

Involving TDHR Employee

Food Stamp Theft Case State's Largest

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

Thirteen of fifteen indictments in a food stamp theft case here were arrested and arraigned before Deaf Smith County Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal Thursday in connection with the largest case on record in the state involving a Texas Department of Human Resources employee in food stamp theft.

Bond for Zulema Garcia, 37, a former employee of the TDHR, was set at $4,000 on each of 15 indictments returned against her, with bond totaling $60,000. She was charged with three counts of tampering with government records, four counts of theft over $200, two counts of organized crime and three counts of illegal possession of food stamps.

Mrs. Garcia was free on bail at Brand presstime today.

Others indicted on food stamp fraud charges Wednesday were:

-Sylvia Barrientos, charged with four counts of theft over $200, two counts of organized crime and four counts of illegal possession of food stamps. Her bond was set at $36,000 and she remained in the Deaf Smith County jail this morning.

-Irene Martinez, charged with three counts of theft over $200, one count of organized crime and three counts of illegal possession of food stamps. She remained in Deaf Smith County jail today in lieu of $4,000 bond.

-Maria Peralez, charged with one count of theft over $200 and one count of illegal possession of food stamps; she is currently free on $4,000 bond.

-Anna Martinez, charged with one count of tampering with government records and one count of theft over $200 and free on $4,000 bond.

-Crispen Martinez Jr., charged with one count of tampering with government records, one count of theft over $200 and one count of illegal possession of food stamps and free on $4,000 bond.

-Mary Ann Vasquez, charged with one count of theft over $200 and one count of illegal possession of food stamps, and free on $4,000 bond.

-Debbie Hernandez, charged with one count of theft over $200, one count of organized crime and one count of illegal possession of food stamps and free on $4,000 bond.

-Elida Gonzales, charged with three counts of theft over $200, one count of organized crime and three counts of illegal possession of food stamps. The suspect remained in Deaf Smith County jail today in lieu of $12,000 bond.

-Joseph Martinez, charged with two counts of theft over $200, one count of organized crime and two counts of illegal possession of food stamps and in the county jail this morning in lieu of $3,000 bond.

Also indicted for theft over $200 and free on $4,000 bond each are Felipe Hernandez, Yolanda Montana and Elvira Herrera.

Two other suspects, both from Brady, remained at large today.

The 22nd District Court grand jury returned indictments against all of the individuals during a special session Wednesday.

The food stamp thefts came to light here following a months-long investigation by officials of the Texas Department of Human Resources and the district attorney's office here.

The theft of $54,000 worth of food stamps dating back to June of 1978 is involved in the case.

An inspector for the TDHR informed The Brand Thursday that the case is the largest ever filed against a TDHR employee.

The Brand also learned Thursday that records in the county TDHR office are reportedly missing and that further investigation into the food stamp theft matter will likely proceed.

Charges stemming from Wednesday's indictments all involve third degree felonies.

Those convicted on organized crime counts could face a sentence of from two to 20 years in the state penitentiary and a fine of up to $10,000.

If convicted on other counts, suspects could face two to ten years in the state penitentiary and a fine of up to $5,000.

According to the district attorney's office, records concerning food stamp eligibility were allegedly being altered by the TDHR employee and a portion of the illegally obtained food stamps may have been re-sold.

Bayne Compiles Own HPD Turnover Report

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

Hereford City Manager Dudley Bayne has conducted his own investigation into the turnover rate in two neighboring police departments on the South Plains as compared to the turnover rate in the Hereford Police Department.

Bayne notified The Brand Thursday concerning the investigation and stated he had forwarded figures on the turnover rate to city commissioners and that no further action is planned.

The high turnover rate in the Hereford Police Department has been the focus of attention here following allegations by a former patrolman, Jess Aguilar, that the policies of Police Chief Caydon Brush are the primary reasons for the high number of officers who leave the local department.

Other former and present officers have also expressed similar opinions to the local media in recent days.

Bayne contacted police departments in Littlefield and Levelland, which, he said, have departments similar in size to Hereford and which deal with populations of similar ethnic backgrounds.

The Levelland PD reported a turnover of seven of 18 officers in 1980 or roughly 40 percent while Littlefield reported a turnover of five of nine officers, with five of those officers leaving the department at once. The city manager forwarded the figures from those two cities to commissioners Thursday.

In a survey earlier this week, The Brand also contacted police departments in Plainview, Canyon, Borger, Pampa and Snyder and contacted Littlefield and Levelland departments today.

Chiefs for those departments stated that their turnover rates were high, but during 1980 the manpower losses in those departments were only about one-fourth of Hereford's.

In an interview earlier this week Hereford Police Chief Don Brush reported his department lost 10 of 20 officers in the last year, while in comments to The Brand Thursday, Bayne stated that six Hereford officers resigned and two were fired here during 1980.

Bayne commented Thursday that he "doesn't understand what all the hoopla is about" after contacting The Brand concerning articles that appeared earlier this week concerning the police turnover rate.

"I have taken the commissioners' figures on Littlefield, Levelland and Dimmitt. As far as I'm concerned there's nothing for the commission to consider," said Bayne.

"This is a strict department in Hereford. I'd rather have a strict department than a loose department. I would rather lose a man over being too strict than have a too-loose department," said Bayne.

Bayne was questioned about Brush, a 19 year veteran of the local department and chief for over 10 years, concerning why the chief does not make himself better-known to the public he serves.

"I'd rather have a low-profile chief than a high-

In A Jam

A local wrecking firm helped clear the north-bound lanes of highway 385 after a semi-trailer loaded with cattle struck the center island at the underpass and blocked traffic early Friday morning. Bill McEachern, driver of a Lindholm Farms cattle truck from George West, Texas, said he swerved to avoid an old pickup that appeared to be making a u-turn in front of him. The cattle truck skidded about 50 yards, ran up over the island separating the highway and glanced off the center overpass support. (Photo by Cheri Ward)

Morgan to Head Senior Citizens

Sam Morgan, 69, former county judge, has been selected to fill out the term of the late Debs Knox as president of the Hereford Senior Citizens.

Morgan served four years as county judge in a term that expired in 1978. Prior to this he was assistant manager of Deaf Smith County Electric Co-Op and retired in January of 1975.

Morgan is a member of the Senior Citizens Association and he helped organize the group in 1975-78.

Morgan and his wife, Ora, have resided in Hereford for 24 years.

Head of AAM To Be in Littlefield

The head of the American Agricultural Movement will be in Littlefield at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, February 21, to discuss the Farmer's Home Administration loan foreclosure situation and other farm problems.

Marvin Meek, a Plainview farmer, has been re-elected to his second year as the AAM's chairman. Meek recently met with President Reagan and John Block, secretary of agriculture. Meek earlier served on Reagan's transition team.

One of the AAM's major concerns is the number of FmHA foreclosures on farm loans.

Meek was told by the Texas FmHA office that as many as 50 percent of the state loans are delinquent.

Rape, Its Investigation Traumatic for Victim

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a three part series concerning rape, its ramifications and its victims. The entry concerns investigation and the medical examinations after a woman is raped. The third entry will discuss emotional trauma and personal counseling after rape.)

By ALLISON RYAN
Women's Editor

When a woman is raped not only must she learn to deal with the emotional trauma that follows, she also faces the fact that her memory and physical evidence from her body provides investigating officers with possibly the only link with which to find the rapist.

According to Vernon Hope, detective sergeant for the Hereford police department, almost all the evidence used in apprehending a rapist comes from the victim's body.

