Traffic accident victim

Rescue workers strap Raymond Schlabs Jr. onto a stretcher after pulling him from this pickup truck following a two-vehicle collision Wednesday morning. According to the Department of Public Safety, Schlabs backed his pickup onto U.S. 385 at County Road 8 north of town. The truck was struck by an Energas truck pulling a backhoe that was driven by Edward Mike Artho. Schlabs was transported to Deaf Smith General Hospital with minor injuries, including cuts and bruises. Artho was uninjured. The accident was reported at 8:55 a.m. Rescue workers had to use the Jaws of Life to remove the truck door and extract Schlabs from the wreckage.

Hundreds march on capitol in support of handgun bill

AUSTIN (AP) - Hundreds of Texans seeking the right to carry concealed handguns marched on the Capitol to issue a warning to Gov. Ann Richards: "Put up or shut up." Supporters of the concealed handgun proposal, which has passed the House in two different forms, urged Richards to break her promise to veto the measure.

"This is a litmus test. We want this bill done or we're not voting for you next time," Rep. Ron Wilson, a sponsor of the measure, told Tuesday's rally.

Suzanna Gratia, a survivor of the Luby's Cafeteria massacre in Killeen, challenged Richards to "stand by the women of Texas" by renouncing her veto threat.

"Richards can have armed security people ... and I'm not allowed to protect myself and my family," said Ms. Gratia, whose parents were killed in the Luby's incident.

The House last month passed a bill that would allow voters to decide whether Texans 21 and over should carry concealed guns. But the Senate refused to consider the measure after Richards promised to veto it.

Last week, the proposal was tacked onto a bill to restructure the state penal code. In that form, the Texas Department of Public Safety would be authorized to issue licenses for carrying handguns.

WATER BILL

The Senate has approved for the first time limits on pumping water

Clinton may send troops to Bosnia

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sounding increasingly frustrated by the reluctance of America's partners to take tougher action in Bosnia, President Clinton says he may send U.S. troops to the former Yugoslav republic of Macedonia to halt the spread of the war in the Balkans.

Turning up the heat on U.S. allies, Clinton said Tuesday the war in Bosnia "is in Europe's back yard" from the Edwards Aquifer, the underground lake that's the primary water source for San Antonio. A federal judge has ordered the state to come up with a plan to limit pumping or face federal regulation to protect endangered species.

OPEN RECORDS

The expected Senate sponsor of a so-called privacy bill says he plans to oppose the measure after news media groups protested that it would essentially destroy the Texas Open Records Act.

and that European nations must agree quickly on steps to stop the fighting.

Members of Congress backed the president. Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., led the charge by saying the allies' refusal to stop the slaughter of Bosnian Muslims was "moral rape."

Clinton, meanwhile, said he was considering sending troops to Macedonia, the southernmost former Yugoslav republic.

Senate plan would avoid consolidation

AUSTIN (AP) - Almost all of Texas' public school students would be in an equitably funded system under a plan to shift taxable value of $40 billion in business property among districts and avoid consolidation, its sponsor says.

"If 99.6 percent is not substantial, I don't know what is," said Senate Education Committee Chairman Bill Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant.

He said that percentage of the state's 3.4 million students would be in an equalized school finance system. The full Senate planned to take up his measure today, after it was passed 9-2 Tuesday by the Education Committee.

Legislators must pass a plan to even out school districts' access to funding by a June 1 court deadline or face a court-ordered cutoff of state education aid.

School districts rely on state aid and local property taxes, and differences in property wealth historically have caused large funding disparities.

"I believe this plan will solve our school funding crisis and get us out of the courts while, at the same time, avoiding any massive new statewide tax or diminishing the quality of education in any school," said Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock of Ratliff's proposal.

Ratliff has said his plan to redistribute a portion of the total $600 billion in property wealth would be more acceptable to the Senate than school consolidation, an idea being worked on the House.

The Senate action prompted a delay in House consideration of a school consolidation proposal, which had been planned for today. Rep. Libby Linebarger, head of the House Public Education Committee, said the postponement would give House lawmakers more time to consider the proposals.

"The problem we have is that there are no good options for solving the problem," Ms. Linebarger, D-Manchaca, said. "Everybody wants a Cadillac, but we've got a couple of broken-down Chevys to work with."

She has contended that her consolidation proposal would allow school districts to keep their local identities, including maintaining their football teams and retaining the power to hire and fire teachers.

Ms. Linebarger's committee released a list of 281 districts that likely would be consolidated under the proposal, matching property-rich school districts and their less wealthy neighbors. That's out of 1,048 total school districts.

One wealthy district, Tuloso-Midway in Corpus Christi, mounted an anti-consolidation rally outside the Capitol Tuesday.

Chanting "two-four-six-eight, we won't consolidate," about 300 students, parents, teachers and administrators marched up the Capitol sidewalk. They waved signs with such slogans as "Roses are red, violets are blue, if you consolidate, no votes for you."

"We like Senator Ratliff's bill. We'll be glad to give our refineries up in a New York minute. We just want to protect our school district," Superintendent Sue Nelson said.

The education commissioner, under Ratliff's proposal, would be required to detach business property from 109 of the state's wealthiest school districts to try to achieve no more than $280,000 of property wealth per student.

But seven of the 109 school districts don't have enough business property to get down to the $280,000 limit, including Allamore, Kenedy County, Laureles, Llano, Palo Pinto, Port Aransas and Dallas' Highland Park.

Vasquez celebrates backlog of holidays with family members

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

When Rudolfo Vasquez's family celebrated Halloween and Thanksgiving last year, he was confined to his military base in California, on air alert.

At Christmas, he was in Somalia as part of Operation Restore Hope.

The same with New Years, Super Bowl Sunday, Valentine's Day, St. Patrick's Day and Easter.

On Saturday, he got his family holidays caught up.

Vasquez, a 1990 Hereford High School graduate, and Marine Corps machine gunner, returned home for a short visit last week after months in Somalia.

