

Herd Hopes to 'Spook' CHS in Crucial Clash

By MAURI MONTGOMERY
Brand Sports Editor

Two victories, spanning over the past decade, are the only measurable amounts of success Lubbock Coronado has been able to achieve over the Hereford Whitefaces.

But on this, the eve of one of the most talked about district 4-5A showdowns, the unbeaten (7-0) and 7th ranked Mustangs harbor ideas of ending the thriving HHS squad's long standing tyranny on the grid field.

The feat will be easier said than done however, considering both squads have everything to gain and a lot everything to lose in the crucial league battle on tap for 7:30 p.m. here Friday in Whiteface Stadium.

Hereford (now 1-1 in league play following an advantageous 15-14 come-from-behind victory over Monterey last week) faces a virtual door-die situation in respect to its clinging bid for conference championship honors. A win would assure the club of at least a tie for the crown while defeat can only mean a plummet out of the scope of contention.

Coronado on the other hand, could afford to lose the contest and still retain hopes for a championship - that providing it could come back two straight weeks in a row and defeat tough Monterey and Plainview squads. A victory would maintain the team's unbeaten status going into play against Plainview next week (the Bulldogs are the only other team currently totting an unblemished district ledger).

In layman's terms, tomorrow night's two district slugfests (Hereford vs. Coronado and Monterey vs. Plainview) will be key hinges in the final outcome of district play.

And according to head coaches Don Cumpton and Jack Quarles, their particular tilt isn't going to be any easy affair - both clubs will have to kick and scratch their way into a win.

"We really don't know what to expect from Hereford to tell you the truth," said CHS mentor Jack Quarles. "We've looked at a lot of film on the Whitefaces and they've showed they're capable of beating you with any facet of their game."

"One thing they have in their favor is the ability to win the close games which they've shown they can do on several occasions and I think that's due in part to the outstanding leadership provided by quarterback Alan Wartes and a few others," he said.

"We've been very impressed with him (Wartes) and also Hereford's three tailbacks. I understand that two of them Harold Terry and Wayne High were hurt against Monterey, but they surprised us by bringing in another one in Jeff Coupe. He certainly came through for them against the Plainsmen," he added.

"Basically though, Hereford's strength lies in its ability to win the big games," he said. "They've looked real good in that aspect this whole year with the exception of Plainview - and after that one they never looked back and beat Monterey. They're going to be tough for us."

But what Quarles wasn't talking about was his own gladiator crew - a veteran team that leads the district in both total offense and total defense on the year.

Under the direction of senior signal-caller Alan Harp and a backfield that has seen as many as eight rushers play in one game on more than one occasion, the Mustangs have compiled 1,630 yards on the ground and another 656 in the air for a total of 2,286 and a 326.6 average per outing on the season.

In the defensive alignment, Coronado looks just as awesome after allowing opponents to romp only 290 yards on the rush and 467 yards off the air attack for a tally of 758 over a seven game period. That averages out to just over 100 yards per contest. Perhaps even more enlightening to the squad's crunch appeal is its array of only 55 points given up in play to date.

The Whitefaces, in contrast, have accumulated 2,188 total yards on offense (following close behind CHS in the rushing category with 1,607, and even closer in the passing range with 612 on the year) for a 273.5 average in each tilt.

The Legend of 'Hereford Hollow'

What's that you thought you saw, riding on the night wind, illuminated by the eerie glow of the October moon? Was it your imagination, or was there really a headless rider atop that white steed as sparks seemed to fly from its pounding hooves? Was it really hoofbeats, or the hammering of your heart as the apparition came closer, closer, closer? Beware. Legend has it that a ghostly rider pounds the prairies of Deaf Smith County on moonlit nights when the witching season is at hand...It's Halloween, and those plying the darkness alone must be wary of things that go bump in the night. (Brand photo by Mauri Montgomery)

Wreck Injures Amarillo Man

A 71-year-old Amarillo man remained in stable condition at Deaf Smith General Hospital this morning after suffering head and facial lacerations in a grinding collision involving three vehicles at the intersection of Highway 385 and Highway 60 Wednesday afternoon.

William McReynolds, 71, of Amarillo was admitted to the local hospital following the accident.

According to investigating police officers, McReynolds was eastbound on Highway 60 in a 1967 Ford pickup when he was involved in a collision with a ready-mix cement truck driven by James Hervey of Amarillo.

The Cement truck was southbound on Highway 385 and after McReynolds' pickup and the truck collided in the intersection, the cement truck crossed the median at the south side of the intersection and veered into the northbound traffic lanes of Highway 385, menacing traffic stopped in that lane for a traffic light.

The truck collided with a northbound 1979 Pontiac Bonneville driven by Scott Armstrong, 22, of Odessa, and the impact of the collision spun the car around and left it pointed southward. The truck also narrowly missed a second car.

Still rolling, the concrete truck knocked over a roadside sign and came to a halt on the parking lot of the Hoerner Waldorf Corporation, situated southeast of the initial point of impact at the highway intersection.

McReynolds was the only individual to suffer injuries in the collision.

Crossroads Crash

A grinding collision at the intersection of Highway 385 and Highway 60 Wednesday afternoon resulted in injuries to William McReynolds, 71, of Amarillo. McReynolds' smashed 1967 Ford pickup is shown in the top photo after it was involved in a collision with a ready-mix concrete truck driven by James Hervey, also of Amarillo. The pickup was eastbound on Highway 60 and the cement truck was southbound on Highway 385 when the collision occurred. The truck then swerved into the northbound lane of 385 and struck a Pontiac driven by Scott Armstrong of Odessa, spinning the car around. In bottom photo, Hereford volunteer firemen are shown wheeling McReynolds to a waiting ambulance. He was listed in stable condition at Deaf Smith General Hospital this morning. ## Absentee Voting Ending Tomorrow (Friday) marks the final day for absentee voting for the upcoming Nov. 4 presidential election in Deaf Smith County.

