

Diane Warden Takes 'Miss Wheatheart' Crown

By ALLISON RYAN
Society Editor
Diane Warden, this year's Miss Hereford, is the new 1980 Wheatheart of the Nation.
Miss Warden was chosen from a group of 18 women at the Monday night competition at Perryton.
First runner-up to Miss Warden was Danna Johnson, of Wellington, and the second runner-up was Brenda Gill of Shamrock.
Miss Warden who was sponsored by the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce was crowned by the 1979 queen, Teresa Wakefield, and received a $1,000 scholarship. The runner-ups received $500 and $250 respectively.

The pageant was opened with the contestants performing the Cotton-eye Joe for the audience. The women were judged in swimsuit and formal wear.
Before the top five finalist were chosen, two women were named to Miss Congeniality. They were Debbie Ramirez, Miss Panhandle State University and Sonya Inderlied, Miss Buffalo.
The finalist were interviewed before the judges made the deciding vote for this year's queen.
Miss Warden was asked if she would prefer to be Miss Wheatheart or Miss Congeniality.
Miss Warden answered, "I would rather be Miss Wheatheart, because I could represent the Wheat Nation and do a good job. The reason I would not want to be Miss Congeniality is because the girls that won are deserving of it. I just want to be Miss Wheatheart."

The answer combined with poise and personality shown on stage gave Miss Warden the winning vote to enable her to represent the Wheat Nation this year.
Miss Warden, daughter of Allene Warden and Guy Warden, served as Miss Teen Hereford in 1979 and Miss Junior High Hereford in 1978.
She is 5-7 with brown hair and green eyes. A senior at Hereford High, she has been a member of National Honor Society for two years and served as cheerleader for four years.

Miss Warden plans to attend West Texas State University after graduation in May 1981 and major in computer science.
Her favorite hobbies include painting ceramics, traveling, attending car and dog races and riding bikes.
As Miss Wheatheart she will be involved with activities in representing the wheat industry throughout the year.
Her duties will begin this Friday and Saturday in Perryton representing the wheat industry at two dances, a parade and several other activities.
Miss Jameson, the first runner-up, is the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and

King: Schedule to Blame for Poor Farm Plank

By JIM STEIERT
Farm Editor

Carl King, the 31st Senatorial District Democratic committeeman for a 26-county area of the Panhandle reported Monday that he was not happy with the overall agriculture platform devised at the Democratic National Convention in New York last week, but emphasized that he did get two of three planks he sought to introduce into the platform and added that "I did the best I could on behalf of agriculture."
King, a veteran Democratic leader from Dimmitt and also president of the Texas Corn Growers Association, reported that bad scheduling of the final drafting of platform resolutions was largely to blame for agriculture's poor showing in the proposed policy of the Democrats.
"The platform hearings were scheduled at the same time as the Texas Democratic Convention and party members had already been working on the platform two days in Washington before we could even get there," stated King.
"I had only four hours to get my planks in on the platform due to the scheduling but succeeded in getting two of my three planks in," he continued.
One of the resolutions King helped draft stated:
"If food is to be used as a foreign policy weapon, it is imperative that farm income be protected."
Another statement emphasized, "Farmers must have access to free markets."
Another resolution King helped draft stated:
"Recognizing the sacrifices made by the American farmer during the agriculture embargo in protest of the invasion of Afghanistan, we commend the agricultur community's contribution in the field of foreign affairs. Except in time of grave threats to national security or war, the federal government should impose no future embargoes on agriculture products."
Under a resolution dealing with farm prices and farm income the platform committee wrote:

"Rapidly rising cost of production, especially energy cost, makes it imperative that we increase the level of support for farm prices and income by increasing target prices."
King expressed dissatisfaction with that resolution, however.
"I didn't like that one. I wanted to raise the loan rate on basic commodities to cover the cost of production. I didn't want to see a target, it's only a welfare check," said King.

Among other items of agriculture policy written into the platform were measures dealing with protection of agricultural productivity, family farms, resource conservation and farmer involvement in government decisions.

King admitted that agriculture came away from the Democratic Convention only weakly represented in the party platform.
"I'm not satisfied. We have a weak farm plank. It came down to a battle in New York and it was up to me to do what I could on behalf of agriculture," said King.
One of the major items King sought to have placed in the farm plank was the following resolution:
"That the Democratic party recommends raising the loan level on basic commodities equivalent to the cost of production with grain reserve call levels at not less than 100 percent of parity."
King indicated he could have filed a minority report containing that resolution but stated, "I had to compromise with Undersecretary of Agriculture Webster. Instead of filing a minority report, which would have required 25 signatures from members of the platform committee, signatures I didn't think I could get, I chose to take the resolution to the rules committee of the national convention. We didn't get it passed," said the Dimmitt Democrat.
"We then took the resolution to the administration with the plea that we were trying to help the Democratic party. We warned them that without it, they could forget the majority of the rural vote. We didn't get that one through," stated King.
King reported that allegations from some agricultural quarters that he became a "political prostitute" because he changed from an uncommitted delegate to a Carter delegate in order to have a place on the platform committee didn't bother him.
"I couldn't do any good for agriculture from the outside looking in. I had to change to get on the platform committee, where I could attempt to get something done for agriculture," stated King.
The Dimmitt farmer reported that he is retiring from the 31st district post with the Democratic party and will not be a candidate for re-election at the state convention in Houston.
"I'm not a quitter. I'll still be battling for agriculture, but I think this position needs to be passed around. It's expensive and time consuming, but I did my very best to promote agriculture through my political position," King commented.

Judge Hears Tape In Brilab Case

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge labored through hours of secretly taped conversations and will hear hours more prior to ruling on a motion by lawyers for House Speaker Billy Clayton and three other Texas Brilab defendants.
U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor, who must rule on his own jurisdiction over the bribery case, listened to more than seven hours of tapes Monday before he recessed the marathon pre-trial session until 9:30 a.m. today.
Ronald Woods, an assistant U.S. attorney, said five to six hours of the tapes recorded by an FBI informant remain to be heard.