Unbeknownst to him, his aunt, Sylvia Hamilton, had been planning a multi-holiday celebration to welcome him home.

"I've got two very favorite nephews and he's one of them," Mrs. Hamilton said, adding that he had called from the U.S. Marine Corps base at 29 Palms, Calif., where he is stationed, at Thanksgiving, but was unable to make timely phone calls from Somalia.

At Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Years, Rudolfo was the only one of 47 family members missing.

About a month ago, Mrs. Hamilton said, she began talking to Rudolfo's mother, Connie Vasquez, about putting on a multi-holiday party for Rudolfo.

Those plans began coming together last week, when he called at about midnight on April 25 to say he was in New York City on his way west from Somalia and would be home in a couple of weeks.

He lied.

He was supposed to call, Mrs. Hamilton said, when he was going to fly out so family members could gather and decorate her house to reflect the missed holidays.

Instead, Rudolfo flew out of New York last Thursday, then copped a ride from the airport with a friend, showing up at a HISD employee banquet his parents were attending.

That family reunion interrupted the proceedings until the joyful family cleared the room to visit outside.

It also threw Mrs. Hamilton into a flurry of activity, rushing to get the Christmas tree, Easter eggs, Halloween goblins and harvest wreaths put up before the party.

Because of the rush, she was unable to find the Valentine's Day and St. Patrick's Day boxes, so those decorations were missing.

"He actually just gave us one day to get ready," she said.

But it all came together and at about noon on Saturday, Rudolfo arrived for his first visit to his aunt's house after his return.

"I just thought how lucky I was to have a family that cares. Some guys just hate their families and I love mine to pieces," he said.

Every member of the family except an uncle and his family were able to attend, meaning 42 relatives helped Rudolfo celebrate.

Under the Christmas trees were several presents for him, as well as one each for the rest of the family.

The menu was a conglomeration as well, featuring turkey for Thanksgiving and ham for Christmas and New Years.

Ask Rudolfo where he was each holiday and the memories leap forth to his time in the famine- and war-stricken Somalia.

Christmas: He was in Bardera, Somalia. "Christmas morning, (working) security for the vehicles. (I) helped a man bury his family ... but reporters started taking pictures so I left. It was 128 degrees that day."

New Years Day: "That was our day off, but we had a couple of Somalis try to get in an attack us. But they didn't get very far."

Super Bowl Sunday: "We were leaving Bardera and going back to Mogadishu." One Marine's girlfriend had sent him a tape of the Dallas Cowboys win over the Buffalo Bills, but the Marines didn't have a television set. So, Rudolfo said, they "borrowed" one from an Army base, watched the game, then returned the TV.

Valentine's Day: "Just running patrols in Mogadishu."

St. Patrick's Day: "Same thing -- patrols."

Easter: Stadium security at the Olympic stadium in Mogadishu. "We have bunkers and we have gates to let people out. You can count on being shot at."

Presents during that time consisted of cigarettes, Vienna sausages, cookies and similar small items, since Rudolfo was not allowed to get large packages of gifts.

At Christmas, he said, the Marines had their own sarcastic celebration, swapping MREs (Meals Ready to Eat) and cleaning each others weapons.

Rudolfo will only be home until Monday, when he has to return to duty in California.

For Mrs. Hamilton, the joy of the multi-holiday celebration was exceeded only by the holiday he was here for.

She said the best Mothers Day he could have given his mother was his presence in Hereford.

Christmas in May

Hereford resident Rudolfo Vasquez Jr., seated on floor, holds up a Dallas Cowboys Super Bowl T-shirt given him Saturday as a Christmas present. Vasquez, who was in Somalia during Christmas, New Years, Super Bowl Sunday, Valentine's Day, St. Patrick's Day and Easter, returned home for a visit last week and was treated to a combination holiday by his aunt, Sylvia Hamilton, shown sitting with him on the floor. Watching him open his gifts are, on the couch from left, uncle Roger Hamilton, father Rudolfo Vasquez Sr. and mother Connie Vasquez.

Autopsies identify Branch Davidian top three leaders

WACO, Texas (AP) - The top three leaders of the Branch Davidian cult have been identified. The lingering question now is how many followers died with them.

Investigators thought they had removed 72 bodies from the fire-ravaged ruins of the group's compound, but now they say that cult leader David Koresh may have been telling the truth about the number of followers inside.

"We're very much unsure of the totals at this point," McLennan County Peace Justice David Pareya said Tuesday. "We're in the very tedious process of trying to separate the bodies that were meshed together in the bunker-area."

"It very well could hit the total Koresh said were in the compound."

Using the numbers Koresh gave authorities during a 51-day stalemate, there would have been 86 Davidians in the ruins. Officials called Koresh a liar when they found only 72 corpses.

Koresh also said five bodies were in an underground tunnel. All five - each victims of the Feb. 28 gunbattle with federal authorities that triggered the standoff - have been recovered.

Pathologists' figures began changing when they determined that they thought were three bodies actually were parts of other corpses or debris, lowering their number to 69.

That figure, however, is expected to jump because medical examiners have discovered as many as 24 bodies could be in bags thought to have had only four corpses, Pareya said.

He said the mistake was made because of the condition of the bodies.

From the autopsies they've finished, medical examiners have identified 32 victims. Only 16 names have been announced because relatives of the other victims have not been notified.

Ten names were announced Tuesday, including Steve Schneider and Wayne Martin, both of whom advised Koresh during a 51-day standoff with authorities.

Schneider, 48, and Martin, 42, were located just feet from Koresh, who was identified May 2 as having been killed by a bullet to his forehead. Schneider also may have been shot.

The findings released Tuesday also increased to at least eight, and possibly 11, the number of victims with gunshot wounds that have been publicly identified.

One of those was Schneider, who died of inhalation of smoke and carbon monoxide with a possible traumatic head injury caused either by a blast or gunshot wound, said Peace Justice John Cabaniss.

