Commissioners Retain Terminal, Hear Request

Deaf Smith County commissioners heard a request for interim funding assistance from the Hereford Senior Citizens Association and opted to retain a computer at the courthouse during their first regular session of the new year Monday.

County fathers also gave their approval to the opening of two miles of public roadway in Precinct 4 near the Ford community and reviewed stipulations for a contract with the Department of Human Resources for office space in the courthouse.

Marjorie Daniels, Senior Citizens director, appeared before the commissioners where she explained that the requirement of an advance payment of $6,000 for the nutrition program has left the center strapped for "up front" money for other operations.

"We're really running short and after salaries each month, we're in the red," stated Mrs. Daniels.

The Senior Citizens director explained that the center will soon be facing additional expenses for utilities as well as the cost of installing a new heating system to replace an aged boiler unit. According to Mrs. Daniels, R & R Refrigeration of Hereford will donate the heating unit to the center so that the organization will be required to pay only the installation cost.

Mrs. Daniels explained that the county is being asked to pick up the tab for a part-time secretary for the center, which would amount to $3,715.68 and also the cost of installing the heating system and some other modifications.

At the suggestion of Pct. 3 Commissioner Bruce Coleman, county fathers agreed to reschedule the Senior Citizens request on the agenda for their next meeting and will check with the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission on the possibility of obtaining grants to aid with the funding request.

Commissioners also approved a resolution to advertise for an employee for Precinct 3.

A consortium agreement with the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission was unanimously approved by the commissioners following a brief discussion of the funding for the CETA program.

Carl Morris was on hand to discuss a contract for office space in the courthouse for the Department of Human Resources.

The county and DHR had been operating for some time under the assumption that a contract for use of courthouse office space existed but checking revealed that no such contract existed and commissioners and DHR representatives discussed the matter Monday.

Morris explained that the DHR is required to rent office space for at least seven years and that the DHR has been in its present rent situation for almost four years.

Under an original agreement the DHR is paying about $3.30 per foot of office space and Coleman asked Morris if there would be any objection to a higher office rent rate.

Morris indicated that "we're pretty well locked in" on what can be done at this time but added, "Within a three year time frame we should have some money for renovation and would try to work with you."

Commissioners also pointed out the crucial office space shortage at the courthouse and discussed that concern with DHR representatives.

Following the discussion Commissioner Coleman made a motion that the county sign an agreement with the DHR so that at the end of the seven year period "the matter will be settled and the county even with DHR."

The resolution was approved and commissioners also opted to forward a letter to the DHR indicating that the agreement period began in April of 1977.

In other action, commissioners approved a contract with Perdue, Brandson, Blair Shiver and Fielder of Amarillo for collection of delinquent taxes.

County fathers also approved the expenditure of $600 for the annual Christmas lighting project in Hereford. The expenditure has been approved by the commission for the past several years.

Commissioners also voted to advertise for bids on a county depository and appointed County Auditor Alex Schroeter to investigate depository agreements in other counties.

Bobby Griego, E.W. Walden and H.L. Edwards were appointed as members of the county salary grievance committee after their names were drawn at random from the county grand jury list.

Commissioners also went through the formality of a motion showing that the county operates on salary basis on its payrolls.

County fathers approved a motion to open two miles of public roadway in Precinct 4 to allow for a bus route with the roadway to be constructed between property owned by Donald Hicks, Steve Meiwes and Arliss Edwards. The area is seven miles west of Ford and one mile south.

According to Pct. 4 Commissioner James Voyles, all of the right of way is to be donated by the landowners and the county will be out only the expense of moving some two miles of fence and seven power poles.

Commissioners agreed to retain a computer at the courthouse after conferring with tax assessor-collector Nell Miller concerning the need for the computer after the central tax appraisal and collection office goes into operation here.

Mrs. Miller explained to commissioners that the computer currently located in her office is used in duplication of license receipts and other work and is also used by the county clerk on occasion.

Both Mrs. Miller and County Clerk B.F. Cain emphasized that the county could obtain "a lot of good" from the computer at a cost of only $300 per month.

Following comments from the two county officials, commissioners voted to retain the computer at the courthouse.

County fathers tabled action concerning an appointment to the County Historical Survey Commission pending further information on possible candidates.

Newly-elected Precinct 1 Commissioner Bill Brady was absent from the first commission meeting of his term due to a death in the family and Precinct 2 Commissioner Austin Rose was absent due to a trip.

Picking Up the Pieces

Santa Fe railway workers in derrick trains hauled three engines from the brink of an abandoned pit beside the railway embankment Saturday morning in clean-up operations for a $1.5 million freight train derailment. Three engines and five flat cars left the tracks west of the Highway 385 overpass shortly before midnight Friday. The Hereford Fire Dept. was summoned to the scene when the engines began burning, and sprayed water and foam on the smoking locomotives until 5:30 a.m. Saturday. (Brand photo by Cheri Ward)

Planks on Track Caused $1.5 Million Derailment

By CHERI WARD

Santa Fe officials said crossing planks on the Main Street railroad crossing now under construction caused a $1.5 million freight train derailment here Saturday.

Sus. in Metcalf, public information officer for Santa Fe, said the train was traveling about 40 miles per hour when it struck the debris.

The Hereford district attorney's office refused to comment on its investigation of the derailment and any charges that may be pending in the case.

Crew members kept the train on the tracks until it passed the Highway 385 overpass; three engines and five flat cars carrying piggy back trailers then left the tracks and resulted in about $1.3 million in equipment and track damages and an estimated $200,000 in lading damage.

Clean-up operations for the derailment continue and are expected to last throughout the week, J.C. Beck, Santa Fe agent said Monday.

The railroad's most urgent need is to get the main track open again, said Beck. "Right now, trains are coming through Hereford at reduced speeds and running only on side tracks."

Before the main line is opened, three 397,000-pound engines will have to be hoisted back onto the track and transferred to another train that will take them to a repair shop, Beck said.

Members of SECREST, a Tulsa based special railroad emergency service, removed the wreckage of five flat cars and their piggyback trailers Saturday afternoon.

After SECREST's noon arrival, the 40 men in the hastily assembled rail crew from Clovis, Lubbock, Amarillo and Hereford renewed their efforts to clear the track of the twisted metal and spilled cargo.

Crew members laid eight 39-foot sections of track panel, pre-fabricated sections of track designed especially for use in derailment repair.

After the track panel is laid, it is levelled and ballast added to stabilize it, a Santa Fe worker said.

Trains began to warily inch their way through Hereford about 5:30 p.m. Saturday—less than 18 hours after the first engine leapt from the tracks at 11:56 p.m. Friday.

During a clean-up action, the railroad's primary concern is the opening of the track for regular traffic.

Salvage operations are secondary, said Paul Everett, transportation supervisor. "Our main concern is to get the track open, and the bulldozers are going to come in and just run over anything in their way," Everett said.

Everett supervised salvage operations by 19 Hereford High School students from electrical trades classes and the F.F.A.

The boys unloaded packages, tires and color console televisions from four wrecked trailers that looked as if they had been opened by a giant can opener.

Three cars carrying a consignment from a parcel delivery service emptied rapidly as piles of boxes sprang up near the train wreckage.

A claims agent for the parcel service winced as a long box marked "handle with care" sailed through the air and landed atop a sack of crushed boxes.

"Air mail," he said. "About 30-50 percent of the parcel service's load was destroyed, but the railroad will cover all their claims as well as pay labor, equipment operations and other costs incurred in the derailment."

"These boys are saving us a hell of a lot of money," said Paul Everett. "Otherwise, we'd just have to junk this stuff and wait for the bulldozers."

The workers were paid well for their labor—$8 per hour for the work in the freezing temperatures.

The railroad's most vital interest is restoring service to the line, and disregarding salvageable merchandise is the cheapest and quickest way for the line to open again.

"That's what costs us—time," said Jim Rainey, train master.

Deaf Smith Travelers Spent $10.5 Million

Americans spent $10.5 million traveling in Deaf Smith County last year, a study for the Texas Tourist Development Agency reported.

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce said the study shows a 17.6 percent increase in dollars spent over 1978's figure.

Mike Carr, chamber manager, said, "It is quite evident that Deaf Smith County is definitely one with tourist attractions that we need to emphasize and capitalize on."

Carr said many people may overlook these attractions, but with such a large amount of money spent in the county's motels, restaurants, and service stations, more attention needs to be paid to tourism.

Deaf Smith County businesses employ 241 people in travel-related jobs with a payroll of $1.7 million.

Some of the millions spent in Deaf Smith County go to retail stores.

Carr cited the chamber's pheasant hunt as one attraction that provides buyers for clothing, hunting and supplies and ammunition in local stores in addition to restaurant meals and motel facilities for hunters.

Travelers paid $79,000 in local taxes and contributed $143,000 in state taxes to the county's income tax.

Bilingual Ruling Could Cost Texas Schools $100 Million

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A federal judge's ruling that orders Texas schools to provide bilingual instruction to an estimated 250,000 Mexican-American students may cost the state as much as $100 million, according to a Houston school official.

"It's another instance where the federal courts are assuming the role and responsibility of the state," Houston Independent School Superintendent Billy Reagan said Monday following the decision by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice. Officials at the Texas Education Agency and the Texas Attorney General's office declined comment on the ruling, saying they needed time to study Justice's decision.

The landmark 67-page ruling by Justice ordered schools to provide bilingual instruction from kindergarten through the 12th grade.

State law now requires Mexican-American students not proficient in English to receive classes through the third grade, and makes allowances in some cases for the classes to continue through the fifth grade.

