Bush, Gorbachev open summit talk

Session may end in 30 days

AUSTIN (AP) - The Legislature may need only the current 30-day special session to wrap up work on a state budget, House Speaker Gib Lewis says.

"I'm very optimistic that we will be through in 30 days. I think we will be able to accomplish our goal and if that happens, (it) just goes to show that miracles never cease," said Lewis, D-Fort Worth.

Monday marked the halfway point of the session that began July 15.

The Legislature convened to write and fund the 1992-93 state government budget. The state's next spending cycle begins Sept. 1.

Legislative estimates had forecast a $4.8 billion deficit if all services were funded at current levels. But Comptroller John Sharp offered about $4 billion in savings through spending cuts, layoffs, agency mergers and fee increases.

Lawmakers initially focused on a group of bills to cut and consolidate state agencies and programs. Several measures have been approved by the House and Senate and likely will be finalized in conference committees.

Lewis said he hoped the budget bill - detailing spending for each agency - would be voted out of committee soon and reach the full House for debate by this weekend, probably Sunday.

A bill to raise any needed funds would follow.

The speaker said that if lawmakers can pare about $1 billion out of the proposed spending increases, a tax increase might be avoided.

"That's their goal," Lewis said, but added, "It's going to be very difficult to do."

Feds hit bank with $200 million fine

NEW YORK (AP) - The Bank of Credit and Commerce International took a double hit as the Federal Reserve moved to fine the scandal-ridden bank $200 million and a New York grand jury indicted the bank and its Pakistani founder.

Manhattan District Attorney Robert Morgenthau said Monday he was still looking into whether former Defense Secretary Clark Clifford - chairman of a BCCI American unit - lied to state banking officials. He was not indicted.

The indictment charges that the Arab-owned bank, its founder and its former chief operating officer defrauded investors, falsified records and stole more than $30 million from American Express Bank, Morgenthau said Monday.

"BCCI was operated as a corrupt criminal organization throughout its entire 19-year history," said Morgenthau, whose investigation began two years ago.

"It knowingly allowed itself to be used to launder the illegal income of drug sellers and other criminals," he said. "And it paid bribes and kickbacks to public officials."

The district attorney said more charges were likely.

Meanwhile in Washington, the Federal Reserve said it is seeking a record $200 million fine against BCCI and an order barring nine people tied to the bank from U.S. banking.

Man injured in Monday accident

Emergency workers attend to Jose Aguilar, 27, of Hereford, after an accident Monday on S. Progressive Road, just southeast of Hereford. Aguilar was driving a front-end loader down Progressive Road when he lost control of the vehicle. The vehicle crossed the roadway and plummeted into Tierra Blanca Creek. Aguilar was treated for multiple injuries at the scene and taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Lewis defends big cut in university funding

AUSTIN (AP) - House Speaker Gib Lewis defended his Appropriations Committee vote to cut funding to public colleges and universities by about $500 million.

"I trust my Appropriations Committee," Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said Monday.

"They have studied that issue for now almost a year and have spent no telling how many hundreds of man hours looking at it, and I trust that they knew what they were doing," he said.

But higher education officials blasted the proposal.

"My reaction to the spending cut is, in a word, disastrous," said Hans Mark, chancellor of the University of Texas System.

The proposed cut would reduce the current services budget for higher education by $500 million, or from 5 percent to 15 percent depending on the type of institution.

The current services budget figure is larger than what colleges and universities are actually spending now, because it has a built-in increase to take care of growth in student enrollment.

But even from current spending levels, the Appropriations Committee vote would translate into a 2.7 percent or $146 million cut, according to

Payouts may take few days on S&L failure

DALLAS (AP) - The payout to depositors of 22 branches of Southwest Federal Savings Association will take longer than most thrift failures because of its size and complexity, said a spokeswoman for the Resolution Trust Corp.

The sale and closing of the 67-branch thrift is the most complex done so far in Texas by the federal thrift bailout agency, spokeswoman Teresa McUsic said Monday.

The agency was flooded with questions from depositors of the closed branches and set up a toll-free telephone line to handle the inquiries, she said.

The RTC sold 45 of the branches to thrift subsidiaries of Temple-Inland Inc. Friday and closed the rest in a failure estimated to cost taxpayers $677 million.

The payout in the 22 branches will be about $961 million, the RTC's (See PAYOUTS, Page 2)

MOSCOW (AP) - President Bush opened a superpower summit with Mikhail Gorbachev today by proclaiming "an end to a long era as adversaries" and awarding the Soviet Union a long-sought economic prize: equal footing with most American trading partners.

The announcement capped Bush's first day of meetings with Gorbachev and gave the Soviet president a shot in the arm for his crumbling economy.

Gorbachev gave Bush a warm welcome in the ornate St. George's Hall of the Kremlin, where Bush praised the Soviet president for abandoning Moscow's "old orthodoxy." Acknowledging the turmoil that has accompanied economic and political reform, Bush told Gorbachev, "We stand with you."

With an arms agreement in hand and prospects for a Middle East peace conference, Bush said, "We need only compare the words of the Cold War with our historic accomplishments in recent years to realize that a new age of promise has dawned."

"No longer must all the world serve as a stage for superpower stand-offs," he said, listing world trouble spots from Central America to Angola where tensions were receding. Gorbachev spoke bluntly about his agenda, saying, "Cooperation between the superpowers should bring economic improvement to the people of the Soviet Union."

The leaders held four hours of talks while observers wondered about the man who wasn't there. Boris Yeltsin, the feisty, reform-minded president of the Russian republic and a political rival of Gorbachev, was invited for part of the talks but inexplicably failed to show up. President Nursultan Nazarbayev of the republic Kazakhstan did take part.

It wasn't all sugar and smiles.

Bush proposed Most Favored Nation trading status for Moscow, but prodded Soviet officials to end their subsidy to Cuba, reduce defense spending to peacetime levels and grant freedom to the Baltic republics of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania.

Gorbachev is negotiating a new relationship with the 15 Soviet republics, while seeking western aid to bolster the sagging Soviet economy.

"For us in the U.S.S.R., it was a year that put to a daily test our capacity to act constructively," Gorbachev said. Bush said the United States would help the Soviet Union in its difficult transformation but added: "A shortage of foreign capital is not what plunged your economy into crisis, nor can your economic ills be cured by simple infusion of cash."

He said the next step for the Soviet Union is to develop a plan to move from a centrally-controlled economy to a free-market system.

Later, Bush summed up the new Soviet-American status in a speech at the Moscow Institute of International Studies.

"We have reason to hope," he said. "One by one, the cruel realities of the Cold War flicker and fade and a new world of opportunities calls us forward."

Bush said the lowering of tensions between the two nations "made it possible for our two nations to normalize economic relations." He promised to send Congress an agreement that will give Moscow a better chance to compete in the American market.