Koresh and Schneider, who handled much of the negotiations with federal authorities during the standoff that followed the shootout, both were found in the fortress' "communications room," also considered the kitchen serving area.

Martin, a Harvard-educated attorney who also played a key role in negotiations, was found in a room less than 20 feet away, said Peace Justice Cindy Evans. His cause of death was pending.

Schneider and Martin jumped to the forefront soon into the saga.

Their most pivotal moment came March 15 when they met face-to-face with McLennan County Sheriff Jack Harwell and FBI lead negotiator Byron Sage.

Schneider also was the last cult member to speak with outsiders, hanging up on Sage the morning of the fire just before tanks began ramming the compound walls and injecting tear gas. Schneider hurled the telephone out the front of the building, cutting off direct contact with authorities.

About six hours later, the blaze began. An arson team has said the cult started the fire in at least two places; the cult says the tanks tipped over lanterns, igniting the blaze.

Hints from Heloise

Q. Do you have any suggestions for keeping a wall telephone cord from tangling?

A. We remove the cord from the phone and let it unravel, but after a few days it is all curled again. It is an 8-10-foot cord which is used constantly.

— Mrs. Scholz, El Paso, Texas

A. We have the same problem and it drives us nuts! After each use you can give the handset a few twists in the opposite direction of the curling. Of course, this will only help if everyone who uses the phone does this before hanging up.

There is a telephone-cord attachment that you plug into the phone and then plug the cord into it. This "swivel" attachment is easily installed and keeps the cord free of tangles. Check with your local electronics stores to see if they carry it.

Flowers theme of club installation

New officers of the Garden Beautiful Club were recently installed following a salad luncheon at Something Special.

Irene McKinster installed the following 1993-94 officers: Vada Axe, president; Marguerite Cole, vice president; Louise Axe, second vice president (finance); Jeane Dowell, third vice president (historian); Helen Spinks, secretary; Dorothy Noland, treasurer; and Dottie Darden, reporter.

Using flowers, McKinster said, "A beautiful arrangement is a focal point to the room it graces and to the families and communities it represents. A club possesses new members, not fully opened, but as they mix with the older more mature members, they, too, grow to their fullest potential just as buds bloom to full size in a floral centerpiece."

With the vase representing the community, McKinster placed a flower in it as she installed each new officer. The completed arrangement represented the club and the community "tying them together in a spirit of community pride."

McKinster and Mary Ann Ashley, daughter of Margaret Young, were welcomed as special guests and Louise Streun was recognized as a new club member.

Those present were Vada Axe, Louise Axe, Doris Bryant, Marguerite Cole, Jeane Dowell, Nadine Hill, Jerrye Jackson, Dorothy Noland, Helen Spinks, Bessie Story and Margaret Young.

Herd athletes honored at All-Sports Banquet

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Steven Blea and Dusty Saul were named as Hereford High School's Athletes of the Year at the annual All-Sports Banquet Tuesday in the Bull Barn.

Of the other major awards, Jill Robinson and Eric Sims received the Casey Smith Memorial Award, and three athletes--Kyle Hansen, Angie Jowell and Claudia Ramirez--were named for the Fighting Heart Award. Blea, a senior, excelled on the state level in two sports: football and track. In football, he earned second-team all-state honors (The Associated Press) at offensive guard. He also was honored regionally by both the Amarillo Globe News and the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. He was a first team all-district selection on both the offensive and defensive lines after leading the Whitefaces to the District 1-4A championship.

In track, he's still excelling. He'll compete in the shot put at the state track meet Friday and Saturday in Austin. He set a new school record with a toss of 58-3 1/2, and he won every meet he entered, including the Region 1-4A meet.

Saul also will be competing in Austin this week, as part of the girls' golf team. She led the team to the district championship--finishing second individually--and to the Region 1-4A championship, where she was fourth individually.

This will be the third straight year for her to compete at the state tournament.

Saul finished high at all of the Invitational tournaments that she played in: second at Hereford; fourth at San Angelo; and seventh at both Big Spring and at the Amarillo Relays.

The Athlete of the Year awards were presented by Bud Jowell, the chairman of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce's sports committee.

The Fighting Heart Award is given to the overachiever--the Herd athlete who gets more out of his athletic ability than most people. Co-presenter Martha Emerson summed up the award in describing Angie Jowell: "Her fighting heart gave her the spirit to be a winner."

The three 1993 recipients certainly spread their talents around: Hansen and Ramirez were two of the three seniors who lettered in three sports this year, and Jowell lettered in two.

Jowell was a second-team all-district selection in volleyball, and helped the team to its first ever trip to the state tournament. She also was a captain of the track team, where she consistently placed in jumping and hurdles events.

Ramirez also was a member of the volleyball team, where she came off the bench and didn't worry about starting, Emerson said. She worked her way off the bench and into a starting position for the basketball team, in the process setting a school record by getting 10 steals in one

Fan of the Year

Paul Mason received the Fan of the Year Award, presented by the Whiteface Booster Club.

Golf associations to meet Thursday

Hereford's men's and ladies' respective golf associations will each hold meetings on Thursday. The Hereford Ladies' Golf Association will meet at 6:30 p.m. at Hereford Country Club. The Hereford Men's Golf Association will meet at 7:30 at the Hereford V.F.W. hall. The men will elect a president for 1993 at their meeting.

ALL-SPORTS

game. She threw shot for the track team and finished fourth at the district meet.

Hansen, who was presented his Fighting Heart award by Craig Yenser, played football, basketball and baseball. He was a first-team all-district linebacker this year after starting at fullback during his junior year. In basketball, he led the team in three-point shooting and in charging fouls drawn. Hansen didn't start much for the baseball team, but he heated up at the end of the season, hitting a home run and two triples in the last four games.

