

Arkansas Governor Says No Water for Texas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Texas and other western states suffering from water shortages will not be getting water from Arkansas, Gov. Frank White says.

White told a special hearing Wednesday in the House that shipping Arkansas water to other states would endanger water supplies in the state.

"We're not going to encourage anything that would violate the critical needs of human life and the agricultural sector in the state of Arkansas," White said. "Let me say without qualification that I'm totally opposed to shipping water to Texas."

News reports that Texas Gov. Bill Clements had said Arkansans were amenable to giving surplus water to Texas prompted the hearing.

"For the next 20 years, I don't think we're going to have any surplus water," White said.

White said none of the state constitutional officers or their staffs had talked with Clements about the water situation. He said no one in state government had made a commitment to ship Arkansas water out of state.

Rep. Wayne Hampton of Stuttgart, who requested the special meeting, said former Gov. Bill Clinton had met with a task force from Texas on the situation. But Hampton said Clinton had made no commitment to the task force.

Hampton said Clinton met with the task force at Clements' request. He said the task force was interested in drawing up an agreement for Texas to get the water.

"He told them that we would be making extensive studies and that we didn't have a clear-cut policy and that he was in no position to discuss it with them," Hampton said. "He didn't make any concessions to them."

Hampton asked for the special hearing after reading Clements' comments in a newspaper.

"Where there's smoke there may be a little fire somewhere," he said. "I wanted to make sure that something wasn't going on that would hurt farmers that have already been hurt by the drought."

White warned the legislators that there will be political pressure in the future to sign an agreement with Texas.

"We've got problems with water in the state of Arkansas; they've got real problems in Texas," he said.

White asked House members to support a bill to set up a Water Code Study Commission to propose water regulations and laws.

But the governor said he would like the number of commissioners cut to 15 or less. Because of amendments, the number has risen to 29.

"When we get above 15 people, it gets very difficult to get a consensus on anything," he warned.

Attorney General Steve Clark proposed the water code commission bill and spoke in favor of it during the hearing.

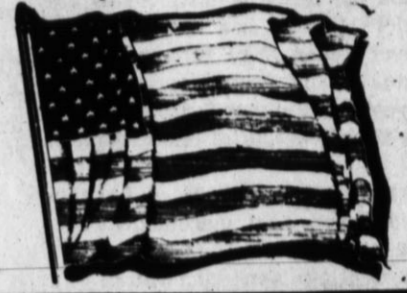

Clark said Arkansas has no laws to regulate water

More Defense Funds May be Requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, finding support in Congress for its proposed $32.6 billion buildup in military spending through 1982, is promising to seek even more money for defense if it fails to tame inflation.

Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger, outlining a budget he said would make "a major start on meeting needs too long unmet," said Wednesday he would submit a supplemental request if prices of military hardware increase beyond the administration's estimates.

"We have to keep this program intact, absolutely," Weinberger told the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Under questioning by Sen. John Warner, R-Va., Weinberger conceded the revised defense budget envisions lower inflation than the Carter administration's forecast, which he previously said was underestimated.

But he said it is "fair to assume a lower (inflation) rate" if President Reagan proposed tax cut and domestic spending reductions are enacted.

The Reagan administration predicts inflation will drop steadily to 7.2 percent in 1982 and 4 percent in 1986 as the president's economic recovery program takes hold. It was 12.4 percent last year, and the Carter administration's last forecast was for 9.6 percent in 1982 and 6 percent in 1986.

"If what we hope does not come to pass and we are not able to reduce inflation and don't get the cuts we are seeking, then I will have to present you with a supplemental," Weinberger said.

Members of the committee generally welcomed the budget increase, which would pay for an expanded Navy, a new bomber, a new kind of nerve gas and substantial pay raises for military personnel.

"There is no doubt that increased resources are required," said Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, the committee chairman.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the senior Democrat on the panel, told Weinberger, "I believe you will get your money this year," and Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said the additional spending is "absolutely essential."

Tower indicated he wants the Pentagon's major budgets approved by Congress before there is any backlash about cuts in domestic programs.

"Our proposed increases would significantly and quickly strengthen our ability to respond to the Soviet threat at all levels of conflict and in all areas of the world vital to our national interest," Weinberger said.

He said it probably will be midsummer before the Pentagon decides on two key elements of the arms buildup: the choice of a long-range bomber to penetrate Soviet air defenses and whether to launch MX missiles from submarines or from hidden sites in the West.

The budget asks $2.5 billion for the bomber, designed to replace the aging B-52. Alternatives under study are a simplified version of the B-1, which the Carter administration abandoned; modification of existing F-111s; and the so-called "stealth" bomber designed to foil Soviet radar. The F-111s could be available soonest, but Weinberger said, "I don't think it is going to produce what we need."

The Reagan plan would nearly double the Carter administration's shipbuilding program, with an additional 15 Navy ships to be financed in 1982 as a start toward expanding the American fleet from 456 ships to 600.

