

Russian Grain Embargo Will Likely be Lifted

By CHERI WARD
Staff Writer

DIMMITT - Kent Hance, U.S. Representative for the 19th Congressional District, touched on the Russian grain embargo and the MX missile in his address to the eighth annual meeting of the Texas Corn Grower's Association here Friday.

Hance said he believes President Reagan will lift the grain embargo, and he also said that it is possible that the MX missile will not be built at all.

Hance bases his embargo statements on President Reagan's heavy campaign use of the issue and said, "If he wants credibility with the American people, he will have to lift the embargo."

Applause from the 380 persons attending the meeting greeted Hance's remark.

Hance also said split-basing of the MX would be economically unsound because it would add $3.2 billion to the price tag of the controversial system, and Reagan administrators are cutting the budget in every possible way.

Hance supports basing the missiles on submarines or eliminating the plan altogether because, "there is a possibility that it will be obsolete before we finish building the system."

If the MX system is not built, Hance said, defense dollars will probably be spent on the F-11 bomber and an updated version of the Minuteman missile.

Hance went on to discuss the budget and Reagan administration efforts to balance it, now advanced a year to 1984.

The planned 75 percent increase in defense spending and a proposed 33 percent tax cut are incompatible, Hance said, because a substantial cut in spending must come before any type of tax cut.

Problems in balancing the budget include the impossibility of cutting funding for entitlement programs that eat up 77 cents of each tax dollar, Hance said.

Entitlement programs are programs such as social security, put into effect by past Congresses, that must be funded by law.

Hance said these programs should be examined yearly and funded on a year-to-year basis to retain Congressional control on program spending.

Hance said he believes that the Reagan administration will cut every existing program, with deep cuts in food stamps, Small Business Administration loans and Farmer's Home Administration loans.

Soil conservation will rest more and more heavily on state and local governments, due to limited funding, Hance continued.

Cotton trade with China was explored by Hance, who said the importance of China to the United States market is "undeniable."

Hance said three years ago, China bought no United States cotton, but now China is the United States' number one buyer. He also said President Reagan will have to be "extremely careful in his relationships with Taiwan and China."

Trade with China is good, Hance said, and an alliance between the United States and China can only be beneficial due to Russian distrust of the Chinese.

A proposed reciprocal trade act for goods imported from countries that place a tariff on United States goods will place equal exchange tariffs on these goods, Hance said.

Japan places a tariff on each $5 bushel of United States wheat, Hance said. This 50 percent tariff would be applied to automobiles, cameras, TVs and other Japanese imports, which would probably cause reduction or elimination of the wheat tariff, he continued.

"This bill will benefit farmers by increasing the agricultural market if the Japanese remove the tariff as they are bound to by pressure from their large car manufacturers, and northern industrial states competing heavily against Japanese imports, will also profit," Hance continued.

Hance said he attended a White House reception for the returnees from Iran, and, "It was a most moving experience."

Hance closed his remarks by saying that a message was sent around the world that "the spirit of America is alive and well."

The crowd gave Hance a standing ovation.

Carl King, president of the TCGA, reported that TCGA participation in a meeting with Mexico resulted in increased corn sales.

King also read a resolution opposing the use of farm and grain land for basing of the MX missile when government lands are available.

King reported an item that he said could be seen as good or bad news: 65 percent of reserve corn has been damaged by weevils.

State agriculture commissioner Reagan Brown spoke to the corn growers shortly before the noon meal, and said rain was the biggest need in Texas agriculture.

Brown took a stand on several topics: he favors exploitation of new markets in Africa and China; "cotton nut butter" as a substitute for peanut butter is being promoted by Brown; and Brown

Reagan Working for Cut Support

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan is working to convert general approval of his philosophy on tax and spending cuts into the kind of active support he will need to get his economic program through Congress.

He appeared to make progress in that direction Friday when he met with several congressional committee chairmen and 15 influential representatives of the nation's business community.

Later the president flew to Camp David with his wife for their first weekend at the presidential retreat.

White House press secretary James S. Brady portrayed the president as eager to spend time outdoors, and the weekend at the compound in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains gave him the opportunity to do just that.

Meanwhile, White House officials disclosed that the president had converted his personal wealth, except for his ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif., and his home in the Pacific Palisades section of Los Angeles, into $740,000 in cash and placed it in a blind trust to be invested for him.

The trust was established in accordance with the Ethics in Government Act, deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said.

During his meetings Friday, Reagan focused on the economy and his efforts to trim taxes and spending.

Brady said "broad, general decisions" have been made on the president's economic program, which is expected to be sent to Congress within three weeks. He said Reagan now was moving from seeking "passive approval to active support."

After Reagan's meeting with the business leaders, one participant, C. William Verity, chairman of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said: "He was making it clear to business that some of the things that will happen will hurt our business. He asked for our support and he received our support. There will be some constraints on all of us, some suffering."

Nonetheless, Verity called it "an upbeat meeting" and said, "We all came out of there saying we're on the way to something."

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said: "I have been assured there is going to be the same magnifying glass put to the spending programs"

Pageant Meet Set

The steering committee of the Miss Hereford Pageant for 1980 is in the process of making appointments and decisions regarding Miss Hereford and Miss Teen Hereford Pageant 1981.

"As the public is aware this pageant had traditionally been presented in a very well planned, professional manner, and as many of you are aware it has become increasingly difficult to interest committee members and workers for this production," according to Frances Berry, chairman of the steering committee.

City Session

Slated

Hereford city commissioners will hold a regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, February 2, to discuss a short agenda.

Commissioners will hear a zoning change request, appoint members to the Panhandle Plains Higher Education Authority, increase the tax exemption from $6500 to $7000 for persons 65 years and older and discuss problems of downtown parking.

The meeting will close with a budget work session.

"Also, over the past several years there has been an apparent lack of interest from prospective entries. For this reason increasingly large sums have been spent on fewer and fewer girls," she added.

The steering committee will be holding an open meeting, Monday evening, Feb. 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the lower level of the Deaf Smith County Library.

Sellout Expected For Chamber Banquet

The Chamber of Commerce banquet Thursday, February 5, is expected to be a sell-out, Mike Carr, chamber manager said.

Cheryl Prewitt, Miss America of 1980, will provide an evening of entertainment for those present at the banquet.

Prewitt is an accomplished vocalist and pianist, and she will also speak at the banquet.

The banquet will begin at 7 p.m. in the Hereford Bull Barn and features the presentation of Hereford's Citizen of the Year by Sid Shaw, President of the Noon Lions Club.

Tickets to the banquet are being sold at the Chamber office and the two local banks for $10.

History Office Will Accept Material Monday

The Project County History office in the E.B. Black building will be open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, February 2, to allow last minute turn-in of family histories, said Sue Coleman, office manager.

This is the final acceptance day for the histories.

"I'm filing because my children are in school and I would like to have input into where the school goes," stated Simons.

"Having covered the school

Steps Taken

To Deport Haitians

MIAMI (AP) — For the first time in six years, federal officials on Friday took legal steps towards deporting some of the thousands of Haitian refugees living in South Florida.

After receiving permission from Washington, local U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service officials began scheduling exclusion hearings for some 4,000 Haitians caught trying to enter the country since Oct. 10, said Richard Gullage, deputy director of the INS office in Miami.

The hearings are the first step in deportation proceedings.

There are an estimated 27,000 refugees from the impoverished island nation seeking political asylum in the Miami area. The government says they came here for economic, not political, reasons.

Haitian leaders and their attorneys reacted angrily to the news. But they said no decision has been made on whether to fight the hearings in court.

Oil Spill

Headed for Land

HOUSTON (AP) — U.S. Coast Guard officials say a mile-long slick of oil, dumped in the Houston Ship Channel after a collision of a tanker and a chemical ship Wednesday, probably will be swept ashore in the next few days.

But, the officials said they do not think the spill will affect the nearby ecologically sensitive marshlands, and there has been no evidence of marine or wildlife damage.

Most of the oil dumped into the channel has been contained in an inlet called Barbour's Cut.

Cleanup crews are working on an around-the-clock schedule, using booms to keep the spill isolated and away from the marshy areas that are wildlife breeding grounds.

The Coast Guard said the Liberian flag vessel, Luced Wickliffe, clipped the bow of the Greek-flagged Olympic Glory, rupturing one of the 28 tanks of oil aboard. About 20,000 barrels leaked from the damaged tank, resulting in one of the worst spills in the history of the Houston Ship Channel.

There were no injuries or fires.

Harbormaster Joe Carr said the oil did not appear to be sticking to the 235 boats docked at the Houston Yacht Club, but he did expect some fish and birds to be killed by the slick.

Coast Guard Lt. Erik Fiske said southeasterly winds forecast for today could help the clean-up and containment efforts.

X-Rated Movie

Houses May Be Taxed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A bill that would allow cities to exact up to $300 a day in taxes from theaters showing X-rated movies has been recommended for approval by a committee of the Arkansas House of Representatives.

The bill was sponsored by state Rep. Henry Osterloh of North Little Rock, where residents are upset about a Los Angeles company's plans to open a theater for X-rated films.

Osterloh, a lawyer, conceded the bill may be unconstitutional. But he said the staff of the Legislative Council has determined that the proposal is "not patently unconstitutional on its face."

The bill would authorize cities to tax all theaters $300 a day, but would provide tax credits of up to $300 a day for theaters that don't show X-rated films.

Reagan Assets

Put In Blind Trust

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan converted his personal wealth, except for two residences, into $740,000 in cash and placed it in a blind trust, the White House announced on Friday.

According to the trustee's report filed on Wednesday with the Office of Government Ethics, Reagan's assets were converted temporarily into two certificates of deposit.

Jack Walter, director of the ethics office, said one certificate was for $200,000, issued on Dec. 1 with an interest rate of 16.875 percent and due on Friday. The second was for $540,000, issued Jan. 9 with a 17.25 percent rate and due Feb. 9.

Harris Medical

Examiner Criticized

HOUSTON (AP) — The Harris County medical examiner's office has been sharply criticized by a grand jury for obstructing justice and refusing to release certain information.

The report, filed with State District Judge William M. Hatten, resulted from the jury's investigation of the July 1979 shooting deaths of a Houston oceanographer, his wife, and their young adopted son.

The grand jury ignored a medical examiner's ruling that Diana Wanstrath had shot her husband, John, and son, Kevin, and then turned the weapon on herself.

Instead, the grand jury indicted Walter A. Waldhauser Jr., a business associate of Mrs. Wanstrath's brother, on charges he hired twice-convicted felon, Allen Wayne Janecka, to kill the family.

No murder weapons were found in the Wanstrath home, but police now indicate they have the weapon.

Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk, chief medical examiner, appeared three times before the grand jury. Later he refused comment on the panel's report.

The grand jury said the medical examiner's office failed to maintain supporting documentation used in making the ruling of double murder-suicide.

And, the jury reported, "we oppose the unauthorized claim of privilege or confidentiality regarding information obtained by public servants at public expense."

New Lions

The Hereford Lions Club installed four new members this week. The four were Charles Gilliam, Rex Lee, Floyd Stratton and Jerry Morgan. The members and their sponsors were installed by Rocky Lee, past president and cur-

'Discover Deaf Smith County' Tabloid Publication Planned

Plans are underway by The Hereford Brand for publication of "Discover Deaf Smith County," the first of what is anticipated to be an annual supplement to the newspaper.

Format for the supplement will be a tabloid-size publication including numerous articles and listings concerning all facets of community life, according to Gene Bigham, advertising director of the newspaper.

Both the advertising and editorial departments will be involved in the production of the special supplement. The format for the tabloid has been outlined by Bigham and Jim Steiert, managing editor, after putting together ideas from similar publications in other newspapers.

The issue, to be published in about two months, will be inserted into a Sunday issue of The Brand, thus carrying it into the homes of some 4,500 subscribers.

of Commerce for its use in promoting the city and county.

City and county maps will be printed in the supplement. It will also include articles on schools, local governmental units, taxing information, and facts and listings on churches, clubs, and other pertinent information.

The supplement will be made possible by advertising messages from local merchants and business firms. A business guide and professional directory will also be included in the supplement.

predicted an outbreak of grasshoppers and fire ants.

The president of an exporting firm told corn growers of huge potential markets in West African countries, including Nigeria which has budgeted $3.63 billion for agriculture needs this year.

Ed Hill, president of the Austin-based American International Dynamics, Inc.,

told corn growers that exclusive representation of the TCGA in these nations could open up new markets and bring better prices for grain on a long-term basis.

Hill predicted results from such a contract within a year.

A TCGA business meeting was held during the afternoon session of the gathering.

in the Pentagon as they are putting to every other program from food stamps to the Pentagon. Part of the process is to float a few ideas here and there and get a feedback.

Budget Director David A. Stockman, meanwhile, was pitching the administration's proposed budget cuts Friday on Capitol Hill.

Rep. Trent Lott of Mississippi, the assistant Republican leader in the House, said, "I had to grit my teeth and grimace a little bit" over the scope of the recommended cuts. At the same time, he said they are needed to avoid more serious economic problems in the future.

Harsh criticism from Democratic congressmen has already developed over reports that substantial reductions in foreign aid are planned.

An OMB report urged cutting the Carter administration's proposed foreign aid budget for fiscal year 1982 from $8 billion to $5.47 billion, with even larger reductions during the next three fiscal years.

Stockman said foreign aid was "not in the book" of proposals he discussed Friday with congressmen.

At a news conference earlier this week, Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig said he has "been concerned" about reports of Stockman's desire to slash foreign aid.

"I hope we are going to be able to get a recognition that foreign assistance and foreign security assistance is sometimes a very cost-effective vehicle for insuring that the ideals and interests of this country are carried out effectively abroad," said Haig.

The Washington Post

reported in today's editions that Haig has won postponement of an effort by Stockman to force a quick decision on Stockman's proposals to cut foreign aid. The paper said action was put off to next week to let the State Department prepare a detailed position on Stockman's proposal.

A State Department official, who declined to be identified, said Friday evening that Haig "is going to make his views known on the foreign aid budget at the appropriate time."

Judge Orders Assets Frozen

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders has ordered six Texas banks to freeze any Iranian assets in their possession.

The order would prevent the return of the money to Iran under the terms of an agreement reached by former President Jimmy Carter with the Iranian government for release of the 52 American hostages. The Jan. 19 agreement calls for the return of approximately $12 billion in Iranian assets now in the United States.

Sanders issued the temporary order at the request of Dresser Industries, a Dallas-based company that sued the six banks Wednesday, asking for a writ of garnishment to freeze any Iranian funds for eventual payment of the debts.

