

Welcome Wheat Showers Soak County

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

A slow-moving cold front touched off showers and thunderstorms across most of Texas Thursday night and brought a new surge of welcome moisture to the wheatlands of Deaf Smith County in the wee hours of this morning.

Moisture accumulations of up to .50 inches were reported from some sections of the county by midmorning, with a slow, drizzling rain allowing sorely-needed moisture to soak deep, where the subsoil reserve is depleted.

The showers come as a much-needed boost to dryland wheat which got some light moisture to help it get started on some portions of the county's dryland acreage.

Additional moisture has been needed by wheat in both dryland and irrigated fields, and a continuation of the slow soaker which began last night could go a long way toward brightening early wheat growth prospects here.

Those same showers will result in a delay in corn harvesting operations, which are underway here now, but most farmers will likely accept a few days of delay in the corn harvest for some improvement in the seriously depelted soil moisture reserve.

This morning's heaviest rainfall was reported from Farmer's Elevator, five miles north of the Dawn community, where a .50 inch report was received shortly after 8 a.m.

Light showers were continuing at that location at the time of the report.

Excellent rainfall was also reported from the far northwest portion of the county, where up to .50 inches was logged at the Clint Homfeld farm 47 miles northwest.

Mrs. Homfeld reported that wheat in that area "is pretty well up" and added that the slow soaker will help spur vigorous early growth of the crop.

A report of .30 inches was received from Bill Page at Bootleg Corner. Page added that the dryland wheat has also sprouted in the Walcott vicinity.

Calvin Mitts of Northwest Grain, west of Farmer's Corner, reported .30 inches of rainfall at that location with similar amounts in the area surrounding the elevator location.

Mitts reported that farmers were just winding up wheat planting in that area, and the rainfall should prove particularly timely.

Another .30 inch report was received from Pioneer Fertilizer at Milo Center, while the H.L. Hershey farm 13 miles northeast of the city also logged .30 inches.

To the south of Hereford, a spokesman at Easter Grain estimated rainfall at .20 inches in that area.

KPAN radio logged a total of .20 inches for the city by 8 a.m. while intermittent sprinkles continued in Hereford this morning.

In some portions of Texas, rainfall was more intense and some streets and highways were closed due to high water.

A flash flood warning was issued for Val Verde County in southwest Texas and several roads were closed by high water.

A 14-year-old boy was struck and killed by lightning in the north Dallas suburb of Carrollton as he walked home from school during a thunderstorm. Daryle Ellis was found lying unconscious near his home about 4:30 p.m. Thursday and died shortly afterwards at a local hospital.

Forecasters were giving the local region a 50 percent chance of additional rainfall today with rain and a few thunderstorms expected to

Iraq Calling For Arab Revolt

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq called on the Arabs of Iran's southwestern oil province of Khuzestan today to revolt in support of advancing Iraqi ground forces threatening the provincial capital and the Iranian oil fields following the reported capture of the major oil port of Khorramshahr.

"Resist the Persian occupation with all means," said a Baghdad Radio broadcast to the 1 million ethnic Arabs of Khuzestan. "The revolution is yours. Victory is yours. Glory to the Arab nations."

Iran denied the loss of Khorramshahr, its biggest port 25 miles down the disputed Shatt al-Arab estuary from Basra, Iraq's chief port. The Japanese consul in Khorramshahr reported Iraqi forces had not entered the city Thursday night and there was fighting south of the city, the Japanese Foreign Ministry said in Tokyo.

But Iraqi communiques said the city fell early Thursday afternoon after a flanking movement by Iraqi troops to the north cut the railroad from Khorramshahr and neighboring Abadan to Ahvaz and Tehran, and "made the liberation of every yard of Arab land usurped by the Persians possible."

Abadan, five miles east of Khorramshahr and the site of one of the world's biggest oil refineries, already was under siege and its fall appeared imminent as the war entered its fifth day. The oil refinery has been shut down since an air and artillery attack Tuesday set part of it afire.

Iran's air force and navy carried the war to Iraq with attacks on its oil industry, but there were no reports of the extent of the damage.

An Iraqi communique said Iraqi gunboats and helicopter gunships fought off a naval attack before sundown Thursday on Khor Abdulla, Iraq's main oil terminal at the northeastern end of the Persian Gulf. The communique claimed three Iranian frigates and two gunboats sunk. It said a Greek ship and a Kuwaiti ship were hit during an Iranian raid on an Iraqi naval base in the waterway and two crewmen on the Kuwaiti ship were killed.

The Iraqis also reported Iranian air raids Thursday on Mosul and Kirkuk, two oil centers in northern Iraq; Baghdad, Kut and Basra areas, and the Um-Qasr har-

Muskie, Gromyko Meet on Conflict

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The spreading war between Iraq and Iran in an already tense Middle East carries a potential danger of nuclear conflict, says Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie.

But he told reporters after meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on Thursday that he does not yet consider the danger tangible.

"I do not think this is going to happen based on my perceptions of U.S. attitudes, Soviet attitudes, the world community," Muskie said at a news conference in his hotel suite.

Still, his attitude seemed especially somber as he reaffirmed a U.S. commitment to a cease-fire and negotiations while acknowledging that Gromyko had offered him nothing more specific than Soviet neutrality in the conflict.

Muskie sat in an armchair and answered questions for 40 minutes. He held a glass of white wine, but took only a sip or two while discussing the situation in the Mideast.

"The whole world stands to lose in this area, which is such an unstable area, so potentially explosive," Muskie said. "When hostilities erupt which could escalate, and could even escalate to the point where the ultimate unthinkable hostilities may take place."

"We've discussed the Middle East in these terms since the invention of the nuclear weapon and we've always regarded the Middle East the most sensitive, the most unstable area, therefore the most dangerous."

