Implications for Area Numerous —

Air Force Releases EIS on MX System

By JIM STEIERT Managing Editor

A draft environmental impact statement on the proposed MX missile system was released by the Air Force Thursday and indicates that up to 1,400 families, many of them farmers, could be displaced if the controversial missile system is deployed in the Clovis-Hereford-Dalhart region of West Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

The report also downplays the impact of deployment of the system in the agriculturerich West Texas-New Mexico region, despite contentions from residents and commodity groups in this area that placement of the missile system could not only

A disconcerting note for the numerous local opponents of the system is the fact that the statement also claims that a number of endangered plant and animal species would be adversely affected if the MX is deployed at the Air Force's preferred site, the Great Basin region of Nevada-Utah.

The Air Force statement claimed that a net increase of $1.1 billion in revenue could be realized in the Clovis-Dalhart area by 1987 if the missile system is located here, but the Air Force did acknowledge that the MX project could have an

A major concern about placing the MX in the Texas Panhandle has been the water required for construction and operation of the

According to Lt. Col. Bill Verkest, environmental planning officer for the MX, at the peak of construction in 1986, the MX project will require 30,000 acre-feet of water annually with water requirements during the operational phase of the project 13,000 acre-feet.

An acre-foot is 325,851 gallons.

Verkest claimed that "a relatively small portion of water will be drawn from the Ogallala Aquifer," but in the same EIS the Air Force acknowledged that operating base construction and operations in the Clovis area could have significant long-term impacts due to aquifer deple-

"The expanded community of Clovis, competing for available water, could further impact aquifer depletion rates," the Air Force statement indicated.

The report claimed that impact on water tables in the Dalhart area would be low. According to Verkest, the location of the MX system in the Dalhart-Clovis region would cause the loss of grazing land for 14,600 cattle, but the Air Force official claimed the avoidance of feedlots could reduce that figure.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas; reflected the opinion of many local opponents to the placement of the system here when he commented yesterday that the Nevada-Utah region is the only logical choice for an MX

'Selecting one of the Utah-Nevada sites for the entire MX missile system would save this country at least $3 billion-perhaps substantially more than that-at a time when we're trying to upgrade our defense capability. I don't think there is any serious alternative to full basing in Nevada-Utah," said Bentsen.

Texas Republican Senator John Tower, in line as chairman of the Senate Armed Services committee, withheld comment yesterday on the impact statement but has said previously he feels review will show the Nevada-Utah location the only practical site for the missile system. Deaf Smith County and other neighboring counties including Dallam, Sherman, Hartley, Oldham, Randall, Swisher, Castro, Parmer, Bailey, Lamb, Cochran, and Hockley as well as New Mexico counties of Union, Harding, Quay, Curry, Roosevelt, Lea, Chaves, De Baca and Guadalupe could be directly affected by deployment of an MX missile system in this region.

Some sources have indicated that missile shelters could be located within seven miles of Hereford, and that prime farmland could be disrupted. Problems with wind erosion as a result of the disturbance of area soils have also been hinted by the Air Force.

The Air Force reports the it would have to buy 91,500 acres of private land in addition to moving 1,400 families in this area were the missile system to be located here, while the system could be deployed at less expense with little displacement of the populace in the sparsely populated regions of Nevada-Utah that are under consideration. In addition, much of the land in that region is already government-owned.

The MX missile system involves 200 missiles with multiple warheads and 4,600 underground shelters connected by 8,500 miles of twolane paved roads.

Were the system deployed in this area, there would be two large operating bases at Clovis and Dalhart and land acquisition required for such deployment would include 8,300 acres adjoining Cannon

Air Force Base at Clovis.

The Air Force statement admits that deployment in this area would mean that it would be impossible to avoid privately-owned land.

Air Force officials have also considered the possibility of a split-basing system' with a portion of the missiles located in Nevada-Utah and the other portion located in this region.

Up to 140 families could be displaced by such a system locally.

