Penni is the daughter of Pat and Dollie Parker of Hereford, and Rex is the son of Donald and Elaine Pinnell of Adrian.

Hostesses were June Rudd, Kay

Hallows, Marilyn Leasure, Helen Eades and Mabel Heard, all of Hereford, Violet Barton and Kathy Sammann of Dimmitt, Judy Massey of Amarillo and Wanda Burney of Friona.

Refreshments of cream puffs, cookies and mixed nuts were served by the hostesses. Punch was served from a milk glass punch bowl and coffee from a silver coffee service.

Center announces schedule

The Amarillo College Career Center Testing schedule for the month of May has been announced.

The Strong-Campbell Interest Inventory will be given May 3 from 3 to 4 p.m. in Ordway Hall for a cost of $3. This test is used to help people make career decisions and can be helpful to someone who has been unable to focus on any educational or career goals or to someone who would like to make a career change and needs direction.

May 14 from 2 to 3 p.m. the Guidance Information System Search (GIS) will be performed in Ordway Hall at a cost of $3. The GIS is used primarily to supply specific occupational information such as job descriptions, salary ranges, job outlook to the year 2000, and address for further information.

An interpretation of the Strong-Campbell Interest Inventory of May 3 will be given May 22 from 3 to 4 p.m. in Ordway hall at no charge. The delay in interpretation is necessary due to computer scoring of the instrument. Interests only are measured with this inventory and not abilities.

The Harrington-O'Shea Interest Inventory will be given May 29 from 2 to 4 p.m. in Ordway Hall for a cost of $3. This is a self-scoring surey used to help people in career decision making. Students work through a booklet step by step and then are instructed on how to add up their scores for an interpretation. The inventory encompasses values, interests, self-assessed abilities, future plans, and educational preferences.

Further details and registration information is available in Ordway Hall, AC Washington Street Campus, Room 126, or by calling 376-5111, extension 2548.

Tickets available for ballet performance

American Ballet Theatre II will be presented by the Lone Star Ballet, Inc. at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Amarillo Civic Center auditorium. This is the final performance of the season.

fresh, expert." Walter Terry of the Saturday Review said of the ballet, "...a stunning group...exuberant, vital, among the best to be found anywhere in America."

John Quincy Adams

John Quincy Adams, whose father was this country's second president, was elected president by the House of Representatives after he failed to win an electoral-college majority in 1824.

Look for quality in linen

After years of buying clothes made from polyester blends and other synthetic fibers, it may be hard to know what to look for in the natural fibers that now fill the stores.

Crisp linen, ramie and linen-look summer clothes offer attractive options for consumers who know how to shop for these fabrics, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service clothing specialist Dr. Ann Beard.

Linen comes in many weights and textures to accommodate a wide range of styles, she says. Heavier weights are best for tailored suits while sheer, handkerchief weights are best for soft blouses or dresses. Natural linen is versatile enough to shape into any desired look.

Linen is often combined with a synthetic, such as polyester, to produce a linen blend, Beard notes. "These blends are more resistant to wrinkling and shrinking and retain their shape better than pure linen fabric. However, blends require extra care when ironing since they can be scorched or begin to shine if too much heat is used."

When shopping for a linen or linen blend garment, Beard advises checking for the following:

-Check the care label for instructions. Linen garments can be washed if the cloth was pre-washed before sewing. Some garments will require dry cleaning.

-Look carefully to see how the garment hangs when you try it on. This is important since linen has such an obvious grain.

-Check the seams for reinforcement and finishing, since linen tends to ravel.

-Also check for interfacing at necklines, collars, cuffs, lapels, center front and back openings and pockets—even on heavy weight linen. Interfacings help the fabric lay properly.

By paying the same attention to these details, home sewers can also make beautiful linen clothing that looks professional, says Beard.

Ice cream social planned

Extension Homemakers Council meets Monday

Members of the Extension Homemakers Council met Monday in the Heritage Room of Deaf Smith County Library for a covered dish luncheon and business meeting with Gayle Carter, chairman, presiding.

During the business session, Mary Carter, TEHA chairman, reported on the district meeting held recently in Canyon. She displayed a plaque that voting delegates from Deaf Smith County received for highest attendance and exhibited a certificate that was given to the group for 100 percent participation in the TEHA scholarship program.

Gayle Carter and Jewell Hargrave reported on various programs presented during the district meeting and Sherrie Blackwell of Draper Club read an article from Ann Landers entitled "For Our Teenagers."

National Extension Homemakers Week is set for May 5-10 and County Judge Glen Nelson was asked to declare the observance in Deaf Smith County. Council and club members will host a tea in the Community Center May 7 from 2-4 p.m. at which time scrapbooks will be on display.

The council voted to enter a float in the Town 'n' Country Jubilee parade scheduled in August and Johnnie Messer was named as chairman of the float planning committee.

An invitation was extended to the group from the Los Ciboleros Chapter of the Daughters of American Revolution to attend a tea honoring Pet Ott Sunday afternoon. Ott will be given the DAR Medal of Honor. She has served as council parliamentarian for two years. Louise Walker, county extension agent, reported that Mary Stark will give a spring program entitled "Cooking and Eating Light" at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. May 30 in the Energas Flame Room.

Walker will present a program entitled "Coping with Stress" to the Lions Club May 22 and to the Kiwanis Club May 23.

Reports were also made by Susan Raney, assistant county extension agent. She reviewed the district Livestock Judging Contest held recently and announced that the senior team will go to the state meeting. Rickie Vogel placed third in high point individual and the junior team won 11th place.

She also reported on the recent Fashion Image Improvement Seminar and listed several upcoming events including interviews for 4-H scholarship candidates set April 29; the District 4-H Roundup, May 4; and Parent-Leaders covered dish supper, May 7.

Before the close of the meeting, Mary Carter, expressed her appreciation to the clubs who were represented at the district meeting and reminded the group to elect nominees for delegates to the state meeting planned in September. Members were also asked to make donations for TEHA chairman.

Edith Hunter of Cultural Club and Virgie Duncan of Wyche Club were welcomed as guests. There were nine clubs represented during the council meeting and six clubs had 100 percent attendance.

Teacher Job Fair scheduled

Good jobs in the teaching field are frequently hard to find. But West Texas State University's placement service is trying to make it a little easier through their Teacher Job Fair on Tuesday.