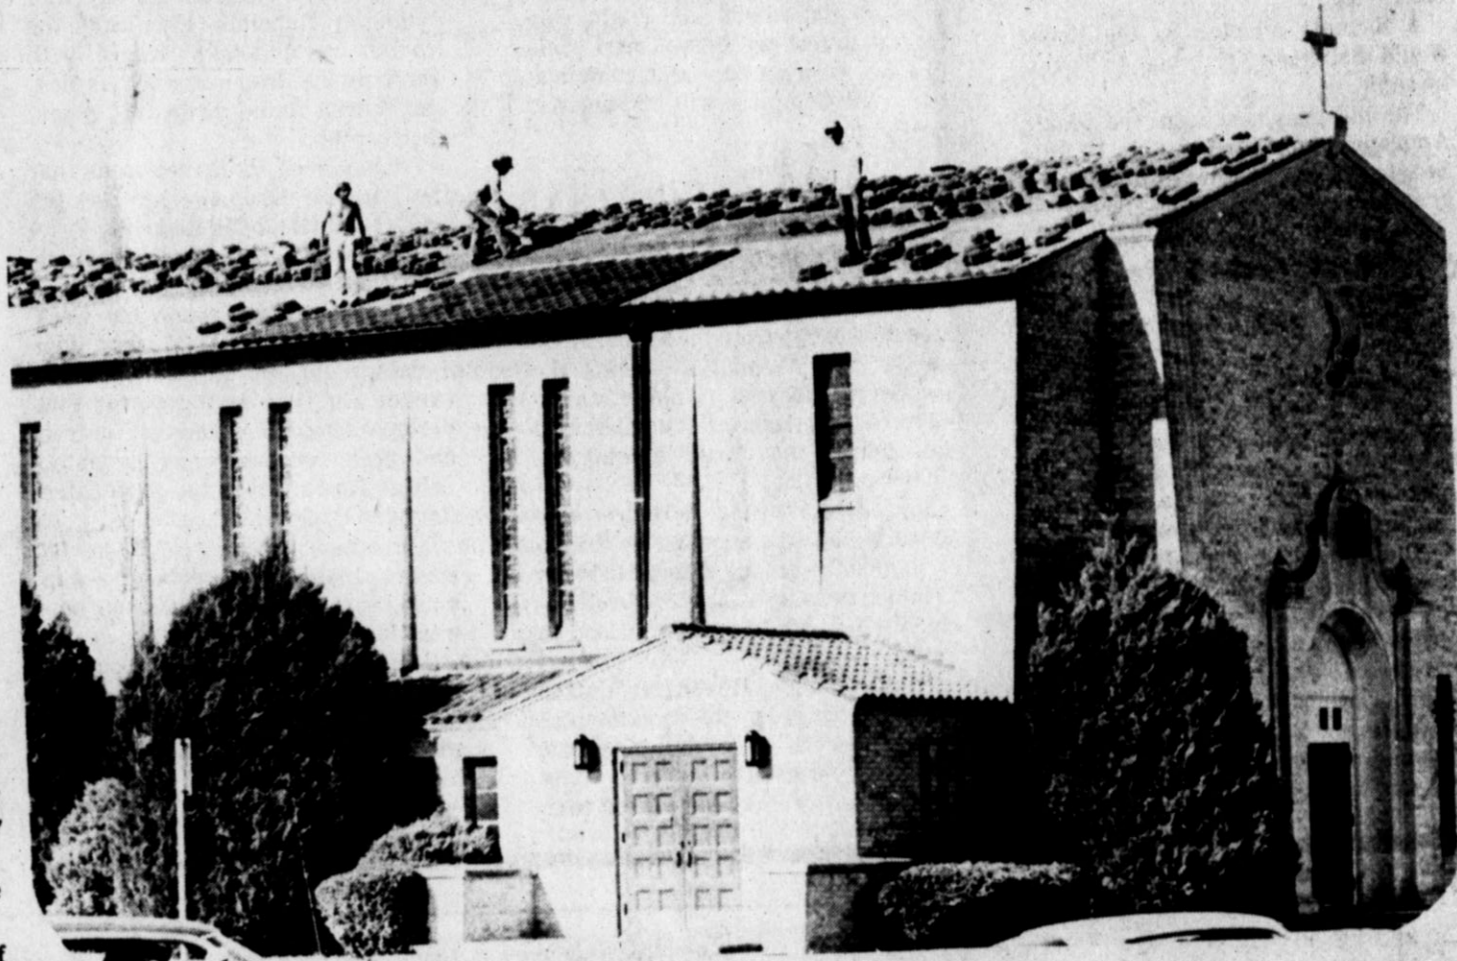

"I doubt the Soviets have lost that perception. I'm sure we haven't."

Muskie's meeting with Gromyko at the Soviet mission was their first since May and the traditional annual review of superpower relations. It produced an agreement to open negotiations in Geneva the week of Oct. 13 on a mutual cutback of medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe.

But on the troubled Persian Gulf, from where the non-Communist world gets about 40 per cent of its oil, Muskie said there was no commitment from Gromyko to support a U.N. cease-fire or any other specific action.

"He did not respond to, or

These workmen from Powers Roofing & Siding Co. could almost take divine inspiration for their work from their surroundings this week as they went about the process of moving clay tile shingles and putting down undercoating at St. Anthony's Catholic Church here. First of all, the workmen had to move heavenward to get to their job, and then, there was the cross adorning the front of the building to keep them mindful of their blessings. Repairs on the roof of the church and neighboring St. Anthony's School are expected to continue for at least another week. (Brand photo by Jim Steiert)

Charges Pend In Gun-Pulling

Charges of unlawful display of a firearm are pending against a Hereford juvenile today following an incident Thursday in which the individual allegedly pulled a gun on some other juveniles.

According to a Hereford police department spokesman, a group of boys were walking home yesterday when they encountered some older juveniles, who reportedly "sicked their dogs" on the younger boys.

The younger juveniles returned to the scene moments later with their own dog and police report that at that time the suspect produced a rifle or shotgun and threatened the younger boys with it.

The incident occurred in the 800 block of Irving.

Police are currently investigating two burglaries which occurred last night at neighboring businesses on East Highway 60.

One burglary was reported at Garrison Seed and a second at Ulysses Irrigation.

Police reported that an undetermined amount of cash was taken in the burglaries with the thieves gaining entry through an unlocked door at Garrison Seed and a second at Ulysses Irrigation.

Police investigated a domestic disturbance yesterday involving a dispute between parents and a grandparent over custody of a child. The case was referred to district court.

City police received a report on a 13-year-old runaway yesterday and also received complaints concerning four stolen hubcaps at the home of C.O. Taylor, 110 Apache, and damage to a car parked on the Hereford High School parking lot. The car is owned by Christy Valdez of 415 Ave. E.

Police issued six traffic citations Thursday.

Brand to Feature 'Doodles' Cartoons

J.P. Doodles joins The Hereford Brand as a new staff member this week. Doodles, a fictional justice of the peace who could be serving in any small community, is the creation of Barry McWilliams of Alder, Montana. He has been drawing the editorial cartoons since October, 1978.

The humorous strip is carried by more than 150 weekly and small daily newspapers in western states. It features plenty of editorial comment on everyday issues affecting the rural communities of America, McWilliams says.

Recent topics have included weather problems, the energy crisis, environmental issues, sewers, school boards, and farm problems.

McWilliams uses several recurring characters along with Doodles. They include a farmer, rancher, sheriff, a bureaucrat, and an editor. Many of his ideas come from news items, editorials and letters to the editor he reads in newspapers that subscribe to the "Doodles" strip.

Watch each Sunday's editorial page for J.P. Doodles, and he may pop up from time to time in other issues of The Brand.

Fed. Jury Hears Secret Tapes Of Speaker Taking $5,000

HOUSTON (AP) — Defense attorneys may soon get a chance to grill FBI informant Joseph Hauser now that prosecutors have fired their biggest legal gun against House Speaker Billy Clayton by playing tapes of a secretly-recorded Nov. 8 conversation, government attorneys said.

Prosecutor Ron Woods said there would be more tape recordings played to the jury in the Texas Brilab trial, but that the defense may now have a shot at Hauser, a convicted felon who became the central figure in the FBI undercover operation.

Clayton, labor leader L.G. Moore and Austin attorneys Randall Wood and Donald Ray were indicted by a federal grand jury June 12 of extortion, racketeering, bribery and conspiracy in an alleged insurance kickback scheme.

Clayton, Wood and Ray are now on trial in a Houston federal court.

Moore will be tried later. On secret Brilab tapes played Thursday there was a rustle of paper and Hauser counting "one, two, three, four, five" and then saying to Clayton "this is just peanuts."

Clayton said of the $5,000 contribution, "Well let me tell you we appreciate the heck out of it."

The recordings, made by Hauser, are the heart of the government's case against Clayton, a veteran of 20 years in the legislature, six years as speaker, and with hopes of the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1982.

Clayton has insisted the $5,000 was only a campaign contribution, legal in Texas if it is reported to the secretary of state.

The speaker never reported the stack of $100 bills but said there was no need to do that because he planned to return the money at a later date.

Hauser, posing as a representative of a large insurance company, asked the speaker's help in reopening bids on the $76 million-a-year state employee health and welfare insurance contract.

The Hauser tapes had Moore saying, "We want to make a contribution to your campaign. If that creates a problem for us under this type of circumstances, we don't want to do it."

Clayton said, "Let's get this thing and try to take care of it first ... and then, then let's think about that because if we do something now and then we start raising hell about this (the current insurance contract), you know how the damn press is."

The Thursday tapes also had this conversation:

Moore: "Let me tell you something now, Billy. Let me tell you what my commitment is to you.... He (Hauser) wants the business. He can do a better job. My commitment is, we will put, I will, in your, whatever you want to run, a $100,000 going in and we can be prepared to put up a half million."

Hauser: "Now that's for every year, every year, you understand that?"

Clayton: "Well, let me tell you, anytime you can show me where you will save the state money ... well by God, I'll go to battle for you ... you know I think that is what part of my job is ... try save the state money."

Clayton said he would have to report the contribution, but Hauser suggested the speaker put it away and think about reporting it later.

The FBI informant, later under questioning by the prosecution, said the speaker handed the money to his administrative assistant Russell "Rusty" Kelly and told him "you know where to put it."

