Bush bewildered by claims 'Conscience is clear' on Iran-Contra affair

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush is voicing bewilderment over claims that sensitive Iran-Contra documents - including some dealing with his own actions - were withheld from congressional investigators.

But Bush does say emphatically that the Reagan White House, not his, was responsible for providing documents to the committees during their investigations in 1987.

If the lawmakers now have a complaint about what was and was not made available, he said, they should contact A.B. Culvahouse, who was Reagan's White House counsel at the time.

Washington (AP) - President Bush also insisted anew that he would not discuss a document showing that he served as an intermediary in getting Honduras to help the Nicaraguan Contras. This came during a time when U.S. military aid to the rebels was banned.

"I might have something to say on it" after the completion of the trial of former Reagan White House aide Oliver North, who is accused of lying to Congress and obstructing a congressional investigation, among other charges.

"I went to Honduras, sure. That's a matter of public record," he said during the 22-minute question-and-answer session on the Colonnade next to the Rose Garden.

"Put it this way: my conscience is clear."

On other matters, Bush:

- Said he has not made any decision on new restrictions against semiautomatic weapons. Likewise, he said he has not made a decision about how to modernize the strategic nuclear arsenal or funding levels for the Star Wars missile defense program.

- Declared that selective drug testing for federal employees "is very important, and nobody will change my mind on that one." But he sidestepped questions about whether he agreed with Attorney General Dick Thornburgh's suggestion in a Baltimore Sun interview that drug testing for public housing applicants "ought to be considered."

- Said he wished there was "some dramatic plan" that could win agreement to stop the violence in Lebanon. "The problem - the short-run of it - how you stop this firing, the shelling, how you get factions to stop warring - has certainly in recent times defied solution. But we can't give up on it."

The session with the small group of reporters was dominated by questions about the Iran-Contra documents which have surfaced for the first time during North's trial.

Bush said he would "offer full cooperation to any request made of this administration" for information. However, he said documents from the Reagan White House were in "the control and custody" of the Federal Archives.

"I have no reason to believe that the previous administration, the lawyers in it who worked closely with Congress, did not fulfill their obligation," Bush said.

Asked if he would cooperate in a congressional request for an immediate and thorough investigation of whether documents had been withheld from lawmakers, Bush said, "I would refer them to the people that were in charge of the documentation, which could be Mr. Culvahouse and company, in whom I have great confidence. But if there's anything we can do to encourage that - absolutely."

Schools may test for radon

WASHINGTON (AP) - School officials across the country are being advised to test for radon after the federal government found unhealthy levels of the odorless, cancer-causing gas in half the schools examined in spot checks from Maine to Washington state.

"Based on measurements taken in 3,000 schoolrooms in 16 states, it appears that elevated levels of radon gas can be found in schools throughout the United States," EPA Administrator William K. Reilly said Thursday.

He called indoor radon, which is emitted from natural radioactive decay in the ground, "one of the major environmental health threats facing Americans" and urged that officials nationwide test their schoolrooms for the gas.

The EPA, which last year issued a similar warning to homeowners after a spot check around the country, said that of 130 public

Shur-Gro turning trash into dollars

Introduces silage additive

Jerry Skaggs, president of Shur-Gro Liquid Feed, announced that shipments of a new silage additive were started last week. The Hereford company is producing a silage additive that may turn gin trash into a multimillion-dollar business.

By ORVILLE HOWARD
Special Feature Writer

A Hereford liquid feed company has opened production on a silage additive that may turn gin trash into a multimillion-dollar cotton byproduct at the turnrow level.

Shur-Gro Liquid Feed, Inc., headquartered on Kingwood out on the northwest edge of Hereford, last week began shipments of Pro-Sil silage preservative designed to turn dry stalk material into quality livestock feedstuff. Four area cattle feedyards were taking the initial production as Shur-Gro geared to meet demands.

"The formula in the manufacturing of Pro-Sil is relatively simple so we don't see any problems in manufacturing any amount needed to meet the demands," said Jerry Skaggs, president of Shur-Gro Liquid Feed. "Right now we're delivering it to four different feeding operations."

Pro-Sil, patented and approved by FDA as a silage additive, was developed some 25 years ago by Michigan State University to treat dry corn stalks in the Midwest. "The additive was tested quite successfully on cotton burrs several years ago but nothing much was done about it at the time since most everyone had dry corn stalks on their minds," said Dave Coad of Sioux City, Iowa, a graduate biochemist and longtime consultant for Terra International, Inc., of Sioux City.

Coad and Mike McDowell of Omaha, Neb., announced last week that a production-marketing program for the processing of ground cotton burrs into a quality silage feedstuff for livestock will be centered in Hereford, with Shur-Gro to handle the manufacturing of the liquid preservative.

