

Inmates Riot at Three Institutions

Michigan Prison Riots Quelled

Michigan prisoners who thought they were going to miss holiday meals and recreation time because of an unauthorized "lockdown" set off a riot that spread to a reformatory 100 miles away, injuring a total of 42 inmates, prison officials say.

Fires burned inside the Southern Michigan Prison in Jackson, the world's largest walled prison, and the Michigan Reformatory in Ionia before both riots were quelled early today.

Officials said all 5,600 inmates at the prison in Jackson were behind bars after the 14-hour disturbance Friday by 800 prisoners.

Authorities said the inmates had heard the guards were planning to go on strike to protest staff shortages. The guards' union denied that, saying only that guards planned to lock prisoners in their cells to make an unauthorized search for weapons.

Platoons of guards and state police that swept through the 500-inmate Michigan Reformatory had forced all the inmates there back to their cells today.

Ionia Warden Dale Foltz said officials believed the riot at Ionia was sparked by news of the Jackson uprising.

"I suspect the Jackson Prison uprising had influenced the youthful offenders in here, that that would be the way to go," Foltz said.

Eighteen inmates at Ionia and 24 at Jackson were injured, most of them victims of violence by fellow inmates, prison officials said.

A high school building, two cell blocks and a guard post were damaged by fire at Ionia.

At Jackson, fire damaged the maximum-security dining area, kitchen and a prison school building. The inmates' store was looted and destroyed by fire, as was a 30-bed housing unit.

Meanwhile in Carson City, Nev., inmates at the Nevada Maximum Security Prison seized three guards late Friday and went on a rampage through their cellblock area, beating and stabbing another inmate, authorities said.

Prison officials said they had talked to the captive guards by phone and determined they were unharmed.

The Nevada inmates had not submitted a list of demands.

"I don't think there's any question that what occurred to those prisoners (at Jackson) was unfair and unjustified," said Perry Johnson, Michigan state corrections department director. He said steps would be taken against guards found "culpable."

Johnson said prison guards, unhappy with staff shortages due to a tight budget for the Michigan Department of Corrections, circulated word among Jackson inmates that they would be locked in their cells for much of the Memorial Day weekend.

Bob Berg, a spokesman for Gov. William Millikin, said the guards told the inmates, "We're going to go on strike."

"We did not threaten to go on strike," said the president of the guards' union, Jerry Frey, "we wanted a complete shutdown of the institution." Prisoners were to be locked in their cells and searched for weapons, he said. Two guards were assaulted at the prison Thursday and the union contended the guards' safety was in jeopardy.

French Cabinet Posts Filled

PARIS (AP) — French President Francois Mitterrand has put together a transition government dominated by moderate Socialists, devoid of Communists and aimed at proving the left can govern capably in the weeks before next month's crucial parliamentary elections.

The sheer number of Cabinet and Cabinet-level posts announced Friday also gave the impression of permanence and stability. It triggered speculation that Mitterrand will govern with much the same team if the left can win a legislative majority in June.

In all, 28 ministers, 12 secretaries of state, a major new ministry covering public service and social welfare and a new Cabinet post for maritime affairs were unveiled on Friday, just 24 hours after Mitterrand took office.

Six of the 42 posts went to women.

Mitterrand's selections reflect the various currents in his own Socialist Party but lean heavily on the centrist faction.

Without the help of moderate voters in the upcoming elections for the National Assembly, or Parliament, Mitterrand stands little chance of ousting the center-right majority that has governed France for the past 23 years.

Mitterrand dissolved the

Defeated Reagan Heads For Rest & Relaxation

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan, eager to return to the saddle after eight weeks of recuperating from a gunshot wound, is back home at his California ranch, ending a week that saw his first setback in Congress.

As Reagan left Washington on Friday, the talk was of his plans to revamp the Social Security system by discouraging retirement before the age of 65. His chief aide made it clear aboard Air Force One that the president, trounced 96-0 in a Senate vote that reflected serious bipartisan doubts about his proposal, was willing to listen to other ideas.

"The important thing is to get some real dialogue going," said presidential counselor Edwin Meese III as Reagan's jet flew west. "We'll look at any ideas that come forward."

When the president walked out of the White House on Friday afternoon, not planning to return until Tuesday evening, he told reporters he would be horseback riding "first thing in the morning."

The trip to the 688-acre ranch in the Santa Ynez mountains northwest of Santa Barbara is the first by Reagan and his wife, Nancy, since he was shot in an assassination attempt March 30.

Horseback riding and chopping wood, his other favorite ranch activity, had been restricted while he recuperated from his chest wound.

The president chatted briefly aboard Air Force One with Sen. S.I. Hayakawa and Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., two opponents in the race for the Republican senatorial nomination in California next year. Reagan, clad in a knit, open-collared shirt, also worked on a speech he will give Wednesday at the U.S. Military Academy.

