

HEREFORD DAY AT THE FAIR

Arrangements Being Made for Monday, Sept. 28, As Special Day for White Faces at Panhandle Fair.

One of the things freely discussed at the meeting Wednesday afternoon was the designation of a special day at the Panhandle State Fair as HEREFORD DAY. It was agreed to ask the officials of the Fair to name Monday, September 28. Upon that day, all who contemplate going to the Fair will be urged to select that day as their day. It would become the object of Hereford to make a special effort to join hands on that Monday and to be at the Fair in such numbers as will convince the other visitors that Hereford is also present. No less than five hundred White Faces should be turned loose in a stampede in Amarillo on that one day. Get ready now to go. Special rates will be made.

And the next day, Hereford should be at home to entertain the special excursion visitors from Amarillo and other towns. It is proposed to run a special train to Hereford Tuesday morning from the Queen City, bringing up all who will come for the purpose of seeing the big wells and farms around Hereford. It is thought that more than one hundred visitors will be present. The special, if arrangements are completed as contemplated, will leave Amarillo in the early morning, arrive at Hereford about 9 o'clock, when the visitors will be taken in autos for a spin around the big circle, returning them to the train in time to return to Amarillo for the afternoon at the Fair. It is expected that every auto in the community will be offered free to the use of the visitors. This will be done.

At the meeting was also discussed by H. A. Noble, vice president and general manager of the Fair, the stock show. This will be made a leading feature he said and his visit to Hereford Wednesday was for the purpose of working up an interest in that line. Dr. Cunningham, also interested in the Fair, was with him and the two were doing some real substantial boosting for their city and the Panhandle State Fair.

Normal Opened Monday With 155. The fifth year of the Normal opened Monday with an enrollment of 155. There are a number of students in the city who have not enrolled and many will arrive before the end of the week. It is expected that the attendance will reach 200 by next week and 300 before the end of the year.

It was expected that the attendance would be materially decreased this year owing to the session being held in the temporary buildings. However, the strenuous financial conditions throughout the state caused by the slump in the cotton market has been a leading factor in keeping large numbers out of school, and were it not for this the attendance at time would no doubt be near the 250 mark. The training school opened Tuesday morning with an attendance of 142. —Randall County News.

Lectures Well Attended.

The lectures given at the court house Saturday night and Sunday afternoon by Mrs. J. W. English were well attended. The first lecture had for a subject, "Christian Science as taught by Mrs. Eddy twenty five years ago." The speaker wore a handsome gown imported from Paris and is said to have cost near the sum of $3,000.00. The Sunday afternoon lecture was devoted to the discussion of Brahmanism and Mrs. English wore the costume of a Brahman Priest. She is well versed in the lore of Brahmanism, having studied that religion for a number of years.

Another Blunder.

The Brand made another blunder last week when in referring to a certain young lawyer who had taken down with that fearful disease automobilis and it was stated that he had a case of Forditis Automobilis when in fact he had another form of the same malady—Buickitis Automobilis. And in the rounds this week, the newsfakir for the Brand learned of another young man, a real Texas cowboy, known by his friends as Earl Wilson, son of Jno. L., who had also contracted the disease, but that he had a case of Hupmobilitis Automobilis. The Brand regrets very much that the blunder was made in the case of the young lawyer and that the cowboy, who had swapped his spurs for a can of gasoline, had been so sorely neglected. But mistakes will happen even in the best policed families.

To Dedicate Monument

Capt. J. W. English leaves today for Warsaw, Ill., where he will participate in the dedication of a monument marking the site of old Fort Edwards in that city. This fort was built in the Indian times of 1812 by Col. J. R. Wilcox of the United States Army. He was the grandfather of Capt. English, the latter's mother being the first white child born in the Fort. The monument, a stately pile, has been built jointly by the United States, the State of Illinois and the City, the total cost being $30,000.00. Capt. English will represent his grandfather on the dedicatory program and will make a speech. The governor of Illinois and the Secretary of War will be the other speakers. The three days' program will be on Sept. 28-30 and Oct. 1. Mrs. English will leave Sunday to join Mr. English at Warsaw and the two will visit relatives in Chicago and other places before returning to Hereford.

MASS MEETING TO BOOST FAIR

Committee Appointed to Make Complete Arrangements for Exhibit at Panhandle State Fair.

Meeting was called to order by Atty. Carl Gilliland. Mayor Knight was elected chairman and Henry Wilkinson was elected secretary. The following committees were appointed:

Committee on Agriculture: Eli Dunlap, F. H. Oberthier, Henry Wilkinson, C. W. Sewers, A. W. Gregg, E. B. Posey, J. I. Walker, H. B. Webb, Leslie Neal, John Sherman, D. L. McDonald, A. H. Elliston.

Committee on Live Stock: W. O'Brien, Carl Gilliland, Wesley Bradley.

Finance Committee: D. F. Ashbrook, A. J. Lipscomb, W. O'Brien.

Receiving Committee: A. P. Murchison, Leslie Neal, Geo. Burns, D. L. McDonald and J. I. Walker were appointed as a committee to care for the exhibit and arrange same in Amarillo, and also to appoint additional help to assist in setting it up. This committee was also appointed to take up the matter of having an excursion to Hereford oneday during the Fair.

Henry Wilkinson, E. B. Posey and John Sherman were appointed to solicit people to go to Amarillo on Hereford day Monday, Sept. 28.

F. H. Oberthier, Eli Dunlap, J. F. Potts, Ed Brandt, C. H. Dyer and H. L. Rice were appointed a committee to secure autos to carry people to and from the wells on Tuesday, Sept. 29.

Farmers Will Help the Fair. Many of the farmers around Hereford have signified their willingness to contribute of their products towards a good exhibit at the Amarillo Fair. It is now only a few days when the stuff should be brought in; in fact, it might be well for those who have their products for exhibition to bring them at first opportunity. Don't imagine that your stuff is not good enough for exhibition; it is all good enough; bring in whatever you have; it can be used. A. P. Murchison will act as a receiving committee for the products. Take them to the First State Bank, where storage room will be provided.

Frank Williams of Phoenix, Ariz., is spending a few days in Hereford mixing with his friends. Mr. Williams lived in Hereford until a few years ago when he left for the big irrigation district under the Roosevelt dam. After seeing the big pumping wells around Hereford, he thinks we have a better proposition for irrigation than they have in Arizona. While land sells in that section from $150 to $600 per acre, it is not as good as this around Hereford that can be had for a whole lot less.

WAR UPSETS SUGAR WORLD

European Struggle Raging in World's Greatest Sugar Growing Territory Sends Prices Up.

