Fifth shuttle mission final countdown begins

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Years of technical troubles now forgotten, the space shuttle went into its final countdown today for Thursday's fifth flight. With two satellites aboard, the ship was finally ready to do the job for which it was built — ferrying cargo into space. Columbia was scheduled to blast off at 7:19 a.m. EST Thursday, with four astronauts aboard, the most ever assembled for a space launch. Two companies, Satellite Business Systems of McLean, Va., and Telesat Canada Ltd., are paying $11 million each for launch services. The cost of the flight is estimated by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at $150 million. The countdown was going smoothly today; the astronauts were up early and working. Pilots Vance Brand and Robert Overmyer made practice landings on the long

Kennedy Space Center runway here while mission specialists Joseph Allen and William Lenoir reviewed satellite deployment procedures. "We hope to put on a good show for you Thursday morning," Overmyer told reporters Tuesday after he and his crewmates arrived from Houston. The astronauts were undergoing a final medical check and received briefings on the flight plan and the weather. The forecast looked favorable at the Cape, although rains in California muddled the shuttle's first-choice landing strip on Rogers Dry Lake at Edwards

Air Force Base. Brand almost died during the joint U.S.-Soviet space mission in 1975 when exhaust gases seeped into the Apollo capsule as he and two other astronauts returned to Earth. Columbia's fifth crew also includes William Lenoir and Joseph Allen, members of a new classification of astronauts called mission specialists. Columbia began its test-launch program 19 months ago, completing four successful flights that readied the vehicle for commercial trips. At the launch pad, where a helium leak was deemed slow enough Tuesday to be acceptable for launch, technicians were completing final work on the spaceship in preparation for loading its cavernous fuel tanks with more than a million gallons of supercold liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen fuel.

powerful engines and a pair of solid-fuel boosters are to propel the shuttle into an 184-mile-high orbit. Eight hours after liftoff, Lenoir and Allen are to eject the first satellite, built for Satellite Business Systems, into its own orbit. Telesat Canada's payload will be released 24 hours later.

NASA hopes to turn a profit starting in 1985 when it will start charging much higher rates for cargoes. The agency already has more than 150 customers signed up.

A highlight of the mission will be a joint space walk Sunday morning by the two mission specialists. Wearing bulky space suits, Lenoir and Fueling will begin shortly before midnight tonight and continue until just before liftoff. Columbia's three liquid-

A proposed new school policy caused a routine meeting to last 2½ hours Tuesday night as Hereford Schools trustees amended several points for clarity and exactness.

All board members present, Tom Simons, Sallie Strain, R.C. Hoelscher, James Gentry, and Bill Townsend, approved the policy as amended.

school board has indicated a need, however, for a sports complex in long range planning goals. Simons told the board that before consideration becomes more concrete, the long range planning committee would need more time. The board has generally turned up its nose toward the proposal by Pierce, Goodwin and Alexander, saying the risk of the school system is much greater than that of the architectural firm.

No formal action was taken. The curriculum report was on kindergarten for four-year-olds, both migrant and Head Start programs. Margaret Bell, Hereford Educators Association president reported that in statewide candidate endorsements by Texas State Teachers Association, all but seven were elected. She refuted the rumor that the

Jobs, housing programs probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats, trying to beat Republicans to the punch, are considering a multibillion-dollar package of more than 600,000 jobs, housing subsidies and a modification of next year's income tax cut, sources say.

Also included would be a provision for employing 20,000 youngsters year-round in the conservation and rehabilitation of public lands and parks. And it would provide for 50,000 summer jobs for the same purpose.

Concerning the Special Events Center architectural contract, Tom Simons told the board, "It seems to me that whatever the county finds from their continuing saga of the public opinion poll, we are out on our own."

AUSTIN, Tex. — State Comptroller Bob Bullock last week sent checks totaling $184,796 to the 40 Texas counties and 28 cities who have legalized charity bingo and levied the option 2 percent local tax.

The biggest check went to Nueces County were 40 Corpus Christi area organizations licensed to conduct bingo games by the Comptroller's Bingo Regulation Division brought in taxes of $19,890.

DETROIT (AP) — A laid-off Chrysler Corp. employee says she and her children face a Christmas without presents if 10,000 Canadian workers continue the strike that forced her out of a job.

Feelings are mixed among U.S. workers affected by the Canadian walkout, which began Friday. One Michigan Chrysler worker, laid off because of the strike, says he HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — About 1,000 people bitterly divided over the fate of the Three Mile Island nuclear plant packed a high school auditorium for a Nuclear Regulatory Commission hearing on whether one reactor should be restarted.

State legislators file 105 bills for session

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — If the 1983 Legislature agrees, mid-size Texas cities can ask their voters to pay another one cent local sales tax to cover the cost of bus systems and other mass transit.

Urbe's bill would allow cities of more than 50,000 population to hold local option elections on levying an additional sales tax of up to one cent. The tax could be approved in increments of one-quarter of a cent.

People speaking against the restart of Unit 1 were given ovations while those urging restart were repeatedly heckled.

WARSZAWA, Poland (AP) — Soldiers with fixed bayonets and police with automatic weapons patrolled 20 Polish cities today and authorities claimed factories operated "undisturbed" despite Solidarity's call for an eight-hour sitdown strike.

In the southern city of Krakow, Western reporters said university students protested peacefully for 15 minutes against the expulsion of 10 students found with printing equipment in their rooms, and then dispersed without police involvement.

Western reporters touring major Marsaw factories were also were beefed up in the capital. In the capital, factories appeared to be operating normally. Buses and streetcars ran on schedule, and there were no banners, posters or flags like those placed on the Gdansk shipyard gates during wildcat protests last month.

The 17 congressmen from Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana asked Reagan to let the tax "die a rightful death."

Losing candidate sues over ballot shortage

HOUSTON (AP) — An unsuccessful candidate for state district judge is accusing election officials of trying to help his opponent by conspiring to limit the number of ballots available in mostly black precincts.

Clarke Gable Ward, a 51-year-old Democrat, filed a suit in federal court Monday against Harris County Clerk Anita Rodenheaver and Secretary of State David Dean.

The suit contends the two officials conspired to violate voting statutes by artificially limiting black and other minority voters who could actually participate in the election Nov. 2.

Ward is asking that the election results be set aside and a new election ordered in precincts that did not have enough ballots.

Ward said 25,000 potential votes may have been lost because of a lack of ballots. Ward, running for the 21st District Court seat against Republican incumbent Louis Moore, received 37,872 votes or 48.11 percent, compared with 20,422 or 26.27 percent for Moore.