Pro-Sil is licensed through Terra International but will be manured for High Plains distribution through M&H Enterprises of Hereford. Jake Holster, owner of Rafter H Hay Corp. of Amarillo will be handling the High Plains marketing which will extend from the Hereford region northward to Garden City in Western Kansas. "We plan to establish offices in Hereford within the next few days so as to be close to the consumer level," said McDowell, who has been active in the Midwest feed and beef industry for more than a quarter century.

Holster is also a veteran in the livestock feed industry for and for a number of years maintained offices on Park Avenue out on the west edge of Hereford.

Coad said the move into the Texas Panhandle was motivated by two primary factors—a large supply of cotton burrs and the rising costs of livestock feeds. "We believe that we will be doing a great service to the livestock industry of High Plains in the manufacturing of a wasted product, such as gin trash, into high-quality feed supplies which are needed here in the commercial cattle feeding industry," said Coad.

Coad was speaking of the huge inventory of cotton byproducts in the West Texas region which harvested one of the largest cotton crops on record in 1988. It is believed that more than 2 million tons of cotton burrs are generated each year from the Southwest cotton industry, with at least 1 million tons of burrs available each year in the Hereford-Lubbock region.

The price of burrs delivered was running around $15 a ton in the Central Texas Panhandle region back in the winter, but the price has already risen to around $21-22 a ton percent. "We believe that ground Con now purchases," said Holster, who has handled livestock feeds in Texas for more than 30 years. "If the truckers don't have a back-haul of some kind, the burrs will run around $28 to $30 a ton delivered to the Clayton area in Northeastern New Mexico."

Ground cotton burrs have been fed to livestock since the dawn of the Texas cotton industry, but due to its harsh palatability the cotton waste had been utilized mostly as a cheap filler-feed in times of drought or high feed costs, and even then with varying degrees of success.

Dr. Hollis Klett, one of Hereford's leading nutritionists, said he has utilized ground cotton burrs in livestock rations for many years, but pointed out feeding plain cotton burrs has been a debatable subject in commercial cattle feeding. "I've had good success in using ground cottonburrs, but there are others who say they can't get the cattle to eat them...it's been a debatable subject for many years," said Dr. Klett. "However, I'm going to take a close look at Pro-Sil to see if it will fit in some of our rations."

McDowell, president of Nutri-Con, Inc. of Omaha, said the silage preservative increases palatability, digestible energy and TDH in dry stalk material by breaking down cellulose via ammoniation and increased bacterial fermentation. Sugars from molasses, which is blended with the Pro-Sil formula in the treatment of ground cotton burrs, also increases bacterial production.

The end product, which is commonly referred to as burrlage, must have a 14-day fermentation period, either in pits or plastic bags. McDowell said the burrlage would be equivalent to, or better than, the high-grade ground alfalfa, with the protein level being at least 15 percent. "We believe that ground

Pro-Sil will have better and higher feeding qualities than the chopped alfalfa that's being hauled into the Texas Panhandle," said McDowell. "We have been doing research and on-site testing of ground cotton burrs for a number of years and the results have been very good—very positive."

He pointed out that Pro-Sil also kills forage fungi and molds known to cause abortions and sickness in cattle. Research at Michigan State University found that the additive reduces levels of aflatoxin in shell corn. As result of the severe drought in the Midwest this past summer, much of the Midwest shell corn was found to have high levels of aflatoxin. The USDA rejected some Midwest corn production for food consumption due to the high levels of aflatoxin.

Based on last week's prices of cotton burrs, the cost of burrlage ensiled with Pro-Sil in bags or silo trenches would average about $28 per ton based on 50 percent moisture. Scaled down on a percentage basis, a ton of burrlage would contain 8175 percent Pro-Sil, 41.25 percent water and 50 percent burrs. The estimated TDN runs not less than 58 percent with crude protein not less than 15 percent.

Holster noted that another plus factor in the production of burrlage is that the feed supply would be available during non-harvesting months, such as winter and spring, and may be stockpiled in open stacks for future use with little loss to spoilage. "Since the burrlage is ready to feed in only a couple of weeks, a cattle feeder could gauge his processing to fit his individual needs," Holster added.

Historically, cotton burrs have been a pain-in-the-neck to the ginning industry. The waste product was burned in open stacks for years,

Rigoberto Chavez was injured in a one-car accident sometime Wednesday night when his pickup apparently rolled while he was traveling on a dirt road about 18 miles northwest of Hereford.

Emergency personnel were dispatched to the scene after a resident in the area discovered and reported the accident. Officer said that the injured man had apparently spent much of the night lying in the ditch. then came home-spun incinerators. With the coming of OSHA and EPA, the burning of burs in open stacks or open-topped incinerators was forbidden, thus leading to the present-day disposal system of stacking the stuff in some isolated playa lake bed. Only a small portion of the total supply has been utilized for livestock feed.