As soon as Air Force One landed at Point Magu Naval Air Station in Oxnard, Reagan and his wife headed for a waiting Marine Corps helicopter that carried them to their mountaintop ranch.

Hostages Freed In Carson City

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Three prison guards held captive by a gun-toting inmate for 10 hours were released unharmed today after a special weapons team, behind a spray of automatic gunfire, stormed a cellblock at Nevada's Maximum Security Prison.

Twenty-two other inmates who had roamed free in the cellblock overnight, including some from Death Row, were pushed back into their cells as sheriff's deputies moved in.

David "Bang Bang" Wayne, 37, who allegedly took the hostages, surrendered after prison officials agreed to let him talk to his girlfriend, Terry Nason, officials said. Wayne, who has taken hostages at the prison in the past, also requested and got 150 milligrams of Demerol, a sedative, said Steve Robinson, Administration Services Officer.

The first guard released in the pre-dawn raid on the prison, 30 miles south of Reno, was Clarence Herig. Then, after about two hours of negotiations, guards Dean Straicchio and Mike Stafford also were released unharmed, Robinson said.

The guards were seized Friday night after a brief (See RELEASE, Page 2A)

Mishap Kills Local Woman

A 39-year-old Westway woman was killed instantly when struck by a pickup truck seven miles west of Hereford on FM 1058 around 10:15 p.m. Friday.

Martha Ann Chavez, of Rt. 4, Westway, was walking east on the road when she was struck by a pickup truck driven by Homer Rudd of Hereford. Rudd was also eastbound on the road, and was driving his wife to her job in Hereford when the accident took place.

According to Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal, Mrs. Chavez was killed instantly when hit by the truck. She was wearing a dark green fatigue jacket and blue jeans when killed.

German Chancellor Likes Reagan Better

WASHINGTON (AP) — West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, who did not get along well with former President Carter, is finding the new occupant of the White House much more to his liking.

At a news conference late Friday, Schmidt was asked whether his discussions with President Reagan had been more satisfactory than those with Carter.

"It would not be polite to say yes," he replied, "but it wouldn't be honest to refuse that reply."

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said Friday that Schmidt found Reagan to be a "thoughtful man of deep conviction, a man who recognizes the essentiality of sound intimate relationships on a bilateral basis between Bonn and Washington."

The chancellor, Haig reported, was "100 percent satisfied" with the outcome of his first official visit to Washington since Reagan's inauguration.

At the conclusion of their meeting Friday, Reagan and Schmidt issued a joint statement in which they mixed harsh anti-Soviet rhetoric with pledges to maintain a dialogue with Moscow.

The statement reflected a compromise between the Reagan administration's desire to contain perceived Soviet adventurism and West Germany's insistence that communication with Moscow be maintained.

Senators Debate

Beach Traffic

AUSTIN, Texas — There was plenty of talk in the Senate Friday about traffic on Texas beaches but no decisions.

Sen. James Brown, R-Lake Jackson, asked consideration of his bill to allow cities or counties to prohibit vehicle traffic on beaches provided they furnish adequate access roads to the beach and nearby parking.

"This is just a back door to closing the beaches of Texas," claimed Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi.

"No, this would open the beaches and make them safer," said Brown.

He said a 4-year old girl was run over in the sandunes near Angleton last year.

Truan, accompanied by Sens. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, and Bob Vales, D-San Antonio, continued talking against the bill from 11:20 a.m. until the scheduled 2 p.m. debate on redistricting.

Truan began his delaying tactics again at 6:30 p.m.

"This would let owners of condominiums and beach houses claim big chunks of beach for themselves and shut down the beach to the public," he said.

Efforts were made to shut off Truan's discussion but a vote showed only 19 senators present, not enough to do business.

The Senate voted to adjourn to Saturday without a vote on the bill.

Credit Card Interest

Back on Sales Tax

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The state would get half the interest that stores and credit card companies collect from the sales tax portion of installment purchases under a bill that has advanced in the Texas House.

Representatives tentatively approved the bill on voice vote Friday and were expected to pass it to the Senate today.

Sponsors are Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, and Speaker Bill Clayton.

The bill would raise an estimated $44.8 million over the next two years for the Higher Education Endowment Fund that Clayton has proposed. The fund would finance construction, building repairs and library acquisitions at state colleges outside the Texas A&M and University of Texas systems.

Peveto explained the bill with this illustration:

A consumer buys a $500 refrigerator on the installment plan. A $25 sales tax is added to the purchase price. The department store charges interest each month on the total, including the sales tax. But the store does not remit the sales tax to the state until the consumer finishes paying for the refrigerator.

