

City to Consider New Tornado Warning System

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

Hereford's city commissioners denied a zoning change request on the second try at their regular session Monday night, conducted a public hearing on rate making and service standards and decided to investigate a new tornado warning system for the city during the interim period in which a city suit is pending over lack of maintenance of the present system.

At their last regular session commissioners heard a request for a change from "B-Two Family" to "E-Central Business" zoning for the West 78.71 feet of lots 21 and 22 and the west 78.71 feet of the north 40 feet of lot 23, Block 23, Evans edition. The change was requested for a second hand furniture outlet.

Commissioners had tabled consideration of the request at that meeting in order to obtain comment from the city planning and zoning commission and also to obtain a better description of the property in question.

Gene Ehler of the planning and zoning commission informed commissioners that landowners in the area adjoining the property in question objected to the change in zoning and city commissioners opted to go with the planning and zoning board's recommendation by a vote of 4-1, with commissioner Emory Brownlow voting in the minority.

Commissioners conducted a public hearing regarding rate making and service standards as required under Title 1 of the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978.

A.J. Phillips of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. of Hereford was also present for the hearing.

City Manager Dudley Bayne informed commissioners that what city commissions do in regard to rate making and service standards is actually a moot point since most considerations are actually left with the Texas Railroad Commission or the Public Utilities Commission.

City attorney Earnest Langley advised commissioners to indicate that city policy will be in line with that of the Railroad Commission.

"If we say our policy is whatever the Railroad Commission says, I don't see that there's anything else we have to do," stated the city attorney.

"We're required to consider the point and hold a hearing but it's a useless thing to really try and act," he continued.

Commissioners then passed a motion to go along with the findings of the Railroad Commission and the Public Utilities Commission after considering rate making and service standards.

Langley also reported on any possible conflicts between Hereford's city charter and the central tax appraisal district, which commissioners recently voted to join by a narrow 3-2 margin.

"The only real problem I see is with the board of equalization, but we can designate by ordinance without disturbing the charter," said Langley, pointing out that practices under the central tax district can be made compatible with the city charter.

Commissioners passed over action on a contract with the central tax appraisal district until more action is taken by the central tax board to clarify specifics in a contract and pinpoint an operating location.

City fathers discussed matters pertaining to a lawsuit against the Motorola Corporation for over $100,000.

The suit was filed by the city due to failure by the firm to repair a faulty tornado warning system for the Civil Defense network here.

Bayne emphasized to commissioners that the city has had "no luck at all" in obtaining satisfaction from the firm in the way of repairs of the system, and Brownlow added that the system "has never worked since the day it was put in."

According to Bayne, court litigation may take up to two years, leaving the city without a tornado warning system in the interim.

Commissioners opted to check into acquiring some additional rotary warning sirens to help serve the weather warning needs of the city while the lawsuit pends.

Commissioner Wes Fisher emphasized that some action would be needed by March in order to serve the city for the next tornado season.

Brownlow expressed a strong preference for a rotary warning system, explaining that the wail of the sirens could be clearly heard in the city, while the present system cannot be heard.

"I think we should stay with a rotary system, even if we should win the lawsuit against Motorola," he remarked.

Bayne explained that there is a possibility of some state aid for the purchase of rotary sirens for the warning system.

President Offers Iran Incentives

By LEE GOULD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is offering Iran billions of dollars' worth of incentives for the release of the American hostages, an issue the Iranian parliament reportedly is moving closer to resolving.

With the presidential election and the first anniversary of the taking of the 52 Americans both two weeks away today, Carter made this offer Monday while campaigning in Youngstown, Ohio.

"If Iran should release the hostages, then I would unfreeze their assets, which are several billions of dollars...I would drop the embargo on trade with Iran and work toward a resumption of normal commerce with Iran in the future."

The president said it is to the advantage of the United States "to have a strong Iran. It's to our advantage to have a united Iran."

Even before Carter spoke, the speaker of the 270-seat Iranian parliament, Ayatollah Hashemi Rafsanjani, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview that a decision on the conditions for release of the hostages would be made "in the next two or three days."

He said the conditions probably would be the same as those listed by the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini last month. Those include return of the late shah's wealth, cancellation of U.S. financial claims against Iran, release of Iranian funds in the United States and guarantees of non-interference in Iranian affairs.

Only a month ago Rafsanjani insisted that Iran had not dropped an earlier demand — that the United States apologize to Iran. But he made no mention of that demand Monday.

Carter last month criticized his Republican opponent, Ronald Reagan, for saying publicly that he would accept Iran's demands that the frozen assets be freed, that financial claims against Iran should be withdrawn and that the United States should pledge not to interfere in Iran's internal affairs. He said at the time that Reagan shouldn't negotiate through the news media.

Reagan, campaigning in Louisville, Ky., made passing reference to the hostage situation Monday, saying only that, "I don't understand why 52 Americans have been held hostage for almost a year now."

Carter's conciliatory remarks Monday were echoed by public statements (See IRAN, Page 2-A)

Crime Activity Soars During Weekend Here

Hereford police saw criminal activity take a surprising surge here over the weekend as they made two arrests for assault in an incident in which two officers were forced to draw their service revolvers, and also racked up an arrest for disorderly conduct in addition to nine arrests for drunkenness or driving while intoxicated.

There was also a run of reports on assault, vandalism and theft to keep city police occupied.

Police were dispatched to 434 Barrett at 3:13 a.m. Sunday and upon arrival found a man aiming a shotgun at another man.

Officers Joe Scott and Todd De La Garza drew their revolvers and ordered the individual to drop his shotgun.

When he did, the gun discharged, but the blast failed to strike anyone.

Arrested in the incident on charges of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon was Lorenzo Mejia, 32, of Hereford.

Also arrested and charged with aggravated assault was Eliseo Rivera, 36, of Hereford.

Police returned to 434 Barrett later Sunday morning and made two additional arrests for public intoxication.

Antonio Rios Hernandez, 34, of Hereford was arrested by city police Sunday on warrants for disorderly conduct and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

The arrest came at the Presbyterian Church at Sixth and Lee following numerous complaints about the presence of a male who was making suggestive advances to females at the church.

Officers also investigated two reports stemming from Friday incidents involving juveniles.

An eight year old girl reported that at about 3 p.m. Friday she got off the school bus at 8th and Lee and was approached by a Mexican male who tried to coax her inside his car.

The suspect was described by police as "very skinny" and reportedly driving a maroon car with beige top.

A 14-year-old suffered a broken collarbone while on the grounds of a city junior high Friday shortly after school when he was reportedly attacked by several other juveniles who kicked and beat him.

Police are continuing their investigation into the matter.

A 17-year-old woman reported to police that she was assaulted during a family disturbance Saturday night, but no charges were filed in the incident.

Morales Laundry of 611 Park Ave. reported the theft of a bank bag containing $30 in cash and some keys Saturday afternoon. Police have a suspect in that incident.

Randy Pool of 436 Ave. B reported the theft of a battery from his Chevy Blazer Saturday, while a 13-year-old reported the theft of a bike from the 300 block of North Main.

Woman's World Boutique at 1005 West Park Ave. reported that a lighted sign at that location was broken out with rocks sometime over the weekend.

Juan Hernandez of 608 West Third reported a prowler outside his home Sunday evening but investigating officers found nothing.

Arrests of individuals ranging from 18 to 46 years of age occupied police in nine cases filed concerning drunk charges.

For the weekend period, police answered 12 miscellaneous reports and investigated 10 minor traffic accidents, in addition to issuing 25 traffic citations.

The crime surge continued Monday as officers answered several burglaries and theft reports.

Stan Knox, 900 N. Lee, reported a burglary to police Monday morning. Several items including stereos, a guitar and a horn were reported missing. The total amount of items taken is estimated at $3301.25. Police do not have a suspect.

Clover Inc. 902 Lee, also reported a burglary to officers in which an estimated $800 in property was taken. The burglar apparently entered through a back door and removed a man's gold (See CRIME, Page 2-A)

Fred E. Fox, assessor-collector for the Hereford Independent School District and Nell Miller, Deaf Smith County assessor-collector have been designated as Certified Texas Assessors by the board of directors of the Institute of Certified Texas Assessors, the professional organization of the Texas Association of Assessing Officers.

According to E.D. Brauchi, chairman of the ICTA, achievement of the "CTA" designation "represents years of work and study." There are only 416 active Certified Tax Assessors in Texas, and the designation is recognized by the legislature of the state of Texas, the State Property Tax Board, and the Board of Tax Assessor Examiners.