Dresser sued Iran and the National Iranian Oil Co. in November for $17.3 million in debts.

Last week, Electronic Data Systems Inc. sued to prevent the return of $19 million in Iranian assets. That suit is different in that a federal district judge last May ruled EDS was owed the money by Iran. Lawyers for Iran appealed the ruling to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, where it is pending.

The banks have 20 days to respond to Sanders' order and to a Dresser request for details of any Iranian assets they hold.

A hearing is expected within a month, a spokesman for Sanders said.

"We will not have any comment concerning the matter, since it's in litigation," said spokesman Dwight Mann of First National Bank in Dallas.

"If we did (have any Iranian assets), we'd consider that confidential information," said George Stockwell, spokesman for Republic National Bank in Dallas.

The other four banks affected are Citibank International, Chase Bank International-Houston, Bank of America N.J. & S.A. and Bank of America (International of Texas), all in Houston.

Sanders said the Iranian assets are being garnished because Dresser "will probably lose their debts and have their contracted rights irreparably impaired unless the garnishment is issued."

He also required Dresser to post a $50,000 bond to compensate the defendants "in the event plaintiffs fail to prosecute their suit to effect."

Dresser, an equipment and oil industry service company, has questioned whether a president has the authority to deny U.S. firms the right to file court claims against Iranian assets, claiming Carter improperly seized powers constitutionally delegated to the judicial branch when he blocked the courts from placing attachments on Iranian funds claimed by U.S. firms.

Band-Orchestra Booster Club to Meet Monday

Officers for the booster club are Vivan Moore, president; Betty Lady, vice president; Barbara McMullon, secretary; and Bera Boyd, treasurer.

Anyone interested in supporting the local band and orchestra program are invited to attend this meeting.

Fees for joining the club are $3 per person or $5 for a couple or family.

Kremlin Attacks Reagan, Haig

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin attacked President Reagan and Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig, calling their statements on Soviet foreign policy "deliberate distortions" that are "absurd and insulting."

The official Tass news agency made the charges against Reagan Friday, the day after the president told a news conference the Soviets believe they have the "right to commit any crime, to lie, to cheat" to attain their goals.

Tass said Reagan "spoke in an unseemly manner about some insidiousness of the Soviet Union's policy which supposedly sets the aim of creating one world socialist or communist state. Such words can only mean that the people in Washington apparently cannot understand the meaning of the changes taking place in the world."

The Tass commentary also responded to Reagan's stand on "linkage" in renegotiating the SALT II treaty. Reagan said the talks must take into account Soviet actions elsewhere in the world but announced no timetable for starting them.

Tass said Reagan "obviously distorted the essence of the matter" and it was apparent Reagan considered the "main matter at these talks should be not the discussion of the terms of limiting the arms race but the linking of this problem with other, unrelated issues."

Meanwhile, Moscow TV

commentator Boris Kalyagin lashed out at Haig's statement Wednesday that the Soviets foster terrorism, calling the secretary's remarks "absurd and insulting to our country."

"The Soviet Union has condemned and is condemning terrorist acts," Kalyagin said. "It is sufficient to turn the pages of our newspapers to become convinced about our sharply negative position toward acts of the so-called Red Brigades in Italy or remnants of the Baader-Meinhof group in West Germany."

He said national liberation movements are "natural allies" with communist states against "nations of the imperialist camp who try in vain to stop the international revolutionary process," and that liberation movements are different from terrorist groups.

The real terrorist governments, he said, are "decayed, reactionary regimes that remain in power with the help of American bayonets or with the financial aid of the West."

"The Soviet nation will never deny its international obligations and render aid to people who are fighting a national or social yoke," Kalyagin said, naming El Salvador, Chile and South Africa in this context.

Loan Car Possibly Stolen

Police are still investigating a case reported by One Stop Auto, N. Hwy. 385, who loaned a car out to a man who failed to return the car.

District attorney investigators are also investigating the case.

No charges will be filed by the Holiday Motel, 915 W. Hwy. 60, in reported vandalism damage to one of the rooms. Someone knocked holes in a room door.

Police issued five traffic citations and answered four non-offense calls Friday.

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

I think it's time we all stopped picking on the post office. We've all done it. It's a cheap shot. And it's time we really addressed ourselves to the problems of the Postal Service and the options left to us. The simple fact is people are writing more letters than the post office can deliver.

The answer? We've got to stop writing like this. I have three children who not only anticipated the postal problems, but did something about it. During the years when they were in college, they limited their correspondence to three letters a year: (a) legal action by the university; (b) legal action by the bank; (c) annual begging and whimpering. We could all help by following their example and writing only when we have something startling to say.

Pride must be restored to postmen for what they are delivering. I mean it. The quality of mail has been going downhill for some time now. How do you think mailmen feel walking 50 miles a day to put a bundle of mail in your hands and having you stand there in front of them dropping "The Truss Digest" in the trash and complaining about the rest? I firmly believe that mail addressed to "Occupant" should be kept at the post office and if people want it they have to show three ID's and certification of sanity.

Abolish postcards from vacationers. This constitutes a large chunk of mail and people who are up to their ashes in snow do not want to hear from someone in Tahiti whose tan line is beginning to fade.

Let's stop giving the post office a bad time. If the ZIP code helps them hold postal rates down, let's give it a shot. This summer business leaders will be advised to add four more digits to the five-digit ZIP code we now have.

I say let's get rid of names altogether and go for the numbers. From here on in, you can call me 555852553. I've been called worse.

Besides, having no name will solve once and for all the forms we fill out that give you 1-16 of an inch-line to fill in your name and complete address.

And finally, let's get realistic about the postal rituals. Let's do away with all those funny little stamps they bounce on ink pads and stamp on letters and packages: "Fragile, Handle With Care, Certified, Insured, Rush." They don't mean anything away. They're just for show.

And grow up, America, there is no phone at the post office. You've always known that. It's time to stop telling yourself that there is someone on another line dispensing information. It just rings to indude you.

We play ball with the post office and who knows ... maybe someday they'll put the drive-in mailboxes on the driver's side of the car.

New Library Books Focus On Aspects of Divorce

By DIANNE PIERSON
County Librarian

Thirty-five percent of all U.S. marriages end in divorce. In more than half of these divorces, the couple has children under 18 years old. New books this week at the library focus on several aspects of divorce. DIARY OF A DIVORCED MOTHER by Marilyn Murray Willison isn't just a book to be read, but to be lived along with the narrator. Marilyn Willison was 27 years old and had two bouncy sons but no job and no money when her husband decided to marry her best friend. Now, Marilyn is 31, still a "hopeless traditionalist," still a stranger to singles' bars, but no stranger to a new, healthy sunny outlook and a busy, satisfying life. DIARY OF A DIVORCED MOTHER includes laughter and tears to carry you through every experience of divorced motherhood. PICKING UP THE PIECES by Patricia Chavez is a moving, true story which reads like fiction. Pat Chavez was stunned. Her life was shattered. Five minutes ago, she had been married and now it was over.

Pat found the pitfalls on the road to "happily ever after." She tried a second marriage that also ended in divorce. She continued her search for a "Prince Charming" who could make her life a fulfillment of her dreams. PICKING UP THE PIECES gives practical answers to such problems as relating to the children, learning not to play super parent, visitation, and how and when to deal with your anger.

Other books available this week on divorce are MAKING IT AS A STEPPARENT by Claire Berman, DIVORCED KIDS by Warner Troyer, and LIVING AND LOVING AFTER DIVORCE by Catherine Napolitano.

Other library events: 10 a.m. Thursday morning story hour.

Friends of the Library Schedule General Meeting

The Executive Committee of Friends of the Library held their monthly meeting recently in the library building.

Helen Eades, president, presided over the business session. Since the monthly Family Film, shown for the public's view at the library now cost an average of 55 cents per showing, it was decided that dues for Friends of the Library should be raised to $2 a year from the present rate of $1.

The annual Friends of the Library's General meeting will be held in the Heritage Room of the Library, Tuesday, Feb. 24 at 7 p.m.

An interesting program of entertainment and information has been planned for this meeting.

Among surprises will be the names of the library's "Family of the Year."

Entertainment will include the quartet of Bob Still, Joyce Allred, Jan Walser and Jodie

Rogers accompanied by Cindy Vaughn.

Jerry Hollingsworth, president of Amarillo Friends of the Library, will describe activities of his organization.

Jane Alrich, Library Systems Coordinator from Amarillo will tell of the many benefits offered by a library and she will answer all questions from guests regarding ways to improve all library services. Members are encouraged to attend this general meeting.

CofC Women's Division To Hold Monthly Meeting

The Board of Directors Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce will hold their regular monthly meeting Tuesday, Feb. 3 at 12 noon in the C of C Board Room.

Trimming Fat

A man in California has come up with an idea to cut the giant federal bureaucracy down to size, and do it with the support of federal employees.

He sent his idea to "Ruff Times" and it was published in that newsletter. Here's how it works:

1. No more new hiring of Federal employees.
2. Lay off 10 percent of all existing federal employees each year, selecting those to be laid off by lottery. This ensures that the layoffs will be fair, and bureaucrats can't "play with the deck."
3. Continue to pay the laid-off bureaucrats at their wages as of the layoff date. This would insure their cooperation. This would save billions of dollars since they would no longer occupy office space or waste paper, to say nothing of working mischief. They could no longer interfere with business, saving countless billions for productive uses.
4. Reduce each laid-off employee's paycheck by 10 percent a year. This would ensure that sooner or later he would seek productive employment. In the meantime, he will spend the money and keep the economy roaring along with no additional tax burden and no requirement for a big bureaucracy to administer welfare.
5. Continue this process until the government is operating efficiently at approximately one-tenth the current payroll.

The man who wrote the letter, F.F. McClatchie of Costa Mesa, Calif., also suggests that the military be exempt from this plan. "Ruff Times," however, suggests a 10 percent cut every year of all ranks above master sergeant, with the exception of military pilots.

Oughta Be a Law

Anyone who follows professional football in this state is familiar with the situation in Houston: Bum Phillips has been fired and was subsequently hired by the New Orleans Saints; and Earl Campbell, star running back, most valuable battering ram, "the franchise," has demanded that the Oilers either pay him (a bunch) or trade him.

All of that is old news, but this morning I heard that a Houston state representative has introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives that would declare Campbell an official state hero. Further, the proposed resolution says that as a state hero, Campbell should not be traded to an out-of-state franchise.

Now wait a minute folks. I know a lot of you are clucking your tongues and asking, "Don't those people have better things to do than waste time on frivolous resolutions?"

But think again. Think about some of the bills that have become law in the last few sessions, and it almost makes one wish they would spend more time on harmless, if frivolous, matters.

And while we're at it, let's write some legislation aimed at a few of the things we all hate most. For instance:

-How about making sandstorms a misdemeanor. Really serious dusts could be a third degree felony. The people on the Plains would surely support such a law, even though it would seldom, if ever, result in an arrest.

-We already have laws to protect us from people who drive while intoxicated (DWI for short), while under the influence of drugs (DUID) or while their licenses are suspended (DWLS). But what about a law against driving like an idiot (DLAI). How many times have you seen someone who may be obeying the letter of the law while flaunting its spirit? How many times have you complained, "That guy is driving like an idiot?" Wouldn't it be nice if such people could at least be cited for a traffic violation?

-It should be at least a misdemeanor to try to communicate with any man during an important football game. Wives attempting to talk to husbands during Cowboy games should be guilty of at least a felony.

-Legislatures all over the nation are looking at ways to shield our private matters from the all-seeing eyes of computer record keeping systems. This is a good idea, but does it go far enough?

Consider those computer addressed junk mail offers you get almost everyday. More and more, direct mailers are taking advantage of new technology to personalize their pitches by addressing one by his or her first name. I, for one, resent a machine taking such liberties. I have never been on a first-name basis with any machine except my pickup, and it doesn't even presume to call me by my real first name.

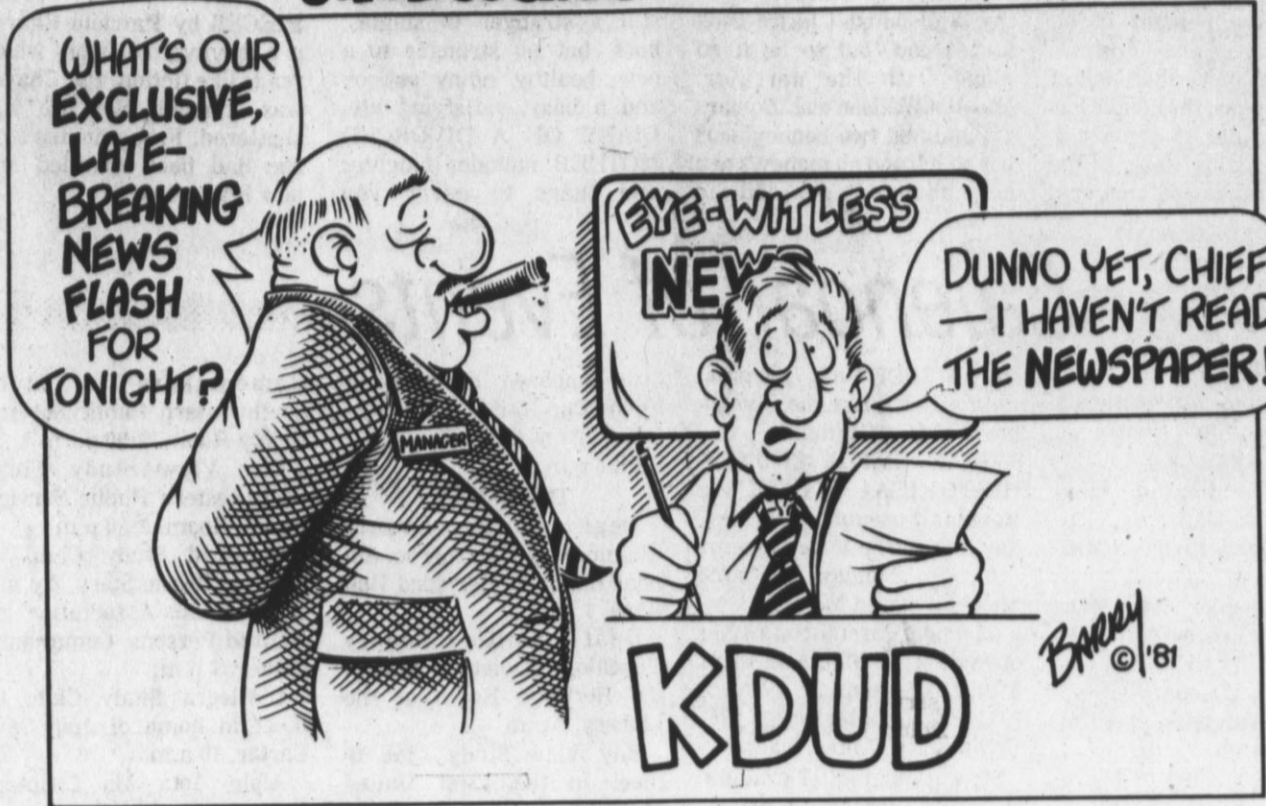

Let's consider a statute - call it misdemeanor affrontery - to deal with computers who don't know their places.