Attorneys for the four defendants had filed about 50 pre-trial motions, but O'Connor restricted the hearing's opening phases to the jurisdiction question saying that "without jurisdiction there would be no point of proceeding."
Defense attorneys argued that federal authorities "artificially manufactured" jurisdiction and keyed the case to an FBI informant the lawyers called a "pathological liar."
Clayton, L.G. Moore, a Deer Park labor leader, and two Austin lawyers, Randall B. Wood and Donald W. Ray, were indicted June 12 in the FBI undercover operation prosecutors say linked labor with bribery offers to public officials.
Defense attorneys are seeking the dismissal of the indictments, which charge the four with extortion, racketeering, fraud and conspiracy, on grounds that the government controlled, orchestrated and artificially executed the conspiracy.
The dominant figure in the six tapes heard Monday was Joseph Hauser, the FBI informant who operated a fictitious insurance firm out of Beverly Hills, Calif.
The indictments allege Hauser and Moore gave Clayton $5,000 and promised $800,000 more for assistance aimed at helping Hauser's fictitious firm receive a $52 million state employees insurance contract.
Clayton has acknowledged receiving the $5,000 on Nov. 8 but said he planned to return the money.
The Monday tapes involved Hauser's activities in Texas from Aug. 14 through Oct. 2, just a month before Hauser and Moore met with Clayton. Included were early meetings with Moore and other labor officials and his first meeting with defendants Wood and Ray, who briefed him on the state employee insurance program.
O'Connor reluctantly ordered the tapes be played after Woods objected to the use of transcripts, which he said included inaccuracies and did not reflect "the manner" in which words were spoken.
Prosecutors have submitted transcripts of more than 100 tapes to the defense.
One defense attorney said the tapes represent hundreds of hours of sometimes-unintelligible conversations but Woods said they are the only evidence in the case.

This is the Life

There was sweating and straining and groaning going on Monday afternoon on the practice field as the Hereford Whitefaces went through their first day of workouts in preparation for the fall football season, but Ronnie Terry, left, and Vincent Brown found the task of holding down these sideline tractor tires not quite so strenuous as the chores lined out for Herd footballers. The duo of youngsters was among those on hand to lend moral support to the Herd. The Whitefaces will continue two-a-day workouts in shorts until Friday, when they don pads and get down to serious leather-popping for the upcoming season. (Brand photo by Mauri Montgomery)

Water Bond Bid Okayed

By DAWN McCASLIN
Brand Staff Writer

Following a discussion on whether or not to try and out-guess the bond market, city commissioners decided Monday afternoon in a regular session to accept a bid on a $1,225,000 waterworks and sewer system revenue bond.
Of the five bids opened, commissioners accepted the one with the lower interest rate, being from Underwood-Neuhaus and Co., Inc., Fred Baker and Assoc., and Rotan Mosle, Inc., all Texas Corporations.
The City of Hereford will pay a 7.213531 interest rate on the 15 year bond.
Commissioners also issued a statement authorizing further sale of the bond by the purchasers.
The commission authorized Mayor, W.B. Dowell, to borrow $100,000 to cover city expenses until the money from the sale of the bonds arrives.
Commissioners also got into a discussion on the proposed Central Appraisal District, which will set up, appraise and collect taxes for the city, county, hospital, and school districts.
Until 1982, the city does not have to join in the central office, nor share in its expenses. In two years, however, state law mandates the city's participation in the appraisal functions of the new office, although participation in the collection is still optional.

The argument among commissioners occurred over whether or not to voluntarily enter the central office before 1982.
"It looks like most cities are going...to use the central office only for what's regulated," said City Manager Dudley Bayne.
"The new office won't change what we have now, except that we'll have to pay more for it."
"The central appraisal district was never meant to save money," said City Attorney Ernest Langley. "It was meant to do a better job."
"Ultimately in the long run it ought to be run cheaper," said Commissioner Bud Eades.
"I've never seen a new bureau that is run cheaper," stated Commissioner Wesley Fisher.
"It's going to cost the city more money, no matter what, if we close the tax office," said Bayne.

"I don't see how it'll cost more money," retorted Eades as the argument heated.
"But you have no control over the appraisal office," said Bayne.
"Common sense says you can operate one office cheaper than you can operate three," insisted Eades.
"All you're doing is taking the tax office people and increasing their salary," commented Commissioner Emory Brownlow.
"The law says you must have it," said Eades.
"No it doesn't," said Bayne. "And you've seen their first year budget."
"Lots of those items are first time expenses," said Eades.
"Have you ever seen anybody cut their budget?" questioned Bayne.
"This is our own local people running the thing," Eades fired back.
"This is five tax entities," said Mayor Dowell.
The discussion ended with Brownlow's suggestion that

Rural Crossover Seen by Friemel

By JIM STEIERT
Farm Editor

A local delegate who returned last weekend from the National Democratic Convention in New York reports that the Carter administration's "absolute refusal to recognize agriculture" may cost President Carter a substantial number of votes as rural Democrats cross over at the polls this November rather than aid him in his bid for re-election.
Jerome Friemel of Hereford traveled to the convention as an uncommitted delegate from the 31st senatorial district, and while the rank and file of Democrats in New York opted to go for four more years under Carter, Friemel and Marvin Meek of Plainview cast their ballots for Kent Hance of Lubbock, the 19th congressional district representative.
"I felt I would just vote for someone who is a heckuva good individual," stated Friemel.
"Being an uncommitted delegate, I had the option of not voting at all or voting for either of the two popular candidates (Ted Kennedy and Jimmy Carter). I decided to do neither and cast my ballot for someone who has been doing us a good job," Friemel added.
According to the local delegate, the Democratic party "made a serious mistake" by omitting the parity concept for agriculture from its platform.