Voting hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the county clerk's office on the second floor of the courthouse.

Prospective absentee voters are reminded to bring their white voter registration card to the county clerk's office.

Absentee balloting has moved at a brisk pace in the county this year, and had already surpassed the old record of 306 absentee ballots cast by Tuesday.

The number of absentee ballots cast here is usually a good indication of what type of voter turnout can be expected on election day, and with strong participation in the absentee voting, a large voter turnout is projected for next Tuesday.

Investigations Continuing In Rape, Burglary Cases

Hereford police are continuing their investigation of a rape case and a major burglary, both of which occurred earlier this week.

Officers have a suspect and are continuing their investigation of the alleged rape of a 20-year-old woman which reportedly occurred on North Lee Street Tuesday about 11:30 p.m.

According to a police spokesman, an intruder reportedly forced his way in the back door of the woman's home prior to the assault.

Losses from a burglary which occurred in downtown Hereford Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning have reached staggering proportions, and police are seeking a suspect in the major theft.

Thieves pried open a steel door at the back of Stairway to Fashion at 407 North Main in order to gain entry and subsequently made off with virtually the entire stock of holiday dresses at the store, in addition to jeans and tops, hosiery and a stock of new jewelry including diamond necklaces.

A spokeswoman for the store reported that only two dresses were left on the store's racks and that a shipment of newly-arrived burgundy velvet dresses for the holiday season was cleaned out.

The spokeswoman reported that total losses in the theft now total $13,152, and to add to the blow from the theft, the loss was not covered by insurance.

The same thieves who struck at the Stairway to Fashion may also have been responsible for an attempted burglary at the C.R. Anthony store at 303 North Main.

That attempted break-in also reportedly occurred late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning and the same method of entry was attempted at that store.

The culprits were foiled in their entry attempt at that location, however, due to the presence of a steel bar which did not give under the prying efforts of the would-be thieves.

Boycott Stalls Hostage Debate

By The Associated Press

About one-third of Iran's parliamentary deputies defied the nation's sternest judge and boycotted the public debate on the American hostages planned for today to protest any move to release the captives before the Nov. 4 U.S. presidential election. The lack of a quorum forced postponement of the session until Sunday.

The deputies who boycotted today's session stood outside the assembly hall as Ayatollah Sadegh Khalkhali, Iran's chief Islamic judge who has sent scores before firing squads and is known as a hardliner on the hostage issue, took over the rostrum and pleaded for a quorum so the open debate could begin.

Saying he was "no friend of the United States or Jimmy Carter," Khalkhali said that regardless of the effect of the hostage issue on the presidential election, it was a problem the assembly was obliged to tackle, a Danish radio correspondent in Tehran reported in a telephone hookup to Copenhagen.

"A minority does not decide issues in this Parliament as it did under the shah," Khalkhali was quoted as saying in a reference to the dozens of deputies milling around in the lobby outside.

Although Tehran Radio broadcast an appeal urging all 228 deputies to attend the session, only about two-thirds showed up. After waiting an hour, parliamentary speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani dismissed those gathered in the assembly hall.

The boycott was organized by about 70 deputies and was joined by a second smaller faction which opposes releasing the Americans on general principle, a source close to the debate told a Western reporter in Tehran. Some deputies have called for hostage trials and pledged to drag out the debate as long as possible.

The source said the boycotters wanted to stay clear of the U.S. election to avoid any

Iraqis Mopping Up in Abadan

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq said today its forces were mopping up Iranian resistance on the Khorramshahr-Abadan highway and on the eastern approaches of Abadan to set the stage for a final onslaught to take the city of 350,000 inhabitants which houses one of the world's largest oil refineries.

The Tehran command also claimed squads of Abadan defenders mounted overnight hit-and-run raids on Iraqi forces on the highway from Abadan to Mashahr, 50 miles to the east-northeast, destroying tanks, armored personnel carriers and fuel tankers. The Iraqis cut the highway last week after skirting Khorramshahr and beginning a gradual encirclement of Abadan, which once supplied Iran with 60 percent of its domestic oil.

The Tehran Radio broadcast said Iraqi MiGs also tried to attack Bushehr, Iran's main naval base in the Persian Gulf 200 miles southeast of Abadan, early today, but were driven off by anti-aircraft fire. It said one MiG was downed.

Nixon Testifies On FBI Acts

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the same building where the legal battles over Watergate were fought, Richard M. Nixon walked into a federal courtroom and waved from the witness chair to a startled jury.

In dramatic testimony Wednesday at the trial of two former FBI officials, the former president said the FBI's director had authority to approve warrantless break-ins in foreign intelligence cases at the height of terrorist activity in the early 1970s.

Nixon's appearance in U.S. District Court evoked a sense of deja vu: The man who had been driven from the White House by a scandal stemming from a break-in in court six years later to testify about other break-ins ordered during his administration in the interest of national security.

"How are you employed?" Nields asked. "Retired," Nixon replied. The former president's 45-minute testimony focused on the FBI director's authority to order warrantless searches and White House efforts to combat terrorism and the dissent swirling through the country during the Vietnam War.