"This is not a one-year program for summer soldiers," Weinberger said, signaling that the administration plans a long-term and costly buildup of military might.

The Reagan plan, in fact, projects $1.289 trillion in defense spending from fiscal 1982 through 1986.

The budget called for $6.8 billion more than the Carter administration requested for this fiscal year, bringing the total to $178 billion.

At the same time, it recommended a jump of $25.8 billion in budget authority for fiscal 1982, starting next Oct. 1. That would raise the level next year to a peacetime record $222.2 billion.

Only $5.8 billion of the additional budget authority would be spent this year and next, with most of the money committed for future contracts.

About $20 billion of the $32.6 billion increase would be applied to ordering a wide variety of weapons and equipment.

Weinberger said military personnel "will become first-class citizens once again" (See DEFENSE, Page 2)

Comptroller Representative To be Here

AUSTIN, Tex. — A representative of State Comptroller Bob Bullock will be in Hereford on March 18, 1981, to assist area taxpayers and answer tax questions.

According to Claudia Stravato, Manager of the Comptroller's Amarillo Office, Silvestre Bonilla will meet with Deaf Smith & Oldham County taxpayers at the Deaf Smith County Courthouse from 10:00 thru 12:00.

Questions about taxes, the filing of tax returns or assistance on returns can be answered quickly and efficiently in these face-to-face meetings, Bullock said.

Taxpayers who are not able to meet with the Comptroller's representative on March 18, 1981, can still get their tax questions answered quickly by calling from anywhere in Texas, toll-free 1-800-252-5555.

Budget Cuts Threaten President's 'Honeymoon'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's honeymoon with Congress is wearing thin although Democrats, wary of being cast as obstructionists, are sticking with their public pledges of cooperation with his economic plan.

"We aren't ready to play hardball yet," House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. said. "We're not obstructing, we're going along."

Nevertheless, by a growing number of actions, Democrats are demonstrating their displeasure with many aspects of Reagan's package.

For example, the House Budget Committee called the inspectors general of several federal agencies to testify today on the billions of dollars in government "waste, fraud and abuse" Reagan decried during the presidential campaign.

"We're going to tell them (the administration) where it is," said a Democratic source, who asked not to be identified.

Critics of the president's program have said it does not show how to recover money lost by government inaction on audits and inadequate collection of delinquent loans and overdue debts.

They say simply eliminating waste and stepping up collections would eliminate the need for deep cuts in several social programs.

In the Senate, where

Democrats are the minority party and thus cannot call formal committee hearings, the Democratic Policy Forum has launched a series of meetings to hear from opponents who complain the proposed budget cuts would cause more unemployment, "hurt education, lessen the quality of health care and threaten the well-being of the elderly."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., chairman of the forum, said the group's hearings Wednesday were the first of a series "on the challenges before America."

"We will explore the most pressing issue facing this committee — the equity and effectiveness of the proposed Reagan budget cuts," Kennedy said.

The forum consists of Democratic members of the Senate Labor, Health and Human Resources Committee.

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, was due to make a speech on the Senate floor today outlining a substitute for Reagan's plan to nearly double the Carter administration's shipbuilding program, with an additional 15 Navy ships to be financed in 1982 as a start toward expanding the American fleet from 456 ships to 600.

At the other end of the Democratic spectrum, members of the House Conservative Democratic Forum, were having breakfast at the White House today to present Reagan a package of spending cuts exceeding what he has already requested.

Renewed Anti-War Movement Now Emerging in America

WASHINGTON (AP) — From campuses to churches, a fledgling anti-war movement is emerging in America. This one opposes increased U.S. military involvement in El Salvador, and it is drawing support from veterans of Vietnam protests a decade ago.

Already, there have been campus teach-ins and protest rallies. A hunger strike is scheduled. And soon, the hallmark of the anti-Vietnam era will return: a march on the Pentagon.

"There is a tremendous awareness that this (U.S. involvement) looks like what happened around Vietnam," said Heidi Tarver, coordinator for the Committee in Solidarity with the People of El Salvador. "People are saying, 'We're not going to be taken in again.'"

Ron Kovic, former leader of Vietnam Veterans Against the War, said he was surprised when hundreds of college students turned out for a teach-in on the West Coast.

The protests over El Salvador "have been very sophisticated and have come very quickly," Kovic said. "The protest is inevitably going to build and it will involve Vietnam Veterans Against the War. ...I don't think another American boy should have to die for another mistake."

Sister Mary Haggerty says her Maryknoll order of Catholic Church has been flooded with requests for speakers on El Salvador. The talks have been attracting "a wide cross-section" of people, she said.

"There is a very strong feeling as Americans get a chance to see the other side of the picture in El Salvador," Sister Haggerty said, arguing that the State Department has misrepresented the Salvadoran civil war as a power struggle between the United States and the Soviet Union.

She contends the conflict...people's struggle for liberation and against repression"...test groups frequently create opposition to increased military aid to El Salvador's civilian-military junta with attacks on President Reagan's proposed cuts in social programs.