In addition to granting most favored nation status to the Soviets, Bush announced he would urge lawmakers to repeal restrictions limiting credits and trade for the Soviet Union and savdhe would accelerate efforts to concl de agreements on taxation and investment.

"This summit marks a new beginning: the prospect that we can put an end to a long era as adversaries, write a new chapter in the history of our two nations, forge a new partnership and a sturdy peace," Bush said.

There were many empty seats in the auditorium and his audience sat impassively.

He urged the Kremlin to cut off its military subsidy to Cuba. He said Cuban President Fidel Castro "does not share your faith in glasnost, Castro does not share your faith in perestroika."

And, Bush said, it is time to put the Soviet military on a peacetime footing and use the resources for economic growth to "help you fill the shelves of your stores."

The summit provided the setting for the signing of a landmark arms accord and a series of economic agreements. One of them pledged U.S. assistance to improve food distribution, transportation, oil exploration, conversion of military plants and economic education.

Hereford phone users to get digital switching system

Telephone customers in Hereford will gain access to the most advanced telecommunications network available when Southwestern Bell Telephone converts its central office here to a new digital switching system on Nov. 23, it was announced by Gary Stevens, area manager-external affairs.

The new switching system will serve 6,839 telephone customers in the 364 exchange. Hereford customers will receive the latest in telephone digital switching as part of an agreement announced last November by the Texas Public Utility Commission and Bell.

New city manager begins transition here Thursday

The new Hereford city manager, Chester Nolen, will begin work Thursday, coming here from Harlingen where he has been waterworks general manager. Selected by the City Commission from a field of 33 applicants, Nolen brings a background of 18 years in city government to Hereford.

During coming weeks, Nolen will work with the retiring city manager, Darwin McGill, for a smooth transition in the city's administration.

McGill, whose retirement is scheduled at the end of August, says he will take a week's vacation, beginning Aug. 9. McGill has held the city manager's post for six years.

The 41-year-old Nolen was chosen for the city manager's position in May.

that is second to none," said Stevens. He said the accelerated program is designed to help boost the Texas economy and provide customer benefits worth more than $1.2 billion through 1994.

"Digital switching upgrades the community's status in the eyes of business and industry—it's a definite selling point for a community," Stevens said. He added that another benefit is its cost-effectiveness in terms of space requirements and maintenance.

Hereford customers are now being asked to designate a primary long-distance carrier for 1-plus dialing in ballots that are being mailed to subscribers. In Hereford, customers have 15 carriers from which to choose their primary long-distance company.

The mail ballots started this week and voting will continue through early October. If a phone customer does not respond, he will be randomly assigned a long-distance company. Assignments will be made according to the percentage of selections made by those who do vote.

With the new 1-plus service, the phone user can simply dial 1 plus the area code and phone number. The user will automatically be connected with the selected company.

Police make three arrests

Hereford Police Department made three arrests Monday, investigated eight offense reports and two accidents, and issued four traffic citations. Two young men, 18 and 16, were arrested for stealing beer at a convenience store on 4th and Park. A 35-year-old man was arrested for outstanding DPS warrants for traffic violations. A major accident was investigated on Dairy Road by the police and the fire department. A front-end loader overturned and injured the driver, Jose Aguilar, who was treated for injuries and taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital. In separate incidents, two girls, 14 and 16, were reported as run-aways Monday. Two reports of harassing phone calls were reported. Officers were called to the 500 block of W. 5th to investigate an argument between a husband and wife. The couple had departed but police tracked them to the Labor Camp to ensure there was no trouble. Two 12-year-old boys were taken into custody and released to their parents after they were caught shoplifting a bicycle part from a store on W. Park Avenue. Two license plates were reported stolen in separate incidents Monday. A mobile-phone receiver was reported stolen from a pickup in the 200 block of S. 25 Mile Avenue, and a spare tire was reported stolen from a pickup on Plains Avenue. Officers listened to a complaint between a landlord and his renter in reference to a dispute over a $150 deposit.

Days stay warm, sunny

Wednesday's temperature is expected to reach into the mid-90s after an overnight low in the low 60s. Hereford's high Monday, reported by KPAN, was 90 degrees and the low Tuesday morning was a cool 63. Light south winds, 5 to 15 mph, are expected Wednesday.

News Digest

World/National

MOSCOW - President Bush and Mikhail Gorbachev, turning away from Cold War rivalry, open summit talks today focused on the economic and political disintegration of the Soviet Union rather than the threat of the nuclear-arms race.

NEW YORK - The Bank of Credit and Commerce International took a double hit as the Federal Reserve moved to fine the scandal-ridden bank $200 million and a New York grand jury indicted BCCI and its Pakistani founder. The district attorney said he is still looking into whether former Defense Secretary Clark Clifford - chairman of a BCCI American unit - lied to state banking officials.

WASHINGTON - Donald Gregg, a former vice presidential aide to George Bush and now U.S. ambassador to South Korea, has been told he's a "subject" in the Iran-Contra criminal investigation, a non-government source says.

WASHINGTON - Air traffic controllers say they've been "totally betrayed" by a little-noticed House decision to end a 5 percent incentive payment they have received since thousands of their co-workers were fired for striking a decade ago.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - President F.W. de Klerk, trying to maintain credibility and get talks on power-sharing on track, meets a major demand of the African National Congress by demoting the two ministers in charge of South Africa's security forces.

BAGHDAD, Iraq - Throughout the country, the ruling Arab Baath Socialist Party has been holding elections for delegates to choose a new leadership, and it's no secret that Saddam Hussein will come out on top.

Texas

AUSTIN - Midway through the special session, legislators have voted to shift funds, consolidate accounts, delay, or reduce payments, and borrow money to build prisons.

WASHINGTON - Sen. Phil Gramm is asking the Environmental Protection Agency to pay more attention to the health of the Gulf of Mexico. Gramm says it's time the EPA gave the Gulf equal attention.

AUSTIN - The possibility of housing inmates in tents was mentioned by a lawmaker who said it was among alternatives for solving the problem of prison overcrowding.

SAN MARCOS - Although some people move to small Central Texas towns to escape the crowds and pollution of bigger cities, police in the suburbs worry they soon may have a big-city problem: gangs.

SAN ANTONIO - Two former Bexar County deputies have pleaded guilty to charges of billing the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. of thousands of dollars by overbilling for security work at banks closed by the FDIC.

DALLAS - The payout to depositors of 22 branches of Southwest Federal Savings Association will take longer than most thrift failures because of its size and complexity, said a spokeswoman for the Resolution Trust Corp.

ANDERSON - The dying words of Walker County sheriff's investigator David Stallings may become the most damaging testimony against the man accused of murdering him if prosecutors can get a "hostile" witness to repeat them.

