Await Word on Shuttle Takeoff

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - Astronauts John Young and Robert Crippen, their space trip postponed by an errant computer, were awaiting word today on whether the shuttle Columbia will blast off Sunday or whether they face a longer delay.

Specialists at the Johnson Space Center in Houston worked overnight in an effort to find and fix the problem - which they called baffling. They were to announce a decision today on whether the Columbia launch can be rescheduled for 6:50 a.m. EST Sunday.

Young and Crippen were back on their pre-flight schedule. Instead of soaring through space today, they practiced emergency landings in jet planes modified to handle like the shuttle.

The astronauts came within 16 minutes of liftoff Friday, only to be told to wait for another day after a backup spacecraft computer failed. "It was just one of those things," Crippen said.

In the event a Sunday launch is scheduled, crews at the Kennedy Space Center here were holding Columbia's countdown clock at 101/2 hours, the point to which it was set back following the postponement. They were prepared to start it up in late afternoon.

Young and Crippen were back on their pre-flight schedule, and instead of soaring through space, they were to practice emergency landings today in jet planes modified to handle like the shuttle.

The weather forecast called for sunny skies and light winds. The prediction also was favorable for the prime landing site at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., and for the backup site at White Sands, N.M.

Hours after Columbia's maiden mission was scrubbed, experts still didn't know what caused the problem, a failure of a backup computer to communicate with four primary computers. The computers control the spaceship from liftoff to lan-

"If we want to launch today we'd have to have by late tomorrow," Neil Hutchinson, the launch team flight director at Houston, told reporters Friday. "If we don't, it might be awhile."

The countdown was flowing smoothly, and the astronauts were eagerly looking forward to testing the world's first reuseable spaceship during a planned 541/2-hour flight. With 16 minutes to go before the planned 6:50 a.m. liftoff, a computer warning light flash-the problem well understood ed in the cockpit. Crippen hit a reset button, but it didn't change things.

"A problem like this makes my console light up like a Christmas tree," reported Randy Stone, who monitors the shuttle's computers in the Houston control center. He said the shuttle could fly with only one of its five computers, but the system is so complex, "we would never lift off without all five."

Attempts were made to duplicate the problem in shutday, but the experts had no

Finally, at 9:59 a.m., more than three hours after the planned liftoff time, launch director George Page ordered the postponement.

"We're stopping the clock," space agency spokesman Hugh Harris said in announcing this latest delay in the $10 billion shuttle program that is more than two years behind schedule.

New Conflict Apparent Over Strike Suspension

WARSAW, Poland (AP) -Poland's communist leaders and the independent union Solidarity appeared on a new collision course today over the right to strike, won by workers in a national rebellion last summer but suspended Friday by Parliament.

Wojciech Premier Jaruzelski, who proposed the two-month suspension and threatened to quit if it did not pass, said he thought it would have a "calming" effect. But Solidarity warned it could bring on new work stoppages.

"Suspension of the right to strike will be interpreted by the community as an announcement of measures which can generate these strikes," a Solidarity statement said. "No resolution of the (Parliament) will manage to prevent a strike if the security of our union is threatened or a glaring violation of the law occurrs.'

The right to strike was recognized by the Polish government in accords that settled last summer's wave of work stoppages. The privilege is unique in communist countries. But it was never formally ratified by Parliament, and hardliners have charged Solidarity is abusing it.

"Strikes too often have political and local motivations," Jaruzelski said in arguing for the prohibition. "We can't work normally under such conditions."

"When I took ever as premier, I promised to step down if the government can't

"This is the moment ... I can work only without the threats of strikes.

The 440-member Parliament backed Jaruzelski without dissent and with only a handful of absentions.

However, it did not specify ow the government would respond to a violation of the strike ban, and it called at the same time for "urgent enactment" of the summer strikeending agreements.

Parliament's session Friday ended shortly before midnight. It was originally called for Monday but was postponed because, according to Poland's state-run media, Jaruzelski was "temporarily indisposed."

His "indisposition" coincided with a trip by Soviet PresiPrague and the end of Warsaw Pact military maneuvers along Poland's borders. In a Prague speech to the Czechoslovak Communist Party, Brezhnev expressed confidence in Poland's leaders and appeared to give them more time to solve the nation's problems - but he appeared to retain the threat of military intervention if they could not.

In his speech to Parliament, Jaruzelski also said the government is expanding its food rationing program to include bread and other grain products. Meat and sugar already are rationed.

Chief Government planner Henryk Kisiel hinted Friday that food prices might soon be raised - a move that in the past has brought on work stoppages and, in some cases, riots. He referred to "the improper system of retail prices" in effect under previous administrations and said government subsidies were only adding to food shor-

Miners Resume Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) -Undaunted by miners' rejection of their first negotiated pact, the United Mine Workers union and the coal industry will search once again for a contract to end a 16-day walkout and erase memories of a 111-day strike three years ago.

UMW President Sam Church Jr. announced late Friday through a spokesman that the two sides would return to the bargaining table here Tuesday, but did not elaborate.

Church and the union's 39-member bargaining council had served notice earlier Friday that union negotiators would remain in Washington as long as necessary to lure the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, the industry bargaining agent, back to the table.

As the strike entered its third week, Church declared that his union's approximately 160,000 members had suffered enough, and that the time had come to renew attempts on achieving an accord that could win ratification in the Appalachian and Midwestern coalfields.

He acknowledged he to give up the royalty provi-"made a mistake" in predic- sion as a threat to union ting approval of a tentative security in the future. three-year settlement reached by union and industry negotiators on March 23. Eight days hence, the union's rank and file rejected the contract by better than a 2-1 margin.

Church steadfastly refused to say Friday what strategy the union's bargaining council would adopt for the renewed talks. He did say, however, it was paramount that the UMW win restoration of a provision - which had been in existence since 1964 - requiring coal companies to pay a $1.90-a-ton royalty to union pension funds for each ton of non-union coal purchased and processed.

He refused to speculate on what concessions the UMW was prepared to make to regain the royalty provision - cited by most union officials as the overwhelming factor in miners' decision to spurn the proposal.

Among other things, the contract would have provided miners a 36 percent increase in wages and benefits. But dissident miners said they saw the negotiators' decision

Rejection Shows No Confidence

WASHINGTON (AP) -The Republican-controlled Senate Budget Committee's rejection of the Reagan administration's proposed budget demonstrates a lack of confidence in the president, the panel's chairman

But Budget Director David Stockman, shrugging off the vote, says the defeat resulted from an accounting problem, not a disagreement over the economic proposals. Whichever anaylsis is correct, the president's program is behind schedule as the House and Senate take two weeks off for Easter.

"I can't construe it any other way other than they do not have confidence in this president," Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., said Friday, the day after the panel he chairs voted 12-9 to reject a , budget plan drafted to Reagan's President specifications. Domenici had hoped to have it cleared for floor action by the time Congress left Washington.

Three Republicans joined nine Democrats in rejecting the plan. The three - Sens. William Armstrong of Colorado. Charles Grassley of Iowa and Steven Symms of Idaho - said they were concerned about a possible $44.7 billion deficit in 1984, the year Reagan says the budget will

But to meet his balancedbudget goal, Reagan still must come up with billions of dollars in so-far unidentified cuts for 1983 and 1984.

Stockman, trying to make light of the committee's vote, told reporters, "Some of the Republican members want to include our future savings as unidentified savings within the budget.

"The chairman (Domenici) wants to include them as theoretical deficits."

"I think there is far less there than meets the eye." Stockman said of the surprise committee vote. "What we're facing is primarily a tactical and procedural impasse rather than a serious setback to the overall economic program."

Domenici also vowed to reverse the vote when the committee resumes its deliberations the final week of April. "I'm going to get a resolution," he said.

Snafu Cause-Probed

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - In a race against time, computer sleuths from coast to coast today hunted the cause of a malfunction in five electronic brains that delayed the launch of the space shuttle Columbia.

The unexplained snafu surfaced Friday, 16 minutes before the long-awaited maiden voyage of the frequently postponed launch.

Flight commander John Young and pilot Bob Crippen assisted computer experts in tracking the problem but abandoned the spaceship when the blastoff and the planned 21/2-day, 36-orbit flight was temporarily scrub-

About eight hours later, NASA experts isolated the problem to the program - or the main set of instructions fed into the five computers aboard the shuttle. But space center spokesman David

Rotary Club Fish Fry To Benefit Hospital

Hereford Rotary Club will sponsor a fish fry April 17 to raise money to help Deaf Smith General Hospital purchase a Thumper Cardiopulmonary Resuscitator System.

The fish fry will be held at the Hereford Bull Barn from 6-9 p.m. Tickets are $4 per person for "all you can eat."

General, the heart thumper performs machine automatic, continues CPR. cardiopulmonary resuscitation. The function of the machine can free an attendant to perform other required duties.

"We will place the machine in the ambulance. Often times we will have to perform CPR on a patient for as long as two hours until we can get him or her to the hospital,"

Mrs. Morgan said. "When doing CPR, you can't stop for more than five seconds and when we are moving a patient up and down stairs, it is difficult to continue the process. The Thumper would eliminate the problem," she continued.

The relatively small machine works by compressed air and attaches to the back of the board on which the patient is placed.

"The Thumper will also help in working with a victim in small areas. Sometimes, especially in the ambulance there is little room in which the ambulance attendant can work to perform CPR. The Thumper would be a great help," she said.

