

Herd to Host Pampa in Grid Opener

By MAURI MONTGOMERY
Brand Sports Editor

One short month ago, head varsity football coach Don Cumpton was at his wits end waiting for the new fall campaign to get underway - it was the ordinary pregame jitters people seem to acquire before a season in question.

And now, two days shy of that season's debut with all its unassuredness, Cumpton exhibits an even more prominent and impatient expose of a caged lion or if you prefer, a corralled bull - a pacing expectancy ready to bolt for the first unlawful intruder stepping into his territory.

That Friday night alien in this instance, and the one that has Cumpton and the 1980 Hereford-Whitefaces seeing nothing but red are the Pampa Harvesters (a team that riddled the Herd a year ago by a relentless margin of 20-0).

It was last year's annually vicious preseason rivalry between the two squads (the outcome of the duel was either a decisive or irrelevant factor in remaining season play, depending on how you prefer to look at its possible impact on a team's momentum) that inevitably skimmed the Harvesters through the non-district ranks to a last minute toast with Amarillo High for all the 3-4A cookies.

The Pampa team concluded its season tenure totting a 7-3 mark following a loss to the Sandies in wanning minutes of district playoff contention while the Herd retained a 5-5 ledger and skidded to a 4th place berth in the 4-4A district standings at the completion of fall play.

And whether or not the previous grudge match interrupted or vaulted either squad's play further in the fall's scheme of things wasn't important to Cumpton - this year would be a whole new ballgame and hopefully one that would send the Harvesters back home with no ice cream and no party-favors.

"Pampa is going to be a difficult team to face up to - they always are, there's no denying that. But they kind of wore us out down there last time and we'd just like to return the favor this year," Cumpton said of Friday night's season opener.

"They've always been a stinker for us as far as their capability goes, and in many ways that's good for us because we need to play somebody of that caliber early to let us know where we're at."

"Pampa runs a wishbone offense and from what we've seen of them this year, they execute that offense real well, Cumpton said. "What we've got to do is to disrupt some of the timing that makes that wishbone functional by stopping the fullback and containing the defense.

Those offensive disrupters Cumpton plans to show the Harvesters, and listed as probable starters on the Hereford defensive unit Friday night include: sizeable (6-2, 220) defensive left end Aubrey Richburg who pushed his way around opposing offensive lines last year for a total of 93 tackles (the third best tally in the district thoroughfare) as a sophomore, left tackle Dale Phillips (5-10, 268), nose guard Barry Josserand (5-10, 171), hefty right tackle John Josserand (6-5, 223), right end Scott Gentry (5-9, 148), linebacker Chris Schumacher (5-10, 155), linebacker Gary Parman (5-10, 172), cornerback Derek Dirks (6-0, 165), cornerback Bryan Peeler (5-8, 146), strong safety Mike Martinez

Kids Inc. Makes Final Payment on Complex

By ALLISON RYAN

The Board of Directors for Kids, Incorporated presented a final payment of $15,999.51 to Craig Smith, executive vice president of Hereford State Bank for the baseball complex at their Wednesday night meeting.

The idea of a baseball complex for the youth of Hereford began about five years ago with the complex being completed three years ago.

"We have been able to construct and pay for this only through a community effort. It has taken the work of a lot of people who were willing to contribute time, money and those who have bought candy or light bulbs from our kids," Chuck Cosper, past president of the organization said.

Kids Incorporated agreed to a note with the Hereford State Bank five years ago and completed payment in four years. The final cost of the complex was approximately $150,000, however this was offset with donations from the City of Hereford, Deaf Smith County, Lions Club, Texas parks and Wildlife, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Jim Hill Estate and the State Bank who donated back to the group the annual interest on the note.

According to the directors about 1,000 people are involved with the program. During their third season this year there were 37 boys teams and 17 girls teams.

"At the beginning of this project it seemed nearly impossible but with the help of the entire community we were able to make a dream come true," Cosper said.

"We want everyone to know we are very appreciative of the work that has been put into this project," Harold Wheeler, president of Kids Incorporated, said.

Exhumation Hearing Slated

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - A state district judge, retaining partial jurisdiction in a lawsuit brought by the brother of Lee Harvey Oswald, says he will hold a hearing Friday on exhuming the body in the accused presidential assassin's grave.

Judge James E. Wright said Wednesday he would hear Robert Oswald's case against Rose Hill Cemetery and British author Michael Eddowes, who wants to dig up the body he claims is actually a Soviet agent.

Wright granted a plea of privilege by Dallas County Medical Examiner Dr. Charles Petty, however, to move Petty's part of the case to a Dallas court.

The judge said his ruling on the exhumation would not affect Petty's hearing, since Petty only agreed to examine the body and was not involved in the actual exhumation. Wright said he did not know when Petty's portion of the lawsuit would put on the docket in Dallas.

The split suit is "a common occurrence, where they have multiple defendants, if the plaintiff fails to show an exception to the venue statute," the judge said.

The 2 p.m. Friday hearing concerns Oswald's request for a temporary injunction against the exhumation. At a hearing earlier Wednesday, Wright continued a temporary restraining order against the exhumation until then.

Eddowes obtained an order from Dallas County Judge Garry Weber for the exhumation and permission from Oswald's widow, Marina Oswald Porter, before Robert Oswald filed suit to block the exhumation.

Eddowes has written a book expounding his theory that Soviet agent Alex James Hidell assumed Oswald's identity after Oswald went to the Soviet Union in 1958. It was Hidell, he maintains, who assassinated President John F. Kennedy in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

At the Wednesday hearing, Robert Oswald testified he "most certainly" did not give permission to have his brother's body removed from its grave at Rose Hill Cemetery.

Texas 'Must' State for Reagan

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Texas is a key political battlefield in Ronald Reagan's drive for the White House and Republicans plan to launch an unprecedented effort to carry the state in November, said the state GOP chairman.

Chet Upham of Mineral Wells said the party plans to spend $2 million and put forth an unprecedented organizational effort to win the presidency for Reagan.

He said state Republican chairmen, who met in Chicago earlier, targeted Texas as a must state for Reagan.

"The battleground is here and it's going to be waged as hard as we can," Upham said at a news conference Wednesday.

He said Texas Republicans were buoyed by the 1978 election of the state's first GOP governor since Reconstruction, Gov. Bill Clements, and that they were ready to carry on the fight for Reagan.

"The race in 1976 was close and Texas fell on the Democratic side. We're going to make every effort this year to carry Texas for the Republicans," said Upham.

"We feel, and the Democrats feel, that traditionally and historically, the president has been elected the way that Texas goes. There's never been a Democrat or a Republican elected (president) this century that has not carried Texas."

The state party chairman's remarks came as Republicans prepared for their state convention here Friday and Saturday. A 20-member temporary resolutions and platform committee is working on the state platform to be submitted Saturday. And the state executive committee is scheduled to convene today.

Upham said that Reagan and his running mate, Texas George Bush, both would make several visits to Texas before the election and that he anticipated President Carter also would campaign heavily in the state.

Bush, Gov. Bill Clements, Sen. John Tower - all of whom will address the convention this weekend - and campaign organizations in 240 of the 254 counties will make a strong push to elect Reagan, Upham said.

Upham said the latest Republican poll shows Reagan leading Carter by 10 percentage points in Texas. But he predicted the margin would narrow considerably by November.

The state chairman also said he hoped Reagan would receive at least the 26 percent of the Hispanic vote that Clements and Tower garnered in 1978.

"The election of Gov. Clements in 1978 brought a psychological boost to us that a Republican can be elected to any office. I'm confident we're going to carry it," Upham said. "I'll make that prediction. I think it'll be within 2 percentage points."

Upham said Clements was elected by voters who were dejected because governmental services drew more and more of the gross national product at a time when taxes and inflation continued an upward spiral. And by young couples who were unable to purchase new homes even though both were working.

He said he did not expect Reagan's Labor Day statement about the Ku Klux Klan to hurt the GOP nominee's chances in Texas.

"I don't think it'll be much of a backlash. I think these incidents come and go. This was the first. Carter will be making his, too," said Upham. "When we get down to the main issues they'll be jobs, the economy, national defense, energy & Carter promises that have been broken the past four years."

Price Controls Pledged in Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - In a new move to quiet Poland's restive labor force, the communist government announced it would impose price controls to check the rising cost of living as striking miners in the southern coal fields of Upper Silesia returned to work today.

The official news agency PAP said coal miners went back to work in all areas of Silesia and "life is returning to normal in all the coal mine areas."

Meanwhile, a coal mine strike leader arrested Tuesday in the southern city of Katowice said he was released by authorities after being held for 48 hours with a warning against trying to organize independent unions.

"They told me they will not let me take part in the organizing of new trade unions," Kazimierz Switon told The Associated Press in a telephone interview.

The government tackled the economic roots of the crisis it hoped was ending today with an announcement that the State Price Committee would fix prices for meat and 46 other basic foods, 55 consumer items, rents and public transport fares.

The announcement gave no indication what levels of prices would be set or how the panel would go about determining them. The biggest unanswered question appeared to be whether the government would revive the subsidies which had kept the price of meat down and which it cancelled on July 1 in an attempt to improve its grave financial position.

Proclaimed Porno King Indicted

HOUSTON (AP) - A self-proclaimed pornography tycoon who once boasted he netted more than $1 million from his Houston adult bookstore business has been indicted on federal charges of income tax evasion.

Asa L. Walker Jr., 33, reported personal and corporate income of $25,139 in 1975 and losses totaling $4,390 in 1976, but his actual income was more than $420,000, a federal grand jury charged Wednesday.

U.S. District Judge Norman W. Black ordered Walker's arrest and set bond at $100,000 upon recommendation of assistant U.S. Attorney John Johnson, who cited the "past history" of the accused man.

However, Johnson said he was uncertain where Walker is living.

A Harris County grand jury in 1977 indicted Walker on charges of selling sexually-explicit films at his four bookstores. He was convicted, fined $1,200 and sentenced to 30 days in jail to run concurrently with a similar term in a 1973 obscenity conviction.

If convicted of failing to pay more than $173,000 in taxes during 1975 and 1976, Walker could receive a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine on each of three counts.

Woman Shot By Dallas Cop

DALLAS (AP) - A Dallas police officer shot a woman to death late Wednesday as the woman slashed at another woman with a butcher knife, according to Dallas Police spokesman Bob Shaw.

Shaw identified the woman as Patricia Ann Henry, 36.

Officer Manuel Vasquez shot the woman in the chest with his pistol after the woman allegedly refused to drop a butcher knife and slashed Lillie Walker, 26, on the elbow with the knife, Shaw said.

The Walker woman was taken to Parkland Hospital for treatment of the knife wound and a gunshot wound she suffered only minutes before Vasquez arrived.

The shooting and slashing took place beside a police car parked outside a home where Vasquez was summoned because of a disturbance.

When police went inside the home, Shaw said, they found that a man, identified as Jimmy Wilson, 41, had been shot in the abdomen and left leg. Wilson was in critical condition at Parkland Hospital early today.

Shaw said the shooting was under investigation and would be sent to a Dallas County grand jury.

Custodian Indicted In Rape-Slaying

CONROE, Texas (AP) - A Montgomery County grand jury has indicted a Conroe High School custodian on a capital murder charge in the brutal rape-slaying of a 16-year-old Bellville girl.

Clarence Lee Bradley, 28, testified Wednesday before the grand jury investigating the murder of Cheryl Dee Ferguson, whose nude body was found on a catwalk in the high school auditorium. Authorities said the teenager disappeared while looking for a restroom.

"There was nothing startling in his story," District Attorney James Keeshan said.

Bradley, who has denied he attacked Miss Ferguson, was transferred Wednesday to the San Jacinto County Jail in Coldspring because repairs were being made at that Montgomery County jail, Keeshan said.

Weather

By The Associated Press
Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast today for the southern half of Texas.

Clear to partly cloudy skies and hot temperatures were to dominate the remainder of the state's weather.

Hights were to be mostly in the 90s, ranging from the 80s along the coast and in the mountains of Southwest Texas to near 100 in North Central Texas and in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas.

Dallas-Fort Worth, Waco and Mineral Wells tied as the state's hot spot Wednesday with 97.

A few isolated showers were reported before dawn along the upper Texas coast, but the rest of the state had mostly clear skies.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s. Extremes ranged from 57 at Marfa to 8 at Fort Worth.

Note Burning

Harold Wheeler (left), president of Kids Incorporated and Chuck Cosper, past president of the organization, burned the bank note after the final payment of $15,999.51 was made to the Hereford State Bank to complete payment for the baseball complex. The Board of Directors presented the check to Craig Smith, executive vice president of the State Bank, at their Wednesday night meeting. The complex has been used by the youth of Hereford for three baseball seasons.

News Briefs

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Certain forms used in selecting persons to fill vacancies in city government are exempt from the Open Records Act, Attorney General Mark White held Wednesday.

The forms considered by White consisted of four completed standard forms for "appointment and promotion request."

He said each form describes the position to be filled and lists the names of three or four leading choices selected from a much larger number of applicants, together with evaluations and comments by city officials.

White said, however, that where the form reflects no members of minority groups have applied for a position, "the requestor is entitled to examine that portion of the form."

His opinion was sought by City Manager R. Marvin Townsend of Corpus Christi.

In other opinions on the Open Records Act, the attorney general held that:

-A draft of a municipal ordinance and resolution prepared by a city staff group are exempt from disclosure provisions.

-The State Health Department should release on request "non-identifying, statistical information" on the sale of county hospital authorities to proprietary hospital companies. However, White said, the identity of the authority should not be revealed.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texas operators reported 52 gas and 25 oil discoveries during the last half of August, the Railroad Commission said Wednesday.