Youth says he put needle in own candy

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Camp Fire girls in this West Texas city have resumed selling candy after a 15-year-old boy admitted he implanted the needle he had reported found in his cashew cluster.

The Camp Fire Council of Lubbock had suspended its $30,000 candy drive Monday after the boy reported finding the needle and 15 stitches of thread when he bit into the candy.

But Tuesday, after the youth told police his story was not true, the council said door-to-door sales would be resumed as soon as possible.

"We feel the candy is safe," said Louise Cummings, president of the council. "We bought it from this company for years and there has never been a problem."

A spokesman for the Falcon Candy Co. of Philadelphia, the candy's manufacturer, said the final product is checked with metal detectors before leaving the factory.

The council had offered refunds for all sold boxes of candy and was trying to devise alternative fund-raising activities.

Police spokesman Bill Morgan said crime lab tests on thread taken from the youth's home "were very similar" to the thread found in the piece of candy.

Morgan said the youth told police he had jammed the needle and thread into the candy, but did not say why. The boy earlier had told police he bit into the candy but was not injured by the needle.

Hundreds of pieces of Halloween candy were contaminated this year, possibly a result of a nationwide scare spawned by the poisoning of over-the-counter drug products.

Candy manufacturers often use metal detectors to check products, said Food and Drug Administration Dallas supervisor Roger Flesch in Dallas.

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — A former vice president of a failed North Texas bank has been sentenced to six months in jail for misapplying loan money, but says she broke the law only because she "tried to help someone."

Barbara Robinson, vice president of the Bank of Woodson, pleaded guilty in June to "aiding and abetting" misapplication of bank funds and was sentenced Tuesday to six months in federal prison for misapplying federally insured bank funds.

Murder jury couldn't take prosecution witness seriously

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A member of the panel which found prison inmate Eroy Brown innocent of capital murder in a warden's drowning says jurors believed Brown's testimony but did not take the prosecution's chief witness seriously.

The jury came to the conclusion that it was self-defense, C.J. Johnson, a Galveston truck driver, said Tuesday after the verdict.

Johnson said jurors believed Brown, who said he once had warden Wallace Pack's head underwater but let him up and fought back when the official attacked him a second time.

Brown, 31, of Waco, said he shot prison farm manager Billy Max Moore to death and then drowned Pack in April 1981 because he believed they were going to torture and kill him.

Pack was warden of the maximum security Ellis Unit near Huntsville.

Former inmate Levi Dason's admission that his testimony contradicted statements he made the day of the killing damaged the prosecution's case, Johnson said.

"Whatever the DA (district attorney) fed him, he ate it up and spit it back out," Johnson said.

Dason, 40, of Midland, was the prosecution's only eyewitness. He testified that he watched Brown force Moore to his knees before shooting the official through the head.

But Dason admitted his testimony contradicted his statement that he saw Brown in back of a car at the time of the slaying.

"You've got to have a doubt when a man tells five stories," said another juror, who asked for anonymity.

Brown hugged defense attorney Craig Washington as jury foreman Travis Carlisle of Texas City read the innocent verdict.

"Eroy was crying and he reached out his hand and I grabbed it," Washington recalled at the defense victory party. That's all I remember.

It was Brown's second trial for Pack's death. A mistrial was declared in March when a jury deadlocked 10-2 in favor of acquittal.

Special prosecutor Mack Arnold of Houston held his head as the verdict was read.

Assistant prosecutor Frank Blazek said no decision had been made on whether to try Brown for Moore's death.

"I haven't been thinking in that direction," he said.

Defense lawyer Timothy Sloan said that if the state attempts to prosecute Brown in Moore's killing, the defense team will seek to halt the action on grounds the evidence would be the same as in the Pack case.

Arnold said the verdict, returned after less than three hours of deliberations, surprised him.

Generally a quick verdict benefits the state, he said.

"This jury may have had some trouble voting against their predecessors."

Texas Department of Corrections spokesman Rick Hartley said in Huntsville that prison employees were "shocked and disappointed" by the Brown verdict.

"We certainly hope that this doesn't affect the safety of those working in the prisons, but we just can't tell right now," Hartley said.

"All I can say is this is a sad day for TDC."

Federal authorities will not oppose housing Brown in a federal penitentiary, defense attorney Bill Habern said after the verdict.

He said David Vanderhoof, a senior trial attorney with the Justice Department in Washington, told him last week the U.S. Bureau of Prisons would have no objections to transferring Brown for his own protection.

Habern said the state must agree in writing to the transfer and must pay the cost of Brown's keep. He said defense attorneys must also negotiate an exemption to the state rule that no prisoner can have a parole hearing if he is not housed in a Texas prison unit.

"We think we can work that out," he said.

Jurors said the panel had little trouble reaching its decision.

Members of the jury said an initial vote was 9-3 in favor of acquittal. Another juror had said the vote was 10-2.

Johnson said two of the guilty votes were cast just to make sure there was discussion. He said "it didn't take long" to convince the remaining juror "that he just wasn't sure what he had heard."

A holdout juror from the first trial was not so easily persuaded.

Dorothy Kemp of La Marque said after Brown's acquittal, "I still think he's guilty as sin."

Pack, 54, and Moore, 49, were killed on April 4, 1981, after a scuffle erupted when they tried to handcuff Brown. Prosecutors said Brown had become a disciplinary problem that day and had been smoking marijuana.

Brown said Pack and Moore had become angry when he complained about not getting a furlough or leave.

He said Moore threatened to throw him in the Trinity River handcuffed, and Pack held a gun to his head and said, "I told you to shut up. I'm going to splatter your brains all over the road."

Arnold said in his final argument Tuesday that Brown "cold-bloodedly assassinated Billy Moore. And when there were no more bullets he went down there and killed Wallace Pack with his bare hands."

State District Judge Darrell Hester told the jury it had to consider whether Brown had an opportunity to retreat.

"Where was Eroy going to retreat to?" defense lawyer Washington asked the jurors. "If he had attempted to retreat, they would have said he was escaping and shot him down like a dog."

Washington collapsed on the way to the courtroom to hear the verdict. Emergency medical personnel were called and stood by in the back of the courtroom as the verdict was read.

Washington, who had become ill during the trial last Friday as a result of fatigue, said he fainted Tuesday because he had been hyperventilating.

Record apple crop causes headaches for market

EVERBERG, Belgium (AP) — An apple a day may keep the doctor away, but 7.3 million tons of them are causing big headaches in Europe.

From the giant orchards of West Germany to British backyards blessed with an apple tree or two, perfect weather has made the autumn of 1982 the best apple season ever for the 10 member countries of the European Common Market.

But the glut is sending prices to half their 1981 levels, and some farmers are letting the apples rot on the ground.