According to placement director Gene Parker, approximately 75 school districts will have representatives set up at tables in the Henson Activities Center ballroom from 2-6 p.m.

Interested students or interested individuals from the outside community may bring copies of their resumes to the Job Fair. They may visit with the various representatives and pick up applications. There is no charge for this service.

Debbie Morgan invited guests to register at a table covered with a lace cloth and decorated with a framed portrait of the couple and a candle lamp centered with rose candles and silk flowers.

The honoree's sister, Cheryl Schlabs, assisted with the gifts.

The refreshment table was covered with a cutwork cloth and enhanced with crystal candelabra holding white tapers and an arrangement of dusty rose flowers accented with greenery and baby's breath.

Pink punch was served from a silver service and crystal bowls contained fruits and assorted cookies. Servers included Donna Weaver and Karen Lance, sisters of the bride-elect.

Fat-skimming

DEAR POLLY — Do you have a recipe for a low-fat homemade chicken soup? — KAREN

DEAR KAREN — There are a couple of ways in which you can lower the fat content of homemade soups. First, you could use bones and meat from which you've removed as much visible fat as possible. The drawback with this method is that much of the flavor of the soup comes from the fat. I prefer to make the soup as I ordinarily would, then remove the fat from the finished broth.

The easiest way to de-grease the broth is to refrigerate it overnight. After several hours, the fat will have congealed into a solid layer on top of the soup. Simply remove it and discard. You'll be left with relatively fat-free broth.

If you haven't time to refrigerate the soup, you can skim the grease off with a shallow spoon; float a slice of bread on top, allowing the bread to soak up the grease and changing the bread with a fresh slice as it becomes saturated; or skim, through the grease with an ice cube (fat will congeal on the ice, which you can discard).

There are also special pitchers (they look somewhat like measuring cups) in many cookware catalogs that help you de-grease broth. You pour the broth into the pitcher, let it sit for a few minutes, then pour off the grease through the specially designed

DEAR POLLY — When I lived alone, I found this meat-loaf trick really saved me time. Now that I'm married, I use this idea to make handy portions easily stored in the freezer.

Instead of using a large loaf pan for making meat loaf, try pressing your meat mixture into muffin cup (ungreased and no paper liners). Cuts down on cooking time (20 minutes versus an hour or more) and makes individual meat portions. These "muffins" freeze and reheat very well. — K.M.

Nature is best guide to expression

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Guadalupe Diaz is a proud man. He is proud of his sculptures, which grace several areas of this border city across the Rio Grande from El Paso. Among the most prominent works are the bronze mural with the history of the Hermanos Escobar Agricultural College at the entrance to the school, the newspaper boy outside the new City Hall and a larger-than-life sculpture of the city's founder, Gray Garcia de San Francisco, behind the Cathedral of Guadalupe.

He is also proud that he learned his trade the hard way.

"I never took an art lesson in my life," Diaz said with a mirthful grin as he sat down to tell the story of his life.

"But I taught myself how to draw and all about physics, mathematics, anatomy, mechanics and English. My first job was as a photographer. I used to buy magazines of Hollywood stars and pose my clients the same way. They loved it. Unfortunately, I never knew how much to charge them. So I went broke."

Diaz, who was born and reared in Juarez, said he had wanted to be a sculptor since childhood. But having to make a living got in his way.

"Yet, I learned to be a sculptor with every job I had," said Diaz, 59. "After my photo shop went bankrupt, I started out as a carpenter. Then I went into the construction business working with plaster of paris or gypsum that could be molded into different figures."

One of his many jobs was with the Mexican railroad as a master mechanic, Diaz said. He was the last man to repair the steam engines, which ran from Juarez into the interior of Mexico until the late 1960s.

"With the railroad, I learned to work the foundry," he said. "But I did not become a sculptor until I started working with the city government. I had more time to work in my studio."

Diaz said his first commission was the statue of the "Ninos Heroes," the child cadet heroes who hurled themselves from the Castillo de Chapultepec during the U.S. invasion of Mexico.

Made in white cement, the monument stands guard at the entrance of the soccer field in the eastern side of the Chamizal Park. A group of high school students with the city's ROTC program commissioned the work.

"Actually, most of my works on display in the city have been commissioned through a series of odd circumstances," Diaz said.

He explained how a monument to revolutionary leader Emiliano Zapata came to be in a colonia on the city's outskirts.

"The winds of politics are funny and change directions in a minute," he said. "The delegate in charge of San Isidro, a little cooperative farming community in the valley, had ordered a bust of Zapata for the town square. But the work was delayed. Meanwhile, elections were held in the village. The delegate lost the elections because he failed to account for the money he had given me for the bust. I returned his money and kept the bust."

Years later, he said, during the administration of Jose Reyes Estrada, the city built a school and named it Emiliano Zapata. The city's urban renewal department asked for bids for a bust of the revolutionary hero.

"By using the same bust, I was able to offer them a larger-than-life monument for the cost of the additional materials," he said. "I lost money on that sculpture and on many others. But cost and value are two different things. Value depends on what the object means to a person. Cost is only the material value."

A sculpture can be made of many different materials, Diaz said, adding that an artist should know how to work with such dissimilar materials as marble, bronze, fiberglass, wood, clay, aluminum, cement and even stone.

Vladimir Alvarado, a sculptor who has a foundry in Juarez and worked with the artist, described Diaz's work as belonging to the realist school.

"Diaz is completely academic in his work," Alvarado said. "He sculpts only what he sees. I have forged several of his bronze works including the huge historical relief of the agricultural school. Because of its 14-foot width, the sculpture later developed a crack in the middle which will have to be repaired."

Diaz said he never has done any modern or abstract work because nature is better at expressing ideas.

"Modern or abstract art is the refuge of those artists who do not know how to draw," Diaz said. "Nature is the best teacher. It shows feelings."

Diaz said he always begins his works with a drawing followed by a clay model.

"The procedure is a little more complicated than that," he said, "but those are the basics."

Diaz now is working on a sculpture of a golfer for the Campestre Juarez golf club. He also has a small model of a statue of Benito Juarez he will propose to the Chihuahua state government for placement in Juarez.

"But this Benito Juarez will have the stern look of authority, a book of laws in his hands and a clenched fist for power," Diaz said.

Some savings bonds reaching maturity

COLLEGE STATION — If you are one of the millions of Americans who bought savings bonds during and after World War II, you could be losing interest money.