The commission said gas discoveries in the Aug. 16-31 period included 11 in the Refugio area; 10 each in Southeast Texas and South Texas; seven in West Central Texas; six each in East Texas and the San Angelo area and two in the San Antonio area.

Oil discoveries included five in South Texas; four each in North Texas and Southeast Texas; three each in West Central Texas and the San Angelo area and two each in the San Antonio and Lubbock areas and the Panhandle.

The commission reported 189 dry holes were drilled the last two weeks of August.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - A 37-year-old Yale scholar has been named director of the Kimbell Art Museum here.

Dr. Edmund P. Pillsbury, director of the Yale Center for British Art and chief executive officer of the Paul Mellon Center for Studies in British Art in London, will succeed the late Dr. Richard F. Brown, the museum's founding director who died last November.

Pillsbury, a specialist in 16th Century Italian painting with a strong interest in contemporary art, has written dozens of scholarly papers and reviews, organized major art exhibitions and lectures at numerous universities and museums.

The announcement was made Wednesday by Mrs. Ben J. Fortson, president of the board of trustees of the Kimbell Art Foundation. Pillsbury will take office Dec. 1.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) - A three-hour-old boy was found abandoned Wednesday in a car parked outside a local hospital.

Cynthia King told police she was walking to Brownsville Medical Center when another woman yelled, "Look what they left in my car!" Miss King saw the child, wrapped in a dirty pink towel, was choking and rushed to the emergency room.

She said she noticed a young woman sitting several cars away who was watching her throughout the episode. Miss King said the woman took off at a high rate of speed through the parking lot when she headed toward the hospital with the child.

Brownsville Police Lt. Charles Butcher said he has asked local residents to come forward with any information about the baby's mother.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A delegation of high-level Pentagon technical experts is leaving Friday for a two-week visit to China that marks a landmark agreement for sale of U.S. military-related equipment and technology to the Communist giant.

The Defense Department said Wednesday the aim of the Sept. 6-19 visit by the 22-member delegation "is to continue consultations on military technology between experts of both countries in order to maintain defense contacts with the People's Republic of China." Spokesman Thomas Ross said Dr. William Perry, the delegation leader, will be empowered to broaden existing guidelines, which rule out selling any actual weapons systems to China.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Judiciary Committee has approved a measure providing stiff jail terms for the public disclosure of identities of American secret agents, and backers hope for House passage before the congressional recess that begins Oct. 3.

The chamber easily quashed a provision that would have limited the bill's scope to ex-CIA employees. Civil libertarians and news media representatives say the measure passed Wednesday could chill efforts to expose abuses in the intelligence community. But proponents of the bill say the legislation is needed to protect American agents from unwarranted attacks. A similar bill has already passed the Senate Intelligence Committee.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Guards at the District of Columbia's two corrections facilities - the D.C. Jail and the Lorton Reformatory in suburban Virginia - have staged a wildcat walkout, defying a court order and a plea from their own union.

The guards, upset with layoffs and transfers ordered by Mayor Marion Barry to help ease Washington's multimillion-dollar budget deficit, say both facilities are dangerously understaffed. More than 90 percent of the guards at the D.C. Jail and over 50 percent of those at Lorton refused to enter the facilities for Wednesday's day shift. City police and corrections officials relieved the night crew at mid-afternoon, and authorities reported no problems. D.C. Superior Court Judge Leonard Braman has called for both sides in the dispute to meet in court Sept. 10.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House has resoundingly approved spending $2.27 billion over the next three years to boost the number of nurses and other professionals in the health care field.

The bill now goes to the Senate. Backers of the legislation say it would help ease the nationwide shortage of nurses, estimated to be at least 100,000. The bill would authorize $30 million in 1981 for scholarship assistance to low-income students, $40 million in 1982 and $50 million in 1983; extend the program of nursing student loans, limiting eligibility to students from low-income or disadvantaged backgrounds, and increase the amount of grant money for schools that undertake special projects aimed at problem areas.

MOSCOW (AP) - Alexander Ogorodnikov, a 29-year-old organizer of Russian Orthodox religious study groups, is on trial in the city of Kalinin, 100 miles northwest of here, dissident sources report. He is the third dissident in two weeks to be tried on the charge of anti-Soviet propaganda.

The sources said at the opening of the trial Wednesday, Ogorodnikov announced he did not recognize the authority of the court and dismissed the lawyer who had been assigned to defend him. He was sentenced in January 1979 to a year in a labor camp for "parasitism," or failure to hold a socially useful job.

Last week, Gleb Yakunin, 46, a Russian Orthodox priest who organized an underground religious study group in Moscow, was sentenced to five years in labor camp and five years of internal exile. Human rights activist Tatyana Velikanova, 47, was convicted on the same charge and sentenced to four years in camp and five in exile.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - About 150 Thai soldiers backed by helicopter gunships attacked a Malaysian Communist Party base in Thailand's Yala province, 510 miles south of Bangkok, and killed four guerrillas, a military spokesman announced today.

Another military spokesman disclosed that a landmine planted by communist terrorists at a highway construction site in Chiang Rai province, in northern Thailand, killed nine security guards and two construction workers.

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) - Prime Minister P.W. Botha's government announced the appointments of a new administrator-general for South-West Africa, or Namibia, and a new chief of South Africa's defense forces.

The new government chief in the disputed territory South Africa refuses to relinquish is D.J. Hough, 43, a member of the executive council for Transvaal province. He replaces Gerrit Viljoen, who becomes South African minister of national education in a cabinet shakeup announced a week ago.

Botha appointed Lt. Gen. Constand Viljoen, 46, the chief of the South African army, to be chief of the defense force. He replaces Gen. Magnus Malan, who has been named minister of defense.

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) - Unidentified persons machine-gunned four men to death in this Central American capital Wednesday, police said, and all the killers escaped.

One of the victims was an executive of an investment company, and one was the head of a transport company.

Hoffman Surrenders to Officials

NEW YORK (AP) - Abbie Hoffman, the former Yippie leader and anti-war activist who had disappeared more than six years ago when he jumped bail on a cocaine charge, surrendered at the Manhattan district attorney's office today, a spokeswoman said.

He eluded about 40 reporters waiting for him in front of the New York State Office Building, where the state special narcotics prosecutor has his office, by going in a side entrance.

Hoffman had been living for several years under the name Barry Freed as a freelance writer and ecology activist on a tiny island in the St. Lawrence river. His surrender was announced by Mary de Bourbon, spokeswoman for Manhattan District Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau.

Prior to the surrender, an associate had said Hoffman would be at his publisher's office for a news conference at 12:30 p.m., less than four hours later.

Without a special deal, normal processing of a bail jumper takes 24 to 36 hours, with steps that include processing through central booking, fingerprinting and photographing, checking the print record through the centralized computer in Albany, and drafting and filing a bail-jump charge before the suspect appears before a judge for possible setting of bail.

In an interview broadcast on ABC-TV Wednesday, Hoffman had told Barbara Walters: "I wasn't going to run any more."

His lawyer Gerald Lefcourt, had said, "He will be coming out soon because he feels now is a good time. When people learn his story, they will be impressed."

Hoffman went underground in 1974 after skipping $50,000 bail on a charge of trying to sell cocaine to an undercover officer. At the time, a conviction could have meant 15 years to life imprisonment.

Reports had been circulating that Hoffman, whose autobiography, "Soon to be a Major Motion Picture," was published Monday, would surface this week if he could make a deal avoiding a long prison term for selling cocaine.

Two previous attempts at negotiating a surrender failed, officials said.

Hoffman, 43, sporting a full black beard and short curly hair, told Miss Walters in an interview Tuesday he "really didn't have any identity" during his life as a fugitive.

"My name was Barry ... I actually had three last names and changed them without anyone knowing," he said.

Miss Walters said he had been living under the name of Barry Freed in the tiny upstate New York community of Fineview. A portion of the interview was shown Wednesday on ABC News, and a longer version was to be broadcast tonight on the network's "20-20" program.

Miss Walters said Hoffman had been living in the community along the St. Lawrence River with former model Johanna Lawrenson.

His appearance altered by plastic surgery on his nose, Hoffman zealously adopted environmental causes and helped form the Save the River Committee. His testimony at a U.S. Senate subcommittee hearing about the St. Lawrence River won him a letter of commendation from Gov. Hugh Carey. Miss Walters reported he also won an appointment to a federal Commission on Water Resources.

Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan, D-N.Y., who chaired the hearing about the river, was asked if he had realized Freed was Hoffman. "Well, I'll be damned! Hell no!" Hoffman said he had joined the successful fight to prevent the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers from breaking up the ice which normally closes the St. Lawrence to winter-time shipping because "I sort of needed the struggle. But at some point I made my decision. I wasn't going to run from here anymore."

The possibility of an interview first was broached about two months ago when a man calling himself Mark Samuels contacted Miss Walters, ABC said. He later identified himself to Miss Walters as Hoffman.

Miss Walters went by chartered plane to Watertown, N.Y., and then was taken by boat to meet mid-river with a man and woman in another boat, which then took her to Fineview Island, ABC said.

Hoffman was a founder of the Youth International Party, or Yippies, a 1960s counterculture group, and was the author of "Revolution for the Hell of It" and "Steal This Book."

He was one of the Chicago Seven, a group of activists tried in 1970 on conspiracy and riot charges stemming from the violence at the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

The defendants and their lawyers were cited for contempt 200 times during the trial. Hoffman and four others were convicted of crossing state lines with intent to cause a riot, but the charges eventually were dismissed.

Lawyer William Kunstler, who had represented the Seven, said of Hoffman's reappearance, "I feel that anyone that lives that kind of life has been in prison. This long period of underground should essentially count, assuming he's guilty of anything. I'm sure society assumes he's guilty of something."

U.S. Farm Exports To China May Grow

By CLIFF HAAS

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)— Anticipated changes in China's leadership could bring about a dramatic expansion of American farm exports to that country, according to Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

"The potential (for exports) there is beyond comprehension," Bergland said.

Next week, China's National People's Congress, the parliament, is expected to approve the resignation of the current premier, Hua Guofeng, and name Zhao Ziyang to the post.

The change has the approval of Senior Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping, who wants his own men to form a new collective leadership and continue China's modernization program.

Zhao says his ideal is to combine the forces of the marketplace with the planned economy of socialism.

In a telephone news conference with farm broadcasters Wednesday, Bergland said there is a great potential for American exports to China of food grains and breeding livestock.

He added that Chinese agriculture lags far behind the United States, in sophistication, now resembling American farming at the turn of the century.

Thus, he said, the need in China for U.S. products and expertise is clear.

There is "one bridge on which we speak the same language"—the U.S. desire to sell farm products and the Chinese need to import such goods, Bergland said.

Following the news conference, Bergland said China has the potential to become the No. 1 customer for U.S. farm exports.

Previously, China has refused to buy farm goods on credit, preferring to do business on a cash basis only.

But, Bergland said, recent developments in China are "very important" and indicate "clearly (the Chinese) are re-examining their position" regarding agricultural imports.

Bergland said a decision by the Chinese to use credit in making purchases could greatly expand their potential as a market for U.S. goods.

He said no request for credit has been received yet. But, he quickly added, the United States is willing and able to extend credit to the Chinese.

Currently, China is the largest importer of U.S. cotton and the fifth-largest importer of American farm goods, overall. Chinese imports of U.S. agricultural products are expected to be about $2 billion this year, Bergland said.

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Senate Agriculture Committee has apparently finished its legislative business for the year by endorsing a House-passed bill to reduce the weighing requirements for grain slated for export.

In other action Wednesday, the panel designated nearly 17,000 acres in North Carolina as part of the National Wilderness Preservation System, and approved the appointments of Rep. William Wampler, R-Va., and Ralph Raikes of Nebraska to the Federal Farm Credit Board.

Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., the committee chairman, said these probably would probably be the panel's last actions on legislation this year.

The committee's decision to send the grain-weighing bill to the Senate floor comes despite indications that President Carter may veto the measure if it receives final congressional approval.

"I don't know of any objection to this bill other than by the administration," said Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., the chief Senate backer of the proposal.

"We're not tinkering with grain inspection," Dole said. "We're just modifying it to eliminate some of the costs and reduce the overkill we had in the first act."

The bill would change the nation's four-year-old Grain Standards Act by eliminating requirements that grain be weighed when it is moved into American export elevators by means other than barge.

The bill was passed by the House in mid-August.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has claimed the changes would affect the reliability of the national grain-weighing system.

Grain companies, which lobbied heavily for the proposed changes, claim the requirements for weighing grain shipped into export elevators are unnecessarily costly. They say the industry is self-policing in a highly competitive market.

But the Agriculture Department says the cost to an elevator for official inbound weighing is only one-fifth of a cent a bushel, which is generally passed back to the shipper and in many cases profitably increased by the elevator.

WASHINGTON (AP)— If farmers think they know of federal regulations that are stupid, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland wants to know about it.

During a telephone news conference with farm broadcasters Wednesday, Bergland invited farmers to send him lists of the regulations they think are onerous, unwarranted, stupid or absurd.

Bergland said he felt most federal agriculture regulations were not burdensome. But he added that he wants farmers to tell him what regulations they consider stupid.

"If it (the regulation) doesn't make sense, we'll junk it," Bergland said.

Investing in the Fuels Future

Oils have been a good investment in recent months; what's next?

Oil is getting too expensive to burn. We're going to have to fill the gas tank with something other than gas - but what?

It will be a "synfuel," a "synthetic fuel." And if you can guess which - you can get rich!

The Wall Street Journal says that synfuels "promise to become one of the biggest investment opportunities of 1980s."

The big investment houses, such as Merrill Lynch and Dillon Read, are mobilizing all the brainpower they can find on this subject. Synfuels will become a hundred billion dollar business these next 10 years and everybody wants a piece of it.