The two former FBI officials on trial are W. Mark Felt, once the bureau's No. 2 man, and Edward S. Miller, former head of the domestic intelligence division. They are accused of violating individual civil rights by authorizing warrantless break-ins at the homes of friends and relatives of radical Weather Underground fugitives. If convicted, they face up to 10 years in prison and $10,000 fines.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

How can the voters of our nation support President Carter for re-election when he helps build and support our enemies by giving them our tax dollars?

Mr. Carter has vigorously pushed a $75 million aid package to the Sandinista government in Nicaragua. The Sandinistas are clearly Marxist and have close ties with Fidel Castro.

Mr. Carter will not get my vote. My vote will go to Ronald Reagan!

Most cordially, Mrs. May Boatman

Paul Harvey News The Political Prostitutes

Political campaigning is unbecoming. I'd recommend some more dignified system except that I can't think of one.

It's demeaning, degrading and disgusting to see a president of the United States grovel at the feet of fractions.

In the days when political campaigns were conducted from the back platform of a railroad train it was possible for candidates to promise higher farm prices in Kansas and lower food prices in Kansas City and not get caught.

Today's instant worldwide communication should shame these fellows into being consistent — but it hasn't.

President Carter in the coal country of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois drew cheers with his promise to "replace Arab oil with Pennsylvania (or Ohio or Illinois) coal."

Miners might have asked, "Why hasn't he?" But they just cheered.

Reagan went before audiences of elderly in California asserting his enthusiasm

Why voters are still hungry

LINCOLN, Ill. (NEA) - At first glance, the recent visit of Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan to this central Illinois farming community was a storybook version of modern political campaigning at its best.

With only the slightest hint of autumn crispness evident on a sparkling Indian-summer afternoon, hundreds of local residents filled the street in front of the picturesque Logan County courthouse to greet, cheer and hear the candidate.

Reagan responded with a speech that offered his vision of a better life for all Americans under a Republican administration, including reduced unemployment, restrained inflation and renewed commitment to a strong military.

But behind the superficial appearance of grass-roots democracy in action in America's heartland lies a disturbing development: the emergence of the antiseptic presidential campaign almost totally devoid of either substance or spontaneity.

That phenomenon can be attributed in great measure to the fact that technicians have increasingly dominated the process in recent years. But both Reagan and President Carter, his Democratic opponent, have unnecessarily encouraged that trend.

Thus, it's hardly surprising that strategists in both campaigns are frustrated by their inability to convey a compelling message to the electorate or to shake the misconceptions they claim the voters hold about their candidates.

In addition, much of the failure to establish rapport with those voters is the product of a campaign entourage that has become so massive and unwieldy that it precludes virtually all personal contact between the candidate and those whose support he is seeking.

During Reagan's day-long bus tour through central Illinois, for example, the press contingent alone exceeded 125 persons, while the number of Secret Service agents and campaign aides was even larger.

Also on the tour were scores of people required to provide support services — caterers to feed the traveling army, drivers for seven buses, communications specialists to oversee temporary telephone installations, state and local police officers on escort duty and ambulance attendants to provide emergency medical assistance.

While moving a presidential candidate around the country has become a logistical nightmare, the size and complexity of the operation also means that voters usually can't even shake hands with the candidate unless he decides to "work the fence" — that is, briefly greet onlookers behind barricades.

That example of the insiders' jargon of presidential campaigning offers a clue to the depersonalized nature of the operation. Other examples: A single event is known as a "hit," while a "grip-and-grin" stop is one where the candidate merely shakes hands and smiles without making a speech.

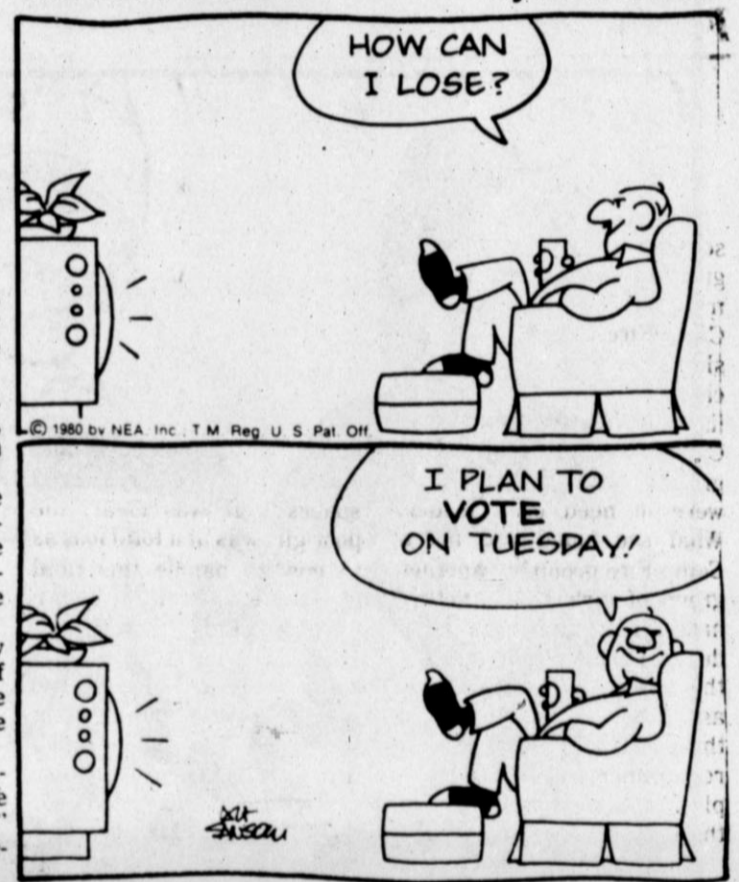

When the candidate does speak, his remarks should be one element of the visit to a community that provides a link with the voters. But the sterilized, standardized and sanitized addresses offered by both Reagan and Carter hardly satisfy the voters' needs for specific and detailed information.