The Casey Smith Memorial Award goes to the Herd athlete who works the hardest to improve and shows a love of the game.

Robinson, who played volleyball and basketball, had what presenter and girls' basketball coach Loy Triana called "All-State determination." She was a starter for both teams, and several kills near the end of the regional finals volleyball match against Dumas helped Hereford get over the hump against the Demonettes.

Sims was a second-team all-district linebacker for the Herd, but he was also a third team all-state selection by the Texas Sportswriters Association and received honorable mention from AP. He also made the Amarillo Globe News' Super Team. Sims also played basketball for three years, starting many games his senior year, and is a three-year member of the National Honor Society.

Assistant football coach Mike Purcell presented Sims' award.

The Whiteface Booster Club honored Paul Mason as the Fan of the Year. Bud Jowell, presenting the award in his capacity as booster club president, showed a pair of overalls owned by Mason, on which was printed the pictures of each player on the 1981 football team. Mason's son Mike was a member of that team, which advanced to the state semi-finals. Mason's other son, Derek, was last year's recipient of the Casey Smith Memorial Award. Mason's three daughters--Michelle, Paula and Dawn--all were cheerleaders at HHS, Jowell said.

The Hereford Brand and KPAN Radio honored one athlete in each of HHS's 13 varsity sports with Media Awards. The recipients were: Richard Sanderson, football and basketball; Kara Sandoval, volleyball; Pedro Dominguez, cross country; Renee Banner, cross country; Stephanie Wilcox, basketball; Greg Coplen, tennis; Bri Reinauer, tennis; Cory Newton, golf; Saul, golf; Jeannie Barrientez, track; Petey Colvin, track; and Ruben Ramos, baseball.

Sanderson, the other senior besides Hansen and Ramirez to letter in three sports this year, was the only athlete who won two Media Awards. In football, he was a three-year starter at quarterback, starting all 11 games during his senior season when he led the team to eight straight victories and the district championship. His 1,408 yards of total offense included 710 yards rushing (6.3 yards per carry) and 698 yards passing (13 yards per reception).

Sanderson was a four-year starter at point guard for the basketball team. During his senior year, he led the team with 99 assists and with a 12.9 scoring average. He was among the team leaders in most other statistical categories.

Sandoval, a junior, was the only setter for the volleyball team during the state tournament run. She compiled big numbers with 1,856 sets and 728 assists--both new school records. Her performance got her selected to the first team all-district.

Dominguez and Banner served as team captains for the boys' and girls' cross country teams, respectively. Banner finished 15th at the district meet, and Dominguez finished 16th in the boys' district race.

Wilcox, a junior, was the starting shooting guard for the Lady Whitefaces. She led the team in scoring at 10 points per game, and she was the leader in three-point shooting, tying a school record with a 6-for-6 performance. She was among the team leaders in many other statistical categories.

Coplen, like Blea and the girls' golf team, has yet to complete his season. He'll represent Hereford at the state tennis tournament. He district and regional titles in boys' singles this year--with a record of 29-4 so far--after advancing as far as the regional quarter-finals the past two years.

Reinauer finished fourth in girls singles tennis at the regional tournament, advancing in one round after a 3 1/2 hour match. She finished the season with a 24-6 record.

Both Reinauer and Coplen helped the tennis team to a district team tennis championship in the fall. Newton finished seventh individually with a 78.6 average golf score in district play, leading the boys' team to its first regional tournament berth in eight years. At the regional tournament, he had a two-day total of 154, good for 10th out of about 60 of northwest Texas' best high school golfers.

Barrientez excelled in both hurdle races and in the 1,600 meter relays for three years, competing six times at the regional meet over that time. During her senior year, she won the district championship in the 300-meter hurdles and ran a 47.13 at the regional meet, breaking her own school record. The time was good for sixth place in an exceptional field.

Colvin competed at the regional track meet five times over two years, all in sprint events. This season he won the 100-meter dash, the 200 dash and helped win the 400-meter relay. He set a school record in the 100 at 10.53. At this year's regional meet, he finished fourth in the 100 and third in the 200.

Ramos played three positions for the Herd baseball team--pitcher, catcher and first baseman--and played them well. He hit .353 for the year and led the team in district play with a .393 average. He led the team with 25 RBIs, and he pitched for two wins.

In other banquet news, Mike Purcell was wearing a new tie. Master of Ceremonies Tom Simons, deprived of the chance to make fun of the (very) old one, announced that Purcell had paid $5 for the new one.

KJ, Dumas take up slack for Barkley in Suns' win

PHOENIX (AP) - A fiery point guard and a red-hot rookie made up for another cold-shooting night by Charles Barkley.

Barkley, who came into the 1993 playoffs as the NBA's No. 2 all-time postseason shooter, hit only 24 percent of his shots against San Antonio in Game 1 of their second-round series Tuesday night. Fortunately for the Suns, Kevin Johnson and Richard Dumas took up the slack.

"The only thing I care about is that the final score is in our favor," coach Paul Westphal said after the Suns squandered big leads before beating the San Antonio Spurs 98-89.

Despite the victory, Barkley is unhappy with his performance.

"That's not satisfactory to me. My expectations of myself are a lot higher, and I want to play well. I'm glad we won the game, but that's no excuse for me," Barkley said after 5-of-21 shooting left him with 18 points.

In the Suns' first-round series, Barkley made 48 percent of his shots against the Los Angeles Lakers - down from his career 57 percent accuracy.

Johnson had 25 points, seven assists and a playoff career-high five steals, while Dumas added 22 points.

That was enough to negate San Antonio's David Robinson, who finished with 32 points and 10 rebounds. The only other Spur in double figures was Antoine Carr, who played just 14 minutes in the second half after getting four fouls before halftime.

Carr finished with 19 points, one more than the man he was guarding: Barkley.

In the final 50 seconds, the 6-foot-1 Johnson also managed to knock a jump ball away from 6-9 J.R. Reid and assisted on baskets by Dumas and Oliver Miller.

