Campaign '80 Comes Down to Tuesday Vote

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

The long campaign of 1980 is drawing to a close and Deaf Smith County voters will go to the polls Tuesday to decide on races crucial not only in the national scope, but the local one as well.

Major presidential contenders Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan have locked in real dogfights in the final weeks of the seemingly unending campaign with accusations and counter-accusations flying fast and furious.

Voters are being called upon for a decision between the two contenders based on the positions of the two candidates on significant issues including national defense, the runaway inflation facing the country, foreign relations and domestic social programs.

Early indications here, based on the number of absentee ballots cast for the presidential election, indicate that a large voter turnout can be expected. A total of 534 absentee ballots were cast here, a new high.

Based on the voting trends of county residents in presidential elections dating back to 1968, Republican candidate Ronald Reagan may very well carry Deaf Smith County.

The county's Republican committee has been highly active during the final months of the push toward Nov. 4, and President Jimmy Carter fell out of favor with much of the county's agricultural sector due to his economic policies concerning the agriculture industry, and particularly for his embargo of grain shipments to Russia.

Bureaucracy-weary local residents may also give Reagan the nod for his pledge to do away with some of the agencies that are a problem for small businessmen. The creation of the Department of Energy and the Department of Education, two groups maligned as useless, have also been mentioned as factors swaying the local vote away from Carter.

A total of 9,022 voters are registered in Deaf Smith County, and hearteningly, many of the younger voters who knew they would be out of the county at classes on election day participated in absentee balloting here, along with a considerable number of other citizens.

County Clerk B.F. Cain reports that as election day arrives Tuesday, 65 percent or more of the county's registered voters are expected to actually show up at the polls and make their mark.

"We can expect a good level of voter turnout according to the absentee ballots that have been cast," said Cain.

In a brief recap of voting trends here over the past several elections, county voters gave Gerald Ford the nod over Jimmy Carter in the 1976 race by a 2,776-2,613 count.

In 1972, county residents voted Republican, electing Richard Nixon over George McGovern, 3,690 to 1,240.

County residents also went for Republican Nixon in 1968, giving him 2,474 votes compared to 1,545 for Democrat Hubert Humphrey.

It takes a glance clear back to 1964 to find they last time the majority of county residents favored the Democratic candidate. That year, 2,094 county residents voted for Lyndon B. Johnson and 1,793 voted for Barry Goldwater.

Keeping track of the votes for the various candidates will be the job of election judges here, who have to keep in mind some changes in how the ballots will be counted this year.

Although voting a split ticket may have presented some problems in how votes were counted in the past, and on occasion even resulted in ballots being thrown out, Cain reported that failure to vote a full ballot will not result in the ballot being thrown out this year, nor will voting a split ticket.

"A clear indication of voter intention will be the key to counting ballots this year," said Cain.

"Wherever election judges can clearly discern the voter's intent, the vote will be counted," he added.

Voters in the presidential election will have some options other than the two major parties to choose from. Independent candidate John Anderson is running a distant third in the presidential race, with Libertarian party candidate Ed Clark also somewhere back in the pack.

Cain also listed write-in candidates in the presidential race.

The write-in contenders for president and vice president, respectively, include Barry Commoner and LaDonna Harris, Deirdre Griswold and Larry Holmes, Gus Hall and Angela Y. Davis, and Marvin Edward Perkins and Dorothy L. Perkins.

According to Cain, these are the only individuals who can legitimately be counted as write-in candidates on the ballot Tuesday.

Nine Amendments Up for Vote

Texas voters will consider a total of nine proposed amendments to the constitution when they go to the polls Tuesday.

Amendment 1 would permit the legislature to authorize banks to use unmanned teller machines within the county or the city of their operation on a shared basis to serve the public convenience. The amendment is supported by numerous organizations within the state banking industry.

Amendment 2 would authorize appeal of certain pretrial rulings of a trial court in a criminal case by either the state or the accused.

Amendment 3 would require a single appraisal and a single board of equalization within each county for ad valorem tax purposes.

Amendment 4 would authorize bingo games on a local option-election basis if the games are conducted by a church, synagogue, religious society, volunteer fire department, nonprofit organization supporting medical research or treatment programs and if the proceeds are to be spent in Texas for charitable purposes of the organizations.

Amendment 5 would grant the governor power to exercise fiscal control over the expenditure of appropriated funds as provided by law.

Amendment 6 would authorize the governor to remove appointed officers with the advice and consent of the senate.

Amendment 7 would authorize counties with a population of 5,000 or less to perform private road work.

Amendment 8 would change the name of the Courts of Civil Appeals and the names and qualifications of the justices of the Supreme Court and would prescribe the jurisdiction and authority of the appellate courts.

Amendment 9 would allow spouses to agree that income or property arising from separate property is to be separate property.

County Polling Points Listed

A total of 11 polling locations will await Deaf Smith County voters Tuesday as they seek to make their mark to determine who will serve in the White House during the next four years.

Precincts and their polling locations include:

- Precinct 1 - Driver's license examiner room, county courthouse.
- Precinct 2 - Commissioner's courtroom, courthouse.
- Precinct 3 - Frank Zinser residence.

- Precinct 4 - Simms Community Center.
- Precinct 5 - Hereford Community Center.
- Precinct 6 - Ford School.
- Precinct 7 - Dawn Community Building.
- Precinct 8 - Walcott School.
- Precinct 9 - Bippus Community House.
- Precinct 10 - Wildorado Church.
- Precinct 11 - Northwest Elementary School.

Reserve Corn Called

Corn in Reserve One has reached the call level according to word from the U.S. Department of Agriculture and farmers who have between 50 and 100 million bushels of corn signed up in the reserve will be required to redeem that grain.

According to John Fuston, ASCS executive director here, Reserve One involves corn placed in the reserve approximately two years ago, and farmers will have 90 days from the date they receive notification from the ASCS to redeem their warehouse receipts and pay off loans on the grain to the ASCS.

The call level on the Reserve One corn was $3.15 per bushel and the five day average price of corn across the country during the past week was $3.20 per bushel.

Football Queen

Hereford High School senior Karol Shook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Shook, was crowned as the 1980 Football Queen during pregame ceremonies at Whiteface Stadium Saturday night. Escorting Miss Shook was Mike Hill, junior strong safety for the Herd. Candidates for the honor were selected by members of the football team. Miss Shook is a Drill Team captain.

Most people we talk with are greatly relieved that the presidential election is finally just around the corner. It's been a long, sometimes monotonous campaign and folks have grown tired of the political rhetoric.

Besides the presidential race, Deaf Smith County voters will be voting on contested races for their U.S. representative and their state senator, as well as two railroad commissioners and two state supreme court judges. Rep. Kent Hance is opposed by Libertarian candidate J.D. Webster, while State Sen. Bob Price is opposed by Hereford Democrat Bill Sarpalius.

Voters will also be deciding on the fate of nine amendments to the state constitution. A sample ballot, which includes the amendments, can be found on a page inside today's issue. It is sponsored as a public service by local financial institutions.

The presidential race still appears close, and local citizens have other important votes on the ballot. Your vote is as unique as your fingerprint; use it wisely at the polls Tuesday!

Whoops! In writing this column, it suddenly dawned on us that Rep. Kent Hance has an opponent in this congressional district. We have a couple of endorsements on today's editorial page and had simply forgotten the less-publicized U.S. representative race.

We, of course, endorse Hance for re-election as our U.S. representative. Hance has proven himself to be an effective voice in Congress. He has kept his promise of coming back to visit around the district and feel the pulse of his constituents. He is making a fine congressman and we support his re-election!

State Senate Seat up for Grabs

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

While the 1980 presidential election may corner the limelight Tuesday, there's also a race of considerable interest in the local area with incumbent Bob Price and challenger Bill Sarpalius vying for the 31st District state senate seat.

The race pits Price, a Pampa farmer and rancher, and former U.S. representative who served eight years in Washington and is completing his first term as 31st District senator in Austin against Bill Sarpalius of Hereford, a former aid to Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton who also served as a staff teacher at Boys ranch and is a past president of the state FFA.

One of the issues raised in the race has been a matter of experience versus the energy of a challenger.

The winner of the race will be serving a 26 county area of the Panhandle during an upcoming session of the state legislature which both contenders admit will be crucial to the future of the Panhandle.

Price won the senate seat in a surprise to many area voters as they went to the polls to pick a successor to Max Sherman, who now serves as president of West Texas State University.

Sherman, a Democrat, was selected by Texas Monthly magazine as one of the "10 best" legislators in Austin during his tenure there, while in his first session in Austin last year

Price had the dubious distinction of being named to that publication's "10 Worst Legislators" list.

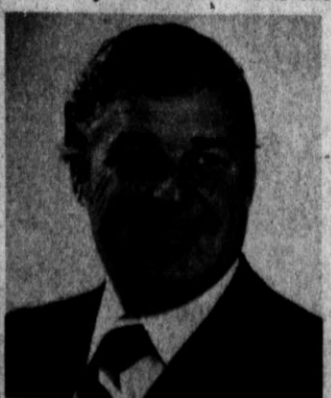

Price countered that designation with claims that it was unfair, and in a recent address in Hereford remarked, "I don't think a legislator should necessarily be judged on how much legislation he gets passed. Maybe it should be on how much bad legislation he kills."

Challenger Sarpalius has sought to key in on that issue and others, and although the two contenders have not met in a face-to-face confrontation on the issues, they have some differing ideas on basic points in the campaign.

The articles below summarize what Price and Sarpalius feel are the key factors in the 31st Senatorial District race.

Price: Experience the Issue

Q-What's your position on the MX missile in the Texas Panhandle?
PRICE-"If it was determined by the experts in the military field that this is the most strategic area for the missiles to be placed, strategic from the standpoint of trajectory needed to reach whatever target necessary, I wouldn't object. But, if they were to decide this were the area they want because of the sparse population, I think it would be unfair for our people to be put under the umbrella of threat from alien missiles. I sometimes wonder when they are talking about building all of those tracks for the MX missile if they couldn't consider some of the abandoned railroads dotting the country for that purpose."

Q-Have recent disclosures concerning your farm finances had a bearing on your campaign?

PRICE-"One thing I do regret in this campaign is that my opponent and his campaign workers have stooped to a new low in dragging my personal affairs into the media by orchestrating leaks. I regret that it has degraded to this level. The day we can rely upon a federal agency to keep the confidentiality of one's business is no longer. The disclosure concerning my farm loans with the FmHA is an example of that fact. It is a breach of ethics in the agen-

Sarpalius: Effectiveness the Issue

Q-What's your position on the MX missile ever coming to the Texas Panhandle?
SARPALIUS-"The possibility of an MX missile system coming into this area is almost nil. I would voice the views of the people on this issue and the opinion I hear mostly from the people is that they don't want the MX here. It is a federal issue if it ever comes up and Congressman Kent Hance would be the one to deal with it. Mr. Hance feels there is little possibility of the MX missile ever coming to the Panhandle."

Q-There's been some criticism of you concerning your position relative to the Democratic party platform, and whether you are in actuality a Democrat, a liberal or a conservative. What is your position relative to the Democratic platform?

SARPALIUS-"I was asked if I supported everything in the Democratic National Platform. My response was that I supported everything in the platform and that Reagan doesn't totally support everything in the Republican platform. I don't support every little item in the Democratic platform. I am proud to be representing the Democratic party, but if elected I will be representing a 26 county area's people and I want to do what's good for them."

Mexican Exports

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Three days of heavy rain and windstorms have forced Mexico to suspend most exports of crude oil and natural gas, a spokesman for the national petroleum monopoly said Friday.

The spokesman for Pemex said all deliveries from the southeastern part of the country and the offshore rigs in the Gulf of Mexico — where Mexico's richest oilfields are located — were "temporarily suspended."

The area produces an average of 1.12 million barrels of crude oil a day and 500 million cubic feet of natural gas. Sixty percent of the gas produced there is exported to the United States.

The spokesman said the shutdown will cause no domestic shortages of oil or gas, with the difference caused by the suspension made up by shipments from other areas.

He said 45 mph winds and 50-foot tides in the gulf have made tanker loading impossible. In Campeche Sound, 15 offshore wells had to be closed and the production of 16 others sharply reduced, the spokesman added.

Mexico currently produces 2.4 million barrels of crude oil daily, with approximately half of it exported. Of that, an average of 657,600 barrels a day is sold to the United States.

Mother Records

Child to the End

MILFORD, Conn. (AP) — As 4-year-old Amber Calistro lay in a coma, slipping toward an inevitable death from cancer, her mother stood at her bedside snapping pictures she hopes will comfort parents of other sick children.

And when Amber finally died, Patti Calistro said she offered a prayer of thanks to God.

"I feel better now," she said. "Amber is at peace."

Ms. Calistro had been preparing for Amber's death for weeks. Beside the deathbed photos, she has films of Amber's last days and tapes of their conversations. "I've saved every scrap of paper she has drawn on," Ms. Calistro has said.

5 Die of Carbon

Monoxide Poisoning

FUQUAY-VARINA, N.C. (AP) — Unaware that deadly carbon monoxide was seeping into their disabled car, two teen-age sisters and three brothers were killed early Friday as they huddled against the cold only two miles from the girls' home, officials said.

"One probably dropped off and then another and another," said Lt. P.L. Womble of the Wake County Sheriff's Department. "We've had cases like this before but not five at one time."

"They were just sitting there talking and had no idea the fumes were coming in," he speculated.

Sheriff's deputy S.M. Gregory said the car apparently sped around a sharp curve on the isolated two-lane road and hit a wet spot, skidded into a traffic sign and then into the ditch. He said the tailpipe was "stuck in the mud."

Gregory said when he found the 1974 Ford LTD car at about 3 a.m., the engine, heater and emergency flashers were on.

He said he did not notice anyone in the car at first because the windows were fogged up. But, he said, when he opened the driver's door, fumes burned his eyes.

"They probably just got cold and got back in the car — the area is very rural, very isolated," said Sheriff's Lt. David Waller. The low temperature Friday morning was 37 degrees.

Men Charged

With Counterfeit

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — An Oklahoma City printer and a Dallas man were charged in federal court Friday on counterfeiting charges after Secret Service agents arrested the pair and confiscated $250,000 in bogus $100 bills, authorities said.

James D. Teeters, 51, of Oklahoma City, and John Newton, 42, of Dallas, were arrested about 6:20 p.m. Thursday at Crossroads Mall, said Bill Skiles, assistant special agent in charge of the Secret Service's Oklahoma City office.

Skiles said Teeters, owner of James Printing Co., had been under surveillance by Secret Service agents for the past 10 days.

A half-dozen agents followed Teeters to the Mall where he met Newton, who agents believe was to have taken the bills to Dallas, Skiles said.

Skiles said "the fair quality" bills were the first batch allegedly printed in Teeter's shop. He said none of the bills apparently had been passed in Oklahoma City.

Teeters has been convicted of counterfeiting twice in the past 10 years, Skiles said.

Teeters and Newton appeared Friday U.S. Magistrate Ronald L. Howland, who set a $25,000 cash or surety bond on each. They were in custody in the Oklahoma County jail Friday night.

They face maximum penalties of 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine, Skiles said.

The agent said the case will also be presented to a federal grand jury for possible indictment.

West Texas: Otherwise fair through Sunday with continued warm afternoons. Lows tonight mostly in the 40s. Highs Sunday mostly in the 80s.

Ribbon Cutting

The Hereford Hustlers conducted a ribbon-cutting ceremony Friday afternoon for the new installment loan department at Hereford State Bank. The new offices and facilities were constructed on the northeast corner of the bank building. HSB president Jeff Carlile and other bank officials and clerks are pictured with members of the Chamber's Hustler organization. Lee Umsted is chairman of the C of C group, which serves as a public relations organization.

Siege of Burglaries

Continues Downtown

A week-long siege of attempted burglaries in the downtown Hereford area continued Friday night as thieves tried to gain entry to Caryn's Hallmark Store at 220 North Main.

Using the same mode of operation as has been noted in four other instances in the downtown Hereford, the culprits attempted to pry open a back door at the business but failed.

Four attempted burglaries were recorded here during the past week with thieves succeeding in gaining entry to a fifth business, Stairway to Fashion, where over $13,000 worth of merchandise was stolen.

Back door burglars were successful in gaining entry to Big Daddy's station Friday night where they made off with an undetermined amount of cash.

Police are investigating a report of criminal mischief from Water Industries, 212 East New York Ave., where someone poured sugar into the crankcases of two trucks.

Police recovered a vehicle taken from 336 Lake Street in a Friday night incident of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Jerry Walker of 509 West

Second reported that a license plate was stolen from his vehicle Friday.

Police arrested an 18 year old man and a 41 year old man on DWI and public intoxication charges respectively Friday night, and were also summoned concerning an assault complaint stemming from a disturbance at 206 Lake. No charges were filed in that incident.

Officers received a complaint of harassing phone calls from a resident in the 400 block of McKinley.

Police investigated three minor traffic accidents Friday and issued four traffic citations.

City Commission

To Meet Monday

Hereford's city commission will meet in a regular session Monday at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Included on the agenda for the meeting are matters pertaining to a request for the city to abandon part of the right-of-way easement in the DeAtley Addition.

