PITCHING BRONCHOS AND SLEEK CHIHUAHUA STEERS PLEASE ROUNDUP CROWD

WICKED PITCHING HORSES AND AGILE, FAT STEERS UNSEAT SEVERAL RIDERS FOR CROWD'S AMUSEMENT

WHITEFACES WIN TWO MORE GAMES

White Deer Aggregation Proves no Match for Hereford Diamond Men; Dan Miller Throws Steer From Automobile; Big Crowds Watch Sports

It is conservatively estimated that fully 5,000 people were in Hereford on July 1 and 2, drawn here by the attractions offered by the Second Roundup of the 1920 season. Practically everything in town closed up during the afternoons of both days, and the ball games, bronc busting, calf branding, goat roping and steer riding was heavily attended and hugely enjoyed, in spite of torrid weather and a blistering sun.

The particular Roundup was distinguished by the number and pitching force of the brones imported for the occasion, a lot of good riders being spilled all over the prairie, and by the vicious bucking of those Chihuahua steers, that had been given a month's quiet grazing to condition them. In other words a lot of exceptionally good riders were pitted against a bunch of exceptionally fine pitching horses and steers, and the result was some dandy good riding and a lot of hard spills.

Perhaps the all around work of Hoz Williams, of New Mexico, was the outstanding feature. The White Deer baseball team was no match for the Whitefaces, and were easily beaten in both contests.

The affair was a decided success from every standpoint, and Manager Parcell is being congratulated upon its successful outcome.

First Day
Afternoon—Steer Riding: Leon Porter, Hereford, first; Slim Taylor, Hereford, second; Dan Miller, Oklahoma, third. Only three men out of twelve who entered were able to ride these calico fellows.

Steer Roping: O. B. Jackson, Ende, N. M., first; Clay Neal, Dalhart, second; Chick Northcutt, Tulsa, third.

Horse Riding—Hoz Williams, New Mexico, first; Dan Miller, second; Cooper Crane, Silverton, third. Three riders were thrown in this affair.

Goat Roping—Hoz Williams, first; Lem Chesher, Hereford, second; Clay Neal, third.

The White Deer ball team was taken into camp by the Whitefaces 9 to 1 after the Roundup features had been finished. Curtsinger held the visitors well in hand throughout a seven inning contest, while the locals pounded the opposing pitcher hard.

Second Day
The second game of baseball was played in the forenoon of the second day, with Hereford again the victor by the score of 6 to 3. This contest was more evenly balanced and was a better exhibition all around than the one of the day before.

Relay Race—This was a dandy, a nip and tuck affair, with three entries, with Rider Burns of Wildorado nosing out a close victory.

Steer Riding—Slim Taylor, first; Dan Miller, second. Those steers were too pesky and no third rider could qualify.

Bull Dogging from Horse—Leon Porter successfully executed this stunt, throwing his steer in ten seconds flat.

A girl rider from the Devils Lake community then rode the bronc with which Hoz Williams took first prize the day before. She was a real horse-woman and got away with it in nice style.

Bronc Riding—Hoz Williams again took first money, with Shorty Price of New Mexico, second. No third rider qualified.

Calf Branding—O. B. Jackson threw his calf and branded him in fifty-five and a fifth seconds, taking first money. Dud Reed, of New Mexico, was second.

Goat Roping—Roy McMurtrie, Tulsa, first; Newt Gray, Tulsa, second; O. B. Jackson, third.

Steer Roping—Roy McMurtrie, first; Clay Neal, second, O. B. Jackson, third.

HENRY WILKINSON AND FAMILY GONE ON VACATION TRIP

Henry Wilkinson, president of the First State Bank & Trust Co., Mrs. Wilkinson and children left Hereford Wednesday morning for a vacation in California, via Colorado. San Francisco is their objective point, where Mrs. Wilkinson hopes to secure some relief from hay fever.

LIGHTNING HITS CONNELL'S WHEAT STACKS HARD BLOW

A flash of lightning during the rain-storm of Tuesday night struck the wheat ricks on the Ed Connell farm five miles north of town and destroyed two of the six stacks on the place. Mr. Connell estimates that the loss amounts to about fifteen acres.

The flash came about ten o'clock and Douglass Connell was awakened and saw the blaze. Wet wagon sheets were put on the remaining stacks, held in place by pitchforks, and buckets of water thrown over them until the danger from the blazing stacks was past.

Confederate Pension Fund Items Fully Explained

County Judge Hughes is in receipt of a letter from the State Comptroller giving detailed information about the Confederate Pension Fund.

A tax of five cents on the hundred dollars valuation is levied in this county for this fund, while there are only five or six pensioners drawing any of this money back, the bulk of it going into the state fund. There are many ex-soldiers, or their dependents, in this county entitled to a pension who will not apply for it, owing to their pride. The State Treasurer's letter follows: "In compliance with a resolution passed by the House of Representatives June 8, 1 submit the following information relative to the Confederate Pension Fund:

"There are now 15,768 pensioners on the rolls, a decrease of 814 for same date last year. Pensioners have received $23.00 per quarter for the last five quarterly payments.

"Balance on hand at beginning of fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1919, $505,071.45. Receipts during year, $1,365,799.05. Disbursements for year, $1,484,918.25.

"At the close of last quarter, May 31, 1920, there was a balance of $753,043.46 in the State Treasury to the credit of the Confederate Pension Fund, with warrants outstanding to the amount of $362,664.

"With the apportionment for this quarter fixed at $23.00 there would remain in the Treasury at the close of this fiscal year possibly $40,000.00, therefore I have increased the payment for this quarter to $24.00 that those who are enjoying this meager benefit may receive every dollar available.

"The Pension Fund is equally distributed between all beneficiaries, and can be drawn upon only for the payment of Quarterly Pension Warrants, and Mortuary Warrants issued after the death of a pensioner. Not one dollar of the Fund is expended for clerk hire, postage, or other expense."

WIN ONE GAME AT CLOVIS BUT LOSE A COUPLE LATER

The Hereford Whitefaces won a game on last Saturday from the Clovis Elks at Clovis by the score of 7 to 5, and lost Sunday and Monday games at the same place by the scores of 12 to 11 and 7 to 1.

Local fans returned home much disgusted with Sunday's game, declaring that the Cleveland Americans could not have won a ball game at Clovis Sunday under the conditions confronting the Hereford crowd. Monday's game was played under protest, the statement being made that Clovis refused to pay any expense money for the trip unless the game was played.