"U.S. — Hands off El Salvador! Money for Jobs, Human Needs, Not for the Pentagon," reads a flyer for a May 3 march on the Pentagon scheduled by a group called the Peoples' Anti-War Mobilization.

The newly formed coalition of student and civil rights groups, liberal and left-wing religious leaders, and former anti-Vietnam War activists. Among the sponsors are anti-war figures Daniel and Philip Berrigan, Harvard Professor George Wald and author Noam Chomsky.

But the leadership of the new movement appears to be coming primarily from religious groups, particularly the Roman Catholic Church, which has been active in citizen movements throughout Latin America.

Priests and nuns from the Maryknoll order have been in the vanguard of that struggle and of protests against increased military aid to El Salvador. Earlier this week, most leaders of the U.S. Catholic Church called for a cutoff of U.S. weapons shipments.

Catholic opposition to the Salvadoran junta has grown over the past year with the murders of El Salvador's Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero and three American nuns. Romero was a critic of the junta's human rights policies, and some U.S. of-

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

I have a recurring nightmare in which my son is getting the Nobel Prize for Science. After he is presented the award, he turns to see the entire audience on its feet clapping wildly. Finally, the applause dies down and there is a silence that lasts at least a year.

I can't stand it. I crawl to the stage on my hands and knees, tug on his pantsleg and whisper, "Say thank you!" He is 55 years old.

To a mother, "Thank you" is the ultimate in manners and breeding. It's toney...it's style...it transcends raggy underwear, knotted shoestrings and dog hairs on your sweater. It melts the hardest hearts, bends the rigid, and insures a happy death for her.

To a child, "Thank you" is something to say to make your mother let go of the cookie.

Looking back, I think my kids were under the influence of hypnosis. They'd stand there like a fire hydrant until I said the key words, "What do you say?" and then they'd respond with all the feelings of a doll with a string in its neck, "Thank you."

I could never get them to use the word in the right place. They'd say "Thank you" for a lick off a second-hand ice cream cone from a friend.

They'd remain mute when their grandmother gave them a check for their birthday.

They'd say "Thank you" for a piece of auto glass and a weasel tooth.

They'd be comatose when someone gave them a ride to the library in a blizzard.

The "Thank you" experience may be an exercise in futility, but it is one lesson that mothers never seem to give up on. They pursue it forever. The other day I said to my son, "Did you ever thank Mrs. Butler for that little bathtub toy for your birthday?"

"Mom! That was 23 years ago."

"She's probably wondering if you liked it."

"I ate it, didn't I?"

And I don't suppose you ever thanked Aunt Mary for the atlas for your graduation."

"Why are you bringing all of this up now?"

"Because I am tired and I want to put child-raising behind me."

He lifted up the phone, dialed and finally said, "Hey, thanks a lot!"

I beamed. "You see, that wasn't so difficult, was it? By the way, who were you talking to?"

He shrugged. "It was a recording. I forgot myself."

Cop Show Gets Cool Reception

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Network television doesn't have to be low, just commercial. Same thing, you say?

Perhaps. Grant Tinker, who makes television that is seldom low and often commercial, thinks not.

"I've always said that the (audience's) lowest common denominator is not so low, it's attention span not so short," says Tinker, head of Mary Tyler Moore Productions. "Maybe I'm just an optimist..."

That optimism was forged by such intelligent, broadly appealing successes as "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," "WKRP in Cincinnati" and "Lou Grant." It is being tested by the surprisingly cool audience reception being encountered by M-T-M's new cop show on NBC, "Hill Street Blues."

Here's a show that was launched by critical raves a full seven months before it was even broadcast, winning plaudits as the best of the new TV series shown to the TV press at last summer's network press conventions. "Hill Street Blues" possessed the qualities certain to win critics favor — realistic characters of some depth and passion, and stories that had something to say.

But "Hill Street Blues" had more, elements that suggested it would have no trouble finding a broad audience. It contained certain soapopera qualities — continuing romantic entanglements, for example — and a couple of characters uncomplicated enough to satisfy the broadest predilections.

And more. "Hill Street Blues," being a cop show, had its share of squealing tires and blazing guns. It also had the support of NBC, which promised to give the series a fair chance. Indeed, the network has promoted the show with zeal and has tolerated five weeks of abysmal ratings without bringing forth the ax.

So, what's wrong here? Why doesn't this show, with a pedigree from Hollywood's most reliable producer of quality TV, get moving?

"We all know that Saturday night is an unlikely night for a cop show," says Tinker. "We tried it with 'Parish' (on CBS last year), a class show that had James Earl Jones, and it failed. It's yet to be shown that a cop show can succeed on Saturday night and we're yet to get our heads above water with this one."

Tinker refers to the Saturday night audience's curious partiality to light entertainment.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You print letters from time to time about "The Other Woman." I am going through a crisis in my life and find it very difficult to express myself.