EL PASO - An El Paso judge has been asked to decide whether the capital murder trial of a convicted rapist accused of killing six women and girls and burying them in the desert should be delayed a third time.

JONESVILLE - Despite a well-appreciated grant to bring better water into this tiny West Texas community, residents say they will continue to fight for answers about the contamination of their water.

AUSTIN - House Speaker Gib Lewis defended his Appropriations Committee vote to cut funding to public colleges and universities by about $500 million.

TOLEDO - The effectiveness of a program that helps migrant farm workers has not been diminished even though state funding for it has been reduced, a legal advocacy group official said.

AUSTIN - A lawmaker defended his reported absence from much of the special legislative session, saying the Legislature should not be in session. "Much of what we're doing right now should have been handled during the regular session," which ended May 27, Rep. Randy Pennington, R-Houston, said.

AUSTIN (AP) - The possibility of housing inmates in tents was mentioned by a lawmaker who said it was among alternatives for solving the problem of prison overcrowding. "The problem is big, and any of the options that we select take a significant financial commitment on the part of the state. That's what makes this issue so troublesome - it all comes down to money," Sen. Jim Turner said Monday.

Turner, D-Crockett, said a recent federal court opinion apparently would allow legislators to consider temporary housing for inmates, "perhaps even tents, if necessary."

The opinion from the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals "clearly suggested" housing that state officials thought had been prohibited by previous federal court orders, such as the landmark Ruiz case, Turner said.

"I personally always said there's nothing wrong with housing an inmate in a tent," Turner said. "After all, we sent our military folks to the Persian Gulf and they utilized them.

If they're good enough for the military, they're good enough for inmates."

House Speaker Gib Lewis said, "I don't see where that's feasible, I really don't." He said there was a possibility some other temporary facilities could be used.

Tents for prison inmates have been used in recent years on a temporary basis when the prison population exceeded or approached capacity.

In the current special legislative session, the Senate has approved a $1.1 billion bond sale proposal that would provide 30,000 new prison beds for a total capacity of 95,000. The House endorsed a $440 million proposal for 11,000 new beds.

A bill sponsored by Turner provides for paying counties $20 a day per inmate, over four years, to offset the expense of holding inmates awaiting transfer to state prison. By 1995, the state would be required to accept felons in county jails within 45 days.

Turner's attempt to resolve this issue in regular session was rejected by Harris County, which killed a payment proposal designed for 14 counties.

He warned that special care must be taken in dealing with crime, because the cost can bankrupt society.

"Many societies have crumbled ... over lawlessness, and we may not be an exception," he said. "As you look at the enormity of the cost of dealing with crime, what you can quickly recognize is it can literally bankrupt this society. And I think we are seeing the tip of the iceberg."

Turner was joined Monday by five other legislators on a committee appointed to recommend quick-fix amendments to prison proposals that already have been aired in the Legislature.

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock said the committee could not be expected to find long-term solutions but to incorporate recent federal court suggestions into pending bills or constitutional amendments.

Bullock told of hearing of one judge in Harris County who had tried a thousand cases and had sentenced all except 2 percent, or some 20 defendants, to prison. "There's a case where one judge can load up the criminal justice system."

"The ultimate solution in my opinion is some type of state sentencing law and that can't be done overnight," Bullock said. Such laws seek uniform sentencing across a state for similar crimes.

Some legislators who have concentrated on criminal justice legislation contend that the best hope is revision of the state Penal Code by the 1993 Legislature, following an interim study.

Bullock said that would be a "momentous task" to accomplish in two years.

Other members of the prison committee include Sens. Ken Armbrister, D-Victoria, and Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall, and state Reps. Allen Hightower, D-Huntsville; Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont; and Sam Russell, D-Mount Pleasant.

It was instructed to report on Thursday.

DSEC recognizes safe drivers

Twenty-two employees of Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative were recently recognized by Nationwide Insurance Company for driving DSEC vehicles a combined total of 250 years without an accident. PAYOUTS----- largest depositor payout in Texas. Depositors should start checking their mailboxes late in the week for deposit payout checks, Ms. McUsic said. The RTC will begin mailing the checks Wednesday, she said.

Typically, RTC payouts are completed in the first day or two after a thrift is closed.

The delay in the Southwest case is because of its size, Ms. McUsic said.

A complex arrangement has been made for customers of the 22 branches who received funds by direct deposit, from pension funds or the Social Security Administration, for instance.

Those customers should set up a new account at a different bank or thrift and notify the direct depositor as soon as possible, Ms. McUsic said.

In the interim, direct deposits sent to Southwest accounts in the closed branches will be transferred to Kilgore Federal Savings and Loan, the Temple-Inland unit that took 37 branches. The Kilgore thrift will then mail payments to customers of the closed branches.

Southwest was the fourth-largest failed Texas thrift in the RTC's portfolio. The agency is still trying to sell or close Sunbelt Savings Federal Savings Bank in Dallas, San Jacinto Savings Association in Houston and Benjamin Franklin Federal Savings Association in Houston.

Hund honored at shower

Patricia Hund, Aug. 10 bride-elect of Charles Hahn, was honored with a bridal shower July 27 in St. Anthony's Antonian Room.

Welcoming guests with Miss Hund were her mother, Alice Hund; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Jhynelda Hahn; and his grandmother, Freddie Bredemeyer.

Refreshments of fresh fruits, assorted breads, tea rings with nuts and mints were served from a table covered with a lace cloth and peach underlay. A silk floral arrangement of peach roses, teal carnations, and eucalyptus adorned the center of the table with crystal appointments at the side.

Hostesses presented Miss Hund with a set of stainless cookware. They included Annette Albracht, Valerie Artho, Dorothy Brorman, Sharon Cramer, Judy Detten, Oleta Diller, Carolyn Evers, Francie Farr, Debbie Fetsch, Wilhemine Fetsch, Betty Jean Gallagher, Carolyn Hund, JoAnn Jesko, Patty Jesko, Wanda Jesko, Ann Lueb, Leona Schilling, and Karla White.

AQHA opens museum, heritage center recently

After 16 years of planning, two years of building and hundred of last minute details, the American Quarter Horse Heritage Center and Museum is open to the public.

The two-story, state-of-the-art facility was officially dedicated during a private ceremony on July 20 and greeted 629 visitors on its first day of business.

Visitors included citizens from throughout the Texas Panhandle, many states and foreign countries. Guests from Mexico, Alabama, Minnesota, Colorado, New Mexico and Oklahoma were among those who enjoyed the museum's historical and educational exhibits and videotapes.

The Heritage Center's location along busy Interstate 40 in Amarillo, provides an excellent opportunity to attract travelers. Six life-sized sculptures of American Quarter Horses grace the building's sloped front, and on Sunday, live horse demonstrations in the outdoor arena lured visitors.

