

Dow reached its magic mark

Some say stock barometer outmoded

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dow Jones industrial average passed a symbolic milestone when it leaped over the 2,000-mark for the first time, but some analysts say the "granddaddy" of stock barometers is outmoded.

The Dow Jones average close Thursday at 2,002.25 as part of a rally that has seen a rise of more than 100 points in the first five trading sessions of 1987.

"Obviously there will be hoopla in the market for the simple reason that most round numbers carry a mystique about them," said Newton D. Zinder, technical analyst with the New York investment firm E.F. Hut-ton Group Inc.

But "from a market standpoint, 2,000 is only one point above 1,999," Zinder said.

Some analysts suggested that the closely watched average of 30 blue-chip industrial stocks has become an outmoded gauge of Wall Street's health, although it still reflects the strong underlying demand for stocks that has helped drive the market with dizzying speed for more than four years.

"I really think the numbers game for the Dow is totally meaningless," said Robert Nurock, publisher of the Astute Investor newsletter and designer of a technical market index for the PBS-TV program "Wall Street Week."

"While round numbers may affect investor psychology in a short-term basis, they have little to do with long-term investing."

The Dow Jones average still is Wall Street's best-known indicator and is regarded as "the granddaddy of all measurements," but it covers only a fraction of the enormous range of stocks sought by investors in an increasingly international market, said Theodore Halligan, a stock analyst for Piper Jaffray & Hopwood Inc. of Minneapolis.

Historically, the Dow Jones average attracted enormous investor interest as an exponent of American industrial might, particularly because the stocks making up the average represent some of the best-known companies, ranging from Exxon Corp. to General Motors Corp.

But John J. Smith, analyst at the New York investment firm Fahnstock & Co., said he didn't think the market "responds to the things it used to before. We're in a completely different environment

now. We're doing business all around the world."

Nevertheless, round numbers have represented psychological barriers for the Dow Jones average since Jan. 12, 1906, when it closed above the 100-mark for the first time.

Few market analysts pay attention to the movement of the Dow Jones average as a reason in itself to buy or sell. Many scrutinize overall supply and demand for stocks, interest rates and other economic elements.

Hereford got 2 inches during night

By The Associated Press
Snow and sleet fell across the Texas Panhandle and rain fell across much of the state today, but the National Weather Service forecast clear, breezy and cool weather for the entire state for the weekend.

A travelers advisory was issued for the Panhandle because of hazardous driving conditions on icy roadways.

Scattered thundershowers and widespread formed along a trough of low pressure that extended across the state early today. Showers were reported in North Texas, the Hill Country, the Edward Plateau and portions of South Central Texas. Showers were also reported along the Gulf of Mexico near Galveston, extending inland into Southeast Texas.

Clear skies were reported over the Trans Pecos, Permian Basin and middle sections of the coastal plains and mostly cloudy elsewhere.

Fog was reported at dawn in the South Plains and over portions of South Texas.

Forecasts called for scattered light snow to continue falling across the Panhandle and South Plains today.

The showers and thundershowers were expected to end from the west across the state during the day with most of it expected to end by evening.

Decreasing cloudiness was forecast for most of the state by tonight except for South Texas, East Texas and Southeast Texas where some showers and isolated thundershowers are possible.

It will be sunny, breezy and cool over most of the state Saturday.

Lows tonight will be in the teens in Northwest Texas and in the mid 20s in Southeast Texas, and in the 20s and 30s over North Texas, and mostly in the 30s and 40s in South Texas, ranging from the 20s in the Hill Country to the 50s in extreme south portions.

Highs Saturday will be mostly in the 40s in West Texas, and in the 40s and 50s in North Texas and in the 50s and 60s in South Texas.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 30s and 40s, ranging from the 20s in the Panhandle to the 60s in South Texas. Extremes ranged from 27 at Amarillo to 65 at Brownsville.

