Saturday classes scheduled to make up for snow day

By JERI CURTIS Managing Editor

Saturday classes and a request for a waiver from the state are the options the Hereford school district is taking to make up the two days of school missed due to the recent snowstorm.

The Hereford school board voted Tuesday night to designate March 15 as the Saturday for classes.

Several ski trip sponsors had contacted the administration to explain that the two dates already set aside for make-up days -Feb. 28 and March 24- had been booked for ski trips by families, numerous church groups and youth organizations which have put up non-refundable deposits at the slopes.

By having classes on March 15 one of the snow days could be made up. Superintendent Harrell Holder said he would ask the state for a waiver on the second day, since the winter storm was unusually heavy and widespread.

Holder asked to table consideration of the 1986-87 calendar.

Holder also reported that the U.S. Dept. of Justice had contacted him requesting, though not in an official capacity, to meet with him and Stan-

Reagan balancing fraud, U.S. bases in Philippines

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan is walking a tightrope between opposing sides in the Philippine presidential election, saying he is disturbed by reports of voting fraud and violence but mindful of U.S. strategic interest in maintaining its military bases on the islands.

In a written statement after hearing his observers report on the irregularities they had witnessed in the still-undecided race, Reagan said, "It is a disturbing fact that the way to persuade Mrs. Aquino not to election has been flawed by reports of fraud, which we take seriously, and by violence."

But he said, "We need to remind ourselves that this is a Philippine election, not an American election." And he told a news conference Tuesday night, "One can't minimize the importance" of U.S. Navy and Air Force bases on the Pacific islands.

"I don't know of any that's more important than the bases on the Philippines," Reagan told reporters in a nationally broadcast news con-

On other matters at the news conference, Reagan, when asked about the release earlier in the day of Soviet dissident Anatoly Shcharansky, said he "talked at great length about human rights" with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev at their summit last November.

Reagan said he thought there had been an increase in such emigrations since then, and added, "I hope that this is a beginning sign of what's going to take place."

Regarding this week's change of government in Haiti, the presiden said the only U.S. involvement in the downfall of President-for-Life Jean Claude Duvalier was in "providing an airplane" to fly him into exile in France.

He said Duvalier did not seek advice about his departure, and the United States offered none. U.S. officials have acknowledged, however, that they were involved in intensive consultations with Duvalier and the new regime to help smooth the way for a bloodless transfer of power.

JERUSALEM (AP) - Soviet human rights activist Anatoly Shcharansky, freed after nine years in jails and labor camps, vowed to resume his struggle on behalf of those still imprisoned in the Soviet Union or denied permission to emigrate.

But first, he told a reporter he wants to begin "a normal family life" with his wife, Avital. The couple was separated a day after their marriage 12 years ago, but since then she conducted a worldwide campaign for his release.

Shcharansky beamed and held his wife's hand as he received a tumultuous welcome Tuesday from government leaders and thousands of joyous supporters in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem.

He had been freed earlier in the day on a snowy bridge connecting East and West Germany and then flown to Israel.

In Jerusalem, where his wife based her campaign for his freedom, thousands of well-wishers danced, sang, and carried him on their shoulders to the Wailing Wall, a remnant of the biblical Jewish Temple. Wearing a blue-and-white yamulka, or skullcap, Shcharansky kissed the ancient stones and read from the Book of Psalms.

The Shcharanskys then returned to the Jerusalem apartment where Avital has been living for the past few years. Seminary students stood guard outside the apartment to allow the couple privacy and fend off hun-

NASA felt seals were 'adequate'

WASHINGTON (AP) - NASA engineers have been concerned about the performance of rubber sealing rings on the space shuttle's rocket boosters for more than a year, but concluded that while the seals needed to be improved, they were "safe and adequate" for flight, space agency officials said.