Certain U.S. Savings Bonds have passed their final maturity dates and are no longer earning interest, says Nancy L. Granovsky, a family economics specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

Series E Bonds bought before April 1952 reach final maturity 40 years from the date of issue. Series E bonds that were bought in April 1945 will stop drawing interest this month; next month those issued in May 1945 will cease to earn interest, and so on.

Series H Bonds bought before January 1957 reach final maturity in 29 years, 8 months, so any Series H bond bought before August 1955 is not drawing interest now.

Granovsky encourages those who have older U.S. Savings Bonds to review their holdings, recording the date of issue of each, and determine whether they have passed maturity, or are currently or will soon stop earning interest.

"To make your money work for you, it's important to take time to review your bonds," says Granovsky. "Keeping them when they are not gaining in value is like putting your money in a mattress. Not only do you lose the interest on something that's not making money, but you're actually losing buying power on the face value due to inflation."

Ways with Wine

by David Hutchins

STATE BOTTLED

Do you know what it means when you see the "estate bottled" designation on a bottle of California wine? It indicates that the entire wine-making process took place on property owned or controlled by the winery named on the label. Many California wineries buy grapes from independent growers and then proceed to make wine. An estate-bottled wine, however, has been produced from start to finish, including the growing of the grapes, by the named winery. The quality of the wine, however, cannot be guaranteed merely because the label carries the words "estate bottled." The term is not significant as it is now defined.

THE STORE carries a fantastic selection of domestic and imported wines. If you have never sampled any wines from California you have a real treat in store. Many California wines compete favorably with even some of the finer French wines. We have wines priced to suit every pocketbook. Come by and see us at 400 N. 25 Mile Ave., 364-7802. Open: Mon.-Sat. 10-9, use our drive up door until midnight for beer and wine; on Sun. only beer and wine is available from 12-12.

Ann Landers

Don't leave them alone

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have two children, ages 7 and 3. The 3-year-old is a late sleeper, so I got into the habit of letting her sleep while I took my 7-year-old to school. I was never gone more than 10 minutes (the school is six blocks from home).

I never felt right about it and made excuses to myself. "It's cold outside. Why make her go out? I'm eight months pregnant and it's hard to carry her to the car."

Yesterday everything changed. When I pulled into the driveway I saw my daughter running down the street. She had awakened, unlocked the front door and gone looking for me. The child was barefoot, wearing pajamas and she was hysterical. She had fallen and skinned her knees and elbows. The poor thing kept repeating, "You left me and I was scared."

It took an hour to get her calmed down. When I think of what could have happened, I get sick to my stomach. The ironic part was that I drove my son to school every day because I was worried that something might happen to him.

Please tell mothers they must never leave small children by themselves, even for a few minutes. It's better to go to a little trouble than to risk something terrible happening.—Ashamed, But Smarter In Fort Worth

DEAR F.W.: Your letter may be the most important one that has appeared in this space in ages. My heart breaks every time I read about children who died in a fire when they were left alone. Please, parents—take this message seriously. Children can unlock doors, turn on the gas, cut, scald and burn themselves, fall down stairs—the list is endless.

Remember this letter the next time you are tempted to leave a child alone for "just a few minutes."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can a woman who has had her uterus removed through surgery, but still has both ovaries, become pregnant? I was told that the ovaries continue to produce eggs regardless of whether a uterus is present. Can this be possible?

I am not very knowledgeable about my body and realize it is dumb to live with a man with so little information, but please help me anyway. I will be living in fear until you give me an answer. I don't want to have a child out of wedlock and I don't believe this guy has any interest in marrying me. He swears there is no way I can get pregnant but I don't trust him. Men will say anything to get what they want.

Thanks for your help, Ann. — A Daily Reader In Miss.

DEAR MISS: In order to have a child, a woman must have a uterus. When the male's sperm unites with the female's egg, the uterus is needed to house the embryo. If there is no uterus there is no place for the baby to grow. Even though you don't have to worry about getting pregnant, the relationship sounds less than wonderful. It sounds to me as if he is using you. I hope you will give this aspect of the relationship some serious thought.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious—lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Slate of officers nominated

The Hereford Art Guild nominating committee presented a slate of officers for 1985-86 when the group met Tuesday afternoon in the art room of Hereford Community Center.

Hilda Havens was nominated as president; Lottie Wertenberger, first vice-president; Audrey Rusher, secretary; Annie DeLozier, treasurer; Carrie Mae Doak, parliamentarian; and Vernia Elliott, reporter.

Also, during the business meeting with Doak presiding, roll call was answered with "What do you do when you want to calm down?" Wertenberger had on display some of her handwork consisting of a quilt, a baby blanket, a wall plaque and pieces of painted China.

Hostesses Lucille Naylor gave the opening exercise and emphasized the fact that "We are given special gifts and God expects us to use them so if our talent is painting we should put our hand to the plow and start painting."

The guild president announced an invitation to a tea to be held at 3 p.m.

Some say twins have second sight.

Seminars set for women

Special seminars on Farm and Ranch Business Management for Women Landowners will be held in three different Texas cities in the coming weeks.

Dates and locations of the seminars are May 7-9, Holiday Inn (1911 I-40 East), Amarillo; May 14-16, Holiday Inn South (4440 West Airport Freeway), Dallas-Fort Worth; and May 28-30, Holiday Inn (77 NE Loop 410), San Antonio.

The seminars are designed to help women explore income-generating and tax-saving opportunities for their farms and ranches, says Dr. Wayne Hayenga, economist and attorney with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Discussions will center on income taxes, leases, business organization and estate planning. A special section will deal with oil and gas leases.

Farm leases and operating agreements take many forms, notes Hayenga, and many of these will be discussed at the seminar, including benefits and restrictions to both landowners and tenants.

Regarding income tax planning, tax-saving opportunities will be explored for business growth, land sales, retirement income and helping out children and grandchildren.

A session on estate planning will deal with wills, trusts, estate tax deferrals, gifts and property titles, Hayenga points out.

Estate planning tools which will be discussed include use of corporations and partnerships, special farm land valuation, deferred estate tax payments, life insurance and discounted estate taxes (flower bonds).

For registration information, contact Hayenga in the Department of Agricultural Economics, Texas A&M University, College Station, Tx. 77843, or call (409)845-2226.

