HISD Bi-lingual program approved

In the wake of an inspection recently the Hereford Independent School District's bi-lingual program has received a clean bill of health according to director Ophelia Echevarria.

A group of six officials from the Texas Education Agency, Bi-Lingual Division visited the school district the first of this month to explore the progress made in three areas of instruction in which the school district had been cited during an earlier inspection last May.

Ms. Echevarria said that the group was "pleased with what we are doing in the classroom," and told her "to continue the things we are doing. They thought we had the type of program they are looking for."

The three areas which had been cited last May included failure to provide Spanish-dominant students with Spanish reading, failure to provide English as a second language instruction for bi-lingual students, and failure to provide Spanish-dominant students with math, science, or social studies instruction in Spanish.

Ms. Echevarria said the second area was being complied with by the school district, and that the citation in that area was due to a "misunderstanding by the person who monitored us."

"We had been doing the things they cited us for, but not throughout the school year as they wanted us to do," Ms. Echevarria said. "The kids had already made the transition to English, which is our main objective of the bi-lingual program. Once we do that, we concentrate on teaching in English; it's a transition program, not a maintenance program."

The TEA group spent four days in Hereford monitoring the Chapter I, Chapter I Migrant, and Bi-Lingual programs.

It's a long way from a Hereford High presentation of "Oliver" to the Broadway show "A Chorus Line", but that's the trip made by Hereford's own Randy Clements.

Randy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Clements, is currently appearing in the Broadway show in supporting role, while acting as understudy for the lead role. He had been traveling with different road groups to perform in the musical the last year and a half, and Randy had been in the lead role in several of the shows.

Randy was transferred to the Broadway show several weeks ago and is scheduled to be there several more weeks. A 1972 graduate of HHS, Randy attended West Texas State and then earned his degree at Stephens College in Missouri. The stage has been Randy's big love since he started performing at La Plata Junior High School.

Delight Williams, our receptionist and classified-ad taker, drew a special note of recognition in an Amarillo Globe-News column Sunday. In the "Trailing Family Trees" column, written by Dorothy Nordyke, Delight's name is used in connection with the important event of naming babies.

The newcomer is one member of the family who isn't able to have a say in the matter and sometimes it works out fine, but sometimes it doesn't, points out Ms. Nordyke. In talking with Mrs. Williams on the phone, the writer says she talked to someone whose name worked out fine.

The column also pointed out that there is another "Delight" in the family, and Mrs. Williams is delighted! She has a granddaughter named Delight Thames, whose parents are John and Sheila Thames of Hereford.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan is venturing into an area reeling from heavy unemployment to plead for patience for his economic plan while paying back political debts to embattled House Republican Leader Robert H. Michel.

Reagan planned appearances today in Peoria and Chapin, Ill., the first stops in a two-day political trip that also will take him to Omaha, Neb.

Although White House officials privately predict that Michel will survive the election, they said Reagan's visit to Illinois was an insurance policy against defeat.

"It would be an important symbol if anything happened to Michel," said one White House official, concerned that defeat of the congressman would be read as repudiation of Reaganomics.

Reagan was flying here with the message that he knows there are hardships in Peoria - where unemployment is running 15.1 percent - but that joblessness can't be solved without fixing long-term economic problems.

The president also was expected to argue that unemployment is one of the last indicators to show improvement in a recovery, and to urge that voters give his program more time to work.

Reagan's first stop was at a 2,000-acre corn and hog farm in Chapin, owned by Leland and Virginia Werries, the parents of Illinois Agriculture Director Larry Verries.

Eight thousand farmers were expected to be on hand to see the president and to watch a tillage conservation demonstration.

Although farmers are suffering their worst financial hardship since the Depression, Reagan may have won some support with his announcement last week of expanded grain sales to the Soviet Union.

The president also planned to meet with Midwest GOP state chairmen in Peoria, and attend a Michel fund-raiser where the drawing cards also included singer Pat Boone and actor Charlton Heston.

Michel, a 13-term congressman, led the charge in the House for Reagan's tax and budget program, fashioning a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats to produce come-from-behind victories for the president.

Now the congressman faces his most serious challenge in years, from labor lawyer G. Douglas Stephens, who says Reagan's economic plan hasn't worked and criticizes Michel for helping shepherd it through Congress.

Today's stops mark the only time Reagan has devoted almost an entire day campaigning for a single House member. White House officials say that is a measure of Reagan's appreciation for Michel's efforts.

Michel originally gave tacit support to the administration's anti-Soviet pipeline sanctions, a policy that killed a $90 million contract for Caterpillar Tractor Co., which is located in the congressman's district.

Michel later reversed his stand and led an unsuccessful fight in the House to overturn the sanctions. Earlier this week, responding to a question about Caterpillar, Reagan said the United States is talking with European allies about alternatives to the sanctions.

Caterpillar has laid off 8,000 workers and reduced its work force by thousands more through attrition.

American stereotypes nixed by cross country bikers

By JERI CURTIS
Staff Writer

So, why are these guys doing it?

Although cross country biking is becoming more common, Hewitt Heiser and Nathan Schwartz say a lot of people think they are crazy - including the ogglers in Sugarland Mall where the two stopped for a snack Tuesday afternoon.

Claiming to be sustained by junk food, the two Kenyon College (Gambier, Ohio) history grads are keeping journals and taking photographs to compile a travel guide for other cross country bikers who may want to follow their trail from Washington, D.C., to Los Angeles.

Washing down cheese crackers, bananas and M&Ms with orange juice, Schwartz finished a typical meal of what he calls "road food." He said that one day they each ate about $15 worth of junk food. "That's a lot of junk food," he laughed.

It is easier to live on snacks than to haul food in the bike packs. Sleeping bags, journal books and a change of clothes leave little room for anything else but a shared towel.

Both concentrated in American history at Kenyon and are enhancing that knowledge with tangible experience on the trip.

West Virginia's coal industry shattered a few stereotypes.

"We were surprised," Schwartz said. "There was a stereotype of West Virginia's environment as dirty, people correlated that with a lack of pride."

But in Swiss, W.V., at a Wednesday evening Baptist church service, Schwartz said they "got a glimpse of a small mining town that was proud and friendly, unlike the stereotypical."

Richwood, W.V., was impressive because faltering coal and lumber industries were forcing the town to consider other supports, thus the people were trying to develop Richwood into a tourist spot.

Welfare question on Nov. 2 ballot

AUSTIN (AP) - Texans get a chance Nov. 2 to say if the state should continue making welfare payments to needy dependent children, even if the federal payments stop.

The proposed constitution change, Proposition No. 2, is one of six suggested amendments on the Nov. 2 ballot.

Should the six proposals pass in November, that would make a total of 253 changes in the Texas Constitution since it was adopted in 1876.

Proposition No. 2 would remove the present $80 million ceiling on the amount of state aid that can be matched with federal money for Aid to Families of Dependent Children (AFDC). It also would remove the present requirement of matching federal funds for state money.

"I think chances are excellent for passage of the welfare amendment," said Phil Strickland, head of Citizens Concerned About Children, which claims support of the governor, lieutenant governor, and speaker.

"Because of inflation, cutbacks in federal assistance and population increases, Texas is fast approaching the present $80 million ceiling," said Strickland, who also is director of the Texas Baptist Christian Life Commission. "Unless Amendment No. 2 is adopted, the average $34 per month benefit - which ranks Texas 49th among the states - will be cut, or truly needy children will be dropped from the program and denied assistance."

The proposed amendment removes the present $80 million ceiling on the amount of state aid to dependent children and their caretakers and sets a new ceiling of $160 million for the 1982-83 period and 1 percent of the state budget after that.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby has estimated the next Legislature will need about $100 million for the matching funds.