Although the cause of the Jan. 28 explosion of the Challenger space shuttle has yet to be determined, the investigation has focused increasingly on a possible leak where sections of the solid-fuel rocket boosters are Incentive may be the key word in the no-pass, no-play debate. There may be some incentive for students involved in extracurricular activities, but what about those who aren't? As best as we can determine, some students sit out for six weeks and are supposed to use the time to study, then the same students are on the failing list again.

Gov. White defends the rule as a great incentive for students to place more emphasis on study. If it's incentive they want, we've got a sug-gestion that should not offend adults and provide even more incentive for the student. Make it a "no-pass, nodrive-the-car" rule!

U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm, speaking at the West Texas Press convention Saturday in Snyder, said there is much pressure on Congress to follow "the spirit of the law" on the Gramm-Rudman bill despite a special judicial ruling that part of the law is unconstitutional.

Stenholm agrees with the judges' ruling. "We delegated to someone else what we were elected to do," he stated. He believes in the balanced budget proposal, but Stenholm noted the president's refusal to cut budgets in some departments has placed increased pressure on Congress.

"Reagan excluded 85 percent of the budget from any cuts. We're suppose to convince voters we can balance the budget under those circumstances. We can't," he said. The congressman warned rough times are ahead for farmers and ranchers

Two more teen-agers plead

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A state judge said he will wait several weeks and look at background investigations of seven teenagers before deciding their punishment for participating in vigilante-style action purportedly aimed at ridding their high school from drug use.

The seven and one other - all students at Fort Worth Paschal High School — were indicted on graduation day last May on 33 charges that stem from a series of crimes between Jan. 9 and March 24, 1985. The incidents included a car bombing, firing of shots at a house, and passing notes signed with Swastikas.

"I'm going to look at all the evidence. I don't know which of the seven is the most culpable or anything like that," State District Judge Don Leonard said Tuesday.

Police said the students, including honor students, athletes and sons of prominent members of the community, were part of an organization they called the "Legion of Doom."

Paschal has about 2,100 students.

Leonard allowed the defendants to remain free on bond, but he warned them to "behave yourself," or he would raise their bail "until even your mothers and fathers can't pay it."

Five students pleaded guilty Monday to various charges, and two others entered guilty pleas on Tuesday. An eighth student will be dealt with later, officials said.

Punishment on the individual felony charges range from two to 20 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. The misdemeanor offenses are punishable by up to six months in a county jail and a $1,000 fine.

Two men stuck in plane

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) - A single-engine plane coming in too low on its landing tangled in 220,000-volt electrical lines Tuesday night and the two men inside hung 80 feet in the air for four hours until

As the men dangled from their seatbelts, firefighters and utility crews moved in a huge crane and a platform on a hydraulic lift to steady the plane. A third hydraulic lift carried firefighters in a bucket up to free the men.

Dean Plath, 58, of Tustin, crawled cautiously across a wing, steadied by ropes, at 11:40 p.m. Plath was taken to the ground, then the bucket returned to pluck Ed Washburn to safety at midnight, officials said.

"When we first got there, they wanted to jump," said a fire department dispatcher. "We had to quickly find a bullhorn and tell them

The plane was too low on its approach to Ontario International airport and got stuck in the wires about two miles from the runway, said a Federal Aviation Administration official who refused to give his name. The plane had taken off from Fullerton, 25 mill away, and the pilot was in touch with the tower.

AIDS antibodies found in saliva

BOSTON (AP) - The discovery of AIDS antibodies in victims' saliva may explain why the disease isn't transmitted by kissing and could give doctors a new way to check for exposure to the AIDS virus, scientists say.

The researchers found that most people who carry AIDS antibodies in their blood also have the substances in their saliva.

Experts believe AIDS is spread only through sexual intercourse or the injection of tainted blood. The disease is not spread through kissing or other contact with saliva, even though the AIDS virus has sometimes been found in saliva of victims of the disease.

"Saliva seems to be very uninfectious," said Dr. David W. Archibald of the Harvard School of Public Health. "There has to be some reason for that."