Verkest reported that the final decision on the site for the MX missile system will likely come this summer after public hearings and the completion of a final environmental impact state-

A 21-year-old Summerfield man was left with only the clothing on his back this morning when a blaze broke out at the home in which he was residing in the Summerfield community.

The home was gutted by the fire and volunteer firemen shivered through the threehour vigil in below freezing temperatures that were made even more severe by a frigid wind.

Cabinet Plans Are Unraveling

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Ronald Reagan's plans for filling the rest of his Cabinet appear to be unraveling after a top candidate for secretary of housing and urban development withdrew and opposition has grown to the president-elect's reported choice for interior secretary.

Philip V. Sanchez, a Mexican-American who had been considered Reagan's likely choice to head HUD, announced Thursday he was withdrawing because new ethics-in-government laws would force him to sell all his business holdings.

The hospital administrator praised the medical staff, the fire department and the police department for helping make the system successful. He also cited the newspaper here for not "creating a controversy" when the taxing units were discussing how to start the system.

Following the presentation, Dr. Canon proposed that the chamber pass a resolution "commending the EMS and those who cooperate with the system in providing a quality ambulance service at the lowest possible cost." Directors approved the resolution.

Burdett reported on the chamber-sponsored pheasant hunt and said the C of C had about 30 hunters on opening weekend. He told the board that Mike Carr, executive vice president, put in much work on the project. "We have built a good base from which to work on next year,' said Burdett.

Despite strong protests from the Saudi government, the movie was seen in most of the United States, but not in Houston. The station, operated by the University of Houston, declined to air the program, despite a see-saw court battle.

Dr. Patrick J. Nicholson, former vice president of the university, said he dropped the show because "our long friendship with the Saudi government and U.S. national interests all point to the need to avoid exacerbating the situation."

Gertrude Barnstone, a. former Houston school board trustee, filed suit against the station and won a temporary injunction May 9 to force the showing of the movie.

Greg Wilson, an assistant state attorney general, said he would file an appeal. Judge McDonald said in her ruling, "the court refuses to carve out an exception to the Bill of Rights. To do so would in effect encourage the planting of seedlings which, on attaining full growth, would install the State of Texas, through the University of Houston, as a kind of single ministry of truth as in George Orwell's '1984.""

The judge also warned that "such absolute control over what people may see and hear will not be countanance in 1980. Americans have a First Amendment right to see and hear without having their sights and sounds subjected to the censorship of those wrapped in the cloak of the state, particularly when those state officials are acting on the basis of their personal, political decisions.'

Sne said Dr. Nicholson was unable to explain how airing of the show "could have threatened this nation's national security."

Dear Editor

Over 800,000 Texans suffer from one or more chronic respiratory diseases. Acute respiratory diseases account for about half of all school absenteeism. Chronic lung disease is one of the leading causes of death in Texas. These figures represent a major set of problems in our state. That's why the American Lung Association of Texas' annual Christmas Seal campaign is so important.

The lung association sponsors programs to that individuals with emphysema, chronic bronchitis, and asthma can learn to understand their disease and to live as comfortably as possible with it. It seeks to educate the public about the dangers of smoking and to reach children in their earliest grades in order to create a generation of nonsmokers. It offers professional education programs to health professionals to assure the best possible care for lung disease patients. And the lung association continues to work for tuberculosis control. At this holiday time, I hope you'll join me in giving more to Christmas Seals. They carry the promise that the major diseases of the lung will be attacked with the same vigor and determination that tamed tuberculosis. Join with me this holiday season in making Texas a better place to breathe.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN

Just a week before Christmas there seem to be plenty of gift shoppers still making the rounds of the stores - and guess who's right among 'em.

They must be buying gifts to present in person, because I was in the postoffice Wednesday morning and it looked plumb peculiar without any package-laden customers. Gene streun said he sure hoped the rush was over, but before I could buy a stamp and mail a letter the lines had begun to form again.

Last-minute Christmas shopping always seems like the most fun to me even though the selections are pickedover. And nobody needs to tell me that the salesclerks in stores don't feel that way; they're tired. I've been on the other side of the counter in Christmastimes past and liked the late shopping rush even though my feet hurt.