"This team is so talented, I just have to pick my spots instead of trying to do it all like I used to," Johnson said.

"Missed tips and turnovers down the stretch really hurt us," Spurs coach John Lucas said. "We missed some tips, we missed some shots, and we didn't execute down the stretch."

Cavs can't contain Jordan

CHICAGO (AP) - Michael Jordan, who seems to have a personal vendetta against the Cleveland Cavaliers, went at them with a vengeance Tuesday night.

"They pride themselves on playing me one-on-one," said Jordan, who scored 43 points in leading the two-time champion Chicago Bull to a 91-84 victory in the opener of the Eastern Conference semifinals.

The Cavaliers stayed close and trailed only 64-63 going into the final period when Jordan scored 16 of his points. He made the first four to open a 68-63 lead, then hit 10 straight in one stretch for an 83-72 lead.

This was his answer to Gerald Wilkins, who had claimed the Cavaliers signed him to stop Jordan, who has averaged nearly 39 points a game against Cleveland in playoff competition.

"I felt the Jordan stopper had a tough time tonight," said Jordan. "When I'm at my best, it's tough for anyone to guard me."

Wilkins, who led Cleveland with 19 points, found that out.

"It is my job to stop Michael and I enjoy it," said Wilkins. "He was out to score tonight and I could see it in his eyes. He wasn't coming out to get any assists."

Jordan had to be at his best. He quickly sensed his teammates were "a little out of rhythm, slow getting to loose balls and a little out of sync. I had to elevate my game."

The best-of-7 series continues with Game 2 Thursday night at Chicago Stadium. Then the scene shifts to Richfield for games Saturday and Monday.

Baserunning mistake lets Cards turn triple play

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

Howard Johnson says he doesn't want to think about an embarrassing baserunning gaffe that resulted in a triple play. Maybe he should have thought about it when it occurred.

"It's just something that happened," the New York Mets third baseman said Tuesday night.

A lot of somethings have been happening to the Mets, whose 7-4 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals was their 12th in 15 games.

More of the somethings: Johnson made a throwing error during the Cardinals' four-run first inning.

Mets pitchers botched two plays at first and misplayed a force attempt at second.

"That's the way their luck is going," winning pitcher Donovan Osborne said after ending a victory drought that stretched back to his first start of the season.

"Good thing we got some breaks," he said.

The biggest one came after Johnson walked and Chico Walker got an infield hit to start the second.

Johnson thought Todd Hundley's short-hop grounder to second baseman Geronimo Pena had been caught on the fly. He froze a few feet off second base as Pena threw to shortstop Ozzie Smith for a forceout.

Smith threw to first to get Hundley.

First baseman Gregg Jefferies kept Johnson frozen by running toward second before throwing to Smith for the tag as the Cardinals turned their first triple play since Sept. 5, 1991, in San Diego.

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Chicago 2, Los Angeles 1 in 10 innings; Montreal 6, Florida 4; Cincinnati 4, San Diego 2; Pittsburgh 8, Philadelphia 4; Atlanta 5, Houston 4, and San Francisco 5, Colorado 3. Braves 5, Astros 4

Jeff Blauser had three hits and an RBI, and Ron Gant's home run proved decisive as Atlanta ended Houston's three-game winning streak.

John Smoltz (4-3) went 6 2-3 innings, allowing four runs on seven hits. He struck out two and walked four while leading the Braves to their fifth victory in six games. Mike Stanton worked the ninth for his 12th save.

Doug Drabek (3-4) pitched seven innings, allowing five runs on nine hits. Kevin Bass had a three-run double for Houston.

Reds 4, Padres 2

San Diego made four errors behind Wally Whitehurst, undercutting the pitcher's return from elbow surgery.

Pirates 8, Phillies 4

Visiting Pittsburgh had four straight hits and three runs in the seventh inning to cool off Philadelphia.

Paul Wagner (1-0) pitched 1 2-3 innings in relief of Dave Otto. Reliever Mark Davis (1-1) allowed four hits and three runs in two-thirds of an inning.

Giants 5, Rockies 3

Bill Swift pitched well, winning for the fourth straight time as San Francisco ended a three-game losing streak and reclaimed first place in the NL West.

In a rare pitching battle at hitter-friendly Mile High Stadium, Swift (4-1) outdueled Colorado's David Nied (3-4). Aided by three double plays and two Colorado baserunners who were caught stealing, Swift faced only two batters over the minimum through seven innings.

Milt Hill (2-0) took over for an injured Tim Belcher and pitched out of a bases-loaded threat in the third. Hill pitched three scoreless innings. Greg Cadaret, the fourth Cincinnati pitcher, got his first save.

Expos 6, Marlins 4

Marquis Grissom drove in three runs, and streaking Moises Alou had a two-run double for Montreal.

Grissom hit a tie-breaking, two-run double in the seventh inning off Cris Carpenter (0-1), who failed to retire the three batters he faced.

Alou's double in the sixth extended his hitting streak to 12 games. He had to leave at the end of the inning after straining his left groin.

Cubs 2, Dodgers 1

Pinch-hitter Rey Sanchez singled home the winning run with one out in the 10th inning at Wrigley Field.

Dwight Smith hit a leadoff single off Jim Gott (1-1) and was sacrificed to second. Mark Grace was intentionally walked, and Ryne Sandberg beat out a high chopper to third. Sanchez, batting for Bob Scanlan (1-2), singled through the drawn-in infield to win for Chicago.

Gott had previously pitched 20 consecutive scoreless innings.

Clemens battles for AL K lead

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
AP Sports Writer

Roger Clemens took over the major league lead in strikeouts. Two hours later, he lost it.

Clemens struck out a season-high 13 Tuesday night as Boston beat Baltimore 4-0, but Randy Johnson regained the strikeout lead by fanning nine in Seattle's 4-3 victory over Chicago.