Special guest on opening day was Miss Rodeo America Lisa Poese, who signed autographs and performed horsemanship demonstrations. Poese rides American Quarter Horses in promotion of the sport of professional rodeo throughout the world.

The American Quarter Horse Heritage Center and Museum is a major boost to the growing Amarillo tourism industry. The facility is expected to eventually attract 200,000 visitors per year. The Heritage Center is open seven days a week. Summer hours are from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

In 1975, officials of the American Quarter Horse Association proposed building an American Quarter Horse Hall of Fame to honor men, women and horses instrumental to their industry. The result of 16 years of planning, fund raising and development is the striking, 35,600-square foot Heritage Center, which includes the American Quarter Horse Hall of Fame. Ground breaking of the museum was held in Aug. 1989.

For more information, contact the American Quarter Horse Heritage Center and Museum, 806-376-5181.

Bride-elect honored

A bridal shower was held for Patricia Hund Saturday morning, July 27, in St. Anthony's Antonian Room. Miss Hund and Charles Hahn plan to exchange wedding vows Aug. 10. Welcoming guests with the honoree, from left, were the prospective bridegroom's grandmother, Freddie Bredemeyer; his mother, Jhynelda Hahn; the honoree; and her mother, Alice Hund.

All attending were from Texas.

Howell appointed to WTSU post

Betty Howell, a third-generation Amarillo native, has been appointed executive director of development at West Texas State University and will assume her new position Aug. 1.

Howell was appointed to the position by Dr. Barry Thompson, WTSU president, based on the recommendation of a seven-member search committee that consisted of three WTSU Foundation members, three WTSU faculty members and one WTSU graduate student.

"I am very pleased with the selection," Nona Barnett, chair of the search committee and 1990-91 chair of the WTSU Foundation board of directors, said. "Ms. Howell is highly respected in this area, understands the needs of the University and has demonstrated time and time again that she is capable of overcoming challenges similar to those that she will face at WTSU."

She is currently co-chair of Preservation Amarillo, co-chair of Center City, treasurer for the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society, a member of the board of directors of Opportunity School and an elder of the First Presbyterian Church in Amarillo.

Howell has been very involved in numerous first-time enterprises that have developed into Amarillo traditions.

She was co-chair of Amarillo's first Funfest, co-chair of the initial capital campaign for the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center and founding treasurer for the Ronald McDonald House. She has also served as a volunteer for such organizations and the Amarillo Area Foundation, the Junior League of Amarillo, the Domestic Violence Shelter, the Amarillo Community Council, Amarillo Little Theatre, YMCA, Childrens Learning Centers, the Plemons-Eakle Neighborhood Association and Head Start Program.

"I have complete confidence that Mrs. Howell will do an outstanding job," Thompson said. "She knows the area and its people and has the skill and experience to get the job done. She will most definitely be a major contributor to the growth and development of the University."

Howell's responsibilities at WT will include institutional development and grantsmanship.

She was one of 28 candidates who applied for the position and will report Aug. 1, exactly one year following the resignation of Bruce Grimes, who served as athletic director from 1985-1990 and as vice president for external affairs from 1986-1990.

Hereford closes year with losses

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Hereford's baseball team in the West Texas Summer League lost all three of its games in the Lubbock Tournament over the weekend, giving the team a final record of 0-21. They were originally scheduled to finish the season against Coronado today at Whiteface Field, but that game was cancelled.

The team's coach, Bill Watts, said that despite the record the team has improved.

"People may read (the record) and not realize how far they have come," Watts said, citing statistics such as 13 double plays in 20 games and 28 successful pickoff plays in the last 11 games, including seven which resulted in outs at the plate.

In their first game at the Lubbock Tournament, Watts said Hereford was a victim of bad luck while losing to Coronado 9-2.

He said that four of Coronado's runs in one inning were direct results of a ridge in the infield which ran parallel to the baseline between second and third. Two Coronado runs scored when a hard grounder hit the ridge and bounced high over third baseman Tab Hathaway's head.

Moments later, two more scored on a ball which similarly went over shortstop Rene Cano. Still later in the inning, a bloop hit bounced over outfielder Jake Head, plating another run. Before that inning, the score was 2-2, Watts said.

One of Hereford's runs came on an inside-the-park home run by Jerry Rincon. Watts said Rincon cranked a shot down the left field line which hit the wall a few inches from the top. The ball was hit so high that Rincon was between second and third before the ball hit the wall, Watts said.

Hereford's second game, a 7-2 loss to Monterey, was typical of Hereford's season in that one error-filled inning ruined a close game.

This time, Monterey led only 2-1 after five innings, but Hereford allowed five runs on three errors in the sixth inning, Watts said.

Hereford lost despite a fine pitching performance by Andy Kalka, who gave up only six hits, Watts said.

In the third game, Hereford and Frenship started a baseball game, but a mudfight broke out. Frenship won 18-14 on a rain-soaked field, but it didn't matter much to the players.

"It was a joke," Watts said. "It was wild and woolly and the kids just had fun playing in the rain."

Which, after a winless season, was probably the best thing that could happen.

Tyson accused of rape; still no charges filed

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Authorities have seized some video footage taken of former heavyweight champion Mike Tyson and Miss Black America contestants and conducted a second search of the hotel where he stayed during Indiana Black Expo.

But Indianapolis Police Chief Paul Annee said Monday that an allegation that Tyson raped an 18-year-old woman was just that - an allegation.

"What you have right now is an allegation - no more, no less than that," Annee said at a news conference, where he appeared with Marion County Prosecutor Jeffrey Modisett.

"Unless the allegation makes its way to fruition through a full police investigation, I'm not sure that data being made public is in anyone's best interest."

Annee and Modisett declined to reveal any evidence discovered so far in the investigation. They said their findings would remain confidential unless charges are filed.

Records filed Monday with the Marion County clerk showed police had searched Video Management Systems Inc. The company produced a video of the pageant for Indiana Black Expo, said Dan Hall, the company's producer-director.

Hall said police seized some footage taken of Tyson and Miss Black America contestants during a promotional event July 18.

Records also showed police had searched the hotel and confiscated a sequined collar, a bedspread, a shirt, a toothbrush and toothpaste, and a package of mouthwash.

The 25-year-old Tyson was in Indianapolis July 17-19 in connection with Indiana Black Expo, a celebration of black American history, culture and accomplishments.

An 18-year-old woman accused Tyson of forcing her to have sexual intercourse at the Canterbury Hotel in downtown Indianapolis at about 1:30 a.m. July 19. He has not been charged with any crimes.

Modisett said he decided to appoint a special grand jury to hear the Tyson case because "we didn't want this to drag out forever." He said the grand jury will be selected within the next two weeks, adding that he hoped the panel's investigation will be completed by Labor Day.