These are only a few ideas that come readily to mind. You probably have your own list of things for which "There oughta be a law."

Voice of Business

Era of National Revival

WASHINGTON - "It is time for us to realize that we are too great a nation to limit ourselves to small dreams. We're not, as some would have us believe, doomed to an inevitable decline. I do not believe in a fate that will fall on us no matter what we do. I do believe in a fate that will fall on us if we do nothing...So with all the creative energy at our command, let us begin an era of national renewal."

Recognize those words? They were spoken by President Reagan during his inaugural address and they rebut the pessimistic notion, prevalent throughout our history, that America's best days are over whether we like it or not. Way back in 1899, for example, before the advent of automobiles, oceanliners, airplanes, moonshots, pacemakers or ballpoint pens, the director of the U.S. Patent Office urged President McKinley to close that office, because "everything that can be invented has been invented."

And on many occasions during the 19th and 20th centuries, economic "experts" warned we would soon run out of food, oil, natural gas, coal, tin, nickel, zinc and other vital commodities. None of this ever happened of course. On the contrary, in the United States today, a relative handful of farmers produce enough food to feed all Americans and much of the rest of the world as well. What's more, recent estimates suggest America's untapped reserves of coal, natural gas, oil and oil shale are so huge that supplies could last for hundreds of years, even at increased rates of production and without harming our environment.

What we need is a system that encourages, to borrow the President's own words, the heroes of our society, "...entrepreneurs with faith in themselves and an idea who create new jobs, new wealth and new opportunity." Consider the case of Wells College, a small women's school on the edge of Lake Cayuga, in Aurora, New York.

When the current president of Wells, Dr. Patti McGill Peterson, assumed her position in August, 1980, she had an important decision to make. The college was in good shape financially, but like so many other northeastern schools, it faced punitive increases in its fuel oil bills as long as OPEC controlled the price of oil.

Wells, however, had a way out. The college is situated right in the Appalachian basin which geologists believe is one of the largest unexplored sources of oil and gas in the lower 48 states. So while people ten years ago might have laughed at the idea of drilling for oil or gas in New York, Wells had already gone ahead and conducted a feasibility study. It indicated there was at least a 50-50 chance of not coming up with a dry hole. What to do?

Peterson, with the concurrence of the Board of Trustees, decided this particular venture made good business sense. She raised almost $100,000 from alumnae and others, and contracted with the Aurelius Gas Co. to drill a well on campus. In mid-September, the company went to work and the students could hear the faint rhythmic noise of the drilling day and night. Nearly nine weeks later, and 2,600 feet into the ground, the driller struck natural gas. Immediately, the college's tower bells began pealing, and the students decided this momentous occasion deserved a truly proper celebration - one that obviously required calling off all classes.

As a result of the strike, Wells could achieve a nearly 20 percent reduction in its fuel bill, and that savings could increase if the college opts to expand production. Also, both the college and the townspeople have watched the drilling take place without any adverse impact on the environment. Now that it has been completed and the underground pipes have been laid, the original well site is almost invisible.

Most important, perhaps, is the example set by Dr. Peterson. Through her unique success in maximizing Wells' revenues while minimizing its costs, she joins that new breed of entrepreneurial college presidents whose abilities go well beyond quiet

Bootleg Philosopher

Book-Learning Overrated?

Editor's Note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith County grass farm on Bootleg Corner offers his two cents worth on the problem of public schools this week. Sounds inflationary.

Dear Editor:

Because some kids are coming out of high school unable to read a parking ticket or balance a check book, teachers naturally are blamed and there's a move on in some areas to test them. This was tried in one big city and a third of the teachers failed.

I got to thinking, not only should beginning teachers be tested, but maybe the colleges who certified they were qualified to teach ought to be tested. Then the colleges should demand tests for high schools that're sending them unqualified students, and high schools should look to grammar schools, and they to boards of trustees, and trustees to parents, whose only recourse would be to blame their parents, and their parents, on back I guess to George Washington.

Nobody has asked me, but my notion is that the first duty of a school is to teach a kid to read and write and possibly to figure in case the battery on his pocket calculator runs down. After that, kids can expand in whatever direction their talents invite and their teachers can stimulate. No need to try to make classical scholars out of all of them.

Naturally writers want them to continue to read, just as tire manufacturers and filling stations want people to drive cars, the I.R.S. wants people to make money and lawyers want people to squabble.

The extent and value of a person's so-called booklearning can be vastly overrated. I know lots of intelligent, un-fooled people who lead successful and enjoyable lives who, after getting out of school, haven't read more than two or three books in their whole life. But they do know what's going on, by way of newspapers and radio and TV and their natural ability to think for themselves.

One trouble with schools today is they've mistaken buildings for schooling. It's like Congress thinking if it puts up a new office building for itself it's automatically a better Congress. The problems facing the country are not the color of the wallpaper in the White House. No telling how far Abe Lincoln would have gone if his one-room school house had been air-conditioned. I'll bet the bus he rode to school wasn't even heated in the winter time.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Hostages Were Warned

The hostage situation from another point of view: They had been warned in advance to get out.

It has been suggested that our months of preoccupation with 52 hostages in Iran appears hypocritical in perspective - inasmuch as almost nothing is said or done about 2,528 American MIAs in Vietnam.

After all, the hostages in Iran had volunteered for an accepted the acknowledged risks of such foreign service. Danger goes with the territory.

Also, I have learned that most were advised to get out before they were made captives.

That they were repeatedly advised to get out and come home - and they refused.

This does not deny the deprivation and separation which the hostages endured, but it does throw a different light on the situation.

And from this misadventure perhaps we can learn what not to do next time.

From December 8, 1978, to the end of April, 1979, "at least four U.S. ships were taking turns standing off Hormuz in the Strait of Hormuz at the mouth of the Persian Gulf prepared to sealift Americans out of Iran.

A crewman aboard one of those ships - the USS Sterrett, a Navy cruiser - was Douglas A. Pirolozzi.

He says that ship left San Diego under secret orders but once it was in position off Hormuz everybody aboard was made aware that the mission was to rescue potential evacuees.

Pirolozzi, an MS-3 - a cook - says extra provisions were boarded and the Sterrett remained at ready from December 8 of 1978 until January 25 of 1979.

Then the Sterrett was relieved by the USS Hewitt and proceeded to the Philippines.

On March 12, of 1979 the Sterrett was again sent to Hormuz - to sit and wait. This time the wait lasted until the end of April.

Again, it was "understood aboard" that Americans - including embassy personnel - had been advised to leave.

My files relating to those dates confirm that there were "recommendations," then "advisories," then "strong recommendations" that American civilian personnel leave Iran.

Most left by air; the sealift was never required.

Former State Secretary Kissinger and others have feared that for us to purchase the release of the hostages would invite an epidemic of kidnappings; that no American would be safe abroad or at home; that the United States might become like Italy where kidnaping for ransom is an almost daily occurrence.

Israelis, highly vulnerable to PLO kidnapers, have experienced not one kidnaping since the Israeli government announced that none would be ransomed. Any kidnap victim would be considered "dead."

It sounds callous - but it works.

Penultimate Word

To:
The Iranians
The Other Side of the World

Hi Dummies,
Did you hear the story about George & Sam? They were digging a ditch. Somehow they began to wonder why they had to work while the foreman just walked around looking important. George decided to find out. He climbed out of the ditch and asked the difference between himself and the foreman.

The foreman said, "The difference is stupidity." Then he offered to show George what he meant. He led George over to a large tree, held his hand in front of the tree and told George to hit his hand with his fist. George swung the foreman dropped his hand - George hit the tree! "Now do you understand?" asked the foreman.

"I think so" said George, who really didn't but he did not want any more lessons.

By the time George got back to the ditch, his hand hurt, but he at least felt superior to Sam since he now knew something Sam did not know. Sam asked him if he found out.

"Sure," said George, "It's stupidity." When Sam did not understand, George held one hand up in front of his own face and told Sam, "Hit my hand with your fist."

Somehow that story reminds me of you folks. You take hostages, then trade them for your own money.

In the process, you unified America in ways it has not been unified for years. This unity makes us stronger than you can imagine.

The only other thing you accomplished was that we now have a new butt for all of our jokes.

The Polish people and the Aggies are dancing in the street. Guess who will be the new dummies we tell jokes about?

And you earned it. I can hear it all now...

"Do you know how many Iranians it takes to change a light bulb?"

Answer: It takes 428. One to change it - 27 to get permission to change it - 400 to march at the rally blaming it on the Americans!

I hope you enjoy your new status in the world. You deserve it.

Warm Fuzzies,
Doug Manning

Thumbing Back

50 YEARS AGO

When the deadline arrived for paying car license fees, 1217 car registrations and 200 truck fees had been recorded, according to Jowell Murchison, deputy tax collector.

The next water bills will be figured on a different basis to that prevailing here for the past year or more. Where the minimum rate has been $2.00 a month for the one-inch meter or under, it is now only $1.50.

25 YEARS AGO

Hereford was enjoying a wind swept snow and by the late afternoon the ground was beginning to take on a white look. Only a trace of moisture had been recorded, however.

By proclamation of Governor Shivers, the week of March 5 through 10 has been set as Texas Public Schools Week for 1956.

All tax collection agencies in Deaf Smith County had collected at least 80 percent of taxes at the close of business today.

10 YEARS AGO

A bill to create a juvenile board in Deaf Smith County was introduced into the Texas Senate by Sen. Max Sherman today.

The regional director of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission says that "one of these days Hereford is going to find itself isolated" from many valuable things it could be a part of, because of its refusal to join the organization.

1 YEAR AGO

Deaf Smith County rancher Jim Conkwright was named "Citizen of the Year" before a capacity crowd at the annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce banquet held in the Bull Barn.

Hereford Independent School District citizens will have the opportunity to provide input in HISD's selection of textbooks to be used in classrooms next school year, according to district officials.

In so doing, she also demonstrates to the women of Wells that if prepared to take on all kinds of challenges, they can go forward and really make a difference. The college offers a course in petroleum engineering and has even secured funds from an energy company to sponsor student scholarships.

So while I would not advise every college to invest in the stock market, or drill for oil and gas, there is still something terribly exciting and wonderful about people willing to take intelligent risks when they know they might lose everything.

It reminds us that we still live in a system that can pay great gains to those with courage. It also reminds us, as President Reagan himself said, that "we are too great a nation to limit ourselves to small dreams." Finally, it reminds us that the pessimists are usually wrong, for as Shakespeare's Hamlet remarked to his cynical friend Horatio: "There are more things in heaven and earth...than are dreamt of in your philosophy."

According to "Americas Art," Pepin creates cosmic landscapes suggestive of life in other worlds. Bold, brilliant and defined colors flow in a transparent atmosphere and swirl around elliptical shapes that suggest the infinite. His highly personal expression is rooted in profound spiritual searching."

Pepin Hernandez Laos is a very versatile man, having been an architect, university professor, author of an architectural book and the head of the visual arts section of the Jalisco State Government, Bellas Artes.

Pepin has exhibited his works in all the major cities of Mexico, as well as Europe and many important cities in

Family Takes Unusual Retreat

By LOUISE WALKER
County Extension Agent
It seems last weekend, my whole family decided each had to have a release from the daily hectic schedule. All (except me) agreed the farm in Arkansas would be the ideal spot. I wanted them to go and I'd stay here and do my thing (sewing, income tax records, cleaning house, etc.-I enjoy being all alone with no distractions).

Nonetheless, my husband is so family oriented - it was either we all go together, or all stay home. So not to deprive my family from their weekend retreat, I went along.

Once we arrived at the grandparents in Van Buren, Arkansas - each did his thing. My husband, David, says plowing (discing and braking) keeps him from having ulcers. My in-laws took us out to eat twice. Instead, Dave stayed home and tilled the cool damp soil. Needless to say, I ate. Can't imagine turning food down for anything.

Bryan, our middle son spent his time riding the tractor with Dad - working just as hard. Because it was cooler than we expected, Bryan wore his Dad's Air Force jacket. The tail reached past his knees. He was a sight to behold.

Stuart, our oldest, spent his time fishing. He, brother, granddad, and a neighbor caught fish out of granddad's pond. It doesn't take long for Stuart to become an expert. After two fishing sessions and three fish, he's just that - an expert. Stuart spent the rest of his time trying to convince someone to turn him loose with a chain saw. He knows all about that, too!

Sis, our youngest and only daughter, spent her time in a quieter way. She's like her mother. She stayed inside with grandmother. They played the piano and sang. Next, they read books. Sis always just squawls and bawls when it comes time to return to Texas. Guess that tells you where she'd rather be. She's already planning to spend a good portion of the summer with her grandparents in Arkansas.

Movies are my thing. I never seem to find time when I'm home. David and I went to one hilarious movie on Saturday night, and alone! We had a free babysitter! Then on Sunday, we all went as a family. Hubby and the children thoroughly enjoyed "Hanger 18." One complaint - it wasn't long enough.

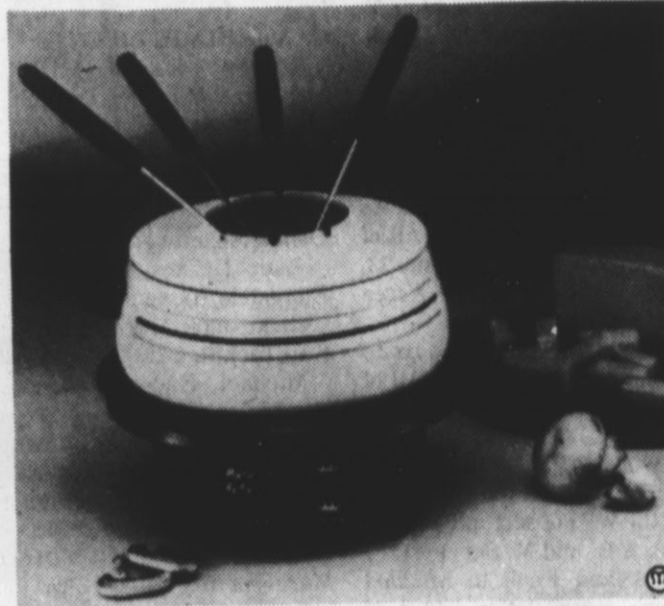

David and I have even met in person one of the stars, James Hampton. We didn't know he was a star until we got to the movie. James' parents rented a house from David's parents about ten years ago. The house was nearby, so we saw James and his family when he visited his parents. James does a lot of advertising for Kellogg's and other companies.