"All the evidence we need comes from the victim. When we first talk to a rape victim we try to keep her calm and ask her to remember as much as she can about the man like jewelry, clothing, odor, gold teeth, tatoos or anything he might have said or phrases he repeated," Hope explained.

"It is extremely important for the woman to report the rape to the police as soon as she feels safe and to leave the scene just as it is. Don't change clothing, don't bathe, don't do anything until an officer can get there to investigate," he continued.

Deaf Smith County Sheriff

Travis McPherson agreed with Hope on the importance of accumulating the evidence as soon as possible.

"Our first concern is for her and to get her to a doctor and calm her down. At that time we need to get as much information as we can to apprehend the suspect," McPherson said.

McPherson has worked with many rape cases using his knowledge of hypnosis.

"It may be a year after the rape incident took place before the suspect is caught. By then, the woman may have become confused about many of the details from reliving the event either in her own mind or discussing it over and over again," he continued.

Hypnosis enhances the recall and enables the women to relive it again.

"It put the woman into a third person situation so she sees the rape take place through the eye of a camera and is removed from it. Retrograde trauma suppresses so many of the facts and hypnosis can help recall important information," he explained.

A barrier many officers face in questioning a rape victim is that the officer is usually male. This can create an immediate distrust towards the officer.

"Conversation is not a pleasant talk, and a lot of women take offense because we have to have every detail and know exactly what happened," Hope said.

Officers must go through a set process with every rape victim including questioning and gathering of physical evidence.

Hospitals are supplied with Johnson Rape Kits that help doctors obtain the physical evidence that might be needed in apprehending the suspect.

Doris Morgan, assistant director of nursing at Deaf Smith General Hospital, reported that nurses have become a great deal more knowledgeable about rape and supportive of rape victims.

"We have made an effort to educate ourselves, because one of the functions of a nurse is not only to assist the doctor but also to provide emotional support," she said.

Mrs. Morgan stressed the importance of a woman coming to the hospital after she has been raped not only to gather evidence, but to examine her for venereal disease as the possibility of contact is very high.

"We look for semen, blood, grass or mud stains, bruises or bleeding. The doctor examines the victim's entire body for lacerations, bites or bruises," she explained.

The examinations also includes combing the public hair for any foreign hair, collecting any foreign particles and preparing a vaginal smear.

"We are very careful to observe the mental state of the victim when trying to find out the circumstances of the rape. We never leave the woman unattended, and we are there to offer emotional support," she continued.

Mrs. Morgan explained nurses serve another purpose in that a patient will often feel more comfortable in discussing the incident with a female nurse than with a police officer, therefore providing details she might not give to an officer.

"The mental state of the patient and the facts she relays to the nurses could be a major point in prosecution. If she is greeted with a judgemental attitude she might repress everything which could be more damaging emotionally," she continued.

In addition, nurses are sometimes called to testify in court so two nurses are always present in the emergency room as it is easier for two people to substantiate what happened.

"Unless a patient is very emotionally upset or seriously injured she doesn't stay at the hospital. However, before she leaves we try to find her another place to stay, because we don't want to send her back to the same situation," Mrs. Morgan said.

A nurses' duty doesn't always stop at the hospital Mrs. Morgan said. In cases where a family of a rape victim needs support, a nurse may be assigned to stay with the family.

Everyone who is exposed to the situation of rape needs support, in Mrs. Morgan's opinion.

Dallas Bans

Beer in Parks

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas City Council has thrown a curve at amateur softball players who enjoy swilling suds between their pitches.

After hearing a parade of witnesses say they are afraid to enter city parks because beer-drinking teenagers have taken them over, the council voted unanimously to ban the consumption of alcoholic beverages near municipal ball diamonds, swimming pools, tennis courts and parking lots.

Wednesday's council decision exempts golf courses, city park interiors, and Fair Park — site of the Texas State Fair — from the ban on alcoholic beverages.

The ordinance provides a fine of up to $200 per violation. The measure was adopted after an alternative proposal banning drinking in all park areas and another that would ban drinking only after sunset failed to win approval.

Mayor Pro Tem Don Hicks told council members he had received more telephone calls supporting a ban on drinking in the parks than any other issue to come before the council in recent years.

5 New Meningitis

Cases Reported

DALLAS (AP) — Texas health officials have confirmed five new cases of meningitis, at least one of them involving the deadly meningococcal strain, in recent weeks.

Two of them were reported in Beaumont on the upper Texas coast, two in Grand Prairie, a Dallas suburb and one — the latest — in Houston where the disease has afflicted 39 people, four of whom have died.

The Houston case involved a 4-year-old boy who was stricken last week, but health authorities said he is hospitalized in good condition.

Both Grand Prairie cases involved students at Grand Prairie High School, but doctors say they are not related and are no cause for alarm.

"The students didn't know each other and they had no classes together," said school principal Phil Farris.

The students were diagnosed as meningitis victims after missing several classes during the last week in January. One of them, a 15-year-old boy, is scheduled to return to class next week but the other, a 15-year-old girl, remains hospitalized.

Meanwhile, Margie Holt, supervisor of nursing for the City of Beaumont, said two children — one from Beaumont and another from Orange County — were admitted to a hospital with the disease.

Harris County has experienced an outbreak of meningococcal meningitis and health officials there have inoculated children in Houston's Dodson Elementary School, where six cases were reported in a single sixth-grade class.

Expert Slams Nuclear

Weapons Plant

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Murder charges should be filed against the Department of Energy and officials at a nuclear weapons facility near here if another plant employee is killed while working with explosive devices, says an explosives expert.

J.E. Settles, former safety manager for Hercules Corp., an international manufacturer of high explosives, Thursday called for the immediate shutdown of the Pantex plant near Amarillo until the plant is proved safe.

Settles testified in a wrongful death suit filed by the survivors of three plant workers who died in a 1977 explosion. The families of Ray Tucker, Chester Grimes and Johnnie Henderson are suing the Department of Energy for $750,000.

Testimony in the non-jury trial came to an end Wednesday. U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson is expected to rule on the case sometime next week.

Deputy Shot

After Traffic Stop

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Travis County sheriff's deputy fighting for his life in an Austin hospital was shot in the neck by an assailant he apparently had pulled over on a routine traffic stop, officials say.

Charles B. Lacey, 30, was in critical but stable condition late Thursday night at Breckenridge Hospital here, officials said.

The deputy, who has been with the sheriff's department for four years, was found lying unconscious on the shoulder of the southbound lane of U.S. Highway 183, just north of the Austin city limits, by an off-duty deputy, police said.

John Mellon said he was traveling north on the highway and had just passed Lacey's patrol car when he heard a shot fired, said Lt. Charles Littleton.

Mellon found the deputy about 15 feet from his patrol car, with a gunshot wound through his neck from what police say was a large-caliber weapon.

Sheriff Doyle Bailey said he was told that Lacey's gun was drawn and found lying next to him. It had not been fired.

He said authorities are looking for an older model light-colored car in connection with the shooting.

Lacey's last radio communication at 7:43 p.m. indicated he was removing debris from Texas Highway 71, several miles north of the shooting site.

Littleton said Lacey had not reported he was making a traffic stop or radioed in the license number of the car he was stopping, a practice which is standard procedure.

However, Bailey said officers sometimes would not call in license numbers if there was "a lot of chatter" on the radio and they would be forced to wait.

"He had reputation of being careful and not doing that sort of thing (failing to report license numbers)," Bailey said. "Apparently he did it once."

Economic Critics Questioning President's Pledge for 1984

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capitol Hill critics of President Reagan's economic proposals are questioning whether the administration can really balance the budget by 1984 without new spending reductions that would cut the so-called "safety net" from beneath the poor.