The machine will cost approximately $4,000. The purchase has been a goal of the hospital for a long time Mrs. Morgan explained.

President To Go Home

President Reagan will return to the White House today, 12 days after he was shot in the chest by a would-be assassin, a White House spokesman said today.

WASHINGTON (AP) -

Reagan's condition this morning was considered satisfactory by doctors, who had planned a final X-ray of his bullet-scarred left lung before deciding whether the president would leave George Washington University Hospital today or Sunday.

Dr. Dennis S. O'Leary, dean of clinical affairs at the hospital, said chest X-rays taken this morning "look much better. We are quite comfortable letting him go home today."

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said the president probably will go to the solarium on the third floor of the Executive Mansion when he arrives home.

But it will be at least a week until the president can return to work in the Oval Office, O'Leary said. Plans for the president's hospital release were disclosed Friday at the White House. Michael K. Deaver, the deputy chief of staff, asked reporters to limit their questions to Reagan to his health. Deaver described Reagan's walk as "kind of stiff" but said he was otherwise feeling

Meanwhile, District of Columbia policeman Thomas K. Delahanty, who was shot in the neck during the assassination attempt, was going home this morning from the Washington Hospital Center.

With the homecomings today of Reagan and Delahanty, only one casualty of the March 30 shooting will remain under hospital care -James S. Brady, Reagan's press secretary, who sustained a bullet wound to the brain.

O'Leary said Brady is probably a year away from returning to work.

Other officials have indicated that Brady's return is far from certain. Brady, shot through the brain, was the most severely wounded in the March 30 attack outside the Washington Hilton hotel.

Reagan's recuperation period forced him to postpone plans to fly to the Mexican border at San Diego to meet with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo on April 27-28.

County Fathers To Meet

Deaf Smith County Commissioners will appoint a county health officer when they convene in regular session at 10 a.m. Monday. The commissioners will also open bids on a mower for precinct 4 and a floor scrubber for the Bull Barn as well as discussing office repairs with district clerk Lola Faye Veazey.

Other items on the county fathers' agenda include discussion on the title transfer of ambulance, a West Texas Rural Telephone Company contract, and the MX Missile System.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -Low salaries create a "Portfolio of Problems" for Texas colleges, but raising tuition isn't the way to solve them, spokesmen for the Texas Association of College Teachers said Friday.

TACT wants state college faculty money raised by 27.4 percent this fall and 12.6 percent in 1982, compared with the 18.6 percent and 8.7 percent recommended by the Legislative Budget Board.

'We are not talking of the faculty and its needs, a program and its needs or a college and its needs. We are talking about the needs of the state of Texas at a time when we are on the verge of great expansion," said Forrest Burt of Texas A&M, TACT president.

He dipped into TACT's "Portfolio of Problems" - a binder full of clippings and reports - to demonstrate how, in his view, lagging salaries hurt the cause of higher education.

Burt said state colleges suffer in recruiting and faculty morale and are experiencing an "exodus of the most talented faculty to other state universities or private in'dustry at twice the salary." He said a computer science professor who earned $30,000 a year at the University of Texas quit to take a job at a university in Maryland at $52,500. Another college has 50 vacancies out of 400 slots in its engineering department, he said.

In another case, he said, a Yale-educated professor with a wife and children couldn't

A Real Contract?

There are several thousand bills in the hopper during the current session of the Texas legislature and the average citizen has no idea what is cooking in the pot. Once in a while one of the bills is brought out into the light of day and examined, sometimes to the surprise of those who find that they have a personal interest in it.

Just such a bill has been approved by the Senate Economic Development Committee this week. It is a measure that would allow insurance companies to raise the rate of interest on life insurance policy loans to as high as 15 per cent.

When this became known, opposition immediately came forward because this kind of a change affects everybody who owns a permanent type life insurance policy in this state.

Opponents of the bill claim that what the insurance industry wants to do is change the policies now in effect so that it will no longer be possible for a policy holder to borrow money on his policy at 5 to 8 per cent and stick the proceeds into a money market certificate for say 14 per cent.

The president of the Texas Life Insurance Associtation told the Senate committee that the number of policyholders borrowing on their policies increased by 39 per cent in 1979 and 30 per cent in 1980.

Of course the big objection to change in the interest rates comes from the fact that the policies now issued specify in them just what rate of interest will be charged on a loan. Any attempt to change this would be a breach of contract, to say the least, and would naturally lead to changing other terms of the life insurance contract, a document which up to now has been regarded as pretty nigh sacred.

Spokesman for the industry say this is not what is meant, of course, that present policy holders can borrow at the interest rate specified in their policy. New contracts will have higher interest rates on loans written into them.

If the Senate bill honors present contracts, no doubt the opposition will fade away. If not, it will rise to hurricane proportions.

THE U.S. AND YOU Fixing Social Security

A few weeks ago the nation's Social Security System paid out its one trillionth dollar, says Robert Myers.

Bob Myers is a retread. At 68 he's been a deputy Social Security commissioner a week or two now. From 1947 to mid-1970 he was Social Security's chief actuary. He quit in a now-forgotten political squabble, but that didn't hurt him, or his reputation. He's been teaching ever since, and making a bundle in consulting work. In fact, he's making a financial sacrifice to return to government work.

His reason: "To get the program on a sound basis, maintain its character and restore public confidence in it."

Myers says it took 40 years for Social Security to pay out its first trillion (one thousand billion) dollars. The second trillion in "five or six years." That's assuming Congress pulls the major part of the system into balance.

The major part is known as OASDI - Old Age, Survivors and Disability. That's 36 million retirees, survivors of people covered by Social Security, disabled folks. They now get $10.5 billion a month from Social Security. On July 3 the checks mailed to them will rise about 11.5 percent, so that by this year's end about $136 billion will have been paid out to them. That 11.5 percent is dictated by a formula in 1977 Social Security amendments giving these people annual cost-of-living raises. The money comes from working people's pockets. and the pockets of their employers, who match workers Social Security contributions.

That seems fair enough, except for one thing: Wages of the workers who make the contributions have not risen 11.5 percent in the first quarter of this year. (Those three months are the ones on which the cost-of-living increase is based.) Worker wage increases in the same period turn out to be about 9

Myers asks: "Why should Social Security beneficiaries get more than workers?

Good question, and I don't think there's a real answer. Closest rebuttal is that there's a "social contract" between beneficiaries and the government to protect the benefits. There may be, but there's also a social contract to assure the system doesn't run into the red. If Congress does nothing in the next 18 to 20 months, we'll come to a month in late 1982 when there's not enough money to pay OASDI, Myers says.

But he's confident that Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, and Pickle's Social Security subcommittee (of the House Ways and Means Committee) will fix the system. The likely fix: Pay the annual cost-of-living increase on whichever rise is lower, pric-

Up until 1979 U.S. wage increases invariably outstripped price increases. That's why the 1977 Social Security amendments relied on price increases to calculate cost-of-living raises. No one really thought inflation would do what it's actually done. But in 1979 wages fell 1.5 percent behind prices and last year 4.7 percent behind. This year, says Myers, you can figure on a gap of about 2.5 percent. Over a year that's almost $3.2 billion. And that, with fringe Social Security adjustments President Reagan's already proposed, is enough to assure the system's soundness well into the 1990s.

What does 2.5 percent mean to the average Social Security Individuals average around $350 a month; they'd lose $8.75 of a cost-of-living raise if the raise were based on wages rather than prices. A beneficiary and spouse, whose joint Social Security income averages around $525 a month, would lose about $13.12 monthly. That's not make-or-break income. If we ever conquer price inflation, these people would revert to getting their annual living-cost increases based on prices instead of wages, as Congress intended in 1977.

That's Myers' argument, and he carried two-thirds of the nine-member National Commission on Social Security with him in its mid-March report. He's also a major voice in the Health and Human Services Department's "working group" hammering out recommendations for Pickle's subcommittee.

I've seen a lot worse ideas than Myers' "either-or" proposal. If you want to register an opinion, write Bob Myers, in care of the Office of Public Affairs, Social Security Administration. Room 100, Alterneyer Building, Baltimore, MD 21235.

by unions With the exception of organized labor, just about everyone (even Common Cause!) has condemned Davis - Bacon for arbitrarily jacking up construction costs. For instance, the General Accounting Office (GAO), the highly respected, independent congressional oversight agency, conducted nine separate studies over 20 years and eventually concluded in April 1979: Davis -Bacon is poorly administered, adds up to $930 million a year in extra costs to taxpayers, increases the rate of inflation and should be repealed.

Actually, GAO went even further. It intimated that the Department of Labor, which is responsible for collecting the wage data pertaining to Davis-Bacon, might be manipulating the evidence to protect organized labor. GAO said the wage data collected either was not used, or was "deleted, added and changed without reason or rationale." When the Department of Labor protested, GAO found that its comments were largely "misleading, inaccurate, taken out of context, unsupported, and often did not reflect the information in its files."

So did the Carter administration head GAO's recommendations? Not on your life. Former Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall sniffed with annoyance that the

'Dogs, who surprisingly won their first district title ever.

Following the destruction of meet records in all five field events, the Bulldogs looked as if they might make it a runaway with a 271/2-point lead over the second-place Herd. All-everything Gay Hemphill claimed two of those new loop marks with impressive victories in the slot (41-71/4) and discus (123-4), and just to make a point added a third place in the long jump with a leap of

Plainview held a 67 to 391/2 lead after the field events in which the surprising Herd scored at least one point in each contest. Maria Carreon captured second in the shot (32-1134) and discus (115-0), while Teresa High claimed fourth in the discus (102-9), and Teresa Schilling was third in the triple jump (34-4

The Whitefaces also got points from Barbara Brown, fourth in the triple jump and sixth in the long jump; Diane Warden, sixth in the triple jump; Schilling, fifth in the long jump; and Jill Pickens and Deborah Rogers, fourth and fifth in the high jump.

