Citizens Urged to Make Views on MX Known

By ALLISON RYAN Staff Writer

Bill Crawford, a representative of the American Friends Service Committee was in Hereford Wednesday encouraging citizens to become informed about the MX Missile system and to write government officials to express their opinions about the deployment of the system in this area.

"We are presently in a 90-day public comment period. It began Jan. 2 and will continue until April 2 and citizens are encouraged to write the legislature to express their opinion," Crawford said.

The letters do not have to be formal according to Crawford. When the 90-day period is over, all letters will be published by the Air Force. Crawford displayed a document which contained letters that had been written concerning the MX missile itself.

"It is very important to write, because the way the environmental impact statement is written, this area (Texas - New Mexico) looks good. It comes out as a preferred option," he continued.

Crawford said he felt the Air Force did an inadequate job with the few scoping meetings held in December

"They came too late. They held 12-in Utah and Nevada and year ago," he claimed. Crawford said he thought the final decision as to where the system will be deployed is a political issue.

"It may depend on who has the most political clout," he stated.

"That is why it is very important for citizens to get together, study certain aspects of the statement and write letters to their government representatives, the president or the secretary of defense," Crawford explain-

"We are not trying to make it a contest between Utah -Nevada and this area, because the concerns are the same. We are trying to keep in touch with what is going on in Utah because we need to work together," he said.

Dan Fortenberry, who leads an action group in the Friona area, was present at the meeting and reported Parmer County commissioners have requested a public hearing with Air Force officials.

Hereford residents who were at the meting asked County Judge Glen Nelson if they could be added to the agenda for the next Deaf Smith County Commissioners meeting to speak to commissioners about the MX missile.

Nelson agreed but said he did not think the commissioners would make a stand either for or against until more public opinion is brought before them.

Crawford told the group there are numerous things citizens should consider about the system before agreeing to have it deployed

A member of the Women's Division for six years, Mrs. Gilbert served as vicepresident last year She has served on the tours committee, membership committee, two years, and the decorations committee.

As current president, Mrs. Gilbert's main goal is to maintain an "active participation by all the women."

"I have not formulated any chages as of now, but I do intend to create a complete working relationship between members," said Mrs. Gilbert.

To form this special relationship, Mrs. Gilbert intends to request that any member of the division having suggestions or ways to improve current projects, come to her and discuss the ideas.

"My endeavor is to have each committee function better in "its projects," Mrs. Gilbert explained.

An upcoming project for the Women's Division, according to Mrs. Gilbert, will be the membership drive.

'The men's division usually holds its drive prior to the women's. It has generally serving as drive chairman for been held in March or April and we intend to conduct it the same time this year," the president replied.

Mrs. Gilbert stressed that every lady in the community is eligible to join the C of C Women's Division.

"I really think that anyone interested in the betterment of the community should join the women's division. The scope is so wide that there is something for everybody," she continued.

Belt Buckle Deflects Bullet

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - A man walked into an all-night convenience store and ordered clerk Buzz Warner to hand him the money from the cash register.

"Go to hell!" replied Warner, thinking it was a joke he did not consider very funny.

But the robber lifted a pistol and fired one shot at the store clerk's belly from across the counter at pointblank range.

"I clutched my stomach. It was like someone hitting me with a fist," Warner said.

Crouching and holding his waist, Warner watched the young gunman run from the store. Then he pulled his hands away from his abdomen, expecting to find blood.

Instead, he found a chunk of leather missing from his belt buckle.

"It was just messed up a little," said Warner, who was not injured in the Tuesday holdup atempt.

The bullet ricocheted from the metal shank of the buckle, covered in tooled leather, and was found laying on the glass countertop.

Bank Stockholders

Illegally Taxed

DALLAS (AP) - Nine taxing entities have illegally taxed 49 Dallas area bank shareholders, a Dallas County jury ruled Wednesday in a decision that could cost the taxing authorities an estimated $26 million.

The jury took less than two hours to reach its decision after the week-long trial concluded. The verdict means that the City of Dallas and Dallas County, among others, wrongfully included federal obligations and bonds in assessing taxes on bank shareholders.

The U.S. obligations are exempt from taxing under federal law, but a Texas law allows bank shareholders to be taxed because banks are expempt from certain other taxes normally levied on corporations.