Also to be considered are plans for changes at the city sewer plant as well as the civil defense warning system here.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

We recently decided to offer the use of our station to the youth of the First Baptist Church for a car wash to benefit one of our church families in need.

We were naturally concerned with what could happen to the property and equipment left at their disposal.

Needless to say, these young people were most careful and even picked up every bit of paper and trash.

I will admit that at times it looked like a modern version of "Keystone Kops" with all the vehicles zipping about. I thought Butch probably needed a shampoo with a car wash brush, too.

They made over $500 in about four hours and deserve everyone's thanks. I would be glad to let this fine bunch of kids have the station again for such a nice project.

Benny Womble

Dear Editor,

I would like to voice my strong disapproval of the city's recent decision to celebrate halloween on Thursday, rather than Friday night. The very idea of rescheduling the festivities of a national holiday, so as not to interfere with a local football game is absurd. Despite any good intentions they may have had, all the city managed to do was create a lot of inconvenience, confusion and disappointment for the trick-or-treaters, particularly those whose parents decided their children would be celebrating Halloween on the night it was intended to be celebrated on - Halloween night.

I can hardly wait to see what they've got planned for Thanksgiving.

Sincerely,
Michelle Brisendine

The hustlin' Herd pulled it off Friday night, upsetting the previously undefeated Coronado Mustangs. The game was a complete turn-around from the Plainview contest. There was a "charged-up atmosphere" in Whiteface Stadium as the band and the fans were urging their team to victory throughout the battle.

The Whitefaces' defense was great again, and the offense came to life after going two games without scoring a touchdown. You'll recall the defense scored the two touchdowns against Monterey last week.

and it is regrettable. The willingness of people to fill out forms and reveal their confidential business has been severely damaged. Certain reports made about my finances are politically motivated and I trust the people of this district, who I have served for a number of years, will be able to see through this motivation."

Q-What do you see as the main issue in this senate campaign?

PRICE: "The major overall issue is that people weigh the pros and cons of our national candidates as well as our state and local and decide which philosophy best suits their way of thinking. If you like the way things are, vote Democrat. If you want a change, vote Republican. At the state level, I think it just gets down to which person has had the most experience to deal with the myriad of problems that will be up for consideration when the legislature comes into session in January. I think our area can best be served by my experience, rather than by a novice who has had practically no experience in any field. I am a veteran, which my opponent is not. I served as a jet fighter pilot in Korea. I'm a farmer and rancher. I served in congress eight years and have finished a session in the Texas senate. I have a conservative voting record and I think I am the most qualified person to serve as state senator."

So, the Herd is back in the district race with the best bet being a three-way tie. In that case, a coin toss would determine the playoff team. Hereford still has to beat Lubbock High next Thursday, and the Westerners have always played the Whitefaces tough. And, Coronado has to beat Plainview next week and Monterey the final week.

If the Herd winds up as co-champions with Plainview, the Bulldogs would be in the playoffs as a result of their win over Hereford. Regardless of the final outcome, the Herd did themselves proud this season.

party platform that you object to?

SARPALIUS: "I felt like the Democratic platform could have done more for agriculture, although the Republican platform doesn't have much for agriculture either. The main thing about it is that it is a national platform and I am running for the state senate. There's a big difference. There are some things in the Democratic platform that express what the urban people want and I'm willing to fight more for the view of the rural people."

Q-What do you see as the main issue in this senate campaign?

SARPALIUS: "The main issue is that we need a state senator who would be effective and care about the concerns of the people, go to them and listen to their concerns, then carry them to Austin. Mr. Price has played up experience, yet when he was a senator he didn't pass a single bill. He spent over $95,000, which was twice what Max Sherman did. These figures are from the state audit report. I think the people need somebody who is willing to go down there to Austin and work."

Q-Are there any other major issues you feel are significant to this race?

SARPALIUS: "One matter I feel is significant for Hereford is that Hereford has never had an elected state official before and this is our chance. I hope the people of Hereford will get out and vote and support us in this election. It could help the city of Hereford tremendously. I also feel that the issue of experience has been overplayed. When Mr. Price spent that much money and didn't accomplish anything, you can see the price of his experience. I worked for the speaker of the house for two years and have written bills and lobbied for them and done everything except vote in the legislature, so I know how it's done."

Deal for Hostages Reported by Columnist

CHICAGO (AP) — A deal to exchange the U.S. hostages for military equipment vital to the Iranian war effort against Iraq was sealed two weeks ago in Geneva, Switzerland, according to a copyrighted account published in Saturday's Chicago Sun-Times.

The front-page account, by syndicated columnist Rowland Evans and Robert Novak, said, "The deal was sealed by handshake between Lloyd N. Cutler, President Carter's counsel, and Iranian emissaries in Geneva, Switzerland, a little more than two weeks ago."

The columnists said their sources cited the following "significant facts" in connection with the report of a hostage-release agreement:

"A decision by President Carter to compel release of most Iranian assets by U.S. banks has been reached after weeks of study at the Treasury Department," Evans and Novak wrote.

"The money would be used to finance a 'commodity package" of agricultural, medical and other supplies for immediate delivery to Iran, the columnists said. In addition, they said, $1 billion in Iranian gold assets would be handed over immediately.

"Since the presidential campaign started heating up last summer, they said, "the State Department has formally supported suits brought by the revolutionary government of Iran, which sanctioned the seizure a year ago of the 52 hostages." The suits seek to overturn U.S. District Court judgments against Iran, the columnists said.

Voters Enlightened On Election Laws

Roland Saul, Criminal District Attorney, reported Friday that he had received a list of common violations of the Election Code from the office of the Secretary of State.

Saul said that voters should be aware of the election laws so that they do not violate them inadvertently. Violation of these laws can result in imposition of criminal penalties.

Some of the more common violations include: (1) electioneering within 100 feet of the polling place; (2) improper voter assistance; (3) improperly influencing a voter; (4) voting in more than one precinct; (5) voting when not legally entitled to do so; (6) vote buying; (7) closing the polls early.

More detailed information regarding these violations may be obtained from the Criminal DA's office. Any problems that citizens witness in the election process should be called to the attention of the election judge, and, if necessary, to the DA's office.

UW Extends Campaign; Total Reaches $75,200

United Way officials extended the 1980 campaign for one week as their new total reached $75,200 for 58 percent of the $130,000 goal Friday.

Raymond White, general campaign chairman said "there is every reason to believe that our goal is achievable if every card that gave last year is worked."

Mark Andrews, president of the United Way of Deaf Smith County said that "the Advance Gifts Division had nearly completed their calls and were at 76 percent of their quota with several thousand dollars still anticipated in the over-all amount donated." He praised Bud Eades and the Advance Gifts committee for the $46,184 now in hand.

"We are going to make an effort to contact every worker between now and Wednesday and attempt to have a good report at Friday's last informal report session," White said.

"We think Mike Patrick's Employee Campaign among the firms and organizations with 15 or more employees will net a total figure of $45,000 before completion. To-date $16,199 has been subscribed by hourly workers, most of who are considering Fair Share giving for the first time.

The Special Division has lagged for several weeks and efforts will go forth to improve this group's reporting, according to Troy Wadell, chairman. Among other groups, Agriculture has pledged $1,982 and General has netted $3,366 on its $7,500 goal.

At 58 Percent

Progress on the United Way fundraising drive in Hereford has slowed of late, as a campaign report Friday indicated the drive is now at 58 percent of its goal. Here, UW President Mark Andrews edge the billboard markings a bit higher as General Campaign Chairman Raymond White looks on. UW campaign workers will be focusing special attention on the payroll deduction portion of the drive this week.

Monday Proclaimed Stephen F. Austin Day

Monday has been designated Stephen F. Austin day in Texas in commemoration of his birthday. The proclamation came from Texas Governor Bill Clements.

The history of Texas and Deaf Smith County are intertwined with Austin's life in that he was instrumental in settling 1400 families in Texas in the early 1800's.

In 1821, Austin's father contracted with the Spanish Government to settle 300 families in Texas. He died before the contract was granted but willed it to his son to fulfill the terms. Austin settled these families between the Brazos and Colorado Rivers. Deaf Smith, after whom this county is named, was among Austin's colonists.

Mexico City to secure the colony.

Turkey Walk Underway

Thelma Lamb, public relations chairman for the annual Hereford Division of the American Heart Association Turkey Walk, will be going among various businesses hanging posters informing the public of the annual event to be held Saturday, Nov. 8 at 9 a.m. at Northwest School, east entrance. Winners of the "Turkey Walk" are eligible to win a T-shirt and turkey.

AHA To Sponsor 'Turkey Walk'

The Hereford Division of the American Heart Association will sponsor a "Turkey Walk," benefitting the American Heart Association, Saturday, Nov. 8 beginning at 9 a.m. at Northwest School, east entrance.

The walk will be conducted on the block around Northwest School.

Adolf Hitler wrote "Mein Kampf" in Landsberg prison in 1923 after he was imprisoned for leading the Munich Beer Hall Putsch.

Persons of any age are welcomed to participate in the walk. School age participants may acquire entry forms at their schools. Adults may pick up their forms at Charlie Bell's office at 110 E. Third.

Persons entering the walk will each solicit sponsors who will agree to donate money for each mile walked by the contestant. Entrants acquiring $15 for the Heart Association will be given T-shirts.

Those earning $50 will get a T-shirt and a turkey and those raising $100 will be awarded a T-shirt and two turkeys.

Entrants may walk at their own pace and may stop and rest at anytime.

Following Saturday's walk, contestants will be given a week to collect donations from their sponsors. Money may be turned in and prizes collected on Friday, Nov. 14, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. at Charlie Bell's office.

Bill Sarpalius for 31st Senatorial District

SARPALIUS FOR SENATE

An Effective Conservative

Humanitarian:

Bill Sarpalius and his two brothers were raised at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch. After college graduation, Bill returned to Boys Ranch with his wife, Donna, and his son, David, to work for five years as a staff member and teacher.

Agriculture:

A former State President of the Future Farmers of America, Bill Sarpalius has earned both Bachelor and Masters degrees in Agriculture from Texas Tech University and West Texas State University. He understands the importance agriculture plays in our economy.

Educator:

As a school teacher Bill Sarpalius understands the value of a good education. As a parent, he is concerned with the role quality education plays in the future of our state.

Experience:

Bill Sarpalius understands the Texas Legislative process. He believes that to be an effective State Senator you must make yourself available to the people. Bill intends to do this through the use of a mobile office.

Businessman:

As a businessman, Bill Sarpalius can relate to the problems facing businesses in the 1980's. A longtime District resident, Bill is sensitive to the needs of business in the area.

Vote Reagan

Party purists may not like it, but we're advocating a split ticket in the general election next Tuesday.

We'll vote for Reagan for president and cross over a column and vote for hometown candidate Bill Sarpalius, Democratic hopeful as state senator.

We endorsed and voted for Jimmy Carter in 1976. One big reason was that he whipped the liberals who were controlling the party and appeared to be a man who could live up to his campaign promises. Not long after he won the nomination, however, Carter seemed to change his stance and embrace the philosophies of the Northeastern liberals. The record shows what has happened to this country the last four years.

We believe Ronald Reagan will get this nation back on track by discarding Carter's damaging policies and programs that have wrecked our economy.

Reagan offers hope. Carter offers us a picture of how Reagan will ruin the country. Lacking a good record to defend, the Carter team set out to destroy Reagan with half-truths, whole lies and plain slander. We're not buying their picture of Reagan as a saber-rattling warmonger, nor their claim that the nation will be torn apart without the healing ministry of Carter in the Oval Office.

Rather, we believe Reagan is a strong advocate of the free enterprise system—the one thing that made this country great, and one who truly believes in less federal government controls, regulations and handouts. We think his plans are more nearly in the mainstream of our political system and in the best interests of the state and nation.

We think the Reagan-Bush team is the best choice to lead our nation the next four years.

... and Sarpalius

We are also endorsing Bill Sarpalius, Hereford Democrat, as state senator for the 31st Senatorial District.

The office of state senator is a major post to be filled by voters of the Panhandle, and it is the only contested race in the area for Deaf Smith County citizens.

Personally, we have found Republican Bob Price to be a pleasant and likeable man. However, we don't think he has been effective as our state senator. We expected more from a former U.S. congressman.

Sarpalius, we believe, is a dedicated and conscientious young man who can give us an effective voice in the state senate. He has shown us that trait in his hard-driving campaign, and we think he has the credentials to make us proud we elected him as the first state senator from Hereford.

We urge your consideration in voting for Sarpalius in the general election Tuesday.

Nuclear Energy Hamstrung in U.S.

Japan has made friends with that country's "worst enemy."

After the military bomb burst which obliterated two cities and killed 100,000 people and forced that country's surrender—nobody has more right to fear unharmed nuclear fury than do the Japanese.

So you can be sure any proposal for "nuclear power plants" in that country incited immediate anxiety, skepticism, resistance.

Japanese scientists took a long look at their energy needs, present and future. They explored every conceivable alternative.

Before they concluded that—all things considered—like it or not—the most energy can be produced most cheaply and most safely with nuclear power plants.

So Japan, with three nuclear power plants now in place, has authorized construction of four more every year.

42 countries, other than the United States, are using nuclear energy. More than six percent of the world's electricity is now coming from nuclear reactors: in the United States 13 percent.

And, incidentally, entirely safely. Americans, once alerted by television pictures of rotting barrels of unburied nuclear waste, have since learned—or will within the next 19 seconds—that all of that hereof is mislabeled waste.

If it were a hundred years ago they would have fought against the high lines necessary to carry alternating current to our homes, our factories, our hospitals.

has proved itself to be the best of available options, though other countries are forging full speed ahead with the generation of nuclear power until even the most backward countries threaten to get ahead of us....

In the United States, further progress is hamstrung by a multiplicity of outdated regulations and citizen lawsuits and political fear-mongering.

While the state of Maine has voted in favor of nuclear power, in five other states the issue will be on the ballot in November: Missouri and Oregon, South Dakota and Montana and Washington.

In Missouri, what's called "Proposition Eleven" could stop that state from building new nuclear power plants and shut down the one already 70 percent complete.

Fear-mongers are focusing on waste disposal which has now become a manageable problem in other states and other countries.

The consensus of the world's most knowledgeable scientists and statesmen and environmentalists is that nuclear energy—of all options—is presently the most efficient, most safe and least costly way to produce electricity. Yet some of our least knowledgeable, least expert, are the most vocal.

About Sarpalius, Proposed Amendments

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to your editorial endorsement of Bill Sarpalius a few weeks ago and prior to Sarpalius' statement that he does not support the Democrat Party's platforms as reported in Globe-News on October 22, 1980.

In the political arena, we all need to know who stands for what. Maybe it isn't so in today's changed Democrat Party, but we Republicans have a philosophy and principles which we first believe in and then in convention we formulate platforms from resolutions originating from precinct meetings across the nation. Thus, we Republicans support our platforms. Further, we recognize a person's right to change but if he disavows our platform based on our philosophy and principles then we recognize that he is no longer a Republican. I suspect this similarity is the case with the Democrats.

Now if Sarpalius is not a genuine Democrat, then what is he?

I notice his ads often refer to his experience when working for the Speaker of the House. I have been unsuccessful in finding any endorsement by Bill Clayton of Sarpalius, of his work, or of his potential to be a senator. This is strange since Sarpalius announced before Clayton's problem hit the media, and considering Sarpalius' remarks at that time, I suspect their relationship would be zero today.

Further, considering Speaker Clayton's position in the House and in the Legislature, I question Sarpalius' possible effectiveness. Particularly since the leadership of the Senate is also Democrat. Professional politicians have long memories and a turn-coat probably never recovers.

For a while Sarpalius' ads bragged about his record as a member of the teaching profession. Isn't it strange that both the Texas State Teachers Association and the Amarillo Classroom Teachers Association have endorsed Senator Bob Price for reelection. Maybe he wasn't such a good teacher or member of that great profession, after all.

And, he claims to be a businessman. In my book, there is a vast difference in experience in being boss and in being an employee in the business world. I recognize the emotionalism attached to Boys Ranch, but as a youth there, he did not have to be concerned with paying bills, keeping food on the table, etc.,—for this was provided.

Thus, knowing the Brand's great service to this community and your concern for West Texas' future, I wonder if you still are sustained in your endorsement?

Experience is the issue and Bob Price is the only one with any of significance. Few, very few colts become racehorses, and then only after much training and testing. With so much at stake, why bet on someone so changeable and unproven as Bill Sarpalius?

Sincerely,
Garth B. Thomas

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Our policy is not to respond to letters to the editor unless we are specifically requested to do so. Since Mr. Thomas asks a few questions of The Brand, we feel obligated to reply.)

Dear Mr. Thomas: Yes, we are still sustained in our endorsement of Bill Sarpalius. It may both please and displease you to learn that we are also endorsing Ronald Reagan, a Republican.

Your support for Bob Price is commendable and not unexpected since you're the county GOP chairman. Even as a party loyalist, however, I question your reference to Sarpalius as a turn-coat because he didn't embrace all the planks of his party's platform.