The bill would give half the interest charged on the sales tax portion of the customer's bill to the state. The retailer could keep the other half.

If the interest exceeded 18 percent, everything above 9 percent would go to the state.

"These are state dollars that belong to the state," Peveto said of the interest earned on the sales tax portion of an installment purchase.

Oral Confession

Bill Advances

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A bill allowing prosecutors to use defendants' oral statements as evidence against them has been changed in the House to require police to tell suspects when their words are being recorded.

The change could damage chances of passing an oral confessions bill because senators voted overwhelmingly against a similar amendment in April.

House members tentatively approved the bill Friday, with a final vote expected today.

Passage would send the bill back to the Senate for action on House amendments, including the notice requirement. If senators reject the changes, a House-Senate conference committee would try to reach a compromise before the Legislature adjourns June 1.

Gov. Bill Clements recommended the measure as part of his anti-crime program. Texas is the only state that requires confessions — with a few exceptions — to be in writing.

Rep. Ted Lyon, D-Dallas, won approval of the amendment requiring police to inform suspects when their statements are being videotaped or tape recorded.

"We are dealing with the rights of individuals. ... Did he (the suspect) know he really and truly was in a situation where he could go to prison when he said what he said?" Lyon said.

Lyon, a former policeman, told the House, "Never in five years did I have any trouble getting anybody to write out a confession. ... Good police officers can get them to put them (confessions) in writing."

"Based on my experience we are going to have a lot of people convicted of crimes they did not do" if the oral confessions bill becomes law, Lyon said.

Pope Declared Out of Danger

ROME (AP) — Doctors today declared Pope John Paul II out of danger from the gunshot wounds he suffered in the attempt on his life 10 days ago. They said he should be out of the hospital within 60 days.

In their daily medical bulletin, attending physicians said the pontiff's temperature was normal for the first time since he was shot in the abdomen.

The doctors said that the next bulletin would not be issued until Thursday, a further sign of the 61-year-old pope's recovery.

With his last 14 stitches removed, the pope is planning a worldwide radio address Sunday in a direct Vatican Radio hookup from his hospital room, Vatican officials said.

Italian police, meanwhile, said they have evidence the Turkish terrorist charged with shooting the pope and two American women bystanders had an accomplice.

Doctors took out the last stitches from the pontiff's abdomen and back Friday and declared that he was making satisfactory progress. His slight fever was continuing, however, causing them to delay lifting their "guarded" prognosis.

A Vatican source said the pope might be well enough to bless the faithful at noon Sunday from a hospital balcony in addition to making the radio address.

"I was greatly pleased to find His Holiness in great shape, much better than in my two previous visits," President Sandro Pertini said after a 30-minute chat with the pope. "We had a nice talk, between good old friends."

"We agreed to eat pizza together when he gets out."

The 61-year-old pontiff is now eating strained eggs, creamed carrots, cooked fruit and juices, a Vatican spokesman, the Rev. Pierfranco Pastore, said. He sits up in an armchair and watches black-and-white television in his room at Gemelli Polyclinic Hospital.

Doctors at Rome's Santo Spirito Hospital said the two women wounded along with the pope were recovering from chest and elbow wounds and receiving "an avalanche" of flowers from friends.

Ann Odre, 58, of Buffalo N.Y., "is feeling so much better" and Rose Hall of Wuerzburg, West Germany, will be discharged from the hospital Sunday, the doctors said.

An Italian police investigator said that Mehmet Ali Agca, the 23-year-old convicted killer who allegedly shot the pope, has given his interrogators the name of an accomplice.

The man, tentatively identified as Hassan Taskin, was believed to be a member of a right-wing group of Turkish nationalists in West Germany called the Gray Wolves, he said.

The investigator, who asked not to be identified, said police have no evidence the alleged accomplice was directly involved in the shooting of the pope, but that he might have aided Agca in other crimes.

Rightists Threaten to Blow Up Bank with 200 Hostages

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — A band of 20 gunmen, identified by police as right-wing extremists, seized the Central Bank of Barcelona and more than 200 hostages at gunpoint today and threatened to blow up the building unless military men imprisoned in an abortive rightist coup are freed.

A spokesman said police had unconfirmed reports that bombs were placed in some of the bank's windows.

Telephone communications with the bank were cut as police besieged the bank.

More than 30 police cars surrounded the bank and a squad of men from the police anti-terrorist task force was headed to this northern city by plane from Madrid, the spokesman said.

A bank employee late for work tipped police to the seizure after he saw scores of people inside with their hands in the air.

About 400 employees were at the four-story bank building observing the normal Saturday working day when the gunmen entered.

Police sources said a typed note found at a telephone booth demanded the release of four military men jailed for their participation in an abortive right-wing military coup in Madrid three months ago today as the top condition for the release of the hostages.