Objectives of the institute are to develop the profession of assessing, establish and maintain standards of performance and to provide education for its members.

Assessors active in the ICTA strive to give fair and equal assessments throughout their communities.

Brilab Trial Going to Jury

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Final arguments began today in the Texas Brilab trial of House Speaker Billy Clayton, accused of accepting a $5,000 bribe from an influential labor leader.

The seven women and five men on a federal court jury were expected to begin deliberations this afternoon.

The defense ended its case Monday after presenting a long list of character witnesses, including Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Ray Hutchinson, a Dallas attorney and former chairman of the Texas Republican party, and Dr. Gerald Mann, a Baptist minister and once chaplain for the Legislature.

Clayton and Austin attorneys Donald Ray and Randall Wood were indicted June 12 by a federal grand jury on charges of extortion, bribery, conspiracy and racketeering, all arising from the 10-month FBI undercover operation called Brilab for "bribery-labor."

Roy Minton, defending the House speaker, will have one hour and 10 minutes to argue his case. The other two defense lawyers were granted 40 minutes each. Government attorneys will have one hour and 30 minutes.

Clayton, a 20-year veteran of the legislature, is in the midst of a hotly contested bid for an unprecedented fourth term as speaker. He also has expressed hopes of running for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1982.

Prosecutors unreeled numerous secretly recorded tapes they said proved Clayton accepted a $5,000 bribe and a promise of $500,000 a year more to reopen bidding on a lucrative state employees health insurance contract.

Wood and Ray are accused of agreeing to accept money to use their knowledge and influence at the state capital to see that Prudential Insurance Co. got the state business with premiums estimated at $84 to $105 million a year.

Bigham Named Brand Advertising Director

Gene Bigham, longtime ad manager with The Killeen Daily Herald, has been named advertising and marketing director for The Hereford Brand, it was announced Monday by publisher O.G. Nieman.

"Bigham comes to us highly recommended," said Nieman. "We believe his professional experience will increase our ability to serve our advertisers and the community. He is not replacing anyone on the staff, rather we have created a new position which we think will improve our overall operation."

Bigham, 47, is moving back to Texas from Marquette, Mich., where he served two years as advertising manager of The Mining Journal.

From 1967 through 1978, he was associated with the Killeen newspaper and served seven years as ad manager. A graduate of the University of Texas, he majored in advertising, marketing and public relations. He is a native of Temple and also attended Temple Junior College. After earning his degree, Bigham worked with The Plainview Daily Herald in ad sales from 1957 to 1962. He also served as ad manager of The Arlington Citizen-Journal for a year.

Bigham will move his family to Hereford as soon as housing arrangements can be made. He and his wife, Perrie, have six children with ages ranging from 10 to 23. Three children are still at home—Shelli, 12; Staci, 11; and Stewart, who will be 10 in November. One son lives in Houston, and two sons are attending college in Michigan.

The Bighams have been married 25 years. They have

Divorcee Charged With Arson, Assault

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A 27-year-old divorcee has been charged with aggravated assault and arson for wounding a shotgun to prevent firefighters from reaching a burning house, police said.

Benna B. Owens was arrested Sunday after holding firefighters at bay while her ex-husband's house burned, authorities said.

She was charged Monday before Municipal Judge James Ridell, who set bond on both counts at $10,000.

District Fire Chief Willie Cole said he and aide Jerry Kunkel "must have messed with her 20 to 30 minutes, but it seemed like days."

"It was a pretty dangerous situation not only for us but for anyone around her. We just kept talking to her, then got up close and kind of wrestled the gun from her."

Neighbors told police she fired several shots in the air to keep firefighters away from the home.

Kunkel said several mattresses and other items were set ablaze in the bedroom of the house, causing about $2,500 damage.

Japanese Giving Americans Lessons

DETROIT (AP) — This may be the land of Yankee ingenuity and good old American know-how, but automakers, engineers and manufacturers are getting lessons on manufacturing methods today from Japanese experts.

Near the birthplace of the automobile assembly line, 500 manufacturing specialists from the American Production and Inventory Control Society gathered in a Ford Motor Co. auditorium for lectures by experts from Toyota Motor Co., Yamaha Motors, Waseda University and the American accounting firm of Arthur Andersen & Co.

American companies, impressed by the stupendous growth of Japanese productivity since World War II, have turned in recent years to Japanese firms for technical help, particularly in the steel industry.

"It's time we did some borrowing and adapting of our own," said Leighton Smith, Tokyo-based partner of Arthur Andersen.

Industry here has noted that Japan has a loyal and cooperative workforce, an understanding government, fast depreciation, high savings, high investment and fast-growing automation, and lower labor costs in some sectors such as the auto industry, he said.

And the Japanese have made huge strides in shop-floor management, Smith said.

Workers Resume Loading Grain

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Longshoremen in the New Orleans area, acting under court orders, have resumed loading grain on four cargo ships bound for the Soviet Union.

"We're loading only because we were ordered to," David Hauki, secretary of New Orleans Local 3000 of the International Longshoremen's Association, said Monday.

U.S. District Judge Robert Collins issued a 10-day restraining order on Saturday telling ILA Locals 3000 and 1497 to end their boycott of grain ships headed for the U.S.S.R.

The boycott, which began last Wednesday, marked a renewal of grain boycotts staged by longshoremen last January.

The dockworkers had refused to load grain for the Soviet Union in protest of the military intervention in Afghanistan.

But Collins said the union's boycott violated work contracts with the New Orleans Steamship Association.

Magazine: $254,000 To Support Child

NEW YORK (AP) — The government's estimate that it will cost parents $65,000 to support a child until age 18 is ridiculously low and the figure is more likely to reach $254,000 — not counting college — says Parents Magazine.

The magazine said the government failed to include inflation as a factor. An estimate of $65,000, which included four years of college, released earlier this month by the private Population Reference Bureau also was underestimated, the magazine contended in its issue released Monday.

Thomas Tilling, a contributing editor of the magazine, said the figure by using federal figures issued by the Agriculture Department as a starting point.

Adding 10 percent inflation yearly, the government's cost of raising a child goes from $65,000 to $175,000. Figuring another 10 percent to that total to make up for underestimates boosts the figure to $193,000, said the magazine.

Then another $61,000 is added in by figuring annual earnings, based on a $10,000-a-year salary plus inflation, lost to the mother from the time of the child's birth to the time the child enters school.

Other government estimates considered low were estimates that it costs only $22 a week to feed a teenage boy and $115 a year to clothe a newborn baby during its first year.

"Our least costly way to clothe the baby's bottom (diaper service) comes to $7.30 a week," Tilling wrote, "That's $380 a year."

In comparing various federal estimates, the magazine at one point said it questioned whether federal estimators had any children of their own.

Iraq Tightening Abadan Siege

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq says its forces are tightening their siege of Abadan and mopping up Iranian holdouts in the neighboring port of Khorramshahr. Iran claimed its forces blocked Iraqi attempts to advance in both key cities on the Shatt al-Arab estuary but admitted the defenders needed reinforcements.

Baghdad Radio said the commander of Iraq's forces at the southern end of the 300-mile invasion front told the Iraqi News Agency his forces were "tightening their control over the approaches to Abadan, while our artillery and air force continue to pound enemy positions and destroy armor and vehicles. The state of the enemy in Abadan is extremely bad, and our forces are tightening the noose."

The sector commander also reported that his troops in Khorramshahr, 10 miles northwest of Abadan, "continued operations to purge al-Muhammarah (the Iraqi name for the city) and to completely eradicate pockets of resistance," the broadcast said.

However, the official Iranian news agency Pars reported that the Iraqi advance on Abadan was being blocked, and Tehran Radio said the defenders of Khorramshahr "courageously resisted and halted the enemy again" Monday. But the defenders "continue to need reinforcements to better confront the infidel enemy," the official Iranian radio said.

There was no way to check on the validity of the conflicting claims since Western reporters were barred from the battlefronts. But it appeared that the Iraqis were maintaining their pressure on Abadan and Khorramshahr but the Iranians were still able to keep the invading forces out of Abadan itself.

Tehran Radio reported continuing Iraqi shelling of Abadan, artillery duels Monday afternoon on the Abadan-Ahwaz highway north of the city and the Abadan-Mahshahr highway to the east, and long-range shelling of the city from the Iraqi side of the Shatt al-Arab, the boundary-line waterway between the two countries and Iraq's water route to the Persian Gulf. Iraq is fighting to get complete control of the estuary.