During his visit here, for instance, Reagan devoted less than two minutes to responding to Carter's allegations that the GOP challenger was a trigger-happy politician who might lead the country into an unwanted war.

After offering a snappy one-liner — "my opponent would have you believe that instead of campaigning I've been out starting nuclear wars" — Reagan provided only a summary pledge to "preserve world peace" while strengthening the country's defense capability.

Camp Fire Girl Puts Training to Work

By SUSAN OWENS
Cynthia E. was a college sophomore. While she was growing up, Cynthia was a member of the Hereford Camp Fire Council. Although she was busy with her campers and intercollegiate life, she missed Camp Fire. Cynthia decided to look for a group of Camp Fire girls who were in need of a leader. What she found was not a Camp Fire group but another group of girls from another national organization. She decided to take them. During the year, Cynthia and her assistant leader diligently led this group of girls through all requirements needed to complete their rank by the end of the year.

Cynthia was the only one of these girls, who had been a member of Camp Fire, and naturally she had to withstand a certain amount of teasing and ridicule from the group. Sometimes, it was difficult when the teasing became too vicious, but Cynthia endured it. She did enjoy the girls and knew they meant no real harm.

As the year was nearing its close, the final requirement to complete rank was an overnight camping trip. The younger girls became very apprehensive. And Cynthia's assistant almost panicked. "Cynthia, what are we going to do? I've never been camping! I don't know anything about it! What do you know about cooking outdoors and sleeping in the wide open spaces?" It was clear, the poor girl was at a total loss as to how to handle this final challenge. "Well," began Cynthia calmly, "First of all, I can plan an overnight trip. I know how to figure the amount of food, how to plan our meals. I can build an open fire - I can even show you how to cook a pizza or peach cobbler - outside! I know what equipment we will need and how to show the girls how to put up their tents. Don't worry, I can handle it." "You know all that?" "Yes," replied Cynthia softly as her smile covered her entire face. "I'm a Camp Fire girl, remember?"

Cynthia is typical of a young person having grown up in Camp Fire. She is self-reliant; she is able to cope with almost any situation.

She is quite capable of being responsible for herself and for others. She has very definite leadership abilities. She is proud of herself and of Camp Fire.

Every year, we offer hundreds of boys and girls the same opportunity to become self directed individuals. We teach them pride and self-worth. Camp Fire helps these youngsters be valuable citizens and productive civil leaders. They learned to take adult responsibilities seriously and to willingly be able to accept changes and challenges. But we also teach these boys and girls to have fun that in our fast-paced, jet aged world, we must take time to enjoy the world around us, to stop and smell the roses.

Ann Landers To Cover and Enhance

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I have gotten alone fine for almost 50 years. We now are engaged in a continuing argument and want a third party's opinion.

I want my Mary to wear sleeves, at least to her elbows. She refuses. Mary has been a golfer all her life, and her arms used to be in great shape. These last two years she hasn't been well, and her upper arms have become awfully flabby. I hate to see that flesh swinging back and forth.

I think the world of my wife. Her face is beautiful. It hurts me for people to see a part of her that is so unattractive. Isn't that what clothes are for? To cover and enhance?

Ann, if it were a limp or a second chin I wouldn't say a word, but those ugly upper arms really get to me. We have agreed to abide by your decision.—Jim And Mary In Flint

DEAR JIM — since you are the one who wrote: I agree that flabby upper arms are unappetizing, to say the least, and if (I) were Mary I would certainly wear sleeves. But I'm not Mary. Mary is Mary. And if she doesn't want to wear sleeves, you shouldn't keep pestering her. Maybe you have made such an issue of it that Mary is defying you to assert her independence. Get off her case and see what happens.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Today my mother, out of the blue, said to me, "Where would you rather live if both your father and I should die at the same time?" She then named some aunts and uncles and close friends.

I am only 13 years old, and that question upset me a lot. The first thing that came to my mind was maybe they both have some terrible disease. Then I thought they might be planning to get a divorce.

Later that night, Mom and Dad sat and read a thick stack of papers. It looked like it could be a will. I am scared out of my wits that something is wrong. What should I do?—Needing Help In St. Joe, Mich.

DEAR NEEDING: Uncertainty can be frightening, especially to a 13-year-old. I believe you should be told what is going on. Take this column to your mother and tell her this letter is yours. Ask her to please talk to you about it. Sometimes parents, who try to protect their children, do them an injustice.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was burned up by the letter from the person who wrote to lambast pet owners for spending so much money on dog food, collars, grooming and so on. Then another nitwit wrote the next day to raise Cain about the pet ambulance service out in California.

Why do these people always go off into the wild blue yonder about the starving children in Uganda and Cambodia? What have they got to do with anything?

I wonder how many of those grippers saw the study by medical students at the Universities of Maryland and Pennsylvania. Researchers found that the percentage of heart attack victims who lived were much higher among those who have pets.

They concluded that pets offer older people not only an important focus of pleasurable daily activity, but they also serve as clocks by providing a source of order and responsibility for individuals who are no longer working or have no scheduled activity.

I grew up with dogs, cats, a monkey, rabbits, a skunk and a raccoon. I can't imagine life without pets.—Happy Childhood Memories In San Mateo, Cal.

DEAR H.C.: You and about 500 others who wrote! Thanks to all of you.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Tie a Yellow Ribbon...