Our children were so impressed that we had met one of the movie stars!

The President has a retreat at Camp David. The Walkers have a retreat on a small acreage on the Arkansas River Valley in Arkansas. The grandparents make it a

Willa Bess Lawson Featured In Outstanding Names, Faces

Willa Bess Lawson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reece Lawson of Milo Center, has been chosen to be featured in the upcoming edition of America's Outstanding Names and Faces.

This selection identifies Miss Lawson as a member of a prestigious group comprised of less than 1 percent of all students nationwide.

Recognition in this publication is a national distinction bestowed exclusively upon those students who have satisfied select criteria of excellence in academics, athletics, extracurricular activities or community service.

These outstanding endeavors have earned these students the prominence in school and civic affairs which merit this award.

Wild fliers

The dark meat of the turkey is dark because it has been well-supplied with blood vessels. The white meat of the breasts — the muscles that power the wings — indicates that bred-for-eating turkeys are weak fliers at best. Wild turkeys, on the other hand, may be able to fly a mile, reaching speeds as fast as 45 mph.

The sun

The sun is 400,000 times as bright as the full moon and gives the earth six million times as much light as do all the other stars put together. Most of the stars that can easily be seen on any clear night are actually brighter than the sun.

Include Landscape Cost When Planning Home

COLLEGE STATION — Building a new home soon? If so, be sure to allow for the cost of landscape development, says Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Factors to consider are the driveway, patio, grading, retaining walls and screen fences. Under average conditions, the landscape budget should be 10 to 20 percent of the cost of the house and lot. This estimate does not include features such as a swimming pool or tennis court.

All too often the house design is chosen with no thought as to the lot on which it is to be located, notes Janne. Consequently, many valuable and irreplaceable trees and other landscape features must be removed to make room for the house.

The ideal procedure is to plan the house and landscape as a unit before construction begins. Design the house to fit the site, with a minimum of grading or cutting and filling of soil. The less the site must be changed, the better use one can make of existing features and still achieve unity in the total landscape design, says the horticulturist.

Other factors that should be considered when developing the site are views, topography (surface features), seasonal wind directions, sun angles, legal building restrictions and space usage, both inside and outside the house.

Newspaper Bible

"TRULY, THIS WAS THE SON OF GOD!"

The people jeered at Him as they walked by, and wagged their heads in mockery. "Ha! Look at you now!" they yelled at Him. "Sure, you can destroy the Temple and rebuild it in three days! If you're so wonderful, save yourself and come down from the cross."

The chief priests and religious leaders were also standing around joking about Jesus. "He's quite clever at 'saving' others," they said, "but he can't save himself!" "Hey there, Messiah!" they yelled at Him. "You 'King of Israel!' Come on down from the cross and we'll believe you!" And even the two robbers dying with Him, cursed Him.

About noon, darkness fell across the entire land, lasting until three o'clock that afternoon.

Then Jesus called out with a loud voice, "Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani?" ("My God, My God, why have You deserted Me?")

Some of the people standing there thought He was calling for the prophet Elijah.

So one man ran and got a sponge and filled it with sour wine and held it up to Him on a stick. "Let's see if Elijah will come and take him down!" he said.

Then Jesus uttered another loud cry, and dismissed His spirit.

And the curtain in the Temple was split apart from top to bottom.

When the Roman officer standing beside His cross saw how He dismissed His spirit, he exclaimed, "Truly, this was the Son of God!"

YFU Announces Scholarships

Youth for Understanding International Student Exchange (YFU) has announced the availability of additional scholarships for American high school students for year exchange programs, and new scholarships funded by the Finnish government for students going to Finland for the summer.

"If you are a high school student who dreams of visiting another country, this is your chance of a lifetime," reports Susan Greene, Director of the United States Program.

"We are seeking students open to adventure, with good academic backgrounds, who want to spend a year living in countries such as Germany, Sweden, Belgium, the Netherlands, Denmark, France or Norway. Each of the 500 students sent abroad in July and August for a year will live with carefully selected families, attend school, and learn a new language and culture. These countries offer unlimited opportunities for personal and academic growth, as most students mature and gain independence," said Greene.

"Some can qualify for advanced college language credit as a result of the exchange experience. These scholarships will make this opportunity available to more American teenagers," she said.

Buy before May 1st and you'll receive a $100 rebate direct from the factory . . . plus you can defer monthly payments until May, too. But $100 and deferred payments are not the only reasons for installing Gas Air Conditioning.

Gas Air Conditioning Systems are very energy efficient. They now use less gas energy because the constantly burning gas pilot has been replaced with a new pilotless ignition system. Pilotless ignition saves gas, and saving gas will save you money.

Gas Air Conditioning is also very dependable. It's built to last and last with no loss of cooling capacity. Hand-crafted of sturdy stainless steel components, Gas Air Conditioning has fewer moving parts and no compressor to wear out or break down. That means less wear and lower maintenance costs. And to prove its dependability, Gas Air Conditioning gives you the longest warranty — the 10-year "No Sweat" limited warranty** — twice as long as all others.

Gas Air Conditioning. It's energy efficient. It's designed to lower maintenance costs, to lower operating costs. Gas Air Conditioning will save energy and that will save you money. And when you combine Gas Air Conditioning with adequate conservation measures, like caulking, insulation, storm doors and windows, you'll save even more.

But don't wait too long. The $100 rebate ends May 1, 1981. Call now for a free home cooling survey and cost estimate. There's no obligation.

**Manufacturer's limited warranty covers all defects in material and workmanship on the sealed refrigeration unit for ten years from date of installation of the air conditioner when it is installed in a single-family residence. All other parts are warranted for one year from date of installation.

PIONEER NATURAL GAS COMPANY

Oilmen Confident in Reagan's Gas Decontrols

HOUSTON (AP) — No quick and dramatic increases in domestic crude oil reserves and production can be expected from President Reagan's termination of price controls eight months ahead of schedule.

But oilmen are confident the action, like former President Carter's phased decontrol actions of 1979, will stimulate explorations and encourage development of some production that had been marginally economic. And they contend further stimulation will result from further decontrol of natural gas price controls in 1985 and 1987.

The federal government has controlled the price of natural gas sold across state lines since 1954 when a Supreme Court decision upheld the right of the old Federal Power Commission to do so. The Natural Gas Act of 1978 extended federal controls into the intrastate gas market the first time. It created more than 20 categories of gas wells and set different prices and spelled out special rules for each category.

Some categories of "high cost" gas such as production from below 15,000 feet became exempt from the controls in late 1979 and deregulation is to follow for such categories as "new" gas and intrastate gas in 1985 and 1987.

Last August, the American Petroleum Institute made a study of early progress made since the 1979 decontrol actions.

It reported that gradual decontrol and increased revenues being earned despite the windfall profits tax were encouraging expansion of the search for oil and gas. It cited significant increases in capital and exploration budgets, seismic crews and drilling rigs at work and the number of wells completed.

"The sharp rate of decline in proved reserves has begun leveling off, and production figures for both oil and gas show a slight increase over those of a year ago," the report said.

The API said higher prices, besides stimulating exploration for new fields, are making it economic to keep some older fields producing longer than would have been possible under lower price ceilings.

"And every barrel produced in the United States is a barrel we do not have to buy from foreign producers," the API said.

The report said drilling, reserves, and production had been on downward trends most of the decade.

"Therefore, a dramatic turnaround could not be expected overnight," the API said.

"But in a little more than one year, partial decontrol of oil prices and higher prices for some categories of gas have contributed to a sharp acceleration in the search for more domestic oil and gas."

Between 1970 and 1979, proved domestic crude oil reserves dropped from a record 39 billion barrels to 27 billion. Crude production dropped from a 1970 record of 9,637,000 barrels a day to 8,132,000 in 1976 before Alaska's North Slope output led a rebound to a 1980 level of about 8,623,000 a day.

HHS Girls Lose Overtime Game, 42-40

By MAURI MONTGOMERY
Brand Sports Editor

PLAINVIEW - Forty seven seconds remained in regulation play when Plainview girls' basketball coach Melynn Hunt first threatened and then pleaded and begged her offensive force Gay Hemphill to come out of the closet - to shoot the ball, to break the 36-36 deadlock the Dogettes were facing against Hereford.

HHS mentor Larry Sower's used the Plainview timeout to do a little plea bargaining himself. His team had overcome a three-point deficit (a near impossible task that took a whole quarter of play) and he wanted the victory.

"But as that tie ball game yielded to an overtime battle, it became apparent Hunt had been the more convincing of the two generals here Friday night.

Hemphill, who had only seven points over the length of the contest, made six of Plainview's last eight points to give the Dogettes a 44-42 victory over Hereford.

"We did everything we wanted to do in this game except play with confidence,"

Sower's said of his team's struggle which ended in its second district disappointment and first-half league play at 2-2. "We set out to shut off Hemphill and we did that with great success except in overtime. But even though we stopped her in regulation, we still let her presence intimidate us."

quarter's buzzer, Donna Jackson rifled to back-to-back 30-footers to extend Plainview's lead to 35-30.

Sowers opted to slow the pace down by calling a timeout, and Hereford closed the gap again afterwards.

On the opening possession of the fourth period, post Louise Mays stole an errant out of the All-Everything shooting slump - a slump that had cost the Dogettes at least 20 points in the scoring niche.

"Please sh-o-o-t the ball Gay," she whimpered. What's the matter with you, why aren't you shooting? Please, just shoot the ball, will you?"

The tactic worked, but not at first.

With :47 left in regulation play, Plainview set up for one last ditch effort to win the contest outright.

The Dogettes stalled and set up for the one good shot which Hemphill will get and when it came, Hemphill barreled in for a layup for 10 feet out and missed. Overtime.

She stole the show in the final three minutes however, as she tried the outside ranges.

"We messed up a little there at the last," Sowers commented almost amusingly Saturday morning after he had calmed down. "We had controlled her so well on the inside all night long, that we forgot to watch for her outside. It was a mistake."

The Plainview post lofted a 30-foot shot to its mark with 2:40 left in overtime and then hurled another 30 plus basket in 40 seconds later to extend Plainview's advantage to 40-36.

She then completed the front end of a one-and-one attempt off a Louise Mays foul before Hereford answered with two charity shots by Harkins (Harkins shared HHS's second leading scoring honors with post Deborah Rogers after both netted 10 on the conflict) and a miraculous Lori Albracht rebound shot at 1:17.

With the score reading

41-40, Hemphill added another bucket only to be echoed by Harkins before PHS's Cindy Black clinched the victory with a free-throw.

"We played a good ball game overall, but we can't be satisfied with just playing a good game," Sowers added. "We've got to learn to win the big ones - do what it takes and we still aren't showing the confidence it takes to do that yet."

The Whitefaces, now 21-3 overall, will meet Lubbock High here Tuesday at 6 p.m. in the first game of second-half league play. The HHS crew concluded first-half play totting an even 2-2 mark while Monterey claimed that segment with unbeaten status.

SPORTS

Sunday, February 1, 1981

"Defensively we played a good ball game, but offensively we didn't execute well. It was just like the Monterey game. We had the effort - more than enough, but we just didn't execute when we had to."

Hemphill, a highly touted 6-0 post that had previously broken all former Plainview scoring records over the past three seasons (she, in addition, was averaging more than 24 points a game as the league's leading scorer this year), was held scoreless until the fourth quarter after she made the front end of a one-and-one situation.

But Plainview didn't really need Hemphill Friday night. There were the Pam Williams' (5-5 guard who netted 14 points as Plainview's leading scorer thrust) and the Donna Jacksons (5-7 post who compiled 11 points).

After HHS forward Lori Albracht pushed in a last second fast break layup to keep the Whitefaces within a three-point 31-28 deficit at the third quarter's buzzer, Donna Jackson rifled to back-to-back 30-footers to extend Plainview's lead to 35-30.

That score combined with Louise Mays' steal and layup 20 seconds later nudged the score to 35-34 in Plainview's favor.

Gay Hemphill made her only scoring effort of regulation play become reality after she sank a charity shot on a Cathy Lane foul with 2:12 before team captian Terri Harkins delivered a pass inside to Mays for the tying bucket 36-36 with :50 seconds remaining.

That's when Plainview's competitive coach Melynn Hunt tried to charm Hemphill

Staubach, Lilly In Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) - Former Navy quarterback Roger Staubach and one-time Texas Christian lineman Bob Lilly were among 11 men named Saturday to the College Football Hall of Fame.

Others on the list, announced by the National Football Foundation, were Victor Botari, a University of California halfback from 1936 through 1939; Nick Draho, a tackle at Cornell University from 1938 through 1940; Hugh McElhenny, a halfback at the University of Washington from 1949 through 1951, and Thurman McGraw, a tackle at Colorado State University from 1946 through 1949.

Also, George Morris, a center at Georgia Tech from 1950 through 1952; Tommy Nobis, a linebacker at the University of Texas from 1962 through 1965; Hank Lauricella, a tailback at the University of Tennessee from 1948 through 1952; George Taliaferro, a halfback at the University of Indiana from 1945 through 1948, and Alvin Wistert, a tackle at Boston University and the University of Michigan from 1946 through 1949.

Staubach, who retired last season after a storied career with the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League, was a Heisman Trophy winner for the Midshipmen in 1963.

LAYUP-- Lori Albracht lays one up as team's leading scorer.

Rozelle Worries About Inflation Too

HONOLULU (AP) - Pete Rozelle's chief worry these days is Al Davis and his lawsuit, but the National Football League commissioner is also concerned with things such as inflation. Asked about the rising cost of attending games in most NFL cities, Rozelle said: "I think you can price yourself to the point you're going to lose interest. I'd like to see the entire economics of the spot level off."

"Everything has been skyrocketing in recent years: television revenue, player salaries."

He was referring to Davis' attempt to move the Oakland Raiders to Los Angeles in contempt of the league and the rest of the club owners.

Davis, general managing partner of the Raiders, has filed an antitrust suit seeking to have ruled invalid an NFL rule requiring three-fourths of the league's 28 owners to approve any franchise move. The owners earlier voted 23-0 not to allow Davis to move the Raiders to Los Angeles. The case is scheduled to go to court Feb. 9 in Los Angeles.

