Kennedy Joins Victorious Carter Team

Texas Pushes Carter to Top

NEW YORK (AP) - Jimmy Carter got the votes and the nomination to be "the next president of the United States" as everybody knew he would. But for Ted Kennedy the votes were delivered "for that gallant campaigner" and "with our hearts.'

The praise for Kennedy was so thick that Rosalynn Carter's face at times bore a cast-iron smile. Praise such as:

-"Madam Chairman, in a tradition consistent with the support of the Kennedy brothers over the years - first John, then Robert, now Ted - Arizona casts 16 votes for Ted Kennedy and 13 for Jimmy Carter."

-"Madam Chairman, the delegates of the state of California, representing the most populous state of our country, cast 140 votes for President Carter and, to emphasize our agreements with the programs presented in his campaign, 166 votes for Senator Ted Kennedy."

That announcement, coming nearly at the 12th hour of the third session of the Democratic National Convention, set off a marathon of chanting. "We want Ted. We want Ted."

Colorado passed. Connecticut counted 28 for Kennedy, 26 for Carter. Delaware went Kennedy four, 10 for Carter. The District of Columbia passed. So did Florida. Georgia cast "62 for a great Georgian, a great president, the next president, with it."

This time: "We want Carter. We want Carter." On the podium, convention secretary Dorothy Bush said good-naturedly, "A lot of other people do too, so let's get on

'Kansas casts 23 votes for the next president of the United States, Jimmy Carter, and, Madame Secretary, with our hearts we cast 14 votes for Senator Ted Kennedy."

Maine split - 11 votes for Kennedy, 11 for Carter. Nebraska gave 10 of its 24 to "the eloquent senator from Massachusetts" and the rest to "that great president of the United States." New Jersey awarded 45 to Carter "and, as an affirmation of our respect and admiration," 68 for Kennedy. South Dakota cast "10 votes for the president of the United States in 1984" - Kennedy. And then, Mrs. Bush announced, it was time for "Texas, 153 votes.'

"Madam Secretary, here we go over the top," whooped the Texas' 108 votes for Carter had indeed put the president over, making his total 1,731.5 votes. He needed 1,666. The senator from Massachusetts at that point had 1,010.5. Madison Square Garden became a kettledrum of noise. It was 12:05 a.m. Thursday.

Party Chairman John C. White stepped to the front of the platform and swung a copy of the New York Daily News from side to side for all to see. The headline: "It's Carter again."

The band played "Happy Days are Here Again." Rosalynn Carter smiled for real and clapped hands in time to the music. So did sons Chip and Jeff. Lillian Carter looked delighted. Amy waved her straw hat.

Carter-Mondale signs were everywhere. Women stood on chairs and swayed to the music. In the Nebraska delegation. a man with a farmer's cap and a "No M-X" button read a newspaper, a case of studied indifference in the midst of bedlam. Not far away, in the Arizona delegation, a woman

Shed, Contractor Sued by Workers

Farm Editor

A group of 13 farm laborers filed a lawsuit in U.S. District Court in Amarillo earlier this week against a Hereford vegetable shed and a Hobbs, N.M. labor contractor, alleging that the packing shed did not comply with federal minimum age laws and that the labor contractor did not comply with the Fair Labor Contractor Registration Act.

Named as defendants in the suit are Barrett-Fisher Co. of Hereford and Ramiro Ramos, a labor contractor.

Among plaintiffs in the suit are Benita, Jesse, Joe and Oralia Almendarez of Raymondville, Tony and Jaime Nieto and David and Raul Trevino of Brownsville, Porfirio Robles of San Benito, Jose Luis Ramon of Plainview, and Joe Jesse and Tony Cervantez and Manuel Almendarez, all of Hereford.

The farmworkers allege that the defendants failed to pay the minimum wage for all hours worked and also contend that the defendants failed to pay wages during temporary equipment breakdowns.

The plaintiffs also allege that the defendants failed to register with the Department of Labor to secure authorization to provide housing to migrant workers; failed to maintain proper payroll records of all hours worked by employees of the packing shed, and failed to disclose working conditions and employment terms in advance.

The 13 plaintiffs are seeking $500 each in damage for each alleged violation of the Fair Labor Standards act, allegedly unpaid minimum wages and preliminary and permanent injunctions prohibiting the defendants from violating the Fair Labor Contractor Registration Act.

Wes Fisher, vice president and general manager with Barrett-Fisher Co. here reported this morning that he still had not been served any papers in regard to the lawsuit.

"All of the charges I've heard through what I've read in the paper have been completely ridiculous," stated Fisher.

"I think the whole thing is complete harassment. Due to the fact that I'm the chairman for the Ronald Reagan campaign in Deaf Smith County, I think it is complete harassment. I think the TRLA is using federal money to work politically," Fisher added.

NEW YORK (AP) - President Carter is launching his fall re-election campaign today with the endorsement he sought so fervently from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and, at least seemingly, the party unity he needed to meet the twin challenges from Republican Ronald Reagan and independent John Ander-

"I will support and work for the re-election of President Carter," Kennedy said in a post-midnight statement.

That, perhaps even more than the declaration of nomination, was what Carter and his lieutenants wanted to hear to cap their anxious efforts to bring the Massachusetts senator aboard the campaign after the long and bitter struggle for the nomination.

often-turbulent

Democratic National Convention concludes tonight with the formal renomination of Vice President Walter F. Mondale and the winners' acceptance speeches.

And while there was no definite word, it was widely assumed Kennedy would seal his support with a closing appearance on the podium with the ticket he wanted to

For Carter, Wednesday night's convention session was a triumphant moment in his embattled presidency but one he was forced to share with his defeated rival.

As the roll call of the states was read for the presidential nomination balloting, the cheers often were louder for Kennedy than for Carter.