After the meeting, Moore called Kelly and said, "pick up the phone and call me for whatever you need in those Houston House races."

Then Moore called Wood and said, "We made a contribution to Clayton and he accepted it. No problem."

Reagan Rejects Chance For Debate with Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan has once again rejected a chance to debate President Carter, but this time he's turned down the League of Women Voters — the very organization whose sponsorship he embraced the first time around.

After repeatedly chiding Carter for ducking what then turned out to be a two-man contest between himself and independent John B. Anderson, Reagan declined Thursday night a league proposal for two more presidential debates, one pitting him solely against Carter and the last also to include Anderson.

Carter had quickly accepted the proposal, an apparent attempt by the league to compromise between Carter's insistence that he meet Reagan alone and Reagan's desire to bring Anderson onto any platform shared by the president.

The league specifically invited Reagan and Carter to meet one another the week of Oct. 12 in Portland, Ore., and then to wind up the series with a three-way debate to include Anderson in Cleveland during the week of Oct. 26.

But Reagan, who was himself in Portland Thursday night, declared he wouldn't agree to any proposal "for a series of presidential debates that would preclude John Anderson" from full participation.

A Reagan spokesman indicated also that the Republican nominee probably wouldn't allow his running mate, George Bush, to accept the league's companion proposal for a three-way debate among running mates in Louisville, Ky., next Thursday. Vice President Walter F. Mondale and Patrick Lucey, John B. Anderson's No. 2 man, agreed to that plan.

Reagan's press secretary, Lyn Nofziger, said he doubted that Bush would participate "unless there are presidential debates. I don't think that's satisfactory."

Carter, speaking at a White House reception in honor of the Congressional Black Caucus, called the head-on meeting with Reagan "essential."

"That's what I've wanted all along," Carter said. "I have already accepted the invitation and look forward to a good debate on the issues that are of concern to you."

But Reagan's debate negotiator, James Baker III, sent the league a letter late Thursday which accused the organization of "succumbing to White House pressure" by excluding Anderson from one of the two proposed sessions.

Further, Baker charged that "neither you nor we would have any assurance whatsoever that President Carter would show up for the three-way debate. His track record on debates is one of arrogance and broken promises."

Baker said that Reagan would debate Carter one-to-one only if Carter did the same with Anderson. And that, he said, was purely a matter of "basic fairness."

But Baker had used different language only a day

Bill Would Steer

Funds to Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — A move to give a bigger share of low income energy assistance to the Frost Belt at the expense of Texas and other Sun Belt states has been moderated, says Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

The Texas Democrat said Thursday that a compromise formula adopted by a Senate committee would direct $57.4 million in Energy Assistance Act funds to the state during the next fiscal year.

A formula adopted by the House would distribute $38 million to Texas, he said.

The bill goes next through the Senate Appropriations Committee to the Senate floor, probably before the congressional recess begins next week.

The House and Senate bills then would have to be reconciled.

Bentsen said if the formula in existing law were not changed Texas would receive about $60 million next year.

He said the formula has a clear bias to send more money to the North for help with heating bills, despite last summer's fatal evidence that heat can be a health hazard as well.

"I am continuing to fight in the Senate to eliminate all traces of regional bias in the Energy Assistance Act, but I am pleased that we were able to persuade the Senate Appropriations Committee to beat back efforts to worsen an already bad regional bias in this program," Bentsen said in a statement.

Shuttle Practice Mission Halted

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Technical problems forced scientists to halt a second attempt to simulate the flight of the space shuttle Columbia after the mock orbiter stopped working, said a spokesman at the Johnson Space Center.

Officials gave no explanation why the simulator failed and refused to speculate when the problem would be corrected, the spokesman said.

Technical problems forced scientists to abort the first simulated flight Wednesday, midway through the 56-hour practice mission. Scientists decided to re-try the make-believe flight Thursday after data transmission problems were corrected.

The simulated flight was designed to allow astronauts and flight controllers to test procedures used while in orbit. Barring no major complications, the Columbia will be launched next year.

Republicans Cite Military Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican trio from the Senate Armed Services Committee claims the combat readiness of the nation's armed forces has declined at an alarming rate during the Carter administration.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, said Thursday he was appalled by the information the group gathered in visits to major military bases last week, including his own trip to Fort Hood in Texas.

"Unfortunately, President Carter has failed to grasp the fundamental axiom that the best guarantee that you will never have to use force — the best guarantee of peace — is for your adversaries to be certain that our force is better than theirs," Tower said at a news conference. "Today, unfortunately, that certainty no longer exists."

He said the trips were prompted by news reports that six of ten Army divisions are not ready for combat.

Sen. Roger Jepsen, R-Iowa, visited Fort Riley in Kansas and Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, went to Fort Campbell in Kentucky.

Tower said the trips demonstrated that serious problems exist in all three measurements of combat readiness — troops, material and training.

Iraq Claims

Khomeini Dead

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq's official radio reported Friday that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the Iranian revolutionary leader with whose regime Iraq is at war, has died, but Tehran Radio denied the report shortly after.

"It has been confirmed to us that the impostor Khomeini has met his death," said Baghdad Radio.

It did not say how the claimed confirmation was obtained.

It was the second report this week by the Iraqi radio of a sensational development in its adversary's capital. On Tuesday it reported that the 52 American hostages held in Iran had been released unconditionally. Tehran Radio denied the report, and Baghdad Radio abandoned it.

The broadcast claiming Khomeini was dead said he has not been seen in public since the war broke out between Iraq and Iran on Monday.

"All statements that have been attributed to him and broadcast on his behalf over Tehran Radio have been written by others and read by others, because the tyrant is dead," the broadcast said.

Arkansas 'Missile Fog' Results In Illness for Area Residents

GUY, Ark. (AP) — A fog that looked like a "light snow" blew into this tiny community shortly after a Titan II missile silo exploded five miles away last week, and officials say about two dozen residents, including the mayor, have been sick ever since.

The residents are complaining of nausea, burning sensations in their noses, throats and lungs, and dry, salty lips, although none apparently has become ill enough to be hospitalized.

Benny Mercer, mayor of the community of 200, puts the blame squarely on the toxic fumes that seeped from the silo.

Lt. Gen. Lloyd R. Leavitt, vice commander of the Strategic Air Command, said Wednesday that Air Force calculations indicated toxic fumes had not reached Guy and in fact had not gone more than one mile from the silo.

But Mercer said Thursday that the fog, which arrived about an hour after the explosion, melted within 15 minutes and the Air Force did not take measurements soon enough to detect it.

The silo blew up last Friday after a wrench socket dropped by a workman ruptured a missile fuel tank. One person was killed and 21 were injured. The warhead from the missile was ejected from the silo and was later taken to a weapons plant in Amarillo, Texas, to be analyzed or disassembled.

Mercer said he was awake early Friday because he had been alerted to the explosion by a firefighter and was conferring with other community leaders on whether to order an evacuation.

Before the town was evacuated, Mercer said, the fumes started to roll in.

"A little after 4 a.m., it started moving in here like fog," he recalled. "We could see ash falling, little particles. In the mercury lights, it really showed up, like a light snow. You could step out in it, breathe it, and it would just burn your nose plumb to your lungs."

Mercer said he and his wife, Daisy, 36, and two of his children stepped out into the fog and came down with symptoms that afternoon. Two other children did not get in the fog and aren't sick, he said.

"I'm still nauseated," he said. "The lung congestion seems a little better, but it comes and goes. At times I can breathe fairly well, at times not so well."

Richard A. Hinkle, an area physician, said eight or nine people from Guy had come to him with the symptoms.

"The wind apparently carried it in a narrow strip from the missile site up to and through a strip of Guy," Hinkle said. "As far as I can recall — I know where most of them live — I believe it could be plotted out as a pattern with the wind flow."

"Don't get me wrong," he said. "The people I saw were not all that sick. Of course, I haven't seen most of them since they first came to me. I'm presuming they're getting better. And I don't know what effects it might have later on."

Mercer said that about two dozen people had the symptoms and "more are turning up all the time."

Iraq

bor and naval base built by the Soviet Union at the mouth of the Shatt al-Arab.

