Challenger explodes after launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) -Space shuttle Challenger exploded as it carried schoolteacher Christa McAuliffe and six crew members into space today.

There was no indication of the fate of the crew but it appeared there was no way they could survive.

It was the first such failure in 56 such U.S. man-in-space missions.

The shuttle rose spectacularly off the launch pad at 11:38 a.m. EST and was climbing smoothly trailing a 700-geyser of fire when suddenly it erupted in a huge fireball and shot out of control.

A voice at Mission Control said, "We are checking with recovery forces to see what can be done at this point. ... Contingency procedures are

There were seven crew members aboard, including Mrs. McAuliffe, a 37-year-old New Hampshire teacher selected as America's first citizen in Mission Control said debris from the shuttle impacted several miles out in the Atlantic and that recovery forces were speeding in that direction.

The other crew members were commander Francis R. Scobee, 46, pilot Michael J. Smith, 40; Judith Resnik, 36; Ronald E. McNair, 35; Ellison S. Onizuka, 39; and Gregory B. Jarvis, 41.

Mission Control said parts of the spacecraft fell at 28.64 north latitude

County may invest in automatic tabulators

By SHAWN COCKRUM Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County Clerk David Ruland just may have come up with a way for the county to avoid the pains of having to redistrict for county elections, and thus save the county

During Monday's regular meeting of the county commission, Ruland proposed that the county invest in an automatic tabulating system for all county elections. Under Ruland's plan, the county would purchase automatic tabulators to count the votes. The tabulators would take the place of people hand counting the votes as they do now. The automatic tabulators would also solve the problems the county is facing with

Under current state standards, no ballot box can serve over 2,500 more than the limited amount of voters. If the county goes to the automatic system, the state will allow 5,000 voters to vote at each polling place. This will save the county from having to realign the voting lines and also save money that is usually spent on manpower.

The commission elected to allow Ruland to schedule public hearings

Drug suspect surrenders to officials

One more suspect was arrested Monday in addition to those arrested in last Friday's county-wide drug bust.

Jose Ceneros Montez of 825 Knight turned himself in on charges of delivery of a substance, cocaine. His bond is set at $20,000.

Of the 63 suspects in Deaf Smith County Jail, only 16 have bonded out.

Those that have bonded out are two juveniles, Dallas Jay Kirkeby, Hope Villareal, Tammy Johnson, Manuel Garcia, Kevin Patton, Raymond Flores, Pedro Holguin, Juan Jose Casarez, Juan M. Casarez, Reynaldo Sustaita, Juan Antonio Palacios, David Ortiz, Robert Abalos, and Richard Gonzalez.

According to Jim Hudgens, criminal investigator, most bonds were set at $10,000.

County Commissioner Austin Rose said, "I would like to see use take a shot at this plan, we can start having public hearings to see if it makes the public happy.'

Ruland estimated that the automatic tabulating system will save the county an estimated $1,200 per election.

The cost of the tabulators will be arund $2,500 each, but Ruland feels that they will eventually pay for

Dick Hagar and his great-grandson Jerad Johnson display Hagar's current project - a hand-made covered wagon. Hagar plans to use the wagon in the Texas Sesquicentennial Wagon Train which will pass through Hereford May 15. After a futile search for a wagon good enough, Hagar decided to build his own. He started with a running gear he purchased five years ago and has found the other parts at miscellaneous farm and estate sales.

Hagar plans to build an authentic wagon for train

By JERI CURTIS

Managing Editor DAWN-Dick Hagar didn't have an authentic wagon for the Texas Sesquicentennial Wagon Train and couldn't find one good enough to buy.

So, he decided to build one. It's what one would expect from a guy who stops traffic on U.S. 60 by plowing his field with a mule team.

He's not building the wagon from scratch, exactly, but he's having to scratch to get all the parts. Although his wagon shopping took him all the way to Alberta, Canada, it was from his own collection of antique farm and livery equipment that he began construction with a complete running gear he bought five years ago in Quitaque. He's a regular snoop at farm and estate sales and finds old stuff that most of us wouldn't know what to call, much less how to use.

"You won't know those wheels when I get through with them," Hagar swears. The weathered wood will be refurbished on the skinny "butcher type" wheels which are less than two inches wide.

The iron parts on the running gear and all over the wagon will be painted black. The wooden portions of the running gear will be red, with the sides of the wagon painted green.

Hagar has built a tongue-in-groove bed for the wagon. Sideboards on the original wagons were built from boards 14 inches wide, but these days the widest boards are 12 inches wide.