You know, as well as anyone, that it will take a lot of political "turn-coats" for Reagan to be elected president. If all the voters who went to the Democratic primary voted the strict party line in November, the candidates could save their breath and money in Texas.

We happen to think that a lot of "registered Democrats" will vote for Reagan. I don't buy the Price slogan that "experience is the issue," just as I don't think you'd go for it in the presidential race.

What we have here, I believe, is a friendly disagreement concerning party loyalty. You vote your straight party ticket and I'll vote my split ticket.

With me, and others, voting that way, you may lose a state senator but—just think, you may get a President!

Dear Editor:

There are nine proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution which we will have an opportunity to vote on this November 4, 1980. The language contained on the voting ballots is not the actual wording of each proposed amendment. Copies of the amendments in their entirety are posted at the Courthouse on the 2nd floor. All of the proposed amendments are complicated, and should be reviewed by each voter prior to election day.

Of particular concern to me is proposed amendment number 9. As a citizen of this community, with strong pro-family convictions, I am hopeful that all voters will review in detail Amendment 9.

Texas law as it presently stands gives integrity to the role of the housewife and her contribution to the family. The Texas Family Code and the Texas Constitution recognize that the marital venture is a joint venture, co-partnership, with the role of wife and motherhood equal to any other venture that we as women may find ourselves engaged in.

There is no one in this community who is more concerned about women's rights and their opportunities than I. Much controversy surrounds the Equal Rights Amendment, and perhaps rightfully so. But it is very important for citizens with pro-family convictions to understand the negative result which may be accomplished if proposed amendment number 9 is passed in this State.

The community property system in Texas recognizes that a woman who fulfills the roles of wife and mother exclusive of any vocation or occupation of her own is a co-partner in a joint venture, marriage. Those against passage of the amendment recognize that the community property system as it presently exists has protected the vast majority of all spouses, and no compelling reasons have been offered for changing the system as it presently stands. I agree.

It is my firm conviction that passage of proposed amendment number 9 will be an additional invasion into the family unit which has so long been the foundation of our country.

Sincerely yours,
Schalan Atkinson

THE DEBATE

Johnny Carson called the upcoming election the evil of two lessors.

I listened to the debate the other night. I was reminded of a poster I saw the first day I was at seminary. The poster said, "Six munces ago, I cudden even spell preacher. Now, I are one."

Have you noticed how the candidates pronounce government?

Carter pronounces it — Guv-e-ment
Reagan pronounces it — Guv-ment
Anderson pronounces it — Gubern'ment
It is kinda frightening to elect a man to run something he can't even pronounce.

I have heard a great deal of talk about the debate. Some folks say it was not a debate at all. They say it was just a forum for restating the positions of the candidates.

These folks are wrong. This was a debate in the truest sense of the word. What these folks are missing is the time-honored rules of debate. Debate has some rules far different than any other rules in society.

In debate, a lie is not a lie unless your opponent catches it. I debated in college, rather poorly, but I debated. My whole case was built on this concept. If I did not have the facts, I made them up.

In debate it isn't what you prove, it's what you disprove.

A good debater ignores his own stuff and goes after the opponent's stuff.

In debate you become an expert at almost saying something. It isn't what you say it's how it sounds. It isn't the facts, it's how you avoid the issue.

Someone said, "A good debater talks with both forks of his tongue." Given the rules of debate and definition of a good debater, what we saw the other night was a real debate!

Warm fuzzies,
Doug Manning

Bootleg Philosopher

Pollsters Missed TV Commercials

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith grass farm reviews political TV commercials this week, in his own way.

Dear Editor:

There have been polls taken on nearly everything the pollsters can think of, including how many children wish they had different parents and how many parents wish they had different children, but I've never seen a poll on what voters think of candidates' TV commercials.

During the recent campaign I watched those commercials. When a regular program stops five minutes early, you know a political ad is coming on. How many votes did they swing one way or another? Why didn't some pollsters get after this?

My guess is they didn't have much effect, due to the fact grown-ups are for the most part as smart as kids who have found out breakfast cereal commercials are three-fourths hokum and the regular programs are not to be taken seriously. A kid knows that when the hero is shot the shells were blanks and he'll turn up alive and well on another program next week. Surely most grown-ups can catch on to when the candidates too are firing blanks.

For the most part, TV political ads remind me of the soap commercials where, six months after dozens of different women have appeared in the same ad, all surprised at what the soap can do, still another woman shows up surprised to beat the band that the detergent will get white things whiter and keep babies drier.

I'd like to see a post-election poll on how many voters were persuaded by TV political commercials, with allowances made for those who stepped into another room at the time.

Each Presidential candidate spent about 18 million dollars on TV ads. The soap companies paid for their ads, the taxpayers paid for the candidates' ads.

By the way, that poll on parents and children? I came out about even.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Working Wives Make Stressful Husbands

By LOUISE WALKER
County Extension Agent

Election day is upon us! In fact, Tuesday is the decisive day. Whatever you do, take time to vote. And while you're voting, remember, we live in the greatest country in the world. Be thankful, you can go to the polls and vote as you wish without any string attached.

I know there's lots of things going on in our country that we don't like. But think again, there's a whole lot of things that are great and unique to our country. Freedom is the basis of the greatness of our country. The Bill of Rights guaranteed us freedom of religion, speech and press. And that means a lot.

Go vote! Be proud of your country! Things could be a lot worse.

LLL

WORKING WIVES—STRESSFUL HUSBANDS?

Do "working wives" make husbands stressful? After an initial period of adjustment, the wife's employment does not contribute to marital discord or to stress experienced by the husband, studies show.

Indications are that a husband whose wife is employed enjoys a happier marriage and is under less stress than a man who is married to a wife that is unhappy in her housework role.

However, much depends on individual circumstance, including the wife's satisfaction with her employment, management of household and family responsibilities and attitudes of all family members.

For instance, because of the necessary shifting of roles and responsibilities within the family when the wife works outside the home, there are areas of adjustment which could contribute to marital conflict or stress.

If maintaining a job extends the work week of the wife as she handles both wage work and family work, this naturally leaves a smaller amount of time allocated for personal attention to the spouse.

Some husbands feel neglected and resentful of the changes brought about by the extra demands of the wife's time.

Husbands of working wives must also find it necessary to become involved to a greater extent in responsibilities related to home and child care.

For some husbands, this requires not only a shift in attitudes but also the development of new skills.

There are other cases where the husband is called upon to adjust his own career plans in order to support those of his wife.

Specific cases arise when there is a career opportunity in a separate location or when the husband postpones a career move to allow the wife to complete schooling or other preparation for employment.

If the husband has maintained dominance in the marriage relationship, the wife's employment may prompt her to seek a more equalitarian relationship.

Contribution of income to the household provides incentive for many women to want a more active role in decision-making.

However, another perspective on women's employment reduces or eliminates some of the stress traditionally borne by the husband.

The husband is no longer totally responsible for family income. Added income may also provide extra benefits for all family members.

The wife's employment may permit the husband to consider other options or to secure training that would permit job promotion or job changes.

Marriage and family relationships may improve because of new job satisfactions gained by the wife from employment.

The husband may gain broader experiences as he shares responsibilities for traditional "wife" duties.

Deeper relationships with children may develop as the father becomes more involved in their activities.

Decision-making may become more democratic in nature. Shared decision-making may lessen the load of responsibility as well as permit greater involvement by those the decisions affect.

At Wits End By ERMA BOMBECK

They tell me it takes centuries to bring about social change, years of battling prejudices, old habits and traditions.

That is why I can't start too soon to reverse a trend that has plagued women for the last 200 years...dancing backwards. A woman dancing backwards is like a dog dancing on his hind legs. He does it. But not well.

By last count there were only six women in this country who enjoyed dipping and swaying in reverse. They were all quite strange and listed among their other turn-ons: backing into a hot stove, flying in reverse and facing the rear of elevators.

The rest of the women enter a dance arena, raise their right arms like they're priming a pump and allow themselves to be shoved around like a broom.

Most of the dance floor accidents can be blamed on men who have no business leading without a license. Put a few drinks in some of them and the moment the music starts, they pull you out of your chair and throw you in reverse like a tractor with a bad clutch.

I personally have been blindly and without feeling shoved into the path of other dancers, orchestras, chairs, buffet tables, potted plants, bananas flambe, a cloakroom, a few dark corners, and once when a crazy man let go of me I found myself at the front of a line in a restroom and barely got out with my life.

One theory men advance is that it's just another form of pain a woman must bear, such as giving birth and skiing with a handbag. I say to them God never meant for women to dance backwards.

If He had, He would have given us curb feelers growing out of our ankles to keep us from bumping into things.

He would have given us pivotal vision so that we didn't have to turn our necks full circle to see who our partners were talking to.

He would never have allowed the open-toed shoe to be.

But mostly in His infinite compassion, He would have installed automatic fork lifts in our legs as standard equipment so that we might not be able to see where we're going, but at least could see where we'd been.

I've discussed this many times with my husband who shrugs and says, "Look, it's a rotten job, but someone has to do it." I don't accept that. Furthermore, I would say to all men, do not judge as until you have danced backwards in our open-toed shoes.

Experience is the issue.

The 80's. As we enter a new decade, we face serious and growing challenges in the economy, energy, agriculture, education. To solve these problems—to make the important decisions which will affect all our lives for years to come—will take more than just good intentions. It'll take experience and leadership.

The kind of experience and leadership we have in Bob Price. Bob Price. Farmer, rancher, businessman. Experienced as our former congressman for eight years. Effective as our state senator for the last three years. A leader in Austin.

Energy

Bob Price knows we must fully and rapidly develop alternate sources of energy to help control inflation and expand the area's economy. As a member of the Senate Natural Resources Committee, he passed bills to encourage production and sale of gasohol utilizing Texas grain crops (S.B. 988) and to promote solar and wind-powered energy production (S.B. 204).

The Economy

As our congressman for eight years, Bob Price worked for policies to promote more jobs and better wages for our area's working men and women. As our State Senator, Bob continues to reach these goals through legislation which encourages new industry; through tax and budget reform and through elimination of governmental interference and over-regulation of business.

Education

Bob Price is committed to quality public education and fair wages for teachers, and feels these goals can be accomplished without increasing taxes. Bob knows that we must properly train the future leaders of Texas in the schools of today.

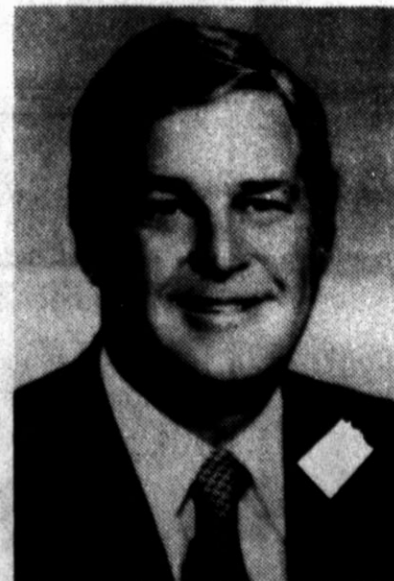

Agriculture

As a working farmer and rancher, Bob Price knows the problems facing this vital industry and those who provide services and products to the agricultural community. In the last session, Bob's version of S.B. 1321—a landmark piece of legislation—provided authority for the Ogallala Water Import Authority which will allow planning for desperately needed water for the area. Bob also passed the Family Farm Security Act which was overwhelmingly approved by voters in November, 1979.

We face one of the most important peacetime elections in years. On November 4th, remember:

Experience is the issue.

Bob Price is the answer.

Walcott Announces Its Newest Personnel

Walcott Independent School District has announced the addition of personnel. Joe and Billie Murray, a husband-wife team, will serve as the school's new maintenance custodian and cook. The Murrys moved from Amarillo and have two children enrolled in the area schools. Chris, 15, is a sophomore at Hereford High School, and Alain, 13, is a seventh grader at Walcott School.

Rene Eicke is the secretary for the school district this year.

Mrs. Eicke was raised in Hereford and attended both the Walcott and Hereford Schools. She also attended West Texas State University. Before she and her husband, Ted, moved to Walcott, Mrs. Eicke worked with the HISD.

Dinner Slated Today

St. Anthony's Women's Organization will sponsor a "Mexican Fiesta Dinner" today from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. in St. Anthony's Cafeteria. Live entertainment will be provided throughout the dinner. Cost of the dinner is $3.75 for adults, $2.25 for children six to 10 years of age, and $1 for children five and under. Enchiladas, tacos, beans and rice are on the menu. Spending a lot of time in the kitchen preparing for the event have been from left, Linda Dominguez, Vickie Valdez and Nina Vera. Proceeds from this event will go to various projects sponsored by the organization.

Home Economics Staff Gives Step-by-Step Shopping Rules

COLLEGE STATION - Doing the best job of food buying starts before you walk into the supermarket: it begins with inventory, meal planning and a "super shopping list."

That's how Marilyn Haggard, a foods and nutrition specialist, sums up food buying, and she also has a step-by-step technique for success.

Ms. Haggard is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

TAKE INVENTORY -- Take inventory of the food in your cabinets, refrigerator and freezer. This information helps you use food ads a bit later to plan meals on a weekly basis.

Plan meals on a weekly basis. Involve family members in the plans. They can help with menu selection and in assuring variety.

This "pre-planning" a week ahead helps you make use of seasonal best buys, specials and coupons--and that saves money.

Planning menus on a weekly basis also helps cut down "impulse buying," and it answers the ever-present question, "What shall I fix for dinner?"

MAKE 'SUPER SHOPPING LIST'--Once you've taken inventory and planned your meals, make a "super shopping list."

This starts with a "running" grocery list. It's a list you keep in a handy place in the kitchen so you can jot down food items on it during the week as supplies run low. Near your list, keep coupons and food ads--to keep the whole system efficient.

BUYING STEPS -- Before you go to the store, organize your coupons and group your shopping list by areas of the store. This helps eliminate time and added steps.

Eat before shopping -- you'll probably do less impulse buying if you aren't hungry.

Follow your shopping list, but be flexible--so you can take advantage of unadvertised specials.

The Newspaper Bible

HELP A BROTHER; DON'T KNOCK HIM
You have no right to criticize your brother or look down on him. Remember, each of us will stand personally before the Judgment Seat of God.

For it is written, "As I live," says the Lord, "every knee shall bow to me and every tongue confess to God."

Yes, each of us will give an account of himself to God. So don't criticize each other any more. Try instead to live in such a way that you will never make your brother stumble by letting him see you doing something he thinks is wrong.

As for myself, I am perfectly sure on the authority of the Lord Jesus that there is nothing really wrong with eating meat that has been offered to idols. But if someone believes it is wrong, then he shouldn't do it because for him it is wrong.

And if your brother is bothered by what you eat, you are not acting in love if you go ahead and eat it. Don't let your eating ruin someone for whom Christ died.

Don't do anything that will cause criticism against yourself even though you know that what you do is right. For, after all, the important thing for us as Christians is not what we eat or drink but stirring up goodness and peace and joy from the Holy Spirit.

If you let Christ be Lord in these affairs, God will be glad; and so will others. In this way aim for harmony in the church and try to build each other up.

Federation District Chairman Gives Program to Study Club

Roberta Campbell, Federation District chairman on International Policy gave a program on "Hot Spots of the World," to members of Pioneer Study Club recently at K-Bob's Steak House.

Miss Campbell gave a sketch of all the hot spots in the world and stressed that club women should have a program of education (of self, family and friends) on the critical issues facing our country and an awareness of the far-reaching effects that our country's International Policies have on our lives. "A strong National Defense is necessary to our survival. The peace and security of our world is threatened, as recently experienced in Iran and Afghanistan; therefore, we feel that the women of this country must co-ordinate their efforts to keep the United States the world leader it has always been. Study, learn, be informed, write or talk to your elected representatives," stated Miss Campbell.

Prior to the program, members enjoyed a luncheon with hostesses Mmes. H.E. Miller, Frank Ball, and John Heard.

Tables were decorated with arrangements of fall flowers. The invocation was given by Miss Campbell while Mrs. W.C. Hromas gave the pledge of allegiance and pledge to Texas Flag.

Mrs. Paul Rudd discussed "Consumer Concern - Understanding the Market Place." She emphasized the importance of market basket surveys, by using posters and charts to develop her subject. Mrs. Rudd distributed copies of the Consumer information catalog to each member and asked that they fill out a ballot, "make your mark in the fight against inflation," these will be sent by G.F.W.C. to our nations leaders in Washington," Mrs. Rudd said.

The business session was presided over by Mmes. R.L. Wilson, L.H. Lookingbill Sr., and Ray Johnson who gave reports of T.F.W.C. Top of Texas board meeting and workshop held in Perryton recently.

The next scheduled meeting will be Nov. 11 at K-Bob's Steak House with Mmes. A. Petersen, O.G. Hill Sr., and M.L. Simpson as hostesses.

New Best Sellers Added to List

By DIANNE PIERSON Librarian
Four best sellers will be available on the list of new books this week at the Deaf Smith County Library.