"The omission of agriculture really upset all of the agriculture people I talked to. We tried to get a petition going to get party leaders to change the platform to include agriculture but the 'Carter caucus' decided against signing it and that was the end of that," stated Friemel.
"Agriculture people are upset with the platform. It doesn't say anything. It's very weak," he continued.
Friemel also expressed unhappiness with the closed nature of the convention.
"Personally, I feel like the Democratic party made a mistake in closing the convention, and possibly, in re-nominating Carter, who will now have to run on his track record against an opponent who can run on promises. Had we been able to open the convention we could at least have found someone who would have run on an even footing," stated Friemel.
"The feeling you got was distinctly that the convention was an exercise in futility. The way the convention was closed and the way the Carter delegates were organized by the Carter employees, there really wasn't much that could be done. I'd never really run into a political machine before. It was quite an ex-

Bodies Recovered From Lost Plane

TAOS, N.M. (AP) — The bodies of five members of a family who crashed in a single-engine aircraft in the mountains near here in February were being flown today to their home in Mesquite, Texas.

The bodies were recovered Monday by a 33-member rescue crew, which walked through the rugged Taos Pueblo land for more than four hours to reach the crash site.

The BE-36 Beechcraft Bonanza was discovered by the New Mexico Civil Air Patrol during a regular training exercise late Saturday.

The aircraft went down Feb. 21 with Dr. Richard Russell, his wife, Bertha, and children Gina, 20, Brian, 13, and Chris, 7, aboard.

The bodies were carried by rescuers to a meadow near the crash site, and airlifted by National Guard helicopter to a funeral home in Taos.

Another daughter, Lisa, did not make the trip from Dallas to Durango, Colo., for a ski vacation.

The aircraft was spotted about five miles south-southeast of Pueblo Peak, at an elevation of 10,000 feet, Col. Lloyd Sallee, CAP wing commander, said.

Grimm Convinced

Titanic Found

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Millionaire oilman Jack Grimm said he is confident his crew has located the Titanic with sonar readings, and he will start planning salvage operations for next summer.

"We're going to salvage some of the debris scattered on the ocean floor and whatever we may find in the purser's cabin, such as valuables in the safe," Grimm said from his home in Abilene.

Grimm financed the trip to the North Atlantic to find the "unsinkable" Titanic, ripped open by an iceberg April 15, 1912, on its first voyage.

Grimm said sonar readings showed a mass the same size and shape of the Titanic resting 12,000 to 15,000 underneath the ocean.

Grimm will meet the crew of the H.J.W. Fay when they arrive at Commonwealth Pier, Mass., Thursday morning.

Scientists aboard were thwarted in efforts to take underwater pictures of the wreck because of high seas and winds, but "got 90 percent of what I sent them out for," Grimm said.

"We will return next summer with the Aluminaut (a deep-diving submarine) and begin to look for whatever we can find," Grimm said.

The submarine is equipped to dive for 72 hours at a time, and can pick up objects weighing several hundred pounds.

El Paso Coed

New Miss Texas

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Diana Durnford, 21, of El Paso, who likes to cook and dance and someday wants to host a talk show, is the new Miss Texas USA and will represent Texas at the Miss USA Pageant next spring.

"One of my big idols is Phyllis George. I think I'm good at talking to people and bringing out their best qualities," said Miss Durnford, a junior at Texas-El Paso studying communications. "I would like to host a talk show."

A panel of nine judges gave the brown-eyed, brown-haired, 5-foot-7 coed 28 points Monday night, making her the winner in the statewide pageant over Miss Dallas County, Lu Ann Caughey, who scored 22.

The other three runners-up, in the order the judges placed them, were Miss Humble, Debbie Maffett; Miss Sandia, Bambi Hamm; and Miss Dallas, Randi Hall.

The five finalists were chosen out of 15 semi-finalists selected from 99 contestants in the pageant, which was broadcast live on television stations in 15 Texas cities.

Israeli Destroy

Palestinian Bases

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Two Israeli paratroopers and at least 15 Palestinian guerrillas were reported killed or wounded today in what appeared to be the biggest Israeli raid into Lebanon in 29 months.

Israeli troops and warplanes from three commands attacked and destroyed four Palestinian artillery bases in southeast Lebanon and killed some of the terrorists, the Tel Aviv command said.

Yasser Arafat claimed his Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas repelled the attack and killed at least two Israelis in a group trapped by his fighters. Lebanese provincial authorities said at least 15 guerrillas were either killed or wounded in the attack, the third by Israel against guerrillas in Lebanon within one week.

Israel said the raids were all part of "preventive measures" designed to deter guerrilla strikes against the Jewish state.

Weather

West Texas: Partly cloudy with a chance of afternoon and night time thunderstorms most sections. Not as warm north. Highs mostly in the 90s but ranging from the upper 80s in the Panhandle to near 102 in the Big Bend. Lows in the 60s to low 70s.

Safety Officer of the Month

Jerry Johnson, left, Exalted Ruler of the Hereford Elks Lodge presents a certificate to Paul J. Farkas recognizing him as public safety officer of the month as Hereford Fire Chief Ron Osborn looks on. Farkas, a member of the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department, made 58 of 60 fire alarms in July. He is an employee of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. here and has been a fire department member for 1 1/2 years.

Day-Care Chairman Named

George Warner was elected chairman of the board for 1980-81 by Hereford Day Care, Inc. during the board's regular monthly meeting at Caison's Barbecue Monday.

Warner succeeds Dwight Turner, who was elected treasurer for 1980-81 by the board. Other officers for 1980-81 will include Troy Waddell, vice chairman and Ellen Collins, secretary.

The board also reviewed the financial report for July, 1980 at the meeting as well as tentatively approving a $177,525 budget for the coming year. The budget was approved as submitted by the budget committee composed of Warner, Mrs. Collins, Terry Langhennig, and Day Care, Inc. director Bettie Dickson.

Four board members will be entering their final year of a three-year stint on the panel when the new physical year begins in September. Those include Robert Ray, Mrs. Collins, Lynton Allred, and Sheila Thames. Board members with two years left include Bob Nigh, Dickie Geries, Warner, and Waddell. New board members with a full term left include Bill McCarley, and Bob Gentry.

Hereford Day Care, Inc. currently handles about 140 youngsters at the two centers here located at 215 Norton, and the Wesley Branch at 410 Irving. The centers have openings for about 20 more children.

perience," the local farmer related.

Friemel laughed when asked what he expects disgruntled rural Democrats to do at election time.

"There was a heck of a strong plea for party unity at the close of the convention...A lot of the rural people will quite likely take a look at the other candidates. Many of the farm people are supporting Reagan because of the Carter administration's absolute refusal to recognize agriculture," said Friemel.