The takeover comes a week before the scheduled arrival here of King Juan Carlos, who has agreed to preside over the annual Armed Forces Day military parade in this northern city.

Extreme rightists claim the king is a traitor because he personally thwarted the coup attempt.

Police said at least one person was shot and wounded in the morning takeover, but reporters at the scene said ambulances took away about 15 people apparently injured in the takeover.

The Interior Ministry said the wounded person was a bank employee, shot to intimidate the hostages.

The gunmen threatened to shoot one hostage an hour until their demands are met, police said.

PERRYTON — After rescinding its referendum order Sunday, the Perryton school board opted to settle the question themselves Monday night and subsequently voted to build the physical education-activities center at the PHS campus.

In light of serious legal questions surrounding the May 26 referendum, the board met in emergency session to consider rescinding the call for a referendum.

Dale Hoover, board president, stated the board's calling of the referendum vote was done with good intention and in good faith. In the light of legal complexities and the almost certain law suit which would be filed against board members for proceeding with the vote, Hoover said he was for rescinding the motion.

DUMAS — An unusual 2-1 vote by the Dumas city commission Monday night adopted a resolution covering the sale of city water outside the city limits—but it took a morning of research by City Atty. Bill Minkley to rule that the vote actually set a policy.

The resolution rules out the sale of water outside the Dumas city limits for businesses raising animals, but it leaves open water sales for some other businesses.

The policy was noteworthy, but the way it got voted might have been more interesting. Two city commissioners voted for the resolution, two abstained and Mayor Mike Salim voted against it. The net vot was 2-1 for the resolution.

Executives of Royal Park made the decision because the company has 100,000 pair of the slacks in stock and retailers report slow sales for the slacks.

House Defeats Bill Repealing Inspections

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An attempt to repeal Texas' law requiring annual safety inspections of all automobiles and trucks has failed in the House.

Representatives voted 78-62 on Friday to table the repeal bill by Rep. Jim Horn, R-Denton, who had made ridding Texas of the inspection requirement his top legislative priority.

The decision was a reversal of Thursday's 74-66 vote in favor of Horn's bill.

Horn contended other states were repealing their inspection requirements because they had learned safety check-ups did not prevent accidents.

"To have a law requiring you to get your vehicle inspected one day a year has no value," Horn said.

His bill would have put 118 DPS safety inspection supervisors in highway patrol cars and raised driver license fees to make up for the $5 inspection charges that would be lost.

Rep. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, said Department of Public Safety figures indicated that 3 percent of last year's traffic deaths resulted from motor vehicle defects, compared with 13 percent before the inspection law was passed in 1953.

Kubiak said 26 percent of the vehicles inspected in 1980 had defects in safety equipment, compared with 79 percent when the inspection program began.

"If we save one child's life ... it is well worth the inconvenience," he said.

The Kids, Inc. summer baseball and softball program for boys and girls is underway, and it is an appropriate time to re-print a poem that we published last year:

Just A Little Boy
He stands at the plate with heart pounding fast.
The bases are loaded; the die has been cast.
Mom and Dad cannot help him, he stands there alone.
A hit at this moment would send the team home.
The ball meets the plate; he swings and he misses.
There's a groan from the crowd, with some boos and some hisses.
A thoughtless voice cries out, "Strike out the bum."
Tears fill his eyes; the game's no longer fun.
So open your heart and give him a break.

'How to Solarize Your House' Available at County Library

Gift to Assistant Principal

DIANNE PIERSON County Librarian

If you are planning to renovate some area of your home this summer, you will want to check out the new books available this week at the Deaf Smith County Library. HOW TO SOLARIZE YOUR HOUSE by Thomas Scott Dean and Jay W. Hodson is a step-by-step practical guide to installing an economical, workable solar heating unit in your home. It describes how to design, construct, and install in a new or existing house a liquid-cooled, flatplate, solar system for space and water heating.

HOW TO SOLARIZE YOUR HOME covers thoroughly the design and fabrication of piping systems, the sizing of pumps, and various methods of thermal storage. Numerous photographs and drawings aid in determining how big a system you need and where to build it, and charts, tables, images and nomographs will simplify your calculations.

Thirteen years ago, Clem Labine quit the rat race of Manhattan and, with his family, moved into an old brownstone in Brooklyn, NY. While researching information for renovating this old house, Labine discovered that no adequate literature existed on the subject; so he went to work and, in 1973, he launched a monthly newsletter for people, like himself, who wanted to know about restoration and maintenance techniques for the antique house.

THE OLD-HOUSE JOURNAL COMPEDIUM is organized into chapters corresponding to the parts of the house. It consists of solid information that is written with charm and humor. THE OLD-HOUSE JOURNAL COMPEDIUM includes practical illustrations, new chapters on buying an old house, and a detailed index of all relevant terms.

