Russians Invade More Afghanistan Cities

By The Associated Press Soviet invaders were reported to have crushed resistance and occupied Afghanistan's southern provincial capital of Kandahar and the eastern city of Jalalabad today as America and its allies prepared to seek U.N. Security Council condemnation of the Russian sweep into the Central Asian nation.

President Carter also was reported ready to ask the Senate to delay indefinitely its consideration of the SALT II treaty with the Soviet Union.

In Moscow, the official Soviet news agency Tass accused Carter of making "bellicose and wicked" statements and of distorting the "essence and meaning" of the Soviet military intervention.

Sporadic gunfire was heard in Kabul Tuesday, but the city was reported quiet Wednesday and today.

Associated Press correspondent Steven Hurst, reporting from Kabul today, said the Afghan capital was quiet overnight and that the only signs of the Soviet presence he saw in the city were a few helicopters flying overhead and three Russian tanks grinding through the streets before dawn.

Travelers from Kandahar, 270 miles southwest of the Afghan capital of Kabul and 50 miles from the border with Pakistan's Baluchistan province, told the Pakistani newspaper Jasarat the Soviets occupied Kandahar City Wednesday after two days of clashes with Afghan government forces opposed to the Russians.

They said the Soviets poured into Kandahar City Monday after landing in Soviet military aircraft. They said for the next two days the Russians battled rebellious Afghan government troops, and that when they routed them pro-Soviet Afghan forces hung garlands of flowers around the invaders' necks. The newspaper also said the Soviets took control of Jalalabad City Sunday. However, diplomats in Kabul said Soviet troops were airlifted Monday to Jalalabad, in eastern Afghanistan about 50 miles from the border and Pakistan's Kyhber Pass, to fight Moslem rebels who have been battling the communist Afghan government since the first of three pro-Soviet coups 20 months ago. The diplomats also said the Soviets used sophisticated attack helicopters and tanks against the Moslem insurgents in rugged Bamian province about 100 miles northwest of the Afghan capital Wednesday, and that casualties were heavy on both sides.

The diplomats said other Soviet troops were flown into Herat, in western Afgahnistan about 60 miles from the Iranian border, the day the Russians launched the Dec. 27 coup that put their latest proxy. Babrak Karmal, in power, and toppled President Hafizullah Amin,

Carter To Request Soviet Condemnation

WASHINGTON (AP) - Undeterred by the prospect of a Soviet veto, President Carter will seek United Nations Security Council condemnation of the Soviet Union as part of a series of moves to counter Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, according to administration

It was not clear what other steps Carter would take although White House officials said they would go beyond "verbal or symbolic gestures." Military intervention was the only option explicitty

White House press secretary Jody Powell said Wednesday that Carter has made up his mind and that "the president's decisions will be made public when appropriate consultations and notifications have taken place."

A formal announcement was expected today or Friday. One official, who asked not to be identified, said there was a "general revulsion" worldwide to the Sovietsponsored coup in Afghanistan last week and that the administration hoped this would be reflected in a U.N. debate.

Ideally, another official said, the Soviets would find themselves so isolated as a result of the U.N. debate that they would quickly withdraw the estimated 30,000 to 40,000 troops they have deployed in Afghanistan. He added, however, that this was not a likely

Waldheim Escapes From Angry Mob

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - An angry mob of fist-waving Iranians, sent U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim fleeing in his limousine from a cemetery on Tehran's outskirts today just minutes after he arrived to lay a wreath at the graves of revolutionary dead.

In the city, Afghan protesters tried to storm the Soviet Embassy for the second time this week, and tens of thousands of Iranians gathered outside the occupied U.S. Embassy to protest the Waldheim visit in one of the biggest such demonstrations in recent weeks.

About 500 persons, believed to include relatives of those buried at the sprawling Behesht Zahra Cemetery, converged on the car carrying Waldheim to the cemetery from a pad where his helicopter touched down.

Waldheim, in Iran in an effort to defuse the crisis over the U.S. Embassy hostage-holding, was on the ground for only six minutes and never left the car. As the chanting crowd encircled his car, he ordered the driver to return to the helicopter.

"Go! Go!" Waldheim could be seen shouting excitedly to his driver.

Once aboard the helicopter, the craft lifted off immediately, flying Waldheim back to the city, where he met with Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh for about three hours. Asked how the talks on the American hostages were going, Waldheim said: "The talks are continuing and it would not be helpful for me to elaborate at this point."