But which horse do we bet on? Coal, nuclear, solar, shale rock, tar sand, hydrogen, alcohol - each is promising - but none is yet a cinch to win.

Three years ago, our government created a Cabinet-level Department of Energy, gave it 88 billion of your dollars to invest in developing new energies.

So far it has developed almost nothing.

Sen. Tom Eagleton (D-Mo.), an early supporter for the DOE, has since reviewed 42 negative reports and concluded that the department has "belly-flopped" and "should be abolished."

If the development of exotic new energies requires more flexibility than government has and more money than industry has, perhaps the best response involves government grants to small-entrepreneurial companies already competing in the synfuels race.

A number of private concerns have pooled resources - Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance, Allis-Chalmers, Koppers, Morgan Stanley - they're betting a lot of money on coal liquefaction in a Wyoming project which they expect will produce 47,000 barrels of oil a day.

American Natural

Resources of Detroit, plus four other partners, will try coal gasification, instead, at a pilot plant in North Dakota.

During the political campaign, President Carter will make much use of the word "reindustrialization." He will include under that umbrella the development of optional energies.

Doubtless, candidate Reagan will counter with his own recommendations.

But the evidence already indicates that government's most useful function in this quest is to get and stay out of the way.

Accelerating development of synfuels requires more realistic environmental policies.

If the Environmental Protection Agency had existed in the 1880s, George Westinghouse would never have been allowed to develop and use alternating electric current.

And we may right now be on the brink of developing something bigger than that!

Reagan Says Mideast Reaching 'Flash Point'

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer

Ronald Reagan says the Mideast is "approaching a flashpoint" because of weak and confused leadership by Jimmy Carter - a charge leveled only hours after the President's announcement that Israel and Egypt will resume their stalled peace talks under his mantle.

In an address Wednesday night to B'nai B'rith, the Jewish service organization, the Republican presidential nominee said Carter has sacrificed America's reputation as a trustworthy ally and that his conduct of foreign policy "has been marked by inconsistency and incompetence."

Reagan headed to Florida and Louisiana today in the wake of his now-famous Labor Day gaffe over the Ku Klux Klan, a remark which drew severe criticism throughout the South.

The Republican nominee stuck word-for-word with his prepared text Wednesday night, even to the point of ignoring the disclosure by Carter that another three-way summit is in the works with Egypt and Israel.

But when a reporter asked him about it outside a Washington hotel, Reagan declared: "I think it's great."

charged in his address that the president merely "stands by and watches" while Israel is isolated by international terrorism and U.N. resolutions designed to undercut its position. Carter gets his chance to reply in a speech to B'nai B'rith tonight.

Reagan said that the Soviet Union has made new inroads in the Mideast, and "because of the weak and confused leadership of Jimmy Carter, we are approaching a flashpoint in this tragic process."

Carter said that his Mideast negotiator, Sol Linowitz, had informed him after his arrival in Cairo from Tel Aviv that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin had agreed to resume bi-lateral talks within weeks and "they both approved a reconvening of the summit conference later this year at an appropriate time that will be convenient for all of us."

Administration officials said the new summit would occur after the Nov. 4 election.

The president spent the day Wednesday courting ethnic and black voters in Philadelphia, after collecting the endorsements of the million-member American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees and the 250,000 member United Transportation Union.

Today, the president was virtually certain to be handed the biggest labor prize of all - the formal nod of the 13.6-million-member AFL-CIO.

Reagan told the B'nai B'rith that ambiguities in the 1978 Camp David peace accords were responsible for bringing negotiations to a dangerous impasse.

Egypt broke off the talks a month ago after Israel declared that Jerusalem will remain its permanent capital.

"Now it (Jerusalem) exists as a shared trust," said Reagan. "The holy places of all faiths are protected and open to all...each is under the care and control of representatives of the respective faiths."

And then he declared: "Unlike the days prior to 1967, Jerusalem is now and will continue to be one city, undivided, with continuing free access for all. That is why I disagree with the cynical actions of the Carter Administration in pledging to preserve the status of Jerusalem in its party platform - and its undercutting Israel and Jerusalem by abstaining on a key U.N. vote."

Reagan said that as a United States ally, Israel must remain strong.

Cronkite Launching TV Educational System

By PETER J. BOYER
 AP Television Writer
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — When the average parent is unhappy with the education his child is getting, he writes a note to the school board. And then there's Walter Cronkite.

Cronkite's method of protest is to bring in new teachers — say, Henry Kissinger for history, or Leonard Bernstein for music. Really.

Through a new television service called Satellite Education Services, Cronkite and his associates hope to bring the likes of Kissinger and Bernstein into high school classrooms across the country — "superteachers" whose lectures would be delivered by satellite.

Cronkite calls it one of his fondest dreams, stymied until now because it was technologically impractical. His idea has come to fruition too late to influence the education of his own kids, now grown; but after all, Cronkite is everybody's Daddy, sort of.

Satellite Education Services (of which Cronkite is the Chairman of the Board) will present a series called "Why in the World," which will daily beam to participating classrooms a major news story, followed by a lecture from one of the superteachers.

Say, for example, that Jerusalem declares itself a free state on Monday afternoon. Tuesday's edition of "Why in the World" would run a tape of the story and then a lecture from Kissinger (who has agreed to participate in the project), putting the development in historical perspective.

The lectures will originate from five studios in cities with a large reserve of lecturers — New York, Chicago, Boston, Los Angeles and Washington — with each studio prepared to go on every day. Executive Producer Sid Mickelson (once president of CBS News) will coordinate the delivery process.

"Why in the World" will have a test debut in Los Angeles during the week Oct. 13-17, with seven high schools participating. The shows will also be broadcast on local PBS station KCET, allowing community input.

It's hoped that funding — $2½ million to $3 million — will be raised to launch the program in time for the 1981 school year.

"Cronkite's had this dream for a long time," says Robert Klein, SES president. "But until now there was no way of delivering it."

Charlie Daniels Surprises Carter Backers at Picnic

By MAUREEN SANTINI
 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter surprised nearly everyone when he stepped off his Jetstar in Tusculumbia, Ala., this week with country-western musician Charlie Daniels behind him.

To begin with, Daniels drew louder applause than the president as Carter got off the plane in his casual Western dress.

Later, at a Labor Day picnic, Carter told the crowd of about 20,000 that he had recently reminded Daniels that when he gave three

Carter fund-raisers in 1976 "not many people knew who you were and now you're world-famous."

Daniels wasn't about to let that pass. He replied: "Mr. President, when I gave those three fund-raisers for you in 1976, a lot more people knew who I was than knew who you were."

Vice President Walter F. Mondale says that when the president finishes speaking, the lights go out.

Mondale made the joking reference during President Carter's meeting with members of the United Auto Workers last week.

Lighting technicians for television camera crews brightly illuminated the Cabinet Room at the beginning of the meeting to record the president's remarks. When Carter concluded, the cameramen stopped filming, as if they were not interested in anything anyone else had to say.

"Did you notice how the lights go off when the president stops speaking?" Mondale asked. The union leaders chuckled.

Four years ago, when he was running for president the first time, Carter told his staff that he had the choice of sleeping a couple of extra hours in the morning or getting up before everyone else and winning the election.

Perhaps White House press secretary Jody Powell had that in mind when he told reporters this week about his new neighbor: George Bush, the Republican vice-presidential nominee.

Powell said that when he left his home to travel to Alabama with Carter, Bush's motorcade was still outside his home.

The press secretary observed wryly that if Bush planned to make a habit of beginning his campaign days later than Powell, there was no hope for the Republican ticket.

Early Decision Pledged by Judge

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Judge Jon Wisser promised an early decision today in the case of 16 Middle Eastern students charged with disrupting a University of Texas speech by the former ambassador to the United Nations under the late shah.

Attracting more attention than the students' trial was the issue of whether student editor Mark McKinnon of the Daily Texan would relinquish unpublished negatives of the Jan. 31 speech taken by a student photographer.

McKinnon, 25, refused and went to jail for almost two hours Tuesday rather than obey Wisser's order to hand over the negatives to see if they were the same ones sought in a subpoena by the prosecution.

"The principle is to protect the First Amendment rights of the press," McKinnon said as he was led to jail.

McKinnon was released on $1,000 bond, pending a hearing today on his claim Wisser's contempt order was unconstitutional.

Sentencing of any of the 16 students would be delayed for two or three weeks, said Wisser, a county court-at-law judge. The misdemeanor charges against the 13 Iranians and three Palestinians carried a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Assistant Travis County Attorney Jeff Blackwelder said the defendants chanted "Death to the shah" in disrupting the Jan. 31 speech by Fereydoon Hoveyda.

One of the defendants, Mehran Ebrahimi, said in closing arguments Tuesday night Hoveyda represented "a regime that killed our brothers and sisters and destroyed our economy and, with that, our independence and freedom."

Ebrahimi claimed the United States was grooming Hoveyda and others for a takeover of Iran from the Ayatollah Khomeini and was sending them to college campuses to portray themselves as "a progressive anti-shah element."

Bill Allison, attorney for the students, compared their "passion" to that of America's founding fathers, who felt "the same kind of rage when our country was being gutted and raped by Great Britain."

"I agree it's a freedom of speech case — the freedom of Hoveyda to speak and the audience to hear him, but they wouldn't let him," said Blackwelder.

Assumed Identity Proves No Surprise

By MIKE HENDRICKS
 Associated Press Writer
 FINEVIEW, N.Y. — Barry Freed's white wood frame house is boarded up today, its blue shutters closed. Gone is the man who showed off his tomatoes and once testified on the St. Lawrence River before a U.S. Senate subcommittee.

But many residents of this tiny, riverside resort community said they were not surprised Freed might be the man who became national news as a central figure in the Chicago Seven trial.

Rumors had circulated among the residents of Wellesley Island two years ago that Freed was Hoffman, who under the name of just "Free" wrote a book called "Revolution for the Hell of It."

Mike Sheldon said the woman who lived with Freed "vehemently denied" the rumors.

"The rumor came up years ago, but no one ever followed up on it. I don't think anyone cared," he said, adding that according to the old rumor, Freed and Hoffman were one and the same because both had a penchant for corduroy pants.

The talk began spreading again this week when Barbara Walters showed up to interview Freed. Freed had told his neighbors she was go-

TEA Presents Petitions to Force Dallas Vote

DALLAS (AP) - The Tax Equality Association, better known as the TEA Party, has submitted petitions signed by more than 26,000 Dallas voters in its effort to force a special referendum to reduce the proposed municipal tax rate by at least 25 percent. The petitions call for a city charter amendment referendum that would place the maximum city tax rate at 40 cents per $100 of assessed property valuation. It also seeks a 5 percent ceiling on the amount taxes can be increased.

The City Council is debating a record $485.8 million municipal budget that would require a tax rate of at least 54 cents.

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas Power & Light Co. plans an experimental rate structure called time-of-use rates for 50 residential volunteers.

The rates would give the customers a financial break on their electricity bills if most of their electricity use is during off-peak hours.

The only catch, DP&L officials say, is that the customers will pay about triple the amount of customers billed on the regular rate schedule if they leave their air conditioners on during the day.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - A Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport Board member has suggested airlines share the cost of operating the financially troubled Surtran bus system.

Henry Meadows outlined a plan Tuesday that would place Surtran under the board's supervision.

A subsidy could come from landing fees paid by airlines and from income from parking and rental fees paid by businesses at the airport, he said.

The Surtran system, which provides transportation to the airport and terminals and hotels in Dallas and Fort Worth, now is owned and operated by the two city governments. Fort Worth has threatened to withdraw from the system rather than pay its share of the subsidy to over rising losses.

DALLAS (AP) - Hours after Texas International Airline announced its fares and promotional packages on its new service out of Love Field, Southwest Airlines met those fares.

Houston-based TIA said its new fare to Houston Intercontinental Airport would be $24, or $13 less than Southwest's daytime fare to Houston Hobby Airport.

Southwest, the only commercial passenger airline until now to serve Love Field, said Tuesday it would meet the $24 fare to Hobby and in its new service to Intercontinental.

TIA also said passengers choosing to pay the $37 "peanuts fare" would receive either a bottle of liquor or a gift certificate for brand-name merchandise.

Southwest, not to be outdone, said it would offer complimentary cocktails on its "special pleasure flights" and "gifts and games on selected flights."

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Federal drinking water regulations that a state official says could triple some Texans' water bills will be discussed at a hearing here Thursday.

The State Health Department said witnesses from six states are expected at a hearing to be conducted by the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

At issue is who has the responsibility for issuing variances for water systems that fail to meet standards under the Safe Drinking Water Act.

Ronald Catchings of the health department's Division of Water Hygiene said in Texas fluoride levels are the major concern. He said the EPA takes the position that de-fluoridation equipment must be installed before a variance can be granted.

"We're talking about doubling and tripling some water bills," Catchings said in a statement.

The health department estimated some 400 Texas water systems have fluoride in excess of EPA regulations and would have to spend at least $20 million to de-fluoridate the water.

It said 50 variances have been granted in Texas through July 1979 but none since then.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) - Local policemen have approved a work contract that could end four months of bargaining if the city council accepts it.

The police union voted 126-87 Tuesday for the agreement, which provides a 15.7 percent pay raise to be implemented in three steps.

The pay hike would boost base pay for new officers from $1,018 a month to $1,132 a month immediately. Sergeants and senior officials would get a raise from $1,243 to $1,382.

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP) - The tourism industry will spend $100,000 in an advertising campaign to recoup losses from Hurricane Allen by luring winter visitors from the Midwest and Canada.

South Padre Island Tourist Bureau director Ralph Thompson said the local crowds that merchants had hoped for on Labor Day weekend never materialized.