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan admitted Thursday that the dilemma of identifying some $31 billion in cuts beyond those proposed Wednesday by the president is a "time bomb" that will be left for Budget Director David Stockman.

The administration acknowledges in its own projections that additional cuts of that magnitude will be necessary in the next three years if its goal of balancing the budget by 1984 is to be met.

What neither Stockman nor anyone else has spelled out is where those cuts will be made.

And what the skeptics are saying is that the only places left are some of the programs the president has pledged will go untouched.

Meanwhile, Regan and Stockman were going back before congressional committees today to continue their lobbying for quick action on those parts of the Reagan plan already outlined.

During their appearances Thursday, the two Cabinet-level salesmen encountered the most pointed questioning over Regan's proposal to reduce personal income tax rates over three years, starting July 1. The move is estimated to be worth $1,456 to a middle-income family of four between July 1 and 1984.

Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., ranking Democrat on the Senate Budget Committee, told Stockman Thursday he would support many of the proposed $41 billion worth of federal spending cuts, but he ridiculed Regan's proposal for personal income tax reductions.

"You're fueling inflation faster than I can cut spending," Hollings said.

Democrats, and some Republicans, argue that the income tax cuts will benefit wealthier taxpayers more than others and that the reductions will not be translated into savings and investments as the administration predicts.

Pressed repeatedly Thursday for evidence on which he based his assumption that the income tax cuts would have the intended effect, Regan replied that the administration was not making "a forecast in the conventional sense" but presenting an "economic scenario."

That scenario, he said, is "based on an internally consistent set of policies which, if enacted, will produce an economic climate in which people's expectations and behavior will change."

Given the skepticism about the Reagan tax proposals, Republican leaders in the House fear a possible Democratic move to simply scrap the president's proposal for personal income tax cuts and substitute a plan of their own.

House Republican Leader Robert Michel of Illinois acknowledged "there's no question that they (the Democratic majority in the House) have the votes" to put Regan's plan "off on a side rail and institute their own tax cut bill."

Because of the lead time built into the federal budget process, projections of needs are made several years ahead of the time the money will be appropriated and the administration predicts it will need $30.7 billion in cuts beyond what it already has outlined. So far, those additional cuts have not been identified.

A former Carter administration official, who insisted that he not be quoted by name, said of Regan's plan: "It is a risky proposal in the sense that it is asking Congress to slash taxes all the way up to 1984 and to take on faith that the administration will be able to identify (another) $31 billion in savings."

Regan was asked Thursday to identify the specific cuts for the House Budget Committee. While declaring that "I hate to leave time bombs," Regan replied that it would be left to Stockman to detail how the additional reductions would be made.

Many Democrats fear that in an effort to meet the 1984 goal of a balanced budget, the administration would have to slash direct government payments to the needy.

A House Democratic staffer, who asked not to be identified by name, said he didn't "see where else" the cuts could come from.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. said the president's plan "all but concedes his inability to balance the budget over his four-year term. Only in the last year do his budget plans show a razor-thin $500 million surplus — a surplus predicated on the most optimistic economic assumptions."

Pope Paul Visits Philippines Today

DAVAO, Philippines (AP) — Pope John Paul II visited the southern Philippines today and urged an end to the Moslem-Christian warfare that has taken more than 50,000 lives in the area in the past eight years.

Celebrating Mass at the Davao airport on the island of Mindanao, he urged 300,000 cheering Roman Catholics to "see and love Christ in your neighbors." Afterward he told a delegation of 26 pro-government Moslems in the airport lounge they, too, should strive for a "more fraternal society" and "a climate of mutual esteem and trust."

"I wish you to be convinced that your Christian brothers and sisters need you and they need your love," he declared. "And the whole world, with its longing for greater peace, brotherhood and harmony, needs to see fraternal coexistence between Christians and Moslems in a modern, believing and peaceful Philippine nation."

"If my visit here would only make all of you love one another just a little bit more...then my visit, by God's grace, would be fruitful and worthwhile," said the pope in his address during the Mass.

Although the Davao area is predominantly Christian, unusually heavy security precautions were in effect at the airport because of the Moslem rebellion in other parts of Mindanao and the Sulu Archipelago. More than 4,000 police and troops armed with truncheons and M-16 rifles patrolled the field, and the crowd had to pass before metal detectors to get on the field for the Mass.

On Tuesday, the day the pope arrived in Manila, a hand grenade believed thrown by a Moslem guerrilla, killed one person and injured 11 others in a Davao street.

Despite religious overtones, the rebellion is basically an economic and social conflict arising from centuries-old hostility between the 40 million Christians, most of them in the central and northern Philippines, and some 5 million Moslems in the south.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor and Hereford Citizens,

Why is it that when a person stands up for what is right and good, he is labeled "fanatic"? It is a real shame that our society has gotten so low in moral values, that when there is goodness, it is called evil, and evil is passed by as good.

I am referring to the article in Wednesday's paper about our police turnover. Police Chief Brush was labeled a fanatic because he refuses to compromise the policies that govern the policemen of Hereford. If the standards are lower in other cities, does that mean that we too should lower ourselves and become as they are?

Why not set a higher example and encourage them to raise theirs. A policeman should have high morals or he is no better than the criminals and law breakers he must deal with. How can he arrest someone for things he does himself?

We have a good police force and if we support our police administration we will continue to have superior police protection.

We really admire our policemen and although we know there must be a great amount of pressure, frustration and requires a lot of self discipline in their lives, they may be assured that the majority of Hereford citizens are with them in their efforts to keep Hereford a nice safe place to live & raise a family.

All I can say to close is, keep up the good work Chief Brush and Hereford Police Department. Don't waver or the price may be too great.

Sincerely yours,
Mr. & Mrs. Ted Ray Coleman
Mr. & Mrs. Larry Buckley

Local Ford Dealer Reports Vandalism

Orville Watson Ford, 200 W. First, told police that someone slashed the vinyl top of a 1980 Mercury and caused about $275 in damages sometime Wednesday night.

John Arnsola, 209 Jackson St., reported that sometime Thursday night, a window in his 1977 Buick was broken by a shot from a BB gun. The car was parked in front of his home.

Tom Blasingame, 706 Ave. F, told police that someone stole a .22-caliber Remington rifle from his pickup sometime Wednesday night.

Clyde Eubank, 236 Ave. B, told police that a prowler was seen near his home at about 8 p.m. Thursday.

Police were investigating a wreck at the Highway 385 underpass involving a cattle truck headed north.

The driver of the truck said he swerved to avoid a pickup that pulled out in front of him. He then struck the center island and careened into the road again.

Police investigated a non-offense civil dispute call and issued seven traffic tickets.

Retired Sergeant to Get Medal

HOUSTON (AP) — It began in a jungle fire fight almost 13 years ago when a Green Beret sergeant saved eight men from death although he was shot, clubbed and stabbed with a bayonet.

It will end Tuesday when retired Army Master Sergeant Roy P. Benavidez of the South Texas town of El Campo receives the nation's highest military award, the Medal of Honor.

In a telephone interview Wednesday, Benavidez says when the medal is pinned on his dress jacket by President Ronald Reagan, there will be many men standing with him but "they will be there in spirit because they died that day and I survived."

Benavidez said from now on he "will then try to spend the rest of my life teaching youths the meaning of love, honor, and service to their country."

"I want those young educated men, those who have attended college, to consider the military as their future. What is wrong with serving your nation and seeing how other parts of this nation and of the world lives."