Patients To Be Treated

With Interferon

HOUSTON (AP) - Eight patients with advanced cancer will receive treatments with synthetic interferon today, the first persons in the world to participate in the limited study of the man-made material.

The patients at the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute are suffering from breast cancer, malignant lymphoma and multiple myeloma.

Interferon is a protein which occurs' naturally in the human body, as well as in other species to provide defense against infections.

Its anti-viral worth has been known for almost 25 years but only within the past three years has its potential for treating cancer been investigated.

Dr. Jordan U. Gutterman, the M.D. Anderson specialist who has directed studies of interferon warned against 'any premature false hopes."

He said, "We don't know anything yet about the pharmacology or immunological effects of this synthetic substance. It will take us four months just to ascertain the side-effects and figure out maximum doses."

The scientist said a similar study will begin soon at the Stanford University Medical Center.

Carter Makes Somber Farewell Address to Nation

WASHINGTON (AP) - A president, the 39th president somber President Carter, looking ahead to life as a "fellow citizen of the world," is pledging to spend his waning days in office trying to bring the American hostages home from Iran and is vowing to support Ronald Reagan "to the very limits of conscience and conviction." In a nationally broadcast farewell address Wednesday night, Carter said three critical tasks will outlive his presidency: preventing nuclear holocaust, promoting human rights around the world and protecting the environment.

He never mentioned the economy, one of the key issues that made him a oneterm president, and spoke only briefly of the American hostages whose captivity in Iran haunted his last year in the White House.

"I will continue as I have during the past 14 months to work hard and to pray for the lives and the well-being of the American hostages in Iran," Carter said. "I can't predict yet what will happen, but I hope you will join me in my constant prayer for their freedom."

Seated in front of his desk in the Oval Office, Carter did not mention Reagan by name. But he said he understood "as few others can how formidable is the task the president-elect is about to undertake."

"To the very limits of conscience and conviction, I pledge to support him in that task," Carter said. "I wish him success and Godspeed."

Ignoring his landslide defeat last Nov. 4, Carter extended his "deepest thanks" to the American people "because you gave me this extraordinary opportunity to serve." Then, in the only portion of the 20-minute speech that bordered on emotion, the president closed by saying: "From the bottom of my heart, I want to express to you the gratitude I feel. Thank you, fellow citizens, and farewell."

Carter himself spent a lot of time writing the speech, and most of it was devoted to three themes of his presidency: nuclear proliferation, human rights and the environment.

He said: "I want to lay aside my role as leader of one nation and speak to you as a fellow citizen of the world about three... issues: the threat of nuclear destruction; our stewardship of the physical resources of our planet; and the preeminence of the basic rights of human beings."

In Tehran, these 52 Americans propose to surrender themselves in exchange for the interned hostages - allowing those hostages to return to their homes and families.

This rescue mission's organizer and its first volunteer is the respected Dr. Kenneth Wells, co-founder of Freedoms Foundation a scholar and patriot of incontrovertible credentials.

Dr. Kenneth Wells, with neither authority nor financing from our government, will lead 51 other volunteers in this effort to effect a oneon-one trade for the release of the presently imprisoned Americans.

Wells says he recognizes the percentages and wants other volunteers to recognize them: Possibilities include protracted confinement, torture, death. But this, says Wells, is no more than America has asked of generations of young soldiers.

This, he says, is an opportunity for "us old guys to recover our own fumble." His expedition will include

Dear Editor:

I want everyone to know what, I for one, (many many more) think about the Water Department here in Hereford.

Its not run right at all. For instance, last month my water was too high. They claim they estimated it, said I used 10,000 gallons. I paid it, now this time it jumped up to 42,000 gallons.

There's no way this can be. There are only two people living here, and I have only one bathroom.

Last summer when I was watering every day the most I used was 36,000 gallons. They know they made an error and won't admit it. I think there should be something done about the way our city is run. Vida Cash

Rio Valley Citrus Growers Face Mid-Harvest Strike Threat

Rio Grande Valley citrus growers may face a midharvest strike by farm workers asking the Legislature for collective bargaining rights. Antonio Orendain, leader of the Texas Farm Workers Union, said the strike could begin in about 10 days. He did not know which growers would be affected. A spokesman for Lower Rio said he knew nothing of the Committee Orendain and Rep. Sam Hudson, D-Dallas, called a Wednesday news conference to discuss the latest effort to get collective bargaining rights for farm workers. In 1977 and 1979 the Legislature killed such proposals. "This is one of the most rights at this time," Hudson said. "It's one of the most inhumane methods of treating a group of people that I've ever heard of."