Boards aren't the only thing they don't make like they used to. Hagar said it has been tough to find obscure things like the square-headed nuts.

Friends, however, are on the lookout for the hard to find pieces.

J.B. Blankenship at McCaslin-Lumber, Hagar says, has been his "right hand man" at rounding up the

Undercover drug agent sees raw side of life

Raul Sanchez has a reputation throughout the country. He's known as a hard man that can make really good busts. Sanchez is an undercover agent who has made over 600 drugrelated arrests.

In April, Sanchez was contacted by Sheriff Joe Brown when he realize the drug problem in Deaf Smith County. Brown told Sanchez they had the money to start an undercover in-vestigation.

"This was the first time I've ever een the city, the county, and the district attorney's office come together and try to solve a problem."

He mentioned that in his business the officials either wanted him to work for the city and not consult the county or vice versa.

Sanchez explained that as undercover cop, one does not participate in use of the drugs being sold. There are ways to check an undercover cop but most take their business seriously and wouldn't dream of doing the drugs themselves. Investigators have ways of using

Oil import tax would add revenue

HOUSTON (AP) - A $10-per-barrel oil import tax would produce badly needed revenue and prevent the country from once again becoming dependent upon foreign oil, U.S. Sen. Gary Hart says.

"A $10-per-barrel fee in imported oil would be a powerful weap against that crisis of vulnerability and dependency," Hart said. "It would do more to answer the challenge of energy security than any other measure available to us in the near term."

The Colorado Democrat, speaking Monday evening before a group attending the Cambridge Energy Research Associates conference, said the tax on oil also would lift a depression that is settling within the U.S. drilling industry.

He said reliance on foreign supplies has increased dangerously because of the lack of an energy policy the past several years.

"As a result, since 1981, we have again used more oil each year than we discovered at home. We had 4,100 drilling rigs four years ago, and we have only 1,800 now. We are already back to relying on imports for 30 percent of the oil we need every day."

Judge stalls pipeline case

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Railroad Commission must set new water pollution rules before considering a proposal to build an oil pipeline across the Edwards Aquifer, a state judge has ruled.

Opponents of All American Pipeline's proposal called the Monday ruling a victory.

"It's a victory in that everyone will now know what the rules of the game are before we start the game," said Austin lawyer Roy Rutland, who represents Concerned Citizens to Protect the Edwards

District Judge Joe Dibrell of Austin said in a Monday opinion the Railroad Commission is "without lawful authority" to review All American's application until the commission complies with a 1985 legislative mandate to set new water pollution rules.

All American, a Goodyear subsidiary, wants to build a 30-inch heated pipeline to carry Alaskan crude from California to Houstonarea refineries. Concerned Citizens to Protect the Edwards Aquifer claims the pipeline could be an environmental threat to the aquifer, a major underground source of water for Central Texas.

Army demonstrates tank-like vehicle

FORT HOOD, Texas (AP) - Desiring to convince the public and Congress of the need for the Bradley armored personnel carrier, the Army staged a firepower demonstration for members of the media.

Each of the aluminum-sided Bradley vehicles, which look like tanks and run on treads at speeds up to 45 mph, has a price tag of about $1.5 million. The Army began acquiring them in 1981 and now

But the plan has drawn flak from critics who claim the vehicles, designed to carry troops to the combat front, are too vulnerable for the modern battlefield.

Army officials on Monday used a company of Bradleys and M-1 Abrams tanks to stage a mock battle for cameras and reporters and demonstrate the Bradley's offensive and defensive capabilities. such as outmaneuvering and overpowering enemy vehicles.

The Bradley runs on tank treads at speeds up to 45 mph and is armed with a 25mm cannon, machine guns and antitank missiles. It performed smoothly on "Picture Day" at Fort Hood, an event some troops dubbed "Operation S.O.B. - Save Our Bradley."

Money for urban areas withheld

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal housing officials are notifying cities and towns that the Reagan administration has decided not to spend $200 million in urban development grants Congress had approved for 1986.

Edwin Dale, spokesman for the White House Office of Management and Budget, said Monday that such cuts are "part of a whole package of deferrals and recisions that will go to Congress with the budget" next Tuesday.

In letters sent Monday, Alfred C. Moran, the Department of Housing and Urban Development's assistant secretary for community planning and development, told local HUD officials, "your staff should immediately return any new proposals received during January for the March 1986 small-cities round" of grants.