McDowell said that burlage was initially designed to replace such forages as chopped alfalfa which has risen in price to unprecedented highs in recent months. The most of ground alfalfa delivered to the Texas Panhandle from the Arkansas River Valley in Southeastern Colorado and Western Kansas has bounced from $115 to $123 a ton. The average price is now running about $120 a ton delivered to the Central Texas Panhandle. One of the largest hay producers in Southeastern Colorado said Friday that the new crop of alfalfa coming off in mid-May would open at $95 a ton FOB Lamar. A life-long hay producer in Artesia, N.M., said the Pecos Valley summer alfalfa crop would open at $130 a ton on small bales.

"There's no way one can place an absolute price on the cotton burs since this geared to local markets and freight rates," said McDowell. "However, we believe that with chopped alfalfa now running far above $100 a ton, burlage should be a real bargain."

Shur-gro has been in the liquid feed and supplement business since the Southwest beef boom days of the early 1960s and has the highly-sophisticated blending equipment needed to process a livestock feed supplement or silage preservative, such as Pro-Sil. In addition to a 6,000-gallon storage system and a fleet of tanker trucks, Shur-Gro's manufacturing plant can process 30 tons of feedstuff at a time. The mixing vat is equipped with two 18-inch stainless-steel propellers, with blades set at proper angles to induce mixing as homogeneously as possible.

The Hereford-based company services a five-stage region with a full line livestock liquid feed supplements and pioneered a number of feed products that are derived from such byproducts as those turned out by the corn starch, grain alcohol, sugar cane, sugar beet and poultry processing industries.

"They give us a mixing sheet itemizing the ingredients and we blend them to exact specifications," said Skaggs, while speaking on the production of Pro-Sil. "We'll pump it into a customer's truck or we'll use one of our trucks...whatever method fits the individual needs. We can also put it in storage and hold it for a customer until he needs it."

McDowell pointed out that since the greater Hereford area is home-base for vast production of food corn Pro-Sil may become an important product to High Plains corn growers. The additive is ideally-suited for dry corn stalks. "We've used it for years on dry corn stalks in Iowa and Illinois and it may be something for the cattle feeders to look at this fall when Harvest comes around," said McDowell. "Shur-Gro will be manufacturing two formulas for us--one is called Product 45 designed for cotton burs and wheat straw and the other is called Product 85 designed for corn stalk silage."

McDowell added that turn-key delivery will be offered in the production of burlage--"We will have Shur-Gro deliver just the Pro-Sil if a feedyard or dairy has its own supply of cotton burs. Or, we will be able to deliver both, cotton burs, either whole or ground, and the Pro-Sil and handle the complete application into the trench or bag."

He said that single-truck deliveries also will be available in the near future on ensiled burlage--"If you must remember that this burlage production is hinged to the supply of cotton burs and right now they're plentiful, but a West Texas downpour could change this burl supply in a hurry as the stacks now stand...timing is everything right now."

Principals in marketing

Mike McDowell, president of Nutri-Con Inc. of Omaha, Neb., and Dave Coad, a consultant for Terra International from Sioux City, Iowa, hold a package of Pro-Sil, which is licensed through Terra but will be manufactured by Shur-Grow.

Girls of Year cited

Local chapters of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority commemorated Founder's Day Tuesday night at K-Bob's Steak House and awarded gifts to the Girls of the Year. From left, Kay Williams, advisor of Alpha Iota Mu chapter, presented Marrie Leverett with the honor; Nan Gauthreaux was named Girl of the Year for Alpha Alpha Preceptor chapter by last year's recipient, Barbara Burkhalter.

Sorority Girls of Year named

"Pave It With Stars" was the theme followed during Tuesday night's Founder's Day celebration held by Beta Sigma Phi Sorority chapters and Girls of the Year were named.

The local observance was held at K-Bob's Steakhouse and marked the 58th anniversary of the international sorority which was founded by Walter Ross in 1931. Background music was provided by local students Lori Poarch and Chari Suttle.

Alpha Iota Mu, Xi Epsilon Alpha, and Alpha Alpha Preceptor chapter members gathered for a dinner following the opening ritual led by Beverly Redelsperger and Beta Sigma Phi Grace given by Pene Coplen.

The sorority's city council, made up of representatives from the three local chapters, led the celebration which was organized by Coplen and a the Founder's Day committee. Council president Marge Bell gave the welcome and introductions. Kathie Kerr recited the Founder's Day Pledge, and Virginia Jackson read the Message from International.

Yearly reports were delivered by chapter presidents Dee Ann Matthews of Alpha Iota Mu; Peggy Hyer of Xi Epsilon Alpha; and Brenda Thomas of Alpha Alpha Preceptor.