The war map of Europe today is the sugar map of yesterday. Comparing the territory devoted to sugar growing with the area of war operations, it appears at once that the two are nearly identical. Such a comparison in itself is sufficient explanation of the worldwide disturbance that has taken place in the ordinary adjustment of sugar supply to sugar demand.

The normal sugar crop of Europe is a little over 8,000,000 long tons. In the past year the number of tons produced in the countries now engaged in war was as follows:

Germany	2,738,000
Austria-Hungary	1,750,000
Austria-Hungary	1,710,000
Belgium	800,000
Belgium	238,000
Serbia	6,500
Total	7,234,500

As will be seen from the above, nearly 90 per cent of Europe's sugar usually is grown by the nations that have abandoned implements for weapons. The entire sugar crop of the globe last year was 18,500,000 tons. Six of the European countries now at war normally produce 40 per cent of all the sugar grown in the world.

FIGHTING IN SUGAR FIELDS.

Much of the sugar producing area is directly in the zone of war operations. The principal beet growing districts of France lie to the northeast of Paris, between that city and the Belgian border. This is the ground over which two of the greatest armies ever assembled have been fighting for the past several weeks. In Belgium the most important sugar growing provinces are Liege, Brabant and Hainaut, the latter lying south of Brussels, along the French border. This territory was the theatre of the first heavy fighting of the war.

CAN EASILY GROW ALL OUR SUGAR.

"A total of 2,000,000 acres planted to beets would free us from dependence upon foreign-grown sugar," says Bulletin No. 260 of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in calling attention to the ease with which the United States could make itself independent of the rest of the world for its sugar supply. The Bulletin prints a list of nineteen states which have been demonstrated to be well adapted to the growing of sugar beets. These states are California, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois,

Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, Utah, Wisconsin, Wyoming. These states contain more than 2,000,000 acres and over 278,000,000 acres of improved lands. The Bulletin continues:

"If one farmer in four in these states were to plant a three acre patch and give it the care that could readily be bestowed upon so small a plot it would be unnecessary for us to buy foreign sugar. Two-thirds of 1 per cent of the improved land in the area is all that would be required to accomplish this result. More than that acreage lies idle, absolutely unused; every year. Any one of the states of Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Minnesota, Nebraska, or Ohio could produce all this sugar and then have the beets occur only once in a ten-year rotation; several of the others could do it alone on a five-year rotation.

From this table it can be seen that devoting the proposed 2,000,000 acres to sugar-beet production would have an utterly insignificant effect in reducing the acreage of other crops. If they were grown in properly con-

Q.—Read Mark 16:15-18 and point out one or more believers who can do these things. (Mrs. F.)

Answer.—We do not know of any Christian that can do these things nor do we remember of ever hearing of any Christian so foolish as to try thus to establish his claims to discipleship. All of this chapter from the 9th to the 20th verses is admitted to be an interpolation. This part is not found in any of the early Greek manuscripts, and is certainly not genuine. It is not true that all believers in the Lord Jesus may drink poisonous things, and be in contact with poisonous serpents, contagious diseases, etc., with impunity; nor have all possessed the power of healing diseases and casting out devils. It will be noticed that the omission is referred to in the Revised Version. To receive it or to quote it as Scripture, would be adding to the Word of God, and adding to the general confusion on an important subject. You will note that the passage is not rejected because it sets a standard up in which Christians cannot come, but because the evidence of the early manuscripts is to the effect that it was not given by inspiration, but is merely an insert on the part of some scribe to complete a narrative which he had left unfinished. It is always well to keep in mind that books which are in our homes and call themselves the Word of God, but which are not so, are a hindrance to the truth.

Q.—If there is a God, is it reasonable that we might expect to see any reason for us to expect anything for us? (F. M.)

Answer.—The possession of attributes such as are ascribed to God reasonably argues their exercise. God's power must be used in harmony with His own nature—wisely, justly and benevolently. Whatever may be the means to that end, whatever may be the operation of God's power, the final out come must be consistent with His nature and character, and every step must be approved of His wisdom. What could be more reasonable than such exercise of power as we see manifested in the creation of countless worlds about us, and in the wonderful variety of earth? What could be more reasonable than the creation of man, endowed with reason and judgment, capable of appreciating His Creator's works, and of judging of His skill of His wisdom, justice, power and love? All this is reasonable, and all in perfect accord with facts known to us. Is it not reasonable also to suppose that such an infinitely wise and good being having made a creature capable of appreciating Himself and His plan, would be moved by His love and justice to supply the wants of that creature's nature, by giving him some revelation regarding the reason for his existence and the plans for his future? On the contrary, we ask, would it not be unreasonable to suppose that such a Creator would make such a creature as man, endow him with powers of reason reaching out into the future, and yet make no revelation of His plans to meet those longings? Such a course would be unreasonable, because contrary to the character which we properly attribute to God; contrary to justice and love.

Q.—What effect, if any, did the existence of the "Times of the Gentiles" (Luke 21:24) have in delaying the setting up of Christ's Kingdom on earth? (P. A. No.)

Answer.—The kingdom of Israel is the only one since the fall, which God ever recognized as in any way representing His government, laws, etc. There had been many nations before them, but no other could rightfully claim God as its founder, or that its rulers were God's representatives. When the diadem was taken from Zedekiah and the kingdom of Israel was overturned, it was decreed that it should remain overturned until Christ, the rightful heir of the world, should come to claim it. Thus, inferentially, all other kingdoms in power until the re-establishment of God's kingdom are branded "kingdoms of this world," and hence any claims put forth by any of them to being kingdoms of God are spurious. Nor was the kingdom of God "set up" at the first advent of Christ (Luke 19:12). Then and since then God has been selecting from the world those who shall be accounted worthy to reign with Christ as joint-heirs of that throne. Not until the second advent of Christ will the kingdom be set up in power and glory. All kingdoms other than that of Israel are Scripturally called heathen or Gentile kingdoms. These governments God recognized indirectly, in that He publicly declared His decree (Luke 21:24) that during the interregnum the control of Jerusalem and the world should be exercised by Gentile governments. It would not be proper to say that the times of the Gentile rule has delayed the kingdom; rather, the present work of selecting the kings for God's kingdom requires a certain length of time and until that is ended the Gentile rulers will be permitted to reign. Then Messiah the Prince shall take His great power and reign, and with Him shall be associated all those who through a life of sacrifice have walked the narrow way, have ascended into the hill of the Lord.

Q.—After the birth of Christ, was not the old Bible destroyed with the burning of the temple? (A. R. No.)