Some people are smarter and get their shopping done early. Opal Elliston had a sort of smug look on her face when I met her in the mall last week and she said she was going into a store to buy the last gift on her list.

Carrying some packages to the postoffice the same day, Dorothy Renfro said that completed her mailing. She said she plans to stay in Hereford this Christmas in spite of insistence from her family down in North Texas. She doesn't want to get into the airline hassle at holiday time, and will go later. That sounds smart.

Joe Ella Cansler had that Christmas-shopping look on her face as she headed with a purposeful air into the mall...Corene Smith kept a cheerful attitude as she waited her turn at the postoffice, an attitude that I am sure the busy clerks appreciate as they fend off a lot of complaints from less patient people.

Labeled as their Christmas gift to the community, the Hereford International Chamber Singers' matinee concert Sunday brought out one of their usual packed-house audiences that heard some fine music.

Most of the songs were familiar (is there Christmas music which isn't?) but the arrangements were different, even for the popular winter songs that made up one sec-

The program was climaxed with an arrangement that was quite different to me, as it combined Handel's Hallelujah Chorus with the hymn, Joy to the World, in a way that out-Handeled Handel

He made his exultant choral piece complicated enough with intricate counterpoint, but an arranger managed to weave the joyful hymn tune in among the "Hallelujahs" and "He shall reigns" for even more harmony.

The chancel of First Christian Church, with its floating gold cross above the singers, a huge Christmas wreath against the back wall and a lighted tree at the side, was a perfect setting for the music of Bill Devers & Co.

Shop for 'Safe' Christmas Gifts

Keep safety in mind when shopping for Christmas gifts this season.

Choosing the right gift means giving close attention to its safe design as well as selecting the right product for a person's needs, points out Dr. Gary Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Many injuries result from use of defective, poorly designed or unsafe products as well as from using products for other than their intended design. So, before making a purchase, check a product for any potential hazards and make sure you get the right product for the right use, eautions Nelson.

Inform yourself about products by checking information brochures, catalogs and consumer product rating publications. Inspect the product for quality of workmanship and proper shielding of hazardous parts, advises the engineer. Read the warranty and look for labels stating that the equipment meets certain standards.

Since the advent of the Consumer Product Safety Act, product safety has generally improved, contends Nelson. The Act basically states that

IF YOU ARE BETWEEN THE AGES OF 55-65 and are not in a Bible study class, we invite you to join us for Bible study at First Baptist Church each Sunday at 9:45 a.m. ground floor ADULT IV DEPARTMENT

By being an informed consumer and shopping for products wisely, you will protect those on your Christmas gift list and make their holiday terrific.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read the one about the woman who wanted to bring a guest to a far-away wedding. I understand that the guest-list limitations can be a very touchy subject, but can you comment on this one?

My cousin is getting married this winter. I live several hours away from the wedding site. I live with my boyfriend and will probably marry him at some point. I am not formally engaged, however.

I would very much like to have "Ed" escort me to the wedding, but I am not sure I will get a personal invitation. My parents will probably receive the invitation, and it will say "and family" which means me.

I will have to travel back and forth, a six-hour drive each way, or an $80 train fare is an obligation, too. Shower and wedding gifts will probably total $60.

If I don't bring a date I know I won't even get to dance, since there are very few young men in our family. Am I justified in asking my cousin to extend an invitation to my boyfriend?-Would Like Some Fun For My Money

DEAR WOULD: No, you are not. This is not a social dinner dance. It's a wedding celebration

The biggest headache to the bride's family is where to cut the guest list. If every "single" asked to bring a dancing partner, it would be

A shower is not a "must." Since money is tight, skip the shower and save $80.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I owe you a whole hell of a lot, and this letter is to say thank much younger and had been abused by a relative. I wrote to you when I was at the end of my string. You advised me to get in touch with the Family Service Assn. I did just that, and those wonderful people really were

After only four months of therapy I realized I was not gay or bisexual, and the feelings I had were perfectly nor-

I hope more kids will pay attention to you when you advise them to get counseling. I used to think it cost a lot of money and was very surprised to find out otherwise.