Several years ago you printed a poem about the Other Woman. I wish now I had clipped it when I saw it, but little did I know then that I would need it now. Is there a chance that you can find the poem and run it again? I really do need to see it again. - Fighting Hard

DEAR FIGHTING: The poem you refer to was written by Judith Viorst, a great talent - and here it is:

THE OTHER WOMAN
The Other Woman
Never smells of Ajax or furniture polish
She was bored with Bobby Dylan
A year before we had heard of him.
She's a good sport about things like flat tires and hot water,
Because it's easier to be a good sport
When you're not married

The Other Woman
Never has tired blood.
She can name the best hotels in Acapulco

As readily as we can name the best detergents.
She wears chiffon peignoirs
Instead of a corduroy bathrobe,
Because it's easier to try harder
When you're not married.
The Other Woman spends her money on real furs
While we spend ours on obstetricians.
She knows how to make a husband feel wanted
Because it's easier to want a husband
When you're not married.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last week my brother's wife committed suicide. She had been depressed for two years and no one could reach her. The end came when she swallowed a load of sleeping pills and drank a bottle of bourbon.

I am keeping her two small children, ages three and five, until their daddy can find a full-time housekeeper. Please tell me what I should say to them about Mommy. It's hard enough to explain death to young children, but what does one say about suicide? My mother-in-law insists that I tell them the truth, but Ann, I just can't bring myself to do it. Will you please help me? - Heartsick And Lost In Maryland.

DEAR FRIEND: Children should be told about death - yes, even three-year-olds - but I see no reason for them to be told about suicide. It could create serious emotional problems.

Often children believe the death of a parent is their fault. To tell them "Mommy didn't want to live anymore" would be cruel.
Tell the children Mommy took the wrong medicine and it made her very sick and God called her to heaven. I am convinced that in almost every instance of overdose there is the possibility of confusion and many co-called suicides are really accidents.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Lomenick to Celebrate 80th Birthday

ROSS LOMENICK
...To celebrate birthday

Ross Lomenick will be honored on his 80th birthday with a reception Sunday from 2-5 p.m. at the Southwestern Public Service Reddy Room.

All friends are invited to attend the reception which will be hosted by his children and grandchildren. The family has requested only the gift of presence and no other gifts.

Born on March 10, 1901, at Lebanon, Mo., Lomenick moved with his parents to the Oklahoma panhandle as a young child. The family used three covered wagons to make the move which took nearly four weeks to complete the trip across the country with no roads and bridges.

Every few days the family stopped to make camp in order to bake bread for the seven children and one cousin making the trips with the parents.

Not liking the area after arriving, the family soon moved to the southwestern part of the state.

Lomenick and Alyene Holliman were married Aug. 11, 1930 and made their home in Holbart, Okla. Their three children, Neal, Melvin and Marian (Mrs. Walter Kreis) were born there.

The family moved to Hereford in 1937 where Lomenick worked for different land and ranch owners until he began farming in 1951. He retired from the operation in 1973.

Until his wife's death in 1979, the couple enjoyed traveling and visiting.

Family and friends occupy much of his time now. The three children and four grandchildren reside in Hereford. He is a member of the Hereford Senior Citizens.

Creating Designer Jeans

COLLEGE STATION -- Create your own designer jeans - and save lots of money, advises Becky Saunders, a clothing specialist.

Before trying, however, there are several things the homesever should consider, she says.

Mrs. Saunders is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

First, investigate the designer jeans patterns available.

A review of the instruction guide sheet will either encourage or discourage you to continue.

Consider your time and sewing skills for such requirements as special seams, fly-front zipper, waistband, yokes, pockets, and/or decorative trims.

Next investigate your area's supply of suitable fabrics and needed trims, along with the cost of these items.

Fabrics to consider - in various weights and fiber contents - include denim, corduroy, poplin, sateen, chino, ticking, duck and other sturdy fabrics.

Necessary notions might include heavy jean zippers, heavy-duty thread and machine needles (size 18) for topstitching, sturdy front-pocket lining, snaps or button fasteners and/or rivets.

A good fit is important for any sewing project, particularly for jeans.

Women's Aglow To Meet Friday

Hereford Women's Aglow will meet at the Hereford High School cafeteria Friday for its regular meeting instead of meeting at Dickie's Restaurant.

Garland Solomon of Hereford will be the guest speaker at the meeting which begins at 7:30 p.m.

Patriarca Trial Could Cripple Organized Crime

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) Reputed New England crime boss Raymond L.S. Patriarca is a little man — only 5-foot-6 and slightly built. But he can strike fear in ruthless men twice his size, and that may prove his downfall.

Last fall, convinced the 72-year-old Patriarca had ordered his execution, hit-man Nicholas "Nicky" Palmigiano broke the mob's oath of silence to swear it was Patriarca who ordered him to kill a small-time hoodlum in 1965.

His statements to state police and a grand jury led to charges of accessory to murder being filed against Patriarca, who was described at a 1963 Senate crime committee hearing as the top man in the New England branch of the Cosa Nostra.