Moran said the order was given in response to directions from OMB deferring the spending of money already appropriated by Con-

Unless overturned by Congress, the deferrals can stop the awarding of the popular Urban Development Action Grants until the end of the fiscal year on Sept. 30. If the administration wanted to stop the spending beyond then it would have to ask Congress to not appropriate any money for the program and cancel its previous appropriations.

Ann Landers

Don't leave children alone in car

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read an article in the newspaper that upset me terribly. A mother left her three children, ages 4, 2, and 2 months, alone in the car on the side of the highway when she ran out of gas. The woman walked to a gas station almost a mile down the road. When she returned she became hysterical when she discovered that her children were gone.

This story had a happy ending because, luckily, a friend happened to recognize the car. She stopped and took the children home with her.

I shudder when I think of what might have happened to those kids. Someone could have abducted them. The car could have been struck by a passing truck. The children could have wandered out onto the highway and been killed.

I hope all parents who read this will heed a lesson.-LITTLE ROCK

DEAR ROCK: I am horrified to think that a woman would leave three small children in a car aloneand the baby only 2 months old! The sensible procedure would have been to raise the hood of the car, signaling car trouble, and try to flag down some help. Never, but NEVER should children be left alone in the car, either on the highway or a city street.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I both have worked hard to acquire the things we have. Instead of spending money in restaurants and cocktail lounges we enjoy relaxing at home.

We have quite a lot invested in stereo equipment, video, TV, etc. People think we are affluent, but such is not the case. We've simply decided to put what we have into radios, TV and a stereo system that consists of two tape decks, two receivers, two equalizers, two turntables and so on.

Since we own so much equipment, friends and acquaintances often ask to borrow something or another. To date, we have out on loan a vacuum cleaner, a TV, a radio and seven video tapes. We have telephoned the folks who have these items and asked that they be returned. So far, no

POLLY'S Hot cocoa warms POINTERS cold winter days

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY - I love the flavor of old-fashioned cocoa, rather than the instant cocoa mixes. But it's so hard to get the cocoa powder to mix smoothly with the milk. Is there an easy way to make real cocoa? — SHERYL serve, spoon four tablespoons of the cocoa mix into a cup, fill with boiling water or hot milk, and stir until make real cocoa? - SHERYL

DEAR SHERYL - Ah, chocolate!

One of my favorite things. You can make hot cocoa with regular cocoa powder as quickly and easily as with an instant mix if you use this simple technique. Just mix the cocoa and sugar together in a cup (I use two teaspoons sugar and one teaspoon co-coa), then add just a tiny bit of milk or water - enough to mix the cocoa and sugar into a paste or very thick syrup. Then add hot milk and stir to mix. The cocoa paste will blend readily with the you can mix in cold milk, then heat the entire drink in the microwave until

I find this makes a delicious hot cocoa that does not separate as quickly as the instant mixes. It's guaranteed to warm up the coldest winter

You can also make your own instant mix. Combine two cups non-fat dry milk powder, 1/2 cup cocoa powder and 1/2 cup sugar. Store this mixture in an airtight container. When ready to Another easy way to serve old-fashoned cocoa is to make cocoa syrup to mix with hot or cold milk. This can be used in the same way as the chocolateflavored syrups used to make chocolate milk, only your own syrup will contain no artificial flavors or ingredients. Mix one cup sugar, 1/2 cup cocoa powder and one cup water in a saucepan. Bring slowly to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Let the mixture boil gently for five mincocoa paste will blend readily with the utes, stirring constantly, until the sug-milk. If you have a microwave oven, ar is completely dissolved. Cool and refrigerate in a covered container. To make chocolate milk, stir a spoonful or two (to taste) in a glass of cold milk or a mug of hot milk. Delicious!

> I hope this calms the cravings of all those chocoholics out there. Don't forget that a cup of cocoa is lower in fat than many other chocolate treats, so it's a great choice when you've just got to have something chocolate. Yummy, too! — POLLY predictable Brad Busby would find the prognosis unacceptable.

Pessimistic doctors at Houston's M.D. Anderson Hospital agreed the best way to treat the malignant tumor - the one located in the cranial area beneath the brain, the one that was inoperable and destined to grow - was with large doses of radiation. They offered him some time but no hope.

That was in 1980 when Brad was known as a gifted 26-year-old guitarist and lead singer. He had formed such rock bands as "Floodtide." "Magnum," "Nebuchadnezzar," and later he was lead singer in a New York area band called "Vision."

Today, in spite of being listed as a terminal cancer patient, he is a superbly-conditioned, creative, radio-electronics communications man. The guy who designed the sound system at the Abilene Civic Center, not to mention some recording studios, and maybe even your own stereo. He does work for Bunkley Sound System as well.