You sure do a lot of good in the world. God bless you .- A Chicago Admirer

DEAR AD: I appreciate your letter more than I can say. Thanks for writing

DEAR ANN LANDERS: About every three months my wife (we've been married six years) goes off her rocker and picks a fight with me, so she can bounce some glassware off my head or kick my shins black and blue.

We had a real go-round last night, and she hit me in the mouth and cut my lip with her ring. (The diamond I gave her when we were engaged.) I don't drink, gamble or run around. The reason she goes off half-nuts is because I like to read or watch TV after dinner, and she thinks I should be talking to her instead. I do talk to her a lot, but I don't care to spend three or four hours at it, especially when there's football or hockey on the tube. What's the solution?-Idaho Woe

DEAR WOE: Your wife should take the advice of the high school boy who wrote the letter just above this one. The woman needs counseling. Her behavior is 'immature and childish. She needs to learn how to get rid of her frustrations and aggressions in a civilized manner. I hope she follows through before you get fed up and leave. No man should have to put up with physical abuse.

Members of Congress May Get $24,338 Pay Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) -Now that official Washington is in the midst of change, it's comforting to note that some things are consistent.

When the 97th Congress comes to town early in January, one of the first hot potatoes that will be lobbed into its hands may be a proposal to give members of Congress a $24,338 pay raise. One of the most fascinating shows in Washington ought to be whether the new Congress, far more conservative than its predecessors, will be able to handle the pay issue with any more finesse.

The raise for members of Congress, federal judges and other top officials was recommended by the Quadrennial Commission. The presidential panel meets every four years to review their salaries.

If President Carter agrees with the recommendations, he will forward them to Congress, which will have 60 days to thrash around and finally decide whether to accept the

What sweet revenge it would be for Carter to head for Plains, Ga., after dangling this tantalizing but loaded plum in front of Congress, an institution he never understood or got along with, a fact that was a major contribution to a reputation for ineffectiveness.

The 95th Congress got itself into a political tangle when it tried early in 1977 to let a 29 percent pay raise take effect without a roll-call vote. The resultant furor led Congress to amend the law to force future Congresses to vote on future commission recommendations.

The panel recommended that congressional salaries be increased from $60,662 to $85,000, a 40 percent boost. The pay for the speaker of the House would go from $79,125 to $120,000, a 51.7 percent boost, while the salaries of members of the majority and minority leaders would go from $68,575 to $95,000, a 38.5

percent increase. Among the other big winners under the commission's recommendations would be the vice president, whose pay is the same as that of the speaker of the House, and also would go to $120,000, and Supreme Court justices. The chief justice would get a 60 percent boost, from $75,000 to $120,000, while associate justices would go up 59.7 percent, from $72,000 to $115,000.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, soon to the assistant Senate majority leader, is a strong advocate of congressional pay increases. He argues that most members of Congress have to maintain two homes, one in Washington and one in their home state.

The commission noted with its recommendation that even with the increase, members of Congress and other top officials still would be running far behind the rise in living costs over the last 10

In its report, the commission said it "believes that this nation is faced with a quiet crisis in terms of the rapidly increasing problems of attracting and retaining men and women of outstanding ability and achievement to fill the top positions in out government.'

According to Stevens. President-elect Ronald Reagan agrees with that assessment and favors a pay regular season gets under way Saturday with four teams who can't make the playoffs, including a unique announcer-less contest in Miami's Orange Bowl between the Dolphins and the New York Jets. The other contest pits the Chicago Bears against Tampa Bay.

Sunday, Cleveland is at Cincinnati, Denver travels to Seattle, Baltimore hosts Kansburgh at San Diego. The Jets, 3-12, are going after their sixth straight victory over Miami, 8-7. And the game will be a first in television history as NBC will have neither a play-by-play announcer or a "color man"

Chicago running back Walter Payton will be after his fifth consecutive NFC rushing title when the Bears, 6-9, meet the Bucs, 5-9-1. Payton leads the NFC with 1,330 yards on 288 carries.