James A. Thomas has purchased an interest in the Smith Service Car Station and is now in partnership with W. T. Smith. The two have their headquarters at Guy Smith's Shine Parlor, and are operating two cars instead of one as heretofore.

Longest Day of the Year

GOVERNOR COX OF OHIO IS NOMINATED FOR PRESIDENT BY DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION; ROOSEVELT IS RUNNING MATE

James M. Cox, governor of Ohio, was nominated for President of the United States by the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco at 1:40 a. m. July 6. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, assistant secretary of the Navy, was nominated for vice president at another session later on in the day.

Governor Cox's nomination came at the conclusion of the forty-fourth ball-lot. Mr. Roosevelt's nomination came without serious opposition. The three-cornered struggle between Cox, McAdoo and Palmer was a deadlock until the early morning hours of Tuesday. For a time it appeared as though neither of the three could possibly win and that a dark horse was inevitable.

The Texas delegation, led by Tom Love of Dallas, Cone Johnson of Tyler and Governor Hobby, stayed with Mc-Adoo from the first ballot to the last, only yielding and joining in the unanimous vote when that step was inevitable. Throughout the long, hot struggle the Texas men and the Texas flag were prominent in every demonstration made for the former secretary of the treasury.

The nominee for the vice presidency is a distant cousin of Theodore Roosevelt, and has displayed some of the same fighting tendencies in public life.

GROVER SANDERS LOSES HOME FROM FIRE ON THURSDAY

The home of Grover Sanders, about one mile north of the town section, was totally destroyed by fire Thursday morning.

A kettle of dip had been placed on the fire to thin down, and the family were out of the house, around the barn lot, for about thirty minutes. Mr. Sanders was preparing to get a load of feed when he noticed the fire. The blaze had secured such a start that all efforts to put it out were unavailing and the house and contents were a total loss. Mr. Sanders broke open a window and made one attempt to save a trunk.

The windmill also burned, although the barn and other outbuildings were saved after hard work. No insurance was carried.

DESTRUCTIVE HAIL HITS CASTRO CO., DAMAGE IS HEAVY.

Just before going to press Thursday morning The Brand was informed that in the storm of the night before Dimmitt and vicinity was visited by the most destructive hail in the history of the county. It was reported that hail fell four and five inches on the level in places. The entire crop in the path of the storm, including oats, wheat, row crops, and leaves on the trees, shingles and plate glass were badly shattered. Unconfirmed reports have it that Glibreath Bros., C. H. Clifton, J. O. Ayers, Patton Bros., John Carter and many others were heavy losers.

The Brand was unable to secure accurate details before going to press.

Miss Elizabeth, who has been attending school at Texas Christian University at Fort Worth, joined her mother and sister at Comanche and came on home with them.

They report a delightful family reunion but dreadfully warm weather in Central Texas.

CHRISTIAN REVIVAL WILL BEGIN SUNDAY

REV. W. C. COLE OF DES MOINES, IOWA IS THE PREACHER

WIFE TO ASSIST Is Singer and Personal Worker; Singers of City Asked to Help

The Rev. John M. Asbell, of the First Christian Church announces that beginning next Sunday the annual Revival of his church will start, with the Rev. W. C. Cole, Evangelist of Des Moines, Iowa, in charge. Mrs. Cole, singer and personal worker, will assist her husband during the meeting.

Rev. Cole comes to Hereford heralded as a magnetic preacher, an earnest Christian and a "good fellow" personality. He has been holding many successful meetings over this country, during the course of which he has won many souls to Christ.

Rev. Asbell requests The Brand to ask the singers of the city to aid all they can in this meeting, and adds that he knows from past experience that he can count on their help.

Rev. T. G. Nance Signally Honored By Church Ladies

Perhaps no event within the life of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Christian Church has been more expressive of tender regard for one of its members, than was the beautiful service enjoyed Wednesday, in honor of Rev. T. G. Nance, a life member of the society.

Brother Nance always enjoys the missionary meetings although the condition of his health has long prevented his attending; so this program was planned for his own home and included the features of the regular monthly meeting. Seated in a handsome leather Morris chair, which had been presented to him just before the opening of the meeting, by the men of the congregation, and adding at times his own words of counsel and helpfulness, the loved pastor, devoted missionary worker, kindly neighbor, and honor guest of the occasion, was an inspiration to the following program:

Hymn—"My Jesus I Love Thee."
Prayer.
Business.
Solo—Mrs. W. E. Dameron.
The "Love" Chapter of the Bible—Mrs. E. Gough.
Paper—"The New Era in Woman's Day"—Mrs. Claude Ricketts.
Paper—"The New Era in Woman's Work"—Mrs. J. E. Ferguson.
Special Music—Messdames Stockman, Shaw, Smith and Guthrie.

Following the program, the president made a short talk, expressing the society's appreciation of the work of Brother Nance and presenting to him in its behalf a beautiful pillow embroidered in the lavender and white of the C. W. B. M. A touching prayer was offered by Mrs. Asbell and then a brief response in "The characteristic kindly manner of the honoree, closed the program.

A social hour, in which ice cream and cake were served, was an added pleasure and concluded an afternoon that will long be remembered by the large number of guests who enjoyed it and who, together with many Hereford friends wish for Brother Nance many more days of pleasure and usefulness.

TWO RAINS BRING NEEDED MOISTURE; WIRE LINES DOWN

The severe warm and dry weather of the past week or two was broken Tuesday night when three tenths of an inch of rain fell in Hereford proper and much heavier precipitation was recorded in spots over the surrounding country. Some wind and lightning accompanied the rainfall.

On Wednesday night another and heavier rain visited the community, also accompanied by wind, thunder and lightning. The official gauge in Hereford gave a little over a half inch. It seemed to be much heavier to the north and east. Owing to the fact that telephone toll lines are down it has been impossible to get an accurate report on the extent of the rain. The city was plunged into darkness for a few hours Wednesday night during the storm, the usual splendid electric light service being hampered for the time being by the lightning.

CLEARLY STATED

The Democratic platform drawn at San Francisco is a comprehensive document presenting to the country in a straightforward fashion the pressing issues of the day and a definite program of specific pledges to the redemption of which the party dedicates itself in the event the people continue to entrust it with power. But the overshadowing issue presented, the one which presents a fundamental line of cleavage between the two parties, is given in the first section of the platform. It is a clear statement of the issue raised by the peace treaty and an unequivocal declaration in favor of ratification. It contains within itself a definitely outlined statement of the situation and of the inescapable arguments in favor of the stand of the President and of the Democratic party. Because of its overshadowing importance, we reprint it here in full. Here is what the Democratic party declares on the treaty issue.