Reagan said he based his estimate on the $2.5 million that HISD spends each year to teach about 6,000 Hispanic students.

He also predicted that Justice's ruling would be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Justice, who cited the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment in his ruling, said bilingual instruction is needed because "these children have waited long enough to reap the benefits of an adequate education."

"The more quickly the ethnic injustices of the past can be overcome, the sooner this nation can face, as one people, the challenges of the future."

Justice ordered state officials to meet with attorneys for the plaintiffs — the League of United Latin American Citizens and the GI forum — by Jan. 29 to start working on a plan to be submitted to the court by March 2.

Vilma Martinez, president and general counsel of MALDEF, a Hispanic legal group, hailed the ruling as one that "recognizes the urgent need of Mexican-American children to receive understandable instruction."

"We are absolutely delighted," she said, "with Judge Justice's decision...to provide bilingual instruction to a projected 250,000 Mexican-American students from kindergarten to grade 12 who do not understand English instruction."

Ms. Martinez said the "Texas educational system (See SYSTEM, Page 2)

...Duvall listens to "Roaster" Phillip Shook

Teachers 'Roast' Local Principal

Almost 200 teachers and friends turned out Monday night to honor Charles Duvall, Northwest Elementary School principal, on being selected as "Administrator of the Year" by the Texas Classroom Teacher's Association.

The dinner, a covered-dish supper held in the Northwest school cafeteria, was conducted in the form of a "roast" of the popular principal. His wife, Mary, was an honored guest. Special guests included several school board members and Supt. Harrell Holder.

Duvall had been nominated by the local chapter of TCTA in October, and was informed about two weeks ago of his selection. He was one of three administrators in the state to be honored, each from different size school districts. Duvall's honor came in districts with 5,000 to 10,000 students.

Duvall has been principal at Northwest for 19 years and has been with the Hereford schools since 1954. He earned his degree at Southwestern State University in Weatherford, Okla., did graduate work at Texas Tech and received his master's degree from West Texas State University.

Nancy Priest presided at the dinner Monday night, in the absence of Hereford CTA President Tommy Rosson. Those participating in the "roast" included Gary Billingsley, John Poindexter, Phillip Shook, Howard Birdwell, Sue Cherry, Donita Rule and Ron Kelly.

Duvall got the last word, but he used his time only to express his love for his fellow teachers and administrators.

Suspect Flees In Officer's Car

WOODVILLE, Texas (AP) — An armed robbery suspect who fled in a constable's car Sunday is believed to be the same man who committed armed holdups in Corrigan and Centerville, authorities say.

Tyler County Constable Jack H. Burns had stopped the suspect's car about 20 miles southeast of Woodville Sunday, but was distracted by another vehicle that pulled up, said Woodville Police Chief Grady Ray.

Burns told the other driver "to get out of the way, and when he did, the subject jumped back, pulled his own gun and started shooting at the constable," Ray said.

When Burns returned the fire, the suspect jumped into the constable's car and headed east on Farm Road 1013, Ray added. The vehicle, a 1971 black-and-white Chrysler, contained a .357 hand gun, the police chief said.

The suspect was being sought for a grocery store robbery earlier Sunday evening in which an undetermined amount of money was taken. A gunman pulled a gun at the Woodville store and demanded all the money in the cash register, Ray said.

Retired Officer

Kills Teen Driver

LEVELLAND, Texas (AP) — While most of the town was sleeping, a stolen pickup truck roared down Eighth Street in west Levelland early Sunday.

Shortly after eluding a city policeman and a deputy sheriff in a wild chase from Levelland to another county, the pickup almost collided with a car, then jumped a curb, landing in a vacant lot, police said.

System

has locked Mexican-Americans to second class citizenship. With this decision, we can break the cycle and give our children a fair chance to learn.

The ruling stemmed from a 1970 suit filed by the Justice Department against the state in an effort to integrate nine all-black schools.

LULAC and the GI Forum intervened in the suit in 1972 and in 1975 asked for relief on behalf of the Mexican-American students.

LULAC national president Ruben Bonilla said in Corpus Christi the decision "is potentially a historic one" and called on the Texas legislature to come up with the money to implement a bilingual program.

"It (the decision) could restore the balance of equality in the field of education," Bonilla said, adding that the ruling "should not be interpreted as a decision to conduct classes in only Spanish, or as a plan to abandon English as the primary language of this country."

He called for a "legislative plan of action," saying "if we can find money for super highways, improve farm to market roads for farmers, monies to protect endangered wildlife, we can certainly find the money to insure educational equality for Mexican-Americans."

Justice ordered the plan to be "effected in phases over six years."

He termed "totally inadequate" the state's argument that a lack of funds and a shortage of bilingual instructors were responsible for not expanding the program beyond its current level.

"No justification exists to postpone meaningful relief for the many thousands of Mexican-American children whose very future in this society depend on the effectiveness of their education," he wrote.

"Remedying past injustices suffered by an ethnic minority may be politically inexpedient" and economically burdensome; but citizens cannot be compelled to forego their constitutional rights because public officials fear hostility or desire to save money."

Leonel Rosales, director of bilingual education at the Brownsville Independent School District, said he was not "surprised" at the ruling, but added that hiring bilingual teachers was "the thorn in the side of most school districts."

"We train them (bilingual teachers), put them in the classrooms, get them qualified and then a school district upstate yanks them away from us," he said.

"It's a game of economics," Rosales said about 8,000

The pickup bounced out of the lot, jumped another curb, bounced over a lawn and porch and plowed 4½ feet into the living room of a 71-year-old retired police officer.

Minutes later, the driver, 16-year-old Arturo Zuniga Adama, was dead from a .38-caliber bullet fired from a .357 Magnum into the back of his neck. An ambulance took him to Cook Memorial Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

C.O. Simpson, who retired as a city policeman in the mid-1970s, told officers the youth began hitting Mrs. Simpson in the face after she got up and went into the wrecked living room, then turned on him when he came in. The ex-policeman said he fired one shot at the intruder.

An ambulance took Adama to Cook Memorial Hospital, where he was pronounced dead at 7:46 a.m. The attending physician said the bullet entered in the back of the boy's neck.

Simpson was admitted to the hospital for shock, and his wife was hospitalized for treatment of cuts and bruises about the face.

Ted Holder, Levelland police chief, said no charges will be filed in the shooting. He said the case will be turned over to the grand jury.

"The grand jury will examine all of the circumstances and return all of their findings," Holder said.

Firemen Beard

Clean-Shave Custom

WOODWARD, Okla. (AP) — Firefighters here are trying to resolve a burning issue — do beards pose a threat to men fighting fires?

Half the force has quit shaving for 90 days to see how well oxygen masks work with whiskers.

The forehead-to-chin mask forms a seal against the skin, keeping smoke and deadly gases out.

Beards could keep the seal from forming, said Chief Charles Gieswein, who also says a beard on a firefighter "just seems dirty to me."

But Robert Canfield, president of the firefighters' union local, thinks beards will pass the test.

Robbers Make Off

With $1-$3 Million

LIVONIA, Mich. (AP) — Robbers made off with from $1 million to $3 million Monday after confronting the driver of a security van and leaving him handcuffed to his steering wheel, police said.

The 38-year-old driver of the Total Armored Car Services Inc. truck told Livonia police the vehicle had contained $1 million, but officers said the driver's partner told them it held up to $3 million.

Police in the Detroit suburb said they didn't know if the driver was confronted with a weapon, but said the driver's 9mm handgun was taken after he was abducted.

The driver told police he was threatened while his partner was picking up cash from a bakery. Neither of the two was identified.

The truck was abandoned in nearby Redford Township and the driver was found handcuffed in the cab.

"The messenger was inside for 10 minutes or so and when he came out, the driver was gone. He notified his company and they called us," said Officer Barry Fournier.

A dispatcher at the company's Detroit office, who refused to give his name, denied any knowledge of the incident.

Police were not sure how many robbers were involved, but said they were looking for "more than one."

On June 21, three gunmen held up a Total armored truck in another Detroit suburb, Royal Oak. About $165,000 was taken and the men never were caught.

Jury Selection Underway Today For Trial of Billy Alexander

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors and defense lawyers questioned prospective jurors today for the capital murder trial of a man accused in the shooting death of a Texas Department of Public Safety trooper.

Billy Wayne Alexander, 21, of Lorenzo, is accused in the Oct. 5 shooting death of Jerry Don Davis of Slaton.

Davis was allegedly shot to death after he stopped a speeding motorist.

State District Judge Bob Wright cleared the way for jury selection Monday by denying a request that the trial be delayed so the defendant could marry his fiancée, who is expected to be a key prosecution witness.

The trial was moved here from Lubbock on a change of venue motion.

The handcuffed defendant had shaved off a beard he wore in earlier court proceedings, but still had his moustache.

Dressed in a light blue sport coat, checked slacks, a light shirt, black tie and brown boots, Alexander sat quietly between defense attorneys Floyd Holder and Dick Alexander as a middle-aged mother of five sons became the first of 86 prospective jurors to be questioned individually.

Defense lawyers used their first peremptory challenge to exclude the woman, a calculator assembler for Texas Instruments. The woman first said she would automatically vote the death penalty for anyone convicted of capital murder, but later said she misunderstood the question. She amended her answer to say she would decide between life imprisonment and death.

Under questioning by Lubbock County District Attorney John T. Montford, Alexander admitted that one of the major reasons he wants to marry 22-year-old Elainna Hill is to prohibit her from testifying against him.

"That's because she gave some pretty incriminating testimony about you at your bond hearing, isn't it?" Montford asked at the pretrial hearing.

Alexander replied, "Yes, sir," Alexander answered.