On Sunday, the fun begins for the AFC playoff picture.

If Buffalo, 10-5, beats San Francisco, 6-9, or if both Buffalo and New England lose, the Bills win the AFC East. If New England, 9-6, topples the Saints, 1-14, and Buffalo loses, then the Patriots are the division champions because of a better division

If Buffalo does not win the AFC East, it can get a wild card berth if either Cleveland, Houston, San Diego or Oakland lose. New England can be a wild card if it wins and either San Diego or Cleveland loses.

In the AFC Central, if Cleveland, 10-5, downs Cincinnati, 6-9, the Browns win the title. If Cleveland loses, Houston wins, regardless of how the Oilers fare against Minnesota.

Houston, 10-5, can clinch a wild card by beating Minnesota, 9-6. Cleveland and Houston are assured of at least a wild card if New England loses.

Pittsburgh can be a wild card if New England loses, Cleveland and Houston win and the Steelers, 9-6, beat San Diego, 10-5.

If San Diego beats Pittsburgh in this game of musical chairs, the Chargers win the AFC West. If San Diego loses, Oakland, 10-5, would win the division regardless of how the Raiders do against the Giants, 4-11.

Oakland can clinch a playoff spot by winning while San Diego, if it loses, can be a wild card if either Houston or Cleveland lose.

Jefferson, Permian to Clash

By ALAN SAYRE

Associated Press Writer Port Arthur Jefferson, ending a 23-year absence from the state schoolboy football finals, and Odessa Permian, a two-time winner over the past 15 years, end a fourmonth gridiron trek Saturday with the state 5A championship game.

Texas Stadium officials are expecting a crowd of up to 23,000 for the 2 p.m. kickoff.

Permian reached the finals with a 21-3 win over Highland Park last Saturday, while Jefferson advanced with a 34-7 shellacking of San Antonio Holmes.

Jefferson's chief offensive weapon is quarterback Todd Dodge, who has set a 5A season record with 2,935 yards and a career record for completions with 372.

The Port Arthur squad has averaged over 400 offensive yards per game this season and that's cause for concern by Permian mentor John Wilkins.

"We've never faced an offense quite like this one," Wilkins said, adding that Jefferson's defense has been "overshadowed."

"Their defense is very aggressive, but it's been overshadowed by their offense," he said. "Their defense is as good as their offense."

But Wilkins is not in the habit of downplaying his own

But Wilkins says he's never seen anything like Jefferson's offense, headed by quarterback Todd Dodge.

In the past 15 years, Permian has made five state final appearances, winning in 1965 and, most recently, beating Baytown Sterling in Jefferson Coach Ron Thompson, leading his team into its first championship appearance since a 1957 loss to Highland Park, said Permian also poses a volatile threat on both offense and defense.

"They're a very talented football team," he said. "They present a lot of problems on offense. They execute very well. They probably have the best defense we've faced - ever."

Thompson Saturday's game could be a barn-burner.

"I think it will be a good matchup on every aspect of football," he said. "They have a great defense and their offense has gotten them to the state finals and I think it's going to be a great contest at every point."

Thompson also said playing in Irving is a thrill, "but we'd play this one in a cow pasture."

Jefferson last captured the state championship with a 20-7 victory in 1944 over Highland Park.

NEW YORK (AP) - Not wanting to retire and leave boxing fans with the memory of his battering at the hands of Larry Holmes, Muhammad Ali says he is going back in the ring to fight European Ali, who has held the world heavyweight title an unprecedented three times, said Thursday in London: "If you judged all fighters on one performance, you would have to stop a whole lot of them from fighting." He was referring to his loss to World Boxing Council champion Holmes on Oct. 2, a bout in which Ali lost every round and did not answer the bell for the 11th. Harold Smith, president of Muhammad Ali Professional Sports, Inc., told The Associated Press by telephone from Los Angeles that Ali "has asked me to make the fight.'