Busby earned a degree from Chicago's DeVry Institute in radioelectronics communications by taking a correspondence course. It was a typical route for this largely selfeducated, pleasant, but natural-born non-conformist.

Not surprisingly, then, he rejected the radiation treatments the doctors suggested that day, instead embarking on his own controversial fight for

To him, M.D. Anderson was cold and impersonal. A place where seriously ill people go to have their bodies destroyed by radiation and chemotherapy. A place where people are robbed of their dignity in their final days. There are plenty of examples that show otherwise, but to Busby such treatments are "cut and burn" barbarism.

"I can't believe they still use that stuff," he says. Some doctors find it just as unbelievable that nutritional therapy can actually have an effect on a malignant tumor.

His own physician, Dr. Austin King, is supportive of Busby's efforts, but not because he believes in the therapy.

'It's been my experience that people with good, tough mental outlooks

ABILENE, Texas (AP) - It was have a better quality of life, and in terms of length too," he said, adding that he does believe a positive outlook can have an effect on the body's immune system.

> But King remains unconvinced about Busby's choice of treatment.

"I'm sure the therapy has given him hope and made him feel better. As to the progress of the tumor, I'm not sure it has affected that part."

Despite doctors' skepticism, Busby's tumor has not spread appreciably, and unlike most people who experience excruciating pain with such tumors, King notes that Busby has no pain.

When he returned from Houston that day in 1980, the first thing he did was empty his kitchen shelves and fill them with enough vitamins and supplements to make his house smell like a health store. He also began reading every book he could find on nutritional therapy and cancer.

It was Busby's way of launching his own very personal fight to preserve his own very personal life. If he was going to die, he'd die his own way, i.e. with with his dignity in-

"Then again, I may outlive everybody," he says, expressing the optimism he considers essential to his success. "I've met a lot of cancer patients who have been cured by natural means, by changing their

Once a year since 1980 local physicians, either King or W. R. Sibley, have ordered brain scan tests. Each year the same tumor shows up. Same malignancy. Same inoperable location. It just seems to sit there like an uninvited guest.

"According to the doctors I should have been gone by now," he says. "They told me it was a small tumor mass that would develop and get larger, that it would spread much faster and farther than it has. I'm alive and I still have the original tumor. It has remained stable in a totally inaccessible area."

Busby realizes some will criticize him for encouraging others, who might be saved with more orthodox methods, to choose his unproven strategy instead. But Busby is a 31-year-old health crusader, a man who defines life in terms of quality, and who offers himself as testament to that quality.

The black patch which covers his right eye is the only physical evidence of his condition. Because of the tumor the eye had no motility and gradually closed when muscles atrophied.

Otherwise, he presents the image of a man in remarkable physical condition. His heart rate is 60 beats a minute. His overall body fat measures less than 10 percent. That's roughly the same as Roger Staubach carried in the years he was taking the Dallas Cowboys to Super

He works out regularly, bench pressing 250-pounds. That's a lot for someone who is 6-feet-1 and weighs only 150 pounds. Except for his arms which are more muscular, he looks similar to a marathon runner.

Since that day in Houston he has forgone all beef products. No chicken or fish has been consumed, either. Pork, he claims, is unfit for human consumption. Even dairy products have been discarded.

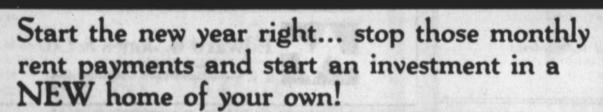

He supports his body's immune system with $250 to $500 a month in vitamins and supplements. His diet consists of vegetables and not much else. The only water he will drink is water that has been distilled.

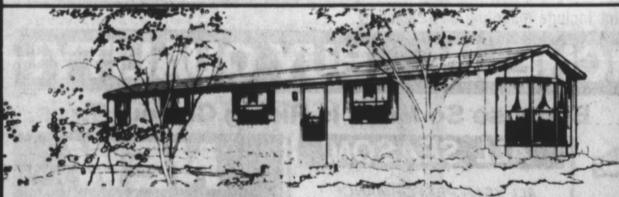

Booze and cigarettes are a distant memory.

The La Plata ninth grade team beat Yucca 52-24, and the Maverick seventh grade boys defeated Yucca 29-22. In the other game Monday, Yucca's eighth graders defeated La Plata 46-38.

Season records for the La Plata teams are: ninth grade 10-4, eighth grade 4-10, and seventh grade 5-8. La Plata has an open date next Monday, and on Feb. 10 will play games against Stanton at the La Plata gym.