The storm damaged hotel rooms, reducing available space from 3,000 to 600 rooms for the holiday weekend. Thompson said the resort town is losing $2 million a week because of accommodation shortages and closed businesses.

DALLAS (AP) - The Zale Employees Federal Credit Union, which offered lower interest rates for borrowers buying American cars, report that such loans increased 50 percent since the program started.

Loans for American-made auto led loans for new foreign vehicles by a three-to-one margin since the credit union announced its reduced interest rates July 5, said Jerry Gray, president of the 7,000-member institution.

This compares with an almost one-to-one ratio in the six months prior to July, Gray said.

The interest rate policy is to charge 11 percent for American car loans and 13 percent on all other new vehicles. The average interest savings on four-year loans on new cars costing from $7,000 to $9,000 is about $380 over the life of the loan.

Between Jan. 1 and June 30, the credit union processed loans for 73 new American-made cars and 70 imported ones. In the two months since the reduction, loans were made from 59 American cars and 21 foreign cars, Gray said.

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - The death of an Ethiopian student who fell eight floors from a Texas Tech University biology building was ruled a suicide Wednesday.

Teo Eros Felegeselan, a zoology major, died instantly after falling from a window about 5 p.m. Tuesday, said Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy, who made the ruling.

LeCroy said the student apparently was despondent over his relationship with a girlfriend.

Several witnesses saw the victim fall, LeCroy said.

MOST OLD CODGERS would be overjoyed to receive a visit from a young Scandinavian of the opposite sex. But not Henry, a 16-year-old Bactrian camel from the St. Louis Zoo. He merely turned up his nose at the 2-year-old female who was recently imported from Norway to be his companion.

THE ADDAX ANTELOPE, an animal clearly mentioned in the Bible, survives on the barest minimum of water and foliage, migrating across vast desert expanses following the scent of sporadic rainfall. Its former range from Palestine to Senegal has been drastically reduced by remorseless hunting; it is now relegated to harsh and inaccessible enclaves in the North African desert.

Herd Meets Pampa in Opener

(5-10,156) and free safety Norman Hill (5-10,155).

Yet, even with those admirable defensive qualifications stacked up in the Herd's deck, Cumpton still had to wonder how that crew would fare once it got off the paper and on the field.

The Hereford defensive squads had yielded more yardage in their scrimmage with Sweetwater a week ago, than many had expected.

(5-10,223), left guard Aubrey Richburg, center Billy Simon - the smallest man on the crew at (6-2,177), right guard Curtis McNaney (5-11, 183), right tackle Bert Wofford (6-5,224), right end Don Delozier (6-2,202), right halfback John Phibbs who carried eight times for 61 yards and a 7.6 average against Sweetwater (5-10,181), left halfback Harold Terry who punched it,"he said. "We just have too much space between our returning lettermen and supporting players, and I just hope our quickness this year can make up for that. But I honestly don't know whether it can or not."

"In that respect I think our game Friday night is going to be a classic football battle - size against quickness, and that's about the best analogy I can make about us without having seen our kids play in a real game.

"I don't see anyway in the world that Hereford won't be up for us and ready to play after what we did to them last year because the rivalry between our two teams is just too strong," he added.

The Whitefaces will pair off against Pampa in a contest traditionally saved for the season opener of each new campaign at 7:30 p.m. in Whiteface Stadium Friday night.

KPAM radio will broadcast the varsity game Friday night and in addition will carry the junior varsity contest from Pampa on Thursday at 6:45 p.m.

out an eight yard average on nine carries in the scrimmage (5-8,145) and flanker Felix Soliz who amassed the fourth highest average in district play last year after catching 16 passes for 196 yards and a 12.3 yard average per carry.

"It's hard to tell right now which part of our game looks best, we just won't know for sure until we play in an actual game situation," Cumpton said. "Pampa has a real good team and we think we do too, so it ought to be one heck of a game come Friday night."

And while Cumpton complemented the Harvester squad for its play in the offensive and defensive categories, Pampa coach Larry Gilbert came back with a trade.

"We're worried about the size we've got to handle against Hereford because we just don't have much of it," said Gilbert who is taking over his first head mentor spot at Pampa this year. "I think the fourth quarter is really going to be rough, and I'm not kidding you when I say I'm pretty worried and anxious to see how my men do against a big team like Hereford."

"We scrimmaged Lubbock Estacado a week ago and I felt like we had some improvement over what we had seen in spring training, but we have a lack of depth this year after returning only four starters and we're feeling

"I thought at 4-2, he'd really be pumped up and it would be very difficult," said Borg. "I knew I needed to stay one break behind, that he might make errors if I put more pressure on him."

Borg held for 3-4, then broke Tanner's serve to tie it 4-4.

"At 4-4, I'm in the match again," noted Borg. "I started playing better."

Did he ever! Suddenly, it was Borg who was in charge, passing with authority, serving more dynamically and hitting winner after winner.

He held twice more while Tanner struggled, winning on serve in the 10th game at deuce, but then being broken at love in the 12th game for the set.

"He makes shots that you don't expect from him," said Tanner. "Especially some of those winners down the line."

Borg continued his awesome display in the fifth set but Tanner stayed with him until the eighth game. Borg got the decisive point in that game on a forehand down the line.

"I feel pretty relaxed when it comes down to 3-3 in the fifth," Borg said in explaining that special quality on which he calls in tight spots.

Tanner led Borg 4-2 in the fourth set and the Swede's chances for his first U.S. Open title looked slim.

The Hereford Brand--Page 7A
Thursday, September 4, 1980

"The thing that hurt us all over (not just on defense) in the scrimmage was our lack of intensity," Cumpton said. "That's something which is mandatory in any contest, and we just didn't have it that night against Sweetwater. But it was a scrimmage and a lot harder to get up for than a game. And I think the intensity is there this week. We needed a jolt like that scrimmage to show ourselves we weren't quite as great as we thought."

As far as Pampa's defense was concerned Cumpton said the squad wasn't too big physically, but had quickness to make up for a deficit in that category.

"They aren't real big on defense. I think they average around (180-190) up front, but they're a quick defensive ball club that has great pursuit," Cumpton related. "We're going to just run right at 'em, and hopefully offset some that quickness with our advantage in size."

Harbored behind an offensive line that averages approximately 205 pounds (as one of the biggest trench units to grace a Hereford squad since the 1972 quarterfinalists), Alan Wartes has been tabbed as a probable starter in the quarterbacking role for the Herd's scoring attack this fall.

Other probable starters for the mountainous offensive crew include: big left end Scott Daniels (6-3,208), left tackle Nieves Rodriguez

Akers Praises Offensive Line

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas Coach Fred Akers had said he felt his offensive line would be good, "and they really did a job" in Texas' 23-17 victory over No. 6 Arkansas on Monday night.

Tackle Terry Tausch, selected on some pre-season All-American teams, was "really outstanding," Akers told his weekly news conference Wednesday.

Assistant Coach Leon Manley graded Tausch, a 6-foot-4, 260-pound junior, at 98 of a possible 100.

Center Mike Babb and guard Joe Shearin both graded 88, and guard Les Studdard and tackle John Tobokla 87.

Akers announced, however, that halfback A.J. "Jam" Jones, who tore nine jerseys in ripping Arkansas for 165 yards and two touchdowns, had been selected by Longhorn coaches as the outstanding offensive player of the game.

Jones, a 6-1, 200-pound junior, had knee surgery late last year, and Akers said, "He's been telling us all along he feels better than ever ...

He invested a lot of time in rehabilitating that knee."

Safety William Graham, a junior starting his first game, made a team-high 13 tackles, including several that saved touchdowns, and was the outstanding defensive player, Akers said.

"He was all over the field, getting there first or backing someone else up," Akers said.

Freshman linebacker Jeff Leiding won the "Strike Award" that is given for the best single play with a jarring tackle on a kickoff.

Dodgers Now Lead NL West

Pirates Knock Astros Out of First Place

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer
Dave Parker's got it going, but now he has to take it on the road with the Pittsburgh Pirates.
The Pirates, who ended an eight-game losing streak Monday, finished up a nine-game homestand with two straight wins, including a 10-4 victory over the Houston Astros Wednesday night, fueled by Parker's two home runs.
The defending world champion Pirates, in a three-day battle for first in the National League East with Montreal and Philadelphia, now begin a 10-game road trip that could be pivotal in the division.
"It's going to be a tough road trip, but I think we're up for it," Parker said. "The important thing right now is the team thing, the overall thing, the Pirate family going to another World Series."

The trip includes three games in Atlanta, two in Philadelphia, two in St. Louis and three in Montreal.
Philadelphia maintained a half game lead over Pittsburgh with a 4-3 victory over San Francisco, while Montreal dropped a game off the pace, losing 4-3 to San Diego. The Los Angeles Dodgers, meanwhile, took advantage of Houston's loss with a 2-0 shutout over the New York Mets to take a one-game lead over the Astros in the NL West.
Parker, who went into the game with only one homer since July 25, hit two-run homers in the third and fifth.

Parker also singled home a run in the first off Joaquin Andujar, 2-5, and Mike Easler followed with a homer to help lefty John Candelaria to his 10th win.
Parker has hit .400 in his last 21 games, and Manager Chuck Tanner said the man finally was getting his due.
Elsewhere in the league, St. Louis edged Cincinnati 4-3 in 10 innings and Atlanta got by Chicago 4-3.
Phillies 4, Giants 3
Philadelphia would up a three-game sweep of San Francisco behind the pitching and hitting of Dick Ruthven, who won his fourth straight game. Ruthven picked up the Phils only extra-base hit with an RBI-double in a three-run second inning.

Ruthven went 8 1-3 innings, leaving after rookie Chris Bourjos rapped a two-run homer in the ninth. Lefty reliever Tug McGraw got the final two outs and earned his 16th save.
Padres 4, Expos 3

San Diego right-hander Steve Mura ended a personal four-game losing streak and combined with two relievers on a five-hitter to beat Montreal. Mura, 5-7, went 7 1-3 innings before getting relief help from Gary Lucas and Rollie Fingers, who got his 19th save.
Gene Tenace and Luis Salazar each scored once and drove in a run to account, in one way or another, for all of San Diego's scoring.
Dodgers 2, Mets 0

Burt Hooton went 8 1-3 innings and pitched the Dodgers to their seventh straight victory. Hooton gave up four hits before Steve Howe relieved with an out in the ninth.
Steve Garvey homered for the Dodgers in the sixth, and Bill Russell got the other Los Angeles RBI with a squeeze bunt in the second off Pat Zachry, 6-9.
Cardinals 4, Reds 3
Ken Reitz homered twice, and Tony Scott drove in the winning run with a single in the bottom of the 10th for St. Louis, dropping Cincinnati four games back in the NL West. Jim Katt, 6-7, pitched the 10th inning and got the victory.

Terry Kennedy led off the 10th with a pinch single, and pitcher Don Hood came in to run for him. Hood was sacrificed to second by Ken Oberkfell, and Scott then lined his winning hit to left center off reliever Tom Hume, 7-9.
Braves 4, Cubs 3

Dale Murphy slammed a three-run homer in the seventh inning, and Gary Matthews added a solo homer in the eighth to give Atlanta its fourth straight victory.
Cubs starter Lynn McGlothen had a no-hitter going through six until Bob Horner led off the seventh inning with a single. Chris Chambliss followed with another single before Murphy hit McGlothen's first pitch for his 26th homer of the year.

Yanks, Orioles Win; Rangers Lose

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
Fred Martinez, called up to the majors when the California Angels had pitching problems, is causing problems for American League batters.
"He's doing a good job, getting a little more confidence," Angels Manager Jim Fregosi said of Martinez. "Right now he is getting his feet wet on the big league level. If we didn't have our problems with our pitching staff, he would not be here."
Martinez made the jump to the majors after playing Class AA ball last season. If he gets any more confidence, no one will be able to touch him.
Six days ago, Martinez stopped the Baltimore Orioles 5-0 with a six-hitter. Wednesday, he hurled a four-hitter to beat the Boston Red Sox 7-2.
The victory snapped the Angels' three-game losing streak and halted the Red Sox winning streak at nine.
In other AL games Wednesday, Baltimore defeated Seattle 5-1, Detroit nipped the Chicago White Sox 5-4, the New York Yankees stopped Oakland 8-3, Toronto toppled Texas 4-2, Milwaukee downed Kansas City 3-1 in 10 innings and Cleveland clobbered Minnesota 7-1 in a rain-shortened contest.
The loss dropped Boston 7 1/2-games behind the Yankees in the race for the AL East Division crown.
Orioles 5, Mariners 1

Steve Stone became the major league's first 22-game winner, hurling 1 four-hitter.
"Stone mixes up his pitches so well it is almost impossible for a right-hander to hit him," Seattle first baseman Tom Paciorek said after striking out twice. "His slider moves so well over the plate and he just keeps you off-balance all the time."
"I had great control," said Stone, who recorded his 100th career victory.
Tigers 5, White Sox 4
A wild pitch by Chicago

reliever Ed Farmer allowed Dave Stegman to race hom with the winning run, climaxing a four-run ninth inning Detroit rally and giving the Tigers a 5-4 victory over the White Sox.
Wayne Nordhagen drove in two runs with a single and his 15th homer of the season to boost Chicago into a 4-1 lead going into the bottom of the ninth. Tom Brookens homered for Detroit.
Yankees 8, A's 3
Tommy John scattered five hits to record his 19th victory over the season and Bucky Dent knocked in five runs with a double and a triple, leading New York over Oakland.