Iraq claimed 36 Iranian planes were shot down Thursday; Iran claimed 16 Iraqi aircraft. Tehran reported 79 Iraqis killed and 291 wounded in fighting Thursday. Iraqi casualties were not reported.

Despite the war at the head of the Persian Gulf, tankers loaded with oil by the non-communist world moved steadily through the Strait of Hormuz at the other end Thursday after a two-day slowdown, oil industry officials in Bahrain reported.

But the usual parade of empty tankers into the gulf was reported to have stopped because of the fears of the owners and captains, and because of exorbitant new war risk insurance rates. One authoritative source in Bahrain said loading operations virtually halted Thursday at Saudi Arabia's big terminal at Ras Tanura and at other gulf ports.

On the diplomatic front, the U.N. Security Council scheduled its first public meeting on the war crisis for 5 p.m. EDT today after both Iran and Iraq ignored the council's appeal Tuesday night for a cease-fire and negotiations to settle their differences peacefully. Moslem sources at U.N. headquarters said Iran's government was resisting mediation attempts and refusing to agree to a cease-fire unless Iraq withdrew from all occupied territory.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko met with Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie in New York and assured him the Soviet Union will remain neutral in the war, Muskie reported. But he said Gromyko gave no firm commitment to support U.N. initiatives to end the fighting.

The Soviet Union agreed to the Security Council appeal for a cease-fire but delayed approval of the statement for five hours.

Muskie reiterated that the United States is neutral in the conflict and "urgently" desires a cease-fire and negotiations between the two warring oil countries. To underline U.S. neutrality the State Department temporarily blocked the planned sale of General Electric gas turbine engines for Italian frigates ordered by Iraq's navy. But American officials who asked not to be identified said U.S. representatives and representatives of allied governments were discussing contingency plans for joint naval action to protect Western oil shipments through the Persian Gulf if the war stopped there.

A spokesman at the Iranian Revolutionary Guard headquarters in Tehran said the Iraqi attacks on Iran have not endangered the lives of the 52 American hostages, who spent their 328th day in captivity today. "They are all right. They are in safe places," he said when telephoned Thursday by The Associated Press in Beirut, Lebanon.

Iran's acting foreign minister, Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, told ABC-TV News in an interview that despite the war the fate of the hostages was being discussed by Iran's Parliament "and we hope to come to an honorable and just solution soon." On Tuesday, the Parliament announced it was freezing discussion on the hostages because of the fighting.

Muskie

reject, the Security Council or diplomatic offensive ideas," Muskie said.

In Washington, meanwhile, an administration official who briefed reporters, on the condition he not be identified, said the Soviets appear to favor an early end of the conflict for an entirely different reason than that of the American government.

One source of encouragement to American officials is that after five days of heavy fighting, Iraq's objectives appear to be limited to regaining Iraqi sovereignty over disputed areas along the Iranian border.

On Capitol Hill Thursday, Deputy Secretary of State

Reagan

earlier when discussing the prospect of future debates at a breakfast meeting with reporters. On that occasion, he cited Reagan's standing in the public opinion polls. "We still have the option of debating the president, but the numbers are such that we don't feel that way now," he said. "We'll keep an eye on the polls, and keep that tactical option open."

Baker said also at that time that Reagan has no intention of debating Anderson again.

But the Anderson camp echoed at least part of the Reagan theme in response to the league proposal, even as it was made clear that he and Lucey would take whatever opportunities they got. Spokesman Michael Rosenbaum said "We are disappointed that the league changed its position and that is trying to appease the White House."

Carter already had accepted invitations from three other groups to meet Reagan one-on-one. But Reagan refused those proposals, saying he would abide by the league's sponsorship and the standards they laid down as to whether Anderson should participate.

"We are especially pleased that the first of these debates (between Reagan and Carter) will provide the American people the opportunity for a direct comparison between the two major party nominees, one-on-one," said Carter campaign manager Robert Strauss.

"We are anxious for this comparison between the two persons, one of whom will be president for the next four years, to be as complete, specific and informative as possible," Strauss said.

Texas Briefs

DALLAS (AP) — An armed robber escaped with more than $12,000 from the Texas Commerce Bank in Dallas Wednesday after locking himself out of his getaway car, police said.

Police said a man in his late 20s entered the North Dallas bank, ordered a teller to fill a grocery bag with money, then grabbed a woman customer and pointed an automatic pistol at her head.

The robber grabbed the bag and left, but discovered he had locked himself out of his stolen car. He then took a silver 1978 Pontiac from a woman who pulled up next to the car, police said.

DALLAS (AP) — An ominous "soap bubble" hovering over Dallas Wednesday evening was a mere scientific research balloon.

Calls poured into police and operators for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. after the object drifted over the area about sundown.

"Most people were calm but one lady called to tell us silver things were falling through the air," police Sgt. Forrest Fenwick said.

The balloon was one of two launched by the National continue through Saturday.

Some of the rains were predicted to be possibly heavy in southern portions of West Texas tonight.

Cooler temperatures are also expected to prevail across the area, with highs today in the mid-60's.

Lows tonight are expected to be in the mid-50's with Saturday's highs in the 70's to the low 80's in the Big Bend.

Although intermittent showers have peppered the area since late August, the county is still behind on its moisture for the year, with the effects of a summer-long drought still making themselves felt. Timely, soaking showers at regular intervals could allow the county to do some catching up, however.

Round-Up for Crippled Children Wrapping Up

The Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children entered into the last few days of gathering livestock with additional registered heifers and bulls arriving from throughout the state.

Also, the meat market of fed heavy beefs took a sudden jump today when Abilene Cattle Feeders pledged five fat steers. Mr. and Mrs. J. Willard Vinson of Abilene for the 10th year in a row pledged 5 fat heifers for CRCC.

With feedlots in Dumas, Summerfield, Hereford, Pecos and Balmorhea sending additional heavy fed beef, the steak on the hoof number has run up to over 25 animals led by a 2050 pound Simmental cross steer that formerly was a club calf that was donated by Reeves County Feed Lot near Pecos.

The first phase of the Cattlemen's Round-Up will be the cattle sale on Monday, September 29 at Abilene Livestock Auction. Also scheduled are the Horse Sale on October 4 in Abilene; CRCC Sheep and Goat Sale October 6 at Junction Stockyards in Junction; Livestock Sale October 8 at Coleman Auction in Col-

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:
Our "County Bazaar" that was held Sept. 13th at the Hereford Community Center was a success because of the help of many people.
We want to say a "special thanks" to the Hereford Brand for all the write-ups and pictures you published; helping us to promote our bazaar. We appreciate the special efforts of Allison and Denise.
When we set up for the bazaar we enlisted the help of some of our husbands and the custodian at the Community Center, Will Walker. We appreciated their help so much and just could not have done without them.
We would like to thank each exhibitor who participated in our Bazaar. Without these people we could not have even begun to plan such an event.
We want to thank everyone who came, and shopped, and bought, from the craftsmen, especially the ones who took time to eat lunch with us.
These people are really the ones who make a bazaar "turn out" successful.
The money we realize from our "Country Bazaar" will be used for Community projects such as improvements to our community house at Simms and in donations to the Simms Fire Department.
Thanks again to all who helped us.

Tribute to Parents

"Compete, don't envy."

SOCIETY NEWS

By ALLISON RYAN
Women's Editor

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is in response to "Sick of Parents" who was tired of the family nagging about her room, her hair, her friends, etc. Let's face it, at 16, we are all sick of our parents. I was no exception, but now, at the ripe old age of 19, I can see the things my folks fussed about required very little time and effort.

So, parents, you are right. Everyone who lives in a house has some responsibility for taking care of it. But when you slap your kid silly for tracking mud in on the kitchen floor, you are overreacting. And telling Johnny he is going to be a bum and eat worms all of his life because he left his ice cream bowl under the couch is another example.

