Barbie Koelzer and Eric Alexander, Hereford High School seniors, have been named recipients of college-sponsored, four-year Merit Scholarships it has been announced by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) of Evanston, Illinois.

Names of about 2,135 winners of college-sponsored scholarships have been announced, just under half of the 4,700 students who will have won Merit Scholarships this year valued at a total of $15.5 million.

Miss Koelzer, daughter of Werner and Betty Koelzer, has been awarded a Texas A&M University Merit Scholarship, while Alexander, son of Earl and Olive Alexander, received a Baylor University Merit Scholarship.

Most of the college-sponsored scholarships are named for the institutions sponsoring them. Winners were chosen by officials of the college from among the Merit Program Finalists who reported that institution to NMSC as their first choice.

The offer of a college-sponsored four-year Merit Scholarship stipulates that the winner must attend the institution financing the award. If the winner changes college choice or does not enroll at the sponsor college, the award is cancelled.

Both HHS seniors were named Merit Scholarship semi-finalists last September, and were named Finalists in February.

College-sponsored Merit Scholarships are renewable for up to four years of undergraduate study but are not transferable to another college or university. Winners were selected by officials of the sponsoring institution, who also determined the individual stipends.

The dollar amounts, which can range from $1,000 to $8,000 over the four college years, are not made public since they are related to confidential family financial information. The average annual stipend for college-sponsored scholarship winners is currently about $750, or $3,000 for the four undergraduate years.

"Since they were first invited to become program sponsors nineteen years ago, college and universities have added significantly to the number of Merit Scholarships that can be awarded annually to outstanding Merit Program Finalists," stated an NMSC spokesman. "The number of college-sponsored Merit Scholarships now offered is over ten times

On Tax Cuts

President Reagan Urges Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, returning to action with a pronouncement that he is "much improved" but the economy is as sick as ever, is on the verge of getting Congress to fill his prescription for the nation's economic ills.

Republican leaders say. In his first public appearance since last month's assassination attempt, Reagan told a joint session of Congress on Tuesday night that it should move quickly on his proposed spending and tax cuts. Voters are getting impatient, he said. Inactivity "will delay even longer — and more painfully — the cure which must come," he told lawmakers in the nationally broadcast, 20-minute address on the eve of his 100th day in office, the traditional time for the first assessment of a new president. Congressional leaders said the speech helped put much of the president's program back on the right track. Democrats and Republicans planned to meet today to assess what effect the speech will have on House floor action on the budget, which begins Thursday. "If we didn't have the votes before, we sure ought to have them now," said House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois.

"We're in the seventh inning and three runs behind," House Democratic leader Jim Wright of Texas said of Democratic attempts to block or modify the Reagan program.

"I always said he would get most of it, and I still think that," said Senate Democratic Whip Alan Cranston of California.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said he believed Reagan did what he set out to do: "increase popular support for his economic program and reassure Americans that their president is back in full command."

Reagan told the House and Senate that they risk public wrath unless they act quickly on his economic program. "The American people now want us to act and not in half measures," he said. "They demand — and they've earned a full and comprehensive effort to clean up our economic mess."

The president, greeted in the packed chamber by thunderous, sustained applause from Republicans and Democrats alike, compared his own recovery from a bullet in the lung to the health of the U.S. economy. "Thanks to some very fine people, my health is much improved," he said, showing no signs of the gunshot wound inflicted by a would-be assassin 29 days ago. "I'd like to be able to say that with regard to the economy."

"Because of the extent of our economy's sickness, we know that the cure will not come quickly," he said. "That cure begins with the federal budget."

Reagan's speech was interrupted 13 times by applause, although when he got down to specifics of his program, much of it was restricted to (See REAGAN, Page 2)

To Reagan Speech

Texas Solons React Favorably

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas congressmen reacted enthusiastically Tuesday night to President Reagan's speech, and most of them said his appeal guaranteed passage of his economic recovery program now before them.

"He did an excellent job. He had a firm grip and a great smile and it was apparent he was glad to be back in front of Congress," Rep. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, said after the address. "My prediction is the bipartisan budget proposal will pass by at least 40 to 50 votes. There's no doubt he won votes tonight, and the speech was so excellent he'll pick up even more votes between tonight and next Tuesday," Hance added.

Free blood pressure screening was just one of the services offered at the Health Fair here at the Community Center Tuesday. Some 32 health-related agencies had booths at the health fair, which was sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Family Living Committee. Other screenings available were for diabetes, tuberculosis, urinalysis, hematocrits, and hearing.

Adjustments Needed

Farm Bill 'In Trouble'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration's farm program is running into increasing trouble in Capitol Hill, and the chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee has begun warning his colleagues of the consequences.

"If we send a bill down to the White House that doesn't have a fair relationship to the (agriculture) secretary's, it's going to get vetoed and then we wind up with nothing," Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., said.

Helms' committee on Tuesday added a multibillion-dollar export loan program to the 1981 farm bill after administration officials said the government couldn't afford the initial expense.

The committee also seems bent on approving major commodity price-support loan rates above those Agriculture Secretary John R. Block thinks are economically feasible. A straw vote among the members showed substantial support as well for retaining the crop target prices President Reagan wants eliminated.

"This committee is going to act within the parameters of fiscal responsibility and what we are allocated," Helms said. "I can tell you now that adjustments are going to have to be made at the end."

While some farm programs may get more money than the president wants, "I'm hopeful that in other areas of the bill we can cut down expenditures," Helms said.

In the House, where Democratic-dominated subcommittees are still drafting their sections of the new farm bill, Reagan lost fights over price-support loan rates and target prices for wheat and substantial cuts in dairy subsidies.

The Agriculture Department estimates those items alone would cost billions of dollars more than Reagan wants to spend over the four-year life of the farm bill. The full House Agriculture Committee will begin considering the farm bill late this week.

Oklahoma County Officials Implicated In Kickback Scheme

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Eight present or former county commissioners and two supply company owners have been charged with violating federal laws by participating in a kickback scheme, and a source close to the investigation says the initial charges "are just the beginning of a big, big ball game."

The charges against seven current commissioners and one former commissioner allege they were involved in a massive kickback scheme on the sale of millions of dollars of road and bridge materials to county governments.

The charges, announced jointly Tuesday afternoon by U.S. Attorney Larry Patton and C. Edwin Enright, special agent in charge of the Oklahoma City FBI division, were the first to be filed as the result of a three-year investigation, but sources close to the investigation say scores of additional indictments will be filed.

Truckdriver Confesses He's Yorkshire Ripper

LONDON (AP) — Truckdriver Peter Sutcliffe admitted today he was the Yorkshire Ripper who killed 13 women in the north of England between 1975 and 1980 but pleaded innocent to charges of murder.

Instead the 34-year-old Yorkshireman pleaded guilty to manslaughter on the grounds of "diminished responsibility," or lack of full mental competence, at the opening of his trial in London's historic Old Bailey Criminal Court.

Sutcliffe also pleaded guilty to the attempted murder of seven other women.

The judge, Sir Leslie Boreham, told the chief prosecutor, Attorney General Sir Michael Havers, that he had "grave anxieties" about Sutcliffe's pleas. He asked for an explanation in "greater detail than usual" if the prosecution accepted the pleas to the reduced charges.

The turnout for the resolution of Britain's most notorious criminal case of the 20th century was an anticlimactic 60 people, only twice the number of seats available to the public. More than 80 seats were reserved for the press.

The intense feeling aroused in northern England by the killings over a five-year period caused the transfer of the trial from Yorkshire, where most of the slayings occurred.

Police security was tight, but there was no repetition of the ugly scene at Sutcliffe's first court appearance Jan. 5, when a mob shouted obscenities and lynch threats outside the court at Dewsbury, Yorkshire.

Sutcliffe, who lives in Bradford, was brought to London Tuesday from a high-security prison in the Yorkshire city of Leeds, the base for the police hunt for the mass murderer named after the Victorian Age's Jack the Ripper.

Before he left, his Czech-born wife Sonia visited him, and a seat in the courtroom was reserved for her.

The accused man was brought to the Old Bailey in a green armored police van, escorted by two police cars with sirens blaring and lights flashing. Police held up other traffic in the vicinity and kept members of the press and public away from him.

The Yorkshire Ripper killings started in July 1975 and continued until last November. Detectives said the killer struck by night, smashing his victims' heads with a hammer and usually mutilating the bodies. The women ranged in age from 16 to 47 and nine were prostitutes.

Because Jack the Ripper's victims were prostitutes and he mutilated their bodies, the press named the Yorkshire (See RIPPER, Page 2)

Lions Club Trash Bag Sale Set

The Hereford Lions Club will conduct a Trash Bag Sale here Saturday, with the sales headquarters located at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office.

The project is being sponsored in conjunction with the annual spring cleanup campaign, sponsored by the Women's C of C Division May 1-9.

Sid Shaw, Lions president, announced the club will conduct a door-to-door drive, as well as taking orders and delivering from the chamber office. Citizens can contact any Lions about purchases, or call the C of C Office Saturday.

The bags will sell for $6 a roll, and each roll contains 50 plastic bags of 30-gallon size. "The bags are super tough and we think it is a good buy for local citizens," said Shaw.

Tax Cut Proposal in Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President Reagan declares that his economic program "is the only answer we have left," his tax-cut proposal remains a question in Congress. And there are signs it is in trouble.

In an address before a joint session of Congress on Tuesday night, Reagan pictured his economic program, built around tax cuts and reductions in the growth of federal spending, as the courageous and creative solution demanded by a public he said is growing impatient.

"The one sure way to continue the inflationary spiral is to fall back into the predictable patterns of old economic practices," Reagan said. "Isn't it time that we tried something new?"

But many members of Congress seem willing to stick with the "old economic practices" of modest tax cuts and a balanced budget. They fear the president's plan for a three-year cut in personal taxes runs too great a risk of worsening inflation.

Thus, there is considerable support, especially among Democrats, for a one-year tax reduction, with further installments after spending is reined in and a balanced budget is assured.

"He'll get his entire program except he's not going to get all his tax program," Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said after the speech. "The person in the street has difficulty reconciling a big tax cut at a time of high inflation."

A one-year tax cut is the heart of a budget blueprint drawn by the House Budget Committee for fiscal 1982, the bookkeeping year that begins next Oct. 1. Reagan would have no part of it.

"It adheres to the failed policy of trying to balance the budget on the taxpayer's back," Reagan said. "It would increase tax payments by over a third (from 1982 through 1984) — adding up to a staggering quarter-trillion dollars."

Reagan said a "giant tax increase" already is built into the system. "We propose nothing more than a reduction of that increase," he said.

"The people have a right to know that even with our plan they will be paying more in taxes, but not as much more as they will without it," he said.

Reagan's proposal would result in a $120 billion increase in taxes between 1982 and 1984.

In a new effort to woo conservative Democrats, House leaders lofted a trial balloon Tuesday that would produce a balanced budget in 1982 — two years ahead of Reagan's schedule — but only at the cost of delaying any personal tax cut until Oct. 1, 1982.

"Oh, no," Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan told reporters. "I wouldn't agree to that at all."

Reagan apparently is assured at least a temporary victory on spending reductions, with indications that both the House and Senate are ready to approve target budgets for 1982 that are close to what he recommended. And, while those targets would accommodate his three-year cut in personal income-tax rates, they would not assure it at all.

The leadership of the Democratic-controlled House opposes Reagan's tax plan. And while most Republicans are siding with Reagan, Democratic opposition in the Senate is enough to make an impact when a conference committee attempts to work out a compromise tax reduction later this year.

The key lawmaker in the tax debate is Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., the chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee who rejects Reagan's tax plan as test-tube economics.

Reagan's plan is based on the theory that across-the-board cuts in tax rates will give Americans incentives to work harder and save more by allowing them to keep a bigger share of their extra earnings.