Cynthia Freeman, author of the popular best sellers, PORTRAITS and A WORLD FULL OF STRANGERS, has written another best seller. COME POUR THE WINE takes Cynthia Freeman's newest heroine on a journey of self-discovery. It begins with her arrival in New York from Kansas as a naive nineteen-year old, terrified, with little sense of herself or origin. It proceeds through marriage and motherhood, separation and divorce. The novel comes to fullest flower when at age forty-five, she meets a man who gives her not only a renewed sense of her Jewish heritage, but also offers her a chance for total fulfillment as a woman. COME POUR THE WINE is Cynthia Freeman's most insightful and moving novel, an intimate journey into the many and varied dimensions of the human heart.

For the mystery enthusiasts, Lawrence Sanders has written another best seller entitled, THE TENTH COMMANDMENT. His central character is Joshua Bigg, who is a very short chief investigator for a very offbeat law firm, that finds the link between one client's apparent suicide and the disappearance of another. TENTH COMMANDMENT is another brilliant and spellbinding tale of murder and suspense. Other popular books by Lawrence Sanders include THE SIXTH COMMANDMENT and THE FIRST DEADLY SIN. THE ORIGIN, a biographical novel of Charles Darwin by Irving Stone is currently number 7 on the best seller list. From his 1831 voyage aboard the H.M.S. Beagle to his death in 1882, Charles Darwin experiences grueling sea passages, conducts demanding scientific research, and encounters opposition to his theory of evolution. THE ORIGIN fills an important gap in the literature on Charles Darwin.

On the non-fiction best seller list is GOODYBYE DARKNESS, which is a remarkable memoir of the Pacific War by William Manchester. Haunted by nightmares of war and by an overpowering sense of irrevocable loss, he returns to the hallowed islands where thousands of his generation gave their lives. Manchester again walks the beaches where Americans attacked the Japanese. He again climbs the once-murderous trails he had known as a scared young sergeant leading his section of college students who had enlisted after Pearl Harbor into combat.

In a stirring moment informed by the accumulated emotional drama of thirty-five years, Manchester unexpectedly finds himself at his final destination on Okinawa's Sugar Loaf Hill, where in nine days, 7,547 Marines fell, near the spot where on a distant June morning in 1945, he also had been gravely wounded and left for dead. Standing where he nearly lost his life, Manchester arrives at a profound understanding of the meaning of war and why he fought, and of an America so changed from his youthful expectations.

GOODYBYE DARKNESS is an intense, impassioned and highly personal work. New books will be available at 9 A.M. on Monday. OTHER LIBRARY HAPPENINGS... Thursday 10:00 A.M. Public Story Hour (preschoolers).

Hereford Upsets 7th Ranked Mustangs

By MAURI MONTGOMERY
Brand Sports Editor

The previously unbeaten, 7th ranked and heavily favored Coronado Mustangs trick or treated themselves to death here Friday night after an apparently candied 9-3 lead over the district upstart Hereford Whitefaces melted, not in their hands, but in their throat en route to a losing 21-11 choke ball game.

Hereford, now the league's officially acclaimed Cinderella club - working nothing but weekly miracles, kept its playoff hopes alive going into the final week of play following a second half scoring spree that was initially spooked into existence by free safety Norman Hill's interception (the defender had three to his credit against CHS) of a Brian Brock pass to Mike Alenius in opening third quarter play.

The win pushed the Whitefaces to a 2-1 mark in conference play and 7-2 on the year while Coronado dipped to 1-1 and 7-1 overall. And even though the thriving Herd still has a shot at the district playoff berth, the best the squad could fare would be a three-way tie - that providing Coronado is able to overrule the league's currently undefeated Plainview Bulldogs next Friday night.

Plainview rests at 2-0 after rolling over Lubbock Monterey 20-14 and will win the loop battle outright if it wins over CHS.

But that realization didn't take anything away from HHS head mentor Don Cump-ton's appraisal of his wonder club's victory. As far as he was concerned, the Whitefaces could have just won the Superbowl.

"This was one super effort on this team's part because we've been pressed up against the wall for two straight weeks in a row and we've come out of it like champions," he said. "The kids knew what they had to do in order to keep our hopes alive in the district race and they did the job well, so I'm interception there in the third quarter. That was the turning point - the interception and the time Coronado was unable to score after we fumbled the ball away on the opening kickoff in the second half. If the Mustangs had been able to score then, it might have been a whole different ball game," he said.

Before a Halloween gathering of approximately 4,500, the Mustangs looked as if they might add on to their existing first-half 9-3 bounty after Ricky Fuentes lost the handle on the opening second-half kickoff only to have Coronado recover on the HHS 31.

The Lubbock team envisioned a touchdown from there, the throng of Hereford fans had hopes they wouldn't hurt their team with another score and the Herd never thought about it - they just pulled another miracle out of their hat as all-district defensive end Aubrey Richburg rushed in and swallowed up fullback Len Levine's coughed up carry on the 30-yard line.

Two unsuccessful drives later, but drives that ironically didn't leave the Whitefaces in bad field position after Don Delozier sent a punt from the HHS 42 all the way to the CHS one-yard line, the Mustangs committed another of their six costly turnovers in the clash.

CHS signal caller Brian Brock rolled out and tossed a 20-yarder to receiver Mike Alenius only to have it snagged by Hill with 3:32 remaining in the third period.

Taking over on the free safety's return to the CHS 40, the Whitefaces then ate up more than three minutes on the board before Matt Collier

Hot Pursuit

Noseguard Barry Josserand (66) fights off a Mustang lineman in an attempt to get his hands on quarterback Brian Brock (14). The HHS defensive crew was lauded for its ability to keep the top-billed CHS attack from running rampant, and managed to thwart several key Lubbock drives en route to the Whitefaces second straight district win in as many weeks. The victory enables Hereford to retain its bid for championship honors in the 4-5A league as it heads into the final tilt of the year next Thursday against the winless Lubbock High Westerners. (Brand photo by Mauri Montgomery) rifled off a 28 yard halfback pass completion to a diving Don Delozier down to the Mustang three. Two brief plays later, Hereford took command of the tilt as tailback Jeff Coupe jogged into the endzone with :56 remaining. Scott Daniels connected for his second score (his first coming as a game tying 25-yard field goal in the first quarter) and the Herd held a 10-9 advantage.

Norman Hill had a super-super game tonight," said Cump-ton happily contemplating the events of the evening. "He had three interceptions for the night and they were all keys to the game. And that pass Delozier caught from Matt ranked right up there in the big play category."

"But the main thing was our defense's ability to keep us close throughout the game," he said. "That's what we had set out to do. Coronado had been notorious for being able to score a lot in the early stage of each game they played, and all we wanted to do was stay in striking distance of them. They're big and tough, so we wanted to try and wear them out early while keeping close to them. And our defense did everything we asked of 'em."

"We had a bunch of big plays tonight though. The fumble recovery we got after losing that return was a big factor. Coronado should have had a score out of it, but as it turned out, we were at the right place at the right time."

But the miscues weren't over for the startled Mustang crew - they were only beginning.

Six seconds into the final period of the game, running back Kerry Wimberly (the CHS squad's second leading rusher with 42 yards on seven carries behind tailback Jason Owen's 50 on 27 attempts) fumbled on his own 38 and Hereford linebacker Gary Parman pounced on the pigskin at the 33-yard line.

The Whitefaces, at that point, then ground out two first downs to the CHS eight (both of those came on eight yard carries by Hereford's leading ground gainer Harold Terry with 57 yards on 19 tries). And the effort was made complete again as quarterback Alan Wartes sent a touchdown pass spiraling to an awaiting Don Delozier with 9:11 showing. Daniels added the PAT and Hereford increased its lead to 17-9.

At the time, Coronado had to wondering just where they had gone. What had happened to this formerly unscathed and top-ranked squad? And they were soon faced with the grim realities as Hill (who missed three possible interceptions besides several he managed to pull down) stole another throw off a panicking Brock and the disgruntled offensive Mustang unit at 4:35 left in the contest.

As had been the case before, the Herd didn't let the opportunity pass without sniff-

Vote for Greater Banking Convenience

Passage of Proposition 1 on the November 4th ballot will open the door to even greater banking convenience. This simple change in the law will allow Texas banks to place unmanned teller machines at convenient locations for faster service, night or day. These teller machines are becoming a convenient option for handling routine banking business.

"Round-the-clock banking at unmanned tellers is convenient, safe and a positive step toward avoiding unnecessary credit card use. . . moreover, it is an energy saver - instead of traveling across town to a bank, an unmanned teller can be built in your neighborhood."
— San Angelo Standard-Times

Proposition 1 "will make life easier for bank customers. . . (it) will eliminate many, if not all, of the tortuous lines seen clogging drive-in bank lanes."
— Houston Chronicle

Proposition 1 "has gained widespread support as the amendment faces voters Nov. 4."
— Orange Leader

"Off-premises unmanned teller machines should be approved by Texas voters."
— San Antonio Light

People in forty other states already have this convenient banking choice. It's time Texans did, too.

Vote for Proposition 1 November 4th.

Leading Rusher

Hereford tailback Harold Terry (9) strays wide of blocker Brent Self (35), and bundles up the ball in preparation for his crash into a wall of Coronado Mustang defenders during the Herd's 24-11 upset victory over the 7th ranked Lubbock team here Friday night. Terry, although not breaking the game wide open in the rushing department, pushed and shoved his way to 57 yards on the night to earn honors as the HHS team's leading ground gainer during the winning effort. The win boosted Hereford's district mark to 2-1 and advanced the crew's season slate to 7-2. (Brand photo by Mauri Montgomery)

Wildcats Dash Killeen Hopes

By ALAN SAYRE

Associated Press Writer
Defending state champion Temple dashed the upset hopes of an arch-rival to post its 48th straight regular-season victory while Corsicana shocked Ennis in a battle of top-ranked Class 4A schoolboy football teams Friday night.

Quarterback Brett Stafford ran for two touchdowns and threw for another as Temple — rated first among 5A teams in The Associated Press schoolboy football poll — blasted Killeen, 31-9.

The Wildcats have not lost a non-playoff contest since Killeen beat them on the final night of the 1975 season.

James Richardson returned the second-half kickoff for a score as Corsicana scored two touchdowns in three minutes to stun previously unbeaten Ennis, 21-6.

Corsicana entered the clash as the seventh-ranked squad in Class 4A, while Ennis held down the No. 9 spot.

Besides Ennis, two other top-ranked teams took it on the chin during the ninth weekend of the Texas schoolboy season.

Lubbock Coronado, ranked No. 7 in 5A, was upset by Hereford, 24-11, while Baird, the ninth-rated team in 2A, suffered a shocking 40-13 loss to Hamlin.

Fourth-ranked Beaumont Hebert in 4A had to settle for a 10-10 tie with Jasper, but took the advantage in district play with a 12-11 edge in first downs.

Should the two teams tie for the district lead, Hebert would advance to the playoffs.

Anthony Thomas scored the tying touchdown in the fourth quarter for Jasper, while Hebert's 10 points came in the second quarter on an 8-yard scoring pass from Wilbert Brown to Tommy Granger and Gerald Broussard's 35-yard field goal.

Jasper drew first blood with a 26-yard field goal by Raymond Cowart in the opening quarter.

In other games involving top-ranked 5A teams, No. 2 Port Arthur Jefferson blasted Port Arthur Lincoln, 37-6; third-rated Odessa Permian blanked Midland Lee, 13-0; Conroe, No. 4, trounced Spring Klein, 27-7; and Bryan, in the fifth spot, overran Killeen Ellison, 35-8.

No. 6 Highland Park defeated North Garland, 24-10; eighth-rated Plano stomped Richardson Berkner, 45-10; Brazoswood, ranked ninth, whitewashed Victoria, 21-0; and 10th-seeded Stafford Dulles posted a 20-7 win over Victoria Stroman.

Running back Bobby Booker ran for 167 yards and two touchdowns as Bay City — No. 1 in 4A — demolished Brazosport, 52-0.

Second-ranked Gainesville finished off Fort Worth finishing a score in the process. And how could they? Hill's 34-yard runback had placed them on the Mustang one. What the heck, they scored!

From one-yard and goal-to-go junior signal caller Alan Wartes sneaked his way to paydirt with 4:33 showing. Daniels drilled the extra point and the ball game was over.

The top-billed Mustangs were granted one last treat for all their costly tricks as the Herd opted to take a safety rather than a punt with just over a minute showing till the conclusion of the stunning 24-11 conflict.

Coronado made a futile attempt to score once more in those remaining seconds of play after it wheeled its way to the 50, but the squad's scoring had ended when receiver John Lord completed a short three-yard pass from Roland Boswell in second quarter play. The CHS PAT had gone the route of the Mustang squad's whole performance. It had been blocked.

White Maturing as Quarterback

ST. LOUIS (AP) — You really can't blame the St. Louis Cardinals if they're worried about what legerdemain to expect next from Danny White's bag of tricks.

The San Diego Chargers momentarily forgot about the fifth-year Dallas quarterback's sleight of hand last week. Partially as a result, the Cowboys emerged with a 42-31 triumph which kept their National Football League division title hopes burning brightly.

"Danny White has really matured," St. Louis Coach Jim Hanifan said of the 28-year-old successor to all-time Dallas quarterbacking great Roger Staubach.

"I think Tom Landry and his coaches were pretty well convinced of this," Hanifan said. "When Landry had made the statement that he's the smartest quarterback that he's had, that takes in a pretty wide group."

Hanifan said he was impressed not only by White's runs of 19 and 12 yards off fake punts against San Diego but also by other facets of the Cowboys' performance as well.

"For the most part, they were able to give White the time he needed," the Cards' coach said of pass blocking by members of the Dallas offensive line. "They still play fine defense. They're just tougher than all get-out to run the ball against."

Landry, the Cowboys' head coach, agreed in principle with what Hanifan said.

"I feel good about things, because we had so far to come," he said of a team which has been forced to rebuild its secondary. "The defense especially is making the plays."

Salute To Local Business

Thomas' Texaco

Thomas' Texaco, formerly Rusty's Texaco, is located at 800 West First in Hereford. The station was purchased by Thomas Cockrum about two weeks ago, and is open from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week.

"We try to give the best, full service we can," the new owner says. "If a customer isn't satisfied with one of our jobs, we'll do it over."

Thomas' Texaco features pick up and delivery service after 11 a.m. each day, offering all types of minor service such as tune ups and brake jobs, installation of mufflers and shocks, washing and grease jobs, and oil changes. They stock Interstate batteries, and handle Gates and Dayco belts and hoses.

Oilers, Broncos Pit Rushing Games

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer
DENVER (AP) — As the rest of the National Football League moves into an era of greater emphasis on the pass, the Houston Oilers and Denver Broncos seem locked in a time warp.
When they meet here today, it may be reminiscent of Miami's Super Bowl teams of the early 1970s or Denver's Super Bowl club three years ago — teams which were ultra-conservative on offense, staying predominantly on the ground and putting the ball in the air only as a diversionary tactic.
The Oilers, going mostly with a two-tight end offense after acquiring Dave Casper from Oakland, seem content to run the ball about 70 percent of the time. That strategy is designed to take advantage of the obvious talents of running back Earl Campbell, who has topped 200 yards rushing the past two games and has a chance to become the first player in NFL history to do it three straight games.

"The main reason we acquired Casper was so we could run both ways," noted Houston Coach Bum Phillips, who positions tight ends Mike Barber and Casper on the right and left sides of the line, respectively. "We've been running the ball well. We think that's what we do best."
The Broncos aren't as resolute in their offensive philosophy. To be sure, Denver kept the ball on the ground in last week's 14-9 triumph over the New York Giants. Otis Armstrong rushed for 106 yards and Jim Jensen for 92 as the Broncos generated a season-high 212 yards on the ground, and Denver went to the air only 20 times. But that style of play was dictated mainly by the strong winds and cold temperatures which made throwing and catching the ball difficult.

Still, Denver seems reluctant to give free rein to offensive coordinator Rod Dowhower, who was hired with the intention of installing a controlled passing offense.
Head Coach Red Miller says he prefers "a good balance between the run and the pass, unlike what Houston is doing." But in the same breath he says, echoing a long-standing NFL coaches' refrain, "When you get your running game going, it makes your passing attack more effective. And we have our running game going pretty good right now."
Clearly, these are two coaches who don't feel much more comfortable with the pass than did the legendary Woody Hayes.

But that's not to say that the Oilers and Broncos don't have the ability to throw. Ken Stabler, a Bronco tormenter for many years with the Raiders, is completing 65 percent of his passes this season for Houston. And Denver's Craig Morton, who is expected to start Sunday despite a mild concussion, is hitting on 58 percent.
Houston brings a 5-3 record into the contest, and is tied with Cleveland for first place in the American Conference's Central Division. Denver, which has had defensive problems after losing three starters to injuries, is 4-4 but just a game back of AFC West co-leaders San Diego and Oakland.

Whistling Wings

...Where There's Water And Cover...

By Jim Steiert

Member

TOWA TEXAS OUTDOOR WRITERS ASSOCIATION

Water is always where you find it in this neck of the woods and waterfowl will logically be found where the water is.

For that reason, waterfowl hunters may have to search a bit more this year to come upon the choice locations for their sport.

