Iraq pledges no retreat

By JOCELYN NOVECK
Associated Press Writer
Iraq says it will never pull out of Kuwait, despite the U.S. order to ship more than 150,000 additional troops to the Persian Gulf and Moscow's qualified consent to the use of force in the region.
In Moscow, a senior U.S. official said today that Saudi Arabia, Egypt and other Arab forces would fight alongside U.S. troops to free Kuwait. But the official said the extent of France's support is not known.
Secretary of State James A. Baker III flew from Moscow to London today on his mission to strengthen allied resolve against Iraq's 3-month-old occupation of Kuwait. Baker will meet Saturday with French leaders in Paris.
Iraq's government-run newspaper said today that Iraq and France conducted secret talks that led to the release of more than 300 Frenchmen from Iraq.
The paper, Al-Jumhuriya, said the talk between Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz and former French Foreign Minister Claude Cheysson were endorsed by the French government. France has denied any deals were struck in exchange for release of the hostages.
Western officials have criticized efforts by former leaders - including

Edward Heath of Britain, Yasuhiro Nakasone of Japan, and Willy Brandt of Germany - to free hostages, claiming they help divide the anti-Iraq alliance.
Brandt was scheduled to leave Baghdad tonight with 170 Westerners, including 120 Germans. Diplomats said five Americans were on the list.
In a more personal attempt to influence Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, 11 British women were headed to Baghdad today to seek the release of their captive husbands and relatives - against the advice of their government.
President Bush on Thursday ordered the new troops to the gulf, saying he wanted an "adequate offensive military option" should global sanctions fail to persuade Saddam to withdraw from Kuwait.
But despite the talk of offensive capability, Bush told a televised news conference that he still hoped Saddam would "come to his senses" and avoid combat by pulling out.
The president did not give numbers, but Pentagon officials said in private conversations that full deployment of the units involved would total more than 150,000 troops.
That will nearly double the current U.S. strength. There are currently 230,000 U.S. military personnel in the region. Allies from 26 countries have sent about 100,000 soldiers to the multinational force assembled in the area.

Iraq's ambassador to Washington, Mohamed Al-Mashat, called the new U.S. deployment plan "an unfortunate development."
"There is no reason for this force, or the previous force," he said Thursday on CBS' America Tonight. "We haven't done anything to the United States."
"Believe you me, we will never surrender or capitulate," he said.
Iraq has deployed an estimated 430,000 soldiers in Kuwait and southern Iraq since invading its southern oil-rich neighbor Aug. 2 in a dispute over land, oil and money.
The invasion increased Iraq's share of world oil reserves to 20 percent and sent crude prices skyrocketing. The buildup of Iraqi troops near the border of Saudi Arabia prompted the Saudi government to allow the massive multinational deployment in its northern desert.
In Moscow, meanwhile, Baker accomplished his goal of gaining Soviet consent for the use of force should peaceful measures fail.
Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze said military might should not be ruled out, but cautioned it should be used only under U.N. auspices.

Bush, at his news conference, said "we're on the same wavelength" with Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev in terms of his policy goals in the Middle East. He said he felt there were no "mixed signals" from Moscow.
The administration, impatient that months of U.N. economic sanctions have failed to dislodge Saddam's troops from Kuwait, intends to ask the U.N. Security Council to authorize force if the Baghdad government doesn't agree to a pullout.
Hundreds of Americans are among those still trapped in Iraq, some held at strategic sites as "human shields" to deter attack by the U.S.-led multinational force in the region.
In Warsaw, 241 Poles returned home from Iraq Thursday and one told Polish TV at the airport that about 40 Americans being held at a chemical plant were in "tragic" condition.
The man, who was not identified, said of the Iraqi chemical plant where he was working: "I suspect it produces military gas - were 40 American citizens ... shut up in the production hall."

Bush won't talk recession

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Bush administration hasn't uttered the dreaded "R" word yet concerning the economy, but it is getting awfully close.
President Bush on Thursday talked about "tough times" and Michael Boskin, his chief economic adviser, spoke of the possibility that the economy could contract in either the final three months of this year or early 1991.
Bush and Boskin both avoided using the term recession, but Boskin opened the door to that possibility by discussing the chances that the gross national product, the country's total output of goods and services, might decline in one or more quarters.
The traditional definition of a recession is two consecutive quarters of declining GNP.
The comments were much gloomier than administration forecasts before Tuesday's elections. Administration officials had been talking in hopeful terms that the oil shock from Iraq's invasion of Kuwait might not be severe enough to push the economy over the brink.

"We're in some tough times right now," Bush told reporters. He said he would consult economists in and out of government to discuss ways of cushioning the impact on American families.
In a speech to the American Council for Capital Formation, Boskin said, "The economy at best is in a lull, but we do expect that lull to be relatively brief and relatively minor."
He said the administration expects the negative impacts on economic output to begin showing up in the current October-December quarter.
While the GNP grew at a modest annual rate of 1.8 percent in the July-September quarter, Boskin said that rate could turn negative in the current quarter. He also said it was possible the economic contraction could last into early 1991.

"The short-term forecast, if anything, is even more uncertain than normal because we just can't say for sure what the size and duration of the oil shock will be," the presidential economic adviser said.
The country last suffered through a recession from 1981-82, a slump brought on by the Federal Reserve as the central bank pushed interest rates to levels not seen since the Civil War in an effort to battle double-digit inflation.
The cure worked and in November 1982 the nation embarked on a record peacetime expansion.
Boskin said the current oil shock, unlike those of 1973-74 and 1979, was occurring during a period of relative price stability. For that reason, he said, he expected any adverse impact to be short in duration.

He said his "best guess" was that the nation would return to healthier growth rates by the middle of next year.
While Bush did not elaborate on what programs the administration might propose to bolster the sagging economy, Boskin said the administration would review a variety of pro-growth measures to include in next year's budget and the State of the Union address.
In his remarks to reporters, Bush expressed strong opposition to further tax hikes, saying the only way that Democrats will be able to raise income tax rates will be "over my dead veto."

Memories of race humorous

By MICHAEL HOLMES
Associated Press Writer
The costliest, muddiest, and seemingly longest campaign in Texas election history is gone - but not yet forgotten.
As memories fade, however, there are a few moments that probably should be preserved.
Or, maybe not.
Best Entrance Line
T-shirt held aloft by Democratic governor-elect Ann Richards at her victory party: "A Woman's Place Is In The Dome."
Best Exit Line
A Republican consultant, who charitably remains nameless, after working for one candidate who lost in the GOP primary and another who lost in the general election:
"I'm practicing for my next job right now. 'Would you like fries with that?'"
Timeliest Admission
Republican Clayton Williams, in a TV commercial that began airing just hours before his politically fatal admission that he paid no income tax in 1986: "Nobody's perfect."
Fastest Button
"I paid my taxes in 1986."
Distributed by Democrat Ann Richards' staff 12 hours after Williams said he didn't.
Worst Math
Not the pollsters nor the prognosticators, but losing GOP gubernatorial primary candidate Jack Rains. He issued a 10-point plan to improve education. It only listed nine.
Best PR Photo
Ann Richards, shotgun in hand on a Labor Day weekend dove hunt, which ran in virtually every newspaper in Texas.
Cowboy hatted Clayton Williams, tugging on his ears, which ran in virtually every newspaper in Texas.
Best Television
In a year flooded with mudslinging commercials, KERA-TV of Dallas gave viewers a way to vent frustrations by airing an hour of homemade parody videos entitled "Voter's Revenge." In one, a young woman told viewers: "Remember, mud spelled backwards is D-U-M."