"Then that's hardly a marriage conceived in love, is it?" Montford asked.

"Yes, sir. We love each other," Alexander replied.

The prosecutor claimed Miss Hill tried to smuggle a pistol into the Lubbock County Jail "so you could bust out, but it fell into the hands of another inmate and he blew his brains out."

Alexander acknowledged the shooting had occurred, but didn't incriminate Miss Hill in the escape attempt, in which she has been charged.

Officials Investigate College Segregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — With an eye on a rapidly approaching deadline, Texas and Education Department officials are attempting to resolve differences on whether segregation exists in the state's higher education system.

The department is under a court order to release by Thursday its long pending report from an investigation of segregation in state-supported colleges and universities.

"Texas is trying to resolve its problems to the extent that it can before this Jan. 15 deadline," a department spokesman said Monday

"Their top attorneys are here to discuss that."

Texas Attorney General Mark White traveled to Washington for the session and was accompanied by the meeting by F. Peter Libassi, a lawyer in private practice here.

Libassi — formerly the top federal civil rights enforcer and general counsel to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — was hired by the state of Texas as its lawyer for the potential segregation dispute.

The court order also calls for the department to release its reports on higher education in Missouri and Kentucky by Thursday.

Last week, the department declared that Alabama, Delaware, South Carolina and West Virginia maintained vestiges of a segregated higher education system and the states were given 60 days to develop remedial plans.

Letter to the Editor

Gentlemen:

On Sunday, Dec. 21st, 1980, my wife and I were returning to Denver from a funeral trip to Lubbock. We stopped in Hereford for a cup of coffee. On leaving we noticed steam under the hood and pulled over and raised the hood. We discovered a broken radiator hose.

While we were waiting for a near-by auto parts store to open we were extended several offers of help from total strangers. The kindness of the citizens of Hereford turned what could have been an annoying delay into a heart-warming experience.

Thanks to the efforts of the good people at D&R Auto Parts, we were soon on our way.

This is simply to express our appreciation for the consideration and kindness shown to us by your citizens.

Very truly yours,
Bob & Virginia Kershen

Dear Editor:

I am hoping to learn what family information was written in an old Bible, possibly derived in German, that used to be in the possession of Dollie (Bruner) Hammen and her daughter Ora Hammen of Hereford. My mother-in-law wrote her sister Dollie for the family listing when she was trying to prove her birth date for Social Security.

Ora wrote back, in 1956, that BRUNER and BUTCHER families were listed in it, but that they were earlier members than then living.

We don't know what became of the Bible, but I am hoping someone who sees this might, as I am working on the Bruner genealogy. It could have ended up in an antique store possibly.

I particularly would like to have a xerox copy of the hand written family information listed - births, marriages & deaths and would gladly pay xerox and postage costs. If anyone knows anything about the Bible's whereabouts, I would very much appreciate hearing from you. Ora's last years were spent in the Westgate Home, when she died in 1973.

Sincere Thanks for any help,
Mrs. Bobby G. Wilson

Texas Legislative Session Will Test Governor's Power

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas lawmakers take an oath shortly after noon today to do their best for Texas voters and taxpayers the next two years.

For at least the next 140 days, ending June 1, the 31 senators and 150 state representatives will wrestle with the critical problems of better schools, tax breaks for homeowners and redistribution of lawmaking power.

The session also is a test for Gov. Bill Clements, the first chief executive in Texas this century, who is expected to seek re-election in 1982.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby in the Senate and Secretary of State George Strake in the House will call the 67th Legislature to order at noon.

There will be eight new senators and 34 new faces in the House.

If things go according to the political script, Strake will quickly yield the House gavel to Speaker Bill Clayton, who has more than enough votes for election to an unprecedented fourth term as speaker.

Clayton made an apparent lightning-fast political comeback after a federal court jury in Houston acquitted him Oct. 22 of corruption charges arising from the FBI's Brilab "sting" investigation.

Although Clayton expects the votes of more than 115 of the 150 House members, Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, says he remains a candidate.

Hobby is expected to organize the Senate immediately to do business by appointing nine committees — including seven new chairmen.

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, is expected to remain as Finance Committee chairman, and Hobby is expected to continue Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, as chairman of the Human Resources Committee.

New chairmen are expected to be Sens. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, Administration; O.H. "Ike" Harris, R-Dallas, Economic Development; Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, Jurisprudence; Pete Snelson, D-Midland, Education; John Traeger, D-Seguir, Intergovernmental Relations; Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso, Natural Resources; and Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, as head of the pivotal State Affairs Committee.

The Senate State Affairs chairmanship opened up when Sen. Bill Moore, D-Bryan, one of the Legislature's most feared members, was defeated in the Democratic primary by Kent Caperton of Bryan.

Caperton is one of eight new senators, and there will be 34 new faces in the House.

Representative Wants 'State of Hostility'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, says the time has come for Congress to give the president a helping hand and declare a "state of hostility" between the United States and Iran.

"Under the peculiarities of our constitutional tradition, certain authority and power vested in the executive branch as delegated by the Congress cannot be invoked, legally, because there is no defined enemy," the veteran San Antonio congressman said in an interview.

He introduced a resolution at the outset of the 97th Congress that, if approved, would put the House on record as declaring a state of hostility between the two nations as a result of Iran's taking of American hostages.

"I think it would strengthen the president's hand in dealing with the situation," Gonzalez said.

The November election increased Republican ranks in the Senate from five to seven. Democrat losses included three liberal senators, leaving the Senate more conservative than at any time since the late 1960s. GOP strength in the House grew from 26 to 36 members, and Clayton said the chamber would be solidly pro-business — pretty much as it was in 1979.

Vandals killed a cat and ransacked the Big T Pump Co., on New York Avenue Monday night. Nothing was removed from the business, but soft drinks were spilled everywhere the police report said.

Iran Has Poison Roots

Americans are finding it difficult to understand the Humpty Dumpty government of Iran.

It is next to impossible for us to comprehend a religion which encourages war by promising that any who are killed in battle "go directly to heaven."

We have listened to the ayatollah's accusations that the late shah "murdered his political enemies."

We have ourselves tended to condemn the late shah — forgetting that the ayatollah himself has been murdering his political enemies, 50 or so every week since the takeover!

To understand Iran better, one has to understand the Islamic religion. It has poison roots.

Islam was founded by "the prophet Mohammed." He was a mortal who accumulated wealth and women by demanding ransom for the captives he took in the bloody wars he conducted "in the name of Allah."

What I'm saying is that for modern Iran to demand ransom in exchange for American hostages is consistent with the historic savagery of that religion. After the War of Badr, Mohammed's own mind was divided over whether to kill 50 captives or hold them for ransom.

Then he got what he said was "a revelation from heaven." He elected to let the prisoners live and grab the ransom. To mollify the masses he divided the ransom money among the warriors, the poor and the orphans.

Meanwhile, he carefully kept one-fifth for himself.

In one of his frequent wars against those who refused to become Muslims he massacred the 800 to 900 male members of a Jewish tribe, "Beni Koreiza." He helped himself to their women.

One morning in March of 627 A.D. he ordered captives to dig trenches in the marketplace city of Medina, then seat themselves along the sides of the trenches where they were beheaded and buried with a single sweep of the sword.

No American knows the Middle East, inside and out, better than world evangelist John Haggai. He says, "Islam always has been and always will be the religion of the sword because nowhere in the Koran is there any concept of love, according to the Koran God may have mercy on his chosen — but there is no mention of love."

And Muslims are exhorted to kill in the name of Allah.

In the seventh century Islam spread itself violently across parts of Asia, Africa and Europe.

And it has grown by 400 percent in the last 10 years in the United States.

4-H Firsthand

Program Makes It Happen

By ROBBY VANN
County Extension Agent

With the many problems we face as a nation, it is refreshing to see young people ready and willing to help bring about solutions to these pressing concerns. Enthusiasm and optimism have always been admirable qualities of American youth. Their vigor inspires all of us to do a better job in coping with problems.

Youthful exuberance, combined with the guidance and experience of adults, provides an unbeatable combination. The results of that cooperation are evident in the 4-H program.

4-H'ers from all economic, ethnic and social backgrounds are helping clean-up and protect the environment and natural resources. Youth work to conserve energy, assist in agricultural production, and help improve health and nutrition habits of the community. In the process, 4-H'ers develop good citizenship and leadership traits and acquire skills that will help them in later life.

Youthful enthusiasm and energy combined with adult guidance and support and working together in a common purpose - that's the 4-H story today. The Extension Service supports the efforts of 4-H'ers and their parents, leaders and alumni "to make the best better."

We encourage young people who have plenty of enthusiasm and adults who may wish to volunteer their time and talents to get involved in 4-H and help "make it happen."

Information on 4-H programs and activities in the county and area is available from the County Extension Service.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

At Wits End By ERMA BOMBECK

I ran across an interesting statistic the other day. Due to the increase in crime, more people are getting dogs for protection and dog bites have soared 33 percent since 1965.

Unfortunately, the dogs have been biting their owners, families and friends. Few dogs seem to want to "get involved" where there is any violence.

A couple of years ago we lived on a remote farm and my husband bought me an Irish setter. She should have been owned by an attorney. She'd taken on a moving car at 55 mph, a group of children jumping rope, or a jogger having a coronary in front of the house. But when anyone suspicious came to the door, she'd run under the sofa and I'd have to drag her out, prop her up and push her lip back over her teeth, all the while explaining, "Make one move toward me and she'll tear you apart."

Her name was Kate. Late one afternoon, two guys appeared at my kitchen door requesting a drink of water. They said they were from the phone company, but they had no truck and no utility belt sagging around their knees.