While points in northwestern and western Deaf Smith County are usually excellent for duck and goose hunting, some locally heavy storms late in the summer may have created conditions favoring a shift to the more easterly areas of the county by waterfowl this year, where favorable rains helped to fill the playas.

We got word from TOWA president Kenny Redin of Plainview Friday that the Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge is already harboring something like 15,000 sandhill cranes, and that the normally dry lakes down there in that area are holding water due to a freak storm that dropped a lot of moisture.

To add to that fact, there's an abundance of feedgrains planted down there in the area surrounding the refuge this year, so we may see some of the waterfowl that normally hang out up here move on to points a little farther to the south of us.

We still need some cold weather in southeastern Colorado to really start the migration of waterfowl into the Deaf Smith County area, although there are a few scattered numbers of geese beginning to appear on our playas.

With the right weather conditions, however, we could still stand to realize a relatively good waterfowling season.

The shotgun sport that has interest peaking at the moment, however, is the upcoming pheasant season, which is just over a month away now.

We've already had numerous calls here seeking details on the season and regulations pertaining to it.

The year 1980 has proven a remarkable one for the pheasant population here. Not because we produced astounding numbers of birds that are virtually burgeoning out of their covers, but because we came up with a goodly number despite a tremendously adverse summer from the aspect of gamebird production.

There was heat to hamper nesting success, and some concern was noted over new pesticides here that were thought to have knocked the pheasant population for a loop at first glance.

But roadside surveys now are beginning to show that there are indeed a lot of birds still out there in the field, and those making the rounds on the combines at harvest time got an even better idea of just how many ringnecks we'll have available this year.

The 1980 season has been returned to its 16 day tenure of old, as opposed to the month-long season that was given a trial here last year.

Our 1980 pheasant crop is going to be met by a tremendous number of opening day hunters, that seems to mushroom a little every year.

For the good of the resource, we are going to have to continue to pursue sound conservation practices that will provide the habitat these birds need under such pressure.

Likewise, the growing number of sportsmen who are appearing here will have to be just that — "sportsmen" and be on their best behavior to get along well with our landowners, and to avoid abusing this treasured wildlife resource.

MOST HUNTERS ARE ETHICAL

LUBBOCK -- Hunting seasons are opening and new "NO HUNTING" signs are going up which is an indication that farmers, ranchers, and landowners are becoming unhappy with those persons who use and abuse their lands.

These signs are not indicative that all hunters are not sportsmen or not welcome to hunt if permission is requested prior to the hunt.

Most landowners when asked if they would allow sportsmen to hunt if the hunters asked permission said "yes." Maybe it is time to go over the proper procedures for securing permission to hunt or fish.

Make a call ahead of the hunting season at a reasonable hour for permission to hunt.

Assure the landowner that you are a reliable, safe hunter and that you will be responsible in case of damage on the property.

Respect the property, livestock, fences and wildlife on the landowners place.

Do not fire guns at game at or near buildings, machinery, or livestock.

When you leave, offer to share your game bag with the landowner. Most will decline, but at least they will know you realize who helped produce the game.

Remember the landowner throughout the year such as Thanksgiving or Christmas. Not many things makes the landowner's wife happier than a frozen turkey and the women folk have a lot to say about who hunts and who doesn't.

Visit the landowner throughout the year and offer your help when they are harvesting crops, planting trees, or feeding the wildlife during snowstorms.

Texas sportsmen spend as much time contacting landowners to find a place to hunt as they do hunting in the field. So, it is imperative that hunters keep in contact with the farmers and this should insure a good quail or deer hunt this year and next year, too.

AOUAD SEASON SPLIT
LUBBOCK -- The Texas aoudad seasons have been set for a fall and winter hunt.

The first (fall) hunt runs from Nov. 8-21, 1980 and the winter hunt is from Jan. 3-18, 1981.

Aoudads may be hunted by permit only which are available from the landowners. Sportsmen wanting to hunt aoudad should contact the Chamber of Commerce offices, ranchers, or game wardens in those counties open to the hunt. These counties include: Armstrong, Briscoe, Donley, Floyd, Hall, Montley, Randall, and Swisher.

Last year the P&WD issued 578 permits to the landowners and 166 aoudad were harvested. This means that one out of three hunts were successful.

AUSTIN -- Deer hunters in 23 Texas counties will not need antlerless deer permits to harvest a doe this fall, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Wildlife biologists had originally proposed some 40 counties where antlerless deer could be taken without special permits because of the high deer populations, good fawn crops and relatively light or moderate hunting pressure. However, county commissioners' courts in 17 counties rejected the proposal.

Charles Winkler, big game program director for the department, said another factor in the decision to remove the requirements for antlerless deer permits is the traditionally low utilization of the permits by landowners and hunters. He estimated that only one permit in four is actually used.

Counties where antlerless permits are not required to harvest an antlerless deer are: Burnet, Blanco, Williamson, Bell, McCulloch, Menard, Schleicher, Mills, Mitchell, Nolan, Sterling, Coke, Irion, Tom Green, Concho, Bexar, Atascosa, Terrell, Pecos and Jeff Davis.

In Bosque, Erath and Tyler Counties, there will be a four-day either-sex bag limit from Thanksgiving through the following Sunday. Antlerless deer may be hunted without a permit during this period; however, an antlerless deer permit will be required at all other times during the season. All antlerless deer killed during the four-day either-sex season must be checked at Parks and Wildlife Department check stations.

AUSTIN -- The snook is a tropical gamefish which only rarely is found in Texas waters in any significant numbers. However, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department crews caught five juvenile snook recently in a seine sample along the Ingleside Cove shoreline.

Building a strong business is no accident. So don't let an accident destroy it.

Your successful business could be wiped out in a single day. How? By losing a large lawsuit not covered by your basic business insurance.

Aetna's Commercial Umbrella Policy is the answer. It provides million dollar liability protection—and more. And because Commercial Umbrella coverage applies only when your existing coverage is exhausted, the cost is surprisingly low.

You can't prevent every loss, but you can prevent the loss of your business. Give us a call. We'll recommend the Umbrella coverage that's right for you.

Monty Alexander Presents Scintillating Performance

By DOROTHY WARNER
It is a "fur piece" from the fabled Carribean "island of springs," Jamaica, to the high, dry plains of the Texas Panhandle, but the distance was quite simply bridged when the famed Monty Alexander Trio gracefully and skillfully glided, shall I say, into "Put your Little Foot Right In" during their scintillating performance which opened The Hereford Community Concert 1980-81 season the evening of Tuesday, October 28.

Albeit that Mr. Alexander assured the small but highly appreciative audience that the composition originated in France, we old Herefordites recognized it as one of our favorite dancin'-fiddlin' tunes! However, its fine arrangement and polished rendition by this gifted pianist and cohorts, guitarist Ernest Ranglin and bassist Gerry Higgins, lifted it to a higher plane than average High Plains offerings.

For this reviewer, one glowing recollection of the evening is that of the Adagio movement of Joaquin Rodrigo's "Concierto de Aranjuez." This second movement of the concerto began with the deep voice of the Double Bass ("Bass Fiddle") beating out, in low minor tones, the unrelenting rhythm-measured and compelling as a dirge-in turn taken up, echoed and augmented by the shimmering plucking of the guitar, together creating a near-hypnotic spell, the backdrop for the entrance of impassioned, poignant melody voiced by the piano. None of the pathos and rich beauty was lost when the guitar took up the plaintive song and the piano turned accompanist, so to speak. Such melding of tonal and rhythmic components is the mark of exceptional musicianship, and these three men displayed rare ability.

From first note to last, the performance proved a delight! The repertory included "The Umbrellas of Cherbourg," George Gershwin's "Summertime," "Speak Softly, Speak Love," "Sweet Georgia Brown," the Jamaican "Yellow Bird" and Monty Alexander's "up tempo" original composition "Ac-compong." A stirring arrangement of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" brought the evening to a close.

Whether played vertically or horizontally, the music of the Monty Alexander Trio is tops!

Happy listening...

Couple Married in Afternoon Ceremony

The Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses was the scene of Saturday afternoon wedding uniting Miss Linda Sue Dooley of Amarillo and Mark Dustin Powers of Hereford.

The couple stood in front of an altar flanked by ornamental urns containing cascading ferns.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Dooley of Anadarko, Okla. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Powers of Hereford.

Ron McDonald of Amarillo, an elder of Southwest Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses of Amarillo, officiated the ceremony.

Mrs. Frankie McClure of Artesia, N.M. was the bride's matron of honor. Derk Powers, the groom's brother, was best man.

Others attending the bride were Miss Chris Copper of Amarillo and Mrs. Fred McClure of Artesia, N.M.

Groomsmen were John Mayo and John Gamboa of Amarillo.

Guests were escorted to their seats by Lewis Dooley, the bride's brother from Burkburnett and Mike Waller.

The bride's wedding selection of "We Thank You Jehovah," was rendered by Randy Cogburn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was beautifully gowned in a white organza gown featuring a Queen Anne neckline and chantilly lace on the fitted bodice. Her bishop sleeves were also trimmed with chantilly lace. Her bouffant skirt, accented with chantilly lace, flowed into a short train. Sea pearls delicately decorated the neckline.

The bride wore a chapel length veil with imported illusion lace trimmed in chantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of silk flowers with a deep wine rose flanked by light and dark blue carnations and babybreath.

Her attendants, wearing floor length wine-colored gowns of Quiana, with split cape sleeves tied at the wrist, carried flowers identical to the brides, graduating in size with matron of honor holding the largest. Their gowns featured a V-shape roched inset in both front and back, blouson at the waist.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Hereford High School cafeteria. Miss Valerie Powers, the groom's sister, and Mrs. Ron Dooley, a sister-in-law of the bride's, served both the groom's and bridegroom's cakes. Punch and coffee were served by the groom's sister Miss Sherry Powers and Mrs. John Dooley, another sister-in-law of the bride.

The bride's wedding cake hosted five tiers decorated in the bride's chosen colors. The second and third tiers were separated by a miniature water fountain while the fourth and fifth tiers were separated by a miniature bride and groom. White ladders extended from the base of the cake hosting two smaller cakes. The wedding cake was arranged on a table laid in blue over lace. Crystal appointments were used.

The groom's chocolate cake was served from a table decorated with two candelabras, the bride's bouquet, and an antique gold tea service.

For a wedding trip to Red River, N.M., the bride chose to wear a lavender suede dress with cap sleeves and belted waist. She wore a corsage of white carnations to accent her attire.

The couple will be home southwest of Hereford after Nov. 7.

A graduate of Childress High School in 1977, the bride was previously employed by Comco Insurance Co. in Amarillo. The bridegroom, a 1979 graduate of Hereford High School and a 1979 graduate of Texas State Technical Institute with an associate degree in drafting is presently employed by McMorries Company, Inc.

Out-of-town guests represented Hobart, Okla., Burkburnett, Childress, Shattuck, Okla., Adrian, Tulsa, Okla., and Kermit.

Local Recipes Needed For Brand Publication

A tabloid of recipes submitted by local residents will be published with the Thanksgiving issue of The Brand on Nov. 26, it has been announced by Women's Editor Allison Ryan.

Recipes are now being accepted for the special section from Deaf Smith County cooks. Recipes will be published in the tabloid if they are received prior to Nov. 12. Emphasis will be placed on recipes for the holiday season.

All recipes are welcomed for the section, which is being compiled after the good response to The Brand's previous recipe tabloids. Contributed recipes should be legibly printed or typed on 8" by 10" paper. The name of the contributor should appear along with their address and phone number. Recipes should be mailed to The Hereford Brand, P.O. Box 673, Hereford, Tx. 79045, or brought to the newspaper office, 130 W. 4th St.

Any questions concerning the recipe tabloid should be directed to Ryan or Denise Smith, 364-2030.

Local cooks are urged to submit their recipes as soon as possible.

From Ryan's Corner

By Allison Ryan

I got to thinking the other day after I had written a sports story about the differences in writing a sports story and a society story.

There are certain adjectives and phrases used in sports that are not used in society and the other way around.

Just image for a moment if you picked up a newspaper where the styles were reversed for the stories.

For instance, the bride approached the line. The music was roaring as she ran around the left end and took for the middle for a gain of husband. After a couple of completed passes, the team in white went into the endzone for the score.

The specialty team came in to try for the PAT. The bride made the point and left the score one gold ring to zero at the end of the first half.

The team in the black penguin suits took to the field and after one razzel-dazzle play after another they went evened the points-one gold ring to one gold ring.

The score remained the same until the end of the game. The teams then retired to the locker-room to celebrate with cake, punch and coffee.

On the other side of the flipped coin, let me give you an example of sports story.

For instance, when the quarterback was escorted to the line of scrimmage by the center, he wore a maroon and white blouse with a v-neck and full half sleeves. The delicate blouse was tucked into a pair of fitted maroon slacks adorned with white strips down the side.

The fullback served as the maid of honor while the 280 pound guard was the quarterback's best man.

When the center presented the ball, the quarterback threw with graceful motions to complete the pass. As the immediate family stood on the sidelines, the fullback on the next play, gracefully walked into the endzone for a beautiful six points.

You're right, I don't think the reversing of styles would ever be accepted.

Another Corner

In continuing last week's column concerning cars and personalities, Janey, our typesetter drives a 1965 beige or dirty white Chevrolet. Sometimes Janey wears baggy old coveralls with a stripped shirt and tennis shoes when she comes to work. Her car and personality seem to match. I like people that drive old cars and wear old clothes, they remind me of me never thinking of the material things of life or they are always broke.

Another Corner

You guessed it, I'm going to ask for more recipes. Even though it is torcher to type them up just before lunch and during mid-afternoon, I'll gladly accept more.

Another Corner

Tuesday is election day and if the absentee vote total says anything, looks like there will be a heavy turn out for the presidential election. Through the campaign I have heard the comment the choice will be picking the lesser of two evils. Whether it is or not these people will lead or country, and I think it is important for every individual to vote.

Red Cross Update

Traveling Road Show Slated Here

By BETTY HENSON

The Red Cross Traveling Road Show will be in Hereford at the Mall November 8, beginning at 10:00 and closing at 4:00. All volunteers are reminded that they are needed for the demonstrations and to act as hosts for the out of town people who will be attending.

The Board of Directors will have a called meeting and luncheon Monday at the Red Cross Office at noon.

The Disaster Committee will be meeting with Jack Muse, Disaster Director from Oklahoma City, Friday November 7, 7:30, at the Community Center. Jack Muse will be here for the Show at the Mall. Everyone is invited to come out to the mall and visit with Jack about Disaster activities.

We are currently looking for a new office space and would appreciate anyone knowing of an available office to contact the Red Cross office or any of the Board of Directors. We are still in need of a washing machine, mattress for a rollaway bed and a sofa that makes into a bed for the family at Wildorado that lost their mobile home in a fire.

A special thanks to the Community Action agency-Jean Patty, Trudy Hobbs and Cecilia Serrane for providing an office space for us the last three years and for their help in most of our projects.

Ruth Romero and Greg Palmer also get special thanks for their work in CPR and First Aid classes. More classes will be scheduled for this month and persons interested in any classes should call the office for further information.

Club Plans Benefit Bridge

Kappa Iota Benefit Bridge was discussed at the group's meeting recently held at the home of Sharon Hodges.

In other business, Sharon Hodges was selected as Kappa Iota's sweetheart.

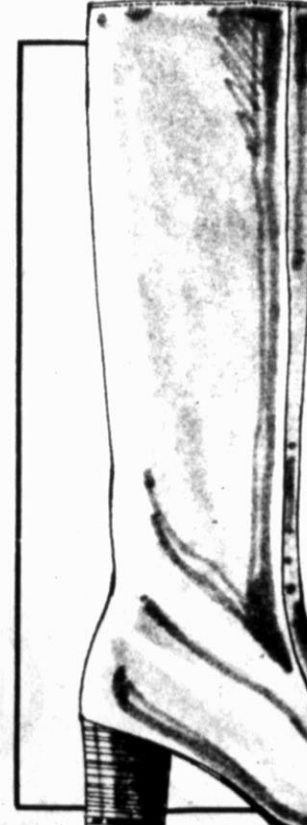

Mary Wiley presented the program to the group concerning handwriting analysis.

Other activities during the month included tickets sales for a drawing of a $150 gift certificate from the Sports

Stop. Tickets can be bought from any of the members.

The group also hosted a social for members and their husbands, and they held a business meeting during the first week of October. Ann Carroll presented the program about knit crafts.

Aggie Moms Set Annual Bake Sale

The "Aggie Moms Annual Bake Sale" has been scheduled for Nov. 8 at Clark's Spring Crest Custom Draperies store in Sugarland Mall.

Proceeds from the once-a-year money raising event are applied to the club's scholarship fund, which they will present next spring to an aspiring Texas A&M University student.

At a recent meeting of the Aggie Moms, Opal Blakely, bake sale chairman, and Helen Eades, vice president for projects, outlined the schedule for the sale and organized workers for the day.

Home baked breads, cakes, pies and other pastries, along with homecanned goods will be available.

Special orders may be made ahead of time by placing requests with any one of the Aggie Moms.

Early each spring, a committee from the Aggie Moms Club interviews those high school seniors who have applied to and have been accepted to enter TAM for the fall semester.