Three residents of Brown Hall, a women's residence hall at West Texas State University, tie yellow ribbons on trees and shrubbery around the hall. The three students, all of Hereford, are, from left, Syndy Moore, a sophomore speech and hearing therapy major and daughter of Nancy Moore; Jana Grimsley, sophomore pre-medicine major and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Grimsley; and Tammy Fischbacher, junior majoring in computer information systems and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Fischbacher. Residents tied 150 ribbons, representing each of the residents, in remembrance of the Americans who remain in captivity in Iran. (WTSU Photo)

Yellow Ribbons Adorn Trees In Remembrance of Hostages

WTSU—Panhandle breezes are fluttering yellow ribbons which adorn each tree, bush and shrub at West Texas State University's Brown Hall in remembrance of the Americans who have been held captive in Iran for almost one year.

Residents of Brown Hall, a women's residence hall located on the south edge of campus, have tied 150 yellow ribbons, one for each resident, on the trees and shrubbery around the hall and in the courtyard.

"We plan to leave them out until the hostages are released," said Esther Jackson, a graduate student from Lubbock and director of Brown Hall. "They're a symbol for more people to think about it (the captivity of the Americans in Iran)."

WTSU students also are remembering the hostages by wearing different stickers each week leading to Nov. 4, the one-year observance of the taking of the more than 50 Americans who remain in Iran.

More than 4,000 of each of four sticker designs have been printed and will be distributed on campus by members of the Student Activities Council.

A noon service has been scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 5, in the outdoor amphitheatre area near Northern Hall.

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

You can't open the newspaper or a magazine these days without a story on writers who write from their homes for fun and profit...not necessarily in that order.

The last headline to come over my desk was depressing. It said, "HOUSEWIFE HASN'T THE TIME TO DEAL WITH WRITER'S BLOCK!"

It went on to tell about this woman whose magic fingers fairly flew across the typewriter keys eight hours a day, turning out one literary success after another.

Well, Bunkie, I've got the time for writer's block and when I don't have time, I make it!

For those of you who are not familiar with the term "writer's block," allow me to explain. It's a fancy term used by writers to describe a condition when they can't write. It's when your fingers show up for work and your mind is still out to lunch. When your mind shows up, it isn't ready to settle down. You find yourself:

1. Timing a bug to see how long it takes to get from the baseboard to the ceiling.
2. Reading the washing instructions label in your blouse and committing it to memory.
3. Hearing a phone ring in the house next door or in the next apartment and yelling, "I'll get it."
4. Picking up a waste can with your knees and calling your mother to tell her you've just discovered a way to tighten stomach muscles.
5. Cleaning the soap out of your wedding ring with a paper clip.
6. Examining the back of your knees for new broken veins.
7. Going through the Rolodex and trying to estimate the number of Christmas cards you'll need.
8. Indulging yourself by centering "GONE WITH THE WIND" on a title page and putting your own name under it.

I was on a panel of writers once of women who wrote from their homes and the women next to me said her "well had never run dry." I felt like I was in the presence of a supreme being.

Had she never come back from a vacation, looked at the typewriter and couldn't remember how to insert the paper? Had she never bargained with God to tithe 10 percent for the rest of her life for just one coherent sentence? Had she never opened a window and shouted to no one in particular, "I don't need this job! My face is my fortune!"

I picked up the article and looked at the picture of the housewife again. I should have known better than to trust a woman who smiled as she wrote.

America Revolutionizing Its Customs

The revolution is on! Once a nation that doted on apple pie and hot dogs, America is revolutionizing its culinary customs as more and more Americans are cultivating their taste buds with such exotic delicacies as truffle-studded terrines and country pate.

The beginning of what is now the fastest growing segment of the food industry—specialty foods—dates back to first generation American immigrants peddling native foods out of their wagons and small shops. Out of the rear doors of these ethnic delicatessens and specialty food shops, came the fancy food industry as we know it today.

This small group of pioneers was dedicated to the huge task of introducing imported and exotic foods and confections to the American masses. Usually assisted by family members, these entrepreneurs toiled long hours peddling what were then specialty foods, such as European cheeses, sardines, foreign biscuits and jams, escargot and toffees into the homes of upper-class America.

Once these products found their way onto kitchen tables, the industry was on its way. In the early twenties, right after World War I, the U.S. began growing up and out—and the specialty food trade was right on the bandwagon. More and more foreigners brought their food and customs to the great melting pot of America, causing ethnic area to become dotted with native restaurants and grocery stores.

As the melting process continued, the best of each culture was embraced by the masses. Through travel, motion pictures, the media, education, and the quest for a better life and quality eating, America found that the palate recognizes no skin color or ethnic boundaries.

The last 20 years have, of course, been the cradle of this profound gastronomic revolution. Who could have divined 20 years ago that today the likes of sukiyaki and beef Wellington would become common coinage in cookbooks and in the kitchen of American households? Or that recipes for such dishes as "Crepes au Gruyere" and "Cordon Bleu" would find their way to the national news wire services?

Quiches with a multitude of flavors have become a national plague. Chicken Kiev? Souffles? Omelets? But, of course! And consider the proliferation of pot and pan shops.

Hundreds of new foods are introduced each year to a nation which seems to have fallen in love with specialty foods. Specialty foods consumption is up 20 percent per year for the last five years—and this increase has taken place at a time when a quarter of our country's $215 billion food budget is allocated to instant meals and restaurant meals.

How else can we account for truffles at $80 an ounce being a sell-out in Manhattan, or honey from 45 countries being standard stock in a Seattle store?

In Boston, Quincy's Market, a 550 foot long hall of fancy food stalls, proved to be an investor's dream...an overnight success.