"This is Ali's fight," he added. "If the fight is made, it will take place the first week in March ... in one of three places - Kingston, Jamaica; the Bahamas, or Puerto Rico. It definitely won't be in the United States, mainly because the media in the United States would be hard on Ali."

There has been a general consensus in the United States that Ali should retire. In Chicago, Herbert Muhammad, Ali's manager, said there have been negotiations for a fight with Gardner but "Ali has not signed and I have not signed, and I have exclusive rights.'

Ali Returns to Fight Gardner

British promoter Mickey Duff said from Las Vegas, Nev., that he is Gardner's manager and that Gardner had not signed a contract but had signed a letter of intent with Smith to fight Ali.

Ali, in London to promote his film "Freedom Road," which already has been shown on American television, explained that he wanted to set even more records in the ring.

"I want to go on because I'm the only man in the history of the sport with the chance of winning the heavyweight title for a fourth time," Ali said. "I had one bad fight against Holmes because I had taken the wrong pills for a thyroid condition. Let me fight Gardner. and I say that if I lose or look bad beating him, I will get out of boxing.'

Ali also denied he was having a speech problem after the British Broadcasting Corp. decided not to broadcast a taped interview the 38-year-old Ali made with veteran interviewer Roy Plomley.

"When you get as great as me, people always look for some type of downfall," Ali noted in a live interview on the London commercial station Capital Radio. "You people talk so distinctly, so properly. We were slaves and given English. Blacks understand me." Apparently the BBC felt that British listeners would have trouble understanding Ali. A BBC spokesman said Ali probably was suffering from jet lag when he made the interview with Plomley.

Clippers Roll Over Dallas

SAN DIEGO (AP) - San Diego guard Freeman Williams has been in the Clippers' starting lineup recently because Phil Smith is sidelined with an ankle injury. Williams, who has made the most of his opportunity, is wondering what's going to happen when Smith returns to action. -

"I'm just getting in the groove, said Williams after scoring a game-high 32 points Thursday night as the Clippers rolled to a 102-92 National Basketball Association victory over the Dallas

Cowboys Hope for Win Over Philadelphia

DALLAS (AP) - Tom Landry says it doesn't take a math genius to figure the Dallas Cowboys for the National Conference wild card game Dec. 28th.

The Cowboys have to beat the Philadelphia Eagles by 25 points or more in Texas Stadium Sunday to successfully defend their National Conference Eastern Division title.

"Since the Eagles haven't given up 25 points to anybody it doesn't make you too optimistic," Landry said Tuesday in the wake of Monday night's 38-14 flogging by the Los Angeles Rams, a team the Cowboys may have to play again in the wild card playoff.

The Eagles are the No. 1 defensive team in the NFC, yielding just 12.4 points per contest.

"The Eagles are tough on defense and they'll have 25 points on the scoreboard and we haven't even kicked off," said Landry. "Philadelphia is in an enviable position."

The normally conservative Landry added "We're going to open it up. But if you try to score too many points too fast you can get into trouble against a team like the Eagles. But it's a funny game. You never know what's going to happen."

Dallas has already clinched a wild card berth. The Cowboys can cement a homefield berth for the wild card with a victory over the Eagles or if Los Angeles loses to Atlanta. Should Dallas lose to Philadelphia and the Rams beat the Falcons, the Cowboys will have to travel to

Los Angeles again. "We don't want to do that," said Landry. "We want to be at home."

Landry said the Cowboys were "lousy" against the Landry theorized the Cowboys could have been victims of their own success. He said "We came off a big rush. We couldn't stop the bomb. We were almost 100 per cent in all areas. We have high in Oakland. We won there and not many people felt we would. Things looked bright. We had tied Philadelphia. The Rams were supposed to have all those injuries. I mean nobody was supposed to play for them. That seems to be a deadly situation for us."

Dogie cager Amy Noyes compiled a seemingly infinite string of field goals en route to 27 points as she led Stanton's 9th grade to 56-52 win ower the Clovis team. Angela Walker backed Noves up with artally of 11 in the victory which pushed the squad's district ledger to 2-3.