Brad Smith scored 14 points in the second half and finished the game with 18 points to help lead La Plata's ninth grade boys to their 52-45 win over Yucca. La Plata led 25-20 at halftime, but Yucca cut the La Plata lead to 39-37 in the third quarter.

Also scoring in double figures for La Plata was Clint Cotten with 10 points-six of them in the first quarter. Kyle Andrews scored eight points and Roger McCracken added seven points for La Plata.

In the eighth grade contest, Yucca held a 22-16 halftime lead in defeating La Plata 46-38. Three La Plata players scored 10 points each-Russell Backus, Tate Smith and Chad Schroeder.

The seventh grade game was tied 22-22 after three quarters of play. But in the fourth quarter, Yucca failed to score as La Plata went on to post a 29-22 victory.

Scorers for La Plata included Toby Decker with 12 points, and Zack Farr, Chris Tardy and Mike Daniels with four points each.

Monday's victory over Caprock ups the Hereford sophomore boys' season record to 9-5. Two games that were scheduled last Saturday with Amarillo schools were cancelled because of a misunderstanding between the schools.

Hereford, according to its schedule, was to play Amarillo High at 10 a.m. Saturday and Tascosa at 21 p.m., both at the HHS gym. But the Amarillo schools had thought the games were to be played in Amarillo.

Hereford's next action is in the Highland Park tournament Thursday through Saturday.

On Thursday, Feb. 6, Hereford plays at home against Plainview at 6 p.m. The HHS sophomores play their home finale on Saturday, Feb. 8 at 10 a.m. against Palo Duro.

The last game of the season is set for Feb. 13 against Highland Park in a road game.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Crude oil's price slide on the world market last week had state government leaders worried about the Texas economy, but Texas Gov. Mark White's re-election campaign felt slippage on another front.

Leaders of the state's second largest teacher group called on their 45,000 members to vote against Mark White after his remarks favoring drug tests of teachers.

White immediately issued a statement saying there was no drug problem among teachers, but the damage had already been done. Teachers worked to elect White in '82, but a number of issues he favored in the Legislature have caused him to lose some support, a crucial amount that pollsters wish they could determine.

Meanwhile, The Quorum Report, a political newsletter, released their poll results which indicated White would beat both Bill Clements (58-42) and Tom Loeffler (52-48) but lose to Kent Hance (45-55) if the election were held in January.

Clements, however, is given a solid name ID lead in the four major media markets which produce most Republican primary voters.

In A Nutshell

The news breaking around the Capitol complex last week covered lots of different ground, but the highlights included:

· A scrutiny of state government's "air force" reported that more than $10 million in tax money supports some 35 state planes and nine helicopters, more than the Honduran Air Force.

One knuckle-rapping report alleged that Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower flew himself and five staffers in his state plane to Amarillo to see the movie "Country," at a cost of about $4,800.

· A Republican switched to the Democratic Party to run for governor, San Antonian contractor Bobby Locke, who twice won a GOP congressional nomination there, planned to start his campaign when he crossed a Houston marathon run finish line.

• Texas Republican Party chairman George Strake sur-prised everyone last week by opining that GOP state Sen. Buster Brown was not eligible to run for attorney general this year. Brown's challenge of that issue is in the Texas Supreme Court.

· The Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan wore his hood at of his write-in candidacy for governor. Later he stood on an Austin highway and waved to passing cars; one reportedly tried to run him down.

 The Capitol's new Goddess of Liberty statue will be forged out of recycled aluminum cans. • A spokesman for the Pan-handle "white oil" operators, Ron Slover of Amarillo, said he has given up his idea of running for governor, but urged producers to ignore a recent Railroad Commission directive on crude oil reporting.

• The U.S. Supreme Court upheld a lower court ruling requiring the governor to seek U.S. Justice Department clearance before setting the date for special elections. The issue reached the courtroom last year in the special election called by Mark White to fill a vacated congressional seat.

· Gov. Mark White refused an invitation by the Texas League of Women Voters to debate his primary opponents. The Republicans say they will all show up at their debate. White's letter said the debate would not be a productive commitment of the governor's time.'

• The Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority directors selected three potential disposal sites on West Texas state land, two in Culberson County and one in Hudspeth County.

Prison Financing

The race to find new ways to finance prison construction snagged last week after legislators disagreed on whether new prisons could constitutionally be built on a lease-purchase plan.

Instead, they asked the prison system to find money in its budget for a proposed maximum security prison.

Two top members, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Sen. Ray Farabee said the lease-purchase probably violates the prohibition against deficit spending.