Benavidez, 45, and retired from the service, received the military's second highest award for wartime valor, the Distinguished Service Cross, but the Joint Chiefs of Staff turned him down for the Medal of Honor, saying there was insufficient evidence of his "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty," the century-old standard for the citation.

Within the past year, a new witness to his heroism told his story to the Army and the case was reopened.

The sergeant said the lone survivor who had witnessed all of his action during the encounter had also been badly hurt and for several years has lived in the islands of the South Pacific.

"It was not easy to reach him to confirm what had happened, but he came to the United States and told of what he saw," Benavidez said.

Benavidez said he does not blame the Army for the long delay in receiving the award for his actions against North Vietnamese troops near Loc Ninh on May 2, 1968.

"I am glad it is all over," he said, "and it took some time. First you must understand that the Army must have confirmation. They must fit all the blocks together before awarding the medal. This they did."

The former master sergeant said, "I just want to teach kids that quitters never win, and winners never quit." Benavidez never quit during that jungle encounter.

The Medal of Honor citation states that Benavidez volunteered to fly from the relative safety of his forward headquarters to help evacuate a 12-man Green Beret team that had sustained heavy casualties in a clash with North Vietnamese.

Benavidez brought the wounded to a helicopter and, according to the citation, "he was clubbed from behind by an enemy soldier" but killed the man in hand-to-hand combat and continued to help the wounded.

The citation added, "with little strength remaining, he made one last trip to the perimeter to ensure that all classified material had been collected or destroyed and to bring in the remaining wounded. Only then, in extremely serious condition from numerous wounds and loss of blood, did he allow himself to be pulled into the extraction aircraft."

He said now during parades or sports events, "I am troubled to see 'so many people refuse to stand up when the flag went past. They sit there with a hat on, a beer in one hand, and chewing away on popcorn. What kind of example is that to their children?'"

"I don't know. We must convince the children to love their country, but maybe we have to convince their parents first."

He said, "everyone should visit a Veteran's Administration hospital at least once and see what I see."

"I came up in the tough school of education. I learned my lessons back of the barracks. Now let us get as many of the young educated youths into the service as possible. We need them."

Meek said massive foreclosures could send land prices plunging and other farmers will be unable to secure mortgages on their property because the value of their land will also be lowered.

An immediate 120-day freeze on foreclosure proceedings while the staffs of the department of agriculture and FmHA make an investigation has been proposed by Meek to Block.

Meek said government policy and drought has made farmers unable to pay back loans.

"Some farmers have six loans to service their debt before they get operating money. The loans are second liens on worn-out equipment. The only way the government can come out is to let them farm their way out," Meek said.

Kika de la Garza, Texas chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, sent a letter supporting the 120-day freeze on foreclosure proceedings to his colleagues.

Meek will also talk about what Washington politics may mean for farmers in the next few years.

A catered meal will be served at 6:30 p.m. for $5 per plate, and the talk will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Agriculture Building in Littlefield on Highway 385 north of the underpass.

Parent Council To Meet

The Parent Advisory Council for Hereford High School will meet on Tuesday, February 24, at 10 a.m. in the library, according to Ron Geyer, principal.

The council is for parents of eligible migrant students. Included on the agenda is an explanation of curriculum, introduction of the migrant teachers, and an election of officers.

Seniors' Mothers To Gather

A meeting of all mothers of '81 graduating seniors has been scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 24 in the Hereford High school auditorium at 3 p.m.

Plans for the senior's prom and other graduation activities will be discussed at this time.

"All senior mothers are invited and encouraged to attend the meeting," stated this year's chairman Mrs. Buddy Peeler.

It is emotionally draining for a nurse to see another human subjected to this experience and it is very easy to become outraged yourself about the situation. If I'm not the one that is called into emergency, I am careful to go back and discuss the situation with the nurses to give them support. Nurses get accustomed to death, grief and pain, but this is an experience they are not often exposed to," she said.

After a woman is treated and released from the hospital she faces the decision of reporting the crime and if so, the decision of prosecuting. However, those decisions may seem small compared to the work she must do to reconstruct her life emotionally.

Jo Ann Dwyer, director of the Amarillo Rape Crisis Center, said the main concern of the center is to help rape victims get over the rape.

"A woman has to get over the rape in order to function again. If not, she remains scared to go out and scared to stay home," said Mrs. Dwyer.

Ann Landers

Painfully Shy

DEAN ANN LANDERS: I'm a 22-year-old male and I need your advice. All my life I have been painfully shy. It began to bother me late in high school, but I figured someday I'd outgrow it. Instead of outgrowing it, the older I get the more shy I become. I have never had a date because I'm scared to talk to a woman. I don't know what to say or how to ask for a date.

The thought that I'll probably never marry is painful. My loneliness and strong sexual desires depress me. I can't bear to think that this is the way it's going to be forever.

These are supposed to be the best years of my life, but I've missed out on a lot of good times - and I'll miss out on many more. Most of my time off is spent moping around the apartment. How can I overcome my shyness? How can I introduce myself to a girl I might be interested in and learn to be relaxed around her? And how do I carry on a conversation without saying something dumb? I'd appreciate any advice you can give. -G. From Missouri

DEAR G.: Loneliness is a prison that must be unlocked from the outside. If you only knew how many young women out there are dying to be asked out to anything—a movie, a play, a concert, lunch, brunch, a skunk raffle—you'd find the courage. Make up your mind you are going to ask five girls to go see a movie or play next weekend. If three say they are busy, you still have two to go.

Phrase the question simply: "Have you seen—? I hear it's good. Would you like to go Friday or Saturday evening?" After the movie a snack is in order. Then you can discuss the movie. Get going and report back to me.

I want to know what happened. And today after work, pick up the book "Shyness" (Wesley Publishing Co.) by Phillip Zimbardo of Stanford University.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The last time I wrote to you I was 10 years old. That was 15 years ago. I never mailed the letter.

I have read your column regularly from that time to this. Today I am writing, not to complain or ask for help, but to thank you for your years of service to people like me. I have always been entertained and often educated by reading Ann Landers.

Please continue to urge your readers to seek professional counseling. I was one who used to scoff at that advice. I considered myself "too strong" to lean on anyone. But today, because of counseling and group support, I am free from alcohol, drugs and the depressions that used to plague me. Alcoholics Anonymous was one of the places that provided me with unbelievable courage and strength. You sent me there.

So, thank you, Ann Landers. Please take care of yourself and continue to spread the message and do your good work. God bless you. -Better Than Before

DEAR BETTER: What an upper your letter is. Thank you for writing it. I am sure it will give hope and courage to others. How rewarding to know I've had a friend like you for 15 years!

CONFIDENTIAL to A Put-Down Needed for Mr. Know-It-All: Why don't you ask him how a fellow he didn't consider smart enough to marry his daughter could have fathered the most brilliant grandchildren in the world?

Majorie Daniels to Participate In Conference on Aging in Dallas

Representatives of senior citizens groups from Amarillo and several other Panhandle cities will be part of the State White House Conference on Aging to be held in Dallas during the last weekend in March. Attending from Hereford will be Majorie Daniels, director of the local senior citizens.

White House Conference on Aging which will be held in the nation's capitol later this year.

Delegates will also select representatives from Texas to attend the national conference. Fifty Texans will then attend the national event as delegates and 50 more will go as observers.

The Amarillo area delegates to the state conference were selected in December and certified during the Feb. 5 PRPC Board of Directors' meeting.

American History Essay Contest Winner

EDITOR'S NOTE: In conjunction with February being proclaimed as American History Month, the following is a first place winner in the DAR sponsored American History Essay Contest.