Waldheim later met with several hundred crippled Iranians said to have been brutalized under the regime of the ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. He said he was "shocked" by the en-(See IRAN, Page 2)

Winter Resort

Deaf Smith County may not be thought of as a winter resort by most folks, but for waterfowl, it ranks with Rio. Huge flights of geese and ducks winged their way into the county in late October, and have been taking the warmer climes and fruitful feeding fields here ever since. This scene, photographed north of Hereford, is typical of those on local playa lakes that hold sufficient water to support the barking geese and gabbling ducks that swarm to them. Sportsmen have also enjoyed a good season, thanks to the massive flights of waterfowl, and there are still some opportunities for hunting, photographing and observing the wildfowl as the duck and goose season continues through Jan. 20. Fed Not Slackening Tight Credit

Dec. 14.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Recent declines in some key interest rates should not be viewed as a sign the Federal Reserve Board is loosening its tight credit policy, says board chairman Paul A.

As Part of Exorcism

NEW YORK (AP) - A 11/2-year-old boy remained in critical condition today, his survival chances dim, from an ordeal in which his mother allegedly tried to burn the devil out of him by putting him in a hot oven.

Leon Justin was burned everywhere except on his face and left hand when, according to police, his mother scalded him with water and roasted him in the kitchen oven of their Harlem apartment Tuesday night.

The mother, Patricia Abraham 25, was arraigned on an assault charge Wednesda night in Criminal Court, where Judge Martin Erdman ordered that she be given a psychiatric examination and returned for a hearing Jan. 30.

Miss Abraham was found naked when a building security patrol summoned the fire department after smelling smoke and hearing chanting from the five-room apartment. She told authorities that she was trying to save the boy because he was in a fever and possessed of the devil, according to the district attorney's office.

Says Millions Saved

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The 1978 Tax Relief Amendment as implemented by the Legislature saved Texas $114.3 million in 1979 school taxes, says the State Property Tax Board.

Kenneth Graeber, the agency's executive director, certified the saving to the state education commissioner.

Under a 1979 law, the state will reimburse school districts for part of their revenue losses. The Property Tax Board certifies the revenue loss, and the education commissioner calculates the amount a district will receive. No district will receive less than 45 percent of its revenue loss.

Graeber said mandatory homestead exemptions cut property tax collections by $107.6 million. Another $6.7 million was saved in school districts that moved voluntarily to assessment of rural land on its productivity.

School districts are required to tax rural land according to productivity, not market value, starting in the 1980 tax year. But some districts chose to grant the tax break early.

Graeber said final statistics are not in yet because 108 of the 1,072 school districts have not sent in their reports.

Carter Statements

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Union today accused President Carter of making "bellicose and wicked" statements and of distorting the "essence and meaning" of the Soviet military intervention in

In a toughly worded commentary, the official Soviet news agency Tass charged Carter and high-ranking Washington officials with spearheading a "frenzied propaganda outcry" that "breaks all records for hypocrisy and lies."

The commentary came a day after Carter recalled the U.S. Ambassador to Moscow, Thomas J. Watson Jr. There also were reports the administration has decided to ask the Senate to delay action on the SALT II talks in response to the Soviet invasion.

Last week, the Soviets sent an estimated 35,000 to 45,000 troops into Afghanistan and helped staged a coup. The new Afghan government is regarded as even more pro-Soviet than the last.

The Soviet troops have been fighting Moslem rebels, who have been trying for 20 months to oust a succession of three Marxist regimes in Afghanistan.

The Tass commentary focused on the president's remarks during a television interview Monday, when Carter accused Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev of giving an "obviously false" account of Soviet actions in last week's Kremlinbacked Kabul coup.

Waldheim street demonstrations broke out and the government said it had uncovered an assassination plot against Waldheim. Ghotbzadeh claimed the plot had "foreign backing."

The secretary-general arrived Tuesday under orders from the U.N. Security Council to seek the release of the American hostages whose captivity now is in the 61st day. He met for three hours with Ghotbzadeh Wednesday, but the foreign minister said a meeting with victims of the shah's secret police was canceled because a plot to kill him was uncovered.

The public meeting was to have taken place at an old army officers' club in downtown Tehran. More than 1,000 angry demonstrators paraded around the building waiting for him, shouting antiAmerican slogans, and there were chants of "Marg Bar Waldheim!" - Death to Waldheim.