The investigation and upcoming April 6 trial of Patriarca and co-defendant Rudolph Sciarra, who allegedly supplied the murder weapon, could mark the most crippling foray yet into the top levels of New England organized crime, which police say controls loan-sharking, gambling and fencing operations.

Palmigiano, 42, a squat, muscular man who has spent most of his adult life behind bars, testified at a ball hearing for Sciarra that he shot Raymond "Baby" Curcio on Patriarca's orders after Patriarca learned Curcio, a drug addict, had burglarized the home of Patriarca's older brother.

"I want you to nail Curcio and I want you to do it now," Palmigiano said Patriarca shouted during a meeting in the alley outside Patriarca's cigarette vending machine company office.

The case against Patriarca opened up last fall, when Palmigiano was picked up for carrying a gun, a violation of his prison work release conditions. He told police he needed it because he had been marked for murder for joking with fellow inmates that he might one day kidnap Patriarca's 35-year-old son, "Junior."

The state police, saying they had been conducting their own, separate investigation confirmed that Palmigiano had a contract on his head. His subsequent testimony before a grand jury led to the indictments. On Tuesday, Palmigiano was paroled — for the murders of Curcio and a security guard he killed in 1969 — in exchange for his testimony.

State prosecutor Henry Gemma said Palmigiano would actually be released only after he testifies in the April trial. Gemma said he will be relocated under a new identity under the federal Witness Protection program.

Patriarca, who suffers from heart problems and other ailments, is free on $100,000 bail. Bail was denied for Sciarra.

The raspy-voiced Patriarca, who began as a small-time rum runner and armed robber, is a legend in Providence.

Until his illness he was a fixture on the streets of the largely Italian Federal Hill section, dressed in his trademark dark suit and white socks. On Jan. 29 and Feb. 2, the days of the ball hearing, the curious lined up three deep outside the courtroom to hear testimony about the underworld Patriarca has allegedly run for a quarter century.

"He's a well-liked man around here, well-respected with a terrific sense of humor," said his lawyer, Jack Cicilline.

Patriarca was born in Worcester, Mass., on St. Patrick's Day 1908. His parents were Italian immigrants. At 14, he quit school and began a life of crime. During the 1930s, the now-defunct Providence Board of Public Safety named him Public Enemy No. 1

Annual Reports Sense Mood of Times

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — You can sense the mood of the times in corporate annual reports, which each year at this time weight the postman's bag, and in more instances than companies admit, fill trash bags soon after.

centerfold of smokestacks comparatively dull. It is another matter for brokers, securities analysts, mutual and pension fund portfolio managers, employees, soon-to-graduate students at business schools, accountants and government regulators. For them there is always a specific message, a tip buried deep in the fine type, something to be discerned between the lines, a reference to a new product by the chairman. And there is a general message too. The general message varies with the times. When environmental concerns first absorbed the country more than a decade ago, some annual report covers depicted the chairman in ankle-deep grass on the company lawn. When lagging productivity became an issue, charts and graphs abounded showing the danger to the country. As expected, automaker reports have switched from graphic depictions of horsepower to fuel saving charts. Today, the big doubt in the minds of annual report readers concerns the future. With the economy at a crossroads, they are eager for tips about the future, backed up by numbers and hard arguments. Information rather than impression is needed, and that, says a student of the annual report, is what annual report readers are getting, albeit, with "some grumblings in the executive suite."

Richard Lewis, author of the statement, maintains that this year's reports are "the most informative annual reports in history." Some projections might be softer than the hard data that people seek, he concedes, but he states that chairmen are getting the point. "Traditionally, executives have been reluctant to make predictions in the annual report," says Lewis, whose Corporate Annual Reports

Inc. claims to be the leading producer of blue chip annuals. "Now," he says, "the Securities and Exchange Commission is telling management to use information to make an educated guess about what might happen." Their acquiescence, says Lewis, "is an historic first step that will lead to more specific projections in the future."

The Lighter Side

School Tells Students It Doesn't Want the Shirts Off Their Backs
ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Between the $10,000 it now costs for a year of schooling and a 16.6 percent tuition increase proposed for next year, some Cornell University students decided it would be easier to simply give the school the shirts off their backs. More than 40 Cornell students marched across campus Tuesday wearing specially designed T-shirts stamped across the front with foot-long facsimiles of checks. The men then stripped off the green-and-white shirts and handed them to clerks in payment for this semester's fees. But the school, forewarned, had pre-printed receipts on hand saying T-shirts aren't acceptable for payment of fees at the Ivy League school.

No, he didn't pretend to ignore any of his club's hierarchy of problems heading into today's Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce Invitational Golf Tournament, but then he didn't aire any beliefs that those trivial snags couldn't-wouldn't be smoothed out.

He had seen his crew stumble near the brink of collapse last fall - always near enough to hear an applauding gallery, only to then suffer a mental lapse at an inappropriate time.