The presidents announced 1989-90 officers elected by each chapter as well as sorority city council officers. Alpha Iota Mu's officers will include Janice Betzen, president; Ruby Lee, vice president; Marrie Leverett, recording secretary; Mary Jane Anvik, corresponding secretary; Wanda Huseman, treasurer; and Kerr, extension officer. The chapter's council representatives will be Betzen, Matthews, Kerr, Gay Macliskey, and Huseman will be alternate.

Bell will be president of Xi Epsilon Alpha chapter; Denise Haflinger, vice president; Gaye Reily, recording secretary; Melinda Whitfill, corresponding secretary; and Deann Harris, treasurer. Council members will be Hyer, Bell, Haflinger, Connie Matthews, and Whitfill, alternate.

Alpha Alpha Preceptor's officers will be Lynda Brown, president; Karren Ruland, vice president; Nan Gauthreaux, recording secretary; Murlene Streun, corresponding secretary; and Virginia Jackson, treasurer. Council representatives will be Brown, Jackson, Gerry Taylor, Margie Waddell, and Streun, alternate.

Presentation of Girl of the Year Awards highlighted the event, as AIM's advisor and the other chapters' previous award winners made the surprise announcements.

Kay Williams announced that Marrie Leverett of AIM was chosen by her peers as Girl of the Year for that chapter. Connie Matthews recognized Denise Haflinger as Xi Epsilon Alpha's Girl of the Year, and Barbara Burkhalter cited Nan Gauthreaux as Alpha Alpha Preceptor's Girl of the Year.

Bell read a special message announcing "Gifts from the Heart" as the 1989-90 theme. The event ended as the closing ritual and Mitzpah were led by Redelsperger.

Maternity wear chic

By The Associated Press
 In the past, pregnant women spent much of their time at home and maternity fashions carried little significance.

Today, with more and more women in the workplace, designers go out of their way to produce chic and contemporary maternity clothes, says Judy Loeb, director of design for Trio, manufacturers of maternity clothing.

She offers this advice for mothers-to-be:

—Buy your regular size: maternity clothes are made to accommodate your changing body. Oversized regular clothing will hike up in front. But pants occasionally should be one or two sizes larger, to accommodate larger hips and thighs.

To remove shine when ironing, run a dampened sponge over the shiny area and press lightly over a pressing cloth.

Leasha Deyke and Brenna Reinauer, front from left, examine the contents of their complimentary gifts as do Andrea Borden and Wendy Connally. The girls will be among 13 contestants vying for the title of Miss Hereford 1989 during Saturday's pageant scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. in the Hereford High School auditorium.

STADIUMS POPULAR BUT ARE THEY ART?

NEW YORK (AP) - A New York art dealer is taking advantage of the current boom in baseball nostalgia by pitching through the mail offset lithographs of popular old baseball stadiums to fans around the country.

According to Crain's New York Business, a local weekly business journal, the dealer - Bill Goff - markets colorful, nostalgic panoramas of Wrigley Field, Ebbets Field, Yankee Stadium, the old Polo Grounds, Fenway Park and even relatively new Shea Stadium, home of the New York Mets.

Interest shown by baseball fans in purchasing this form of diamond memorabilia has been so high that Goff is planning also to roll out prints of Detroit's Tiger Stadium, Chicago's Comiskey Park, Los Angeles Dodger Stadium and other old ball parks.

Baseball stadiums have a certain magic that no other item in sports has, Goff notes.

People believe if you catch a falling leaf, you will have a good and happy life.

Man Caught With Classified Information

Claims information regularly published

Neighbors today were surprised to learn Melvin Kline, a seemingly quiet, well-mannered man was making extra money with classified information. When questioned earlier this morning, Kline professed surprise that everyone wasn't using the classified section to earn extra income and get rid of unwanted items. "It's common," he said. Recent studies tend to bear Kline out. Consumer Data Service reported that over 85% of the public read the newspaper and over 80% of those read the classifieds. Kline claimed widespread use was being made of the classified information. "But you have to act quickly," he remarked. "If I have something to sell, I can be in the paper by tomorrow. I do that a lot now," he confessed. "With classified, whether I'm buying or selling, I can reach a large market instantly. And it's easy...just pick up the phone."

When asked if price mattered at all, Kline stated he was in possession of Consumer Data Service documents that indicated newspaper readership increases as income increases. "The more money they make, the more they read the paper," he said, "and I can prove it."

Asked for a last comment, Kline replied "No matter what you're looking for, a new job, a great car, merchandise, or even a home, take a long look at the classified section."

Local confesses he profited from classified information in newspaper

"Sure, I've made some money from classified information, but so can anyone who reads the paper."

The information's all there." Response Analysis Corp. studies indicate the public does exactly that, with 98% preferring the newspaper over radio and 68% preferring the newspaper instead of TV. Kline was last seen in the company of an unidentified man carrying two outboard motors.

Judges selected for Miss Hereford Pageant

The 1989 Miss Hereford will be selected by a panel of three judges Saturday when the Miss Hereford Scholarship Pageant starts at 7 p.m. in the Hereford High School auditorium.