The Iranian radio also claimed that Khorramshahr's defenders "destroyed several new enemy positions" Sunday night and Monday and "after hand-to-hand fighting" drove the Iraqis back from the vicinity of the slaughterhouse in the port.

Meanwhile, President Carter said if the 52 hostages held by Iran since Nov. 4 are released, "I would unfreeze their (Iranian) assets, which are several billions of dollars...I would drop the embargo on trade with Iran and work toward a resumption of normal commerce with Iran in the future."

The president, campaigning in Ohio, said it is to the United States' advantage "to have a strong Iran. It's to our advantage to have a united Iran."

Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie, in a speech in Chicago, also appeared conciliatory, saying, "We are opposed to the dismemberment of Iran. We believe that the cohesion of Iran is in the interest of the stability of the region as a whole. The integrity of Iran is threatened by the Iraqi invasion."

The speaker of Iran's Parliament, Hashemi Rafsanjani, said Monday that the legislature would decide in the "next two or three days" on conditions for release of the hostages, but that he thought they would be the same ones enunciated by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's revolutionary leader.

Khomeini's conditions were return of the shah's wealth, cancellation of claims against Iran, release of Iranian assets frozen in the United States, and a guarantee of non-interference in Iranian affairs. He dropped an oft-stated demand for an apology for past ties with the shah's regime.

Benson Earns NFIB's Award

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB), the largest small business group in the nation, announces that by voting in support of key small business issues 72 percent of the time during the 96th Congress, U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen of Texas had earned its "Guardian of Small Business Award."

In announcing the award, Wilson S. Johnson, president of the 620,000-member group with 55,145 of those members in Texas—explained that the "Guardian Award gives recognition to legislators who support small business, and at the same time assures our members of how their legislator is representing them in Congress. "Quite often," says Johnson, "some legislators will claim support for small business by voting for such things as a Small Business Administration appropriations bill. We feel, however, that NFIB members should know how their legislator voted on each of those issues which we consider of key importance to small business."

NFIB PAC Chairman Dick Fisher noted that close scrutiny of the Senator's overall legislative record clearly shows a concern for the 12 million or so small business operations in the country today. "Senator Bentsen has served his constituency well on a broad-based spectrum of legislation and has been an effective member of Congress in his work on the Senate floor and in committee," says Fisher.

NFIB, which is nonprofit and nonpartisan, presents its "Guardian Awards" at the end of each Congress to those members who vote in favor of small business on selected issues at least 70 percent of the time. A total of 195 Representatives and 30 Senators qualified for the award this year.

Carter, Reagan Debate Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan and President Carter have decided how, but not when and where they'll debate. A negotiator in the intricate struggle to arrange the contest predicted, however, that the impasse will be short.

For their part, the two candidates at least seem ready to work out a schedule.

"Whatever they arrange is all right with me," Reagan told reporters in Louisville Monday as his representatives were meeting with Carter's people in Washington. Carter previously had said he would debate his Republican challenger any time, any place.

And yet, four hours of face-to-face talks and more negotiations by telephone late into the night Monday produced only tentative agreement on a format, but not on the date and place.

"We had hoped we might be able to clean it up tonight," James Baker, Reagan's chief negotiator, said late Monday.

But he added: "We are very optimistic. I'm sure they are. We made good progress today and I think we'll have an agreement tomorrow."

"Everything hinges on everything else," said White House press secretary Jody Powell, in explaining the intricacies of the working out the debate.

Powell, who joined Carter in New York after taking part in the talks, said the two sides had agreed not to try to score points through making public what was going on in the negotiations. Neither he nor Baker would sell out the sticking points.

The debate could prove decisive in the closing days of the election campaign. Polls indicate that Carter and his Republican challenger are running close in the large industrial states where elections usually are won or lost, with a large bloc of undecided voters.

Baker meant the debate to be on Nov. 3, election eve, but Powell said that date is out.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
Yesterday I was talking to a life-long Democrat who said he was going to vote for Regan. He said he liked Carter, thought he was a good moral man, but was voting against Carter because he couldn't get Congress to go along with his worthwhile programs. He said he didn't know if Regan could get Congress to go along but he was going to vote for him.

I was surprised because I know this man likes and respects the President. I asked him if he liked Carter and his programs, why didn't he vote against his Congressman if he wouldn't support Carter and his good programs.

Well, he said his Congressman supported the President but all those other Congressmen didn't. He was frustrated and was taking his frustrations out on our good President.

Now, I ask you. Isn't that throwing the baby out with the bath water. All intelligent Americans should support those candidates that support what the voter wants done. Otherwise, our democracy will not be representative.

This sounds like a lot of the talk I heard when Richard Nixon was running for reelection. Look what that got us into.

Yours truly

TREPAC-RPAC has issued endorsements of Jack Hightower for U.S. Congress, District 13, and Kent Hance, District 19.

In the race for the Texas senate seat for district 31 the real estate organizations have endorsed Bob Price.

Endorsements for the Texas House of Representatives include:

Endorsed by the organizations for place four justice on the Texas Supreme Court is Will Garwood.

For such controls. In 1956 Dwight Eisenhower vetoed a bill which would have outlawed federal control over natural gas in interstate commerce. In 1973, Richard Nixon signed into law a bill which imposed further price controls on both oil and natural gas, and Gerald Ford later refused to support the removal of these regulations. Only President Jimmy Carter has had the courage to decontrol these prices, and now he is attempting to correct the basic inequity of the Windfall Profit Tax Act. White said that this positive step deserves the support of all the people of Texas.

Energy Big Issue in Campaign

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential campaign dialogue on energy is a classic confrontation between a Republican's "free market" instincts and a Democrat's belief that energy independence hinges upon federal intervention.

Simply put, Ronald Reagan thinks private industry can solve the nation's energy problems, and he trusts business to do it without federal subsidies.

Jimmy Carter, on the other hand, pushed for creation of two huge new energy bureaucracies during his first term, authoring a $20 billion program of federal funding to help profit-seeking industry develop synthetic fuel sources.

Symbolizing his objection to government energy programs in general, Reagan has said he would seriously consider abolishing the Department of Energy, established shortly after Carter took office.

More concretely, however, Reagan's anti-intervention attitude has led him to attack federal energy funding programs which industry itself opposes.

research, but not the Carter-launched programs to stimulate commercialization of solar and other "renewable" energy sources or new fuel-saving techniques.

Even the new Synthetic Fuels Corporation established to develop synthetic oil and gas from coal might be limited by Reagan to support of demonstration projects, stopping short of pioneer commercial plants.

Independent John B. Anderson, in his platform, would support synthetic fuel development funding, but link continued support to the resolution of environmental and economic questions. He also supports strong government programs to commercialize alternative energy sources and conservation.

Perhaps the widest split between the candidates shows up in nuclear energy.

Following the March 1979 accident which severely damaged the Three Mile Island nuclear plant near Harrisburg, Pa., Carter reorganized the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, replaced its chairman, and quietly dropped his support for legislation to speed up the siting of new nuclear plants.

Anderson, on the other hand, favors a moratorium on licensing until the difficult problems of radioactive waste disposal are solved.

Reagan favors reprocessing spent nuclear fuel to recover uranium and plutonium that could be used again.

Carter has blocked reprocessing, arguing that it would increase the risk of spreading nuclear weapons among more and more countries.

The NRC, an independent regulatory agency which does not take orders from the president, processes no new plant licenses for more than a year, until it had adopted new safety measures in response to the accident.

Reagan has continued to urge "streamlining" the nuclear licensing process at a time when the NRC has become gun-shy of anything that might look like a short-cut past essential safety reviews.

Anderson also supported the "windfall profits tax" on oil companies, which Carter proposed and Congress adopted earlier this year.

Reagan opposed the windfall tax but says he would not seek its immediate repeal because the government needs the money; it should be reduced, however, and might be phased out later, he has said.

Carter and Anderson both favor federal support of urban mass transit development and expansion of railroad service, as ways to conserve the gasoline otherwise burned by cars and trucks; Reagan opposes federal support of urban mass transit and railroads.

Carter has increased federal coal and offshore petroleum leasing, and is gradually phasing out price controls on crude oil and refined products. Reagan wants those things done faster.

Beta Sigma Phi Members Convene for Convention

More than 300 Beta Sigma Phi members will be in Hereford this Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 25-26 attending Beta Sigma Phi's Area convention.

Theme of the annual event is "Circus." This is the first year since 1973 Hereford has sponsored the annual convention.

Events planned for the two day stay will include a flea market and fun under the big top to yearbook competition and informative studies.