But in contrast, he had seen them coming back out of the rut. The first hint came with the opening spring season tournament in Roswell, New Mexico. It was a faint flicker, but after the HHS crew took 5th in the Odessa Tournament two weeks ago (the club's last competition to this point) he was sure the slump had slumped its way out the team's system.

"We really weren't playing all that well during the fall - the Winter Slump. We were sort of stumbling, and not playing with any consistency at all," he said. But then, we started to come out of that in the spring. And they're just now starting to come into their own."

"I think the strongest thing in our favor going into this tournament will be the fact we've been striking the ball good. And that basically, is one of the big factors helping us out of the consistency slump we were experiencing earlier," he said.

Hereford, in its first appearance on the Odessa course, carded a two-round total of 324 in the for fifth in a 12-team field.

"I think we'll do all right in the tournament this weekend because we're hitting the ball quite a bit better. If we can go through both rounds without making any of those mental lapses, then we'll come out okay," he added.

The Whitefaces will be competing against a field of 10 other teams in Division I of the Deaf Smith C of C tournament. Six schools which are smaller in enrollment, will battle in Division II.

And which one of those 10 Division I biggies would create the most havoc?

"I were to choose the teams who will probably work their way into the top four by the end of the tournament, I'd have to pick Odessa High, Monterey, Coronado and us. Some of the Amarillo teams haven't done very well so far this year, so I don't really know what to expect from them," he noted.

"Anybody's got a shot at it though. It just depends on which team's can make the fewest mistakes," he said.

The probable starters for Hereford's showing in the tournament are two-year letterman Greg Robinson, 2nd-year letterman Derek Dirks who garnered 14th in the Top-20 district standings a tournament."

"Our primary strength will be in the doubles portion of the tournament. That's our best chance. We've got Claire Montemayor and Carol Zinser teamed plus Dolly Montemayor and Lisa Snyder in that segment. In singles play, we'll have Kim Sims and Holly Veigal."

"We'll have a good chance to be in contention as far as the boy's race is concerned, but I'd have to say Borger is the favorite to win the girls' competition," he said. They've (Borger) got two of the best singles players in the state - Becky McCoy and Jill Nielson - who advanced to the semi-finals in the Wichita Falls invitational and that's no dump of an invitational

"In the boys' competition, anybody could take it. It might just go all the way down the wire" he added. "But I really do think we'll be in contention to win it there. This is a team tournament in which each singles and doubles team will play four total matches, so the point total accumulated through both days will be very important to each team."

Play for the tournament is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. both Friday and Saturday on all local tennis courts.

Texas Favored in Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Baylor and Texas were favored tonight in the Southwest Conference Basketball postseason tournament, but if you want to bet on it, then you haven't been paying attention in the wake of a wild, wild regular season. Not much made sense during the regular season as favorites suffered ambushes almost every week. And the oddsmakers took note for tonight's doubleheader in this sixth annual affair, giving Baylor a 1-point edge over the surprising Texas Christian Horned Frogs and installing the Longhorns as 1 1/2-point favorites over Texas Tech. TCU, which finished eighth during the regular season, wasn't even supposed to be here. A 38-foot shot at the buzzer Monday night by guard Darrell Browder gave TCU a 62-60 victory over the defending champion Texas Aggies and a spot in the tournament.

TCU coach Jim Killingsworth said, "We're just excited about being here and we don't mind if the sweaters don't fit." The game will feature two of the highest scorers in the conference, with Baylor's Terry Teagle matching his 20-point per game scoring pace against that of Browder, who has scored a 19.5-per-game clip.

Scott Wilcox is listed as 4th in bull riding after adding up eight points.

Tony Wilcox concludes the HHS club's top-fifteen standings with a No. 1 rating in bull riding with 15 points.

Other club members who will be competing for the Hereford club this weekend include: Mike Butcher, Charles Colson, Shawn McConnell, Clifton McElhane, Kenneth Paetzold, Brent Self, Jeness Self, Joel Smith and Mark Urbanczyk.

Five of the club's senior boys will be riding for the last time at the local rodeo. They are: Brett Cunningham, Brent Self, Lee Washington, Tony Wilcox and Mark Urbanczyk.

Following the Hereford Rodeo, the HHS Rodeo Club will then compete at River Road, Canyon, Happy, Plainview, Spearman, Dalhart, Claude, Ralls-Slaton, Dumas, Gruver, Guymon, Oklahoma and will then conclude the 1980-81 season with the finals in Amarillo June 4-7.

HHS Rodeo Club have been Earl and Ann Washington, Dean and Betty Butcher and Lawrence and Fay ward.

Everyone is invited to attend the local rodeo which is set to begin Saturday at 6 p.m. and Sunday at 1 p.m. Admission for the affair is $3 for adults and $1 for students and children 12 years old and under. A concession stand will be open throughout the two-day competition.

Boston Celtics Pull Up Even To Add Pressure on 76'ers

By The Associated Press

It's been nine years since the National Basketball Association has had two teams with records as good as the Philadelphia 76ers and Boston Celtics have today.