"I can't give them away fast enough this year," says Peggy Pfeifer, an American living in Everberg, a village west of Brussels. Her four apple trees usually are picked bare by mid-October, but this year, "I've been giving big baskets to friends and there's still hundreds of apples left."

This year's yield in the Common Market countries will be an estimated 100,000 tons bigger than the record 7.2 million tons in 1980 and 2.3 million tons bigger than in 1981.

West Germany's crop will be three times larger than in 1981. Belgium's twice as big and production in other apple-growing countries is running 25 percent to 50 percent higher than last year.

"It's massive and it's putting a lot of pressure on the markets," says Roland Woods, an expert for the Paris-based Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

The current recession in Europe hasn't helped apple consumption, especially when September unemployment hit 9.8 percent or 11.2 million people, a postwar record. Table fruit for casual munching is often the first thing left off shopping lists when household money is tight, Woods said.

"We not only have bigger production, we have a potentially smaller market," he said.

Farmers in Belgium are getting an average of 8 cents a pound for their apples this month — about half what they got last year. If the apples are poor quality, they're not even offering them for sale.

Frans DeDonder, director of one of Belgium's biggest produce exchanges, summed up the average farmer's view: "It's catastrophic," he says.

In recent weeks, government and industry officials have tried to soften the impact of all those apples falling on the market.

The Common Market's executive commission has become one of the world's biggest buyers of bargain apples, purchasing them for half-price from farmers who otherwise couldn't sell them.

About 2 percent of these apples are destroyed, but most of them are shipped whole or turned into apple juice for hospitals, schools, old-age homes and overseas food aid programs. Some of them are converted to animal feed but a constant diet of sour apples does the same thing to pigs and cows that it does to humans, so that part of the program is relatively minor.

This year, instead of taking 580,000 tons as planned, the Common Market will buy 700,000 tons, almost one-tenth the projected harvest. The cost has not been estimated but is considered only a small part of the Common Market's $16 billion farm program.

Farm groups throughout the EEC have been touting their apples over those from other countries.

Washington collapsed on the way to the courtroom to hear the verdict. Emergency medical personnel were called and stood by in the back of the courtroom as the verdict was read.

Washington, who had become ill during the trial last Friday as a result of fatigue, said he fainted Tuesday because he had been hyperventilating.

Ann Landers

Concerned about black child

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it possible for a white couple to have a black child? This occurred in our family recently and we are all distressed. The father of the child believes his wife had a black lover. She denies this and insists that one of her grandparents was a mulatto. She also claims medical history has turned up some examples of white couples having a black child - a throwback from many generations.

Will you check with your consultants and let me know your findings? I am Distressed In Alabama

DEAR ALABAMA: Dr. Philip Leder, chairman of the department of genetics at Harvard Medical School, provided this response: He said, "The offspring of a Negro-Caucasian mating will be lighter in general than the Negro parent and darker than the Caucasian parent. Offspring of mulatto parents can be somewhat darker or lighter than their parents (as can offspring of Caucasian parents). But even white parents and very light mulattos with a remote Negro genetic background would be expected to produce offspring whose pigment varied only slightly from theirs.

"Though vigorous studies of this question are lacking, I know of no documentation where whites have had black children. This is not to say it could never happen, but we can say it does not seem to have happened yet."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Am I a rotten person because I do not want to baby-sit my grandchildren? I raised my six kids with no help, and I believe my sons and daughters should do the same - especially since they have only two apiece, not six like I had.

Five days last week I was a prisoner in my own home. I had seven grandchildren here, off and on. Three were overnights. One got sick and threw up all over the furniture. Also, Ann, they are not the best-behaved kids in the world. Often I must resort to punishment to get them to mind. They were never trained not to touch things that don't belong to them so I have to put away all my knickknacks. Three of the kids (over five years of age) are bed-wetters. My wash machine was going constantly.

My husband gets mad at me for being such a patsy. He is retired now and wants me to go fishing with him and take little weekend car trips.

We didn't get to go to a darned place this past summer because our kids dumped their kids on us. Please tell me what to do. - Fed Up And Exhausted In The Midwest

DEAR FED: I know of no successful surgical procedure that will replace macaroni in the spine with a rigid backbone. This is strictly a do-it-yourself project. For those grannies who love to baby-sit, I say fine, but those who don't should not feel guilty about saying flat out, "I raised my children and now I want to enjoy the freedom that is rightfully mine."

CONFIDENTIAL: Need to Get Even in Chicago: Give some thought to this bit of philosophy expressed by a Hebrew scholar: "If we could read the secret history of those we would like to punish, we would find in each life enough grief and suffering to make us stop wishing anything more on them."

Decorating techniques shown

Helen Spinks hosted members of the Hereford Study Club on Thursday. Program chairman, Betty Gilbert, introduced Sondra Blankenship of Sondra's Craft Corral, who presented a program entitled "Let's Decorate."

Ms. Blankenship showed both inexpensive and expensive ways to make decorations and gifts. She displayed needlepoint, paintings, clock painting, and a porcelain doll, encouraging members to use their imagination to turn old things into new.

During the business meeting, conducted by Gracie Shaw, president, it was announced that the Christmas party will be held in the home of Jeanie Caison.

After the meeting was adjourned, refreshments were served by the hostess and Norma Jolly, co-hostess.

Other members present were Jean Ballard, Willie Braddy, Doris Bryant, Elizabeth Cesar, Moran Cain, Gladys Setliff, Bessie Story, Mary Stoy, Virginia Winget, Inez Witherspoon, Joan Harbro, Leta Kaul, and Ms. Caison.

Yount named A.L. MVP

MILWAUKEE (AP) — After Robin Yount was named the American League's Most Valuable Player, he responded with a modesty that has become as much of his style as his fielding skills.

"When you are involved in team sports, it is difficult to single out a person because the person getting all the glory never could have done it without other guys," he said Tuesday.

Milwaukee Brewer fans had predicted for weeks that their favorite shortstop would win the MVP balloting among baseball writers.

"He definitely deserved (it)," Manager Harvey Kuenn said in a telephone interview from Phoenix, Ariz. "He is the best shortstop I have ever seen play."

General Manager Harry Dalton said Yount is better than most great shortstops of the past because he excels at batting as well as fielding.

"Luis Aparicio was a great defensive shortstop and had tremendous speed, but he did not hit the ball out of the park," Dalton said.

Yount, 27, paced the Brewers to an American League pennant with a batting average of .331, runner-up to Kansas City's Willie Wilson for the batting crown.

He had 114 RBIs, 29 home runs, stole 14 bases, had a league-leading 210 hits and made only 24 errors. He is the first shortstop to lead the league in total bases (367) and slugging percentage (.578).

