a day as soaring prices prompted consumers to cut fuel use. There are 42 gallons in a barrel.

"The impact of the recession was clearly apparent in the second quarter as sales volumes and profit margins fell in several sectors of our business," Gulf Chairman Jerry McAfee said in Pittsburgh.

Citing "the public's resistance to rising prices," McAfee reported Gulf's U.S. refined product sales in the second quarter fell to a 14-year low of 687,000 barrels a day.

But Gulf said second-quarter domestic refining and

Hereford Rebated $17,120

The City of Hereford has received a check for $17,120 as its share of the local-option, one-cent sales tax. Comptroller Bob Bullock's office reported this week.

That compares with $15,705 received in July, 1979.

The rebate brings the year total to $239,168—15 percent ahead of the same period a year ago.

Other Panhandle-South Plains and their July rebates included Amarillo, $327,000; Borger, $31,705; Canyon, $14,548; Dimmitt, $6,022; Dumas, $11,312; Friona, $3,336; Lubbock, $426,569; Pampa, $48,898; Perryton, $17,095; and Plainview, $34,954.

Bullock's office reported that sales-tax payments to Texas cities for the first seven months of 1980 are running about 20 percent higher than payments for the same period in 1979.

July rebates to 936 cities totaled $25 million compared to $23.5 million during July, 1979 — a 6.6 percent increase.

The city sales tax is collected with the state sales tax by merchants and businesses and rebated on a monthly basis by the comptroller's office.

The tax is considered an indicator of the economy of Texas cities by Bullock's office.

Business Fire

Four units of the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department responded to a call concerning a fire at Saul's Custom Upholstery, 107 S. Ranger, early this morning. The fire, which already had engulfed the building by the time firemen arrived, destroyed contents inside the structure. Firemen said they believe faulty wiring started the fire. According to the owners of the business, the fire caused approximately $15,000 damage. "We didn't have a penny's worth of insurance," said Mrs. David Saul, who added that the 1-2-year-old business will be restarted. (Brand photo by Bob Nigh)

Carter Material Might Be Illegal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carter administration officials have distributed anonymous campaign materials attempting to discredit independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson, The Associated Press has learned.

The derogatory literature was prepared by the Democratic National Committee with the help of the Carter-Mondale reelection campaign and other Democratic groups, a DNC spokesman said.

It is a violation of federal campaign law to finance and distribute political literature advocating the election or defeat of any candidate without identifying the person or organization that paid for it.

The paper portrays Anderson, a Republican congressman from Illinois, as a party regular who, as a presidential candidate, is trying to dodge or cover up a conservative, anti-labor, pro-nuclear and anti-consumer voting record.

The Democratic spokesman, Robert Neuman, said distribution of the unsigned 15-page document entitled "The Real John Anderson" was an error and that it was halted shortly after the material was first circulated among state party officials.

But sources who made the document available to The AP with the understanding they would not be identified said it has been distributed to government employees in recent days by political appointees loyal to President Carter.

"I have no control of Xerox machines," Neuman said. The sources said employees given copies have been told they are free to make photocopies and pass them on to their colleagues. The variety of staple marks in The AP copy indicate it has been copied repeatedly.

Neuman said the material probably was prepared for a packet that was distributed to state party leaders who came to Washington early last month for a strategy session and pep talk from President Carter.

He said it was intended as an "internal document, not prepared for public release," but he conceded it should have carried the disclaimer statement that appears on most campaign literature to comply with the legal requirement that

Automaker Reports $412 Million Loss

DETROIT (AP) — The giant General Motors Corp., caught with an inventory of big cars at a time of rising fuel prices, has reported its first loss in a strike-free quarter since the Great Depression — a company record $412 million.

Top company officials said there were no "near-term" prospects of a return to profitability for the nation's third-biggest company. In last year's second quarter, GM earned a record $1.19 billion or $4.13 per share.

The company, which makes nearly half the cars sold in the United States, blamed the loss on the recession, consumer concern about higher fuel prices and competition from imports that get better gas mileage than domestic makes. Large-car sales for the first half of the year were off 35 percent compared with last year, the company has reported.

"I think they underestimated the cost of getting rid of the biggies," industry analyst Arvid Jouppe said. Jouppe is research vice president of the brokerage house of John Muir & Co.

The record loss, reported Thursday, came to $1.43 a share for stockholders. It was more than three times larger than the company's previous record loss, $135 million, reported in the fourth quarter of 1970, when the company was being struck. Its last non-strike loss was in 1932.

Eruptions Could Hurt Ozone Layer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Explosive volcanoes such as Mount St. Helens may damage the protective ozone layer of the atmosphere, according to a study by a scientist believed killed while observing the eruption in Washington state.

The report in the July 25 issue of Science magazine was written by Dr. David A. Johnston, a U.S. Geological Survey scientist missing and presumed dead since the first eruption of Mount St. Helens on May 18.

Johnston was part of a survey team taking measurements on the mountain when it unexpectedly exploded, killing at least 34 persons and leaving scores still missing.

In the report written last year and revised in January, Johnston said earlier projections greatly underestimated the amount of chlorine in volcanic material, particularly from those around the Pacific Basin.

Analysis of trapped gas pockets in volcanic glass and other material indicates molten magmas "may contain more than 0.5 to 1 percent chlorine, which exceeds by 20 to 40 times or more the earlier estimates upon which volcanic atmospheric impact has been estimated," Johnston wrote.

This means that the amount of chlorine emitted into the atmosphere by volcanoes could be equal to between 17 percent and more than 100 percent of the 1975 world production of chlorine in fluorocarbon chemicals, he said.

If these numbers prove correct, they bring into question the usefulness of efforts to limit production and use of fluorocarbons. These chemicals are used as refrigerants in cooling systems and as propellants in aerosol spray cans.

Fluorocarbon gases rise and accumulate in the upper atmosphere. Once there, sunlight breaks them down and releases chlorine or chlorine compounds that destroy ozone

Realtor Pleased with Her Progress in Business

By DAWN OAKLEY

"I had a phone in my car...I worked out of my house and my car and a restaurant for a while...I spent a lot of time in Dickie's Restaurant," said Marn Tyler, owner of Marn Tyler Realtors.

"That lasted about three years," she said. "I built my office in August of '77. This is my third year here."