When the heads of delegations called out their votes, they consistently referred to Carter as "the next president of the United States." For Kennedy, they used words like "gallant...eloquent ...courageous." The loudest cheer for delegation announced shortly after midnight that its 108 votes had put Carter over the 1,666 he needed for renomina-

At that, the delegates waved Carter-Mondale signs and shouted and stomped about the floor as Carter's wife Rosalynn, his mother, Lillian Carter, and other members of his family watched in Madison Square Garden. But the cheers of these unity-hungry delegates grew into a roar of relief a few minutes later when House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., the convention chairman.

Carter came when the Texas interrupted the demonstration with a message from Kennedy:

> "I congratulate President Carter on his renomination. I endorse the platform of the Democratic Party," O'Neill read from the five-sentence statement. "I will support and work for the re-election of President Carter. It is imperative that we defeat Ronald Reagan in 1980. I urge all Democrats to join in that effort."

Then, the speaker added, 'And so, united we stand."

That was only mostly true. A short time later, when the Minnesota delegation offered the traditional motion to make Carter's nomination unanimous, delegates shouted, "No, No, No."

There was a pause. Delegates milled about. Finally, there was a stir in the Massachusetts delegation and Lt. Gov. Thomas O'Neill, the speaker's son who had been Kennedy's New England campaign coordinator, asked for recogni-

He told the delegates that he had just spoken with Kennedy and "it is his wish in the interest of harmony and unity and success in 1980" that D-Ind. Carter's nomination be made unanimous.

With a roar of approval, the delegates acceded to Kennedy's request.

The platform adopted earlier in the day was the key to Kennedy's endorsement. Carter had defeated Kennedy with unexpected ease in a string of early primaries. By the end of the primary election season, the president had amassed more than the convention majority he needed for renomination. But Kennedy refused to quit.

Only after failing to defeat a rule that required delegates to abide by preconvention commitments did Kennedy give up. Carter had the votes and he was certain of keeping (See CARTER, Page 2)

The president's brother said he talked to the Senate investigators informally for about seven hours in Georgia over the weekend. He said this session was to provide them his deposition under oath.

The president's brother may testify to the Senate subcommittee late next week, according to Richard Paul, an aide to Sen. Birch Bayh,

Paul said the schedule for hearings next week has not been completed but said the investigators want to hear Billy Carter's testimony early in the investigation. President Carter has said he also is willing to testify publicly in an effort to dispel questions of White House in-·volvement in his brother's dealings with Libya.

But Bayh has said he does not know if the president's testimony will be needed.

Billy Carter told reporters Wednesday that Libyan officials agreed to talk to him about a business deal in which he would supply Libyan crude oil to the Floridabased Charter Oil Co. But he said Libya made no commitment to supply the oil.

"The Libyans have at no time reneged on any commitment," he said. "They really never made a commitment. ... They said we'd talk about

Corn Harvests Affects Reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) - This year's reduced U.S. com harvest is having a big impact on world grain reserves. which could dip to their lowest level in five years by mid-1981.

Agriculture Department projections issued Wednesday showed that global stocks of wheat and so-called coarse grains such as corn and barley may be about 164.9 million metric tons, down 7 percent from an estimated 176.7 million on hand this July 1.

According to USDA statistics, that would be the lowest grain stocks in the world's major producing and trading nations since 1975 and 1976 when reserves ebbed to historic lows of about 119 million metric tons in each of those two years.

Improved harvests subsequently help rebuild stockpiles, reaching a peak of 200.9 million metric tons on July 1, 1979.

Saudi Arabia Declares Holy War

By The Associated Press

Saudi Arabia, the world's biggest oil exporter, has declared that "holy war" is the only way to deal with Israel's annexation of Jerusalem. But most of the 13 nations with embassies in the holy city are resisting Arab pressures to move.

Meanwhile, Butros Ghali, Egyptian minister of state for foreign affairs, met in Bucharest with Romanian Foreign Minister Stefan Andrei to discuss the impasse over Jerusalem, which led to Egypt's suspension of Palestinian autonomy talks with Israel. Ghali's five-day visit comes amid signs that Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu, a past go-between in sensitive Mideast negotiations, is launching a new peace effort.

Sandi Arabia, long a moderate amidst the Mideast's more radical regimes, said Israel's new Jerusalem Law approved two weeks ago showed that a desire for restraint and moderation" was useless in dealing with the Jewish state.

Medical Examiner To Exhume Oswald

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas County Medical Examiner Dr. Charles Petty plans to exhume the body of accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald from his Fort Worth grave, the Dallas Morning News reported today.

Quoting sources, the newspaper said in a copyright story that Petty proposes the exhumation Friday in an attempt to determine whether the body is actually that of Oswald, named by the Warren Commission as the lone assassin of President John F. Kennedy here Nov. 22, 1963.

Petty would not confirm nor deny the report, the newspaper said.

The newspaper also said Petty had not planned to announce the exhumation until tests were complete to determine the identity of the body.

Michael Eddowes, a British author and attorney, five years ago raised the question of the identity of the body buried in 1963 in Rose Hill Cemetery on Fort Worth's east side.

Raymond Cantu, who gave his address as the Ramada Inn in Uvalde, was picked up after he allegedly called Lilia Ruiz, 222 Ave. E, and threatened her husband with bodily harm.

Mrs. Ruiz called police and gave them a description of the car the man was supposed to be driving, and the car was seen about an hour later in the 300 Block of Ave. I, police

When he was stopped and asked to get out of the car. Cantu was "obviously under police. He used abusive language with officers, and investigation showed that he was carrying a pistol.

Police are also investigating a case of vandalism at the residence of Tom Hickman, 809 S. Hickman reported that

At Wits End By ERMA BOMBECK

Did you realize that August is the only "No Holiday" month on the calendar?

No hats and horns, no Easter eggs, no presidents' birthdays, no parades, no banks closed, no decorating the house, no flags waving, no Candygrams and no interruption in the garbage pickups on Mondays.