Alaskan Wilderness Bill to Double America's Conservation Holdings

WASHINGTON (AP) — After three years of argument and delay, the Senate is suddenly ready to pass an Alaska wilderness bill so big it would double America's major conservation holdings.

President Carter and environmental groups were already cautiously celebrating a victory for protection of wilderness and wildlife Monday. And Alaska senators and state officials were licking their wounds and saying they had done all they could to protect the rights of Alaska residents and potential developers.

Today's final vote on the legislation was to be little more than a formality following a Monday vote sweeping away the latest in a long series of roadblocks erected by Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska.

Those roadblocks had succeeded in killing a 1978 version of the bill and in delaying this year's version for months. But when Gravel's defense began to crumble, the bill began moving with stunning speed.

First, the Senate voted 63-25 Monday for a "cloture" motion cutting off Gravel's attempt to stall the bill to death. Then, senators voted 72-16 for a version of the bill put together by senators led by Paul Tsongas, a Massachusetts Democrat with conservationist leanings.

That set up today's final vote on Tsongas' measure, which has tougher environmental restrictions against mining, logging and hunting than a previous Senate version but not as tough as the bill passed by the House.

The House and Senate are now expected to try to resolve differences in their legislation without sending it to a formal conference committee and thereby giving Gravel another shot at stalling the bill.

Both versions would order federal protection for more than 100 million acres of Alaska — a California-sized total that makes up nearly one-third of the nation's largest state.

Each would designate about 44 million acres of national parks and park preserves, and the Senate version would call for 54 million acres of wildlife refuges compared to about 80 million in the House bill — more than doubling present acreage in both nationwide systems.

The president, who has called the measure "the conservation issue of the century," released a statement praising the Senate bill as fairly balanced between wildlife and energy-development concerns.

Carter's interior secretary, Cecil Andrus, hurried to the Capitol to tell reporters he was "extremely pleased" with the Senate action Monday.

Tsongas, who steered the bill through weeks of closed-door negotiations, said it balances the rights of Alaskans to use their own state "with provisions that respect the public's right to our natural legacy in Alaska."

Anderson Felt Rescue Would Fail

By MARK ROSATI Associate Press Writer CHICAGO (AP) — Syndicated columnist Jack Anderson says he reached the "anguishing" decision to disclose the details of an alleged U.S. plan to invade Iran because he is convinced the mission would fail.

Brown have flatly denied the allegation, and the White House labeled the story "grotesque" and "irresponsible." Several newspapers that normally carry Anderson's column, including the Washington Post, the New York Daily News and the Atlanta Constitution, did not run the column Monday.

"Because of the political nature of this plan, because it almost certainly would not succeed, I decided to expose it," he said in a speech Monday night.

In his speech, Anderson claimed Carter ordered last April's rescue attempt of the American hostages in Tehran because his ratings had slipped in the public-opinion polls. That effort was aborted because of helicopter failure, and eight soldiers died in an aircraft collision during the withdrawal from the Iranian desert.

Anderson has reported that President Carter is planning a military operation aimed at freeing the U.S. hostages in mid-October, timed for maximum advantage in his re-election campaign against Ronald Reagan and John B. Anderson.

The columnist noted that Carter's standing in the polls has dropped again and said the president has ordered plans be prepared for the "limited invasion" because "it just comes naturally to him to react politically."

However, Anderson said unidentified experts believe the plan — which he did not describe in detail during his speech — would fail. He said it was only because these experts believe the plan is flawed and that Carter's motivation is political that he and his staff were able to learn details of the alleged mission.

"We would have a very difficult time carrying this (mission) out," and for that reason, he said, he decided to publish his findings. "I can assure you it was an anguishing decision," Anderson added. "I don't think newsmen should pry into military secrets except in special circumstances."

Anderson said that while Carter has not actually "ordered" the invasion, "he has started preparations for a limited invasion of Iran" and that one "control point" in the operation already has passed. He said a final decision whether to carry out the plan will not be made until two more "control points" are passed.

Anderson said one thing that would make another rescue attempt very difficult is that many of the hostages were removed from the occupied U.S. Embassy and taken to other locations in Iran as a result of the aborted mission last April.

The columnist's remarks were delivered at the annual convention of the Barber and Beauty Supply Institute.

Texas Realtors Open Workshop

When the Texas Association of Realtors opens a one day political awareness workshop in Amarillo's Country Squire Dinner Theater at the Villa Inn Thursday, it will concentrate on the nuts and bolts of involving members in political campaigns, learning the issues and voting in November.

A special team of speakers, led by Benny McMahan of Dallas, to be installed as 1981 association president in January, will be introduced and welcomed to this area by Melvin Jayroe of Hereford. Jayroe is TAR vice president and a longtime spokesman for the "importance of making your voice heard in this nation's political processes."

Jayroe said this week that "this meeting may be one of the most important sessions that our members will be asked to attend this year. The program is going to show our people how we can make a difference.

Realtors everywhere are very worried about the tendencies of the federal government to answer every problem presented with more and more regulations...regulations which we feel are stifling our free enterprise system."

McMahan, past president of the Dallas board and past chairman of the Texas Real Estate Research Center at College Station, will start the day off with remarks indicating the Realtors' effort "to persuade Congress to slow down the rate of government spending is one that we must win."

"It's a fact that our federal budget has increased by 23 percent in the past two years. The budget in fiscal 1980 involves a spending rate of more than $1 billion a minute, but what we are even more worried about is the trend toward more and more interference in the lives of the individual by our government. It really seems that Congress is trying to follow through on every problem presented by practicing the questionable policy of 'there ought to be a law.'

"This means that we have a state of mind that says, 'we will take care of you' regardless of the cost in money or in personal freedom." McMahan said that besides the talks by Randy Moorhead of Washington, D.C., the participants would hear from Gerhard Schulle Jr. of Austin, TAR Director of public affairs, and Mike Damen and Tommy Townsend, also of Austin and on Schulle's staff.

Moorhead is a graduate in political science of the University of Ohio and has worked extensively in campaigns of candidates for the US House and Senate. He represents NAR in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

The TAR political awareness workshops will also be held next week in San Antonio, Harlingen, Houston and El Paso.