Johnson (5-2), throwing fastballs that were clocked at 99 mph, upped his strikeout total to 63 as he allowed only two hits in seven innings and snapped Chicago's five-game winning streak.

Clemens was even more impressive, pitching his 35th career shutout - a five-hitter. Clemens walked two and did not allow a runner past second base until the ninth inning in lowering his ERA to 1.73.

In other games, Detroit beat Toronto 12-7, New York downed Milwaukee 5-1, California defeated Minnesota 5-3, Oakland shut out Texas 6-0 and Kansas City edged Cleveland 7-6.

Mariners 4, White Sox 3

At Seattle, the AL West-leading White Sox took a 1-0 lead on Ellis Burks' homer in the second inning, but Chicago's only other hit off Johnson was Lance Johnson's single in the fourth.

The Mariners took a 2-1 lead against Dave Stieb (1-1) in the bottom of the second on Mike Blowers' two-run single. Seattle made it 4-1 in the third on Jay Buhner's RBI-triple and Tino Martinez's run-scoring single.

Tigers 12, Blue Jays 7

At Toronto, Alan Trammell and Travis Fryman drove in three runs each and Milt Cuyler had a career-high four hits.

Athletics 6, Rangers 0

At Oakland, Calif., Bobby Witt (3-1) cooled off the Texas Rangers with a three-hitter, beating his former teammates in his first appearance against them. Texas had been hitting .306 in its last eight games. Kenny Rogers (3-2) was the loser.

Royals 7, Indians 6

At Cleveland, Mike Macfarlane's double - the last of three consecutive pinch hits by Kansas City - capped a two-run seventh inning that gave Cleveland its fifth straight loss. Kevin Appier (3-3) won despite yielding five runs and 13 hits in 7 1-3 innings. Dennis Cook (1-1) took the loss.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband of only eight months left me when I became pregnant. We had never discussed children. The pregnancy was not planned, and "Hal" was furious. He remarried at the earliest legal moment. The daughter I gave birth to has turned out to be the joy of my life.

The problem isn't Hale, it's his wife. She insists on sending me gifts that I feel are insulting.

Her first gift was a box of clothing from a thrift shop. Her second gift was a framed picture of the two of them and another box of used clothing. Yesterday, for my birthday, I received an electric massager "guaranteed to help soften facial wrinkles," a washcloth and a cookie cutter. To make matters worse, this "gift" was mailed to my office.

My ex-husband is the vice president of a beverage company and makes a six-figure salary. I cannot imagine him marrying a woman who doesn't know any better. How can I protect myself against these insults?--Burning in Lakeland, Fla.

DEAR FLORIDA: The solution is simple. Return all packages unopened. No note, nothing. Silence often speaks louder than anything you might say. I recommend it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago, my mother phoned to tell me there was a dog tied up in her back yard, and she had no idea who could have been so heartless as to leave it there.

Not wanting to take on the responsibility of a pet, I advised Mother to call animal control. Immediately after hanging up, I began to feel pangs of guilt and feared that the dog would be put to death. I called my mother back and told her I would drive over and look at the dog and consider taking it.

Needless to say, what I found was a half-starved, filthy mutt. I loaded it in my car and took it to be groomed and checked out. When it was finished, I had a beautiful animal that resembled a cocker spaniel.

I brought "Ladybug" home, and for two years, I had had one of the sweetest pets in the entire world.

Only recently did I realize how lucky I was. Last week, a prowler approached my front door and got the surprise of his life! Ladybug let out a howl and began barking so loud that she sounded like a vicious guard dog. The prowler must have been terrified, because he fled into the night.

So now, when people talk about security systems for their homes, I just tell them to go to the Humane Society and get a dog. The good Lord works in mysterious ways.--Lucky me in Georgia

DEAR LUCKY: The hound was lucky, too. Thanks for a real heartwarmer.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is an MYOB letter, and I intend to do so. Perhaps it's my age, but I'm concerned about two little neighbor girls, ages 8 and 10.

The mother of these girls is divorced. The girls told me recently that their mother's boyfriend had taken them to an R-rated movie. They said they didn't see or hear "anything new." This doesn't surprise me because there's plenty of trash on TV these days.

Permitting this man to take the girls anywhere alone is one thing but to an R-rated movie really bothers me. What do you say?--No Name or city

DEAR NO NAME: Ask the girls if they told their mother about their outing. If they didn't, urge them to do so. If they did, there's nothing more to be done.

Lonesome? Take charge of your life and turn it around. Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Not all spiders make webs. The bolas spider spins a single line of silk with a drop of sticky silk at the end. When an insect flies near, this spider swings the line at it and traps the insect in the sticky ball.

Soft drinks were sometimes called "soda pop" because the type of bottle caps used before the 1890s made a popping noise when removed.

Students of the Six Weeks

Care Center open house set two days

In observance of National Nursing Home Week, the new Hereford Care Center, 321 Kingwood, will hold an open house two afternoons, with a special invitation issued for graduating seniors of Hereford High School. Guests to the new facility will be welcomed from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday.

Sororities, clubs and other organizations interested in the nursing home also are encouraged to attend either afternoon and inspect the facilities.

Tours will be given and refreshments will be served to guests both afternoons.

Tennessee's Great Smoky Mountains National Park is the most visited national park within the park system.

Spotlight on health

Here's news that may make many Americans feel a bit better: a group of health care experts have some ideas on how to provide more care for more people at less cost.

The group is the National Association of Community Health Centers (NACHC). It was alarmed to find that 70 percent of all U.S. counties are medically underserved, with over 43 million people living there who are dependent on a health care safety net that is simply overwhelmed.

Now, based upon the success of community and migrant health centers, which for more than 25 years have provided comprehensive primary care services to more than 6 million people living in medically underserved inner city and rural areas, the NACHC has come up with a number of health care reform recommendations.