Cuomo Visits Texas

New York Gov. Mario Cuomo visited San Antonio last week, making the keynote speech at a fundraiser for Congressman Henry B. Gonzalez.

Cuomo was measuring Texas support for an '88 presidential bid, particularly among the Mexican-American Democrat

But look for them to also bring in Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt for a similar tailoring. He will address the MAD state convention at Corpus Christi.

Cold races into South; snow in Northeast

By SCOTT WILLIAMS Associated

A killer freeze threatened Florida citrus groves and Georgia onions today after "one monster of a storm" delivered heavy snow and freezing rain that blacked out more than 100,000 people from the Northeast to the Deep South.

The storm was blamed for at least nine deaths from New York to Alabama on Monday, when the weather forced schools to close in at least 12 states and sent dozens of homeless people to Alabama shelters.

While much of the East shivered, parts of the West - and even New England - basked in record high temperatures. The temperature early today at Lewistown, Mont., was 45 degrees, warmer than the 42 recorded in Miami. The 33-degree reading in Portland, Maine, topped the 30 degrees in Orlando, Fla

The temperature in New York City's Central Park dropped from 33 degrees at 9 p.m. Monday to 15 degrees at 4 a.m. John F. Kennedy International Airport was closed for just over 11/2 hours and some flights were diverted because of poor visibility and high winds, authorities

As subzero wind chills stretched from the Great Lakes to the Gulf Coast, Florida's citrus belt - with two-thirds of the season's grapefruit and orange crops still on the trees braced today for four to eight hours of deadly temperatures below 28 degrees and possible multimilliondollar losses.

"Every degree and every hour is critical," said Doug Bournique, head of the Indian River Citrus League in central Florida, where growers had been hit by killer freezes the past two

"About the only thing we can do now is pump the water (on the citrus) and hope for the best," said Billy Bass, a state extension agent. The water forms an ice coating on the fruit that partially insulates it from the chill.

A low below 30 degrees was possible as far south as Miami, which would be that city's coldest in 45 years, the National Weather Service said. About one-fourth of the state's $350 million tomato crop comes from Elsewhere Monday, record highs were logged in Rapid City, S.D., where a 65-degree reading was two above an 1896 mark; Billings, Mont., 60; Caribou, Maine, 52; Los Angeles, 87; Riverside, Calif., 86; and 82 in Tucson and Yuma, Ariz.

Thirty mph winds made it feel like 35 below zero at Huntsville, Ala., and 10 below at Mobile, on the Gulf Coast.

Snow fell Monday from the upper Ohio Valley across most of the Appalachians to the Georgia coast, with scattered snowflakes and subzero wind chills reported in Jacksonville, Snow and record cold forced officials to close schools on Monday in parts of Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Michigan.

The weekend snowfall total for parts of New York's isolated Adirondack Mountains was nearly 4 feet, the weather service said. Warrensburg, near Lake George, got 44 inches of snow and forecasters said more was on the way.

"This is one monster of a storm." said weather service meteorologist Paul Greaves in Albany, N.Y.

Subzero wind chills were expected overnight in southern and central Florida, but the coldest wind chills in the nation were 40 below zero, common in western Pennsylvania, the weather service said.

Icy roads caused dozens of accidents around Atlanta, including some 20-car pileups, and residents of coastal Savannah were surprised by a half-inch of snow on cars and roofs and temperatures only in the 20s.

For the third straight winter, the cold weather endangered the state's Vidalia onion crop. Onion farmers across south and central Georgia raced to plow their crops, hoping freshly turned dirt would protect the plants.

DEAR DR. GOTT - What is stenosis of the esophagus, and what treat-ments are available?

DEAR READER - Esophageal stenosis means that there is a constriction somewhere along the course of the esophagus, from the throat to the stomach. Stenosis simply means narrowing.

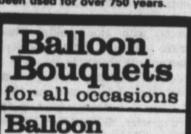

Some forms of stenosis are congenital, which means that babies are born with them. Surgical correction is usually necessary.

In adults, stenosis is more likely to be produced by irritation, such as the chronic burning of gastric acid. In this instance, antacids may help ease the symptoms, but procedures to dilate the narrowed esophagus are usually necessary.

'CBN News Tonight' debuts as vastly different newscast

NEW YORK (AP) - It was an unconventional promotion for an opening-night newscast that was quite different, as promised.

"We appreciate your prayers,"
"CBN News Tonight" anchor Bob Hughes told a woman on the "700 Club" religious program just before the newscast went on the air. "Blessings on you," she replied.