Kids know what is fair. The punishment should fit the crime. Be consistent so your child will know what to expect. If Mazie breaks a bottle of milk, make sure she cleans up the mess. It is not necessary to make a child feel worthless simply because he is untidy. Praising him when he tries to clean up after himself will produce far better results than raising the roof when he doesn't. Sign me - A Culprit

DEAR CULPRIT: You have done a neat job of providing sensible guidelines for raising self-reliant, responsible children and establishing a healthy child-parent relationship. Thanks for wearing my hat today.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read your column about mothers who have lost their babies and were put through the agony of staying on the maternity floor and seeing and hearing happy mothers with their infants.

As a nurse who has been on the floor and seen this happen many times, I would like to tell you another side of it.

Most women at some time during their pregnancy wish that they had never gotten pregnant. It could be morning sickness, the swollen body, awkwardness or the family's lack of caring. Many things can cause this to happen. After all, pregnancy doesn't make a person a saint.

But if your baby is born dead or dies soon after birth, it doesn't take the mind long to decide you wished your baby dead and that God is now punishing you. Most nurses feel that moving these mothers off the floor is interpreted by them as banishment and additional punishment.

If they stay on the floor, they will go through a period of grief and mourning, but we will do our best to help them through it. We also try to tell them with words and deeds that it is not the end of the world. Hopefully, there will be other healthy babies.

We feel it would be wrong to send them to another floor where their sense of failure might be deepened and they may not be given the emotional support they need. Whether the baby lived or not, they did succeed in giving birth. I don't know if I have made sense, but I feel so deeply on this subject I had to write. - Hayward, Calif. Nurse

DEAR HAYWARD: Thank you for another truly of view. You sound like a truly solid lady whose dedication and caring go far beyond the call of duty. Bless you.

CONFIDENTIAL to Giving You A Piece of My Mind:

Sounds as if it was the last piece. I learned long ago it is useless to try to educate a bigot like you. Happily, your numbers are decreasing - which is one of the most promising attributes of the new generation.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

YMCA Offers Recreational Programs for Hereford

Editor's Note: The following is a profile on one of the 10 local United Way Agencies located in Hereford.

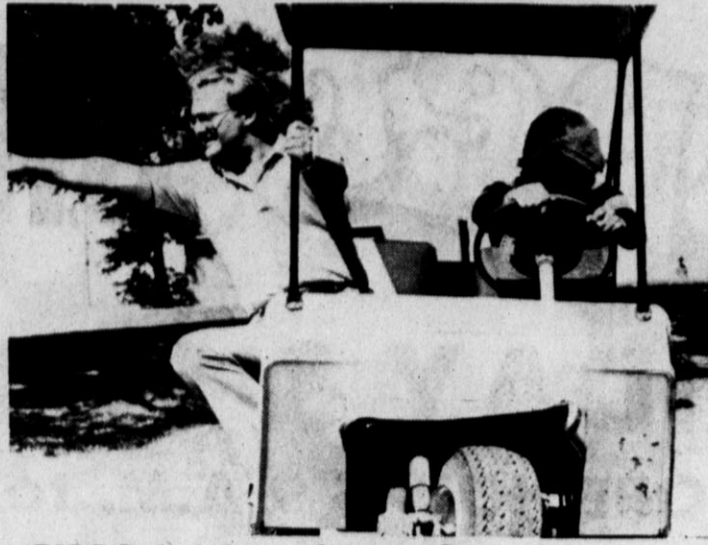

In 1976 the YMCA was just a dream in the minds of the citizens of Deaf Smith County. Today, the "Y" touches 1 out of every 10 people in Hereford.

Before the establishment of the Hereford and vicinity YMCA there were no organized recreational programs for youth and adults employing Christian values. The "Y" has met that recreational need for citizens from the 1st grade through the senior years.

The "Y", a United Way agency, offers organized leagues for youth and adults, a Fitness Center, informal educational classes, and special events. Memberships to the "Y" are $6 per year for youth, $12 for adults, and $25 for families.

There were approximately 1,800 citizens who participated in various "Y" activities during the past year. Approximately 250 volunteers gave their time to insure quality programs for the citizens of Deaf Smith County.

Won't you be a part of the YMCA and "Give Until It Helps, Vote Fair Share ... Everyone Wins" ... The United Way.

YMCA 'Anything Goes'

John Stagner served as the navigator and Danny Boyer as the pilot at the annual YMCA sponsored "Anything Goes." The event is one of the organized recreational programs the Y offers people of Hereford.

Art Extravaganza Set By Local Art Guild

Hereford Art Guild began making plans for an art extravaganza at their Tuesday meeting at the Community Center.

At the meeting with Travis McPherson presiding, the group set a tentative date in November for the activity.

Three guests were present at the meeting including Mary Hoelscher, J.O. Robertson and Joyce Hickman.

Red Cross Offers CPR Class

Hereford Red Cross has scheduled CPR classes for Monday and Tuesday at the Hereford Community Center.

According to Betty Henson, executive secretary, the classes will be from 1-5 p.m. each afternoon at the game room in the community center.

Mike Whiting of Oklahoma City will teach the course.

There is no registration fee; however, the book concerning Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation will cost 50 cents.

Whiting will also instruct a First-Aid Instructor course Monday and Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Heritage Room at Deaf Smith County Library.

For more information call the Red Cross office at 364-3761.

Planned Parenthood Announces Location

A spokesman from the Planned Parenthood clinic has announced they will move to a new location in Hereford next week, and volunteers are needed to make the move.

The clinic which is presently at 101 Ave. E, will be moved to 711 25 Mile Avenue to take advantage of a bigger building and better location.

Volunteers are needed to help move equipment to the new location. The moving process will begin Monday, Sept. 29.

Volunteers should call the clinic at 364-5641 and ask for Ann or Susie.

New Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Lupe G. Alvarado are the parents of a daughter, Kimberly Ann, born Sept. 19 at High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo. She weighed 6 lbs. 14 1/2 ozs.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN

After a visit with their daughter, Merle, and her family in England, Ruby and Troys Carmichael are back home this week.

Merle and her husband, Maj. Don Henslee, and their six-month-old daughter are living in England while he teaches at the British Army's Royal Artillery School in an exchange program with the US Army.

Major Henslee was in Germany most of the time while the Carmichaels stayed with Merle and the baby at their home, Lark Hill. He was taking part in NATO maneuvers, a massive military exercise.

The Hereford couple made some side trips, one to Hereford, England, but spent most of their time just visiting with their daughter and playing with the granddaughter, who is "just at the cute stage," according to Ruby.

For the last week of their late summer vacation at their place at Rockport on the Texas Gulf coast, Carroll and Ruth Newsom had special guests. His mother, Ethel Newsom, and Margaret Ann Durham went down from Hereford to enjoy the coast country.

They all got back home Sunday with reports of fishing, Gulf breezes and other pleasant things that you're supposed to find in a resort spot.

Various members of the Newsom family were down there at various times this summer, and other visitors from Hereford included Garth and Edwina Thomas.

It's called a tasting bee, but the food the DSC Extension Homemakers serve at their annual luncheons is so tempting that you keep putting a bite of this and a bite of that on your plate until it totals a big meal.

Nearly everybody at the Tuesday tasting bee was saying, "I'm eating too much, but it's all so good..." Certainly no place for dieters, and Jack Wilcox looked at his well-filled dessert plate and commented that the only thing the EH hostesses forgot to provide was doggy bags.

I saw several friends for the first time in a coon's age, among them Mrs. N.A. Brown from away out west in Deaf Smith County, Kate Bradley from up at Adrian and Mrs. J.E. McCabe from Dawn.

Stopping by the new location of the Satellite Center workrooms, I enjoyed a conducted tour at its open house Sunday given by Eleanor Hudspeth, Helen Cherry and Gene Brock, board members who were among the hosts, assisted by some of the center's clients. And I met a new board member, Bill Marquis.

Also learned that much of the work on the new place was done by board members, including curtains for the all-glass front made by Eleanor. She used more than 100 yards of material!

HHS Key Club members climbed up to the ceiling and did a lot of repair work there. It's obvious that Hereford couldn't operate without scads of volunteer work by a lot of people.

Don't forget the Chamber Singers concert of Walt Disney music at 4 p.m. Sunday. Light-hearted and tuneful songs by singers to match, just can't be beat. And if they have to revert to another rehearsal you'll get your money's worth anyhow, take my word for it.