Other early morning temperatures around the state included 38 at Wichita Falls, 41 at Fort Worth, 45 at Waco, 58 at Waco and Austin, 63 at San Antonio, 61 at Corpus Christi, 58 at Houston, 41 at San Angelo, 35 at Lubbock, 37 at Midland and 29 at El Paso.

DOE says no dates on move to Texas

The Department of Energy plans and schedules for relocating its entire Columbus, Ohio, office to the Texas Panhandle for the nuclear waste repository exploration is "fairly serious," says the Texas project director, but no dates on when are available yet.

Linda McClain said the plans are still "internal" and the first step is to find a building in which to move.

Plans are to first put about three DOE and three or four Battelle personnel in the area to find the office space.

She told The Brand this week that DOE is still working on specifications on square footage. After specifications are drawn, DOE will advertise and accept bids.

She said that DOE ultimately would have about 40 persons moving to the area for work on the project. Battelle, the research agency hired by DOE, would have several hundred, McClain said.

McClain said she was not sure when the first persons would move to Texas, nor did she know a time table for the larger move — only that growth would be gradual. "We haven't talked any dates," she said.

McClain said that DOE has not contacted property owners on the 9-square-mile site yet for land acquisition. She said that process would not begin until DOE had offices in the area.

Bidding for office space at the other two sites chosen for the repository is not necessary, McClain said, because the sites are on federal lands.

Reagan reportedly intended to swap Iranian arms for hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite President Reagan's assertions he did not swap arms for hostages, the administration dispatched weapons to Iran last year with the understanding that kidnapped Americans would be freed, according to published reports.

The arms shipments were approved by Reagan last January with the understanding that either all the hostages held by Shiite Moslem militants in Lebanon would be released or the U.S. arms shipments would be halted, NBC News said Thursday.

The reasoning on the arms shipments was contained in a background paper prepared for the president at the time he authorized the sales, The Washington Post and Los Angeles Times reported in today's editions. It appears Reagan was never given the paper, but was briefed on it orally, administration sources told the newspapers.

Citing an unpublished Senate Intelligence Committee staff report, NBC said CIA Director William Casey warned at one point that revelations of the Iranian arms sales could be very damaging and that if the sales were disclosed publicly they should be portrayed as a political attempt to reach out to moderates in Iran. As it turned out, that was the position adopted by the administration.

The committee uncovered no evidence that Reagan knew about the alleged diversion of millions of dollars in profits from the Iranian arms sales to Nicaragua's Contra rebels, according to NBC.

The staff report only said Reagan appeared surprised when told money had been diverted to the Contras, NBC said.

But Casey, now suffering from the aftereffects of surgery to remove a cancerous brain tumor, did know about the diversion plan as early as Oct. 7, 1986, several days earlier than he has acknowledged, NBC said.

The report, based only on interviews conducted so far, included many elements of the controversy that previously had been revealed by individual legislators or in news reports. It contained no startling new revelations.

The network said the committee never learned how much — if any — money was actually diverted from the arms sales to the Contras or whether Lt. Col. Oliver North, the White House aide who was fired for his alleged involvement in the diversion, was acting alone or with orders from higher authority.

Biggest wholesale decline since 1949 recorded in December

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices fell 2.5 percent in 1986 — the best inflation performance in 37 years — as civilian unemployment fell to a yearly low of 6.7 percent in December, the government reported today.

It was the first time prices at the wholesale level had fallen for a year since 1963 and it was the second biggest decline on record, topped only by a 4.6 percent plunge in 1949.

Meanwhile, the number of out-of-work Americans dipped below 8 million for the first time since January.

The economy created 205,000 jobs last month, the Labor Department's monthly household survey showed, raising total employment to a record 110,637,000. That was an increase of nearly 2.5 million jobs since December 1985.

For December, the Labor Department said in its inflation report, prices held steady as a modest increase in energy costs was offset by a decline in food prices.

Last year's decline in inflation was attributed almost entirely to falling energy costs. Without a record 39.1 percent drop in energy prices, the overall index would have risen 2.7 percent.