Answer.—Great indeed would be our loss if the Old Testament were taken from us. When the writers of the New Testament refer to sacred writings, we must bear in mind that they have in mind the Old Testament. Their frequent quotations from it indicate the high esteem in which it was held. "Whatever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope" (Romans 15:4). After recounting the experiences of the children of Israel in their journey to Canaan, the apostle concludes: "Now all these things happened unto them for examples, and they are written for our admonition" (1 Corinthians 10:11). Apparently the natural Israelite understood little of the reason for his varied experiences, but to the spiritual Israelite they become "a light to our pathway and a lamp to our feet." The thought in the word for which "examples" is a translation is that as the die marks and cuts out the coin, so the Christian course is prefigured in the incidents recorded in the Old Testament. An almost inexhaustible fund of knowledge is stored for us in the Old Testament types, especially in those connected with the Tabernacle service. Unfortunately the subject has been almost entirely neglected. There have, however, been a few books on this subject published for the assistance of the earnest Bible student.

Q.—I remember hearing my grandfather and a friend of his discussing "election" and "free grace" years ago. Is either scriptural? (J. W.)

Answer.—The two thoughts have divided Christians for centuries. That both of these doctrines, notwithstanding their apparent opposition, have substantial support, no Bible student will deny. This fact should lead us at once to surmise that in some way both must be true, but in no way can they be reconciled by observing "election" as "predestination" and "rightly dividing the word of truth." If the distinctive features of the epochs and dispensations be kept in mind, and all the passages relating to Election and Free Grace be examined, it will be found that all those which treat of Election apply to the present and past ages, while those which teach Free Grace are fully applicable to the next age. The truth which Jesus stated in John 6:44 (No man can come unto me except the Father which hath sent me draw him), applies to this present time in which God is electing kings to reign in His Kingdom when established on the earth. Of the coming age, He states that He will do the drawing then, and on a much larger scale. He says, "I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me" (John 12:32). During the present time the members of the bride class are being selected. When there is a bride—all the members, having been selected, she will say, "Come, whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely" (Revelation 22:17). Those elected to the bride class will issue the Free Grace invitation. Then, as the bride, the church will have a right to invite others to her bridegroom's favor. Only those whom the Father invites can come now.

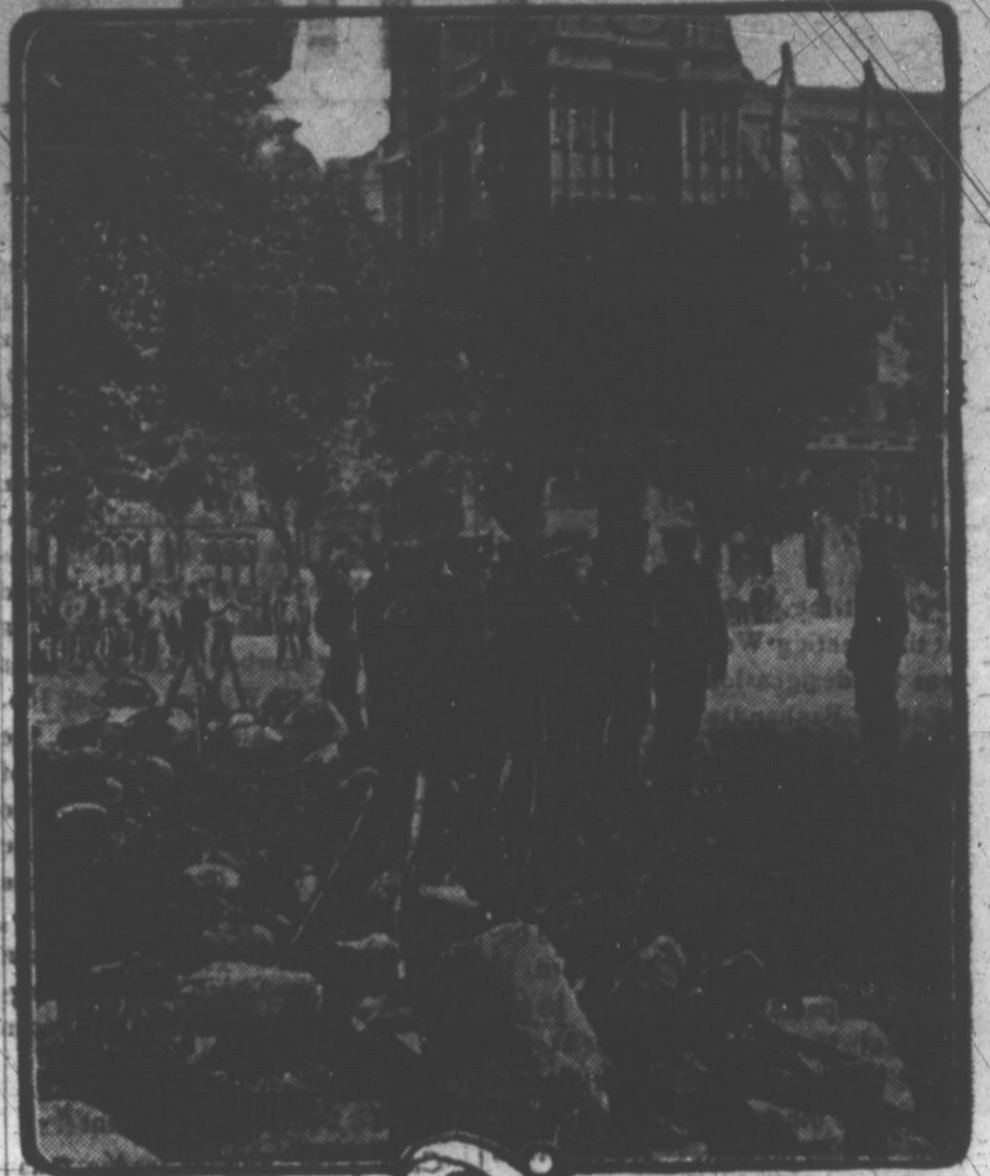

Q.—Where in the Bible do you find the prophecy of the Jews all returning to their own country before the end of the world, or something to that effect? (F. P. R.)

Answer.—The land of Palestine, and the surrounding country, is promised to Abraham and his descendants for an "everlasting possession" (Genesis 13:14-17; 17:18). "The gifts and callings of God are without repentance." God has made the promise; it will be fulfilled. Nevertheless, God has also given His Word that for a season the land shall not be theirs, saying, "Jerusalem shall be trodden under foot of the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled" (Luke 21:24). They are thus punished for unfaithfulness to their covenant, but the punishment is for only the appointed time. Comfort ye, comfort ye her, ye say, saith your God. Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her, that her warfare is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned; for she hath received of the Lord's hand double for all her sins" (Isaiah 40:1-2). The countries of the earth will be scourged to find the faithful Jews and even the graves will be opened that the ransom may be complete (Jeremiah 16:12-18; 31:31-34; Ezekiel 37:10). During the time of Israel's disfavor God has been silently working out another feature of His purpose—the selection of a spiritual seed. This gathering must be completed before He will again deal with the Jewish house. "Blindness in part is happened to Israel, until the fulness of the Gentiles be come in. And so all Israel shall be saved" (Romans 11:25-33). See also Amos 9:11-15; Jeremiah 24:5-7; 30:18-21; 31:3-12; Ezekiel 27:22-24. None of this refers to the end of the world because there is to be no end of the world. "The earth abideth forever." It is at the end of the present Gospel dispensation that the seeking of a limited spiritual seed will be completed and the restoration of the natural, fleshly seed of Abraham will commence.