Mitchell Page homered for the A's.
New York has now won six of its last seven and held on to its 1 1/2-game lead in the AL East race.
Brewers 3, Royals 1
Robin Yount walked to lead off the 10th and scored all the way from first on catcher Darrell Porter's throwing error to lead Milwaukee over

Kansas City.
Milwaukee's Lary Sorensen, 10-8, went the distance, scattering eight hits in beating the Royals for the fifth straight time.
The Royals' George Brett homered and walked twice in four trips to the plate, raising his average to .401.
Indians 7, Twins 1
Three hits each in Migul Dilone and Mike Hargrove led Cleveland over Minnesota in a game called because of rain with two outs in the bottom of the seventh inning.

The Indians scored five runs in the first inning as Dan Spillner, 14-9, scattered nine hits to lick up the win.
Blue Jays 4, Rangers 2
A three-run homer by Lloyd Moseby and three hits by Ernie Whitt, including a home run, backed the six-hit pitching of Dave Stieb and gave Toronto its victory over Texas.
Pat Putnam and John Grubb homered for Texas.
Stieb, 12-10, struck out seven and walked three.

Oregon Passer Holds Nine Records

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - Neil Lomax, toiling in relative obscurity as quarterback for Portland State, has thrown the football some 5 1/2 miles in 31 games.
Every time he completes a pass this season, he'll break three National Collegiate Athletic Association football records.
The 21-year-old Lomax holds nine NCAA marks.

Among them:
- Total yards at 9,188.
- Most yards gained in a season at 3,966 last year.
- Most yards gained passing during a career at 9,126.
- Most passing yards in a season at 3,950 last year.
With his first completion Saturday night against North Dakota, he'll break another mark for most career pass completions at 643.

In addition, Lomax holds 52 NCAA Division I-AA records and has completed 57 percent of the 1,133 passes he's thrown for Portland State over three seasons.
And he still has 11 games to go.
"There's no question he'll be a high draft choice," says Dallas Cowboys' scouting director Gil Brandt. "Right now I think he could be picked in the second round and he could be picked maybe higher."

To put Lomax's passing record in perspective, consider that the major-college career passing leader, Jack Thompson, threw for 7,818 yards at Washington State. Lomax is the only NCAA quarterback to have thrown for more than 8,000 yards.
"He's a well-built guy," Brandt said. "He's extremely smart and he can run pretty fast."

Such praise is sometimes hard to believe for Lomax, who seldom threw passes in high school and admits to "throwing with my eyes shut sometimes" in his freshman season at Portland State.
Lomax credits much of his statistical success to the "run and shoot" offense created by Portland State Coach Darrell "Mouth" Davis.
Brandt says Davis "does as good a job as anybody in the country in the passing game."

Schlichter Tabbed for Heisman

Irish, Tide, Raiders Are Favored in College Openers

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
The college football season is hardly off the mark and already they've started inscribing the Heisman Trophy, deciding the national championship and printing programs for the post-season bowl games.
It's the electronic age. It's the same system used by the networks to elect presidents with one-fifth of one of 10 million precincts heard from.
Art Schlichter, Ohio State's junior passing wizard, should go ahead and set up hotel accommodations for an appearance at the Downtown Athletic Club, donor of the Heisman, in December. Bad Cat Hugh Green of Pittsburgh, who has pro scouts salivating with anticipatory slobber, can book the month to pick up all those defensive trophies.

Meanwhile, the top of the collegiate pyramid looks much the same with perhaps a slight shifting here and there - Ohio State, Pitt, Alabama, Nebraska, Texas, USC, all Top Ten certainties.
So here - 80 hours in advance - are the returns of the first full-scale weekend okay, TV, show the games anyhow:
Notre Dame 28, Purdue 21: The first upset. The Boiler-makers usually have the ND's number and they have the superior field general in Mark Herrmann, but the fired-up Irish win for departing Dan Devine.
Alabama 29, Georgia Tech 7: Bear Bryant's assembly line grinds on. Expect Major Oglivie to be elevated to a colonel.
Brigham Young 42, New Mexico 13: Okay, so Marc Wilson is not back. The Cougars must have some lefttovers from their 11-0 season.

Nebraska 42, Utah 7: Talent never stops pouring into this red reservoir. The Huskers are high on a sophomore named Roger Craig.
Penn St. 32, Colgate 14: Joe Paterno has put the nightmare of 1979 behind him, uses his Liberty Bowl victory as a springboard for the trip back to top echelon status.
Louisiana St. 14, Florida St. 10: The aerial-minded Seminoles, 11-0 last season, are heavily favored. But we like LSU in an emotional effort.
West Va. 22, Cincinnati 7: A new coach, Don Henlen, and a new 50,000-seat stadium give the Mountaineers impetus.
Tennessee 25, Georgia 21: The Bulldogs, with quarterback Duck Belue running the "I" formation, are hoping for an upset, but this is a game Tennessee's Johnny Majors must win.
Colorado St. 26, Air Force 13: You don't need stimulants to get high in this one - everybody's high already.
Duke 22, East Carolina 20: Coach Red Wilson hired a Heisman Trophy winner, Steve Spurrier, to show the Blue Devils the aerial route to victory.
Texas Tech 19, El Paso 0: The Red Raiders may lack something in punch but they keep people away from their goal line.
Stanford 32, Oregon 14: The Cardinals get a pro touch with new coach Paul Wiggin.

and Richie Zisk in the first inning and singles by Dave Roberts and Mickey Rivers in the seventh.
Ed Figueroa, 3-9, gave up 10 hits in 6 1-3 innings in losing his sixth game in as many decisions since coming to Texas July 28 from the Yankees.
Whitt started the winning rally with a single to left. Alfredo Griffin sacrificed him to second, and Figueroa walked Bailor.
That brought up Moseby, who had grounded out with a runner on second in the first inning, hit into a double play with runners on first and second in the third, and ended the inning with a fly to center in the fifth.
But this time, Moseby smashed a long drive that sailed over the center field fence, his sixth homer of the year.
Rivers sat out his third straight game for Texas with a sore leg but came in to pinch hit in the seventh, his 18-game hitting streak on the line. He sent a hard grounder into right field to move Roberts to third and keep Texas' hopes alive. Grubb followed with his long drive to left field.
"It scared the hell out of me," Toronto manager Bob Mattick said.
Toronto returns home tonight to face Chicago, with Jackson Todd, 2-1, taking on the White Sox' Ross Baumgarten, 2-9. Texas is off for its opening road trip Friday in Milwaukee.

Ann Landers

Home Without Children

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I are college graduates. We both have good jobs and have enjoyed a lot of extras: travel to Europe, the East and West Coasts, cars, a new house. For the most part we have been comfortable, happy and healthy. But a serious disagreement has come up. My wife has announced that she does not want to have any children.

In the past she always said, "Wait until we graduate from college" - or, "Let's travel while we are young" - or, "Let's save money for the new house." Well, we've done all that.

She reached her decision not to have children without discussing it with me. When I suggested counseling she said, "It would be a waste of time."

I don't know what to do. I have been very patient and have tried to get her to change her mind, but she won't budge.

I will be 30 this year and realize my life would be incomplete without a family. I was one of four children, my father had four brothers and sisters, and my mother had seven brothers and sisters. I walk around our new four-bedroom home and wonder what my wife plans to do with the other bedrooms. If I didn't love her this problem would be easy to solve. Can you help? - Getting An Ulcer in Buffalo

DEAR BUFFALO: Sorry to be a crepe-hanger, but it sounds to me as if your marriage has had it. If you pressure your wife into having children she doesn't want, your home will become a battleground. If, on the other hand, she denies you the fulfillment of having a family, you will grow increasingly resentful.

You have a right to insist on joint counseling. If she staunchly refuses, your best weapon is your hat. Put it on your head and walk out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I want to thank you for telling off that so-called polite society person who said: "Left-overs are for dogs." (She signed herself, "Nauseated in Mt. Vernon.")

A dog in this country eats better than most people in every country I have visited. Some of them would be happy to eat what my dog eats. They could at least stay alive.

People like me can't finish half the food they serve in restaurants. So what's wrong with bringing home what I paid for? Or, when children can't eat everything on their plates, why is it bad manners to finish it off instead of letting it go to the garbage can?

Keep up the good work, Ann. No matter what anyone says, you are our society's survival kit. You bring laughter, tears and most of all, education. A day without Ann Landers is a day without sunshine. - Faithful Friend in Washington, D.C.

DEAR D.C.: Thanks for the bouquet, Lovey. After the stiletto heel geniuses got through with me, I needed that.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please advise my boss that when his secretary asks him when he will return from lunch or a meeting, she is not being nosy. She needs to have an intelligent answer when callers inquire.

The secretary who says, "I have no idea," suggests that maybe he's completely out of touch with his office and it makes him look bad. - Trying To Be Efficient in Chicago

DEAR TRYING: Your point is well taken. All bosses everywhere would do well to pick up on this memo.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

I got a letter the other day that needs a reply. A reader who signs herself "Concerned Vivian" wrote, "I saw you speak in Toledo, Ohio, in 1969. The other day I saw you on the Mike Douglas show and you looked 11 years older. Can you explain this?"

Well, C.V., all I can do is try. For the formative years of my life I was influenced greatly by my grandmother. She was a stunning woman who was always being asked, "How do you remain so eternally young?" When I began to answer, "She eternally lies," Grandma began leaving me eternally home. She lied about her age on all five of her children's birth certificates and by the time her kids were in their 30s and 40s, she had regressed to puberty again.

For years, I watched Grandma baste her roots, massage her elbows, pumice her heels, saturate her skin, pound her body and pat her chins in an effort to bring the aging process to its knees. She succeeded. She was a bit like a Timex watch that you could bury in sand, spin around, sink, beat on, misplace, or drop, but she kept right on ticking until the day she died.

There are a couple of ways you can handle time. You can be like my grandmother who regarded it as a formidable foe in a game of wits where one wins and the other one loses. Or you can have respect for one another and live in reasonable harmony in a give-and-take situation. I chose the latter.

At age 37, my knees had grown together, my laugh lines were deep enough to plant barley, oats, or rye, and wicker chairs were painful. For the first time since the kids were born I felt I could pursue a career.

As I walked to the podium in Detroit to deliver my first speech ever...I noticed that everyone in the audience looked like me. Maybe if I had looked like Bo Derek, they would never have believed a word I said.

I have to tell you, C.V., the aging process hasn't been all that bad. I gave up phone books and went for directory assistance at age 40. At 43, there was nothing left in my mouth to fill. At 45, I was advised to give up peanuts and cucumbers. I hate peanuts and cucumbers anyway. At 47, I was in my night clothes at 7:30 p.m. and no one cared. At 49, no one wanted to borrow my clothes or records anymore. At 50, I could say outrageous things and get away with it because of my age.

C.V., I understand your disappointment in a world where a wrinkle is considered a blemish and an extra chin an appendage, but somewhere between Toledo and Mike Douglas, I lived 11 years...and if you want me to get rid of them...you'll have to send me out to be pressed.

Aerobics combines jogging and jumping with choreography. It is a physical fitness program designed to build up the cardiovascular system. Each session will consist of a warm-up period followed by several routines, and finally a cool-down period of other exercises. All routines will be done to popular music.

Heart rates will be constantly monitored during each class period. In addition, the program will be geared to each person's capabilities. High school students, freshmen through seniors, may enroll in the course, however; only high school seniors may take the course for college credit. Anyone younger than high school freshmen may enroll in the course if accompanied by a parent. Persons interested in enrolling in the course should contact Becky Sanderson at 364-2969 or Charlene Sanders at 364-2977 as soon as possible.

Young Homemakers Install Officers

Installation of officers, and discussions about the area convention and Young Homemakers of Texas week were included in the agenda at the Homemakers meeting Tuesday night. Gail Blain was installed as the 1980-81 president for the Young Homemakers. Marilyn Culpepper presented a program when she installed the officers which included Mrs. Blain, Linda Goss, first vice president, Nelva Swapes, treasurer; Bobbie Patzig, secretary; Karen Smith reporter; and Brenda Campbell, parliamentarian. Mrs. Culpepper made a comparison between each officer and a Greek goddess presenting each officer with an apple with a ribbon tied to it. The apple presented represents beauty, love and power for each member to use for the betterment of Young Homemakers. The ribbons tied to the apples were of different colors with a significance for each color. The president received a purple ribbon which represents royalty. The first vice president's ribbon is green signifying intelligence. The rainbow ribbon presented to the secretary represents the correspondence she handles. The treasurer received a gold ribbon representing wealth. The reporter's ribbon is blue signifying memory and the parliamentarian was presented a yellow ribbon representing the light of the moon to guide the club. Before the business meeting began, the club presented Mrs. M.T. Buralsmith with a red carnation, the club flower, in honor of the help she has given the Young Homemakers as the sponsor. When the new president, Mrs. Blain, was handed the club pin and gavel she called the meeting to order for discussion of future activities. Activities include the area convention Saturday in Amarillo, Young Homemakers Week Sept. 21-27 and applications for state awards. This year's area convention will be in Amarillo at the Villa Inn. According to Mrs. Smith, "Each member was urged to attend as the area convention is an excellent way to get to know more about YHT." Several activities have been planned for YHT week including an ice cream social for prospective new members and eye screening. Applications were submitted to the state office for Ms. Culpepper as Outstanding Young Homemaker and for the groups Little Sister, Dana Barber, as Outstanding Future Homemaker. After the business meeting, secret pals were announced and the group drew names for new ones this year. Other members present were Shirley Carlson, Connie Gilbert, Barbara Weatherford and Kara Dearing.

Demand for Teachers Exceeds WT's Supply

WTSU - For the past seven decades, West Texas State University has supplied schools in a five-state area with teachers, but the demand is exceeding supply.

Although the school year has begun in the Texas Panhandle area, many school districts are without teachers in areas they requested last spring.

"Some school districts who asked in April and May still have the same vacancies," said Gene Parker, WTSU director of placement.