"The Democratic party favors the League of Nations as the surest, if not the only practicable way of maintaining the permanent peace of the world and naval establishments.

"It was for this America broke away from traditional isolation and spent her blood and treasure to crush a colossal scheme of conquest. It was upon this basis that the President of the United States in rearrangement with our Allies, consented to a suspension of hostilities against the imperial German government; the armistice was granted and a peace treaty negotiated upon the definite assurance to Germany as well as to the powers pitted against Germany, that a general association of nations must be formed, under specific covenants, for the purpose of affording mutual guarantees of political integrity to great and small states alike. Hence we not only congratulate the President on the vision manifested and the vigor exhibited in the prosecution of the war, but we felicitate him and his associates on the exceptional achievements at Paris involved in the adoption of a league and treaty so near akin to previously expressed American ideals and so intimately related to the aspirations of civilized peoples everywhere.

"We commend the President for his courage and his high conceptions of good faith in steadfastly standing for the covenant agreed to by all the Associated and Allied Nations at war with Germany, and we condemn the Republican Senate for its refusal to ratify the treaty merely because it was the product of Democratic statesmanship, thus interposing partisan envy and personal hatred in the way of the peace and renewed prosperity of the world.

"By every accepted standard of international morality the President is justified in asserting that the honor of the country is involved in this business; and we point to the accusing fact that, before it was determined to initiate political antagonism to the treaty, the now Republican chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee himself publicly proclaimed that any proposition for a separate peace with Germany, such as he and his party associates thereafter reported to the Senate, would make us guilty of the blackest crime.

"On May 15 last, the Knox substitute for the Versailles Treaty was passed by the Republican Senate, and this convention can conceive of no more fitting characterization of its obloquy than that made in the Forum Magazine of December, 1918, by Henry Cabot Lodge, when he said:

"If we send our armies and young men abroad to be killed and wounded in Northern France and Flanders with no result but this, our entrance into the war with such an intention was a crime which nothing can justify.

"The intent of Congress and the intent of the President was that there could be no peace until we could create a situation where no such war as this could recur. We cannot make peace except in company with our Allies. It would brand us with everlasting dishonor and bring ruin to us also if we undertook to make a separate peace."

"Thus to that which Lodge, in earlier moments considered 'the blackest crime' he and his party in madness sought to give sanctity of law; that which eighteen months ago was of 'everlasting dishonor'—the Republican party and its candidates today accept as the essence of faith.

"We enforce the President's view of our international obligations and his firm stand against reservations designed to cut to pieces the vital provisions of the Versailles Treaty and we commend the Democrats in Congress for voting against reservations for separate peace which would disgrace the Nation. We advocate the immediate ratification of the treaty without reservations which would impair its essential integrity; but do not oppose the acceptance of any reservations making clearer or more specific the obligations of the United States to the league associates. Only by doing this may we retrieve the reputation of this Nation among the powers of the earth and recover the moral leadership which President Wilson won and which Republican politicians at Washington sacrificed. Only by doing this may we hope to aid effectively in the restoration of order throughout the world and to take the place which we would assume in the front rank of spiritual, commercial and industrial advancement.

"We reject as utterly vain, if not vicious, the assumption that ratification of the treaty and membership in the League of Nations would in any wise impair the integrity or independence of our country. The fact that the covenant has been entered into by twenty-nine nations all as jealous of their independence as we are of ours, is a sufficient repudiation of such charge. The President repeatedly has declared, and this convention reaffirms that all our duties and obligations as a member of the League must be fulfilled in strict conformity with the Constitution of the United States, embodied in which is the fundamental requirement of declaratory action by the Congress before this Nation may become a participant in any war."

The Republican party cannot dodge the issue so definitely declared. Irrespective of what interpretation is sought to be placed upon the ambiguous Republican plank on the League of Nations, this plank fixes the issue. The campaign will be fought out on the basis here laid down.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Grasshoppers

Farmers report more grasshoppers this year than usual, and in some places they have attacked the crops. For the most part they have been eating the tender grass and letting the crops alone, but in a few instances they have left the grass and gone to the corn and maize. A few crops have had to be planted over. No very serious trouble is anticipated, but a number of farmers have been making inquiries as to how to combat them in case they should show up in damaging numbers.—Dalhart Texan.

Grasshopper Bait

The mixture known as the poisoned bran bait has proved to be a simple, reliable, and cheap method of destroying grasshoppers, and has been applied with signal success throughout many portions of the United States. It is made as follows: Wheat bran, 25 pounds; Paris green or white arsenic, 1 pound; lemons or oranges, 6 finely chopped; fruits; low-grade molasses, such as refuse from sugar factories, or cattle molasses, known as "black strap," 2 quarts; water, 2 to 4 gallons. The bran and poison are thoroughly mixed while dry, the fruits are then finely chopped and added, and lastly the molasses and water are poured over the bait and the whole thoroughly kneaded. A coarse-flake bran is most desirable, altho where this cannot be obtained easily ordinary middlings or alfalfa meal may be substituted; a low grade, strong smelling sirup or molasses, however, is essential to the entire success of the undertaking. Crushed ripe tomatoes, watermelons, or limes may be substituted for the lemons or oranges, if necessary. In dry weather water should be added to the bait at the rate of 4 gallons to 25 pounds of the bran, as in dry weather the bait dries out very rapidly and the extra moisture is necessary in order to attract the grasshoppers. Five to seven pounds of the mixture should be estimated per acre.—U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Birthday Dinner

A delightful observance of the nation's birthday on last Sunday, also celebrated the birthdays of Mrs. J. E. Cockrell and Mr. J. M. Robinson, highly esteemed citizens of the community just north of town, they being honor guests at a magnificent birthday dinner.

The hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Kibbe was thrown open for the occasion and with its spacious grounds and luxuriant shade, it furnished an ideal spot for the large gathering of friends and neighbors who shared its kindly welcome. Most of the party attended eleven o'clock services, going from church to the Kibbe home where about one o'clock the dinner was served.

The sheltering boughs of the two rows of trees between which the long tables were placed formed a canopy of green which emphasized the attractiveness of the pretty tables and furnished a shade so deep and cool that the intense heat of noonday was forgotten.

Fried chicken, fresh vegetables, salads, pickles, cake and ice cream, with iced tea and lemonade, completed the most appetizing menu.