Orendain said the Texas Farm Bureau struck down previous attempts at collective bargaining for farm workers by using its "puppets" in the Legislature.

The longtime farm worker activist also said Speaker Bill Clayton mistakenly sent the 1979 bill to the House Livestock and Agriculture Committee, where it died. "We hope that Billy

Clayton has now realized that we are not livestock or land." said Orendain.

Piano music was furnished by Mrs. Virginia Holmes. Gregg Dameron, the honoree's grandson, entertained with his own arrangement for voice and guitar.

Born Jan. 12, 1896 in New Haven, Indiana, Mrs. Dameron moved with her family to Hereford in 1906. She is the daughter of the late A.W. Gregg, a pioneer farmer who drilled the second irrigation well in this area. He established Gregg Mama Jane attended Hereford Schools, Panhandle Christian College and Hereford and Southern Seminary in Virginia.

Married May 5, 1920 in Hereford to W.E. Dameron, an attorney and widely known cattleman who operated one of the largest registered Hereford cattle ranches of this area and at one time was mayor of Hereford, Mama Jane has been known as "a cook and carry person," due to her intertaining of friends.

Her husband died in 1952. The honoree is a former member of Bay View Study Club, a charter member of the Hereford Music Study and Hereford Club CowBelles. She was honored as the CowBelles Queen over 80 and also as the CowBelle Queen of Hereford's Diamond Jubilee

A Deaconess Emeritus, and long-time Sunday School teacher, Mrs. Dameron attends the First Christian Church. She has been very active in community affairs such as the Cancer Society until recent years.

Adult Basic Education Classes Scheduled Here

citizens are being served by adult basic education programs this year, according to Kenneth Helms, coordinator of Adult Basic Education, Hereford I.S.D.

Classes are currently being held on Monday and Thursday nights from 7-9:45 p.m. at the high school campus.

The program offers three types of classes for adults including ABE - teaches basic skills learned in grades 1-8; GED - teaches skills learned in grades 9-12 to obtain a high school equivalency diploma, the General Education Diploma (GED); and ESL teaches English as a second language (ESL) for those who do not speak, write or understand English.

The ABE classes give adults a second chance to obtain the basic life-coping skills necessary in our society. Reading and mathematics are stressed using practical experiences such as completing employment applications, reading maps, and balancing a check-book.

The GED Program is a selfmotivating system where

More than 200 Hereford students progress as quickly as wanted or needed. The course is self-paced lusing workbooks and individual

Hearing Loss Is Not A Sign Of Old Age

Chicago, Ill.-A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of one of the smallest Beltone aids of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

True, all hearing problems are not alike . . . and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this free model now, and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 82101, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Budget out of control

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Top Republican financial experts are trying to figure out how President-elect Ronald Reagan can keep his oft-stated campaign promises to cut federal spending, balance the budget and provide meaningful tax

Most of them have already lost hope that Reagan will be able to effect substantial reductions in federal spending during his first two years in office. Many also think that balancing the budget will be virtually impossible throughout his four-year term — and absolutely out of the question if there is any kind of tax cut.

The Reagan aides are discovering a truth with which government budgeters have grappled for years: The federal budget is out of control.

Just a month ago, Congress approved a fiscal 1981 budget that contained a $27.4 billion deficit. Now Reagan's budget experts fear that the new administration will be unable not only to lower the deficit but even to hold it much below $40

Further, they have concluded that Reagan will have to ask Congress to raise the ceiling on the national debt to a record $1 trillion from its current $925 billion.

The reason the new administration will have so little control over federal spending is that fully 76 percent of the out-lays in the fiscal 1981 budget are mandated. Without changes in the law, those monies can be cut only minimally.

It all started with Lyndon Johnson's Great Society. In 1965, the federal government began a spending spree that has become almost impossible to stop or even to slow down. Most of this spending has been for social programs. In fact, defense consumes a smaller share of the gross national product today than it did during the Eisenhower administration. In the fiscal 1981 budget, more than 75 cents of every mandated dollar go into the so-called "entitlement pro such as Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, unemployment compensation, welfare and retirement benefits for government employees and the military. The rest goes for such things as interest on the federal debt (at $75 billion a year, the third largest federal outlay), revenue sharing and the federal

The growth in these mandated programs has been phenome-

In 1965, for example, 20 million Americans received an average of $84 a month in Social Security benefits. Fifteen years later, 42 million are receiving an average of $385 a month.