Following the meet's biggest upset in the 200 meter run, the Whitefaces began putting together their tremendous run at the title. In the metric mile, Monterey's Mindee Mayfield, owner of the state's fourthbest time in the event, was upstaged by Coronado's Veronica Cavazos and Shelley Johnson, eliminating her from state tite hopes.

Cavazos and Johnson burned up the asphalt track in the final 150 yards to edge out the MHS star and claim regional berths. Cavazos was clocked in 12.01.2, while Johnson ran a 12.02.5 to Mayfield's 12.04.5.

Lindy Walterscheid (12.2), Angela White (12.5), and Dede Dobbins (12.8) finished second, third and fifth for 16 more team points. That was followed by a second-place by the Herd in the 800-meter relay, and 14 points in the 400 and 12 more in the 200. Allyson Thomas took 400 meter honors with a time of 61.3 for HHS, while Michelle Osborn was fourth

A rain storm cut short the qualifying heats Friday, and they were to continue at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. Hereford managed to qualify its 400 Wayne High in the 110 high hurdles and Felix Soliz in the 800 before rain and lightning postponed the action.

Irvin's Kurt Powell established a new meet record in the high jump with a leap of 6-101/2, beating his old record of 6-8 set last year, and also held by Monterey's Chuck Perry ('78) and Irvin's Joe DeLa Cerda ('74).

Monterey's Holly Ryan led District 4-5A fem linksters closed out loop play Friday with Monterey winning the league crown and Coronado second. MHS' Mayfield came back later to gain some face with a victory in the 1,600 meter run in a time of 5:36.0, beating Coronado's Cavazos (5:41.6) for top honors.

Lubbock High's Melanie Brooks was that team's highlight, earning 30 of Westerner's 31 points. Brooks set three loop marks in capturing the long jump (17-9%), triple jump (36-31/2) and 100 meter hurdles (14.7). The marks in the hurdles and triple jump were new bests for the South Plains this season.

Nicklaus Star Aglitter Again

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — And to think that one year ago, professional golf's fans and media alike had written off Jack Nicklaus, all but retiring him.

Now, the Nicklaus star is aglitter again.

On Friday, Nicklaus shot the lowest Masters round in five years, a 7-under-par 65 that gave him a comanding, four-shot lead with a 135 at the midpoint of the year's first major championship.

His legions loved it. They roared their approval of his seven birdies, four in a row for a total of 10 strokes on four holes.

Nicklaus is on an intimidating roll over the 6,905 yards of pine-lined hills that comprise Augusta National Golf Club. He's in prime position to add to his all-time records of five Masters titles, 17 major professional championships and $3.6 million in earnings.

Nicklaus, if he wins here Sunday, can become the first player ever to win Masters crowns in three different decades.

"I'm very relaxed, very confident. I'm not jumpy or apprehensive.

"I like to win. I'm a golfer, and I'm not ready to hang it up. I'm sure somewhere down the line my record will be broken, but I want to make sure the guy that does it will have to get a whole bunch."

Tom Watson, Lon Hinkle, Bruce Lietzke and Australian Greg Norman were bunched in second at 139 and had differing opinions about overhauling Nicklaus.

NBA finals.

Lietzke shot 67, Watson 68 and Norman and Hinkle took Watson, perhaps showing why he has been the game's Player of the Year for the past four seasons, refuses to be intimidated by Nicklaus.

"A four-shot lead on this course, with 36 holes left, is not insurmountable," Watson said. "I can't afford to make mistakes though.'

Lietzke takes much the same approach. "I don't think four shots is that much with 36 holes left," he said. "Just ask Ed Sneed how big a four-shot lead is."

In the 1979 Masters, Sneed commanded a five-shot margin with nine holes to play but eventually lost in a playoff to Fuzzy Zoeller.

Hinkle said, "I finished third in the U.S. Open and PGA last year (both won by Nicklaus), and I wouldn't mind finishing third here.

Chicago, Ill.-A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of one of the smallest Beltone aids of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

True, all hearing problems are not alike . . . and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this free model now, and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 92184 Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

How old is he, anyway?"

Nicklaus is 41, and he's been such a lasting, dominant golfing figure that Norman was only 2 years old when Nicklaus played in his first of 23 Masters.

"I didn't take the game up until I was 17. I read all of Nicklaus' books. I taught myself," said the 26-year-old Australian Open champion in his first Masters.

David Graham, another Australian who was tied with Hubert Green at 140 in sixth, may have put it best.

"Nicklaus will be very, very tough to beat. He's tough when he's in front. He's too tough. He's too inteligent. There's never been anybody play golf like him. He's phenomenal," Graham said. Graham and Green had 70s Friday.

"SHE ISN'T DEAD: SHE'S ONLY

A man named Jairus, a leader of a Jewish synagogue, came and fell down at Jesus' feet and begged Him to come home with him, for his only child was dying, a little girl twelve years old. Jesus went with him, pushing through the crowds.

As they went a woman who wanted to be healed came up behind and touched Him, for she had been slowly bleeding for twelve years, and could find no cure (though she had spent everything she had on doctors). But the instant she touched the edge of His robe, the bleeding stopped.

His robe, the bleeding stopped.

"Who touched Me?" Jesus asked. Everyone denied it, and Peter said, "Master, so many are crowding against You...." But Jesus told him, "No, it was someone who deliberately touched Me, for I felt healing power go out from Me."

When the woman realized that Jesus knew, she began to tremble and fell to her knees before Him and told why she had touched Him and that now she was well. "Daughter," He said to her, "your faith has healed you. Go in peace."

While He was still speaking to her, a messenger arrived from the Jairus's home with the news that the little girl was dead. "She's gone," he told her father; "there's no use troubling the Teacher now." But when Jesus heard what had happened, He said to the father, "Don't be afraid! Just trust Me, and she'll be all right."

When they arrived at the house Jesus wouldn't le anyone into the room except Peter, James, John and the little girl's father and mother. The home was filled with mourning people, but He said, "Stop the weeping! She isn't dead; she is only asleep!" This brought scoffing and laughter, for they all knew she was dead.

Then He took her by the hand and called, "Get up, little girl!" And at that moment her life returned and she jumped up! "Give her something to eat!"

He said.

Her parents were overcome with happiness, but Jesus insisted that they not tell anyone the details of what had happened.

waste of taxpayers' dollars.

Two legislators said the Canyon school had spent $25,000 for the option to buy a home for President Max Sherman, a former state senator, and then changed its mind.

"This is a clear example of waste in government," said Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville.

Rep. Ralph Wallace, D-Houston, said regents decided not to buy the house because it was listed at $450,000, but an appraiser valued it at $325,000.

Uribe and Wallace spoofed the Academy Awards in announcing the winner of the Bird Award at a news conference.

The award, which is named for former Rep. Ron Bird, D-San Antonio, includes a sketch of a wild turkey — "a fine feathered friend of many, many people and one easily recognized by taxpayers," said Uribe.

Bird started the award prior to the 1979 legislative session.

"Ralph, will you tell us who won the award?" asked Uribe.

"The competition was fierce, and the judges agonized over the nominees," replied Wallace, "but the winner is-"

The first runner-up for the award was Texas A&M University for paying former A&M President Jarvis Miller $69,000 a year "for doing nothing for A&M."

Population Growth Triggers Range Fight

FORT WORTH, Texas ing into the Sun Belt quench (AP) - Rancher Jim Breithaupt has dug in his booted heels and is waging a modern-day range war against a proposed 50,000-acre reservoir that would swallow up a hefty chunk of his land.

It's land his family has worked since the turn of the century. His father is buried on it. Breithaupt wants it for himself, his grandchildren and their grandchildren.

Let the new Texans stream-

Breithaupt isn't just battling to stop a reservoir. He's trying to lasso progress. "I'm not going to leave if I parched throats when the water supply is depleted as early as the 1990s.

Their $342.7 million project, which would create the Richland-Chambers reservoir straddling the Central Texas counties of Navarro and Freestone, has been snagged by two court appeals and valuable mineral discoveries.

The court roadblocks were thrown up by a group called Tehuacana-Richland Enemies of the Dam, or TRED - as in "Don't Tread On Me," a motto of their colonial forefathers.

"They're stealing our land and ruining our entire lives," says TRED president Verna Bonner of Streetman, who has been battling to turn off the billion-gallon tap for more than two years.

"We have allotted the power to control the lives of people through water projects and the like to a commission in Austin that is totally deaf to anything the people have to say," Mrs. Bonner said.

"The water district has so much power," said Breithaupt, also one of TRED's 200 members and owner of a 3,800-acre spread between Navarro and Streetman. "They can do things to you that the government can't do ..."

> Dr. Milton Adams Dr. Louann Morgan Associate OPTOMETRISTS 335 Miles Phone 364-2255 OFFICE HOURS

County Water Control and Improvement District 1, has been coordinating the Richland-Chambers project.

"I know several of TRED's members," he said. "We are doing everything we can to show them we're not the villians they think we are."

Pending court appeals aside, the water district has continued the laborious process of translating its reservoir into reality.