During the afternoon, a musical program befitting the occasion was enjoyed.

The day with its expression of regard for the honor guests, and its spirit of kindly community feeling, gave pleasure to the following guests: J. M. Robinson and family, J. E. Cockrell and family, W. A. Knox and family, Chas. McNeerney and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bowers and son, Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Edmondson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curtis, Mrs. Katherine McNeerney, Mrs. M. J. Hoover and Miss Iva Hoover, of Tuttle, Oklahoma; Dr. and Mrs. Heard, Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie and son, Keith, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Reed, Mrs. E. H. Roberts, of Cisco, Miss Lucy Reed, Tilman, Omer, Julius and Margaret Olson, Bernard Hoover, and Miss Pearl Miller, of Hurley, Texas.

Lawn Fete

One of the prettiest parties of the past week was the lawn fete: given Thursday, July first, by Miss Eloise Pitman, honoring Misses Hazel and Cecil O'Brien, Catherine Smith, Frances Hall, Maurine Kellow and Mr. Tom Durham, all of Amarillo, Miss Hazel McQueen, of Muskogee, Oklahoma, and Byron Ashwander, of Alabama.

The natural beauty of the lawn at the Pitman home was enhanced by a pretty arrangement of electric lights which cast a rosy glow over the velvet grass and trailing vine and brought out the colorings of fragrant roses. Tables were placed for forty-two and later a number of outdoor games were enjoyed.

An ice course, consisting of Angel food cake with brick cream, was served, sweet peas being used as favors. The evening pleasures were shared by about twenty-five guests.

Banking Party

Mrs. F. T. Roloson delightfully entertained a party of girls Saturday complimentary to Miss Hazel McQueen, of Muskogee, Oklahoma, who is the guest of Hereford friends.

A line party to the Star Theatre, followed by a dainty buffet luncheon served at the Roloson home, were enjoyable features of the early evening, later a banking party furnishing the jolliest possible entertainment until breakfast time next morning.

The merrymaking was concluded with a delicious breakfast served by the hostess, to Misses Olive, Victoria, and Katherine Wilson, Sena Mae and Mattie Mounts, Gladys Hicks, and Hazel McQueen.

Camping Trip

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Posey entertained a number of Amarillo relatives with a week-end camping trip, as a fourth of July celebration.

They motored to Sulphur Park on Saturday evening, taking a complete camp equipment including "chuck" for a two days' outing. The late evenings and early mornings proved ideal for fishing, the catch providing fish for the entire neighborhood near the Posey home. Several good bass were caught as well as literally hundreds of perch.

The party included the families of R. A. Key and Euclid Fuqua, and Mrs. M. E. Fuqua, all of Amarillo, Mr. Clyde Fuqua, and E. B. Posey and family.

Visits at Kibbe Home

Miss Evelyn Miller, of Hurley, Texas, was the guest of Miss Lora Kibbe the latter part of last week and a number of informal affairs were enjoyed by the young people of the neighborhood, in her honor.

One of the pleasantest of these was an afternoon spent visiting the irrigating wells followed by a picnic supper. Saturday was spent in Canyon visiting school friends. Sunday afternoon a kodaking party was enjoyed.

Miss Miller returned to her home Monday morning.

Parent-Teacher Club

Attendance at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Club on Friday was unusually small and it is hoped that next Friday's meeting will have a full attendance of members and others who are interested.

The civic work undertaken by the club is especially needed during the hot months and much can be accomplished if all work together.

Williams-Givens

Last Sunday afternoon Bill Williams and Miss Ethel Givens motored to Canyon, Texas, where they were married, in the presence of relatives and friends. Miss Williams will be remembered as one of Hereford's well known citizens, while Miss Givens lives in Tulsa. Both parties have many friends in and around Hereford who extend their hearty congratulations.

Mrs. Arnold Entertained

A number of the friends of Mrs. B. S. Arnold, of Amarillo, were entertained informally in her honor Sunday afternoon by Mrs. Edgar Betts.

The party included Mrs. H. H. Hawkins, Mrs. J. H. Pitman, Mrs. J. Frank Potts, Mrs. D. C. Laird, and Miss Mattie Woodburn.

Amarillo Visitors

Mrs. B. S. Arnold and son, William Bernard, and Messrs. Russell Newbold and George Vineyard came down from Amarillo Sunday and visited with Hereford friends until Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Arnold and baby were guests of Mrs. J. E. Ferguson.

Visit in Woodburn Home

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Cayton and Guydelle Woodburn, of Claude, were house guests in the home of Colonel E. T.

Woodburn for the week-end. The party came by auto Thursday and returned to Claude Monday morning.

ARE WE VERY LAW ABIDING

The following article by Mrs. Joe B. Smith, read before the recent Woman's Missionary Conference held at Hereford, is reproduced here by special request:

Our Texas State Laws assess a fine of not less than $10.00 nor more than $100.00 for the selling of tobacco, in any form, to boys under sixteen years of age.

Boys, eight, ten, twelve, and some younger and some older may be seen any day smoking on the streets and in the back of our towns. Where do they get these cigarettes or tobacco to fill their pipes? Do parents consent to them buying, do they give it to them, do they steal it, lie for it, or does some dealer violate the law?

Fifteen hundred boys every day of the year previous to our entering the late war began the cigarette habit. The number each year since has increased alarmingly. Speakers before the Southern Sociological Congress in Houston, several years ago, said, "Tobacco is the greatest enemy with which the Public schools have to combat." Boys who begin smoking even after they enter high school become unruly and less efficient in their work. Tobacco lessens mental as well as physical efficiency. Fifty to eighty per cent of all high school boys smoke. Ninety per cent of all boys who fail in grammar and high school are smokers. Do the above figures help to answer the "why do we see the girls in a family make good in the world while boys in the same family are failures?"

China, heathen China, has a law saying, "No boys or girls under eighteen years of age shall be allowed to smoke cigars or cigarettes. Any military or naval man using it shall be punished. The use of cigars and cigarettes in all government schools shall be strictly prohibited." The Japanese laws forbid the use of tobacco by boys and girls under age.

Tobacco causes deafness, blindness, cancer, tuberculosis, insanity, apoplexy, heart disease, and gives to babies whose fathers are addicted to its use, weakened hearts.

Would boys ever have wanted to smoke had they not seen men smoking?