During the same period, welfare payments have tripled while the average Medicare benefit payment has doubled. The amount paid to civil-service and military retirees ha

These massive increases are primarily the result not of growth in the scope of the programs but of persistent inflation. Most of the benefit payments are linked to the cost of living, so outlays have skyrocketed along with the inflation

To achieve a meaningful reduction in the federal budget, therefore, the new administration has no choice but to trim the entitlement programs. That will require changes in the law that could prove both time-consuming and politically

The Republican budget experts are advising Reagan to concentrate initially on stopping the growth of the mandated programs while hoping that a rejuvenated economy brings in greater tax revenues. That would lead to some reduction in the budget deficit — only a small victory that would nevertheless be difficult to win.

If the growth in mandated outlays is indeed stemmed, some actual budget cutting may be possible in the third and fourth years of the Reagan presidency. But, as the Republican planners are coming to realize, regaining control over federal spending will not be easy.

Plans for the trip to Amarillo to celebrate Ronald Reagan's inauguration as president were discussed at the GOP Women's meeting at noon Monday. A letter from Castro County Republican Women was read, inviting the Deaf Smith County group to join the party from Dimmitt.

Monthly meetings of GOP Women here will be replaced by less frequent sessions in this political off-year, it was decided Monday. The next meeting was set for the first Monday in May, when county representatives will be chosen to attend the state convention of Republican Women next fall. Membership dues are payable this month,

Military fashion

Military men have put their mark on men's fashions: Eisenhower (jacket), Blucher (boots), Cardigan (sweater), Raglan (coat), Wellington (boot). In the first decades of the 19th century, the Duke of Wellington, fresh from his triumphs over Napoleon, appeared in public in trousers, thus hastening the departure of silk hose and breeches.

I read you every day in the Oakland Tribune.-Desperate DEAR DESPERATE: Herpes simplex virus disease affects approximately 20 million Americans, causing painful, recurring infection that appears in the form of small fluid-filled blisters which come and go. A few days before the blisters appear there is usually a tingling or itching sensation and sometimes flu-like symptoms. From the time this tingling occurs until the blisters are completely healed, genital Herpes is highly contagious.

Genital Herpes has been associated with an increased risk of cervical cancer. Infected women should get a Pap test every six months. Genital Herpes can also complicate a pregnancy. Women with Herpes who are pregnant should inform their doctors immediately to assure the birth of a healthy baby.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married for nearly three years. We have a six-monthold baby. This is Jerry's second marriage. He had no children by his first wife. We are very happy.

The problem is Jerry's mother. It seems she cannot remember my name. She insists on calling me by Jerry's first wife's name.

At first Jerry corrected her. Then I corrected her. Now we both correct her, but it doesn't seem to make a darned bit of difference. She keeps on doing it. We are trying to forget the past, but it is very hard when that woman's name keeps popping up. Any suggestions?-Irked In Spr-

Naturally, there are no blanket rules, as emergencies do arise and Mom would insist on being called. But there are a few guidelines to follow. First, you must ask yourself: (1) Will Mom drop dead when she hears this? (2) Can she find a plumber after five? (3) Will she carry out her threat to move to another city and change her name?

If you answered yes, no, yes, you might try putting the incident in a proper perspective.

For example, if there is blood to report, consider these questions: Is it yours? Your brother's? Is there a lot? A little? On the sofa that is not Scotchguarded? From a loose baby tooth? Or the $80 one that they are still making payments on? Will the bleeding stop? Was it an accident? Can you shut up about it and pass it off as an insect bite?

Another example: When every kid in the neighborhood decides your house would be a neat place to play because there is no adult at home, ask yourself, Do I want to spend my entire puberty locked in my room with no food and no television? Do I need the friendship of a boy who throws ice cubes at the bird? Will Mom notice we made confetti in her

Other situations you can be definite about:

When a group of children decide to wash the cat and put him in the dryer and want to know what setting to use, CALL. When you and your brother are hitting and slapping over the last soft drink and you want a high-level decision on who gets it, DON'T CALL.