Accent on Health

Governor Mark White has signed a proclamation making the month of May "Mother Care is Baby Care" Month in Texas. His action coincides with a statewide public education campaign encouraging expectant mothers to seek medical care early in pregnancy to ensure their own health as well as that of their babies.

The campaign was launched in April by the Texas Department of Health's Bureau of Maternal and Child Health and the Public Health Promotion Division.

The campaign stresses that expectant mothers who seek prenatal care early, and continue health care throughout pregnancy, stand the best chance of delivering healthy babies.

At the beginning of pregnancy, many women fail to realize the importance of seeking medical help. Prenatal care, begun as early in the pregnancy as possible, is the best way an expectant mother can avoid some complications brought on by neglect or ignorance of her own and her baby's health.

During prenatal visits, expectant mothers have the opportunity to learn about possible health risks which can be avoided. The baby's health at birth depends greatly on the mother's health during pregnancy.

Each year nearly 30,000 babies are born in Texas. Of these babies, an estimated 90,000 are born to pregnant women who are poor and unable to pay for medical care. The Texas Department of Health's Bureau of Vital Statistics reported that one-third of Texas women who were pregnant last year failed to seek medical attention during the crucial first three months of pregnancy (first trimester). In 1984, a conservative estimate showed that 10,000 women received no prenatal care.

Health problems can best be identified and corrected, with the least risk and expense, early in the pregnancy. Delaying prenatal care, and therefore allowing potential problems to continue to develop, has serious consequences for the health of mothers and babies alike.

For example, in 1983, the infant death rate for women who received adequate prenatal care was 9.4 per 1,000 live births. That compares with a death rate of 29.1 per 1,000 live births to mothers with inadequate prenatal care. Twenty-eight states have lower infant mortality rates than Texas.

"With proper medical supervision, expectant mothers can avoid, in many cases, the leading causes of death for babies less than 28 days old," Texas Commissioner of Health, Dr. Robert Bernstein, said. About 2,100 Texas infants less than 28 days old died in 1984.

These neonatal deaths stemmed from birth defects, respiratory disease syndrome, prematurity, illness caused by maternal complications and low birth weight (less than 5.5 pounds).

Association gives top award for research

AUSTIN — The American Heart Association in Texas announced today that M. Benjamin Perryman, Ph.D. has been named the recipient of the Lyndon Baines Johnson Award for Research.

Dr. Perryman is a medical researcher and Assistant Professor of Medicine at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. His research involves studying creatine kinase (CK), an enzyme being tested to determine the amount and type of heart tissue damage caused by heart attack.

The knowledge gained about creatine kinase could lead to a simple and inexpensive blood test to determine the success of treatments to dissolve blood clots—a major contributing factor in heart attack or stroke.

Creatine kinase, normally found in heart tissue, is released into the bloodstream and converted into two other forms following a heart attack. Perryman claims that determining the ratio between the original form and the two converted forms could lead to important breakthroughs in cardiovascular medicine. These breakthroughs may make it possible to determine the onset of a heart attack and the amount of damage caused by the attack.

The American Heart Association in Texas initially funded Perryman's research in 1983, and has recently continued its support with a two-year grant totalling $50,000.

The LBJ Award honors Perryman's research as having the highest meritorious ranking, as determined by the Central Research Review Committee. The Texas Afiliate of the American Heart Association grants funding to support the work of young researchers who have demonstrated expertise in the field of cardiovascular research. The Association's support for such research has grown 505 percent since 1976.

In 1984, the American Heart Association in Texas funded 125 independent research projects investing nearly $3.7 million in research carried out at fourteen medical and academic centers in eight Texas cities.

The Association continues its fight to prevent early death and disability from heart disease and stroke through research, community service, and public and professional education programs. For more information about these programs and services, contact the American Heart Association in your community, listed in the White Pages of your telephone directory.

New 4-H scholarship program established

A new national 4-H scholarship program targeted to minority 4-H members for pursuing a career in agriculture has been established with funding from E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co.

Ten four-year scholarships at $1,000 per year will be awarded to current 4-H members who will be enrolled as high school seniors in the fall of 1984, says Preston Sides, 4-H specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. The students must plan to major in agriculture or a closely related field at a land-grant institution.

To be eligible for the scholarship, candidates must have completed at least one year of 4-H work, demonstrate citizenship and leadership skills, have proven academic ability, be accepted to attend a land-grant university with enrollment in the College of Agriculture or its affiliate departments, and have an interest in a career in the agricultural industry.

Sides says the five-year program is aimed at expanding the number of minority professionals working in the agricultural industry. In addition, during the first three years of this project, selected land-grant universities will receive grants to develop agricultural career-conscious material aimed at minority youth aged 13-18. These materials will be shared nationwide.

Four-H involves nearly 4.5 million boys and girls nationwide. Some 170,000 Texas youth are in the program, which is conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Awards and incentive programs are arranged through the National 4-H Council and Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation, non-profit organizations that support 4-H with private resources.

For more information on this and other scholarship programs, contact any local county Extension office, notes Sides.

Non-point pollution, which is created by runoff from farms, city streets and construction sites, continues to be a pressing clean-water problem. Some estimates state this uncontrolled runoff accounts for more than half of the water pollution in the United States.

on his throw to home plate, and Evans scored.

After Coronado forced out a Hereford runner at home plate, Stephan Hacker walked to load the bases.

Hereford then scored a third run in the inning on a wild pitch, gaining a 5-4 lead.

The Herd committed a pair of errors in the bottom of the seventh, the first of which came after Coronado bunted the ball.

Detroit Pistons edge Nets, 116-115

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Isiah Thomas knows just how the New Jersey Nets feel.

"Last year ended so fast that it was the worst feeling I've ever had in basketball," Thomas said Wednesday night after knocking the Nets out of the National Basketball Association playoffs by hitting a 15-foot jumper with two seconds left to give the Detroit Pistons a 116-115 victory.

"We were up so high and then went down so low," the 6-foot-1 point guard added, referring to one-point and overtime losses to New York that knocked Detroit out of the 1984 postseason. "I don't ever want that to happen again."

The victory gave the Pistons a 3-0 sweep in the best-of-five, first-round series and advanced them into the Eastern Conference semifinals against the Boston-Cleveland winner.

In other playoff games Wednesday, Utah tripped Houston 112-104, Chicago edged Milwaukee 109-107 and Washington routed Philadelphia 118-100.