"I think it's the best way to obtain all the evidence, especially in view of the fact so many of the witnesses are out of state," Modisett said.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is assisting in the investigation because witnesses are located throughout the country, Modisett said.

Neither man would say whether investigators had spoken to Tyson.

Tyson will be subpoenaed to testify before the grand jury, but as the target of the investigation, he will not be obligated to tell his story to the six-member panel, Modisett said.

"It is up to him to decide if he's going to testify," Modisett said.

Tyson is reported to have left the city at 5:45 a.m. July 19, canceling a visit to inmates at the Marion County Jail with the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

Modisett and Annee would neither confirm nor deny reports that the woman was connected with the Miss Black America pageant.

Spokesmen for Tyson have dismissed the rape allegation as another in a series of cheap shots against the fighter.

YMCA Open concludes

The Hereford and Vicinity YMCA Tennis Open wrapped up Saturday with only one division playing.

Phillip Grove of Pampa was declared the men's champion when his opponent in the finals, fellow Pampa Ken Rheams, retired, said tournament director Weldon Knabe. At the time, Grove had won the first set 7-5, and was leading the second set 3-0.

Robert Crespin of Plainview got third place by not showing up for a match. In the double-elimination format, Crespin defaulted a match against Rheams which would have sent him into the championship match.

Only three women entered the open, Knabe said, so there were not enough to make even one division.

The junior divisions were played Thursday and Friday, and overall, 60 players participated in the Open, Knabe said.

Arbitrator: Ewing to stay with Knicks

NEW YORK (AP) - NBA arbitrator Daniel Collins has settled the immediate future for Patrick Ewing. It is yet to be determined what the effect will be on Ewing's mental outlook.

Collins ruled in favor of the New York Knicks in their arbitration case against Ewing, a decision that means the All-Star center is bound to the Knicks for the remaining four years of his original 10-year, $14.2 million contract.

Agent David Falk filed the arbitration case in a bid to gain free agency for Ewing, although Knicks president Dave Checketts said Ewing "has never told me that he absolutely doesn't want to play in New York. I was told this was about freedom of choice."

Checketts was pleased with Collins' ruling on Monday, but expressed concern about Ewing's state of mind about playing in New York.

"The mind and spirit of Patrick Ewing is in a place I don't know," Checketts said. "Until I know how he will respond to losing this case, we don't know what will happen."

Through Falk, Ewing issued a statement in which he said, "I filed this case to exercise my rights which were granted by the Knicks in 1985. I am very disappointed by the ruling of the arbitrator. I feel he made the wrong decision. But I know in my heart that I made the right decision to fight for what I believe in."

Ewing's contract says he could become a restricted free agent this year if he was not among the NBA's four highest-paid players on June 1.

Falk claimed that Ewing was not among the top four. The NBA and the Knicks maintained he was fourth, behind Cleveland's John Williams, Houston's Hakeem Olajuwon and Chicago's Michael Jordan.

Ewing is slated to make $3.18 million in the 1991-92 season. Williams will be paid $4 million, Olajuwon $3.5 million and Jordan $3.25 million.

Larry Bird of Boston will make some $7 million next season, but about $4.5 million of that is bonus money and isn't counted under the provisions of Ewing's contract. Falk contended that Bird should have been listed ahead of Ewing in salary, but Collins didn't agree.

"We didn't see it as a battle we had to win," Checketts said. "It became a business issue and a legal issue and I never like it when player contracts and relationships get in that kind of mode. Hopefully, we can build a relationship in which Patrick feels he can flourish."

The Knicks offered Ewing an extension after last season that would have paid him more than $5 million this season, but he turned it down, saying he wanted to pursue the chance to become a free agent.

Now, that offer is history, along with any change in the contract. The legal wrangling may not be over, however.

Falk indicated before the ruling he'll seek to prove the Knicks and other teams are guilty of collusion in an attempt to keep Ewing's salary out of the top four in the NBA. Similarly, the Knicks could counter by claiming that Ewing's side attempted to induce the Golden State Warriors to upgrade Chris Mullin's wages, driving Ewing's salary from the top four.

The NBA joined the Knicks in maintaining that Ewing's salary was fourth-highest.

"As a matter of contract construction, we felt this was the right result," league general counsel Gary Bettman said.

PAC-10 IS LEADER

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP) - The Pacific-10 conference, thanks to a big boost from UCLA, is the all-time leader in NCAA basketball championships.

The Pac-10 had 13 national titles in the first 53 tournaments. UCLA won 10 of those.

The Big 10, with a lift from Indiana, was second with nine championships, five of which were fashioned by the Hoosiers.

Thanks to Duke's title in the 1991 tourney, the Atlantic Coast Conference became tied with the Southeastern Conference for third place with five championships each.

Nicklaus shoots 65 in Sr. Open playoff

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) - How does he do it? Not even Jack Nicklaus can say.

"When I play like this, it's usually a time that means something," he said Monday after crushing Chi Chi Rodriguez in an 18-hole playoff for the U.S. Senior Open championship. "Maybe that's why I've won a few times."

"Why I'm able to do that, I don't know. And I don't think I want to find out, either."

And who can blame him? Why mess with a good thing.

Nicklaus is easily the best golfer who ever lived. He won the U.S. Amateur twice and has 18 major titles as a professional. Now he's won five of his nine starts on the over-50 circuit.

"He played tough today. I haven't seen him play that well in maybe 15 years," Rodriguez said. "I thanked him for not playing this tour all the time."

But it wasn't just the fact that he won. It was the way Nicklaus won that will add to his legend. He was almost surgical in matching the course record at historic Oakland Hills, despite two bogeys.

Nicklaus had six 3's while turning in 4-under-par 31. He was on track to break George Archer's 65 set at the 1964 Carling World Open but bogeyed the final hole to finish with 65.

"That's as good a round of golf as I've ever played," he said. Rodriguez, meanwhile, was playing one of the best rounds of his career. But his solid 1-under 69 was no match for Nicklaus.

Nicklaus set the tone early with birdies on three of the first five holes before a rain delay of one hour, 54 minutes. When play resumed, Nicklaus 3-putted the par-4 sixth hole for bogey and Rodriguez ran in a 35-footer for his first birdie and a 2-stroke swing.

Rodriguez had a bogey on the eighth hole to fall three strokes back again.

The turning point came on the par-4 seventh hole where Nicklaus chipped in from off the green for birdie to go 2 strokes up again.

"I thought Chi Chi played well today," Nicklaus said. "He played a gutty round. I knew he wanted to win it and I knew I'd better play better if I wanted to win."

Entry deadline Friday for Oldsmobile scramble

The annual Oldsmobile Scramble, sponsored by Stevens Chevrolet-Olds, will be held Sunday at Hereford's municipal golf course and the deadline for team entries is noon Friday.