The present ceiling was

Cheese handout slated

Distribution of 3,000 pounds of federal surplus cheese to needy citizens of the county will begin Thursday at 9 a.m. at the courthouse.

Applicants should report to the Deaf Smith County Social Services offices, Room 101 and 100-A, it was announced by Earlene Cook, county social services director.

Mrs. Cook said with the help of the Red Cross workers and Community Action workers, along with the county employees, the distribution went well last month.

Recipients will be required to fill out a form showing proof of total average household income, and any sources of welfare or assistance income as well as proof of residence.

Mrs. Cook said eligible families will receive one 5-pound block for a household of one through four, or two 3-pound blocks for families of five or more.

Distribution of the cheese will be based on the application information and a social service worker's interview with the applicant.

False statements on the application, with intent to deceive, could be punishable by a fine up to $2,000, a jail term up to one year, or both. All signatures of applicants will be notarized.

adopted in 1969. In 1971, voters refused to support a Legislature-approved plan to raise the ceiling to $55 million for each business year.

Opponents of the proposition say welfare spending should be reduced instead of increased. They argue the 1 percent state budget ceiling, after 1982-83, is too lenient.

Proposition No. 6 on the ballot would increase the maximum interest rate charged on general obligation bonds issued by the state from 6 percent to a "weighted average annual" 12 percent. If approved, this would affect bonds authorized by the Constitution, such as water quality enhancement and water conservation bonds, park development bonds and student loan bonds.

It would not affect the popular Veterans Land Program bonds, which had their interest rate increased in 1981 from 6 percent to 10 percent.

Proponents say the 12 percent interest is necessary to sell bonds on the present inflationary market.

Opponents say payment of increased interest rates contributes to the inflation and the state should not increase its debt by selling more bonds.

Also on the ballot are two other proposed changes of limited interest to statewide voters. They are:

Proposition No. 4 to allow the Legislature to authorize four-year terms, instead of two-year, for governing boards of water districts and other conservation and reclamation districts. Proponents say it is very costly to

Layoffs due soon at Texaco plants

PORT NECHES, Texas (AP) — Officials of Texaco Asphalt say they expect to lay off about 35 employees at the plant here and about 450 at a Port Arthur refinery next month in hopes of increasing efficiency by trimming personnel.

Texaco notified unions at the plant several weeks ago that layoffs could be instituted beginning Nov. 19 — 100 workers at Port Neches and about 1,000 at Port Arthur. But those figures were trimmed because of the agreement by some employees to accept lump sum payments to quit voluntarily, said Texaco spokesman Charles Rentz said.

About 60 to 65 workers signed up for an incentive plan designed to increase attrition at the asphalt plant, and more than 400 employees signed up for a similar incentive program for refinery workers, Rentz said. The plan provides a payment of $4,000 to employees agreeing to give up their jobs. The cash settlement is in addition to other benefits employees may be qualified for, Rentz said.

Some refineries have shut down, and others have cut back on production because of the sharp drop of demand for gasoline and other petroleum products, he said.

Mechanical trouble blamed for crash

ROUND ROCK, Texas (AP) — Mechanical failure has been blamed for the crash of a twin-engine plane that went down shortly after takeoff from a suburban Austin airport, killing both people aboard, officials say.

Ronald Sproull, 47, of Cedar Park, and Sandra Jacobson, 31, of Austin were killed Tuesday morning when Sproull tried to make an emergency landing in a field 2½ miles northeast of Round Rock.

The plane crashed into a barbed-wire fence, flipped end-over-end and exploded, said Round Rock Fire Chief Lynn Bizzell.

Both victims were dead at the scene, he said.

Sproull's body was found 200 yards from the main wreckage. Ms. Jacobson's body was badly burned and found lying under one of the aircraft's engines, Bizzell said.

"There was an explosion," Bizzell said. "You could see where the fuel was scattered through the field and where it had burned some trees. The fuel spill evidently caused the explosion. When we got there, there were small fires around the scene."

The wreckage was scattered from 200 to 300 feet, Bizzell said.

The plane took off from Cedar Brakes Airport in Cedar Park for Aurora, Ill., and was lost on radar two miles north of Round Rock, said Federal Aviation Administration spokesman George Burlage.

Inmate found hanged in jail cell

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Jailers woke up a 23-year-old inmate for breakfast and came back shortly to discover him hanging from a sheet that had been tied to the grating of his cell's ceiling, Potter County Sheriff T.L. Baker says.

Jail officials had seen Carroll Barry Wood talking with other inmates "and he even bummed a cigarette off of one of them. There was no apparent problem," Baker said.

Wood's death Tuesday morning in his isolated, medium-security cell is the first suicide in the Potter County Jail in 10 years, the sheriff said.

Traumatic experiences follow rape

The following article is a public service by the Hereford Brand through the cooperation of Roland Saul, Criminal District Attorney and the Prosecutor Council. Its purpose is to make you aware of a prosecutor's role, of your responsibility as a resident of this County and how we can work together to alleviate some of society's problems.

This is the last in a series of three articles on rape. It discusses the victim and the emotional, medical and legal after effects of being raped.

THE VICTIM OF RAPE A BRIEF LOOK AT THE EVENTS AFTER

Even if a person practices every rule of rape prevention she or her child may still be a victim of a rape. The experiences that follow may be more devastating than the actual rape. If the victim reports the rape many institutions come into action — police officers, medical personnel, investigators, prosecutors and public courts. The processes are routine to the authorities but to the victim the things asked of her and done to her may be more than she could have imagined.

THE CALL FOR HELP — It is a fact that rape is an act of violence and even though, in most cases, a rape victim is not physically harmed, she is emotionally damaged. The first feelings will probably be terror, and maybe anger. Fear of physical violence and death are primary feelings. After that a victim's feelings range from fear, humiliation and embarrassment to anger, revenge, and self-blame.

Immediately following being raped the victim is in a state of mental crisis and making any decisions will be difficult, and depending upon physical injuries, almost impossible. But the victim needs to get help quickly to be protected mentally and physically. Studies have shown that victims who seek immediate support, preferably from a rape counseling professional, return to their previous level of functioning the most quickly.

In many areas a rape counselor can be present to help the victim throughout the entire police and legal process to explain things, to give emotional and psychological support and to try to help the victim feel somewhat less dehumanized.

REPORTING A RAPE — The social stigma and sexual myths connected to rape often mean the rape will never be reported to the police. FBI statistics say that nationally only one in ten rapes are reported to police. And of those reported to the police only a small percentage ever get scheduled for a court trial.

This is due in part because of the fact that in a rape, everything is related to the victim. She is not only the eye witness but the evidence, as well, and everyone focuses on her. The interviews with authorities, the medical exam and social implications are often just too dehumanizing to the victim. There may also be pressures to drop the case brought on the victim by the assailant, his family and friends and his attorney. Another cause for rape cases not making it to court is the delays — from rape to trial may take up to two years.

The responsibility of seeking prosecution of a rapist is upon the victim. It is a known fact that rapists are usually repeaters, so even if the victim decides not to prosecute, calling the police and having the details of the rape recorded could be helpful to police. The rape may be part of a pattern and may help prevent other women from being raped.

GETTING MEDICAL HELP — It is crucial that a rape victim see a doctor. The victim may have been exposed to venereal disease, could be pregnant and could have injuries to reproductive organs and/or other parts of the body. A doctor can prescribe medication for VD and also medication which will eliminate a possible pregnancy. He can treat wounds and possibly be the emotional support needed by the victim.