To assure that the needs of all Americans are met efficiently, NACHC argues that there must be sufficient resources to assure the availability of primary and preventive health care services to every community. Funding should be an integral budgeted and mandated aspect of national health care spending, not subject to fluctuating annual appropriations, and should include:

- Funds to build primary care service centers in inner city, rural and remote locations that lack them now.

- Funds to permit current community-based primary care programs to expand, modify or adapt existing services to reach patients with special needs.

- Funds to substantially expand the National Health Service Corps and to directly assist shortage areas in recruiting and retaining primary care doctors and other health personnel, and new support for developing and greatly expanding training and student recruitment in community health centers and other community-based programs.

Man known as drug trade enforcer executed today

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - A South Texas man known to authorities as an enforcer in the Rio Grande Valley illegal drug trade was executed early today for killing a police officer nearly 12 years ago.

Leonel Herrera, 45, of Edinburg, received lethal injection after Texas officials and courts rejected his claims that he was innocent of fatally shooting Enrique Carrisalez, a rookie Los Fresnos police officer who had pulled him over for speeding.

The execution took place after a more than four-hour delay as defense attorneys unsuccessfully waged an 11th-hour effort to spare Herrera.

The legal tussle was similar to one in February 1992 when attorneys argued through the night before a reprieve finally was granted just before the death warrant expired at dawn.

In a final statement, Herrera repeatedly proclaimed his innocence. "I am innocent, innocent, innocent," he said.

"And make no mistake about this. I owe society nothing. I would like to encourage all those who stood by me to continue the struggle for human rights and continue to help those who are innocent, especially Mr. Graham," he said, referring to a fellow death row inmate, Gary Graham, who is facing execution next month and is claiming innocence.

"I am an innocent man," Herrera continued. "And something very wrong is taking place tonight."

He was pronounced dead at 4:49 a.m., 10 minutes after the lethal drugs began flowing into his arms.

Prison officials had until sunrise, 6:31 a.m., to carry out the execution. The execution night delay was the longest ever in Texas before the punishment was carried out, exceeding the 3:44 a.m. time of death for Edward Ellis, who was executed March 3, 1992 for a Houston slaying in 1983.

Outside the prison today, about four dozen death penalty opponents chanted and held candles and signs protesting the execution. Their numbers dwindled to about 20 as the night wore on.

Demonstrators, however, for the first time brought in a huge searchlight that scanned the skies. One of them, Mike Heath, said the light was intended to "search for justice."

Carrisalez was one of two policemen slain moments apart Sept. 29, 1981 in South Texas' Cameron County. Herrera, convicted and condemned for the Carrisalez death, pleaded guilty and received a life sentence for shooting David Rucker, a Texas state trooper who prosecutors said also had pulled him over for speeding.

The execution, the second in two weeks and the fourth this year in Texas, came despite a campaign by Herrera's attorneys and supporters who insisted his brother, Raul, slain in 1984, was the person who killed both officers.

Gov. Ann Richards and the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles this week were given results of polygraph tests and videos of Herrera's relatives who insisted Raul Herrera was responsible for the slayings.

The claims of innocence were not new, surfacing last year when attorneys won Herrera his early morning reprieve. The polygraph material, obtained in recent weeks, was the focus of today's legal battle.

State attorneys said early today the polygraph tests, not allowed as evidence in state and federal courts, were flawed and that physical evidence to convict him was overwhelming.

Early this year, the high court upheld Herrera's conviction and sentence, saying in a landmark ruling that inmates generally may not make new claims of innocence in federal court once all other appeals have been exhausted.

Lawyers also had asked the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals to waive a state requirement that new claims of innocence must be filed within 30 days of conviction. Another appeal challenged the jury selection at Herrera's trial, contending his defense attorneys at trial were incompetent and questioned his mental competence.

State attorneys described the claims as bogus.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled for the final time just before 4 a.m. and Herrera was taken to the death chamber about 20 minutes later.

Richards, who halted an execution two weeks ago when similar questions of innocence were raised in the case of death row inmate Gary Graham, on Tuesday rejected Herrera's request for a 30-day reprieve.

An eyewitness who was riding with Carrisalez identified Herrera as the gunman. The officer, before dying of his wounds several days after he was shot, also identified Herrera. Herrera's Social Security card was found near the slain trooper's body and Rucker's blood was found on Herrera's clothing and wallet. When Herrera was arrested five days after the shooting, he was carrying in his wallet a written note explaining the shootings.

Firm to host new seminar

Ike Stevens Jr., of the Hereford representative for Edward D. Jones & Co., will host a seminar titled "Revitalizing Main Street: A Working Session for Business Leaders," on Wednesday, May 18.

The program, to be broadcast live via satellite from Jones' St. Louis, Mo., headquarters, is a follow-up to a program held in March introducing the topic of business revitalization.

Stevens said a second program wasn't planned, "but requests for more details was so great, another program seemed natural." He added that "it's an opportunity for anyone involved, or interested, in economic renewal to get some hands-on information about funding and maintaining such a program."

Featured speakers for the broadcast are Kennedy Smith, director of the National Main Street Center in Washington, D.C., and David Taylor, partner and founder of the consulting firm Taylor & Taylor Associates.

The financial-services firm of Edward D. Jones & Co. began offering continuing education to small business owners in 1991. More than 10,000 business owners participated in the 1992 series of four programs.

For more information on the program, contact Stevens at his office, 508 S. 25 Mile Ave.

LIFE BEGINS AT 80!

One day as Moses was nearing his 80th birthday, it came into his mind to visit his brothers, the people of Israel. During this visit he saw an Egyptian mistreating a man of Israel. So Moses killed the Egyptian. Moses supposed his brothers would realize that God had sent him to help them, but they didn't.

The next day he visited them again and saw two men of Israel fighting. He tried to be a peacemaker, "Gentlemen," he said, "you are brothers and shouldn't be fighting like this! It is wrong!"