To date the Aggie Moms have presented eight scholarships, the first being given to Franklin Higgins, HHS class of '74, and the most recent to Ronald Plummer, '80, now a freshman student at Texas A&M University.

This week's luncheon was held in the home of Margaret Ann Durham.

FHA Host Halloween Party

Members of La Plata and Stanton Junior High Future Homemakers of America met this week for a traditional Halloween party at La Plata Junior High Cafeteria.

Costumes for most beautiful, original and scary design were judged.

Marty Valdez, La Plata, won Most Beautiful; Beatrice Zuniga, Stanton, Most Original; and Kim Seward, Stanton, Most Scary.

Judges for the contest were Betty Quillen, Brenda Campbell and Dana Barber.

Craig McCuistian, La Plata FHA Chapter Recreation Chairperson, directed games as well as assisted other officers in creating a Haunted House.

Officers include Amy Quillen, Michelle Geiger, Charlotte Carter, and Daniel Watkins.

The cafeteria was decorated to carry out the Halloween theme. Serving on the decorating committee were La Plata Chapter members Carol Marquez, Mimi Quintana, Angela Aguilera, Valorie Andrade, Shannon Valdez, Cecilia Estrada, Marty Valdez and Margarita Enriquez. Refreshments were prepared and served by Stanton Chapter members utilizing the theme, "Brown Bagging It." Refreshments were served in paper bags decorated in Halloween designs.

The clean up committee included La Plata chapter members Miss Quillen, Miss Geiger, Miss Carter, Watkins, McCuistian, Debra Buck, Doris Cover, Shawnay White, Fernando Medrano, Manuel Mendiola, Mike Tibbetts, Erick Horton.

Ann Landers Gone Unnoticed

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I loved your open letter to Jerry Lewis—written after you had watched him on the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon where he smoked one cigarette after another. It was a beautiful plea asking him to quit smoking, or at least not to smoke on camera. As you pointed out, so many young people idolize him and might get the idea it is the cool thing to do.

I have been waiting for a follow-up. Did you ever hear from Jerry? I'm sure millions of readers want to know.—Grand Forks Ann Fan

DEAR GRAND: I received many congratulatory letters about my plea to Jerry. They came from every state in the union, Canada and even Mexico...but not a word from Jerry.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I was 15 my boyfriend won the argument, and I went to bed with him. We broke up shortly thereafter, and I proceeded to have a very busy social life. It is a miracle I didn't get pregnant.

About two years later, a friend asked me how many guys I had slept with. That question made me curious, so I sat down and tried to make a list. The total made me sick. I decided then and there to clean up my act.

Now I have another list, just as long—men who asked me out only once. They never called a second time because I had learned to say "No."

I am not the least bit resentful. I am proud of myself. I wish more girls would realize that saying "No" is 10 times better than saying they wish they had said it before.

Take it from someone who has been there and pass on the good word.—Self-Taught And Getting All A-s.

DEAR ALL A's: I have frequently made the statement that when young people begin to have sex they don't quit. Your letter is proof that it CAN be done, because you are doing it.

I wish more people would prove me wrong.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Now that the fall semester has begun, thousands of college students must be suffering from the same roommate problems as I.

Although her first class is not until 2½ hours later, my roommate likes to get up at 6:00 a.m. That in itself is not bad, but she insists on using the buzzer alarm on her radio. Then she, takes a shower and blows her hair dry. By the time she's finished with her hair, I am wide awake.

I wish I needed as little sleep as she does but I need eight hours every night...from 11:30 p.m. to 7:30. Once she mentioned reorganizing her morning schedule, and I thought it was a tactful moment to suggest we compromise on 7:00—but she didn't think so.

She didn't come back her to sleep last night, Ann. However, her alarm went off at 6:00 and I could neither shut it off nor could I go back to sleep. (It's Saturday!)

Please don't suggest another roommate—I went through a lot to get this room, and if it weren't for this problem everything would be fine.—Upset At U.Va.

DEAR U: Your last sentence is the same as saying, "If it weren't for this cancer I would be in excellent health."

The problem is incompatibility. There is no solution short of getting a roommate whose sleep habits are more like your own. So do it or 'kwitchebelyachin'.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage—What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Q: Can I really lose weight and shape my figure?
A: Yes, and we will show you how!

Q: Do you have to sign a contract?
A: There is no contract to sign at Pat Walker's.

Q: Do I have to do sit-ups or any strenuous exercise?
A: At Pat Walker's you just lie down on our unit and let it gently provide all the exercise you need.

Q: What about privacy?
A: Your treatments and counseling are carried out in strictest confidence and our unit is completely draped to insure your privacy.

Q: Do I have to go on a stringent diet?
A: Your program at Pat Walker's calls for sensible eating habits, allowing you to eat your favorite foods at any meal, but within reason.

Q: Will losing weight cause me to look old, drawn or haggard?
A: No, the Pat Walker method firms and tones your body tissues. You will feel younger and look younger.

Q: All right, what about gym shoes and special clothing?
A: Your street clothes are fine. There is no disrobing; your hair doesn't even get mussed.

Q: Do I have to take shots or pills, or any form of exotic electrical treatment?
A: At Pat Walker's you receive counseling, a sensible eating program and passive exercise.

Q: Do I have to stay on the program forever?
A: Once having completed your program, all you have to do to retain your perfect figure is eat sensibly.

Gladys Conway's True Story:

I never worried about my weight, until my husband started telling me a couple of years ago that I needed to slim down. He was right. At 170 pounds, I was just too heavy. I was determined to get rid of that weight, and since a friend of mine was having a lot of success at Pat Walker's I started going there, too.

Now I'm the successful one! I'm down to 112 pounds, and I've lost a total of 68 inches — ten inches from my waist alone. I love the way my figure has stayed firm and smooth all along ... Pat Walker's Symmetricon passive exercise unit takes care of that.

My husband and I go to every football game we can (we haven't missed one University of Texas game in 18 years). I enjoy going more than ever now, because I look as good as I feel!

Pat Walker's program has made a big difference for me. I'm sure it will for you, too.

California Actor Visits Panhandle

By ALLISON RYAN
Women's Editor
George Savalas never knew there was so much sky until he arrived in Amarillo last week to star in "Later, Leonardo" at the Country Square Dinner Theatre in Amarillo.

"I've been through this part of the country before, but this is the first time I have had to look around. I've been here about a week, and I never knew there was so much sky in the whole world," Savalas said.

Savalas, who is known mainly for his role as Stravros on the television series, "Kojak," will be performing in the light comedy from Oct. 28-Nov. 22.

"I was surprised to find such a fine theatre in Amarillo. That kind of cultural facility is wonderful. The people associated with the theatre are very competent and all professional," he said.

His television credits began with a role on "The Dick Powell Show," followed by guest appearances in series such as "The Virginian" and "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." His off-Broadway credits include "Death of a Salesman" and "Arms and the Man." He has also played in several feature films.

"I prefer the stage, and it gives me a chance to get away from the boob-tube. Live audiences is better to perform for than a camera lens. I like to hear people laugh. We need more laughter in the world," Savalas said.

Savalas performed the same play, "Later, Leonardo," in Maryland about 18 months ago. The play centers on Leonardo Davinci placing himself in a time machine and finding himself in the 1980's.

According to Savalas he has not had to rehearse long hours in order to put the play together.

"We usually rehearse a full eight hours a day for a full week to put a play together. However, once I got back into the swing of the play a lot of the lines came back to me, so it has not been hard getting this together," he continued.

Savalas was born in Bronx, New York. After high school he joined the U.S. Navy where he served in the Pacific as a combat crewman during World War II.

After the war, he attended Columbia University where he majored in drama. After teaching and trying the business world with his father, Savalas moved to California to become a full-time actor.

"My job is my livelihood and my field of endeavor. There was a time in my life when all I had was 38 cents. I got very emotional that day. After I pulled myself together and regained some composure I saw a florist shop. I went and asked the man if he had a flower I could buy for 38 cents," he continued.

"He told me today was my lucky day. He took my money and gave me a beautiful rose. I took it home to my wife, told her we were broke and I loved her. Since then my life has escalated," he explained.

Savalas has been married 14 years. He and his wife have six children, the youngest a daughter named Miltza, who is eight years old.

"I miss my family when I travel on the road. Sometimes when possible I take them with me. My wife teaches in Los Angeles, and when things work right we travel together," he said.

Savalas expressed his views on the women's liberation movement saying he thought the movement was "hogwash."

"I think a woman deserves equal pay for equal work, but you will be very old before you order my dinner in a restaurant," he stated.

"My wife is my life partner. I love her very much.

I'm responsible for her, and we treat each other as equal," he said.

Savalas also spoke briefly on the recent actors strike in California stated his agreement for the movement.

"Actors Guild has looked down the road fifteen years at cable television. Residuals are required to be paid on all productions made after 1960 given television time. It is only fair actors receive some of that residual for it is their talent that draws the viewers," he continued.

The Amarillo theatre is located at I-40 at Grand. For reservations call 372-4441.

Local Club Members Attend Convention

Mrs. John N. Jacobson Jr., Mrs. D.N. Garner and Mrs. R.L. Ethridge heard several guest speakers talk about various plants while attending the State Garden Club Convention in Amarillo Oct. 28-30.

Mrs. Clifford Drake of Borger spoke to the group about poisonous and medicinal plants. Planting a fall vegetable garden was the topic presented by Dr. Ronald Robert of Lubbock.

Other presentations included Mrs. C.L. Sparkman of Odessa who presented several flower arrangements entitled "Texas on Parade." Dr. William C. Welch of College Station informed the group about edible landscape. Mrs. Richard McGuire of Amarillo displayed several holiday exhibition tables.

Those attending were members of the Hereford Garden Club.

Jo Ellen Jorde To Attend Conference

The Texas Cultural Alliance has invited Jo Ellen Jorde to participate in the 2nd annual Invitational Americas Studies Seminar in Jalisco Mexico. Museum staff, artists, patrons and educational officials will travel to Puerto Vallarta and Guadalajara in Jalisco Mexico for discussions with their counterparts between Nov. 7-16 in attempts to continue developing exchange programs between U.S. citizens and Mexican Citizens.

Jo Ellen Jorde of Hereford, is the Director of the Americas Studies Conferences in Mexico. Ms. Jorde is pictured during planning sessions in Mexico in preparation for the conference being held this November.

The conference will be the second Invitational Americas Studies Conference taking place in Mexico. The Alliance has conducted four such conferences in Guatemala since 1977.

The Texas Cultural Alliance is an organization founded in 1975 to honor the nation's bicentennial. The purpose of the organization is to create better understanding through their three major programs: "Hands Around the World," Excursions and Invitational Americas Studies Conferences.

This conference is co-sponsored by the Good Neighbor Commission. It is endorsed by the United States International Communications Agency, the Texas Commission for the Humanities, the Governor of Texas and the Texas Association of Museums.

It will be covered by the television and news media of both countries. There will be presentations to the mayor of Puerto Vallarta, the Honorable Lic. Rafael Gonzalez Pimenta and to Lic. Flavio Romero de Alasco, Governor of Jalisco state and Lic. Arnulfo Villasenor Saavedra, mayor of Guadalajara.

In Puerto Vallarta workshops will occur in the elementary schools Nov. 7-14 for teachers, directors and psychologists. The focus will be creative help for children of varied learning skills. There will also be a festival in the town square on Sunday the 9th highlighting the cultural exchanges and special presentations for cultural leaders on Monday Nov. 10th.

In Guadalajara, the group will be housed at the first museum hotel in Mexico, the La Fayette. Activities there will include tours, and formal presentations by cultural leaders meeting their counterparts from our country.

Moon Presents Program To La Madre Mia Club

Mike Moon, director of Family Service Center, presented a program to members of La Madre Mia Study Club recently. The meeting was held in the home of Mysedia Smith with co-hostesses Carrell Ann Simons.

President Betty Lady conducted a short business meeting and Tour of Homes chairman, Lucy Rogers reported on her committee.

The meeting was crashed by two "spooks" of unknown origin and adjourned.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Marcia Snyder Nov. 13.

Additional members present were Mary Beth White, Betty Owen, Mary Herring, La Jean Henry, Sandra Martin, Gladys Merrit, Joyce Allred, Tricia Sims, Marlene Watson, Margaret McCellen, Georgia Sparks, Marcia Snyder, Sharon Hodges, Beverly Bryant, and Judy William.

Dogs Big Headache for Stockmen South of City

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

A number of cattle owners who live just south of Hereford are less than fascinated with "man's best friend" these days due to recurring problems with dog packs attacking their cattle and chasing them from fenced wheat pastures.

The dog packs, which evidently come from the city of Hereford or immediately outlying areas, have run off a total of over 60 head of cattle belonging to one stockman south of town, and several other individuals are having problems as well, not the least of which has been locating the cattle spooked by the dogs.

Mrs. Alton Hollingsworth reported that about two weeks ago dogs spooked an entire herd of 350 pound stocker cattle from a hotfenced wheat pasture at that location, and added that she and her husband still haven't located all of the cattle.

"We had cattle run into the road and at least two were struck by vehicles and killed. The dogs have actually attacked at least four of our cattle, chewing their ears and tails. Last year they killed three calves owned by one of our neighbors," stated Mrs. Hollingsworth.

The local stock owners gave up on trying to maintain cattle in the wheat pasture south of town last week and returned the remnants of their dog-harried herd to a farm northeast of Hereford.

"We pulled them out. We didn't want to take a chance on losing any more cattle," stated Mrs. Hollingsworth.

"About the only thing we're able to do is to check the pastures several times at night and to go out whenever we hear a dog," she related.

All of us keep a lookout for ourselves and our neighbors as well. We've all about reached the opinion that if someone values their dogs they better pen them up, because if they come around here they will be eliminated," commented Mrs. Hollingsworth.

"One of the other neighbors who has been having dog problems with his cattle has said that if he sees a stray dog across the field anymore he shoots it, whether it is after a calf or not," she related.

Mrs. Hollingsworth emphasized that the dogs stampeding cattle are causing considerable expense and frustration for the stockmen south of Hereford.

"We've spent hours that we needed to spend in the field out looking for cattle that were run off by the dogs. Of course, when a calf is killed because of the dogs, it amounts to considerable expense. People letting their dogs run loose just don't realize how adversely it affects us. We have had dog problems for years out here, but this year has been worse than ever before," she concluded.

Vegetable Supplies Dwindle; Costs Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of fresh and canned vegetables continues to rise, spurred by dwindling supplies, strong demand and rising costs, the Agriculture Department says. The department said farmers can expect to get about 11 percent more for fresh vegetables than a year ago and retail prices are up about 9 percent from Oct. 1, 1979, to the start of this month this year.

Supplies of fresh vegetables are about 10 percent below last year, the department said. Processors have used 11 percent less than 1979.

The department said the short supply will mean higher prices for farmers and consumers at least into the middle of 1981.

Prices paid growers for fresh vegetables will increase in the remainder of the fall and average substantially higher than a year ago, officials said.

The latest Agriculture Department report said from now until the middle of 1981 retail prices for processed vegetables will average moderately higher than last season.

The index of farm prices for fresh vegetables for the third quarter of 1980, which ended Sept. 30, stood at 210, compared to 188 a year ago. The figures mean farmers received $2.10 for the same vegetables that cost $1 in 1967.

The retail price index for fresh vegetables was considerably higher, at 231, or 9 percent above a year ago. The wholesale prices for 10 leading canned vegetables also registered a 9 percent jump from a year ago, bringing the index to 211.

The department reported that acreage for fall production of 14 major fresh vegetables is down an estimated 1 percent from the fall quarter of 1979. The estimated production is 45.5 million hundredweight for the quarter, a 4 percent decline from a year ago.

The report said there will be smaller supplies of broccoli, cabbage, carrots, celery, lettuce, green peppers, spinach and tomatoes. That will more than offset increased supplies of snap beans, cauliflower, sweet corn, cucumbers, eggplant and escarole-entive.

For processed vegetables, only canned beets, pickles, frozen broccoli and frozen spinach will be in greater supply than a year ago.

Wholesale prices of canned vegetables declined slightly last fall and winter, reaching a low in March 1980, that was 3 percent under 1979. But prices began to rise in April and were 9 percent higher than a year ago by September.

The picture is roughly the same for frozen vegetables, the department said. And Wholesale prices of canned vegetables declined slightly last fall and winter, reaching a low in March 1980, that was 3 percent under 1979. But prices began to rise in April and were 9 percent higher than a year ago by September.

The average American consumed 52.8 pounds of fresh potatoes in 1979, up from 47.2 pounds in 1978. But the consumption of processed potatoes dropped to 65.5 pounds per person, 5 pounds less than a year earlier.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alex P. Mercure, assistant agriculture secretary for rural development since 1977, has been promoted to undersecretary for small community and rural development.

The position of undersecretary was created by a law signed Oct. 1 by President Carter. It is intended to give extra emphasis to rural development in the Agriculture Department, officials said.

Mercure, 49, will have jurisdiction over the Farmers Home Administration and the Rural Electrification Administration.

Mercure is one of the highest-ranking Hispanics in the administration, the Agriculture Department pointed out.