I&R Measure Fails in House

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements has angrily conceded his initiative and referendum proposal is dead for this session and warned of political repercussions for legislators who voted against it.

"I think for this session, initiative and referendum is finished," Clements said after I&R failed by 14 votes in the House on Tuesday. The vote was 86-56 for I&R but 100 votes are needed for constitutional amendments.

Clements had given I&R — direct lawmaking power for the people — a high priority in his legislative program.

Before taking a final vote on I&R, the House changed the proposal limited to tax cuts and spending limits to a sweeping measure allowing voters to pass laws on any subject.

The 110-30 vote to "purify" the I&R proposal threw a scare into opponents.

"Once more, the Legislature has not responded to the will of the people," Clements said, citing polls that show a majority of Texans favor I&R.

"It's unfortunate that a segment of the House of Representatives decided to play games with us. Some representatives tried to get on both sides of the issue by putting forward a 'purist' theory of I&R by 110 votes, then shooting it down," he said.

The governor predicted I&R would pass in 1983.

"I think some of those members who voted against it this time and played the game of charades with us will regret it. I am sure initiative and referendum will be a significant issue in the elections of 1982," Clements said.

Clements became interested in I&R after Californians cut their property taxes by means of the Proposition 13 referendum.

Rep. John Sharp,

D-Placedo, sponsor of the proposal, said in the next session the Senate — not the House — should move first on I&R, since representatives stuck their political necks out and voted on it both in 1979 and 1981.

Sharp voted for Rep. Carlyle Smith's amendment that changed Sharp's limited I&R proposal to a broad one.

"This simply puts the clothes back on the emperor, so to speak," Sharp said of Smith's amendment.

A number of representatives who voted to broaden the I&R proposal later voted to defeat the measure itself.

Sharp attempted to answer fears that I&R would lead to a Proposition 13-type vote to strip schools and state government of funds.

"I think the people of Texas are eminently more sensible than the people of California," Sharp said.

Rep. Bob Bush, D-Sherman, said the legislative system had worked well, as shown by the many bills that initially look good but whose flaws show up only after hearings and close scrutiny.

"We would be fundamentally changing the system. ... Why? ... Because one man (Clements) ran two or three years ago and promised to give initiative and referendum. ... If he were right, everyone of us would have letters on our desks from our constituents," Bush said. Liberals and conservatives were found on both sides of the I&R vote in the House.

Judge Sentenced 3 Months in Pen

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — A federal judge has sentenced former Ouachita County Judge Alfred Stinnett to three months in a federal institution and 18 months probation.

Stinnett, 64, pleaded guilty March 10 to one count of accepting a kickback from a Texas businessman. He was in office from 1965 through 1977.

A federal grand jury accused him Sept. 5, 1980, of three counts of defrauding county citizens in 1976 by accepting kickbacks and bribes from Irvin R. Pratt of Texas and Louis R. Spilka of Germantown, Tenn. He pleaded guilty to accepting a kickback from Pratt on the purchase of $1,018 worth of chemicals. The other two counts were dropped.

Stinnett was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Oren Harris on Tuesday.

Man Sentenced For Triple Slayings

DUNCAN, Okla. (AP) — A 35-year-old man convicted of a triple slaying near Velma last June has been sentenced to die by lethal drug injection, Stephens County District Court officials say.

District Judge George Lindley on Tuesday set a July 17 execution date for Randle Robison, who was found guilty of killing a Velma man and two British women. State law requires an automatic appeal.

A second man, Johnny Glen Gillum, convicted on evidence that pointed out he was a "getaway man," was handed three consecutive life sentences.

Lindley said. The two men were convicted of the June 12, 1980, fatal shootings of Robert Swinford, 41, Velma; Averill Bourque, 42, South Wales, and Julie Shiela Lovejoy, 38, London.

Astronauts to Marry In Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Astronauts Margaret Rhea Seddon and Robert Lee Gibson will be married May 30 at Murfreesboro, a Nashville newspaper revealed in a copyright story today.

Miss Seddon, a physician, is the daughter of a Murfreesboro attorney and a graduate of Murfreesboro's Central High School. The Tennessean reported. She graduated from the University of California and the University of Tennessee College of Medicine at Memphis.

Her fiancé, a Navy lieutenant commander, is a native of Westminster, Calif., and a graduate of California Polytechnic State University.

Both Dr. Seddon and her fiancé were selected for astronaut training in 1978. At the time, she was a resident in nutrition at City of Memphis Hospital and he was a Navy fighter pilot.

Dow Chemical to Pay $646,000 in Damages

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A federal jury has ordered Dow Chemical Co. to pay $646,000 to a 63-year-old man who developed a severe rash on his body after being exposed to sulphuric acid at a Freeprot plant.

After five days of testimony, the panel ruled Tuesday that Dow Chemical neglected to inspect a container used for burning operations and warn employees of dangerous chemicals.

Jurors awarded Sam C. Burdick $600,000 for lost earnings, pain and suffering, $6,000 for past medical care and $40,000 for future medical expenses.

Burdick has asked for $1.5 million in damages, claiming he developed eczema after he entered a chlorine drying container in July 1975 while employed by a Dow sub-contractor.

Blisters with red rings recur over Burdick's entire body about every 30 days, a condition that forced him to relocate in Seattle, Wash., where the rash is less aggravated by the cool, wet climate, said Alton Todd, an attorney representing Burdick.

Todd said his client is able to control the condition with medication but will be afflicted with the rash the rest of his life, Todd said.

greater than the number first awarded in 1963."

Over one million high school students entered the 1981 competition by taking the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test-National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT-NMSQT) in October 1979. Over 18,000 public, independent, and parochial U.S. secondary schools administered this qualifying test to their junior students. Some 15,000 of the highest scores — the top half of one percent in each of the fifty states — were named Semifinalists in September of 1980. Over 13,500 Semifinalists advanced to Finalist level in the competition by meeting further requirements that included being endorsed and recommended by their high school principals, submitting school records that confirmed high academic standing, and substantiating their PSAT-NMSQT performance with equivalent scores on another examination. All Merit Scholarship winners are chosen from the group of highly able Finalists.

NMSC is an independent, not-for-profit corporation established in 1955 to administer the annual Merit Program — a nationwide academic talent search in which 20 million high school students have participated since 1956. NMSC's efforts are devoted exclusively to scholarship activities, and the operations of the Merit Program are financed by grants from over 600 individual organizations. Funds donated for winners in 1981 will bring the total expended or committed for some 68,000 Merit Scholarship winners to almost $192 million in 26 annual competitions.

In addition to the winners being named today, two other major announcements of Merit Scholars were made in 1981. The first Merit Scholar announcement on April 8 named 1,460 winners of corporate-sponsored four-year Merit Scholarships; on April 22, NMSC released the names of 1,200 winners of one-time National Merit $1000 Scholarships. As a result of funds that may be made available, a few additional winners will be announced individually through mid-August.

a preliminary hearing.

The present and former commissioners were accused of violating the Hobbs Act, which relates to interfering with interstate commerce. They could face maximum sentences of 20 years each and $10,000 in fines if convicted.

The two vendors, who were accused of mail fraud, could be sentenced to five years in prison and fined $1,000 if convicted.

The seven current commissioners who were charged with Hobbs Act violations were J.P. "Dick" Richardson, 64, of Oklahoma County; Albert Alberts, 40, and Wayne Cooksey, 44, of Canadian County; Eston Ruel Fisher, 55, of Stephens County; Vernon Hackney, 61, of Woods County; Billie Pool, 52, of Cleveland County, and Orville Pratt, 61, of Blaine County.

Also charged was former Harper County Commissioner William L. Bookstore, 50.

The two supply-firm owners who were charged were Edwin Harber, 58, owner of H&H Implement Co. of Sulphur, and Donald Skipworth, 48, owner of Caddo Material and Equipment Co. of Anadarko. Harber and Skipworth were accused of billing Stephens County officials for lumber that never was delivered.

The complaints against the commissioners alleged they extorted money from suppliers, specifically from Guy Moore, owner of Guy Moore, Inc., amounting to 10 percent of the purchase price for all goods and materials. Several other suppliers were listed as material witnesses in each case, an indication that many of them also are cooperating with federal officials.

The House subcommittee version also includes a midyear adjustment to maintain the support at 75 percent. The Senate committee version adjusts at midyear to no more than 70 percent.

The House subcommittee on grains, rejecting Reagan's call for complete discretion in setting commodity loan rates, set the price support loan rate for the 1982 wheat crop at $3.55 a bushel, with annual adjustments based on increases in production costs.

It also set a $4.20-a-bushel target price for 1982 wheat, adjusted in future years just like the loan rate. Under target prices, farmers get direct payments from the government for the difference between the national average price of wheat and the target if the national price is lower.

The Agriculture Department said its plan, giving the agriculture secretary wide discretion, had envisioned a possible 1982 loan rate of $3.35 depending on conditions next year. No target-price program was contemplated.

Price-support loans for wheat this year are $3.20 a bushel. The average price paid farmers for wheat last month, according to government figures, was $3.93 a bushel.

the Republican side of the chamber. The president's economic plan appeared to be regaining momentum both in the House and the Senate even before his speech. Afterward, GOP leaders jubilantly predicted victory, at least for the budget-trimming part of the package.

"President Reagan drove a velvet steamroller through Congress tonight," claimed Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa. But Michel said that while victory on the president's budget proposals seems near, the vote may "be a cakewalk" compared with other, tougher votes on his program further down the road, especially on Reagan's proposed three-year, across-the-board, 30 percent tax cut.

Many members of Congress fear the president's tax proposal runs too great a risk of worsening inflation. Thus, there is considerable support, especially among Democrats, for a one-year

FHA/HERO Students Attend Convention

Stanton Representatives

Representing Stanton Junior High School at the 1981 FHA-HERO State Convention in San Antonio this week are Cathy Bartels (seated) and Yvonne Condarco. Their advisor at Stanton is Mrs. Dean Bradley. The girls will be attending the convention with La Plata Junior High School and Hereford High School representatives.

Several local FHA-HERO students will be leaving this evening for San Antonio to attend the 1981 FHA-HERO State Convention. The girls will be returning on May 2 with reports on the convention.

Those girls attending the convention from Hereford High School are Donna Schlabs, voting delegate; Dana Barber, Encounter III; Darlene Stovall, Area I Officer; Annette Diller, voting delegate; Brenda Davis and Jo Ann Meiwes, hostesses.

Representing La Plata Junior High School at the convention are Michelle Stuck, voting delegate; Eneida Martinez, voting delegate; Patricia Fitchett, voting delegate; Teresa Galan, alternate; and Shannon Valdez.

Attending as representatives of Stanton Junior High School are Yvonne Condarco and Cathy Bartels.

Activities will begin Thursday with the House of Delegates session in the Arena of the Convention Center. All delegates and advisors are expected to attend. A business session, officers have planned an interesting and informative program. State officers will present their project reports during this session and highlight of the program will be a presentation by Rita Martinez, National Vice-President of the National Leadership Center, which the National Association of Future Homemakers of America is building.

Another highlight will be the introduction of the 1981-82 slate of officers recommended by the State Nominating Committee.

Following the House of Delegates there will be a talent show featuring FHA'ers from Area VI, VII, VIII, IX, and X. The 130-voice State Choir will make their first convention appearance also at this time.

The second general session will be Friday morning with featured speaker Dr. Robert Lindberg, University of Texas at San Antonio, who will challenge delegates to "Put It All Together."

A luncheon will be given for members who have been recognized by their chapters for achievements in all three levels of encounter. The closing general session will be Friday night with Brian Hall, former Texas Ten football star, as guest speaker.

High School Delegates

Band, Orchestra Students Leave for Music Festival

Five charter buses left today with approximately 210 Hereford High School Band and Orchestra students traveling to Tempe, Ariz. for the Mountain State Music Festival.