"Steady, girl," I said, propping Kate up on her feet and hanging onto her collar. The men began to snicker.

"I suppose she looks friendly to you," I said as Kate licked their fingers and the breeze from her tail nearly knocked them off the step.

"She sure seems friendly," they said.

"Actually, she's been to obedience school and when I command 'KILL,' she goes for the throat. If you will stand perfectly still and don't make any sudden moves, I'll get your water."

When I returned, Kate was on her back, all four legs up in the air, and her eyes closed drowsily as they rubbed her stomach.

"That's her crouch position and she's baring her teeth," I warned.

"Looks like she's yawning to me," said one of the men.

"I thought it would look that way to you," I smiled. "It fools a lot of people. Just look at the size of those paws."

He fingered one and when he dropped it, it fell limply back into place. "Well, we certainly thank you for the water. Bye, Killer," they said while the dog nuzzled against their legs.

I pulled the dog inside and bolted the door as one of them remarked, "I'm sure glad to get away from her."

"The dog?" asked his friend.

"No, the woman. She's not playing with a full deck."

Challenge Facing Farmers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That letter from Sidney Jaffe critical of farmers is typical of people who find it easy to complain on a full stomach. The challenge facing farmers today is how to continue to farm when they didn't harvest enough crops to buy seed, fertilizer, chemicals, and fuel in the coming year.

The farmer must deal with floods, drought, early frost, hail, exorbitant interest rates and the ever-increasing cost of equipment. Please tell Sidney to relax, because in 1981 there may be no farmers. They may get fed up trying to eke out a living and head for the oil rigs, factories, big business and industry.

If this happens, I hope Sidney will enjoy his glass of gasoline, his broiled gravel and the gravy on his mashed sand. Furthermore, if he has no solutions, we don't need his screwed-up "logic" that only adds to the problem. - Farmer's Wife In The Midwest

DEAR WIFE: If Sidney is still reading our blistering rebuttal, the following should pop his optics. It's a bumper sticker that came in the mail from St. Louis, Mo.: "PUT A FARMER OUT OF BUSINESS - STARVE!!!!"

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Could it be part of a normal growth pattern when a 13-year-old boy enjoys trying on ladies' undergarments? The boy's father insists that many physical and psychological changes occur at this age, and the lad is merely fascinated with the softness of feminine attire. Our son shows no other signs of femininity. His physical growth this past year has been extraordinary. He has popped up six inches, gained 20 pounds and his shoe size has gone from 6 1/2 to 10.

Please consult with your experts and rush an answer. Although my husband is not the least bit concerned, I am - No Name, No City, No State coming year.

DEAR N.N.N.: I suggest that you or your husband buy a paperback edition of the Ann Landers Encyclopedia (Ballantine Books, available at all Walden and B. Dalton bookstores) or get one at the public library. Like many others, you both need to read up on transvestism - as well as homosexuality, bisexuality, child molesting, transsexualism and exhibitionism. Most people don't know one from the other.

I suspect that your son has transvestite tendencies. This does not necessarily mean he is a homosexual. Many transvestites marry and have families. (Some homosexuals do, too.) Generally speaking, transvestites get their jollies from dressing as women - and this is the extent of their bizarre behavior.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last week my mother-in-law came to a family gathering with a cold and sore throat. The first thing she did was kiss our 20-month-old child on the mouth.

I did a slow burn, but said nothing. Three days later the baby came down with a cold and fever. Now he is sick, and soon the entire family will be sick also.

Do I have a right to give my mother-in-law a piece of my mind? I am so furious I can't see straight - Canton Couple

DEAR CANTON: Wait till your anger cools and then tell your mother-in-law it was lovely of her to come over, even though she wasn't feeling terrific, but the baby caught her cold when she kissed him on the mouth. Leave it at that

Texas Confederate Heroes Day To Be Observed by Counties

Texans in over 200 counties will gather at high noon on January 19 in pilgrimages to historic sites and official markers commemorating the roles of Texans in the Civil War, according to A.J. Schroeter, Deaf Smith County's Historical Commission Chairman.

January 19 has been designated by the Legislature as Texas Confederate Heroes Day, a time for a special observance honoring soldiers, civilians, and officials who distinguished themselves during this period of conflict.

Speeches, memorial services, wreath-layings, graves and marker decorations and other activities will be conducted at the locations of military and naval installations, manufacturing plants, scenes of battles and skirmishes and other significant sites. A number of these locations recognize activities of Federal Forces within the State.

An educational poster honoring the public service of 20 outstanding Texans in the Civil War will be displayed in schools, museums, and other prominent places.

This Heritage and Pilgrimage Day is one of ten to be sponsored annually by the Texas Heritage Project, a joint endeavor of the Texas Historical Foundation and the Texas Historical Commission. Local chapters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and the 254 County Historical Commissions are also sponsors.

Mrs. W.R. Knowles of Houston is coordinating the statewide activity.

Residents Busy During Holidays

By RUBY STEVENSON
The month of December was indeed a busy time for King's Manor People. The Auxiliary had a luncheon and style show in Lamar Memorial Garden Room. Little and Helens furnished the excellent showing of appropriate clothing for all occasions, for all ages. The children captured the hearts of those present. It was a lovely luncheon ladies. We of King's Manor thank you.

Birthdays were again celebrated. Those we honored were Lola Grissom, Grace Coombes, Emma Gearn, Mildred Ritter, John Stevenson and Faye Kuhne.

Our vesper services were brought by the Rev. Bill McReynolds, Rev. Howard Quiett of Dimmitt, Rev. Archie Echols of Friona, Rev. Bill Kent of Muleshoe and Rev. Mac McCarter of Hereford. Thank you pastors for your time and messages of hope and cheer to all the residents.

Evadna Cox's daughter, Mrs. Bagwell from Claude brought film from her recent trip to Greece. This was a very interesting program and a privilege for all of us to visit and see Greece by film.

The Kirby's opened the Christmas activities by hosting a Christmas tea in their home. The beautiful decorations and a table Mrs. Kirby so graciously prepared, were lovely to behold. Thank you for your labor of love.

Christmas spirit came to bless each one in so many ways. The Youth Group from the Methodist Church brought poinsettias for each one in King's Manor. Different groups of carolers visited the halls singing the favorite carols.

The Nazarene Church gave a musical one Saturday evening and then served the very delicious refreshments they brought. Our gratitude to all who remembered King's Manor in these many thoughtful ways.

There was a Christmas tree for the residents - a jolly St. Nick and all the trimmings. There were gifts for all, Santa handed out, with such fun and good humor. All who wished to go were taken by bus to see the Christmas lights of Hereford. On their return our hostess, Mildred Porter and Bea Noland had prepared refreshments for everyone. It was a lovely Christmas party.

Quite a few departed to spend some time with relatives while others had sons and daughters and friends who came to King's Manor to share Christmas joy. The warmth of Christian love and fellowship prevails in the home at all seasons but never more than at Christmas when we celebrate the Birthday of Our Lord Jesus.

Another highlight of the Christmas season was the invitation from the Hereford Lions Club to attend the dinner honoring Girls Town. It was a delicious dinner and enjoyed by a bus load of King's Manor residents. Since this fell on the same night as the Christmas Staff Party, some of the gentleman Lions were nice enough to drive the bus and assist with transportation. Thanks to this wonderful organization for their remembrance and caring of others.

WESTGATE NEWS

By Helen Kirkeby
This Christmas season was indeed a merry occasion for Westgate residents, as the month was filled with caroling and fellowship by numerous groups who so willingly donated their time and efforts to stop by and spread a bit of Holiday cheer. A sincere thank you is expressed, by the residents, to all of you who came to visit. We look forward to seeing you again during 1981.

The birthday party for December was hosted by the Night Baptist Women of the First Baptist Church. They are Mmes. Byron Terrell, Fritz Christman, Faye Brownlow, Donnie Owen, Grace Covington, Clinton

Jackson, Cecil Oglesby, Cecil Boyer, Virginia Curtsinger and Della Stagner. The honorees were: Beas Moore, Mary Reinart, Arthur Brock, Alice Fry and Burney Shell. Thanks, it was a lovely afternoon.

Thanks also to our bingo and current event volunteers, to the Golden Age Quartet and Nina Frances McMeans for their musical entertainment. Our Bible messages were delivered by Rev. Hufacker and Rev. McCarter.

We had numerous groups who were so kind to come out for Christmas caroling. Judy Baker brought her third grade Bluebirds to present tray favors and a short program; the first grade Bluebirds from Northwest and second grade from Tierra Blanca with their leaders and helpers, Bobbie Patzig, Ann Klein, Carol Armour, Johnnie Messer and Sherrie Blackwell. Carolers also from Temple Baptist Church, G.A. group of the First Baptist Spanish Church and Cub Scout Pack 55 with leader Janet Coleman, Cub Scout Den 3 and leader Cynthia Hagar. The Acteens from Summerfield and Avenue Baptist Churches passed out gifts and fruits. They were Renee Dobbs, Kerri Dobbs, Tracy Hargrove, accompanied by Wilma Bryan; Mitzi Maher, Robin and Rebecca Coleman, Jana Cherry, Tracie Gentry and Lisa Maher, accompanied by Mrs. Carl Hendrick.

Mrs. Doris Cagle, third grade teacher at Northwest Elementary, brought her class of youngsters who presented a darling program, complete with costumes and props. These youngsters were delightful and brought many a smile. To each and every one of you, we express a fond Thank you for remembering our home and sharing with us during the holiday season.