Maybe that's why I've always loved August. The white sales are over. My summer cold has stabilized. I've survived another vacation without killing someone. Camp is over. The grass is brown and doesn't need cutting. It's too late to diet for bathing suits and it's too early to start for the Christmas parties.

August is a wonderful, funky month to dump all the promises into...all the resolutions for fall...and all the excuses of summer.

It's too hot to cook.

It's too humid to let your hair grow.

It's too crowded to clean the house. It's too futile to call a meeting.

It's too hectic to start sewing.

Too dusty to clean the garage.

Too counter-productive to write a letter until there's something to write about.

August is a go-to-pot month. You can bite your nails. Let your dark roots hang out. Keep the calendar on July. Procrastinate to your dentist. Leave the top button of your shorts undone so you can breathe. If you're late paying your bills, your creditors think you're abroad.

Life is a rerun and who cares enough to get up and change the channel?

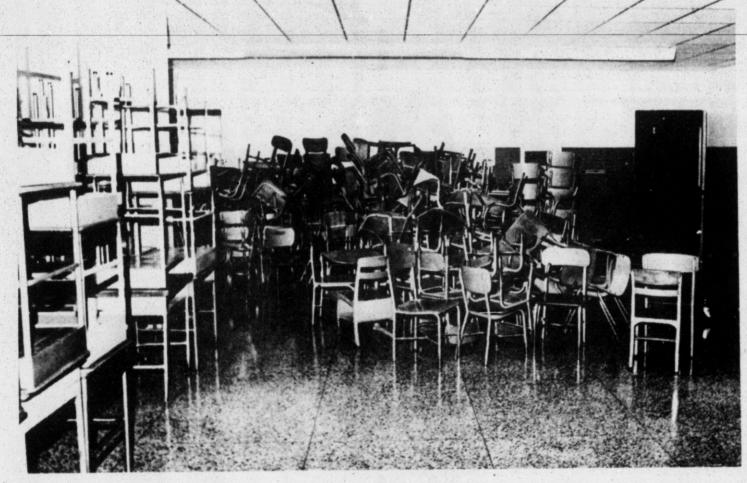

I don't know who to thank for August. Surely everyone knows it's fair game for a holiday of some kind. But somehow the creators of National Pickle Week, Plastic Furniture Month, Miss Junk Food Princess and National Iilegible Handwriting Week let August alone.

September is filled with schedules and order, October is tribute to goblins and disguise; November, a time of thanks; December of joyous celebrations; January, resolutions; February, a tribute to our leaders; March, anode to the Irish; April, the resurrection; May, a day for mothers; June, for fathers; July, our glorious heritage...but August...is everyone's time to lay back and wallow in the knowledge that there is absolutely no occasion to rise to.

DO YOU HAVE A 'POSSIBILITY FAITH?' It was by faith that Moses, when he grew up, refused to be treated as the grandson of the king, but chose to share ill-treatment with God's people instead of enjoying the fleeting pleasures of sin.

He thought that it was better to suffer for the promised Christ than to own all the treasures of Egypt, for he was looking forward to the great reward that God would give

And it was because he trusted God that he left the land of Egypt and wasn't afraid of the king's anger. Moses kept right on going; it seemed as though he could see God right there with him.

And it was because he believed God would save his people that he commanded him to kill a lamb as God had told them to and sprinkle the blood on the doorposts of their homes, so that God's terrible Angel of Death could not touch the oldest child in those homes, as he did among the

This letter is to thank you for helping someone who didn't even write. I didn't have to. I read your column I provided a nice home and every day and recognized my advice when I saw it.-Forever In Your Debt

> DEAR FOREVER: No satisfaction can equal the pleasure of knowing I have "connected." And now I hope others who are coddling, housing and feeding potheads and drug freaks will take a page from your book. No one ever shapes up so long as he is protected against the consequences. Most derelicts must hit bottom before they can start to climb up.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several years ago I Tonight I cried again, but remember reading in your this time they were tears of column a letter from a joy. My son has completed a woman who had an emdrug-recovery program. He barassing problem. She wet her pants every time she laughed hard. I thought it was pretty funny at the time, but I have changed my tune because now I have the same problem.

Your advice to that woman was to buy some rubber pants. Will you please tell me where one can buy rubber pants for an adult? I would die if my husband ever knew I wrote to you, so please reply in the paper. He opens everything that comes in the mail if he gets to the box first. Thanks a lot.-Not So Funny

When It Happens To You DEAR NOT SO: Rubber pants are available at any hospital supply company. Some lingerie stores (or department stores) sell panties with rubber shields for women who have "problems" (P.S. If any of you fellas out there are laughing, let me assure you this is not funny.)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been married for nearly three years and am three months pregnant. When I meet relatives or friends the first question they ask is,

"Was it planned or an accident?'

My husband and I have been wanting to start a family for the last two years. This pregnancy is no accident. I really get upset when I am asked such a personal question. Please tell me how to respond.-Canadian Rage

DEAR C.R.: Anyone who would ask such a question is crude, insensitive and nosy. Such clods don't deserve careful treatment. Simply look at them with astonishment and answer their question with two of your own: "Now, why in the world would you ask anything so personal as that? What possible difference could it make to you?"

LUBBOCK -- Home economists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Sevice were challenged here. Aug. 6 to help Texans get facts by which to cope with major issues in family living which face them.

'Some real issues are confronting us individually and collectively," Dr. Jennie Kitching, Extension's assitant director for home economics, told the opening assembly at the state convention of the Texas Association of Extension Home Economists. Some 200 members attended the three-day meeting. In addition to the "Big E's" of energy, the economic situation and the environment, key concerns for the 1980's, Kitching said, will include privacy, government involvement, private and corporate initiative, transportation, urbanized population, and development of an international perspective. "The biggest issues in public policy are family living issues," she said. Among these are nutrition, health care, dietary guidelines, textile labeling and so-called "marriage taxes," which give single persons tax breaks not received by mar-

Rules vs. naked power

NEW YORK (NEA) - Any honest assessment of the conflicting claims in the fierce debate over the loyalty of delegates to the Democratic National Convention leads to the inescapable conclusion that President Carter is correct.