New Series, 'Cosmos' Kindles Imagination

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — When America landed two robots on Mars in 1976, reporters covering the Viking mission quickly learned to seek out a young astronomer from Cornell University when in need of color to enliven their stories.

While other mission scientists spoke in skeptical tones of finding even microbial life on Mars, Dr. Carl Sagan danced and frolicking in front of the Viking cameras.

Not likely, he said, but possible. Sagan has the rare knack, forged by a spectacular intelligence and a childlike curiosity, of revealing science as an adventure. Only Sagan could dream up a television series endeavoring to explore "all that is, or ever was, or ever will be."

Only Sagan could bring it off. His "Cosmos," a 13-part series on PBS beginning Sunday, is a triumph of imagination and technology. But mostly, it is a triumph of Sagan's uncanny ability to make the unknowable seem knowable.

The structure of the show is sometimes a little goofy, as you might expect when PBS and a scientist make a TV show.

Sagan takes us aboard his "Spaceship of the Imagination" for a computer-animated tour of outer space. The cameras occasionally shoot to a close-up of Sagan's face, astonished by the wonder of it all, or, through the glass bottom of the ship, which Sagan magically opens with a parting of his hands.

It's a bit "Captain Video," but the good stuff — Sagan's explanations and conjecture — prevails. The viewer is charmed by Sagan's intoxicating way with words.

A cluster that passes below the ship isn't just a cluster of old stars, it is "a swarm of bees bound by gravity, each bee a sun." Asteroids are "shattered and broken worldlets"; all that sky-stuff up there comprises "worlds of ice and stars of diamond ..."

Sagan doesn't waste any time in getting to one of his favorite themes — extraterrestrial life.

"There are a hundred-billion galaxies and a billion-trillion stars," Sagan says as he maneuvers the spaceship back to Earth. "Why should this modest planet be the only inhabited world? To me, it seems far more likely that the cosmos is brimming with life and intelligence."

Sagan is an accomplished showman, but he is first a scientist, and as such, is subject to a peculiar trait all scientists seem to share: He appears more at ease when discussing matters outside his own field.

Back on Earth, Sagan is a compelling. He visits a 2,000-year-old lighthouse near Alexandria where Eratosthenes first measured the Earth, and contemplates the long-lost Alexandria library, repository of all the knowledge of the ancient world.

Finally, he introduces the Cosmic Calendar, the best part of Sagan's act. It is the layman's cosmic Rosetta Stone, enabling a simple understanding of where our species stands in relation to all that is or ever was.

Religion in the News

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 400 religious leaders, most of them black clergy, have issued an appeal to presidential candidates to take up minority concerns, particularly "America's deepening urban crisis."

ties between black and white churches and focus energies on fair housing, health care and employment.

Participants came from 21 denominations, mostly Protestant, but also including Roman Catholicism and Eastern Orthodoxy.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Synagogue Council of America has urged U.S. rabbis and their congregations to flood CBS-TV with protests against the scheduled Sept. 30 program, "Playing for Time," starring Vanessa Redgrave.

The complaint was not against the program itself, dealing with a Jewish heroine of the Nazi persecution of Jews, but at Ms. Redgrave, characterized as a sympathizer and supporter of the anti-Israel Palestine Liberation Organization.

Richmond, Va. (AP) — Southern Baptist officials report that a majority of delegates at a convention of Italian Baptists signed a statement accusing President Carter of pursuing a foreign policy "contrary to the gospel of Christ."

The council, representing all three wings of Judaism, Conservative, Orthodox and Reform, sent its call to about 2,500 rabbis, also urging a boycott of the program and of CBS generally.

The Rev. P. Victor Prema Sager told Episcopal Church officers the expanded plan also includes the Mar Thoma Syrian Church and that Lutherans are involved. The earlier union included Anglican, Congregational, Presbyterian, Reformed and Methodist bodies.

The statement criticized Carter, also a Baptist, for plans to build the cruise missile and his call for America's European allies to increase military spending. Italy has about 8,000 Baptists.

NEW YORK (AP) — The new general secretary of the Church of South India, formed in 1947 and the first major merger of Protestant bodies, says it now is in reunion talks with the Church of North India and other groups to become the Church of India.

U.S. industrial society isn't what it used to be; it needs capital to modernize and become more efficient. Small businesses, which create jobs and promote competition, complain that they are unable to raise funds.

Business Mirror

Paying People To Invest

NEW YORK (AP) — Would you consider it a good deal to invest $10,000 in a company that conceivably could double in price some day, and for doing so be reimbursed $1,000 by Uncle Sam?

That dream proposition might yet become reality.

The instrument of the metamorphosis is already being considered in the House and Senate. And lest you think they've lost their financial anchor altogether, consider some of the background.

Meanwhile, there you sit squirming in your financial straitjacket, frantically looking for a way to get ahead. You watch inflation eat your assets like acid eats metal or termites eat the front porch.

Something has to be done, and that's where the Individual Investors Incentive Act would step into the picture.

The IIAA would allow you to subtract from your income taxes 10 percent of whatever new money, up to $10,000 a year, you invest in corporate stocks.

If you invested $1,000, for example, you would lower your income tax by $100. That $100 would come right off the bottom-line figure, a credit on the tax itself rather than a deduction from taxable income.

There is an important proviso: The money would have to be new to the market. You wouldn't be able to sell stock in one company and, in the same year, use the proceeds to buy into another. The money would have to come from without the stock market, such as from savings.

The Newspaper Bible

SHE BECAME A MOTHER AT 90!
So God's blessings are given to us by faith, as a free gift; we are certain to get them whether or not we follow Jewish customs if we have faith like Abraham's, for Abraham is the father of us all when it comes to these matters of faith.

That is what the Scriptures mean when they say that God made Abraham the father of many nations. God will accept all people in every nation who trust God as Abraham did. And this promise is from God Himself, who makes the dead live again and speaks of future events with as much certainty as though they were already past!

So, when God told Abraham that He would give him a son who would have many descendants and become a great nation, Abraham believed God even though such a promise just couldn't come to pass!

And because his faith was strong, he didn't worry about the fact that he was too old to be a father, at the age of one hundred, and that Sarah his wife, at ninety, was also much too old to have a baby.

But Abraham never doubted. He believed God, for his faith and trust grew ever stronger, and he praised God for this blessing even before it happened.

He was completely sure that God was well able to do anything He promised.

And because of Abraham's faith God forgave his sins and declared him "not guilty."

Now this wonderful statement — that he was accepted and approved through his faith — wasn't just for Abraham's benefit.

It was for us, too, assuring us that God will accept us in the same way He accepted Abraham — when we believe the promises of God who brought back Jesus our Lord from the dead.

He died for our sins and rose again to make us right with God, filling us with God's goodness.

THE HOT DOG VENDOR

There was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs.
He sold very good hot dogs.
He put up signs along the highway and advertised in the newspaper telling how good they were.
He stood on the side of the road and cried:
"Buy a hot dog, Mister?"
And people bought.
He increased his meat and bun orders.
He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade.
He finally got his son home from college to help him out.
But then something happened.
His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio and watching TV?"

There's a big depression. The foreign situation is terrible. The domestic situation is worse."
Whereupon the father thought, "Well, my son's been to college, he listens to the radio and watches TV and he ought to know."
So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his signs and cancelled his newspaper ads and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his hot dogs.
And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight.
"You're right, son" the father said to the boy.
"We certainly are in the middle of a great depression."

Penn St. Nebraska Attempt To Lengthen Unbeaten Marks

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

A Madison Avenue type attempting to market Saturday's college football offerings would have little trouble selling the element of surprise to Arizona State, less trouble with revenge for Penn State and no problem peddling survival to Vanderbilt.

"I think about it everyday," said Penn State running back Curt Warner, who played a minor role in the 42-17 shelling his team took last season at the hands of Nebraska. "But it's a different ball game this year. We'll find out if we're a big league team."