The 2.5 percent price decline in 1986 followed modest increases of 1.8 percent in 1985, 1.7 percent in 1984 and 0.6 percent in 1983 and was a dramatic turnaround from the double-digit rates suffered in 1979 and 1980 when oil prices soared.

It was the first decline since the overall index edged down 0.2 percent in 1983.

The downward spiral in energy costs came from a dramatic plunge in world petroleum prices that paid big dividends for American consumers but left the U.S. oilpatch in a virtual recession.

In recent months, energy prices have stabilized as the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has struggled to dampen a worldwide glut by imposing more stringent production quotas on its member countries.

The success of this effort is part of the reason most economists believe that the United States has seen the best of the inflation news.

The zero change in wholesale prices in December followed modest gains of 0.2 percent in November and 0.3 percent in October.

Energy prices edged up 0.2 percent in December led by a 4.4 percent jump in gasoline costs, which will be reflected in rising pump prices in coming months. Wholesale prices for heating oil also climbed sharply, rising 6.7 percent while natural gas prices posted a 6.8 percent decline.

Food costs fell 0.4 percent in December, led by declines of 8.3 percent in vegetable prices, 4.9 percent in poultry costs and a 2.1 percent drop in beef prices.

For the year, food costs rose a moderate 2.9 percent, continuing the moderate increases registered since 1980. Coffee and pork prices showed the biggest increases in the 12-month period, rising by 18.2 percent and 13.4 percent respectively. For the year, beef prices fell by 6.3 percent.

Top state leaders prep for meeting

DALLAS (AP) — Texas may have to spend more than $400 million on its beleaguered prison system to avoid paying a $24 million monthly fine for not meeting court-ordered reforms, Gov.-elect Bill Clements says.

But Clements hoped to ease the sting of U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice's contempt order today as he and Attorney General Jim Mattox traveled to Tyler to present various proposals to conform with the judge's dictates.

"I think what he (Justice) wants to hear from us more than anything else is a strong, firm, absolute commitment of good faith... and in a timely fashion," Clements said. "And 'timely fashion' means that 14 years is too long."

The case has been in the courts for that long, with the approximately 38,000 inmates claiming that the nation's second-largest prison system is too crowded and does not treat prisoners properly.

On Monday, Justice said the Texas Department of Corrections hadn't lived up to agreements in an earlier settlement and gave the TDC until March 31 to clear up the problems. Fines of $800,500 per day could begin April 1 if Justice isn't satisfied with the TDC's actions.

LL. Gov. Bill Hobby, Mattox and House Speaker Gib Lewis gathered in Clements' downtown Dallas office Thursday for a closed-door session on what to do about Justice's contempt order.

"We are going to do all in our power to try to keep the state government from having to pay fines, and if we have to pay fines, we want to minimize them," Mattox said.

Expanding prison facilities, selling state land to pay for it and contracting with private firms for prison needs were among the "strong" possibilities discussed Thursday, Mattox said.

Neither he nor the other officials present would cite specific sources of financing or a definite course of action.

Bowie national declared insolvent

BOWIE, Texas (AP) — Bowie National Bank has been declared insolvent, and will reopen today under new management as Bowie State Bank, federal officials say.

It was one of two bank failures reported Thursday, the first to occur within the national banking system this year.

The Bowie bank was declared insolvent by the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency Thursday afternoon.

Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. spokeswoman Julie Amberson said the FDIC's board of directors Thursday approved the assumption of the deposits and liabilities of the bank by Bowie State Bank, a newly chartered subsidiary of Montague Bancshares Inc. of Weatherford.

The FDIC was appointed receiver, said Frank Vance, spokesman for the Comptroller of the Currency.

Bowie is located about 60 miles northwest of Fort Worth. Its economy is dependent on agriculture, oil and gas, officials said.

The failed bank's depositors automatically will become depositors of the assuming bank subject to approval by the appropriate court, Ms. Amberson said.