Out of the Ordinary is the Great London Shows.

"Something out of the ordinary" is a remark that can properly be made of Howe's London Shows which will exhibit in Hereford Thursday, Sept. 24.

This big show has a reputation for producing remarkable surprises until the public has learned that it can attend an exhibition of the Great London Show expecting to see something new and different.

There is an unusual number of features with this show this season. It is difficult to pick the best. Some will like the trained wild beasts' exhibition or horse wonders. Others will prefer the Zanfretta Family, Meredith Troupe, the Lowandes, the Glasgow Royal Horses, the Elite Troupe, while some will spend most of their time laughing at the host of clowns, listening to the Julius Winslow famous band, enjoying the races, admiring the animals or petting the beautiful Dublin Braze Horses.

No matter which way one looks while under any one of the Howe's Tents, he is sure to see something out of the ordinary.

Why Not Pave the Gutters? The merchants as well as the City have much trouble in keeping the gutters on Main street clean. The dirt in the gutter gets wet from rains and sprinkling and the wagons and other vehicles do the rest, cutting up the dirt so that the water will not run off, but remains and causes an ill smelling condition. All this could be avoided by paving the cutting for a width of about 3 feet along the curbing. The gutter if laid to a grade would allow the water to run down and during rains would carry off all light obstructions in the way.

THE POWER OF THE PRESS

THE HONEST EXPENDITURE OF CAMPAIGN FUNDS DEFENDED.

The Problems of Agriculture Now Understood and Government, Business Men and Farmers Co-operating.

Fort Worth, Tex.: We want to thank the press of this State for the liberal space given our discussions during the past few months and as evidence of the power of publicity we want to briefly review the results which have accrued to the farmers of Texas from the courtesies extended the Farmers' Union by the press.

There never was in the history of Texas a more studied and determined effort on the part of government to co-operate with the farmer than at present; there never was a time when the city business man was rendering as able and conscientious a service to the farmer as at present; there never was a time when organized co-operation was more thoroughly understood and a more friendly relation existed between the different lines of industry than at present. There never was a time when the desire on the part of the individual to promote the welfare of all the people was greater than at present. This has been the result of publicity. This world was not made for any particular individual and none of us can have everything we want just the way we want it. It takes patriotism, courage and wisdom to make good citizens and while these virtues may become temporarily obscured by the heat and smoke of a campaign, they abound abundantly in Texas.

The Campaign an Economic Education.

The campaign just closed is a most convincing demonstration of the power of publicity. Obscure issues and obscure men have in some important instances prevailed over those more noted and well-established and the results should thoroughly convince everyone that "it pays to advertise." No campaign ever made a greater contribution to the education of the citizenship and no issues were ever faced more intelligently than during the last election. Wisdom should always be a welcome guest and understanding sought from every source and no limitation should be placed upon the honest efforts of any individual or person to intelligently discuss economic issues. It is not only the prerogative of every American citizen, but his patriotic duty to participate in disseminating information and awakening public thought.

We take no stock in the wall that is going up from disgruntled politicians in cities in regard to the misuse of campaign funds. We are not familiar with city ways; perhaps they have sinned grievously, but there was no bartering of sovereignty or abuse of influence in the rural sections.

This campaign was won by the farmers standing together and understanding their problems. The farmers of this State are intelligent and open-minded. They are neither mummies nor ex-human beings; they are open to conviction and willing to vote for their best interests according to their understanding.

Farmers Thank the Press.

The farmers of this State are under obligations to the press for important direct results. We will mention a few of them:

The most important single result transpiring in Texas during the past quarter of a century was the election of a governor and legislature pledged to give agriculture first attention. The transition from petty politics to sound business discussion will call for a new order of statesmanship, a new line of thought and open a new era of progress.

Until a very short time ago the problems of agriculture were supposed to lie in production alone, but the public now realizes that the farmer is a capable workman and that the real problem is on the business side of agriculture. The city business man, by co-operating in marketing, has become a powerful ally to the farmer, and farmers, business men and bankers are co-operating in building warehouses and financing the crop.

The State Agricultural Department has been illy supported and without a comprehensive plan of operation which promoted the interests of agriculture from seed-breeding to marketing. The Farmers' Union, through the press, has brought to the attention of the public the necessity for a constructive agricultural policy that involves production, marketing and business co-operation, and the next Commissioner of Agriculture will be a practical farmer. Mr. Davis went before the people with a platform contemplating the expenditure of $100,000 and giving prominence to organization and co-operation of farmers and agriculture, all of which, no doubt, the legislature will ratify. The Farmers' Union has since its organization endeavored to construct and put into operation a system of warehouses but has failed to receive sufficient encouragement and co-operation. The necessity for such action is now universally acknowledged, and the legislature has met in special session to consider the problem and numerous meetings are being held daily to organize associations and promote the construction of warehouses.

In closing we want to again thank the press for the splendid co-operation given to the farmers of Texas in their struggle to receive public recognition of their problems.

If you don't find what you want, try looking for it. If it's a job, don't be so particular as to whether it's one in the shade or in the sunshine.

If the destruction of the sugar fields in Europe sends the price of sugar up to the third heaven, the folks in Texas can have their choice in "Long Sweetening," instead of the "Short Sweetening."

NONE of us are so good but that we might improve; few of us are so bad but that we might grow worse. The good might improve the condition of the bad by showing them how to grow better, not by words but by deeds.

It's a pity that some people were born in this age; they never see anybody or anything but that they are prepared to criticize; they are worse than knockers. Such folks should have been born in the Stone Age when a knock was as good as a boost.

THE war in Europe should be the opportunity for the United States to become the commercial mistress of the seas. Her merchant vessels should be the Old Glory in every port of the world. The raw materials of the country should no longer be sent abroad to be returned to us in manufactured form, but our wool and cotton should be made into wearables before they leave our ports.

ADVICE to new comers or new goers: when you move to a new place, don't introduce yourself by pointing out the mistakes made by the town and the older citizens; when you move away from a place, have a good word for the folks you leave behind. In the first way, you may want to live in the town for some years; in the second condition, you may leave the impression that it was a good thing that you left.