Hilliard said the project would serve as a boon to the Central Texas area's economy by raising property evaluations and triggering a wave of speculative buying and provide water for Tarrant County residents at the same time.

"The Dallas-Fort Worth area is growing faster than everyone expected it to grow. It will grow and need more water." he said. "Droughts are cyclical, but this is not a new norm we're experiencing. It can happen, and if it continues, we're going to be in serious trouble.

"I think for the most part, the TRED members are sincere in their desires to just not have the area disturbed at all, to keep the rural agribusiness-oriented lifestyle and low density of residental units - everything that goes along with rural lifestyle. And they have the typical concerns of probably running taxes up, and lots of new people and cars on the highway, and having to worry about their kids."

Seven houses would be submerged when the waters immerse the two-county area, and more than 700,000 Tarrant County-area waterusers would be digging deep into their pockets for the pro-

"My mother's house will

"but water will be within 100 feet of her door. If she had wanted a house on a lake, she would have built it. But now they're bringing it to her."

Hilliard said the water district has satisfactorily worked out relocation processes with those who would be forced to move.

But Breithaupt said that even though his family wouldn't be uprooted, the fair market value he receives for his land couldn't hope to match the intrinsic value it holds for a rancher.

"What I have left will be split up in about seven pieces and I'll only have one sizeable block of 1,200 acres left," he said. "It's hard to make 1,200 acres economically selfsufficient. But ranching has been by sole support and it was my father's.'

About 40 TRED members caravaned to Austin to present evidence to the Texas Water Commission during a two-day hearing on the reservoir, Breithaupt said, but the commission refused to listen to most of it.

"They didn't want to hear it," he said. "Those people are on a first name basis. They all know each other and it's hard to get your foot in the door. I'm not saying anything illegal is going on. I just mean they don't want to hear what we have to say."

The water commission ruled in May 1980 that construction must start by Nov. 16, 1983 and be completed by November 1987.

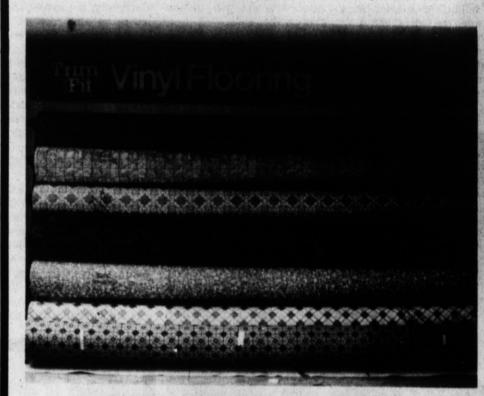

The history of how the puddle grew to a pool dates back to 1957, when Tarrant County officials asked for water rights to Richland-Chambers-Tehuacana.

However, the discovery of massive amounts of lignite on the Tehuacana site has knocked that area out of proposed construction and into commercial house-doctor visit and quick-fix would cost from $200 to $400. Even such a summary treatment should lower heating bills by 15 to 20 percent, Dutt estimates.

A full-fledged retrofit by a contractor would run from $1,500 to $3,000, but could save half a home's yearly heating costs. This investment, they say, would give a much better return than the interest paid on savings accounts."

Wildlife Federation Names Officer

Dr. Jay D. Hair, an associate professor of zoology and forestry at North Carolina State University, has been named chief executive officer of the National Wildlife Federation, the nation's largest citizens conservation organization.

Hair, 35, one of the nation's top authorities on the division of wildlife responsibilities between the federal and state governments, will succeed Thomas L. Kimball as executive vice president of the Washington-based nonprofit conservation group this spring, at a date to be announced later. Kimball, 63, is retiring NWF, with its 4.6 million members and supporters.

NWF's 29-member Board of Directors, meeting in Norfolk, Va., chose Hair for the job after a two-year hunt in which search committees screened 161 candidates for the post, considered the most important and influential nongovernment job in the conservation field.

"I look upon this as the top job in the conservation movement," said Hair, following his appointment. "It presents an opportunity to help shape the nation's conservation agenda and I welcome that after 21 years as head of the challenge. I see the National Wildlife Federation continuing its role as a broadlybased, highly responsible conservation organization working for the wise management and multiple use of all our natural resources in the best interest of the greatest number of people." A 1967 graduate of Clemson

> University, in Clemson, S.C., where he also received his master's degree, Hair earned his Ph.D. in zoology from the University of Alberta, in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, in 1975. He taught wildlife biology at Clemson before joining the faculty of North Carolina State, at Raleigh, in 1977, where he administers the fisheries and wildlife

In 1978 he was named a special assistant at the U.S. Department of the Interior to coordinate the development of a national fish and wildlife policy. His draft of a new policy statement covering the complex relationships between state and federal agencies in the wildlife field gained national attention when it was published in the Federal Register last May.

Hair, now vice chairman of NWF's affiliate affairs committee, has been active in the Federation for more than a decade. He served as president of the South Carolina Wildlife Federation in 1976 and 1977, when it was named NWF's top affiliate of the year. He was elected president of the Southeastern Section of the Wildlife Society in 1979 and is chairman of the National Academy of Sciences' task force on the impacts of emergency agricultural practices on fish and wildlife habitat.

Kimball came to the Federation in 1960 after serving as chief of the state wildlife agencies in Arizona and Colorado. Under him the Federation launched three new conservation magazines (National Wildlife, International Wildlife, and Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine) and increased its annual operating budget from less than $2 million to more than $30 million.

NWF also grew from an organization concerned almost entirely with wildlife issues into an across-theboard environmental group involved in lobbying and litigation as well as educational activities, with a chief executive who often speaks for the conservation movement at the White House and before Congressional com-

The National Wildlife Federation was founded in 1936 at the first North American Wildlife Conference, called by President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The Federation's first president was J.N. (Ding) Darling, a Pulitzer-prize winning newspaper cartoonist. Today the Federation has affiliates in all 50 states and in Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

NWF's by-laws provide for a president who presides over the organization's annual meeting and performs other duties. While more than an honorary job, the presidency is unsalaried and thus the executive vice prsident is in charge of NWF's day-to-day operations subject to direction of the Board of Directors that appoints him.

Toledo Bend Reservoir Top Bass Tourney Lake

Jay D. Hair

AUSTIN - Toledo Bend Reservoir on the Texas-Louisiana border was the state's top bass tournament lake in 1980, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The department compiled the results of 864 bass tournaments held by 160 bass clubs at 15 reservoirs across the state. Each lake was graded in five categories: average weight of bass caught, bass per fisherman, pounds per fisherman and hours required to catch a bass over six pounds.

Officials said the survey, which is the third of its kind, indicated the quality of tournament fishing in Texas has not changed significantly since 1978.

Phil Durocher, who performed the analysis, said the data also show there is no evidence that tournament fishing is, or has been, detrimental to bass populations. "Contrary to popular belief, the impact of tournament fishing in Texas is minimal compared to the total harvest," Durocher said. "In 1980 the estimated total harvest was 5.3 million bass weighing over seven million pounds. If we assume that 25 percent of the tournaments were included in our study, the estimated harvest by tournament fishermen would only be 140,000 bass weighing 210,000 pounds - or about three percent of the total statewide harvest."

Toledo Bend failed to rank first in any one category, but finished high enough in several to win the top spot. It was second in bass per fisherman and pounds per fisher-

July Wedding Slated

Mr. and Mrs. David Hutchins of 308 Douglas announce the engagement of their daughter, Dana Denise to Andrew Everitt Gary, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Morris Gary of Tyler. The wedding will be solemnized July 25 at First United Methodist Church here. The bride-elect is a 1978 graduate of Hereford High School. She is presently a junior at Texas Tech University, majoring in medical technology. The prospective bridegroom, a graduate of Tyler High School, is a 1977 graduate of Texas Tech University. He is an independent landman for oil companies.

Hall of Fame Slates Weekend Activities

Six women will be inducted to the Hall of Fame during the Hall of Fame Weekend, May 22 and 23, according to a report from the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Hereford.

The inductees include Dessie Sawyer of Tatum, N.M. She qualified by being a rare western woman living in New Mexico, besides having a primary interest in developing the ranching and oil industries and is one of New Mexico's strong political Mother Joseph, now deceased, has been named another inductee. She was a resident of Vancouver, Wash. She lived on the frontier and was responsible for establishing schools for the children in a raw land.

Others include Sabra Humphrey, a resident of Silver City, Nev., records the west, past and present, on her canvas in oils; and Mamie Burns of Lubbock who personifies the role of the western woman "at home on the range" having lived on the famous Pitchfork Ranch.

The other two inductees are Pamela Harr of Bozeman, Mont., a western artist famous for her bronzes and documentation in sculpture of many western women; and Margaret Harper of Canyon who visualized an amphitheatre in Palo Duro Canyon and brought culture to the southwest through the production, "Texas."

During the Hall of Fame Weekend, the second annual Rhinestone Roundup Benefit Ball will be held at the Hereford Country Club featuring the music of Tiny

In connection with the 'Roundup" there will be a silent auction of pieces of art. Western art will also be on display during the weekend.

During the afternoon of May 23, Hereford Riders Club will stage a "Playday" at its arena in Veteran's Park beginning at 1 p.m. It will be open to all local riders. Several clubs of the United Sheriff's Posse of Texas are expected to compete.

the top rated TV series Wagon Train," will be in Amarillo at the Country Squire Dinner Theatre to appear, along with his wife Marilyn, in the adult comedy Same Time, Next Year." The production will run nightly except Mondays from April 21 through May 23.