The discovery of antibodies in saliva could help explain why saliva isn't dangerous. The researchers speculate that the antibodies deactivate AIDS viruses in saliva so they don't infect others.

Tylenol investigated as homicide

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) - The death of a woman who took a cyanide-laced Extra-Strength Tylenol capsule probably was an isolated incident and is being investigating as a homicide, authorities say.

Bomb explodes in east Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - A bomb exploded today in front of a movie theater located near an office of President Amin Gemayel's Phalange Party in Christian east Beirut, killing two women and injuring 10 other people, police said. The midmorning explosion badly damaged a row of ground-floor shops adjacent to the theater in the poor Ein Rummaneh residential district and damaged seven cars.

The theater, empty at the time of the blast, is located in a sevenstory apartment building. An office of Gemayel's Phalange Party is about 30 yards from the site of the blast. Police estimated the bomb, hidden in a leather bag like some of the earlier charges, contained 36 pounds of dynamite.

Red Cross and civil defense rescuers clawed through a pile of shattered cement blocks and boxes in a devastated women's underwear shop. "There may be some people under there," said a militiaman. Police said the two dead were women, but their identities were not immediately known. The bombing was the fourth near Phalange offices in east Beirut since the Christian president's loyalists and their allies-crushed his main Christian challenger, militia leader Elie Hobeika, on Jan. 15.

The latest bomb attack came a day after the Lebanese Forces militia, the Christians' main fighting machine, rounded up more than 60 Hobeika supporters, claiming they were behind the bomb-

Educators could learn a few lessons

NEW YORK (AP) - Educators could learn a few lessons from companies like Walt Disney and Mary Kay Cosmetics when it comes to training beginning teachers, a new study argues.

A draft of the report, "Mirrors of Excellence: Reflections for Teacher Education from Training Programs in Ten Corporations and Agencies," says principals, superintendents and other administrators too often stand idly by as fledgling teachers flounder in the classroom.

Concerning disturbed children

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from "Bummed Out' in West Palm Beach rang my bell. I've been there. In fact, my son is 35 going on 10. "Bummed" is worrying about getting her kid through high school. The odds are he will never graduate.

Mine graduated from reform school. Then he graduated from the prison systems in five states. We have had him in and out of therapy since he was 9 years old. He has had problems with drugs and alcohol starting at age 11 and has been threatening suicide since he was 15. He is accident-prone and has wrecked every car he has driven.

His uncontrollable temper has made it impossible for him to sustain a relationship with a woman. He has mistreated every female he ever went with. Of course they get tired of the abuse and leave. He then runs back to us and rants and raves because "the whore walked out."

He can't hold a job but it is never his fault. We have offered him more psychiatric help any time he is willing to accept it, but he says he has never met a sane psychiatrist and refuses to waste any more time on screwballs.

Our other children are good young adults and have never caused us any trouble. But one child like this can keep the whole family in an uproar. It's plain hell.

This son was raised with the same love and attention his siblings received, yet he is totally different. I am not writing for advice. It is too late for that. I guess maybe I just wanted to let other parents who have this problem know they are not alone. Meanwhile, if you have any theories on why our son is the way he is, I would like to hear them.--SYMPATHETIC IN

DEAR SYMPATHETIC: Many things in life defy explanation, and how children turn out is one of them.

Your son sounds as if he has been emotionally disturbed from early childhood. It also is apparent that he has a criminal mentality, which many experts now believe is caused by a chemical problem in the brain. Sometimes medication is helpful, sometimes it isn't.

It was kind of you to write in the hope that other parents with disturbed children might feel better knowing they are not alone. Thank you on behalf of all of them.

DEAR ANN: Your advice to the woman whose minister husband is chased by women in the congregation was perfect. You advised her to treat him as if he were the most honorable, faithful and trustworthy man int he world. You said, "Give him something to live up to and chances are good that he will not let you down."