When a couple of men in a pickup truck tell your Mom is having your TV slipcovered, your silverware stored, her jewelry cleaned, and your 10-speed bicycle oiled, CALL.

When you forget to defrost the hamburger so you put it under your Mom's hair dryer and the dog is licking meat off the walls. CALL.

When your sister chases you into the house with the garden hose and the furniture is turning a funny-looking white, RUN. When you are bored and have nothing to do and just want to "talk," CALL YOUR FATHER.

IS IT CALAMITY, OR OPPORTUNITY? As He was leaving the Temple that day, one of His disciples said, "Teacher, what beautiful buildings these are! Look at the decorated stonework on the walls." Jesus replied, "Yes, look! For not one stone will be left upon another, except as ruins." And as He sat on the slopes of the Mount of Olives across the valley from Jerusalem, Peter, James, John, and Andrew got alone with Him and asked Him, "Just when is all this going to happen to the Temple? Will there be some warning ahead of time?"

So Jesus launched into an extended reply. "Don't let anyone mislead you," He said.

"For many will come declaring themselves to be your Messiah, and will lead many astray.

And wars will break out near and far, but this is not the signal of the end-time. For nations and kingdoms will proclaim war against each other, and there will be earthquakes in many lands, and famines. These herald only the early stages of the anguish ahead. But when these things begin to happen, watch out! For you will be in great danger. You will be dragged before the courts, and beaten in the synagogues, and accused before governors and kings of being My followers. This is your opportunity to tell them the Good News. And the Good News must first be made known in every nation before the end-time finally comes. Mark 13:1-10

A journalist of considerable credentials, Frances Fitagerald has done extensive on-site research in Vietnam, Cuba, Northern Ireland and the Mideast (Syria and Iran). Most recently, Ms. Fitzgerald has applied her journalistic research to an extensive study of textbooks used in American schools. What she discovered is somewhat shocking: that, every five years on the average, textbook accountings of history change to accomodate the thinking of the times and the whims of the marketplace. "What sells best," she says, "goes into the text." This has been going on, she adds, since the 1930's.

Nobody ever checks the ac- man. curacy of history texts, she says. Facts seem to run a distant second place to salability here and public acceptance. The Hereford Elks Local Hoop Shoot Contest was held this past month with 50 youngsters participating. The winners of the competition included; 8-9 boys -Roger McCracken, 10-11 boys - Arther Valdes, 12-13 boys -David Manchee, 8-9 girls -Patricia Wilson, 10-11 girls Deanna Peterson. 12-13 girls - Sherry Wilson.

As winners of the local competition, those six individuals represented Hereford at the district contest held in Amarillo Saturday.

They competed against winners in their respective age groups from Dalhart, Borger, Amarillo, Childress, Plainview and Lubbock. Out of that district event, the group brought back one first place, three second place finishes and one third place

McCracken netted first place in the 8-9 boys and will now represent both Hereford and the Panhandle District at the state contest in Temple on January 31. Providing he is able to win there, he will then advance to the regionals in Kansas City. The finals of the national competition are slated to be in Indianapolis,

The eventual winner of that national event in each age group will have his or her name inscribed on a plague in the Basketball Hall of Fame.

Other Hereford competitors in the district shootout and their respective finishes included; Arthur Valdez' second in the 10-11 boys bracket, a second place by David Manchee in the 12-13 boys' division and Patricia Wilson's second in the 8-9 girls' competition.

The Hereford Elks Lodge has sponsored this event for the past five years and has advanced local youths to the state contest each year. This year's chairmen were Robert Holmes and Janice Holmes.

Collectively Named "Athlete of the Year"

Hockey Players Net Honor

NEW YORK (AP) - Twenty American hockey players who banded together to shock the sports world and thrill their countrymen are collectively The Associated Press Male Athlete of the Year for

The United States Olympic hockey team, which won the gold medal at Lake Placid, N.Y. last February and - for two weeks, at least - made the ice sport a national pastime in this country, easily outdistanced its closest rival, Eric Heiden, another phenomenal performer at the Winter Games. The hockey team collected 139 of 422 votes cast by sports writers and broadcasters nationwide and will receive the Jesse Owens Memorial Award, to be awarded for the first time in memory of the legendary track star who died last March.