The Hereford students will perform Saturday, May 2 for contest in Tempe. The students will compete against bands from Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada and California. They will return Sunday, May 3.

Sponsors traveling with the students are Randy and Cindy Vaughn, Bill Huff, Robert and Debbie Cox, Vi Moore, Joe D. and Cindy Rogers, and Nita and Stacy Lea.

To Attend Convention

FHA-HERO students from La Plata Junior High School leaving for San Antonio this evening to attend the 1981 State Convention are (left) Michelle Stuck and Shannon Valdez. Their advisor, is Mrs. Buryl Burelsmith. Also

Ann Landers

Get Control of Your Mouth

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Right now I am so mad I could eat nails. It so happens I have had three children and gained 100 pounds with each one. I have tried very hard to get rid of the extra weight, but it is impossible. I do all my own housework and laundry, and I need to eat to keep my strength up. I am also a good cook and I'm a taster. Diets are no good for me, and neither are the self-help groups. I can't get to the meetings. Actually, I look pretty good when I have on my good girle and wear basic black.

Last night it happened again, for the 20th time. My husband and I were eating out with another couple. A huge woman walked by—and I mean enormous, she must have weighed 300 pounds. My husband nudged me and said, "That's you in five years, Kiddo." This was supposed to be funny, but I failed to see any humor in it.

Can you think of a good answer?—Pleasingly Plump in Bismarck

DEAR PLUMP: Who are you pleasing? Certainly not your husband—or yourself. The best answer is to see a doctor and ask him to put you on a diet you can stay on. You don't need to starve. If you take off the excess pounds slowly, they will stay off.

It's unkind and tacky of your husband to needle you like that, but he is trying to tell you something—and you should be wise enough to listen. Get control of your mouth. Others have done it and you can, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm having a terrible problem with my mother and I need your help.

I'm getting married in May. My father passed away in the late '60s, and my mother remarried in the early '70s.

My problem is this: I have a brother I dearly love. I have asked him to give me away at the wedding. My mother is a very domineering woman. She is putting unbelievable pressure on me to give that honor to the man she is married to.

I have no desire to hurt her second husband, but I strongly believe this honor belongs to my brother. I have told her this several times, but she refuses to see things my way. Yesterday she threatened me by refusing to pay for the wedding.

I want my brother to give me away not only because I love him, but because I believe it is the proper thing to do. Please give me your opinion.—Unhappy Bride Who Needs Guidance

DEAR UNHAPPY: Tell your mother your decision is firm. If she doesn't want to pay for the wedding, have a simple ceremony in the clergyman's study—no reception, no party, just the nuptials. Stick to your principles, honey. I admire you for your perseverance, and others will, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My father is nearly 80. He is retired, in good health and makes his home with my sister and her husband.

Dad pays $100 a month for room and board. My sister and her husband both have lucrative jobs and no children. They don't need the extra money. When I told Sis I thought it was cheap of her, she said Dad has nothing else to spend his money on and everything is so expensive these days that $100 does come in handy.

I don't buy it. Dad could use that money to buy himself some new clothes. He looks so shabby. Please give me your opinion.—Concerned in Auburn, Ala.

DEAR AUBURN: And

what are you contributing besides concern? I'd like to know before I give you my opinion.

Can drugs be a friend in time of stress? If you keep your head together can they be of help? Ann Landers; new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs" separates the fact from the fiction. Get it today. For each booklet ordered, send a dollar, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (28 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995 Chicago, Illinois 60611.

'Mirlitons, Spaghetti Squash' Both Gourmet Greats from Texas

COLLEGE STATION -- Looking for adventurous eating tonight - Texas style? Try "mirlitons" or "spaghetti squash!" Both are gourmet "greats" from Texas' abundance of agricultural accomplishments.

They are squash - two unusual types now being grown in Texas, says Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist.

Different from the ordinary summer squash (yellow or zucchini) and winter squash (acorn), these two types of squash can add variety to the vegetable selection for your family, the specialist adds.

mirliton varies in color from white to dark green and in size from three to eight inches long. Its flesh is firm, crisp and delicately flavored. "Versatile" is an apt description for mirliton - serve it fresh raw or cooked. Prepare it much the same as you would summer squash - as a vegetable by plain boiling, creaming or baking or in pies, puddings and fritters. Or make it into a fruit sauce or serve it with other fruits, sugar and spice.

Stuffed mirlitons are a delicacy offered in many famous New Orleans restaurants during this season.

Buttered bread crumbs Wash and cut the mirlitons in half, lengthwise or leave whole. Cover with cold water, bring to a boil, and simmer about 30 minutes or until tender.

Remove from the water and cool until they are easy to handle. Remove the seed and discard. Carefully scoop out the soft pulp of the mirliton, leaving the skin unbroken. Set the shells aside until ready to stuff them.

Chop or mash the mirliton pulp. Soak bread in water or milk. Squeeze. Melt margarine in a skillet, saute the onion, garlic, and celery. Add the mirliton, squeezed bread crumbs, salt, pepper, shrimp, egg, cheese, and other seasonings as desired.

gested by the fact that the cooked strands of squash look just like strands of skinny spaghetti.

To prepare spaghetti squash, split squash using heavy knife. Scoop out seeds. Place cut side down in wide pan with two to three inches of water.

Cover, steam about 20 minutes. Or bake split squash about 45 minutes at 350 degrees, a procedure we recommend only if the oven is on for another use.

Microwave 8-15 minutes, cut side up, in a dish with a few tablespoons of water.

Pull out cooked strands with a fork.

Serve buttered and seasoned, or with a zesty tomato sauce.

Mrs. Sweeten is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Mirliton is the chayote or mango squash, a large, fleshy fruit that grows on a climbing plant - and it can mean menu magic. Native to Mexico and Central America, it is cultivated in Southern California and Gulf of Mexico states.

Round or pear-shaped,

Here is the basic recipe:
STUFFED MIRLITONS
4 mirlitons
1/2 stick margarine (4 Tbsp.)
1 onion, minced
1 1/2 cups bread
1 egg
1 lbs. shrimp, cooked (or 1 can shrimp, washed and drained)
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 cup celery, chopped
Salt and pepper to taste
1/2 cup sharp cheese (optional)

SPAGHETTI SQUASH WITH TOMATO SAUCE
1 medium onion, minced
1 clove garlic, crushed
1/2 pound lean ground beef
2 tablespoons olive oil (optional)
Grated Parmesan cheese
Salt and pepper to taste
4 cups cut ripe or canned tomatoes
1 tablespoon each dried basil, oregano
1 spaghetti squash, 3 pounds, boiled
In skillet, saute onions, garlic, crumbled ground beef, with oil if desired, until meat is browned.
Add tomatoes with liquid, tomato paste and seasonings. Simmer uncovered 30-45 minutes, stirring occasionally.
Pull cooked squash out with fork onto platter.
Top with sauce, cheese.
Makes 4-6 servings.

Variations may be made in the stuffing. For example, increase the shrimp or omit it - or use one cup chopped ham in place of seafood. Also, the egg and cheese may be omitted.

"Viva la spaghetti squash!" may be a family chant after they've tasted this tantalizing vegetable - it cooks up just like a spaghetti dish complete with tomato sauce, if you like.

Spaghetti squash is another unusual variety of squash. A pale yellow oval item, it's a new member of the "cucurbitaceae" family.

Its name, indeed, is sug-

Specialist Challenges Texas Consumers

COLLEGE STATION -- "Consumers often waste money. They misspent it in small amounts through unwise choices," Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist, challenges.

marketplace," she says. So what's her suggestion? "Take a 'rule' shopping with you," she advises consumers.

Remembering - and using - one basic "rule" can help eliminate many of the costly impulsive purchases, Mrs. Piernot assures buyers.

Unexpected sales, "blue-light specials" and unadvertised specials are ways to catch your attention and get you to buy impulsively.

2) Have I checked or researched the item? What do other models offer me?

may do the same task or provide the same enjoyment as the new product. A used product also may be acceptable depending on how much you expect to use it.

6) Does this product have any disadvantages? If so, do they offset the advantages, or do they create a need for other products or services?

"Unfortunately, most consumers devote little time to the art of being a smart buyer, although industry spends much time and money trying to sway our buying decisions," she says.

That, in turn, eliminates or reduces many financial problems or complications for today's families, she says.

Be sure to study the results of independent research tests - as reported in magazines such as "Consumer Reports" and "Consumer's Research."

3) Is the price reasonable? Is this the best time of the year to buy the item?

7) What is the retailer's reputation? What services will he provide?

8) Finally, what am I willing to give up if I buy this product?

Mrs. Piernot is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The "rule" is the "Delayed Action Rule."

It works this way: After a salesman has made the sales pitch, say, "Thank you - I will let you know in a day or so what my decision is."

Comparison shopping and seasonal sales calendars will assist you in answering these questions.

4) If the item is on "sale," is the price a true sales price?

Consumers can establish a basis for making a satisfactory buying decision rather than a financial mistake when they use the "Delayed Action Rule" with its built-in time for making those decisions, Mrs. Piernot says.

It isn't all the consumer's fault, she admits. "Of course, many factors complicate the buying process," she continues. "The numerous choices in the marketplace make it difficult for any consumer to consistently make logical and intelligent choices."

"Fast-talking salesmen, outright fraud and meaningless information in advertising compound an already complex situation."

There are the questions to ask - and answer - in deciding whether to buy or not to buy:

1) Do I really need it?

5) Can I substitute something else for this?

A product you already own

The Newspaper BIBLE

DO YOU PRACTICE PERSISTENT PRAYER? IT PAYS!

Teaching His disciples more about prayer, Jesus used this illustration: "Suppose you went to a friend's house at midnight, wanting to borrow three loaves of bread. You would shout up to him, 'A friend of mine has just arrived for a visit and I've nothing to give him to eat.'

"He would call down from his bedroom, 'Please don't ask me to get up. The door is locked for the night and we are all in bed. I just can't help you this time.'

"But I'll tell you this--though he won't do it as a friend, if you keep knocking long enough he will get up and give you everything you want--just because of your persistence.

"And so it is with prayer--keep on asking and you will keep on getting; keep on looking and you will keep finding; knock and the door will be opened. Everyone who asks, receives; all who seek, find; and the door is opened to everyone who knocks.

"You men who are fathers--if your boy asks for bread, do you give him a stone? If he asks for fish, do you give him a snake? If he asks for an egg, do you give him a scorpion? Of course not!

"And if sinful persons like yourselves give children what they need, don't you realize that your heavenly Father will do at least as much, and give the Holy Spirit to those who ask for Him?" Luke 11:5-13

TTU Museum Director Plans Accreditation

LUBBOCK - Accreditation of The Museum of Texas Tech University by 1986 has been given top priority by the newly named interim director. Dr. James A. Goss, who took over his new duties Wednesday (April 22) set the goal in a policy statement made before museum staff. He said The Museum, established in 1929 to serve primarily West Texas, is committed to a master plan of telling the story of the "eternal relationship" of water, land, man and energy, with special reference to the arid lands of the world. The Museum, he said, is a "tribute to the vision of the people and the vitality of the cultural heritage" of West Texas. "This vision has consistently carried the people of West Texas through great adversity and enabled them to advance their cultural depth against great odds," Goss, an anthropologist and linguist, said. "These are the people that settled the Southern Plains when water and grass were meager and unpredictable. These are the people who discovered the water beneath the dry, barren face of the land, developed ingenious ways of tapping that resource, and made their desert bloom. "These are the people that applied their newly acquired wealth to the building of towns and cities and the promotion of civilization, always with the unique cultural thread of West Texas practicality and West Texas values. "These are the people that set out to build a great university in West Texas, against great odds—and have found it.