Assault Reported To Local Police

A case of simple assault reported over the weekend resulted in a broken stereo and some pulled hair, according to police.

Blanca Castille, 315 Adelita Calle, reported that a woman she knew entered her house with the intent of "getting" her, while only she and her children were at home. The woman allegedly pulled Mrs. Castille's hair and kicked her, and during the scuffle, a stereo was knocked over and broken.

Police said the charges may be filed sometime today. Three bags of ice, valued at $3.72, were taken from the Allsupps store located on E.

Park. Four cases of vandalism or criminal mischief were reported to police over the weekend.

Jimmy Garnett of 300 Douglas and Wyatt Watkins of 341 Centre both reported having windows broken out of their cars, while Christopher Niell, 230 Ave. C, reported that a white stripe had been painted on the side of his car. Two windows were also broken out by vandals at Tip Top Oil Company, 1507 E. 1st.

Police investigated one harassing phone call, five minor accidents, and six minor incidents, issuing 10 traffic citations.

Crossroads Ministry Team Returns from Mission Trip

The Crossroads Ministry Team consisting of thirty junior and senior high school students from the Hereford Church of the Nazarene recently charter Continental Trailways for a 14 day missions trip across the United States to New York.

The students spent five days in Lockport, N.Y., working with a new home missions church. The church was a year old in a rural area halfway between Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Lockport.

During their stay in Lockport, the ministry team lead three services, conducted three days of Backyard Bible Clubs, performed puppets in parks and their ensemble of light sang in Niagara Falls Mall. Approximately 4,000 pieces of literature were passed out in three cities by the students.

The teens raised $9,500 to pay the entire cost of the missions trip.

The Crossroads Ministry Teams recently held a home concert in which they performed to a crowd of 300 people at the Community Center.

Ann Landers

Fatherly Instincts

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am no writer, so I am going to write the way I talk. Please take out the dirty words and print it.

Three years ago I divorced my husband because he lied, gambled and chased. Our 14-year-old daughter didn't care one way or the other because her dad never paid much attention to her.

The divorce decree gave my husband weekend visiting privileges, but I never thought he would use them. I was mistaken. All of a sudden he developed "fatherly instincts." He picks Lynn up at 6 o'clock sharp on Friday and brings her home Sunday at 8 p.m.

Lynn can't stop talking about the beautiful furniture over there, how great the silk bedsheets are, how terrific the food is and the French maid who picks up after her.

Yesterday, Lynn told me her dad is a wonderful person, and I shouldn't have divorced him. How does a mother tell a teenage daughter her father is a skunk? - Stymied In Jersey

DEAR STYMIED: You don't. Lynn has had 14 years to form an opinion of her father, and you can be sure she has done just that. If you have instilled in her a solid sense of values, she will not be fooled into thinking silk bedsheets and maid service make a happy home.

Deep down you are worried about losing out. I hope you will not allow your daughter to play both ends against the middle. It's a very popular game among children of divorced parents - and a real bummer.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I knew when I read the letter from "The Show-Me-State" that it was written by someone who didn't know much about alcoholism. He started by saying, "If alcoholism is a disease, it's the only disease that is bottled and sold, contracted by the will of man, needs a license to keep going, produces revenue for the government, is spread by advertising, causes violent death on the highways," etc. Please print my rebuttal. Those misconceptions could be dangerous.

Recently I have been educating myself and other family members in an effort to cope with an alcoholic spouse. I would like to analyze the points made by "Show-Me-State".

1. As for alcoholism being bottled and sold: alcoholism comes in people, not in bottles. (Diabetes does not come in a candy bar.)

2. The disease does not require a license to keep it going. Alcohol has always been easy to get, with or without a license. The disease will always be around.

3. Alcoholism is not contracted through lack of will power. It represents the combination of a physical sensitivity or allergy to alcohol, plus a mental obsession with drinking that cannot be controlled by will power alone.

4. Mental illness provokes crime. Is this also contracted by the will of man?

5. Accidents do happen as a result of other illnesses. (There are a lot of sick people on the road.) Alcoholism itself can result in violent death as well as many other illnesses.

6. Alcoholism is not caused by a germ or virus, nor is heart disease, kidney disease or mental illness.

7. Lung diseases are also spread by advertising.

It is important that the public be educated to the fact that alcoholism is a disease so the afflicted can recognize it as such and seek the help they need.

Please, Ann Landers, get your experts to back me up on this. - C.R. Of York, Pa.

DEAR C.R.: The experts are in your corner, and so am I. Thanks for writing.

'Mulligan Stew' Airs this Fall; Students Participate in Program

By AGNES TAYLOR
County Extension Agent

Look for a special TV 4-H program this fall, "Mulligan Stew". This is a series of six half-hour TV shows, which will be viewed on Channel 4 beginning Saturday October 11th at 12:30 p.m. and shown at this same time each Saturday through November 15th.

All the schools in Deaf Smith County, grades 3 through 6, will be participating in this project sponsored by the county Extension service, with Agnes Taylor coordinating the project.

"Mulligan Stew" is the name of a musical band of kids who teach lessons in good nutrition. The schools participating will be presented activity books for each child participating in the project.

A training session for Deaf Smith County will be held Thursday at Walcott School. The main interest the series holds for school viewing is that it can be coordinated with health and nutrition studies which are already a part of the curriculum.

Each teacher who participates will receive a discussion guide outlining practical activities to further support educational experiences for the members.

At the conclusion of the series, each child will be eligible for a participation certificate, and will be considered a member of the "Mulligan Stew" 4-H Club.

Titles for the shows are "The Great Nutrition Turn-On," "A Look Inside Yourself," "The Film Plan Man," "Getting It All Together," "Countdown" and

"The Racer That Lost His Edge."

The series deals mainly with good nutrition and eating habits. A constant theme is 4-4-3-2, which refers to the number of servings from various food groups to be eaten daily for proper nutrition. They include 4 servings of fruit or vegetables, 4 servings of bread or cereal, 3 servings of milk and 2 servings of meat.