Wendy's Receives Beef Merchandiser Award

AMARILLO — Wendy's International, Inc. is recipient of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association Beef Merchandiser of the Year award.

Presentation of the award to Wendy's Chairman R. David Thomas was made by former Texas governor John Connally, who gave the keynote address during TCFA's Annual Convention in Amarillo.

"The Wendy's Story is one of true American enterprise," said TCFA Executive Vice President

Charles E. Ball. "We are proud to recognize this organization and its leadership for the promotion of our produce — beef."

A chain of more than 2,000 restaurants, Wendy's sells 200 million pounds of beef annually — all domestically grown — and much of it produced in Texas feedyards.

Wendy's was founded 11 years ago by Thomas, who entered the highly-competitive hamburger restaurant business on a cash investment of $7,500. Gross sales of the chain this year will total more than $1 billion.

TCFA annually recognizes a beef merchandiser who has exhibited outstanding or innovative efforts in the sales or promotion of beef. Past recipients have included restaurant and supermarket operations.

Texas Cattle Feeders Association represents cattle feeders and feedyards in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico — a region which produces more than 20 percent of the nation's fed cattle.

Pilot Testing Program Announced by Bergland

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pilot program to test the efficiency of transportation cooperatives for farmers was announced Wednesday by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

Bergland said the approach, modeled on the 45-year-old Rural Electrification Administration, would explore cooperative ownership of local railroad branch lines, trucking equipment and freight-handling facilities.

The program's purpose would be to provide freight and passenger service for rural areas that have lost railroad branch service, he said.

Low-interest loans and loan guarantees will be provided by the government for demonstration projects, Bergland said. If the idea succeeds, it could lead to legislation creating a federal "Rural Transportation Administration," he added.

These Pioneer® brand cotton varieties do well in our area.

Certified Lockett 77 — We saw this variety stand up to conditions that saw other varieties deliver disappointing performances in 1980. From emergence through fruiting and on into harvest, Lockett 77 showed its strength throughout the season. It demonstrated its resistance to bacterial blight and the fusarium wilt-nematode complex. And it proved itself in a variety of management programs on both irrigated and non-irrigated land. Fiber quality has been good, too.

Certified PR80 — Seed for this variety is hard to come by, so many of our customers will have to wait for PR80 until next season. But we encourage you to keep an eye on this powerful new variety from Pioneer. You'll like its early maturity. And its yields will make you think twice about planting anything else. Along with resistance to many common cotton diseases, PR80 shows good fiber qualities and high gin turnout. We really like the looks of this one! You will, too!

On The Turnrow

By Jim Steiert

Brand Farm Editor

For something approaching 11 months and 29 or 30 days, it seems, we've been listening to more of those old and familiar promises that string one presidential election right into the next one.

The campaign rhetoric waxes wearying but come Tuesday we will all have a chance to say put up or shut up to the candidates by going to the polls.

If you think I am working around to one of the overworked old "get out the vote" columns then you're right, because this is too precious an option for us not to exercise it.

We all take a lot of pride in our Herd, our Dallas Cowboys, Houston Oilers and Astros, or whatever other heroes we seem to drum up in this game of life.

But what if only 5.5 men on the football team huddled up or 4.5 baseballers took to the diamond?

We wouldn't feel like we were getting much. Well, we haven't been giving America much either with our shameful voter turnout of less than 50 percent.

The people are the team where America is concerned, but we haven't even been fielding the full contingent, and we can't expect to avoid forfeiting for long at that rate.

Just from looking and listening, I am coming to the conclusion that more and more Americans have had enough of a lot of this foolishness that has been going on around us on the national and international scene, and that they are going to finally be put out enough to put out at the polls.

I may be wrong, but I hope not. America and Americans both deserve better than they have been getting the past few years, but if we don't care enough to get out and raise hell where it counts to effect changes, then it might be that we've been getting what we deserved all along.

It's one man, one vote, and you may feel like your interests are bought and sold somewhere over the hill out of your reach every day.

But when you go and make your mark, at least you have the satisfaction of knowing you've done everything you can to make the system the way you feel it should be.

Make your mark for America and go vote Tuesday...You'll chalk up griping rights for four years, at least.

New Meat Inspection Program Inaugurated by Ag Department

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is inaugurating a new meat inspection program at three plants today.

The voluntary program, adopted last August, is designed to provide quality control at all meat and poultry processing plants that choose to participate and abide by federal standards.

"Quality control inspection will lessen the regulatory burden on industry without any reduction in consumer protection," said Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland. "In the long run it will reduce many of the costs associated with inspection."

The first three firms to take part in the program are Equity Meat Corp. of North Baltimore, Ohio, a producer of fresh beef patties; Peter Eckrich & Sons Inc. of Reading, Pa., which produces sausages and cured and smoked products.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carole Tucker Foreman is visiting the Berks plant today to observe the inspection process and to discuss it at a news conference.

The Agriculture Department is also planning to present a certificate of acceptance into the program to the Equity firm on Friday. Officials said that Eckrich decided against a public ceremony to mark its entry into the program.

The plan is the result of a year-old pilot project to determine if qualified processors could operate their own quality control programs with a minimum of federal supervision.

A dozen plants took part in the experiment and Agriculture Department officials termed it a success.

The program does not apply to the inspection of cattle, hogs, chickens and other livestock in slaughtering operations. It is available to plants producing frozen dinners and soups containing meat and poultry, in addition to producers of processed meats and poultry.

The Agriculture Department will approve a plant's total quality control system based on assurances that all products manufactured in the plant will meet requirements for wholesomeness and accurate labeling, Bergland said.

Federal inspectors will monitor critical points in production, especially where the safety or accurate labeling of a product may be jeopardized, he added.

The Agriculture Department may withdraw its approval of any plant producing adulterated or misbranded products, Bergland said.

The department has not estimated how many plants may apply to take part in the program. But there are about 6,900 plants now operating under federal inspection.

The department also announced that it will extend from Nov. 6 until Jan. 5 the time for comment on a proposal to revise net weight labeling regulations for meat and poultry products.

The proposed changes would revise labeling regulations to define how much packaged meat or poultry products may vary from labeled weights. It would also set up sampling procedures to help inspectors enforce accuracy at the plant and in the marketplace.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citrus fruit growers appear to be having a record harvest, the Agriculture Department said.

The current forecast indicates a record citrus crop of 16.5 million tons. The orange crop is expected to top 276 million boxes, a percentage point higher than the 1979-80 record.

The grapefruit crop is forecast at 68.7 million boxes, a 2 percent decline from last year.

Texas Crops Report

Freezing Temperatures Will Speed Cotton Harvest

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Early frost and freezing temperatures should speed cotton harvesting in West Texas and the Plains, where farmers had been awaiting a killing frost to stop plant growth and prepare for harvest, says Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

However, the cold dealt a severe blow to summer grasses on pastures and ranges that had some growth following recent rains, said Pfannstiel. Now, livestock producers will be relying heavily on winter pastures of small grains to provide green grazing, he said.

Small grain planting has been widespread in recent weeks. Most early fields are up to good stands but lack of moisture is still a problem in parts of the Panhandle and Rolling Plains as well as in Central and East Texas, Pfannstiel said.

Some cotton also harvesting continues in North Central and East Texas. Peanut harvesting is active in Central, East and Southwest Texas, and some soybeans are being harvested in East Texas and the coast. Sugar cane harvesting has started in the Rio Grande Valley where tau vegetables and early citrus also continue to move to market.

Pecans are starting to fall in many areas, with generally poor yields expected in some western counties.

Report from district Extension directors showed the following conditions.

PANHANDLE: Freezing temperatures will accelerate harvesting of sorghum and cotton. Sorghum is about 75 percent harvested while the cotton harvest is just beginning. About 10 percent of the sugar beet crop has been harvested, with sugar content low at 9 to 13 percent. Most wheat has been sowed, with stands poor in dry areas. Pastures and ranges are below average.

SOUTH PLAINS: Recent freezing temperatures will speed the cotton harvest now under way. So far dryland yields have been poor while those from well-irrigated cotton have been good to excellent. Harvesting of sorghum, soybeans and sunflowers is about complete, with yields below average. Sugar beets are being harvested in Castro County; sugar content is generally low. Most wheat is doing well.

ROLLING PLAINS: Cotton harvesting will get into full swing following the freeze.

However, the crop is short. Some wheat seeding continues where moisture is adequate. Native ranges have improved in recent weeks, with native rye providing some grazing. Some stocker cattle are moving into the area in anticipation of grazing wheat fields.

NORTH CENTRAL: A poor cotton harvest is winding down. Some wheat planting continues, with additional moisture needed to get the crop off to a good start.

Freezing temperatures brought an end to green grazing on summer pastures that had improved in recent weeks.

NORTHEAST: Planting of wheat and oats is about 85 percent complete, with rain needed in most counties to get the crops growing. Some ryegrass also is being planted for winter grazing. About 10 percent of the cotton crop remains to be harvested; yields are poor. Many cattle are still moving to market, with prices down.

FAR WEST: A killing freeze should speed cotton harvesting. Small grains are making good progress and ranges are in good shape due to recent rains. Most cattle are in good shape. Pecans are starting to fall; the crop looks good.

WEST CENTRAL: Freezing temperatures should get the cotton harvest into full swing; however, the crop will be short due to the season-long drought. Some peanuts are also being dug and early pecans are starting to fall. Most new-planted wheat is up; however, armyworms are damaging some fields. Most livestock are in good shape.

CENTRAL: About 20 percent of the peanut crop is in. Some poor dryland peanuts are being baled for hay. A light pecan crop is expected, with some harvesting starting. Most areas still need rain for small grains and stock water. Armyworms are infesting some small grain fields.

EAST: Recent rains will help small grains, but more is needed. Cotton is 75 percent harvested, and peanut harvest ranges from 25 to 75 percent complete. Yields and quality of both crops is low. Soybeans are about ready to harvest. Sweet potato harvesting is about 75 percent complete, with fair yields. Livestock look fair to good, with market prices down.

UPPER COAST: Harvesting of the second rice crop continues, and soybean harvesting in under way where field conditions permit. Harvesting of a light pecan crop is under way. Forage and livestock conditions are fair to good. Small grains are making good growth.

SOUTH CENTRAL: A below-average cotton harvest is virtually complete. Wheat seeding ranges from 40 to 90 percent complete. Some pecans are starting to fall, with a short crop expected. Forage conditions are fair to poor.

SOUTHWEST: Harvesting of peanuts, pecans, and pickling cucumbers and other fall vegetables is active. The pecan crop will be about 35 percent of last year while peanuts will average 70 percent of the 1979 crop. Fall vegetable plantings are about 60 percent of last year due to drought conditions. Most ranges are in poor shape.

COAST BEND: About 80 percent of the second rice crop has been harvested. Most wheat and oats have been planted but need rain. The last hay cutting of the year is being harvested and is of good quality. Harvesting of a poor pecan crop is under way. Most livestock are in fair condition.

SOUTH: Citrus harvesting is increasing and the sugar cane harvest is under way. Peppers, squash and mixed fall vegetables continue to move to market in light volumes. Onion seeding continues. The fall soybean crop looks good and is setting pods. Zapata and Webb counties remain dry, with grazing and stock water short. Fall marketing of stock calves is in full swing.

Over 120 Top Cutting Horses To Compete in World Finals

Over 120 of the nation's top ranked cutting horses will compete November 6-8 in the National Cutting Horse Association (NCHA) World Championship Finals. More than $50,000 the largest purse in NCHA history, will be up for grabs during the competition which will be held in the Amarillo Tri-State Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Competition will be held in the "open" and "non-pro" divisions at the Finals. The open division welcomes any competitor while the non-pro division is restricted to riders who do not train or show cutting horses for pay, other than premium money.

Leading in the open division is Doc N Willy, owned by Edwin Jones, Redding, California, with total earnings of $34,850. Peppy San Badger, owned by King Ranch of Kingsville, Texas, is second in the division with $34,337 earnings. With only $513 separating the two, the 1980 NCHA World Champion will be decided during the Finals' competition.

The non-pro division is led by Mrs. Buster Welch, Merkel Texas, who has earned $37,396. She has a commanding lead over Richard Andersen, Salinas, California, with earnings of $25,397.

Sponsoring the NCHA Finals is The Outfit Club of Amarillo and NCHA, headquartered in Fort Worth, with each adding $10,000. An additional $5,000 will be added by Auction Sales Company. Jerry Mills, Auction Sales Company, will conduct a sale November 6 in conjunction with the Finals. Sixty quality Quarter Horses will be sold. The added purses will be coupled with $250 entry fees assessed each entry.

Again this year, five judges will independently score each contestant between 60 and 80 points with 70 denoting an average score.

Go-rounds are scheduled to begin at 10:00 a.m. each day. Finals in the non-pro division will be held Friday evening at 7:30 with the open finals set for 7:30 Saturday evening. Tickets are $5 per person per day and $3 for each evening's performance and are available at the Tri-State Fairgrounds Coliseum. Children twelve and under will be admitted free. A limited number of box seats are available.

Concluding the NCHA World Championship Finals will be the Association's annual convention. The NCHA has over 5,500 members from throughout the United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand. NCHA members will convene Sunday to elect the Executive Committee and to discuss amendments to the Association's constitution. Sunday evening the top ten in each division will be honored at the Villa Inn.

Alcohol Production Is Great Potential

AUSTIN—As petroleum prices continue to rise, alcohol production as an alternative fuel is becoming more feasible and attractive, believes Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown and he sees no reason why Texas cannot one day be the nation's top producer of farm-based fuels.

And as head of a special energy sub-committee, Brown has contributed in the formation of an eight-point legislative proposal to be submitted to Governor Clements and the Legislature, which would help the infant fuel alcohol industry establish competitive footing.

The idea of gasoline, by no means new, is to run cars, trucks, tractors, irrigation engines and other machines on alcohol produced through the fermentation of crops and crop residues. Farmers see it as their best hope to break OPEC's grip on their industry, and to partially isolate themselves from the staggering rise in fuel costs they have experienced over the past few years. For many, the appeal is as much patriotic as it is economic.

Farmers are not the only ones interested in making and using alcohol for fuel, of course. But they are the group most likely to feel an immediate impact. Currently, the greatest amount of interest lies in fermentation alcohol, also called ethyl alcohol or ethanol. Methyl alcohol, or methanol, can be produced from coal and wood, and holds substantial promise for the long run. Another area of interest is ethanol produced from cellulosic materials such as straw and timber by-products. When a cost-efficient method is developed for this process, it could add greatly to the country's productive capacity.

While alcohols may someday supply up to one-tenth of the liquid fuel used in the United States, small- to medium-sized ethanol plants built on individual farms could meet 100 percent of the fuel needs of some agricultural producers.

When strong interest in alcohol fuels first began to emerge, Texans were faced with several stumbling blocks. First, and most important, was the fact that it was illegal under Texas law to manufacture ethyl alcohol as a final end product. "Cracking out," or recapturing ethyl alcohol from petroleum was allowed, however.

Food for Thought

By GERALD McCATHERN
In 1938, members of Congress realized that measures should be taken to protect the nation's largest industry, agriculture. They realized that the depression of the 'thirties' was, as were all previous depressions, farm led and farm fed. To insure that the nation would always have a barometer with which to measure the economic conditions 'down on the farm,' they devised the 'parity formula'.

The parity formula is merely a yardstick used to measure the purchasing power of a given commodity in relation to those costs which it takes to produce that commodity, compared to a specific period of time when all segments of the economy, labor, industry, and agriculture, were in relative balance. This period of time was determined to be the four years, 1910 to 1914.

They passed into law this parity formula, making it the responsibility of the USDA to compute monthly the parity ratio of all basic agricultural commodities, and mandated that those computations be made public by printing their findings each month. They reasoned that if Congress (and the general public) was kept informed about any decline in purchasing power within the nation's largest industry, agriculture, actions could be taken to head off any future economic depression.

In 1942, Senator Steagall was able to convince members of the Finance Committee that agriculture could be used to finance the war in which we were involved if measures were taken to insure that agriculture commodity prices remained at 100 percent parity levels. The Finance Committee then added an amendment to the War Mobilization Act which established a 90 percent loan program for all basic storable agriculture commodities. This amendment became known as the Steagall Amendment.

The Steagall Amendment was a very simple proposal. Basically it said that any time commodity prices fell below 90 percent of parity, as determined by the 1938 parity law, farmers could borrow from the government an amount equal to 90 percent of parity, using their commodities as collateral. Any time the market rose above the loan level, farmers had the option to pay their loans, plus interest and storage costs, and sell their commodities on the open market.

This program worked extremely well, and during the ten year period while it was in force, 1943-1953, all agriculture prices averaged 99.96 percent of parity. We were able to pay for all of the expenses of World War II, as well as helping to rebuild the devastated areas of the world through the Marshall plan, and still not suffer a deficit in our treasury.

Since repeal of the Steagall amendment in 1953, agriculture prices have consistently fallen, and in 1980, have deteriorated to the lowest level since 1932, 63 percent of parity.

It is not hard to understand that agriculture, the nation's largest consumer, is now unable to buy back the goods and services of labor and industry, and consequently, the nation's entire economy suffers.