Heat loss through windows is a critical, but correctable, problem for the designer, builder and homeowner alike. THERMAL SHUTTERS & SHADES by William Shurcliff includes over 100 schemes for reducing heat loss through windows.

All devices described in THERMAL SHUTTERS & SHADES are calculated for efficiency and cost-effectiveness. The emphasis is on simple, low-cost schemes, including many that can be built from inexpensive or recycled materials. He also includes evaluations of commercially available shutters and shades. Many of the devices described can be used for summer cooling.

WINDOWS AND WALLS allows you to be your own interior decorator while providing cost-cutting alternatives to seeking professional help. It is a complete workbook designed to show you how to color your world with paint, fabric, and innovative ideas.

Alexandra Eames includes an illustrated chapter on problems and solutions for difficult windows. She also shows how to create a mood, shield from the elements, and how to combine function with good looks. Wallcoverings are treated with an equal dose of thoroughness. For the innovative, WINDOWS & WALLS offers 10 particularly ingenious projects to adorn your windows with that special personal flair.

Other books available on renovating and decorating your home are SOFT FURNISHINGS by Designer's Guild, which includes curtains, pillows, slipcovers, blinds, and upholstery. Reader's Digest BACK TO BASICS, HOME HEATING WITH COAL by Steve Sherman, and BUILD YOUR HARVEST KITCHEN by Rodale Press.

Other new books available this week are Hal Lindsey's 1980-COUNT-DOWN TO ARMAGEDDON, MURDER MOST STRANGE by Dell Shannon, and THE GARDEN OF WEAPONS by John Gardner.

Seafood Made Easy

COLLEGE STATION - Step into the world of culinary adventure unknown with an exotic recipe that doesn't take exotic skills - Curried Seafood.

Curry dishes whisper of the mystical Orient, but in essence this recipe is simply fish cooked in a cream sauce with an interesting combination of spices.

Annette Reddell Hagen, a seafood consumer education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, suggests this recipe for company.

When you're entertaining special guests and really want to be festive, get out the chafing dish for this exquisite fare, she adds.

Since a chafing dish uses a gentle source of heat, it may take 45 minutes or even longer to do the cooking in it, so be sure you've planned your evening accordingly.

Or, if you don't have that much time, prepare the recipe on the range, and then transfer the finished mixture to the chafing dish to keep it hot. For the fish, most Texas finfish would be excellent, or you can substitute shrimp (deveined and peeled) or flaked crab meat.

Any of these cook quickly and their flavors blend well with the sauce.

To make dish truly authentic, serve traditional condiments, such as toasted slivered almonds, chutney, freshly grated coconut, chopped, hardcooked eggs, fresh pineapple and crisp bacon bits.

CURRIED FISH OR SHELLFISH

1 pound fresh fish fillets (or fresh, peeled, deveined shrimp or flaked crabmeat)

1/4 cup margarine or butter

1/4 cup minced onion

1/2 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper

1 can (3 ounces) sliced mushrooms

1/4 teaspoon grated lemon rind

1 teaspoon lemon juice

2 teaspoons curry powder

1 teaspoon sugar

1/2 teaspoon ginger

4 tablespoons flour

2 cups milk or half-and-half

1 tablespoon diced pimientos

Hot rice, biscuits or patty shells

Melt margarine in blazer pan of chafing dish over direct low flame. Stir in seasonings and onion.

Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is thick and smooth.

Stir in lemon juice and rind. Fold in fish or shellfish, mushrooms and pimientos.

Cook until seafood is done.

Fish will flake easily when tested with a fork and shrimp becomes tender.

Makes six servings.

Says Specialist

Daydreaming Can Be Healthy

COLLEGE STATION - Daydreams can create your future, a family life education specialist says.

And they can create a quiet resting "place" for a short time during the day, so they're useful for two reasons, Dr. Betty Jo Smith adds.

Dr. Smith is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Admitting she's not advocating "dreaming one's life away" as most people were cautioned against during childhood, the specialist contends that daydreams have a definite place in life when used to an individual's advantage.

Daydreams have a real bearing on the future when a person does a little imagining about it, Dr. Smith says.

For example, daydreaming about upcoming events can provide an individual with the opportunity to imagine the event from a variety of perspectives.

He or she can actually create various scenarios of the event and imagine playing a variety of roles.

Is this healthy? Yes, indeed, the specialist says.

In fact, people who tend to daydream about upcoming events and those who imagine themselves in various roles tend to be better prepared and, therefore, more successful in dealing with the event.

Daydreaming about future events also may give the individual a chance to assess the event in more realistic terms.

And since people become, or do, what they think they will - be it "good or "bad" - daydreaming may help a person perceive the future more realistically and, perhaps, in a more positive manner, Dr. Smith explains.