The highlight of December was our annual Christmas Party. The halls were filled with friends and relatives of their loved ones. Assisting with the passing out of gifts were a fine group of young ladies with their assistant, Marcy Hughes. The King's Manor Auxiliary, furnished and served refreshments and last but not least was a visit by old Santa himself, accompanied by two wee assistants, Vanessa and Jessica Barton, daughters of Liz Barton.

Our newest residents coming to Westgate this month are Virgie Wallace, Arthur Tiefert and W.E. (Bill) Pendleton. Hospitalized at this time is Mary Reinart, and our sympathies are extended to the families of Robert Jackson, J.C. Allred, Henry Cogdell and Nora Gilmore in the loss of their loved ones.

Special Thanks are offered to the Lions Club for inviting our residents to be a part of their annual Christmas party held at the Community Center. It is indeed a kind gesture, not only in allowing them to be included in the festivities, but providing for their transportation and assisting them as well.

The residents thoroughly enjoyed the evening and we her at Westgate are grateful to you for the kindness and generosity shown.

who is working out of the Chancellor's office on the Permanent University Fund, will be the principal speaker.

Mrs. Thomas Pfeiffer, of Lockhart, President of the Federation of Texas A&M University Mothers' Club, will preside at the meeting.

Garden Club Discusses Spring Planting

Material concerning spring planting was presented at the meeting of the Garden Beautiful Club at its Friday meeting at the home of Nadine Hill.

Marge Mehlberg, who presented the program, "Dream of Spring," displayed material from the Deaf Smith County Agent's office and a book from the county library. She told members material from the agent's office was available. She also told members now is the time to study catalogs and plan for spring suggesting they drive around town and look at the landscaping.

"Look for the scale on shrubbery and plan to use a dormant spray when the temperature is right," she said.

During the business meeting, Ruby Carmichael, presiding officer, read a letter from the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce which asked the club for a donation to help pay for the Christmas lights and decorations. The Club voted to send the chamber $20.

A thank-you note was read from Girls Town thanking club members for the $25 they donated to the program.

Tiny Lee Roberson, project chairman, reported that a tree set out on the hospital grounds several years ago had died. The club voted to replace it with another large tree at a later date.

The club will meet again

Feb. 6 at 9:30 a.m. at the home of Bessie Stoy, 125 Nueces. Arlene Robinson and Ruth Bartlett will serve as cohostesses.

Members present at the meeting included Ruby Carmichael and Bessie Stoy, cohostesses, Lillian Lookingbill, Arlene Robinson, Ruth Bartlett, Dorothy Noland, Tiny Lee Roberson, Mary Helen Askew, Marge Mehlberg, Nadene Hill, Ethel Jordan, Bruce Carter, Margaret Young, Camelia Jones, Louella Cowsert, Louise Axe and Helen Spinks, a new member to the club.

Members Discuss

C.D. Kelton House

The C.D. Kelton home was the main topic of discussion when members of the Hereford Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. W.C. Hromas Friday.

Mrs. Jack Wilcox, president, informed the club about the house being willed to the Hereford Garden and the Bud to Blossom Club.

Jack Wilcox was also at the meeting to help explain the house which is located at 807 N. Jackson.

Mrs. O.G. Hill told members it was time to plan their gardens and to make use of their new seed books.

"In your landscaping you have three areas, public, private and service. In enjoying your garden you use all five senses," Mrs. Hill said.

According to Mrs. Hill, garden benefits include health and "it helps you forget your troubles."

"There are three stages in gardening. First, you take anything anyone gives you, then you try new things and last you please yourself," she said.

The club will meet again Feb. 13 at the home of Mrs. Alfred Smith, 710 Baltimore at 2 p.m.

Members present were Mmes. R.L. Ethridge, cohostess, H.R. Cocanougher, D.N. Garner, O.G. Hill, W.C. Hromas, Clinton Jackson, H.M. Jacobsen, R.W. Mitchell, Burnie Riley, Alfred Smith, C.M. Tucker, S.S. Williams, Jack Wilcox and R.L. Wilson.

18-1 Squad Plays Host to Tascosa Rebels

Pressure Builds for Girls' Varsity

THREE MONTHS AGO, upon the rushed opening of an unknown cage season, the Hereford girl's varsity basketball team strived for little more than manifest destiny - to make apparent to all skeptics, they were truly a team to be contended with - no one's easy game. Now, that very purpose threatens to smother the highly motivated 18-1 squad into submission - the pressure of being a winner has been taking its toll, mounting from week to week until something must snap.

IT WAS OVER the concerns of that unseemly menace, that caused the worry lines on head coach Larry Sower's face to become most definable as he watched his team prepare to face the pressure once more here tonight against Amarillo Tascosa in the La Plata Gymnasium at 7:45.

THE HEREFORD BRAND SPORTS

"We sat down and talked about what our problem these past five or six weeks is for quite a while Saturday and I think we arrived at the conclusion it was the mounting pressure on all of us," said Sowers of his squad's winning but struggling attempts to keep its 17-game winning streak alive. "That (pressure) is something you can't work on with a squad. You can drill on skills and all the other things, but it's hard to teach a team how to handle the pressure the girls are feeling right now."

"We've never really had to deal with it before because we haven't ever had such a long string of wins riding on each week's next game," he said. "And I think it has gotten a little worse in each of the last five or six games we've played in. The more we play the tighter they get."

THE BURDEN WEIGHTING down the once buoyant HHS crew is best exemplified by recurring close shaves (five contests, one of them coming as a 50-48 win over Tascosa earlier this year, that were decided in Hereford's favor by meager two point margins).

The Whiteface's more recent slim 45-38 advantage over Caprock last week found its place among the accumulating barely won's - shaves that nipped the overwhelming confidence shown by the squad earlier in this year's campaign.

"I don't know what will happen - it's something that has to right itself," Sowers said. Tascosa is a very good team, probably second only to Amarillo High in that district, and if we play like we did against Caprock they won't have very much trouble beating us." HEREFORD, UNDER BRILLIANT performances by Cathy Lane and Terri Harkins, plus a last minute game winning layup by post Louise Mays, overcame Tascosa's intense rallying efforts to win the clash in the final period of the game.

"I think we'll do okay tonight if we just keep running the ball. That's where we get in trouble - when we slow it down and exercise too much caution," he said. "That's the way we played, generally, in the earlier meeting with Tascosa. We took the initiative and we had a good scoring night. Cathy ended up with 16 points and Terri had 13, but we've fallen off in that category a bit these last few weeks."

"IT'LL ALL BOIL DOWN to how well we handle the pressure. We've got to because district play is coming around the corner, and that basically is what we've pointing our efforts toward all season," he added.

Only one starter's game status is questionable for tonight's conflict in Amy Schumacher, who suffered a twisted ankle in practice earlier this week. Post Deborah Rogers, benched last week due to the removal of an ingrown toenail, is expected to play.

Huskies Scramble To Beat New Hampshire

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

They have captured the imagination of a state, but the Connecticut Huskies might lose it all if they don't wake up, says basketball Coach Dom Perno.

Unranked and undefeated, the Huskies blew a 17-point lead and had to scramble to beat lowly New Hampshire Monday night, 61-58, at Durham, N.H.

"Maybe we felt we had the game," Perno said. "I was pleased with the first 30 minutes, but instead of taking control like we should have, we fell asleep."

"We seem to have enough to come out on top, but if we don't play better, I can see this catching up on us," the coach said.

Fans were hoping for a national ranking after their Huskies won their 11th straight game this season, including a 78-59 romp over Syracuse last week, and many Connecticut newspapers, and radio and television stations expected it.

"Huskies Focus in on National Picture" Monday's lead story in The Herald of New Britain, Conn., read. A

Hartford, Conn., television station promised viewers to announce The Associated Press' poll as soon as it was released at 6:30 Monday evening - until the station learned the poll would not be out until 6:30 this morning. Oh, well ... the station told Huskies fans if they could stay up long enough, it might be able to get the poll by 2 or 2:30 a.m.

As it turned out, the Huskies missed getting into the AP rankings by 11 points, finishing 21st.

"We hardly played like a top 20 team," Perno said. Connecticut led New Hampshire 56-39 with 10 minutes to play. The Wildcats, however, outscored the Huskies 17-4 and trailed by just two, 60-58, on a basket by Robin Dixon with 1:24 left.

Mike Keeler's attempt to tie it for New Hampshire was blocked by 6-foot-11 Connecticut center Chuck Aleksinas. Cory Thompson brought the ball downcourt for Connecticut, was fouled and put the game away with a free throw.

"We have to concentrate more on playing 40 minutes," said Thompson, a 6-8 forward. "There's been more emphasis on winning than playing well, and we've got to get back to doing that."

Thompson led the Huskies with 16 points, and Mike McKay scored 11. Freshman guard Al McLain topped New Hampshire with 22.

None of The Associated Press' Top 20 teams saw action Monday night.

Elsewhere, Fred Carson hit a pair of free throws and freshman Mike Wacker added another foul shot in the final 30 seconds to boost Texas over Arkansas, 62-60, in the Southwest Conference. Walker's free throws snapped a 59-59 tie.

Jeff Schneider hit 10 consecutive free throws in overtime to lead Virginia Tech to an 80-70 victory over Florida State in the Metro Conference. Schneider finished with 20 points. Dale Solomon had 18.

Mike Ferrara, the nation's second-leading scorer, scored 42 points and led Colgate over Bucknell, 93-90. Edward Bona scored five of his 17 points in the third overtime to give Fordham a 53-50 victory over Princeton. Fred Brown's tap-in at the buzzer gave Georgetown a 52-51 victory over Seton Hall.