Marn Tyler is one of two women in Hereford who run their own realty business, she said. "But I am probably the only one that sells farms and ranches."

I love that, I really enjoy that. One of the first ones I sold was a ranch around Adrian. This guy in Amarillo told me where it was and I just had to go and find it. I wasn't afraid to tackle it."

As far as the Equal Rights thing," said Mrs. Tyler, "I really don't feel like I'm discriminated against because I'm a grown woman. I feel like I can do the job as well as anyone else can...but I still like being treated like a woman."

"Of course," she said, "I'm a member of the Electronic Realty Association. I wear a uniform with an ERA emblem on it most of the time; my cards and name tags all have ERA on them; I'm always being teased about ERA."

But Marn Tyler takes a lot of teasing, she said.

"When I was working out of my car, I was at the restaurant every morning, and they (the farmers) didn't have to hunt me up; they knew I'd be there...They'd tease me about it being my office."

"Dickie's has always been a real convenient place to catch farmers," she said.

It was 10 years ago, when her last child graduated from high school, that Mrs. Tyler decided to go into the real estate business.

"I started out with Carmichael Realtors," she said.

"At that time you had to work for a broker a year to get your broker's license.

"Then I moved to Amarillo to sell a subdivision there."

"I've had about 360 hours of schooling in real estate," she said. "Most of it was through Amarillo College, some through TAR—the Texas Association of Realtors."

"I was credit manager at Sears four years, and worked at Holly Sugar two years. I learned all the farmers—and at Sears you meet everybody in town."

"I just really like people, and I enjoy them," said Mrs. Tyler. "I enjoy working with

Actor Sellers

To Be Cremated

LONDON (AP) — Peter Sellers will be cremated Saturday following a private family funeral at the Golders Green Crematorium in North London.

Sellers, whose 54 movies over a span of 29 years made him one of the world's most popular comedians, died in Middlesex Hospital early Thursday, 34 hours after suffering a heart attack in his hotel suite. He was 54.

Friends said it was his ninth heart attack since 1964, but only four had been reported publicly.

Sellers' fourth wife, British actress Lynne Frederick, who flew to London from California after he collapsed and was with him when he died, was in seclusion in his suite at the Dorchester Hotel.

Today was her 26th birthday, and Sellers had planned to fly to California to spend it with her.

Romania Upset

With Judges' Decision

MOSCOW (AP) — A controversy developed today over the judging in the women's all-around Olympics gymnastics competition after the Romanian coach claimed Nadia Comaneci was robbed Thursday night in what he called "an arrangement designed to assure a Soviet victory."

Soviet Yelena Davydova was given the women's all-around gold medal after a long argument. Comaneci and Maxi Gnauck of East Germany tied for the silver medal.

Coach Bela Karolyi, who was seen ranting at the judges during a 30-minute argument after Comaneci's final beam exercise, said the chief of the technical committee, Ellen Berger of East Germany, ordered the Romanian gymnast's scores lowered.

Meanwhile, Nadia's home country echoed with cries of official approval. "Nadia is still the best," the Communist Party newspaper Scinteia headlined, charging that Romania's national heroine had been cheated out of the gold medal.

Scinteia and Romanian sports commentators bitterly criticized the determining 9.85 points awarded Comaneci and the 9.95 to Davydova on the final beam exercise. The score gave Davydova an all-around total of 79.150 to 79.075 for Comaneci and

Eight Policemen Shot in Chattanooga

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Tactical police teams shot out streetlights and cordoned off a predominantly black housing project after eight officers received minor gunshot wounds in the worst of three nights of violence in this racially tense city.

The shooting occurred about two hours after a dusk-to-dawn curfew took effect Thursday, closing all retail businesses in this southeast Tennessee city of 170,000. The curfew was imposed after two nights of firebombings, lootings and rock-throwing that followed a jury's acquittal of two Ku Klux Klansmen in the shooting of four black women.

Early today, at least 19 people had been arrested for curfew violations and jailed, police said. Four of the arrests were made in the area of the shooting.

All eight police officers were hit in one burst as police attempted to get people off the streets. A ninth officer cut his hand while trying to rescue comrades who were in the line of fire.

Boy May Have To Go to Russia

CHICAGO (AP) — Though he has been granted political asylum, a 12-year-old Ukrainian boy who is fighting to remain in the United States still could be returned to the Soviet Union against his will, immigration officials say.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service has given permission for Walter Polovchak to remain in the country. "We haven't said he can't leave, we are only saying he can remain," Verne Jervis, a spokesman for the INS, said.

At present, Jervis said the agency would prevent the boy from leaving the United States against his will. "But I can only speak for the present, not beyond that."

Walter is fighting to stay in the United States. His parents and a younger brother wish to return to their native Ukraine.

He was granted political asylum Wednesday — a few days after a juvenile court judge temporarily placed the boy in the custody of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services pending a permanent custody hearing set for Aug. 30.

He ran away from home last week after learning his parents wanted to return to the Ukraine.

The streets were generally empty Thursday night in the city's heavily industrial, predominantly black Alton Park area where the ambush occurred.

Coal Rates Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas congressman says he is confident a razor-thin margin of victory can be preserved for an amendment designed to soften railroad deregulation's impact on coal-using utilities and other "captive shippers."

The approval by seven votes Thursday of the amendment sponsored by Rep. Bob Eckhardt, a Houston Democrat, prompted sponsors of the deregulation bill to withdraw it from immediate consideration.

"My amendment has been more maligned and misrepresented than any amendment I've ever seen," Eckhardt said after the vote. "The White House never really backed away. They used every trick in the book to try to derail my amendment."

Weeks of negotiations failed to produce a compromise before the vote.

Eckhardt freely admitted there had been only an "outside chance" of winning.

During debate, he claimed without his amendment it would be more proper to call the deregulation bill, "The Railroad Revitalization, Recovery and Rip-off Act."

Eckhardt said his amendment would protect shippers that are dependent on one railroad for transporting a commodity, such as the South Texas utilities using rail transportation for coal from Montana and Wyoming.

The Texas delegation supported the amendment almost solidly.

Two Republicans, Rep. Ron Paul of Lake Jackson and Rep. Jim Collins of Dallas, were the only Texas congressmen voting against it.