Worst Industrial Accident
Democrat Jim Hightower, seeking re-election as agriculture commissioner, chopped off the tip of a finger while mowing his yard. "If you'll check your manual and remember what your Mama said and what common sense tells you - don't do that," he advised.
Least Sympathetic Comment
GOP agriculture commissioner candidate Rick Perry on Hightower's accident: "It's probably a good thing Hightower is not a farmer, because there are machines much more dangerous than lawn mowers on the farm."
Best 'I Told You So'
Tom Owens, lieutenant governor candidate of the limited-government Libertarian Party, on the federal government's shutdown in early October: "I was driving home yesterday and thought: 'See, nothing's changed.'"
Most Dangerous Promise
Steve "Bo" Sawyer, a write-in candidate in the 10th Congressional District, gave voters bullets and said: "If I don't shoot straight, shoot me."
Least-Likely Option
A Gallup Poll published in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram found 51 percent of respondents who said they would vote for "neither" gubernatorial candidate if given the option.
Hugh Who?
The Dallas Times Herald surveyed 33 Texans about Democratic U.S. Senate candidate Hugh Quay Farmer. Only seven could identify him. Four said he was a farmer and one guessed he was a state official in Louisiana.
Best Bumper Sticker in Losin Cause
Tom Luce, unsuccessful GOP candidate for governor. It showed a cowboy hat in a circle with a slash through it and the words: "No thanks, I'm thinking."

PUC will consider Bell case

AUSTIN (AP) - The Public Utility Commission would consider a settlement on Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s rates under a recommendation made by two administrative law judges.
The commission's administrative judges said Thursday that Southwestern Bell failed to show why its rates shouldn't be lowered further than what has been proposed in a settlement reached earlier this year.
"The (judges) found that a larger reduction may be appropriate," according to a news release from the PUC.

The decision was good news to the state's consumer representative in telephone rate cases, which - along with private consumer groups and 100 cities - opposed the settlement.
"Our claim is that the rates are too high to the tune of about $700 million per year," said John Laakso, assistant public counsel at the Office of Public Utility Counsel.

In February, Southwestern Bell and long distance telephone companies reached a settlement that would have reduced Bell's revenues over four years, Laakso said.
But, he said, the reduction under the proposed settlement would not have reduced customer's basic telephone rates.
"There were no reductions for local ratepayers. The bulk of the reductions would go to long distance companies," he said.
But Paul Roth of Dallas, division president for Southwestern Bell, said the settlement is fair.

"I think it's an outstanding agreement for the state of Texas and should be approved," he said.
Roth disagreed with the conclusion reached by the administrative law judges and said he hoped the commission would resolve the matter soon.
The decision by the administrative law judges to reconsider the case will be taken up by the three-member PUC on Nov. 28.

Castor mill cranking up again

PLAINVIEW (AP) - Seedsman Jeane Browning wants to bring back an old crop he says can have a wide market today - castor beans.
After two years of negotiations, Browning says, he has multi-year contracts with castor oil users and processors he says will assure long-term price stability for producers.
"Our negotiations with the castor oil companies and the mill have been with producers in mind," Browning said. "Our objective has been to develop a stable and profitable crop for Texas farmers."
"We will limit our production contracts in 1991 to 35,000 to 40,000 (acres), but we expect that it will expand after 1991," he said. "We are excited about the potential."

Based on current prices for other crops, castor can show a net income advantage of $5 to $104 per acre on Texas farms, said Elbert Harp, whose consulting firm did economic studies on bringing castor bean production back to the area.
Production costs, except for seed and harvesting, are normally comparable with grain sorghum, Harp said. Irrigation and fertilizer costs are more than for cotton, he says, but less than for corn.
Castor oil derivatives are essential ingredients in hundreds of everyday products, Harp said, including lubricants, corrosion inhibitors and some plastics. And castor meal, produced as a byproduct of oil extraction, will be a high-quality protein feed for livestock, he said.

Browning said in 1991 Castor Oil Inc. will contract to pay 15 cents per pound based on clean seed, 50 percent oil content, 6 percent moisture and delivery to the processing plant in Plainview.
The plant, built in 1962 for castor oil, has been purchased by the Southern Cotton Oil Division of Archer Daniels Midland Co. and is being reactivated to process the oil and meal.
Browning said the mill will be operational by the time the 1991 crop is harvested next fall and is expected to employ 25 to 30 people.

Harp said research has eliminated some of earlier drawbacks to castor production.
For instance, he said, Texas A&M University researchers have developed a system to remove 99 percent of the allergens that were a serious problem in handling castor meal in the past.
Browning's Castor Oil Inc. will produce a de-allergized, detoxified castor meal that will be 35 to 60 percent protein, depending on whether the hulls are removed, Harp said.

School changes mascot

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - After 23 years as the Southwest High School Rebels, students at the school have changed their mascot to the Raiders in an attempt to ease racial tensions.

Nearly all of the school's 1,900 students voted in Thursday's election to choose from among several suggested mascots.

The old Rebel mascot, thought to be a racist symbol, caused several scuffles between black and white students this fall.

Raiders became the new mascot by receiving 58 percent of the vote and beating out four other choices: Texans, Mustangs, Patriots and Stallions.

"I think this will unite us," principal Quince Fulton told a student committee that took nominations for the new mascot.

Earlier this fall, some white students started a movement to bring back the Confederate flag, banned at the school four years ago.

School board officials ordered the school to change the mascot after several students were suspended for displaying a Confederate flag on a projection screen during a pep rally Oct. 19. Fights erupted and several black students walked out of the rally.

School officials say it will cost $50,000 to change the Rebels name and Yosemite Sam mascot on walls, banners, flags and uniforms.

Ironically, the first game Southwest will play as the Raiders will be a Monday night basketball game against the Richland High Rebels.

That school, in the Fort Worth suburb of North Richland Hills, has retained the Rebel flag as its symbol.

Although federal courts have upheld schools' rights to use the flag, the president of the Tarrant County NAACP is considering filing a lawsuit to attempt to force that school to drop the symbol.

Germany marks fall of Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP) - Germany today marked a year since the opening of the Berlin Wall, a joyful anniversary interlocked with a bitter one: the night in 1938 when breaking glass heralded the Holocaust, war and German partition.

Officials of newly united Germany also warmly welcomed Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, who arrived in Bonn today to a 27-man military honor guard.

Gorbachev's visit is highly symbolic since his reforms helped collapse the Iron Curtain and open the Berlin Wall. He was to sign a 20-year German-Soviet non-aggression treaty and was expected to receive financial aid for his nation's hobbling economy.

Commemorations of the wall's opening were to include the unveiling of a monument at one of the former crossing points between East and West Berlin, and a ceremony to honor the more than 200 people killed trying to escape East Germany.

The Berlin Jewish community planned seven memorials to recall Nov. 9, 1938, when synagogues, Jewish homes and businesses were attacked in what became known as Kristallnacht - Crystal Night - because of all the glass shattered by Nazi thugs.

By the time World War II ended seven years later, with Germany's division, 6 million Jews had been killed, many rounded up in full view of fellow Germans and transported to death camps.

Heinz Galinski, a Jewish leader in Germany, said many Germans "have never accepted Nov. 9 as a day of commemoration" though it led to the Holocaust.

The mayors of West Berlin and East Berlin, Walter Momper and Tino Schwierzina, said in a joint statement Thursday that the two Nov. 9 anniversaries should remind Germans of the need to fight against oppression of minorities.

They called for the public to participate in national affairs as "the best protection against misuse of state power."

The Bundesrat, the upper house of Parliament, was to mark the wall anniversary by holding its first meeting in Berlin in 31 years, moving from Bonn, the federal capital.

The two Germans united Oct. 3 into a country of nearly 80 million people, by far the biggest in Europe. Their leaders pledged repeatedly that the new Germany will not seek to dominate the continent, nor would it forget the Nazi part of its history.

Television news programs Thursday ran long recaptulations of the celebrations that erupted at the Brandenburg Gate last Nov. 9 when it became known that East Germans were free to travel to the West.