The number of students who have indicated they will student teach during the fall semester is down in many teaching areas, according to figures compiled during the summer by Dr. Robert Splawn, professor of education and head of school services.

Educators have speculated on many reasons for the decline in the number of persons interested in teaching.

The "Texas Teacher Supply and Demand Report 1978-79" issued in January 1980 by the Department of Professional Development and Instructional Services of the Texas Education Agency says "preparation in certain teaching fields such as math, science, vocational education and industrial arts makes it possible for those individuals to select other fields of employment which are more lucrative thereby reducing the available number for employment."

Parker said the beginning teacher salary in Texas is about $9,400 based on 180 teaching days during the year while a person with a business degree may begin a job with $15,000 per year.

Another reason for the shortage occurs when graduates with teaching certificates are not willing to move where the job exist, said Parker.

TEA reports that the number of students graduating from teacher education programs in Texas has decreased about one-third since a high in 1972.

The number of student teachers at WTSU also reached a peak in 1972 with 512, said Splawn. That number fell to 481 in 1973, 349 in 1974, 320 in 1978 and 317 in 1979.

"We've been fairly stable the last three or four years," said Splawn. "And this doesn't mean we'll be down in the spring either."

During the 1979-80 academic year, 48 students signed up to student teach in elementary education while 43 have indicated they will teach for the 1980 fall semester.

The number of student teachers has declined from last spring in the teaching areas of art, from five to two; business, from seven to three; English, from seven to six; math, from four to one; physical education, from 23 to 20; science, from six to five; and speech therapy, from three to two.

Slight increases over last spring have been noted in social studies, from two to six; industrial education, from two to five; music, from 11 to 16; and speech, from two to three.

As Splawn explained, however, many students who indicated during the 1980 spring semester that they will complete student teaching requirements during the fall semester are not eligible or do not return to school. He placed that number at 10 percent.

Throughout the summer session, Parker said he received at least 30 telephone calls per day requesting teachers. The most critical shortages exist in the teaching fields of math, science, industrial education, special education, English, journalism, speech and drama.

School districts also requested persons to fill positions as varsity coaches, resource room teachers and band directors.

Other districts requested teachers for chemistry, kindergarten, choir, physical education, business education and language artists.

Since the spring semester ended in early May, Parker's office has issued lists of school district vacancies. For three months, 12 lists each averaging six to eight pages were printed.

"We've seen it coming the last two or three years," said Parker. "WTSU is responsible for the area of Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado. We usually have the Panhandle taken care of by August."

Canyon and Amarillo hire the largest number of WTSU education graduates. Splawn said 45 percent of the Amarillo Independent School District graduated from WTSU and since a recent pay increase was voted by the AISD board, other WTSU graduates are waiting for Amarillo teaching positions to open.

Parker said the Dallas-Fort Worth area has no shortage of elementary teachers, but the school districts in the Metroplex area recruit teachers in technical fields such as math, science and industrial education.

"They're hiring those without a teaching degree," he said. Splawn said several schools have had to close woodshops and other shop classes in industrial education because of the absence of teachers.

He blamed the shortage of students interested in teaching on inflation, a previous teacher surplus, "propaganda" which encouraged teacher-hopefuls to switch fields and low salaries.

Theodore Roosevelt, in 1906, was the first American to be awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

Credit in America

most abrupt economic declines ever experienced, was well fortified with statistics. During the 1970s, for example, consumer instalment credit rose 207 percent, from $101.2 billion early in 1970 to $311.3 billion in late 1979.

But after dissecting the figures for the AP, Professor William Dunkelberg, associate director of Purdue University's Credit Research Center, found "a somewhat different picture," which is to say a deflated picture.

In real (not inflated) dollars, he points out, consumer instalment credit rose 58 percent in 10 years. In the same period, disposable income increased 20 percent, and population rose 19 percent.

Considering this, and assuming a constant debt-to-income ratio during the period, credit growth comes to 2 percent a year, "a modest figure in light of the attention policymakers have given to consumer credit."

Besides, says Dunkelberg, we rely on statistical concepts that change. And we sometimes include as credit what really are more like cash purchases, even if credit cards are used. For example: In 1970, outstanding bank credit card debt was $3.7 billion. By the end of 1979 it was $29.2 billion and rising. Over the same period, retail credit rose to $27.9 billion from $13.1 billion. Big figures.

But, says Dunkelberg, "over $20 billion of this credit was probably repaid within the 30-day grace period permitted by credit card issuers." In other words, the credit cards were used as cash.

Dunkelberg also observes that the credit burden sometimes was assumed to be heavier than it was. But the length of loans has grown, meaning repayment terms do not represent the monthly drain of 10 years ago.

Yugoslavia's President Josip Tito — urged his third-world colleagues meeting in Havana not to take sides in superpower conflicts.

Thought for today: The people are fed up with the government. They think it doesn't work. And they are right — Former President Richard Nixon.

Little Folks' Nutrition

Bobby's little brother has time to play before eating breakfast. But now that Bobby's an important first grader, he has to make sure he gets dressed, eats breakfast, and gets to school on time.

Bobby can probably fix his own breakfast of cereal with milk, bread and peanut butter, and fruit or juice. A glass of milk, or hot chocolate on cold days; will add the extra protein, vitamins, and calories Bobby needs to feel "super" energetic until lunchtime. Sometimes for variety during the week, Bobby's mother fixes eggs, bacon, or french toast.

Nutritionists agree that breakfast should supply about one-fourth of a child's (or grown-up's) daily needs for protein, calories, vitamins, and minerals. A basic breakfast like Bobby's will provide for those needs.

The trick to balanced meal planning, according to Dairy Council home economists, is to check to see if you are eating a variety of foods every day from the food grouping system developed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Bobby and his little brother need three servings from the milk group every day, two from the meat group, and four each from the bread-cereal and vegetable-fruit groups. It's easy to remember according to the 3-2-4-4 formula.

Bobby's mom and dad need two milk group servings, with servings from the other groups being the same as Bobby's. The grown-up formula for good nutrition is 2-2-4-4.

Remember, breakfast doesn't have to be traditional to be nutritious. A toasted cheese sandwich, or chicken leg and glass of milk will go over fine with most little folks.

Rebekahs Conduct Regular Business at 100F Temple

Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 met in regular session Tuesday evening at IOOF Temple with Noble Grand Verna Sowell, presiding as business was conducted.

Members and friends on the sick list were reported with visits and greeting cards, etc. were counted.

One new member by transfer was balloted on and transfer from her present lodge will be requested. Committees were ap-

HOW HUMILIATING! Mirepoix, a half-Siamese, cannot frighten this bold bird thanks to the window glass and screen that separate them. Chef Brad Peterson says his cat's unusual name is a French cooking term for diced carrots, celery and onions.

Fast Foods are Nutritious

Meals don't have to be hot to be nutritious.

So says Doris Dereliana, a registered dietician who serves as executive director of the 4,000-member California Dietetic Association.

"There's no question but that hot food sometimes tastes better," she says. "But it's a mistake for people to believe that food has to be hot to be nutritious."

Dereliana says people "on the go" need well-balanced diets and, in most cases, they can get them right from the refrigerator--without elaborate, if any, preparation. "For instance, you can grab an 8-ounce glass of milk and obtain 16 percent of your daily protein requirement and 36 percent of your calcium need without a single pan hitting the burner and only a minute taken from your busy day," Dereliana says.

"Nature provided us with plenty of 'convenience' foods, long before the frozen food industry adopted the term," she says. "Milk and other dairy foods, such as cheese and yogurt, as well as nuts, seeds, and crackers, are good examples of nutritious 'convenience' foods. In fact, each of the four food groups of milk, meat, vegetables and fruits, and breads and cereals include fast food items.

"The important thing is to recognize these foods and keep them in good supply so you don't fall into the coffee and donut trap, or even worse, the habit of eating nothing at all on a hectic day," Dereliana says. "Scientific studies have proven that whether you're in a hurry on the job, at school, or rushing to a meeting or social event, you'll perform better and feel better if you've had nutritious foods."

Dereliana says additional four food group foods which nature designed for "on the go" include firm-bodied fruits like apples, oranges, and grapefruits. "They're easily popped into a briefcase or purse and taste great any time of day," she adds.

"A slice of toast or bran muffin topped with cheese or peanut butter can be carried to the bus or car, leaving only a spoon behind as evidence that you've prepared a nutrient-packed meal," she says.

"Hard-boiled eggs, cheese and crackers, and sandwiches of all kinds can also be great meals on the run," Dereliana says.

"Just be creative and forget all those old-fashioned ideas that nutrition means piping hot meals and a sink full of cooking utensils," she says. "When you don't have time for frills you can still enjoy a healthy, balanced diet."

DON'T GET 'HUNG BY THE TONGUE'

Dear brothers, don't be too eager to tell others their faults, for we all make many mistakes; and when we teachers, who should know better, do wrong, our punishment will be greater than it would be for others. If anyone can control his tongue, it proves that he has perfect control over himself in every other way.

We can make a large horse turn around and go wherever we want by means of a small bit in his mouth. And a tiny rudder makes a huge ship turn wherever the pilot wants it to go, even though the winds are strong.

So also the tongue is a small thing, but what enormous damage it can do. A great forest can be set on fire by one tiny spark.

And the tongue is a flame of fire. It is full of wickedness and poisons every part of the body. And the tongue is set on fire by hell itself, and can turn our whole lives into a blazing flame of destruction and disaster.

Men have trained, or can train, every kind of animal or bird that lives and every kind of reptile and fish, but no human being can tame the tongue. It is always ready to pour out its deadly poison.

Sometimes it praises our heavenly Father, and sometimes it breaks out into curses against men who are made like God.

And so blessing and cursing come pouring out of the same mouth. Dear brothers, surely this is not right!

Does a spring of water bubble out first with fresh water and then with bitter water?

Can you pick olives from a fig tree, or figs from a grape vine? No, and you can't draw fresh water from a salty pool.

ABC Wins Niensens Second Straight Week

NEW YORK (AP)—"M-A-S-H" and "Dallas," both from CBS, finished in a dead heat for first place in the networks' weekly race for prime-time supremacy, but ABC had six of the 10 highest-rated programs and won the competition for the second straight week.

Of the 20 highest-rated programs ranked by the A.C. Nielsen Co. for the week ending Aug. 25, only three had not been shown before—the network newsmagazines, "20-20," on ABC and "60 Minutes" on CBS, and "Games People Play," a new show from NBC.

Both "M-A-S-H" and "Dallas" recorded ratings of 22. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 22 percent saw at least part of each of the programs.

ABC, with help from "Three's Company" in third place, "Taxi" in fourth and

"Charlie's Angels" fifth, compiled a rating for the week of 15.4, to 14.4 for CBS and 12.6 for NBC.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 15.4 percent of the nation's TV-equipped homes were tuned to ABC.

NBC began a repeat broadcast of "Backstairs at the White House" in the previous week, and the concluding three chapters in the miniseries were only moderately successful in the ratings. Part II was No. 28 for the week, with the third installment tied for 29th and the conclusion 21st.

CBS and ABC each scheduled movies not previously broadcast, and "The Seduction of Miss Leona" on CBS finished 33rd, while "Showdown" on ABC was 42nd.

A "CBS Reports" special on the recent outbreak of racial violence in Miami was No. 52 for the week.

NBC had three of the week's five lowest-rated programs, including "Here's Boomer" No. 61, "Buck Rogers in the 25th Century" 63rd and "Good Time Harry" 64th. "The Tim Conway Show" on CBS was No. 62, and "Fantasy Island Sunday Special" on ABC finished 65th, last.

Here are the week's Top 10 programs:

"M-A-S-H" and "Dallas," both with ratings of 22 representing 17.1 million homes, both CBS; "Three's Company," 21.6 or 16.8 million, both ABC; "Taxi," 20.4 or 15.9 million, both ABC; "One Day at a Time," Monday broadcast, 20.4 or 15.9 million, CBS; "Charlie's Angels," 19.2 or 14.9 million, ABC; "Hart to Hart," ABC, and "Dukes of Hazzard," CBS, both 18.8 or 14.6 million, "20-20," 18.6 or 14.5 million.

and "Vegas," 18.5 or 14.4 million, both ABC.

The next 10 shows: Movie—"Love's Savage Fury," ABC; "60 Minutes," CBS; "Barney Miller," ABC; "WKRP in Cincinnati," CBS; "Laverne and Shirley," ABC, and "Real People," NBC, tie; "Fantasy Island," ABC; "Lou Grant," CBS, and "Games People Play," NBC, tie, and "Quincy, M.E.," NBC.

Ag Committee Endorses Easing of Weight Rules

By BOB FICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Agriculture Committee today endorsed House-passed legislation to reduce the weighing requirements for grain in the nation's export pipeline.

be vetoed.
"I don't know of any objection to this bill other than by the administration," said Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., the chief Senate backer of the proposal whose own state is the nation's leading wheat producer.
"We're not tinkering with grain inspection," Dole said. "We're just modifying it to eliminate some of the costs and reduce the overkill we had in the first act."

The bill would change the nation's four-year-old Grain Standards Act by eliminating requirements that grain be weighed when it is moved into American export elevators by means other than barge. It retains requirements for weighing grain moving out of those elevators to foreign destinations but eliminates the weighing requirement if the grain is moved to another domestic location.
The bill was passed by the House in mid-August. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has claimed the changes would affect the reliability of the national grain weighing system and "lead to inherent conflicts of interest similar to those which prevailed before the reforms of 1976."

Prompted by complaints from foreign buyers of short-weighted shipments and adulterated grain, investigators uncovered problems in the grain export industry ranging from bribes to threats against federal inspectors. Some grain companies were indicted by federal grand juries during the mid-1970s probe.