Look for "Mulligan Stew." This will be a rewarding educational experience for your children conducted by the Extension Service.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agriculture Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, or national origin.

Crazy Days Celebrated In Hereford

Merchants celebrated "Crazy Days" last Friday and Saturday in conjunction with back-to-school time. In promotion of the citywide event, several fun-filled events were conducted, among those being a contest to determine which store had the "craziest" dressed employees. The special event was sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. On this page are several of the local merchants vying for the title "craziest dressed."

All Chicken Little Wanted Was Some Calls

A PERSON HAD to be in a demented frame of mind to associate the paradoxical view of sports with that of the fabled Chicken Little.

But in this one instance, the contrary thought seemed to fit the bill as far as a likely comparison was concerned, especially in regard to the Hereford sports clockwork.

You see, Chicken Little was that crazy little sportswriter who shouted the sky is falling in an advance story — only to find out it was merely an acorn that had cause the ruckus later.

Mauri Montgomery

THAT IN ITSELF WAS the heart of the problem. And just in case you're wondering when this will get around to being a legitimate sports column, it will be the point of this tale sooner later.

The crazy bird had unwittingly relied on certain bad sources or the lack of any sources of information in his headlining disaster story — the combination of those two bad apples in conjunction with the bird's eagerness to report such a story ended with a total infection of all the apples.

You might say that this little yarn is beginning to have all the ear-marks of washing the dirty laundry in public, and I might be inclined to agree with you for that's exactly what it's meant to do.

WITH THAT BRAZEN ANNOUNCEMENT, some of my colleagues in the field of sports journalism or news in general may consider this as a highly unethical ploy to follow through with.

But since this is a column which expresses my own deranged opinions, and considering I've always been a firm believer in the Gothic adage ("You never know what you can do until you try"), I'm going to give those one-sided opinions of mine. There seems to be a common misconception floating around, that news people gather every little tidbit of information which happens to run in a newspaper or other media outlet themselves.

IF THAT'S THE CASE, then I suppose it would also be a correct assumption to say that a quarterback is a one-man team or the sole player responsible for gaining any yardage for a team.

It sounds a little ridiculous from either of the two angles, but some of the individuals we throw papers to seem to think along those grounds.

In regard to sports, I'm actually just the middle man of news concerning the ever present turn out of athletes and their success or failures.

And in light of the fact I'm only one man in a sea of sporting events, I have to rely on sources when the staffing of a contest is physically impossible. I use those sources not only for games I can't make, but also for contests I'm not even aware are going on.

BUT WITH THAT THOUGHT IN MIND, getting some of the so-called sports enthusiasts to call in unknown information seems much to great a task to ask.

Those people, coaches and fans alike, are invariably the hypocrites who call the next day and wonder where in the world that story was on Babe Ruth baseball, all-district selections, tennis tournaments at the Hereford Country Club, the men's post season city league baseball tournament and thousands of other equally important contests.

If they don't gripe about the lack of coverage, then it's the fact a mistake was made somewhere down the line — a misuse which was inevitably caused by having to find out the results from an unreliable source.

THEN THERE ARE THE well-meaning people who care enough to call in information, but fail to remember a newspaper, as with any media source, has this little irritating thing called a deadline.

Instead of making things much simpler with a call early in the morning, they consistently call in the results at 10:30 or 11 a.m. — a time period allotted for the paper's final make-up of pages. And whether or not there is enough time to send a story through it's several stages of preparation determines if the late story will ever see it's day in the paper.

OFTEN IT DOESN'T meet the paper's deadline, and since it is usually a timely event (one that happened that day or the day before), it can't be used again following that day's run.

In short, if I stepped on any toes in this column, it was for no other reason that to give mine a badly needed rest. Mistakes have been made in the past, and will probably see their stint again in the future — that I'm grateful for because there wouldn't be any challenge in being a perfect sportswriter. But few realize how many of those mistakes were a result of uncooperative efforts by potential sources for this paper.

IT'S EASY ENOUGH TO SIT BACK and complain about the lack of coverage on a game when you haven't bothered to let anybody know it was even going on. And if it appears I've attempted to single out any one particular group or groups of the Hereford sports world then I've just got one thing to add, "Footwear isn't getting in cheaper these days, so if the shoe fits take it out of the closet and wear it."

Hot-Hitting 3rd Baseman Keeps Average Alive

Brett Keys Royal's Win

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — George Brett isn't answering the phone in his hotel room any more.

"I had calls today from South Carolina, South Dakota, California, you name it," the hot-hitting Kansas City third baseman said.

"They all say the same thing. Do I have time to talk with them a few minutes for a story? I told them, 'No. I don't. Come to the park and I'll talk to you.' To be honest, I've been upset a few times because I haven't been able to have any privacy in the locker room before or after the game."

Kansas City manager Jim Frey says the swarm of writers who descend upon Brett — like the dozen or more who besieged him after the Royals' 6-3 victory over Texas Monday night — doesn't surprise him a bit.

time to key the Royals' sixth straight victory and pad their lead in the American League West to 14½ games.

Brett's 3-for-5 night extended his club record hitting streak to 30 games, one short of Ken Landreaux's streak for Minnesota earlier in the season. It also pushed his batting average to .404. Over the mond ring with green emeralds in it," Brett said.

Brett singled and scored on Darrell Porter's double to give Kansas City the lead in the first inning.

In the third, Hal McRae doubled, Brett singled, and Porter's sacrifice fly boosted KC's lead.

Ken Burroughs Nurses Knee Injury

HOUSTON (AP) — While the rest of the Houston Oilers returned to training camp at San Angelo Monday, wide receiver Ken Burrough went home to nurse a knee injury and to see his newborn daughter.

"We've got receivers and quarterbacks to do the job until I get back," said Burrough, who injured his knee in Sunday's 20-17 victory over New Orleans while trying to block for Earl Campbell.

"My foot caught in the turf and he hit me from behind," Burrough said. "I'm glad it came lose or I might have been hurt real bad. I pulled up on the next play but I was just scared mostly."

The Oilers travel to Dallas Saturday to play the Cowboys.

"Who else would you talk with, when you've got a man hitting over .400 and getting two or three hits every night? He's having a tremendous year," Frey said.