Herd teams lose games

By GARY CHRISTENSEN

Sports Editor
A 33 percent shooting effort from the field by the Hereford varsity boys, and a cold-shooting third quarter by the HHS junior varsity boys resulted in losses by nearly identical scores to Tascosa teams Tuesday night in Hereford.

Tascosa won the varsity contest 63-52 and took the junior varsity game 63-51.

Tuesday's games were the home finales of the 1985-86 season for the Whiteface teams. Hereford closes out the season Friday at Lubbock High School, with game times of 6 p.m. for the junior varsity and 7:45 p.m. for the varsity. The Whiteface varsity hit just 19 of 57 field goal attempts in the 63-52 loss to Tascosa. Tascosa halted a few Hereford comeback attempts in the second half. The score was tied four times in the first quarter before Tascosa gained a 13-8 lead. Tascosa then increased its lead to 19-8 before Doug Watts scored a pair of free throws for Hereford with 6:19 left in the first half.

The Whitefaces then closed the gap to five points by halftime, 28-23.

Hereford's Jerry Brown scored the first points of the second half to bring his team within three points, 28-25. Tascosa then scored with 6:28 left in the quarter for a 30-25 lead.

Nearly three minutes went by before either team scored again. Tascosa had a 32-25 lead at that point, and finished the quarter with a 38-31 lead over Hereford.

Tascosa held a nine-point lead twice early in the fourth quarter. Hereford moved within six points on two occasions, first with 5:19 left when Doug Watts made a three-point play, and then with 4:50 left on a basket by Jerry Brown.

But in the next two minutes, Tascosa upped its lead to 12 points, 52-40. Watts hit a shot with 2:14 left to cut the margin to 10 points.

The Whitefaces then scored two quick baskets when putting a fullcourt press on against the Rebels. Brown scored with 1:50 left, and Rodney McCracken scored with 1:41 left, slicing the Tascosa lead to eight points, 54-46.

After Tascosa scored with 1:27 left, Bobby Baker made a field goal for the Herd with 1:15 left. That made the margin eight points again, 56-48.

Tascosa made one of two free throws with 1:09 left for a nine-point lead. Baker and Brown then scored baskets in the next 35 seconds to move Hereford to within five points, 57-52, but time ran out on the Whitefaces and Tascosa recorded a

The game was a very physical one all the way, particularly by the Tascosa players, who managed to get through the entire second half with only three fouls called on them. Rodney Torres was high scorer for Hereford with 15 points-13 in the first half. Doug Watts and Bobby Baker each scored nine points, Jerry Brown totaled seven points, and Rodney McCracken had seven Watts, Baker and Brown did the bulk of their seoring in the fourth quarter. Watts had seven of his points in that period, and Baker and Brown each scored six points in the final quarter.

Rebound leaders for the Herd were McCracken with 11, Watts with nine and Brown with eight. McCracken also led in assists with three, and Kevin Hansen and Stefan Hacker led in steals with three each.

In the junior varsity game Tues-day, Hereford led through almost all of the first half. Tascosa made a field goal with nine second left in the second quarter for a 31-30 halftime

Tascosa then outscored Hereford 19-4 in the third quarter and beat Hereford 63-51.

Todd Weaver and Jerry McDonald each scored 11 points to lead Hereford. Marcus Brown scored nine points, and Mark Artho, Pete Bowles and David Manchee each added six Weaver also recorded six assists. Weaver and Brown each had four steals, and Weaver and Jimmy Hazzard each grabbed three rebounds.

Assist From Torres To Watts

Rodney Torres (20) of the Hereford Whiteface varsity decided not to shoot the ball and instead passed off to Doug Watts (54), who scored a basket with 6:30 left in the fourth quarter. Torres scored 15 points and Watts had nine points in a 63-52 loss to Tascosa. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen)

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The St. Louis Cardinals filed suit against the Na-tional Football League and Commissioner Pete Rozelle, claiming that league rules covering the transfer of franchises violate antitrust laws.