By ANDREA JORDE
"A Military Leader of the Battle of Yorktown"

Marquis de Lafayette fought in the American Revolutionary War for the colonist freedom.

He was born on September 6, 1757 at Chavaniac, in Haute, Loire, France. When he was two years old, his father died. Eleven years later his mother and grandfather died. He inherited a great fortune. He studied at the Military Academy in Versailles. When he was sixteen he married Adrienne de Noailles. Shortly after he married her, he became a captain in the calvary.

He was a man that believed in freedom very much! He believed that everyone should have freedom. He even went to prison and lost his fortune because he believed in liberty of the individual strongly.

He took every opportunity he could to fight for freedom. He came to America to fight against England for France. He bought a ship with his own money and landed in America in 1777. Lafayette impressed the Continental Congress. He became a major general without pay and joined George Washington's staff.

Lafayette was wounded at The Battle of Brandywine. At Gloucester, he defeated a small party of Hessians. He served at Valley Forge during part of the terrible winter of 1777-1778.

The news of Burgoyne's surrender encouraged France to enter the war. Lafayette also helped to encourage France to enter the war. King Louis XVI signed two treaties with Benjamin Franklin. Lafayette and Benjamin Franklin were very good friends.

Early in 1778, Lafayette was given command of the proposed invasion of Canada at Albany, New York. The plan was not used because of conflicts and jealousies involving other generals.

Lafayette led troops in The Battle of Barren Hill and Monmouth, and in the campaign of Rhode Island.

In 1779 France considered declaring war on England so Lafayette went home. He wanted to help with the invasion of England, but it never took place. Most of Europe wanted to see England overthrown. Only France would help us and had popular sympathy for us. Since the invasion never took place he persuaded the government to send aid to the American colonist.

In April, 1780, he returned to America, as a major general in the American Army. Later that year, he served in the court-martial that sentenced Major John Andre and Benedict Arnold to be hanged as spies for planning to surrender West Point and over throw the Continental Congress.

By August Cornwallis had decided to use York Town, Virginia as his base. Lieutenant General Jean Rochambeau, in command of French troops in America, placed his men under Washington. Then they went to Virginia.

A British fleet at New York City under Thomas Graves, challenged De Grasse's force to battle at the mouth of Chesapeake Bay. The British lost and returned to New York. Newport then joined De Grasse's fleet and they shut off the bay.

17,000 men surrounded York Town on September 28, and began attacking General Cornwallis. Lafayette led a small American Army in Virginia that surrounded all the English at York Town, Lafayette, Comte de Rochambeau, and Washington all participated in forcing Cornwallis to surrender. Finally the British exhausted by eight years of fighting in America agreed on a peace treaty in 1783, which formally ended the war.

Peace Negotiations began in Paris in April, 1782. When Lafayette reached France in 1782, he helped with the American Constitution. Richard Oswald and Henry Strachey served as chief negotiators for the British.

Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, John Jay, and Henry Laueus represented the United States. They agreed on a preliminary treaty on November 5, 1782. The final peace treaty was signed on September 3. The United States ratified the treaty on April 9, 1783.

The United States government gave land and money to those who fought in the war. In 1803, the Americans gave a huge land grant to Lafayette in Louisiana. During his last visit in America, Congress gave him 200,000 dollars and a township in Florida. Statues were dedicated to honor many of the patriots.

Lafayette was a hero to France and America, too. He was a powerful man in France from 1789 to 1791.

Marquis de Lafayette not only fought for our independence but for Greece, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Poland, and South American Republicans.

In 1803, he helped to overthrow the Bourbon Kings. The people of France wanted Lafayette to become their president but he refused.

Lafayette was a great leader and stood up for his beliefs all of his life. This man, you cannot call selfish. He fought for many countries. He was smart and skillful. Marquis de Lafayette was a hero and a man of courage, who did not hesitate to help anyone, anywhere!

Scholarship Finalists

Barbie Koelzer and Eric Alexander, Hereford High School seniors, have been named finalist in the National Merit Scholarship competition, representing the top half of one percent of Texas high school. The two students are now being considered for one of 1,200 National Merit Scholarships for higher education.

HHS Seniors Advance to Final Merit Scholarship Competition

Barbie Koelzer and Eric Alexander, Hereford High School seniors, have been named finalists in the National Merit Scholarship competition and are being considered for one of the 1,200 National Merit $1000 Scholarships.

Miss Koelzer is the daughter of Werner and Betty Koelzer and Alexander is the son of Earl and Olive Alexander.

The two students were named Semifinalists in September of 1980 and after completing further requirements including being fully endorsed and recommended for scholarships by their secondary school principals, submitting records that confirm high academic standing, and substantiating their high qualifying test scores with equivalent scores on another examination, advanced to final competition.

Since its beginning in 1955, the National Merit Scholarship Program has focused upon one small sector of the nation's secondary school students, those at the uppermost end of the academic ability scale. The program is privately funded and receives no federal or state grants, and it is the only major scholarship competition that is both independently supported, and national in scope. In the 25 competitions conducted between 1956 and 1980, over 63,000 able Finalists won Merit Scholarships worth about $176 million.

Although the total of Merit Scholarships being offered in 1981 is over eight times the number awarded in 1956, program funds are limited and awards can be offered to only about one-third of the Finalists; this means that the vast majority of Finalists will not win Merit Scholarships. However, many of these students will receive awards from other agencies and organizations—frequently from colleges and universities that are eager to enroll students of high academic caliber.

The number of Merit Scholarships available in a particular annual competition is determined by grants to the program from corporations, foundations, business organizations, and higher education institutions. The total value of the Merit Scholarships currently offered each year is about $15.5 million.

The Newspaper BIBLE

DO YOU HAVE YOUR PRIORITIES STRAIGHT?

Jesus, full of the Holy Spirit, left the Jordan River, being urged by the Spirit out into the barren wastelands of Judea, where Satan tempted Him for 40 days. He ate nothing all that time, and was very hungry.

Satan said, "If you are God's Son, tell this stone to become a loaf of bread."

But Jesus replied, "It is written in the Scriptures, 'Other things in life are much more important than bread!'"

Then Satan took Him up and revealed to Him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time; and the devil told Him, "I will give you all these splendid kingdoms and their glory--for they are mine to give to anyone I wish--if You will only get down on Your knees and worship me."

Jesus replied, "We must worship God, and Him alone. So it is written in the Scriptures."

Then Satan took Him to Jerusalem to a high roof of the Temple and said, "If You are the Son of God, jump off! For the Scriptures say that God will send His angels to guard You and to keep You from crashing to the pavement below!"

Jesus replied, "The Scriptures also say, 'Don't experiment with God's patience.'"

When the devil had ended all the temptations, he left Jesus for a while and went away.

Then Jesus returned to Galilee, full of the Holy Spirit's power. Soon He became well known throughout all that region for His sermons in the synagogues; everyone praised Him.

WTSU Students, Faculty Members Contribute to Amarillo Symphony

CANYON - Half of the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra's more than 90 members are students and faculty members from West Texas State University.

Blake Allen, Hereford junior, is among the 34 WTSU music majors who have been selected as members of the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra this season which continues through May.

Thirty-four WTSU music majors have been selected as members of the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra this season which continues through May.

In addition, 10 WTSU faculty members also are playing in the symphony.

The WTSU string students who each received a $200 Amarillo Symphony Scholarship, audition each year in September.

"These students have to meet technical and musical efficiency levels set by the symphony and they have to maintain it," said Thomas Conlin, artistic director and conductor of the Amarillo Symphony.