The MVP is not his greatest thrill, Yount said. "It is quite an honor," he said when contacted in California by telephone en route to a Hawaii vacation. "I feel it is the type of an award you couldn't win without the help from everybody else."

"My biggest thrill was playing in the World Series," he said, adding the only greater joy would have been to win the Series.

The Yount award, coupled with pitcher Pete

Vuckovich's Cy Young citation, marks the second successive season in which the club has won both honors. Relief pitcher Rolie Fingers won both last year.

The National League's Los Angeles Dodgers are the only other team to have won the dual awards in successive years.

Yount's contract expires after the 1983 season. He and Dalton declined to say how much of a raise he ought to get.

He joined the Brewers at age 18 in 1974, lacking any reputation as a power hitter.

He hit just 34 home runs in his first six seasons.

"It is a combination of weight lifting and just physically maturing," he said.

Yount got 385 points in balloting by a special panel of 28 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America, two from each AL city.

Eddie Murray of the Baltimore Orioles was second in balloting with 228 points.

Yount received all but one first-place vote. The other went to Reggie Jackson of the California Angels, who finished sixth in balloting with 107 points.

Third in the vote was Doug DeCinces of the Angels with 178 points, followed by Hal McRae of Kansas City with 175, Cecil Cooper of the Brewers with 152 and Jackson.

Sugar Ray calls it quits

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sugar Ray Leonard has his youth, restored vision and a bulging bank account, but he no longer has a zest for boxing.

"The feeling is gone," the world welterweight champion said somewhat solemnly after announcing his retirement from the ring Tuesday night.

Leonard apparently lost his desire in the six months since undergoing surgery to mend a detached retina in his left eye.

But it wasn't easy to step aside from a sport in which has earned more than $40 million, with another $20 million on the horizon for a proposed bout with middleweight champion Marvin Hagler.

Leonard admitted he turned the decision over many times since the May 9 operation, and in retrospect realized his public statements were confusing.

"Every day it was a different answer," he said, and then almost apologetically: "I didn't want to mislead the public."

"The final decision was made tonight, right here in this ring," Leonard confessed, after making his announcement to a crowd of more than 9,000 in the Civic Center, where he launched his pro career on Feb. 5, 1977.

The indecision, apparently, continued right up to the moment when he came face-to-face with Hagler, one of the boxing notables who climbed into the ring to praise Leonard.

When the urge didn't return after the encounter with Hagler, Leonard was convinced. "If I didn't feel it then..." he said, his voice trailing off amidst the shouting of ringside questioners.

Ringside seats cost $100, with all other tickets sold at $1 and $2. The proceeds will be used to fund summer jobs for Baltimore youths.

Hrabosky invited to Braves' camp

ATLANTA (AP) — Relief pitcher Al Hrabosky, who was given his unconditional release by the Atlanta Braves during the 1982 season, now has been invited to the Braves' 1983 spring training camp by the National League club.

"I just figured since we're going to be paying Al for the next two years anyway, we had nothing to lose," Braves owner Ted Turner said of the invitation to Hrabosky, better known as the "Mad Hungarian" for his stern demeanor on the mound.

"And what if he learns a

Later, reminded that other champions such as Ali, Joe Louis and Sugar Ray Robinson had come back out of retirement, Leonard said: "I will not come back. That's it."

Leonard, clad in a black tuxedo with red accessories, greeted the crowd after a triumphal entrance and then sat on a raised chair in the ring to receive accolades from invited guests.

The speakers included former heavyweight champions Muhammad Ali and Ken Norton, former light heavyweight champions Matthew Saad Muhammad and Eddie Mustafa Muhammed, Leonard's manager Angelo Dundee, and Dr. Ronald Michels, the ophthalmologist who operated on Leonard.

Dr. Michels told the crowd that Leonard's surgery was a success, but expressed hope that the champ would retire.

All provided comic relief with a series on one liners, including: "I have an announcement to make, too... I shall return!"

Then, as the crowd responded favorably, Ali added: "...to California."

Hagler, the final speaker before Leonard, alluded to the Sugar Ray's victory over Tommy Hearns when he unified the welterweight title.

"Leonard and Hearns was the showdown," Hagler said, "but we've (Hagler and Leonard) got to be the Fight of the Century."

When he arose, Leonard thanked his family and all those connected with his career and then turned to Hagler.

Leonard said a bout with Hagler "would be one of the greatest in the history of boxing."

The crowd roared but was quickly silenced when Leonard added: "Unfortunately, it will never happen."

new pitch or something and can really help us?" Turner said. "Sure, we released him, but he's still a good friend and I'd love to see him back on the team."

Braves' General Manager John Mullen said Monday the offer was extended to Hrabosky through his agent, Jack Childers of St. Louis. Hrabosky, who now is pitching in the Venezuelan Winter League, was not available for comment.

"I have an idea he'll take us up on this," Mullen said.

Hagler, who lost a possible $10 million payday because of Leonard's decision, said he wasn't surprised.

"He's done the right thing," Hagler said. "Most people have to go down before

McRae should go high in re-entry draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Hal McRae knew his age was against him as he contemplated free agency.

"I wasn't fearful of becoming a free agent," he said. "I was afraid I might be out of work."

So, he went about the task of making sure he couldn't be overlooked in today's free agent re-entry draft by having his best season at age 36. McRae drove in a major league-leading 133 runs with 27 homers and a .308 batting average in 1982.

Seeded teams advance in tennis tourney

HOUSTON (AP) — Two seeded teams survived tough first sets to advance to the second round of play in the $460,000 Lite Beer Mixed Tennis Championships.

Top-seeded Anne Smith and Kevin Curren defeated Betsy Nagelson and Raul Ramirez 7-6, 6-1.

"Anytime you might be out of work, it has to affect you," McRae said as the free agent deadline approached. "I wanted to continue to play. At my age, it was important that I proved I could play."

All but the batting average were career highs for McRae, and the Kansas City Royals designated hitter, along with Seattle pitcher Floyd Bannister, nine years his junior, stood to be two of the most highly sought of the 41 players in the draft.

In all, 23 players from the American League and 18 from the National were available in the draft of veteran free agents. They included 10 infielders, 14 outfielders, six catchers and 11 pitchers.

With teams always looking for pitching, Bannister was this year's top prospect and one of three players ranked in the A category under baseball's complicated, two-year-old free agent formula. The other A-type players were outfielders Steve Kemp and the selection of a professional player from a special pool created by the collective bargaining agreement that ended the players' strike of 1981.