One year ago, massive pro-democracy demonstrations and the flight of refugees to the West prompted East Germany's Communist leaders to begin opening the Berlin Wall. Hundreds of people spontaneously climbed the 11-foot wall that symbolized the divisions of Germany and Europe.

Shedding tears of happiness, some began using hammers and chisels on the concrete barrier; soon a thriving business was started selling chips of the wall as souvenirs.

Bulldozers have finished removing 81 percent of the wall from downtown Berlin, and have about two miles to go, officials say.

Elections in East Germany early this year booted the Communists from four decades of power, leading to last month's unification. The first unified German parliamentary elections are Dec. 2.

The sweeping change, however, has been painful for many former East Germans as the switch to capitalism has caused inefficient businesses to shut down, causing rising unemployment.

The most common last name in the USSR is Ivanov.

Speech team winning honors

Members of the Hereford High School speech team have been racking up honors in events this fall. They include, from left, Jeri Ann Parker, who won third in foreign extemporaneous speaking at the Pampa Invitational Tournament and second in prose at the Lubbock Coronado tournament; Jason Barrett, outstanding actor in duet improvisation at Pampa and second in dramatic interpretation at Coronado; Camille Betzen, named the outstanding Lincoln-Douglas debater at the Pampa tournament for the second-straight year; and Zach Walker, who was second in L-D debate and teamed with Barrett to place third in duet improvisation at Pampa. HHS also won the large school efficiency award at Pampa. Walker, Barrett and Parker have qualified for the Texas Forensic Association State Tournament in Houston next spring.

Discrimination not intent of LISD policy

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - The Lubbock Independent School District superintendent said discrimination was not the intent of the school system's new dress code, which bans boys from having long hair.

"The policy's purpose is to allow consistent enforcement of the policy concerning a student's hairstyle," LISD superintendent Mike Moses said Thursday during a hearing challenging the dress code.

"It was not the intent of the school district to discriminate against any race or ethnic background. The purpose of the code is to teach discipline and respect for authority."

The LISD is being sued by Michael Kelley, father of Yacatico Kelley, a sophomore at Lubbock High School, and Kathy Buckberry, the mother of fifth-grader Michael Buckberry.

The parents are suing the LISD to modify its dress code, which prohibits boys from wearing longer-than-shoulder-length hair, pony tails, rat tails, braids or designs in their hair.

The elder Kelley says the dress code discriminates against his son's native American heritage.

"For hundreds of years Indians have worn long hair. It has been a way of life for many," said Kelley. "Many Indians choose to wear their hair short. But it should be (Yacatico's) choice to have his hair long."

After Yacatico and Michael were removed from class for violating the code earlier this fall, Kelley and Mrs. Buckberry appealed to the school board to allow their sons back in class.

Their pleas were denied by unanimous votes at separate meetings in front of about a hundred upset parents and students protesting the policy with signs and chants.

The parents won a temporary restraining order against the LISD's hair policy for boys three weeks ago and are now seeking a permanent injunction in District Judge Bradley Underwood's court.

Underwood said after the hearing concluded Thursday that he would announce his decision early next week.

Yacatico's black hair flows down to his mid-back, and Michael, an honor student, has worn a rat tail for three years.

In opening statements, plaintiffs' attorney Edwin Price said the dress code violates the Texas Equal Rights Amendment because girls' hair length is not restricted by the code.

"Does something happen to boys when their hair grows past their shoulder?" plaintiffs attorney Sam Ogan asked Moses during cross examination.

"Do boys become disobedient or disrupt the educational process when their hair breaks their shoulder?"

Officials okay evolution books; clash with creationists goes on AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texas education officials gave preliminary approval to science textbooks that teach evolution, but a longtime clash with creationists continued.

The State Board of Education Thursday asked its staff to look into whether a reference in some of the books, which says human embryos have gill slits, was accurate.

The board, meeting as a committee, tentatively approved the biology books, striking a blow to religious fundamentalists who say the texts don't treat creationism as an equally valid idea.

A final vote was set for Saturday. Texas is one of the nation's largest textbook buying states and influences what publishers put in textbooks. The textbooks under consideration are for grades 1 through 12.

"This is a major victory," said Mike Hudson, general counsel for the People for the American Way, a civil rights group that has lobbied for expanded coverage of evolution in science textbooks.

"This is probably the most important thing that has happened in science education in the past five years," Hudson said of the board's preliminary vote.

Mel Gabler, who with his wife, Norma, has fought against evolution for about 30 years, said the proposed texts were a form of censorship. Gabler argued they treat evolution as a fact without including debate of the theory.

"Why are evolutionists so afraid of giving students weaknesses as well as strengths of evolution?" Gabler asked. "Censorship nullifies critical thinking of students. This is indoctrination, not education," he said.

The theory of evolution holds that all species of plants and animals developed from earlier forms, through hereditary transmission of slight variations in successive generations. Creationism ascribes the origin of species to acts of God as described in the Bible.

Education Board member Will Davis of Austin said the books "separate religious theory from scientific theory."

"In public school textbooks, we are not to engage in religious theory.

That's for churches, that's for your own soul-searching. In public schools we deal with science, not religion," he said.

Davis said the current science textbooks give a cursory review of evolution, while the new books are much more in depth.

Each side presented its own scientists to testify.

Claud Bramblett, a University of Texas scientist, said the textbooks were well-written and would probably interest more students in science.

"We need to grow future scientists, not import them," he said.

Walter Bradley, a Texas A&M University scientist, said the books contained errors and were written in a way that students would just accept the teachings as fact.

Education Board Chairman Monte Hasie of Lubbock said the books weren't perfect, but better than the current ones.

"I think we're making progress and that's what education is all about," he said.

Look what's lurking in your coffee

The office coffee break: A time to relax and enjoy a hot, steaming cup of coffee--and bacteria? Surprising, many people don't realize that drinking from a reusable coffee mug instead of a clean, sanitary disposable cup, can be a good way to catch a cold or other illness.

Fact is, most people don't or can't take the time away from work to clean coffee mugs properly--they just give them a quick rinse. To properly sanitize a mug, it should be washed thoroughly and then rinsed for 30 seconds in water of 170 degrees or more. The tap water in office sinks and rest rooms rarely gets that hot.

A good detergent should also be used--something many offices don't have on hand. Sink areas in washrooms and office kitchens often harbor bacteria since so few workers bother to clean up after use. Over time--due to lack of proper cleaning--grime, residue and bacteria accumulate on the cup. Also, office workers often mishandle their cups, spreading germs from dirty hands. Cups are frequently used by more than one person and not properly cleaned. The results: You could be exposed to bacteria and viruses that cause colds and flu and even diseases like hepatitis A.

A better idea than using a reusable coffee mug at work is to use a disposable cup. Public health experts recognize the sanitary benefits of single service products.

Eggs stored with their broad end up will yield fewer broken yolks.

Lady Whitefaces take on Dumas for berth in state tournament

By SAM WALLER
Sports Editor

When the Hereford Lady Whitefaces meet up with the Dumas Demonettes in the Region I-4A finals Saturday, little things could mean a lot.

The match, which is scheduled for 6 p.m. at Caprock High School Activity Center in Amarillo, will decide whether the defenders (two-time defending state champion Dumas, 26-4) or the pretenders (21-7 Hereford) earn the trip to the state tournament in Austin.

The teams finished the regular season as District I-4A co-champions with 9-1 league marks as each scored a two-game sweep on the other's home floor. The Demonettes edged the Herd in three games in a district playoff two weeks ago at Caprock.

But this is the one that counts, Hereford coach Brenda Reeh said.

"It's come down to this and we're very proud to be here," Reeh said, "but we're not going to sit back and accept what happens. This shot may never come again for these kids, especially for the seniors. As a coach you don't know if it will ever come again for you. We've got to do everything we know how to win.