If the victim has reported the incident to the police the exam will probably take place at the hospital and the police usually accompany the victim there. There the medical exam will include the things discussed above and additional procedures to collect evidence from the victim's body, such as sperm and hairs of the attacker. Payment for the exam is often covered by the victim's medical insurance. If the victim cannot pay there are other available sources such as crime victim's compensation, private groups or the police.

FROM RAPE TO TRIAL — The first encounter the victim will have will probably be the local police. The officer will make an initial report and ask the "who-what-when-where" questions. Discussing details of what has been an extremely frightening and humiliating sexual experience means that the encounter may be extremely unsettling for many victims.

Victims should be encouraged to write down for their own use a detailed account of the incident. This account could help refresh their own memories when long down the road the defense attorney is asking questions about minute details. Also, authorities have their own jargon for recording victims answers to questions and their responses may not always reflect the victim's actual thoughts.

Police and hospital reports are often very brief and very selective in focus. The victim should record for herself every detail — from the time she saw the rapist till she didn't and every possible detail of what happened between.

After the initial interview with the police and the medical exam the victim will be interviewed by an investigator or detective. This interview is one of the most important phases of the investigation and the victim will be asked to recall every detail of the rape. The investigator may ask that photographs be taken of the victim's injuries. Getting this type of information and evidence may be embarrassing to the victim but it is very important in a trial long after injuries have healed and the memory is clouded. Victims may also be asked to identify the rapist from pictures. Victims do not legally have to answer any questions they feel inappropriate or submit to any of the above-referenced procedures and they have a right to have the necessity for any question or procedure explained. Cooperation with the authorities in getting as much information and evidence, as possible is crucial to prosecuting the rapist.

If the victim identifies the assailant, there will then be an interview with the prosecutor. The prosecutor represents the victim and the state. He determines whether to file charges against the person identified based upon a review of the details. The prosecutor may choose charges other than rape. Many times a charge other than rape is taken because it is easier to prove and involves less trauma to the victim. A victim has the right to a full and understandable explanation of her prosecutor's decisions and should ask questions when anything said is unfamiliar to her.

If charges are brought against the rapist there are many hurdles between then and the trial. There may be a preliminary hearing, a grand jury hearing and an arraignment.

If there is a trial it will probably be several months after the rape. For many victims the rape trial is almost as traumatic as the rape itself. The rapist has the right to choose whether to have the case heard before a judge or a jury. The rapist is not required to testify. Unless the victim is very young she must give her testimony and it will be in a hearing or trial open to the public.

The questioning often concerns minute details of the sexual aspects of the incident with nothing left to the imagination. Texas law sets out specific guidelines governing how far a defense attorney can delve into a victim's private life, and may question regarding previous sexual conduct of the victim may not be asked before the court has decided "in camera" (in private) that the questions are relevant and admissible. At the trial, the prosecutor must introduce enough evidence to erase any reasonable doubt in the minds of the jurors or judge the rape was committed. A verdict of not guilty does not mean that the rape didn't happen.

CONCLUSION: From rape to trial is difficult and painful for the victim, so difficult and painful that it often does not make it to trial. However, the number of task forces on rape and rape victims services are increasing. Among other things, the task forces are recommending changes in the legal and medical systems so that in the future the lot of the victim will be less painful.

Rape victim services help the victim as they deal with the current system. They can explain medical and legal procedures to the victim and give them emotional and psychological support. They can also provide pressure to bring about proposed changes. More and more police-prosecutors and hospitals are setting up special programs to assist victims.

All these agencies urge that every woman who is raped report the attack to police in hopes that as more women report rapes, more rapists will be arrested and brought to trial and convicted. More convictions hopefully would deter potential rapists.

Economy slowed in third quarter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economy slowed in the just-finished third quarter of the year, inching ahead at a 0.8 percent annual rate compared with a 2.1 percent high in the spring quarter, the government reported today.

Two quarters of growth in inflation-adjusted gross national product — the broadest measure of U.S. economic activity — normally would be accepted as marking an end to a national recession.

But the gains have been so small that few economists are willing to declare that genuine recovery is under way. Typical recessions in recent years have been followed by robust growth at annual rates of about 7 percent.

Real GNP, which had fallen at annual rates of 5.3 percent and 5.1 percent in the last quarter of 1981 and the first quarter of this year, rose to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.481 trillion in the July-September period, today's Commerce Department report said.

Lawmen continue search for couple

Texas and New Mexico lawmen continue an all-points bulletin in the search for a middle-aged couple who shot a Tucumcari trucker and hijacked his tanker Monday night.

Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson said the truck driver, Larry Cone, gave partial descriptions of the two after he was released from surgery in Northwest Texas Hospital, Amarillo.

Cone told authorities that the woman who was standing by the road with an apparently disabled pickup was about 50 years old, stood about 5'2" and weighed about 135 to 140 pounds. The man with her, who also shot at Cone, was 5'10" to 6' tall and very thin. The two were in a blue 1976 Ford pickup with a camper shell on it.

Cone stopped to help the woman about 10 p.m. Monday night near Ragland, N.M. The two hijacked his truck and made off with $8,000 in diesel fuel. The tanker rig was found abandoned near Westway Tuesday morning.

Business investment, net exports and state and local government purchases also declined.

However, those decreases were outweighed slightly by gains in personal consumption spending, federal government purchases and residential construction.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan has forecast a pickup in real GNP to an annual rate of 3 percent to 4 percent in the current fourth quarter. However, most other economists, both inside and outside government, say another small gain is much more likely.

Commerce economists had estimated one month ago in their "flash" projection that the economy was growing at a skimpy 1.5 percent annual rate in the then-unfinished quarter.

That would mean two straight quarters of growth — since second-quarter real GNP was up at a rate of 2.1 percent — but economists remained unconvinced that genuine recovery had arrived.

Most still remain unconvinced.

And unemployment is at 10.1 percent, the highest since 1940.

Redesigns program

The Internal Revenue Service has announced a major redesign of its "Understanding Taxes" Program for 1983.

"Understanding Taxes" is a complete, free educational package, which teaches high school juniors and seniors important aspects of the Federal tax system. Approximately five million students use the course last year.

After a year long study, the new "Understanding Taxes" curriculum will include more information and skill development than ever before, the IRS said. The materials will now be presented in a "modular" format, permitting teachers greater flexibility when scheduling and teaching "Understanding Taxes."

The curriculum will include a line-by-line explanation of the Form 1040A and a discussion of a basic Form 1040 and Schedule A for itemized deductions. However, new chapters will also cover such information as the economics of taxation, tax legislation and facts and fallacies about the IRS.

Student course books, teachers' manuals, special training visual aids and audio-visual materials are supplied free by the IRS. Teachers do not have to be skilled in tax law to teach this course, said the IRS.

Because of the changes in the program, the IRS has also developed a workshop to instruct teachers on the many uses of the "Understanding Taxes" curriculum.

The IRS advised high school administrators, teachers and parents interested in learning more about offering "Understanding Taxes" program to contact the Taxpayer Education Coordinator in Dallas at 214-767-1428 or toll free 1-800-492-4830 ext 1428.

hold such elections every two years, mainly in rural areas and usually result in low voter turnout. They claim there would be more interest in four-year terms.

Proposition No. 5 would allow Tarrant and Bee counties to abolish the office of county treasurer and transfer the duties to the county auditor, after a local election.

In 1979, the Legislature attempted to abolish the Tarrant County treasurer by a special state law. The attorney general ruled against that, however, saying the Legislature could not change a constitutional provision without voter approval. Bee County was added when the controversy resurfaced in the 1981 Legislature.

Schwartz was itchy to meet someone in the oil business. A fellow pulled them over, invited them home to chicken and vegetables, but to Schwartz the best part was finding that he was in the oil business, too.