Acceptance of Carter's legal and moral position on the issue leads, however, to an inevitable political result - the virtually automatic renomination of a president by a party quite thoroughly disenchanted with his leadership. But the price for dumping Carter is far too high because it requires forsaking more than a decade of profound structural reform that has made the Democratic Party one of the most responsive and representative institutions in our society. Relying upon an array of specious arguments and a highpowered public-relations campaign, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass, and other Carter critics have deftly obscured the origin, history and intent of the provision that states: All delegates to the national convention shall be bound to vote for the presidential candidate whom they were elected to support for at least the first convention ballot, unless released in writing by the presidential candidate. Delegates who seek to violate this rule may be replaced with an alternate of the same presidential preference by the presidential candidate ... at any time up to and including the presidential balloting at the national convention. That language was formulated, discussed and unanimously by the Commission on Presidential Nomination and Party Structure, a reform panel established by the Democratic National Committee in the autumn of 1975. The commission - whose 58 members included several senior political aides to Kennedy who are now leading a belated crusade against their own recommendations - completed its work in early 1978. In June 1978 - more than two years ago - the Democratic National Committee approved those recommendations and distributed them to state and local party officials as the Delegate Selection Rules for the 1980 Democratic National

In May 1979 - more than one year ago - the Democratic National Committee approved the official "Call for the 1980 Democratic National Convention," a document whose nowfamous section F(3)(c) contained identical language.

On both occasions, there was heated debate over a variety of proposed rules - but virtually no discussion of the clause requiring delegates to remain faithful to the presidential candidates they endorsed during the primaries and caucuses.

No one raised the question of fairness, equity or appropriateness until it was clear who was winning and who was losing the contest for the presidential nomination," says Donald Fowler, former Democratic state chairman in South Carolina. Indeed, it was not until early spring of this year - after Carter had defeated Kennedy in Iowa, New Hampshire, Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Illinois - that the senator and his supporters began bemoaning the supposed lack of an "open convention.

There indeed is a case to be made for freeing delegates from their commitments in the event of "changed circumstances" - if, for instance, their candidate dies or is afflicted by an incapacitating illness between the primary and the convention.

But those arguments should have been raised, debated and resolved when the appropriate rules were under consideration in 1976, 1977, 1978 and 1979.

The final word on the matter comes from Kennedy himself and from Washington attorney Joseph L. Rauh Jr., one of the senator's most active and vocal supporters.

"Those of us who've been to these conventions know you can do a lot with the rules if the delegates want to come along." Kennedy said earlier this year.

During a similar procedural dispute in 1972, however, Rauh astutely assessed the terribly high cost of such devious manipulation: "If the rules can be changed after the game has been played, then all that remains of our great Democratic Party reforms is naked political power.

Thursday

Some children are named for relatives, especially sons for their fathers, but the usage seems more common in biblical times. When Elizabeth said her son should be named John instead of Zacharias for his father, she was reminded that no relative had that name. She and Zacharias insisted on John as the Lord had said that should be his name.

"And they said unto her, There is none of thy kindred that is called by this name.'

A woman, Phebe, is the first person mentioned in the list of Christian workers in the last chapter of the Epistle to the Romans. Davis refers to her as a deaconess, which would indicate that women could hold important positions in the early church. Paul commends her highly.

"I commend unto you Phebe our sister, which is a servant of the church which is at Cenchrea: That ye receive her in the Lord, as becometh saints, and that ye assist her in whatsoever business she hath need of you: for she hath been a succourer of many, and of myself also." Rom. 16:1-2

Rural Teachers Talk Shop at Bread Loaf School I F

By KATHLEEN M. NORTON

Associated Press Writer

RIPTON, Vt. (AP) - The teachers of rural America come to the Bread Loaf School of English each summer to talk about the frustrations of educating children who have little regard for school.

For most of the year, they teach English to coal miners' children in Pennsylvania, native Americans in South Dakota or to the sons and daughters of North Carolina tobacco farmers.

But geographic differences fade at Bread Loaf, a school that has nurtured some of America's greatest writers and draws such famous lecturers as poet Archibald MacLeish, and in days gone by, Robert Frost.

"It is the last writing course they will ever take." said Michael Nailor of his students in the coal mining town of Sunbury, Pa. "Most of them want to stay home in Sunbury and have babies."

Lu Ellen Huntley teaches in Clayton, N.C., a community of 3,100 where many families grow tobacco and many youngsters drop out of school at 16 to work. "I see them slipping right through my fingers," the 26-year-old

"We have no money for textbooks," said Myra Thermaenius of her high school in South Paris, Maine, a town of 2,300. "We have to come up with other ways to teach that aren't too expensive."

For Will Hart, there's no problem with money at Cardigan Mountain School in Canaan, N.H., a private school that costs each student's family about $8,000 a year. His students are mostly wealthy Americans and foreigners.

But like the 51 others enrolled the special six-week program for teachers at Bread Loaf, he said the isolation of rural America can get in the way of education.

"There are few people we can talk to within our areas. There is no feedback" and no cultural activity, he said:

Bill Noll adds language to the educational barriers at the Sjoux Indian reservation where he teaches in Kyle, S.D. There, all students must be bilingual. "I have to try to show them what role writing will play in their lives," he

The complaint most often heard from the group concerns a bias in textbooks in favor of city life.

Ms. Thermaenius said she's "almost glad we don't have the books." And Paula Killingsworth of Erath, a Louisiana town of 2,000 people, said subways and city streets are as foreign to her pupils as farm jargon would be to a

There are advantages to teaching in rural America. "They teach the same kids for three years in a row, They don't have a sense of fleeting frustration," said Dixie Goswami, a Bread Load instructor. "There are problems, but I make contact with those kids," agreed Nailor. He tells of a young woman, gifted with natural writing ability but from a poor family, who he helped win financial aid to continue her education.