Those findings led to creation of the Federal Grain Inspection Service in 1976 to administer the new federal standards including the first official weighing program for the grain trade.
The grain companies, which lobbied heavily for the proposed changes, claim the requirements for weighing grain shipped into export elevators are unnecessarily costly. They say the industry is self-policing in a highly competitive market.

But the Agriculture Department says the cost to an elevator for official inbound weighing is only one-fifth of a cent a bushel, which is generally passed back to the shipper and in many cases profitably increased by the elevator.

Bergland contends many of the industry's complaints about the program could be handled through administrative changes.
In what Chairman Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., said would probably be the last action on legislation this year, the Senate Agriculture Committee also approved:
— Designation of nearly 17,000 acres in North Carolina as part of the National Wilderness Preservation System.

— The appointments of Rep. William Wampler, R-Va., and Ralph Raikes of Nebraska to the Federal Farm Credit Board.

Black Market in Gold Big Business in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — On a streetcorner in the heart of downtown Moscow, middle-aged men and women stand in a huddled knot, keeping a wary eye out for police as they quietly intercept passers-by.

In hushed tones, they ask over and over:

"Any gold to sell? Any gold? What do you have? What's the fineness? Let's take a little walk and talk about it. I'll give you a very good price."

The prices are good indeed. Black market gold in Moscow now brings prices equivalent to $2,400 an ounce — close to four times more than current world rates, according to sources familiar with the trade.

In other parts of the country, such as Soviet Central Asia, prices are reputed to be even higher.

Inflation also hits the black market. One source said a five-ruble Czarist gold coin that cost the equivalent of about $100 on the black market in the 1960s now goes for close to $400. Even gold tooth fillings can be unloaded at premium prices.

The official Soviet press has denounced what it calls a growing public fascination with gold, but sources differ about how to explain it.

A recent article in the communist youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda spoke of gold as simply a matter of fashion. The paper said no one could have guessed 10 or 15 years ago that queues to buy gold at official stores would be the size they are these days.

The article claimed that people are having perfectly good teeth ornamented with gold crowns and complained that modern girls want to wear gold earrings even with simple school uniforms.

Other sources, however, say gold has always been popular in the Soviet Union for reasons far beyond fashion.

People who have acquired money illegitimately are understandably reluctant to put large sums in state-controlled banks for fear of unpleasant questions.

Keeping huge stores of money at home is also dangerous. Since the 1917 Bolshevik revolution, the nation's currency has been changed several times — with the "old" money becoming worthless after every reform.

The reforms permit the official exchange of old money for new — but sometimes with limits on quantity, a factor that can wipe out fortunes squirreled away at home.

"Anyone who doesn't want to have to account for how he got his money might well tend to put his money into gold," said a Moscow writer who asked not to be identified. "That way, it's always safe." He attributed the rise in black market prices abroad and in Soviet state shops.

The state shops sell so much gold jewelry that, according to Komsomolskaya Pravda, authorities are acting "as if to purposely feed the gold fad." The prices at official stores can be lower than those on the black market, but the black market offers no-questions-asked confidentiality.

The Soviet Union is one of the world's biggest gold producers. Although production figures are secret, Western estimates put annual production at close to 400 metric tons — worth some $8.2 billion dollars at the current world price of about $645 per troy ounce. There are 32,151 troy ounces in a metric ton.

The black market in gold is illegal because it involves the crime of "speculation," or buying scarce goods cheaply and selling them at higher prices.

University President Proves Hit as Actor

By NANCY SHULINS
Associated Press Writer
EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — "I can't sing, I can't dance and I can't act," the president of the University of Evansville protested a decade ago when asked to star in a locally produced musical. "We know," the show's organizers replied, "but you certainly would sell tickets." With no further ado, a star was born. And UE president Wallace Graves had so much fun that now, 10 years later, he's recreating the presidential performance that he says proved once and for all "I have no talent whatsoever."

The audience — and the critics — obviously disagree, citing Graves' strong voice and excellent stage manner in the title role of Gilbert and Sullivan's 19th century operetta, "The Mikado."

A social and political satire, "The Mikado" is set in the Japanese town of Titipu, and chronicles the nearly unrequited love of strolling musician Nanki-Poo for the delicate and pure Yum-Yum.

Nanki-Poo is actually the Mikado's son, disgusted and hiding from an older and somewhat gruesome lady of the court whom his father has commanded him to marry.

Nanki-Poo and Yum-Yum get together in the end, thanks to the ingenious ploys of the townspeople, who also find time to poke gentle fun at the arrogance, greed and inefficiency of politics.

The local production was conceived in 1971 by a British professor teaching at UE and a member of the school's music faculty.

"They tricked me into it," the 58-year-old Graves insists, but his grin gives him away. "Actually, there is a bit of ham lurking here."

Amateur and professional actors from the university, the community and local high schools spent several months rehearsing.

The show opened to a packed house. "A lot of people wanted to see me make an ass out of myself," Graves recalls. "I accommodated them."

The production was such a success that the opera company was forced to add a matinee. By the time it was over, Graves says, "I was ready for the big time. I was hooked."

In the years that followed the actors staged nine Gilbert and Sullivan shows.

Graves played the Lord Chancellor in "Iolanthe" in 1977, but turned down a bit part offered in another play. "No songs," he confides. "Not enough lines."

"The first time, it was sheer terror," he says. But he sees his extra-curricular activities as beneficial — both for the university and himself.

"I think it's important to occasionally try something not in your regular line of work or play — something alien and difficult, to make sure you know how to meet a challenge," he says.

"And just the thought I would do something like this — I think it makes me seem more human to people. Besides, it's fun."

If Graves has yet to crack under pressure, it's not because his colleagues haven't done their best to heckle him during performances.

In one scene, an actor hands him a scroll. Graves unrolled it during a performance — and found it contained a Playboy centerfold.

His elaborate costume consists of long, flowing silk robes and an 18-inch pointed hat. He modeled it for a reporter, then strode through the halls of the Administration Building, leaving a sea of stunned students and secretaries in his wake.

"It's the new cone-head look," he told them, his face serious. "Do you like it?"

Graves, who has served as UE's chief executive for 13 years, studied political science and international relations before taking the reins at the liberal arts college of 6,600 students.

He's been known to step out of his presidential role long enough to take his place in the dunking booths at various fundraisers.

And because his character does not appear on stage until the middle of "The Mikado," he isn't at all shy about roaming around outside the theater, in full costume to search of a soft drink machine.

"I think of it as laying myself on the line," Graves explains. "It's out of character for me. I mean, I don't go around singing and dancing at faculty meetings."

But as soon as he says it, the wide grin is back. "Maybe I should," he says, "maybe I should."

Jim Bradley was incorrectly identified as owner-operator of Bradford Trucking in the Lone Star Agency, Inc. advertisement which ran in the Sunday, August 31 Brand. Bradley should have been identified as an owner-operator of Bradford Trucking. The Brand regrets this error.

California Calling EPA's Bluff on Sanctions

By LEE MITGANG
AP Urban Affairs Writer
MANHASSET, N.Y. (AP) — Outside North Hempstead Town Hall, a man demonstrated a most technical-looking blue box with a hose snaking into an auto exhaust pipe. Inside town hall, that blue box — which tells whether cars are polluting too much — was the center of a fierce argument, an argument that is simmering in states from California to New York. It involves the federal Clean Air Act Amendments of 1977, which gave the Environmental Protection Agency the power to force 29 high-polluting states to start auto exhaust inspection programs over the next two years. Under federal law, the air in those states must be 25 percent cleaner by 1987. To the consumer, it means pulling up to a state inspection center or filling station each year, having his car hooked to a testing machine and, if it's polluting too much, being forced to repair it. The clean air amendments gave the EPA enormous enforcement clout: power to cut off hundreds of millions of highway, sewage and air treatment dollars to states which refuse to set up inspection programs. The money threat is forcing state and local politicians to pass laws to set up inspection programs which will hit their motorist constituents in the pocketbook. To put it mildly, many state legislators are in a fighting mood. "It's absolutely the greatest consumer ripoff I've ever seen," said New York state senator Linda Winkoff, who along with other state legislators here are furious that Gov. Hugh Carey has agreed to start an inspection program in January. She says she wishes Carey had called the EPA's bluff on funds sanctions. This past weekend, one state — California — finally did, and may come to regret it. On Sunday, the last day of the Legislature's 1980 session, the California Senate rejected a bill which would have committed the Legislature to passing a law setting up an inspection program. It was one of many such bills proposed and defeated this year, despite the promise by EPA administrator

Douglas Costle that his agency would cut off more than $850 million in federal aid to the state. The EPA wants inspections conducted in Los Angeles, Ventura, San Francisco, Sacramento, San Diego and Fresno County. If funds are cut off — a procedure which will take at least 90 days — those five areas will lose $389 million in sewage treatment construction funds, $457 million in transportation funds and $5.2 million earmarked for clean air programs. Of the 29 states with serious air quality problems, only two — California and Kentucky — have not passed necessary state laws yet. The states of Rhode Island and New Jersey, along with Cincinnati, Ohio; Portland, Ore.; Las Vegas and Reno, Nev.; Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz., and Los Angeles-Ventura in California already have emission inspection programs in operation. In Portland, EPA tests found a 34 percent drop in carbon monoxide and a 24 percent reduction in emissions of hydrocarbons, the key ingredients in smog. Similar tests indicated lower ozone levels in New Jersey, whose program, started in 1974, is the oldest. And surveys in Arizona, California, New Jersey and Rhode Island during the last two years indicate high levels of consumer acceptance. The lowest level was a 58 percent positive showing in Arizona; the highest, 85 percent in Rhode Island. Consumer costs for the inspections vary widely. In New Jersey, the inspection costs $2.50, and the average repair bill for cars that flunk is $18. In California, the inspection costs $11, and the average repair bill for cars that fail is $35.

But, said William Berman, spokesman for the American Automobile Association, among the leading foes of the inspection laws, "It's real hard to pin down concrete results." States have two basic options, with two deadlines. They have until December 31, 1982, to set up centralized programs, run by the states themselves or by state-hired contractors. If they choose decentralized programs, where licensed private service stations perform the inspections, they have until December 31, 1981.

HAY Gives Kids New Pair of Legs

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (NEA) — Jennifer Martin and Stacy Strom are young riders with a difference. Ten-year-old Jennifer is wheelchair bound. Six-year-old Stacy is mobile only with the aid of leg braces. They were born with spina bifida, a handicap that results from the failure of some vertebrae to fuse. But both are now feeling the power of four great legs beneath them as they take part in a local program called Horsemanship for All Years — HAY, for short — which is part of a growing national movement that offers horseback riding for the handicapped as a form of therapeutic recreation. HAY is affiliated with the North American Riding for the Handicapped Association, which declares: "NARHA members are not offering pony rides as a momentary distraction. We hope to add a new dimension to the lives of handicapped people by teaching them a new skill. At the same time, the rider's body is being challenged and exercised in ways that improve posture, balance, coordination and muscle tone. The psychological benefits have proven to be immeasurable." Since its start in March 1979, HAY has served 18 persons with a variety of handicaps, says program instructor Barbara Bonchek. In addition to spina bifida, those handicaps have included autism and other emotional disturbances, cerebral palsy, blindness and mental retardation. "It's a field that's coming out of the closet in the U.S.," she remarks. "England has used it for 30 years." She adds that handicapped riding is now included in the Special Olympics and in most major horse shows, including the big national show at Madison Square Garden in New York. Although therapy is one goal of HAY, it is not the prime goal, says Ms. Bonchek. "The No. 1 thing is enjoyment." The faces and words of the children showing how well that goal is being met. Jennifer gives a big smile as she talks about her horseback riding, which started when she sat on a pony at age 8. That experience and some later ones were a little scary, she says, but they have provided some of her life's highlights. "I thought it was fun," she says of her introduction to riding as she waits in her wheelchair for the horse she will groom and ride this day. As the small horse, Ace, is brought to her, she calls out, "I need a curry comb." Stacy walks over from where she is grooming her horse to ask, "Is this what you need?" The two then engage in a spirited discussion as to whether the equipment Stacy holds is a curry comb or a dandy brush. Then both return to groom-