"If there is a team in the state that can beat Dumas I think it's us because we have beaten them. I don't think they looked forward to meeting us in the regional finals. I think they would be more comfortable playing somebody else.

"That's the point we're going to try push: Make them lack confidence in themselves; make them question themselves.

"We can't make mistakes and expect to win, especially against a team like Dumas. But they're in the same boat as well. Right now they've got a state championship to defend and we hope that puts a little more pressure on them."

Reeh said that as familiar as the two teams are, the match should come down to execution.

"It's just a matter of who executes the best what they know how to do," she said. "Both teams know how to win and both are well-schooled."

Reeh added that there should be no surprises in the match, just volleyball.

"A lot will depend on who can make a few adjustments unless they come with something totally out of the blue which we've never seen before, and I can't even guess what that might be. But there are going to be a few minor adjustments that have to be made.

"We haven't seen anything they've changed, though. We have seen a couple of kids who've come on stronger. The girl that is probably their best hitter now wasn't doing anything at the middle of the season."

"Watching them against Azle, they were strong in every aspect of the game. They have a strong service, they have strong passing. They hit the ball hard and I think that's what they're going to try against us. They'll hit the ball very, very hard."

Reeh said the Lady Whitefaces will counter with what has gotten them this far.

"What we usually try to do is go at it first and hit the ball hard," she said. "If we're successful with that, that's what we stay with because it keeps you aggressive. But looking back at the tapes of all three matches with Dumas, when we have scored it is when we have really been conscious of proper technique, reaching over the net and placing the ball."

"When you use brute strength against a good-blocking team like

One more time

Jennifer Hicks (8) of the Hereford Lady Whitefaces gets a shot over the attempted block of two Sweetwater players during last Saturday's Area playoff win while Lori Sanders (14) and Brek Binder (12) also guard the net. The Lady Whitefaces will be shooting for a trip to the Class 4A state tournament in Austin at 6 p.m. Saturday when they take on defending state champion Dumas for the fourth time this season.

Cornelius earns honor

Shantel Cornelius of the Hereford Lady Whiteface volleyball team was recognized Thursday for her achievements in October by the sports committee of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

Cornelius, a junior who is a three-year starter for the Herd, leads the team with 257 kills for the year, 29 coming in the playoffs. The middle hitter/setter has also recorded 82 stuffs, 152 digs and 41 service aces to help the Lady Whitefaces (21-7) reach Saturday's Region I-4A finals against defending state champion Dumas.

Lady Whiteface coach Brenda Reeh said Cornelius' natural athletic ability is complimented by her work ethic and coachability.

"It's really rare when you have a kid that's been blessed with so much natural ability," Reeh said. "There's so much that she does that you can't coach. But what is exceptional about her is she is so willing to learn and to be coached.

"A lot of times you may have a kid with a ton of talent who thinks they can get by on talent alone. She is so eager to be coached and to be a part of a team. It wouldn't be nearly as much fun for her if she didn't have everybody out there as a team."

"One of her primary concerns is that the team do well and that's one of the reasons we've been successful."

Dumas, you're going to get busted. Looking at that third match we got blocked every time we hit the ball hard, and that's also how we beat Lamesa.

"I think we're going to use a lot more finesse and move the ball around. If we can get everybody pulled up for the dinks, then maybe we can start hammering the lines. It's worked a lot better and we've had more success."

Another factor that could make a difference is which team handles the pressure better, but Reeh said the Herd has everything to gain and nothing to lose.

"There's no doubt both teams are going to be fighting nerves a little bit," she said, "and it may come down to who gets over that quicker. But more than anything our kids are just ready to play."

"It's nice to have them ready to play rather than scared to play. They're pretty ornery. I don't think

I could ever say they were scared to play Dumas.

"I think our kids are probably going to feel better prepared and more comfortable heading into Saturday than they have the last two or three matches. In different matches, we might have two or three kids that, for some reason, were unusually nervous."

"I think we'll be mentally and emotionally ready. I don't think we'll be flat at all, but we're not going to be scared. We know that we have beaten them and we know we can beat them. If we can find a few weaknesses in them Saturday, that's what we've got to try to accentuate and make them question themselves. We just have to find a kid that's a little slow that day or someone who's not blocking very well and we've got to pick on those weaknesses."

Reeh said reaching the fourth round of the playoffs is a tribute to the effort put forth by the Lady Whitefaces.

"I think all that we've accomplished so far this is such a testimony to the hard work of our kids and to their heart and determination," she said. "There have been so many times that they have had to be unselfish and put the team first."

"Those sacrifices have built a team that we know is strong and we know is good. Whatever happens from here on out is icing on the cake. It's been a great season already. We just have to look at it as we're going to go to be the new No. 1."

Castillo to make third run at state

Teresa Castillo of the Hereford Lady Whiteface cross country team will make her third appearance at the Class 4A State Meet on Saturday in Georgetown.

The senior, who is a three-year team captain, earned the trip to state by placing second at last week's Region I-4A Meet in Lubbock. All three times she has advanced to state, Castillo earned an individual berth while the Lady Whitefaces also qualified as a team the past two years. Castillo placed sixth at regional as a sophomore and fifth as a junior.

Castillo has won five of eight races this season, including her second District I-4A individual title.

Castillo's best time is 11 minutes, 59 seconds at this year's district meet.

TERESA CASTILLO

Her best clocking at state is a 12:40 turned in last year when she finished 10th to earn a medal.

Herd frosh tie P'view, 8-8, in season finale

The Hereford Whiteface freshman football team concluded its season Thursday with an 8-8 deadlock at Plainview.

The team was composed of the Maroon and White squads playing together for the first time.

The game turned into a defensive struggle as sloppy field conditions made handling the ball a difficult chore. The Herd defense came up with four turnovers while the offense was plagued with fumbles.

Mark Kuper came up with three quarterback sacks to lead the defense while Rowdy Cates recovered two fumbles and Joey Ballejo recovered one. Johnny Zambrano added an interception for the Herd.

After Plainview took a 6-0 lead in the first quarter, Chris Vallejo put Hereford on the board with a 4-yard touchdown run in the second. Vallejo added the two-point conversion to give Hereford the lead.

Plainview got the tying points on a safety later in the half when Hereford was flagged for intentional grounding in its own endzone.

Hereford came up with a big play on the ensuing free kick when Martin Camahan recovered the live ball after Plainview failed to field the kick.

Justin Wright contributed another big play on special teams with a blocked punt.

Akeem avoids 'foul' play as Rockets win

DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

Akeem Olajuwon is a good listener who realizes the Houston Rockets won't win many games with him benched by fouls.

So he got the message when coach Don Chaney expressed concern over Olajuwon fouling out twice - and being in trouble another time - in Houston's first three games.

"It wasn't something to worry about," Olajuwon said Thursday night after getting 25 points and 19 rebounds - and just three fouls - as the Rockets kept the Orlando Magic winless with a 103-99 victory.

Olajuwon said Chaney's words at practice Wednesday were well-timed.

"I've been in this league six years and I know how to play in it," Olajuwon said. "I can understand why people talk about it (the fouls) when it happens back-to-back-to-back like that."

The 7-foot center said he is just beginning to feel comfortable.

"I have just been playing summer ball all year," he said. "I just needed to get back used to playing league games."

Chaney wasn't overly impressed with Olajuwon's performance, but was glad to have him in the game to withstand a late rally by the Magic.

"I really didn't think this was one of Akeem's better games," Chaney said. "He wasn't that sharp, but he is such a high-quality player, he really elevates his game the last few minutes."

"That's what it is all about - how you finish."

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was New York 114, Washington 103; New Jersey 114, Miami 103; Milwaukee 141, Philadelphia 111; and Utah 103, San Antonio 94.