$58,060 NORMAL APPROPRIATIONS

The West Texas State Normal College was given $58,060 in the appropriation bill which was passed by the special session of the legislature for the educational institutions of Texas. The only reduction made by the legislature from the amounts asked for by President J. A. Hill, was in the question of salaries all of the schools having asked for an increase of twenty five per cent in salaries, and the legislature allowed but twenty per cent increase. Mr. Hill asked for two additional instructors for departments which are now overcrowded, but these were cut out by the legislature.

One of the items of the appropriation is for the equipping of an infirmary for the school. A trained nurse has already been employed by Mr. Hill for the coming year, and with this appropriation a building will be fitted to care for sick students.

Several new teachers are to be added to the faculty on account of resignations during the past year but no selections have yet been made as Mr. Hill wished to await the action of the legislature in regard to the question of salaries. Miss Elizabeth Davis who came to the school in the spring quarter has been given a permanent position in the English department during the past week.—Randall County News.

320 acres will improve, 6 miles from Hereford, extra shallow water. $40.00 per acre, some terms at 5 1-2 per cent interest. The best land in the Panhandle. 320 A., well improved, 4 miles from Hereford. $35.00 per acre. Terms.

160 acres, 1 1-2 miles from Hereford at $65.00. Well improved, extra fine place, you can't beat this buy in the Panhandle. 16 acres in edge of Hereford, extra well improved, at $4,500.00. The improvements alone would cost a third more than that today.

HANDS, ARMS, LIMBS ASLEEP

And Was Run-Down, Weak and Nervous, Says Florida Lady—Five Bottles of Cardui Made Her Well.

Kathleen, Fla.—Mrs. Dallas Prime, of this place, says: "After the birth of my last child... I got very much run-down and weakened, so much that I could hardly do anything at all. I was so awfully nervous that I could scarcely endure the least noise. My condition was getting worse all the time..."

I knew I must have some relief or I would soon be in the bed and in a serious condition for I felt so badly and was so nervous and weak I could hardly live. My husband asked Dr. Prime about my taking Cardui. He said, "It's a good medicine, and good for that trouble," so he got me 5 bottles. After about the second bottle I felt greatly improved... before taking it my limbs and hands and arms would go to sleep. After taking it, however, this poor circulation disappeared. My strength came back to me and I was soon on the road to health. After the use of about 5 bottles, I could do all my house-work and attend to my six children besides."

You can feel safe in giving Cardui a thorough trial for your troubles. It contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs, but is composed of mild, vegetable, medicinal ingredients with no bad after-effects. Thousands of women have voluntarily written, telling of the good Cardui has done them. It should help you, too. Try it. E 76

Palacios, Texas, July 1.—The Baptist Young People's Union, of Texas convened in its thirteenth Annual Assembly here June 29. Some 2,000 delegates have already registered, with hundreds of others fast making their way to the City by the Sea.

The Hereford delegation, composed of Misses Johnnie Estes, Margaret Estes, Clyde Wilson, Ruth Owen, Eddie Connell and Mary Hicks together with Mrs. Carl Gilliland and Mrs. Alex O. Thompson. Mrs. Thompson would pass as a sixteen year old miss were it not for the fact that she has so many friends of former encampments who know her, as the wife of Deaf Smith county's County Clerk. She has been instrumental in making the new delegates feel at home and in giving yells for the Hereford church.

CANADIAN WELL IS DOWN 3,000 FEET

The Fort Worth-Canadian Oil test well on the Shaller land reached the contract depth of 3,000 feet Tuesday, and thus completed the drilling contract without finding oil.

Reports are that the drill stopped in a very favorable formation, the most encouraging yet encountered. The log of the well shows a formation almost identical with the Ranger field, and many think that oil in paying quantities may be found at a depth between 3,200 and 3,500 feet.

As to what arrangements are contemplated for going deeper with the well, the Record has no information. It is to be hoped that with such a favorable showing that a real test may be made of the well to a depth of 4,000 feet, or at least until the present 3,000 foot formations have been fully tested out.—Canadian Record.

GREEN SORGHUM IS BAD ON MILK COWS

Expensive Food Driers

The purchase of expensive factory-made driers for fruits and vegetables often calls for an expenditure of several times the amount necessary to secure a good drier of either homemade or factory made type, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, which has made a study of the best types of driers for home use. The department has had its attention called to one drier now on the market selling at a price about five times what it would cost to construct a satisfactory substitute at home. While the interest which gardeners are everywhere manifesting in increased food production should result in increased use of driers, the department believes that a large money expenditure for such equipment ordinarily is not necessary.

For the benefit of those who prefer to make their own driers the department has published for free distribution pamphlets containing detailed information on the subject. One of the driers recommended is metal covered and is designed on a cookstove or small furnace. A less expensive cookstove drier, also recommended, is made of lath, wire screen, and canvas or heavy unbleached muslin. With either of these articles much of the garden's surplus can be conserved for winter use, thus materially reducing the food bills of the coming months.

LOCUST TREES AND THE DEADLY BORES

Lenthall Wyman, assistant state forester of Texas, has been in the city in the interest of saving the locust trees of Canyon from the bores which have attacked the trees. Mr. Wyman has made a careful survey of the trees in the city and states to the News that the trees can be saved with concerted action. He points out that there is no use for individuals to attempt to save the trees on his lots unless the whole town is in the campaign.

Mr. Wyman states that it is possible to raise locust tree in this section, but there will always be a fight to keep away from the bores. However, he advocates planting other trees which although slower in growth are less liable to be infested with bores. The trees which are recommended by his department after experiments in various sections of the Panhandle are green ash, American elm and silver maple.

Mr. Wyman states that whitewashing trees is more effective about the first of August than in the spring, which time is usually selected by the people of this section. He advocates whitewashing in both the summer and spring to strengthen the campaign against the bore.

During the first part of August the bore which has been working in the trees becomes a moth and flies out from the hole in the tree unless it is killed. It lights upon another tree, or a different part of the same tree where it has worked during the summer and lays a large number of eggs. If the tree has been properly whitewashed the moth will lay less eggs, and the likelihood of the eggs hatching will be less. In the spring if the trees are again whitewashed before the eggs are hatched, others of them will be killed. The only way to get the bore after it has hatched and gone into the trees, as is the case this time of the year, is to open the hole it has made into the tree, put a few drops of "high-life" into the hole and then seal the hole with putty or mud.