Lemons Shocked by Victory

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) - Texas Coach Abe Lemons said he was shocked by the Longhorns' 62-60 Southwest Conference basketball victory over Arkansas Monday night.

"Winning this was a bigger surprise for me than beating Arkansas up here two years ago," Lemons said.

It was the only game involving Southwest Conference teams Monday night. Baylor is at Rice, Houston is at Southern Methodist and Texas Christian is at Texas Tech tonight.

The Longhorns spread out their offense and shot selectively.

Defensively, the Longhorns prevented the Razorbacks from scoring inside and outrebounded Arkansas 28-23. Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton praised the Longhorns' game plan.

"Texas played a great game," Sutton said. "It was perhaps their greatest game of the year. They showed a lot of patience. They spread our offense out to go one-on-one on us."

"A couple of times our guards gambled and gave (Ray) Harper and (Fred) Carson easy shots. This time we weren't on our magic level."

The Longhorns snapped a 21-game Arkansas winning streak in Barnhill Arena.

Freshman Mike Wacker, who scored Texas' last point on a free throw with Arkansas' fans screaming frantically to distract him, said the Longhorns were confident with their game plan.

"We knew what we were going to have to do and we went out and did it," Wacker said.

"We gave them the shot deep in the corners and from the top of the key and boxed them out."

"The big key was our defense. We never let them inside."

Major Leagues Pick Up Winter Free Agents

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Major league baseball clubs dipped into the pool of amateur talent today at the 16th annual winter free agent draft.

The draft, conducted via conference call telephone linking the 26 teams with the offices of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, contains a regular phase for players not drafted before and a secondary phase for players previously drafted but unsigned.

The draft order in the regular phase is determined by reverse order of the previous season's final standing and alternates by league. That means the Chicago Cubs owned the No. 1 selection followed by the Seattle Mariners. After those two picked, it was the New York Mets, California, San Diego, Toronto, St. Louis, the Chicago White Sox, San Francisco, Texas, Atlanta, Minnesota, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Oakland, Montreal, Detroit, Philadelphia, Boston, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Houston, Kansas City, Baltimore and the New York Yankees.

In the secondary phase, with the order determined by lot and again alternating by league, St. Louis drafted first followed by the Detroit Tigers. Then came Cincinnati, California, Houston, Oakland, the Cubs, Texas, the Mets, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Toronto, Atlanta, Milwaukee, San Diego, the Yankees, San Francisco, Seattle, Pittsburgh, the White Sox, Los Angeles, Boston, Montreal, Kansas City, Minnesota and Baltimore.

Two rounds in each phase of the draft were scheduled for today with the remainder of the grabbag set for Wednesday. Players were to be notified by the clubs of their selection.

La Plata Teams Clip Plainview

The La Plata 9th grade girls' basketball team lost a marginal 37-36 contest to Plainview Red here Monday (its first district setback of the year) after a last ditch Plainview shot hit its mark at the sound of the buzzer.

Maverick shooter Vanessa Sims led all other La Plata scorers in that narrow defeat with nine points while Teresa Phibbs netted eight, Paula Mason had seven, and Angela Richburg and Dallas Ann Phillips grabbed six.

The loss dropped the cage crew to an 11-6 overall season mark and brought its district slate to 6-1. Darla Alford and Connie Zinser drilled in eight points apiece to lead the 8th grade girls' basketball team to a 41-34 victory over Plainview Red. Other high scorers making the win possible included Dianna Devers and Mary Zeldia Soliz with seven points and Troyce Shuder who netted six.

The win pushed the squad's season record to 9-5 and advanced its district showing to 6-1.

The 7th grade La Plata team, after dropping all but one of its three performances in the Canyon Tournament this past weekend, rebounded with a 22-15 victory over its Plainview opponent Monday night.

Shannon Owsley led all other Maverick scorers in that conflict with six points while Adelia Rodriguez and Natalie Sims added five points apiece as other high scorers in the win.

The 8th grade La Plata team will continue competition in the Littlefield Tournament Thursday through Saturday and all three teams will then resume district play January 19 in Clovis against Clovis Marshall.

Q. While doing easy repairs on my car I've "played dumb" everytime my repair manuals tell me to use a torque wrench along with how much torque to apply. Is torquing all that essential? A. Considering how relatively inexpensive a torque wrench is and some of the problems you may be headed for by "playing dumb", the wrench is a good investment. When using a standard wrench for tightening areas which call for specific torques (which is usually the case without the proper tools - can cause leaks too, but these leaks are the result of much wider spread and more serious structural damage to the part which, almost invariably, will end up in replacement.

Landry Refuses to Concede Psychological Edge

DALLAS (AP) — Tom Landry gives Philadelphia its due on the field, but the Dallas Cowboys' coach refuses to concede the Eagles an A-plus in psychology.

In the wake of Philadelphia's 20-7 National Conference title victory, Eagles' Coach Dick Vermeil hinted Dallas might have been suffering from the big head.

"I kept saying Dallas had a great team because I wanted them to come in here overconfident," said Vermeil.

Landry said Monday "what they (Vermeil) did didn't create a psychological edge. They had it after that last game when we scored 35 points real easy."

Landry was referring to Dallas' 35-27 victory over the Eagles in the final regular season game in which Philadelphia only had to lose by 24 points or less.

After the game, the losers drank champagne to toast their divisional title and playoff homefield advantage.

"They weren't playing in that final game like they were Sunday," said Landry. "Now THAT's the kind of thing that rocks you to sleep. It's hard to convince our guys that the Eagles will be a different team. But it's certainly nothing that was said or the blue jerseys."

Vermeil opted for the Eagles to wear white jerseys, forcing to Cowboys to slip on blue, a color in which they were batting only .500 lifetime.

Landry said what happened to the Cowboys psychologically was the same thing that brought Los Angeles down in the NFC wild card game.

"The Rams beat us 38-14 then had to turn around and play us two weeks later," said Landry. "There was no way you could convince the Ram players that they weren't going to blow us out of the park."

Landry said "the Eagles' psychological play was obvious. Of course, some of our young players believed it."

The 21-year veteran Dallas coach refused to accept run-ing back Tony Dorsett's assessment that he cost the Cowboys the game with a third quarter fumble.

"It was the biggest play of the game without a doubt. It's something I've got to live with and it's going to haunt me until next year," Dorsett said.

Landry called the fumble "a critical play at the time but one play didn't give them the game. No one player should take the blame. Philadelphia deserved to win. There were other mistakes out there."

The Cowboys were trailing 10-7 but had moved to the Eagle 40 on a 28-yard completion from Danny White to Jay Saldi. The next play, cornerback Roynell Young hit Dorsett and linebacker Jerry Robinson picked up the fumble and returned it 22 yards to the Cowboys' 38. Six plays later the Eagles scored a touchdown.

"If we had gone down and scored on that drive we would have had a psychological edge, but you just have to give Philadelphia credit. Defense was the key to the game and the Eagles played the best defense," Landry said.

Eagles Happy With Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Eagles quarterback Ron Jaworski did a polka around the clubhouse. He dramatically burned a playmoney $100 bill.

Jaworski's voice resounded throughout the clubhouse as he screamed, "We're going to the Super Bowl!"

"Eight years I've been waiting," he shouted at a team meeting Monday. "I'm finally going to the Super Bowl."

The quarterback circled the dressing room, hugging teammates and pumping their hands.

And this was almost 24 hours after Jaworski and the Eagles had beaten the Dallas Cowboys, 20-7, to earn the trip to New Orleans for Super Bowl XV.

The National Conference champions meet the Oakland Raiders, who earned their trip to the Super Bowl by defeating the San Diego Chargers 34-27 Sunday for the American Conference title.

Jaworski stopped in front of Wilbert Montgomery, the running back who gained 194 yards and scored one touchdown against Dallas.

"What the heck, I gave you the ball every time. I could have gone through those holes," Jaworski needled.

Montgomery, a quiet, low-key individual, just looked up at the quarterback, and a trace of a smile formed on his face. He said nothing.

Linebacker Bill Bergey, who has waited 12 years to play in the National Football League's season-ending extravaganza, demonstrated some excitement that belied his customary business-like personality.

He hugged some players and joined in the shouting.

Defensive back Herman Edwards shouted: "the Super Bowl is for super people," and he moved around handshaking and embracing.

Tony Franklin, the barefoot placekicker, needled Jaworski, but was cautioned by his teammates to be careful how he talked to his holder.

"He's liable to forget to put the ball down," someone joked.

You wouldn't think these were big, tough, football players, but a bunch of kids opening their Christmas presents.

But you couldn't blame them. This was the Eagles' first Super Bowl team. It was the first Eagles team to play for the league title in 20 years. They beat Green Bay in 1960, before the Super Bowl format was established.

The Eagles, who celebrated Sunday night at a big bash thrown by team owner Leonard Tose, took a three-day vacation after the meeting Monday.

Coach Dick Vermeil said he would reassemble the team Thursday, and expected to fly to New Orleans Monday for a week of practice and the customary Super Bowl hype for the game Jan. 25, at the Superdome.

At his weekly news conference, Vermeil said: "I liked the way we won. I liked beating them running the football and stopping their running game. Our offensive line did a fine job."

The Eagles outgained the Cowboys on the ground, 263-86, and held Tony Dorsett to just 41 yards on 13 carries. They rushed Cowboys' quarterback Danny White into ineffectiveness.

NCAA Votes on Complicated Issue

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Barring a desperation move by opponents, NCAA delegates were expected to vote on a complicated, controversial package of proposals today that would bring women into the male-dominated group's governing structure.

The first item of business was a move by Donna Lopiano, president of the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, that might block the plan.