Kenny Smith added 17 points and Otis Thorpe and Vernon Maxwell 16 apiece for the Rockets (2-2). Dennis Scott had 28 points for the Magic (0-4) and Nick Anderson added 16. Knicks 114, Bulls 103

Patrick Ewing, averaging 30.8 points in his first four games, doesn't believe he is playing as well as last season, when he averaged 28.6.

"I'm scoring, but I'm not that comfortable out there yet," said Ewing, who had 32 points while pulling down 15 rebounds and blocking seven shots. "I don't feel I'm in the same groove as last year when all my shots were falling," Ewing said after a 13-for-19 shooting performance.

New York held Washington to 33 percent shooting in the fourth quarter.

The Knicks, who lost two of their first three games after leading by at least 16 points in all of them, had no margin larger than four until the fourth quarter, when Ewing started an 8-2 run with six points for a 96-88 lead with 8:22 left. Nets 114, Heat 103

First-round draft picks Derrick Coleman and Tate George sparked a 9-3 run at the start of the fourth quarter.

The Nets (1-3), who led from the middle of the opening period, managed to take control in the final 12 minutes of their home opener. Coleman, the top pick in the draft, hit one of two free throws to put New Jersey ahead 79-73 and Derrick Gervin followed with a baseline jumper.

Reggie Theus led New Jersey with 24 points and Mookie Blaylock added 22. Coleman finished with 13 points and 10 rebounds. Sherman Douglas led Miami with 24 points. Bucks 141, 76ers 111

Ricky Pierce scored 28 points and Jay Humphries and Frank Brickowski sparked a third-quarter spurt as Milwaukee routed Philadelphia.

The 76ers stayed close for one half, trailing 69-60 behind the play of Charles Barkley, who finished with 27 points. But Humphries scored 13 of his 25 points and Brickowski 12 of his 18 in the third quarter as Milwaukee outscored Philadelphia 41-19.

Jazz 103, Spurs 94

Karl Malone, held to five points through the first 31 quarters, scored nine of his 14 in the final 5:34 and pulled 15 rebounds.

John Stockton led the Jazz with 24 points, followed by Jeff Malone with 19 - 17 in the second half - and Thurl Bailey with 18.

Terry Cummings led San Antonio with 25 points, followed by David Robinson with 22 and Sean Elliott with 14.

LA green turns Strawberry blue

LOS ANGELES (AP) - In the end, this is what the decision to sign Darryl Strawberry came down to: The Los Angeles Dodgers thought he could make them a better team; the New York Mets didn't.

So, drawn by the Dodger green, Strawberry is wearing Dodger blue. And the eight often-turbulent seasons he spent as a sometimes-worshiped, sometimes-scorned star in New York ended with him going home to Los Angeles and blaming Mets management for letting him walk away.

Strawberry's $20.25 million, five-year contract makes him the second-highest paid player in baseball history, behind Jose Canseco and his five-year, $23.5 million deal - a pact that Strawberry hoped to match. It also marks a turning point for the Dodgers organization, which broke from tradition in offering the free agent a long-term pact.

"His best years are ahead of him," Dodgers general manager Fred Claire said. "He can literally carry a ball-club," Dodgers manager Tom Lasorda said.

That's what the Mets always wanted to see and never thought they did. At the start of this season, general manager Frank Cashen challenged Strawberry to prove he was worth so much money. But after Strawberry posted the biggest numbers of his career, the team did not offer the big financial numbers the slugger sought.

"I don't say that you can replace that kind of talent overnight, but I think that we have enough resources to win without Darryl," Cashen said, "and I think we have a chance to even be a better team and organization within a couple of years than if we were with him."

"At the time that we signed him (in 1980), and after watching him for a year, he had more potential than any ballplayer I ever saw. I don't think that he's ever reached his potential," he said.

Scoffed Strawberry: "If 37 home runs and 108 RBIs isn't playing up to your potential, I don't know what is."

While the Dodgers are now so set in the outfield that they'll probably not re-sign free agent Kirk Gibson, the Mets will need to scramble.

Free agent Vince Coleman is available, and the Mets have set a meeting with him Wednesday. Brett Butler could be made a new-look free agent on Dec. 1, and said he might be interested in going to New York. Montreal's Tim Lincecum and Philadelphia's Von Hayes are available in trades and the Mets also have talked about moving infielder Howard Johnson to the outfield.

"We'll maybe look to restructure our outfield, to look for more speed and not wait for the home run so much," Cashen said. "It might take more than a year to accomplish."

Strawberry hit 252 home runs for the Mets, a team record. Many of them were tape-measure shots and more than once he connected in clutch spots. He blended speed with power and improved in the outfield, although he's still not great.

He is sometimes accused of not hustling, which he disputes, and is sometimes criticized for being too moody and streaky, which he also challenges. He was often the center of controversy and the cause of commotion, which no one could contest.

To the Mets, that package did not add up to $20 million. To the Dodgers, it did.

Strawberry, who made $1.8 million this year, will receive a $1.5 million signing bonus. He will be paid $3.5 million in 1991, $3.75 million in 1992, $3.5 million in 1993, $3 million in 1994 and $5 million in 1995.

At 28, Strawberry is a seven-time All-Star and wears a championship ring. "I don't think I've lived a full baseball life," said Strawberry. "My baseball life is just beginning. I think a lot of the fun was taken away because of the pressure and the situation in New York. The fun is just about to begin."

Holtz worried about Notre Dame's ability to remain nation's No. 1 team

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

It's as easy as 1-2-3.

No. 1 Notre Dame needs a victory to retain its loftiest of perches.

No. 2 Washington needs a loss by the Irish and a victory of its own to move up.

No. 3 Houston, on bowl-forbidden probation, would love another weekend of upsets that could give it - as the nation's only unblemished major college football team - the status of being on top despite all.

"I'm worried," Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz said of his team's clash Saturday with ninth-ranked Tennessee.

He should be, considering his Irish are one of four teams to have fallen from the top this season.

"I'm concerned with how we'll match up," Holtz said. "We haven't been able to hold many people to under 20 points, and yet it'll be difficult for us to score many points on Tennessee."

Should the Irish fail in their quest at Knoxville, Tenn., Washington would be the heir apparent with a victory when it hosts UCLA. Houston, which plays at No. 14 Texas, is next in line.

Elsewhere in games involving the Top 10, it will be No. 4 Colorado vs. Oklahoma State, No. 6 Iowa vs. Ohio State, No. 7 Georgia Tech vs. Virginia Tech, No. 8 Brigham Young at No. 25 Wyoming, and No 10 Florida vs. Georgia at Jacksonville.

Also, it will be No. 11 Virginia at North Carolina, No. 12 Florida State vs. Cincinnati, No. 13 Nebraska at Kansas, No. 15 Auburn vs. Southern Mississippi, No. 17 Illinois at No. 19 Michigan, No. 20 Oregon at California, No. 21 Penn State vs. Maryland, No. 22 Louisville vs. Boston College, No. 23 Southern Cal at Oregon State, and No. 24 Michigan State at Minnesota.

Holtz does have reason for concern. Notre Dame (7-1) allows 23.7 points per game and has held just two teams - Michigan State got 19 and Purdue 11 - below 20.

"We're giving up 25 points and nearly 400 yards a game," Holtz said. "I've never heard of a good team doing that."

"If there were answers to our defensive problems we would have found them before our ninth game."

The Irish offense, led by Rick Mirer and Rocket Ismail, is averaging 35.6 points and 434 yards per game. The offense has scored at least 30 points five times.

"This team is richly talented," Tennessee coach Johnny Majors said of Notre Dame. "This is the kind of team that can blow you out, I don't care who you are."

Tennessee (5-1-2) has an outside shot at the Southeastern Conference championship and its accompanying Sugar Bowl berth.