How else can we account for the meteoric rise of the specialty food market? In Macy's Herald Square, ladies

LOVE...THE HIGHEST LAW

If you love your neighbor as much as you love yourself you will not want to harm or cheat him, or kill him or steal from him. And you won't sin from his wife or want what is his, or do anything else the Ten Commandments say is wrong. All ten are wrapped up in this one, to love your neighbor as you love yourself.

Love does no wrong to anyone. That's why it fully satisfies all of God's requirements. It is the only law you need.

Another reason for right living is this: you know how late it is; time is running out. Wake up, for the coming of the Lord is nearer now than when we first believed.

The night is far gone, the day of His return will soon be here. So quit the evil deeds of darkness and put on the armor of right living, as we who live in the daylight should! Be decent and true in everything you do so that all can approve your behavior. Don't spend your time in wild parties and getting drunk or in adultery and lust, or fighting, or jealousy.

But ask the Lord Jesus Christ to help you live as you should, and don't make plans to enjoy evil.

Jimmy the Greek, Musburger Stage CBS Slugfest

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Lots of co-workers get hot under their blue or white collars and take pokes at one another. It happens all the time. But when Jimmy the Greek and Brent Musburger try to bounce each other off the saloon wall, the vibrations can be heard all over CBS.

In this era of gossipy journalism, The Greek taking a punch at his "NFL Today" anchorman makes for a splashy headline and it will certainly bolster CBS' ratings Sunday when the curious tune in for a possible rematch.

And of course, no such thing will happen on the air. TV personalities may have varying degrees of the journalist in them, but underneath it all, they are entertainers, troopers if you will. The show must go on Sunday, and it will. The public rarely knows what's happening under the make-up and TV lights.

We can expect Musburger and the Greek to make light of their fight, which happened last Sunday night at a midtown New York bar.

"When you're involved in a fight with America's odd-smaker, it's rather depressing because you realize there's no way you're gonna be the favorite," Musburger said Wednesday from his home in Los Angeles. "The punch landed, but it certainly was nothing. I don't feel it today."

The Greek said words that shouldn't have been said prompted him to lose his temper. After the one punch, the fight was broken up by Musburger's brother, Todd. The two combatants then went outside and made peace. "I was sorry, both of us were sorry. It was an unfortunate thing," The Greek said Wednesday from his

New York office. He said the last time he was in a fistfight was in 1957.

But the underlying cause for the fight, why a 61-year-old man would try to sack a 39-year-old colleague, won't go away so easily. It involves "playing time," the amount of exposure the on-air personalities are getting on the tightly formatted "NFL Today."

"You just don't want to be forgotten about. I spend a lot of time and money putting my end of the show together and I have a lot to say. I would like to say it," the Greek said.

BIG RUSH - Defensive end Aubrey Richburg (50) and linebacker Ken Cosper (53) do all they can to thwart Monterey punter Jeff Cooper's successful boot during last week's district showdown between the to hated opponents. Efforts such as this one didn't go for nought as the Whitefaces wheeled their way to last minute 15-14 victory over the Plainsmen. The Herd will attempt to do the very same thing against 7th ranked and undefeated Lubbock Coronado at 7:30 p.m. here Friday night in continuing league play. (Brand photo by Mauri Montgomery)

Herd Meets Top-Ranked CHS

has permitted 92 points to be drawn up on the opponents side of the board for an 11.5 average each game. In addition, the squad has yielded 1,017 yards on the ground and 518 in the pass defense for a total supplement of 1,535.

The Herd has posted some leading statistics in other categories however, falling in the passing and kicking games.

Alan Wartes is still maintaining his berth as the conference's leading thrower ahead of Coronado's Brian Brock after completing 41-99 attempts for 582 yards. That total averages out to 14.2 yards and a 41.4 percent success rate on the year.

Don Delozier takes rank as the leading punter in the district competition after booting the pigskin for an average of 36.8 off 26 shots and a total of 957 yards. Delozier also rates top-billing in the reception department after pulling down 16 passes for 209 yards.

Other HHS individuals riding high in the league standings heading into the clash include: tailback Harold Terry's third highest rushing mark of 570 yards, linebacker Gary Parman's second leading mark in fumble recoveries with a tally of two plus a sum of 88 tackles as the leading defender, and free safety Norman Hill's third highest mark in pass interceptions on 38 steals.

But all the statics in the world make little difference to Hereford's head mentor Cumpton. He didn't care what CHS or the Whitefaces look like on paper as long as his squad keeps its championship hopes alive.

"This game is just like a playoff bout for us," said Cumpton of the upcoming league thriller. "We can't afford to lose any more games and remain in contention for the crown. But our kids have been under the gun for two straight weeks now - they came through last week - and I believe they're going to do it again Friday."

"The key for us is to be able to move the ball on Coronado which is something no other team has been able to do with any degree of success. They've undoubtedly got the best personnel of anybody we've seen up to date and the mere fact they're ranked in the top ten attests to that. We'll have to have supreme effort in order to get the better of them."

"The thing that has really impressed us about the Mustangs is their depth and the team's defensive play," he said. "They play a whole slew of people and all of them do a good job. On defense they run a pro-style alignment and make few mistakes."

On a more individual basis, Cumpton lauded CHS' Harp and the league's No. 2 receiver John Lord as a key Mustang combination that Hereford will have to stop.

"Harp is probably the best all-around athlete Coronado has because he can do quite a bit. He's a threat on the rush and in the air while John Lord is one heck of a receiver. We'll really have to contain those two or they will hurt us," Cumpton said.

"Yet, those two aren't the only ones. They've got a much bigger team than we do on the whole (CHS incorporates two big monsters in defensive tackles Rodney Staggs and Kirk Rohrer - both hitting 250 pound range) and most of them are seasoned athletes."