But the man in the wrong told Moses to mind his own business. "Who made you a ruler and judge over us?" he asked. "Are you going to kill me as you killed that Egyptian yesterday?"

At this, Moses fled the country, and lived in the land of Midian, where his two sons were born. Forty years later, in the desert near Mount Sinai, an Angel appeared to him in a flame of fire in a bush. Moses saw it and wondered what it was, and as he ran to see, the voice of the Lord called out to him, "I am the God of your ancestors--of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob." Moses shook with terror and dared not look.

And the Lord said to him, "Take off your shoes, for you are standing on holy ground. I have seen the anguish of My people in Egypt and have heard their cries. I have come down to deliver them. Come, I will send you to Egypt."

And so God sent back the same man His people had previously rejected by demanding, "Who made you a ruler and judge over us?"

Hotel tips for travelers

It's time to think about hitting the open road again. Whether you plan to travel over the Memorial Day weekend or during the summer months, a bit of planning will make your jaunt a whole lot easier. If you'll be staying at a hotel, try to book your room as soon as possible. Here are some tips for those overnight stays.

Hotel rates frequently can be negotiated over the phone. Ask about special promotions, coupons and weekend family rates as well as discounts for senior citizens and the military. And be sure to ask if the hotel has a pool, a must after a hot day on the road.

Bring along a night light to use in the hotel room and never, never leave home without your child's security blanket or a cuddly toy.

If traveling with a toddler, take a few minutes to child-proof the room upon arrival. For example, hang a towel over the top of an open bathroom door. If your child wanders into the bathroom and tries to close the door, he/she won't accidentally be locked inside.

Eat a simple breakfast in your room before you strike out for the day. You save both money and time. Serve cereal, milk and juice. A clever breakfast-on-the-road idea comes from a reader, Charlotte Duchesne of Silver Spring, Md. She suggests serving cereal and milk in a scooped-out cavity of a cantaloupe half.

If your final destination is Walt Disney World, compare hotel prices both on and off Disney property. Take into consideration that staying on the property allows you to use an efficient and free shuttle bus service to attractions. Be sure to ask if the gates to the magic Kingdom open an hour early, before the general public arrives. Your kids can fly through many of their favorite rides almost "line-free."

The reticulated glass frog of Central and South America has transparent skin that helps it blend in with the leaves of the plants where it lives.

Annual meeting scheduled

The Deaf Smith County Historical Society has planned its annual luncheon and business meeting for 11:30 a.m. Monday, May 17, in the home of Carmen Flood. The business agenda will include the election of 1993-94 officers and three directors. Those planning to attend may make reservations by calling Donna Brockman, executive director of the Deaf Smith County Museum, at 364-4338 by May 15. Discussing the event are Historical Society members, from left, Theresa Artho, Betty Kreigshauser and Ella Marie Veigel.

Casey Stengel (1890-1975), managed the Yankees to ten pennants and seven championships.

Create friendly surprise

If you have a dingy lampshade that has lost its pizzazz, revive it to brighten your kids' bedroom or a nursery. It's an earth-friendly idea and it saves money too. You'll be showing your kids the value of fixing up a castoff instead of throwing it away.

Here are easy steps to cover a standard (no pleats) lampshade:

1 - To make a pattern for your lampshade cover, lay a large piece of tissue paper or newspaper on your work surface. Beginning and ending with the seam of the shade, slowly roll the shade on its side, outlining it on the paper with a pencil. Outline both the top and bottom edges of the shade. Add an extra half-inch at the seam end. Draw straight lines to connect the top and bottom at the ends. Cut out the pattern.

2 - For the new shade cover, choose a piece of fabric or leftover wallpaper the size of the pattern. Place the pattern on the fabric or wallpaper and cut.

3 - Glue the new cover to the shade along the seam and edges. The 1/2-inch allowance should overlap at the seam of the lampshade. Glue on ribbon or decorative trim along the edges if you wish.

For a lampshade with a "surprise" Ask your child to make a small sketch of an object such as a star, heart or alphabet letter. Cut out the sketch to make a pattern. Before applying the wallpaper or fabric to the shade, tape the pattern to the shade. An adult or older child may poke holes 1/8-inch apart into the shade (this will not work on a plastic-backed shade) with a hat pin or darning needle using the pattern as a guide. Remove the pattern from the lamp, and glue on the fabric or wallpaper. Don't let the glue fill the punctures on the lampshade.

At nighttime, your child will be delighted to see the secret pattern shining through the shade covering when the lamp is turned on.

CHULA VISTA, Calif. (AP) - TV star Mario Lopez of the comedy "Saved by the Bell" has been accused of raping an 18-year-old woman who had gone to his home to watch movies with him.

"What we have here, basically, is an allegation of date rape," Detective John McAvenia said Monday.

Pharmacies offer helpful products

Think you're pregnant? There is now a quick and accurate way to find out.

Available now in pharmacies is a pregnancy test used previously only in physicians' offices. The release of such an accurate product, by Becton Dickinson, is being rapidly accepted by health professionals and is also being eagerly anticipated by women of childbearing age.

The test combines the reliability which doctors depend upon with the simple features which will make it accessible for the average woman. Most women simply wait until they see their physician to seek a definitive diagnosis, such a time interval, however, is the one which spans the most critical time of early fetal development.

Most women do not learn of their pregnancy until well into the second month of the first trimester, while doctors have established the 17th to the 56th day as the most critical time of tissue growth for a developing fetus.

Once a woman is aware of her condition, she can manage that development with the best possible medical outcome.

In addition to having a 99 percent accuracy rate, the test which is sold under the Precise brand combines a single step procedure with a one minute result. The company hopes to encourage greater prenatal care with a public service campaign which will ask women the question, "Are you ready for pregnancy?"

To this end, they will also include a checklist with each test which contains queries of medical and genetic histories as well as nutritional habits in order to assist a woman in following the healthiest path to childbirth. To find out more about this new product, ask your pharmacist.