"As a result of information received, an unknown group with foreign backing had the intention of misusing the demonstrations to carry out their plot against Mr. Waldheim," Ghotbzadeh told Pars, the official Iranian news agency. He gave no details. Tehran newspapers and government television commentators have been highly critical of Waldheim's official association with the shah while he was in power and have prominently displayed photographs of Waldheim meeting the monarch and kissing the hand of the shah's twin sister when she was representing Iran at the United Nations. Waldheim and Ghotbzadeh said after their first meeting that their talk focused on Iranian grievances against the shah and the United States. This was in line with the Iranian government's contention that the secretary-general came to Tehran to hear its side of the dispute with the United States, not to negotiate the release of the captive Americans.

Waldheim is due to report to the Security Council on Monday, at which time the council is to decide whether to impose economic sanctions on Iran.

Meanwhile, a private mission to Iran on behalf of the hostages ended in failure today. Six American clergymen and a professor of Iranian studies who arrived on Christmas Eve to seek the release of the captives left for home.

CHEAPER OIL?

NEW YORK (AP) - With the price of imported oil soaring, a trade association says there is a way the United States can in effect buy a barrel of oil at least 25 percent cheaper than the going rate for imported crude.

When lead antiknocks are added to gasoline they not only boost the octane rating but lessen the need for refining, ac-cording to the Lead Industries Association.

Werner T. Meyer, LIA president, says every pound of lead antiknock used saves about $21 on a barrel of crude. With lead antiknocks priced at less than $1 a pound, $5 in effect "buys" a barrel, he said. The going price is about $20 a barrel.

But federal regulations keep . refiners from using lead at op-timum levels, Meyer said, adding:
"The restrictions force the

Young People Speak

DEAR ANN: I am an'assistant professor or sociology in a New Hampshire college. A few weeks ago I returned from an eight-week trip around the United States where I spoke with college students on relevant issues facing young people. Sex seemed to be the subject they wanted to talk about more than any other, with emphasis on the changing lifestyles in the past 15 years.

I took several surveys, and the one that surprised me most was the finding that an attractive 21-year-old male, if he has a smooth line, can get 18 out of 20 girls to go to bed with him on the first date.

In your opinion, are these young men bragging, or fantasizing? -- Bemused In N.H.

Pantyhose are going into their third decade on the American scene and they are still shrouded in mystery. Has anyone ever figured out whether or not pantyhose are coming or going by holding them up? The feet give you no clue. They look like a toothless pout. All the while you are slipping them over your feet, you look for a telltale heel or toe or dart, but there is nothing. It's only after you have them on for a few hours that they take form--usually with a heef over your ankle and a flap of toe just under your heel.

After 20 years women of America still don't know wha letter of the alphabet they are. I have seen some of them become quite light-headed at the pantyhose carousel as it spins around, trying to figure out if they are slight built, average, or a moose.

Some of the best fiction being written today is in the instruction pamphlet that accompanies each pair of pantyhose on how to put them on.

Listen to this, and I'm quoting: "Leave 11/2 inches excess of tip of toes when slipping on your hose. (If I had an inch and a half left over, I'd announce it in the New York Times.)

"Stand. (Are they serious?) Pull hose evenly up to mid-thigh and position the crotch and waistband. Make sure the fabric is stretched to its full length. (Oh, sure, when Redford calls, I'll put him on hold too.)

interest rate, 7.75 percent. Jim, a 42-year-old salesman, had worked hard to save money. So had his wife, a clerk in a Washington, D.C., store. They had saved $10,000, feared investing in the stock market, didn't want to buy more property and sought a better interest rate than the 5 percent passbook savings account then

On July 11, 1977, Jim Sykes, (not his real name) hought a six-year certificate of deposit at what looked like a fantastic

So they bought a 7.75 percent CD at a local savings and loan

They, of course, had no way of knowing that the U.S. economy's inflation rate would reach dougle-digit figures. Like other Americans who bought CDs in the mid-1970s, the Sykes family was locked into an interest rate too low to prevent erosion of their money's value.

Until last summer, when the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which regulates S & Ls, made it possible for them to

Before last summer, if you wanted to cash in your CD prior to its maturity date, you would lose three months of interest completely, and all the rest of your interest would revert to the regular passbook savings rate.

Last summer the FHLBB changed the rules. Result: Sykes could cash in his CD by taking a penalty of only six months' interest if his S & L agreed.

That's what he did in mid-December, 1979. He reinvested the sum he'd saved and within 21 months will make up all the loss and get-a much higher interest rate thereafter.

By cashing in his six-year CD, Sykes lost $393.96 He reinvested his nest egg in a four-year "money market CD which pays 9.85 percent annually. In the next six months Sykes'-nest-egg will.earn $504.83, compared to less than $400 it would have earned at 7.75 percent. If Sykes had reinvested in a six-month treasury "bill," paying an annual interest rate of 11.767 percent, he could have earned even more in six months — $594.87. But he wouldn't have been protected on the "down side" after six months, so he preferred the 9.85 percent guaranteed over four years.