Paying for College Education Becomes Difficult

NEW YORK (AP) - One of the most important concerns of college-bound students and their parents today is not how to get into college, but rather how to pay for it. The costs of college have gone up each year as fast as the skyrocketing inflation rate and have risen approximately 90 percent in the past

According to the annual survey of more than 3,200 colleges conducted by the College Board's College Scholarship Service, total costs for resident students this fall will increase 10.3 percent at private four-year colleges and 8.1 percent at public fouryear colleges. These increases will bring average total costs at these institutions to $6,082 and $5,383 a year respectively.

Students who attend public two-year colleges will have average expenses of $3,123 if they are resident students and $2,753 if they commute. These costs represent an increase of 16 to 20 percent over

It is important to know that these costs figures include all expenses - tuition and fees, room and board, books and supplies, transportation and personal expenses. While these costs may seem steep, especially if they are multiplied by two or four years of college, parents who pay the bills should remember that what a college costs is not always what they will have to pay.

According to Joe Paul Case, director of program administration for CSS, students and their parents pay, on the average, 56 percent of the college bill. The other 44 percent is provided by federal, state, institutional, and private financial aid programs and by other sources such a Social Security and Veterans' Administration benefits.

Families don't have to be poor to qualify for these sources of financial aid, but they do have to prove they need it. Need is the difference between what it costs to attend a particular college and what the family can contribute toward meeting these

While costs at different colleges vary, what the family can contribute doesn't change. For example, if it is determined that a family can cost of college, that family's financial need at a college costing $3,000 would be $2,100, but at a college costing $6,000, family would pay $900 financial aid to about a third whether the student decided of its students, for example. to go to the higher-or-lowercost college.

Families should not rule out any college, even the contribute $900 toward the more expensive and selective private colleges, because of cost. Colleges have different policies toward awarding aid and have varing amounts of it would be $5,100. If aid is money available. A awarded to cover the full prestigious institution like need at both colleges, the Duke University awards

And Bucknell University, while unable to meet the financial aid needs of all needy students last year, was able to award aid to virtually all who applied this year. Seniors who are planning to apply for aid now for the fall of 1981 can pick up a copy of "Meeting College Costs" from their high school

Thursday, August 14, 1980

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) -Tom Watson has a golden opportunity to make up some lost ground this week, but golf's leading performer over the past three seasons has some problems, too.

"My short game isn't all I'd like it to be. And I'm not putting all that well," Watson said.

"And that's what this golf course requires, a good short game and good putting.

"I'm driving it well, and I'm hitting the irons OK, but I'm not that sharp around the greens," he said before teeing off today in the first round of the $400,000 Westchester Classic

The 6,603-yard, par-71 Westchester Country Club course offered him a perfect target to overtake the absent Lee Trevino in one major seasona! race, and could provide him with an opportunity to put some distance between himself and the absent Jack Nicklaus in another race.

Those participants who fall in the 15-year-old and up age bracket have the same entry fees and tee off times as the 13 and 14-year-olds.

The senior championship has been scheduled for August 23-24. Entry fee for that affair is $30.

All participants will be flighted by handicap in the slated 36 hole medal play contest, with tee off times being scheduled for 1 p.m. both

Hitter Rule Cast Out by National League

DETROIT (AP) -Baseball purists may recoil, but the designated hitter rule appears certain to be adopted by the National League within two years.

For the time being, however, the senior circuit will continue to let pitchers bat for themselves rather than allow another player to bat for him as the American League - and most of the rest of organized baseball has done since 1973.

National League owners voted down the DH rule at the conclusion of the summer meetings Wednesday, leaving the NL and the Central League in Japan as virtually the only two leagues anywhere in organized baseball to eschew the DH. But, it's coming. Larry Claiborne, the St. Louis Car-. sburgh, Houston and dinals general manager who voted for it, and Bill Giles, the Philadelphia Phillies vice president who abstained from voting, both are certain the rule will pass eventually.

"By the next year, I expect the National League to have the DH rule," said Claiborne. who formerly worked for Boston and Oakland in the American League and who was responsible for placing the issue on the agenda this week. "I'm going to keep putting it on the agenda until they pass it."

Claiborne said Atlanta, New York, St. Louis and San Diego voted in favor of the DH while Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, Montreal and Cincinnati voted against Philadelphia abstained.

"You watch, we'll be back and we'll have the DH in the National League." said Claiborne, who admitted he thought he had the simple majority needed to pass the DH before the meeting. "We had three key passes (abstentions) who we thought were going to vote for it. We were surprised.

Giles said the Phillies would have voted for the measure if there was a chance it could have been put into play by next year.

Basically, the Philadelphia club is in favor," Giles said. "But we found out that it cannot be implemented until 1982, so we thought it was better to wait until the winter meetings.

"I didn't think the issue would be as close as it was. I didn't realize there was that much sentiment for it. We're in favor of trying it for for one year to see how Philadelphia fans like it."

Giles said the Phillies also were influenced by a poll taken in Chicago where fans, who have an opportunity to see the game played both with and without a DH, indicated they liked it better without.

Baseball Commisssioner Bowie Kuhn said he had sup-eager to see the two leagues using the same rules.

In other business, Lee Mac-Phail, president of ohe American League, said the majority of owners in the American League clearly favored a major reordering of the playoffs where three division winners plus a wild card entrant would meet prior to the league champion-

'There are people in baseball who think there are some clubs on the verge of bankruptcy," he said. He did not name the teams with financial difficulties.

MacPhail said violence on the field also was discussed during a joint meeting of the leagues.

'We haven't found there's any increase," MacPhail said. "We have found there's a difference in attitude, with the hitter going out to the mound after the pitchers."