Mr. Wyman states that the bores were first discovered in Amarillo in 1914, being in a small section of the city. In 1918 the infested section had spread to such an extent that the city passed an ordinance compelling the use of high-life and whitewash, authorizing the city to have this done and assess the charges against the property if the owner neglected to do his duty. This ordinance was never enforced. Last year a big percent of the locust trees of the city died. The same will in Canyon unless concerted action is taken.

Mr. Wyman advocates cutting down all the badly infested trees at once. He urges that other trees be started so they will have a good start before the majority of the present locust trees die. However, he believes that the trees of Canyon can be saved if work is started at once. He has interviewed many citizens while in the city, attempting to get a large number of people interested in saving the trees of Canyon.

He advocates the following formula for whitewash:

- 3 lbs quick lime.
- 2 gallons of water.
- 1 oz. crude carbolic acid.
- 2 oz. caustic potash.

He gave another formula, which was not quite so popular, as follows: Portland cement and skimmed milk thinned to consistency of heavy paint.

105 BUSHELS OATS WILBARGER COUNTY

Marion B. Rhoads hold the banner yield record for oats in 1920, according to reports thus far received. Mr. Rhoads claims to have threshed out 105 1-2 bushels of oats to the acre. What is more, Mr. Rhoads is able to give the figures from the thresher register, as he watched it measured and know whereof he speaks.

This yield is considered extraordinary even in an extraordinarily good grain year. Other cases of high yields have been reported, both in the case of wheat and oats.—Vernon Record.

The MYSTERY of HARTLEY HOUSE

Clifford S. Raymond
Illustrated by Irwin Myerson Copyright by George H. Doran Co.

CHAPTER I.

Rain had been falling for five days when I first saw Hartley house. The place had so much local distinction that a village not far from the estate was named Hartley, for it.

Even when drizzled and dripping in a storm which had lasted for five days in late May, the spot was beautiful and charming; it had antiquity, that rare thing in a new land. Its two thousand acres, handsomely arranged for decorative and agricultural purposes, lay along the river bank, with an indented and interesting littoral where the river was two miles wide.

I had been an interne in St. Julian's hospital, and at the close of my last year Dr. Brownell had asked me if my arrangements would make it possible for me to undertake a case which he thought might be profitable and interesting to a young physician. It was that of Mr. Homer Sidney, the owner of Hartley house.

"I never saw so strange a will to live," said the doctor when he discussed the circumstances with me. "The old man is indomitable. For that reason he will live, for some tremendous reason of which I know nothing. It is enormous. You may live to see him die; I am afraid I shall not—and he is seventy and I am fifty."

I decided to accept. It may have been professional weakness, but in addition to the financial certainty offered there was a professional interest aroused. If Dr. Brownell were attracted by a human being's will to live there certainly was something superhumanly interesting about that human being.

The recollection of Hartley as I first saw it remains as an enduring impression. The long downpour of rain had given the place a spiritual accent. One felt as if the soul were saturated.

It is only occasionally in a normal mind that weather works a spiritual effect. I thought my mind was normal, but I felt the spiritual depression.

The way from the station for three miles was through ordinary American small farm land. Then it changed abruptly. Antiquity began to show. The driver said we were in the Hartley grounds.

I was so depressed by the rain, by my own uncertainty, by thinking over the decision I had made and seemed about to regret, by the dismal prospects—or at least the uncertain prospects—that I should have been glad for any sustaining human association. At the end of my journey I soon found such association and was thereafter happy in it, but approaching the place I was apprehensive. My driver had been, if not unapproachable, at least stupid and dismal.

It somewhat astonished me when suddenly he began to talk. We were then about a half mile from the house. "I wish you had come an hour earlier," he said.

"Why?" I asked. "I'm not a coward," said the driver, "—at least, no more than usual, but I don't like to be in here alone, and I've got to go home alone."

In a fashion he expressed what might have been my mood if I had known more of the place. I could sympathize with him. The rain had done this for me.

"What have you to be afraid of?" I asked. "Is something haunted around here?" It seemed as if no beautiful a spot ought to have this interest. He stopped his horse.

"I'm going back out of here like a scared pig," he said, "—that is, if the old horse can stand it. But you're going to live here for a while, and I'll stop a minute to show you where they say the ghost walks."

He pointed to where the river had eaten a substantial bit out of the bank, making a pool or tiny bay. The road, swerving toward the river here, was within thirty feet of it.

"It isn't natural for a man to kill his brother," said my driver, "and something unnatural comes of it. A man killed his brother there, and something unnatural has come of it. That's why I'll be just as well satisfied to let you to the house and myself back out of here before dark."

"Get along, then," I said. "It looks like an ordinary place to me." "To me too," said my driver. "And don't want it ever to look extraordinary."

"Who was killed there?" I asked. "You'll learn the story soon enough," said the driver, "if you're going to stay a this house. You'll learn it better than I can tell you."

At the great coach entrance of the old house I paid the driver and let him go. He was anxious to be gone. It was growing dark. Then I began ringing the bell.

At the third ringing there was a response, in the form of a servant, a man, butler or doorman, past middle age. He was crusty.

"What do you want?" he asked. I explained that I was Dr. Michelson and wanted nothing that I was not wanted for. I did not like his manner and was not inclined to ignore it or to propitiate him as ordinarily one would. He had, at first sight, an extraordinary power of exasperation. At the time, I did not understand my weakness, but afterward I did. The man was abnormal as an irritant.

Thus my appearance at Hartley house was so unfortunate that if the servant's contumacy and my resentment had had another moment, the door would have been slammed in my face and I should have been walking back to Hartley station. At that hesitant moment in my fortunes, a woman's voice intervened.

"Jed," it said, "who's there?" The servant opened the door wider, and I saw a lady, a South American, I thought.

"I am Dr. Michelson," I said. "Yes, doctor," she replied, "we have been expecting you. I am Mrs. Sidney. Where is your baggage?"

"I have only a handbag with me here," I said. "Come in," she said, "Jed will take it."

He did, but made me see the ill nature of his reception of me and of his duty. He had also, at the direction of Mrs. Sidney, to show me to my quarters.

"Jed," I said, in my room, "we have not made the best start for two people who may have to live together for some time."

I offered him a dollar as a peace offering. "Are you going to stay here?" he asked.

"I am supposed to," I said. "A dollar won't make you welcome," he said, and left me looking at the coin in my hand.

I was called to dinner and had it alone in a large dining room. When I had finished a maid told me that Mr. Sidney would be glad to see me if it were convenient for me—that he did not need me professionally, but that socially he would be delighted if I could come to him.