The suit specifically challenged a rule which requires prior approval by three-fourths of the league owners before a club can transfer its franchise or playing site. Bidwill is unhappy with the seating capacity of Busch Stadium, which holds 51,392 people.

NEW YORK (AP) - Left-hander Frank Viola, the ace of the Minnesota Twins' pitching staff, won his salary arbitration case and will earn $674,000 for the 1986 season, while his teammate, infielder Gary Gaetti, lost and five other major league players avoided arbitration hearings by signing contracts.

The split of the two arbitration cases gave the players four victories and the owners six in the 10 decisions

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) - Matt Christensen, standout center for the University of Minnesota-Duluth hockey team, was in serious condition after suffering a stroke, a hospital spokesman said.

Christensen, 21, was in stable condition Monday, but suffered neurological changes and was transferred to the intensive care unit at St. Luke's Hospital, said Howard Bell, the hospital's community relations coordinator.

Christensen suffered the stroke Sunday during an outdoor boot hockey game and doctors said he was not expected to rejoin the Western Collegiate Hockey Association team this season.

Top 3 pole vaulters to be in same meet

By BERT ROSENTHAL AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - The power of a pole vaulter rushing down the runway and the grace with which he makes his ascent toward the bar are among the most exhilirating experiences at a track and field meet. Those experiences have reached unlimited highs this season.

Seven times the world indoor best in the pole vault has been broken. Billy Olson has been the most dynamic competitor, smashing the mark four times. Sergey Bubka of the Soviet Union has shattered it twice and Joe Dial has done it once.

The excitement surrounding the event is expected to reach a crescendo Friday night in the Wanamaker Millrose Games at New York's Madison Square Garden, where all three vaulters will be present.

The Millrose Games, labeled "The Indoor Olympics," are an annual sellout; and the excitement created by Friday night's showdown prompted meet director Howard Schmertz to quip: "Maybe we should just cancel all the other events and hold the pole vault."

Would it sell out? Probably.

Although's Olson's world indoor best is 19 feet, 51/2 inches, and Bubka's world outdoor record is 19-814, the possibility has been raised of a vaulter soaring over the bar at the magical height of 20 feet in the very near future. That is the attrac-

Such a feat was predicted about 25 years ago by Cornelius Warmerdam, the first to clear 15 feet indoors and

"But I didn't think it would come this quick," the 70-year-old Warmer- the 1973 Millrose Games. dam said. "I figured it would come in my lifetime, though."

Warmerdam's assumption followed the introduction of the fiberglass

"When the equipment changed, I saw 20 feet as a logical height," said Warmerdam, now living in retirement in Fresno, Calif.

"The three of them are knocking on the door," he said of Olson, Bubka and Dial. "It doesn't take long to go from where they are to 20 feet. I think all of them have cleared that when they went over at a lower height." When Warmerdam reached his greatest heights, between 1937-44, vaulting better than 15 feet 43 times, he did it with a bamboo pole.

"The bamboo had to be grown," Warmerdam said. "Now, they just manufacture the poles."

Warmerdam, the track and field

A pitcher named George Bradley started all 64 games played by the St. Louis Nationals in 1876. He completed 63 of them.

In 2,151 games as a major league outfielder, Ted Williams had 4,159 putouts, 140 assists and 113 errors for a fielding average of .974.

coach at Fresno State from 1947-80, also said that when he was vaulting, he held the pole at 13-11. Now, the vaulters are gripping over 16 feet.

"They're holding that thing at the end," he said. "We couldn't do that with the bamboo pole, and the vaulters who used the steel poles later couldn't do it, either.

'When they're going as high as they are now, they certainly can go much higher. Some of them can't Trying To Work Inside even win at 19-3."

Warmerdam said that when he generally numbered one or two. One of his favorites was given to him by another vaulter, who said the pole was too heavy. The other also was a gift, from a friend.