By having considered all of one's alternative behaviors, an individual can choose what he or she feels is the most appropriate and advantageous behavior, she adds.

This tends to build a person's feelings of self-confidence, and, hence, individuals tend to perform better, the specialist says.

Daydreaming can provide a second useful tool for people's lives as a stress reducer, Dr. Smith says.

That is, if they are short, particularly relaxing daydreams the individual enjoys, they can help.

If that is the case, it may be worth the time to take a few minutes during the day to become fully engrossed in a relaxing daydream, the specialist advises.

People who use this relaxation technique often daydream about being near cool mountain streams or sitting at the kitchen window watching a soft, quiet rain or soaking up the sun and watching the waves roll in along the Gulf, she says.

Whatever or wherever a favorite relaxing "place" might be, daydreams can take a person there in a moment and provide a few minutes of rest in that favorite "place," the specialist says.

Wright Wrong

We noted with interest the comments this week by Evans and Novak, syndicated writers for a number of large daily newspapers, regarding the normally placid dinner of the Texas Democratic congressional delegation.

Novak says it turned into a rhubarb when Majority Leader Jim Wright accused unnamed colleagues of disloyalty in backing President Reagan's economic package.

Reports indicated that Rep. Ralph Hall repeatedly asked Wright to reveal just whom he was talking about and Wright repeatedly refused. Finally, Congressman Kent Hance volunteered that Wright meant him.

Wright was a dandy in his younger days—the rising star in the Texas delegation. But his liberal views in recent years have put him along side Ted Kennedy. Wright seems to think the art of politics lies in securing as many federal handouts as you can for your district and voting party lines regardless of the direction.

At the congressional luncheon, it was reported that Hance told Wright to his face that he was out of touch with the times.

We believe Hance is right, and he is a better democrat than Wright. Hance is a West Texan, an American, and a man who has felt the pulse of his constituents. He is voting his conviction that Texans and Americans are ready for some common-sense approaches to government waste and bureaucracy.

That approach may appear to be "defection" in the eyes of the liberal Wright, but we're thankful we have a guy in Washington representing us who has the guts to oppose the "leadership" of his party when it is in the best interests of the nation.

If you have the time and the interest, and the desire to offer encouragement to your congressman in Washington, I'm sure Kent Hance could use it now better than at anytime in his political career.

Write: Cong. Kent Hance, U.S. House of Representatives, 1039 Longworth Bldg., Washington, D.C. 20515.

Voice of Business

For Art's Sake

WASHINGTON—President Reagan's proposal to reduce planned increases in federal spending for the National Endowment for the Arts and Humanities has provoked a loud chorus of boos from the artistic community. Many artists fear that following these cuts the impressive public support for the arts in recent years will disappear as quickly as a one-night stand.

I disagree. To draw a parallel, it seems to me this is a perfect example of how you can be in favor of institutions like motherhood and church; however, just because they might be threatened does not mean you have to save them by allowing Uncle Sam to become a mother and a preacher. By continually subsidizing one group of activities in our society (in this case, the arts), simply because certain individuals consider them essential to society as a whole, we are institutionalizing a kind of apple-pie socialism.

Several times in recent years different franchises in the National Football League, the National Basketball Association and the National Hockey League have run into financial difficulties. But does that mean we should subsidize professional football, basketball and hockey? And once we do that, what's next? The point is we live in a market system and there is absolutely no justification for the federal government getting involved, except to provide seed money as a means of generating enough additional voluntary support to keep these activities self-sustaining. For example, the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston has used a $2 million grant to launch a capital drive which has raised $21.5 million.

I believe there are four steps that could, and should, be taken to strengthen the viability of the arts while reducing federal subsidies. One, let's stop throwing money away on utterly silly projects, such as taking pictures to capture the artistic effect of colored toilet paper thrown out of airplanes.

Two, we must increase the market revenue of projects currently being or scheduled to be funded. Every small businessman in America understands that market promotion is one of his first responsibilities.

Three, at the same time, we must reduce wasteful costs and expenditures of funded projects by careful budgeting of fees to actors, actresses and musicians.

Finally, we must all help promote increased voluntary funding of the arts, which is in the best American tradition. Americans are the most charitable people on earth, and the President himself pointed out that we have supported with voluntary contributions "more musical groups, more orchestras, more ballets, more opera, more nonprofit theater, more cultural institutions like libraries than all the rest of the world put together."

Certainly this is a far more preferable way to go than having government arbitrarily subsidize this or that group with involuntary contributions extracted through the tax system. Art for art's sake, yes; art as a form of apple-pie socialism, no.