"These are the people that set out to build a great museum in West Texas and have come a long way toward that vision. "Our American Dream - that it is possible to make great things from nothing by the application of good ideas and the seat of our brows," Goss said, "is still alive and well here." He reviewed the history of The Museum and warned that "the survival of our entire enterprise hinges upon accreditation by the American Association of Museums." He pointed out that the Texas Legislature has made clear it will hesitate to support unaccredited museums after 1988. The federal government will not give unaccredited museums priority status for support. Eventually, Goss said, the unusual museum science program for graduate students will not be accredited by the American Association of Museums unless it is affiliated with an accredited museum.

"Our major priority must be to focus our resources toward accreditation, not by 1988, but by 1986," he said. In addition to commitment to the master plan, Goss said The Museum also has a commitment to research to develop new knowledge and to public education. Among the collections generating new knowledge, Goss cited, as indication of the scope of interest, living tissues, mammology, vertebrate paleontology, entomology, archeology, ethnology, herpetology, historic clothing and textiles, botany, medical zoology, ornithology and mineralogy.

Goss, who has chaired the departments of anthropology and museum science at Texas Tech University, said that the program in museum science has 30 students enrolled now with 90 inquiries from potential students for next year. Fifteen graduate faculty are involved in the program. He called for expansion of educational and audience development programs and said he expected increased involvement of volunteer in museum programs. "I hope to develop new channels for the tremendous energies represented by the volunteers," he said. "Volunteers can help carry us toward our accreditation goals and greatness."

Move to Regulate Credit Life Insurance Fails

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A Senate committee has blocked the State Insurance Board's attempt to regulate the "volatile" credit life inurance industry. Several witnesses agreed Monday setting limits on credit life insurance commissions would be unprecedented. State District Judge Jim Dear of Austin ruled last year the board did not have such authority. The board is appealing Dear's decision. The judge said, despite his legal ruling, he thought the board needed authority to limit commissions.

Lyndon Olson of the Insurance Board testified "there has been a great deal of abuse" in credit life insurance. He said the Guaranty Fund was concerned about "possible insolvencies and rampant abuse." Commissions on credit life insurance, he said, run as high as 50 percent. The insurance pays a debt, such as an automobile loan, if the borrower dies.

legislation will be among the most important pieces of legislation as far as protection of the general public in the marketplace," said Olson.

In addition to Davis and Olson, witnesses who favored the proposal were W.C. Hazard, senior vice president of Industrial Life Insurance Co., Dallas; and Gary Tolman, vice president of American National Life Insurance Co., Galveston.

Only the Texas Automobile Dealers Association opposed the bill, which was sent to an Economic Development subcommittee on a 7-2 vote. With the legislative session ending in 35 days, this had the probable effect of killing the bill.

Hazard said 24 other states had laws regulating commissions and a congressional committee had suggested credit life commissions as low as 3 percent. He said he preferred state regulation, because "That represents a camel's nose in the tent on federal regulation."

Davis said credit life insurance "is not like any other line of insurance" in that companies "compete for the favor of the lender, not the insured."

Another Austin lawyer, Hector DeLeon, representing the Automobile Dealers Association, told the committee it was being asked to protect some insurance companies "from themselves. They're saying they don't have the tenacity or good enough management techniques to tell agents the commission is exorbitant and they're not going to pay it."

Radar Surveillance Hopes Dampened

WASHINGTON (AP) - A disappointed delegation from the Rio Grande Valley returned to Texas today, their hopes dampened for a radar surveillance system to serve airports in Harlingen, Brownsville and McAllen - as well as Mexican airports in Reynosa and Matamoros. "Although your increase in air traffic may seem to you to be great, we hear from other airports whose increase is even greater, and they're just under the cutoff line, just like you are," Lawrence C. Fortier Jr. of the Federal Aviation Administration told them Tuesday afternoon.

None of the three Texas airports meets FAA criteria, but mayors Randy Whittington of Harlingen, Cesar Gonzalez of San Benito and Emilio Hernandez of Brownsville had come to Washington in hopes of having the three grouped for consideration.

The mayors met Tuesday morning with new FAA administrator J. Lynn Helms. Without specific legislative mandate, chances are slim for their airports getting the okay anytime soon for radar, the FAA officials added.

"We are sympathetic, and if it was up to us you'd have it. But economics dictates that you may not get it," said the FAA's Thomas Hamill. The FAA rebuff came after the Valley officials had come to believe the agency was on the verge of approving a radar system. Their only remaining worry, they had speculated, was getting approval for the funding.

Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Mission, who set up the meetings between his constituents and FAA officials, sensed the letdown of the Valley group. "They're disappointed and somewhat frustrated because we've been working on this a long time," de la Garza said after the meeting.

"The FAA's handling of this matter is probably in accord with the time frame they're working under, but it doesn't fit ours at all. We're competing with several other airports in the same situation, and like any other competitive situation, you wait in line for available funds."

Several Chamber of Commerce officials, while attending a national meeting in Washington, also participated in the discussion with Fortier and Hamill.

Art Wendt and Bob Woodall, directors of aviation at Brownsville and Harlingen respectively, said the airports are a catastrophe waiting to happen because of increasing private and commercial air traffic in the area.

"Radar doesn't enhance safety," Hamill said. "The purpose of radar is to make better, more efficient use of air lanes. Time wasted is greatly reduced through radar. It does give an air controller a look at aircraft he's not controlling, so he can alert other aircraft, so there could be some degree of safety in that regard."

Woodall said that's precisely why a radar is needed. Many pilots fly into the United States from Mexico that the air controllers know nothing about until they gain visual contact of them, he said. Many of the pilots cannot speak English, he added.

Hamill and Fortier conceded that radar had been approved in the past for other airports that fell short of the criteria, but said the overriding consideration usually was a directive from Congress calling for the action.

Drug Trafficking Bill Passes House

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Bills that would provide maximum life sentences for adults who give or sell dope to minors and $1 million fines for people who bankroll the illegal drug trade have won final House approval.

The measures, recommended by H. Ross Perot and his Texas War on Drugs Committee, were sent to the Senate Tuesday on a voice vote.

Gov. Bill Clements appointed the War on Drugs Committee and endorsed its drug legislation. One bill conceivably could result in a life sentence for an 18-year-old who gives drugs to a 17-year-old, and the House refused by lopsided votes to soften it.

Rep. Paul Elizondo, D-San Antonio, attempted to raise the age that would trigger the potential life sentence from 18 to 21.

He said it would be "kind of tragic" for an 18-year-old to draw a life sentence for passing a marijuana cigarette to a 17-year-old.

Elizondo's amendment failed, 28-105, and a subsequent attempt to raise the age to 19 failed, 38-97.

Current law imposes a maximum 10-year prison sentence on anyone who delivers marijuana, and a life sentence could be imposed only for delivery of cocaine, heroin, opium or LSD.

The other bill passed Tuesday would provide increased prison sentences and devastating fines, including up to $1 million for those who finance the drug trade.

A heroin, opium, cocaine or LSD pusher caught with 400 grams or more could get a minimum of 15 years and a maximum of life, plus a fine up to $250,000.

Maximum sentences of life imprisonment and a $100,000 fine could be assessed persons who deal in hallucinogenic drugs and "speed." Life imprisonment and a $100,000 fine could be given in cases involving stimulants, barbiturates, valium, codeine, depressants, quaaludes and peyote.

Possession of more than 50 pounds of marijuana could get a person life imprisonment and a $50,000 fine, and if the amount exceeded 2,000 pounds, the maximum fine would escalate to $250,000.

Western Boots Becoming Booming Business

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The next time you see an "urban cowboy" tip back his feather-trimmed cowboy hat to take a drink from his longnecker beer, look at his feet.

If he's wearing expensive, hand-crafted cowboy boots, chances are they were made in El Paso.

"We're the capital of the world as far as handmade boots are concerned," says Paul Calcaterra, president of the Cowtown Boot Co. of El Paso.

There are no less than 14 boot manufacturers in El Paso, virtually all of them making the more expensive, top-of-the-line boots that have become popular thanks to the boom in country music and western apparel.

Some manufacture only a handful of boots per week. The Tony Lama Co., the recognized giant of the industry, produces 4,000 pairs a day in its El Paso plant.

The companies are enjoying a boom period because of the cowboy clothing craze.

"Our company, and I would imagine everybody else, is four to five months behind on delivery," Calcaterra said.

"The market's the strongest we've ever seen it."

With the boom has come investment in new plants and more employees, said Louis Lama, vice president of the Lama company. Lama is building two more plants in El Paso at a cost of $6 million. The additions will allow the company to manufacture around 1 million pair a year.

Justin Boot Co. is completing construction on a second El Paso plant and Cowtown has a new plant in the planning stages. Both companies will nearly double their output with the additions. Even with the additions, the production can't come close to the number of less expensive boots made by machines, mostly in Tennessee. Those companies are benefitting from the boom in boot wear, too.

The makers of the hand-crafted boots have a certain amount of contempt for the companies that make their boots with machines.

"I always call them hygienic boots because they're never touched by human hands," says Lama president Tony Lama Jr.

But Lama and other El Paso bootmakers think increases in the sales of the cheaper boots have added to the local boom.

"They're really good for the boot business," Lama said. "They get the customer into boots. They find out how comfortable they are and they eventually want a better boot."

John Pearce, vice president of marketing for the Larry Mahan Boot Collection, says the latest trends show customers are beginning to skip the "education" step of buying less expensive boots.

"A pair of exotic boots carries a good deal of prestige," he said. "Buyers are starting to spend $200 or $300 on their first pair of boots."

It's easy to spend that much when a customer begins looking at the hand-crafted labels.

Lama boots sell for between $120 to $650 for the "popular" models, Tony Lama said. Boots made of exotic leathers cost more. Justin boots are in about the same price range.

Pearce said the Mahan boots, which are made-to-order, sell for "from $200 as much as you want to spend." Cowtown boots sell for between $100 and $170.

The highest priced boots are those that are personalized with initials or are made from exotic leathers.

The shelves in the leather storage room at the Lama plant have labels that sound like a zoo — shark, antelope, buffalo, eel, lizard, caribou, ostrich, anteater and boa.

But the main calling card of the El Paso bootmakers is quality, which they emphasize in advertisements, sales and conversation.

The first page of the Lama catalog shows a cross-section of a boot. The words "all leather" appear on the page 19 times.

The bootmakers also emphasize the handiwork. Machines are used to perform stitching and cutting, but much of the work is done as it was 100 years ago.

Most of the work is done by Mexican-Americans who are paid by the piece rather than by the hour.

King Kong's Perch Celebrates 50th Birthday

NEW YORK (AP) — King Kong swung from it. An errant B-25 bomber smashed into the side of it. Sixty million people have savored the view from the top of it, and 17 have jumped from it to their deaths.

The Empire State Building begins celebrating the 50th anniversary of its opening Thursday, no longer the world's tallest building but still the most famous tower in the Manhattan skyline.

Although Kong was only Hollywood illusion, and Fay Wray was never in peril high above 34th Street and Fifth Avenue, the great ape's exploits symbolized the skyscraper's siren call: Get to the top.

The Michelin guide to New York gives the building three stars, its highest rating, and recommends two visits: during the day for the view, which is 80 miles in clear weather, and at night for the city's spectacular lights.

Derisively called the "Empty State Building" when it opened in the midst of the Depression, it is said the Empire State Building relied on visitors for several years to help pay its taxes. Last year, almost 2 million people — a record for the building — took the trip to the top.

John Raskob, the Empire State Building's millionaire principal developer, posed one question to architect William Lamb: "Bill, how high can you make it so that it won't fall down?"

Lamb's answer was 1,050 feet, or four feet higher than the spire on the new Chrysler Building eight blocks uptown. But Raskob was said to fear a trick — perhaps a pole popping out of the Chrysler Building's spire — so he added a 200-foot mooring mast for dirigibles, envisioning his building as the debarkation point for airship passengers from Europe.