Lopiano made her motion moments after the convention was officially convened Monday. She was seeking to move Proposal No. 71, which would postpone the NCAA's entry into women's athletics and move it ahead of the governance proposal and another amendment in which Division I schools will decide whether to sponsor women's championships.

After lengthy and passionate debate from the floor, a move by Dan Gibbens, faculty representative from Oklahoma, was accepted to postpone the vote on Lopiano's motion.

In the meantime, convention officers worried that the expected long and bitter fight over the women's issues would probably push the assembly past its projected adjournment of noon Wednesday.

The governance plan, formulated by a 14-person committee, would add about 215 women to NCAA committees and Council.

The AIAW, apparently joined by many leaders of the women's rights movement across the nation, charge the NCAA will only swallow up and dominate women's athletics.

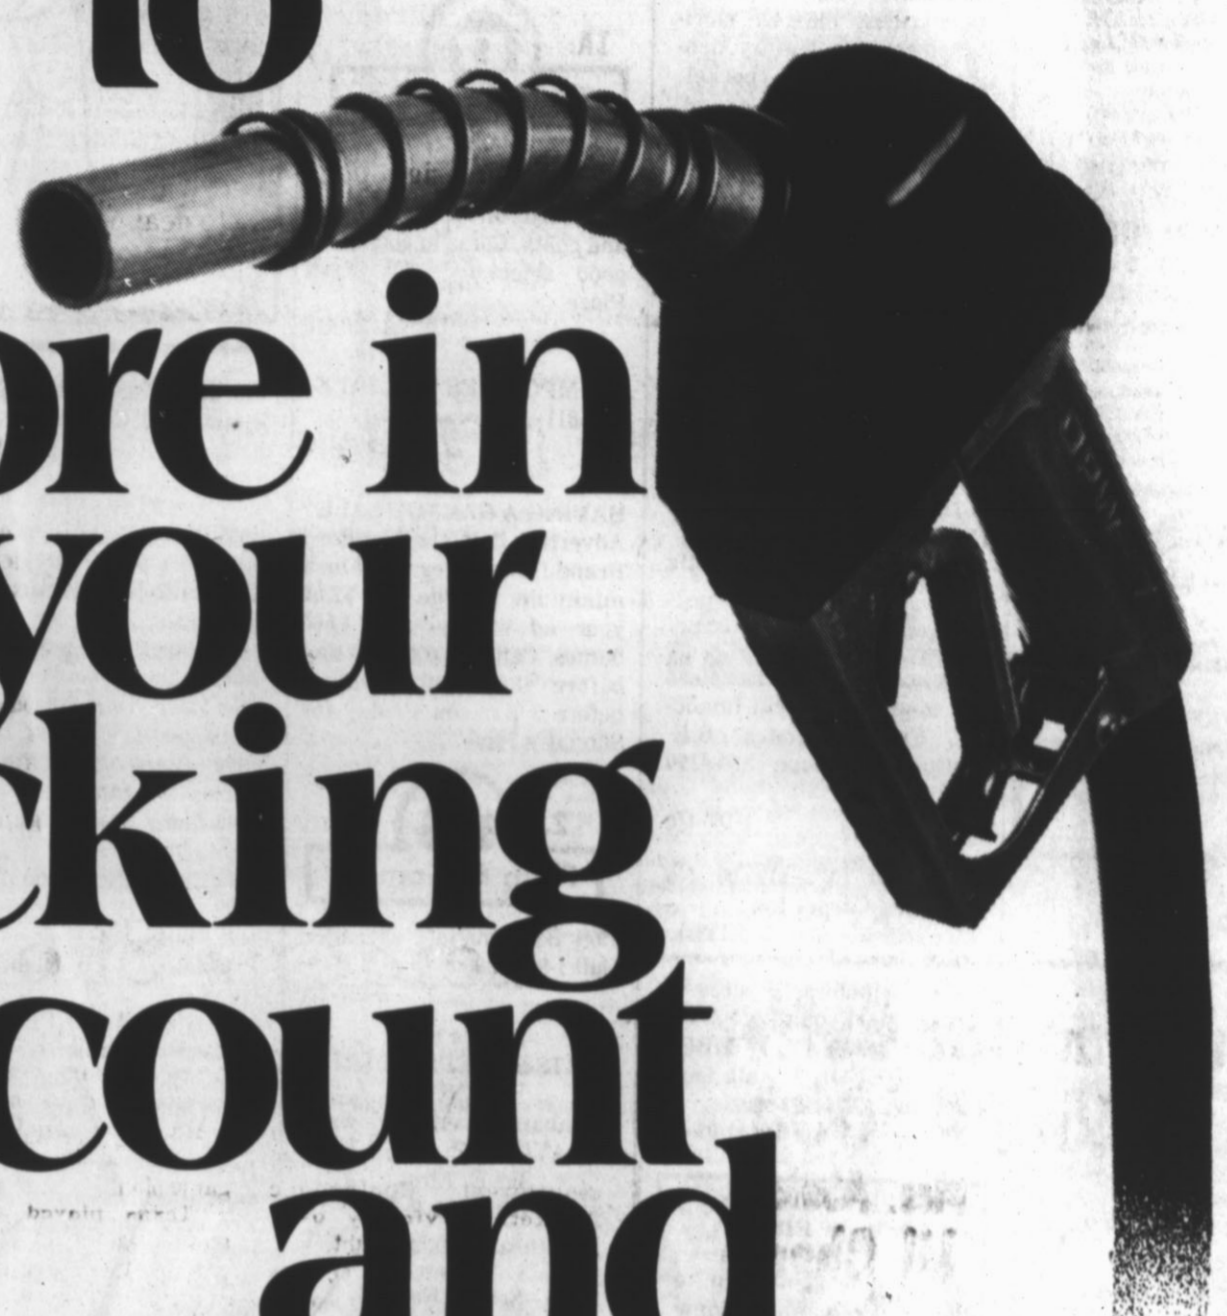

"We have a choice before us. A crucially important choice to over 100,000 female athletes in our country," Christine Grant, of Iowa, told delegates Monday while urging support of the reordering of the agenda. "I think if this convention is going to move into the area of women's athletics then it must do so completely."

"It must deal with championships, it must deal with governance and it must have a single set of rules for the women in that organization," she added. "Otherwise if you examine the governance proposal you will quickly realize its going to result in complete competitive chaos by women's athletics. I implore this convention to vote for reordering."

Judi Holland, senior associate athletic director at UCLA and a leader among a minority of women who support the NCAA's initiatives, told the assembly it should disregard Lopiano's motion.

"I feel one of the strongest and most important things to be decided here is whether or not women will be included in the governance of NCAA and whether or not championships will be offered," she said. "I think to reorder the agenda certainly seems to be constructed to confuse the issue and I'm sure many of us would like to take it as it is in the book," she added.

Knesset Party May Dissolve

JERUSALEM (AP) — Members of Prime Minister Menachem Begin's right-wing government coalition discussed the political crisis with their parties today before voting to dissolve the Knesset and call elections in June instead of November.

Officials said the Cabinet would meet again today or Wednesday to make its formal decision.

Housing Minister David Levy was reported negotiating with independent factions seeking pledges of support to keep the government in power until November, but the chances appeared slim.

Both Begin's coalition partners—the National Religious Party and the Democrats—said they favored early elections, and the newspaper Maariv said Begin's advisers urged that the Knesset be dissolved and the elections advanced to June.

The crisis was precipitated by the resignation Sunday of Finance Minister Yigael Yair, who quit because the Cabinet refused to reject pay raises recommended for the nation's teachers. The resignation was effective today and Hurwitz was taking the other two members of his Rafi party out of the coalition, leaving Begin with 58 seats at most of the 120 seats in the Knesset, Israel's Parliament.

Begin confirmed after a Cabinet meeting Monday that most of his 15 ministers favored an early vote rather than trying to govern with the unpredictable support of independent splinter groups.

"That is also my position," he said. The 67-year-old prime minister looked tired and grim but managed a smile when he said he was not disappointed that his government would be unable to serve out its term.

Begin said no date was set for elections, but June was a possibility. June 16 was reported to be the choice of his Likud party.

The opposition Labor Party is favored to win the election and reportedly wants it held on April 28 or May 12, but Radio Israel said Labor would not have enough support to get its way.

The Knesset was scheduled to meet today to ratify the vote by one of its committees to strip parliamentary immunity from Religious Affairs Minister Aharan Abu-Hatzeira so he can be tried on charges he took $15,000 in bribes in return for approving state funds for certain religious institutions.

Abu-Hatzeira, who would be the first Cabinet minister in Israel's history to be tried in office, said he did not mind losing his immunity because he wanted to stand trial and prove that the charges were "a political libel." But his lawyers were reported seeking a delay until after the election.

An Arab member of the Knesset, Sheik Hamad Abu Rabiya, was assassinated Monday night as he sat in his car parked outside a hotel in the Jewish sector of Jerusalem. It was the first murder of a member of Parliament in Israel's history.

Rabiya, a representative of Israel's 42,000 Bedouins, was killed by shots from a 9mm revolver fired from a jeep. Israel Radio reported police arrested four Arab suspects.

Sun Spots

The points at which the sun crosses the equator are the equinoxes, when day and night are most equal. The points at which the sun is at a maximum distance from the equator are the solstices. Days and nights are the most unequal.

The Newspaper Bible

THE TWO MOST IMPORTANT THINGS

One of the teachers of religion who was standing there listening to the discussion realized that Jesus had answered well. So he asked, "Of all the commandments, which is the most important?"

Jesus replied, "The one that says, 'Hear O Israel! The Lord our God is the one and only God. And you must love Him with all your heart and soul and mind and strength.'"