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Ruptured vaginal canal

DEAR DR. LAMB — My mother is 77 years old and is having a terrible problem with her bladder falling out. So much so that she has to keep pushing it back up. The doctor tried a device to see if it would pull the bladder up but it wouldn't stay. He said they could try surgery but he wouldn't guarantee it. She's had eight children and a hysterectomy many years ago plus other surgery. She also has a bronchial condition that makes her afraid to see her undergo surgery. Do many women her age have this type of problem? DEAR READER — It's not always the age of the person that determines whether he should have surgery. A person's general health status is far more important. I'm not sure what you mean by a bronchial problem, but its cause and how serious it is would need to be evaluated as part of the overall evaluation of your mother's health problem before any form of surgery. It is absolutely amazing what can be done surgically in older people today. Part of the improvement is because of continued progress in the safety and the wide variety of methods of providing anesthesia. Also, modern technology has improved the post-operation care. Evidently, you're describing a cystocele. Basically, this is a rupture, as are a rectocele and a fallen womb. The vaginal canal is a muscular tube. The bladder is in front of this tube, the rectum is behind it and the uterus is at the blind end of the muscular canal. If these muscles tear or stretch along the front wall, the bladder can herniate or rupture through it into the vaginal canal. If the muscles are torn or weakened at the back, the rectum may rupture through. And if the canal is weakened at the blind-end area, the uterus may fall through. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 14-12, Hysterectomy, Cystocele and Rectocele. This issue discusses hysterectomy and the common repair problems involving such ruptures. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. These disorders are very similar to other hernias that rupture through weakened muscular walls. It also means that devices to prevent the rupture are of limited value in many cases. Ultimately, the most successful means of treating such disorders is surgical. The torn stretched muscles and other structures are strengthened and repaired. Such problems are far more common in women who have had multiple pregnancies. Obviously, while giving birth, the vaginal muscles are stretched. The repair procedure is somewhat more difficult than some other forms of hernias and that's why a doctor doesn't like to give you an absolute guarantee that there will not be a recurrence of the problem. If there is a recurrence, a second effort at repair is possible, just as one can repair a hernia in the groin (inguinal hernia) if the first surgical effort is not successful. DEAR DR. LAMB — For nearly four months now I have suffered from sciatica. This causes pain in the hip. When I stand for more than three or four minutes, the pain proceeds down the large nerve to my ankle and I hurry to sit in a straight chair until the pain subsides. Ten years ago I had it much worse and it lasted for a year when suddenly it vanished. For the first three months, I had to be in bed. I went to different doctors but none could offer any help but pain remedies. This time I considered going to an orthopedic surgeon but a friend said that pain pills were all he suggested to him. I'm 70 and would love to get back on the golf course as I'm gaining weight from these four months of sitting. Can you help? DEAR READER — Yes, I can. My first advice would be to go see the orthopedic surgeon you mentioned. Sciatica is not a diagnosis. It is merely a term used for irritation of the sciatic nerve, one of the large nerves that passes down the buttocks and leg. Pressure on this nerve can cause the complaints that you have. The most common cause of such pressure is a diseased or damaged vertebral disc. Sometimes pressure on the nerve can occur from arthritis or from anatomical variations in the spine itself. Sciatica can also be caused from inflammation of the nerves and such diverse causes as the excessive use of alcohol and even diabetes. Clearly, you can't be properly treated without a proper diagnosis. And by that I mean knowing what is causing your sciatic pain. An intervertebral disc problem is by far the most common cause. I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-10, Backache and What to Do about It. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. If you do have a ruptured disc, your treatment will be in relation to that problem. This may be conservative therapy. The doctor may want to give you some muscle relaxants. He might find it necessary to suggest some traction. But you can be sure if he's a good doctor, he's not going to do very much without first finding out what it is that's causing the problem. DEAR DR. LAMB — The other day I was working in my yard and sweat on my brow rolled down my cheek and into my eyes before I could wipe it away. It literally blinded me. Of course, I immediately washed my eyes out with plain cool water and the pain went away. I take many vitamins and minerals and I was wondering if this reaction was a warning that I am overdoing it. DEAR READER — No, I doubt that the pain in your eye had anything to do with your taking vitamins or minerals. More likely it was associated with the high salt content in sweat which is normal. If you put plain salt water in your eyes, you'd probably feel the same thing. Washing your eyes out with plain cool water diluted the salt and the pain disappeared.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer
Removing bathtub decals

DEAR POLLY — Do you have any information on how to remove old and peeling rubberized safety flowers from the bottom of a bathtub without marring the finish? These are old ones and come off in ugly little pieces. Any help will be appreciated. — RUTH
DEAR RUTH and MARY, who asked the same question — This is a very common problem and is being constantly asked by readers. The following letter from Dorothy has a new suggestion and hopefully will help both of you. — POLLY
DEAR POLLY — Like another reader I, too, had been looking for something to remove decals from the bathtub. I tried lighter fluid, nail polish remover and so on, but to no avail. Recently I bought a new set, thinking I might cover the entire messy area, but discovered that they would not stick unless all the glue was removed. The manufacturer suggested using a laundry spot remover. Spray it on and leave for about 15 minutes and then rub with a rough cloth. As suggested, this treatment might have to be repeated, but I did find that at long last I had success removing these glue spots. — DOROTHY
DEAR POLLY — I have had luck removing adhesive marks with a waterless hand cleaner. I keep finding new uses for this product and I like it, as there are no dangerous fumes and it is not flammable. — ALICE
DEAR POLLY — When I buy a large amount of hamburger meat I oil a cookie sheet and then spread it with the meat, level with the sides, and then cut through it to make three-inch squares. This is then frozen and easily removed from the oiled sheet with a tap on the bottom. The hamburger squares are stored in plastic bags in the freezer. I save a lot of time and mess having to make them, and find the squares fit all right on round buses. — GLORIA
DEAR POLLY — My husband needed a tie rack to hold 24 or more ties and I felt $15 was too much to pay for such a rack. I bought an 18-inch metal towel rack and two packages of metal shower curtain rings. I mounted the towel rack on the back of a door, attached the curtain rings with the small ends on the rack and pulled the ties through the large ends of the curtain rings. Such a rack holds 24 ties and could probably hold 24 more. — MRS. R.L.
DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for those who do not have a handy warm area in the kitchen for raising yeast dough. I use my electric heating pad with good results. I set a large cake cooling rack and cover it well with a towel. One of the readers was wanting ideas for using cheesecloth. I use it when roasting fowl of any sort. Saturate a piece large enough to cover the fowl with oil. So cooked the meat is nice and moist. Also cheesecloth is great for holding a mixture of peppercorns, garlic buds, etc. that are used for seasoning soups, stews and spaghetti sauce. Such a bag is less messy to remove than finding and removing the separate items. — VIRGINIA

Porcelain Figures Boost Trade

NEW YORK (NEA) — In China long ago, it was said that Liu Hai possessed the magical three-legged toad which bore him anywhere he wished. Sometimes, however, the toad would flee into a well, but Liu Hai had only to bait a line with gold coins to retrieve it.

To own a figure of Liu Hai and his toad, therefore, was to induce prosperity and good fortune.

China scoffs at the old beliefs today, of course. But in the southern province of Guangdong — 50 million population, capital city Canton — the porcelain artists of the city of Shiwang still fashion likenesses of Liu Hai and his toad, as artists there have for 100 years.

Recently, Liu Hai came to New York from Shiwang for the first comprehensive exhibition of decorative arts from Guangdong Province, sponsored in part by the China National Arts & Crafts Import and Export Corporation of Canton.

Lu Yuxi, the corporation's general manager, said through an interpreter that the event represented "the marked improvements in relations between our countries," and an attempt to enhance trade by tempting Americans with Guangdong's special wares.

Nowhere else in China, for instance, do they craft clay figures as they do in Shiwang.

"This porcelain is unique because of the lifelike facial expressions. Look at the eyes and nose," Mr. Lu said, indicating the reclining figure of Liu Hai, 15 inches high, a plump, brown smiling youth, his glazed white robe falling off one shoulder, the white magical toad perched attentively on his knee.

And look at Lin Chung astride a rock, mustached and stern-faced, looking like a fisherman in his loose garments and hurricane hat.

But, Mr. Lu explained, "Lin Chung was a warrior of the guard in ancient times who commanded 800,000 troops. On Jan. 15, which is the last day of the New Year festival, one of the emperor's generals tried to take this man's wife away. But Lin Chung and his wife united with 108 others who opposed the emperor and went up to the mountains. This is the way he looked in ordinary dress before he fled."

Now look at the porcelain vases from the city of Swatow where artists recreate the open-weave of fishermen's nets in clay embellished with separately sculpted flowers and figures.

And see, from Canton, the water buffalo horns carved with unparalleled skill and the various cardboard boxes covered with complex patterns of brilliantly dyed wheat stalk — each sliver hand-glued.

In all, an array so enticing that "we expect to do one million dollars' worth of business," said Henry Yao, general manager of Colligate International Trading Corp., the New York import firm which co-sponsored the exhibition.

As it turned out final sales totaled only half that — still, the artists of Guangdong Province triumphed. All the Shiwang and Swatow pottery was sold, except those pieces costing thousands; and a good proportion of the wheat-stalk boxes, embroideries, table china, toys (small, bright silk elephants, giraffes, fish), etc.

And the American wholesalers who will sell their purchases to gift shops in Miami, Houston, San Francisco, New York, etc., bought them in spite of the circumstances.

The 700 items ($5-50,000) crammed into three rooms in a hotel across from the United Nations were either unlabeled or poorly so ("Lin Chung — warrior") and generally badly displayed.

The eye swam unseeing past clusters of carved jade, ivory and gilded wood; over vases, fans, lacquer and bamboo ware; and across figurines, scroll paintings and rattan ware, much of which obscured elaborately carved or painted screens.

The eye might well have missed the highlight of the exhibition — a painstakingly carved ivory horn, three feet high and culminating in a carved ivory globe containing 40 smaller globes, each able to revolve on its own, each partly visible through three perforations. It took three artists six months to create and it was the first time, Mr. Lu said, that China had permitted a work of such intricacy outside the country — for display only — "to show the technical and artistic skill of China."

But no one got to see the piece to begin with. Thanks to dazzling bureaucratic wizardry, Customs had impounded it because our Fish and Wildlife Department had complained: China's application for membership in CITES (Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species) had not yet been signed, stapled, stamped, carboned and filed. And it didn't matter one iota that this particular piece of ivory had originated in Kenya — which was a member of the organization.

How's that for enhancing trade?

LEGENDARY FIGURES ARE captured in Shiwang pottery, famous for its lifelike quality. At left, symbolic figure of the traveler, 10 inches high, sitting on a container used for carrying liquid ($400). At right, Lin Chung, the legendary warrior, astride a rock, mustached and stern-faced, looking like a fisherman in his loose garments and hurricane hat ($150).

Unlike most deer, both male and female reindeer have antlers.

GILBERT BLUE, the Catawba chief, says his people are looking squarely at extinction. The headdress he wears is not even Catawba — it comes from the plains, and was worn by his father during promotions for a local baseball team.

Catawbas Vie For Survival

ROCK HILL, S.C. (NEA) — Back in the days when America was a pup, there were good Indians and bad Indians, and the Catawba tribe of the Carolinas was among the former. Rather than resist white encroachment, the Catawbas offered decades of protection and assistance for trade routes and settlements.

The decency did them little good, however.

They were steamrolled anyway.

First the whites brought devastating disease to the Indians. Then they introduced race mixing and cultural shock. Inevitably, in 1840, the South Carolina government purchased 140,000 acres of Catawba land, and thereupon failed to honor the treaty promises of monetary and property compensation.

Today the Catawbas, now almost forgotten by history, are trying to get back some of what they lost. The once powerful tribe has been reduced to perhaps 1,000 people, its land holdings have shrunk to a shabby 640-acre reservation here, and the disgruntled survivors believe they deserve something better.

Catawba leaders say they want the United States in general, and South Carolina in particular, to admit the tribe was cheated. More, the elders demand a return of an unspecified amount of territory, plus a cash settlement for the damages and destruction their people have suffered over the decades.

The tribe notes it is not alone in its complaint. In recent years, various Indian groups around the nation have filed more than 70 claims for land or money lost to early American expansion. Altogether, Indians say their ancestors gave up 2 billion acres of land, much of it without remuneration.

But the Catawbas believe their claim is different from the others. They say they are not just looking for restitution, but survival. A mere 200 of the 1,000 Catawbas live on the reservation, and leaders feel that if something isn't done to improve things, the tribe will eventually cease to exist.

Gilbert Blue, the present Catawba chief, says bluntly that his people are looking squarely at extinction: "The young members move away, others marry outside the tribe — and who can blame them? There is nothing here to keep anybody. When my generation dies (he's 45) that could be the end of it."

This prospect does not bother everyone, it should be said. For example, landowners near the Catawba reservation worry that if the tribe's claim is upheld, their property may be part of the settlement; so they feel that Catawba extinction would be preferable to putting their real estate in jeopardy.

And even many Catawbas themselves wonder if the tribe is worth saving. Most live somewhere else, and few give any indication they would return if the reservation were enlarged. They want compensation for the wrongs of the past, to be sure, but they would rather have the restitution in cash.

Among those wanting money instead of land is Samuel Bell. He's 28, a school teacher, and he says the idea of trying to save the Catawba culture is ridiculous: "What culture? The customs are gone, the dances are forgotten. The only thing we know about Indians is what we read in books."

Bell's point is well taken. The last man who spoke the Catawba language died in the 1950s, and today the tribe does not know enough of its history to hold ceremonies. Occasionally, Chief Blue dresses up for a formal photograph, but the feathered headdress he wears was unknown to his forefathers.

And yet the past has not been totally misplaced. Dozens of Catawbas still make pottery the way it was done in the 16th century. They dig the clay from ancient pits, and bake it according to aboriginal methods. Blue says the pottery is unique in the Southeast, and perhaps in the country as well.

Besides the pottery, Blue adds, there are the people. He says it is unconscionable to consider allowing their demise as a unit. "If we could get back some land, and have some money to develop it, everything would be different. I know we would prosper then, because we would have something to hold on to."

Saudis Complete Aramco Purchase

HOUSTON (AP) — The Saudi Arabian government has completed negotiations for 100 percent acquisition of Aramco, the American consortium that handles all Saudi oil production, a weekly publication reported.

The Saudi Report said Wednesday the Middle East government had purchased the remaining 40 percent share of concession rights, facilities and production held by the consortium of Exxon, Texaco, California Standard and Mobil.

"The sum was reported to have been in the neighborhood of $1.5 billion and represented net book value," Saudi Report said.

Public acknowledgement that negotiations had been completed first was made in an exclusive interview with Dr. Adul Hadi Taher, governor of Petromin, the state-owned general petroleum and minerals organization.

Taher was quoted as saying that although the government has taken over Aramco, the creation of a national oil company is not imminent.

"I don't think that the two actions, so to speak, are necessarily coinciding," he said.

"There is no need to rush or hurry to establish anything until the government is satisfied as to what should be done."

Taher said the actual takeover agreement spelling out the function of a national oil company as well as the continued responsibilities and guaranteed access to crude oil for the four American oil companies still must be signed.

No one knows when the takeover agreement will be signed, he said. Meanwhile, he added, "oil is being pumped, the money is coming in, so there is no problem."