In tonight's games, Boston is at Cleveland and Dallas is at Portland in series the Celtics and Trail Blazers lead 2-1.

On Friday night, Milwaukee is at Chicago, Philadelphia at Washington, Denver at San Antonio and Houston at Utah. The Bucks, 76ers, Denver and Utah each lead 2-1.

Thomas made his game-winning shot from behind the basket and with the outstretched arm of 6-8 Buck Williams in his face.

"Isiah's last shot was only something a super talent like him can make," Nets Coach Stan Albeck said.

"I was there right on top of him, and Isiah made a great shot," said Williams, who scored 28 points to share game-high honors with teammate Albert King. "We played as hard as we could, but Detroit played better."

The Nets led 33-22 at the end of the first quarter, 63-58 at the half and 91-84 after three quarters.

Detroit led on eight occasions in the game, five times in the first three minutes and three times in the final seven minutes. None of its leads was more than two points.

Bullets 118, 76ers 100
Washington outscored Philadelphia 30-13 in the third quarter to turn a close game into a rout.

Cliff Robinson, who saw no playoff action in his first five NBA seasons, scored 14 of his 21 points in the third quarter, giving him one more than the entire Philadelphia team for those 12 minutes.

Gus Williams, held to 27 points in the first two games, led the Bullets with 28, while Jeff Ruland added 25.

Moses Malone led Philadelphia with 17 points, but Andrew Toney, who scored 31 in Game 2, managed only eight on 3-for-16 shooting.

Bulls 109, Bucks 107
Chicago got 35 points from Michael Jordan, including seven points in the final three minutes and the game-winning baseline jumper with 17 seconds left, to stay alive in its series with Milwaukee.

Orlando Woolridge added 28 points for the Bulls, who won their first playoff game since 1981.

Jordan broke a 104-104 deadlock with 1:48 left. But Sidney Moncrief's three-point play gave Milwaukee a 107-106 advantage.

Moments later, the Bucks lost the ball on a 24-second violation, and Jordan hit his game-winning jumper after a Woolridge shot was blocked.

David Greenwood hit one of two free throws to give Chicago a 109-107 lead, then stole Milwaukee's inbound pass with seven seconds left to clinch it.

Terry Cummings hit for 37 points and Moncrief added 28 to lead Milwaukee.

Jazz 112, Rockets 104
Adrian Dantley scored 29 points and Thurl Bailey added 22 to lead underdog Utah over Houston.

Dantley had nine points in the fourth quarter and Bailey 11 as the Jazz easily overcame an 82-80 deficit by outscoring the Rockets 32-22 in the period.

The Jazz also outscored Houston 39-16 at the foul line for the game and the Rockets' Twin Towers — Ralph Sampson and Akeem Olajuwon — both got into foul trouble. Sampson fouled out after playing 34 minutes and scoring 20 points, and Olajuwon finished with 26 points.

Vukovich, Vukovich lead teams to wins

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Their names are spelled almost the same so it's not surprising that Vukovich and Vukovich are often misspelled. Just so there's no mistake, it was Pete Vukovich who tamed the Chicago White Sox and George Vukovich who did in the Detroit Tigers.

Pete, a 32-year-old right-hander who missed most of the last two years with shoulder problems, recorded his first pitching victory since his Cy Young Award season of 1982 Wednesday night by scattering six hits in seven innings as the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the White Sox 3-2.

"I never doubted that I'd come back from my arm problems. I just didn't know how long it would take. Right now, my arm feels great," said Vukovich.

George, a 28-year-old outfielder, drove in three runs with three singles, including the game-winner in the bottom of the ninth inning, giving the Cleveland Indians a 7-6 victory over the Tigers.

"You don't become world champions by pitching around people. You go right at them," said Vukovich, who came into the game with a .209 average.

In other American League games, Oakland downed California 6-4, Boston edged New York 7-6, Toronto shelled Kansas City 10-2, Baltimore nipped Texas 2-1 and Minnesota pounded Seattle 10-0.

Indians 7, Tigers 6
 With the score tied, Joe Carter walked with one out in the ninth and moved to second on a wild pitch by Aurelio Lopez. The Tigers elected to pitch to Vukovich and he ripped a hard line drive to right, scoring Carter.

 The Tigers, who roared to a 35-5 start last year, have lost five of their last seven games and are 8-5 overall. The Indians, who have won six of nine, climbed out of last place in the American League East, passing the New York Yankees.

Athletics 6, Angels 4
 Mike Davis continued to feast on California pitching, contributing to a pair of three-run uprisings. The A's jumped on Ron Romanick for three unearned runs in the first inning. After Angels' first baseman Rod Carew made an error on Dave Collins' leadoff grounder, Carney Lansford and Bruce Bochte followed with singles to score Collins. Dave Kingman's groundout and Davis' single produced the other two runs.

Dwayne Murphy's homer triggered Oakland's three-run third. Davis doubled and scored on a single by Donnie Hill, who moved to second as Alfredo Griffin grounded out to first and scored on Collins' single.

Red Sox 7, Yankees 6
 Jim Rice hit his fourth home run of the season, breaking a 6-6 tie with two out in the seventh inning, and Tony Armas hit a three-run shot as Boston notched its fifth straight victory over New York this season. Yankee starter Ron Guidry had retired nine batters in a row after a shaky start before Rice homered into the bleachers in right-center.

Steve Crawford was the winner in relief of Al Nipper.

Blue Jays 10, Royals 2
 Jeff Burroughs drove in his first five runs of the season with a three-run homer and two-run triple, and Luis Leal limited Kansas City to three hits over 8 2-3 innings to even his record at 1-1.

The Blue Jays shelled three Kansas City pitchers for 13 hits, scoring six times in the third inning and four in the fifth.

Orioles 2, Rangers 1
 Mike Young hit a two-run homer and Mike Boddicker scattered six hits in 8 1-3 innings. The victory was Boddicker's second against the Rangers this year and he is 6-0 against Texas in his career.

Twins 10, Mariners 0
 Mike Smithson pitched a four-hitter and Kent Hrbek hit a three-run homer, his first of the season. It was Seattle's eighth loss in nine games — all on the road — after a 6-0 start at home. In seven of those games the Mariners have allowed seven or more runs.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas, effective May 6, 1985, unless otherwise determined by the Commission. The Public Utility Commission of Texas has received the application as Docket 6200.