The pageant, sponsored by the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, will offer prizes and scholarship money to the winner and two runners-up. Thirteen contestants will be vying for the title during the competition, which is divided into evening gown, talent, and interview segments.

Judges will be Amarillo residents Dr. Robert D. Hubbard, Debbie Kirkpatrick, and Larry Benton.

Hubbard is an assistant professor, Department of Pediatrics, Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center, in Amarillo. He is involved in pediatric intensive care and medical student and pediatric resident education at Northwest Texas Hospital. Born in Mobile, Ala., he earned a degree at the University of Mississippi and a medical degree at the University of Miami School of Medicine. After four years of private practice in Fort Payne, Ala., he joined the Tech School of Medicine. He is the father of two children, ages five and seven. His interests include movies, dancing, and classic automobiles.

Kirkpatrick is director of communications and personnel for the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce. Her duties include maintaining personnel files and developing a monthly publication to be sent to all Chamber members. She formerly served as administrative secretary for the senior vice president of the Chamber. Kirkpatrick has experience as an internal audit secretary for Texas Oil and Gas Corporation in Dallas. She and her husband, Kent, are the parents of two children, Casey, 15, and Jason, 14. Benton has been producer-director at KACV-TV, Amarillo college, for seven years. In addition to instructing students in television production and performance, he has produced many cultural documentaries such as "Faces of Amarillo" and "Two Voices: Mary Jane Johnson and Timothy Jenkins in Concert". Benton is a former president of the Polk Street United Methodist Church Choir and a member of the Amarillo Civic Chorus.

The judges will meet the Miss Hereford contestants during the interview portion of the pageant Saturday morning; the talent and evening gown competitions will be held during the pageant that night.

WHEELBARROW SUBSTITUTE

Dear Heloise: Last summer our wheelbarrow broke, and as I began gardening I really missed it. The bags of fertilizer were too heavy! I had also used the wheelbarrow for other things that were large or cumbersome.

My husband came up with a brainstorm. Now we use my son's wagon. It comes in handy and serves the same purpose. — Sarah Clements, Placentia, Calif.

HEALTH COSTS KEEP SOARING

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite public and private efforts to curb costs, spending for health care claimed 11.1 percent of the gross national product in 1987, the most recent year for which full figures are available, reports a medical journal.

The 1987 figure is up from 10.7 percent in 1986 and 9.1 percent in 1980, according to Family Practice News, which says hospital care accounted for the largest share (39 percent) of the nation's health spending in 1987, while physicians' services accounted for 20 percent, and nursing homes 8 percent.

Medicare benefit outlays totaled almost $80 billion in fiscal 1987, an increase of 7.7 percent over the previous year. Medicare outlays for hospital benefits increased at a rate of less than 2 percent, while payments for physicians' services continued to increase at a double-digit pace.

The publication notes that over the next 10 years - even without any program expansions - Medicare spending for physicians' services will triple.

Total annual Medicare outlays between 2005 and 2010 are expected to exceed the yearly spending for Social Security.

Ranch House site of club meeting

Draper Extension Club members were special guests of Argen Draper when they met recently for lunch at the Ranch House.

Following the meal, the business meeting was called to order by President Carmen Rickman and members recited the T.E.H.A. prayer.

The opening exercise was a drawing of the door prize which was won by Johnnie Messer. Roll call was answered with "my favorite spice, least favorite and the one I would like to learn to use" by Tonie Vaughn, secretary.

It was announced that Johnnie Messer is the club's nominee for T.E.H.A. county chairman and also for the state meeting set for September in Corpus Christi.

Members were told that Mary Blinderman will be presenting a program at 2 p.m. May 2 in the Southwestern Public Service Reddy Room.

The next meeting was planned at McDonald's May 2 with Sherri Blackwell serving as hostess.

Red Raider Day is here Tuesday

The annual Red Raider Day party for Hereford is scheduled for Tuesday, and all Texas Tech ex-students as well as interested Raider fans are invited to participate in the event, according to local Red Raider Club chapter chairman Dave Hopper.

The event includes a golf tourney beginning at 1:30 p.m. and a social hour and dinner at Hereford Country Club starting at 6 p.m. Deadline for entering the golf tourney is Friday evening.

The Red Raider Cup Matches will use a "Florida scramble" format. Golf chairman David Workman said a Raider coach or Tech representative will be placed with as many foursomes as possible. Grid boss Spike Dykes and basketball coach Gerald Myers are expected to lead the Tech delegation.

A fee of $35 will cover the green fee, cart rental, social hour and dinner. Golfers can telephone their entry to Mike Horton at Pitman Municipal Golf Course. Sign-in time on April 25 will be 1 p.m.