He was sitting in a large arm chair in a great room with a great fireplace. Later I perceived the fascinating details of the room, but just then Mr. Sidney had all my attention.

Dr. Brownell had told me of the remarkable will to live which I should find. It was instantly apparent. The old man was wonderfully alive. He was abrupt but smilingly and charmingly courteous. We talked for a quarter of an hour, casually. Then he said:

"I know you are tired, doctor." "Not at all," I said, interested to see more of him if I might.

"That's your good nature," he said. "And we certainly do not want to wear you out in one day. We only wanted to see you. We shall get better acquainted, and we hope you'll like us and be comfortable and happy here. We have a fashion of trying to be happy. We are going to say good night and allow you to settle yourself to new surroundings in privacy. It is the kindest thing we can do. Jed will show you to your room. Jed, take care of Dr. Michelson. Good night, doctor."

Mrs. Sidney stood beside Mr. Sidney as he was speaking. I had thought at first seeing her that she had been very beautiful and that now she was very unhappy. Seeing her again, I retained my first impressions.

Jed preceded me through corridors to my door and left me smiling. As he closed the door I thought I heard another sound than that of the clicking of the latch. I had. It was the throwing of a bolt on the outside; Jed had locked me in. I made sure of this by trying the door. It could not be opened. Here was an astonishing situation for a first night in a place. My impulse was to make a noise and ask for an explanation, but on second thought I did not. My room was on the second floor, and I saw, looking out of the window, that it would not be impossible to make a descent on the outside in an emergency. I decided not to begin my stay with a protest against any habits of the house or occurrences in it. In the night I was awakened out of a sound sleep with an idea that I had been disturbed by noises, but nothing I could hear sustained it, and I went to sleep again. I was up early, dressed and found that my door had been unbolted. I examined the outside of it for a bolt and had difficulty in finding one, so ingeniously had it been concealed. The knob seemed a part of the decoration of the panel, and the bolt was of thin steel. I found it only by finding the socket into which it could be shot.

The rain had stopped, and although the woods were dripping, there was a glorious, radiant sunlight. The effect was exhilarating. It worked a spiritual change. Man, said the morning, was made to be happy.

Exiting in pleasant emotions, I let myself out of the main door and rejoiced in the beauty of the place and the moment. I took a short walk across the lawn toward the woods. A gardener asked me if I were the new doctor and said if I had leisure during the day he wished I would come to the cottage beyond the gardens. His infant had a cough.

The house was astir when I reentered. Jed was the first person I saw, and to my astonishment he was not only civil but pleasant and candid. "Did you have a fair night, doctor?" he asked. "Sometimes a first night in a new place is disturbed, and I owe you apologies. We have had here occasion at times for locking doors on the outside as well as on the inside, and last night I forgot myself and threw the bolt of your door. I am occasionally in liquor, and last night I had a touch too much."

I smiled at his candor and said something jokingly in comment. "A servant can't be blamed, doctor, for that," he said, "if his master leads him into it. We have coffee before breakfast. I'll serve you anywhere. The morning papers are in the library. There's a porch off it with a good view. It's my favorite spot of a morning. I recommend that you have your coffee there."

His friendliness was amusing, but I found his suggestion good, and being fond of coffee, enjoyed it with a half hour of magnificent view and a cigarette. The morning was odorous after the rain.

The house was a charming structural disorder of L's, and wings, porches and balconies. It was very old, and one could see where different generations had contributed to its growth. The walls were backgrounds for hollyhocks or support for climbing roses or ivy. It had plenty of sunlight, but dense white oak woods came close up.

I held myself in readiness to attend my patient at his convenience, but it was ten o'clock before I was summoned. Mr. Sidney was pleasant and animated.

"We must arrive at a schedule," I suggested. "This is a little too late in the day to satisfy Dr. Brownell's ideas of what my duties are."

"But, my dear doctor," he said, "I do not wake until nine. I need my sleep. I do not go to sleep until one."

"I should advise early hours," I said. "Of course you would, but you must remember that you are dealing with a man, at the end of his life, trying to make the most of it. I like to remain awake late."

"Then you must," I said. "I shall consider it settled to see you at ten." "And, I hope, sometimes to sit up with me until one. Do you like chess?"

"I never played." "Luckily, Jed does, just well enough to interest me and have me beat him. Do you like wine?"

"A young doctor does not drink." "Luckily, Jed does. It is a great satisfaction to have some one whom you can beat at chess and whom you can see enjoying wine. Doctor, I have yielded to my friend Brownell's demand for constant attention, but as you can see, there will not be a great deal for a physician to do. I eat well, I sleep well, and so long as my sensations are pleasant, I want to live. They are not always pleasant, but mostly they are so. I'd like to have you as a new friend in the house. I like to be talked to. I like to be read to. Will you relax and be just a friend?"

"With pleasure," I said, "so long as nothing interferes with the physician." "That's a bargain," he said. "At three o'clock this afternoon you shall read to me."

During my spare time I walked about the grounds. A part of the estate, about thirty acres, which seemed to be architecturally intimate and related to the house, was completely enclosed by a twelve-foot brick wall surmounted by sharp spikes. It was built beyond the river's edge, and was continued out into the water in a heavily buttressed fashion. Only a good swimmer could have rounded it and come into the place. It looked like a carefully but strangely designed protection.

In the dog kennels were mastiffs and a number of Alredales. I said to Jed that it seemed as if precautions had been taken against a perceived danger. He had been affable during the day, but his face clouded instantly. "The wall was here when Mr. Sidney bought the place, but we are in a way isolated," he said shortly. "It is reasonable to take precautions. It will be a precaution for you not to go roaming the grounds at night. The dogs are not friendly then."

His surliness was easily passed over. I was good humored and wished to prove it.

"I have heard of the haunted bay," I said. "What is its story?" "Every folk in and about the place talks of that," he said. "You'll get too much of the story only too soon. But that isn't why we have the dogs. We don't take any stock in ghosts in this house."

He was offended and went away. At three o'clock I saw my patient again, and he wanted me to read to him.

I read to him for an hour. Then he took a nap.

I had been told that any time I wanted to go to town I might tell one of the chauffeurs to take me. I needed a thin file for the bolt on my door. It annoyed me. I did not ask that whoever threw it at night should know that it was gone. It suited my purposes better that it should be gone and the person who used it should think it was still there. Therefore, after reading to Mr. Sidney I went to town for a thin file.

I got my file, and for greater sociability on the return trip I took the seat beside Charles, the driver.