While proposals as to specific rates vary, it is expected that the requested rate schedule will furnish a 10.5 percent increase in the Company's unadjusted test year intrastate revenues or a 9.7 percent increase in test year revenues as adjusted for test year customer growth and annualization of test year rate increases. The rate application seeks an annual increase of $323.9 million in revenues. All customers and classes of customers of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company within Texas will be affected by the proposed changes.

Most rates proposed for increase would increase by about 18.5 percent, including local exchange rates. However, there are some exceptions. For example, those customers residing in cities that will be reclassified into larger rate groups will experience local exchange rate increases greater than 18.5 percent. Also, the rate increases proposed for private line services in El Paso, due to a proposal to restructure such rates, are greater than 18.5 percent.

A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas and with each affected incorporated municipality served by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. The Commission staff has contended in the past that all rates are subject to change as a result of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's rate application. This filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for local exchange service, intraLATA long distance, intraLATA interexchange private line service (which includes foreign exchange service) and to decrease certain access service rates.

Aviso Público

En conformidad con las disposiciones de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company anuncia mediante el presente aviso su intención de establecer un nuevo arancel de tarifas telefónicas en Texas, con vigencia a partir del 6 de mayo de 1985, salvo disposición en contrario de la Comisión. La Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas a registrado esta solicitud bajo el Docket 6200.

Si bien existe variación entre las propuestas en cuanto a las tarifas precisas, se anticipa que el arancel tarifario solicitado aumentará en un 10.5% los ingresos intrastatales no ajustados de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company durante el año de prueba, o sea, un aumento del 9.7 por ciento en los ingresos del año de prueba, después de realizar el ajuste por la expansión de los usuarios y por la anualización del aumento de tarifas para el año de prueba. El objeto de esta solicitud de tarifas es lograr un aumento anual en los ingresos de $323.9 millones. Los cambios propuestos afectarán a todos los usuarios y grupos de usuarios de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company en el estado de Texas.

La mayoría de las tarifas que resultarían afectadas por el propuesto aumento aumentarían aproximadamente en un 18.5 por ciento, incluyendo las tarifas de centrales locales. Sin embargo, existen algunas excepciones. Por ejemplo, los usuarios que residen en ciudades que se reclasificarán para formar parte de grupos tarifarios mayores experimentarán aumentos mas elevados del 18.5 por ciento. Por otra parte, los aumentos de las tarifas propuestas para servicios de línea privada en El Paso aumentarían en mas de 18.5 por ciento, como resultado de una propuesta para reestructurar tales tarifas.

Una copia completa del nuevo arancel de tarifas se halla archivada en las oficinas de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos en Austin, Texas, así como en cada municipalidad incorporada afectada que tenga servicio de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. En el pasado, la Comisión ha sostenido que toda tarifa se halla sujeta a cambio toda vez que Southwestern Bell Telephone Company solicite nuevas tarifas. El registro de esta tarifa incluye, pero no en forma limitativa, las propuestas de aumentar las tarifas por servicios de centrales locales, de larga distancia intraLATA y por servicios de línea privada interLATA entre centrales (incluyendo servicios de centrales externas) así como las propuestas de reducir ciertas tarifas de servicio de acceso.

Notice to Customers of Other Telephone Companies
 This filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for intraLATA long distance and for intraLATA, interexchange private line service (which includes foreign exchange service) and to decrease certain access service rates. Changes in such rates would also affect customers of other telephone companies because such companies provide certain services in accordance with rates specified in Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's tariffs.

Notice to All Customers Concerning Access Charges and Certain New Service Charges
 Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, as a part of this filing, is also proposing to reduce certain access rates charged such customers as AT&T Communications, Inc., MCI and other carriers. The resulting reduction in revenues is proposed to be offset by revenues from two new service charges, late payment charges applicable to business customers only and for certain operator services such as busy line verification, plus stimulation of access service charge revenues. Since this portion of the filing, if granted, would have essentially a zero net revenue effect on Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is proposing that this portion of the filing be expeditiously handled by the Commission and not await Final Order.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. ## Ryan loses bid for no-hitter

HOUSTON (AP) — What appeared to be a sweep for the Houston Astros and possibly a sixth no-hitter by Nolan Ryan ended up as two and two-thirds innings of disaster.

Ryan appeared to be on his way to his sixth career no-hit performance through 6-1-3 innings until Cincinnati right fielder Dave Parker singled sharply to center.

Duane Walker followed with a two-run homer to right as the Reds went on to defeat the Astros 8-3 Wednesday to break a tie for first place between the two teams in the National League's western division.

"The way he (Ryan) was throwing the ball, I didn't ever think we would score on him," said Reds' pitcher Mario Soto.

Ryan struck out six and allowed only one base runner on a walk to Dave Concepcion before Parker extended his hitting streak to five games and Walker hit his third career home run off Ryan with one out in the top of the seventh inning.

"I felt good and had good stuff," said Ryan. "They just put two hits together."

According to Astros' Manager Bob Lillis, Ryan's fastball was up to 96 mph in the fourth and fifth innings and it appeared that Ryan had no-hit stuff.

Ryan gave up three runs and struck out seven over eight innings, but ended up with no decision as the Astros were only able to get three runs off Soto, 4-1, and reliever Ted Power.

Meanwhile, Cincinnati touched up Houston relievers Bill Dawley and loser Frank DiPino, 0-2, for five runs to improve its record to 9-6.

Houston took a 1-0 lead in the fifth inning on consecutive doubles by Phil Garner and Alan Ashby and tied the game at 3-3 with two runs in the eighth.

Pinch-hitter Ty Gainey reached on a fielder's choice and Kevin Bass and Denny Walling walked to load the bases. With two out, Jose Cruz extended his hitting streak to seven games with a two-run single to left.

Cincinnati pinch-hitter Eric Davis scored the winning run in the ninth when he walked, stole second and was balked to third by DiPino. Nick Esasky was credited with the game-winning RBI when he lifted a foul sacrifice fly ball down the right field line that scored Davis.

"It (the fly ball) wasn't as deep as I would have liked," said Davis. "But Bass was coming in hard and I knew that it would be a tough throw."

"I got there at the same time as the ball, but he (Ashby) had to go up high for the throw and that gave me a clear lane."

It appeared as though Davis missed the plate when he stumbled in front of home, but home plate umpire John McSherry called Davis safe and overruled Lillis' argument.