The bikers were hosted by a family near Stinnett, who about five years had put up Peter and Barbara Jenkins, the couple who walked across America.

The "sheer outdoor adventure" of the trek, as described by Heiserman, started off during the first week when rain pummeled them six out of seven days. Then in Arkansas it rained so much that the odometer fogged unreadable. It was dry in Oklahoma, but goateads punctured three tires in a 35-foot ride.

Mechanical troubles have been limited to Heiserman's broken spoke and Schwartz' riding 100 miles on a broken axle.

About an hour a night is devoted to journal writing. Details are kept on mileage, points of interest, geographical notes and people they meet.

"I think when you come right down to it there is no difference" in people, according to Heiserman.

Milburn started business in Hereford during depression

BY LINDA CAUDLE
Family News Editor

Fifty years is a long time to be in any occupation. And it's even more unusual for someone to stay in the same business that long.

Emmett Milburn, Owner of Milburn Motor Company 136 Sampson, has been in the automobile business 57 years. He celebrated the 50th anniversary of his business in Hereford earlier this year.

Originally from Gainesville, Milburn was raised in Bulcher. After he was grown, he spent seven years in Jackson County, Okla., as a Chevrolet dealer.

When the depression hit, he went broke, and in 1932 he bought a few used cars and moved to Hereford to set up his used car lot and a filling station.

"I found a lot of good people in Hereford," notes Milburn. "And what I noticed most, was that they expected you and wanted you to spend your money in Hereford."

"There are a few freeloaders who take and don't give," continues Milburn, "but we still have a wonderful city with all kinds of people."

Milburn illustrates his point by describing a situation in the 1930s. "A chain grocery store went in here in the '30s and was squeezed out after just a short time in business because people stayed with the locally owned 'Mom and Pop stores.'"

"The old timers around here are pretty much the same as always even though there have been many changes since I've been in Hereford. After the dust bowl cleared away in the '30s," says Milburn, "many farmers who went broke moved off and left their farms, some with dirt piled as high as the fences and even higher."

"The government asked that people who did have money, to take over the land and put it into normal farming again. The county agent at that time, Clarence Markham, and myself took over some land around Hereford and put it back into operation."

"In the early '40s," says Milburn, "I was one among a few local people who started pheasants in this area. We brought them down from South Dakota. It took 18 years to get them started before they were open for hunting."

Milburn has only moved his business once since coming to Hereford. "It used to be a block away from the present location," he says. He had the service station with his lot for a number of years before going to strictly used cars.

From 1946-50, Milburn has a new car dealership in Crosby County, while still living in Hereford. He has owned his own finance company for about 15 years.

"In the early days, banks wouldn't finance automobiles," says Milburn. "They took over in about 1940. At first people went through General Motors and other large companies or individuals."

Milburn remembers that in 1929, an automobile dealer's license to sell both new and used cars cost $5. Today that license costs $130.

The first car Milburn ever sold was a brand new 1926 Chevrolet, costing approximately $400. After he moved to Hereford in 1932, Milburn says the best 4-door Chevrolet sedan was priced at about $630.

"The past ten years is where the really big rise in prices has been," he comments.

"The past four years have been extra good for used car sales," says Milburn. "With interest rates so high, people are taking their second choice and buying a low mileage used car rather than a new one."

Milburn currently employs three people. "There are a number of Hereford businessmen who have worked for me in the past," says Milburn. "Many of them now have businesses of their own here."

Milburn says that he had been semi-retired and then started back working after the death of his wife and son in 1978. "My son had been working in the business and was beginning to take over before his death," says Milburn.

His two grandsons stay with him on Friday nights. "I look forward to that and they do too," smiles Milburn. "I'm teaching them to hunt, which is one of my favorite sports."

Milburn says he's hunted about everything there is to hunt, and travels around quite a bit. "I spend about 45 days a year hunting," he says.

"I go deer hunting in south Texas and usually go turkey hunting twice a year. Hunting quail and pheasant are quite a sport too."

But you can't hunt all the time — you have to keep working, and try for 51...52...53 years.

Newest TV sexism

NEW YORK (AP) — The most blatant theme of new shows in the month-old television season is Stud Power. The top stars all seem to be male hunks.

Last Sunday, swarthy Erik Estrada posed in his skivvies as a male model on "CHiPs," then postured in his bikini briefs as a boxer in the movie "Honeyboy."

It didn't take long for the new country cousins from the "Dukes of Hazzard" to show off their physiques. In the first episode, right after their car leaped across the screen, Coy and Vance Duke had their first public inspection. They took off their shirts to chop wood.

This bulging beefcake is designed to appeal to young audiences, whose major requirement is that the star smile a lot and look pretty.

Cumpton wary of Palo Duro potential

Herd travels to Amarillo for Thursday night encounter

By LES GILES
Sports Editor

Hereford coach Don Cumpton worried about a 1-5 team? One coming off its worst loss of the season (42-14 at the hands of Coronado last week).

"I've said all along Palo Duro has some talent," Cumpton related.

"They just haven't been able to put it all together in a game so far.

"The thing that worries you about them is that they'll pick you to put everything together. If they ever put it all together, they're capable of beating anyone in the district. I still believe that," he added.

The Whitefaces, coming off their biggest win of the season last Friday, will try to keep the momentum going as they travel to Amarillo for a Thursday night (7:30) encounter with Palo Duro in Dick Bivins Stadium.

It's one of two Thursday games for the Herd. They'll be home next Friday against Amarillo High, then wind up the regular season (Nov. 4) in Lubbock against Coronado on a Thursday.

The Dons were picked as high as fourth in pre-season polls, but haven't lived up to that billing, yet.

PD is 1-5 coming into Thursday's game. However, among those five setbacks are a pair of one-point decisions (to Clovis and Caprock by 7-6 scores) and a three-pointer (3-0 at the hands of Amarillo High).

And, they played Plainview on virtual even terms in the second half, in a 28-7 contest won by the Bulldogs. In that game, Plainview led 28-0 at the half, so PD actually won the battle in the second half.

"Palo Duro has been pretty good defensively," Cumpton went on.

"They stopped Plainview the second half, for whatever that's worth."

So, in six games only last week's loss to Coronado was a blowout.

And, in that one, the Dons were their own worst enemies, turning the ball over seven times - four interceptions and three fumbles.

Statistically, Palo Duro ranks third in the district in total offense (254 yards a game) and fifth defensively (they were third before last week's game).

The Dons rely on their running game. They've averaged 218 yards a game rushing, and only 35 passing.

THE HERFORD BRAND SPORTS

Page 4-The Hereford Brand-Wednesday, Oct. 20, 1982

Hereford, meanwhile, is first in total offense (360 yards a game) and total defense (163).

Herd tailback Alfred Ball regained the district rushing lead with 134 yards last week against Plainview. He now has gained 756 yards on 122 carries, and has scored a league-high 12 touchdowns. His 6.2 yard-per-carry average also is among the leaders.

Fullback Raymond Martinez and quarterback Charles McDowell have been able to take some of the heat off Ball, too. Martinez, boasting a 7.5 per carry average, has rushed 65 times for 490 yards, while McDowell has 299 yards on 50 tries.

The Herd QB continues to lead the district in total offense. He's accounted for 837 total yards - an average of 119.5 per game.

McDowell has completed 33 of 72 passes for 538 yards and four TDs. His favorite target is wide receiver Brian Taylor (who was on the end of last week's game-winning 48-yard toss in the final minute and a half). Taylor has caught 17 for 354 yards and four touchdowns.

"Palo Duro's been a hard team to figure out this season," Cumpton noted.

"Talent-wise, their record could be much better. In fact, it could easily be reversed. I know they could have won at least three of the games they've lost.