You may not think the Sykes family is typical. After all, how many Americans have $10,000 squirreled away in CDs? "Millions," says an FHLBB economist.

As of Oct. 31, he says, the total amount in S & L savings and time certificates amounted to $454.6 billion. The total breaks $119 billion in traditional passbook savings accounts.

 $143.6 billion in "jumbo" CDs, amounts of $100.000 or more whose interest rates are negotiated with the S & Ls.

 $311 billion in all other types of CDs; $114 billion of this in six-month "money market" CDs, the other $197 billion in longer-term CDs.

"The new penalty rules favor people who've held onto their CDs for a while," says an FHLBB official. But he cautions that anyone holding a CD, and considering the switch that Jim Sykes made, must find out: What penalty his S & L is going to impose for cashing in his CD before its maturity date. What categories of CDs his S & L applies the new penalty

For instance, some S & Ls have applied the new, lesser penalty across-the-board, while others apply it only to four, six or eight-year CDs. It's up to you to find out exactly what your S & L's rules are, and to ask your S & L to figure out whether or not it's to your advantage to cash in your CD prematurely and reinvest the proceeds at a higher interest rate.

Parks Upset Over His Firing

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) Perennial Miss America Pageant host Bert Parks says pageant officials pulled a "shabby trick" by firing him after 25 years of singing "There She Is" to tearful beauty queens.

"You've got to be kidding me. I'm absolutely shocked. I know nothing about this at all," Parks said when told of his dismissal late Wednesday night.

"I think it's their loss. I never thought they'd pull a trick like this," Parks said. "This is a little shabby, isn't it?"

Albert A. Marks Jr., the pageant's chief executive officer, said Wednesday that Parks "has not been invited back to be the emcee next year."

Marks said he told Parks in a letter two weeks ago that he would not be rehired to his traditional one-year contract. Marks would not give a reason for Parks' dismissal.

Parks, 65, reached at home in Greenwich, Conn., said he had not received the letter.

"I am really, honestly, so stunned. I really wish Al Marks

Parks has been the pageant's television master of ceremonies since 1955, the second year of its nationwide telecast.

Marks said Parks earned $18,500 for his services last year, which included rehearsals and three nights as host of preliminary competition in addition to the two-hour television show.

A pageant source who asked not to be identified said Parks was fired because he was getting too old and "too powerful" for the non-profit pageant organization, led by dozens of Atlantic City area businessmen and civic leaders.

The source said the pageant's television sponsors Kellogg's, Gillette and Campbell's Soup - supported the dismissal.

"Look, the guy's 65 years old," the source said. "A younger face is needed for that

Two Black Eyes

for Public Education

By now you've seen the Carnegie Foundation evaluation on public education. Wow!

The foundation's study concludes that one-third of today's high school graduates are so "uneducated" that they can't get and hold a job.

The report recommends a drastic overhaul of the entire system of public education; says youngsters should be taught the kinds of skills which are now in demand.

Back to vocational education! After all that experimentation with "socially significant studies" it's time to get back to teaching young Americans how to earn a living.

One good example is worth a thousand admonitions.

Meet Marva Collins. A dedicated schoolteacher, she endured 14 years of frustration in the Chicago public school system. In 1975 she quit, rented part of an old brownstone lodging house on West Adams

This is no-frills education with emphasis on discipline and drilling and memorization.

The school takes in a total of only about a thousand dollars a month in tuitions, survives otherwise on donations. But there is no government money because, says Mrs. Collins, "I don't want any government experts telling me what's good for these kids or how I should teach."

She said the government would want to send her $20,000 dollars worth of audiovisual equipment which she'd just have to leave out on the sidewalk. Because her system of education requires only "a blackboard and books and a pair of legs that will last through the day.'

On that occasion, Carter waited. But his impatience seemed evident when the reporter found the chief executive in the Rose Garden tossing sticks to daughter Amy's dog

On two occasions, President Lyndon B. Johnson did wait for the press, but these were exceptions proving the rule.

On a trip to Chicago in 1968, the entire White House press corps flew aboard Air Force One, moving to and from the city by bus while LBJ went by Returning to the airport, one press bus crashed into an auto. Johnson had little choice but to wait for the shaken, if uninjured survivors.