The victory snapped the Astros' four-game winning streak and gave Cincinnati a full game advantage over Houston as the two teams play weekend series against Western division opponents.

Cardinals defeat Mets

Andujar bests Goodin, 5-1

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

In a matchup of aces, the St. Louis Cardinals dealt the better hand.

"Andujar pitched just a little better," acknowledged New York Mets Manager Dave Johnson after watching Joaquin Andujar best his own Dwight Gooden in a 5-1 Cardinal victory Wednesday.

Andujar pitched a five-hitter for his third victory of the season without a loss, while Gooden, last year's Rookie of the Year, had a 23-inning scoreless streak broken en route to his first loss in three decisions. Until the Cardinals broke through against Gooden for two runs in the seventh inning, the Mets' ace right-hander had surrendered only three hits.

In the other National League games, Montreal defeated Philadelphia 7-6; Cincinnati trimmed Houston 8-3; Los Angeles whipped San Francisco 4-2; Chicago beat Pittsburgh 5-2; and San Diego edged Atlanta 3-1.

Expos 7, Phillies 6

Tim Raines scored twice and drove in two more with a pair of extra-base hits to lead Montreal over Philadelphia.

Raines lashed a run-scoring triple off Phillies starter John Denny, 1-2, to highlight a three-run fifth-inning rally. He drove in another run with a double in the sixth.

Ozzie Virgil belted two solo home runs for Philadelphia, which also got solo ninth-inning homers from Garry Maddox and Mike Schmidt, his first of the year and 426th of his career.

Dodgers 4, Giants 2

Dave Anderson and Al Oliver drove in runs in the second inning after San Francisco pitcher Bill Laskey made a wild throw, the most damaging of five errors in the game, and Los Angeles went on to beat the Giants.

Relievers Tom Brennan and Ken Howell of the Dodgers combined for five shutout innings. Brennan, 1-0, got the victory over Laskey, 0-2, and Howell struck out eight and allowed two hits in 3-2-3 innings while earning his third save.

Cubs 5, Pirates 2

Leon Durham hit a two-run homer and Davey Lopes had three hits and drove in two runs as Chicago defeated Pittsburgh and handed the Pirates their seventh loss in eight games.

Steve Trout, 3-1, earned the victory despite allowing both Pirates' runs and seven hits before leaving after five innings with a sore right elbow. Lee Smith bailed reliever Warren Brusstar out of a two-on, none-out jam in the seventh and worked the final three innings for his fourth save.

Padres 3, Braves 1

LaMarr Hoyt and Goose Gossage combined on a five-hitter and Carmelo Martinez belted a two-run homer to lead San Diego past Atlanta.

Hoyt, 2-1, worked seven innings and gave up one run, struck out four and didn't walk a batter. The Padres' right-hander has not walked a batter in 27 innings this year. Gossage worked the final two innings to record his third save.

Pascual Perez, 0-3, was the loser. Graig Nettles hit his first homer of the year — and 354th of his career — to tie Lee May on the all-time home run list.

Before Babe Ruth set the career record for home runs, Gavvy Cravath held the record with 119. Ruth hit his 120th career homer on June 10, 1921, in a New York Yankee game versus the Cleveland Indians. Cravath played 11 seasons, 1908 to 1909 and 1912 to 1920, with Boston, Chicago, and Washington in the American League, and Philadelphia in the National League.

In Texas alone

Oak wilt infects 31 counties

Oak wilt, a serious fungus disease which can kill oak trees in just four weeks to six months, has been identified in 31 Texas counties, according to an article published in the May/June issue of "Texas Gardener" magazine.

The article, written by Dr. Jerral Johnson, a plant pathologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says the affected counties can be identified by drawing a line on a map from Dallas to College Station to Cuero to Pleasanton to Bandera to Kerrville to Weatherford and back to Dallas.

"With the chemicals now available, chemical control of oak wilt is not possible. Losses to this devastating disease can be reduced by following a series of cultural practices. The basic principle is to stop the spread of the fungus," writes Dr. Johnson.

And the first step in control is to identify the disease as soon as it moves into an area. Trees infected with oak wilt develop distinct foliage symptoms. The leaves on live oaks turn a brown or yellow color along the veins. Areas between the veins also may turn yellow, or remaining green. Also, some leaves turn brown, either all over or just on the margins. Leaf symptoms of Shumard and Texas red oaks are different. Their leaves develop a wilted appearance and then brown tips are formed.

On all trees, symptoms first appear on a single limb, but quickly spread throughout a tree. Leaves defoliate soon after symptoms are observed. At death, there will be only a few leaves left on the tree," the article states.

Insects are a primary culprit in spreading the disease from one tree to another. If your tree has an open wound, caused by damage to the bark or by pruning, insects can carry the oak wilt fungus from an infected tree and deposit in those wounds. Thus, all tree wounds should be treated with a wound paint, according to the article.

Other controls include trenching, which involves cutting the roots between trees to prevent the disease from spreading to one another through roots. Other cultural practices also are outlined in the article, which also discusses oak decline and hypoxylon canker, two other major oak tree diseases.

Also included in the May/June issue of "Texas Gardener" are articles on how to protect your lawns and gardens from heat and drought, how to grow herbs for making teas and how to grow bananas in Texas.

Another article, "The Organic Challenge: Producing a Winning Garden," explains how one gardener in East Texas managed to have a bountiful harvest without the use of any chemicals.

Health

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Seafood allergy

DEAR DR. LAMB — My daughter is allergic to mercury. Once she ate lobster and got very sick, and another time she got sick after eating scallops. She seems to be able to tolerate shrimp. Is there mercury in any of these foods? Should she stay away from shrimp, too?

DEAR READER — I do not know why you say that she is allergic to mercury. Some people are allergic to lobster or other seafoods. In the meat food group, fish and shellfish are the most likely items to cause allergic reactions, and this does not have to be related to mercury at all.

Allergic reactions to food may be much more common than is generally believed. Food intolerance has been identified as an important factor in causing migraine headaches in some people.

Food allergies can produce a number of symptoms. Most people think of hives, but the allergic reaction may occur in the intestinal wall. This can cause abdominal pain, nausea, diarrhea and other symptoms.

Whenever a particular allergic-type antibody is fixed in the tissue, it will react with the allergic substance. If the antibody is located in the skin, it will cause hives. If it is in the lungs, it may cause asthma, and if it is in the joints, it may cause joint pain.