Conlin said that the symphonic scholarship is maintained by students participating in all music. He also said a student may earn between $500 and $2,000 from the symphony, depending on the number of performances.

Each year the WTSU choral groups join with the Amarillo Symphony for the presentation of a major choral work. Recent performances have been Brahms' "Requiem" (1978), Verdi "Opera Chorus" (1977), Handel's "Messiah" (1976), Faure "Requiem," Haydn "Te Deum" (1976), and Beethoven's "Ninth Symphony" (1980).

"The symphony is supportive of us," said Dr. Hugh Sanders, dean of the School of Fine Arts who also is a board member of the Amarillo Symphony. "We in turn, provide the quality and professionalism of our students."

"The opportunity for WTSU students to play in the symphony does help recruit students," said John Sumerlin, WTSU assistant professor of music and concertmaster of the Amarillo Symphony. "And as time goes on, we will have a competitive approach because of the visibility and benefits provided by the community to the symphony."

Other than WTSU students and faculty members, the Amarillo Symphony consists of all music faculty members from Amarillo College, public and private school teachers, avocation musicians in the area and a few faculty members from Texas Tech University at Lubbock.

According to Sumerlin, an average of seven rehearsals are completed for each concert.

"We meet three weeks prior to the scheduled concert," he explained. "The rehearsals are held in the evenings. In the first week, we might meet once or twice and as the performance date gets closer, we then rehearse at least three times."

Faith Assembly of God Sets Special Services

The Faith Assembly of God will conduct special services this Sunday during the morning worship at 10:45 a.m.

Guest speaker for the service will be Sam Ventura, Jr.

"Born into a wealthy Dallas restaurant family, Ventura, Jr. owned and operated some of the finest supper clubs, lived in an expensive home and led a "jet set" type of social life.

After his dramatic conversion to Jesus in a television studio, Ventura converted his restaurant into the first Christian Supper Club, named the "King's Village Light Club."

After he came to the Lord, his parents disowned him and his friends vanished. Ventura claimed Mark 10:29 and 30 and God's grace proved sufficient.

Faith Assembly of God will also present the film "A Distant Thunder," during evening services this Sunday beginning at 7 p.m.

Pastor David Brecheen invites the public to attend the late services to view the film which is a sequel to "A Thief In The Night."

Secondhand Smoke Hurts the Lungs

Research with both healthy adults and children shows that the lung function of nonsmokers is affected by others' tobacco smoke.

Two carefully controlled, major studies - one on children whose parents smoked at home, the other on nonsmokers exposed to smokers at work - have demonstrated that the small airways in the lungs of nonsmokers are affected adversely by tobacco smoke in the environment.

According to the American Lung Association of Texas it is possible, though not proven, that the changes which occur in nonsmokers exposed to a smoky environment for long periods may improve when the smoke is removed. However, it is also possible that the changes may lead to further lung disease. More research is required. What is clear is that lungs do not function normally when forced to breathe smoky air.

During the last few years, says the Lung Association, ways have been pinpointed to determine changes in the small airways. What is significant is the rate at which the person forcibly exhales. Inhaling air is not usually a problem, not even for those with advanced lung disease. But to exhale efficiently, the lungs must be healthy and elastic. After the person forcibly inhales a deep breath, an instrument called a spirometer measures exactly how fast and how much air is forcibly expelled. Disturbances in the smallest airways are measured at precise points during the exhalation - during the middle half, for example, and at one later point in the exhalation.

To find out more about protecting your lungs against cigarette smoke, contact the American Lung Association of Texas, the Christmas Seal People. Write ALAT, 7701 N. Lamar, Suite 104, Austin, Texas 78752. It's a matter of life and breath.

Small Talk
By SUE COLEMAN

When Della Hutchins invites a friend to lunch or gets a dish ready for a potluck dinner, the guests know there will be something special to eat because Della not only collects recipes, she uses them to make good food.

Requested to share a recipe or two, she responded with these, which include her own comments. The shrimp bake is definitely a company dish, but she says the cheese soup is "family tested; very good on a cold night."

DELLA'S SHRIMP BAKE

Use 4 or 5 pounds fresh shrimp - in the shell. De-vein, wash and set aside.

In a 12x12x2 casserole dish melt 2 sticks butter (margarine will not work). Saute shrimp in the butter, then cover with garlic salt, salt, pepper - black and red, and gobs of paprika. Add 1/4 cup sherry.

Bake at 400 degrees about 20 minutes, until shrimp are barely pink. Stir often to coat shrimp with sauce. Serve with garlic bread and use the bread to sop the gravy.

CHEESE CHOWDER

1/2 cup chopped carrots
1/2 cup chopped celery
One-third cup chopped onion
3 tb. butter
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
2 cups milk
One 10 3/4 oz. can chicken or beef broth.
1 1/2 cup processed cheese spread (I use 6 oz. Chees Whiz)

Cheddar, Swiss or Monterey Jack cheese cut in quarter-inch cubes (optional)

Cook carrots and celery in 3/4 cup water about 10 minutes or until tender. Do not drain. Melt butter in large saucepan.

Brown onion in butter until tender. Stir in flour, add cheese and milk.

Cook until thick and bubbly. Add broth and vegetables. Do not boil, simmer.

Divide cubed cheese into bowls, pour the hot soup over cubes and serve. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Congratulations a-plenty to the Whiteface Girls on their season-end fireworks Tuesday night, to get even with Plainview for previous defeat.

A team that can overcome a big halftime lead, tie the score and then run up a decisive winning tally in extra time, can call it a successful season even if it missed the district crown.

There's another chance tonight to see - and hear - the high school musical production, Oklahoma!

If you missed the opening last night you may see an even better performance the second time around. A cast usually manages to get rid of its onstage jitters and any bobbles it is bound to commit, on the first night, then settle down to do its best.

Hereford Student Given Spring Teaching Duties

Dorsett Joins Easter Seal Sports Council

Tony Dorsett, the most electrifying runner in Cowboy's history, has "signed" with a unique team - the National Easter Seal Sports Council. The council consists of well-known sports celebrities who serve as volunteer spokesmen for Easter Seal rehabilitation services to people with disabilities. There are also several outstanding handicapped athletes, including George Murray on the roster. A four-time All-America and the first player in NCAA history with four 1,000 yard seasons and three 1,500 yard plus seasons, Dorsett won the 1976 Heisman Trophy as the nation's best player. He rushed for an NCAA career record and led Pittsburg to the 1976 National Championship with a 12-0 record.

Dorsett will be doing publicity work for the Texas Easter Seal Society, as he believes that the work that Easter Seals does means a lot to someone who is fighting an uphill battle to overcome the result of an accident, disease or birth defect. The Texas Easter Seal Society has served the handicapped in this state for 51 years. Over the years, thanks to faithful supporters, Texas Easter Seals increased its services from providing orthopedic equipment to also providing physical occupational and speech therapy and transportation to rehabilitation centers. Numerous services are provided to disabled Texans and are tailored to meet existing community needs.

Easter Seals considers it important to assist communities in developing necessary resources and creating community acceptance for the disabled; which in turn, encourages their own self fulfillment as individuals. The Texas Easter Seal Society provided orthopedic equipment, physical, occupational, and speech therapy to over 12,000 Texans last year. For more information about services call 1-800-492-5555.

Whitefaces Try To Halt 0-6 Conference Losing Streak

The Hereford Whiteface boy's varsity basketball team, now 3-26 on the year, will meet the Lubbock High Westerners (13-15 on the season) tonight in Lubbock at 7:30.

The squad will be trying to attain its first victory in league play thus far after having gone 0-6 in district competition as the conference's sole winless team.