The second is: 'You must love others as much as yourself.' No other commandments are greater than these."

The teacher of religion replied, "Sir, You have spoken a true word in saying that there is only one God and no other."

And I know it is far more important to love Him with all my heart and understanding and strength, and to love others as myself, than to offer all kinds of sacrifices on the altar of the Temple."

Realizing this man's understanding, Jesus said to him, "You are not far from the Kingdom of God." And after that, no one dared ask Him any more questions.

Suspects Sought In Bombing

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Dozens of FBI agents swarmed over the San Juan area today, hunting for clues to a small band of independence-seeking terrorists blamed for the $45-million bombing of Puerto Rico's Air National Guard unit.

The bombing early Monday, which destroyed eight of the unit's 20 Corsair II jet fighters and damaged two others, was the third attack in 14 months by the Macheteros, the Puerto Rican Popular Army, on the U.S. military presence in America's island commonwealth. But officials gave no indication that they had any clues to the identity of the bombers.

Federal agents combed the wreckage of the planes on the hangar apron at the Muniz Air Base adjoining San Juan's international airport, collected bits of shrapnel and inspected footprints found in the mud near a hole cut in the chain-link fence around the base.

The raiders cut through the fence Sunday night when only two sentries were guarding the base and planted about 20 pipe bombs in the air intakes, exhaust pipes and landing-gear wells of a dozen planes spread out over the football-field-size concrete apron. Before escaping, apparently undetected, they penetrated the base's fuel depot and left a calling card — a small machete marked with the group's initials and its flag.

After the explosions, news services received telephone calls saying the Macheteros were responsible for the raid. The motive was not given, but in the past the organization said it would fight the "foreign" presence of the U.S. military on the island.

No one was hurt, but damage was estimated at $45 million. In addition to the 10 A-7D Corsairs destroyed or damaged, a deactivated engineless F-104 Starfighter on display was blown up.

Maj. Agustin Correa of the Air National Guard said the pipe bombs apparently carried a mixture of explosive liquid and gasoline set off by timers and were designed to ignite the planes' fuel tanks. One of his officers called the bombs "home-made but not garden variety."

Bernard Perez, the FBI agent in charge of the investigation, said the bombs carried a "high-order" explosive capable of "a much more terrible explosion than gunpowder."

The FBI has been trying to track down the Macheteros since Dec. 3, 1979, when they announced they had joined with two other leftist pro-independence groups in an ambush on a Navy bus on a back-country road. Two unarmed Navy personnel were killed and 10 others were wounded.

There is no evidence of public support for the tiny left-wing group's violent campaign for independence. In recent elections, only 5 percent of the vote went to pro-independence candidates, and all but a handful were cast for a party that advocates a peaceful transition.

"If these people are Puerto Rican, how little they know this people," said Gov. Carlos Romero Barcelo, an advocate of statehood for Puerto Rico. "We are a tolerant people who want to live in peace and harmony, but this people won't go down on its knee before anybody, not before violence or intimidation."

Rep. Jenrette's Wife Believes Him Guilty

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Rita Jenrette, who says she intends to divorce former Rep. John W. Jenrette, was packing up her husband's clothes in their Washington townhouse when she found $25,000 in large bills stuffed in a shoe, lawyers say.

She believes it's the bribe money Jenrette was convicted of taking in the Abscam sting, lawyers say. He insists it isn't.

"I can assure you if the money came from Abscam, I'll walk into jail right now," Jenrette told the Washington Post.

The South Carolina Democrat was convicted in October of accepting $50,000 from FBI agents posing as Arab sheiks. The money was never recovered. Jenrette lost his November re-election bid and resigned his seat shortly before the House was to vote on disciplinary measures that could have included expulsion.

Mrs. Jenrette found the cash, mostly $100 bills, as she packed clothing to send to South Carolina. It was turned over to her lawyer, former Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., who has refused to discuss the matter.

If the cash turns out to be Abscam money, Jenrette could be charged with perjury since he testified during his trial that he received no money.

The Post on Monday quoted the Justice Department as saying that serial numbers from six randomly selected bills did not match those of the Abscam money.

Jenrette said Sunday that the money had come from the sale of some certificate of deposit notes.

"It's all I have left," he said. "It's not the FBI's money. It's money I've had for years — I just brought it up from the safe in my South Carolina law office."

His lawyer, Kenneth M. Robinson, said the money was to pay him for Jenrette's appeals, which Robinson fears could suffer from this latest scandal. The cash now could become part of a divorce settlement.

Robinson said Mrs. Jenrette told him Jenrette has been "committing adultery again and she found evidence he was guilty in Abscam." That pushed her into seeking a divorce, friends say.

In a recent magazine article, she accused Jenrette of being a flamboyant womanizer who did little to hide his activities. But she forgave him, she wrote, because she believed alcoholism was at fault. She also blamed alcoholism for embroiling him in Abscam.

Neither of the Jenrettes could be reached for comment Monday.

Over the weekend, Mrs. Jenrette said she was unable to reach her husband, and he said Sunday he had given his wife a bogus telephone number.

"I'm staying with an old girl friend and her live-in boyfriend," he told the Post Sunday. "I'm sleeping on the couch. But I knew if I told Rita, she'd have a fit."

Bullock Checking Untaxed Cigarettes

AUSTIN, Tex. — State Comptroller Bob Bullock Thursday said he has asked the Federal Bureau of Investigation to look into alleged violations of federal law by firms shipping untaxed cigarettes into Texas.

Bullock said the Cabazon Band of Mission Indians of Indio, California advertise widely in Texas that cigarettes will be shipped tax-free to Texas smokers.

"There isn't any such thing as a tax-free cigarette, unless you leave the country," Bullock said.

He said the Jenkins Act, a federal statute, requires interstate shippers of untaxed cigarettes to notify local tax authorities of the names and addresses of persons who purchase cigarettes.

"We've been on the war-path with these Indians for several months about providing the names of Texas customers as required by the federal law. They've been quieter than a totem pole about when the lists will be sent," Bullock said.

Texas cigarette taxes amount to $1.85 a carton and if the taxes aren't paid voluntarily to the State Comptroller's Office at the time of purchase there is a $1.85 a carton penalty.

"The cigarettes are hardly a bargain if you add in the tax and penalty," Bullock said. "and Texans should be wary of these alleged cheap cigarettes."

Bullock said if the FBI finds the shippers of mail order cigarettes in violation of the Jenkins Act they could be prosecuted in federal courts.

Cigarette taxes amounted to more than $321 million in state revenue last year.

President's Challenge: Supply More with Less

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The challenge to the President-elect is to supply more with less, which isn't impossible, according to the Bible and a few businessmen but which has generally been classified under miracles.

He must lower the budget deficit, a self-imposed challenge, while (1) watching inflation raise government expenses, (2) dealing with a federal bureaucracy that knows only how to grow and (3) cutting taxes.

While doing this he must deal with a federal debt that is certain to exceed $1 trillion during the next year or two, if only because the government must raise more debt just to pay interest on old debts.

In the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30, that interest expense amounted to nearly $75 billion, which gives you some idea of the size of the problem. And if rates don't drop soon, the problem will grow worse.

Meanwhile, spokesmen for every constituency in America have been applying pressure to keep their favorite spending program alive, even if the goal of their spending and efforts has ceased to have meaning.

This is a large order for any president to deal with, but Ronald Reagan has assured the public he will cut their taxes at the same time. In fact, David Stockman, slated to be his director of the Office of Management and Budget, says a tax cut is essential to budget balance.

What this amounts to, therefore, is the quintessential "shrink" challenge, a term that many businessmen understand. It means the challenge of running an operation profitably while shrinking the size of the operation and otherwise dealing with an adverse set of factors.

It is a challenge before which otherwise able business chieftains have failed, especially in the past few years of almost chronic recession threats. Executives who can expand a company are common; those who can shrink them are rare. Those skills aren't taught in business schools.

Nor in the school of politics either. In fact, politics has been a success for many elected officials precisely because they promised expansion, and delivered it in the form of government services.

For the Reagan forces to achieve their goal of budget balance will obviously take a lot of faith and guts. It means angry constituents, and probably even worse inflation before the goal is reached.

Most likely it will also mean, of all things, more budget deficits — for fiscal 1981 and fiscal 1982, which begins next October. Stockman estimates the 1981 deficit at $60 billion. Wharton Forecasting believes the 1982 deficit will be about $80 billion, which would be a record.

Sometime after that, the shaving of spending, the lowering of inflation, and the spurring of the economy through tax cuts will have more impact. Revenues will rise in relation to expenditures.

Or so the script says.

Workers Have Deadline To Make Contributions

Eligible workers have until Tuesday, April 15, 1981, to make their 1980 contributions to their Individual Retirement Savings Arrangement (IRA's); however, if they file their 1980 income tax returns after April 15 on an extension, they have until the date that they file their returns to make their contributions.

Since penalties are assessed for excessive contributions, this period for making contributions allows taxpayers to closely calculate the amount of the contribution, make the contribution, and still be able to deduct it from their 1980 taxable income, the IRS explains. IRA's are taxpayer-initiated retirement plans set up by workers not covered by qualified pension or retirement plans where they are employed. IRA's also are available to non-working spouses of eligible workers.

Many banks, insurance companies, credit unions, and other financial institutions can provide additional information on setting up and maintaining IRA's. In addition, the IRS has a free booklet, IRS Publication 590, "Tax Information on Individual Retirement Arrangements," which can be ordered by mail using the order form in the tax package, or by calling the IRS number in the local telephone directory. If more convenient, it can also be picked up at most IRS offices.