"That in itself (their seasoned players) is a good lever to our advantage - it was the same crew we beat last year."

Suns Clip Clippers

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

The Phoenix Suns will become the stars of the National Basketball Association if they can keep playing defense in the tradition of the old Boston Celtics and New York Knicks teams.

The Suns improved their record to 8-1, best in the NBA so far, with a 105-89 victory over the San Diego Clippers Wednesday night. It was the fifth straight victory for the Suns and the fifth straight time they held the opposition under 100 points, a stretch during which the defense has allowed an average of only 88 points per game.

Forward Len "Truck" Robinson scored 23 points and guard Dennis Johnson, a perennial all-league defensive performer, added 21 to pace Phoenix offensively.

Phoenix led 62-53 at halftime, but put the game away with a 14-2 streak to start the third quarter. The Clippers were led by Phil Smith with 21 points.

In other NBA games, the Indiana Pacers defeated the Knicks 102-95, the Milwaukee Bucks bombed the New Jersey Nets 132-116, the Celtics ripped the Detroit Pistons 103-85, the Philadelphia 76ers tackled the Chicago Bulls 115-102, the Kansas City Kings outscored the Portland Trail Blazers 115-98, the Houston Rockets outlasted the Dallas Mavericks 109-103, the Utah Jazz clipped the San Antonio Spurs 109-96 and the Golden State Warriors nipped the Denver Nuggets 115-109.

Bucks 132, Nets 116 Sixth-man Junior Bridgeman came off the bench to score 26 points to lead Milwaukee to its eighth straight victory.

New Jersey trailed by 15 points in the third quarter but managed to hit five baskets in a row to cut the lead to five. But Bridgeman made five baskets as the Bucks responded with a 20-4 streak to put the game away.

Jazz 109, Spurs 96 Adrian Dantley and rookie Darrell Griffith combined for 29 points as Utah outscored San Antonio 42-22 in the fourth quarter to break the Spurs' eight-game winning streak.

Gentry Named 5A Defensive Player

Whiteface defensive end, Scott Gentry, was named as the Lubbock Avalanche Journal's defensive player-of-the-week following his last minute heroics of the HHS vs. Monterey district encounter last week.

Gentry, following a last ditch blocked punt provided by teammate Bob Hammond, swallowed up the rolling pigskin and bounded 42 yards in route to a game winning touchdown with 1:21 remaining in the grudge match.

The Whitefaces trailed the Plainsmen 14-9 after an early fourth quarter Monterey scoring spree, but with Gentry's opportune recovery and touchdown the squad finally overcame the Lubbock squad with a come-from-behind 15-14 victory.

Making the outstanding big-play fall under salvation status, was the fact that a loss would have eliminated the Hereford grid crew from prospective championship possibilities. That, all things considered, put Gentry on a level just shy of walking on water. And who knows, maybe he would try the water bit against the undefeated Coronado Mustangs Friday.

Houston Snaps Losing Streak

HOUSTON (AP) — Dallas Mavericks Coach Dick Motta was so angry he benched his entire starting team in the second period, but Rockets Coach Del Harris was just glad to come-away with a win in an intrastate contest that snapped a two-game losing streak for Houston.

Moses Malone scored 38 points and grabbed 21 rebounds to carry the Rockets to a 109-103 National Basketball Association victory Wednesday night despite a late rally by the Mavericks.

"They are an expansion team, but they are all pros," said Harris. "It is easy to take them lightly. But they have good balance. I was pleased with the game except for a few mental lapses."

But Motta was furious at his team's performance in the first half.

"They didn't deserve to play," Motta said about benching his starters. "I've done this before and it usually works."

Dallas, which dropped its fourth game in a row, trailed 70-54 with seven minutes to play in the third quarter, but fought back to tie the game at 82-all going into the final 12 minutes.

"We get a big lead and we stop playing aggressive," said Malone. "We need to play aggressive against all teams. They (the Mavericks) are a real good team. The beat us during the pre-season. Tonight we showed them that we had a better team."

Motta was whistled for a technical foul with his team leading 99-97 with 2:38 left in the game.

Houston's Calvin Murphy hit the technical shot.

Garcia Named to Honor Roll

By The Associated Press
San Antonio McCollough saw too much of Hector Garcia last week.

Garcia lined up as an offensive tackle and helped Laredo Nixon score nine points in a 9-0 shut out victory after he had set up the scoring chances as a defensive linebacker.

quarterback sacks. Senior tailback Terry Ingram of Wichita Falls Hirschi boosted his rushing totals to 945 yards for the season by gaining 219 yards on 24 carries in a 28-20 victory over Burk Burnett. Ingram, 5-10, 165, scored on runs of 83 and 58 yards and rested in the fourth quarter.

rushing on 15 carries and four touchdowns in a 62-0 victory. The effort pushed Jackson to 1,180 yards for the season on 95 carries.

Harlingen junior tailback Kevin Gould bulled 254 yards on 20 carries.

For his dual efforts, Garcia earned mention this week in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll.

Garcia ran a fake punt 26 yards to set up a field goal and recovered a fumble that set up a touchdown. He intercepted a pass to stop a McCollough drive, punted three times for a 42-yard average and made 15 tackles, and two

Despite playing in a losing cause, Taft senior linebacker Jim Krebs, a second team all-stater last year, made 15 tackles in a 7-6 loss to Refugio, which won the game despite being held to 70 yards in total offense.