Rep. James Florio, D-N.J., the bill's sponsor, said absenteeism played a part in the 204-197 loss on the amendment.

Florio said he should have enough votes to reverse the outcome when the bill returns to the floor, most likely next week.

He said Eckhardt's amendment preserves the regulatory status quo that has promoted the financial shakiness of much of the nation's rail system.

Its threshold for the Interstate Commerce Commission to review a rate increase in a "captive shipper" case is one-fifth lower than the one proposed by Florio's bill.

Eckhardt said his amendment was designed to slow down rate increases for "captive shippers" but could not halt them.

He also said coal was not singled out for special treatment.

"It deals with any commodity that is subject to rail monopoly treatment," Eckhardt said. "The problem is a national problem, not a regional one."

Some observers had predicted the amendment would not succeed because it was portrayed as taking care of an issue limited to the Southwest.

Texas state officials, including Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Attorney General Mark White, traveled to Washington last month for talks with members of the Carter administration that supported Florio's bill.

White said he warned Vice President Walter Mondale that the Carter-Mondale ticket could be hurt in Texas this fall unless steps were taken to protect the state's utilities and, in turn, consumers of the electricity produced by coal-using plants.

House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Fort Worth said Wednesday that the Department of Transportation had proposed an amendment that directly affected the battle between the Texas utilities and the railroads.

Wright said the amendment, including a plan to promote a competitive carrier of coal from Wyoming, would be introduced if Eckhardt failed.

"What the administration tried to do was to buy off Texas," Eckhardt claimed after the vote.

He said the offer had been inadequate.

The Senate has passed a railroad deregulation bill containing an amendment sponsored by Sen. Russell Long, D-La., that is similar to Eckhardt's. A conference committee will reconcile the House and Senate bills after the House completes its version.

Names in the News

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rona Barrett, the Hollywood reporter on ABC's "Good Morning America," will leave the show in October to join the "Tomorrow" show on NBC.

Miss Barrett, who was instrumental in bringing the ratings of "Good Morning America" up to par with NBC's "Today," will also make regular appearances on "Today," an NBC spokesman said Thursday.

ABC had been negotiating to renew Miss Barrett's contract, which expires Oct. 24, but the talks reached an impasse, according to a statement issued by the network.

Miss Barrett will be an NBC news correspondent, a status she was refused at ABC. And that was what prompted her move, Miss Barrett said. She said she has been trying to change her image to an entertainment industry newswoman from that of a gossip reporter.

Neither ABC nor a spokesman for Miss Barrett would say what her ABC salary had been and her new salary also was not disclosed.

An NBC spokesman said Miss Barrett would be the West Coast co-anchor of a revamped "Tomorrow" show with Tom Snyder, who currently runs the show solo from New York.

ORONO, Maine (AP) — Stephen King, the author of best-selling horror stories, has donated six boxloads of papers to his alma mater, the University of Maine at Orono.

The papers, deposited in the university's special collections division, include original typescripts and drafts of King's novels, as well as some letters, said library director James MacCampbell.

King's novels include "Carrie," "Salem's Lot," "The Shining," "The Stand" and "The Dead Zone."

In accepting the gift this week, university trustees said the papers had an estimated value of $5,000. A formal appraisal is planned.

King, who taught at the university in 1978-79, decided that the papers "were piled up around home and they might as well be here as somewhere else," MacCampbell said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Deborah Raffin has filed a $1 million suit against Paramount Pictures Corp., alleging the company failed to honor her contract for the projected television series "Foul Play."

Ms. Raffin contended in the suit, filed Wednesday in Superior Court, that Paramount failed to pay her $40,000 per episode for her starring role in the series, which is based on the movie "Foul Play."

The suit alleged that the contract, signed last March, called for 13 episodes to be filmed and for her to be paid whether or not the series was ever broadcast.

Ms. Raffin's complaint said Paramount has only filmed one episode and continually postponed further filming.

Officials at Paramount were unavailable for comment.

NEW YORK (AP) — Midget actor Herve Villechaize of the television series "Fantasy Island" has a tall tale to tell, but every word of it is true.

Villechaize, who is just under 4 feet tall, announced in Hollywood Thursday that he was marrying statuesque actress Camille Hagan on Aug. 5. The two met last fall when she appeared on "Fantasy Island."

They were engaged in April.

Officials at Paramount were unavailable for comment.

CLERMONT, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says he advised Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan in Detroit that sharing presidential responsibilities with a vice president would never work.

Clements said at his news conference Thursday that "in the final analysis" Ford declined a place on the GOP ticket because of just such a concern.

He also dismissed as "media words" the notion that Ford had insisted on becoming "co-president" or "demanded" more than the usual vice presidential powers if he went on the ticket with Reagan.

"I never heard anybody, including the two principals, talk about a shared presidency or a co-presidency," said Clements, who was involved in the Reagan-Ford negotiations at Detroit.

But, he said, there was discussion of shared responsibility and delegation of presidential duties to a vice president.

Clements, deputy secretary of defense under Presidents Nixon and Ford, said, "I have seen presidents try to delegate responsibilities to a vice president. I have never seen it work."

He said he shared that view with Reagan and Ford.

Clements said "staff jealousies and nuances in the bureaucracy" are among reasons why delegating presidential responsibilities to vice-presidents has failed.

Vehicle Reported Stolen Year Later

A 1969 Chevrolet two-door, stolen over a year ago, was reported missing Thursday afternoon, police said.

The car belonged to Danny Bates of Hereford, no address available.

Police said that Bates had apparently left the reporting of the theft up to his mother, who forgot about it.

The theft was reported at this date after Bates thought he saw someone driving the car, his mother said.

Personal property valued at $313 was taken from a locked car parked at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

The car belonged to Fred Lerman, Box 445. Stolen property included a 23-channel CB, an eight-track tape player, and a box full of tapes.

Police said they do not know how the thief got into the car since there were no broken windows.

A rock was thrown through an east window at Diamond Shamrock, 401 E. 1st. No damage estimate was available.

Presidential counsel Lloyd Cutler told the Public Broadcasting System that it had not been decided whether Carter, if asked, would testify before the special Senate committee, answer written questions or convene a meeting at the White House.

Like other presidential aides, Cutler took pains to discourage any comparison with Watergate, saying he was "confident nothing remotely resembling the obstruction of justice of the Watergate period could have happened."