There draft also contained four B-ranked players, who require compensation of two amateur draft choices. They were infielder Bill Almon of the White Sox, catchers Alan Ashby of Houston and Joe Nolan of Baltimore and pitcher Pete Falcone of the New York Mets.

Rankings were based on statistics compiled over the previous two years. The A-type free agents include players in the top 20 percent of the players in their league at their position. B ratings are given to those players in the 21-30 percent group.

Among those players unranked — either because they had 12 years or more major league experience or because they already had

Oilers vote to accept latest offer

NFLPA armor showing dents

NEW YORK (AP) — Four teams out of 28 are a definite minority but the four — the Los Angeles Rams, Houston Oilers, Dallas Cowboys and New Orleans Saints — have created what may be a significant dent in the armor of the National Football League Players Association.

The Rams, Cowboys and Oilers voted Tuesday to accept in principle the latest contract proposal by the NFL Management Council. They joined the Saints — who voted Monday — in breaking from the union leadership's outright rejection of the owner's latest money offer.

While players on those teams voted in favor of the proposal, they did so with reservations. Many players throughout the league reaffirmed their opposition to the $1.31 billion offer by the owners and Ed Garvey, executive director of the union. said that "No team has accepted this proposal, including the New Orleans Saints. If you look at the bottom of the story out of New Orleans, it says if they would have voted on the proposal, they would have rejected it unanimously."

But Houston linebacker Gregg Bingham, whose team voted 27-5 with four abstentions to accept the latest proposal — if the owners agree to several key changes — said: "All they have to do is make some changes and we can get back to playing football. I've talked to the Steelers and Cowboys and a friend of mine on the team has talked to the Bengals. That's four teams right there who are basically saying the same thing."

"It is my understanding that this is happening all around the league."

Union President Gene Upshaw of the Oakland Raiders said some disagreement among the players is understandable.

"To disagree doesn't mean that you are against what we are doing," he said. "We are still in control of our destiny."

"There is no one out there saying, 'accept it, accept it, please.' What they are saying is give us a fair agreement, an agreement we can live with for five years."

Despite the apparent crack in the union's stand, no negotiating sessions have been planned. The strike has lasted 51 days, the longest unsettled walkout in professional sports history. The 1981 baseball strike lasted 50 days, though there was a nine-day period of preparation to resume the season followed the settlement.

The NFL called off this weekend's 14 games on Tuesday, meaning that half the season — 112 games through eight weeks — has been affected by the strike.

Garvey called the next 48 hours crucial, saying, "Even if you accept our timetable for moving the schedule ... you do start to run out of time."

The Management Council spent some time Tuesday at the National Labor Relations Board here, filing an unfair labor practices complaint against the union. This came on the heels of an admission by New Orleans Saints player representative Russell Erleben that he had been threatened if he didn't stop voicing reservations about the union's position.

Permian, Jefferson, Reagan start playoffs undefeated

By The Associated Press

Odessa Permian, Port Arthur Jefferson and Austin Reagan, each with rich playoff histories, have completed unbeaten regular Class 5A seasons and go into the state playoffs as the top-ranked teams in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll.

Permian held the No. 1 spot among the 5A ranks while Fort Bend Willowridge in 4A, Post in 3A, Eastland in 2A and Bremond in A maintained top positions in the other classifications.

Permian's 14-10 victory over Odessa extended its unbeaten record to 35-0-3 as the Panthers held onto their No. 1 ranking in 5A with 14 first-place votes and a 180 to 150 point margin over runner-up Port Arthur Jefferson, which defeated Port Neches Groves 29-7 without quarterback Craig Stump.

Austin Reagan completed its first unbeaten regular season since 1968 and retained the No. 3 ranking going into the playoffs.

Fort Bend Willowridge was a unanimous first-place selection in Class 4A, receiving all 19 first place votes cast by the AP panel of Texas sportswriters and sportscasters.

Post closed out the regular season with a 37-0 shutout of Idalou and has now outscored its opponents 430-37. Post polled 15 first-place votes to two for runner-up Port Isabel, which advanced to the playoffs for the fifth straight year.

Eastland blasted Hawley 52-0 to hold its No. 1 rank in Class 2A and now has outscored its opponents 522-26. East Bernard, Pilot Point, Hale Center and Pottsboro rounded out the top five.

Bremond blanked Normangee 50-0 and netted 14 first-place votes in Class A. Runner-up Meridian got two first-place votes and third-place Rocksprings received three first place votes.

LSU regains glory

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Jerry Stovall and LSU. LSU and Jerry Stovall. They go together like file and gumbo.

Stovall's life has been intertwined with LSU, even though his career took him elsewhere before he came "home."

While Johnny Majors at Tennessee and Jerry Claiborne at Kentucky are struggling to build successful teams at their alma maters, Stovall has needed just three years to get LSU back among the college football elite.

The ascent has been rapid. A 7-4 record in 1980 soured to 3-7-1 a year ago and coaches around the country were lining up to apply when Stovall got the axe like the rumor mills said.

Surprise! Stovall is a leading candidate for Coach of the Year and the LSU Tigers, picked to finish in the Southeastern Conference's second division, are casting covetous eyes at the national championship.

With a 7-0-1 record following Saturday's not-as-close-as-it-sounds 20-10 whipping of Alabama, LSU is one of just four college teams which hasn't lost a game — the Tigers were tied by Tennessee — and is No. 6 in this week's Associated Press poll, the highest ranking in 10 years.

In the LSU media guide under coaches' records is a strange line. Between "1962-79, Charles McClendon, 137-59-7—692" and 1980-1981, Jerry Stovall, 10-11-1—477" is "1980-80, Bo Rein, 0-0-0—000."

Stovall remembers the late-night call in January 1980.

Oilers vote to accept latest offer

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers have joined what linebacker Gregg Bingham considers a grass roots effort to get the National Football League season resumed.

The Oilers voted 27-5 with four abstentions Tuesday to accept the latest proposal of the National Football League owners — if the owners will agree to several key revisions.

informing him that Rein, who had been hired from North Carolina State to succeed McClendon, was missing on a recruiting trip.

The private plane carrying Rein from Shreveport back to Baton Rouge apparently flew on automatic pilot halfway across the country, disappearing into the ocean off, ironically, the Carolina coast. No wreckage, no bodies.

With nowhere else to turn, LSU finally turned to Jerry Stovall. It had turned him down earlier when he failed to meet athletic director Paul Dietzel's criteria of three years as a head coach on the major college level.

After holding Alabama's Wishbone's troops, LSU again leads the nation in total defense this week, surrendering 183.9 yards a game. And the critics are no longer saying that the Tigers, who number three winless teams among their victims, haven't beaten anybody.