Linda Gonzales and Kristin Walterscheid knocked in respective tallies of nine and eight points to lead the Stanton eight grade to a narrow 26:24 decision over its Gattis opponent. The win nudged the 8th grade crew to a 4-7 overall record and brought its district slate to 2-3.

But the successes swept by the 8th and 9th grade roundball teams were never witnessed by the school's youngest squad as the 7th grade, despite the high point performances of Sara Alonzo and Don Ann Cummings who netted seven points apiece, took a 35-19 loss at the hands of Gattis. The loss dropped the Dogie team to a 2-6 mark overall and 1-4 in the district in district play. But that victory was a remote to La Plata girls' basketball as an oasis was to a desert. The 7th and 8th grades fell to awesome scoring sprees provided by their

Yucca opponents. Maverick 8th grade shooters Melanie Davis and Darla Alford hit four ponts apiece to lead La Plata's nasium scoring efforts, but Yucca defeat brought the 8th grade to a still successful 7-5 overall five points and Adelia 31-19 deficit against the Yucca 8th grade B team. The loss sent the Mavericks to a 2-6 niche in season play and a 1-1 split decision in the district

'Fridays' Models Self To 'Saturday Night Live'

By PETER J. BOYER AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) -The voice breathed excitement, which wasn't unexpected, as the call was from a publicist. It seems "a major development" was afoot in the ABC late-night show, "Fridays."

"There's going to be a change in format," the publicist's voice said on the phone. The producers would be available for an interview.

Perhaps "Fridays," with an eye to the disastrous performance of its model, "Saturday Night Live," had decided to dump the "SNL" format. Could be major. At least, major in a minor sort of

The call came. Producer John Moffitt on the line. Well, the major development? "We're going to add a guest star."

Oh. Still, you take your developments where you get

This, in its diminutive con-. text, was rather a curious turn. One of the biggest drawbacks faced by "Fridays" when it began last summer was its marked similarity to NBC's "Saturday Night Live."

"Fridays" was overwhelmed by the similarity to the prototype after which it was fashioned. The "Fridays" crew was talented and turned more than a few funny bits, but it took a special effort to consider the show on its own merits.

Now that "Fridays" is more established, and now that "Saturday Night Live" is having major problems, "Fridays" decides to make itself look even more like "SNL." NBC's show has a "guest-host," so "Fridays" must have a "guest star." It's as if the show's creators are so taken with 'Saturday Night Live's" legend they're afraid to enlarge upon it. It's a shame, because the imitation could become better than the real thing.

The story of Mother Elizabeth Seton, the first American Catholic saint, is a warm, moving testimony to the indomitable human spirit. ABC's version of the story of Mother Elizabeth Seton is a tedious, plodding bore. Kate Mulgrew portrays Mother Seton in Sunday's "A Time for Miracles," but Miss Mulgrew was never given a chance. The flat script fails to draw upon what must have been an extraordinary life, rendering instead a sort of "Little Schoolhouse on the Prairie."

A shame.

And, the best for last. Saturday is sports-fan liberation day, the day NBC televises a football game without announcers.

The Jets-Dolphins game will have extra cameras and microphones, but no play-byplay or "color" chat. It's a gimmick sure to attract more viewers than a Jets-Dolphins game deserves, a bone tossed to the long-suffering TV sports fan weary from a season of cliches and gratuitous chatter. It is the experiment that ABC's Howard Cosell insists is not being tried for the edification of fans, but to please sportswriters. In that case, thank you, sport-

Reagan's Deficit Forecasted Highest

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - For the fiscal year 1980, which ended Sept. 30, President Carter reported a budget deficit of $39 billion, second only to the $66.4 billion deficit under President Gerald R. Ford in fiscal 1976.

Deficits of this sort that had a lot to do with the defeat of both men, because government red ink is known to be an important cause of inflation and other economic ailments.

Now comes Ronald Reagan, equally opposed to red ink and all the problems that accompany it but nevertheless destined to swim in it.