A year earlier, a four-man "pool" of reporters was chosen to accompany LBJ from the Philadelphia airport to Los Angeles following the first of two summit meetings Johnson held at Glassboro, N.J., with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Naturally, Johnson's helicopter preceded a Marine-manned press chopper from Glassboro to Philadelphia. But once Johnson was on the ground, the pilot of the press helicopter announced that he could not land until Air Force One had departed.

No one could convince the pilot that Johnson and his big jet would not take off until the four reporters were aboard Air Force

Chrysler trucks. The Warren man, a 24-year veteran of the plant, has spent hundreds of hours and more than $1,000 building the miniature plant. It started as a model railroad project in 1977 to keep the 57year-old Landino busy while he recovered from two cancer operations. But railroad trains weren't enough for him. "I just wanted to be different. It was a challenge," he said. So he pulled out an old drafting board and started drawing a building to accompany the trains. It was only natural that Dodge Main would be the result, he said.

Landino, who is on medical leave from Chrysler, created the 6-by-16 foot model from memory. It is very detailed, including telephone poles, bridges, streets and a small village with houses that light up.

But it is not done to scale, nor is it an exact replica, Landino said.

"When I made it up, I didn't just want this thing to be blah," he explained, so he added a few personal touches - streets named after his grandchildren and billboards with their photographs.

Landino even threw in some chickens and pigs around the plant because his daughter-inlaw likes animals. It's taken Landino, a production control employee, until now to get the model in shape. He

That may not be the end of it, either. He's thinking of building another Dodge Main - this time to scale - and maybe even building the Detroit Jefferson Assembly plant. Landino goes into the hospital at the end of the week for more surgery and building models is "good therapy," he says.

An avowed Chrysler man, Landino admitted it will be sad to see the real Dodge Main close on Friday because of Chrysler's severe financial difficulties.

The plant may be old - it started production in 1914 but it could still be used with some modernization, he said.

"I know the building is good for at least another 100 years, it's so well constructed," he said. "I think it could still produce a lot of cars there and I'd hate to see a place just go to

Bama Takes No. 1 Spot in AP

Time marches on, but the Alabama Crimson Tide rolls along in the same place - No.1 in The Associated Press final college football poll for the second year in a row.

Alabama won the national championship following the bowl games last year, beating Southern California in a hotly disputed vote. This year's balloting, also seriously challenged on the West Coast, finished with Alabama No.1 and Southern Cal again in hot pursuit.

Tide received 45 outright firstplace votes to 20 for Southern Cal from a nationwide panel of 67 sports writers and broadcasters Wednesday. Two voters split their ballot between Alabama and Southern Cal, giving the Crimson Tide 46 first-place votes to 21 for the Trojans.

Oklahoma finished third for the second straight year, followed by Ohio State and Housbehind top-ranked Ohio State and 81/4 points ahead of No.3 Southern Cal. But the Crimson Tide, the only major college to finish with a perfect 12-0 record, convincingly beat a pesky Arkansas team, 21-9, in the Sugar Bowl.

Then in the Rose Bowl, Southern Cal, which had a tie with Stanford as the only blemish on its record, squeaked by Ohio State 17-16.

Olympic Officials Resist Boycott on Games

LONDON (AP) - Olympic officials have lined up against Western politicians who are demanding a boycott of the Summer Olympic Games in Moscow to protest Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

The Soviet intervention in Afghanistan has profoundly alarmed Western politicians.

President Carter Wednesday recalled U.S. Ambassador Thomas Watson from Moscow after declaring that the Soviet move "has made a more dramatic change in my opinion of what the Soviets' ultimate goals are than anything they've done in the previous time that I've been in office."

The Olympics and politics are no strangers. African athletes boycotted the 1976 Montreal Games after a New Zealand rugby team toured South Africa, and threatened a further boycott of this year's Games if the British Lions rugby tour to South Africa goes ahead as scheduled.

But Western sports officials stressed that Western governments have few if any legal powers to stop athletes from taking part.

A Belgian Olympic Committee member said: "We (the BOC) are a sovereign organization.

We can participate in the Olympics outside of the govern-

Sir Denis Follows, chairman of the British Olympic Association, said: "The only way the British government can prevent us taking part is by taking away the passports of all our competitors, and there is no way that that is going to happen.' He added: "It is not for governments to meddle in matters of this kind. Sport should be above politics, otherwise the whole concept of sport just goes out the window.'

Maurice Herzog, one of two French members of the IOC, said: "In spite of the reactions of some, the business at Kabul has nothing to do with the Olympic Games."

A member of the Italian Olympic Committee said: "We are against any political involvement in sport."