In addition to his years on "Wagon Train," Horton has played in "The Man Called Shenandoah," his second successful TV creation, and "The Rainmaker," which he created on Broadway in the play's musical version, "110 in the Shade.'

Horton's musical career went on to include such directions as: recording star for Columbia Records, troubadour in America's finest supper clubs, and headliner on TV variety

Germany and Australia. His work in TV and motion pictures have stamped him as a dramatic actor. However, with the rise of dinner theatre, Robert Horton turned his talents toward comedy, delighting audiences in such productions as "The Odd Couple," "Catch Me If open at 6 p.m., with perfor-You Can," and six "Rms Riv mance at 7:30 p.m. Vu, among others.

Among recent motion pictures were "Battle Beyond shows in America, England, the Stars" and "The

One of the better things invented in this old world is music. Have you ever noticed how many things are associated with music?

There are things like church services, dances, concerts, grocery stores and movies. It seems, too, everyone has at least a radio playing all the time, if not a million dollar stereo system.

Even professional offices play music over the phone to make you feel better about being put on hold. I wonder who came up with that idea? It still doesn't make me feel better about being put on hold, but it does give me something to do in trying to figure out what selection is being piped over the line.

I always wanted to have a beautiful singing voice. Yes, all you musical people out there, I know the idea that anybody can sing if their voice is developed. Well, for us who never took the time to develop our singing talent the frustra-

I love music and with that I must confess I love musical productions. It just always seemed kinda neat that a person could break into a song to fit any situation he or she might encounter. When Gene Kelly was singing and dancing in the rain, the scene appeared perfectly normal. If I sang in the rain someone would cart me off to never, never land.

I got to thinking the other day that life ought to be more like a musical. Just think how much more effective a U.S. Senator would be if, while expressing an opinion why a congressional bill would better America, a 50-voice choir stood in the background singing "God Bless America." I don't see how anyone could vote against that While you're walking to the post office in the morning and you feel good all over, wouldn't it be great if you could belt out, "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning," without the entire town thinking you had lost your mind?

Music is also a great memory tool. Television theme songs such as Lou Grant and Hill Street Blues will always remind me of Hereford. Oldies but Goodies take me back to high school and college. Classical music reminds me of my mother and our shared interest.

One of these days, I'll learn how to play the guitar and write songs about the people I have met and the places I have lived. I have so many good memories, especially about people, because people is what life is about.

Now, wouldn't the above paragraph have sounded better if there had been some background music playing?

April-Prevent Blindness Month

April is Prevent Blindness Month, an important month to the Jahnke Triplets of Plano. The boys, Craig, Cary and Chad, are six years old and they'll soon have, between them six good eyes. But if the eye problem that they all share - one called amblyopia - had not been detected and treated early then each boy might have been blind in his left eye by his seventh birthday.

'With amblyopia one eye functions so much better than the other that sight is gradually taken over by the strong eye while the weaker one becomes virtually useless," explains Elvin J. Schofield, President of the Texas Society to Prevent Blindness. "The problem must be caught early, preferably in the preschool years, if sight is to be saved in the 'lazy eye.' If treatment isn't started before the age of six or seven, sight is irrerocably lost."

Such blindness was prevented in the Jahnke's boys because their mother Judy noticed about two years ago that Chad seemed to be holding everything uncomfortably close to his eyes. When she had him examined for this, amblyopia was diagnosed. Since the problem tends to be genetic, Craig and Cary were also checked. The result: three identical looking little boys (except for some missing teeth in front) each wearing a big smile and big eye glasses and, covering each good left eye, a surgical patch. The patch is forcing the right "lazy eye" to see and thus be strengthened.

Having three amblopics in the family is not a norm, but, warns the Texas Society to Prevent Blindness, one child in every 20 does have an eye problem that can be best treated if detected in the preschool years. The Society therefore urges all parents to make sure that their children have a vision test early in life, preferably by an eye profes-

If this is not possible, the Society encourages the parents to get the child to a vision screening. Prevent Blindness has trained 55 volunteer groups in Texas to do vision screening and will train other groups who wish to offer this service to their community.

The Society also has a Home Eye Test for Preschoolers that is available without charge for parents who wish to screen their child's vision at home.

Prevent Blindness also urges parents to be alert, as was Mrs. Jahnke, for signs that can indicate eye pro-

Are the child's eyes crossed? If so, the child needs professional help because, contrary to some popular legends, a child will not outgrow this condition. Are the eyelids swollen? Do styles recur regularly? Does the child rub his eyes excessively or become irritable when doing close work?

Any of the above can indicate trouble, says the Society. Be aware of them, especially during Prevent Blindness Month.

For information on TSPB's vision screening programs or for a copy of the free Home Eye Test that also lists signs of possible eye problems, send a long stamped selfaddressed envelope to Prevent Blindness, P.O. Box 2020, Houston, 77001.

The Texas Society to Prevent Blindnes is an affiliate of the National Society to Prevent Blindness, the oldest voluntary health organization in the country working to prevent the one-half of all blindness that is needless.

Make the Break

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Every person who reads your column sees himself sooner or later. I did a few weeks ago. The letter was from a young man who was ambivalent about working for his father. His girlfriend urged him to make the break. I hope he listens to her.

I've spent my life working for my father-in-law. He is a good man but has to control everything and everybody. He never lets me forget he is the boss. I made a big contribution to the business, but I never got any cr tit. I always wondered if I could have The Road

When I was 40 I had a chance to go into business with a college friend on a 50-50 basis. My father-in-law persuaded me to stay with him. After all, he was 66 and would soon be retiring. Well, he is in his 80s now, still there and bragging about what great shape he is in.

DEAR TOOK: Don't worry about being spotted. Your letter could have come from any city in the U.S. or Canada.

I know of many sons and sons-in-law who are happy in family businesses. But most who chose that road wish they hadn't. While nobody can speak for everybody, you have spoken for a large number - and I thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister, Jill, left her husband over a year ago. 'About the same time, my husband's brother separated from his wife. They started to see one another and are now living together. Jill would like to marry the guy.

This brother-in-law has blown two marriages because he couldn't stay in his own bed. I know for a fact that even now he is sneaking around behind my sister's back, seeing ex-wife No. 2.

We live in a small town, and I'm sure Jill will find out eventually and be terribly hurt. I want to tell her now so she will not waste any more time on this rat. I'm afraid if they continue to live together she might get pregnant. My husband says to stay out of his brother's business. We fight constantly over this. Tell me if I should tip Jill off, or let her ruin her life with this bum.-Concerned In Il-

DEAR CONCERNED: I'm with your husband. Jill will find out on her own - one way or another. If you blow the whistle and things don't turn out well for her it will forever be "your fault." M.Y.O.B.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband calls his mother twice a week. She lives 1,000 miles away, and our phone bill averages $150 a month. Sometimes she calls him, and if he isn't at home and I forget to tell him, she calls back and says, "Have HIM phone me." and hangs up. This burns me.

He sent her money to have her car repaired. If it isn't one thing, it's another. He makes $30,000 a year and we're always broke. I'd appreciate some hard-headed advice .-- Slow Burn In Wimberly, Tx., June 8-12. Jim Cherry, a motorboat Mechanic employed by Jack's Marine won fourth in the technical contest. Roy Stallings, an Auto Machinest employed by C&L Machine Shop won a first with his project. Robert Byers, an Auto Electrician employed by the Dimmitt Coop. Electric Shop won second with his project.

Also competing were Eugene Kinderick, a diesel Mechanic employed by Shupe Brothers, and Sid Lookingbill also competed in the Job Interview contest and Electrical Appliance repair. Lookingbill is employed by Robert's Appliance. Sonya Dobbs from Cosmetology sent a notebook and won first

These accomplishments on the State Level are indicatives of the excellent training from the cooperating employers in the Hereford area. I.C.T. would like to give a special word of appreciation to all the cooperating employers in the area. A visit to Six Flags Saturday Night concluded the trip.

At Wits End By ERMA BOMBECK

When you have dieted as many years as I have you begin to

Why is it that cellulite attaches itself to some people's thighs while others go free? Why can some people who pig out on pasta and sugar still look like ballpoint pens? Why do some people gain weight when they lick a stamp? And others lose inches when they clean their nails?

My research has taken me to kitchens all over the world, talking to countless people and listening to stories that break your heart. A couple of weeks ago, I tabulated my results and was never so excited in my life. I had made a breakthrough in weight reduction by observing: THERE ARE NO FAT SAINTS!

In my years of trudging through churches, art galleries and gardens dotted with fountains and monuments, I did not see one single saint with an ounce of fat. As they all stood there with sunken eyes in their hollowed cheeks, frail arms bony shoulders, concave stomachs and sparrow legs, I could only come to one conclusion: Goodness rewards its own with hipbones.

Armed with this wisdom, I decided last week to convert to goodness and ultimate thinness.

I helped a litle old lady carry her groceries to her car. She gave me a candy bar. I volunteered to help with a party at a home for the elderly. The chairman insisted I take home the best of the brownies so she could take her pan home empty.

I delivered some papers to my husband's office which he needed. He took me to a fattening lunch. I opened my home to a group who needed a place for a fund-raiser meeting. They all brought a covered dish and left all the desserts to thank

I car-pooled a bunch of kids to a skating rink. One of the mothers who couldn't chaperone sent me a box of candy in

I felt sorry for a woman in the supermarket giving out samples and stopped to talk with her. To show her thanks she loaded up five crackers with dip and gave me a free tub to take home.