Warmerdam said he was delighted accomplishing.

"Once the die was cast, the sky's the limit," said Warmerdam, who once was among a group of NCAA coaches who fought against the use of the fiberglass pole. "Then I realized you can't fight progress.

"I won't be shocked if anyone does 20 feet this weekend or any weekend soon. It won't be any more shocking now than doing 15 feet when I did it. The way they rocket up there, they could land on the roof."

The vaulters have been heading toward the Garden roof with some historic jumps in the Millrose

Warmerdam's first 15-foot indoor vault was in the 1942 Millrose Games. The first indoor 16-footer, by John Uelses with a more flexible pole, occurred in the 1962 Millrose Games, and the first 18-foot indoor vault, by Steve Smith, highlighted

Fads won't help arthritis

DEAR DR. GOTT - I have osteoarthritis in my knees and feet. My doctor has me taking eight to 10 Ascriptin a day and riding an exercise bike, with no tension, two to four hours a day. I have been doing this for six months, and it has definitely helped, but I still can't walk without pain. Is it safe to use DMSO on my knees? Also, someone suggested I use WD-40. I would like your opinion on both

DEAR READER - Ask your doctor about nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory agents (NSAIDS), new medicines for arthritis. They contain no aspirin, work better than acetominophen and are less dangerous than 'cortisone. DMSO, a product applied to the skin, hasn't withstood the test of time for effectiveness; it doesn't work. Keep exercising and stay active. Forget WD-40, the spray-can lubricant. It will be of far more use on your bicycle chain than on your joints, and you won't have that greasy look.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I have a rare disease known as neurofibromatosis. I know it's hereditary and there is no cure for it. I can't find any material on what causes it and wondered if you could help.

YOUR NOSE IS WARM.

DEAR READER - To my knowledge, no one has discovered the cause of neurofibromatosis, a disease characterized by multiple tumors of nerves. The disease affected the Elephant Man; fortunately, it does not affect all of its victims to that extent. If you are interested in learning more about the disorder, I suggest you read the appropriate sections in any of the medical textbooks that are available from your doctor or through the cour-

DEAR DR. GOTT - What could cause bleeding from the urinary tract? It's like I have to keep urinating, but all that happened was bleeding bad. I went to three M.D.s and back to the surgeon who did a hysterectomy, and all I got was some big green pills. I had an operation on my bladder because I could not control urination, and I have had trouble ever since.

DEAR READER - Bleeding from the urinary tract is always abnormal and can reflect tumors, infection or severe inflammation. I don't know whether your problem is the consequence of your surgery — it's possible. You certainly cannot rely on big green pills for the rest of your life.

Active elderly people seem less distressed

Finding out what brings happiness in old age has led an American sociologist to another continent for information.

H.Paul Chalfant, head of the Sociology Department at Texas Tech University, believes those who remain active and involved into old age are happier than those who do not. He wants to add credibility to the assumption by proving it in another culture.

"The theory that elderly people who are active and have many support systems are less psychologically distressed than those who don't is fairly well accepted. But, we need to constantly reinforce it," Dr. Chalfant said. "We can do that by adding a cross-cultural dimension.'

Chalfant's interest led to a research coalition with the Xuan-Wu Traditional Medical Hospital in the People's Republic of China, which several years ago began a program of activities and education for the more than 40,000 elderly people in its

IT'S EITHER THE FLU

OR LOVE .. THE SYMPTOMS

ARE THE SAME

Coordinator of the program, Dr. Xu Huan-Yun, wants to know if the programs are resulting in more fulfillment for the elderly. Chalfant will use his research expertise to rate the hospital's program and to support his own beliefs about the relationship between involvement and aging.

Xu and others have interviewed more than 3,000 elderly people in the hospital district. This summer Chalfant will go to China to pick up the data, which he and other sociologists will then compile and study.