Danish Olympic Committee member Kurt Moeller said: "We don't want to involve Olympic prospects with NATO

I never thought I would hear myself express anything other than the highest esteem for your machine (The Organization, America's Team or whatever the media hypes are calling it now), but quite frankly I was very disappointed in the performance the machine put out this year.

Somehow or another the darn thing broke down during the National Football League playoffs a week ago against a Los Angeles implement. You should have seen it, Tex. To my dismay, the thing just ran around in circles all day long.

Now, I realize of course that machines do break down--even yours and mine. It's just something we learn to live with, but I don't want mine to burn itself out in peak production periods.

If you recall, I sent you a list of some broken and missing parts that I wanted replaced -- a Thomas Henderson, a Too-Tall Jones, a Charlie Waters plus a Randy Hughes, and you sent me a Roger Staubach, Drew Pearson, Ron Springs, Harvey Martin and Duane Thomas instead. Heck, Tex, the first four items on the list that you sent me are some of the few that do work.

I hear through the grapevine that you may even discontinue production of the Staubach piece anyway so that doesn't matter. but that Duane Thomas part didn't fit in any machine.

And as a result of your mail order negligence, my machine doesn't work any longer--at least for another complete year. Therefore, I'm demanding compensation for all the time and zeal I've shown toward the machine this past year. As near as I can determine by looking at the warranty agreement, you owe me at least two weekend's worth of vacation for time lost watching my machine fail to perform, at least 40 inches of hard copy of some kind which I can fill my column space with since there's no machine to write about anymore, and a guarantee that you'll kidnap Howard Cosell--undoubtedly football's worst color man in the history of sports the machine's downfall. If those demands are too unreasonable and impossible to come to grips with, I feel sure we could settle out of court for say, the complete legal rights to the Dallas Cowboy Cheerleaders--in my name of course.

Other than that warranty claim, the only business transaction left now is to inquire about buying stock in a fairly new but competitive machine called "Oilers No. 1" or something to the effect. I think I read something about this machine in the Wall Street Journal. Or maybe it was Popular Mechanics. Anyway, all I really do know about this Houston-based BLUE machine is that the main feature incorporates a supercharged part, engineers have code named "Earl the Pearl." I know you've seen this part advertised on t.v., Tex. The commercial has a real catchy logo to it which describes the new part as being a Skoal Brothuh! Don't quote me on that, Tex, because I actually never understood the commercial, but you might try to do something you put out on your machine called the Tony Dorsett stays in idle about 90 percent of the time. I will reconsider installing your machine in my home next year providing you revamp your present hardware, but until then I'm going to equip my place with the more dependable BLUE model. In closing, I only want to add that your machine wasn't all that bad--in fact quite good at times--yet it was working on borrowed time. Trouble shooting the rackety old thing was like trying to Auburn lost to a great player. North Carolina lost to an improving one. Missouri fell to a fine road team, Canisius was beaten by a very good team and Louisiana State was taken by a surprising one.

It all added up to two Top Ten teams being upset Wednesday, one Top Tenner barely squeaking by and the other two romping to victory as the nation's major college basketball teams got back into action following the New Year's holiday.

Auburn fell to No.2 Kentucky 67-65 on Kyle Macy's 25-foot shot at the buzzer. Sixth-rated

AP Sports Writer Some impressions of television's football coverage and a dook into the networks' huddles after CBS and NBC managed to reduce the National Football League playoff field to four teams while signing an armistice in their own "Battle of the

For several weeks, highlight footage of the CBS games were not shown on NBC, while the key plays of the NBC games were kept off CBS. In what amounted to a childish exercise in one-upsmanship, NBC canceled the usual tape-swapping arrangement over football because CBS wouldn't fill NBC's request for tapes of 11 sports events for its year-end show.

The battle lines were drawn. 'They served us with a laundry list." said Neal Pilson, vice president of business affairs for CBS Sports: "We'd be glad to give them three or four tapes. But we're not going to program their show for them."

"That'll be the day," countered Don Ohlmeyer, executive producer of NBC Sports. "Either there's a free exchange of clips or there

Two weeks ago, the CBS NFL highlights returned to NBC, and

But in truth, NBC did the relenting. CBS had been willing all along to give NBC a "reasonable" number of tapes. When NBC and CBS finally agreed on three tapes - the

Although Ohlmeyer's judgment was bad in the "Battle of the Tapes," he deserves rich braise for the exciting, upbeat look of NBC's football shows. In the three AFC playoff games the past two weekends, there were several innovative camera and production techniques:

-Frozen frame insets, taking up a quarter of the screen as a lead into the commercial breaks. These interesting shots of a key play or player enlivened the coverage.