Boys Fall to PHS

By MAURI MONTGOMERY
Brand Sports Editor

PLAINVIEW - The point of question was - How does one stop Plainview's 6-1 post Gil Wright? The Hereford boys' varsity basketball team spent the entire night trying to figure that one out here Tuesday, and they never did find the answer.

Wright, scoring nine points in the first quarter alone, racked up 22 points overall to eventually lead the Bulldogs past Hereford 69-52.

The win boosted Plainview to 12-15 and 1-1 in district play while Hereford dropped to 3-21 and 0-2 in league competition.

But who could watch any one particular player with the free-for-all playground vs. playground battle that took place?

Both teams, rising to the demands placed on one another, did their best to get a score every time they got their hands on the ball. If they didn't get the ball, they would wrestle for it.

And it was a battle that later saw players from both sides ejected from the game for unsportsmanlike conduct in the waning minutes.

Hereford, after obtaining success on almost every level of play in the first quarter en route to a two point deficit 15-13, soon began to feel the pressure of a cracker-box gymnasium loaded with cracker-box players who in turn played cracker-box ball.

Six-foot Plainview forward Lee Carter (PHS's second leading scorer behind Wright with 16 points - guard Alton Jackson also netted 16 points) took a rebound in for a fast break layup early in second quarter play to push Plainview out front 17-13. Jackson then skidded by Hereford defenders in much the same manner less than a minute later for a 19-13 lead.

But the Whitefaces, still clinging for parity in the clash answered Plainview in almost every sequence of scoring.

There was a critical overriding factor in that attempted parity however, Hereford never got as many shots because it was never able to overcome Plainview's rebounding ability.

For every two Plainview buckets, there was only one awaiting Hereford.

With just over five minutes remaining before halftime, Garry Parman (Hereford's leading point thruster with 14 on the night) drove inside and down the free-throw lane for a layup to slacken Plainview's hold on the contest to 21-17.

Two Bulldog buckets, one coming from Wright and the other from Jackson, extended the margin to 24-17 before Parman hit a 15-foot jumper with 5:02 left.

And both teams continued to trade shots until they had come to rest at 35-31 (Plainview's favor) at halftime.

But the cracker-box busted open in the third as Plainview outscored the Whitefaces 17-6 and hurled its way to a 15 point 52-37 lead at that quarter's termination.

The playground ball administered by the Bulldogs never let up however. And despite Hereford's management of that type of play in the final period (Plainview out delivered Hereford by only one point 16-15 in the fourth quarter), the Whitefaces couldn't escape the deficit it had inflicted on them in the third quarter.

Less than a minute was left in the clash when Garry Parman took a feed from forward Mike Fraser to bring the score 62-50. He then added both ends of a one-and-one situation 20 seconds later on Alton Jackson's ensuing foul.

Plainview's highstrung Wright took a fast break pass from Ritchie Norell to make it 64-52 and Alton Jackson hit the front end of a charity shot to give Plainview a 13-point advantage.

That's when Dan Giliuson told his crew to intentionally foul, in hopes that his team might be able to make Plainview caught up its possession of the ball.

Mike Fraser did, and an excited Eric Woods threw a fist - both players were ejected and the following technical fouls brought Hereford to its 11th straight loss on the year.

The Whitefaces are scheduled to meet Lubbock High here Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. in their third game of league play. The team then meet traditional league powerhouse Lubbock Monterey in Lubbock Friday.

Pro Am Tourney Disrupted by Storm

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) - Tom Watson generally doesn't mind "Crosby weather" - the rain, wind and cold that often plague the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.

"That's part of it," said the man who ranks as golf's most successful campaigner over the last four years.

But there are limits. Watson threw his hands in the air in mock surrender and cried, "Enough. Enough," after another rain-out Friday had further disrupted the tournament schedule, forced a reduction in the purse, cut the event to three days and wiped out television coverage of the final round.

"I was ready to play when I got here," said Watson, who is opening his season in this tournament. "Now, I'm REALLY ready; anxious, nervous, antsy."

He and the rest of the 168 pros and an equal number of amateurs and celebrities have been idled for two days by storms which dumped some four inches of rain and hail on the area, flooding the three Monterey Peninsula courses and forcing cancellation of play both Thursday and Friday.

Those rain-outs threw a major kink in the tournament schedule. It has been reduced from 72 holes to 54 and is set to end on Monday. Under the contract, the tournament could go to Tuesday. But, after a lengthy conference between officials of Crosby sponsors, the PGA Tour and CBS-TV, "no one was interested in a Tuesday finish," said Clyde Mangum, deputy commissioner of the tour.

With the tournament reduced to three days, the $300,000 purse was cut to $225,000.

And CBS withdrew plans to televise Monday's play. The network "will not telecast on Monday because there is no assurance they could show a winner," Mangum said.

The network's camera crews were set for coverage only from Pebble Beach and were not geared to cover Cypress Point and Spyglass Hill. All three courses will be played Monday and the eventual winner could come from any of them.

"The courses had reached a saturation point," Mangum said. "You could get the water off the greens, but it'd ooze right out of the ground again."

CBS will televise, from Pebble Beach only, portions of play Saturday and Sunday. To accommodate TV, the published pairings were juggled so that most of the celebrity amateurs, including former President Gerald Ford and a host of show-business and sports stars, will be within camera range Sunday.

TP&WD Moves Ahead with Habitat; 'Swaps' Help in Restoring Antelope

By JIM STEIERT
Outdoors Editor

AUSTIN -- Ted Clark, director of the wildlife division of the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department informed members of the Texas Outdoor Writers Association here recently that the TP&WD is moving ahead with habitat acquisition work wherever possible and is also working to rebuild populations of certain game species in the state.

During an address at the 23rd annual TOWA convention Clark touched on areas including waterfowl regulations, public hunting areas, game animal stocking and technical guidance programs provided by the TP&WD.

According to Clark, the state is currently in a period of stabilized regulations concerning waterfowl hunting and is marking good progress in its pheasant establishment program despite growing costs.

"We're in a five-year evaluation period of waterfowl hunting regulations at this time," said Clark.

"During this period the effects of regulations in Canada and the U.S. are being evaluated. There is varying opinion on whether the seasons have any effect on the overall population," he added.

Clark admitted that non-toxic shot regulations in certain areas of Texas remain controversial, but added that the steel shot zone is being expanded somewhat again in 1981.

"I anticipate the possibility of an even further expansion of the steel shot zone for 1982," Clark remarked.

According to Clark, steel shot regulations are adopted some 18 months in advance to allow stocking of the proper hunting ammunition by merchants in the areas designated for steel shot.

Touching on upland game species Clark explained that the overall pheasant program in Texas continues to progress, although the coastal pheasant population was impacted in 1979-80 by heavy rainfall during the nesting season which resulted in lower pheasant numbers.

"We hope to establish a pheasant population in the Blacklands. A mass-capture technique for trapping pheasant still eludes us, however. The most successful technique, using a helicopter to capture birds, has grown quite expensive. A grant from the Safari Club International for the lease of a helicopter has allowed us to continue this program," said Clark.

According to Clark, Texas sportsmen can expect to continue seeing modified quail limits based on the year's population.

"Ten more counties will be added to the spring turkey gobbler season in April of this year," stated Clark.

"Opposition to a spring gobbler season is declining. Our eastern turkey program is on the way to establishing a very viable population in the eastern part of the state," the wildlife official remarked.

"We have finally been able to tap into the Mississippi-Alabama race of turkey, the finest we feel we can put into Texas," he added.

Dove hunting remains a top sport in Texas and according to Clark, despite opposition from some factions, 75 percent of the state's sportsmen favor continuance of full-day dove hunting.

"We continue to have the option to split the state in up to three zones for mourning dove hunting. There is opposition to this move, however, from th El Paso and San Antonio areas where sportsmen feel they would be deprived of some of their best hunting. A split dove season is favored in the South zone, but the issue is split about 50-50 in the North," stated Clark.

"The department is moving along on acquiring whitewing dove habitat in Hidalgo County. A 109-acre area is likely for the next acquisition. We're seeking $424,000 from the whitewing stamp fund. We're paying a very high price for whitewing habitat of about $1,000 per acre," stated the wildlife division director.

Turning his attention to the state's deer herd, Clark admitted that his department continues to get mixed reaction concerning either-sex seasons.

"We are confident that either-sex harvest is a responsible tool for controlling the population. The counties we selected for either-sex were chosen because of their long histories of chronic whitetail overpopulation. It is workable so long as the take of antlerless animals is less than 20 percent of the overall population, but the future of the program is still in question," said Clark.

According to Clark, the TP&WD has had a technical guidance program to help landowners better manage their deer herds since 1973.

"Recommendations by the department cover some 17 million acres of land and 392 owners have sought assistance in habitat manipulation. We've also had 525 landowner contacts on habitat preservation," said Clark.

The wildlife director pointed out that the TP&WD now has 15 areas covering 227,000 acres for public hunting and that nine additional areas covering 200,000 acres could be taken on by the department.

According to Clark, the TP&WD is very active in the "let's swap" category these days as it seeks to obtain desired wildlife species for the state.

"Restocking of antelope is moving along. We got 100 head of antelope from the state of Colorado in exchange for some crappie and catfish and Bob Kemp told me to make that trade as long as we can," quipped Clark.

"We got 92 more antelope in January from Colorado, this time in exchange for fish and some turkeys," he related.

Clark reported that the state is also due to receive some wild-trapped turkey from Louisiana and Mississippi in exchange for some Texas pheasants, and a gift of some 20 live-trapped turkey is also expected from Oklahoma.

SPRING TURKEY PERMIT DRAWING
Applications for the 1981 spring turkey hunts on four Texas Parks and Wildlife Department wildlife management areas are being accepted by the department through 5 p.m. Feb. 23, 1981.

Applications are available at most P&WD offices, by writing the TP&WD, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, TX 78744, or by calling the toll-free number in Austin at 1-800-252-9327.

If an applicant's name is drawn, there will be a $10 fee required for the hunt. If that lucky hunter cannot attend the hunt, an alternate hunter's name will be drawn.

A total of 158 permits will be issued for the four management areas for the gobbler-only season on the Howe, Kerr, Matador and Engling areas. The Gene Howe wma will receive 30 permits and the Matador wma will get 45 permits. The Howe area is located seven modules east of Canadian in the Texas Panhandle and the Matador area is located 11 miles north of Paducah in Cottle county. Last spring, hunters bagged nine gobblers on the Howe area and three gobblers on the Matador area.

The hunts on the P&WD management areas will be held on April 11, 12, 18, 19; and 25, 26. Each hunt will start at noon on Saturday and end at noon on Monday. Firearms will be restricted to shotguns only for the management hunts.

The general spring turkey hunts in 72 Texas counties will be held from April 18 through May 3, 1981.

Wildlife biologists wish to point out that these management areas gobbler hunts are part of the continuing turkey management program and are not an indication of an excessive turkey population. All four management areas do have well-established turkey populations.

Module storage units solve two problems... more storage space plus storage which won't outlive its usefulness because of easy rearranging. A good beginning is making a set of 1' x 2' x 6" units, adding two or three shelves inside the unit as desired. Two 3/4" ash or birch 4' x 8' plywood sheets will usually make two to three cases. Cut the sheets so the good side of the wood will be on the inside of the cases. Make rabbit cuts at the corners and use dadoes to support the shelves. One-quarter inch plywood backs can be added if desired. Put together with glue and finishing nails. Paint or stain. Rough edges can be covered with 1/4" wood strips or wood tape. Different sizes and shapes add interest to any grouping.

Lake O'Pines Strippers Boom

AUSTIN -- Lake O' the Pines in Marion County in East Texas is in the heart of largemouth bass country, but hybrid striped bass apparently are doing well, too.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department net surveys recently yielded 23 of the hybrids, which are a cross between the striped bass and white bass. The netted fish ranged in size from a pound to three pounds, 12 ounces, according to biologist Alan Forshage of Tyler.

Stomach examinations show the hybrids are feeding exclusively on threadfin shad, a forage fish preferred by several species of game fish. He said the hybrids were in good condition and exhibited good growth rates.

The netted fish are believed to be part of a stocking in 1979. However, Forshage said fishing reports indicate many hybrids in the four-to-seven-pound class stocked in 1977 also have been caught.

Native sport fish such as largemouth bass, channel catfish, crappie and white bass also were collected, Forshage said. He said subsequent stockings of hybrid stripers are planned for 1981 to keep the put-grow-and-take fishery going.

Blacks' Poverty, Fatalism Tied to Deaths

ATLANTA (AP) — The poverty and fatalism that have branded black existence throughout American history are closely entwined with the murders and abductions of 17 black children, according to Atlanta sociologists.

Since July 1979, police say, 14 black children between the ages of 7 and 15 have been slain; three others remain missing. All were from low-income areas on the city's southside.

An independent investigator, however, said

Thursday that the toll figure is arbitrary and should include at least 24 youths, adding seven others who are missing and whom police list as runaways.

The city has had a curfew in force since autumn to try to keep children off the streets after dark. Almost all the known victims were unsupervised when they were abducted — their parents simply did not know where they were.

Black children often are not supervised, not because of deliberate neglect or lack of concern by their parents, but simply because life at the poverty level forces them to be on their own, said Fred Crawford, director of Emory University's Center for Research and Social Change.

"We talk about vulnerability in the black kids, but it...has been a necessity, a pattern for a long time," he said. "These kids are different from white people in that they frequently have to do more things by themselves.

"They are out more, sometimes working or running errands, and their parents don't have cars to carry them around," he said.

Black children are frequently left to their own devices because their parents usually work during the day, he added.

"Contrast that to the white suburban areas, where most of the mothers are still there most of the day and don't let their children out of sight without knowing where they are going," Crawford said.

"I think it's probably true that these children are more independent-type kids who operate without much adult supervision," said Anna Grant, head of the sociology department of Morehouse College.

"I'm not talking about neglectful parents. I'm talking about a lifestyle that has nothing to do with a parent's love or concern for their children."

Police have formed a 35-member task force to investigate the slayings and disappearances. No arrests have been made. At a news conference Thursday, President Reagan promised that federal officials would meet soon with Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson to try to help in what Reagan called "a most tragic case."

Ms. Grant said the black community "is almost paranoid" and that people stay indoors far more than before the killings began.

"It is really tragic for poor families with overcrowded households. The fact that children could go out and play helped to ease the physical crowding in the homes," she said. "Parents could say, 'go out and play.' Parents are reluctant to say that anymore."

The first child slain, Edward Smith, 14, attended Therrell High School in southwest Atlanta, where a classmate, Lee Manuel Goch, is among those who are missing but considered runaways.

A 15-year-old Therrell student who asked not to be identified said he has definitely reacted to the child deaths.