The Lord and the War Lords McKinney Examiner: The Austin Statesman says it is strange how readily men thank God for a victory in time of war, but forget to thank him for rain and other blessings after a drought. Isn't it strange also that they never ask God's advice before going to war? If they did, don't you think there would be fewer wars?

When warriors thank God for victory their thanks are not very sincere. When a warrior wins he takes the credit to himself. His thanks to God are mostly superficial, formal, customary. The reason he feels that way about it is because he is human. Other humans feel the

THE HAGUE'S GREAT PEACE PALACE.

The Nations built their great Palladium of Peace sublime, Where all the nations of the earth might worship at its shrine. Where each might lay her panoplies of war on funeral pyre, And send them up as sweet incense, purged in its holy fire; Where arbitration of all claims and questions might be made, And nation nation meet and greet; the hand of war be stayed, All armaments be cast away, war's preparation cease, And Heaven send her recompense of Universal Peace! Vain hope, the law of constant war—warfare without surcease, Is older than Mount Sinai's law of universal peace; It is the law by which Fate must earth's progeny transmit Down through the ages of the world—"Survival of the Fit"— And though the river bed of Meuse be filled with blood, forsooth, Ruthlessly poured out from the veins of Europe's flower and youth, Earth will replace each warrior slain with ten who are his great, 'Tis Justice—'Tis Fulfillment—The Eternal Law of Fate! We may pervert the sacred books, false inferences draw, We do but mock God's wisdom when we tamper with His law; And though we may build palaces of peace in every land, We cannot hold back—cannot stay war's ruthless, bloody hand; For every stem and blade of grass, its rootlet, bud and flower, And every bee and bug and worm and man and Corp'rate power From weak microbe to great World-Power, with all its brain and brawn, Is crowded to its limit—the Eternal War is on! Had we the power to modify His unchangeable plan, We'd lose the Race because of our solicitude for man; Incentive and Endeavor, both, would perish in a day! All Enterprise, Exertion cease, all Nations would decay, All fact'ries, mines, marts, shops and offices would close; and then EPILOGUE: Would Hunger stalk abroad to fill her maw with idle men, Let's pray for vitalizing war, (let peace enthusiasts rave), When Greed and Exploitation cease man seeks his Primal Cave! —Allnhurst.

same. If they didn't they wouldn't heap honors and medals upon the warriors and forget to contribute anything except lip praise to the Lord. For himself, State Press doubts if God has very much to do with wars on earth. The strongest to often win. As between the Belgians who were defending their homes and the Germans who were invading them, surely God, had He interfered at all, would have taken the part of the former. That he did not interfere is indicated in the victory of the latter. So with the French, English and Russians—they largely outnumber the Germans, and the Heavenly sympathy, if dispensed at all, would seem to be due to the weaker contender. But so far the advantage appears to be decidedly with the stronger armies. Truly was it said a long time ago that God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform. And although we may not fathom the Divine strategy, we may easily believe that out of the wreck of the Nations and the ruin of many lives will come a new devotion to peace, and through that peace a new and close allegiance to whatsoever things are godly and of good repute. Out of the great wars of the past have emerged many of man's most lasting blessings. War is destructive, but it is also educative.—State Press in Dallas News.

The First Month of the War At the opening of the war it was well understood (for a distinguished German general had written it all out in a book) that the grand strategy of Germany would be to concentrate the flower of her army against the French, overwhelm and scatter them in the first two or three weeks of the war, invest Paris, and then turn against Russia in an equally swift and crushing onslaught. At the present writing, with the war over a month in progress, nothing of the kind has happened. The French and British armies are intact and everywhere in touch; they have fallen back upon the line of forts and strongly entrenched positions, provided years ago to meet the inevitable German attack; and for the past three weeks they have not only presented an impregnable wall of defense, through which the Germans have failed to break; but in the rearward movement to their present position, they have fought a series of defensive battles in selected and entrenched positions, which, on the theory that the losses are three to one against the attacking force, must have cost the German army already not less than 300,000 in killed, wounded and otherwise disabled. The Germans, it is true, have forced back the left wing of the allies; but they have done this at an enormous military and moral cost. The military cost has been due to the fact that here they found themselves opposed by 100,000 professional soldiers, men who, during their seven years of service with the colors, had been so thoroughly drilled in practice at the rifle butts, that they were crack marksmen; which fact coupled with the traditional steadiness of British troops under fire, enabled them, against odds of between two and three to one, to fight a series of defensive actions in selected positions, from which they did frightful execution upon the heavily massed columns of the Germans.

To the enormous losses in men entailed in this flanking movement, is to be added the even more serious moral loss which Germany has incurred in bartering her national sense of honor in exchange for the opportunity presented by the undefended French-Belgian line to rush across the French border in overwhelming numbers. France and Germany had both guaranteed the neutrality of Belgium. That France intended standing by her pledge is abundantly proved by the fact that when Germany made her rush through Belgium, France, even in spite of the delay afforded by the staunch Belgian resistance, had no time to concentrate her troops in northeastern France in sufficient numbers to check the German onslaught. Nothing that Count Bernstorff or any other apologist of the German breach of good faith may say, can make the American people think that Germany believed France was intending to do that which she herself has done. The facts are all absolutely and conclusively against such a supposition. So little preparation did Germany make to meet the German invasion through Belgium, that had it not been for the totally unexpected interposition of England on behalf of Belgium, and the magnificent fight against overwhelming odds put up by the small Belgian army, Germany today would be in side the very gates of Paris.

The French line of defense stretched from Belfort to the southern limits of the Belgian frontier. North of that she believed that her defense consisted of a "sheet of paper" with the solemn attest thereon of herself and her great German neighbor. The loss to France and Belgium of their fair lands that are now being overrun with fire and sword by Germany, is, after all, trivial, compared with the enormous loss of moral prestige suffered by the ruthless invader—a loss which no carefully worded sophistication of the diplomat or the historian of the future can ever redeem.

The position of the allies today is strategically and tactically very strong. Based on a line of fortifications reaching from Belfort on the south almost to Paris itself; with strong reserves in the rear and ample railroad communications serving the allied army upon interior lines, with the spirit of the troops absolutely unbroken, and with the choice of several French seaports through which Great Britain can pour in her reserves, France and her allies find themselves facing foes that are feeling the enormous strain of weeks of attack on entrenched positions.

The probability is that the much-talked-of complete investment of Paris will never take place; and if not, how and where is Germany to deliver that crushing blow which is to put France under her heel, and release that half million of men which Germany must send to meet the victorious Russian advance, and to stiffen her sorely worsted Austrian ally?