Heiden, who won five golds in five speed skating races at the Winter Olympics, was second with 99 votes while baseball star George Brett of the Kansas City Royals, the American League's Most Valuable Player, came in third with 92 votes.

Herb Brooks, coach of the hockey team, and assistant Craig Patrick gathered 68 hopefuls in August, 1979, at Colorado Springs, Colo. Brooks, a successful coach at the University of Minnesota

- he also was the last man cut from the 1960 Olympic team that won the gold medal in almost as surprising an upset - was a stern disciplinarian. He also was aloof and uncompromising.

But he knew what he was doing. As the six months of training drew to a close, he had molded a score of collegians into a very competitive hockey team.

"We needed to play an international style," said Brooks, "and we had to be better at it than the Russians and Czechs and the other teams which always played that way."

When the Americans lost 10-3 to the powerhouse Soviets in their 61st and last exhibition game prior to the Olympics, even a bronze medal seemed unlikely. The players, however, were not thinking that way.

'We hadn't worked so hard for so long to start thinking 'bronze medal," said team captain Mike Eruzione. "We were going out to play one period at a time in each game and see where it got us."

The Americans surprised in the Olympic tournament's very first game, tying the veteran Swedish team. Brooks pulled goaltender Jim Craig in the final minute and defenseman Bill Baker blasted a slapshot home for the tying goal with 27 seconds

Then came the victory that began exciting everyone the players, (average age 22) the media, and perhaps even Brooks. The U.S. team completely dominated the Czechs, who were considered second only to the Soviet among world powers, winning 7-3. It wasn't that close.

Then came Norway, which the Americans handled easily, 5-1, and Romania, which they beat 7-2.

Next came a difficult 4-2 win over West Germany that put the U.S. into the medals round - against the Soviet Union. The same Soviets who embarrassed the best the National Hockey League had to offer in the 1979 Challenge Cup. The awesome, almost invincible Soviets.

But these were not the omnipotent Soviets everyone had expected. In fact, they looked quite vulnerable in squeaking past Canada 6-4 in their last preliminary-round contest.

And this bunch of "Big Doolies," as the Americans dubbed themselves, were ready. Brooks had made sure of that over the six months of preparation and the five opening-round games.

Next came Finland in the final game of the Games. If the U.S. team lost, it might not even win a medal.

Mays will be recognized in the Hall of Fame cermonies Sunday beginning at 2 p.m. in Amarillo College's Ordway

Formerly a state 800 meter champion during his high school running career, Mays continued his highlighted performances for Texas Tech where he became the school's first Southwest Conference track champion since 1968 plus its first running loop champ'since 1965 with a 1:48.85 clocking. He clocked the three fastest 800-meter times in history by a Southwest Conference athlete with a 1:46.6 run at the Quad-Confernce Meet, a 1:46.67 NCAA finals times and a 1:46.88

Mays also became the first Tech athlete ever to place in an NCAA track meet and missed finishing second in the prestigious NCAA meet by just three-hundredths of a second.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Rookie Reggie Johnson, who earned a starting berth his first year in the National Basketball Association, has not been getting the recognition he deserves, San Antonio Spurs Coach Stan Albeck contends.

"If Reggie was in Los Angeles, Chicago or New York, he would be getting the media attention that he deserves," Albeck complained after the forward from the University of Tennessee unleashed a career-high 27 points in W 'nesday night's 116-105 wi ver the New York Knicks.

Johnson canned 11 of 15 field goal attempts, grabbed 5 rebounds, made 1 steal and 1 block in 32 minutes of play. For the past 8 games he has been making 61.5 percent of

Johnson is a member of the Spurs' "Bruise Brothers" front line that dominated the boards against the Knicks, 57-37, to throttle a New York rally early in the third period and capture their 10th straight victory in HemisFair

"The Spurs are tougher than I thought," said coach Red Holzman who also saw his team lose to the Spurs, 113-108, in New York eight days before. "We did well to tie them late tonight. The Spurs' rebounding made the difference tonight and they got a good game out of Johnson."

The Spurs used a 14-point outburst by George Gervin to capture a 37-31 first quarter lead, then doubled the margin to 64-52 at halftime.

San Antonio was leading by 13 points at 87-74 with 3:54 left in the third period when New York made its comeback.