"As for us, I don't look for us to have a letdown. Our kids know they have a shot at making the playoffs now, but in order for them to accomplish that they must win their remaining three games.

"I think the key for us is not to let Palo Duro get the momentum of the game."

The teams will be meeting for the 13th time with the series even at six games apiece.

Hereford has won the last three meetings, and four of the last five. Cumpton stands 3-1 in games against the Dons, losing only in 1978.

Andujar-Vuckovich rematch set in 7th game

Cards bounce back; Series showdown tonight

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The preliminaries are over. Now, the St. Louis Cardinals and Milwaukee Brewers are ready for the main event.

The rollercoaster 1982 World Series, which has twisted more times than a belly dancer, is down to one decisive, final game with the world championship on the line.

The Cardinals forced tonight's seventh-game showdown with a marathon 13-1 rain-delayed victory Tuesday night in Game Six, a game during which temperatures plunged more than 20 degrees.

Clear but cold weather, with lows in the mid-30s, is forecast for Game Seven with Joaquin Andujar going for St. Louis against the Brewers' Pete Vuckovich in a rematch of the Game Three starters. St. Louis won that game 6-2 but Andujar was forced to leave in the seventh inning when he was struck on the right leg by a batted ball.

Cardinal Manager Whitey Herzog said he had no hesitation about using the fiery Dominican right-hander, who was the best pitcher on the St. Louis staff for the season's final month.

"Joaquin gets the ball," said Herzog. "If I don't give him the ball, I'm sure I'd be one dead manager."

Rookie John Stuper had the ball for Game Six and responded with a four-hitter. He was backed by a high-powered Cardinal attack that included home runs by Keith Hernandez, who drove in four runs, and Darrell Porter, who delivered two, and a Series record three extra base hits by designated hitter Dane Iorg.

Stuper thought the Cardinal hitters seemed awfully familiar.

"We looked like the Milwaukee Brewers," he said.

St. Louis climbed all over Brewer starter Don Sutton, tagging him for seven runs and seven hits in 41-3 innings. Sutton left an instant before the first rain delay, a 26-minute teaser in the fifth inning.

Then, in the sixth, a deluge hit Busch Stadium, halting play two hours, 13 minutes in the middle of a Cardinal rally that produced six runs and wrapped up a victory St. Louis had to have.

Stuper waited out both delays and came back without problems each time. He retired 15 consecutive batters over the middle innings and had a two-hit shutout until the ninth inning.

"Considering the circumstances and the importance of it, this is the best game of my life," said Stuper.

Before he started, he had been a little concerned about the pitching pairing, a rookie going up against a 17-year veteran with 258 career victories.

"I said that the matchup of Sutton and Stuper seemed like a huge mismatch," he said. "But in the game of baseball, anything can happen."

And on Tuesday night, just about everything did. There were four errors by the Brewers, two apiece by second baseman Jim Gantner and shortstop Robin Yount, who carried a .524 batting average into the game but went 0-for-4. When Yount made his second error in the ninth inning, the remnants of the crowd of 53,723 hooted him, mimicking the MVP chants he has heard so frequently from Milwaukee fans.

This nightmare started early for Milwaukee with the Cards striking for a pair of unearned runs with two out in the second inning. Iorg doubled on a ball that glanced out of left fielder Ben Oglivie's glove. Willie McGee followed with a bouncer that went right through Yount's legs for an error and then Tommy Herr doubled, scoring McGee.

In the fourth, George Hendrick opened with a single and trotted home on Porter's homer, making it 4-0. Then Iorg tripled and buzzed home on a suicide squeeze bunt by Herr.

In the fifth, Lonnie Smith singled and Hernandez, who had snapped out of an 0-for-15 Series slump with three hits in Game Five, ripped his home run, making it 7-0. At that point, Sutton departed, a moment before the rains came, delaying the game for the first time.

"I just couldn't put the ball in the right spots," said Sutton, "and you can't get away with that with a good hitting club."

Asked about the home runs, the Brewer pitcher frowned. "They were not good pitches because good pitches aren't hit that far."

The rains let up and after a 26-minute mini-delay, play resumed. But in the sixth inning, the rain began in earnest.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said there was no thought to calling the game. No World Series game has ever been shortened by weather and the tradition wasn't about to be changed now.

"We knew we were going to play nine innings in fairness to everybody," said Herzog. Milwaukee Manager Harvey Kuenn wasn't about to surrender three innings worth of swings just because of a little rain.

"We weren't going to leave until the game was finished," said Kuenn. "The game is meant to be played over nine innings. That's the way it should be."

"Get Behind The Herd"

I've never, since I became an avid sports fan, seen greater team effort than was exemplified in the Hereford vs. Plainview ball game. Let's get behind the Herd & go to Amarillo Palo Duro Thursday Night -- The next step toward the State Finals.

Herd moves to 19th in Harris poll

Hereford, which began the season ranked 56th, but swiftly moved as high as 29th before losing to Monterey, made its biggest advance in the Harris Rating System poll this week jumping to 19th following last week's 21-14 victory over Plainview.

The Herd, as a result of last Friday's big win, is a 18-point favorite to defeat Palo Duro tomorrow night in Amarillo.

Following the 6-0 loss to Monterey, Hereford dropped from 32nd in the rankings to 43rd.

The Whitefaces dropped even farther (to 47th, after blanking Caprock, 27-0), before advancing to 31st after a 49-0 romp over Tascosa.

In this week's ranking, the Herd moved into the top 20 (19th) for the first time this season.

Plainview dropped from 13th to 27th, as a result of last week's setback. Monterey, still undefeated this season and currently in first place in District 3-5A, is ranked 62nd this week. The Plainsmen dropped 10 spots after shutting out Caprock 10-0, last week.

300 becomes magic number

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
Freddie Frank of Agua Dulce, Larry Green of Lubbock Dunbar and Mike Speir of Celeste all joined the 300 club last week. But the sport was football instead of bowling.

Speir rolled up 314 yards on 22 carries and scored five times in a 54-6 rout of Lone Oak, Frank rushed 304 yards on 24 carries and four touchdowns in a 28-0 victory over Bruni and Green led Dunbar past Brownfield 56-14 with 302 rushing yards on 33 carries and four touchdowns.

The trio of runners earned mention in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll for their efforts.

Celeste Coach Ron Sanderson has grown accustomed to Speir's performances, but occasionally, he's still amazed.

"On one of his 50-yard touchdown runs, he broke a couple of tackles at the line, cut back across field and outran the defensive back to the end zone," Sanderson said. "Balance is his best asset and he can break a lot of tackles."

Despite his eye-popping offensive statistics, Agua Dulce Coach Marcy Kemp thinks Frank will make an outstanding defensive player in college.

"He doesn't have tremendous speed, but with his size he doesn't have to," Kemp said of the 6-1, 207-pound Frank. "Anytime he touches the ball, he's got a chance to go all the way. But I think he'll make an outstanding defensive player. He made 11 tackles for us last week as a middle linebacker."

Dunbar Coach Ken Wallace is delighted that Green is only a junior.

"We run the I-formation and just turn around and hand him the ball and let him go," Wallace said. "He's deceptive. You don't think he's gaining that many yards until you start counting them up."

Rung's Rene Martinez didn't have the trio's big yardage figures but Frank, Green and Speir don't have Martinez' average. Martinez played only the first half of a 73-6 victory over Smiley and rushed only five times, but all five carries went for touchdowns.

Two of Martinez' touchdowns were called back by clipping penalties.

Martinez also kicked a 27-yard field goal, ran over a two-point conversion and returned the second-half kickoff 85 yards for a touchdown before watching from the sidelines the rest of the game.