Indeed they will, along with a national television audience and a crowd of 85,000 expected to pack the Nittany Lions' Beaver Stadium to watch 11th-ranked Penn State seek revenge against the third-ranked Cornhuskers. Both teams are unbeaten at 2-0.

"We've got a big score to settle, and that's at the top of the list," center Bob Jagers said of the charge that Joe Paterno's Lions are nothing more than a big fish in a little pond — Eastern football.

"I think there are five or six teams who are certainly in the caliber of being national champions," Paterno said, adding that Tom Osborne's Cornhuskers are among them.

In other games involving Top Ten teams, top-ranked Alabama hosts Vanderbilt, No. 2 Ohio State entertains 20th-ranked Arizona State, No. 4 Oklahoma is at home against Stanford, 5th-ranked Southern California visits

Minnesota, No. 6 Pitt hosts Temple, 7th-ranked Texas entertains Oregon State at night, No. 9 Florida State travels to Miami, (Fla.), and 10th-ranked Georgia is at home against Texas Christian. No. 8 Notre Dame is idle.

Also, No. 12 Missouri is at San Diego State, 13th-ranked Washington hosts Oregon, No. 14 North Carolina entertains 19th-ranked Maryland, No. 15 Arkansas is at home against Tulsa, 16th-ranked UCLA hosts Wisconsin, No. 17 Michigan entertains South Carolina, and 18th-ranked Auburn is at home against Tennessee.

"We might surprise a few people," said Arizona State Coach Darryl Rogers, whose 2-0 Sun Devils did just that in upsetting and knocking Houston from the Top Twenty two weeks ago. "It's a phenomenal challenge."

The Sun Devils have outscored the opposition 71-17 while recovering seven fumbles and intercepting seven passes in routs of Houston and Oregon State. But Rogers, former head coach at Michigan State, knows how tough it is to win at Ohio Stadium, where the 2-0 Buckeyes have sold out.

National League Roundup Cardinals Play Upset Role

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

When you have nothing else in September, you can play the spoiler. It's not a role anybody relishes, particularly the St. Louis Cardinals, who had better things planned for the fall when they began playing baseball in the spring.

Jim Kaat has been in the majors since 1959. He's been to one World Series with Minnesota in 1965 and played on two division championship teams — Minnesota in 1970 and Philadelphia in 1976. At 41, he's had a lot of practice punching holes in other people's pennant hopes. But he says it's a small consolation.

"I've said all along we shouldn't take too much delight in being spoilers," said Katt Thursday night after he scattered 11 hits in pitching the Cardinals to a 10-2 victory over the fading world champion Pittsburgh Pirates. "If we were playing the kind of ball we are capable of, we'd be in contention."

The Cards' Ted Simmons, one of the most consistent hitters in baseball over the past decade, has never been to a playoff or World Series. After knocking in six runs on a solo homer, grand slam and a single Thursday night, he could only hope for a more significant forum one day.

"I'm looking forward to a September when I have a big game like this and it helps us win our division," he said. "Now we can only hurt Montreal."

St. Louis plays Montreal next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Montreal fell out of first place in the National League East, slipping one-half game behind Philadelphia after the Phillies edged the New York Mets 2-1 and the Expos lost to the Chicago Cubs 5-4.

Philadelphia hosts Montreal for a three-game series beginning tonight.

The Pirates, meanwhile, are 4½-games back, and the fans seemed to have given up hope. Only 6,805 came out Thursday night.

"We've got to win them all now," said Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner, whose team has nine games left — all of them against sixth-place Chicago and the fifth-place New York Mets.

The Houston Astros broke a first-place tie with Los Angeles in the NL West. The Astros beat Atlanta 4-2 while the Dodgers fell to San Francisco 3-2 and dropped a game behind Houston. Meanwhile, Cincinnati, a 5-3 winner over San Diego in 10 innings, is just 2½-games back and starts a three-game series in Houston tonight.

Astros 4, Braves 2

Joe Morgan certainly has October experience after five championship series and three World Series with Cincinnati. He showed the way Thursday night with a two-run homer and an RBI-single.

Nolan Ryan, 10-9, went five innings before leaving with a back spasm.

Giants 3, Dodgers 2

San Francisco's Ed Whitson downed Los Angeles with his pitching then boosted them up with a prediction. "The Dodgers are still the class of the division. Houston doesn't have their hitting," he said.

Terry Whitfield and Darrell Evans slammed homers to back the pitching of Whitson and reliever Gary Lavelle. Whitson, 11-11, pitched 71-3 innings before Lavelle came on to record his eighth save.

The Giants beat Burt Hooton, 13-8, for the first time in 11 decisions.

Reds 5, Padres 3

The Cincinnati Reds are glad Vic Correll isn't following doctor's orders. "The doctor told me I wouldn't play at all this season," said Correll, who was disabled with an injured left Achilles tendon.

Correll smacked a two-run double in the 10th inning to lift the Reds over the Padres. Since returning to the lineup, Correll has picked up eight hits in 16 at-bats. His previous hits were all singles.

The Reds erased a 3-1 deficit in the seventh on pinch hitter Harry Spilman's two-run single.

Phillies 2, Mets 1

Rookie Lonnie Smith replaced the slumping Greg Luzinski in the Philadelphia lineup and contributed the winning hit.

Knights Slate

Turkey Shoot

The Hereford Knights of Columbus will sponsor a turkey shoot Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Hereford Gun Club, east of the Hereford Airport. Practice rounds begin at 1 p.m.

Winners may choose from prizes including turkeys, hams and bacon, with proceeds to go to the Hereford Knights of Columbus.

Pro Predictions

New York Favored Over Colts

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Now seriously folks, this New York Jets silliness has to stop. This team simply has daffy coming out of the 49er backfield. San Francisco favored by 3.

Patriots 30, Broncos 17
New England is an enigma believes in itself and so do plenty of others. Buffalo favored by 2½.

Lions 24, Vikings 20
Minnesota is vulnerable to the kind of instant offense Detroit is getting from Billy Sims and Gary Danielson. Detroit favored by 6½.

Seahawks 28, Redskins 20
Another upset, but Seattle can pull it off. Washington has been well short of sensational so far. Washington favored by 4.

Dolphins 17, Saints 14
You always have to like Miami at home, but New Orleans could make it closer than Don Shula would like.

too much talent to keep on losing. Sooner or later it will turn things around.

Brave words from the Pro Picker, who feels the same way about some of his selections. The Picker and the Jets try again this week. He was 9-5 straight up and 5-9 with the points last week. That's 23-18 for won-lost and 12-29 with points for the season. It's not good, but it's better than the Jets.

The Picks:
Jets 21, Colts 17
Upset Special. A team that was supposed to win the division can't keep losing, can it? Stay tuned and we'll find out. Baltimore favored by 4.

Steelers 31, Bears 17
Do you think Chuck Noll will have Pittsburgh reved up after that turnover travesty in Cincinnati last week? Pittsburgh favored by 13.

49ers 20, Falcons 14
Earl Cooper and Paul Hofer are driving defenses but then, so is Denver. Solve the puzzle by picking the home team in this one. New England favored by 4.

Shorthorns Suffer 1st Defeat

The HHS sophomore Shorthorns suffered their first defeat of the season (ending a bristling three game winning streak) to the Muleshoe junior varsity by a meager margin of 12-7 Thursday.

The Whiteface squad, after leading first quarter play following a 15-yard pass connection from Glenn Phibbs to Brian Taylor and Phibbs's extra point conversion, fell victim to Muleshoe scoring sprees in second and final periods of play.

"We really moved the ball well the whole game," said head coach David Ashby, "But we fumbled the dagger ball too much and that's what killed us. Muleshoe really didn't hurt us — we hurt ourselves with turnovers."

The Herd, amassing five fumbles — two of them coming with possession inside the 20-yard line was unable to mount another successful scoring drive following the first quarter score.

"That was the difference in the game (the fumbles), and it was the first time we had done that all year long," Ashby said.

The Whitefaces will attempt to rebound from the first taste of defeat against Coronado on October 9. The squad will have an open date next week after Friona cancelled in that week's scheduled affair.