"I just try to stay home a lot, but at night I carry a knife when I go out. And me and my partners stay together," he said. "We usually are out together, but if I was out by myself, I would carry some protection."

That sense of self-reliance can be lethal, Crawford said. Many "street-wise" black youths have a treacherous sense of false security that short-circuits common caution, he said.

"They all think they are big enough or fast enough to get away. That kind of confidence it pitting a mouse against a cat," he said.

Crawford added that because of laws that discriminated against blacks for decades, black families often feel fatalistic, unable to help themselves. There is the idea that "there are some things in life you can't protect yourself from," Crawford said.

Authorities need to help youths understand they are up against "something they have never seen — a monster coming out of the sewer," he added. "These kids don't know what they're up against."

Crawford criticized the police for their refusal to disclose information about the investigation. He said the refusal prevents concerned parents from telling their children what to avoid.

If kids "knew anything about how the kidnappings are done, they would be able to protect themselves," Crawford said. "The parents could say, 'If you see a blue car, run. If you see a man in uniform, you don't have to go up and talk with him.'"

"If there is any information they can provide that would help protect children, it seems to me they are duty-bound to say it even if it gives the killer an advantage," he added.

"I think these children deserve the best protection this world can offer them."

Crops Have Been Harvested From W.T.'s New Greenhouse

WTSU — Radishes, onions and lettuce have been harvested from the winter garden in the attached solar greenhouse built last November by 25 Panhandle area residents and the West Texas State University Alternative Energy Institute.

Interested persons may view the attached greenhouse during an afternoon open house on Saturday, Feb. 7.

The greenhouse was built on the south side of the Combs-Worley Cottage of the Amarillo Children's Home at 3400 S. Bowie.

From 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Feb. 7 visitors will see the 18-foot-by-12-foot attached greenhouse which was constructed with new materials for less than $1,800. Workshop participants will answer questions on design and construction.

The November workshop was sponsored by the Texas Solar Energy Society and WTSU's Alternative Energy Institute. Coordinating team members who will answer questions at the open house are Stacy Reese, instructor of horticulture in the Department of Plant Science of the WTSU School of Agriculture; Dr. Ron McBride, assistant professor of industrial education and technology; and Dr. Earl Gilmore, research professor with the WTSU Alternative Energy Institute.

Area workshop participants were selected from applicants in Amarillo, Canyon, White Deer, Perryton, Friona, Pampa and Spearman. Several of the participants plan to attend the open house.

During the open house, persons may register for a Solar Greenhouse Seminar, a one-day seminar on how to design and build an attached solar greenhouse which has been planned for Saturday, April 11, at WTSU.

Meg Mooring, research associate with the Alternative Energy Institute, said a fee of $30 per participant will be charged for the seminar. Registration forms will be available on Feb. 7, she said.

Solar greenhouses are attached to the southern exposure of buildings to attract maximum sunlight, according to the team members. Sunlight filters through fiberglass panels to heat water stored in barrels. The warm air from the water rises and circulates throughout the greenhouse and is vented into the adjoining cottage.

An additional hearing source is provided and the greenhouse adds living space.

Realtor Education Work is Stressed

Benny McMahan of Dallas, new president of the Texas Association of Realtors, recently stressed his strong interest in the work of the Texas Realtors Foundation in enriching real estate educational programs at Texas Colleges and Universities. He was speaking to the trustees in Austin.

McMahan challenged the trustees "to set their goals to go beyond the immediate Realtor community in developing their grant capabilities." He emphasized the possible interest and support of professionals with whom the Realtor works. "I believe that title companies, savings and loan institutions and mortgage bankers will also appreciate our goal of assisting college level educators with their real estate curriculum."

At the Austin session Beth Carter of Fort Worth, retiring president of the foundation, welcomed Marian Bumbalek as the new president. Others joining the Bumbalek slate were J.B. Goodwin, Austin, vice president; Bill Schroeter, Nederland, secretary; and James T. Sawyer, Austin, treasurer. Sawyer is the executive vice president of the Texas Association of Realtors.

Others serving on the foundation trustee list are Edwin Terry, Beaumont, former chairman of the Texas Real Estate Commission; P.M. Brown of Texarkana; William Nussbaum, Brownsville; Fred C. Gage, Odessa, TAR vice president; and George Tucker, Universal City.

Grants in the past have been awarded in such areas as extending the real estate curriculum, helping a variety of graduate studies and aiding in the purchase of a new real estate library.

Bumbalek announced liaison officers to work directly with such schools as Odessa College, West Texas State University, Texas Christian University, Southern Methodist University, the University of Texas at Austin and at Arlington, North Texas State University, East Texas State University, San Antonio College and the University of Houston, Downtown Campus.

The foundation has also given funds for holding special real estate career days, resulting in exposing university students to the experience of men and women firmly established in development of new towns, large residential brokerage offices and rural land planning.

In a brief ceremony Bumbalek acknowledged "the outstanding contributions" of Charles Quartaro, Houston, on behalf of the Southern Title Co.; John Puff, Fort Worth, on behalf of the National Million Dollar Club; and Fred Gage, Odessa; on behalf of his local board of Realtors.

Three new areas of programs will be developed by the foundation. They are the Fellows program, the Friends of the Foundation, and the Scholarship program.

Group Decides Against Move

DALLAS (AP) — An Illinois organization has decided against relocating Cuban refugees to seven East Texas counties because of strenuous objections from area residents.

World Relief Organization issued a statement Thursday from its Wheaton office, saying "the communities indicated they were not in favor of the resettlement" of the 5,800 refugees still at Fort Chaffee, Ark.

The statement noted the organization resettled a group of Cubans in Haltom City last fall.

"After this experience, which was very favorable, we were asked again for help through the citizenry of East Texas."

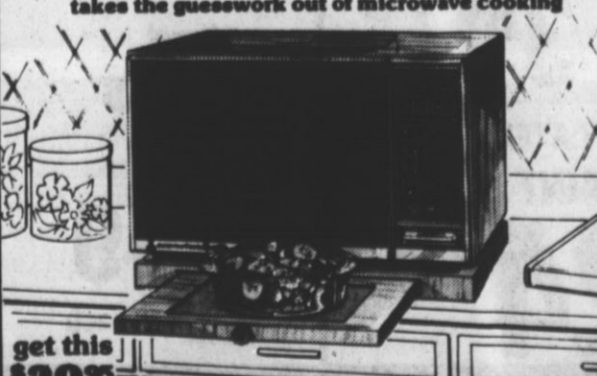

The Justice Department

contacted key East Texas public officials about the proposed relocation, and the officials were told there was a possibility as many as 2,000 Cubans would be sent to the area if jobs and housing could be found.

The group worked through Ron Meers of Bellvue Missions in Hurst, who told politicians and area residents at a Jan. 13 meeting in Marshall that there never had been a plan to locate more than 300 refugees in the area.

Former Residents' Grandson Marries in Gonzales

Miss April Botts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gandre of Fredericksburg, and Timothy Massie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Massie, former Hereford residents, now of Gonzales, were married recently in the Monthalia United Methodist Church in Gonzales in a candlelight ceremony officiated by Msgr. Edward Bily of St. James Catholic Church and the Rev. C. David Crabtree II.

The bridegroom is the grandson of Otto Massie who was a long-time resident of Hereford and a county commissioner and realtor of Hereford for many years. Massie and his wife now reside in Colorado Health Care Center in Arvado, Colo., and recently celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary. Prenuptial music was played on the organ by Mrs. Gerald Jenkins of Fredericksburg who also accompanied the soloist, Lisa Weinheimer of Fredericksburg, as she sang

"We've Only Just Begun" prior to the ceremony, "You Light Up My Life" as the couple lit the memory candle, and "A Time For Us." A reading from the Bible was given by Marcie Jenkins prior to the exchange of vows. Vows were spoken before an altar flanked by candelabra and greenery centered with an arrangement of pink gladiolus and burgundy roses. Lighted hurricane lamps which were nestled in greenery, burgundy and pink silk flowers, decorated the altar railing and pews.

The bride entered the church with her father wearing a designer gown, country elegance, of ivory lace featuring a sweetheart neckline with standup collar. The lined bodice and three-tiered skirt was trimmed with satin ribbons. The lace sleeves, long and fitted, were accented with tiny pearl buttons. To complete her attire, she chose a western style ivory hat which was fashioned with a large ivory tulle bow in back, falling into a hip-length veil. She carried a bouquet of silk burgundy, plum and pink roses and carnations and greenery with matching streamers.

Preceding the bride were the flower girls, Courtney Gandre of San Antonio, and Shelly Wilkins of Austin.

The bride's maid of honor was Debbie Jung of Fredericksburg, and bridesmaids were Pam Atkinson, Belinda Wright and Jody Hurst of Austin.

Bryan Shackelford of Fredericksburg served as ringbearer.

Serving the groom as best man was Jeffrey Braune, while groomsmen were Sandy Vollenine, Rick Walker and Michael Weber of Fredericksburg, brother of the bride.

Ushers were Carl Weber, Fredericksburg, a brother of the bride, Scott and Jeffrey Massie and Mike Walshak.

Following the wedding, a reception and dance was held in Kuntschik Hall which was decorated in the country and western motif. Guests were registered with Marcie Jenkins at a table adorned with a basket of ricebags and ring-banded wedding scrolls.

The bride's table was draped in white underskirt with net overlay and was centered with the memory candle arrangement from the church. The candle was surrounded by pink gladiolus, burgundy roses and greenery. The table also featured a three-tiered cake decorated with burgundy and pink rosebuds, and the top tier was adorned with twin wedding bells with touches of roses and net. The cake was served by Becky Dziuk of Dallas and Diedra Dziuk of McAllen, cousins of the groom, and former Hereford residents.

Punch was served from a crystal service by Mrs. Ronald Shackelford of Fredericksburg, and Mrs. Kenneth Tate.

The groom's table was covered with a burgundy cloth and centered with a western rope and cactus arrangement featuring a tied knot which was repeated in decorations on the round German chocolate cake. Serving the cake were Arlette Wilson of Harwood and Robin Arbough of Fredericksburg. Coffee was served from a silver service by Katherine Loth of Fredericksburg and Mrs. Jeffrey Braune.

When the couple left for a short wedding trip, the bride was wearing a burgundy blazer, matching tweeds with pink blouse. They will live in Gonzales where the bride is a teacher and the groom has employment with Poe Electric Company.

Out of town guest were from Fredericksburg, Dallas, McAllen, Austin, San Antonio and Houston.

From Ryan's Corner

By Allison Ryan

Growing up seems kinda funny sometimes. Have you ever noticed that a 10-year old wants to be 13, and the 13-year-old wants to be 18 and the 18-year-old wants to be 21. Then after 21 it doesn't really matter until you reach 30 years old and then you want to be 21 again.

There are all kinds of descriptions for certain age groups like the innocent years, the teenagers, the young adults. After that, people pass to the middle ages, over the hill gang and the golden ages.

Friends have often laughed at the remark I have made about looking forward to growing old. Being an "old lady" who looks back on the years of growing old and laughing at it all, fascinates me.

This image comes from the time I have spent with my grandmothers. They have spent a lot of time laughing at the stories I told them about growing up. The laugh was one of knowing exactly what I was feeling. They also cried for me when things didn't seem to go as I had planned. When I would look at those grand old ladies, they represented the golden ages to me. However, as I begin to see the world as it is, I wonder.

There was an old woman in the grocery store the other day. She carefully chose each item and then watched closely as they were checked at the register. When everything was totaled she carefully counted out each dollar bill, nickel and dime.

She was a small lady slightly bent. The lines on her face meant years of living and surviving. If asked, she could probably give sound advice about how to survive this old world, but nobody asked her. In fact people seem somewhat impatient with her slow movements. I wanted to reach out to her and tell her thank you for what she has contributed to this life, but I didn't.

It seemed to be such an injustice that this woman had given so much and she was still giving and no one really gave a damn.

So, this is what growing old is all about—counting out precious nickels and dimes—and they call it the golden ages.

To Be Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Jose C. Tijerina Jr., of 514 Knight announce the engagement of their daughter, Yolanda, to Raymond Turrubiates Jr., the son of Mrs. Jimmy Moreno of 211 Blevins and Raymond Turrubiates Sr., of Lovington N.M. The couple plan to exchange nuptial vows June 6 at San Jose Church. The bride-elect is a senior at Hereford High School and is presently employed by M.E. Moses. The prospective bridegroom attended Hereford High School and is now employed by Barrett and Crofoot West.

Ann Landers

Intentions of a Ring

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been bothered by something for a long time. I am sure you can help me.

When I was 15, a Jewish boy wanted to have sexual relations with me. I asked, "What will you do if I get pregnant?" He answered, "I will give you a ring."

Does this mean something special among people of that religious faith? We lived in New York at the time but now we live in Spokane and I don't know any Jewish people here except a doctor. I am uncomfortable about asking him such a personal question.

I read your column every day and will be looking for your answer. —One You Have Helped In The Past

DEAR ONE: The fact that the boy was Jewish didn't give the offer of a ring any special significance that I know of. He was just another dude on the make, dear.

A ring does not necessarily indicate the intention to wed. Lots of guys give girls rings but don't marry them. There are friendship rings, class rings, also a ring on the telephone and one around the bathtub. In any event, I am glad you asked me. That's what I'm here for.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Now that the holiday season is behind us (thank God), I want to comment on a letter you ran telling a woman who complained about an office party to which wives were not invited. You said, "If it's company policy, be a good sport about it."

Every year I have to be a good sport about birthday celebrations, secretary - boss day luncheons and Christmas parties where liquor is served and the stenographers and secretaries dance with the executives. Frankly, I have had it with this kind of coziness. Your letter didn't help matters any.

Office parties without spouses can start a lot of trouble. Companies are not obligated to entertain their employees. If they were smart, they would spend that money to promote family solidarity. A person who is happy at home will perform better on the job.

Of course, your column was pinned on the bulletin board in my husband's office. For a person who is supposed to solve problems you sure do know how to make trouble.—Nuts To You In Old Mazoo

DEAR MAZOO: You must be a new reader. Please wipe the foam off your mouth and let me explain.

Years ago I came out flat-footed against office Christmas parties. Too many people get drunk at these bashes and disgrace themselves. I suggested giving the money to charity instead.

The party the wife wrote about was to honor the vice-president who was about to be married. It was a one-time affair. They wanted to keep it "employees only." The wife who complained said if her husband went she was going to leave him. I thought she was being unreasonable and said so. Now do you get it?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 75-year-old woman with a bad case of spider veins on my legs and thighs. I love to swim but have voided it these last few years because the veins are so unsightly.