It is surprising that none of the military critics have drawn attention to the fact, altogether unprecedented in great wars, that there has been no breaking through and enveloping of any section on either side, German or French, of this great battle line, two hundred and forty miles long, in which surely, there must be some two and one-half millions of men engaged. To our thinking, this fact is explained by the absence from the field of operation that secrecy of movement which formerly rendered it possible to concentrate overwhelming strength against one or more portions of the enemy's lines, and break through and envelop and capture a whole army at a time. We all remember what happened at Metz and Sedan. Such catastrophes are not happening and are not likely to happen today.

Why? Unquestionably the change has been brought about by the wonderfully efficient aeroplane scouting of which so much is being done in the present war. The turning movement of the German right wing is not a case in point; for the success of that movement was due to the initial advantage gained by the violation of a treaty. It begins to look as though the grand strategy of the allies is to accept the initial advantage thus stolen by Germany and encourage the foe to break through at enormous sacrifice of men to Paris, the allies meanwhile swinging in to position with their left wing pivoted upon the enormous defenses of that city and their right upon the equally strong defenses of Belfort.—Scientific American.

Substitute For Gasoline. John Andrews, a Portuguese inventor, is claimed to have invented a mixture that is a substitute for gasoline, for power purposes and which can be made to sell for five or six cents a gallon. Andrews made his first tests in a motor boat engine near Pittsburg recently, and since then various automobile and engine concerns have given the mixture severe tests with satisfactory results. The inventor guards the secret very closely and is securing patents on the mixture. Under the observation of the speedway and national factory official at Indianapolis recently he actually produced at the Speedway by the addition of a small amount of chemicals, a mixture that exploded as well as gasoline. Dependable Irrigation

When you drive up to a McDonald Irrigating Plant, anywhere in the Hereford Country, it is very seldom you find anyone near the plant. The operator is in the field with the water where he belongs. He starts the plant in the morning and goes down the ditch with the water.

This saving of an extra man pays interest on a great deal more than the difference between the price of a McDonald Plant and the cheap kind. If a regular engineer is needed that's a sure sign of trouble. You can't afford to irrigate with troublesome machinery if you get it for nothing.

Everything depends on the water—the farmer's bread and butter, the security of the land, the ability to borrow, the sale of the land at a good price all depend on a dependable water supply. No one can afford to have anything but the best that money can buy. We could install cheaper plants but we won't—it wouldn't pay us—it won't pay you. We will continue to put up the very best installations for the prices charged, which we know are consistent. McDonald Irrigating Plants cost more to install—cost very much less to operate. Figure operating cost and you'll buy a McDonald.

It's cheap water you want, not a cheap pumping plant. GET FIGURES.

McGlothlin, who has also been visiting with the Brady's, has gone to Brownfield, Texas, where she will visit other relatives for a period before she returns to her home in California.

Geo. Muse has taken unto himself that which his friends have long expected and he is now enjoying life as never before. As a citizen of this county for years, he worked hard while out on his ranch and has filled some important places in the business of the county, but he had never felt until recently that he was able to support two, so he has put off that eventful day from time to time until recently when he joined himself to a Ford and is spinning around like other folks.

Prof. Eldridge Brodie left this week to take up his work as head of the department of English in the Sherman High School. This school has the distinction of being one of the model high schools of the country, having been mentioned as such in the leading educational journals of America. Mr. Brodie, as head of the department of English, has won a place of credit by his splendid work in this school and his many friends here and elsewhere will be pleased to learn of his connection with so distinguished a school as the Sherman institution.

A Travel Party.

A novel and interesting entertainment was had at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Potts last Tuesday afternoon when a "Travel Party" was given in honor of her aunt, Mrs. Young, of Sherman, Texas, who was on her return from a visit in Colorado. After the guests arrived, score cards, which were small hand painted suit cases, were given to each. In the cases were tickets to the point of destination, and each table was made to represent a station enroute, where the tickets were punched and the "travelers" allowed to progress to the next table. The little daughters of Mrs. Potts acted as the firemen and engineers, ringing small bells and blowing whistles in imitation of the trains. At the proper "station" a "Harvey House Lunch" was served. This as well as the other features was enjoyed by every one present. Mrs. Potts proved herself a most hospitable hostess and the ladies who had the pleasure of meeting her aunt, the guest of honor, were: Mesdames Hawkins, Snyder, Laird, Roloson, Dunlap, Thompson, Short, Stocking, Oberthier, Arnold, P. W. Price, Boyers, Johnson, McLean, Black, Myrick, Stephens, W. A. Price, Evans, Turrentine, Russell, Cardwell, Stegall, Robert Elliott, Walker.

The Great London Shows Enlarged.

Bigger and better than ever, Howe's Great London Shows will soon be with us. Every department has been enlarged. Five hundred performers; over a hundred cages contain the Million Dollar Zoo, and the show is completely filled with new and absolutely different novelties. The Great London Shows Consolidated is truly a mammoth institution. When one has seen it from end to end, outside and inside, and has formed an inventory of what he has seen and learned for a very nominal fee, how much real pleasure and benefit it has been, he can easily understand why a big show of the high standard of the Great London Show occupies the enviable position in the amusement world that it does.

The for-famed Dublin Dapple Grays, $25,000 Prize Winners, are also with the big show.

Howe's Great London Show will exhibit in Hereford Thursday, Sept. 24.

The Fake Magazine Sections.

The magazine section for the weekly paper is again making its appearance. It is strange that such a scheme as this can be worked on the good average weekly paper, but when none other than the inimitable editor of the Quanah Tribune-Chief is the victim of such a thing, we wonder where the war in Europe will end. In the magazine section now coming to the Brand's exchange dump, there are three or four good articles, well written and illustrated, but all of this is entirely offset by the some 220 inches of advertisements.

Knowing the position of the Tribune-Chief on this subject and having heard him say in open meeting that he would not take an ad for less than 20 cents per inch and that he always refused patent-medicine stuff, we are at a loss to know how the solicitor "put one by" Harry when he signed the contract to circulate for nothing, or perhaps he pays the syndicate something for the supplement. This 220 inches of ads from everywhere, if figured at the rate charged the local man for space, would amount to about $45.00 per week. We doubt the wisdom of abusing a newspaper's postal privileges by taking on a fake supplement.

Premium For Missing Papers.

On account of the demand for certain numbers of the Brand, we have exhausted all copies of those issues, even giving out our files. Desiring to keep a complete file, we will credit your subscription with six months time for each paper, if any one will send in the missing numbers. The numbers wanted are of June 17 and 26, July 3, 10 and 17, all 1914. If you have any of the dates, please bring them to this office and bring the papers in. The first one reporting that they have such numbers will be given the credit.