The four Beta Sigma Phi Chapters in Hereford including Kappa Iota, Alpha Iota Mu, Xi Epsilon Alpha, and Alpha Alpha have been working on the preparation for the convention for an entire year.

Chapters from the area, which extends south to Plainview and west as far as Wichita Falls, are expected to attend as well as guest chapters from Lubbock, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Registration for the weekend event will begin at 1 p.m. at the Community Center Saturday. A flea market displaying craft items will be held at this time.

At 6:30 p.m. in the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn, Betas will be entertained under the big top complete with hot dogs, carnival booths and entertainment.

Door prizes including hand made clowns, dolls, key chains and drums will be awarded. Hereford Beta members have made all the door prizes that will be awarded throughout the weekend.

Sunday's activities will be highlighted by the guest speaker, Shirley Moore. Ms. Moore represents the International Office of Beta Sigma Phi from Kansas City, Mo., as the Texas Division Chairman.

Sunday morning will also include informative discussion groups in which chapters will exchange ideas and projects.

Keeping with the theme of "Circus, Circus" Hereford members will be dressed in circus costumes during the weekend activities.

Couple Married

Mr. and Mrs. Troys Riddle and Mr. and Mrs. Jackie E. Brock, all of Hereford, announce the marriage of their children, Gene Michelle Riddle to Steven Anthony Brock. Vows were exchanged before family and friends during a double ring ceremony in the Community Room of Hereford State Bank. The Rev. Bill Frazier, pastor of Avenue Baptist Church, officiated. Kathy Reavis of Amarillo, cousin of the bride, served as matron of honor. Jackie Brock served his son as best man. A reception followed in the community room. The couple will make their home in Amarillo.

Local Citizens To Celebrate Stephen F. Austin's Birthday

"A Tribute to Stephen F. Austin" will be celebrated in hundreds of Texas communities during the week of Nov. 1-8. Activities in Deaf Smith County are being organized by Mrs. Joe D. Rogers, chairman Texas Heritage Project and A.J. Schroeter, County Historical Commission Chairman.

Local citizens will be participating in Texas flag-raising, speaking at civic clubs and presenting original posters featuring Austin. County Judges and Mayors will be issuing commemorative proclamations.

Governor William P. Clements has officially set aside the week for all Texans to rededicate and reaffirm their faith in the principals of self-reliance and responsible citizenship as exemplified by Stephen F. Austin.

Austin is known as the "Father of Texas" for his outstanding contributions in business, law and government. He established Texas' first Anglo-American colony 159 years ago and acted as emissary to both the United States and Mexico.

"Stephen F. Austin" celebrations are the first in a series of ten Texas Patriotic Days to be observed throughout the year. These significant dates will remind Texans of their rich heritage of independence, freedom of economic opportunity and individualism.

November 3 is Austin's birthday and ceremonies in Austin and San Felipe will commemorate the occasion. George Strake, Texas

Secretary of State will place a wreath on his grave at 9 a.m. in the State Cemetery, Austin. Also invited to attend are former Texas Secretaries of State to honor Austin's legacy as the Republic's Secretary of State.

The Stephen F. Austin Park in San Felipe will be the site of the official state "Father of Texas Day Observance" with 1 p.m. ceremonies.

This tribute is sponsored by the Texas Heritage Project, a joint endeavor of the Texas Historical Foundation and the state agency, Texas Historical Commission.

Allen Parson Named OSU Honor Student

Allen D. Parson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen B. Parson of Avenue K, was among five students from northwestern Texas to have been named honor students for the just-completed summer trimester at Oklahoma State Tech, Okmulgee, Okla.

Parson is studying culinary arts at OSU.

Each student earned a 3.0 or better grade point average on a 4.0 system throughout the 15-week summer trimester. Most students attended 30 hours of classes per week.

Grade point averages are computed on the student's grade in his major area of study and related general education subjects. All of the technical-occupational college's programs of study earn college credit hours. Most students are enrolled in programs leading to the Associate of Technology degree.

Tech, the residential, technical branch of Oklahoma State University, is the largest college of this type in the nation. Some 1,800 full-time students were enrolled for the summer trimester.

Ann Landers

Guidelines to Inheritance

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In this era of remarriages, guidelines seem nonexistent. Therein lies my problem. When my present husband and I married, we signed a premarital agreement—since we both have children and wanted to leave our accumulated possessions to them. We drew up separate wills, and I sat back, satisfied that everything was in order.

My question is this: In a second marriage, how should the excess money be handled? Through mutual desire, I do not work outside our home. My husband is extremely generous with the money he gives me to run the household and to spend on myself. All the remaining money, which is a substantial amount, is deposited to his personal savings account. In compliance with the terms of his will it will go to his children at his death.

I resent this deeply in view of the fact that he divided everything equally with his first wife when they were divorced. I believe favoritism among wives is a bad thing.

Please express your views before a very high wall goes up between us.—Odessa, Fla.

DEAR ODESSA: In some states (Illinois, for example), when there is no will, the widow is entitled to one-third of her husband's estate and the children get two-thirds. These percentages are reasonable guidelines.

In my opinion, your husband should set up a separate savings account for you and put one-third of the "remaining money" in that account.

He should remember that his children will probably inherit their mother's estate. Since that money in all probability came from him, they will be well provided for from both sides.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My son is divorced and sees his little girl twice a year for three weeks. Linda is now 10 years old and is as pretty as a picture.

I notice that when Linda visits her father they sleep together in the same bed. (He has a one-bedroom apartment, but there is a roll-away in the living room).

How old do you think a girl should be when she stops sleeping with her daddy?

Please tell me in the paper. I don't want to make any trouble by getting into correspondence with you. Thanks very much.—Worried Gramma In Tallahassee

DEAR GRAMMA: Linda should never have been in her daddy's bed in the first place. If you don't have the courage to speak up about this matter, I hope you will ask a doctor, a teacher or close friend to make it clear to your son that this must stop. It could create serious problems—if it hasn't already.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 34 years old, own my own machine shop and want to get married and have a family. The girl I have been going with for two years is very beautiful. She has been wearing the diamond I gave her for over a year, but she says she won't marry me until she gets the desire to "run around a little" out of her system.

Marilyn has gone with six men since our engagement.

She doesn't sneak. She tells me everything—which I admire. Two of these men were married. The last fellow she dated was eight years her junior. That lasted two months. Now she is seeing a man who is 20 years her senior. Marilyn says she must let this romance run its course. Frankly, I'm getting a little fed up. Should I have a word with her?—Don In Dubuque

DEAR DON: By all means. The word should be "good-bye."

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating DO's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 50 cents along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Program Manager for Solar Energy Hosts 'Alternate Energy Sources'

WTSU-Dr. Michael E. Berger, program manager for solar energy and conservation at the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory in New Mexico, will present "Alternate Energy Sources" at West Texas State University.

The workshop will be hosted from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., on Saturday, Nov. 1, at the WTSU East Dining Hall by the Canyon Branch of American Association of University Women and the WTSU Office of Programs for Women.

Cost of the workshop is $5 which includes a luncheon and deadline for registering is Monday, Oct. 27.

Berger will discuss energy sources for the future; energy in homes, schools and churches; problems with nuclear waste; a cost analysis of energy sources; and energy relating to transportation.

Berger, a native of New Mexico from Springer, received bachelor and master degrees in mechanical engineering from the University of New Mexico. His Ph.D. in mechanical engineering includes a research area in advanced heat pipe technology.

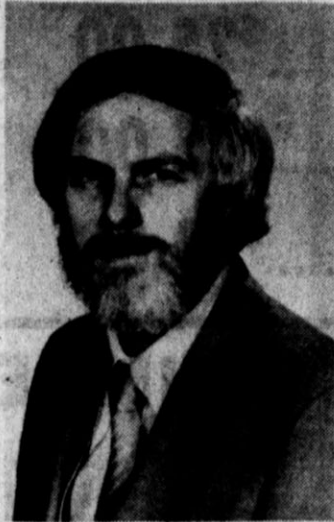

He is a former program manager for heat pipe at Fairchild Space and Electronics Co., where he was responsible for the design of conceptual active solar energy systems at the request of Dr. Werner von Braun, a Fairchild vice president.

In 1974, Berger joined the staff of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory as a hydrodynamicist in the Theoretical Design Division. He has taught undergraduate and graduate courses in thermodynamics, gas dynamics, heat transfer, thermochemistry and solar energy engineering.

Since June, he has been in his current position at Los Alamos where he is responsible for the active and passive solar energy programs, building conservation program, high-technology ore-separation and coal gasification projects, hydrogen fuels program, hydrogen vehicle project and the fuel cell and hybrid vehicle programs.