I wanted to continue my saintliness, but I couldn't find anything that fit me anymore.

There's obviously some flaw in my theory. The only thing I can figure out are the eyes of the saints. There's no joy in them. I should've caught that.

Bestsellers Head List Of New Books at Library

By DIANNE PIERSON County Librarian

Bestsellers head the list of new books available this week at the Deaf Smith County Library. CENTURY by Fred Mustard Stewart is currently number 3 on the New York Times Bestseller List. CENTURY is a spectacular saga which begins with the attempted kidnapping of a young Italian princess by an impoverished gardener. The abduction fails, but the love affair that grows between Princess Sylvia and Franco is the genesis of a story that spans one hundred years in the lives of an American family and their Italian cousins.

As Stewart focuses on this two-branched family, he penetrates Fifth Avenue's early mansions, the Brooklyn ghettos, Hollywood, and the Vatican. Across four generations and two world wars, CENTURY, chronicles the fortunes of a turbulent clan. CENTURY is a saga in the great tradition, teeming with the lives and desires of unforgettable people - the story of an island in time, of our past, of violent ends and brillant new beginnings. Fred Stewart also wrote THE MANNINGS and A RAGE AGAINST HEAVEN.

Mary Gordon, author of the widely acclaimed first novel, FINAL PAYMENTS, has written another bestseller, entitled, THE COMPANY OF WOMEN. COMPANY OF WOMEN is the story of five women who have become close friends because of their common devotion to a dynamic priest whose special vocation is working women. Although three of them are widowed, only one, Charlotte, has a child, Felicitas, around whom all their hopes are centered, including Father Cyprian, for whom she is a child prodigy. Felicitas is indeed the matrix of them all, and it is through her that each of them eventually reaches selfrealization. Among Mary Gordon's greatest strengths as a writer are the depth of perception with which she is able to realize different kinds of characters and the masterful way she combines comedy and seriousness. THE COM-universal appeal. THE AVIATOR by Ernest K. Gann is an inspiring story of high adventure, courage and the surpassing power of one human beings love for another. The Rocky Mountains, in the year 1928, is the pioneering days of the U.S. airmail service. A downed pilot and his only passenger, a girl brave and perceptive beyond her eleven years,

PANY OF WOMEN has

struggle to survive, and their fear of giving way to bond of caring is the plot for AVIATOR.

AVIATOR is a novel about love - the love of flying, and the love of two very special human behings. Ernest K. Gann is the author of eleven previous novels, all of which have been bestsellers. His recent novel, THE AN-TAGONISTS, is currently being produced under the title of MASADA as the most ambitious feature film in television history.

Other books available this week at the library are SE-COND OPINION BY Dr. Rosenfeld, Isadore ATHABASCA by Alistair MacLean, and THE PUNISH-MENT by Doris Shannon. Other Library events:

preciate their kindness in remembering the Manor in many ways. Also a big thank you to Mrs. Simms for her generous gift.

Chief Deputy Butcher from the Hereford Sheriff's Department gave an informative and helpful program to King's Manor the day the Auxiliary, had their semiannual meeting on security in the home and ones self. With the increase in crime this was a program that could benefit all of us. Thank you Deputy Butcher for your time in this courtesy.

There were many birthdays to celebrate in March, Burmah Spears, Vena Hudson, Nell Ball, Elizabeth Hicks, Bernice Adamson, Roberta Wilson, C Ora Cockrell, Vira Smith and Eula Ashbrook. We wish each one health and happiness in the coming year.

Rev. Doug Manning, whose parents are now residents of the Manor, brought the Vesper Service the first Tuesday. The following Tuesdays were filled by Rev. Bill McReynolds, Rev. John Mourer of Buchanan Methodist Church of Amarillo, Rev. Steven Campbell of Vega and Rev. Earl Blair of Amarillo Kingswood.

La Allegra Club was helpful to take residents shopping during the month. This takes considerable time and patience on their parts. Enough thanks cannot be given to those who fill this need.

The American Legion Auxiliary gave everyone a fun evening playing Bingo. These ladies are so cheerful and smiling just like they enjoy giving out pleasure. Bless you for your attitude of kindness.

St. Thomas Slates Holy Week Services

Holy Week services at St. Thomas Episcop | Church will begin Monday with a service at 7:30 a.m. Services are scheduled for each day until Easter Sunday, April 19.

ity

Holy Monday services will include the celebration of the Holy Communion. Holy Tuesday, the Holy Communion will be celebrated at 7:30 p.m. and the Holy Unction will be administered.

On Holy Wednesday, The Holy Communion will be celebrated at 10 a.m., again with the administration of Holy Unction. At 6:45 p.m., Tennebrae, which is the latin word for "darkness" or "shadows" and has for centuries been applied to the ancient monastic night and early morning services, matins and lauds, of the last three days of Holy Week, will be celebrated.

In this service, a number of lessons and psalms are read, during which the lights in the church are slowly extinguished until only one candle, which symbolizes the light of the world, is left. Then, at the story of the crucifixion, the remaining candle is hidden. At the end of the liturgy, a loud noise is sounded, symbolic of the earthquake at the resurrection, and the candle is replaced to represent and proclaim our Lord's resurrection," the Rev. Charles Threewit, pastor, said.

On Maundy Thursday, Holy Communion will be celebrated at 7:30 p.m. "The features of this celebration are the recalling of the institution of the Holy Communion by our Lord, the washing of feet by the priest in imitation of Jesus' act at the last supper, and the stripping of all vestments from the altar and the draping of all the crosses in the church in black cloth," Rev. Threewit explained.

Good Friday will be observed with the joint community service of the Hereford Ministerial Alliance beginning at 12:05 p.m. At 7:30 p.m., the Good Friday liturgy will be said along with the travelling of the way of the cross. On Holy Saturday a short liturgy will be said at 10 a.m.

The celebration of Easter begins with the Easter Vigil, the ancient, historic time for baptism, which begins with the blessing of the new fire, the lighting of the paschal candle, and the proclamation of the return of the light of the world, followed by Holy Baptism, and the first Eucharist of Easter. The vigil begins at 9 a.m. on Saturday, which in Jewish terms has been, since sunset, Easter.

"The Easter Day Eucharist will be celebrated at 11 a.m. on Sunday, during which the ugly, dirty cross of Good Friday will be converted into a thing of beauty by covering it with fresh flowers," Rev. Threewit continued.

"The public is cordially invited, and most welcomed, to attend and to participate in any of these celebrations. Any baptized person who perceives in the consecrated bread and wine the real presence of our Lord Jesus Christ is welcomed to receive the Holy Communionwith us,"he concluded.

Texas Tech's Cultural Events

"A Chrous Line" has been acclaimed as Broadway's Best Musical.

The winner of 9 Tony Awards including Best Musical, the hit musical is also the winner of the Pulitzer Prize for Drama and the New York Drama Critics' Award.

Texas Tech's Cultural Events will present "A Chorus Line" on Wednesday, April 29 in Lubbock's Municipal Auditorium. Performance time is set for 8:15

The show concerns exactly what its title suggests - a chorus line. It opens with a group of dancers auditioning for a Broadway show. The stage is bare except at the back we see a series of gigantic mirrors in which are reflected not only the dancers but the audience. We are all in on the process.

The director-chorographer who is to pick eight dancers from the 24 on hand begins to put them through their paces. The dancers let us know how much they want the job, expressing in song what is on their minds but what they would never say out loud - "I hope I get it."

The director moves to the rear of the reheasal hall and asks the dancers to line up on a white line which runs across the stage near the footlights. Stepping forward from the fateful white line, the "kids" project their reality and fantasy in talk that explodes brilliantly into song and dance. These minipsychodramas interlock until the chorus line becomes a community at once special and ordinary, a family linked by blood, sweat, laughter and tears.

The smash hit musical has a book by James Kirkwood and Nicholas Dante, music by Marvin Hamlisch, who won Oscars for the films, "The Sting" and "The Way We Were," and lyrics by Edward Kleban with cochoreography by Bob Avian. The sets are by Robin Wagner, costumes by Theoni V. Aldredge and lighting by Tharon Musser.

Line." The Boston Glove called it "A Chassis," while the Los Angeles Times said, "A jewel of a musical," and the Chicago Daily News called it a perfect production." 'A Chorus Line" is a tribute to chorus dancers and compassionate and finally thrilling. It is a major event in the development of the American musical theatre.

Tickets may be purchased at the University Center Ticket booth at Texas Tech and at Hemphill Wells in the South Plains Mall. For further information call 742-3610.

Special thanks to many volunteers this week. As a matter of fact there are so many persons we need to thank that the list would cover an entire page. I want to thank those who helped with the Family Fun Night, selling tickets, fixing chili, serving, cleaning up, helping with bingo and all the other things that everyone helped with. Special thanks too for all the help with the Bike Safety program. We will have further details Monday on this event.

Special thanks also go to the Uniformed Volunteers for their help with the Westgate Nursing Home Birthday Party. Those helping were ALice Gilleland, Nell Culpepper, Anna Wilson, Lottie Wertenberger, Bertha Dettman, Hattie Gallagher. A good time was had by both volunteers and residents.

Washington, D.C. in 1975 as the director of the Office of Women in Higher Education.

Prior to her appointment, she was dean of women at the University of Kansas for almost 20 years.