Bowie State Bank will assume about $12.6 million in 2,900 deposit accounts and has agreed to pay the FDIC a purchase premium of $205,000. It also will purchase certain of the failed bank's loans and other assets for $11.5 million, said Ms. Amberson of the FDIC's Washington office.

To facilitate the transaction the FDIC will advance $886,000 to the assuming bank and will retain assets of the failed bank with a book value of about $1.1 million.

This is the first insured bank to fail in the nation this year, Ms. Amberson said. It was declared insolvent at about 3 p.m., two hours before the Security National Bank & Trust Co. of Norman, Okla., was closed by the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency.

$150,000 to slain patient's family

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Mental health department has agreed to pay $150,000 to the family of an Austin State Hospital mental patient who died from a brain injury after she repeatedly was hit in the head by other patients.

The 1984 death of Rebecca Sample, 60, was ruled a homicide by the Travis County medical examiner, Dr. Robert Bayardo.

In 1985, Ms. Sample's daughter, Rebecca Mayfield of Marble Falls, filed a $500,000 suit against the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation alleging that the Austin State Hospital failed to adequately record the woman's head injuries. It also claimed that doctors did not recognize her worsening condition was caused by a life-threatening blood clot pushing on her brain.

Mayfield said the $150,000 settlement should "send a message to the state hospital that every mental patient, no matter how chronically disturbed, has a value as a human being, as a mother, a father, a son or a daughter."

"It's a victory for families who have no choice but to entrust the care of their loved ones to the state of Texas," she told the Austin American-Statesman.

Assistant Texas Attorney General Manuel Rios said the settlement must be approved by the governor before it becomes final.

Buchanan could be entry in 1988

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican campaign strategists are weighing the potential impact of a wild-card entry in the 1988 presidential race: White House communications director Patrick J. Buchanan.

Conservative activists, including his sister, Angela Buchanan Jackson, said Thursday that Buchanan is considering a presidential run.

"I have no doubt that Pat Buchanan is going to become a candidate for president of the United States," said Howard Phillips, chairman of the Conservative Caucus.

Long a favorite of conservatives, the 48-year-old White House aide has gained new prominence recently with his slashing attacks on critics of President Reagan.

It is a role he played once before. As a young White House aide, Buchanan was among the most vocal supporters of President Nixon throughout the Watergate scandal.

In addition to denouncing Democrats, liberals and the news media, Buchanan recently lambasted the Republican Party establishment for not standing up firmly enough in defense of Reagan in the wake of the Iran-Contra disclosures.

"The whole damn pack has headed for the tall grass," Buchanan wrote in a published article.

Buchanan did not return telephone calls Thursday, but he has been quoted as saying he is "intrigued by the idea" of a presidential bid.

Mrs. Jackson and Phillips have joined with supporters of Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to push a Buchanan candidacy.

Leaders of the Congressional Club, a fund-raising group which has raised millions of dollars for the conservative senator, are promising to do the same for a Buchanan candidacy.

Senator Minority Leader Bob Dole, Vice President George Bush and Rep. Jack Kemp of New York are most often listed as the leading potential candidates for the 1988 GOP presidential nomination.

"It's not utterly worrisome to us," Kemp press secretary John Buckley said of a possible Buchanan campaign.

States struggle with budget deficits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sluggish economies are forcing more than a third of the states to cut spending, with deficits threatening to wipe out money that many put aside for hard times, a survey shows.

The findings of the National Association of State Budget Officers reflect the large regional differences in the economy across the country, with states on the East and West coasts generally faring well while heartland states cope with budget shortfalls and bleak forecasts for more of the same.

"The economy is not just producing rainy days," said Gerald Miller, executive director of the group. "It is battering states' budgets with hurricane force."

The study said 21 states already have cut or announced plans to cut budgets for the 1987 fiscal year since the spending plans were enacted. For most states, the current fiscal year began last July.