-Split screen shots, which can quickly summarize a game. One we remember was the combo in the Houston-Denver game, matching a pair of No. 7s on the screen, quarterbacks Dan Pastorini and Craig Morton.

John McLeod. "They were getting those back-door plays on us early. Griffin picked off a couple of those and broke them up. He just had a sensational game. He did it on both ends of the court," said San Antonio coach Doug Moe.

The Suns burned San Antonio and the slower Paultz on several back-door plays in the first quarter. But Moe inserted the quicker Griffin to blunt Phoenix's quick offensive attack.

"We were struggling defensively. Griffin is quicker than Billy," Moe explained.

Griffin entered the game with 3:17 remaining in the first quarter as Phoenix held a 27-18 lead. The Spurs rallied to cut the margin to 34-32 at the end of the period and led 62-61 at San Antonio obtained Griffin; a three-year veteran, from Utah before the season as compensation for free agent Allan less than five points and rebounds per game this season.

The victory was sorely needed by the slumping Spurs, who won the NBA Central Division the past two seasons, but were mired at 19-20 before Wednesday night's game.

Today In History

By The Associated Press Today is Thursday, Jan. 3, the third day of 1980. There are 363 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Jan. 3, 1959, Alaska became the 49th state. On this date:

In 1777, General George Washington's army routed British regulars in the Battle of Princeton, N.J.

In 1961, the United States severed relations with Cuba. In 1967, Jack Ruby, the convicted killer of Lee Harvey Os-

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

AP Special Correspondent RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Before the U.S. Census Bureau embarks on the 1980 countdown, the bureaucrats with the clipboards and the questionnaires might have a peek at my annual Christmas card survey.

Could be that by projecting the results in a computer, making the necessary adjustments for ethnic, geographical and religious variants, they could save the country a bunch of money and not have to go around pestering people.

This year we received 216 Christmas cards, not counting the ones the Post Office hasn't got around to delivering yet. The geographical range was from Winnipeg, Canada, in the north to Tasmania way down at the bottom of Australia and from Tokyo and Bangkok in the East to Cyprus in the opposite

At least a half-dozen neighbors walked up the road and put their cards in our box. eliminating the middle man at the stamp window, which should provide some kind of economic commentary on the way the country is headed.

The total number of cards, at this date, is 36 fewer than last year, which may be another depression indicator.

Six new divorces and one trial separation turned up in the small print at the bottom of the poems this year, including one couple who announced splitsville after 29 years of surface bliss. Three of our divorced correspondents had remarried since last Christmas, showing

Those who appended long notes or provided one of those mimeographed annual family histories shed some light on our changing life styles as a new decade begins.

This year again into my mailbox fluttered all those little

Christmas bulletins that tell us in a way the 1980 census never can that life is still worth living and no substitute has yet been found for it. When the census takers get through tallying up their figures and burning up the computers, the results will be the same as William Faulkner predicted in his Nobel Prize acceptance speech: humanity will not only endure, it will prevail. Even over the Post Office.

Despite their varying reasons for entering the priesthood, both Campbell and Mrs. Spurll reflect a growing trend.

The Anglican and United Church of Canada (a merger of Protestant bodies) are noticing an increase in the number of people who decide to enter the ministry late in life, often after a successful secular career.

A parallel trend has been noted in the United States.

The reasons a person who has had a full secular life may give for wanting to put on the priest's collar may vary, but the sacrifices are the same.

Father Bryon Bjerfing for example, a 37-year-old Anglican priest ordained two years ago, gave up a $30,000-a-year job as information officer with the Manitoba Teachers' Federation.

Bjerring now receives $9,000 annually, plus housing for his family provided by the church. "We don't lack anything but steak doesn't find its way into our house," he says.

In Bjerring's case, the death of his first wife and the ordination of a friend shortly afterward solidified his inclination to the priesthood.

Campbell agrees that it's not an easy path to take financially. His wife works part time and both he and Mrs. Spurll are receiving help from the church to pay tuition and living expenses.

What does a builder mean when he advertises an "expandable core house"?

Some builders are now erecting houses that are built in inexpensive units or cores. The basic unit may provide a floor plan that includes kitchen, bath, bedroom and living area on a modest scale. However, the structure may also provide for easy alteration so that future expansion can be easily accomplished simply by adding another "core". In this type of "expandable" construction, a small one or two bedroom home might easily be increased in size to accomodate four bedrooms and extra living space in future years.