Rodeo Event Scheduled

The TSTI-Amarillo Rodeo Club is making an "October Challenge" to all area barrel racers. On four consecutive Sundays, October 5, 12, 19 and 26, TSTI's Rodeo Club will host a barrel racing event at 3 p.m. at the TSTI-Amarillo rodeo arena.

The contestant who competes on all four Sundays and meets the "October Challenge" as the top money winner will be awarded a trophy saddle handmade by TSTI Saddle and Tack Making students.

Entry fees will be $18 for two runs in the novice class and $28 for two runs in the open class. Novice participants will be placed in the open class if their winnings are $50 or more. Proceeds will go toward the cost of the trophy saddle.

For additional information about the event, contact the Texas State Technical Institute Saddle and Tack Making department.

Candidates Discuss Religion in Debate

NEW YORK (AP) — An old, often befogged question about the relationship of religion and politics surfaced sharply this week in the Reagan-Anderson debate, with more tussling about it considered likely as the presidential campaign rolls on.

Under discussion was whether religious institutions and their leaders should speak out in political contests about issues regarded as having religious-moral implications.

Historically, both mainline Judaism and Christianity have vigorously insisted on that role as a basic right and religious duty in the world, but generally without siding for-or-against particular candidates.

Often the churches have faced criticism as "meddling in politics" for trying to apply their principles to public issues, but have kept at it anyway, where possible. Under totalitarian regimes, past and present, such activity has been harshly repressed.

The matter came up in the debate between Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan and independent candidate John B. Anderson last Sunday over a specific instance in Boston cited by a questioner. Although both candidates generally defended such activity, they differed markedly about it, and Anderson denounced certain aspects of it in the case in question, apparently blurring some of the particulars.

Reagan sidestepped ambiguities of the specific case, but offered a sweeping defense of churches seeking to inject their influence into political issues with moral ramifications.

Citing religious elements of American founding documents and saying religion-based moral standards have been much abandoned in the country, he said:

"Now I have thought for a long time that too many of our churches have been too reluctant to speak up in behalf of what they believe is proper in government.

"And they have been too, too lax in interfering in recent years with government's invasion of the family, putting itself between parent and child."

Anderson said that "certainly the church has the right to take a position on moral issues," but he voiced some reservations about a specific case that had been mentioned.

Today in History

By The Associated Press Today is Friday, Sept. 26, the 270th day of 1980. There are 96 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history:

On Sept. 26, 1777, British troops occupied Philadelphia in the American Revolution.

On this date: In 1907, New Zealand became a self-governing dominion within the British Commonwealth.

In 1918, the World War I allies launched an offensive that broke the German's "Hindenburg Line." In 1950, United Nations troops in the Korean war recaptured the South Korean capital, Seoul, from the North Koreans.

In 1969, a military government with leftist leanings overthrew the government of Bolivia. Ten years ago, Jordan's King Hussein named a new government to placate critics who accused him of plotting to liquidate Palestinian guerrillas in his country.

Last year, the House of Representatives joined the Senate in approving legislation that would carry out the Panama Canal Treaties.

Today's birthdays: Actress Julie London is 54 years old.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What are the long-term effects of taking diet pills as a means of losing weight and keeping the weight off? I have been taking them off and on for the last four years. Can they damage your stomach over a long period?

DEAR READER — I don't approve of them. Most of them tend to stimulate your nervous system as part of the means of curbing your appetite. The effect on the nervous system is often a lot like drinking too much coffee. This can make you nervous. In people who have high blood pressure it may increase the level of their blood pressure. In general, people with heart problems shouldn't use diet pills.

Some of these medicines will stimulate the stomach to produce excess amounts of acid digestive juice which might make one a little more prone to developing ulcers.

The biggest problem with most of the diet pills really is their effect upon your emotional reactions and brain functions.

I'm sending you my new issue of The Health Letter number 16-2, Dangerous Dieting. It includes a few comments about diet pills, but it also includes general information about the most common difficulties people get into with the dietary program. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I'd really like to see you develop good nutritional habits that you can use as a lifetime pattern. That is really the best way to lose weight safely and also keep the excess fat off. If you learn to eat properly in the right amounts as part of your life style, it can be a lifetime affair and can be satisfying.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have heard that some birds can transmit diseases similar to a cold. We have had a parakeet for six weeks now and I would like to know if this bird can be harmful to our children in any way.

Our 15-month-old baby has a runny nose, swollen eyelids and his eyes are watery. Periodically he also has a high fever. Doctors blame all this on a virus and say it will go away in a few days. I'm worried because he has been like this for three weeks and he doesn't seem to get better.

DEAR READER — There are all kinds of viruses, small bacteria and other bacteria that cause respiratory illnesses so there is no way I can tell you what your boy has.

You are correct in saying that some birds can be one source of such respiratory illnesses. The illness usually resembles so-called "viral pneumonia." So-called because what most people call viral pneumonia is really caused by a very small bacteria.

The disease is called psittacosis or parrot fever. It was first discovered to be transmitted by parrots. It can also be transmitted by parakeets. It is spread from inhala-

HEALTH Diet pill difficulties

The disease is less common now because of better control of infected birds. But I do want to warn readers about buying or bringing home illegal birds from other countries.

POLLY'S POINTERS Polly Cramer Mildew on bedspread

DEAR POLLY — I have a bedspread crocheted with cotton that my grandmother made about 25 years ago that has a mildew spot about the size of a silver dollar. I have bleached it, applied lemon juice and salt and left it in the 115-degree Texas sun for five days, to no avail. It is not one bit lighter so what can I do? — MRS.E.S.

DEAR MRS. E.S. — Are you sure this is mildew? Your remedies should have worked. The only other suggestions I could make would be to sponge the spot with hydrogen peroxide and then launder using a bleach safe for the fabric. Another suggested remedy for such spots is laundering in a soap-ammonia solution. I think if it were mine I would resort to the use of color remover, as the spread is evidently white. Of course, I would follow directions faithfully and would approach the job knowing it is the last resort. Good luck what ever you do. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — My throw rugs go all limp when they are washed, so to remedy this I lay them on the outdoor picnic table face down, and spray them with spray starch before letting them dry thoroughly in the sun. They look like new again. — MRS. J.A.

DEAR POLLY — My mother had long hair, so she always had wire hairpins around the house. When the cherries were ripe and were being cleaned for canning she would insert a hair pin at one side of a cherry seed and work the pin around it to make it come out, leaving a nice solid cherry. When the cherries are squeezed to remove the pits, they become mashed. Once you have used a hairpin you will never go back to the old way. — ETHEL

DEAR POLLY — Instead of buying one of the various window cleaners on the market I buy gallon cans of glass cleaner made for automobiles. Dilute it with water and have sparkling, longer-lasting windows and mirrors! I know this is less expensive as I have done it for years. — MRS. V.G.J.

DEAR POLLY — When putting dinner plates away I slip a paper napkin between each one as a protection, and also for faster table setting.

A little fresh lemon juice and a pinch of salt added to fruit pies will bring out the flavor. — LULLIAN

Lincoln Bedroom

The White House's Lincoln Bedroom, which contains an ornately carved bed and furniture of his period, is at the east end of the second floor. It served as Lincoln's cabinet room and in it he signed the Emancipation Proclamation. A portrait of Andrew Jackson, admired by Lincoln, hangs there today. In the room there is also a copy of the Gettysburg Address, written out by Lincoln.

SEE AUTUMN'S BEAUTY THROUGH EYES OF FAITH

The climax in our orbit of the sun
Is when at last the summer days are done:
When shades of green give way to autumn's gold.
The richest of the seasons will unfold.
The leaves become arrayed in brilliant hue.
Before their turn to disappear from view
In brief descending spirals through the air.
Propelled by winds that strip the branches bare.
Through eyes of faith you'll see this all displayed:
The wonders of this world that God has made
Are never more alive than in the fall:
Through Church, you will appreciate them all.

— Gloria Nowak

"A land which the Lord thy God careth for:
the eyes of the Lord thy God are always upon it, from the beginning of the year, even unto the end of the year."

Some of us call it Autumn,
And others call it God.