If your daughter has food allergies, she should keep a careful food diary and relate what she consumes to when she has symptoms. She also should see an allergy specialist. The best treatment is to identify the items that cause an allergy and then avoid them entirely.

You may want her to read The Health Letter 19-12, Food Allergies, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had many bouts of hiccups and have found a cure that works. I take very small sips from a tall glass of warm water. While sipping, I take the smallest breaths possible. Then I get in bed right away and face the ceiling. The idea is to get the warm water in the stomach to rest against the diaphragm. If I get up during the night, I may have to go through the routine again.

Certain foods were my problem. After eating chocolate or spicy foods, I would get hiccups in about 15 to 20 minutes. It takes three days for the food to go through my system and to get relief.

DEAR READER — The common hiccup is caused by rhythmic contractions of the muscles of the diaphragm, but these contractions may be stimulated in more than one way. Irritation of the diaphragm appears to be one. Through some mechanism, an irritated stomach seems to be able to cause hiccups in some people, as can overdistention of the stomach.

There are so many different treatments for hiccups that it is difficult to know which one to choose. Swallowing dry granulated (table) sugar helps in some cases, as does pressing the back of the throat (the uvula area) with the back of a spoon dipped in vinegar. This may be one way to end the hiccup reflex. Even the phrenic nerve that stimulates the diaphragm has been crushed to paralyze the diaphragm. Breath-holding works for some people.

If your system works for you, use it. It is certainly harmless.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 81. I have discussed a question several times with my wife and many other people and have gotten different opinions. The question is: When a woman gets pregnant by a man, does her blood get mixed with his?

DEAR READER — Your question reminds me that sex and reproduction still mystify many people. No, there is no exchange of blood. The normal semen does not contain any blood. The pregnancy is caused when one sperm cell from the male's millions unites with one ovum from the female. There is no blood involved in the process. The fertilized ovum is then one complete cell that begins life.

Half of the genes in the new cell are from the sperm and half are from the ovum. Together, these make up the total number of genes a cell contains. This one cell then divides repeatedly to form all of the new cells used in developing the baby. The genes control what the baby's blood type will be.

X-rated movies lead to dissatisfaction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Watching too many X-rated movies and videotapes can cause people to become dissatisfied with their sexual partners' physical appearance and bedroom techniques, two pornography researchers say.

The test subjects viewing the porn movies rated their satisfaction with their partners at 3.88 on a scale in which zero represented no satisfaction and 10 meant extreme satisfaction.

'Junk mail' not junk, but big business in small Iowa city

By CYNTHIA BENJAMIN
MOUNT PLEASANT, Iowa (AP) — Mailboxes crammed full of "junk mail" may cause you to complain, but this small southeastern Iowa city has an 80,000-square-foot warehouse full of the stuff — and no one complains.

Metromail Corp. is one of Mount Pleasant's largest employers, with 325 full-time workers out of a population of 7,320. It sends out 400 million pieces of mail a year, generating more than $20 million for the city's post office.

Every day three or four post office trailers, laden with up to 40,000 pounds of third-class mail, roll out of Metromail's plant. And every day up to 90 trailers filled with brightly colored brochures, sweepstakes cards, free samples and mail-order offers arrive at the plant to be processed for mailing.

Keith Koch, vice president and plant manager for Metromail, wants it known first and foremost that his company is not in the "junk mail" business. The preferred term, he said, is "advertising mail."

"We feel very strongly that we're servicing a large part of the advertising industry with a product that is not junk, with a product that is very expensive material," Koch said.

George O'Brien, vice president of the Mail Advertising Service Association in Washington, said the term "junk mail" was coined by newspapers when advertising mail cut into newspaper revenues.

Metromail is in the business of targeting markets for specific products.

The targeting is conducted at the company's headquarters in Lincoln, Neb., where a computer stores information on 75 million households and 85 million individuals, which may be the largest mailing list in the nation.

Koch said.

Advertisers send truckloads full of their unassembled advertising mail to Mount Pleasant, where it is assembled, addressed, sorted and mailed.

Targeting has become so sophisticated that an advertiser can request that products be sent to a city, or just a ZIP code or even just to homes along one specific mail carrier's route.

Advertisers can also target people to receive their mailings based on age and income, and whether they own homes or regularly buy by mail.

Metromail, which is one of the largest mailing services in the country, has mailed orders from 500 to 20 million pieces, Koch said. On a single day, more than 4 million pieces of mail may move out of the plant.

O'Brien said that in 1984, the U.S. Postal Service handled 48.2 billion pieces of third-class mail.

Non-resident students in those programs would pay four times those rates.

Gov. Mark White, who originally said he opposed any resident tuition increases, last week said he would sign the bill if it passes in its present form.

White said he has been assured the bill provides adequate funding for loans and scholarships to ensure low income and foreign students will not be priced out of getting an education in Texas.

Horse Racing

While the Finance Committee was hammering out its version of the tuition bill, another Senate committee was trying to revive a proposal to legalize pari-mutuel betting on horse and dog racing in Texas.

The Senate Committee on Economic Development heard testimony in support of the betting bill, which already has suffered a resounding defeat in the Texas House.

However, Senate supporters of the measure are hoping favorable action in that body might encourage House members to reconsider their earlier vote.

The House voted down the betting bill mainly because of provisions that would have required minority participation in track ownership and that minority firms get a share of the contracts for track construction and other related contracts.

House minorities held out for that provision after sponsors of the measure failed to include a provision to earmark part of the betting proceeds for social programs.

However, they say they now are willing to give up that provision to get the bill passed.

The measure has gone to subcommittee for further study.

Water Package

Meanwhile, progress on a compromise version of the proposed statewide water package still remains stalled because of a dispute over provisions to protect coastal bays and estuaries.

Members of a House-Senate conference committee trying to resolve the differences between the two houses' versions of the bill have been unable to find any common ground on the bays and estuaries section.

Hance Rumors

Former Congressman Kent Hance attempted last week to quash rumors that he is planning a jump to the Republican Party.

Despite efforts of Texas GOP Chairman George Strake and U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, himself a former Boll Weevil Democrat turned Republican, to recruit Hance to the GOP, the Lubbock conservative said rumors of a party change are "wild speculation."

Hance said it is highly unlikely he would switch parties and that he has made no decision about running for office next year.

Texas Republicans would like to see Hance join their ranks and challenge Democrat Mark White for governor in 1986.