MacPhail said the clubs were urged to talk to their managers about how aggressive their pitchers should

"The owners urged me today to take an even stricter stance," MacPhail said.

Feeney said the National League, which has no curfew rule, passed legislation to suspend play at 12:45 a.m. with the contest to be resumed later or played over. Other business during the joint session dealt with the new basic agreement between the clubs and the Major League Players Association.

The leagues agreed to one new addition to the basic agreement, which has been used several times since the agreement was made May 22, allowing disabled players to be sent to a minor league club for up to 20 days for rehabilitation. The action is possible if both the player and his league or team approve, in which case the player continues to draw his major league

Cincinnati Sweeps Series

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

If the Cincinnati Reds go on to repeat as National League West champions this year, they can look back on the last three nights as the turning point of the season.

While their closest rivals for the title, the Los Angeles Dodgers and Houston Astros, both lost three games in a row to second-division clubs, the Reds swept a three-game set from the San Diego Padres to take over first place.

On Wednesday night, Mike LaCoss allowed only three hits over six innings, one of them a three-run homer by Jerry Mumphrey, and Mario Soto, 6-5, got the victory with three innings of hitless relief as the Reds beat San Diego 4-3. The Cincinnati runs came on a two-run single by Joe Nolan in the fourth inning and a two-run homer by Ray Knight in the eighth.

In other NL games, the San Francisco Giants completed a series sweep by beating the Astros 6-5 in 12 innings, the Atlanta Braves won their third in row by blanking the Dodgers 2-0, the New Yrk Mets defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-3, the St. Louis Cardinals outscored the Montreal Expos 7-5 and the Chicago Cubs edged the Philadelphia

San Francisco completed a sweep of its three-game series with Houston when Rennie Stennett singled in the bottom of the 12th after singles by Jack Clark and Darrell Evans.

The Astros took a 5-3 lead in the 11th on a run-scoring single by Enos Cabell and an RBI double by Terry Puhl, but the Giants tied it again in the bottom of the inning when Stennett doubled in a run and scored on Jim Wohlford's single.

Mike Rowland got credit for the victory, his first major league decision.

Mets 5, Pirates 3

Lee Mazzilli and Jerry Morales knocked in two runs apiece to pace New York over Pittsburgh despite being outhit 12-4.

Mazzilli, who had to leave the game in the fifth inning when he was spiked on the heel at first base, had a tworun double in the first inning and later scored on Morales' sacrifice fly. A single by Steve Henderson, a double by Frank Taveras and ground balls by Morales and Dan Norman brought in the other two Mets runs in the sixth.

Burt Hooton, who had won seven of his previous eight decisions, gave up a two-run homer to Glenn Hubbard in the second inning. The Dodgers right-hander now has allowed 19 homers this season, a career high.

Cubs 2, Phillies 1

Jerry Martin hit a sacrifice fly in the bottom of the ninth inning to give Chicago its victory over Philadelphia.

Rick Reuschel and Dick Ruthven, who suffered his eighth loss in 18 decisions, were locked in a scoreless tie through seven innings before Larry Bittner doubled in a run in the eighth and Mike Schmidt tied it in the top of the ninth with his 30th homer

NEW YORK (AP) -Forget the allegations and controversy about the spitters and the greaseballs. Forget seven years ago, when they tried to make life difficult for him. The New York Yankees have a new message for Gaylord Perry: 'Welcome.'

Perry, the only pitcher in baseball history to win the Cy Young award in both leagues, was acquired by the Yankees from the Texas Rangers Wednesday night in exchange for minor league pitcher Ken Clay and a player to be named later.

"We are pleased to be able to acquire a pitcher with Gaylord's ability and experience," said Cedric Tallis, New York's executive vice president.

Manager Dick Howser echoed the message.

"You like the experience he has and I think his being in a race will help him and us." But the Yankees always weren't so happy to see Perry - or the stuff they claimed he put on a baseball. Back in June 1973, the Yankees installed a special closed-circuit camera at Yankee Stadium to monitor Perry's pitching and determine if he was using any foreign substance on the ball.

The camera didn't find anything but the Yankees were never satisfied Perry was pitching by the book that is until now.

"Having Gaylord as another right-handed starter will allow us to go back to our priginal plan of having an experienced left-hander (Rudy May) in the bullpen," said Yankees General Manager Gene Michael.

Hurler Preserves Win Over Boston

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

In a baseball age when saves are fairly easy to come by, Aurelio Lopez showed what relief pitching is really all about Wednesday night.

Detroit's portly bullpen ace said his confidence is sagging but no one would have believed him after he pitched out of bases-loaded jams in the eighth and ninth innings to preserve the Tigers' 2-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

"I'm looking for what I'm doing wrong," Lopez insisted after notching his 17th save. However, Tony Perez lined to "I feel good because I saved the game, but they've been so close."

Matt Bouza and Michael Buggs give the Bears a pair of fine, seasoned wide receivers, but there isn't much experience at running back. Fact is, there isn't much experience at a lot of positions. Freshmen and sophomores will make up about 75 percent of Coach Roger Theder's team.

Arizona and Arizona State both have new head coaches after going through a nightmarish year. At Arizona, Larry Smith replaced Tony Mason, who resigned former Michigan State Coach

Beyond that, however, there are mostly questions. Sophomores Tom Ramsey and Jay Schroeder will contend for the starting quarterback position. There's talent in other areas, but Coach Terry Donahue is concerned about depth. To have a good season, the Bruins have to stay healthy, something they weren't able to do last year.

Oregon, coached by Rich Brooks, was 6-5 in 1979, its best record since 1970, and might be even better this year. The Ducks have nine starters back on offense and eight on defense, including quarterback Reggie Ogburn, who has been ruled ineligible to play in the season-opener against Stanford.

With Ogburn in the lineup along with running backs Dwight Robertson and Vince Williams, the Ducks have an outstanding offensive backfield. The defense as excellent last year and figures to be good again.