Brett singled his first three times up and scored each past 30 games, Brett is hitting .467 with 57 hits, 29 runs and 42 runs batted in.

The last time a major leaguer averaged .400 or more in a season was 1941.

"My teammates are pulling for me to keep getting hits, and I'm busting my rear to get every hit I can. But it's not because of the streak or the average. There's enough pressure without me putting added pressure on myself," Brett said.

"I'm doing everything I can because I want Kansas City to have the best record in baseball. That's the incentive I have. I want to win the World Series and walk down the street wearing a big dia-

At the wheel in his 1956 Chevy, Mario Gamez comes off the starting line during the street elimination competition of the Amarillo Dragway Regional Trials Sunday. Gamez grasped third place in the event after beating out other drivers from

NFL Begins Reducing Rosters

By TOM CANAVAN
AP Sports Writer

John Mendenhall and Gordon Gravelle knew the New York Giants didn't want them. But they learned something else Monday: neither do the Green Bay Packers nor the Los Angeles Rams.

Mendenhall and Gravelle were two of the most notable veterans released Monday as National Football League teams began the process of reducing their rosters to the 60-man limit by 4 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

The releases could spell the end of the line for the veteran linemen.

Mendenhall, released by the Giants earlier this year, was one of seven players waived as the Packers pared their roster to 67.

"For a nine-year veteran, John Mendenhall gave us a great effort while he was here," Packers Coach Bart Starr said. "It would have been easy for him to pace himself through camp and try to make it with us on guile, but he didn't."

"I guess having to part with anyone like that is as tough as anything in the business." Green Bay also cut punter Rick Engles, a free agent who played with Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Seattle, and third-year running back Walt Landers.

Gravelle, let go by the Giants last year, started three games for the Rams last season because of injuries to did a little addition and subtraction, acquiring second-year defensive back Henry Williams from the Oakland Raiders for a future draft choice and waiving five rookie free agents.

Pittsburgh put third-year pro Rick Moser, a reserve running back and special teams star, on injured reserve and said he would miss the entire season. He broke his collar bone Aug. 9 in a 13-0 exhibition victory over the Giants.

The Giants also got in the act, cutting 11 players including former starting fullback Ken Johnson and kick returner Steve Odom, who they picked up on waivers from the Packers in 1979.

Another kick returner also will be looking for work — former All-Pro Tony Green, who headed a list of seven players waived by Tampa Bay.

"I think Tony could play in the league," Buccaneers Coach John McKay said. THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Dallas defensive backs Randy Hughes and Charlie Waters, both hurt in the Cowboys' 19-16 preseason victory over the Los Angeles Rams, may be available for duty against the Houston Oilers Saturday. A spokesman for the Cowboys said Monday free safety Hughes and strong safety Waters were hit by old

"His college record would indicate that, but he is not in very good shape right now."

Neither were 18 people who entered the Jets training camp earlier this summer looking for work and ended up being released Monday. The mass execution included eighth-round draft choice Jeff Dziama of Boston College and four veterans — center Ed McGlasson, place kicker Carson Long, wide receiver Roger Farmer and tight end Bob Raba.

The San Diego Chargers cut five players, placed three on the injured reserve list and put All-Pro defensive end Fred Dean on the reserve list for failing to report to camp. The only draft pick the Chargers cut was Curtis Sirmones, an eighth-rounder from Northern Alabama.

Injured Cowboys May Play

injuries in last Saturday night's game in Anaheim. Hughes, who suffered a separated shoulder for the second time in recent weeks, will have a special brace fitted, the spokesman said. Waters, who missed last season after surgery on his right knee, twisted the knee against the Rams but the injury is not thought to be serious.

YOU AUTO KNOW
By Don Henslee

Q. Less than two months ago, I completely overhauled the differential on my 1978 Bronco. Now I have a brand new noise coming from the rear. The tires are all right. What's my next move?
A. Make a test drive and perform the following tests: Change the transmission lever from one speed range to another. If the noise appears in one and not in the other, it is coming from the transmission. Note the road speed at which the noise is loudest. Stop the car and race the engine until it's at the speed the noise was heard. If the noise is present, it's caused by the engine or exhaust; or as you drive, lightly apply the brakes while holding the car speed steady. If the noise varies in pitch, you need to replace a wheel or axle shaft bearing.

Brewers Narrow Gap Between League's Leaders

Battle Continues for American League Pennant

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Today's American League headlines again deal with the New York-Baltimore East Division pennant chase and the assault of Kansas City's sizzling George Brett on the 400 mark. But something new has been added — the Milwaukee Brewers.

While the Baltimore Orioles edged New York 6-5 and pulled within 2½-games of the Yankees in the AL East, and while Brett went 3-for-5 in Kansas City's 6-3 triumph over the Texas Rangers, boosting his average to .404 and giving him a 30-game hitting streak, the Brewers quietly sneaked to within 6½-games of the top with a noisy 12-5 rout of the Detroit Tigers.

"I think it has been on the verge of happening for a long time and now it is kind of snowballing. The momentum is there. The more it rolls, the more it's going to gather," said Gorman Thomas, who crashed a grand-slam homer to help the Brewers to their seventh consecutive victory.

Elsewhere, the Minnesota Twins downed the California Angels 8-3 while the Cleveland Indians took the opener of a two-night doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 4-2 but dropped the nightcap 7-2. Boston, Oakland, Seattle and Toronto were not scheduled.

In the only National League contest, the St. Louis Cardinals mauled the Cincinnati Reds 10-1.

Milwaukee's Ben Oglivie hit a bases-empty homer, his 30th, one pitch after Thomas' sixth-inning grand slam. That put the game out of reach after Milwaukee converted three Detroit errors into a five-run fourth inning.

"Six-and-a-half out with a month-and-a-half to play — that's plenty of time. We're right back in it," said Brewers Manager George Bamberger. "All year long we have not had a big winning streak. It looks like maybe we've got something going now."

Royals 6, Rangers 3
Brett singled his first three times up, running his string to seven straight hits over two days as he became the 28th player in major league history to hit safely in 30 consecutive games.