Hawks win second straight at final buzzer

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer
Beware of the Atlanta Hawks when they have a shot at the final buzzer with the outcome still in doubt.

On Tuesday night, for the second game in a row, they got a game-winning basket from long range with no time left on the clock.

This time, guard Wes Matthews hit a 24-foot three-point shot to give the Hawks a 106-105 victory over the Denver Nuggets. On Saturday, Steve Hawes connected on a 22-footer for a 95-93 decision over Detroit.

Billy McKinney had given the Nuggets a 105-103 lead with just three seconds to go with an 18-foot jumper, but Matthews got an unmoleshot from behind teammate Dan Roundfield's pick to give Atlanta the victory.

"I felt nothing but joy, pure joy," Matthews said. "We never thought we were out of it. McKinney hit a big shot, but three seconds is a long time in this game."

In other National Basketball Association games, it was Portland 111, Golden State 96; Los Angeles 139, Kansas City 117; Phoenix 119, Houston 91; Seattle 112, Chicago 111; Indiana 100, San Diego 95; San Antonio 118, Utah 104; Detroit 108, Washington 105 and New Jersey 84, New York 82.

There were 17 ties and 13 lead changes in the Atlanta-Denver game, and the Nuggets didn't reach the century mark until there were 55 seconds left in the game, their 123rd straight with 100 or more. The NBA record held by

"This was a tough one to lose because we battled all night and hung in there," Nuggets Coach Doug Moe said.

"We're not playing well at all offensively right now. Our fast break isn't getting anywhere."

The fourth quarter, which started with the two teams deadlocked 73-73, was a scoring duel between Roundfield, who had 13 of his team-high 27 points for Atlanta in the period, and Kiki Vandeweghe, who had 12 of his 24 for Denver.

Alex English, who led all scorers with 30 points, tied the game at 191 with 55 seconds left and then put Denver ahead 103-101 with two free throws at the 32-second mark.

Roundfield tied the game with a turn-around jumper with 21 seconds left, setting up the last-gasp heroics by McKinney and Matthews.

Madrigal dinner set Dec. 6

Trumpet fanfare and madrigal voices will herald the arrival of the lords and ladies of the manor during the celebration of the second annual madrigal dinner at West Texas State University on Monday, Dec. 6.

The madrigal dinner celebrates the Yuletide festivities of 16th Century England. Celebrants may share the traditional wassail, a spiced punch drink, to toast good health, beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the WTSU East Dining Hall. Doors will close at 7 p.m.

Sponsors of the madrigal dinner are the Student Activities Council and the School of Fine Arts. A lord and lady of the manor will be selected to preside at the main table while members of the WTSU Scholar Madrigals and Matilda Gaume Early Music Consort, under the direction of Dr. Robert Krause, associate professor of music, provide musical entertainment. Musical selections, performed by students in Renaissance costume, will accompany the presentation of the traditional Yule boar's head and flaming plum pudding.

Celebrants will dine on food prepared by the Marriott Food Service of WTSU. The menu includes a relish tray, fruit cup served in an apple, spinach salad, roast beef, sweet potatoes, minted peas, spoon break, wassail and plum pudding with hard sauce.

Participants may dress in Renaissance costume, said Jim Holston, director of student activities and Student Activities Council adviser.

Tickets for the evening are $5 for WTSU students with meal cards, $7.50 for WTSU students with identification cards and $10 for other participants. Reservations may be made by mail through the Activities Center, WT Box 825, Canyon, Texas, 79016, or by calling the Activities Center.

Dental care program being initiated for the elderly

The Texas Dental Association has introduced a new statewide dental program that provides dental care to senior citizens at reduced cost. The program, called by the 1982 TDA House of Delegates, is designed to increase access to comprehensive dental care for elderly citizens on low, fixed incomes.

Volunteer dentists - all members of the Texas Dental Association - have agreed to provide dental care at a reduced cost to senior citizens across the State of Texas. The program named "Senior Dent" has received wide approval on both a state and national level.

To be eligible to receive reduced-fee care under the "Senior Dent" program, an individual should be age 65 or older; not eligible for federal state or other dental health assistance; not eligible for private dental insurance; and should have an annual household income of $12,000 or less OR be accepted by the participating dentist due to special circumstances.

To receive a referral to participating dentists, the senior citizen simply calls the TDA statewide toll free number: 1-800-252-9377. The caller is informed of the eligibility guidelines and given the telephone number of several participating dentists in their Zip Code area. In some instances, they will be referred back through the component dental society for a similar referral.

The actual kickoff for the "Senior Dent" program will be Nov. 30, with a statewide press conference planned at the State Capitol. Recognizing the diverse needs and dental condition among the elderly population, the program promotion will emphasize preventive care and retention of natural teeth. Approximately 1,400 dentists have agreed to provide their services at a reduced fee to senior citizens.

In designing "Senior Dent", one of the Association's primary objectives was simplicity. Its goal is to explain the program to the public in a way that all parties can understand.

In addition, TDA encourages senior citizens to use "Senior Dent" for regular preventive dental care. Regular examinations and preventive care are needed for individuals who have dentures as well as for those with some or all of their natural teeth.

If you would like more information, or would like to be a part of "Senior Dent", please call Beth Brooks, Director of Communications, TDA, at: 1-800-252-9377.

Calligraphy course scheduled at WTSU

A hobby enjoyed by more than six million persons will be offered as a course at West Texas State University during the 1983 spring semester.

Calligraphy, a special topics class, will be offered on Monday and Wednesday from 7 p.m. to 9:50 p.m. Dr. Anne Gregory, assistant professor of art, will teach the class.

"The class will not only include italic handwriting, but we also will learn uncial, black letter, roman, trish, half-uncial and some modern alphabets," Gregory said.

Students also will learn to cut quills from goose and turkey feathers and apply gold on "original paper," which is vellum, or sheepskin.

"With the help of our library, we will be using original manuscripts so the students will be able to learn and make their own initial," she said.

"The class will eventually learn the art form of calligraphy, but first we will be concentrating on the lettering form," Gregory added. Lloyd Reynolds, a calligrapher and scribe known in the United States and internationally, was Gregory's undergraduate adviser, and helped her become interested in calligraphy. Gregory says that the writing form is one of her major interests.

Gregory received her bachelor of arts degree from Reed College in Portland, Ore., her master of fine arts degree from the University of Washington in Seattle, and a master's in education and doctorate from Columbia University in New York.

Gregory has published many articles on calligraphy and her works have been displayed in Indiana, New Mexico, Texas and Oregon.

For more information on the calligraphy class, contact Gregory or Steve Maye, head of the Department of Art, at WTSU.