"The national championship will come if it's there," Washington cornerback Dana Hall said when asked where he thought the Huskies (8-1) might be in next week's poll.

Washington has clinched the Pac-10 Conference title and a Rose Bowl berth last week. But Hall, who intercepted a pass and blocked a punt last week in a 54-10 victory over Arizona, doesn't think the Huskies will have a letdown against UCLA (4-5).

"Everyone was really excited last Saturday," he said. "But we're relaxed now and we're going to play more relaxed without the pressure of the Rose Bowl and the Pac-10 championship."

Mindful of NCAA sanctions, Houston coach John Jenkins says the Cougars (8-0) have their own agenda.

"We said, 'Let's administer the death penalty every Saturday we play,'" Jenkins said.

Houston views its game against Texas (6-1 overall and 4-0 in the Southwest Conference with the inside track to the Cotton Bowl) as its chance to show a national audience why it should be ranked first.

Advised that Jenkins had stated that Houston's run-and-shoot offense can't be stopped unless it stops itself, Texas coach David McWilliams said, "I think he's got a pretty strong case."

And if the shoot is stopped, there's always the run. Texas knows all about Houston's Chuck Weatherspoon, who has run for 379 yards in the last two games against the Longhorns.

Ware to get first start

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Andre Ware hasn't done much running or shooting this season. He's done plenty of sitting and watching.

On Sunday, when the Detroit Lions play the Minnesota Vikings, Ware will be where first-round draftees are expected to be - in the starting lineup.

The 1989 Heisman Trophy winner from Houston and the seventh choice overall gets his first start because Rodney Peete has a pulled hamstring.

But it wasn't necessarily coach Wayne Fontes' decision to elevate Ware ahead of veteran Bob Gagliano.

Following a 41-38 overtime loss to Washington last week, when the Lions blew a 35-14 lead and did nothing offensively once Peete was injured, team owner William Clay Ford met with Fontes. Ford apparently made it clear he wanted Ware to strut his wares.

"The young man has worked extremely hard for this opportunity," Fontes said. "He's been very, very patient and he's going to get his chance. If he happens to stumble, and does not have any success, he understands that Bob Gagliano will be put into the game."

Detroit is 3-5, but the run-and-shoot is not as much to blame as a defense that has yielded 220 points, ahead of only five teams. That has negated a 206-point output that ranks behind only Atlanta, Cincinnati and Buffalo.

Ware has seen action only in a mop-up role in a loss to the Chiefs. He threw an 8-yard touchdown pass to James Wilder. Ware wasn't even active in the loss to the Redskins, which apparently irked Ford.

"At times it got really frustrating," Ware said. "Last week was the worst. But, over time, you learn to roll with the punches. I basically learned to handle it. When I came to grips with it, everything fell into place."

Now, he is being asked to make everything fall into place against Minnesota, which snapped a five-game slide with a 27-22 victory over Denver last Sunday.

The Vikings won't be making any changes at quarterback, although it had been discussed before they beat the Broncos. Rich Gannon, who took over when Wade Wilson injured his thumb in September, got his first victory in that game.

"Burnsie told me last week that if things don't go well, he'd have to make a change," Gannon said of coach Jerry Burns. "I said, 'That's fine. You do what you have to do and I'll do what I have to do.'"

He'll have to outdo the hotshot rookie this week.

In other games featuring quarterback changes, Tampa Bay, with Chris Chandler in for Vinny Testaverde, is at New Orleans, and Washington, featuring Jeff Rutledge ahead of Stan Humphries, has a Monday night meeting at Philadelphia.

Also, it's Atlanta at Chicago; Indianapolis at New England; Miami at the New York Jets; Phoenix at Buffalo; Seattle at Kansas City; Denver at San Diego; Green Bay at the Los Angeles Raiders; the New York Giants at the Los Angeles

Rams; San Francisco at Dallas.

The AFC Central - Cincinnati, Cleveland, Houston, Pittsburgh - has a bye.

Tampa Bay coach Ray Perkins has benched Testaverde, who threw five interceptions in the team's third straight loss, in favor of Chandler. Testaverde has been the No. 1 quarterback since the 12th week of his rookie season in 1987 and has missed only four starts in four years, all because of injuries.

"It's not a good feeling, but that's life," Testaverde said. "You've got to work through it and keep your head up."

Chandler did fill in for Testaverde in a loss at San Diego when the incumbent was hurt.

Houston hoping to humiliate 'Horns again in SWC matchup

DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

The Texas Longhorns face their 60 minutes of truth on Saturday.

Humiliated for three consecutive seasons by the Houston Cougars, the Longhorns take them on in a nationally televised game that could put a burnt orange hue on the Cotton Bowl where Texas hasn't played since 1983.

The Cougars have won the last three games by a composite score of 173-64.

Third-ranked Houston, which isn't eligible for the Cotton Bowl because of NCAA infractions during the Bill Yeoman era, was a field goal favorite over the 'Horns in the 6:37 p.m. game in Memorial Stadium that will be televised by ESPN.

Texas is the only Southwest Conference team eligible for the title without a league loss.

In other games, Baylor tries to stay in the title chase when its hosts hapless Arkansas on homecoming in a 12:07 p.m. (Raycom TV) matchup, Texas Christian entertains Texas Tech at home, and Rice stays in Houston to host Southern Methodist.

Odds makers installed Baylor as a 12-point pick, TCU a 7-point choice, and Rice a 21-point favorite. Texas A&M, the only other conference team with less than two league losses, is idle.

Sophomore Steve Needham was expected to start at quarterback for Baylor after J.J. Joe went down Wednesday with a broken right thumb. He's the fourth starting Southwest Conference quarterback to be sidelined with a broken hand.

Joe, who took over as Baylor's starting quarterback against Texas

Tech last month, broke his right thumb during routine passing drills when he hit another player's facemask. He was expected to be in a cast for six weeks and the Bears have three games remaining.

Joe, a redshirt freshman from Arlington Lamar, took over in the second quarter of the Texas Tech game after Brad Goebel suffered a broken hand.

TCU's Leon Clay was sidelined in the Baylor game two weeks ago and Tech's Jamie Gill went down against Texas last week.

Needham started the first two games of the season when Goebel was out with a knee injury. He has not played since the 52-17 win over SMU on Oct. 13. Besides Goebel and Joe, Baylor also lost Nebraska transfer Marvin Callies after he suffered a broken hand during two-a-day practice.

Texas has lost only to Colorado and has perhaps its most complete team in the David McWilliams era.

"The past three scores against Houston aren't the motivation," McWilliams said. "Our prime concerns are that Houston is the No. 3 in the country and we're in the running for the Cotton Bowl. When you lose, it doesn't matter what the margins are or were. We've lost some close games to Texas Tech and the Houston losses weren't any worse because of the scores."

Although Houston can't go to a bowl a lot is at stake for the Cougars, a possible national title and coach John Jenkins' chance to make history. Should Houston win it would make him the first rookie coach to go through an SWC schedule unscathed.

"This game will be a great opportunity with the national television audience for us to show everyone that we might be capable of being number one," Jenkins said. "Every week we tell our players we are eligible for a whipping as well as being able to administer a whipping. Our team has no self pity about the NCAA probation. There has been no probation attitude. Every week is a bowl game for us."

Texas' last win over Houston was 30-10 in 1986 in Memorial Stadium.

"We can't get into a throwing contest with Houston," McWilliams said. "You can never have too many points against Houston."

The 'Horns will have to stop the nation's total offense leader, quarterback David Klingler, who has thrown seven touchdown passes in each of the last two games.

"Klingler seems to throw the deep ball better than Andre Ware," McWilliams said. "I've been impressed how many times Houston has come back to win games behind Klingler."

Baylor is 1-1-1 and still has Texas on its schedule.