Johnston said in his report that volcanic explosions powerful enough to penetrate the stratosphere have been occurring about once a year in recent times.

To Perform In Hereford

The Crossroads Ministry Teams will be presenting their home concert this Saturday in the Community Center. All 31 members of the choir are from Hereford Church of the Nazarene. Their concert will include drama sketches, puppets, and many selections of contemporary Christian music. Shown above is the 31 member team.

Ministry Team To Present Concert

The Crossroads Ministry Teams will be presenting their home concert this Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Hereford Community Center.

All 31 members of the choir are from the Hereford Church of the Nazarene and have been on tour for the past two weeks.

They have given concerts in Collinsville, Oklahoma; Mansfield, Ohio; Little Rock, Arkansas; Piedmont, Oklahoma; as well as spending five full days with a home mission church in Lockport, New York.

While in Lockport, they held two backyard bible schools, gave musical presentations in the city square and shopping mall, as well as two full concerts in the church.

The group is under the direction of Ted Taylor, church minister to youth, and all the members are junior high and high school students from the Hereford area.

Their concert will include drama sketches, puppets, and many selections of contemporary Christian music.

The Hereford Church of the Nazarene invites the public to the home concert of the Crossroads Ministry Teams this Saturday evening at 8 p.m. in the Community Center.

Local Store Managers Graduate In Clovis

Four Hereford residents recently completed various training courses at the Allsup's home offices in Clovis, N.M.

Floyd Carpenter, 601 Ave. G, who is assistant manager at the store located at 529 Ave. H, completed the Allsup's Assistant Store Manager Training course. The course is required of all Allsup's Assistant managers. Burke and Carolyn Inman, 509 Ave. H, received diplomas in the Allsup's Store Manager Training Course. Inman manages the store at 910 Park Ave., and Mrs. Inman is manager of the store at 400 N. 25 Mile Ave.

David Sellers, 403 A Union, will now assume duties of Area Supervisor Trainee after completing the Allsup's Area Supervisor Training Course.

The purpose of these courses, all of which are mandatory for those in various positions with Allsup's, is "to give Allsup's a more highly trained professional who will meet the needs of our customers."

Be a Friend, Have a Friend

A Special Friend

By CORDA GLOVER
A friend of mine once gave me a small raccoon figurine. She told me his name was "Worrying Willie" and he was to do all my worrying for me from now on. Since that time Willie has certainly been busy and has even been on loan to others in need. In spite of Willie's little worried face he's the happiest sight I've seen. When I look at Willie and he winks at me my troubles seem lighter somehow just knowing I have a friend and Willie.

Taking the time to care for the people around you means so much, in fact I know of no one who doesn't thrive on it.

Take the time everyday to show others you care and help share Willie's magic.

Kinsey Is Elected Secretary/Treasurer

Robert C. Kinsey, formerly of Hereford, was recently elected as secretary and treasurer to the Board of Directors of the Oliver-Taylor Company.

Kinsey was first elected to the board of directors in 1975.

Oliver-Taylor Company is a 36 year old food brokerage company, headquartered in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. It also has offices in Lubbock, El Paso and Albuquerque, N.M. Other officers elected at the special meeting of the board were Carl W. McKee, president and Douglas F. Stockbridge, executive vice-president.

The company stated that it has experienced tremendous growth in the last five years and feels that the election of these new officers will insure this continued growth."

Ann Landers

Love For Humanity

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was deeply moved by this expression of love for humanity. Will you print it, please? Thank you. - Sarasota Fan

DEAR SARA: With pleasure. Here it is.

"TO REMEMBER ME..."
The day will come when my body will lie upon a white sheet neatly tucked under four corners of a hospital mattress located in a hospital busily occupied with the living and the dying. At a certain moment a doctor will determine that my brain has ceased to function and that, for all practical purposes, my life has stopped.

When that happens, do not attempt to instill artificial life into my body by the use of a machine. And don't call this my deathbed. Let it be called the Bed of Life, and let my body be taken from it to help others lead full lives.

Give my sight to the man who has never seen a sunrise, a baby's face or love in the eyes of a woman. Give my heart to a person whose own heart has caused nothing but endless days of pain. Give my blood to a teenager who was pulled from the wreckage of his car, so that he might live to see his grandchildren play. Give my kidneys to one who depends on a machine to exist from week to week. Take my bones, every nerve and muscle in my body and find a way to make a crippled child walk. Explore every corner of my brain. Take my cells, if necessary, and let them grow so that, someday, a speechless boy will shout at the crack of a bat and a deaf girl will hear the sound of rain against her window.

Burn what is left of me and scatter my ashes to the winds to help the flowers grow.

If you must bury something, let it be my faults, my weaknesses and all my prejudice against my fellow man.

Give my sins to the devil; give my soul to God.

If, by chance, you wish to remember me, do it with a kind deed or word to someone who needs you. If you do all I have asked, I will live forever. - Robert N. Test and so and such and such."

I have told "Mr. Perfect" to get off that worn-out tape and stop living in the past. I never did anything I was ashamed of, but he goes off and on. It drives me crazy.

Every argument ends up with the "40 years ago" syndrome, and we never solve anything. I say he's getting senile. What do you say? - DB, Dallas

DEAR DALLAS: Frequent references to the past are indeed a sign of age. Some people can remember what they did 60 years ago, but they can't tell you what they had for breakfast.

Accept him as he is because he's not going to change. Say "Yes, dear," tune him out and think about something else while he rattles on and on - poor thing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of a husband of over 40 years who suddenly starts bringing up incidents that should long have been forgotten? Some of the things he dredges up are absolutely ridiculous. Whatever I do today that is not perfect reminds him of the time when you did so

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex - Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Texas Briefs

DALLAS (AP) — Police were searching Thursday for an elusive robbery suspect who stole $630, two police pistols and a squad car.

A warrant for investigation of aggravated robbery was issued for the suspect, who escaped Wednesday after robbing a convenience store, police said.

The man was pinned and disarmed by two officers, but during an ensuing struggle, he picked up a pistol dropped by an off-duty officer and escaped in an exchange of gunfire, police said. No one was hurt.