Ingersoll at the Tomb of Napoleon

"A little while ago I stood by the grave of the old Napoleon—a magnificent tomb of gilt and gold, fit almost for a deity dead—and gazed upon the sarcophagus of rare and nameless marble, where rests at last the ashes of that restless man. I leaned over the balustrade and thought about the career of the greatest soldier of the modern world. I saw him walking upon the banks of the Seine, contemplating suicide. I saw him at Toulon. I saw him putting down the mob in the streets of Paris. I saw him at the head of the army in Italy. I saw him crossing the bridge at Lodi with the tricolor in his hand. I saw him in Egypt, in the shadow of the pyramids. I saw him conquer the Alps and saw him mingle the eagles of France with the eagles of the crags. I saw him at Marengo, at Ulm and at Austerlitz. I saw him in Russia when the infantry of the snow and the cavalry of the wind blast scattered his legions like winter's withered leaves. I saw him in Leipzig in defeat and disaster—driven by 1,000,000 bayonets back upon Paris—clutched like a wild beast—banished to Elba. I saw him escape and retake an empire by the force of his genius. I saw him upon the frightful field of Waterloo, where Chance and Fate combined to wreck the fortunes of their former king. And I saw him at St. Helena, with his hands crossed behind him, gazing out upon the sad and solemn sea. I thought of the widows and orphans he had made, and of the tears that had been shed for his glory, and of the only woman who ever loved him pushed from his heart by the cold hand of ambition. And I said I would rather have been a French peasant and worn wooden shoes; I would rather have lived in a hut with a vine growing over the door and the grapes growing purple in the amorous kisses of the autumn sun; I would rather have been that poor peasant, with my wife by my side knitting as the day died out of the sky, with my children upon my knees and their arms about me; I would rather have been this man and gone down to the tongueless silence of the dreamless dust than to have been that imperial personation of force and murder known as Napoleon the Great."

Grades of Sudan Grass.

The Texas Experiment association at its third annual meeting during the 17th Farmers' Congress at College Station established five grades of Sudan grass, covering all plantings to be found in Texas at this time. The idea of the association in setting the standards as it did was with the view to the future improvement of the grass rather than the present condition of the crop. The standards established by the association follow:

- No. 1—Creambul. Shall be pure creambul type and must contain no seed or blood of blackbul stain.
- No. 2—Creambul with not to exceed five per cent blackbul. Shall contain no other strains than those mentioned, and shall include creambul which possesses blackbul blood.
- No. 3—Creambul with more than five per cent blackbul. Shall contain no other strains than those mentioned, and shall include creambul which possesses creambul blood.
- No. 4—Creambul containing blackbul and sorghum hybrids.
- No. 5—Sorghum grass containing Johnson grass seed or blood of Johnson grass.

The foregoing information will be printed on the back side of each tag used by the associations. Each local association will tag each package of seed sold with the following information:

"—Pounds Sudan grass seed.
(No. 1, Creambul) for instance. Guaranteed by John Doe, Grower, —, Texas.)

Grown and classified under the rules of the Texas Experiment association.

Field inspected by the inspection committee, — County Experiment association, —, Texas.

As a matter of education the association will print the full classification of grades of this seed on the back side of the tags used on each package. In a year or two every farmer in the state should know these classifications, for use in either buying or selling this seed.

It is hardly probable that a single field will be found in Texas at this time which will yield seed that will be classified under No. 1, Creambul, pure. This type is absolutely free of all other seeds and strains of different types from Creambul. No. 2 will possibly include the bulk of this year's crop. It is doubtful if any one should buy Sudan grass seed of a grade lower than No. 2 if he has in view the growing of Sudan grass for seed. Grades No. 3 and 4 will be found satisfactory for hay production, and may be used for seed production if the grower is willing to spend three or four years in eliminating the hybrids and the blackbul type by roguing or selection. No. 5 should not be bought by any farmer whose farm is free from Johnson grass. It may be used, however, with satisfaction for hay production on farms already infested with Johnson grass. It is practically useless for any one this season to buy pure seed that would be classified under No. 1, Creambul, for the reason that little if any is to be had in the United States, and it is doubtful if there will be any great quantity of absolutely pure creambul available even in the fall of 1915. It should be available in abundance, however, by the fall of 1916. A word concerning the blackbul type may not be out of place just here. The purchaser of Sudan grass seed need not be greatly discouraged because of the fact that practically all the seed available this year contains a small percentage of these seed. Blackbul is simply a variety of Sudan grass which the experiment station men in their five years' observation of this crop do not consider so desirable as the creambul. Furthermore, if it is a desirable type, the experiment association membership and the officials of the experiment station desire to see the seed segregated and then sold upon its merits. Certainly it is not desirable to have a mixture of blackbul and creambul types. It is obviously undesirable to have any great percentage of sorghum hybrids represented, as they are irregular in habits of growth and do not mature simultaneously with the Sudan grass. The greatest precaution which should be taken both by the purchasers and the growers of Sudan grass should be to avoid the possibility of mixing the seed with that of Johnson grass. The necessity for caution against the distribution of Johnson grass is too obvious for elaboration here.

Attention should be called to the fact that though no blackbul seeds are apparent in the sample, still the type may be present in the seed, which will show up in the color of the hull in the succeeding crop. The members of the experiment association have agreed to tag their product as No. 2 if during the present year there were any plants of the blackbul type which were allowed to bloom and thus cross with the creambul.

Purchasers of Sudan seed should insist upon getting the name and address of the grower and the grade of seed as determined by the inspection committee of the local experiment association to which the grower belongs.

DON'T NURTURE YOUR LIVER WITH CALOMEL.

When your liver becomes torpid and sluggish, you can take calomel and whip it into action, but the calomel will leave your body weaker and sicker than ever. Calomel is a very powerful drug, a form of mercury, and need never be used because there is a perfect remedy to take the place of calomel, that has all of calomel's good medicinal effects with none of its dangerous and uncertain follow-ups. Its name is Dodson's Liver Tonic.

Betts & Clark sell Dodson's Liver Tonic with the guarantee that if you don't find that it treats you much better than calomel, they will give you your money back with a smile. Dodson's Liver Tonic is a true tonic for the liver, purely vegetable, and with such a pleasant taste that it is no trouble to get children to take it. It is absolutely impossible for it to do anyone any harm. It

Protect Stock From Flies.

The stable fly pest has always been more or less serious in reducing the flow of milk and thus cutting down the profits in dairying. Young animals are even more seriously affected, as they nearly always lose flesh and get in thin condition at this, the most critical condition. Horses and mules sometimes are greatly annoyed and not infrequently serious diseases are spread by means of flies. It is therefore important to protect the animals from these pests as much as possible.

The United States department has estimated that loss occasioned by reduction in the milk supply because of flies is not far short of $25,000 annually. This is a considerable loss, well worth saving.