State Capital Highlights

Speculation continues about 4th session

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Now that the dust has settled on the recent election which swept Mark White and his slate of Democrats into office, Capitol observers are quietly wondering whether outgoing Gov. Bill Clements will call a fourth special session next month.

Clements told reporters Election Eve that he had no plans for another special session to wrap up redistricting, but the speculation continues in more than a few circles.

Thought to be behind the move for another session is the powerful Austin lobby, perhaps the biggest loser of all in the balloting.

Most members of "The Lobby", as they are collectively known, openly supported Republican candidates over Democrats and with good reason. The conservative membership of the past two Legislatures has voted in agreement with lobby positions with great consistency.

The lobby had two great friends in Clements and Texas Speaker Bill Clayton, who worked together to produce legislation decidedly pro-business. Some called it anti-consumer.

The Clements-Clayton lobby team had more than enough clout to power-squeeze Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's leadership in the Senate.

Pro-Consumer Solons

All will change come January 11, when the next session of the Legislature convenes in Austin. The membership in the House, but more particularly the Senate, will be decidedly more moderate, more prone to look at the problems of Texas consumers.

For that reason, some lobbyists and GOP leaders are suggesting Clements call a special session for December to take care of a few special items of business before the moderates take office.

One item could be the finishing touches on the redistricting plan, which the courts have ordered corrected.

Clements has yet to appoint a successor to retiring Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice Joe Greenhill, but he might trust the present Senate, not the new Senate, to vote the needed confirmation.

And before he leaves office, Clements may want to appoint Clayton to an influential post. Clayton, who is out of favor with his Democratic party, might prefer to seek his confirmation also with the old guard.

The New Guard

The advent of Mark White as the new governor definitely marks the end of the old, the start of the new. The old guard put almost all their financial backing on Clements and Clayton-backed Republicans, and they lost.

No Lobby Ties

White, who struggled for campaign dollars up to the very end, has a unique opportunity to enter the Governor's Mansion unencumbered by political promises to the lobby.

This is in sharp contrast to Clements, who soaked up most available campaign funds and spent a record $12 million-plus in losing.

Or to Clayton, who routinely kept his campaign coffers filled, and who had no trouble replenishing them after Briab.

And while it is true that the lobby will always be able to muster more money to buy influence at the State Capitol, they will have much ground to make up. The lobbyists who unabashedly led a cheering squad for losers on election night in the Secretary of State's Office may find themselves without much influence in the Legislature in January.

In fact, some observers feel their bosses may find it helpful to replace them and start fresh with the new legislators.

Presidential Timber?

Democrats showed unbelievable unity in this year's election, and while every team on the ticket pitched in, much credit is given to the top Democrat on the ballot, U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

While Clements refused to campaign with other Republicans, Bentsen used his great resources to bolster every spot on the slate below him.

As a result, Bentsen now enjoys more popularity within his party than ever before.

It is not unlikely that with presidential elections just two years away, a grateful Texas Democratic Party might swing its weight behind Bentsen as a favorite son.

Mine workers ousted president

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rebellious members of the United Mine Workers ousted incumbent president Sam Church and replaced him with youthful lawyer Richard Trumka, who pledged that the economically troubled union "shall rise again."

Church refused to concede. The rank-and-file of the 160,000-member union, stung by coalfield layoffs and apparently dissatisfied with Church's handling of union affairs, gave Trumka, 33, a five-year term as president by a 2-1 margin on Tuesday. Church's term expires Dec. 22.

Election tellers at UMW headquarters here stopped reporting vote totals early today as Trumka held an apparently insurmountable lead over Church, 46, who has served as unelected president since he succeeded the ailing Arnold Miller in 1979.

With 651 of the union's 868 locals reporting returns, or 75 percent, Trumka had 72,896 votes to Church's 34,399. The challenger, a graduate of the Villanova University law school, rolled up heavy margins over Church in West Virginia, the heart of coal country, and in Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Tennessee, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Church won only in Alabama besides carrying his home local in Appalachia, Va., by a 51-4 vote.

The Trumka victory was by a far wider margin than had been expected. It may have stemmed in part from UMW rank-and-file disenchantment with the collective bargaining agreement that Church negotiated last year with the soft coal industry.

The miners voted down one contract recommended by Church, and went on strike for 72 days before returning to work. Provisions of a second pact eventually ratified, which gave miners a 33 percent hike in economic benefits over three years, were debated heavily in the election campaign.

Critics charged that Church acquiesced in the weakening of some longtime contract provisions that had protected union security in the past.

The Newspaper BIBLE

WHY WORRY? THERE'S A BETTER WAY!

So my counsel is: Don't worry about things-- food, drink, money, and clothes. For you already have life and a body--and they are far more important than what to eat and wear. Look at the birds! They don't worry about what to eat--they don't need to sow or reap or store up food--for your heavenly Father feeds them. And you are far more valuable to Him than they are.

Will all your worries add a single moment to your life? And why worry about your clothes? Look at the field lilies! They don't worry about theirs. Yet King Solomon in all his glory was not clothed as beautifully as they. And if God cares so wonderfully for flowers that are here today and gone tomorrow, won't He more surely care for you, O men of little faith?

So don't worry at all about having enough food and clothing. Why be like the heathen? For they take pride in all these things and are deeply concerned about them. But your heavenly Father already knows perfectly well that you need them, and He will gladly give them to you if you give Him first place in your life.

So don't be anxious about tomorrow. God will take care of your tomorrow too. Live one day at a time. (Matthew 6:25-34)

The knight before

By Kate Woods

I have heard that David Hasselhoff of "Knight Rider" has been on a soap opera. If so, which one?

David Hasselhoff

Hasselhoff played the central character of Snapper Foster on "The Young and the Restless" for many years, after creating the role in 1975.

"For the unlearned, old age is winter; for the learned, it is the season of the harvest." Hasidic Saying

Pulitzer divorce trail now over; Children's fate now in Judge's hands

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The bitter Pulitzer divorce trial would tax even the wisdom of Solomon, says the judge who must now rule which spouse is the fitter parent — a mother described as a lesbian and adulteress or a father accused of drug pushing and incest.

The messy legal war between newspaper heir Peter Pulitzer and his estranged wife, Roxanne, ended Tuesday after 18 days of lurid, headline-grabbing testimony and tireless attempts by lawyers to blacken the reputation of their client's spouse.

"This hasn't been a kissing contest," said Palm Beach County Circuit Judge Carl Harper at the end of the seamy testimony that was splashed on front pages throughout the nation.

The parties will have to wait until Christmas for his ruling, Harper said Tuesday, cautioning that he will not satisfy both parents.

"Solomon couldn't do it, and neither can I," the judge said.