Oregon State has a new coach. Joe Avezzano, who has a massive task at hand. The Beavers, 2-9 including a forfeit victory over Arizona State last season, don't have a great deal of talent.

Nine starters return on offense, including quarterback Scott Richardson and running back Darryl Minor, but the defense will be inexperinced with only two regulars returning. Actually, that might be a plus because the defense was easily the Pac-10's worst last year.

Washington State was 4-7 last year including a forfeit win over Arizona State. The Cougars figure as the only eligible team for the Rose Bowl which doesn't have a chance to get there.

Washington State has only one experienced player returning in the offensive backfield, running back Tim Harris, but the Cougars are well-stocked with veterans in the offensive line. The defense allowed some 33 points a game last year, but Coach Jim Walden brought in 11 junior college defenders and hopes for improvement in that area.

women mud wrestlers

Watching on a recent night were actor Falk and director Robert Aldrich, who are about to begin filming "All The Marbles," in which Falk plays a coach for lady wrestlers.

Asked if he might include mud wrestling in the movie, Falk said: "I'll wait 'til I get on the set to decide that."

On another night, comedian Kaufman, known for his portraval of Latka on the television series "Taxi," and who once took on a female wrestler on "Saturday Night Live," got in the mud

The night Falk was at Chippendale's, a wrestler known as Bronco Brandy shed her chaps and cowboy hat for a skimpy bathing suit to meet Magic Henderson, who came dressed as a Girl Scout.

It was the 19th match for the 105-pound Brandy, whose real name is Jean Alison. She said she is a professional stuntwoman and claimed to have lost only three mud bouts.

"Mud wrestling is bad for your hair because it dries it up and bad on your ears,' Ms. Alison said. "I got a skin infection in my ear. The doctor said it is a common infection for children who play in the mud a lot."

The pay is good — $40 a match - and the tips during the dance routine can total $40. But a good mud wrestler is hard to find.

"Finding and keeping mud wrestlers has been difficult," said club employee Renate Steiner. "But this was true of finding male strippers at the beginning ... The girls are unsure about it. About half the women we use are stuntwomen, aspriring actresses or dancers.

Boom Cheerleader, elsewhere known as actress-model Jeanette Lorentz, said she got the job through a modeling agency that supplies wrestlers who offer more beauty than brawn.

Ms. Lorentz, a strawberry blonde with thick long hair, spent the afternoon before her second match practicing with a club employee. She lost her first bout, and was determined to win her second.

"I thought it was fun, so I've decided to do it again,' she said.

She said her boyfriend was surprised by the muddy turn of her career. "He went back and forth and then said, 'Go out and get 'em," she said. "My mother told me I was disgracing the family... She was still yelling when I went out the door.

That night, 300 yelling men surrounded the ring. To the blaring theme from 'Rocky," the bout began. In seconds, the wrestlers were a gooey chocolate brown, barely resembling the women who danced minutes before.

Slipping and sliding, the women tried to flip or pin their opponent. But wrestling is not enough - there must also be mud slinging, water spitting and hair pulling. Even the bikinis get out of

After three 112-minute rounds, the crowd applauds to pick the winner, and wrestling talent has little or nothing - to do with vic-

Some men said they watched out of curiosity.

"I just heard about it and I had nothing better to do," said Michael Fahrenkurd, a 31 year-old lawyer in a threepiece suit. "I thought it was different and enjoyed it because it was unique. But I don't know if I would come back.

"It would get old fast," he added

Ron Guss, 30, said he would be back. "It made you laugh and get happy, although it was kind of a crowd pleaser," the trucking company owner

Electrical engineer Jim Hodges, 29, was more reserved: "As a tourist type thing it" was OK, but I wouldn't come on a regular basis. It's too ex-

He 'Smokes' at Smoke

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN Associated Press Writer

NORWOOD, Mass. (AP) -A 62-year-old school committee member who has lost most of his lungs to emphysema is threatening to quit because colleagues refuse to stop their puffing and he doesn't think he can survive another smoke-filled

"I don't want to resign," said Charles C. Saraca, a retired shoe salesman and a committee member since 1966 who said he has lost 60 percent of his lungs. "But I prefer to keep my life as opposed to a seat on the school committee."

Four smokers on the sevenmember unpaid committee have rejected a smoking ban.

Rudith Berkowitz, one of those who last month voted against prohibiting smoking by members, admits she is a heavy smoker, and said, "I don't think I could get through a meeting with those clowns without a cigarette.

"It's a disgusting habit, and I admit it. But it's my

Saraca said he would attend tonight's meeting with a portable fan to blow back the smoke in the classroom-size

meeting room in the Willet

"If I start to cough, I'll be in trouble," he said. "I don't want to leave this planet."

"I am very sympathetic to Charley's problem," said Mrs. Berkowitz. "I would like to stop smoking, but I couldn't. Personally, I would like to look into some method of removing the smoke. After the summer, we don't use the air conditioning, and the windows can be opened.

"It's a lot easier than asking us to leave the room to smoke. We're likely to lose a quorum.'

Saraca is not unsympathetic.

"I can appreciate their not wanting to give up smoking," he said, describing himself as a pack-a-day man for 35 years until he gave up the habit six years ago. "There's lot's of pressure on the committee, what with school closings, taxes. I'm not resentful. I'm sympathetic. I feel sorry for those who can't stop smoking."

Nevertheless, tonight he'll move with his fan from his usual seat beside Mrs. Berkowitz to the side of the committee table occupied by non-smokers, he said.

Meanwhile, Chairman William F. Pudsey, a nonsmoker, has decided that from tonight on, he will prohibit smoking by members of the public at the meetings.

"I have no choice," Pudsey said. "I walk out of there with burning eyes."

And Saraca said he might run for a seat on the board of selectmen when his threeyear term ends in April.