Following tonight's conflict, the Whitefaces will then meet the Monterey Plainsmen (currently tied for first in regular season play with the Plainview Bulldogs) here Tuesday before participating in the district 4-5A tournament.

The site of that tournament will depend on the winner of tonight's Lubbock Coronado vs. Plainview contest in Plainview.

become the host team of the tournament affair, but providing Coronado can play the spoiler's role with a victory over the Bulldogs, Monterey would take the conference title and become the host team.

That particular regular season winner — either Plainview or Monterey — will draw a bye in the tourney until the other four teams have been eliminated to one winner. Those two (the regular season winner and the tournament winner) will then compete, and if the regular season champ takes that conflict — it will then become the loop's outright champ.

But should the tournament winner clinch the semi-final, there would be another playoff game between the two squads.

Iowa Tops Indiana

By The Associated Press
Steve Krafcsin, Iowa's 6-foot-10 center, brushed off the incident. "It's no big deal," he said. "It happens all the time."

Krafcsin was referring to a punch in the face he got from 6-foot-1 Indiana guard Isiah Thomas Thursday night as the 12th-ranked Hawkeyes were administering a 78-65 beating to 16th-ranked Indiana.

"It was just a reflex more than anything," 0w0.2isin said. "He came up and apologized later. He said he was sorry and that it was an accident."

Thomas was ejected from the ballgame with 39 seconds left after he tried to fight his way between Iowa players and took a swing in a crowd at Krafcsin.

"I can't blame the officials," Thomas said, adding he never had been thrown out of a game before. "It was just a stupid play."

After Thomas was tossed out, Krafcsin hit a pair of free throws that gave the Hawkeyes a 71-63 lead.

Indiana Coach Bobby Knight was assessed a technical shortly afterward, and he said he would reserve judgement on Thomas until he had seen the films. He said it appeared Krafcsin had grabbed Thomas' jersey.

"It was not a good play," Knight said. "It sure was a play you don't want to see, but I'm anxious to look at the film."

Krafcsin wound up with 18 points, and Vince Brookins topped Iowa with 19. Landon Turner led Indiana with 18 and Ray Tolbert had 17. Thomas had 16 points.

Iowa, 18-4 and atop the Big Ten with a 10-3 conference mark, hit 15 of 16 free throws in the final two minutes after going into a four-corner stall to ensure the victory.

In games involving other ranked teams, sixth-ranked UCLA downed California 72-66, No. 9 Utah whipped New Mexico 90-73, New Mexico State upset 14th-ranked Wichita State 82-80, 15th-ranked Illinois defeated No. 18 Michigan 67-64 and No. 17 Brigham Young beat Texas-El Paso 84-75.

Mike Sanders scored 20 of his 24 points in the second half, rallying UCLA over California in the Pacific 10 Conference. UCLA trailed 33-30 early in the second half, but the Bruins took the lead 48-46 on a layup by 7-foot-2 reserve center Mark Eaton and later stretched their advantage to as many as 10 points.

UCLA improved its record to 17-4, 10-3 in the Pac 10, with its sixth straight victory. Tom Chambers scored 27 points, and Utah held New Mexico's high-scoring Kenny Page to just seven points in the second half. Page led the Lobos with 21 points.

Struggling Bullets Wound Philly

By The Associated Press
The Philadelphia 76ers haven't lost many games all season — they are 51-12, tops in the National Basketball Association — but the struggling Washington Bullets have given them the old 1-2.

With Kevin Grevey pouring in 31 points and Kevin Porter, his running mate at guard, adding 24, as well as handing out 15 assists, the Bullets beat the 76ers Thursday night for the second time in a week, this one by a 129-108 score.

"It's not like beating anyone else...it's Philadelphia. I don't think any team could have beaten us tonight — Philadelphia, Boston or anybody," Grevey said after the Bullets hit 56 percent of their shots and scored 28 fast-break points while handing the 76ers their worst defeat of the season.

Elsewhere, the Midwest Division-leading San Antonio Spurs were knocked off by the Cleveland Cavaliers 118-104, the Denver Nuggets nipped the Pacific Division-leading Phoenix Suns 127-126 and the Portland Trail Blazers downed the Detroit Pistons 115-106.

Cavaliers 118, Spurs 104
Mike Mitchell scored 30 points and Bill Laimbeer added 19 to go with 22 rebounds for Cleveland. The game was deadlocked 80-80 with 4:16 left in the third quarter before Cleveland opened a 91-85 advantage at the end of the period. Roger Phegley added 20 points for Cleveland and Geoff Huston came off the bench to score 19. George Gervin paced San Antonio with 32.

Nuggets 127, Suns 126
Alex English scored Denver's last eight points as the Nuggets rallied from a seven-point deficit in the final three minutes. English's jumper from the baseline put the Nuggets on top with 24 seconds remaining. Late in the third period Denver led 92-76, but Phoenix went into a pressure defense and began a stirring comeback. The Suns cut the deficit to six points by the end of the period and opened a 122-115 lead. Then the Nuggets reversed the trend.

Clippers 116, Rockets 99
Freeman Williams came off the bench to score 22 points for San Diego, overshadowing a record-breaking performance by Houston's Calvin Murphy. Murphy made all five of his free throw attempts to set an NBA mark with 62 consecutive successful foul shots. The old record was 60 by Rick Barry in 1976.

The Clippers started fast, twice building 14-point leads in the first quarter. The Rockets bounced back early in the second period to go ahead 32-31 on a jump shot by Murphy, but a basket by Ron Davis put San Diego in front for good.

Trail Blazers 115, Pistons 106

Billy Ray Bates scored 24 points and Kelvin Ransey added 21 as Portland defeated crippled Detroit.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Governor Bill Clements' wiretap bill is certain to be one of the most controversial items before the Legislature this session. Healthy controversy may result in a bill which could benefit Texas: one which will, indeed, slow down narcotics trafficking but will not invade the privacy of law-abiding citizens. Clements wanted his wiretap bill passed two years ago in the last session, but failed. The Governor has hired Dallas computer millionaire H. Ross Perot to command his war on drugs. Perot is regarded as highly competent and thorough.

A New Bill
The result is a new wiretap bill, streamlined and loaded with safeguards against harm to law-abiding persons. Toned-down to modify the fears of civil libertarians, SB 120 has a Democrat sponsor, Sen. Ed Howard of Texarkana. Although rumors abound the wiretap bill will be scuttled in the Senate, more likely it will sail through the Legislature.

The Governor and conservative Democrats argue that too much drug traffic comes through Texas. Two of every three kilos of heroin smuggled into the country enters through this state. It's a multi-billion dollar business.

The way to stop it is to get tough on crime with a wiretap bill and other law enforcement tools, they say. They have gone to lengths to hammer out the rough edges which might cut the rights of citizens.

The Safeguards
Closely modeled after the 1969 federal wiretap bill upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court, the new bill contains more safeguards and is limited in scope. Clements has listened to the civil libertarians because he wants this bill.

—Only the Texas Department of Public Safety will be able to install, operate and monitor wiretaps. The office in charge must be designated in writing by the DPS director.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Helping older patients

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have worked at a nursing home for many years and we have a terrific problem with several patients and their bowel habits. A combination of stool softeners and laxatives are used and quite often must be followed by enemas. In these most difficult patients maximum doses are used, and sometimes a combination of two laxatives and still no results.

Many of these people refuse to eat the meals served them, which are well planned and balanced. They don't drink enough fluids and are inactive. A dose of five Dulcolax tablets every other night doesn't even cause a patient any kind of discomfort. And when given a soap suds enema, very often the only results are a few very hard ball-shaped stools. Could you please help us?