Cámpy Russell and Michael Richardson reeled off 8 unanswered points in a 2-minute span

Memories Still Haunt Coast Guard Survivor

Sometimes, in the quiet of a night, the nightmares return and Ron Litterell relives another night, a moonlit evening almost a year ago when his sinking ship almost sucked him beneath the murky waters of Tampa Bay.

He recalls the sickening crash as an oil tanker's anchor gouged a great hole in the side of the Coast Guard cutter Blackthorn. He remembers the ship shudder-ing, then tilting as it rolled over and sank, so fast that most of the crew never had a chance to get to the life rafts.

The 31-year-old chief machinery technician was lucky. Along with 27 crewmates, he survived the worst peacetime disaster in the 190-year history of the U.S. Coast Guard. But it's the memory of the 23 men who died last Jan. 28 that haunts

On Tuesday, a Coast Guard

Litterell remembers scrambling above decks and leaping overboard into an oil slick that burned his eyes and skin, then helping other crewmates before scrambling to safety aboard a rescue boat.

After recovering from his physical injuries, Litterell was examined by the Coast Guard and ruled ineligible for sea duty, largely due to his uncertain mental state. He will be re-examined in two years. "At that time, hopefully, everything will be OK," he said.

In a telephone interview from his Texas City, Texas, home, Litterell said he had just made a "long, hard decision" and extended his enlistment for two more years.

"It has been an up and trying to decide what I could do. You see, I couldn't reenlist (for a four-to six-year stretch) because of physical reasons. Though I'm getting better physically, I think it's better that I don't go back to sea right now," he said. "To be in the position of a chief right now, I could probably go on a ship. But if an emergency would occur, could I compose myself from the memories I would have? I don't think it would be fair to

"There's still a part of me that asks: 'Are you OK? What's going to happen to me in a similar situation?' Until I come to grips with that, I can't put others into that kind of situation," he said.

Litterell, who is awaiting, assignment to active land duty, said he still longs to return to the sea.

"Part of me, being a family man...naturally I don't like to serve away," he said. "But I think you tend to be more comfortable at sea. You feel a closeness to your shipmates. There is a closeness in sea duty that you don't develop

"My hopes are that I will be able to handle the situation and the problems and that I'll be able to go back," Litterell said.

Since the accident, many of the enlisted men who survived have left the Coast Guard, Litterell said.

"Most of the ones I've kept in touch with have gotten out or are getting out," Litterell

"I think," he said sadly, Guard. It will probably be

Toxic Shock Clearly Linked to Super Tampons

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) -New research has clearly linked a greater risk of toxic shock syndrome to the use of super-absorbent tampons, but scientists don't know why those tampons are at fault and still are reluctant to warn women off particular pro-

"The risk of toxic shock is pons or not," said Dr. Michael Osterholm, who directed a study by three Midwestern health departments. The results were released Tuesday.

"We're not yet in a position to tell anyone to use or not to use tampons or superpresent, regardless of absorbent tampons. Women can assess the data and decide for themselves. It should be an individual choice at this time," Osterholm said.

Since 1978, when toxic shock was given its name, the disease has affected 818 people - mostly women younger than 30, but also some men and children - and 69 women have died. Symptoms include fever, diarrhea, vomiting, a drop in blood pressure and a sunburn-like rash.

The study found that menstruating women who use the so-called super absorbent tampons, which contain synthetic fibers and chemical compounds not found in the older, 100 percent cotton tampons, stand a much greater risk of contracting toxic shock than women who use less absorbent tampons - or no tampons at all.

Osterholm said the study, involving 240 women from Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa, produced these findings

President Carter extended the controls, which were scheduled to expire Friday, for another nine months Tuesday.

Whether the controls stay in effect anywhere near that million non-residential

But he said: "To the extent better way to live."

The program covers all government and private office buildings, restaurants, shopping malls, theaters, airports, bus terminals and other establishments open to women who use no tampons. -There is "no evidence that any chemical composition of any of the tampons was related to the occurrence of toxic shock."

The study could not determine just why superabsorbent tampons seemed more likely to bring on TSS.

Previous theories about TSS have centered on the new tampons' efficiency - that they so effectively block menstrual fluid that it backs up into the body through the Fallopian tubes and, if infected, spreads bacteria into the bloodstream - or on their new ingredients.