About three hours later, after robbing another man, the suspect disarmed a patrolman who stopped him and stole his squad car, officers said.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Police were without leads Thursday in the freeway-shooting slaying of a 57-year-old truck driver.

Police said Robert Durwood Claunch, of Haltom City, apparently was shot twice by someone driving beside him on Airport Freeway Wednesday morning.

One of the shotgun blasts caused massive head wounds, and another apparently left wounds in his left hand and right arm, said Robert Parkey of the Tarrant County Medical Examiner's office. A three-inch hole also was blown in the door on the driver's side of Claunch's car.

DALLAS (AP) — Major banks here have forced the school board to approve a pledge to raise the property tax rate at least 2 cents a year for three years until the district's cash reserves reach $22 million.

The banks refused to submit bids Wednesday to become the depository for Dallas Independent School District funds. Instead, they provided a set of guidelines they wanted DISD to meet before they would bid.

The district uses its fund balance to pay expenses incurred in the past school year, but are properly related to the coming school year.

Each fall, DISD borrows as much as $20 million from its depository bank to meet payroll and other expenses until property tax revenues begin to arrive.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A federal grand jury has charged that a couple bilked the love-lover after forming a dating service called Christian Singles of America.

In a mail fraud indictment, the grand jury alleged that Charles Leroy Hope and his wife Paula cheated investors out of thousands of dollars by making false statements to sell franchises.

Police are looking for the couple.

"They sold memberships to the love-lover and then failed to provide promised matchmaking services," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Gerhardt Kleinschmidt. "They also advertised falsely that they had a staff of trained Christian counselors and computer files to match couples."

Bankruptcy Act Receives Blame

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Mirror

NEW YORK (AP) — Bankruptcies this year are occurring at a greater rate than in 1975, when a record 224,000 were filed, and some lenders are blaming the Bankruptcy Reform Act, which took effect last October 1.

"Consumer Bankruptcies Grow... Is Greed A Reason?" asks the National Consumer Finance Association in one of a series of position and background papers sent to news people during the past week.

The association concedes the recession's role in the increase, which it estimates at 24 percent greater than a year ago, but it suggests the public is exploiting the law rather than merely seeking its protection.

It asks provocatively: "Are Americans becoming less concerned about their financial responsibilities and any possible social stigma attached to bankruptcy?" Other suggestions are also posed as questions.

"Are consumers rushing to this traditional last resort merely to avoid paying debts?" it asks. "Are others motivated by greed encouraging people to declare bankruptcy when it is not necessary?"

The association, made up of consumer finance and other loan companies, appears to place much blame on lawyers who advertise their "bankruptcy expertise" and urge clients to exploit the new, more liberal law.

It suggests also that people are being encouraged to declare bankruptcy when it is not really necessary. "I am not suggesting that bankruptcy should never be used, but it is a last resort," Walter Kurth, NCFRA president said. "Alternatives should be explored first."

One attraction of the new federal law is the liberal list of exemptions, or properties that cannot be taken in a bankruptcy action.

Among exemptions under the law are $7,500 in the value of a residence, $1,200 in a motor vehicle's value, $700 in professional tools or books, $500 in jewelry, and $4,000 of accrued dividends.

Under the law, a consumer can file for personal bankruptcy under two plans. Chapter 7 involves liquidation of personal effects to pay debts. Chapter 13 enables a person with a regular income to reorganize, under court protection, his or her financial obligations to creditors.

Under Chapter 13, the debtor must design a monthly budget and adhere to it for three years. Any amount remaining after court-allowed sums for food, clothing, housing, leisure and the like is used to reimburse creditors through a court-appointed trustee.

After the three-year period, the debtor is discharged from previous obligations. The amount repaid within that time, according to the court-approved plan, becomes the debtor's total liability.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Dr. Lauro F. Cavazos, the president of Texas Tech University who grew up on the King Ranch, was in town appealing for donations from the school's alumni.

Cavazos said the university's 75,000 alumni need to contribute to maintain the current faculty at Texas Tech.

"They haven't had a decent raise in a long time. They're not even keeping up with inflation," he said of the faculty. "Tech is no longer a West Texas school. It used to be. It was when I went there. But today we attract students from all over the state."

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The Rev. Franklin D. Pollard of Jackson, Miss., has been hired to replace the Rev. Jimmy Allen as pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Lloyd Bingham, chairman of the Pulpit Search Committee, said that Pollard announced his resignation at the First Baptist Church in Jackson Wednesday night and would move to San Antonio about August 20.

KKK Leader Hangs Up Robe

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — David Duke, the articulate grand wizard of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, said Thursday he's shedding his white robe to head a new organization called the National Association for the Advancement of White People.

Bill Wilkinson of Denham Springs, La., imperial wizard of a rival KKK faction, said he forced the resignation by secretly videotaping a meeting at which Duke offered to sell his membership lists for $35,000.

"That's just totally untrue," Duke said. "That's ridiculous." "That's the kind of tactics which really disenchant me concerning the Klan. All that meeting was about was white unity, trying to achieve that."

The two have been fighting over tactics and membership since 1975, when Wilkinson split from Duke's group to form the militant Invisible Empire of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, now the most visible of 30 or so Klan factions in this country.

The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, which monitors Klan activities, estimated Thursday that Duke's organization has dwindled to about 1,000 members, who pay dues of $30 a year each, while Wilkinson's group now numbers between 2,000 and 2,500.

The Hooded Order keeps its numbers secret. Duke, 29, a graduate of Louisiana State University who lives in suburban New Orleans, was the more moderate of the two, moving easily in the establishment with his appearances on television talk shows and unsuccessful campaigns for state Senate.

On the other hand, Wilkinson, 37, works from a 10-acre spread near Baton Rouge and travels about the country, exhorting people at rallies from Boston to California to arm themselves to get ready for a race war.

reservoirs monitored by the department held 80 percent of capacity, down 5 percent from the end of June.

Only two lakes on the monitoring list remained full at the end of last week, Wright Patman Lake and Lake O' the Pines in Northeast Texas.

Reservoirs at less than 25 percent of capacity are: Lake Meredith in Panhandle, 25 percent; Lake Bridgeport in Wise County, 23; Lake J.B. Thomas, Borden and Scurry Counties, 13; Champion Creek in Nolan County, 12; Red Bluff Reservoir in Loving and Reeves Counties, 17; E.V. Spence in Coke County, 22; and O.C. Fisher in Tom Green County, 12.