During the trial, Mrs. Pulitzer, 31, claimed her husband made drug deals with Indian chiefs in Colombia, smuggled loads of cocaine and marijuana aboard his plane and yacht, preferred lunch by the pool to being with the couple's 5-year-old twins and slept at least once with a daughter by a previous marriage.

Pulitzer, 52, countered that his brown-haired wife indulged in bizarre occult practices, sipped cocaine-laced champagne and had flings with Belgian Grand Prix racer Jackie Ickx, a French pastry chef, a real estate broker, a handyman and the 32-year-old wife of elderly Kleeven tycoon James Kimberly.

Both partners in the failed

6½-year high-society marriage seek custody of their twin boys, Mack and Zack. Mrs. Pulitzer also wants half her snow-haired husband's fortune, which she claims totals $25 million and he says is worth only one-tenth of that.

The Pulitzers' domestic combat remained high-pitched to the end. In closing statements, Pulitzer's lawyers said Mrs. Pulitzer had uttered "a hundred lies" to ruin her husband.

"The most outrageous lie," said lawyer Mark Luttier, was the "truly disgusting claim" that the grandson of publisher Joseph Pulitzer had an incestuous affair with a 26-year-old daughter by his first wife.

Counterattacking, Mrs. Pulitzer's lawyer charged the millionaire "corrupted and polluted" the "young farm girl" from New York state who became his second wife in 1976.

"He took her from milk to champagne, and finally to drugs," declared attorney Joseph Farish. "She was programmed to become part of the Palm Beach marriage-divorce scene."

Harper will have a shopping-cart piled with depositions and affidavits to pore over before deciding, plus his own "copious notes" he plans to read at home over vacation. By Dec. 6, lawyers must also submit written proposals for a property settlement.

HEALTH Diet doesn't affect gout

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — For several years my husband has had joint pains. We assumed it was arthritis and treated it as such. He had knee pain for months. Aspirin and keeping it warm controlled the pain so he didn't see a doctor.

It finally hit him in the toe with such pain, swelling and inflammation that he couldn't walk on it. He saw the doctor and was diagnosed as having gout. The doctor put him on medication and the pain was gone in two days.

The medicine is terribly expensive. I wondered if certain foods or perhaps the method of cooking might have caused the condition to worsen.

What causes the uric acid to build up and crystallize in the joints? Does it ever go away or do you have to look forward to it the rest of your life?

precipitate an acute attack. Incidentally, weight loss as from those fat starvation diets may cause an attack in people not usually prone to gout attacks.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had a vasectomy eight years ago due to my wife's health problems: Does a vasectomy affect the production of testosterone or the size of the testicles? What is the procedure for restoration if possible? If the testosterone is low, what sources are available? Can it be obtained from a pharmacy or as vitamin supplements?

decrease in size. They do decrease anyway as a man passes middle age and starts to get older.

If the tubes have not undergone too much destruction, the severed ends can be re-connected. Some surgeons use microsurgery for this and it is successful in some, but not all, cases. Success is judged on the ability to produce adequate healthy sperm cells or induce pregnancy.

Yes, if a person needs testosterone he can obtain injections from his doctor or prescribed tablets to hold under the tongue or in the cheek for absorption. Extra testosterone, however, may not be a wise idea. It may cause prostate enlargement as well as other problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB — For doesn't always strike the big toe. It can involve many other joints of the body. The big toe is the classic feature and it is very painful. The higher the uric acid the more likely that crystals will form in the joint spaces and cause acute inflammation. And men are more likely to have this happen than women.

Stop worrying about your cooking. The uric acid is mostly produced by the body's cells, and the amount in the food people eat is unimportant compared to the amount the cells produce. Your cells will go right on producing uric acid regardless of the diet.

That is why the medicines of recent times have changed gout treatment. The best approach is to prevent the excessive production of uric acid by the cells and to prompt its elimination through the kidneys. There are many factors that may precipitate an acute attack. Incidentally, weight loss as from those fat starvation diets may cause an attack in people not usually prone to gout attacks.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had a vasectomy eight years ago due to my wife's health problems: Does a vasectomy affect the production of testosterone or the size of the testicles? What is the procedure for restoration if possible? If the testosterone is low, what sources are available? Can it be obtained from a pharmacy or as vitamin supplements?

DEAR READER — There is no evidence that a vasectomy decreases the production of testosterone in any way and no evidence that it causes the testicles to decrease in size. They do decrease anyway as a man passes middle age and starts to get older.

If the tubes have not undergone too much destruction, the severed ends can be re-connected. Some surgeons use microsurgery for this and it is successful in some, but not all, cases. Success is judged on the ability to produce adequate healthy sperm cells or induce pregnancy.

Yes, if a person needs testosterone he can obtain injections from his doctor or prescribed tablets to hold under the tongue or in the cheek for absorption. Extra testosterone, however, may not be a wise idea. It may cause prostate enlargement as well as other problems.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

Whole wheat bread

DEAR POLLY — I've been trying to make a 100 percent whole wheat bread, but it just doesn't raise well. It turns out rather dense and small and heavy. I can get a lighter, higher loaf when I mix white flour with the whole wheat, but I'd really like an all-whole wheat loaf. Any help? — HELEN

Stop worrying about your cooking. The uric acid is mostly produced by the body's cells, and the amount in the food people eat is unimportant compared to the amount the cells produce. Your cells will go right on producing uric acid regardless of the diet.

Research team studying heart victims

"Can heart attacks be prevented by lowering cholesterol?" is the question facing a team of University of Arkansas doctors, in cooperation with the National Institutes of Health, conducting a study of the relationship between cholesterol and heart disease.

Heart disease is the leading cause of death and disability in the United States. Most heart trouble results from atherosclerosis, or "hardening of the arteries." The arteries of the body are tubes which must constantly supply blood containing life-giving oxygen and nourishment to the heart and other organs. Atherosclerosis can gradually thicken and narrow arteries until blood can no longer flow through them causing acute illness such as heart attack.

According to Doctor Malcolm Pearce and Doctor Gilbert Campbell, who heads the Arkansas Clinical Center, a clue to the cause of atherosclerosis may be that cholesterol, a fatty substance, is found in the diseased arteries. Also, the amount of cholesterol found in our blood can predict, somewhat, how likely we are to have heart attacks.

To find out, the University of Arkansas research team is now attempting to locate persons in the area who are between the ages of 30 and 64, who have had one heart attack within the past five years. Interested persons are asked to call the University of Arkansas Hyperlipidemia Program's toll free number 1-800-643-8719.

The first American war submarine was constructed in 1776. It was called the "turtle" and carried a crew of one.