Berger is a member of the American Section of the International Solar Energy Society.

Jane Kerr, director of the WTSU Office of Programs for Women, said the workshop is expected to attract members of civic groups, real estate appraisers, contractors, realtors, science instructors, county agriculture and extension agents, area industry employees and citizens interested in future energy sources.

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

There is something about surveys of young people that bothers me.

Either there is a significant increase in the basic, wonderful values everyone knows and loves so well...

Or there is a significant increase in lying.

I read recently where a questionnaire was returned that revealed 50 percent never had an alcoholic drink; 96 percent had never tried marijuana, 70 percent were virgins and 53 percent got most of their news from television.

Where do they find these kids? Don't get me wrong. I want to believe there's a generation of kids like that who live just down the block from me. In fact, had I know they even existed, my husband and I would have chipped in a few bucks and gotten one for a pet.

But wait. There's more.

In another survey high school students were asked who they would like to be if they could be anyone in the world. Three out of every four said they wanted to be themselves. (The last time my daughter said that she was wearing all my clothes, my tennis racket and my car keys.) After that they listed a movie star, followed by a two-way tie, Cheryl Ladd and President Carter, and a three-way tie in fourth place: a millionaire (that's more like it), Jaclyn Smith and "My Mom."

The real surprise came in response to the question, "What do you like to do in your spare time?" They listed 1. Reading. 2. Playing. 3. Drawing. 4. Roller skating, and 5. Bicycling. What happened to television? Most of the young people I have observed cannot pass a mirror without trying to adjust the dials. And where was mention of that great American teenage pastime...telephoning?

In my mind, I've never been sure that people tell the truth on surveys which is why I don't put a lot of stock in them.

The real heroes and heroines of surveys are the few who tell the truth...not what they think you want to hear.

Under "Your Most Embarrassing Moment" only one had the courage to say he was unzipped. Another remembers having to ride in a stroller in Disneyland when he was seven. And two remember they wet themselves on the first day of school.

The majority of those queried listed as No. 1, "Tripping" or "Falling."

I tell you it's enough to make Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn cry at their own funeral.

Meeting Scheduled Tonight at School For Students Interested in Excursion

Mrs. Leona Miller, science teacher at La Plata Junior High School, in conjunction with the upcoming excursion to Washington, D.C. and Williamsburg, Virginia, has scheduled a meeting for tonight at 7 p.m. at La Plata for parents whose children are interested in going on the excursion.

An outstanding educational travel opportunity, the tour is in cooperation with Lakeland Tours, Inc., of Charlottesville, Virginia. It is a non-school sponsored or affiliated event.

The tour will be for four days and three nights in duration. The group will meet at and depart from Lubbock Airport on Saturday morning, March 14. Students will spend four days sightseeing in and around the Washington and Williamsburg areas and return to Lubbock on Tuesday evening, March 16. Parents should plan on meeting their youngsters upon flight arrival.

The cooperating agency, Lakeland Tours, Inc., coordinates over 700 tours on a similar basis annually and is widely recognized for their expertise in junior high educational travel.

Complete cost of the tour is $538 per person. This figure includes air fare, lodging, complete sightseeing each day, all meals, chaperonage, all admissions and guide fees, escort services, comprehensive insurance coverage (accident and illness), and evening activities (a night tour and social-recreational activities). The tour price is based on a minimum of 35 participants.

A registration form will be provided for each student interested in the educational travel. They need to be filled out and mailed with a deposit of $65 to the Lakeland Tours office at 1290 Seminole Trail, Charlottesville, Virginia, 22901. Checks need to be made payable to Lakeland Tours.

Deposits need to be received by Nov. 7. Final payments will be due prior to Feb. 7, 1981. If one wants to use Master Charge or VISA, the total tour price ($538) will be charged at the time of registration.

For further information concerning the meeting tonight or the tour, contact Mrs. Miller in the evening hours at 364-4793. "This is not a school sponsored trip so parents are asked not to call the school for information," said Mrs. Miller.

4-H Councils Provide Youth Involvement

By AGNES TAYLOR
County Extension Agent
Youth involvement at all levels of program development is an essential ingredient for a successful 4-H and youth program.

4-H councils at various levels provide representative leadership and insure two-way communication between volunteer leaders, extension personnel and young people. The Extension Service is the parent organization of 4-H.

At the county level, 4-H'ers, usually 12 years and older, elect to the county 4-H council assist in making decisions about county programs which affect them. Through their linkage to local 4-H clubs, the youth help develop programs of interest to young people. They also stimulate junior and teen leadership by participating with planned countywide events and activities.

Elected representatives to the district 4-H council work closely with the Extension staff in recommending and planning large-scale youth programs. Activities might include planning junior leader training, youth fairs, career development programs or special activities.

The Texas 4-H Council allows youth between 15 and 19 years of age to interpret the 4-H program to the public through statewide activities. Representing 150,000 4-H boys and girls in Texas, state council members make public appearances at fairs, shows, regional meetings and workshops to tell about 4-H in Texas. They also plan and take part in state events, serving as a working staff.

4-H councils provide an important learning experience in democratic principles. By identifying the needs and interests of 4-H youth, exploring action programs, and determining future 4-H efforts, council members are acquiring skills for effective adult living.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Judge Nelson To Serve as Director of Bee

Deaf Smith County Judge Glen Nelson has been named as director for the National Spelling Bee for boys and girls from grades 4 through 8, as announced recently by the Amarillo Globe-News and West Texas State University. Judge Nelson has served this area since 1975.

Directors are in complete control of their county events, and work with private and public schools.

Winners of the various county spell-downs will gather in Amarillo on April 25 to name the 33rd regional champion. The deadline for naming the 1981 county winners will be April 4, 1981.

Throughout the four states that are assigned the AGN-WTSU district, most schools use the booklet prepared by the national sponsors, the Scripps-Howard Newspapers. "Words of the Champions," containing more than 500 new words is available from the Spelling Bee Editor, Amarillo Globe-News, Box 2091, Amarillo, Texas 79166. The word list costs 40 cents each.

Orders may be placed by students, principals and county directors to the newspaper.

The date of the 1981 National Spelling Bee will be June 1 through June 5 in Washington, D.C. where more than 100 regional finalists will compete. Expenses for the 1981 AGN-WTSU champion will be furnished by the Amarillo Globe-News. Various other awards will be given to some of the top area spellers and each county champion will receive a Bee trophy.

National rules allow any student who has not reached his or her 16th birthday or gone beyond the eighth grade at the end of the current school term to compete.

The area sponsors also promote a Junior Bee for elementary grades 4, 5 and 6. These county Junior winners will not take part in regional competition but will be recognized in Amarillo during Bee Day activities.

Additional information may be obtained from Mrs. Jeane Bartlett, Spelling Bee Editor, or Gene Parker, director of placement, West Texas State University.

The 1980 regional champ, Traci Hutton of Borger, placed 23rd in the national finals among a field of 112 from all across the states.

YOU AUTO KNOW

By Don Henslee

Recently I have started hearing a high-pitched squealing noise when driving my new Mazda. My first thought was brakes, but they checked out fine. I don't notice any operational problems, just the noise. Could it be the five-speed transmission? Best bet, from your description, is a clutch noise. It could be coming from one of two different specific sources... a bad release bearing or a defective pilot bearing. Which of the two is the problem depends on when the squealing sound is heard. If you hear it when the engine is idling with your foot resting on the clutch pedal, replace the release bearing. Pilot bearing noises are heard only when that bearing is in operation... with the crankshaft speed different from the speed of the clutch shaft... when the clutch is disengaged and the transmission is in gear.

The Newspaper Bible

NO, GOD HAS NOT FORSAKEN YOU

I ask then, has God rejected and deserted His people the Jews? Oh no, not at all. Remember that I myself am a Jew, a descendant of Abraham and a member of Benjamin's family.

No, God has not discarded His own people whom He chose from the very beginning. Do you remember what the Scriptures say about this? Elijah the prophet was complaining to God about the Jews, telling God how they had killed the prophets and torn down God's altars; Elijah claimed that he was the only one left in all the land who still loved God, and now they were trying to kill him too.

And do you remember how God replied? God said, "No, you are not the only one left. I have seven thousand others besides you who still love Me and have not bowed down to idols?"

It is the same today. Not all the Jews have turned away from God; there are a few being saved as a result of God's kindness in choosing them.

And if it is by God's kindness, then it is not by their being good enough. For in that case the free gift would no longer be free—it isn't free when it is earned.