'They've banned smoking at their meetings," he said. 'I'll get the non-smoking

DEAR READER - That's becoming a very common-place operation. It's impor-Wayne Huff Piano Service. tant to know what causes impotence before deciding what to do about treating it. Impotence is rather common and it's a symptom, not a diagnosis. It's true that diabetes can affect the nerve endings that control the blood flow to the penis. This can cause the diabetic to become impotent even though he may have completely normal sex drive otherwise. The problem is that there are many people who are diabetic and also many who are impotent. The fact that a person is diabetic doesn't necessarily mean that diabetes is the cause. A person can have impotence from some other problem, including psychological factors, and still be a diabetic. If your husband is evaluat-ed adequately and it is found that his impotence is a complication of his diabetes, he can be treated as you suggested. There are basically two such operations available. In the method that you two hollow cylinders are inserted into the shaft of the penis. These are connected to is also a little pump as part of the apparatus. This device has New York, NY 10019. a switch inside the scrotum to activate the pump. By pushing the switch, fluid is pumped from the reservoir into the cylinders causing the penis to erect just the same as if blood had poured into the penis to induce erection. By manipulating the control mechanism within the scrotum, the fluid can be pumped back out of the penis and into the reservoir behind the pubic bone. The entire system is self-contained and there's nothing you see on the outside. Another method is simply to insert flexible silicone rods into the penis. These usually do not produce the same degree of erection and, of course, the penis is always in that same semi-erect state since you don't have the option of taking the silicone rods out at will.

The person to see about such procedures is the urologist. He should be up to date on this important common problem. Not all urologists do these new operations but a large number across the country do.

To give you a better understanding of the numerous causes for impotence, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 3-12, Impotence. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed

DEAR READER - Cirrhosis of the liver really refers to destruction and damage of the cells in the liver itself. Often the liver cells are replaced with a form of scar tissue. In some stages of cirrhosis the liver is enlarged. In advanced states, the scarring of the liver and the contractions of the scars may cause the liver to become hard and small Just as you can have many different forms of injury that cause a scar on your skin, you can have a lot of different forms of injury to liver cells that induce scarring. Perhaps the most common one in our society is the excessive use of alcohol causing alcoholic cirrhosis. You may be surprised to know that cirrhosis of the liver is the fourth most common cause of deaths in American men between the ages of 35 and 54. And it's the fifth most common cause in women in the same age group. About 60 percent of these cases are caused by excessive use of

Now some people develop cirrhosis of the liver even if they've never had a drop of alcohol in their entire life. This can be a complication of hepatitis or it can occur because the little bile ducts become inflamed or as a complication of obstruction of the bile duct system for any reason. It can even occur in right heart failure that causes an accumulation of fluid in the abdomen and swelling of the liver. The treatment isn't always the same; it makes some difference what the

College Is Important for High School Graduates

NEW YORK (AP) - Colleges. Colleges. There are more than 3,000 two- and fouryear colleges, not to mention hundreds of vocational and technical schools.

college-bound high school students and their parents turn their thoughts to college admission. Sometimes refer- people think. red to as the great sorting process, college choice and college admission involves countless little and big decisions on the part of students and colleges, all aimed at making a good match bet-educational programs and resources.

According to a major survey of college admissions officers conducted by the American Association of Col-Each fall millions of legiate Registrars and Admissions Officers and the College Board, college may be easier to get into than many

The survey showed, for example, that public two-year colleges reported accepting as freshmen approximately 91 percent of those who applied. Even private four-year colleges, which most people ween the student's interests think of as being very selecand abilities and a college's tive, accepted more than 77 percent of applicants. Public four-year colleges and private two-year colleges accepted 79 percent and 86 percent, respectively.

The state of the s

"The public perception that most colleges accept only a small percentage of people who apply is simply not true," says James Nelson, College Board vice president for student assistance services. "The problem may be that the public mostly hears about only a few very select, prestigious colleges. In fact, the vast majority of colleges four-year and two-year, public and private - are not that hard to get into."

While there's probably a place for everyone who wants to go to college these days. finding the right college takes time, careful planning, and good decision-making.

First, students should decide why they are going, what interests and needs they have, and what they want to get out of college. Preparation for a career? An opportunity to meet new people from different backgrounds? A chance to live in a different part of the country, in a city, in a rural area? An opportunity to participate in the after productions? Large classes? Individualized instruction? A diversified education in the liberal arts?

Second, they should seek information about various colleges. "The College Handbook, 1980-81," for example, lists more than 2,500 colleges and includes information about size, location, curriculum, admissions requirements, student life, financial aid, and much more. A companion book, "The Index of Majors, 1980-81." can help students locate colleges in each state that offer programs in 384 fields.

Students should keep their options open. When they take the Scholastic Aptitude Test they should elect to participate in the Student Search Service of the College Board so they can receive information from colleges they might not hear from otherwise.

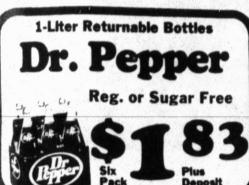

And, they should consult high school counselors, alumni from the colleges they are considering, friends and parents; attend college nights and college fairs where they can talk to representatives of various colleges; and write for college catalogs.

Third, students should think seriously about their chances of getting in and succeeding at a partiuclar college. One of the most important considerations for college admissions officers is whether or not a student will be able to make it through academically.

In admissions information, colleges often report on grade point averages, class ranks or test scores of the previous year's entering class. Prospective students can use this data to measure their qualifications against those of students usually admitted.

In the long run, choosing and getting into college is a two-way street, with students and colleges sharing in the decision-making. Some resources that can help students make informed decisions are listed below:

"The College Handbook, 1980-81" (No. 001281) and "Index of Majors, 1980-81" (No. 001303) are available separately or in combination. The Handbook alone is $11.50: the Index is $9.50. Together they cost $15 (specify No. 239478). Send check or money order to College board Publication orders. Department C-92, Box 2815, Princeton, N.J. 08541.