Entry fee is $25 per team member plus green fee and cart. The 18-hole event starts here at 9 a.m. Sunday, and pro Brent Warner is tournament director. Check for tee times when registering.

The golf scramble here serves as a qualifying event for the sectional Oldsmobile Scramble, which is set for Aug. 29 at Green Tree Country Club in Midland.

The scramble here is open to all interested golfers. Local teams are formed by using four amateurs, and the Olds Scramble handicap system must be used for team makeup. The team's handicap may total no more than plus one or no more than plus eight by the Olds handicap system. Check at the Hereford pro shop or Stevens Olds for details.

A new 1991 Oldsmobile Calais is offered for the first hole-in-one on No. 3 during the tourney. Other prizes will be offered in several categories.

Cone continues Dodgers' hitting woes

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Dodgers are making progress.

A day after Montreal's Dennis Martinez beat them with a perfect game, the Dodgers had three whole hits in a 5-1 loss to David Cone and the New York Mets on Monday night.

Cone actually had a one-hitter for 7 2-3 innings. He lost the shutout when Chris Gwynn, who made the last out of the perfect game, led off the bottom of the ninth with a pinch homer.

"A good hitter's going to fail seven out of 10 times, so hitting is a tough thing to do," Gwynn said. "A lot of it depends on what kind of pitching you run into. We beat David Cone in New York, so maybe he just returned the favor. He's a good pitcher. He's dominating sometimes, and tonight he was."

Hitting has been a very tough thing to do for the first-place Dodgers of late.

Opposing pitchers have retired 57 of the last 61 Dodger batters - including 27 straight by Martinez and 26 of 30 by Cone. Los Angeles has just three hits in its last 19 1-3 innings. And don't forget, last Friday they were held hitless for nine innings by Mark Gardner.

"We've had some guys throw some pretty good games against us, but you don't get down," Butler said. "You just get mad. We've got too good a club to do this. Somebody's going to pay for this and it's going to break loose."

Elsewhere in the NL, Atlanta swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 7-5 and 5-3; Houston beat St. Louis 6-2 and streaking San Francisco edged Montreal 6-5.

The Mets pulled away with four runs in the eighth as Gregg Jefferies had an RBI double and Kevin McReynolds hit a three-run homer. Before McReynolds hit his 10th homer of the season, starter Tim Belcher (7-7) intentionally walked Howard Johnson.

Astros 6, Cardinals-2

Ken Caminiti hit a grand slam in support of Jim Deshaies' complete game.

Deshaies (4-8) gave up two runs, nine hits, struck out two and walked none for his first complete game of the season.

Caminiti's first career grand slam came on a 1-1 pitch from Bryn Smith (9-7) in the fourth inning and gave Houston a 4-1 lead.

Craig Biggio, who was 4-for-4, and Jose Tolentino each singled and Luis Gonzalez was hit by a pitch to load the bases for Caminiti, who homered into the right-field seats.

Braves 7, Pirates 5

Braves 5, Pirates 3

Tom Glavine struggled but became the NL's first 14-game winner in the opener as Atlanta beat Pittsburgh 7-5, and Rick Mahler pitched six strong innings in the nightcap for a 5-3 victory.

Mahler (2-4), who had made 10 relief appearances with the Braves after he was released by Montreal in June, gave up two runs on six hits.

Kent Mercker, the fourth Atlanta pitcher, got the last three outs for his fifth save, allowing a run in the ninth.

The Braves got the go-ahead run in the fifth on Brian Hunter's run-scoring single, breaking a 2-2 tie against John Smiley (12-7).

Francisco Cabrera and Mark Lemke hit consecutive home runs in the eighth inning off reliever Stan Belinda for some insurance.

In the first game, Greg Olson hit his fifth homer of the season, a solo shot, off Doug Drabek (10-10) in the fourth inning and drew a bases-loaded walk off in the fifth, breaking a 4-4 tie.

Giants 6, Expos 5

San Francisco won its ninth straight game as Mike Felder drew a bases-loaded walk from Scott Ruskin in the eighth inning to snap a tie.

The Giants trailed 5-2 going into the bottom of the fifth when they rallied.

Mel Rojas (0-2) was the loser. Winner Kelly Downs (7-4) pitched the eighth and started the ninth but was replaced when he gave up a leadoff single to Mike Fitzgerald. Dave Righetti finished for his 16th save.

Red Sox continue losing ways

By The Associated Press

Fenway Park has been anything but friendly for the Boston Red Sox.

Boston lost its ninth consecutive game at Fenway Park - its longest home losing streak since June 21-July 4, 1927 - as Juan Gonzalez hit a pair of two-run homers Monday night in Texas' 7-2 victory.

"I can remember some bad road trips, but I can't remember being this bad at home," Mike Greenwell said. "There's just no home-field advantage for us. It's kind of been taken away from us. I can't remember being on a team that's lost so many games at home."

They're not doing much better away from home. The Red Sox have lost 10 of their last 11 and 15 of 19. Joe Hesketh (4-2) was pounded for five runs and 11 hits in 6 1-3 innings.

And the offense? Boston has scored just 49 runs since the All-Star break and is 4-14 since then.

"We're just not getting any hits when we need them," Red Sox manager Joe Morgan said. "It's hard to believe we can't muster more offense."

Jose Guzman (6-4) won for the fifth time in six decisions, allowing both two runs and eight hits in 7 2-3 innings. Kenny Rogers finished for his third save.

Athletics 10, Yankees 8

Dave Henderson had four hits, including a tie-breaking double in the eighth inning, as Oakland won after wasting an 8-1 lead.

New York rallied with three runs in the third and one in the fourth off Eric Show and three more in the fifth off Curt Young.

Jose Canseco reached in the eighth on a ground-rule double that bounced off Pat Kelly's glove at third and was accidentally fielded by a ball boy down the left-field line. Henderson doubled and scored when on an error by reliever Steve Howe (3-1).

Kevin Campbell (1-0) was the winner and Dennis Eckersley pitched a perfect ninth for his 26th save in 31 chances.

Mariners 11, Orioles 4

Dave Cochrane hit the first of four consecutive doubles as Seattle broke a 4-4 tie with seven runs in the seventh. The Mariners sent 11 batters to the plate in the inning against Bob Milacki (6-5), Jeff Ballard and Paul Kilgus and got six hits, five of them doubles.

Cochrane hit a two-run, go-ahead double off Mike Devereaux's glove as the center fielder banged into the wall. Harold Reynolds' two-run double made it 8-4 and Ken Griffey Jr. hit an RBI double. Pete O'Brien doubled Griffey to third and Alvin Davis hit a two-run single.

Seven of Seattle's 11 hits were doubles.

Erik Hanson (6-5) allowed four runs and eight hits in eight innings, struck out 10 and walked none.