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 69, male, and had one heart attack four years ago. I was on Inderal, Pronestyl and Quinaglut, but have progressed to the point that I do not take any medication. I sometimes get tired to the point of exhaustion, in the mid-morning and sometimes in the afternoon. In the afternoon I drink one ounce of whiskey or four ounces of wine, which relieves the tiredness for a while, part of the time.

Rest and sleep do not help. My doctor does not have any answers. I have had blood work done. I do work every day fairly hard. I do have irregular heartbeats. Do you have any suggestions for relief of this tiredness?

DEAR DR. LAMB — Your letter says a lot about some (but not all) nursing homes. You can't expect normal bowel movements if a person doesn't eat a normal diet. Put plainly, if you don't put any wood in the stove there are no ashes to haul. I am very upset by the all too common occurrence of older patients not eating and help that simply takes the tray away when eating time is up. As a result, in these circumstances, the older person may suffer serious malnutrition or simple starvation. I realize that some patients refuse to eat, but when they do not eat normally something else should and must be done. That is a whole subject in itself so I'll return to the problem of laxatives.

To provide needed bulk so there will be something to eliminate you might try a bulk expander and see if that your problem cases use it every day. The second problem is bed rest. It usually causes more harm than good, except when a specific medical condition requires it. Most of those older patients in nursing homes should be up and moving. The social contact and physical activity both are extremely important. It will also help their bowels.

The third problem is medications. Many medicines are constipating. Patients who are disoriented from medicines, without food, and lying in bed, are not likely to have normal bowel function.

You will not be able to correct the major problems you describe very easily. Such bed rest patients can and do develop impactions. You will probably need to continue stool softeners and gradually improve the situation by starting with the basics of food, correcting bed rest abuse and constipating medications. The malnutrition, the adverse effects of medications and bed rest plus any imbalance that can occur in salt and water can seriously affect these people's mental ability. Too often all are simply said to be senile when some really need good medical attention and correction of rather basic problems. Now, let me say that I am pleased that you are concerned about the problem. I just wish more people responsible for all nursing homes were equally concerned.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 69, male, and had one heart attack four years ago. I was on Inderal, Pronestyl and Quinaglut, but have progressed to the point that I do not take any medication. I sometimes get tired to the point of exhaustion, in the mid-morning and sometimes in the afternoon. In the afternoon I drink one ounce of whiskey or four ounces of wine, which relieves the tiredness for a while, part of the time.

Rest and sleep do not help. My doctor does not have any answers. I have had blood work done. I do work every day fairly hard. I do have irregular heartbeats. Do you have any suggestions for relief of this tiredness?

DEAR DR. LAMB — Your letter says a lot about some (but not all) nursing homes. You can't expect normal bowel movements if a person doesn't eat a normal diet. Put plainly, if you don't put any wood in the stove there are no ashes to haul. I am very upset by the all too common occurrence of older patients not eating and help that simply takes the tray away when eating time is up. As a result, in these circumstances, the older person may suffer serious malnutrition or simple starvation. I realize that some patients refuse to eat, but when they do not eat normally something else should and must be done. That is a whole subject in itself so I'll return to the problem of laxatives.

To provide needed bulk so there will be something to eliminate you might try a bulk expander and see if that your problem cases use it every day. The second problem is bed rest. It usually causes more harm than good, except when a specific medical condition requires it. Most of those older patients in nursing homes should be up and moving. The social contact and physical activity both are extremely important. It will also help their bowels.

The third problem is medications. Many medicines are constipating. Patients who are disoriented from medicines, without food, and lying in bed, are not likely to have normal bowel function.

You will not be able to correct the major problems you describe very easily. Such bed rest patients can and do develop impactions. You will probably need to continue stool softeners and gradually improve the situation by starting with the basics of food, correcting bed rest abuse and constipating medications. The malnutrition, the adverse effects of medications and bed rest plus any imbalance that can occur in salt and water can seriously affect these people's mental ability. Too often all are simply said to be senile when some really need good medical attention and correction of rather basic problems. Now, let me say that I am

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you explain the "mask of pregnancy" or patches of dark pigmented skin on the face and upper lip that occurs in some women? I've just had my second child and I look like I have a dark mustache on my upper lip. Will getting a suntan cause it to darken? Would a sunscreen be enough protection from the sun?

DEAR DR. LAMB — The mask is from an overproduction of melanin pigment, the normal pigment in your skin. It is the same pigment that is enhanced by a suntan. During pregnancy the increased hormone production causes patchy pigmentation in some women, and exposure to sunlight makes it worse. If you are out, both in summer and winter, cover the area that is darkly pigmented with a sunscreen. In some women it fades after pregnancy is over, but may remain to some degree. Women who have this response during pregnancy are prone to have a similar response to birth control pills, which you may want to avoid.

POLLY'S POINTERS

—Removing glue spots—

POLLY'S PROBLEM
DEAR POLLY — This past summer we bought a new storm door. There are a couple of spots of glue, left after the label was removed. I tried cleaning this off with nail polish remover, alcohol and window cleaner, but none worked. What do you suggest? — SARAH
DEAR SARAH — Try hot vinegar or lighter fluid. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — The large-size plastic bags that have a zipper-like locks are ideal for flouring chicken, chops, etc. for frying or broking. Salt, pepper and other seasonings can be added to the flour in the bag. The meat is evenly coated by tossing around in this sealed bag. Any left-over flour can be stored in the bag in the refrigerator, and be used again. This is less messy than using a plate or bowl, and definitely more sanitary than using a paper bag. — GWEN

DEAR POLLY — I solved the problem of putting curtains on a half-glass, half-steel entrance door without making holes in the door. I wanted light as well as privacy, so I bought eyelet curtains and cut them to fit, with about two-and-a-half inches above and below the glass. I hemmed them and permanently gathered them top and bottom. A flat rod pocket (use thin material) was put on top and bottom.

At an auto supply store that sells magnetic signs, I purchased the correct length of one-inch magnet for needed. Using strips of magnet instead of rods, I inserted them through the rod pockets, and placed the curtains on the door, with the magnets above and below the glass. The curtains stay in place, but the rod pockets must be very flat in order for the magnets to cling to the door. — DOLORES

DEAR POLLY — I bought a book of duplicate sales slips and use these when ordering anything by mail. The date something is ordered, the address and what was ordered are all in one small book. — M.C.D.

DEAR POLLY — I wash and save the plastic cups that sundaes are served in at fast food restaurants. I use them to make little molds for gelatin that is poured in after it cools. I also fill them with hard candies, put the lids back on and fasten with plastic tape and find they sell well at our church bazaar. — MRS. C.G.W.

OUR GREATEST LEADERS HAVE BEEN GUIDED BY FAITH

The leaders and founding fathers of free nations who are remembered and honored throughout their country's history have all had several things in common, despite their differences in personality and temperament. Without exception, they have been men of strong character, with an unselfish devotion to duty, a determination to overcome every obstacle and a complete subordination of all personal glory to the best interests of their country. They were men with a kind of principle that is hard to find today, and this was largely a result of their faith, upon which they depended for guidance during the dark hours of adversity. Attend the Church of your choice and learn some of this faith with which our revered leaders gave us our priceless heritage of freedom.

One language held his heart and lip,
Straight onward to his goal he trod,
And proved the highest statesmanship
Obedience to the voice of God.

—John Greenleaf Whittier

"Behold, I have given him for a witness to the people, a leader and commander to the people."
—Isaiah 55:4