"The Chinese have a one child per family rule which is causing their society to become older," he said. "As the population ages, it becomes important for them to learn to support and deal with the elderly."

The U.S. has a similar problem, he said. As families choose to have fewer children, the elderly population grows and becomes more important socially, politically and economically.

The hospital's program is operated by a council of elderly citizens who plan activities and courses in health, recreation, exercise and aging.

Elderly Chinese are those who have retired. For women, retirement comes at 55 if they were in nontechnical jobs or at 60 if they held technical positions. For men, it is 60 in non-technical fields and 65 in technical occupations.

Chalfant, who is also an adjunct professor for Heilongjiang College of Medical Administration in China, became involved in the project after Xu heard him give several lectures for Women" will be the theme of a one day seminar sponsored by the Amarillo Area Chapter of Federally loyed Women (FEW) on March 8, at the Quality Inn East.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m., with the seminar starting at 8:45, concluding at 3:30 p.m. An advance registration fee of $45 (or $55 at the door) includes lunch, workbook, instructional materials, and a certificate of attendance.

The seminar is directed to women. who work in government, deal with government agencies, and women working in social services or for nonprofit organizations.

Women who move up from worker to manager often find themselves in a rather lonely position and must deal with preconceived attitudes about the "woman boss."

Therefore, women can profit from a specialized approach to developing skills. Although women's goals are the same as male managers, the process of reaching those goals, of mastering the function, is somewhat different for most women.

The seminar is designed to provide the participants with specific practical skills and information enabling them to maximize existing opportunities with effectiveness, provide insight into achieving success and developing attitudes, awareness, skills and approaches that help in-

Resolving conflicts, coping with stress, solving problems, making decisions, affecting changes, organizing for results, setting priorities, surviving transition, and understanding office politics will be addressed.

Connie Sitterly, M.A., associate with Management Training Specialists, a Ft. Worth/Dallas based firm, specializing in management development in public and private sectors, will be conducting the class.

A frequent speaker before professional and trade organizations, she has trained hundreds in preparing personnel for maximizing job opportunities for career advancement and for increasing and enhancing image, attitude and performance in present positions. Author, trainer, consul-

Riedler said he didn't expect the students or parents to become experts, but that he hoped they would recognize problems in their sons and daughters and in their friends.

If you think hobbies are only for people with time on their hands, think again. Texas Medical Association says relaxation provided by hobbies can help reduce stress levels created by today's hectic lifestyles.

Getting totally involved in a hobby can help block out the worries of the day and give your mind and body a chance to relax. But even hobbies can be stressful if you compete with yourself or hurry to finish a particular project.

Here are a few tips for selecting a pastime that will Safety, particularly the Inrejuvenate you:

time to take a few extra precautions when working outdoors. Even people in good physical condition should be careful to avoid exerting themselves in the cold, freezing winds or blowing snow. If your vehicle is stuck, work slowly and remain calm.

Your safest bet is to remain with your vehicle. Don't leave and seek help. You may become quickly disoriented

God gave Paul the power to do unusual miracles. so that even when his handerchiefs or parts of his clothing were placed upon sick people. hey were healed, and many Jemons within them came out.

A team of itinerant lews who were traveling from town to town casting out demons planned to experiment by using the name of the Lord Jesus. The incantation they decided on was this: "ladjure you by Jesus, whom Paul preaches, to come out!"

Seven sons of Sceva, a Jewish priest, were doing this. But when they tried it on a man possessed by a demon, the demon replied. "I know Jesus and I know Paul, but who are you? And he leaped on two of them and beat them up, so that they fled out of his house naked and hadly injured.

The story of what happened spread quickly all through Ephesus, to lews and Greeks alike; and solemn fear descended on the city, and the name of the Lord lesus was greatly honored.

Many of the believers who had been practicing black magic confessed their deeds and brought their incantation backs and charms and burned them at a public basine. (Someone estimated the value of the books at $10,000.)