Non-golfers, men and women, are welcome and encouraged to attend the social hour and dinner, noted Hopper. They are requested to call the country club and make reservations. Price is $15. Others on the planning committee are Tom LeGate, Cal Mitts and Speedy Nieman.

Team prepares for rodeo

The Hereford High School rodeo team, pictured above, will host this week's Tri-State High School Rodeo on Saturday at the Hereford Riders Club Arena. Students from throughout the area will compete in events, with performances at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. At right is the club's THSRA queen candidate, Regina Lewis.

HHS hosting Pampa in Saturday twinbill

Hereford High School's varsity baseball team will resume District 1-4A play Saturday in the first game of an HHS doubleheader at Whiteface Field.

The varsity Herd will host Pampa at 2 p.m., then the school's JV teams will meet at about 4:30 p.m.

The Herd is coming off a 12-10 win over Canyon on Tuesday in a non-district game, and is hoping for a little easier time than was had in the two previous home games.

On April 8, the Herd took eight innings to defeat then-league-leading Estacado, 7-6. Last Saturday, it took the Herd nine innings to post a 3-2 win over Dunbar.

Next Tuesday, the Herd will host its next-to-last home game of the season with a 4 p.m. start against Borger.

Astros rally past Braves

ATLANTA (AP) - Art Howe knows he has some strong arms in his Houston Astros bullpen, but he still hates to have to lift the ace of the staff - Mike Scott.

"He started a little slow but after he got through the first few innings he pitched well," Howe said Thursday night. "It's tough to hit for him, but we were one run down and we had to try to get a run somehow."

Houston didn't get a run in the seventh when Howe lifted Scott for a pinch hitter, but the Astros struck for two in the eighth and snapped a four-game losing streak with a 4-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

The Astros did it with what had been a missing ingredient of late - a key hit.

Kevin Bass drove in the tying run with an eighth-inning double to right, took third on a wild pitch and scored the winning run when third baseman Ron Gant booted Craig Biggio's grounder.

"We needed that one, and we got it," Bass said. "We just haven't been getting them (key hits). That helped a lot."

"We had a letdown in the eighth inning with a walk and we couldn't catch the ball, and that added up to a loss," Atlanta Manager Russ Nixon said. "They didn't exactly play a great game either."

Glenn Davis walked to start the winning rally off reliever Jim Acker and moved to second on a sacrifice by Rafael Ramirez.

Bass then greeted reliever Paul Assenmacher with his RBI double, moved to third on a wild pitch and scored when Gant booted Biggio's grounder.

"It was hit hard and I didn't have the right footing," Gant said. "I just didn't get my glove down. It's just something that happens."

The victory went to Danny Darwin, 1-0, and Dave Smith finished for his second save.

Billy Hatcher and Bill Doran drove in Houston's other runs with RBI singles in the fifth inning off Atlanta starter Zane Smith, who allowed seven hits, one walk and struck out six in seven innings.

Gant's two-out triple off Mike Scott gave Atlanta a 2-0 lead in the first and the Braves added an unearned run in the third on third baseman Ken Caminiti's throwing error.

Scott gave up only four hits in six innings and had seven strikeouts, lifting his career total to 1,201.

The eighth-inning rally took Scott off the hook when it appeared he was headed for his sixth loss in seven decisions in Atlanta.

Atlanta threatened in the eighth when Gerald Perry was safe on second baseman Doran's fielding error. Perry went to second on a wild pitch by Smith, who entered the game after the Doran error, but Smith then got out of the jam by fanning Dale Murphy and coaxing an infield groundout from Gant.

"It's nice to have a seasoned veteran in that kind of situation," Howe said.

Mike Schmidt's extra base hit in the first inning against Pittsburgh was extra special, too.

Schmidt, whose 546 homers rank seventh all-time, broke Richie Ashburn's Philadelphia club record for hits Thursday night with a run-scoring double - the 2,218th hit of his 17-season career.

He also doubled and scored in the fifth inning as the Phillies beat the Pirates 9-4 Thursday night at Three Rivers Stadium.

"It's not up there with number 500, but getting the most hits in the history of an organization is something to be happy about," Schmidt said.

Elsewhere in the National League it was New York 4, Chicago 3; St. Louis 5, Montreal 2.

The Phillies scored three times in the first inning and twice in the second to take a 5-1 lead against Mike Dunne, 1-1.

Ken Howell, 2-0, allowed four runs and three hits over six innings before Greg Harris pitched two scoreless innings and Todd Froh-wirth finished the game.

"This team isn't doing anything out of the ordinary other than hitting the ball," Schmidt said. "We've got a guy hitting fifth (Von Hayes) who is the best hitter in the league and we've got three guys up in the batting order (Juan Samuel, Tommy Herr and Chris James) who can hit the ball."

Von Hayes, hit a two-run homer in the first inning and is batting a league-leading .489. As a team, the Phillies are batting .272, nearly 30 points higher than they did last season.