In other outstanding individual performances:

—Alice running back Robert Souza gained a 194 yards on 27 carries and had touchdown runs of 28, 1, 10 and 13 yards in a 41-11 victory over Corpus Christi Miller.

—Harold Green scored all 18 of West Orange Stark's points in an 18-10 victory over Vidor. Green returned a kickoff 87 yards for a touchdown, caught a 70-yard touchdown pass and ran 9 yards for the final score to finish with 120 yards rushing on 23 carries.

—The pass-catch combination of quarterback Larry McHorse and receivers Steve Frieda and Darryl Flowers was enough to help San Antonio East Central shut out Laredo Nixon 27-0. McHorse completed 15 of 27 passes for 213 yards and three touchdowns. Frieda caught eight passes for 143 yards and one touchdown and Flowers caught two TD passes and totaled seven receptions for 70 yards.

—Post, the top-ranked Class 3A team in the state, cruised past Slaton 42-0 on the six-touchdown performance of Milton Williams, who rushed 211 yards on 14 carries and had scoring runs of 27, 33, 97, 3 and 23 yards. Williams also caught an 80-yard touchdown pass.

—McKinney halfback Anthony Johnson set a school single game rushing record with 26 yards on 31 carries and four touchdowns in a 41-30 victory over Dallas Lincoln.

—Wide receiver Jerry Deckard caught eight of the nine passes completed by Nacogdoches for 143 yards and a touchdown in a 19-0 shutout of Tyler Lee.

—Brenham linebacker Mark Carley contributed 16 tackles, including three for losses and caused one fumble in a 7-0 victory over Houston King.

—Pharr-San Juan-Alamo's Gilbert Salinas led the way to a 21-7 victory over San Benito with 40 carries for 252 yards and touchdown runs of 32 and 35 yards. He was the Rio Grande Valley's leading rusher with 1,330 yards last season.

—Lubbock Coronado quarterback Mike Meeks hit six of 12 passes for 16 yards and three touchdowns and rushed 80 yards on 12 carries and intercepted three passes on defense in a 42-14 victory over Amarillo Palo Duro.

—Orangefield wide receiver Jerry Ennison caught eight passes for 187 yards and three touchdowns in a 32-7 victory over Warren. The TD catches were for 26, 50 and 4 yards.

Work updated at semiannual meeting

The semiannual meeting of the King's Manor Auxiliary was held Tuesday morning in the Lamar Garden Room at the Manor.

President Betty Martin conducted the business meeting and the Rev. Wallace Kirby, chaplain at the Manor, led the opening prayer. The club welcomed three new members.

Mrs. Mike Betzen, chairman of resident aid, reported a total of 578 hours service to the Manor since March.

Della Stagner, transportation chairman said that transportation is being furnished to the residents for doctors appointments and shopping trips.

Birthday parties are held once a month for the residents of Westgate, according to Mrs. John Seiver. These parties are sponsored by various local clubs and organizations.

Mrs. Bartley Dowell reported that the sunshine cart is taken to the residents once a week by members. The program was given by Mrs. Owen Stagner. She told members about a trip to Alaska which she and her husband had taken, using a map to show the places they visited. She mentioned several interesting cities and the beautiful scenery there.

Refreshments of hot spiced tea, coffee and cake were served by Mrs. Earl Harkins and Mrs. Clark Andrews. Silver appointments were used and the table arrangement was in a fall motif.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You will never know how much it meant to me to see the letter in your column from the woman who became terrified when she had to sign her name on a document in the presence of others. I thought I was the only one.

For 40 years I have suffered with the frozen-fingers syndrome in banks, grocery stores, church, voting - just name it.

I realize now that my phobia was caused by guilt feelings engendered by me whenever she didn't like what I said or did.

Your advice was excellent. Too bad Ann Landers was not writing 40 years ago when I needed to be told to seek out a sympathetic psychologist and rid myself of the curse. It's too late for me, but I hope that woman takes your advice. - Still Struggling In Ohio

DEAR S.S.: If misery loves company, you have a lot of it. I was inundated with letters from readers who thought, as you did, that they were the only ones. Why do you feel it's too late for you? I don't. The following letter may be useful.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to help "Frozen Fingers," who wrote to confess the terror she felt when she had to sign her name in the presence of observers. I have had the problem for many years, but the following gimmicks have made life easier.

(1) Ask a question of a person who is observing. When he responds, his mind will be on what he is saying and not on what you are doing.
(2) Shade your writing. If you are right-handed, use your left hand to cover your writing. Or put a checkbook or a purse between you and the person watching.

(3) Hold your breath as you sign. It sometimes helps.

(4) If possible, take someone with you who knows of your problem and ask him or her to engage the others in conversation.

(5) Say to yourself, "I'm not the only person who has the quirk. There are millions of others." A Soulmate In Texas

DEAR SOULMATE: Your suggestions sound practical. If they work for you, they might work for others. Thanks for sharing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing about my cousin who attends college 50 miles from here. He's a swell kid but has never had a home life. His parents are divorced. His mom has always been too busy for him and he doesn't care for his stepdad.

Bill and I have been married for eight months. Rick has been with us every weekend without fail. He eats everything in sight and never picks up after himself. Bill likes Rick, but he is tired of having him around so much. I've told him his constant presence is putting a strain on our marriage, but he continues to hang around anyway. What should I do? - No Name From Nowhere

DEAR N.N.: Stop pussyfooting. Come straight out and tell Rick that from now on he can't come to your place unless you invite him. If he shows up without an invitation, tell him, "Sorry, you can't stay here this weekend. We need to be alone."

CowBelles enjoy luncheon, tour Cowgirl Hall of Fame

Hereford CowBelles met for a covered dish luncheon and tour of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center on Tuesday. Guiding members through the facilities was Margaret Formby, Hall of Fame president.

Guests were welcomed. They included Darlene McKinney, Betty Blair, Mitzi

Bulger, Jean Blair, Mary Van Pelt, and Wilma Bryan.

It was announced that the membership drive for 1983 will be emphasized at the next meeting, and members are reminded to bring their dues. Interested persons are invited to join the CowBelles. Membership is $17.50.

Randy Griffin offered to sponsor the first new member coming to Hereford with the Swift plant. Betty Blair was welcomed as the first new member. Others associated with Swift were welcomed as guests.

Today In History

Today is Wednesday, Oct. 20, the 293rd day of 1982. There are 72 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Oct. 20, 1918, Germany accepted U.S. terms to end World War I and ordered its submarines back to their home base.

On this date: In 1897, the king of Korea declared himself emperor.

In 1945, the Arab League was formed amid warnings that creation of a Jewish state in the Middle East could lead to war.

In 1962, China launched an offensive on India's border positions.

In 1968, Jacqueline Kennedy and Aristotle Onassis were married.

Ten years ago: Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger met in Saigon with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu to discuss Kissinger's Paris meetings with North Vietnamese officials.

Five years ago: The civilian government of Thailand was ousted in a bloodless coup by the military junta that had installed the regime a year earlier.

Today's birthday: Columnist Art Buchwald is 57.

Thought for today: "Men are great only if they are determined to be so." - Charles de Gaulle, French statesman-general (1890-1970).

INNER TUBE

HOT STUFF — ABC's decision to air "The Renegades" during the summer months as a 90-minute movie pilot may pay off. Based on the positive ratings the movie received, ABC has ordered an additional six episodes of the action-drama about former street punks who help the cops nab other criminals. "The Renegades" stars Cheryl Paris, James Luisi, Randy Brooks and Paul Mones.

CABLE NOTES — James Stewart and Bette Davis will star in "Right of Way," the story of an aging couple whose love is so great that they refuse to let illness separate them. The drama, which is reminiscent of "On Golden Pond," will air on HBO.