Only one small dirigible ever moored there. Another managed to drop a bundle of newspapers while almost yanking assembled celebrities to eternity in a test in 1931. The top of the mast, 1,250 feet, is the building's official height, although a television transmitter added another 222 feet in 1950.

In 1970, the World Trade Center became the world's tallest building at 1,350 feet.

Soon afterward, the Sears Tower in Chicago reached 1,450 feet.

Lamb's restrained Art Deco essay in Indiana limestone, granite and chrome-nickel steel was admired by Frank Lloyd Wright and Le Corbusier, the great French architect.

But it is sheer height, not taste, which lures the sightseers and helps sell the souvenirs.

Some people have been married at the top, and a few have had their ashes committed to the winds there. In 1938, the Congo's Shogola Olaba dancers chose the observatory as an auspicious site for dispelling the evil spirits thought to be cursing their New York engagement.

Since 1978, a race up 1,575 steps to the 86th floor has been an annual event. The best time for a man is 12 minutes, 19 seconds; for a woman, 14:03.

Even before it opened, the Empire State Building also attracted desperate people. One discharged worker hurled himself down an elevator shaft. Eighteen months after the opening, a man jumped from the dirigible platform at the 103rd floor; 15 other people have jumped from the 86th floor.

One woman got over the fence in December 1979, but a gust of wind blew her back to the building. She landed on a ledge at the 85th floor, fracturing her hip.

The building's darkest day was July 28, 1945, when Lt. Col. William Smith, a veteran of 500 hours of combat flying in Europe, got lost in a morning mist and crashed his B-25 bomber into the north side at the 79th floor.

The building rocked. The B-25's fuel tanks ruptured in the 200 mph impact, and flame spewed as high as the 86th floor. Thirteen people were killed, 26 seriously injured. It cost $1 million to repair the damage.

The building has changed hands only three times. In 1961, when the building, 2½ acres of land and the operating lease sold for $65 million, the closing took four hours and 3,600 signatures, when the ink dried, Prudential Insurance Co. was the owner and real estate investors Harry Helmsley and George Wein held the lease.

THE WAGMAN FILE — Discord in Western Europe —

Bob Wagman

LONDON (NEA) — The economies of most Western European countries continue to suffer from inflation, unemployment and sluggish growth.

As a result, tensions are building among those countries as some accuse others of not pulling their weight within the European Economic Community or of taking "unfair advantage" of the economic climate. The most frequent target of such criticism is the government of French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

The Western Europeans say that they are faced with two major problems, one political and one economic. The French are not acquitting themselves well on either issue in the opinion of many of their neighbors.

The political problem is Poland. Most Western European leaders have joined President Reagan in warning the Soviet Union of severe reprisals if it does not stay out of Poland.

Typical was British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's recent announcement that any Soviet intervention in Poland would result in "far more quick, effective and appropriate action than Afghanistan."

Similarly, West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher, after meeting with touring Secretary of State Alexander Haig, issued a strong statement linking future East-West arms-reduction talks, which the Germans have urged, to Soviet non-intervention in Poland.

But warnings of this kind have been noticeably absent from France.

More than most Western Europeans, the French have taken advantage of the detente of recent years to establish trade with the Eastern bloc. The French economy is benefiting from sizable exports to those Communist countries.

So, Paris is going slowly on threats to the Soviets and on anything else that might upset its new trading partners. The British give much significance to the agreement that most of the talk and all of the public statements coming out of Haig's recent meeting with Giscard would involve Lebanon, not Poland.

On the economic front, much of the European Economic Community is growing increasingly unhappy with France's role in that organization. Among the issues of contention are proposed changes in EEC fishing and agricultural policies that have been sought by the British but opposed by the French.

Then there is the EEC budget formula. France and other countries with large non-mechanized agricultural sectors receive substantial payments from the EEC. The payments to France are more than enough to offset the percentage of the country's exports paid into the EEC.

Last year, the only countries that put more into the community than they took out were West Germany and Great Britain. The British are unhappy with that situation and with the size of the French contribution.

They contend that the community has always agreed that it would change its budget formula in the event of "unacceptable circumstances," that such circumstances have now arisen and that the formula should be changed to reduce what they pay in and increase what they get back. France and others are fighting the proposal as an attempt to change the rules in the middle of the game.

Conservation Awards Program to be May 1

Forty-Eight soil and water conservation districts in the Texas Panhandle and High Plains region of the state which covers a 51-county area will hold their third annual Region I Texas Conservation Awards Program in Lubbock, May 1.

Steve Clements of Hereford, will receive the Area I Wildlife Conservationist award at the program. Clements was sponsored by the Tierra Blanca SWCD headquartered here.

The purpose of the awards program which begins at 7 p.m. in the University Center, Texas Tech University, is to acknowledge, recognize and honor individuals who have dedicated themselves to the conservation and wise use of renewable natural resources on their private lands or who have contributed time and talent to promoting sound soil and water conservation in their communities.

Receiving the award of "Outstanding Conservation District" for the most progressive conservation program during the past year is the Ochiltree SWCD headquartered in Perryton. Members of the board of directors of the honored district are: William Miller, chairman, Perryton; Kenneth Cudd, Perryton; Danny Pletcher, Farnsworth; Lewis Anderson, Perryton and Larry Don Smith, Perryton.

The Ochiltree SWCD which is a political subdivision of state government was established to assist farmers, ranchers, and local communities within the boundaries of the district solve soil, water and related resource conservation problems through local initiative and voluntary assistance programs.

D.C. Pearson, Jr. of Ropesville, Texas will receive the "Resident Conservation Farmer-Rancher" award for superior land management and conservation systems applied to his agricultural enterprise. To be eligible for this award the recipient must be a resident of the district and carry out his farming or ranching activities within the SWCD from which the entry was submitted. Pearson was nominated by the Hockley County SWCD headquartered at Levelland.

An "Absentee Conservation Farmer-Rancher" award will be presented to Arley Barnett of Amarillo for outstanding land management and conservation systems applied on his land. The award is presented to individuals who do not actually reside on their land or within the SWCD submitting the nominee nor who depend fully upon their land for their livelihood. The Palo Duro SWCD headquartered in Canyon sponsored Barnett.

Two educational categories, an essay contest and poster contest, have enabled students to demonstrate creative artistic and writing skills relative to the conservation of soil, water and related resources.

In the essay contest students 18 years and under demonstrated research and writing skills on the subject "Conservation - Our Best Insurance." First, second and third place winners in respective order are: Wanda Giddens, Post High School, Post, Texas; Kathy Ehrlich, Follett High School, Follett, Texas; and Anna Brothers, Paducah High School, Paducah, Texas.

The Poster Contest which was open to students 12 years and under enabled students to present impressions on the subject, "Resource Conservation." First, second and third place winners in respective order are: Traci Elliott, Lazbuddie Elementary, Muleshoe, Texas; Todd Early, South Elementary, Levelland Texas; and Isabel Rodriguez, Lorenzo Elementary, Lorenzo, Texas.

Other award categories for services rendered to advance conservation included "Business-Professional Man or Woman," "Conservation Teacher," "Wildlife Conservationist," "Public Media Award," and "Conservation Homemaker."

A. Wayne Wyatt of Lubbock, Texas who was sponsored by the Lubbock County SWCD headquartered at Lubbock will receive the Business-Professional Award.

The Area I "Conservation Teacher" award will be presented to Patsy Gillespie, an instructor at Ash Learning Center, Plainview, Texas. She was nominated by the Hale County SWCD headquartered in Plainview.

The "Public Media Award" which is presented to an individual in the print or broadcast media for efforts to promote soil and water conservation will be presented to Harold Hudson, president and publisher, "The Perryton Herald." Hudson was nominated by the Ochiltree SWCD headquartered in Perryton.

Pearl Burnett of Wayside, Texas sponsored by the Staked Plains SWCD headquartered in Claude, Texas will receive the Conservation Homemaker award.

Sponsors of the regional awards program are the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board, the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts and the 201 local SWCDs in Texas.

Water Restricted Throughout Growing Season?

LINCOLN, Neb. - If you decide to limit irrigation of grain sorghum, a U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist advises restricting water throughout the growing season—not just during one or two stages of crop growth.

The most favorable limited irrigation scheduling for sorghum, in studies led by plant physiologist Charles Y. Sullivan, Lincoln, Neb., was one in which water stress gradually increased throughout the season. Restricting water only during one or two of three growth stages—vegetative, flowering or grain-filling—hurt yields more than limited irrigation through all three stages.

Irrigation cutbacks in response to a declining water table or the high cost of energy for pumping will lower sorghum yields. But sorghum becomes conditioned to increasing water stress, some genotypes better than others. So yield reduction is less than when stress occurs only part of the growing season, Sullivan and University of Nebraska agricultural engineer Darrell G. Watts found.

Farmers who have grown irrigated corn should also consider sorghum as an alternative when limited irrigation becomes necessary or desirable, Sullivan suggests.

Irrigated sorghum out-yielded corn under Nebraska conditions, he says, until replaced seasonal water losses from soil and plants (evapotranspiration) reached about 20 inches (50 centimeters). Corn out-yielded sorghum when measured evapotranspiration losses replaced by irrigation exceeded about 20 inches.

Limiting irrigation of corn, as with sorghum, lowered grain yield in direct proportion to the amount of water withheld—with one exception. A deficit of 4 to 4½ inches (10 to 12 centimeters) of evapotranspiration losses not replaced during the vegetative and early pollination stages did not significantly lower yield, provided the stress did not become great enough to cause fertilization failure at pollination.

Whether corn conditions to increasing water stress was questionable in studies by Sullivan of the department's Science and Education Administration-Agricultural Research, Watts and University of Nebraska graduate students Dennis P. Garrity and Roberta E. Maurer.

Water use efficiency, for both sorghum and corn, declined whenever evapotranspiration losses were not replaced by irrigation. Limiting irrigation over the entire growing season was less detrimental to water use efficiency than cutbacks during only one or two growth stages, the researchers found. The studies were at the university's Sandhills Agricultural Laboratory near Tryon, Neb. Sorghum or corn was planted in 24 rows 30 inches (76.2 centimeters) apart and parallel to two sprinkler irrigation lines on the long sides of a 62 by 90-foot (18.9 by 27.4 meter) area.

With one sprinkler line operating, the amount of water put on decreased uniformly with distance perpendicular from the line. Thus, the second row parallel to the line received nearly 100-percent replacement of weekly evapotranspiration, as measured with a neutron probe. Rows 52 to 56 feet (16 to 17 meters) from the line received near zero irrigation—termed "gradient irrigation."

Operating both sprinkler lines replaced 100-percent of measured evapotranspiration weekly—termed

"uniform irrigation." In most studies, the researchers compared four combinations of gradient and uniform irrigation on parts of the rows: (1) gradient in all three growth stages; (2) gradient for vegetative and flowering or tasseling; uniform for grain filling; (3) gradient for vegetative, uniform for the other two stages; (4) uniform for vegetative and flowering, gradient for grain filling.

Currently the United States enjoys a $28.5 billion surplus balance of trade in agricultural products, meaning it has exported that much more than it has imported this year.

"To the extent that we have ample soil moisture," Black said, "we're going to continue to have that favorable balance in agriculture."

Era of the Suburban Farmer at Hand

COLLEGE STATION - Cotton and cattle will continue to lead Texas' $10 billion agriculture industry in the years ahead, but the era of the suburban farmer is at hand.

Within the next 20 years, many rural areas will be broken into small tracts of no more than 10 or 20 acres, said Dr. W.E. Black, economist in marketing and public policy with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

For the most part, these will be single-family homesteads, owned by city people who prefer the country life.