Both teams are 54-15, a .783 percentage, the best since Los Angeles finished .841 and Milwaukee was .768 in 1972.

But after Boston beat Houston 108-101 on the road and the Chicago Bulls upset the 76ers 111-100 in Philadelphia Wednesday night, the moods of the two powerful teams were decidedly different.

"I'll have to sit down and figure out what went wrong," said Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham. "We looked quite dead. It didn't look like it was any fun to be out on the court. I guess I'll have to make changes in the lineup. I'll decide that after practice tomorrow."

"The Bulls came out and played a determined game, while we were flat and tentative," said Sixers forward Julius Erving. "And we let them run the show."

The Celtics, who won their second in a row on the road, were happy.

"When we went on this road trip, we felt that we had a good chance to win two of the three games. We now have a chance to win all three," Boston star Larry Bird said. "Philadelphia thought that they could widen their lead on us when we went on the road, but now we have pulled even and the pressure is on them."

"I don't think that Houston played as well as they can, but it is a tribute to our team when we can have a bad quarter or a half on the road and still win the game," said Boston Coach Bill Fitch.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Kansas City surprised San Antonio 111-97, Denver trimmed Los Angeles 123-114, Phoenix bounced Cleveland 126-106, Washington clubbed San Diego 115-103, Golden State edged Utah 107-105 and Seattle tripped Indiana 105-93.

Chicago Coach Jerry Sloan, whose team is fighting for a playoff berth, said the victory "should give us a big lift."

"It was important to win on the road," he said. "Neither team played especially well. I know the 76ers have played better ball against us in other games — they once beat us by 41 points at home."

"We knew we could beat the 76ers," said Reggie Theus, who led all scorers with 26 points for Chicago. "This victory was very important to us, since Philadelphia is such a powerful club and everybody thought we would lose to them on their home court."

Kings 111, Spurs 97
Kansas City passed Houston in their battle for a Western Conference playoff berth as Otis Birdsong scored 39 points to beat Midwest Division leader San Antonio. Portland is 36-33, Golden State 34-34, the Kings 34-36 and Houston 33-36 in the race for three playoff spots.

The victory was the first for the Kings in San Antonio in 10 games and snapped a four-game winning streak for the Spurs.

Birdsong had 20 points in the second period, when the whole San Antonio team scored just 14.

Bullets 115, Clippers 103
Greg Ballard scored 24 points and Elvin Hayes 19 to pace Washington to an important road victory over San Diego.

Rips Spurs

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - The San Antonio Spurs, who have practically clinched the Midwest Division title, were given a basketball lesson by the Kansas City Kings, a team hustling for a berth in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Kings, ignited by a brilliant 39-point performance from Otis Birdsong and a stingy defense, raced by the Spurs 111-97 to get themselves back into the playoff picture Wednesday night, leaving San Antonio coach Stan Albeck wondering what happened.

"As far as I'm concerned, this is the most disappointing game this year," said Albeck. "They beat us in every phase of the game and Birdsong's shooting absolutely killed us."

"They are not out of the playoff picture. Their backs were to the wall and you've got to give them credit," he added.

Birdsong outscored the entire San Antonio team in the second period, driving around the Spurs for five layups and shooting over them for five more baskets.

IF YOU NEED $5,000...20,000 EVEN UP TO 500,000 TO START A NEW BUSINESS OR TO EXPAND AN EXISTING FIRM—THEN READ WHY YOU TOO WILL CALL THIS INCREDIBLE MONEY RAISING MANUAL

“THE SMALL BUSINESS BORROWER’S BIBLE”

Practically prepares the loan application for you line-by-line...the “proper” way
All properly prepared applications are processed in just 3 weeks...no red tape!
Guaranteed Loans...Direct Loans...and Immediate Loans are available now.

Most men and women seriously interested in starting their own business are eligible — including those who already own a small business and need capital fast for expansion...or to stay afloat...even if they've been flatly refused by banks and turned down elsewhere! Yet, too, many never qualify, simply, because they do not know how to “properly” prepare the loan application...

In order to help those people applying for these guaranteed and direct loans fill out their loan applications the “right way,” ICC, through its diligent compilation and research efforts, has successfully assembled and published a comprehensive, easy-to-follow seminar manual: The Money Raiser's Guaranteed and Direct Loans Seminar Manual, that will quickly show you practically everything you'll need to know to prepare a loan application to get federally guaranteed and direct loans.

Here are just some of the many important benefits the Money Raiser's Guaranteed and Direct Loans Seminar Manual provides you with:

- a completely filled in sample set of actual SBA loan application forms, all properly filled in for you to easily follow — aids you in quickly preparing your own loan application the right way. Each line on the sample application forms is explained and illustrated in easy-to-understand language.
- fast application preparation procedures for getting loans for both new start up business ventures and established firms.
- advises you on how to properly answer key questions necessary for loan approval and in order to help avoid having your application turned down — gives you advice on what you should not do under any circumstances.
- what simple steps you take to guarantee eligibility — no matter if you do not presently qualify.
- where you can file your application for fastest processing.