GUARANTEED SUCCESS IN THE SON!

Yes, the old system of priesthood based on family lines was canceled because it didn't work. It was weak and useless for saving people.

It never made anyone really right with God. But now we have a far better hope, for Christ makes us acceptable to God, and now we may draw near to Him.

God took an oath that Christ would always be a Priest. Although He never said that of other priests. Only to Christ. He said, "The Lord has sworn and will never change His mind: You are a Priest forever, with the rank of Melchizedek."

Because of God's oath, Christ can guarantee forever the success of this new and better arrangement.

Under the old arrangement there had to be many priests, so that when the older ones died off, the system could still be carried on by others who took their places.

But Jesus lives forever and continues to be a Priest so that no one else is needed.

He is able to save completely all who come to God through Him. Since He will live forever, He will always be there to remind God that He has paid for their sins with His blood.

He is, therefore, exactly the kind of High Priest we need; for He is holy and blameless, unstained by sin, undefiled by sinners, and to Him has been given the place of honor in heaven.

He never needs the daily blood of animal sacrifices, as other priests did, to cover over first their own sins and then the sins of the people; for He finished all sacrifices, once and for all, when He sacrificed Himself on the cross.

Under the old system, even the high priests were weak and sinful men who could not keep from doing wrong, but later God appointed by His oath His Son who is perfect forever.

SPS Offers Heat Assistance

Extremely hot weather has increased the use of electricity for air conditioning during the last few weeks and has established a new system peak for Southwestern Public Service Company. The peak, which is the highest amount of electricity used during the year, reached 2,651,000 kilowatts one day last week.

Cooling systems are one of the largest users of electricity and as a result, many customers will see their electric bill go higher than in the past few months.

SPS officials say that on an average, customers with refrigerated air conditioning will experience an increase of about 42 percent over the same period last year. The increase is due in part to the increase in rates granted June 2, but due mostly to the hot weather.

Larry Fuller, Panhandle division manager for SPS in Amarillo, said, "Many more of our customers are beginning to take advantage of our averaged billing plan to minimize the effect of higher bills in the summer. The plan helps smooth out the highs and lows that occur in electric bills during the year and arranges for the customer to pay an average rather than the actual amount used each month."

Fuller explained that with the averaged billing plan, the amount of the electric bill month is determined by averaging the actual dollar amount of the bill for the past twelve months. For example: if the bill was $50 in July and had been $25 for the past 11 months, the customer would pay $27.08, using the averaged billing plan.

"The averaged billing plan does not change the rate for electric service and the cost over a year's time is the same. It simply allows the customer to pay for less than actually used during the high-use months and make up the difference by paying for more than actually used during the low-use months."

"Any residential customer of Southwestern Public Service Company with satisfactory credit and whose bill averages $25 or more can request the averaged billing plan. There's no charge for participation and a telephone call to our office is all that's necessary," Fuller said.

Fuller also pointed out several steps that a residential customer can take to control electric usage: proper insulation, storm windows, caulking, and thermostat settings. In addition, SPS has available free booklets explaining these steps and others to help observe energy.

"We are not experiencing any difficulties providing the electricity our customers need. This is because we have built and are continuing to build coal-fired power plants."

Nadia's Last Shot At Medal Is Expected Highlight In 6th Day of Games

Comaneci, Davydova Battle for Gold

MOSCOW (AP) — At the awards ceremony, Nadia Comaneci, silver medalist, shook hands with Yelena Davydova, gold medalist. Tonight they were to come out fighting.

Comaneci's last chance for Olympic gold was to be the highlight of the sixth day of Olympic competition that also included the semifinals of the 800 meters. On Thursday, bitter rivals Steve Ovett and Sebastian Coe each took it easy in winning his heat, the first step toward their expected classic clash of running talent and egos in the 800 final Saturday night.

Also on today's schedule was the first appearance of two-time Olympic heavyweight champion Teofilo Stevenson, the Cuban knockout artist with the lethal right hand; the 100-meter dash final, and possibly more gold for the amazing Soviet gymnasts in the men's individual events.

The Soviet Union continued to pile up the medals in the only Games in modern times without an American team. Through Thursday, the Soviets had 27 gold medals — the rest of the 80 nations here totaled 23 — and 53 medals overall. East Germany was a slipping second with nine gold and 37 total.

The Soviets picked up one gold medal Thursday night, which some will say was picked right out of Comaneci's pocket.

The all-around gymnastics award ceremony was eerie. The athletes shook hands, smiled and waved to the crowd. It was hard to believe that just minutes before, the same arena was the scene of the longest, most bizarre argument in Olympic gymnastic history.

Going into her final exercise, the balance beam, Comaneci, the last competitor in Germany's Maxi Gnauck.

The Romanian coach seethed. He couldn't understand the 9.85, nor could the Romanian head judge, Maria Simionescu, who initiated a long dispute by refusing to accept Comaneci's mark from show she's been through a lot since becoming television's darling when she won three gold medals four years ago.

Tonight will be her last chance for gold at these Olympics, and maybe forever.

Thursday's biggest dispute was in the gymnastic arena, but there were differences of opinion in other areas.

For the first time in Olympic history, an awards ceremony was held with no national flags. The three medalists in the 4,000-meter pursuit cycling came from Switzerland (gold medalist Robert Dill-Bundi), France and Denmark. Instead of boycotting, these nations chose to protest the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan by not displaying their flags or playing their anthems at Olympic ceremonies.

While the Olympic hymn was played and the five-ringed flags of the International Olympic Committee were raised, the Soviet spectators jeered and whistled, the European form of boogie.

One sensitive area with the Soviets is the success of the Games and, conversely, the success or failure of the American-led boycott. Vladimir Popov, vice president of the Moscow Olympic Organizing Committee, said approximately 2 million spectators attended the first four days of competition.

However, attendance from western nations is down by as much as 75 percent from the projected figures, causing deep cuts in the original estimate of 300,000 foreign tourists, according to preliminary figures researched by The Associated Press.

Those who were at the sold-out, 103,000-seat Lenin Stadium Thursday saw Coe and Ovett, racing in separate heats, running in the same event for the first time in two years. They have met only twice, once as teen-agers in an obscure cross-country meet and two years ago at the European Championships.