The Penultimate Word

MMMMM MONEY

You must understand where I am in relationship to money. If it were raining gold bricks, I would be out of town. When my ship comes in I will go to the airport to meet it. While everyone else was buying gold, my broker said, "Buy lead since it is heavier than gold, there is more of it to a pound." That made sense to me.

Lately, I have been bombarded by so many deals my head is swimming. Everyone knows how to make me rich. What is not realized is that God has spent my whole life trying to keep me poor and humble. He managed the poor part. There is no way for me to ever be rich. With my luck, if I inherited all of the oil in Arabia everyone would stop using oil the next day.

I received a magazine of money making opportunities. The thing is full of things I could sell and make my fortune over night. Oil paintings on black velvet, a mini-donut business, a machine to print bumper stickers, an automatic needle threader, a switch-blade comb, and a strip-tease pen.

All of these products are based on the promise that there is a sucker born every minute. What they don't tell us is there is a sucker plucker born every half minute. When I find a sucker he has already been plucked.

My life is like the Ford dealer who found a lamp with a Genie inside. When he rubbed the lamp, the Genie appeared and told the dealer he could have one wish.

Cars had not been selling at all so the Ford dealer was ready with his wish. He asked to be an imported car dealer in the heart of a major city.

The Genie granted the wish and zapped the dealer. When he woke up he was the Chrysler dealer in downtown Tokyo.

Warm fuzzies,
Doug Manning

Chrysler's Timing Inept

On the morning of last May 4, the Japanese, under duress, acquiesced.

The Japanese agreed to curtail exports of their cars to the United States over the next three years; 7.7 percent of the first year.

That same afternoon, Chrysler raised prices again! Incredibly inept timing; a rude finger in the eye of American consumers.

The indifference to the public interest which has characterized some industrialists invites restraints on them all.

The antitrust chief of the Reagan Administration, Assistant Atty. Gen. Bill Baxter, has been wondering if American taxpayers should have bailed out the Chrysler Corporation.

He says the bailout did not rescue the jobs of Chrysler workers. Those workers would have been absorbed by the purchases of the bankrupt properties. Actually, says Baxter, the bailout merely bailed out the wise investors in Chrysler stock.

Can Detroit make a comeback?

Chrysler sales last month were up 51 percent from the same month last year but—sales of imported cars continued to claim a larger share of the American market. Now 28.7 percent—almost one-third cars sold in the United States—are manufactured outside the United States.

And the so-far best response by American car makers is to retool for the manufacture of imitation Japanese cars.

There are some exciting exceptions.

Several heretofore unheard of independents are turning out electric cars with ever-improving performance specs.

A former GM executive named De Lorean, in a factory in Northern Ireland, is turning out a stainless-steel roadster.

It's expensive; $25,000. Yet more than 10,000 people have already put down cash deposits to buy the car and the first shipload has been delivered in California.

During the big to-do about whether Chrysler should be allowed to go under, there were few public reminders that in the hectic hundred-year history of the motorcar at least 500 U.S. car makers have gone broke.

The result of this culling-out was not catastrophic. On the contrary, the innovative survived and the breed improved.

Now, with curtailed imports and subsidized home-makes—instead of encouraging and rewarding the innovators—we are tending to perpetuate unimaginative imitators.

Among Detroit's new generation chief executive officers (CEOs) there are some who recognize the challenge, that the best way to rebuild profits is to produce for the American public the kind of cars the American public wants.

But the grants may not be sufficiently maneuverable; may be overtaken by upstarts with big ideas.

It's My Turn

Although I am rapidly becoming what most sedentary people would call "a health nut," I thought I had heard everything until a short, almost buried story came across the wire a few days ago.

I'm all for exercise, clean living, clean bodies, and godliness, but a state representative from Dallas had an idea that may be taking things a bit too far.

According to the AP, a bill introduced by Rep. Sam Hudson would create a Capitol area "health facility," including a weight room, indoor track, massage parlour, and sauna. Hudson told the House State Affairs Committee that the facility is needed to "protect the taxpayers' investment in the health of their state officials." Use of the proposed facility would be limited to lawmakers and state employees who work in the Capitol complex.

"It would make for a happier legislature and everything else," Hudson reportedly said.

The only problem is that such a facility would cost the taxpayers of this state $2.5 million, a hefty sum despite initial contentions by Hudson that the outlay "would have no fiscal impact."

The astute solon was quick to revise his opinion, however.

"Two-point-five-million isn't so bad," he told his constituents, explaining that "the pressure on the Legislature and state officials is so bad they really need an outlet where they can let off steam."

He said adding a sauna was not an extravagance.

"After you get through lifting weights and jogging, you need to finish the job properly and relax the muscles," he said.

Committee members took Hudson's proposal somewhat tongue-in-cheek, and one sharp colleague asked Hudson:

"Sam, aren't you afraid that if we do all this, get healthy, lift weights, maybe take karate, we'll stop killing bills and start killing each other?"