So this is the situation: most of the Jews have not found the favor of God they are looking for. A few have—the ones God has picked out—but the eyes of the others have been blinded.

This is what our Scriptures refer to when they say that God has put them to sleep, shutting their eyes and ears so that they do not understand what we are talking about when we tell them of Christ. And so it is to this very day.

King David spoke of this same thing when he said, "Let their good food and other blessings trap them into thinking all is well between themselves and God. Let these good things boomerang on them and fall back upon their heads to justly crush them."

Let their eyes be dim," he said, "so that they cannot see, and let them walk bent-backed forever with a heavy load."

Phils Hope to Wrap Up World Series Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies can wrap it all up tonight, and the man with the wrapping paper and ribbon in his hands is Steve Carlton.

Philadelphia's left-handed pitching ace will take the mound at about 8:15 p.m. EDT in Game Six of the 1980 World Series with Kansas City. At that moment, he will be only 27 outs from giving the Phillies their first world championship in the 80 years the franchise has existed.

A man of ultimate achievement, he has won two Cy Young awards and probably will claim his third for a 24-9 performance and 2.34 earned run average in 1980.

He went into a silent act about five years ago, and speaks only to a select group which includes his wife, Beverly, their two children and a few close friends. What he is feeling at this very moment is his secret, but he is known as a master of concentration.

He practices Eastern religions and the martial arts. He plugs his ears with cotton when pitching to shut out distractions. His expressions on the mound — twitching and stretching his facial muscles — are calculated and ritualized for a purpose only he fully knows.

His isolation is almost total, and his disregard for achievements is storied. He never did pick up his second Cy Young award; it still sits in the Phillies clubhouse.

"The one amazing capacity he has is to concentrate and adjust his game," says Phillies catcher Bob Boone. "He adjusts as well as any pitcher in the game. He can change completely from one inning to another."

"He might lose his ability to control his slider in one inning," Boone said, "but you stick with it because you know he'll make some adjustment, and it'll be back the next inning."

Right-hander Rich Gale, 13-9 this season, will be the man charged with keeping Kansas City in the game until the Royals hitters can fathom Carlton.

"I said before we're going to have to beat Steve Carlton to win this thing," Gale said. "Now we're at that point. You either beat Carlton, or we lose it in six."

In their 12 years, the Royals had not gotten past the American League playoffs before this year. They lost the first two games of the Series in Philadelphia, then took the first two of their three-game homestand. Philadelphia won 4-3 on Sunday, and now can put an early end to only their third World Series appearance since being born in 1900.

"I hope Lefty (Carlton) throws the way he can," said Del Unser, whose key pinch hits have kept Philadelphia in the forefront of this Series. "If he does, we can win."

Perhaps like no other pitcher in baseball today, Carlton has the power to completely dominate a ballgame.

He worked an incredible 304 innings during the regular season, another 121-3 in the playoffs and went eight innings in his winning start in Game Two of the Series. In his 38 regular-season starts, he never failed to go at least six innings, and he pitched 13 complete games with three shutouts.

"He is a pro in every sense of the word," Boone said. "He concentrates as well or better than any player along with his outstanding talent."

In his previous World Series start, Gale worked 41-3 innings without a decision Friday in Game Three, which the Royals won at home 4-3 in 10 innings. He gave up seven hits and two runs in his brief and ineffective stint.

"The game's just not on my back. I've got 24 other guys to help out there, too," Gale said. "There's no question I'm going to be pumped up, but if I lose I think the sun still will come up on Wednesday."

If necessary, Phils Manager Dallas Green said he would go with Game Three starter Dick Ruthven Wednesday night, while Royals Manager Jim Frey will go back to Dennis Leonard, who started the first and fourth games.

Oakland Drums Pittsburg in High Scoring Clash

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Oakland Raiders punted just twice. The Pittsburgh Steelers punted just twice.

But the scoreboard point totals jumped like the digits on a pinball machine as the Raiders beat the Steelers 45-34 in the highest scoring game in the history of Monday night football.

"This was just unusual. I don't know if it was playing on Monday night or what?" said Steelers cornerback Mel Blount.

"I don't know how much offense we had. I don't know if we had as much as they did. But we got the big plays," said Raiders quarterback Jim Plunkett, who threw three touchdown passes, including two bombs to Cliff Branch.

"I don't know whether to laugh or cry," said Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw, who threw for two touchdowns before he was finally knocked from the game for the third and final time with a pinched nerve in his shoulder and a jammed right thumb.

The Raiders, the team in the National Football League with the best Monday night record (14-1-1), took the lead to start with a 21-point second quarter that gave them a 28-24 halftime lead. They finished with the most points ever by a visitor to Three Rivers Stadium.

"It was a great victory, a heck of a game," said Raiders Coach Tom Flores.

The 79 total points were the most in the 10½-years of Monday night games. The old 'high of 77 was matched in Oakland's 42-35 win over New Orleans last year and in Dallas' 42-35 victory over San Francisco in 1977.

"I'm proud of our football team because it played very, very well. Oakland just played a little bit better," Coach Chuck Noll said after Pittsburgh fell to 4-3 with its second loss in a row at home, something the Steelers hadn't done since 1971.

Pittsburgh began the game without injured All-Pro Lynn Swann, Franco Harris and John Stallworth. Then it lost linebacker Jack Lambert in the first quarter with a knee injury.

Bradshaw said he expects to play next week at Cleveland, now tied with Houston and Pittsburgh atop the AFC Central. Lambert's status is uncertain.

Meanwhile, Oakland, 4-3, notched its fourth straight win over Pittsburgh in a rivalry that had been dormant since the Raiders won here in 1977.

Pittsburgh took a 10-0 lead in the first quarter on Bradshaw's 19-yard touchdown toss to Jim Smith and an 18-yard field goal by Matt Bahr. The Raiders countered with Kenny King's 27-yard touchdown run on their next series.

A total of 35 points came during a second quarter that ended with Bradshaw in the training room undergoing treatment for a pinched nerve in his left shoulder.

Bradshaw hurt his shoulder on a play which resulted in a 34-yard fumble return for a touchdown by linebacker Rod Martin, giving the Raiders the lead at 21-17 with 3:05 left in the second quarter.

Bradshaw was sacked by Cedrick Hardman, jarring the ball loose. Willie Jones recovered the ball and lateraled to Martin, who ran to the end zone.

"I didn't intentionally hurt

Bradshaw," said Hardman. "We've been friends for a long time."

With Bradshaw headed to the lockerroom, backup quarterback Cliff Stoudt was intercepted by linebacker Ted Hendricks, who picked off an earlier Bradshaw pass.

Plunkett followed with a 45-yard bomb to Morris Bradshaw and the Raiders led 28-17.

But Stoudt led Pittsburgh on a 79-yard drive that ended with a 13-yard strike to Jim Smith just 10 seconds before the half. Smith made the grab at the 1. He was tackled by Odis McKinney but he extended the ball with one arm across the goal.

In the third quarter,

Plunkett and Branch combined on a 56-yard bomb to put the Raiders up 35-24.

Bradshaw then threw a 36-yard TD pass to Theo Bell, and Matt Bahr added a 32-yard field goal that cut the Raiders' lead to one point at 35-34 through three periods.

But Plunkett teamed with Branch again on a 34-yard scoring pass in the last period, and Chris Bahr, Matt's brother, kicked a 35-yard field goal for Oakland.

Plunkett, who took over at quarterback after Dan Pastorini suffered a broken leg, hit 13 of 21 passes for 247 yards.

"There's no question about it. I've matured," said Plunkett. "I don't throw the ball as hard as I used to, but I feel pretty good physically."

Bradshaw, sacked five times, hit 18 of 27 passes for 299 yards.

"We came back. We tried. We fought back. But it just wasn't enough," he said.

Later, a craggy-faced visitor to the Raiders lockerroom summed up the game for both sides.

"It was just like the old AFL," said ex-Raider George Blanda, remembering the days when teams like the New York Titans and Dallas Texans lit up the scoreboards of the American Football League.

Forecaster Results

I KNEW WHAT IT MUST HAVE felt like for all those uncomfortable people on t.v. commercials after this week's fearful forecaster results were all said and done with. You know the people I'm talking about — the multitude who were searching for some wonder medicine to cure their unfashionable heart break of psoriasis, that constant itching that was undeniably associated with a bad dandruff problem or the cast of thousands suffering from the throbbing Kansas City Royal hitter's ailment — a problem only soothingly relieved by Preparation H.