Ovett was never in trouble winning the first race in 1 minute 49.4 seconds. Coe, in the fourth heat, used the final strides to overtake Roger Milhau of France in 1:48.5 — well off his world record of 1:42.4.

"It doesn't matter if I was faster or slower than someone in another heat," said Coe without mentioning you-know-who. "Some heats are fast and some are slow. It will get interesting in the semifinals. These times mean nothing."

Ovett, as is his practice, did not meet with the press.

Lasse Viren, double gold medalist in the 5,000 and 10,000 meters at the Munich and Montreal Olympics, was in fifth place on the final lap and in jeopardy of missing an automatic qualifying berth for the 10,000 finals. But Ireland's John Treacy, suffering from heat exhaustion and dehydration on this hot, humid day, collapsed, and Viren swept by to qualify in the fourth spot. The Ireland delegation said Treacy's condition was not serious.

Another athlete to sweep by at the end was Maurizio Damilano, who won Italy's first gold medal in the 20-kilometer walk after Soviet leader Anatoly Solomin and defending Olympic champion Daniel Bautista of Mexico were disqualified for running.

Other track winners Thursday were Nadyezhda Tkachenko of the Soviet Union, who set a world record of 5,083 points in winning the pentathlon, and Ilona Slu-pianek of East Germany, whose Olympic-record toss in the shot put went 73 feet 6 inches. Both women have made comebacks after being suspended for illegal use of anabolic steroids, the banned bulk-building drug.

One of the biggest surprises in track and field was that Haseley Crawford of Trinidad-Tobago, the defending Olympic champion, was eliminated in the second round in the 100-meter dash heats.

There was no surprise in the winner of the men's all-around gymnastic competition as world champion Alexander Dityatin of the Soviet Union won the gold. A perfect 10 — the first for a man in Olympic competition — helped him to the medal. After Dityatin, four other 10s were awarded, raising some concern that easier standards were being applied to judging at the Moscow Games.

Salnikov added the 400 freestyle to his 1,500 and relay victories. Caren Metschuck won the 100 butterfly, although her time of 1:00.42 was slower than American Mary T. Meagher's world record of 59.26. Barbara Krause set an Olympic mark of 1:58.33 in winning the 200 freestyle.

The Australian 400 medley relay team scored the lone upset when its foursome — two of whom swam for American colleges with a third enrolled as a freshman this fall — beat the Soviet Union. Backstroker Mark Kerry went to Indiana University, butterflyer Mark Tonelli swam for the Crimson Tide at Alabama, breaststroker Peter Evans will attend Arizona and freestyler Neil Brooks stayed home to study swimming and his books.

In boxing, 17-year-old Puerto Rican Luis Pizarro, 125 pounds, won his first fight, stopping Jean Pierre Mberebe of Cameroon.

The three-man Afghanistan boxing team was eliminated when the last survivor, Esmail Mohammad, was stopped by gold medal contender Rudy Fink of East Germany in the first round of their 125-pound bout.

the event, was 9.25 points behind Davydova, the latest in a line of young Soviet gymnasts who are making the Moscow Games very difficult for the star from the Montreal Olympics.

Her routine on the beam wasn't vintage Comaneci, it wasn't perfect. She wobbled a bit on one maneuver then stumbled a little on her dismount. Would it cost her? A 9.5 would give her gold; a 9.0 or lower would give her something much less.

The crowd, like in a soccer match, chanted for its favorite. Comaneci, poker-faced as always, stood silently. Davydova, nervous and anxious, kept looking up towards the scoreboard. They waited and waited. Five minutes, 10 minutes, 30 minutes. All the while the judges, referees and coaches were bickering, gesturing, making faces.

Finally, the digits 9.85 flash brightly on the scoreboard. Davydova was the Olympic champion, dethroning Comaneci, who settled for a silver-medal tie with East Germany's Maxi Gnauck. The four-referee panel from Czechoslovakia, Poland, Bulgaria and the Soviet Union. The competition jury, which rarely overrules the referees, eventually disallowed Simionescu's objection.

In gymnastics scoring, the high and low marks are discarded and the middle two are averaged. The results are always subjective, sometimes political. Whatever they were Thursday night, they weren't good for Comaneci, whose Olympic high in 1976 is turning into an Olympic low here.

On Monday, she picked up a 10 on the beam, but shared the spotlight with another young Soviet star, Natalia Shaposhnikova, who also scored a perfect 10. On Wednesday, the team event was concluded, with Nadia falling off the uneven parallel bars. She dropped to a humiliating fourth in the individual standings, and Romania, world champion in 1979, finished behind the Soviets.

She redeemed herself on the uneven bars with a 10 Thursday night, but lost it on the beam. Will tonight be her night? Individual medals will be awarded after competitions in the uneven bars, beam, vault and floor exercises. Nadia is 18 going on a lot more. Her sad, weary eyes

Simons Holds Lead In Hartford Open

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Long after most of the spectators had gone home from the opening day of the Greater Hartford Open, first-round leader Jim Simons stood on the practice green working on his putting.

Although he held a 2-stroke lead after tying the opening-round record with a 9-under-par 62, Simons apparently was not about to let his game deteriorate overnight.

"Golf is too unpredictable," he had said Thursday after the first round. "I don't know if what worked today will work tomorrow."

What worked for Simons Thursday was his putter, which he used to register 10 birdies, five of them in a row, and only one bogey. He credited his fine putting to a "two full days of hard work" on his short game this past weekend and early this week. He practiced so hard, he said, that he was tired even before the GHO started.

He would have had a hard time convincing Jamie Gonzalez he was tired after shooting a round that tied the record set last year at the Wethersfield Country Club by George Cadle. While Gonzalez was shooting the lowest score of his three-year pro career with a 7-under 64, Simons was shooting the lowest round on the Professional Golf Association tour this year and the lowest in his career.

"I made a lot of good putts," the 30-year-old Simons said. "The only reason I did shoot so well was that I shot consistently near the hole."

Gonzalez, a native of Brazil and a 1975 All-America from Oklahoma State, had taken the lead early in the day, carding seven birdies. The round "helped build my confidence," said Gonzalez, who turned 26 today. He entered the $300,000 tourney with only three finishes in 20 starts and had pocketed only slightly more than $1,900 in prize money.