Angels 10, Indians 2

Gary Gaetti drove in five runs and Chuck Finley (14-5) allowed both runs and six hits in seven innings.

Dave Winfield had four of California's 17 hits. Gaetti hit a three-run homer during a four-run first and added RBI singles in the second and fourth.

Greg Swindell (6-9) had his shortest outing of the year, giving up six runs - two unearned - and eight hits in 1 2-3 innings.

White Sox 12, Blue Jays 4

Chicago hit four home runs to back Jack McDowell's six-hitter.

Frank Thomas, Ron Karkovice and Ron Kittle each had two-run homers off David Wells (12-5) and Craig Grebeck hit a solo shot.

McDowell (13-5) struck out five and walked two.

Twins 6, Tigers 3

Shane Mack hit a tie-breaking triple in the sixth and David West (2-2) gave up three runs in the first three innings, then retired 14 of 16 batters.

Rick Aguilera finished with hitless relief for his 27th save in 34 chances. Bill Gullickson (13-6) gave up five runs and 12 hits in 5 2-3 innings for the Tigers.

Farwell star searches for respect

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Farwell quarterback Greg Actkinson made it to the 57th annual Whataburger All-Star Football Game. Now he's hoping to make it on a university team.

Of the 70 seniors playing their final high school game Tuesday night at Texas Christian University's Amon Carter Stadium, Actkinson is one of the few who has not received an athletic scholarship.

He plans to try out as a walk-on at Texas Tech this fall.

Most of his North squad teammates got scholarships, such as Sam Adams of Cypress Creek, Aaron Graham of Denton and John Elmora of Sherman, who received scholarships to Texas A&M, Nebraska and Texas, respectively.

They all played at Class 5A schools. Actkinson starred at Class A Farwell, a tiny West Texas school with little more than 100 students.

Actkinson opted to play in the football contest despite being selected to play in the Whataburger All-Star Basketball Game.

He says he has something to prove. "I just want a chance to do something, offense, defense or whatever," he said.

North coach Leo Brittain of 3A champion Vernon said Lions' quarterback Ken Collums will start Tuesday, but Actkinson should see plenty of time at safety.

"He's a good athlete, but Ken ran our offense so he has the advantage," Brittain said. "He's (Actkinson) also an outstanding defensive player and he's gonna play quite a bit there. He can do a lot of things."

Brittain predicted a low-scoring game despite the appearance of prolific offensive players such as running backs Rodney Thomas of Groveton and Wilbert Biggens of Aldine MacArthur on the South team and 5A rushing champion Louis Fite of Waco on the North.

"We'd like to move the ball, but these all-star games have always been defensive games because of the short period of time you have to put together an offense," Brittain said.

South coach Bill Smith of 5A champion Aldine agreed.

"They're traditionally low-scoring," Smith said. "It's really kind of hard to get a cohesive offense in four days. Defense is better than offense at this point."

Thomas, who led Groveton to consecutive Class 2A championships as a junior and senior, said he expects to see plenty of action.

"We're running a veer and there's not much passing out of the veer,"

Thomas said. "I believe it will be more of a running game, but if the time comes, we'll pass quite a bit."

Actkinson, who led Farwell to an 11-1 record last season, said he's anxious about playing against the likes of Thomas, who piled up 688 points, including 276 points his senior year.

"I was a high school star in my area, but these players here are all-state," he said. "You just get lost in the crowd. You feel like you don't belong coming from a 1A school."

But Actkinson isn't going to rely on football for his future. As Farwell's valedictorian, he earned an academic scholarship to attend Texas Tech.

Ware finally gets chance

By The Associated Press

About the only use Andre Ware made of his award-winning right arm last year was to wave it on the sidelines while Rodney Peete ran the Detroit Lions' offense.

This season, Ware might get the chance to use the arm to throw footballs.

"Last year, my biggest hangup was just getting an opportunity to play," the 1989 Heisman Trophy winner from Houston said Monday. "I fully understood the system, but I could never get the feel of playing with the rest of the team."

Ware's rookie season in the NFL began slowly and then got slower. He held out during training camp while chasing a big contract, then spent the season behind Peete and the now-departed second-stringer, Bob Gagliano.

Ware played in just four games, including a start in a 17-7 loss to Minnesota. He attempted only 30 passes last year, fewer than he threw in his last college game.

"Usually, I had one repetition in practice with our offense and the rest with the opposition's offense," Ware said. "You can't get comfortable that way and I really wasn't ready to play against Minnesota."

Lions coach Wayne Fontes said when camp opened that Peete was No. 1 at quarterback. But Peete's continued injury problems have opened the door for Ware. The third-year quarterback from Southern California pulled a groin muscle in the second quarter of Saturday's Hall of Fame exhibition game against Denver.

Ware will start Friday's exhibition game against Cincinnati if Peete is unable to play.

"I've always said that things will take care of themselves and I'd just have to be ready to play when the opportunity comes," Ware said. "I practice hard, but I'm a different player when the lights come on, and I feel comfortable right now."

The New York Giants have a unique quarterback problem. Phil Simms is the designated No. 1 but it was Jeff Hostetler who led the team to victory in the Super Bowl.

Coach Ray Handley said Monday that Simms has the job until somebody, Hostetler included, manages to take it from him.

San Diego coach Dan Henning made a similar announcement Monday when he said Billy Joe Tolliver, the Chargers' incumbent, would get the bulk of practice time.

John Friesz and Bob Gagliano are still fighting for the No. 2 spot.

"Tolliver is going to take 50 percent of the snaps in practice from now on," Henning said. "The other two will split the remaining time."

One quarterback who got a boost Monday was Troy Aikman of Dallas, who has picked up a fast-developing receiver in Alexander Wright. Wright, a virtual bust as a rookie, caught four passes, including a TD, in an exhibition game on Sunday and returned to practice Monday to haul in a 29-yard scoring strike.

"He's come a long way," Aikman said. "We're all improving as a unit."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Until now I thought such things happened only on TV soap operas. Now I am caught in a terrible situation and I don't know how to get out.

Nine years ago, when I was 23, "Bob" and I fell in love. For reasons which I still do not understand, Bob became involved with my sister. Although I was terribly hurt, family meant a great deal to me, so I did not confront "Myrna." I just stayed away from Bob and let nature take its course. I kept praying that Bob would come back to me, but he didn't. A year later, Bob and Myrna were married. They moved to a different city.

I visited them when their first child was born and discovered that Bob was still in love with me. He said he was sorry that he had married Myrna. Meanwhile, I also married. My husband is a wonderful person, but I have never been in love with him, mainly because I haven't been able to put Bob out of my mind a single day of the past nine years.

I recently visited Myrna again. This time, Bob and I started an affair. We both want to leave our mates and marry each other, but neither of us has the nerve to do it. I still love my sister and don't want to hurt her. I don't love my husband, but I am afraid if I leave him, I will destroy his life. Bob is in exactly the same predicament with Myrna.