If it's all right to wear pantyhose with shorts, why not with a bathing suit? What do you think? —Not So Young In Ky.

DEAR KY.: Of course it's all right. Go ahead and do it. You may start a trend.

Couple Celebrates 35th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Gid Brown will be honored at a reception today in celebration of their 35th Wedding Anniversary. The reception will be held in their home at 805 Baltimore.

Friends are invited to attend this reception from 4-5:30 p.m. Hosting the event are Mmes. Laurence Ruther, Trow Mims, Bill Walden, John Seiver, David Hutchins, Hugh Clearman, Gwynne Owen, Elmer Kimball and Rocky Lee.

The couple were married Feb. 3, 1946 at Saint John's Methodist Church in Lubbock. The former Juanita Rosser of Ropesville, she was a student in McMurry College, Abilene at the time of her marriage. Mrs. Brown was active in the American Field Service (exchange student program) from 1965-71. She has also taught Sunday School in the children's division, First United Methodist Church for 17 years.

Mrs. Brown is presently the President of Veleda Study Club and office manager at Brown Sheet Metal.

Second Thoughts

By Cheri Ward

An anti-crime bill before the Texas Legislature would allow judges to inform juries of the potential of parole for convicted criminals.

This law would allow juries to make rational judgements fairly, knowing all alternatives in sentencing.

Under current law, juries cannot know when a defendant is eligible for parole under the terms of a sentence until after the sentence is passed.

The jury for the trial of Billy Wayne Alexander, convicted of murdering a highway patrolman, requested the judge to inform them if Davis would be eligible for parole.

The judge refused the request, citing the current law.

The jury, which had been deadlocked 10-2 in favor of the death penalty, then flip-flopped and recommended life imprisonment for Alexander.

Alexander smiled at the verdict was read, and the mother of a slain trooper Jerry Don Davis wept when the judge said Alexander would be eligible for parole if he exhibited good behavior while in prison.

Prosecuting attorneys had done their best to convince the jury that Alexander was a hard-core criminal and introduced evidence of past drug involvement.

Apparently, jury members had difficulty in deciding whether or not Davis would commit future acts of violence—one of two questions that must be answered "yes" to assess the death penalty. The other question that all jurors agreed upon was that Alexander shot the trooper deliberately and with the reasonable expectation that Davis' death would occur.

If the jury had been aware that Davis would be eligible for parole, probably within twenty years, they may have decided differently.

When the term "life imprisonment" is defined, it means confinement for the natural life of the convicted person.

Or, at least, that is what it used to mean. Now, judges and juries pity "poor" criminals whose only crime was a sad family life and not having the advantages of a good upbringing.

So many do-gooders in the world can see only one side of the issue and end up protecting people who repeatedly violate the law—people who have been on the receiving end of a burglary, killing or even a simple act of vandalism know the justice system gives justice to criminals, not victims.

It is a good idea to dispense fair judgment, but not at the expense of people who obey the law.

If jurors were advised when parole for convicted felons would be obtainable, they could set the sentence to include minimum number of years in jail.

Perhaps this would keep so many repeat offenders from tying up the courts and spending an ever-increasing amount of money for public defenders and high-salaried judges each year.

Red Cross Update

Physical Therapy Volunteers Needed

By BETTY HENSON Executive Secretary
A special thanks to all of the people who responded to the needs of the Terry family, who lost all of their belongings in a fire.

A special thanks also to Ruth and Jake King for their assistance to the local chapter.

Congratulations are in order for Tagco employees who have completed the first aid and cpr classes taught by Ruth Romero, assisted by Gregg Palmer.

We are still looking for volunteers willing to work with the physical therapy program at Westgate. Please call the office for further information.

Today, more than 1.4 million volunteers, 6.1 million youth participate in Red Cross programs. Blood donors numbered 3.7 million and there were 16,000 paid staff members to back up these volunteers, that comes out to 700 volunteers for every staff member. As of January the paid staff member numbers will be decreased in order to keep the budget in line. These jobs will be filled by trained volunteers and we hope to maintain a good standard of service.

Red Cross services reach every city, town, and village in the United States and its possessions and dependencies abroad. There are 3128 chapters, field stations on U.S. military bases and in military hospitals worldwide. The Red Cross is directed by an all volunteer 50 member Board of Governors.

In the act of creating the corporation, Congress declared that the "importance of the work" to be done required that the corporation be put under government supervision. Congress did this by providing for Presidential appointment of eight members of the Board of Governors, and for an annual audit of the corporations fund accounts. The Board of Governors, members of local boards and directors of chapters, establish the financial requirements and approve its budgets. Each chapter contributes to the over all program and the overall program benefits all of the chapters. Helping the Red Cross Helps us to help others.

You're not just buying a sack of seed...

you're buying yield, dependability and performance.

ORO realizes that when you put your money on a sack of seed, you're really buying yield and dependability, and the performance you can count on in sorghum production.

ORO G XTRA - is a new hybrid that combines all the excellent qualities of ORO XTRA - upright leaves, downy mildew and head smut resistance and high yield potential. Greenbug (biotype D) resistance has been added making it an effective hybrid for areas from Kansas to South Texas.

You can depend on ORO for yield and dependability. It's "as good as gold."

GSPA Wants Opened Reserve

The Grain Sorghum Producers Association has requested Agriculture Secretary Block to re-open the reserve for grain sorghum.

G.S.P.A. executive director, Elbert Harp, told Secretary Block, "The drastic decline in market prices over the last two weeks make it imperative that farmers be given the opportunity immediately to use the Reserve."

All sorghum that was placed in the Reserve last year has been called. That grain has to be redeemed by February 12, 1981.

Harp pointed out to Secretary Block that "current regulations allow re-entry (into the Reserve) when the average market price drops below the call level." The average price has been below the call level since before Christmas.

U.S.D.A. has been reluctant to reinstate the reserve on sorghum until a wider margin exists between the call level and the average market price, and prior to the deadline on the call that is currently in existence. Harp pointed out the margin has now widened to the point that immediate action is necessary.

Farmers do not have to pay the costs of storage and interest on grain that is in reserve. Harp believes this action would help to stabilize and strengthen grain prices.

SBA Loan Deadline February 12

Ag Sales Computerized

A South Dakota real estate firm has developed a computerized method of marketing farm and ranch property called Crossroads Farm and Ranch Network. A select group of prominent farm and ranch brokers from across the western half of the United States have been organized to share their listings and sales information so that each office, operating independently, would have readily available listings of farm and ranches in just about every size and location.

By working together, the Crossroads Farm and Ranch Network looks for a large impact on future farm and ranch sales in the western half of the United States.

As an independent farm and ranch broker, I am happy to be a member of this network.

The challenges will range from political policies and marketing opportunities to production techniques, financing and textile trends. Dr. James R. Supak, area cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said. Supak is program chairman for the annual conference.

The program will draw cotton producers and industry representatives from California, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma. It is co-sponsored by the Southwest Five-State Cotton Growers Assn. and the Cooperative Extension Services of Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California. General chairman is Joe D. Unfred of New Home, president of the Plains Cotton Growers.

The conference at the Hilton Inn will open at 8:25 a.m. Feb. 17 with an analysis of the world outlook for cotton by Dr. Arlie Bowling, senior economist with the National Cotton Council, Memphis.

The Reagan Administration's viewpoint on agriculture, especially on cotton, will be presented by a yet-to-be-named spokesman.

Farm financing during the decade will be projected by Lloyd Cline of Lamesa, cotton producer and president of the First National Bank of Lamesa.

One of the industry's major concerns for the '80s, byssinosis or brown lung disease, will be discussed by Dr. I.W. Kirk, acting director of the U.S. Department of Agriculture - Science and Education Administration southern regional research center at New Orleans.

Carl Weiler of Lavean, chairman of the producer steering committee of the National Cotton Council, will report on farm programs for the '80s. Trends in textile and fashion production which will affect cotton will be discussed by Becky Saunders, area clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Other sessions will focus on irrigation efficiency, weed control, cottonseed and lint quality, hybrids and varietal improvements and insect management.

A panel of Texas growers will discuss their experiences in production planning and cost projection. Panelists will be Larry Shaw, Big Spring; Rudy Halfmann, Garden City; S.M. True, Plainview, and Marion Bowers, Seminole. Moderator will be Gary Condra, Extension area economist, Ft. Stockton.

A panel of agricultural consultants and producers will discuss managing insect problems on the farm. On this panel will be consultants Olan Moore of Dimmitt and Dr. Jerry Coakley of Altus, Okla., and growers Ronald Groves of Cotton Center and Morgan Nelson of Roswell, N.M.

Moderator will be Dr. James Leser, Extension area cotton entomologist, Lubbock.

The final morning of the conference will be a tour of the Textile Research Center at Texas Tech University, led by Dr. James Parker, director of the center.

Livestock Source Of Injuries

COLLEGE STATION -- Farm animals may be responsible for up to 10 percent of all farm and ranch injuries, with children often the victims.

Knowing and using proper farm animal handling methods can prevent many of these injuries, points out Dr. Gary S. Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

He emphasizes the need to "use" known safe practices. Curiously enough, notes the engineer, even Bible scripture warns that "knowing how to charm a snake is of no use if you let the snake bite first."

Most animal-related accidents involve violation of simple, commonsense procedures, Nelson points out. So, he emphasizes a number of guidelines:

- Teach children to treat farm animals and pets with kindness and respect.

- Always expect the unexpected when handling animals.

- Don't permit anyone to tease, abuse or mistreat animals.

- Let animals "now when you're around - don't startle them.

- Keep small, unsupervised children away from animal pens and pastures.

- Discourage youngsters from reaching through fences or pens to pet or feed animals. Some animals may bite or toss their heads, jamming a child's arm against the fence or pen.

Nelson says many accidental injuries are also related to animal-care equipment. That means giving close attention to the following:

- Keep walking and working surfaces used in tending animals clutter-free and clear of ice, manure, mud and other substances to reduce the risk of falls.

- Keep pharmaceuticals and barn chemicals in a safe, preferably locked, storage cabinet where children can't get at them. Put them as well as such things as tools and buckets away promptly after use.

- Keep pens, ladders, fences and chutes in good condition.

Shock hazards are also a real threat in wet or damp environments of animal confinement pens and buildings. Make sure all electrical equipment is in good shape and properly grounded, emphasizes Nelson. Check wiring, service and switch boxes, outlets and extension lines, and repair or replace faulty parts.

Silos, manure pits and feed storage locations should also be off-limits to children. Keep them locked. Gases and vapors given off from these materials have killed many people. These locations are also hazardous to adult workers, so proper ventilation or respiratory protective equipment is a must.

Knowing all of these practices, though, means little if they aren't followed, emphasizes Nelson.

Crop Symposium Set for Amarillo

AMARILLO -- People interested in the latest research in agricultural production are invited to the annual Crop Production and Utilization Symposium on February 12, at the Texas A&M Center in Amarillo.

Dr. G.B. Thompson, director of research for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station issued the invitation. The affair will start at 9:30 and continue until 4:00 p.m. A luncheon will be catered.

The program will start with a session on alternative crops. The place of sunflowers, perennial grasses, and alfalfa in the farming business will be discussed. This will be followed by a keynote address entitled "Farm Implements for the Future."

Alternative production practices will be discussed in the first session after lunch. Using furrow dams on irrigated and dryland, limited tillage and new herbicides will round out the session.

A description of a new greenbug biotype that attacks tolerant sorghum hybrids will start the final session. Dr. E.C.A. Runge, head of the soil and crop science department at Texas A&M will present highlights of agronomic research in Texas. Wheat grazing and agriculture in Australia will be the final topics of the day.

The event is sponsored by the USDA, Agricultural Research, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas Agricultural-Extension Service and Panhandle Economic Program.

Block: Food Still 'Great Bargain'

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Despite prospects for the sharpest climb in grocery prices in seven years, Agriculture Secretary John R. Block says food remains "a great bargain in this country."

"That doesn't mean when you go to buy it you don't wish you didn't have to pay so much," Block said Wednesday at his first news conference since joining President Reagan's Cabinet. "My wife doesn't want to pay so much, either."

Asked if he expects to have opposition to a greater export effort if food prices rise this year by as much as 15 percent, Block replied:

"No, I don't expect to have legitimate, responsible opposition to exports, because exports, indeed, provide more to us than what they might take away."

For example, he said, last year's export sales meant an agricultural trade surplus of about $20 billion which helped offset other deficits incurred by U.S. imports of oil and other non-agricultural products.

"Without that, where would we have been, if you total up our balance of trade?" Block said. "Agriculture is the one that carried us over the hump."

Block explained he felt food "is holding its own in relationship to other increases in costs of living" shared by Americans.

Also, he said, Americans pay comparably less for food than consumers in "other modern countries."

"They come over here and they think we're giving it away," Block said. "They just can't believe their eyes."

The Agriculture Department predicts food prices will rise an average of 10 percent to 15 percent in 1981, with a "most likely" estimate of about 12 percent over 1980.

That would be the biggest one-year rise since food prices soared about 14.5 percent in 1973 and 1974. Last year, food prices gained 8.6 percent, the smallest in three years.

Texas Crops Report

Land Preparation for Spring Moving Ahead

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Unseasonably warm weather has allowed Texas farmers to press on with the work of getting cropland ready for spring planting, says Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

U.S. Corn Supply Larger Than Thought

WASHINGTON (AP) — New government figures show the U.S. corn supply is slightly larger than it had been estimated previously, but not enough to make much difference in the exceedingly tight market situation.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday in a revised "supply and demand" report that the corn marketing year started last Oct. 1 with around 1.62 billion bushels on hand. That was 20 million bushels more than had been reported earlier.

It takes a little more than 20 million bushels of corn to meet one day's demand for domestic and export needs.

By fall, according to department figures, the corn reserve will have been depleted by about 65 percent in one of the sharpest one-year declines in U.S. grain supplies on record.

Coupled with last year's drought-reduced harvest of less than 6.65 billion bushels, that meant an available U.S. supply for 1980-81 of about 8.27 billion bushels.

But corn "disappearance" estimates remained unchanged for 1980-81, the marketing year that will end Sept. 30, at a record of around 7.7 billion bushels.

That will leave the corn reserve at about 566 million bushels — down more than 1.05 billion bushels, or about chemical weedkillers, is ready for planting in South Texas, but farmers are waiting for soil temperatures to warm up.

Rains have helped soil moisture in South and Southeast Texas, he said, but other areas remain extremely dry for this time of year. North, Central and Northeast Texas need rain to boost winter grazing and to build up soil moisture reserves for the crop season.