THOMAS RETURNS — Richard Thomas, who has been absent from TV since "The Waltons" was canceled, will return this fall with the lead role in NBC-TV movie, "The Hank Williams Jr. Story." Thomas will play Williams, the country music star and son of one of that style's most legendary performers.

NEW VIDEO — ABC's attempt at providing subscription-TV service to major cities across the country via its Home View Network will hit the airwaves in early 1983. HVN will air various programs five nights a week between 2 and 6 a.m. in the Eastern and Pacific time zones and 1 and 5 a.m. in the Central and Mountain zones.

TELE-NOTES — The premiere of "Dynasty's" third year has been pushed back to Oct. 27, so ABC can "stunt" (preview a program in a time slot other than the one it's designated for) its other new series. All three networks have stunted their new programs in the last few weeks in an effort to find out how strong or weak their fall lineups are. CBS' "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" has been getting the most attention, since it will eventually go head-to-head with NBC's "Real People" and ABC's "Gold Monkey" on Wednesday evenings.

Results will appear in this space in December.

pany and feminist collective. Often compared to Joni Mitchell or Carole King, she is earlier than either, firmly connected to the South Dakota hills (where she was born) and more than a little tinged by the raised-consciousness of California (where she lives). Those who cut their musical teeth on Joan Baez and still enjoy the folk-rock sound would do well to seek out "Blue Rider."

If ants are so smart how come they'll battle their way into the house to eat what his wife cooks, grumps our neighbor.

Seed potato seminars scheduled

Growers and buyers will have an opportunity to exchange ideas during two Seed Potato Seminars sponsored by the National Potato Council, the Potato Association of America and state seed certification agencies.

Topics covered during the day and a half seminar include "Seed tags, colors and grades - Where are We Going?", "Seed Potato Exports - Problems and Opportunities", and a grower panel discussion of "What do I as a Grower Expect When I Buy Certified Seed Potatoes For Commercial Planting?" In all, some twelve subjects of interest to the Nation's Certified Potato Growers and Seed Buyers will be covered.

A highlight of the program will be a presentation by Mr. R.E. Bagwill of the U.S. Department of Commerce, Patent Office on the subject of "Public Policy Implications of Giving U.S. Patents on New Potato Varieties".

The first seminar begins on Thursday, October 28 with a welcome reception at 6 p.m. and concluding Saturday morning, October 30 by 11:30 a.m. This first Western seminar will be held at the Little America Hotel in Salt Lake City, Utah. An identical second Seed Potato Seminar for growers in the Central and Eastern states will be held the following week. This second seminar will start with a welcome reception at 6:00 pm Thursday, November 4 and concluding by 11:30 am on Saturday morning, November 6. The November 4, 5, and 6 seminar will be held at The Registry Hotel, Bloomington, Minn. For additional information, including registration costs, growers can contact the National Potato Council, 12075 E. 45th Ave., Suite 301, Denver, CO 80239, or they may call the Council at (303) 373-5639.

Agri-Business seminar in November

AMARILLO - In response to requests from former seminar participants the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce has added a small trade show to the 7th Annual Golden Spread Agri-Business Seminar to be held in November.

Ten booths are available at the show, according to Ronnie Burks, C of C agribusiness committee chairman. The chamber of commerce has contacted agricultural dealers, livestock supply and feed industries, seed dealers and computer companies to set up displays during the one day seminar November 19 at the Villa Inn.

The trade show will complement the annual seminar which features speakers from throughout the nation on various aspects of the ag industry. In the past, livestock production, the economics of agriculture, agri-business legislation, and agricultural product shipping have been some of the topics focused on during the seminar.

The 1982 seminar speakers and the special luncheon speaker will be announced in the next few weeks, according to Burks.

As in the past the Chamber of Commerce Agri-Business committee will join area county agents in naming this year's Top Hand of the Year. The award goes to an area farmer or rancher who has devoted a lifetime to agriculture and the communities that surround them.

Industries who would like to have a booth in the agribusiness trade show November 19 should contact Miss Kirie Smith, C of C Agri-Business Manager, at the Chamber offices, 1000 S. Polk.

GREENHOUSE GROWERS CONFAB - Keys to growing top quality geraniums and poinsettias as well as some new crops for greenhouse production will be featured at the annual Greenhouse Growers Conference at Texas A&M University Nov. 3-4. Discussions will deal with disease prevention and control in the greenhouse, insect and mite control, using small droplet pesticide applicators, using foam propagation schedules, using a commercial tissue culture lab, greenhouse operation efficiency and using a computer in a greenhouse business, says a floriculturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Soybean prices down

WASHINGTON (AP) - This fall's record soybean harvest may bring producers the lowest prices in seven years, according to Agriculture Department projections.

Production is forecast at 2.3 billion bushels, up 15 percent from last year's harvest and 1 percent more than the record crop of 1979.

The mid-September farm price of soybeans was $5.28 per bushel, down from $5.59 in August.

By early October, the prices of No. 1 yellow soybeans in central Illinois slipped below $5 per bushel. According to USDA projections, the 1982-83 season average price may be between $5.25 and $6 per bushel.

That would compare to $6.05 last season and $7.57 in 1980-81. It also could be the lowest average season price for soybeans at the farm since the crop averaged $4.92 per bushel in 1975-76.

And USDA crop economists say that adjusted for inflation the price could be the lowest since 1969-79 when soybeans brought farmers and average price of $2.35 per bushel.

The latest projection was included in a summary of a new "fats and oils" outlook analysis due to be released later this month by the department's Economic and Research Service.

"Large supplies and low prices dominate the U.S. soybean outlook for the year," the report said. "Although domestic use and exports are expected to rise, the change will fall far short of the increase in supplies."

Officials said the estimated harvest of 2.3 billion bushels will be added to a carryover of old-crop soybeans of 268 million bushels as of the beginning of the new marketing year on Sept. 1.

That means the soybean supply for 1982-83 will be a record of 2.57 billion bushels, up 5 percent from the old peak set three years ago.

It also means that the total soybean supply is up 250 million bushels from last season. But the total "crush" of soybeans - for meal and oil - and exports are expected to total about 2.05 billion bushels, only 91 million bushels more than last year.

The 91 million-bushel increase is only 36 percent of the gain in the soybean supply in 1982-83.

Corn harvest 28 percent finished

WASHINGTON (AP) - An estimated 28 percent of this year's record corn crop has been harvested, according to Agriculture Department officials.

That is only slightly behind the 30 percent harvest rate a year ago, a weekly report showed Monday.

However, the report said that corn in some areas - particularly in the western Corn Belt - continued to lag well behind the normal rate of maturity.

"Supplies rose in six of the last 10 years, and in those instances, the smallest change in use relative to the change in supply was 58 percent," the report said.

"Therefore, the forecast for this year indicate a significant departure from the soybean market's usual behavior. This season's low corn prices, reduced hog numbers, weak economic activity, and a strong U.S. dollar support the forecast of only a moderate increase in soybean use."

Soybean exports this season are projected at 960 million bushels, up from last year's record level of 929 million.

"The European Community is the key market for U.S. soybeans, taking about 45 percent of our 1981-82 exports," the report said.

Domestic processors are expected to crush 1.09 billion bushels, up 60 million bushels from last season.

Beef grade chances dropped

COLLEGE STATION - The beef grading system used by the U.S. Department of Agriculture will remain as is.

Based on more than 4,000 comments in response to proposed grading changes by the USDA, the current system will stay intact, said Dr. Ed Uvacek, economist in livestock marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Almost 75 percent of the comments were against the proposed changes," said Uvacek. "Opposition was voiced by 45 percent of the livestock organizations responding, 100 percent of the retailers, 75 percent of the meat packing groups, 100 percent of the hotel, restaurant and food institutional trade, and 97 percent of the individual consumers."