Associated Press Writer Supermarket shoppers who resolved to start the new year by spending less will have a hard time. An Associated Press marketbasket survey shows grocery prices increased sharply during December, rising more than three times as much as they did in November and twice as much as they did in the same month of 1978.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and non-food items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list at the end of November 1977 because the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

Among the highlights of the latest check: -The marketbasket bill increased during December at the checklist store in 11 cities, up an average of 3.2 percent, and decreased in two cities, down an average of 1 percent. On an overall basis, the marketbasket bill at the start of January was 2.6 percent higher than it was a month earlier.

-The December increase compared with a rise of eighttenths of a percent during November and a boost of 1.3 percent during December 1978. Last month's rise was the second worst of the year, topped only by a 2.7 percent boost in January. -The marketbasket bill increased in every city during 1979, rising an average of 9.5 percent over the 12 month period. That compared with an 8.9 percent increase during 1978.

-Foods rose faster than nonfood items during 1979. Comparing prices of food items only,

Indonesian Army Being Revitalized

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) -Fewer generals at the top and better trained troops at the bottom is the plan for Indonesia's army of the future.

The new look also promises a fully professional officer corps with no outside business interests and more military equipment stamped "made in Indonesia.

'Abri," an acronym for Armed Forces of Indonesia, is also undergoing a generational change as the so-called "1945 generation," who won independence from the Dutch, is phased out. Younger commanders are known as the "Mage-lang generation" after the army academy in central Java. Diplomats at some Western embassies in Jakarta say the changes are overdue. The military machine was showing signs of neglect because of more important national priorities, they said, and morale suffered in the lower ranks. It was last tested in battle during Indonesia's takeover of Portuguese Timor in 1975. Several observers said an inept performance against ill-trained rebels had led directly to the current shakeup. Most credit for revitalizing Abri is given to general Muhammad Jusuf, 50. He served in relative obscurity in the cabinet for 13 years before being named defense minister and armed forces commander 20 months ago.

Jusuf has been trying to create a new esprit de corps, an effort that ranges from improving the welfare of foot soldiers to threatening to dismiss officers and enlisted men who mistreat the public, abuse their power or flout regulations. He has also tried to modernize equipment and create a better image of the military among civilians by stressing austerity and simple living. Military guards once posted at the homes of top brass and senior civil servants have been withdrawn. Officers are ordered to shun nightclubbing and stay away from massage parlors.

Jusuf recently enforced a regulation issued more than five years ago forbidding officers on active duty to dabble in private business. The estimated 200 to 300 men with such sidelines were told to choose between their uniform or civilian

Senior officers formally assigned to non-military posts in state-owned corporations or government departments were not affected. The policy of having them take on social-political-economic jobs as well as their military one is called "dwi fungsi" or dual function.

The military role in civilian affairs was formally written into the broad guidelines of state policy adopted in March 1978. About one-third of the army is engaged in civil and administrative duties, according to one source.

But she didn't consider climbing inside the box until 13 years ago, after she'd married a lawyer in the State Department and had moved to Washington. By then, she'd graduated from Barnard, as an English and sociology major ("My greatest strength is that I approach every story from the point of view of the humanities.") And she'd been 'nice enough to feel guilty about hating graduate school and being there on scholarship so I dropped out and worked as an editorial assistant on a

DEAR POLLY - Recently the freezer went off in our mountain cabin and more aggravating then the $200 worth of food that spoiled is the odor that remains. I washed with soda and went through the crumpled newspaper routine but neither helped. You are my last resort. Thanks for any help. — LOIS

DEAR LOIS — Try placing open containers of charcoal in the freezer. Another choice might be the use of bowls of vanilla. Do hope one of these helps. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY - Do tell Hal that the way to get rid of the odor of mothballs is to stop using them. They are out of date. Use hedge apples as I have done for 25 years. I've never had a moth. Place one in the bottom of a garment bag (only one time have I found a worm in one), wrap a bit of foil or tissue lightly around the hedge apple and as long as a dried up brown piece is left it will be effective.

DEAR VANCE — That is one I have never heard before but we will just rely on your word for it if you have used it for 25 years. Those readers who are not acquainted with hedge apples should look for rather scrubby little trees with chartreuse green, gnarled looking little apples. — POLLY

DEAR MRS. M.N. — I have had good luck using a commercial spray spot lifter — follow directions on the can. Sometimes when spots are very fresh the suds from a solution of cold water and a detergent for woolens and fine washables works well, too.