Arkansas has lost five consecutive SWC games for the first time since 1945. Rookie head coach Jack Crowe has yet to record his first league win for the Razorbacks, who said they decided to leave the SWC for the stiffer competition of the Southeastern Conference.

Baylor coach Grant Teaff said "in all honesty we're going out and expecting the toughest most physical game all year. All you have to do is look back when Arkansas held us to two first downs in the second half of last year's game."

Thanksgiving supper held Monday by Ladies Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post #4818 met in regular session Monday evening for their Thanksgiving supper of turkey and dressing. Special guests were L.V. and Jean Watts.

Following the meal, L.V. Watts presented an informative program on the paramedics. He explained the 911 system that will be going into effect in Hereford. VFW members present were Tony Irlbeck, Tom Goheen, Bob Morris and Jim Loving.

During the business session, President Betty Boggs told the members about the coloring books and teachers kits that were presented recently to local schools. Some of the coloring books and kits depicted a patriotic theme while other coloring books concerned safety for children.

Plans were made for the group's "Buddy" poppy sale which is being held in town today for local residents. The event will be held Saturday at the VFW Post Home.

Martha Bridges was elected as a three-year trustee and was installed by Erma Loving.

Plans were made for the District 13 Convention to be held Nov. 17-18 in Dimmitt.

The auxiliary's annual chili supper and auction sale is set for Dec. 7. The king-size quilt, which will be the door prize at the event, was on display at the meeting. Auxiliary members are selling chili supper tickets for $1 per person.

Those present at the meeting were Betty Boggs, Martha Bridges, Darleen Carroll, Anna Conklin, Mildred Deyke, Maisie Heath, Dora Lea Howell, Jo Irlbeck, Erma Loving, Ruth Morris, Erma Murphey, Terrye Rhyne, Ruth Stethem, Doris Wilson, both Maxwell and Marie Goheen.

The next regular meeting will be Dec. 3.

MICROWAVES USED IN RECYCLING

NEW YORK (AP) - The general rule is not to put metal in a microwave, but the recycling industry could be an exception.

A new recycling system that "bombs" substances with microwaves, reducing them to their basic chemical elements by breaking molecular bonds has been developed, notes a newspaper that keeps tabs on the worldwide metals industry.

According to American Metal Market, microwaves which are introduced to a substance at a certain frequency and retention time interfere with the gravitational pull of an atom's electron.

Once its gravitational pull has been altered sufficiently, the atom's polarity is reversed and the bonds that join the atom to other atoms break. Materials are then reduced to their pure forms and separated.

So far the system has been used for metal recovery, waste reduction, scrap tire processing, metal finishing and scrap plastics recovery.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been going with the same man for over a year and we get along very well. Recently, "Roger" took a nap (Sunday afternoon) and I decided to look through his wallet just for the fun of it. To my great surprise, I found a woman's business card with a notation on the back saying when and where he had met her.

Of course I know it was wrong to snoop and now I am paying the price. I haven't had one good night's sleep since I did that awful deed. I keep wondering who this woman is and what kind of a relationship he has with her. It could be something big or it could be nothing at all.

I can't tell Roger that I went through his wallet. He would never trust me again. But I am dying to know what is going on -- if anything. What should I do, Ann? Should I contact this woman and ask her point blank? Or should I just come right out and ask Roger if he is seeing someone?

Christmas party set Dec. 2

The Panhandle Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society will hold its annual Christmas party Dec. 2 at the Washington Avenue Christian Church in Amarillo.

All those registered with the chapter and their families are invited to attend. There will be entertainment provided and refreshments served. There is no charge.

To make reservations, call Jim McKee at 806-359-6710 on weekends or Fredricka Gens at 806-372-4429 during the day.

I am going crazy. Please advise me. -- Depressed and Sleepless in Winnipeg

DEAR WINN: Under no circumstance should you contact the woman. That would be the dumbest move you could make. And don't ask Roger about the card, either. That would be the second dumbest move. Just forget you saw the card and carry on as before. If there is something going on, you will know it eventually. Meanwhile, I hope you have learned your lesson, toots.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please repeat the column you wrote a while back about the person who poked down the trash in a public rest room only to be "stabbed" by someone's hypodermic needle.

Today I stopped in the rest room at a restaurant and saw a woman doing that very thing. I screamed, "Don't do that!" She looked at me like I was crazy. I apologized and explained why she should never do that. She was very grateful and a little shaken.

Your repeated advice could prevent many more people from getting AIDS.--A.M., Torrance, Calif.

DEAR TORRANCE: I'm sure you're right. Thanks for asking. Here it is:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The following is a true story. My friend and I went into the men's room of a major hotel. Neither of us were guests, but we had to use the facilities.

Upon finishing, we washed our hands. My friend and I used paper towels and disposed of them in a bin that had a self-closing cover.

I put my wet paper towel in the bin. My friend did the same. It was full so he stuck his hand in to push the towels down. Suddenly he yelled, "ouch." When he pulled his hand out he saw a little blood and a small puncture wound. After sifting through the bin he found a syringe. We concluded that it was put there by a diabetic or a drug user.

Now my friend must go for a blood test and worry about whether or not he has come in contact with the HIV/AIDS virus.

I write this letter to remind your readers that the most commonplace activity can be dangerous these days. Don't poke your hands into public garbage bins. This simple act could threaten your life. And if you are a person who must use a syringe, please, please be considerate and dispose of it responsibly.-- Montreal

Gem of the Day: Never argue with a fool. Listeners can't tell which is which.

What's the truth about pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, crack, speed and downers? "The Lowdown on Dope" has up-to-the-minute information on drugs. Save energy when drying clothes

There's a new story almost every day--the environment in peril, another blow to the health of our small watery planet. You might ask "What can I do." Actually, quite a lot, and right in your house too. A key place to start is the kitchen and laundry room.

The following tips from product development experts who make KitchenAid appliances can help you save energy, help the environment and save money too.

To get the most efficient operation from your automatic dryer, KitchenAid appliances can help you save energy, help the environment and save money too.

To get the most efficient operation from your automatic dryer, KitchenAid experts recommend the following easy tips:

*Dry separate loads one right after the other. You'll use less energy to heat up the dryer, and an already warm dryer helps cut down drying time.

*Dry full loads, but don't over load. Clothes that can tumble freely will dry faster and with fewer wrinkles.

*Sort clothing into loads of light or heavy fabrics for the most efficient and fastest drying.

*Use your automatic drying cycle if your dryer has one. This cycle shuts the machine off when it senses that the clothing is dry--you avoid overdrying, which can damage clothes, and you save energy.

Be a bookworm

Reading is usually one of those things you either like or dislike. However, many people tend to dislike reading for the wrong reasons.

A popular reason is that when you read you are sitting still for an extended period of time. Young people have a hard time doing this.

However, many young people will agree that when they do choose a book they enjoy, it is much easier to read for longer amounts of time. What's more, once you start reading something you enjoy, you soon realize you can't get yourself to put the book down.

Museum hosts treasurers

A western-style government building, a remnant of the 35-year colonial period, has been renovated to house Korea's National Museum and its treasures on the grounds of Kyongbokkung Palace in Seoul.

Then: The domed, five-story building was constructed from 1915 to 1926 as the colonial capitol. "It is appropriate to highlight Korea's ancient culture and history in a building which symbolizes Korea's modern history," Duk-Soo Hur, director of Korea National Tourism Corporation in Los Angeles, said.

Now: Today, the building is the National Museum. Its 365,976 square feet can exhibit 7,500 items in 23 exhibition rooms. Displays are rotated since the museum has 120,000 art and historic objects in its collection.

Displays are organized by topic and country, and there is a rich comparison of Asian cultures. The second floor is devoted to archeology, and the third floor focuses on ceramics.

Entrance fees are reasonable: about 25 cents for general admission and about ten cents for senior citizens.