Lee Trevino, the 1972 GHO champion, headed a pack of four golfers tied at 65 that included Jim Thorpe, Skip Dunaway and Cadle.

Bob Zender and Calvin Peete were four strokes off the pace at 66, while defending champion Jerry McGee was tied with 13 others at 69.

Surprisingly, Simons said he "could not get enthused about playing in the tournament this morning."

After 15 Years of Track Competition

Kirszenstein Still Able To Compete

MOSCOW (AP) — In 1965 an American track and field team, men and women, made a tour of Eastern Europe and one of their stops included an international meet in Warsaw.

They had hardly touched ground before their ears began ringing with stories of a super athlete, a Polish girl who ran with the grace of a gazelle and the speed of the wind.

Then they saw her in action — a long-legged miss with raven black hair, a pleasant smile and legs that seemed to move across the red dirt track without touching it. She floated.

Before the event was concluded, the advance notices had been completely verified. She won the 100-meter dash. Then she won the 200 in world-record time of 22.7 seconds. She captured the long jump and anchored the winning women's relay team.

They would never forget her: 19-year-old Irena Kirszenstein.

Fifteen years later, Irena is still astounding the sports world, competing in her fifth Olympics in Moscow, known now by her married name, Szewinska. Hers is a record unmatched by any other woman who has run under the blaze of the eternal torch.

She has a total of seven Olympic medals, the only woman to capture medals in four consecutive Games. Her cache includes three golds, a silver and three bronze in four different specialties — the 100 meters, 200 and 400, long jump and 400-meter relay.

She is indisputably the queen of the Games.

"I feel very good, very strong," Irena said during a pause on the practice track. "I am no longer quick enough to run the short sprints. I will run the 400 and maybe both of the relays."

Irena ran the 400 at Montreal four years ago and won it in the world record time of 49.29 seconds. Since then, the record has been broken by Marita Koch of East Germany, her chief rival.

Irena now is a housewife and mother, 34 years old, married to her coach, Janusz Szewinski, a former 400-meter hurdler. The son is 10.

"He is on the seas somewhere on a holiday," Irena says with obvious pride. "He will not know how I do, perhaps for days."

Irena is still a superb-looking athlete, 5-foot-9 and 139 pounds. Her long hair still is black as coal. She has a smile as easy as her gait. She speaks several languages and, despite the heavy pressure on her because of her prominence, she never turns her back on anyone.

"Just a moment," she will say. "When my training is finished, I will be glad to talk to you."

Japanese radio and TV personnel seem to have adopted her as their private pet. They follow her everywhere.

No other athlete — particularly a runner, whose speed diminishes with age — has accomplished as much as Irena Szewinska over such a long period of time.

In 1964, she won the gold in the sprint relay, the silver in the long jump and the bronze in the 200 meters. In 1968, it was the gold in the 200, bronze in the 100. In 1972, she captured the bronze in the 200. In 1976 came her world-record triumph in the 400 at Montreal.

Holding On

Hereford State Bank competitor Debbie Holmes hangs on for dear life in the pole scoop event during the third annual 'Anything Goes' tournament held this past weekend in Whiteface Stadium. The fun filled competition is sponsored each year by the YMCA. Teammate Melinda Herr stands in the background awaiting her turn on the obstacle.

Big Dunk

YMCA team member Dean Fox gives his best shot at the ping-pong ball dunking obstacle before completing his run through the obstacle course in the YMCA 'Anything Goes' competition this past weekend. The YMCA men's division squad landed runner-up honors in the heated competition behind the Hereford Lion's Club team.

Stanger, Little Share LPGA Lead

JERICHO, N.Y. (AP) — Julie Stanger and Sally Little shared the opening day lead in a $125,000 72-hole Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament at the Meadow Brook Club. After that, the pair seem to have little in common.

The 23-year-old Stanger, on the LPGA tour less than two years and a graduate of Arizona State, called golf a stupid game after her 3-under-par performance Thursday on the par-72, 6,347-yard layout that saw only one bogey as opposed to four birdies.

Little, a 29-year-old native of South Africa and 10-year veteran, who has her mother, father and sister among her gallery, missed only one green and had three birdies in posting her first-round 69.

Told about Stanger's remark regarding golf, Little offered, "That was an unusual remark to make for somebody who is making a living playing the sport. There is no question golf puts you down and it can make you ... gative, but I look at it as a tremendous challenge. I feel it is one of the hardest sports you can play."

The 5-5, 120-pound Stanger, in sharing the opening-day lead for the second consecutive week — she had a career best 68 in Baltimore last week and was tied with Joyce Kazmierski but wound up in a tie for fifth — did not start playing golf until her freshman year in high school.

"My parents played and naturally they wanted me to follow them," said Stanger.

"However, I really thought golf was a stupid game — I still do. I thought it was for old people...that it was too tame. Tennis was easy as far as I was concerned and I was into basketball and football. "Playing golf got very frustrating. So much so that I started working on my game. I couldn't stand being beaten by a little white ball."

Building a strong business is no accident.

So don't let an accident destroy it.

Your successful business could be wiped out in a single day. How? By losing a large lawsuit not covered by your basic business insurance.

Aetna's Commercial Umbrella Policy is the answer. It provides million dollar liability protection — and more. And because Commercial Umbrella coverage applies only when your existing coverage is exhausted, the cost is surprisingly low.

You can't prevent every loss, but you can prevent the loss of your business. Give us a call. We'll recommend the Umbrella coverage that's right for you.

Think Positive. Think Aetna. Think . . .

FAITH IN GOD WILL RESTORE YOUR SELF-CONFIDENCE

Are you ever consumed by doubts of your own abilities? Do you sometimes fear that you may be unequal to whatever task you are assigned in your chosen work? Then let faith in God give you the assurance that if the work you are doing is right, then you will be given the ability to perform it adequately and that there is nothing you cannot do if it is required of you. God never intended that man should be limited in his capacity for good work, so go to Church this Sunday and trust Him to give you all the courage and self-confidence you will ever need.

"If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you."
— Matthew 17:20

The reason birds can fly and we can't is simply that they have perfect faith, for to have faith is to have wings.
— Sir James Matthew Barrie