The 1977 Farm Act, though much more complicated than the original Steagall Amendment, has the same loan provisions as the 1942 Act, however it does not mandate a 90 percent level. In essence it says that the support (loan) level may be established at the discretion of the Secretary of Agriculture at any point from zero to 100 percent of parity! The Secretary has seen fit to establish that level at approximately 50 percent of parity on most basic commodities, with the exception of milk, which is established by law at no less than 80 percent of parity. (It is interesting to note that milk is the only commodity which has remained economically sound during this period of high inflation and high production costs.)

The latest Chase Econometrics study has estimated that implementation of the support level at 90 percent of parity on wheat would increase the consumer price index by less than 1 percent and at the same time generate 25,000 new demand jobs. It has been estimated that the same action on all grains should generate 250,000 new demand jobs but would increase the CPI by a minimal amount.

The next Secretary of Agriculture has within his powers the ability to turn our stagnated economy around. Let's hope that he uses more common sense than the last!

Letters from Hostages Tell of Faith, Isolation

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

They write with hope, but despair creeps in. The joy of being remembered is tinged with the fear of being forgotten. The will to survive is challenged by boredom. The letters the American hostages in Iran have written since their capture Nov. 4, 1979, tell of faith and of isolation. They are the fragile tie that binds the strangeness and horror of captivity to the familiarity and comfort of home.

The letters also depict determination. "I'll come through this no matter what is done to me or how long they keep me because I know I have a wife, sons, daughters, a father, mother, brothers, sisters and friends who love me and care for me," Donald R. Hohman, 38, of West Sacramento, Calif., wrote Jan. 31 to his father.

Joseph Hall, 30, of Bend, Ore., in a June 12 letter to his sister, said: "I realize this will go on for a while, but you must know I am handling the situation with as much Hall dignity as I can muster. Call it the ability to cope, acceptance of the inevitable or whatever you like, I WILL come through this ordeal O.K."

Bruce W. German, 43, of Kensington, Md., was hopeful when he wrote a Christmas message to his family. "Just a few words to let you know that I am all right ... Please try not to worry, keep praying ... Hopefully, I will be home soon ..."

German's mood turned, however. "The bottom line is this — we want to come home as soon as possible," he wrote in a letter dated Feb. 7. "There are some, however, who feel we are expendable, evidenced by the apparent lack of action by our government ... Needless to say, we have become rather bitter, disillusioned and frustrated ..."

At about the same time, William F. Keough Jr., 49, of Waltham, Mass., wrote to his daughters: "I also hope you are saving clippings for me so that I'll be able to understand why President Carter has left us here for three months. I find it so hard to believe."

In April, Duane Gillette, 24, of Columbia, Pa., wrote to his parents to tell them: "things get better each day." By late August, his tone had changed. "Being a hostage is depressing," he wrote.

Johnny McKeel Jr., of Balch Spring, Texas, was 26 when he wrote to Hugh and Glenna Edmonds of Holyoke, Mass., to thank them for their Christmas card. "It's getting harder to live here because of the living conditions and food," he said. "If we ever needed a doctor, we need one now. Most of us have lost between 15 and 25 pounds."

On June 28, his 27th birthday, he wrote his parents: "I don't know how long this situation will last, but I'm sure I won't be home this year. ... Please tell everyone I'm thinking of them all. Love, J.D."

Sgt. Joseph Subic Jr., 23, of Redford Township, Mich., wrote to American newspapers on Jan. 3, thanking "my fellow Americans, who have sent Christmas cards and letters of support to us."

He said: "Please keep the cards and letters coming. ... Please do not let us be forgotten as our POW's were during the Vietnam War."

Robert C. Ode, 64, of Falls Church, Va., sent letters to several newspapers and to President Carter. "We feel that we have been abandoned by our government and the American people," he said in the Dec. 26 letter. "We have no idea what is being done ..."

Ode was more cheerful in a letter he wrote the same day to some fourth-grade boys and girls who sent him Christmas greetings. "It helped to make a sad Christmas for us a little brighter and more hopeful ... Many, many thanks for your thoughts and prayers in our behalf. We pray too that this terrible situation will end soon!"

Paul Lewis, 23, of Homer, Ill., sent thanks for Christmas greetings. In a letter to the Champaign-Urbana (Ill.) News-Gazette, he wrote: "It is reassuring to know that we have not been forgotten. It is times like these that make me especially proud to be an American. Thank you all for showing your support and may God bless you all." Lewis added: "My father, Phil Lewis, works in the composing room. I would be grateful if you would let him know that I am fine." Several hostages wrote that they were being fed well, if simply. But their letters told of yearnings for home cooking. "Mom, I have this almost uncontrollable craving for a beef tamale," wrote James Michael Lopez, 21, of Globe, Ariz., on April 14.

A letter from Michael Moeller, 28, of Loup City, Neb., to his parents betrayed a sweet tooth. "When you meet me at the airport, bring some fudge and chocolate chip and peanut butter cookies."

The strain of monotony shows in many of the letters. "Our biggest problem here is boredom," wrote Subic. "Please write often — even if only short letters. They mean so much as the daily monotony, boredom and frustration of waiting is hard to take." Ode asked his brother on Jan. 3.

"I'd write you each day if allowed," Hall wrote. "However, my normal routine is so uneventful you would be bored stiff."

The passing of the days brought changing conditions for some. In a Dec. 16 letter to his wife, Barry Rosen, 36, of New York, wrote: "They've been inordinately nice since the 33rd day — but we still cannot speak to each other — which is the most unbearable restriction, given the need for human contact." Less than a month later, however, Rosen wrote: "I'm now in a room for four."

The threads of American life are woven among the hostages' words. Kevin Hermening, 20, of Oak Creek, Wis., wrote to the Milwaukee Brewers baseball team. "I had hoped to be home by opening day, but unfortunately it doesn't seem possible," Hermening said in an April 4 letter.

Not all of the letters from the hostages have gotten through, however. Harry and Alice Metrisko of Olyphant, Pa., did not hear from their son Michael until late April. In his letter, he said he had written six times before. "Just wanted to tell you that I'm OK and miss you," Metrisko wrote. "I would like to hear from you ... but the jailers are heavily censoring all mail so please don't mention anything but family news. Pretend it's World War II again."

He is fluent in English and German, and has earned a reputation as one of the most intelligent, cautious and calculating of Iran's revolutionaries. Describing his smooth political style, the Tehran newspaper Azadegan said Beheshti "always tilts the cup but doesn't spill the contents."

The IRP chief is considered the architect of Iran's new Islamic constitution, which gave the head of the Supreme Court considerable political power and established a council of religious elders to oversee Iran's national life.

Rajai Exemplifies Revolution

By The Associated Press
Unknown outside Iran until this summer, Mohammad Ali Rajai in some ways epitomizes the Iranian revolution — fervently Islamic, staunchly nationalist and untainted by Western "corruption."

Rajai, 47, was named prime minister in August by a reluctant President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr only because the Islamic Republican Party forced the choice on him. The president, in fact, told his followers he believed the new prime minister was not up to the job and was too headstrong and contentious.

The president and prime minister's first clash came quickly — over Rajai's nominees for cabinet positions, men Bani-Sadr considered too young and inexperienced in political affairs.

Rajai himself — rough-shaven, mustached and plainly dressed — had less than a year's government experience, as acting education minister. By profession he is a math teacher.

He was born in the northern Iranian city of Qazvin and was educated there and in Tehran, where he obtained a bachelor of science degree in mathematics.

While teaching school in Qazvin and Tehran, he became politically active in the Islam-inspired movement against the regime of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. The dissidents protested Pahlavi's attempts to Westernize Iran's traditionally Moslem life, to dilute the power of the clergy and to ally Iran with the United States militarily and economically.

Rajai was arrested twice for his political activities, serving a prison term of two months in the 1960s and a four-year term in the 1970s, during which he reportedly was tortured by Pahlavi's SAVAK secret police. He was not released until late 1978, just before Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolution triumphed after months of bloodshed.

He was elected a member of the Iranian Parliament from Tehran in national balloting earlier this year.

Upon his selection as prime minister, Rajai reaffirmed his militant fervor, saying that the Iranian government must be kept in the hands of "the revolutionaries who stood before bullets."

He said one of his first goals would be to effect a greater redistribution of wealth. In its first 1½ years, he said, the revolutionary regime had "done nothing with the capitalists."

The Iranian prime minister has given little hint of conciliation on the hostage crisis. He declared that the United States must follow "six stages of repentance" for its alleged past sins in Iran. "If we were sure you had repented, we would talk," he said.

Beheshti Could Be Key

By The Associated Press
Regarded by many as the second most powerful man in Iran, Ayatollah Mohammad Beheshti could prove to be a key to a resolution of the U.S. hostage crisis.

As leader of the Islamic Republican Party, which controls the Iranian Parliament, and as head of the revolutionary Supreme Court, the Moslem clergyman Beheshti is in a position to orchestrate the parliamentary debate on the hostage issue, and then to organize what many believe will be the last act of the crisis — some kind of staged "spy" trial of the Americans.

Following the path of supreme revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Beheshti has engineered the campaign to entrench the clergy as the dominant political force in Iran. Since their candidate was defeated by Abolhassan Bani-Sadr in presidential elections last January, Beheshti and the IRP have worked to undercut Bani-Sadr's power.

His critics have accused the big, dark-bearded Beheshti of having had "links" with the United States, an allegation that is leveled in revolutionary Iran for acts as innocent as having met with American officials. But Khomeini has reaffirmed his faith in his fellow cleric and revolutionary.

Beheshti, 51, spent a period in West Germany as a religious counselor to Iranian Moslems there. Some dissident Iranian students accused him of ignoring repression by Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's regime during this time and concentrating on purely religious matters.

He is fluent in English and German, and has earned a reputation as one of the most intelligent, cautious and calculating of Iran's revolutionaries. Describing his smooth political style, the Tehran newspaper Azadegan said Beheshti "always tilts the cup but doesn't spill the contents."

The IRP chief is considered the architect of Iran's new Islamic constitution, which gave the head of the Supreme Court considerable political power and established a council of religious elders to oversee Iran's national life.

Important Dates of Hostage Crisis Outlined

By The Associated Press

Here are important dates in the Iran hostage crisis:

Nov. 4 — Iranian militants seize the U.S. Embassy and take 98 people hostage, demanding that the United States send the deposed shah back to Iran.

Nov. 6 — The Iranian government of Premier Mehdi Bazargan resigns.

Nov. 9 — The United Nations Security Council calls on the militants to release the hostages.

Nov. 12 — President Carter orders a halt to oil imports from Iran.

Nov. 14 — Carter orders the freezing of Iranian assets in the United States.

Nov. 19-20 — Thirteen American hostages — five women and eight black men — are released.

Nov. 29 — The United States asks the International Court at The Hague, Netherlands, for a ruling against Iran.

Dec. 4 — The U.N. Security Council votes unanimously to urge Iran to free the hostages.

Dec. 12 — The U.S. State Department orders the expulsion of 183 Iranian diplomats.

Dec. 15 — The shah flies to a "temporary" exile in Panama and the International Court orders Iran to free the hostages.

Dec. 25 — Three U.S. clergymen conduct Christmas services for the hostages.

Dec. 27 — Soviet troops pour into neighboring Afghanistan after President Hafizullah Amin is overthrown and slain.

Dec. 31 — The U.N. Security Council adopts a resolution calling on Iran to free the hostages by Jan. 7 or face possible sanctions.

Jan. 1 — U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim arrives in Iran, hoping to negotiate the hostages' release, but is rebuffed.

Jan. 13 — The Security Council votes to impose sanctions against Iran but the Soviet Union vetoes the resolution.

Jan. 20 — Waldheim says he has a formula to resolve the crisis.

Jan. 25 — Abolhassan Bani-Sadr is elected president of Iran.

Jan. 29 — It is disclosed that the Canadian Embassy in Tehran spirited six Americans out of Iran.

Feb. 3 — Iran agrees to an international commission to investigate Iran's charges against the shah and the United States.

Feb. 13 — Carter says he favors a U.N. commission to look into Iran's charges.

Feb. 20 — Waldheim announces a U.N. commission and says it will go to Tehran in an effort to resolve the crisis.

March 3 — Iran's ruling Revolutionary Council approves a visit to the hostages by the U.N. commission.

March 4 — The militants holding the hostages balk at any such visit.

March 6 — The militants say they will turn the hostages over to the Iranian government.

March 8 — In a dispute with the Bani-Sadr government, the militants refuse to turn the hostages over.

March 10 — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini sides with the militants, saying the hostages must remain in their hands.

March 11 — The U.N. commission leaves Iran without giving a report on its investigation.

March 14 — The first of two rounds of voting is held for Iran's new parliament which officials say will decide the fate of the hostages.

March 22 — An attorney representing Iran says in Panama he plans to start proceedings for the extradition of the shah.

March 23 — The shah flies to Egypt to undergo an operation for the removal of his spleen.

April 1 — Bani-Sadr offers to take custody of the hostages and Carter calls this a "positive development."

April 6 — American clergymen conduct Easter services for the hostages.

April 7 — Khomeini again rules the hostages must remain in the custody of the militants, rebuffing Bani-Sadr. The United States breaks diplomatic relations with Iran and imposes economic sanctions.

April 17 — Carter imposes additional economic sanctions against Iran and indicates the next step may be military action.

April 25 — A U.S. military operation to free the hostages is aborted because of helicopter failure. Eight U.S. servicemen are killed in the collision of a C-130 transport plane and a helicopter inside Iran.

April 26 — Iran says the hostages have been moved from the U.S. Embassy in Tehran to other parts of the city and country.

April 28 — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance resigns in protest of the U.S. rescue mission and is succeeded later by Sen. Edmund Muskie.

April 30 — Men identified as Iranian Arabs seize Iran's embassy in London and take more than a score of persons hostage, demanding the release of 91 political prisoners they claim are held in Iran.

May 5 — British commandos storm Iranian Embassy in London, ending a six-day terrorist occupation after the gunmen killed two of their hostages.

May 9 — Iranians vote in run-off election for a parliament that is empowered to decide the fate of the American hostages.

May 24 — In a unanimous ruling, the World Court at The Hague calls for release of the hostages and in a split decision says Iran should compensate the United States for the seizure. Iran dismisses the ruling.

May 28 — Iran's new parliament convenes but takes no immediate action on the hostage question.

July 10 — Khomeini orders the release of hostage Richard Queen, a 28-year-old vice consul, because of an illness which later is diagnosed as multiple sclerosis. The Islamic regime claims it has crushed a U.S.-backed plot to overthrow the government and bomb Khomeini's home.

July 27 — The shah dies in Cairo. U.S. officials express doubt his death will lead to a speedy release of the hostages.

July 29 — After a state funeral attended by former President Richard M. Nixon in an unofficial capacity, the shah is buried in a Cairo mosque.

Sept. 17 — Following months of border skirmishes, Iraq abrogates its 1975 border agreement with Iran.

Sept. 22 — Iraq and Iran border hostilities become a full-scale war, with air attacks on Tehran and Baghdad and Iraqi thrusts into Iran.

Oct. 17 — Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai of Iran, speaking before the U.N. Security Council in New York, accuses the United States of helping Iraq in the war, seeing "an opportunity," he says, for getting the hostages released.

Oct. 18 — Rajai tells a New York news conference he believes the United States, "in practice," has apologized for its previous support of the shah and that an Iranian decision on the hostages issue is "not far away."

Bani-Sadr Most Willing To End Hostage Crisis

By The Associated Press

In the year since young radicals seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, Abolhassan Bani-Sadr has emerged as the most conciliatory of top Iranian officials in trying to end the crisis. But he was caught with the hostages in a political storm still swirling over revolutionary Iran.

The 46-year-old Bani-Sadr's power may have peaked last Jan. 25, the day he was elected first president of the Islamic Republic of Iran by an overwhelming popular vote. Since then, he has been locked in a struggle with Moslem clergymen who have gradually chipped away at his position in a bid to take full command of the revolution.

The conservative clerics distrust what they see as leftist, Western tendencies of foreign-educated technocrats. Bani-Sadr, despite his flawless revolutionary and religious credentials, falls into that category. Iran's president was born the son of an ayatollah, a high-ranking clergyman of Iran's Shiite Moslem sect. He was educated in economics and theology at the University of Tehran, and later continued his studies during more than a decade of exile in France.

In the early 1950s, Bani-Sadr became active in a Tehran student movement opposed to Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's regime. In 1963, he was wounded when the shah's forces put down violent anti-government protests in Tehran. After spending four months in jail for his activities, he fled to France.

While abroad he published two books depicting his homeland as an economic and military freedom of the United States, and calling for greater Iranian economic self-reliance.

After Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, symbol of the anti-shah opposition, went to France in mid-1978, Bani-Sadr became one of his closest associates. He flew back to Tehran in revolutionary triumph with Khomeini in February 1979.

Bani-Sadr was named as one of the dozen or so members of the secret ruling body, the Revolutionary Council. He also became provisional finance minister and foreign minister.

As economics chief, he said he wanted to reshape the Iranian economy in an Islamic mold. Among other measures, he nationalized banks and outlawed bank interest, in keeping with Moslem principles.