States dependent on oil and gas for revenues are the hardest hit, with Alaska officials predicting a state budget deficit of nearly $900 million.

Farm states have also been cutting spending because revenues haven't met expectations.

On the other hand, no state in the Northeast has had to cut its budget, and in the Southeast, only South Carolina and Alabama have had to do so. On the West Coast, only California has cut spending — by less than 1 percent.

"The situation is not as bad as it was in the depths of the recession in fiscal 1983, when 39 states were forced to slash budgets," Miller said. "But it is clearly worse than it was in the past year or two."

Many of the states are also among the more than 30 that anticipate receiving windfalls because of the effects of federal tax changes on their state income tax laws.

But even for states that plan to keep the windfalls, rather than returning them to taxpayers, the revenue won't come in time to cover shortfalls in the current fiscal year, said Karen Benker, an analyst with the association.

Some states are considering tax increases. Texas, with a $2 billion shortfall, raised taxes last fall, and Utah is considering a tax increase this year. But most states have dealt with the budget problems by cutting spending, Benker said.

"Some of the gains the states have made in education over recent years are now facing retrenchment," she said.

Halfway through fiscal 1987, these are the states that have or will cut their general fund budgets, and the size of their cuts:

Alabama, 3 percent; Alaska, 13; Arkansas, 2.1; Arizona, 5.4; California, 0.4; Colorado, 2; Indiana, 2.9; Kansas, 3.3; Kentucky, 1.8; Louisiana, 5.1; Minnesota, 2.2; Montana, 5; Nebraska, 0.7; New Mexico, 2; North Dakota, 5.3; South Carolina, 2; South Dakota, 1; Texas, 13; Utah, 3.1; Wisconsin, 2.3; Wyoming, 10.

Another state facing revenue problems but not on the list is Oklahoma, where Benker said the budget was cut 16 percent before it was enacted.

NY Times bureau Chief ordered out, government issues new anti-ANC rules

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The government has told the bureau chief of the New York Times that he must be out of the country by Saturday. And in a separate action, it has banned all newspapers and magazines from publishing reports about or advertisements in support of the African National Congress.

Alan Cowell, who has been the New York Times bureau chief in South Africa since 1983, said today the Ministry of Home Affairs gave him the expulsion order Dec. 23 when it notified him it had rejected his work permit renewal application.

The ministry also refused to grant an entry visa to Cowell's designated successor, Serge Schmemmann, and gave no reason for either action, said Cowell.

Cowell, 39, of Lancaster, England, is scheduled to become the Times' correspondent in Athens next month. Schmemmann, formerly Times' Moscow bureau chief, was to have replaced Cowell in a routine personnel change on Jan. 1.

The actions effectively close the Times' bureau in South Africa.

Four foreign correspondents were expelled last year and a fifth, Los Angeles Times correspondent Michael Parks, is scheduled to appeal an expulsion order next week.

The government repeatedly has complained that foreign news media distort the social conflict in South Africa following the outbreak in September 1984 of widespread black protests against apartheid.

Under new rules issued at midnight Thursday, the government said it will be illegal for newspapers or magazines to publish any advertisement, news report or comment on an unlawful organization, or to support, defend or explain the actions of such groups.

The restrictions are contained in a three-page proclamation in the latest government gazette.

The new restrictions, decreed under the state of emergency imposed June 12, were issued hours after the ANC marked its 75th anniversary with full-page advertisements in 22 South African newspapers.

The ads said "Unban the ANC," in bold type 1½ inches high and appeared in some morning and afternoon newspapers in all major cities.

It accused the South African Broadcasting Corp. and the government Bureau for Information of "bombarding the public with distortions and untruths about the ANC and said: "Let the ANC speak for itself."

The government-operated South African Broadcasting Corp. quoted the deputy information minister, Stoffel van der Merwe, as saying lawyers were "examining the possibility of taking action against certain newspapers regarding an ANC advertisement."