Chief suspect in the latter theory is carboxymethylcellulose, a compound in all the superabsorbent tampons. Scientists thought it might nourish the Staphylococcus aureus bacterium known to cause TSS, or that it might irritate the vaginal lining and allow bacteria into the blood that said. "This has affected different people in different wavs.

But Osterholm, chief of acute disease epidemiology ataithe Minnesota health department, said the study had ruled out carboxymethylcellulose as a culprit.

Before the accident, Litterell said, he had planned to make the Coast Guard his career. Now he is not so sure how long he will wear the Coast Guard blue. "As far as myself, as long as I remain in the Coast Guard, I can see the accident having an influence on me as far as my whole attitude towards a lot of things. "It was beneficial in a lot of ways - I now have an understanding of the importance of a lot of things I didn't have before it happened." He mentioned having a greater appreciation of life and feeling more able to cope with emergencies.

Litterell doesn't know what will happen at the end of his two-year extension. But he knows he can never forget the terror of that night on Tampa

"that it will be with me as" long as I'm in the Coast with me my whole life."

plex now because of this. Is there anything I can do?

DEAR READER — Varicose veins are caused from overstretching of the veins. They stay dilated. Some women inherit a tendency to have weak-walled veins and they

of the string twice around your finger and place the string between the fabric, with the coils at the end of the item, so you can stitch over them. Be careful not to catch the rest of the string in the seam while sewing the length. After sewing, gently pull the string; the item will turn quickly. Cut the string off

DEAR POLLY — During the winter when I find an onion that has started to sprout, I set it in the dirt by one of my

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 20 years old, 5 feet 10 inches and weigh 130 pounds. I am trying to do body building by lifting weights and taking yeast and vitamins. I am including my routine, which I do every other night. I take 12 yeast tablets daily, two vitamin B-60, two vitamin E, 200 units. Am I on a good program or should I add or take away from this routine? I have not started my leg work. Would a milk, yeast and egg crash weight gain product help me? DEAR READER — Your schedule of exercise is entirely too much. It is so long couldn't include it in the column. The rule is "train, don't strain." The more exercise you do the more energy you will use and the less likely you will be able to mobilize your energy resources to enable your body to build muscle. That may surprise you, but you can slow down muscle growth by doing too much, just as you can kill a plant by giving it too much water or too much fertilizer. The key to body building is to have enough calories so your body will have the necessary extra calories required to build muscle tissue. The building itself takes energy just as other forms of growth do. The next requirement is to have enough protein and if you are gaining two pounds of muscle a week that means over 200 grams of protein more a week than you usually need for daily requirements. This means that you need about 100 grams of good quality protein a day as you find in lean meats and milk to support your protein require-

Of course you need a bal-anced diet. If your calorie intake is sufficient for your level of exercise and a little more for growth, and your DEAR DR. LAMB - Is it get off your feet. But for the best effect you need to lie and on during the day with my legs propped up. Incidentally, my mother does have them, down and get your feet above your heart level. That is temporary. A better solution is to use external pressure that keeps the veins from filling up and over-stretching. People like you should wear some form of external support when they are standing or even sitting for any period of time. Support stockings should also be used during pregnancy.

Some superficial varicose veins can be corrected surgically, and some by injecting sclerosing agents around the veins. The principles of varicose veins and what to do about them are discussed more fully in The Health Letter number 5-8, Varicose Veins, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551; Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

stretching the veins. When you are standing, the column of By the way, walking, danc-ing and jogging are better for your leg veins than just stand-ing still. Exercise helps to blood in your veins creates pressure inside the veins and stretches them if the walls are weak. That is why it is good to milk the blood out of your leg veins and prevents the buildup of pressure inside the veins.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Will you please discuss the harmful effects venison can have on a person who eats it often. My husband is a sportsman and likes to eat quite a lot of this kind of meat.

DEAR READER - As long as it comes from a healthy animal there isn't much to get excited about. Animals differ in how lean they are but the "lean meat only" of venison is commonly only 4 percent fat by weight, which means it is about comparable to the sepa-rable lean of round steak. Most wild animals are less fat than domestic animals. That helped our forefathers eat less fat in their diets than we con-

Many scientists think our forefathers had fewer circulatory problems - heart attacks were not described in living cases until this century - because they ate a more natural diet. The red meat and poultry came from nature's environment rather than from feed lots where animals are fattened to satisfy our taste for fat, tender meat.