Various preparations have been used in repelling flies, such, for instance, as cottonseed oil, crude petroleum, fish oil and light coal tar oil. But one of the best preparations seems to be that given by Jensen in 1909, according to the department of agriculture. It is as follows: Common laundry soap..... 1 pound

Water..... 4 gallons
Crude petroleum..... 1 gallon
Powdered naphthalin..... 4 ounces

Cut the soap into thin shavings and dissolve in water by the aid of heat; dissolve the naphthalin in the crude oil, mix the two solutions, put them into an old dasher churn, and mix thoroughly for 15 minutes. The mixture should be supplied once or twice a week with a brush. It must be stirred well before being used.

This is said to protect cows for a week. Don't say drug store say Corner Drug Store. 11t

No. 3.—A section of fine valley land in shallow water belt, raw land, worth $25.00 per acre right now, but a quick sale can get it for $10.00 per acre bonus. $2.00 due the state in 35 years. Will consider trade if property offered is worth the price asked.

No. 4.—A good 8-section ranch, half good valley land, fine location for sheep or cattle. Price $5.00 per acre bonus; 97 1/2 cents due state. Would consider some trade or cash will talk louder.

No. 5.—A fine section of shallow water land near the new town of Dawn, the place where irrigation farming is making great headway. The price will attract any man who wants a snap; terms part cash, balance on long time. No trade.

No. 6.—Another fine farm near Panhandle, Texas, has fine crop on it this year to show for itself. The price and terms will look good to any one who wants a fine wheat farm. No trade.

No. 7.—A fine quarter near Hereford, part under cultivation, suitable for irrigation as the water is shallow. It's a snap at $32.50. Several good irrigation wells in neighborhood.

No. 8.—A three section ranch in Deaf Smith goes at a bargain counter price to the party with some cash and brains enough to handle stock. If you want a good proposition, you can't afford to let this pass, but the price is too ridiculous to put in print. Pick this up. No agents need apply.

THE RURAL PREACHER

The Pastor Should Be a Director of the Moral, Economic and Social Life of the Community.

(By Peter Radford.)

The most indispensable servant to society is that of the ministry, for without the high moral precepts and lofty examples of those who walk and talk with God, man would be little more than an animal. These divinely commissioned custodians of virtue and masters of the forces of civilization have leavened human nature, sweetened humanity and given life its savor, but their glorious achievements of the past are eclipsed by the marvelous possibilities of the new rural civilization now confronting them, ushering in a new world of usefulness.

Strong Leadership Needed.

A human life can best be measured by service and the preacher is divinely appointed to teach and to serve. The rural church has in the main fulfilled its evangelical mission, but the economic and social requirements of the age now rest heavily upon it awaiting the leadership and inspiration of the church.

It is as much a part of the duty of a minister to inspire us to own a home on earth as it is to exhort us to build mansions in the skies; to persuade us to fill the mud holes from our homes to the church, as to preach of the golden streets of the new Jerusalem; to teach us how to find the markets as well as to teach us how to reach the holy city; to teach our young girls to wear modest clothing here on earth as well as to teach them to wear a crown in glory. To teach our young people how to play constructive games while they are here as well as to teach them to play on a harp with a thousand strings in the land beyond the grave; to teach us how to live as well as to teach us how to pray.

There must be a readjustment of the evangelical and an extension of institutional work of the church. The frailties of human nature strongly attracted the pioneer pastor and pity has flowed freely for the life with sin, but the building of individual character and training of the emotions of human life are entitled to more earnest consideration.

The farmer needs the personal touch of the pastor. He seldom comes in direct contact with his hallowing influence except when he is baptized, married and buried. It is a time-honored custom for our pastors to visit their rural congregations once a month, preach a sermon, take up a collection, eat dinner and hurry back to the city. We approve it all, except hurrying back to the city. To interpret the life of the farmer and construct Christian character in the community, the pastor must live with us and share our trials and tribulations.

Constructive Work for the Pastor
There is an emptiness in the life of rural communities and we want preachers who can weave into the social fibre educational pastimes, profitable pleasures and instructive amusements. Too often we find the games of our young people a search for a suggestion in immorality and a stepping stone to sin. The pastor should supervise the growing lives of young people, approve their amusements, create expressions of joy and pleasure that make for Christian character and bless their lives with Christian modesty.

A pastor in a neighborhood studying the economic, social, moral and educational problems of the community, presenting fresh visions of potential possibilities and native power with beauty and new meaning, interpreting the thought-life of the community and administering to their daily needs will contribute more toward the advancement of a locality than a dozen preachers who occupy the pulpit at irregular intervals, preaching on subjects foreign to the life of the community.

Too long has the farm furnished the cities with their great preachers until today the rural church is the gang-way to city pulpits. The current should be reversed. The power of the pulpit is most needed in the country where the fundamental forces of human life originate and where human nature buds and blossoms into a glorious fruition.

Why Rural Churches Languish.

The destiny of a rural church is inseparably associated with the economic and social progress of the community. If a community is content with poor crops and bad farming methods, the church attains only a small amount of success or fails altogether. If a community employs modern farming methods, improved farming machinery and builds good roads, the result will be shown not only in material benefits but the church will attain the highest degree of success. You can build a city on a rock or even on the sand, but you can't build a rural church in a non-progressive community. No church is more prosperous than the country which supports it and the pastor cannot build his church without first building the community.

Many a rural church is languishing or has died altogether because of bad economics and many pastors have found that it takes work as well as prayers to make their church a success.

DOUBT CAN NOT EXIST

How can doubt exist in the face of such evidence? Read here the endorsement of a representative citizen of Hereford.

J. D. Burkett, 300 E. Second St., Hereford, Texas, says: "I suffered from sharp twinges through the small of my back, especially when I stooped or lifted. I was caused much annoyance by a frequent desire to pass the kidney secretions. Since I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Woodburn & Son's Drug Store, I have been free from these ailments. I have often suggested a trial of Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

Out of the Ordinary is the Great London Shows.

"Something out of the ordinary" is a remark that can properly be made of Howe's London Shows which will exhibit in Hereford Thursday, Sept. 24.

This big show has a reputation for producing remarkable surprises until the public has learned that it can attend an exhibition of the Great London Show expecting to see something new and different.

There is an unusual number of features with this show this season. It is difficult to pick the best. Some will like the trained wild beasts' exhibition or horse wonders. Others will prefer the Zanfretta Family, Meredith Troupe, the Lowandes, the Glasgow Royal Horses, the Elite Troupe, while some will spend most of their time laughing at the host of clowns, listening to the Julius Winslow famous band, enjoying the races, admiring the animals or petting the beautiful Dublin Braze Horses. No matter which way one looks while under any one of the Howe's Tents, he is sure to see something out of the ordinary.