Ken Griffey Jr. had a good reason to be nervous.

For the first time, his father, Ken Griffey Sr., watched him play in a major league game. The elder Griffey had the night off because the Cincinnati Reds were idle and sat in the press box in Chicago on Thursday night.

In his first three at-bats, Griffey Jr. was 0-for-3 with two strikeouts. But in the seventh inning, he snapped a 2-2 tie with a bloop single and the Seattle Mariners went on to beat the Chicago White Sox 5-2.

"Yep, I was real nervous," the younger Griffey said. "I could see him (after the strikeouts). I knew exactly what he was saying. I can't repeat it, though. The fourth time was a new at-bat, though. Nothing special."

Don't tell his father it wasn't special, though.

Bullets bang Bulls, 100-98

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

The Washington Bullets are refusing to bomb out of the NBA playoffs despite shooting plenty of blanks against the Chicago Bulls.

The Bullets' starters scored a total of 27 points and were 11-for-44 from the field Thursday night, but Washington outscored the Bulls 53-45 in the second half for a 100-98 victory.

Rodeo'er

Hereford's Billy Stephens has been competing very successfully for Clarendon College in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association's spring rodeos. He is a former member of the HHS Rodeo team.

"If you'd told me we'd win doing that, I wouldn't have believed it," said guard Jeff Malone, who was 4-for-13 and led all Bullets starters with 11 points.

The victory, combined with Boston's 137-117 loss at New York, pulled Washington within one game of the Celtics in the race for the final Eastern Conference playoff berth. Each team has two games remaining, and the Bullets will advance to the playoffs if they finish in a tie with Boston because of a 4-2 edge in head-to-head games.

Rookie reserve Ledell Eackles scored a season-high 28 points and John Williams added 21 for the Bullets, who handed Chicago its seventh loss in eight games.

Michael Jordan led the Bulls with 30 points, but was held to four assists and five rebounds, while committing six turnovers.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Philadelphia 105, New Jersey 92; Denver 136, San Antonio 113; Seattle 124, Portland 118, and the Los Angeles Lakers 118, Sacramento 115.

Eackles scored eight points and Williams two during a 10-0 third-quarter run by the Bullets that cut a 65-54 deficit to one point with 3:17 left in the period.

The Bulls led 74-71 after three quarters, but the Bullets outscored them 7-0 over the first two minutes of the fourth period.

Knicks 137, Celtics 117
Atlantic Division champion New York, playing without Patrick

Ewing because of his sore knee, routed Boston as Mark Jackson scored 29 points and Eddie Lee Wilkins had six during a 13-0 run at the start of the second half.

Kevin McHale scored 23 points for the Celtics.
Lakers 118, Kings 115

Los Angeles opened a one-game lead in the Pacific Division and Western Conference when James Worthy scored eight of his season-high 38 points in the last five minutes against Sacramento.

Wayman Tisdale had 22 points and Harold Pressley 21 for the Kings, while Byron Scott had 20 points and Magic Johnson 19 points and 16 assists for Los Angeles.
SuperSonics 124, Trail Blazers 118

Seattle clinched fourth place and a homecourt advantage in the first round of the playoffs while keeping Portland from capturing the Western Conference's last postseason berth.

Dale Ellis and Xavier McDaniel scored 31 points apiece for the Sonics.

Jerome Kersey scored 30 points for the Trail Blazers.
Nuggets 136, Spurs 113

Denver snapped a five-game losing streak and won its 19th straight at home as Michael Adams scored 25 points, Fat Lever 23 and Alex English 22.

The Nuggets scored the first 18 points of the fourth quarter.

Rookie Anthony Bowic led San Antonio with 24 points.
76ers 105, Nets 92

Philadelphia beat New Jersey as Hersey Hawkins scored 25 points and hit his first 10 shots from the field while the 76ers shot 69 percent in the opening half.

Philadelphia made 15 of 19 shots in the opening quarter and took the lead for good with a 13-2 spurt that broke a 13-13 tie.

Chris Morris led the Nets with 19 points.

NOT TOO HIGH

ATLANTA (AP) - David Whitmore, a Georgia Tech basketball player, earned the nickname "L.A. Leaper" because of his ability to jump better than 42 inches off the floor.

According to the school's sports information office, the name has more than a touch of irony to it. It seems the high-flying Whitmore is queasy about heights.

A WOODEN GYM

MARTINSVILLE, Ind. (AP) - It's been said "you can't go home again" but John Wooden did.

Wooden returned to Martinsville, his home town, in January for ceremonies which changed the name of the Martinsville High School Gymnasium to the John R. Wooden Gym.