During her tenure at the University of Kansas, Taylor developed the office from a two-person professional staff to include various programs including a Women's Resource and Career Plann ing Center in 1969 staffed by 10 professional staff members.

The center officially was named The Emily Taylor Women's Resource Center in 1974 to honor her. She founded the first university Commission on the Status of Women in the United States in 1958 and produced "A Feminist Perspective," a weekly radio program which aired for four years.

She received her education from Urbana College of Urbana, Ohio, Ohio State University and Indiana University and taught at colleges and universities in Montana, Indiana and Florida before moving to Kansas.

Taylor's leadership and concern on the status of women has led to membership on the Kansas Governor's Commission on the Status of Women, Maryland Commission on the Status of Women, as former president of the National Association of Commissions for Women and as chairperson of the Maryland State Coordinating Committee for the International Women's Year conference.

She also has served on the national board of the Status of Women Research and Education Fund, Inc., Women's Equity Action League, as president of two branches of the American Association of University Women and the Kansas Association of Women Deans, Administrators and Counselors. Her numerous honors have included designation as a Kansan of Achievement, selection to the University of Kansas Women's Hall of College Board of Governors. The first Helen Keller Honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters from Urbana College was awarded to Taylor in 1980.

'Holosyn Approach' Theme of Farm Program

By BOB NIGH

Managing Editor "The Holosyn Approach to Farm Management" was the theme of the program presented when U.S. Soil hosted interested area individuals at a dinner last week. The Holosyn approach incorporates ideas, practices. and materials into a total approach to land use in such a way as to protect the farm and its environment.

Representatives of U.S. Soil on hand to conduct the slide presentation program included David Minks, Supervisor for the Panhandle of Texas; Jim Horne, Director of Marketing from Salida, Colorado; Bernard Baker of Garden City, Kansas, Distributor for the High Plains area; and Hilbert Minks, Distributor for Southeast Kansas and

The meeting was attended by 36 persons, who saw the Holosyn Approach explained in relation to farming.

"The Holosyn Approach considers all aspects of the environment and incorporates technological improvements and the use of interdependent factors which complete the whole environment," Baker explained. "The goal of the Holosyn Approach is the proper balance of all factors-in the soil environment for nutrient availability and stability and maximum production."

In addition the Holosyn Approach, the Bio-Systems Research Division of U.S. Soil Salida, Colorado, presented information on 'bio-rational pesticides," those which are not harmful to humans or the environment. Research into this area is being conducted through the joint efforts of U.S. Soil, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the Environmental Protection boll weevil feeding deterrant. The researchers at Bio-Systems include three scientists with doctoral degrees, who also work with 72 consultants across the nation.

The Bio-Systems Research presentation featured development of "Bolex,"

In addition to the slide presentations, comparisons were presented on crops of corn and sugar beets in the Farwell and Clovis, New Mexico area. "Basically, the

IRR Slated August 10-14

DEL RIO - Many of the critical problems facing ranch owners, ranch managers and working cowboys in the more arid regions of North America will be discussed and analyzed during the International Rancher's Roundup (IRR) at the Del Rio Convention Center Aug. 10-14 in this border city.

The IRR is being organized by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and designed to give participants ideas which can make individual ranching decisions much easier and more profitable. It will also provide an opportunity for idea exchange among ranchers of similar areas beset with common problems.

This week-long meeting and festive occasion will be headlined by some of the ranching industry's best noted speakers from arid lands of the southwestern U.S., Mexico and several foreign countries who will present the most practical and timely information available.

International agricultural trade. Mexican-American agricultural terdependence, market development and plans for market expansion will all be studied.

Plans are being finalized through U.S. Congressman Tom Loeffler's office to have a Chinese delegation participate in the conference, a move to strengthen U.S.-Chinese agricultural trade relations. The Chinese ranching industry will be a major topic of discussion along with a demonstration of veterinary acupuncture.

A large contingency of influential Mexican ranchers is also expected to attend.

The program will include concurrent sessions for producers of working quarter horses, beef cattle, sheep and goats, range and wildlife. Ranch business management will also be stressed.

A sub-surface mineral management and mineral lease agreement session will be conducted by experts in these fields. The increasing incentives and need for domestic energy production and its value to landowners makes this session especially important.

A general theme "Nutrition: The Key of Production to Profit" has been incorporated into the livestock, range and wildlife sessions. Land managers will learn key factors involved in integrating the production of quality range lands, their harvest of quality animals and progressive product marketing.

Proceedings of the conference will be provided each participant for future reference and use. Workshops will be held to assist ranchers with actual application of the information obtained in concurrent ses-

Two day-long ranch tours are planned - one each in Texas and Mexico-allowing participants to observe progressive ranch management in both countries.

Entertainment activities featuring popular American and Mexican countrywestern music groups are also taking shape.

Pre-registration packets can be obtained by writing IRR, P.O. Drawer 1849, Uvalde, Texas 78801. Ranchers are encouraged to return completed forms promptly as space will be limited. To help defray conference expenses, participants will be assessed a tax deductible registration

Ranchers Urged to Consider Herbicide to Control Mesquite

COLLEGE STATION -Ranchers battling mesquite brush should consider flying on a liquid herbicide in late spring and early summer.

Since mesquite control with herbicides depends greatly on weather conditions, ranchers need to look at what has happened since last fall, says Dr. Tommy Welch, range brush and weed control specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University

Herbicides for mesquite control are growth-regulating chemicals that must be translocated from leaves to stems and roots to be most effective. This process is strongly influenced by growing conditions when the herbicide is applied, explains Welch.

Texas Agricultural Experiment Station studies bear this out. Aerial spraying of herbicide produced average mesquite control when monthly rainfall was average or slightly above average for at least three months before the herbicide application. Best control occurred when monthly rainfall exceeded the average for six months prior to spraying. On the other hand, poorest results came after only two months or less of above average rainfall prior to spraying.

Since rainfall has varied greatly throughout the state since last fall, ranchers must evaluate their individual situations. Also, Welch advises each rancher to watch the foliage development of mesquite when leaves begin to grow. Mesquite with little foliage will be in poor condition for spraying while plants with lots of leaves are ripe for control.

When to apply the herbicide is also important. For maximum kill, do not spray mesquite until leaves have fully extended and have turned from light to dark green. Plants with fully developed, dark green foliage that are past full bloom and have small pods developing are in the best condition for spray-

In addition to weather conditions and plant growth, check the soil temperature, recommends Welch. Best kill of mesquite is usually obtained when the soil temperature 18 inches deep at spraying time is 75 degree F. or higher.

Usually soils on upland range sites and soils with a higher sand content warm up faster than bottomland soils or those with a lot of clay. As a result, root kill of mesquite is usually higher on upland

If frequent rains occur during the spray season, root kills are often reduced because mesquite plants will continue to add new leaf growth. Thus it's best to delay spraying 10 to 21 days after a good rain to allow new growth to mature.

Welch also suggests that ranchers inspect mesquite foliage for damage by insects, disease, frost or hail before spraying. Heavy defoliation will reduce plant allowed to mature before herbicides are applied.

Three registered and effective herbicides for mesquite control on Texas rangeland using aerial broadcast spray are 2,4,5-T; one-to-one mixture of picloram and 2,4,5-T (Tordon 225E); and one-toone mixture of dicamba and 2,4,5-T. Dicamba and 2,4,5-T must be tank-mixed because a commercial formulation is no longer available.

Effective rates for these herbicides are one-half to one pound acid equivalent per acre. Tordon 225E and the

dicamba - 2,4,5-T mixture usually give a higher percentage of root kill than 2,4,5-T alone, but they are more expensive. Tordon 225E has given the best control in research and demonstration work, points out Welch. If weeds are a problem along with mesquite, Tordon 225E and the dicamba - 2,4,5-T mixture give excellent weed control in conjunction with mesquite control. Tordon 225E also provides good control of pricklypear. Before applying any herbicide, read and follow directions on approved labels on the herbicide container, cautions the specialist.

To obtain the most benefit from mesquite control, follow herbicide spraying with good range management practices, advises Welch. If possible, defer grazing on the area sprayed for mesjquite control at least three months. This will allow desirable plants an opportunity to regain vigor and produce seed and for seedlings to become established. Where deferred grazing is not possible, consider reducing the stocking rate by culling and selling un-

Chemical Could Jeopardize Market

WASHINGTON (AP) -Agriculture Secretary John R. Block says excessive use of a chemical intended to retard the growth of could cost them important the tobacco plant, sapping its foreign markets.

Importing countries have complained about levels of a chemical, maleic hydrazide or MH-30, on U.S. flue-cured tobacco, Block said Tuesday. West Germany, for example, has set a voluntary limit of 80 parts per million for MH residues in imported tobacco.

The West German Association of Cigarette Manufacturers has advised U.S. tobacco interests that their government may adopt the 80 parts per million as a legal limit if tobacco imports continue to exceed that level. The United States has no limit on residues of the chemical, which retards the growth of suckers - shoots "suckers" on tobacco plants that grow from the stem of development. Block said department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service soon will begin a survey to determine MH levels in flue-cured tobacco. Officials will then determine if "strict certification and compliance" should be put into effect for the 1982 crop

- Legal constraints on aquaculture are excessive in Texas. Under present regulations, the potential aquaculturist must get permission from at least nine state and federal agencies before beginning operations.

Since funding for setting up commercial aquaculture enterprises comes mainly from private sources, state funding may be needed in the future. State and federal funding are also needed for Extension and research efforts.