The New York Times today quoted government and other sources as saying the government's actions against its correspondents were intended in reprisal for what the authorities consider a hostile attitude on the part of the newspaper.

"We are deeply disappointed by the decision of the South African authorities," said Max Frankel, executive editor of the Times.

He said the two correspondents' assignments "reflected our longstanding sense that developments in that country require close, continuous coverage."

Reagan told to take it easy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, intent on resuming his cherished horseback riding "pretty soon," was to spend his first full day at the White House after surgery, out of the public eye and under doctors' orders to avoid strenuous work.

Reagan, who told reporters, "I feel great," as he left Bethesda Naval Hospital on Thursday, was to remain in the residential quarters of the White House today.

During his four-day stay at the hospital, Reagan's physicians said no evidence of cancer was found and they called his recovery from Monday's prostate surgery "excellent in every respect."

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan was to have his daily session with chief of staff Donald T. Regan and get a briefing from National Security Adviser Frank Carlucci in the private quarters, which comprise the upper floors of the main White House building.

Speakes said Reagan's doctors had advised him to avoid heavy lifting, wood chopping, horseback riding or other strenuous exercise during a six-week recovery period.

The president, who beamed in response to cheers from dozens of aides greeting his return to the White House, was asked when he expected to get back to riding horses, one of his favorite pastimes.

"Pretty soon," he answered. "It's got to get a little warmer."

"What do you do for an encore?" a reporter called out.

"An appendectomy," the grinning president replied.

When reporters said later that Reagan appeared to them to be walking stiffly, Speakes grinned and said: "He generally walks that way anyway. It comes from the Western movies. That's the way they walk down Main Street."

Reagan is scheduled to deliver his weekly radio address Saturday, but he will only have to go to one of the rooms in the lower floors of the residence to deliver it, Speakes said. Normally, when in Washington, Reagan gives his radio address from the Oval Office.

At Bethesda, where he had been a patient since Sunday, Reagan walked along a row of uniformed Navy men and women and shook hands before boarding his helicopter in crisp, sunny weather.

"I feel great," he told a group of reporters observing his departure.

Asked whether he was ready to go back to work, the president, who met with advisers while in the hospital, said: "Of course, I haven't stopped."

Speakes said Reagan's post-operative care will be overseen by Army Col. John Hutton, the presidential physician.

Hutton, in a written statement issued before Reagan's departure from the hospital, said: "The president's remarkable recovery continues. All post-operative signs are normal and he slept well through the night. His physicians find his condition excellent in every respect."

Unemployment unchanged in state

DALLAS (AP) — Unemployment in Texas remained relatively unchanged through December, ending the year with a 9.6 percent rate that reflects continued sluggishness in the economy, the Labor Department reported today.

December's figure compared with a 9.5 percent jobless rate in November and 7 percent unemployment one year ago, officials said. Nationally, civilian unemployment fell to 6.7 percent last month in a long-awaited rally.

The preliminary estimate for average unemployment last year is 8.9 percent, said Bryan Richey, regional commissioner for the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics' southwest region.

Richey said recent worldwide economic developments tend to reinforce the view that the worst may be over in the Texas economic slump.

"I think while it is encouraging to note that things are not getting any worse, there is no reason for optimism in the near-term outlook for the state's economy," he said. "It is too soon to expect a turnaround because of the recent OPEC accord and the corresponding upturn in oil prices."

But Richey said five of eight major sectors in the Texas economy that represent about 60 percent of the state's jobs are still in decline.

Consumers urged to switch cards

AUSTIN (AP) — A coalition of consumer groups is urging Texans to combat high credit card interest rates by taking their business away from banks that "are just plain greedy."

The group charged Thursday that many major banks have failed to lower interest rates and said consumers should be aware that better rates are available.

"The big banks are just plain greedy," said Consumers Union southwest director Carol Barger, who noted that credit card interest remains high while mortgage rates and other interest barometers have fallen.