Philodendrons come in hundreds of varieties that look like totally different kinds of plants.

Environmental studies bring new expenses

School children are back to studying the three R's. Today, however, those R's are often recycle, reduce and reuse.

As schools begin to teach ecology and earth science as regular subjects, educators are struggling with the costs of special materials to carry out these lessons.

"Despite heightened environmental consciousness in the United States, few national dollars are appropriated for environmental education," says John F. Disinger, professor, School of Natural Resources at Ohio State University and associate director of ERIC/SMEAC, the nation's leading clearinghouse for environmental education information.

"One might expect concern about environmental issues to lead to increased environmental education in our schools," says Disinger. "However, because of time, budget and other constraints, many schools place priority on other subjects and teach conservation and environment only when they can be easily combined with other subject matter."

In 1849, Elizabeth Blackwell was the first American woman to become a doctor.

The problem is not that states don't recognize the need for environmental education, but that they simply can't afford to treat it as a separate subject. In a recent survey conducted by Disinger of state education agencies in the U.S. 97 percent of schools in the 40 states responding said teachers routinely infused environmental topics with traditional curricula. Only 12.5 percent of schools said they were able to teach environmental education as a separate subject, and only Illinois required that it be taught separately.

Many schools are turning to corporate-sponsored educational programs to help teach a variety of subjects. While these programs are typically focused on reading, writing and arithmetic lessons, some programs are beginning to offer ecology, conservation, and related alternative disciplines.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: For my sake and for other women who might be similarly confused, please discuss my problem in your column. Eleven years ago I was diagnosed as having trichomonas vaginitis. My husband and I were both treated with Flagyl. The doctor did not say this was a sexually transmitted infection but said many women had this because of the proximity of the anus to the vaginal opening.

Two years ago I had trichomoniasis again and we were both treated. I continued to have flare-ups of different kinds of vaginal infections for about six months and each time both my husband and I were treated. After the third trip to my doctor, he questioned me closely about my sexual partners. My only sexual partner since marriage has been my husband. I told him that if I had caught anything it had to come from him. I looked up the disease in the dictionary and it was listed as a sexually transmitted disease.

Is trichomoniasis contracted exclusively through sexual transmission? If not, in what other ways may you contract it? Can this infection lie dormant in either the male or female partner through years of unprotected sex and then suddenly reappear? I would have taken different steps years ago had I known that I was contracting sexually transmitted diseases from my husband.

DEAR READER: Before you come to some unwarranted conclusions you do need some facts. Trichomoniasis is transmitted sexually, but that is not the only way it can be spread. It is a parasite and it can be spread by infected towels and water. It can live in the digestive tract and the urinary tract.

Yes, it can be present for years and not cause any symptoms and that applies to both males and females. Men frequently have no symptoms of trichomoniasis. But approximately 15 percent of all men are infected with it. About one in every five women harbor the parasite. When it does cause symptoms in women, it is causes a frothy, green, foul-smelling discharge and itch.

The treatment is Flagyl, the same medication used to treat an amoeba infection. It will eliminate the symptoms in about 90 percent of women who have symptoms. But that doesn't mean all the parasites have been eliminated. About a fourth of women who are cured of symptoms do have recurrences. That is usually because the parasites are still harbored in the colon or the bladder or both. It is often particularly difficult to totally eliminate the parasite when the colon or bladder is involved. The presence of the parasite in these areas may not cause any symptoms.

I know many women do become upset about having trichomoniasis and believe their husbands have been unfaithful to them. But in fact they may have had the parasite before marriage, or their husband may have had the infection before the marriage. Recurrences do not necessarily mean new indiscretions, but rather treatment failures.

You should read about this and the other vaginal infections in Special Report 103, Vaginal Discharge, Itch and Odor. I would have sent you a free copy if you had included your address. Others who want this report can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/103, P.O. Box 787, Gibbstown, NJ 08027-9908. I hope this report will help save a few marriages by dispelling some inadequate or wrong information that seems to be rather widespread.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have been diagnosed as having Addison's disease. I have been on 20 mg of prednisone for four months, but it doesn't seem to be enough in itself, among other problems, I seem to have more and more muscular deficiency. Is there anything you might tell me that would help improve my situation?

DEAR READER: Individuals who have chronic adrenal insufficiency have a large number of symptoms, most of which resemble a chronic debilitating disease. Weight loss is common and your continued and apparently progressive "muscular deficiency" may suggest that you do not have adequate hormone replacement.

The adrenal gland is the small gland that rests over each kidney. Its outer shell, the cortex, produces important hormones that enable the body to withstand stress. Without its action the body could be overwhelmed with an infectious disease. Loss of salt and water is common, along with diarrhea and digestive complaints. In one form of adrenal insufficiency, the skin becomes bronzed from increased pigmentation.

The adrenal cortex is stimulated by a hormone from the pituitary gland under the brain. This hormone, adrenocorticotropic hormone (ACTH) was one of the first hormones used in steroid therapy about 40 years ago. If the pituitary fails to produce this hormone, chronic adrenal insufficiency occurs. These patients can be treated with prednisone. But if the adrenal cortex itself is diseased, which is more common, then you need steroid hormones that also help to control salt and water as well.

You need to know that Addison's disease is a lifelong problem that will require continued and careful management. I'm sending you Special Issue 34-04, Your Vital Adrenal Steroids (Corticosteroids), for information you really need. Others who want this issue can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/34-04, P.O. Box 787, Gibbstown, NJ 08027-9908.

DEAR DR. LAMB: About three weeks ago I had a sore throat. My doctor gave me some medicine for congestion, but I still had the sore throat. My sister-in-law asked me if my throat was red. I looked at it with a flashlight and it was red. My doctor finally gave me some antibiotics, but it still took a long time to get rid of it.

Finally I discovered that I had a strep throat. Then I learned it causes heart trouble and other diseases if neglected. Can you tell me what diseases a strep throat can cause if neglected? Can one get it from another person? Does it develop from an allergy?

DEAR READER: I wonder how you know for certain that you had a strep throat. A viral infection can often mimic it, and a throat culture is necessary to make the diagnosis. A strep throat is caused by the strep bacteria and is not an allergy. It is spread from one person to another and can occur in epidemics. It should be treated for 10 days to avoid the late complications that can occur. It is best to start treatment early but a delay of even several days before treatment is started usually is not harmful.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

JERUSALEM: ANCIENT FORTRESS WHICH STOOD UNCONQUERED IN THE HEART OF ISRAEL SINCE THE DAYS OF JOSHUA, WAS FINALLY TAKEN 500 YEARS LATER BY THE NEWLY ANOINTED KING DAVID (CIRCA 1000 B.C.)....

...THE JEBUSITES, WHO LIVED IN THIS STRONGHOLD HIGH ON MT. ZION, WERE SO CONFIDENT THEIR FORTRESS COULD NOT BE SUCCESSFULLY ASSAULTED THAT THEY INSULTED DAVID'S ARMY BY ONLY MANNING THE WALLS AND BATTLEMENTS WITH MEN WHO WERE BLIND AND PITIFULLY LAME!

BUT DAVID'S MEN FOUND A TUNNEL, LEADING FROM AN OUTSIDE WATER-SUPPLY SPRING, DIRECTLY INTO THE MIDDLE OF THE CITY! IN THE DARK OF NIGHT, DAVID LED HIS TROOPS THROUGH THE TUNNEL, TOOK THE JEBUSITES UNAWARES, AND CAPTURED THE FORTRESS WHICH WAS TO BECOME HIS CAPITAL—THE 'CITY OF DAVID'! AND SINCE THAT DAY, JERUSALEM HAS BEEN CONTINUALLY FOUGHT OVER—RIGHT UP INTO MODERN TIMES!

NEXT WEEK: CAN A MAN BE CALLED WISE WHO HAS A THOUSAND WIVES?!!