Founded by the Rev. Pat Robertson, a possible Republican candidate for president, cable television's Christian Broadcasting Network joined the nightly news wars Monday night with a live, 30-minute national newscast. It was not evangelical, but its coverage struck an ideological tone that wasn't on the "CBS Even-

The "CBS Evening News" has been labeled liberal-leaning by several conservative groups, including Fairness in Media, the organization that backs Sen. Jesse Helms, R.-N.C.

On Monday night, half the CBN newscast's air time was devoted to one "Focus" story: how the United States is selling technology to the Soviet Union, the threat that poses to national security, and "what can be done about it." The report said the technology could be used to "coordinate a military strike against the U.S. or her allies."

After seven minutes on the subject, which was much longer than any item on the "CBS Evening News" Monday, Hughes conducted a live, five-minute, follow-up interview with Juliana Pilon of the Heritage Foundation, a conservative research organization. She reiterated the dangers of the sales.

The "CBS Evening News" covered more stories, taking a harder, more pointed edge in several of them. Michael Robinson, a media analyst from George Washington University, said in a recent interview that the major network newscasts are "remarkably fair and balanced."

"The agenda for network evening news is not ideological, it's sensational," Robinson said.

Hughes, explaining the CBN approach in his unusual lead-in promotion, said "CBN News Tonight" was not competing per se with the major networks; it was bringing truth, as CBN sees it, to CBN's regular viewers who are partial to Robert-son's "700 Club" and CBN's wholesome family entertainment. CBN is available in 28 million homes, one-third the reach of the major net-

James R. Whelan, executive director of "CBN News Tonight," has said that ABC, CBS and NBC give a liberal slant to the news; CBN would not do that. He said CBN "would strive for a kind of fairness;" if CBN did a special on abortion, it would begin with a statement that abortion is morally wrong.

'We are going to say that we, in our labors, will bring to you a system of values," Whelan said. "That system of values is the word of God as conveyed to us through the scriptures."

A comparison with Dan Rather's "CBS Evening News," which was on three hours earlier, illustrated decidedly different slants on several stories, although none of the day's reported major events appeared to be ideologically divisive issues, such as abortion or school prayer.

The lead stories, which traditional TV journalism assigns as the day's most signficant news, struck immediately strong contrasts. Rather led with the shuttle delay, introducing the report, somewhat cynically, by calling NASA's continuing space problems "high-tech, low-comedy."

CBN placed the shuttle delay near the end of its newscast and was less pessimistic and judgmental, saying Christa McAuliffe, the teachernaut, would have to wait another day for her launch.

Midway through the broadcasts, both mentioned President Reagan's State of the Union address tonight, but that's where the similarity ended. CBS, citing its own poll, found a nation divided between white haves and black have-nots.

CBN noted a reported dispute within the administration over the ideological tone of Reagan's speech. Attributing its information to Newsweek, "CBN News" said Donald Regan, Reagan's chief of staff, opposed the anti-abortion, anti-Soviet rhetoric in the speech. But most of the controversial passsages are expected to stay in, CBN said.

CBN, a much smaller news organization, reported a dozen of the day's top stories, but only three came from its own correspondents. Few of the CBN reports had film

The "CBS Evening News" had 20 stories, half of which were either reported by CBS correspondents or had Rather's narration over news pictures. By broadcasting at 10 p.m. EST, "CBN News Tonight" was able to report on the anti-government demonstration in Haiti, a story not on CBS' 7 p.m. EST newscast. The Associated Press' first report from Haiti was at 7:58.

Both newscasts had customary program-ending kickers. CBS' was the welcome-home parade for the Super Bowl champion Chicago Bears. The city indeed was No. 1, said correspondent Ned Potter, "at least until baseball season." Rather, wearing his trademark V-neck sweater, smiled broadly.

On CBN, Hughes mistakenly introduced Bill Kennedy as the correspondent. Kennedy actually was the subject of the piece, reported by Wallace Reynolds. The story was about how Kennedy, switching from gas heat to coal to save money, had restored a locomotive to transport coal on his property.