You'll get, at only a small fraction of the cost, virtually the same invaluable know-how as you would if you were one of the hundreds of people whom we expect will pay the full $450 registration fee to attend the proposed seminar where this amazing seminar manual will serve as the very basis for the personally conducted 3-day course.

More about this most amazing and effective manual later on. At this point the most important question you want answered is: Just where is all this loan money coming from? Incredible as it may sound — these guaranteed loans...Direct Loans...and Immediate Loans are indeed available — from the best, and, yet, the most overlooked and frequently the most ignored and sometimes outright ridiculed...“made-fun-of” source of ready money...fast capital, in America — THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT.

Of course, there are those who upon hearing the words “UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT” will instantly freeze up and frown and say:

“...only minorities can get small business loan money from the government!”

Yet, on the other hand (and most puzzling) others will rant on and on and on that:

“...don't even try, it's just impossible — all those Business Loans Programs are strictly for the Chryslers, the Lockheeds, the big corporations...not for the little guy or small companies.” etc.

Still there are those who declare:

“...I need money right now...and small business government loans take too darn long. It's impossible to qualify. No one ever gets one of those loans.”

Or you may hear these comments:

“...My accountant's junior assistant says he thinks it might be a waste of my time!” “Heck, there's too much worrisome paperwork and red tape to wade through!”

Frankly — such rantings and ravings are just a lot of “bull” without any real basis — and only serve to clearly show that lack of knowledge...misinformation...and not quite fully understanding the UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT'S Small Business Administration's (SBA) Programs have unfortunately caused a lot of people to ignore what is without a doubt — not only the most important and generous source of financing for new business start ups and existing business expansions in this country — but of the entire world!

Now that you've heard the “bull” about the United States Government's SBA Loan Program — take a few more moments and read the following facts:

- Only 9.6% of approved loans were actually made to minorities last year
- What SBA recognizes as a “small business” actually applies to 97% of all the companies in the nation
- Red tape comes about only when the loan application is sent back due to applicant not providing the requested information...or providing the wrong information
- The SBA is required by Congress to provide a minimum dollar amount in business loans each fiscal year in order to lawfully comply with strict quotas. (Almost 5 billion this year)

Yet, despite the millions who miss out — there are still literally thousands of ambitious men and women nationwide who are properly applying — being approved — and obtaining sufficient funds to either start a new business, a franchise, or buy out or expand an existing one. Mostly, they are all just typical Americans with no fancy titles, who used essentially the same effective know-how to fill out their applications that you'll find in the Money Raiser's Guaranteed and Direct Loans Seminar Manual.

Therefore, don't be shy about applying for and accepting these guaranteed and direct government loans. Curiously enough, the government is actually very much interested in helping you start a business that will make a lot of money. It's to their advantage — the more money you make the more they stand to collect in taxes. In fiscal 1981, our nation's good old generous “uncle” will either lend directly or guarantee billions of dollars in loan requests, along with technical assistance and even sales procurement assistance. Remember, if you don't apply for these available SBA funds somebody else certainly will.

Don't lose out — now is the best time to place your order for this comprehensive seminar manual. It is not, and will not ever, be sold in stores. Available only at the seminar, or by mail through this ad, directly from ICC, the exclusive publisher, at just a small fraction of the proposed seminar fee. Our company felt that the seminar manual's quality instructions were so crystal-clear that anyone unable to personally attend the seminar, who could read, could successfully use its techniques.

Therefore, for those purchasing the seminar manual by mail, no 3 day class, no course and accommodations are required. And rather than $450 we could drastically slash the price all the way down to just a mere $35—a small portion of the seminar attendance fee—providing you promptly fill in and mail coupon below with fee while this special seminar-in-print manual offer is still available by mail.

Remember, this most unique manual quickly provides you with actual sample copies of SBA Loan application and all other required forms—already properly filled in for you to easily use as reliably accurate step-by-step guides—thus offering you complete assurance that your application will be properly prepared...and thereby immediately putting you on the right road to obtaining fast, no red-tape loan approval.

You get not 1 but 2 Strong binding guarantees! Your loan must actually be approved or your money back!

- GUARANTEE #1
Simply — look over this most effective money raising loan preparation assistance manual for 15 days — and, then, if you are not convinced that it can actually help you obtain the Business Loan you need right away — just return it for a full and prompt refund.
- GUARANTEE #2
Even after 15 days — here's how you are still strongly protected — if you decide to keep the manual — and you apply for a SBA Loan anytime within 1 year...your loan must be approved and you must actually receive the funds or your money will be refunded in full.

Clearly we are firmly convinced that any sound business request properly prepared and submitted to SBA will be approved. Only because we are so confident that this is a fact do we dare make such a strong binding seldom-heard-of Double Guarantee. No stronger guarantee possible!