Ann, what can I do? I don't know how much longer I can stand living this double life. I have no children yet and don't know if I should start a family. I'm not sure I can destroy my relationship with my sister in order to have a life with the man I love. Please give me some sense of direction. I am -- Lost in California

DEAR CALIFORNIA: Bob dumped you to marry your sister, Myrna. You then married a man you didn't love, and now you're having an affair with Bob. You and Bob would like to dump your respective mates and marry each other but neither of you has the "nerve" to do it. My advice is to slow down and remember the past because it can tell you a lot about the future.

You know from personal experience that Bob is not 100 percent trustworthy. Review his record. Not only did he toss you overboard for your sister, he is now cheating on her.

Stop fantasizing about how great Bob is (he isn't). You'd be a fool to throw away filet for ham hocks. The one who got away always looks better. Direct your efforts and your sexual energy toward your marriage. That's where the rewards are. And from now on, don't visit Myrna and Bob without your husband. History has a way of repeating itself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this letter to "A Former Pet Owner." A lot of people need to see it.

I killed your dog today. You dumped him off in the country.

BY SHIRLEY WALLICK

This week's new books at the library offer you some good choices—choose a thriller, or high-tech, military intrigue, or a family saga that spans several decades, or an autobiography of a well-known entertainment star, or a true account of justice gone awry.

For those of you who enjoy Mary Higgins Clark, Joy Fielding's See Jane Run is a book that you won't be able to put down and one you won't soon forget. This is a thriller about a woman in peril—"One afternoon in late spring, Jane Whittaker went to the store for some milk and eggs and forgot who she was..." Jane is an attractive middle-aged woman who suddenly finds herself alone on a Boston street. Blood is splattered all over the front of her dress and $10,000 in cash in her pockets. But she absolutely has no idea of who she is, she can't remember her name, her age, where she lives, or even what she looks like. Jane ends up spending a terrifying night in hiding before she ends up in the hospital.

While undergoing medical tests she is recognized by one of the nurses. Soon afterward, her husband comes to take her home. He is a popular, respected and wealthy doctor who vows to cure Jane with loving care and modern medicine. But once Jane goes home she doesn't seem to get better. The medication seems to be turning her into a zombie. Jane's deepest instincts begin to tell her that something is desperately wrong. Her private nurse seems to be holding her a virtual prisoner in her own home and she's isolated from her friends who might help her recover. Is there a plot against her? Is she going crazy? Can Jane remember in time to stop whatever horrible thing it is that is happening to her? Can she remember whatever made her lose her memory in the first place—whatever is trying to destroy her and her family?

Dale Brown's book, Sky Masters is a thriller and powerful story of the American military men and women in a war far from home. Lt. Col. Patrick McLanahan, has been in almost exile as a member of the Air Force's ultra secret High Technology Aerospace Weapons Center. He jumps at the opportunity to test-fly a new, high, tech B-2 bomber in strategic warfare training sorties. This will give McLanahan an opportunity to reconfirm his flying skills not only to himself but to the Pentagon. These flying skills will come into crucial play as America is forced to react when an international dispute over a chain of oil-rich islands erupts into all-out war.

The time is after the United States has left the Philippines. The People's Republic of China's navy has laid claim to a long contested island group as well as decimating a Philippine oil platform. Tensions escalate and a volatile skirmish leads to China launching a tactical nuclear weapon against its enemy forces. The Pentagon and President Lloyd Taylor must respond. But if they respond too powerfully a global war could begin. But if they do not send enough, it might encourage further attacks against United States' allies.

China and a chiding Filipino politician force the President's hand. McLanahan and the newly formed Air Battle Force team up with Dr. Jon Masters, a maverick military engineer. Masters is responsible for a revolutionary airplane-launched rapid satellite system. As Masters' satellites and specially equipped B-51, B-1, and B-2 stealth bombers come into play, the action accelerates to an unforgettable and explosive conclusion.

Museum displays 1940 hats

The Deaf Smith County Museum is displaying a collection of hats from the 1940 era. Shown is a Hollywood studio hat from Hollywood California. The display is in the basement portion of the museum.

Hints from Heloise

Q. I'm shopping for a new checking account and have run across something called a check warrantee service. Can you please explain what this is? — Mary Brown, Wichita Falls, Texas

A. Sure can. This is a relatively new free service being offered by many banks.

What that means is that purchases paid for by check are under warrantee for loss, theft or damage. The warrantee is usually for 90 days but can be up to a full year on certain products.

To make a claim, you'll need the receipt (to confirm the purchase date), the price and any other pertinent information along with a copy of the canceled check.

The bank provides an 800 number for you to call for a claim form, which needs to be filled out and returned before you can receive a refund.

Occasionally the name of an individual or company authorized to repair the item is provided (a TV set, for example); they are then paid directly by the bank.

Programs can vary from bank to bank. Always read the small print for any items not covered.

This subject and other money-saving ideas are covered in my newsletter (Vol.

2, No.4). I'm sending you a complimentary copy, others interested should send $2 and a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Hints from Heloise Newsletter/2-4, P.O. Box 90103, Collingswood NJ 08108. — Heloise

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: In 1917 my parents purchased two Model-T touring Fords. Every time I rode in a car, I became sick and usually vomited. I seldom could go on a trip without getting sick. When I traveled by bus, the bus driver found that if I sat next to him, in the middle, I seldom became nauseated.

At the age of 20, it was discovered that I was nearsighted, and after wearing glasses, I seldom became nauseated. Then too, I discovered that if I drove the car, I seldom became nauseated. I learned that if I looked straight ahead it helped. As a child I looked to the side and tried to count the fence posts along the highway, which I'm am sure caused dizziness and nausea. I always do best in the front seat.

DEAR READER: That is a characteristic story of motion sickness. How your body adjusts to motion depends on all the different parts of the balance system. When something is wrong with any part, it can cause vertigo, the illusion that you are moving or your environment is moving. The system depends on input from your eyes, your balance canals in your inner ear, nerve impulses from your entire body to sense body position and finally the brain, which must integrate and act on all three of these inputs.

The point you make about not having motion sickness after correcting your vision is an example of the importance of the visual input to balance. That is also why looking straight ahead and focusing on the visual field ahead of you helps. Most people who are subject to motion sickness do better riding in the front seat and looking straight ahead. That is also why driving is useful. People who read while riding in the car may not have the visual clues they need and are more likely to get motion sickness.

Counting the fence posts caused a constant changing of visual stimulation through your eyes, and that can cause motion sickness. When motion sickness is strongly affected by visual input, it is true that if you close your eyes and stop such changing input that will help some people.

In Tahiti, it was once believed, the sick would recover if a centipede could be induced to crawl over them.