- Surveys are needed to establish marketing areas for food and bait fish. Many Texans currently eat more than the average U.S. consumption of 11.2 pounds of fisheries products annually.

-- Inland salt water resources in the state are untapped and should receive high priority in evaluating expanded aquaculture produc-

Heated industrial effluents are now being discharged into more than 120 aquatic areas over the state and are potentially valuable for aquaculture heating facilities. Yet, less than 5 percent of these effluents are being used. -- Additional fisheries disease programs are needed to support the aquaculture industry. - Nutrition research and development must be expanded to include catfish fingerlings and broodfish, marine finfish, largemouth bass and tilapia.

- Catfish, crawfish, tilapia, largemouth bass and bait fish deserve special attention in aquaculture expansion in Texas due to their immediate commercial potential.

"Through more effective research and development, Texas can use its extensive freshwater and marine resources to become a leader in the promising new industry waters) should also receive of aquaculture," contends

Donop asserts that you don't need fancy facilities to have an effecient swine finishing program. In fact, he says that having a small investment in equipment gives him extra flexibility and keeps him from getting locked into unprofitable situa-

"I can cut back my program pretty quickly if I have to," Donop points out. "But, fortunately, I've been able to maintain steady production over the past few years." This year he'll send 6,000 finished hogs to market.

All of Donop's pigs are raised on land owned by other Mason residents. He pays the property owners $1.00 for each pig brought on to their premises and $1.00 for each pig which is removed. The land owners, all of whom have experience in raising hogs, watch the pigs on a daily basis and Donop visits each farm two or three times weekly to supervise the herd's progress. Individual herds are limited to 300 to 400 head, the maximum size which, he believes, one man can care for properly.

The bulk of Donop's equipment investment is in feeders - one, 105-bushel feeder per 40 pigs - and waterers, one cup-type pressure fount per 20 pigs.

The way you treat newlypurchased feeder pigs will often determine how many will make it to market and how fast they'll reach market weight, Donop observes.

He stresses the urgency of getting feeder pigs eating upon their arrival. "The feed intake habits pigs establish in the first few days in a new environment often dictate their growth pattern," he says.

Feeder pigs at Donop's farm are fed completely feeds from the day they arrive, weighing about 40 pounds, right up to marketing at 215 or 220 pounds. Initially, the rations have a 17 percent protein content, which is reduced to 16 percent at 60

Donop's pigs average a 1.7 pound gain daily and he figures it takes 3.4 pounds of feed to produce a pound of gain. "Both daily gain and feed conversion have improved since incorporation of Banminth and Mecadox into the ration four years ago," he

Outside of a strong emphasis on hog health and nutrition, Donop says other aspects of his hog-finishing program relfect strictly a common-sense approach: "Careful management of these two important areas, I've found, can go a long way death losses."

Exceptions to Decision Need to Be Filed Now

The deadline for the public to file exceptions to a recommended decision that would amend price announcement procedures in 29 federal milk marketing orders has been extended to April 13.

Herbert L. Forest, dairy official with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Marketing Service, said this second extension was requested by Central Milk Producers Cooperative representatives, who asked for more time to examine the recommended decision.

Forest said the proposalthe only one supported at a public hearing in Clayton, Mo., last August - would provide that the Class I price for a particular month be announced on a tenatative basis by the 15th day of the preceding month. The final Class II price could not be less than the Class III price for that month. The final Class II price would be announced by the fifth day of the following month when the Class III price becomes

The hearing to consider changing the Class II price announcement procedures in the 29 orders was necessitated by an order of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, which ruled the existing announcement procedures in-

PETER AND PAUL

"Peter and Paul," starring Anthony lopkins (pictured) as Paul and Robert oxworth as Peter, a four-hour, twopart drama chronicling the saga of Peter, the rock of the Christian Church, and Paul of Tarsus, Apostle to the Gentiles, will be broadcast on PALM SUNDAY, APRIL 12 and TUESDAY, APRIL 14 on CBS-TV.

Beginning with the Crucifixion,
"Peter and Paul" focuses on the two nen, totally different in temperament and deportment, as Christianity faces extinction. It is they who keep the faith alive. The drama follows the pair, ogether and separately, through three epochal decades.

Guest stars in the drama include: Eddie Albert, Raymond Burr, Jose Fer-rer, Jon Finch, David Gwillim, Herbert Lom and Jean Peters.

By J.T. YURKO-FILM CRITIC -

'The Postman Always Rings Twice'

There have been several different movie versions of this James Cain novel, with the best known being the John Garfield/Lana Turner version made in 1946. Luchino Visconti made an unauthorized version of the story, as he never bothered to acquire the movie rights from Cain, but as this was Italy in 1942 that didn't seem like much of an obstacle.

Jessica Lange's performance is not only the best thing about the film, it's one of the best performances by an actress in recent years and is definitely Oscarnomination material. As the beauty-contest winner whose dreams turn into the dust and sweat of a hash-house cook. she is unforgettable. But she is no nice-girl gone wrong. Her drives and desires have a decidedly masochistic edge that are only sharpened by her teaming with Nicholson's similar aberrant desires. She projects a smile that is both childlike and sultry; she is cruel and torrid, mischievous and malevolent.

Adapting Cain's novel for the screen is David Mamet, well-known for his successful plays such as "A Life in the Theater" and "American Buffalo." This is his first screenplay, and yet he has managed to avoid all the possible pratfalls. His dialogue is kept to a minimum, and cuts quick to the raw emotions that are unleashed. Director Rafelson maintains the obsessive emotions of the characters with slow, steady, tight close-ups that visually spell the claustrophobia and paranoia dominating the scenes.

Much has already been written about the torrid love scenes between Nicholson and Lange. Some of it is overblown, but this doesn't mean you can bring the kiddies along. Suffice to say that compared to this version, Lana Turner and John Garfield are candidates for merit badges in wholesomeness.

ALOHA PARADISE

Let's face it, Spelling-Goldberg Productions and ABC have made beautiful music together over the years with "Vega$,"
"Charlie's Angels," "Love Boat," "Fantasy Island" and
"Dynasty." Besides the latter, there really isn't much substance to these programs. They are pure escapist forms of TV entertainment. The ratings have proved that there is an audience for these shows, although interest in "Charlie's Angels" and "Vega$" has withered.

"Aloha Paradise" is nothing more than a land-based derivative of "Love Boat" and "Fantasy Island." The cast and crew are located on the alluring Hawaiian Kona Coast, where, ironically enough, TV is passe.

Debbie Reynolds, who is attempting to pump some fresh blood into her anemic career (she's better known as Princess Leia's [Carrie Fisher's] mother), is the hostess at the posh resort. Her associates Bill "Bob Newhart" Daily, Pat "Flying High" Klous and Stephen "Kotter" Shortridge perform the other little tasks that make this paradise that much more enjoyable. Then, of course, there are the Spelling-Goldberg players, i.e. fading movie and TV stars who need a little exposure. There's nothing wrong with this concept, except for the fact that the scripts are loaded with too much drivel. None of the secondary cast members really has to work hard, with the few lines that are dished out each week. Debbie Reynolds is the program's focal point, and despite the lack of good scripts, the veteran actress does try awfully hard to please her audience as well as her

Quite frankly, "Aloha Paradise" is a visually stimulating show to watch, but I have a gut feeling that audiences will be saying aloha to this paradise sooner than ABC expected.

TV CLOSEUP: A leading actress on the TV sitcom "Soap" says she would be mortified if her husband cheated on her. And Katherine Helmond swears she'd feel even worse if husband David Christian betrayed her in his "I think it's worse if a husband is mentally unfaithful," she told me. "I mean if he's secretly emotionally involved with another woman. You know, sex is one thing, very casual for some men, and it doesn't mean a man is necessarily in love, or that he doesn't love his wife. Of course, I think a husband shouldn't cheat, period, but I'd rather have mine cheat physically than mentally, and I'm pretty sure David feels the same way.'

REVIEW

Visconti entitled his film "Obsession," and that certainly sums up all you need to know about this steamy story of love and murder. Whether Italy or Hollywood, however, censorship problems prevented the earlier movie versions from being faithful to some of the more sordid aspects of Cain's novel.

In 1981 there are no such problems, so whether or not you agree that this is the best version of Cain's novel, it is certainly the most faithful, as the gruff book becomes a gritty, seedy, atmospheric film. The latest couple to act out the tale is Jack Nicholson and Jessica Lange in the new Bob Rafelson film. Set in the midst of the Depression, Nicholson plays a man wandering across America who happens to find himself outside a roadside diner run by Nick Papadakis (John Colicos) and his wife Cora, remarkably played by Jessica Lange. Nicholson and Lange conspire to do away with her husband, but the best laid plans of mice and desperates go awry, with grave results.

dramatization of the infamous House Un-American Activities Committee hearings of the 1950's, encores throughout the month of April as part of "Broadway on Showtime." Liza Minnelli makes a special appearance in the production which originally opened off-Broadway in 1978 and later moved to Broadway. The play is made from direct transcripts of investigations in Hollywood on Communism, during which hundreds of show business personalities testified about alleged Communist Party affiliations. Key witnesses included among others Arthur Miller, Sterling Hayden, Elia Kazan, Jose Ferrer and Paul Robeson.

Liza Minnelli makes a cameo appearance as Lillian Hellman reciting the famous letter she wrote to the committee. In that letter, Hellman refused to incriminate her friends and to "cut my conscience to fit this year's