"We'll see more of a self-sufficiency type of agrarian economy," Black said. "Such a family would keep a cow or two, raise its own vegetables, maybe even market some of its surplus."

This type of rural land use pattern is developing in most rapidly growing metropolitan areas, Black said. The urban regions are eventually ringed by small "country estates" owned primarily by the affluent who have big-city jobs and rural lifestyles.

As a result, Black said, it's the medium-sized farms nearest the cities that are being broken up into smaller tracts. Meanwhile, there will be more consolidation of large commercial farms; they will be fewer in number and larger in size.

These developments toward fiveness and bigness continue. In 1976, for example, 2 percent of Texas farms and ranches produced 54 percent of the state's food and fiber, he noted. By 1990, the state's top 2 percent will produce nearly 70 percent of the state's agricultural products.

Nationally, the number of family farms is declining while the number of corporate farms is increasing, Black said. Corporate farms now represent only 7 percent of the country's farms, but they already account for 35 percent of all farm produce.

Corporations, Black explained, are a logical means for making farming more integrated - for bringing the production, processing and marketing functions under one management.

More farm families themselves are incorporating for tax purposes, especially as it concerns the transfer of the farm from one generation to the next.

Black said the costs of farming will more than double between now and 1990. Leading the way will be increasingly higher costs for energy, water, transportation and labor.

"And I think we've seen the last of farmers being paid not to farm; there'll be no more government set-asides," Black said. "I think we're going to have what amounts to all-out agricultural production, largely because of the very vigorous demands by foreign countries for our food."

Currently the United States enjoys a $28.5 billion surplus balance of trade in agricultural products, meaning it has exported that much more than it has imported this year.

"To the extent that we have ample soil moisture," Black said, "we're going to continue to have that favorable balance in agriculture."

Team to be Chosen to Work in SFMD

LUBBOCK, TEX. - Three sorghum growers will be chosen to participate in a Sorghum Farmers Market Development Team to Mexico next fall as part of Grain Sorghum Producers Association's market development work. The team will work with U.S. and Mexican Government officials, Mexican grain importers and the Latin American Director of U.S. Feed Grains Council.

The National Grain Sorghum Producers Association (GSPA) began feed grains foreign market development in 1958, with offices in Rome, Italy and Bogota, Columbia. It was for this effort, that U.S. Feed Grains Council was formed to work with USDA's Foreign Agriculture Service to promote overseas sales of all U.S. feed grains. GSPA has continued to work on foreign market problems that are specific to sorghum.

Mexico is now the second largest volume buyer of U.S. Sorghum. Even larger purchases are likely if some problems can be solved. This will be the work of the Sorghum Farmers Market Development Team.

Three GSPA members will be selected for this expense paid (travel, meals and lodging) trip at the end of GSPA's current membership campaign. One winner will be chosen from each of three categories of members. The winner of Category I will be the GSPA member who has contacted and enlisted the most GSPA new members and membership renewals before the end of the campaign on Oct. 1. The winner of Category II will be chosen by drawing from the names of the first one thousand GSPA members who renew last year's membership in advance. (GSPA's next fiscal year begins Oct. 1, 1981). The winner of Category III will be chosen by drawing from the names of the first one thousand new members to join GSPA.

All sorghum farmers are eligible to compete for a position on the Farmers Market Development Team. GSPA members will receive details in the mail and will contact sorghum growers who are not GSPA members.

Deputy Assistant Ag Secretary Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) - J. Dawson Ahalt, a career government economist, has been named deputy assistant agriculture secretary for economics.

Ahalt's appointment was announced Tuesday by Agriculture Secretary John R. Block.

In his new job, Ahalt will help formulate and direct the Agriculture Department's economic analysis and policy review, process and the forecasts for world and U.S. agricultural supply and demand.

Ahalt also will coordinate the work of the department's Economics and Statistics Service and the World Food and Agricultural Outlook and Situation Board, which he headed since 1977 until taking his new position.

Saints Make Rogers No. 1 in NFL Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League draft entered the "who's he?" phase today as teams sought a diamond-in-the-rough to go along with the gems they picked up 24 hours earlier.

There were no George Rogerses, no Lawrence Taylors, no Kenny Easleys up for grabs — at least not visibly so. More than a few low-round selections stick in the NFL each year. Guard Tyrone McGriff, the last pick a year ago (No. 333), not only stuck with the Pittsburgh Steelers but thanks to injuries to his teammates he was starting by season's end.

But the bottom-round rookies, the free-agent catches, they are the rarities.

The seventh-through-12th-rounders show up in training camp with high hopes and high odds against them. Often they are cut early and, as they tour the training camps, cut more than once.

Not so the blue-chippers, the instant millionaires, the college kids with agents in tow. They are all but guaranteed not only to make the roster but to start, and to be paid handsomely for doing so.

Rogers, for example, is as sure a thing as you can find in the NFL this year. Bum Phillips turned Houston into a year-to-year winner when the Oilers drafted Earl Campbell three years ago. If it could happen once, why not again?

So, after being fired by the Oilers because they couldn't win playoff games, and after being hired to coach New Orleans, he went to the Heisman well again this year and picked Rogers with the Saints' No. 1 selection Tuesday. The 6-foot-2, 220-pound Heisman Trophy winner says he's not a "franchise" the way Campbell has become (three rushing titles in three seasons in Houston), but he's as close to one you'll find in the draft.

"I don't think I'm an Earl Campbell," Rogers said. "I can't turn it around by myself. I'm not a one-man team. I play with a team. As an individual, I can't do it. It has to be the team that'll do it."

He was one of six running backs picked in the first round and one of 20 to go among the 166 players chosen in Tuesday's six rounds. Defensive backs led the first-day ranks with 27 being picked, followed by linebackers with 23. The first linebacker to go was Taylor, rated by many as the "best athlete available." The New York Giants got the North Carolina star with their No. 2 pick.

The first quarterback to go was Rich Campbell of California, selected by Green Bay, which has been looking for a really good one since Bart Starr, now its embattled coach, retired after the Packers' halcyon days of the 1960s.

Just before the Pack made its first-round pick (No. 6 overall), St. Louis chose Alabama linebacker E.J. Junior. It was a mild surprise. The Cardinals' fans have been wondering just how much longer Jim Hart can be their quarterback.

If St. Louis made a calculated gamble this time, it paid off. When the Cards' choice in the second round came up, the other blue-chip quarterback, Portland State's Neil Lomax, was still available. They took him.

A third "name" quarterback, Purdue's Mark Herrmann, didn't go until the fourth round, when Denver selected him. His mobility is highly suspect — which makes the Broncos' pick even more interesting since their No. 1 quarterback, Craig Morton, also can't get anywhere very fast.

Easley, the UCLA safety far and away the star of the defensive backs, was picked by the defense-poor Seattle Seahawks.

Cowboys Opt for Tackle, Wide Receiver in Draft

By DENNE H. FREEMAN DALLAS (AP) — The smart money was on the Dallas Cowboys going for a defensive back or a linebacker in the early rounds.

But the only smart money on draft day involving the Cowboys is the kind that says you can't tell what they are going to do.

The Cowboys, who have gone to five Super Bowls on talent accumulated during the National Football League's annual player lottery, opted for a big offensive tackle and a swift wide receiver — offensive help — in the first two rounds.

They did admit the Atlanta Falcons, who got to pick just ahead of the Cowboys by virtue of Dallas' playoff win over them last winter, stole a defensive back secondary Coach Gene Stallings needed.

Picked in the first round Tuesday was 6-foot-5, 254-pound offensive tackle Howard Richards of Missouri, the 25th selection.

In the second round, Coach Tom Landry decided he liked Doug "White Lightning" Donley, the all-time career receiver at Ohio State.

Taken in the third round was Brigham Young defensive end Glen Titesonor, a 6-3, 254-pounder who also will be looked at as a potential offensive lineman.

Atlanta broke the Cowboys' hearts by picking Florida State defensive back Bobby Butler just one selection ahead of the Cowboys.

"We were kind of disappointed," said Landry. "We

Kiwanis Track Meet Thursday

The Hereford Kiwanis Club conducts its annual Track Meet Thursday for the city's 4th, 5th and 6th graders, and more than 1,000 entries are expected.

The track meet is open to boys and girls from all schools, including St. Anthony's. The track meet will be open to the public and is scheduled to begin at 12:30 p.m. Thursday.

Don Tardy, track committee chairman, said the track meet is one of the club's toughest projects to conduct, "but it has been very popular with the youngsters and highly rewarding to our members."

were excited about him." Special assistant Ermal Allen was even more to the point, "We wanted him bad." Landry said Richards was "a very good lineman ... very intelligent ... should fit well into our system."

Landry will look at Richards at both tackle and guard. He has excellent 5.0 speed and could be used as a pulling guard.

"He has real good size," said Landry. "We lacked a 6-5 player."

Howard said "I had no idea Dallas was interested. I'm totally elated."

Kansas City, St. Louis, Tampa Bay and Philadelphia had talked to Howard, he said.

Donley, who caught 106 passes for 2,252 yards and 16 touchdowns at Ohio State, was another surprise.

Landry said the fact that Butch Johnson wanted to be traded had nothing to do with the pick.

"Donley is the kind of player who could start for us in a couple of years," Landry said. "If Donley plays like we think he will and we don't trade Johnson then we'll carry four wide receivers."

Donley has 4.45 speed and once ran a 9.4 in the 100 yard dash at Cambridge, Ohio High School. He also is tall at 6-1.

Not until the fourth round did the Cowboys finally get around to drafting in a position they needed to bolster. They selected 6-1, 220 linebacker Scott Pelluer of Washington State in that round.

Nine Texas Players Selected in Six Rounds

By The Associated Press

Texas Tech defensive back Ted Watts led the way as the Oakland Raiders' first round pick, as nine Texas college football players were selected by National League Football teams in the first six rounds of NFL draft.

Watts, a 6-1, 185-pound consensus all-Southwest Conference selection from Tarp Springs, Fla., was picked by the reigning NFL champions after they obtained a first-round choice from Houston in the trade that sent tight end Dave Casper to the Oilers.

Gary Lewis, a hulking 6-5, 232-pound tight end from Texas-Arlington, got the nod

Whitefaces Lose Wild Twinbill to Westerners

The scores sounded like football and players circled the bases like it was a track meet, but it was a District 4-5A baseball doubleheader that saw Lubbock High downing Hereford by 13-10 and 19-7 scores.

The action came here Tuesday as the Westerners started the second half of the league race with the pair of victories. The Westerners are 8-2 in the district and 15-6 on the season.

The defeats left Hereford at 2-8 in district play and 7-11 on the season. The Whitefaces are 1-3 in second-half play after splitting a twinbill with Plainview Saturday.

The Whitefaces take a day off from district action Saturday, traveling to Dumas for a contest set at 3 p.m.

Hereford scored nine runs in the fifth frame of the opening contest Tuesday to take a 10-7 lead. However, the Westerners bounced back with six runs in the sixth inning to clinch the opener.

The Westerners had nine hits off three Hereford hurlers in the first game. Hereford collected eight hits, but six Westerner miscues helped the Whitefaces stay in the game. Matt Collier started on the mound for Hereford, giving way to Mike Mason and Brad Garnett. Mason took the loss.

Lubbock banged out 24 hits in the second game, including five-run frames in the first, fourth and seventh innings. Hereford had 10 hits, including a double by Don Delozier and a triple by Norman Hill. Garnett took the loss.

In the other district meeting, Monterey swept a doubleheader from Plainview by 10-0 and 11-3 scores.

Golfers Split On Split-Tour Plan

HOUSTON (AP) — A regularly scheduled but far from routine meeting of golf's touring pros tonight was the principal topic of conversation of the players gathered for the $350,000 Michelob-Houston Open.

"I'm not sure," said Curtis Strange.