Mauri Montgomery

I WAS ONE OF THOSE INDIVIDUALS who were still searching for a little solace. But unlike my tormented friends on the tube, there was no cure for me, I would live in pain until the football season subsided.

In case you haven't heard about me on Hereford's local network GOSSIP, I was the little chubby guy who wanted deliverance from a hemorrhaging 60 percentile ranking in the pignskin forecasting field.

This past week, I witnessed my glimmering hopes for a 70 percent relief fade once again into the relentless 60 percentile ranks after missing five of 21 contests. That mathematical quotient pushed me up from a 67 percent tally a week before to a rambling 69 this week — only one incredible stroke off the slippery guest forecaster's pool.

BUT I WANTED TOTAL COMFORT, not partial recovery. Maybe I needed surgery like George Brett!

Those awesome guest forecasters somehow reaffirmed their dominance over the rest of us again this week through Larry Wartes' selections. Wartes, in his own unerring way, capped a 49-7 mark to move the guest's out of the 60 percentile range and back into the 70 percent driver's seat following last week's delve to 69 percent. I truly believe, and I may be wrong, we gave him the benefit of the doubt on several of his choices after he kept complaining we didn't give him enough time to do an adequate job.

HE SUPPOSEDLY WAS INVOLVED WITH jury duty which was a valid excuse, but it was later learned he was the one on trial for being an alleged accessory to a forecaster scandal a few years back. Confronted with the allegations, Wartes commented, "I pled not guilty—that radio guy Tom Simons said he was from some secret organization named the FCC and he asked me to do it on the United States behalf!"

Following in the list of notable performances was publisher Speedy Nieman, who continues to amaze us with his refurbished outcomes each week. Besides reporting his outcome, I would also like to clear up some of the questions some of our readers have had about Speedy's picture on the panel. Several noticed there was something wrong with his left eye — no he still has it. It was merely swollen shut in a family dispute.

THE PUBLISHER WAS AS TOUGH AS his picture looked in the results this week however, after he posted a 20-6 tally for a 65 percent behind the guest forecasters and me.

Brazoswood, Plano Suffer Shocking Upsets

Class 5A of The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll had rocked along calmly the past two weeks with Temple, Plano and Brazoswood maintaining the top three positions.

The upset bug also dipped into Class 3A where top ranked Breckenridge was defeated by No. 9 Stamford 28-23 and in Class 4A where No. 3 Navasota and No. 6 Waco Connally were beaten.

The resulting shakeup in this week's balloting left Temple still atop the Class 5A roster followed by Bay City in 4A, Childress, runnerup last week, as the new Class 3A leader and Pilot Point in 2A.

Port Arthur Jefferson and Conroe moved into the Nos. two and three positions in 5A while Plano and Brazoswood fell to ninth and 10th. Temple polled 14 first place votes and held a 197-164 point lead over Jefferson.

Greenville, which pulled off the startling upset of Plano, received one first place vote and narrowly missed making the top 10. The victory gave the Lions a 6-0 record but they may have to forfeit five games because of an ineligible player.

Navasota dropped from third to ninth in Class 4A

But that was before last weekend's games when Brazoswood and Plano suffered shocking upsets and Temple got the scare of the season before edging Killeen Ellison 21-19.

Armando Alaniz of 626 Ave. F was a good example of the futility of the situation after he rifled out only one incorrect choice this week as the winner of the football contest over 230 entrants.

Bernadette Kalka of Box 683 missed two with a tiebreaker guess of 25 for a firm-handed second place and Mary Ann Willbourn of 228 Hickory claimed the third place niche over Wendell Burdine's three misses after making a tiebreaker guess of 25. Burdine had a guess of 34.

AND SINCE THE FOOTBALL CONTESTANTS HAVE shown they are in a league all by themselves, and since we're fair people who want to see the guest forecaster's get their fair shot at totally humiliating us — we will have next week's contest winner as the guest forecaster. THAT IS, IF THEY WOULDN'T BE TOO EMBARRASSED TO EVEN BE SEEN ON OUR LACKING PANEL OF PIGSKIN JUDGES!

TSTA Disapproves Of State's Testing

AUSTIN, Texas: October 15, 1980--Texas State Teachers Association President Dora Scott issued a statement today concerning the organization's reaction to the State Board of Education's newly approved program of competency testing.

She said that TSTA commends the concern of the state with wanting to ensure that students in Texas schools have mastered basic skills and that teachers attain reasonable levels of competency. TSTA was instrumental, she pointed out, in efforts to set up the Commission on Standards for the Teaching Profession and in urging the curriculum study.

"However," she said, "the Association opposes standardized, state-developed and administered testing because of its potentially negative implications for all students, for all school districts and subdivisions within districts, as well as for professionals and parents involved. A local program of remediation should be provided to assure progress for all students."

She continued, "The bureaucratically-developed tests that have been implemented have no capacity to reflect the cultural or geographic diversity of a state as large as Texas.

"We are alarmed at the recent results of these tests which claim to show that half of the ninth grade students in the state cannot pass all three parts.

"Once again, teachers will bear the brunt of the blame for a problem created for them when they have had no input into the development of the tests, which are supposed to be used as yardsticks for their students.

"Furthermore," she said, "the reports last spring of grading techniques being changed after many tests were scored, is disturbing to us. Also, the quota system of grading which required graders to score 50 tests an hour in five-hour-shifts, is totally unfair to the students in our opinion.

"In addition, anyone who has even passing familiarity with standardized tests, knows that the statistical processes applied often result in half the students being below average or grade-level no matter how well they do."

The TSTA position on testing has been made very clear, she said. "We strongly support more rigorous, relevant, and continuous assessment and evaluation of student learning progress in all areas of the curriculum including the basic skills.

"Assessment and evaluation procedures require that there be responsiveness to locally-agreed-on goals and objectives for learning which teachers and other professionals have been fully involved in developing.

"Such procedures should diagnose student learning needs and assist teachers and other educators in providing appropriate instruction to help correct identified problems.

"We do not feel, that one instrument or process should be used as the major determinant in making decisions on whether or not students should be promoted or graduated. We support locally-developed objectives and referenced-testing, in order to properly judge particular curriculums," she said.

Along with a growing number of professionals in the education field, TSTA leaders have many concerns about the validity of standardized tests, Scott noted.

A brief list of some of the problems would include--as previously stated--content that does not reflect local curriculum, content that is irrelevant, tests that largely measure specific recall-type facts without measuring reasoning and analytical ability, and test vocabularies being composed of words unfamiliar to students.

Scott also pointed out that the tests were given in February, instead of April, when the students would have at least had a chance to learn the full grade-level's worth of material.

On the subject of local school districts qualifying people as teachers when they hire them, Scott expressed grave concern. "The TSTA position is that school districts should deal only with employment and not licensure," she said.

"Teaching is a complex profession that encompasses a good deal more than just making sure people can live up to a series of bureaucratically duplicated tests. We believe that in-service education is worthwhile. But the state needs to do a better job of accrediting colleges of education.

On the subject of accountability, Scott said that TSTA supports five specific positions.

First, college-level training programs should reach National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education standards. Second, teacher education programs should be carried out by those who have had experience in public school teaching. Third, at least half of a teacher's training in the area of specialization should be by a PhD. Fourth, the attainment of a master's or doctorate and three-year's teaching experience should mean endorsement. Additional recommendations should not be necessary. Fifth, TSTA opposes a competency test for initial certification, because such tests have not been demonstrated to be valid.

"If properly accredited, institutions training teachers should be accountable through their screening and evaluation procedures for the competency of those entering the training and for the four-year program leading to a bachelor's degree and to certification," Scott concluded.

Paul Harvey News Guatemala Under Attack

Guatemala, one of our closest Latin American neighbors, is under attack.

I'm not sure there is anything we could or should do about it, but this focus on that situation is for purposes of perspective.

Sometimes Americans are inclined to chase all over the world spilling for a fight and ignore comparable menaces right under our noses.

Guatemala is under attack. No invading troops have stormed ashore but Communists already in Guatemala are employing guerrilla warfare and propaganda.

Attackers hit and run, leaving death and destruction, then change clothes to reappear as innocent merchants or farmers.

Guatemala is a beautiful country, a mixture of people--23 different languages and dialects. While Spanish tries to bind the people together, there are many who yet do not read or write any language.

President Lucas has been building new schools and hospitals and power projects--but his critics protest "not fast enough!" Governing such a diversity of people is agonizingly difficult.

So if Guatemala goes the way of El Salvador and Nicaragua, it will not necessarily reflect a lack of leadership--but rather it will be another example of human restiveness which Communists can skillfully divert toward the national leadership and-or toward us.