"We've waited too long for the big banks to start lowering their rates. It's time for the 75 million cardholders in this country to protect themselves and send a message to those big banks who are keeping unjustifiably high interest rates," Ms. Barger said.

The Texas coalition also includes the American Association of Retired Persons, the Texas Senior Citizen Association, the Gray Panthers and the Texas AFL-CIO.

Paul Gray of the Texas Senior Citizen Association told a news conference the banks weren't being fair with consumers.

"The least that could be said (is) they're competing with loan sharks," Gray said.

Sam Kimberlin, executive vice president of the Texas Bankers Association, said bank card rates have remained higher than those for some other loans to cover the costs of handling the credit card business.

He said some non-bank cards, such as American Express, are allowed charge consumers an annual user fee that helps offset those costs.

The group recommended that consumers:

- Move their business to banks charging lower rates.
- Refinance existing, high-interest credit card debts with a cash advance on a lower-rate card or a low-interest consumer loan.

— Urge lawmakers to require that banks disclose their interest rates, fees and other terms when advertising for credit card business.

"The banks' conspiracy of silence on rates has prevented the marketplace from operating effectively and permitted the major banks to overcharge with high rates," she said.

The consumer lobbyists said they are looking for members of the Texas Legislature to sponsor bills that would require advertising to carry the interest cost information.

Consumers are not receiving the information they need to shop around," Ms. Barger said.

Several major Texas banking companies have card rates as high as 19.8 percent.

Brad Wiewel, head of the Texas Consumer Association, said that even though Texas law currently puts a 14 percent lid on bank credit card interest, major bank holding companies have moved their credit card operations to states which allow them to charge substantially higher rates.

"In Texas, the major bank holding companies just said, 'Well, the heck with you guys, we're going to go out of state,'" Wiewel said.

Names in the News

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael Jackson is so thrilled with F.A.O. Schwarz's new Fifth Avenue digs that he wants to rent it for a slumber party, a toy company spokeswoman says.

After a recent visit to the giant toy store's glass-encased quarters inside the General Motors Building, the singer asked the owner's wife, Jan Harris, if he could rent the store for the night.

She told New York magazine in its Jan. 5 issue that the store has been used for private birthday parties and that a movie company may film inside it.

"I'm sure we could arrange to rent the store overnight to such a charming and gracious man," she said.

"That's as far as it's gone at the moment," said Erin O'Malley, a spokeswoman for the toy store. "It's just in the talking stage."

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Movie producer Robert Evans wants to put together a videocassette on the life of Pope John Paul II and present it to the pontiff during a visit here next fall.

Evans said the 45-minute video would be "a labor of love" produced at his own expense. He would turn over rights to the Archdiocese of New Orleans, he said.

The tape would use hundreds of photographs to chronicle the pope's life and would conclude with his arrival in New Orleans on Sept. 11 for a three-day visit, Tom Finney, a spokesman for the Archdiocese, said Monday.

Evans was head of Paramount Studios for more than a decade before becoming an independent producer. His movies include "The Godfather," "The Godfather, Part II," "Barefoot in the Park," "Love Story," "Urban Cowboy" and "Chinatown."

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Bill Cosby has given Fisk University $1.3 million, calling the school "one of the gems of the world."

College President Henry Ponder said Tuesday he received the donation Dec. 22 when he and his wife, Eunice, attended a dinner at Cosby's Manhattan home.

"Fisk is one of the gems of the world. It just needs to be polished and illuminated," Cosby said in a statement.

The money may be used for any purpose the historically black university chooses, Ponder said. "With this gift, we have the luxury of taking our time and deciding where the money will be spent."

MILTON, Mass. (AP) — Best-selling author Stephen King has promised to help build a performing arts center at a private prep school.

"He's not been fully specific," Milton Academy Headmaster Jerome A. Pieh said Tuesday. "It will be a substantial gift, but the details have not been worked out."

King, author of such best-selling thrillers as "The Shining," has two children, Joe and Naomi, who attend the school.