"I'm not worried about the hitting streak," he said. "There's enough pressure just in the pennant race without putting extra pressure on myself."

Over his 30-game streak, Brett has 57 hits in 122 at-bats for a .467 average with six homers and 42 RBI.

"I'm busting my rear to get every hit I can, but not because of the streak," he said. "I want Kansas City to have the best record in baseball and win the World Series and be able to walk down the street wearing a big diamond ring with green emeralds in it."

Meanwhile, Willie Aikens drove in four runs with a two-run homer in the third inning and a two-run single in the fourth while Rich Gale won his 10th game in a row with help from Jeff Twitty and Dan Quisenberry, who picked up his 26th save.

Orioles 6, Yankees 5

and Mark Belanger drove in two runs apiece and the Orioles held off an eighth-inning rally to tighten the race in the East Division. The victory enabled the defending AL champs to take the five-game series 3-2 and register their sixth victory in eight games against the Yankees in the last 11 days.

Oscar Gamble's homer gave the Yankees a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning but Baltimore came right back and took a 3-2 lead in the bottom of the fourth on Doug DeCinces' double, a walk, Belanger's RBI-single, Bumbry's double and Dauer's sacrifice fly. The Orioles added three more in the fifth on Belanger's double, Bumbry's single and Dauer's infield out.

"I felt that if we came out of this stretch — playing in New York, then in Kansas City and then coming home against New York — four, five or six games out, we'd have a shot said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. "We're 2½ out, but I'd rather be zero."

The crowd of 51,528 pushed the total for the five games to 253,636, the largest single-series attendance ever recorded for in the major leagues.

Twins 8, Angels 3
Jose Morales had three hits and John Castino and Bombo Rivera homered to lead Minnesota's 15-hit attack. That made it easy for Fernando Arroyo, who scattered eight hits. Castino hit a two-run homer off Don Aase in the seventh inning and Rivera connected off Dave Lemanczyk in the eighth.

Indians 4-2, White Sox 2-7
Kevin Bell ripped a three-run homer during a six-run fourth inning that powered Chicago in the nightcap behind Steve Trout's nine-hit pitching. In the opener, Cleveland's Len Barker yielded just three hits and struck out 12, a career high, while Toby Harrah homered for the Indians.

Cardinals 10, Reds 1

Ted Simmons rapped out four hits, including two home runs, as the Cardinals buried Cincinnati on the strength of an eight-run second inning. The game was called by rain after 6½ innings. Bob Forsch pitched a four-hitter and doubled home two runs to key the second-inning outburst, which started with singles by Simmons and George Hendrick. Jay Howell, making his second major league appearance, surrendered six consecutive singles to Bobby Bonds, Garry Templeton, Keith Hernandez, Simmons, Hendrick and Ken Reitz. Simmons added solo homers in the fourth and sixth innings.

General Manager Says He Knew It Was Coming

Cards Fire Claiborne

ST. LOUIS (AP) — John Claiborne, fired as general manager of the stumbling St. Louis Cardinals after only 22 months on the job, says he saw it coming.

"As you look back, at the fact the team is doing poorly and the club is losing pretty big sums of money, you can see the signs," the 41-year-old Claiborne said. "My only sadness is that I failed to get a pennant for the St. Louis fans."

Claiborne said he was told of the decision by club President August A. Busch Jr. Monday morning in a "friendly atmosphere for a meeting where you're getting fired."

The Cards said the search for a successor to Claiborne would begin immediately.

The Cards were in fifth place in the six-team National League East, 14½ games behind first-place Pittsburgh at the time of the firing, with a record of 51-64.

Claiborne declined to be more specific on the club's money losses.

Manager Whitey Herzog, who was named by Claiborne to replace Ken Boyer earlier in the season, said he was shocked and surprised.

"I really don't know what to say," Herzog said. "You don't want anybody to get fired, and you wonder why at this time."

Busch later released a statement saying the general manager was fired because of "basic disagreements regarding progress of the team in all areas of operation." Although a spokesman for Busch declined to elaborate, Claiborne said "the only disagreement is the club's current standing."

The free agent question was not a source of disagreement with Busch, Claiborne said.

Texas Briefs

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — One-stop centers for coordinating aid to Hurricane Allen victims will open this week in Port Isabel, Brownsville and Edinburg, Gov. Bill Clements' office reported Monday.

The Edinburg and Port Isabel centers were scheduled to open at 10 a.m. today. The Brownsville office is set to open Thursday at 10 a.m.

Officials from state and federal agencies will be on hand to process applications for any form of available assistance.

Income tax forms, flood insurance policies, car titles and other materials which could help prove losses should be brought to the centers.

Assistance available includes disaster unemployment compensation, loans for farmers, small business loans, food, and temporary housing.

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Police Association contends that Police Chief Glenn King violates the civil rights of his officers with an order restricting their access to an attorney after a shooting.

The association filed a federal court suit Monday against both King and the City of Dallas in response to an order by the chief that allows only "authorized" persons to talk to an officer involved in a shooting until after he is questioned by investigators.

The suit seeks a permanent injunction preventing King and other supervisors from denying officers the right to talk to an attorney before submitting to questioning in situations where the officer may be criminally liable.

The lawsuit comes a month after King issued the controversial order stemming from an incident involving a Dallas police officer who shot and killed a man reportedly burglarizing his home.

After the shooting, officer Danny Cain's request to talk with his attorney was denied by supervisors, who told Cain he must make his statement to investigators first because of departmental policy.

DALLAS (AP) — Several lawyers involved in personal injury lawsuits thoroughly inspected the Texas State Fair's Swiss Sky Ride Monday for the first time since two gondolas collided over the grounds last year, killing one man and injuring 17 others.

Attorney Windle Turley, representing 17 people injured in the mishap, said he saw nothing that would indicate what caused the Oct. 21 tragedy.

Most of the day was spent reinspecting parts of the ride previously covered in a brief inspection made shortly after the accident, Turley said.

The first inspection of the ride's electrical system and safety shutoff was to be made today.

Engineers hired by the various parties involved in the lawsuits are also conducting the inspection, along with officials from Von Roll, Ltd., the Swiss manufacturers of the gondolas.