Kenneth Jackson of Class 2A Waskom, ranked second in the state, contributed to Joaquin's misery with 224 yards

HEALTH Preventing osteoporosis

DEAR DR. LAMB— I read your recent column on osteoporosis or bone softening which is so common in women and I'd like to avoid this disease. I'm 42, weigh 107 pounds and I'm 5 feet 2. A year ago I had a complete hysterectomy because of a fibroid tumor. I have no complaints other than minor back pain on arising. I'm not on any medicines but I never drink milk. Otherwise, I have a varied diet including lots of fresh fruits and vegetables and salads plus whole grain breads.

Would buttermilk or yogurt, which I like, be an adequate substitute for the fortified skim milk you recommended? If so, in what amounts?

DEAR READER— As I mentioned in my previous column, osteoporosis is softening of the bones. It literally means porous bones and is the underlying cause for many of the buffalo humps or dowager humps and postural changes that start developing in women after the change of life. These changes also occur in men but usually it's about 10 or 20 years later than they commonly occur in women.

The softening or brittleness of the bones makes them susceptible to fractures and is the underlying reason why many older people have a fracture with what would be a minor fall for a younger person. A high percentage of hip fractures are because of osteoporosis.

You're very wise to think about doing something now to prevent such changes. You're a small woman which means you have a small skeleton and in that case you're particularly susceptible to the problem. And it's true that women who are on a calcium-deficient diet are five times as likely to develop this problem as women who receive a normal or increased amount of calcium.

The major source of usable calcium in our diet is milk or milk products. Incidentally, there are some people who think that the calcium to phosphorus ratio is important. Many of the foods that we eat are higher in phosphorus than they are in calcium, milk is a notable exception.

The current concepts of treating and preventing osteoporosis are discussed in The Health Letter number 6-10, Osteoporosis: Bone Softening, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper. P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I usually recommend that a woman past the change of life should have at least a gram of calcium a day and a gram-and-a-half is better. This is more than the usual recommended daily allowances for other age groups. A quart of whole milk normally contains about 1.2 grams of calcium. A quart of fortified low-fat or fat-free milk contains about 1.4 grams of calcium. A quart of buttermilk is equivalent to a quart of whole milk and contains about 1.2 grams of calcium. It also retains a favorable calcium to phosphorus ratio. Yogurt is about the same. So, yes, you can use buttermilk or yogurt if you wish.

It's important for you to know if you had your ovaries removed with your hysterectomy. If so, you may well derive some additional protection for your bones by taking estrogen replacements.

DEAR DR. LAMB— There must be a way to make a person's body grow, either through medications or vitamins or maybe even through surgery. I eat all the right foods and plenty of them but I stay the same height and size. I'm 20 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall and weigh 135 pounds. Any information would be appreciated. Please don't think my request ridiculous.

DEAR READER— No, it's not ridiculous, just not practical. You can stunt your growth through improper nutrition but it is not possible to increase your growth beyond the inherited characteristics you have. Your growth in height stops when the long bones in your legs calcify completely. That should have already occurred at your age, or nearly so. Specialists in growth problems often evaluate such cases by studying the person's bone age from X-rays.

You are simply at the short end of the normal range for height. If you were younger and quite a bit shorter, you might be a candidate for growth hormone from the pituitary gland.

Now, if you really want to make the effort, see an endocrinologist, a specialist in hormone functions, but I wouldn't hold out much hope that he will find anything that he can do about your height.

Former Chief Justice Endorses Garwood

AUSTIN -- Former Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert said today that Judge Will Garwood's membership on the state's highest court "adds immeasurably to the quality of our judicial system and his career should be extended by the voters on November 4."

Calvert urged Texans to familiarize themselves with the qualifications and backgrounds of both candidates in the Place 4 race for the Supreme Court.

"If enough people do this we will have an informed vote and Judge Garwood will win his first elective term," Calvert said. "The lawyers of Texas who have a working knowledge of our court system have already given an overwhelming vote of confidence to Judge Garwood, since he carried the State Bar preference balloting by a margin of 82 percent to 18 percent.

"However, under our political system it is not just the lawyers who have the responsibility to elect our judges. Every voter must share this responsibility, which includes the obligation to consider the qualities of the candidates as well as their political labels. Excessive partisanship has no place in a judicial election."

Calvert, a lifelong Democrat, said he and ten other retired Supreme Court justices have chosen to actively support Garwood over his Democratic opponent "because he is clearly better qualified and has already become an outstanding member of the Supreme Court after only eleven months of service."

He added: "I realize fully that Texans are more accustomed to voting only for Democratic candidates in races which are far down the ballot. This time I want them to know that the Republicans have the better man in Place 4, Supreme Court. The name Garwood is well worth looking for on the ballot."

Garwood, a leading Austin civil lawyer for more than 20 years, was appointed to the Supreme Court in late 1979 by Governor Bill Clements. He is a graduate of the University of Texas School of Law, ranking first in his class every year.

His father, St. John Garwood, served on the Supreme Court for 11 years and his grandfather was a county judge and State Bar president, prompting the Houston Post to comment that "this three-generation record of public service is in the finest Texas tradition."

The Dallas News hailed Garwood as "magnificently qualified" and he has won the support of thousands of Democrats, Republicans and independents by conducting a non-partisan campaign. Judge Calvert and Mrs. Virginia Upham of Mineral Wells, a member of the State Republican Executive Committee, are heading his political committee.

In addition to the eleven former Supreme Court justices, he has also been endorsed by three former Governors, four former attorneys General, and 17 attorneys who have served as president of the State Bar. His 82 percent-18 percent margin in the state Bar race was exceeded in Houston and Dallas, where lawyers gave him an 86 percent-14 percent preference over C.L. Ray.