A few West Texas farmers are focusing on the past season's crop — still trying to harvest some cotton left when scattered rains and snow interrupted field operations in the Trans-Pecos area and West Central Texas. Some fields will go unharvested because of poor yields and weather damage, Pfannstiel said. In the Rio Grande Valley, sugarcane, citrus and winter vegetables are being harvested. Harvesting of spinach, cabbage and onions continues in the Winter Garden area of Southwest Texas, he said.

Livestock feeding remains widespread over the state because of poor grazing, Pfannstiel said. Feeding has been lighter than usual because of mild weather in many areas.

Reports from district Extension agents showed the following conditions. PANHANDLE: Farmers are busy getting land in shape for spring planting. Soil moisture is short and ranges are poor. Irrigated wheat is growing well but that on dryland is at a standstill. Range cattle are in good shape with supplemental feeding.

SOUTH PLAINS: Cotton ginning remains active because of considerable amounts field-stored in modules. Soil moisture has been adequate, but some areas are getting dry. Wheat is providing grazing for cattle. Cropland preparation is active.

NORTH CENTRAL: The region remains dry despite a few light rains. Farmers are topdressing wheat with nitrogen fertilizer and hoping that rains will come soon to boost growth. Cropland preparation also is active, and livestock feeding continues due to poor grazing.

NORTHEAST: Farmers are getting land ready for spring planting. Pruning of fruit trees and spraying with dormant oil to control scale insects is about complete. Wheat and other small grains continue to make only limited growth due to lack of moisture. Livestock are in fair to good shape.

FAR WEST: Rains have boosted soil moisture, but have delayed completion of cotton harvest and damaged the remaining crop. Pastures and ranges are improving and livestock look good. Poisonous range plants are a problem in some counties. Farmers are getting ready to plant spring wheat.

WEST CENTRAL: A few poor fields of cotton remain unharvested. Wheat is providing livestock grazing, but greenbugs and fungus are causing problems. Livestock are in fair to good condition with active feeding.

CENTRAL: Rain has helped the wheat crop, but most of the area remains dry. Wheat also is suffering from greenbugs and winter grain mites. Livestock are declining. Feeding is widespread.

EAST: Rains have boosted wheat, oats and winter pastures. Livestock feeding continues, with hay supplies ranging from short to adequate. Land for row crops and gardens generally is ready to plant. Some early spring vegetables are going in. Fruit trees are being pruned and sprayed with dormant oil for scale insects.

UPPER COAST: Rains have boosted soil moisture for spring planting and should add wheat and oats growth for additional livestock grazing. Cattle are fair, with supplemental feeding. Some early spring vegetables are being planted.

SOUTH CENTRAL: More moisture is needed. Stock water still is short in some areas despite some rain last week. Most cropland is ready to plant, and some early spring vegetables are going in. Livestock are doing well despite poor grazing, with active feeding. Most cows are calving.

SOUTHWEST: Rains have boosted winter forages and helped soil moisture. Farmers are busy getting cropland ready for planting while harvesting of spinach, cabbage and onions continues. Cattle feeding continues.

COASTAL BEND: Pastures, ranges, wheat, oats and flax got a boost from rains. Most cropland is ready for planting. Livestock are fair, with active feeding. Hay supplies are short in some areas.

SOUTH TEXAS: After recent rains, cropland is ready for planting cotton, sorghum, corn, watermelons, and other crops. Sugarcane harvesting continues, with harvesting of citrus, broccoli, cabbage, carrots and tomatoes. Supplemental livestock feeding continues in full swing, but rains should improve grazing.

65 percent, from the amount on hand last Oct. 1.

Higher corn prices have reflected the situation for months, since the impact of last summer's heat wave and drought became fully assessed.

Another big factor has been the unprecedented foreign demand for U.S. grain, with corn exports in 1980-81 estimated at 2.6 billion bushels, up from 2.43 billion last season.

Department experts project corn prices at the farm to average $3.25 to $3.60 a bushel over the entire marketing year, compared to $2.52 in 1979-80.

The report said the forecast would put next Oct. 1's corn carryover at the lowest level since 1976 when it was 399 million bushels.

According to department records, the prospective 65 percent one-year reduction in corn stocks would be the sharpest at least since World War II. And in those years the corn supply and carryover involved much smaller raw numbers because production, exports and domestic use have grown dramatically since then.

The report said no changes were made from previous estimates for soybeans, rice and cotton.

Projected wheat use for the wheat marketing year which began last June 1 also was unchanged, and the report noted that the carryover this June 1 is expected to be about 909 million bushels, slightly above the 902 million bushels shown for a year ago.

Looking at total U.S. grains — including corn, wheat, rice and other feed grains — the report said the respective marketing year's will end up in 1981 with about 47 million metric tons left over, down from 78 million in 1980.

Beef Short Course Set at A&M

COLLEGE STATION — In the beef business, the cattleman's number one priority today is that of finding the "keys to survival."

This is the opinion of Bill Helming, a key speaker in the forthcoming Beef Cattle Short Course set for April 6 and 7 at Texas A&M University.

Helming, who is headquartered at Overland Park, Kan., is president and majority stockholder of Livestock Business Advisory Services (LBAS), and is at the cutting edge of national marketing information. His organization is in the business of advising all phases of livestock production—grain handling and merchandizing, meat packing, food retailing, commodity markets and agricultural finance.

Helming says that many cattlemen are asking questions such as "Where are we headed with soaring costs, high priced grain and weakening demand for beef? What production alternatives are available to the cow-calf producer?"

Flexibility and cost control are among the keys to survival, and Helming believes that that flexibility may be the most important, from the standpoint that each cattle producer must know where he is in the cattle cycle.

Producers should also be flexible in thinking of themselves not strictly as a cow-calf operator but as a part of the food industry, and flexible in terms of using more forage and less grain.

A panel of cattle breeders, nutritionists and meat experts also will address the question, "How can beef be produced more economically?"

Other speakers at the Beef Cattle Short Course will focus on cost control, production alternatives in pasture and range, and tips for increasing efficiency from both cow herds and stocker cattle programs, announces Dr. Dennis Herd, beef cattle specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

A trade show, published proceedings and evening social will be other highlights of the Animal Agriculture Conference. The conference is sponsored by the Extension Service in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and Texas A&M University's Colleges of Agriculture and Veterinary Medicine.

To obtain a complete program on the Beef Cattle Short Course, call or write Dr. Herd, 114 Kleberg Center, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843, telephone (713) 845-2051.

Food for Thought

This nation is now at the crossroads for agriculture, the next six months will probably see a decision determining which of those roads we travel — family farming, corporate farming, or state farming.

There are those within academia and politics who believe that family farming has run its course and is no longer capable of survival in a world of corporate structure. I should add that this is not a belief which has developed overnight.

In 1962, the Committee for Economic Development issued a report entitled "An Adaptive Program for Agriculture" in which they advocated the removal of approximately one-third of the family farms existing at that time.

The CED, composed of 200 of the top executives from industry and advisors from many of the major universities, concluded that five conditions are contributing to the problems in agriculture: (1) swiftly rising productivity, (2) declining use of labor relative to capital, (3) the slow growth of demand for farm goods, (4) the low responsiveness of demand to price changes, and (5) the inadequate flow of resources (labor) out of farming.

The Committee made no recommendations to solve the first four problems but had definite recommendations concerning the fifth!

Their recommendation was that the farm labor force (farmers) be reduced on the order of one-third in a period of not more than five years! This would reflect a decrease of 200,000 to 400,000 farmers per year. The land operated by these "inefficient" farmers would be absorbed by the remaining farmers, or the agri-business structure, resulting in larger and larger farms.

At the time (1962) of their report, we had approximately six million farmers, by 1974 this number had been reduced to less than four million, and the second report by the CED indicated that their goals had been accomplished. However, they could see the need for additional reduction in numbers, but recommended a slower removal.

How do you remove that number of people from an industry in such a short period of time? The CED report stated that you must make farming undesirable by lowering the commodity prices to a level which will cause many within the industry to voluntarily seek their livelihood in other industries.

Looking back over the past twenty years, we can see that governmental farm programs were designed to keep commodity prices below production costs, prices were not allowed to keep abreast of inflationary cost increases, and farmers were forced out of agriculture. The CED's goals were reached and farms have become larger and larger, with an ever increasing number of corporations replacing family farms.

The CED, still very much alive with offices in Washington, D.C., has re-analyzed the agriculture situation. CED advisors with this philosophy, such as Dale Hathaway of Michigan State University, have been moved into positions within the USDA, and replaced on the Committee by advisors such as Luther Tweenen of Oklahoma State University.

In a recent projection of agriculture for the next decade, Tweenen predicted that the present 2.5 million family farms are destined to extinction and will be replaced by 50,000 super corporate farms. If the general public and existing family farmers do not become concerned about this possibility and demand a reversal of present agricultural policy in this country, that prediction could certainly become a reality.

This column for the next few weeks will further address the possibility of "corporate agriculture," as well as the definite possibility of some type of "state agriculture" rising from the rubble of the demise of the family farm.

Wheat Crop Parched

WASHINGTON (AP) — The winter wheat crop in the Great Plains continues to be parched and vulnerable to wind erosion, says the government.

But overall, the Joint Agricultural Weather Facility said Tuesday, winter wheat during the week of Jan. 19-25 continued to be in "fair to good" condition in the major production areas.

"A major part of the Great Plains still had no snow cover and warmer temperatures melted much of the snow throughout the Corn Belt," the report said.

In Kansas, the leading producer, the crop was holding up as "fair to good" and had suffered "only isolated wind damage." However, as in many other parts of region, moisture supplies were short.

A Member of Most Families in the Hereford Trade Area

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1981

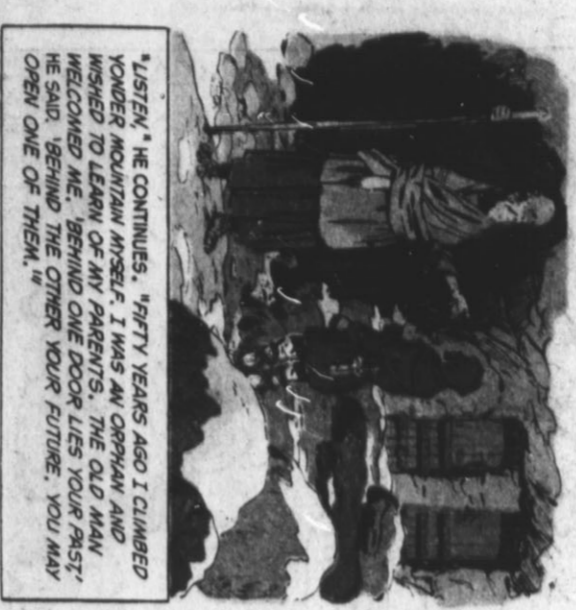

Our Slippy val's pride has brought great news to Camelot. As announced, the wanderer brings him seek, humility from a faraway hermit. After a lonely vigil, he departs.

Now Prince Valiant spent the next two weeks is not recorded. For many documents were later destroyed during the terrible sack of Camelot. We know that sometime in February he arrives at an inn, hired and prohibited, in the Burgundian capital of Geneva.

He inquires about the hermit on the mountain. Why did you? Just what you lost at love? Valiant smiles the louit with an icy stare, but the innkeeper merely smiles. Oh, I see, pride.

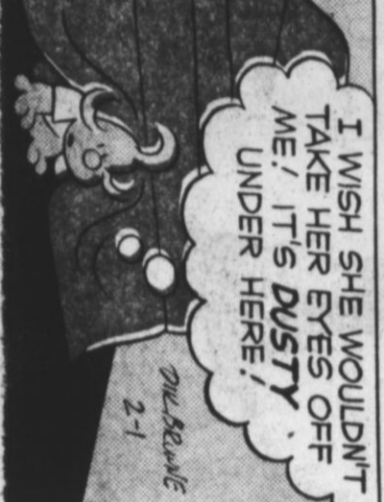

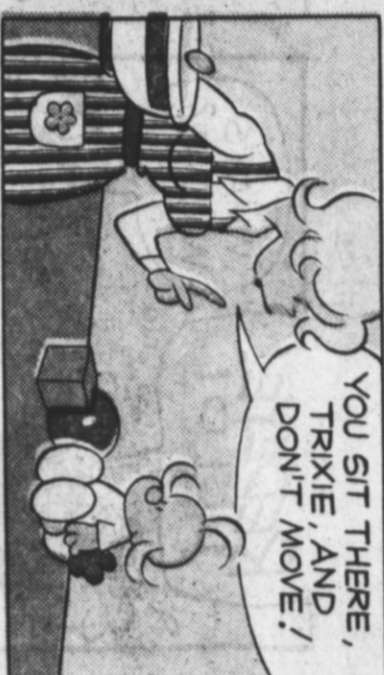

"LISTEN," he continues, "fifty years ago I climbed higher mountain peaks. I was an orphan and wished to learn of my parents. The old man welcomed me, behind one door lies your past," he said, "behind the other your future. You may open one of them."

"WHERE DO I FIND HIM?" Val asks. "Just climb the mountain," the innkeeper says. "If he wants to be found you will find him." The innkeeper Prince Valiant has long been troubled souls soothed that many have come before him. These troubled souls soothed forever by the mountain's chill embrace.

● HOG WILD! Age 10 or more? Jet down your age, double it, add five, multiply by 50, subtract 365. Now, add the number of fleas on an emerging groundhog (take a guess, up to 99), and add 115. Resulting first two digits will give your age and last two the number of fleas.

● Money Talks! One word has gone astray in each of these three old sayings about money: 1. Money squawks. 2. Crime is money. 3. A fool and his money are soon parted. Can you set them straight? (Answers: 1. Money squawks. 2. Crime is money. 3. A fool and his money are soon parted.)

● Block Buster! "There's my name on the cornerstone of that building," said tourist MC CLIX. In what year was the building built? (Answer: 1961.)

● Tongue Tassers! Say fast: Gentle breezes bent the blades of the big, brown, broad leaf broomgrass. Gwen and Ben are bride and groom.

HOCUS-FOCUS

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between Hog and Hocus pairs. How quickly can you find them? Check answers below.

TRY SOME TOP NOTCH MAGIC!

Bluffo, the magician, ties a single overhand knot in a piece of cord. He then ties the ends of the cord with several similar knots.

Bluffo states that he will cause the knot at the center of the loop to disappear without untying the ends. He turns his back for a moment, and alla-kazam, the knot is gone. How's it done?

This is how: When the turns around, Bluffo slides the knot and slides it up to the top of the loop, where it merges with the other knots.

ON TARGET! One of four snowballs tossed above hits the target, point X. Which one? We'll let you decide.