As we passed the pool, Charles referred to it. "What is it?" I asked. "What's the story?"

"A man killed his brother there," said Charles. "He is now in the penitentiary at Alwick for life. His brother's ghost, they say, comes back. I've never seen it, but some people say they have."

"Who were the brothers?" I asked. "They were the sons of the people who used to own this place—the Dobsons." He did not say anything more of it and I did not question him.

I used the file on my bolt, leaving one end of it in the socket. "It could be thrown, but it could not bar the door."

CASING OFF WATER AT MCGEE WELL

The McGee well has been forced to do a little more underreaming to entirely rid the well of water. A few more feet of underreaming will be done and the casing lowered and it is believed that then the water will be rid of. Six and five-eighths casing will be set, and in the event that water is yet getting by the casing, cement may be used. The formation of the McGee when drilling stopped for underreaming is Pennsylvania and it may show oil at any foot in such formation as the drill is going to be started to work in. The drilling force is going to make the Standard Petroleum boys hurry if they take the $20,000.00 bonus offered by the Chamber of Commerce of Tucumcari for the first commercial well. A hundred or two more feet will put this well where the geologists assure production from Pennsylvania time. The log of the well could not be more favorable. Interesting news is expected from this well during the month of July.

The Endee well is one of the biggest in the whole field of development. They are making depth with strides. The force is setting casing today at 2080 feet, and will resume drilling in a hard white lime on July fifth. The lease holders have all acreage off the market and are going to watch development for a while before making a new schedule of prices.

The Standard Petroleum has set twelve and a half inch casing at 840 feet and are drilling in lime with rainbows still showing in the bailings. The showing is not sufficient to excite anybody but there is great faith in this well bringing production at fourteen hundred to two thousand feet.

The Bueyeros well fifty miles north of Tucumcari has reached a depth of 2000 feet, and a strong gas blow last week put a gusher of mud and water and gas over the top of the derrick. The gas has been cased off, however, and drilling continues.

The five Texas-line wells are drilling with rumors coming from Benedum & Trees Number One, Bavo Dome, that conditions are favorable for oil at 3500 feet. The action of the company has led the scouts to believe that they are right on production now. The Knox at Glenrio is getting down about 1000 feet and working regular towers. The McGee location in Guadalupe county is getting the derrick up. Development continues with the brightest prospects all through the development field.—Tucumcari American.

TO FINANCE HALE COUNTY OIL TEST

The committee in charge of the circulation of the stock subscription lists to raise $100,000 with which to sink a deep test well for oil and gas in Hale county, will not begin active work until the harvest rush is over, as the people are busy in the harvest fields just now. In about two weeks the matter will be pushed actively and the full amount secured. The people are so interested in the matter that it is not thought there will be very much trouble in securing the full $100,000.

This is Hale county's biggest proposition, and every citizen should have a part in the company.—Plainview News.

PLAINVIEW PLANS WEST TEXAS FAIR

The West Texas District Fair has been organized in Plainview and its first annual fair will be held five days, Sept. 27, 28, 29, 30 and Oct. 1.

The directors of the association are C. E. White, president; W. E. Riser, first vice president; J. H. Ratjen, second vice president; W. M. Barrett, third vice president; A. G. Hinn, treasurer; E. B. Miller, secretary; T. C. Shepard, assistant secretary.

The association will include such counties in this section as may wish to affiliate, and a vice president for each will be selected later.

The fair for this year will be held in large tents on vacant lots close in. After the fair in September it is hoped to form a stock company and purchase grounds and permanent buildings for future fairs.

The officers of the association are enthusiastic and nearly all of them have had considerable experience in holding fairs. Mr. White was president of the Hale county fair for several years.

SHOOTING SCRAPE NEAR CLARENDON

In a gun duel recalling the old days at the JA ranch Tuesday, Henry Rowden is alleged, to have been shot by Jack Woods. Rowden was behind his horse his head being near the horn of his saddle. The bullet struck the horn of the saddle, splitting, two pieces going in his face and one small piece in his arm. He was brought to town for medical attention. Jack Woods was not injured, the shot fired by the other party is said to have gone wild.

Henry Rowden will have a preliminary hearing Saturday at this place. Jack Woods waived a hearing pending the action of the grand jury. Both men are under fifteen hundred dollar bonds. The cause of the affray could not be learned.—Clarendon News.

When To Cut Wheat

Wheat may be cut with safety when the straw has lost nearly all its green color and the grains are not entirely hardened. If cut sooner than this, shriveled kernels will result. If left standing until fully ripe, a bleached appearance, due to the action of the elements, often results, and loss from shattering may ensue. Wheat that is fully ripe is also more difficult to handle. Where the area of wheat is large, cutting should begin as early as it can be done safely.—Farmers' Bulletin 885, United States Department of Agriculture.

"Five dollars more per pupil is assured to the schools than last year since Governor Hobby signed the $4,000,000 school appropriation," said Peyton Irving, Jr., state supervisor of high schools. "The money was given by legislature for increasing salaries," Mr. Irving said, "and trustees are morally if not legally obligated to give it to the teachers. One city recently became involved in serious complications through giving bonuses. The fair thing to do is make teachers' contracts include the increase; if contracts have been made they can be abrogated and others made with increased salaries."

Some Hens
"Talking of hens," remarked the American visitor, "reminds me of an old hen dad once had. She would hatch out anything from a tennis ball to a lemon. Why, one day she sat on a piece of ice and hatched out two quarts of hot water."
"That doesn't come up to a club-footed hen my mother once had," remarked the Irishman. "They had been feeding her by mistake on sawdust instead of oatmeal. Well, sor, she laid twelve eggs and sat on them, and when they hatched eleven of the chickens had wooden legs and the twelfth was a woodpecker!"

Applications are now being made by schools for money under the rural aid law. The amount received from this source is determined by the financial condition of the school; if it has money enough to meet all demands, it cannot obtain aid. With the apportionment per capita increased some $5 per pupil, unless salaries are increased many schools will have enough money on hand to meet demands, and may not be eligible to receive aid. Increases in salary, it is understood, will be considered sufficient ground for granting rural aid to schools.

Fricky pears will thrive where the rainfall is too irregular for most standard farm crops. Its yields are large, cumulative, and increase from year to year, so that a heavy tonnage may be had from small areas for use at critical periods.

No Worms in a Healthy Child
All children troubled with worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a General Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispel the worms, and the child will be a perfect health. Pleasant to take. 60c per bottle.