Many posted highway signs read: "Get out, Gringos."

That means us. And many Americans are getting out.

President Lucas fears most that the Latin America's Sandinistas may make their battlefield experience and their weapons available to the left-wing rebels--and that right-wing reaction would necessarily headquarter in Guatemala City.

Again, that is not intended to prod official Washington to any particular remedial action in Guatemala.

I doubt that our embassy personnel--mostly eager to get out of Guatemala and on to more plush assignments--have been feeding the State Department the facts which you and I have been sharing.

But this reference to that country is an effort to focus on the nearness of another Communist takeover--so that when any president presumes to take us into any conflict in Africa, Asia or the Middle East in the name of "human rights..."

Or in the name of "national interest..."

We will recognize the grotesque inconsistency of a foreign policy which involves us in war 6,000 miles away and ignores a similar menace within 600 miles of Texas.

Texas Oil Men Oppose Tax

AUSTIN--Texas independent oil producers and royalty owners are actively involved in the major lawsuit filed in Cheyenne, Wyoming, attacking the constitutionality of the Crude Oil Windfall Profits Tax. Dallasite L. Frank Pitts, president of the Austin-based Texas Producers and Royalty Owners Association described the tax as "a capricious and arbitrary excise measure" that hits hardest the nation's 12,000 independent producers and some two million royalty owners.

Stated Pitts: "The so-called windfall profits tax is totally unrelated to profits and amounts to the biggest excise tax in history. More than $227 billion will be siphoned from the producing industry during the next decade, assuring that literally hundreds of thousands of badly needed domestic wells will not be drilled. Furthermore, it endangers the economic livelihood of the more than 1.5 million royalty owners who average less than $300 monthly in royalty income and find themselves losing more than one-third of it under this unreal tax. Most of these owners rely on Social Security and modest royalty income to pay their bills.

"Some 700,000 Texans are paying approximately one-third of the gigantic tax measure, and the State's economy as a whole will suffer even more loss as plans for more than 200,000 wells are cancelled during the next ten years to finance the tax burden. Ironically, the expressed purpose of the tax is to expand domestic energy and thereby reduce costly oil imports from the security-sensitive Mid-East and other foreign sources. In fact, the tax does the opposite, and this will be the main argument pressed in the court case.

"As the case proceeds to the U.S. Supreme Court in the future, additional arguments will be pressed. The Constitution requires that an excise tax be levied uniformly. The windfall tax fails to do this, since it exempts production north of the arctic circle in Alaska. The tax also is levied on a minority to finance as yet unknown objectives for the common good without providing appropriate compensation under due process requirements of the fifth amendment."

Military Notes

Navy Radioman 2nd Class Frank R. Mancillas, son of Atanacio F. and Blasa R. Mancillas of 401 Mable St., Hereford, has returned from a deployment in the Western Pacific and Indian Ocean.

He is a crewmember aboard the aircraft carrier USS Constellation, homeported in San Diego.

During the seven-month cruise, the Constellation set a new Pacific Fleet record of 110 continuous days at sea while operating in the Indian Ocean. The embarked air wing flew more than 28,000 sorties and logged more than 10,500 arrested landings.

In addition to conducting sustained air operations in the Indian Ocean during the monsoon season, the ship participated in several naval exercises with units from Great Britain, Singapore, Japan, Australia and New Zealand. Port calls were made in Singapore, the Philippines and Pusan, South Korea.

The long trip home was made extra special when 350 fathers, sons and friends of the crew embarked in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii for the final leg of the homeward journey.

The Constellation is 1,072 feet long, carries a crew of 2,800 and can accommodate 2,150 personnel and 85 jet aircraft assigned to an attack aircraft wing.

A 1975 graduate of Hereford High School, Mancillas joined the Navy in December 1976.

The country that drinks more beer per capita is Czechoslovakia.

Half are impotent by 75

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a widower, 77 years old. Until a few months ago my virility was good but now all at once I have no more desire for sex. What happened? What can I do? If it's old age, I think there is nothing that anybody can do but if there are other causes maybe you can help me out.

I have a girlfriend and she thinks that I'm running around and she is very mad. I love this lady very much and don't want to lose her.

DEAR READER — Tell your girlfriend that about half of American men are impotent by age 75. That also means that half are still active. Impotence is a symptom and it can be caused by a lot of different factors.

Why do men in your age group lose desire for sex? The current thinking is that it may be related to basic factors in the brain itself. Many healthy men who have not used alcohol to excess have normal male hormone levels, about the same level as men in their latter 20s.

If you send me your address I'll send you The Health Letter number 3-12, Impotence, to explain the problem more fully to you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Impotence can also be caused by poor circulation to that area or by damage to nerve mechanisms that control normal responses. In some instances an implant can be used to enable a man to still function. A specialist in urology can brief you on recent developments and tell you whether any of these devices would be useful in your particular case.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 21

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer

— Make your own cuffs —

POLLY'S PROBLEM
DEAR POLLY — Winter jackets are so expensive these days so I hope you can tell me where to get cuffs to replace the worn out ones on perfectly good jackets.
— A.T.

DEAR A.T. — If you have not been able to find cuffs to use on your jackets at a local fabric shop or in the notions department of a department store, make your own with the ribbed tops of athletic or other heavy socks. You may even have some with worn feet but good tops. I would stitch loosely (stretch as you stitch) around the tops before cutting them off so there would be no danger of raveling, and then stitch on to the jacket where the old ones were removed. When the sleeves have become too short on children's jackets, this is a good way to lengthen them as you just put on a deeper cuff. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Plastic curtains will stay soft and pliable after washing and rinsing well in warm water if a tablespoon of mineral oil is added to the last rinse water.
Coat the inside of your measuring cup with oil before measuring molasses, syrup or honey and they will pour out more easily.
A poached egg will keep its shape if about half a teaspoon of vinegar is stirred in the water before the egg is dropped into it.
After I wash and rinse any white woollens, I completely freeze them to bleach. Let them thaw normally and then dry and find they look beautiful. — GERTRUDE

Reagan, Carter Battle for Blue-Collar Vote

SECAUCUS, N.J. (AP) — Ronald Reagan started the custody argument seven weeks ago, urging blue-collar Democrats to forsake the party of their past and rally to his Republican standard.

Now, in the waning weeks of a long campaign, it was President Carter's turn, and he was summoning them home, insisting that a conservative Republican is no friend of the workingman.

It is a battle waged every day in other swing states, as well, in Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Illinois. The outcome among blue-collar voters, and the intensity of organized labor's campaign for the Democratic ticket, could be the key to the outcome on Nov. 4.

"My election can be in your hands," Carter told New Jersey labor leaders in a Secaucus hotel hall. "The future of our country is in your hands, perhaps, in this state." There are more Democrats than Republicans, and if Carter can hold their votes in the battleground states, he can win. That is why Reagan has made a major effort all year to woo them away, to fashion what would seem an unlikely alliance with labor voters, even as labor leaders generally push the Democratic ticket.

"I don't want you to turn your back on the working people of New Jersey, on the working people of this nation," Carter said, as he asked the state's labor chiefs to put 25,000 campaign workers on the streets and on the telephones in behalf of the Democrats.

Reagan chose Democratic Jersey City as the scene for his Labor Day campaign keynote, accusing Carter of putting people out of work with failed economic policies. "... This administration has betrayed the working men and women of this country," he said.

With variations, that is the theme he has tried to stress ever since, along the assembly line in Detroit, the all but deserted port in Buffalo, the steel mill in Youngstown.

The message has been diluted by Reagan's excursions into such topics as the theory of evolution, the Ku Klux Klan, and the allegedly adverse effects of trees and volcanoes on American lungs.

But then, blue-collar workers don't always vote on blue-collar issues, and Carter's labor-come-home efforts have not been advanced by some of his own side trips into hardline accusations that Reagan could mean war, that the Republican has introduced racism into the campaign, that he would divide black from white, Christian from

Jew. Carter is more careful now. He wants no more diversions in the crucial campaign days ahead.

He recites the Reagan record, says the interests of the blue-collar voter can hardly be advanced by a man who has in the past assailed the minimum wage, criticized unemployment compensation, opposed federal medical care for the aged.

It leads to his chosen theme: "Times don't change much." Republicans opposed the social programs of the past, he says, and this Republican would follow the pattern.

Bungalow comes from the Hindustani "bungla" meaning "of or belonging to Bengal." Bungalows were the types of houses occupied by Europeans in Malaysia, resembling the homes common to the natives of Bengal.