In making the final decision to abandon the proposed changes in beef grading, a

USDA statement said: "The Department has decided to withdraw the proposed beef grade changes and to implement no changes in this voluntary, user-paid-for service at this time."

Uvacek said that the majority of the comments were in opposition to the changes because "people perceived that the proposed changes would reduce beef quality, leading to consumer confusion and possibly reducing the demand for beef."

Proposed changes included lowering marbling requirements for Prime and Choice grades and eliminating the Standard grade, the economist said. The proposal was submitted about a year ago after the National Cattlemen's Association requested that the USDA make several changes to provide beef with less fat and more lean.

Balanced budget amendment failed

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Cattlemen's Association is telling producers about members of Congress who voted for and against a measure which would have called for a constitutional amendment to require a balanced federal budget.

In the House's recent vote of 236 to 187, the measure fell short of the necessary two-thirds majority needed. A similar resolution had passed in the Senate.

The association told members in a recent newsletter that the "issue appears dead for this session of Congress, but presumably it will come up again."

"Also, there still is possibility of a constitutional convention to act on the balanced budget amendment," the association said. "Thirty-one of required 34 states previously have called for such action."

The association said it was disappointed that the amendment failed in the House.

"It is more clear every day that more fiscal responsibility is needed in Congress and that many lawmakers will not reduce spending enough," it said.

The newsletter listed by name, party and state, the name of each House member and how he or she voted on the amendment.

The day the terrorists came

NYACK, N.Y. (AP) — On a recent Saturday night in this tiny village police nabbed a man who failed to pay a bar bill, picked up a lost dog and saw the operator of a church bingo game safely to the night deposit.

It's the kind of place where the cop on the beat probably lived here most of his life, like Edward O'Grady who left for a hitch in the Marines and then returned to patrol the streets where he delivered newspapers as a boy.

"It's still one of the only areas where if you drive by at night you'll see a policeman walking by checking all the locks," says shopkeeper Frank Mancione.

But Nyack's 23 police officers now know about more than lost dogs, bingo deposits and other police routine. They know about terrorism. And they now know how to reload their weapons in seconds.

On a crisp October afternoon a year ago today two officers on a routine call became the first in village history to die in the line of duty, outnumbered and outgunned by desperate suspects in a botched Brink's armored car heist.

Since then, some things have changed in this mile-square village of 6,700 people bounded by the Hudson River and rolling Palisades highlands. "We're vulnerable and we don't think of ourselves as vulnerable," said Carol McIntosh, a Nyack real estate.

"It's really brought home that the community I grew up in that used to be rustic and quiet and contrived is no longer that," says Robert P. Lewis, village justice. "It's nothing more than an extension of New York City."

Two main streets — Main Street and Broadway — crisscross in this 100-year-old Victorian-style village 13 miles north of New York City, a conservative area that voted against President Lincoln's re-election and now is home to artists, craftsmen and actress Helen Hayes.

When an armed robbery is reported in the county, Nyack police routinely cover the intersection of Route 59 and Mountainview Avenue where the New York State Thruway is visible for miles.

That is where police on Oct. 20, 1981, pulled over a van carrying members of the Weather Underground and the Black Liberation Army after a $1.6 million armored car holdup in Nanuet in which a Brink's guard was killed. Six robbers jumped out, automatic weapons blazing, catching police by surprise.

Officer Waverly Brown had no chance to fire. Sgt. Edward O'Grady emptied his gun but was felled as he tried to reload.

At 12 North Broadway, the police department occupies a tiny quadrant of the two-story brick building. Last year, a visitor could walk in and shake hands with the desk officer. Now, bullet-proof glass intervenes. The door opens only if an inside buzzer is pressed.

"I think we learned a lesson from this incident. Now we are much more wary," said Chief Thomas G. Coffey, a burly man with a .357 Magnum sidearm and a badge, like those of his men, ringed with a black mourning band. Like his men, most of Coffey's police experience is in burglaries, domestic disputes, traffic problems and checking the village's 400 parking meters. They issue an average of 215 parking tickets a day.

Excluding the Brink's killings, there have been three homicides in Nyack in four years. From his desk drawer, Coffey pulled a small black cylinder of six bullets. In police parlance, it is a "speedloader," a staple in many departments but not in Nyack until this year. With the flick of a wrist, the device releases six bullets simultaneously into the gun's empty chambers.

O'Grady, under fire and fumbling with his bullets, could have used one. The FBI says the Brink's heist was part of a larger terrorist conspiracy, and the Nyack police, like others in Rockland County, now take courses in terrorism. "Some policemen hadn't been trained in 10 or 12 years, since recruit training. It opened their eyes to the need to update training programs," said Robert Schnakenberg, president of the county police chiefs association.

There are other reminders of the killings around the village: a Little League ballfield overlooking the Hudson has a bronze plaque commemorating the officers; tiny U.S. flags, fresh flowers and a votive lantern mark the intersection of Route 59 and Mountainview.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My problem is getting worse every day and I'm afraid something is seriously wrong with me so I'm afraid to go to a doctor. Besides, my problem is very embarrassing. That is why I'm writing you.

I'm expelling lots of gas. I've noticed if I eat the smallest piece of chocolate it happens. I can't believe I'm never going to be able to eat chocolate again in my life. I can live with that but now it is almost anything I eat and it happens. I can't go out with people it now happens so often. If I don't eat it doesn't happen.

I'm 35, female and weigh 118 pounds. Can you help me?

DEAR READER — You are not alone. About half the people who see gastroenterologists have a problem of excess gas. Sometimes gas is from swallowed air. But in many cases it is caused by fermentation of undigested food. We know that because the gas produced is hydrogen, carbon dioxide and methane. None of these is present in any major quantity in normal air that a person would swallow. All are produced by bacterial fermentation of foods, particularly undigested carbohydrates. This of course does not mean that swallowing air cannot be the problem in some people.

I strongly suspect that when more is learned about bacteria in the colon that changing the bacterial flora may eliminate gas problems for some people. In other people the solution is to eliminate the foods that cause gas. The bean group is a good example. They contain a complex sugar that cannot be broken down and digested completely by humans. A person who has lactose intolerance cannot break down the double sugar in milk and the fermentation causes gas.

You might try an elimination diet. You could start with a diet that contains mostly the meat group and limited amounts of bread. Record your gas problem. Then add one food at a time and if your gas increases, eliminate it and go on to something else until you develop a list of foods that don't seem to cause a problem. The fact that you don't have gas when you don't eat suggests it is from undigested food. A breath analysis for hydrogen could tell if this is so.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it possible to be cured of VD while taking penicillin pills for two weeks for a different problem?

DEAR READER — It depends upon what you mean by VD and how much penicillin you received. While penicillin is effective for most cases of gonorrhea it is not effective in some strains. Some strains are penicillin resistant.

While syphilis and gonorrhea can be treated with penicillin in most cases, there are other forms of VD which cannot be treated this way. Herpes simplex two, or genital herpes, does not respond at all to penicillin because it's a virus.

The amount and duration of antibiotic medication recommended is designed to ensure the highest probability of a complete cure for gonorrhea or syphilis. You can obtain cures with smaller doses for shorter duration but the cure rate will be well below that obtained by standard treatment.

The other danger is that inadequate treatment may mask syphilis and it may not be discovered then until the disease has progressed.

Eighty percent of the world's juice, used in twine and packing material, comes from East Pakistan. The plant requires a hot, humid climate. Some parts of East Pakistan get up to 200 inches of rainfall a year.