Some girls dream of winning a beauty pageant. Others imagine themselves as a model, or perhaps, an actress. But even as they are lost in sighs and longing, most girls never expect their daydreams to come true. They know, deep down, the difference between fantasy and reality. But for Melissa Joy Hinojosa, the line between fantasy and real life can be difficult to distinguish. Melissa Joy has actually lived what so many young girls

Melissa Joy, 12-year-old

When Melissa Joy entered her first pageant she was already accustomed to being formed in dance recitals since the age of 3 and at the time was the mascot for the

"We had never been to a pageant or even thought of entering one, but the cheerleaders wanted her to represent the school," recalled Sandra Hinojosa, Melissa Joy's mother. "So, she entered that and she won, and the followup was to go on the National Pageant. On we went with our little Montgomery Ward dress that I paid $6.99 for. That's what what got Melissa Joy hooked. "After that first pageant, I decided that I wanted to keep on doing it because I really liked it," Melissa Joy said. "I want to keep on doing it for as At that first national

"That is when we learned that there was a pageant circuit and that there are mothers that spend thousands of dollars and do not let their children move or breathe so that they are very mechanical, very perfect," Mrs. Hinojosa said. "I have seen mothers pinching and poking their children in the lineup before they go on

"People get carried away when they see a crown on their little girl's head. They seem to lose all sense of reality," she said. "It's a very silly thing."

Melissa Joy added, "I don't think it's right for a mother to be pushing her daughter. If the little girl wants to win, she should try her best and that should be enough. Her mother shouldn't for her."

In addition to compete in pageants, Melissa Joy acts as reporter-host of a local children's news program, "Border Friends," which airs on KLDO every Friday at 4:30 p.m. As reporter-host, Melissa Joy reports "upcoming events about school, what's happening in the city about children, things that have happened in the past week, and we also give prizes. We have a winner every week."

The "Border Friends' spot came about, Melissa Joy said, when she noticied that people seemed to have only bad things to say about kids. "I was talking to my mom about things and I asked her why someone couldn't report good news about children for a chance," she recalled.

Mother and daughter approached a local television station and sold it.

In spite of her busy schedule, Melissa Joy still manages to excel in the traditional activities and endeavors of youth. She is a straight "A" student and participates in the Gifted and Talented program at Lamar Middle School.

She also is active in the student council, cheerleading and attends dance class five times a week. And like any normal kid, she spends time with her friends, too.

"My friends treat me like any other friend, but they ask a lot of questions sometimes. They're curious. Sometimes they tease me, especially on Fridays, when I come out (on TV). They call me Miss KLDO," she said.

"Most of my friends tell me I'm very lucky because I get to travel a lot and see a lot, but, they don't know that it takes a lot of work," she said.

Even the modeling, which Melissa Joy said she especially enjoys, is tiring and often inconvenient.

'Sometimes she had to be at Joske's at 8 in the morning and couldn't leave the night before," Mrs. Hinojosa said. "So, we would leave at 4 in the morning and she would sleep until we stopped at a roadside station outside of San Antonio. Then we'd take the rollers out of her hair, dress her, and then stop off at a 7-11 store to buy her a doughnut and some milk. When we'd get to the store she would be taken over by the people there and we wouldn't see her for hours."

For all the supposed glamour of her activities, Melissa Joy remains down-toearth and unaffected.

"It hasn't really made me else," she said. "It's made me more aware of things, taught me a lot of things I didn't know...self discipline, hard work, how to relate to others - all the things I'll need when I'm older."

Idaho last state to grapple with licensing

BOISE, Idaho (AP) - As leaders say. the ranks of working mothers swell - and despite some reports of molesting at child care centers - more and more children are being placed in the hands of strangers in Idaho, the last state with no form of statewide day-care regulation.

'We are in danger of becoming a sanctuary for unfit day-care providers," Gov. John Evans says.

Nonetheless, efforts by the governor and others in support of legislation to relieve daho of its dubious distinction have been blocked by people who insist that daycare regulation is a local, not a state, prerogative.

Constituents "don't like being told what to do by the state," said state Rep. JoAn Wood, who vows to oppose any measure that fails to preserve local control.

This winter, a new coalition claiming to represent 22,000 Idahoans has entered the fray, warning lawmakers that another failure to enact statewide day-care licensing will be paid for dearly at the polls this fall.

"It is the will of the people," says Dottie Christensen, head of the Idaho Child Care Coalition. "It's not going to fail. We must address the health and safety of children that working women must leave in other people's care."
The legislative deadlock on the issue has prompted a handful of cities and counties to enact local licensing or-dinances to fill the gap.

A compromise legislative proposal, leaving licensing and regulation to Idaho's seven regional health districts, has a good chance for passage, legislative coalition points to possible dangers to children in unregulated day care.

Less than 2 percent of the estimated 5,000 cases of child abuse recorded in Idaho each year occur in day-care centers, Ms. Truman said. But as an island of no licensing or background checks, "child molesters have had free rein to come to Idaho" and have done so in some