One important forecasting estimated today that in fiscal 1982, to begin next Oct. 1, Reagan will set the record: A deficit of $80.5 billion. It will follow a somewhat smaller deficit in fiscal 1981. That estimate comes from

Lawrence R. Klein, recently honored with the Nobel Prize in Economics. It gives an idea of how large a mess is being inherited by Reagan, who in the opinion of some scholars is in somewhat the same position say that because of rising interest rates, tight money, and economic slowdowns in major countries, U.S. economic growth will virtually halt in the first two quarters of 1981.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

This may be true vertigo dizzy when lying in bed and when I turn on my side, I almost pass out. I mentioned this to a doctor at the VA Hospital and he became angry and simply had a fit. He said that it is impossible to get diz-zy while lying down. My main problem is I often get the feeling of being taken up in a rapidly traveling elevator. At other times I feel as though I am walking a few inches off the ground or floor. I fall down a lot and have hurt myself very badly four different times. I'm a 57-year-old male. I do not smoke or drink. Can Valium have anything to do with this? DEAR READER - Your story will need to be clarified, but it sounds like you are describing true vertigo - the illusion of motion or the illusion of things moving around you. That is different from dizziness associated with a sensation of fainting or pre-ceding an actual faint. Vertigo can indeed occur when you lie down and vertigo occurring in specific positions is called postural vertigo. If that is what you are describing, you should be referred to an ear, nose and throat (ENT) specialist. He will be familiar with your complaint.

Dizziness or faintness is usually caused by inadequate circulation to the brain and does occur when a person is upright as opposed to lying down, but vertigo is a different condition. Vertigo occurs when your system of orientation to your environment is disturbed. This can be caused by disorders in your ears, particularly the lit-tle balance canals for sensing head position, visual disturbances that affect perception

DEAR DR. LAMB - I get of position, disturbances of nerve signals from all over your body that sense body position and finally, distur-bances in coordinating all tnese signais from the ears, eyes and body by the brain. The general mechanisms of dizziness are discussed in The Health Letter number 9-10, Dizziness and Vertigo, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspa-per, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

There is a list as long as your arm of things that can cause vertigo. These include disorders of the balance canals in the ears or even various diseases that affect the brain. You may need special tests such as electronystagmography which measures eye movements in response to stimulation of your balance canals. Rarely Valium does cause vertigo but that does not mean it is causing your problem. With the combined attention of a good ENT specialist, and, if needed, a neurologist, the nature of your problem should be solved. DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 53-year-old male and live alone so normally I don't eat three good meals a day. I usu-ally skip breakfast, have a sandwich for lunch but always try to have a hot meal for supper. Lately I have been having TV dinners for supper. They are easier and there's a good variety. DEAR READER - Presernutritional value of food.

There are some drawbacks to some TV dinners. If you eat the same thing all the time and there is not a sufficient variety you will not be on a balanced diet. You can handle that by being sure your TV dinners provide all the basic four food groups as you would other food. You didn't mention leafy vegetables so you might be on a folic acid deficient diet. Eat a leafy salad a day and fresh fruit to help round out your program. And you will need milk for calcium.

Your weight loss probably means you are not getting as many calories as you would need to maintain your weight. If you are overweight, that might be a blessing.

Steven D. Bookout, Pastor 15th & Ave. F or young and old, Christmas represents the climax of the year and the glittering jewel of the winter eason; yet amid all the excitement of presents and parties we should never for one moment lose sight of its origin and purpose. Let us remember that what we are celebrating is the most important birthday in all the history of mankind: of Someone who, from an obscure corner of the world, was destined to teach us all how to live in peace, brotherhood and love. Most of our good character traits and whatever spiritual happiness we may have achieved we owe in some measure to Him, through the Bible and the many Church denominations which expound His teachings. Attend yours this Christmas, and learn how the true spirit of it came about.

"For unto us a child is born, and his name shall be called...The Prince of Peace."

-Isaiah 9:6

O holy Child of Bethlehem,

Descend to us, we pray;

Cast out our sin and enter in:

Be born in us today.

-Phillips Brooks