Wooden, rated one of the greatest college basketball coaches of all time for his 10 NCAA titles at UCLA, led Martinsville High as a player to the 1927 state championship.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I have been married for five years. We get along pretty well, but this last year I didn't treat her as nicely as I should have. There was no physical abuse or anything like that. I just didn't give her the love and attention she needed. We separated in September and stayed apart until Thanksgiving. We separated because my wife had an affair and became pregnant. She was feeling a lot of guilt and decided to leave.

I love my wife very much and we are back together again. I have forgiven her for seeing another man, and I agreed to accept the baby and raise it as my own. The problem now is that the other man is very excited about becoming a father. He wants to support the child and have a role in raising it.

My wife cannot make up her mind about what she wants to do. She says she wants to stay married to me, but she doesn't feel it is right to take the child away from its natural father.

I have told her that if she wants a divorce, I will give her one, but if she would like to stay married to me, she must make it clear to the other man that he cannot be in the picture. I don't see how I can be an authority figure if another man supports my child and is hanging around our house.

What is the best thing to do?--Torn in Reseda, Calif.

DEAR T in RESEDA: Accept the fact that this man is going to be in the picture whether you like it or not. He could sue for visiting rights and probably get them. If you allow him to support the child, however, you are going to give him an even stronger position. I recommend that you not do this.

In my opinion, the best course of action would be for you and your wife to stay together and be gracious about the father's visiting privileges. I strongly suggest that you two get counseling because there are bound to be some serious problems and you will need to know how to deal with them. Good luck to all of you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was married to "Paul" for 18 years. He was mentally ill for 10 of those years. He could not hold a job, so I had to work hard to support him and our child.

Unfortunately, the child inherited Paul's mental illness and I found it impossible to care for two sick people so I divorced him. Paul is now homeless because no one wants to share living space with him. I can understand this perfectly because he is extremely difficult to have around.

I would like to help him, but I don't want to remarry this man. Is it illegal for me to let Paul stay in my house and receive his own medicare and welfare benefits? Please check this out for me. I need to know soon. Thanks for helping, Ann.--Worried in New Orleans

DEAR W: We spoke to the Social Security office in New Orleans. (They also handle disability cases.) We were told that your former husband can live with you and it will not interfere with his benefits.

If you have any questions, call Social Security. They were extremely cooperative.

DEAR READERS: Here are a couple of thoughts worth considering:

- (1) Courtesy is cheap. It is useful to be freely.
- (2) It is nice to be important, but it is more important to be nice.

Ramses II subject of La Afflatus Estudio program

Jennie B. Terrell gave a program on the reign of Ramses II when members of La Afflatus Estudio Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Virginia Beasley. Terrell explained that Ramses was the fourth king of the 19th dynasty and that "Ramses" was the name of the 12 ancient Egyptian kings of the 19th and 20th dynasties. Terrell recently visited Dallas where she viewed an artifact display depicting the Ramses reign.

President Mary Williamson conducted the business meeting at which time members voted to meet for a covered dish luncheon at noon May 2 in the home of Emily Suggs. Williamson recently gave a program on "The Legend of Doug Manning's Warm Fuzzies" when the women met in the home of Mary Herring with Opal Elliston serving as hostesses. The women also viewed a video tape on "The Fuzzies."

A memorial gift was made in remembrance of Bill Hutson, husband of club member, Bea Hutson.

Those present included Lydia Hopson, Lola Jewell, Louise Kinsey, Alberta Higgins, Aileen Montgomery, Emily Suggs, Beasley, Terrell, Della Stagner, Etoile Manning, Pet Ott and Williamson.

'Street look' the fad

By The Associated Press
Rock stars and fans need their designer lines just like any other upwardly mobile strivers.

Somewhat ambiguously billed as "designers of rock 'n' roll street fashion," a firm called Lip Service now brings rock star fashion to off-the-rack customers.

A favorite motif of designer-founder Drew Bernstein is the skull and dagger, which is featured on Lip Service T-shirts, jackets, leggings, and, yes, panties, the kind worn on the outside for decoration.

A bold "War?" poster-type print also shows up on jackets, and the collection also goes heavy on leather-look vinyls, lace-ups and zippers in odd locations on chaps, hot pants, bustiers, pegged jeans and any other items the rocker feels naked without. These are topped off with bangles, studs, insignias and other jewelry that might more accurately be described as hardware.

Bernstein, 25, is a former musician who says his clothes appeal to rock band players and their fans. Sales in 1988 were around $1 million and marketed in Germany, Canada, Japan and the United States. Outlets are boutiques, and prices range from $20 for a crop top to about $100 for a vinyl jacket.

Bernstein says he started his company in 1985 in his parents' garage in Hollywood, having put his career as a rock musician behind him at the age of 22. He now employs 30 people.

The first indoor ice skating rink was built by Thomas L. Rankin at Madison Square Garden, New York city in 1879. It had 6,000 square feet of surface.

The largest bat on earth is called a flying fox. Its wingspread ranges from two to five feet, and its hairy body may be as much as a foot long.