"Absolutely not," said Dave Eichelberger.

"I think I like it," said Ben Crenshaw.

They were discussing a controversial, revolutionary idea PGA Tour Commissioner Deane Beman is scheduled to present to the players at the meeting. The plan, which Beman calls "a concept to be explored," would drastically change the shape of the Tour.

Among other things, it would split it into two separate but equal segments, with certain exceptions assign players to one segment or the other, require them to play 14-15 specific events in their segment of the tour and prohibit them from playing in the other segment, provide for a much shorter season and make all players exempt from qualifying.

"I think it's super," said Lee Trevino, making his first start since winning the Tournament of Champions and one of the favorites.

"I'm not sure," said

Strange, the defending titleholder. "It would cut down on the number of tournaments I play. And it might cut down on the amount of money I can win."

"I don't like it," said Eichelberger, recent winner of the Tallahassee Open. "This would let me play in Colonial every other year. And I want to play in Colonial every year."

"There's no need to discuss it," said Jack Weiss, tournament director for the New Orleans Open, "because it will never happen."

Beman's presentation will come on the eve of the start of the 72-hole chase over the 6,918-yard, par 71 Woodlands Country Club course and most of the 156 men in the field are expected to attend.

It's the first stop on a three-week swing through Texas and Strange can expect possibly his biggest challenge from homegrown talent.

In addition to Trevino, Crenshaw and Eichelberger, there's Bruce Lietzke, a two-time winner this season, 1981 tour winners Tom Kite and Bill Rogers, host pro John Mahaffey, along with veterans Don January, Miller Barber and Charles Coody.

Some other leading contenders include Johnny Miller, Hale Irwin, Hubert Green, Lanny Wadkins, Tom Weiskopf and Jerry Pate.

Kings Eye Malone In Vital Contest

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Center Sam Lacey says the Kansas City Kings will have to clamp down on Houston's ball movement tonight to avoid elimination in the National Basketball Association's Western Conference final series.

"We can't let them move the ball so freely around the perimeter and get the ball into Moses (Malone) inside," said Lacey, referring to the Rockets' star center. "We have to put more pressure on the ball, deny some passes as well."

With a sweep of Games 3 and 4 in Houston, the Rockets hold a 3-1 advantage in the best-of-seven series and need only one more victory to become the first team with a sub-.500, regular-season record to reach the NBA championship round since the 1968-69 Minneapolis Lakers. Tipoff was scheduled for 9:05 p.m. CDT. If necessary, a sixth game would be Friday night in Houston and a seventh the following Sunday in Kansas City.

The Kings and Rockets, both at 40-42, were the only losing teams to make this year's playoffs and each overcame big odds to get this far. Houston beat defending NBA champ Los Angeles, then turned aside San Antonio in seven games, and the Kings downed Portland and Phoenix.

"Whatever way we have been described — be it in terms of Cinderella or what have you, you could substitute Kansas City's name for ours," said Houston's Billy Paultz.

With guard Phil Ford rounding back into form after missing 26 games with an eye injury, the Kings might try to put their running game back into high gear.

And having their backs to the wall is a familiar position for the Kings. They had to defeat Dallas on the last day of the regular season to qualify for the playoffs, then defeated Portland and Phoenix on the road in the final games of those series.

"We've always come back," said Lacey. "I have great confidence in these guys. The Rockets haven't won the fourth game yet."

Two other injured Kings, guard Otis Birdsong and backup center Joe C. Meriweather, are expected to be able to play tonight. Birdsong has been slowed by a sprained ankle he suffered in the Phoenix series.

The biggest obstacle standing between the Kings and playoff elimination is Malone, the 6-foot-10, 235-pound dominator, who has averaged 28 points and more than 14 rebounds in the playoffs, including a 42-point explosion in Houston's 100-89 victory Sunday.

Erving Keys 76er Bid

BOSTON (AP) — Julius Erving is averaging 19.8 points per game in Philadelphia's playoff series against the Boston Celtics, and while that's nearly five below his regular-season average, 76ers Coach Billy Cunningham couldn't be happier about Dr. J's play.

Erving's ability to get his teammates involved in the offense and his success in harassing Celtics star Larry Bird on defense have helped the 76ers move to a 3-1 lead over Boston in their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference showdown.

The 76ers, who took the homecourt advantage away from the Celtics by winning the opener 105-104 last Tuesday, can wrap up the best-of-seven conference final with another victory at Boston Garden tonight. If the Celtics win, the series shifts back to Philadelphia for Game 6 Friday night.

So far the big move in the series has been Cunningham's decision, after watching Bird score 67 points in the first two games, to switch the assignment of guarding Boston's 6-foot-9 forward from 7-footer Caldwell Jones to the 6-7 Erving. While Jones is noted for his defensive prowess and Erving is not, Cunningham said he never hesitated about making the change.

"Larry was shooting the ball from so far out on the court," Cunningham explained. "I felt Caldwell was not able to guard him and also do the job on the defensive boards. So what choice did I have? I had to put Erving on him."

The move couldn't have worked better. Erving's defense has helped limit Bird to 40 points and kept him from being a dominating force in either of the last two games, while Jones' rebounding and shot-blocking have enabled the 76ers to cope with Boston's strong inside game. And the bottom line is that Philadelphia won both games to assume a commanding position in this series.

Sutton Wins for Astros; Reds Romp by Padres

By The Associated Press
Don Sutton won 230 games with the Los Angeles Dodgers, but few were sweeter than the one he won for the Houston Astros Tuesday night.

"It feels a lot better to win my first after those first three losses, although I thought it would come earlier," said Sutton after a 2-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves. "I wanted to get off to a fast start being with a new team."

Sutton, a 36-year-old free agent who signed with the Astros this year after 15 seasons with the Dodgers, lost two tough one-run games — including a 1-0 decision to his former teammates — earlier this month.

Lifted for a pinch hitter in the ninth, Sutton allowed only two hits in eight innings, one a home run by Bob Horner. Houston reliever Dave Smith yielded a single before retiring the Braves in the ninth.

"Leaving the game was my idea," said Sutton. "I wasn't going out to the mound in the ninth no matter what. I had and homered in the fourth off Atlanta loser John Montefusco.

The Astros, who have not been hitting well since the season began, won for only the third time in 13 games and are 5-12 overall after winning the National League West title a year ago.

Expos 6, Phillies 3
Dawson opened the sixth by reaching first on shortstop Larry Bowa's first error of the season. Dawson moved to second when losing pitcher Larry Christenson threw wild for an error on a pickoff attempt.

Ellis Valentine singled to score Dawson and tie the game. Speier later singled to send home Valentine with the lead run.

Chris Speier's first of three hits drove home a sixth-inning run, triggering Montreal over Philadelphia. The Expos trailed 3-2 when Andre Tom Seaver scattered eight hits and Cincinnati scored eight times in the fifth inning to rout San Diego. Seaver was the only Reds player who did not score in the fifth when Cincinnati sent 13 batters to the plate against three San Diego pitchers.

Pirates 8, Mets 0
Rick Rhoden scattered nine hits and Dave Parker collected four hits, leading Pittsburgh over New York.

Rhoden, 3-0, extended his record of never losing a game in April during his major league career. He has a 13-0 April record since entering the majors with the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1974.

The Pirates tagged losing pitcher Mike Scott for five runs in the third inning with Bill Madlock's homer the big wallop. Rhoden helped his own cause with a single leading off the inning.

Giants 6, Dodgers 1
Alan Ripley fired a three-hitter and Jack Clark slugged a three-run homer to lead San Francisco over Los Angeles. Joe Morgan also hit a solo homer as the Giants snapped the Dodgers' three-game winning streak.

The only hits off Ripley were Dusty Baker's one-out single in the seventh, Pedro Guerrero's single in the eighth and Ken Landreaux's homer in the ninth.

Rangers Blank Boston; Angels Defeat Oakland

By The Associated Press
Tony Bernazard stands just 5-foot-9 and weighs only 160 pounds, but he's beginning to look like Superman to the Baltimore Orioles.

The Chicago White Sox second baseman pounded out two doubles and a single Tuesday night in leading a 15-hit attack that carried the hot White Sox to an 8-6 victory over the Orioles.

Bernazard's three hits gave him a total of 14 in 24 trips to the plate against Baltimore this season. That's a .583 batting average.

And that's just the tip of the iceberg, since Bernazard and his teammates have combined to bat a lousy .373 against the Orioles, while winning four of five games from them this season.

In other American league action Tuesday, California tripped Oakland 3-1, Texas ripped Boston 9-0, New York stopped Detroit 4-1, Toronto topped Milwaukee 6-2, Minnesota dumped Seattle 4-1 and Kansas City was rained out at Cleveland.

The White Sox came up with six runs in a second-inning explosion that included run-scoring doubles by Bill Almon and Bernazard among seven straight hits. The victory, combined with Oakland's second straight loss, moved the White Sox within 3½ games of the A's, the leaders in the AL West.

Angels 3, A's 1
Steve Renko picked up a victory with relief help from Don Aase and Luis Sanchez as California beat the suddenly punchless A's. Renko gave up only a pair of infield singles in six innings.

Aase allowed four more hits, three of them in the ninth inning before giving way to Sanchez with two outs and two men on base. Sanchez then picked up his second save of the season by striking out Shoety Babbitt to end the game.

Oakland Pitcher Brian Kingman, 2-1, took the loss, giving up two runs on seven hits and three walks in 51-3 innings.

Rangers 9, Red Sox 0
Pat Putnam's three-run homer to dead center field keyed the offense and three Texas pitchers combined to stop Boston on five hits.

Texas starter Ferguson Jenkins took himself out of the game after three innings with what was later described as a sinus attack from a cold Jenkins caught last week in Cleveland.

Steve Comer, 2-0, who preceded Bob Babcock, got the victory in relief.

Putnam's homer was the big blow in a four-run Texas fourth inning. Mickey Rivers led off with a single, Al Oliver was hit by Boston starter Steve Crawford, 0-2, and Buddy Bell beat an infield roller to load the bases.

Yankees 4, Tigers 1
Tommy John's six-hitter, backed by home runs from Barry Foote and Willie Randolph, sent Detroit reeling to its ninth straight loss.

John Wöckenfuss hit a homer off John leading off the Detroit second, but the New York left-hander, 3-1, was in charge the rest of the way. John was 0-2 against Detroit last season.

Foote, making his first appearance at the plate since being obtained by the Yankees Monday in a trade with the Chicago Cubs, hit a leadoff homer in the third to tie the game 1-1. He was 0-for-22 for the Cubs.

Detroit starter Dan Schatzeder, 1-1, walked Graig Nettles and Bucky Dent before giving up a three-run shot by Randolph in the fifth. The two-out homer, into the lower left-field seats, ended an 0-for-10 streak for Randolph.

The Tigers' losing skein is their longest since 1975 when they dropped 19 in a row.

Blue Jays 6, Brewers 2
Ken Macha's two-run double ignited a four-run sixth inning, and Lloyd Moseby and Otto Velez added solo homers for the Blue Jays.

Mark Bomback, 2-1, allowed two runs on eight hits in seven innings and Joey McLaughlin stopped the Brewers on three hits the rest of the way. Milwaukee starter Mike Caldwell, 2-2, took the loss.

The Blue Jays broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth when Damaso Garcia led off with a triple and scored on a single by Barry Bonnell. After a walk to Velez, Macha belted his double to left-center, scoring Bonnell and Velez. Macha then scored on a double by Alfredo Griffin.

Twins 4, Mariners 1
Richie Zisk set a Seattle record by hitting his fifth home run in five games, but Minnesota's Pete Redfern, 2-1, held the rest of the Mariners in check, finishing with a five-hitter.

Zisk's major league-leading seventh homer of the season gave him one homer in each of the last five games, moving him within one of the American league record. It has been done six times, the last by Reggie Jackson with Baltimore in 1976. The major league record of eight games in a row with at least one homer was set in 1956 by Pittsburgh's Dale Long.

Red Sox Duo Escapes Fiery Crash in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Boston Red Sox players Carl Yastrzemski and Dwight Evans emerged unhurt — but shaken up — after being involved in a fiery three-car collision Tuesday night that left three persons dead and four critically injured.

The players were returning to Dallas after a 9-0 loss to the Texas Rangers in Arlington Stadium earlier Tuesday night.

Police said the accident occurred around 11 p.m. when one car, traveling westbound in the eastbound lanes of Interstate 30, collided with an eastbound vehicle.

Three occupants of the eastbound vehicle were killed instantly, police said.

An Arlington taxi cab, in which the two players were riding, was struck when one of the other cars spun around, police spokesman Ed Spencer said.

Yastrzemski, contacted at his Dallas hotel room, said he and Evans were not hurt, but "shaken up."

The two players were not taken to a hospital. "We had a (Dallas) county sheriff (deputy) drive us back to the hotel," Yastrzemski said.

"It was really too quick, it happened so suddenly," he said of the accident.

"We were sitting in the back of the cab talking about hitting, when a car in front of us and another car coming the wrong way hit head-on and exploded," he said. "We ran into the car that had been in front of us and slid to the side."

As the two cars collided, Yastrzemski said he saw "bodies flying out of the cars in front of us."

"We were so lucky. I still can't believe it," he said. "We're still pretty shaken up about it."

A 26-year-old man, a 23-year-old man and a 22-year-old woman pronounced dead at the scene, according to the Dallas County medical examiner's office.

Four persons were injured, two in critical condition and two in serious condition early Wednesday at Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas, officials said.

DALLAS (AP) — Stormy John McEnroe, bouncing balls off the ceiling, berating hecklers and drawing referee reprimands, subdued Sandy Mayer 7-5, 6-4, 6-3 in the quarterfinals of the World Championship of Tennis.

WORTHING, England (AP) — New Zealand's Chris Lewis trounced Jeremy Bates, Britain's top junior, 6-0, 6-1 in the first round of the Pernod Trophy tournament.

In other matches, Tony Graham downed David Schneider, the Israeli-based South African, 7-5, 6-3; and Karl Meiler of West Germany defeated Britain's David Shaw 6-1, 6-1.

HAINES CITY, Fla. (AP) — Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia advanced to the quarterfinals of the $200,000 United Airlines Tournament of Champions with a 6-2, 6-4 victory over Bonnie Gadusek.

In other matches, Wendy Turnbull downed Argentina's Ivanna Madruga 6-4, 6-1; Sylvia Hanika of West Germany scored a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Leslie Allen; Regina Marsikova of Czechoslovakia defeated Renee Richards 6-1, 6-3; South Africa's Yvonne Vermaak topped Laura Araya of Peru 6-3, 6-2; and Dana Gilbert beat Brazil's Patricia Medrado 6-4, 2-6, 6-2.

BASEBALL
NEW YORK (AP) — Seattle Mariners Manager Maury Wills was suspended for two games by the American League for "doctoring the batter's box" for last Saturday's game against the Oakland A's at the Kingdome.

A's Manager Billy Martin noticed something odd about the size of the batter's box Saturday's game and told umpire Bill Kunkel, who discovered the box was seven feet long instead of the prescribed six. The extra foot was in the direction of the pitcher's mound, and the head groundskeeper said he was acting under orders from Wills in making the batter's box that big.

After Saturday's game, Wills said he ordered the alteration because the A's were complaining that the Mariners' Tom Paciorek was stepping out of the box toward the pitcher's mound when hitting.

Midland Tops Amarillo; San Antonio Triumphs

By The Associated Press
Dave Owen put down a bunt in the bottom of the 10th with two out and Bill Morgan came home as Midland edged Amarillo 4-3 in Texas League play Tuesday.

Joe McClain, who went the distance, picked up the win, while Randy Miller took the loss.

The win snapped a seven-game losing streak for Midland.

In other games, Dale Holman and Byron White each hit one run in as San Antonio went over El Paso 2-1.

Rich Rodas, pitching eight and one-third innings, got the win.

John Rabb had a three-run homer in the ninth as Shreveport sailed by Jackson 12-2.

Daan Gladden hit a two-run homer in the third and Tom O'Malley added a two-run double and two RBI singles for Shreveport.

Bill Haslerig tripled and then scored on a throwing error for Jackson.

Mark Dempsey, 3-0, was the winning pitcher. Bob Apodaca, 1-3, took the loss.

The win improves Shreveport's Texas League record to 8-11, while Jackson drops to 12-7.

In other Texas League action Tuesday, Tulsa downed Arkansas 10-8.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN—This session I have introduced a bill that creates a committee to study laws about the conduct of public servants. House Bill 3 passed the House by a unanimous vote and is now pending in the Senate.

This bill calls for the creation of the Public Servant Standards of Conduct Advisory Committee to be composed of fifteen members: four persons, including at least two Senators, appointed by the Lieutenant Governor; four persons, including at least two House members, appointed by the Speaker; the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court; the Presiding Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals; the Travis County District Attorney; the Chief Executive Officer of an association of public employees, appointed by the Speaker; a member of the Governor's staff, and two citizen members, appointed by the Governor.

The functions of the committee are three-fold: (1) study the application of state laws relating to the conduct of public servants; (2) adopt and publish interpretive guidelines to aid public servants in the day-to-day application of these laws; and (3) report to the legislature any recommendations the committee may have concerning the revision of those laws necessary to make their application more clear and reasonable. The legislature is to consider the committee's recommendations.

The chairman of the committee is to be designated from one of the Speaker's appointees and the vice chairman from one of the Lieutenant Governor's appointees. Board members are not to receive compensation for performing functions as a member of the committee. A member is entitled, however, to reimbursement for actual and necessary expenses incurred in performing functions as a member of the committee.

Following its study, the committee is to be abolished on August 31, 1982 and its records and other property transferred to the custody of the State Purchasing and General Services Commission.

It is my firm belief that creating the Public Servant Standards of Conduct Advisory Committee will ultimately result in a more defined code of ethics for all public officials to follow to best represent the citizens of Texas.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Producing healthy sperm

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 32 years old and my husband is 30. I have been trying to get pregnant for over four years now but no luck. I had all the tests and have no problems. Then my doctors asked to see my husband. It turned out that he has a low sperm count of 19 million. My doctor also found that he had a large varicose vein of the testicles. He had the vein removed. How long should it take for his sperm count to come up, if it ever will? Would it help if I took a fertility drug to become pregnant? I am about ready to give up trying.

DEAR READER - Your last line reminds me of that old adage, if at first you don't succeed, try, try again.

In at least one out of three couples who have an infertility problem it is because of the male and not the female. In some cases it is a combination of both.

Your husband had a varicocele. Some authorities claim that half of all cases of infertility caused by the male are on this basis.

The veins to the testicle are very important means of regulating temperature. The body heat in the arteries is transferred to the veins and never reaches the testicles. This helps to keep them cool enough to be able to produce enough healthy sperm for fertility. There is no way to say definitely what you can expect in your husband's case. Repeated examinations to check his sperm count are the only gauge in evaluating his potency.

If you released more ova it might help, but the real goal is to increase your husband's sperm count. In many instances this can be accomplished by the male taking fertility pills. They stimulate sperm production in the male the same way they stimulate release of ova in the female.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have lost 20 pounds in about four months for unknown reasons. I was not dieting. I drank my normal amount of beer, eight to 10 a day. I had two physicals since then and nothing showed up. I am curious about sugar or diabetes. What is a symptom to look for? I am pretty tired after an eight-hour work day and can hardly stay awake driving home. I have been trying to watch my diet so as to not eat any excessive amounts of starchy foods to see if that helps. The last month I have been holding my weight OK.

DEAR READER - Unexplained weight loss always deserves an evaluation. Diabetes can be a cause. Usually there is a loss of too much sugar in the urine, leading to loss of calories with weight loss and fatigue. Other symptoms include excessive thirst, passing excessive amounts of urine to eliminate the excess water one drinks and often excessive hunger. But many people with early diabetes have no symptoms.

Fatigue can be caused from weight loss alone. I don't doubt that Muhammad Ali was affected by a rapid loss of lots of weight. Alcey Keys and staff at the University of Minnesota proved 40 years ago that young healthy men who lose weight have marked fatigue and other problems. Weight loss can also be caused by an overactive thyroid. A diseased liver may be a factor, which I mention because of your habit of drinking so much beer. Liver disease also causes fatigue.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am taking folic acid and my doctor prescribed B-12 shots with it. I have read a report by the American Medical Association that B-12 wasn't necessary for people of advanced age, that B-6 is more essential, as are the other B vitamins. Could you please enlighten me?

DEAR READER - I feel fairly confident that members of the American Medical Association would rapidly disassociate themselves from your quote. We all need B-12. We should get it in sufficient quantities in our diet not to need anymore.

But, if your system does not absorb B-12 you must have B-12 shots or you will develop pernicious anemia. A frequent reason for failure to absorb B-12 is an absence of intrinsic factor. This substance is manufactured by the stomach. In some people, particularly as they get older, the stomach does not produce enough intrinsic factor and B-12 absorption is inadequate.

By taking a B-12 shot the medicine is absorbed into your circulation and you are not dependent upon the action of the stomach.

We all need an appropriate amount of all the B vitamins. Again, it is best to get these from a good nutritional program. Those who do not eat a proper diet, whatever the reason, or who cannot absorb food or have increased demands because of illness will need supplements.

Your prescription of both folic acid and B-12 suggests your doctor is concerned about the possibility of your having pernicious anemia. I strongly recommend that you follow his advice.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer
Drawers stick

DEAR POLLY - One of our kitchen cabinet drawers is very hard to open and close, so I hope you can recommend something to apply to the drawer runners to make them operate easier. - MRS. G.S.

DEAR MRS. G.S. - Try "oiling" your drawer runners with soap, paste floor wax or candle wax. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - My Pointer is for removing hard-to-turn metal lids from glass jars such as those pickles, jelly, etc. come in. Turn the jar upside down and immerse the lid in hot water for about half a minute. This expands the metal lid and it can be easily removed. - RUTH

DEAR POLLY - This is for the reader who has sticky plastic curtains. Over the years I have rubbed baby talcum powder into such sticky plastic items as shower curtains and baby pants. This has kept mine soft and pliable. I hope it works for her, too. - HELEN

DEAR POLLY - I have just finished "spotting" my tablecloth that had been used for company. I did it while the cloth was still on the table, as it is difficult to find all the spots later. I took a cup of boiling water and inserted it under the cloth wherever there was a spot.

Usually, pushing the spot down into the boiling water for a few seconds will remove a fruit stain. If one does not disappear quickly, just squeeze a little fresh lemon juice on the spot for a few moments. For grease spots, put a drop of detergent into the water on the spot, and gently rub with a plastic spoon. Then, on white tablecloths, a drop or two of bleach is successful. Rinse the bleach out. Use a towel to blot any excess water. - DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY - The Pointer for using powdered Borax to keep away ants is the best I have ever used. The ants were nearly driving me up the wall until I tried Borax. It is clean, odorless, inexpensive and remarkably effective. Thank you so very much. - MRS. S.S.

DEAR POLLY - After I make bread dough and have put it in a bowl to rise, I turn my attention to the counter where I knead the dough. Instead of wiping the dried residue and flour into a sticky mess with a wet cloth, I scrape it into little dry crumbs with a pancake turner and toss into the garbage. A wipe with the dish cloth and the counter is quickly cleaned. - N.L.P.

DEAR POLLY - When the plastic ends on shoe strings wear out or fall off, tape wound tightly around the ends makes a very good replacement. - SHAN