Hudson's bill was finally referred to a subcommittee.

Still, the more I think as I write this, the idea might not be so bad. As long as the facility was kept open to the press corps in Austin.

I may dig a bit deeper a look into a job opening there. Maybe Rep. Hudson needs a press secretary.

Bootleg Philosopher

British Royalty

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith County grass farm on Tierra Blanca Creek examines British Royalty this week.

Dear Editor:

To while away the time I was reading a newspaper article about Prince Charles and the British Royalty and how out of touch with modern times the whole thing seems. Why, the British aren't even smart enough to hire a stunt man to fall off Charles' horse for him.

In fact, the idea of "royal blood" and passing the Kingship or Queenship down from one generation to the next without even the fun of holding an election seems sort of ridiculous and I couldn't understand why the English do it, until I read that article.

According to it, the marriage of Prince Charles and Lady Diana next July is expected to bring in over a million tourists who, along with the British common folk themselves, will buy millions of dollars worth of souvenirs, including royal ashtrays, royal coat hangers and anything else tourists will go for. One outfit has already sold 750 spots at windows overlooking the bridal parade route at $335 apiece.

You can figure it, a million tourists spending an average of $1,000 apiece, including doubled hotel room rates out of respect for Royalty, comes to a billion dollars. Since it costs only about a million dollars a year to keep Prince Charles, that's a thousand percent return on their investment. You can see why the British people, especially hotel, restaurant and bus and airline people, support British Royalty. It sure beats some Chamber of Commerce sponsoring a Cunquat Queen.

And not only will tourists flock to England to see the Royal wedding, they flock there even when there isn't such a block-buster event, just to see the changing of the Guard at Buckingham Palace, although as far as I know the Guard has never in 400 years caught anybody trying to sneak in.

The British aren't about to give up their fondness for Royalty, as long as there are democratic tourists alive. It brings in more tourist dollars than the Grand Canyon, Disney Land or Congress, even when it's in session.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A major outbreak of red measles in this far West Texas border city has subsided, leaving medical authorities to puzzle over why the disease struck many area residents who were supposedly immunized against the ailment.

El Paso officials said Thursday they have asked experts at the national Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta to study the unsettling discovery that almost half of the city's recent measles victims had been immunized with a post-1968 vaccine that should have been effective.

"It will probably be quite an extensive, exhaustive study," said Dr. Bernard Rosenblum of the El Paso City-County Health Unit. "As far as I know, this is the first time something like this has happened."

Unusually high numbers of Texans have been infected with measles this year in the lower Rio Grande Valley, San Antonio, Houston and El Paso.

One health official said the disease is still "out of control" in the lower Rio Grande Valley but the number of new cases is dwindling in other parts of the state.

Rosenblum said there has not been a reported case of measles in El Paso for a couple of days, and officials are considering dropping the "epidemic" label next Tuesday.

"We (recently) immunized close to 10,000 kids, and I think that mostly knocked it out," he said.

Dr. Courand Rothe, executive director of the San Antonio Metropolitan Health District, said Thursday that the number of full time clinics in that city administering the red-measles vaccine would be reduced from seven to three because of dwindling attendance.

"I don't think we have a severe outbreak," Rothe said. "We've been staying ahead of an outbreak by contracting persons who were in contact with those who had the measles."

Rothe said 24 cases of measles had been confirmed in San Antonio since April 1, compared to four cases during the same period a year ago.

The measles outbreak that hit Houston and the Lower Rio Grande Valley in February and the El Paso area in March was considered a setback by national disease experts who had hoped to eradicate measles in the United States by the fall of 1982.

Bounty On Poachers In the West

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Payoffs have been made in bars, parking lots, and even brothels, and the names of tipsters who finger the killers are closely guarded.

Officials are out to stop the slaughter of wildlife, and Operation Game Thief — a program that trades cash for information on poachers — is proving a potent and popular weapon.

"The casual poacher, if there is such a thing, probably looks over his shoulder long enough now that the deer has a chance to run off before he has a chance to kill it," said Dan Pursley, assistant chief of law enforcement for the state Department of Game and Fish.

The program, which is funded by private donations, began in 1977. It has a toll-free telephone line and pays for information leading to arrests. Rewards vary, based on the animals involved: $200 for a deer, $300 for an elk.

The success of Operation Game Thief, which state officials say has a conviction rate of 99 percent, has spawned many similar efforts, especially in Western states, with vast wilderness areas. Some states don't offer rewards, but get information anyway — Washington, for example, received 1,250 tips in the first year of its Help Stop Poaching program.

Tipsters have many reasons for coming forward. One bow-and-arrow hunter called Arizona's Help Our Wildlife hotline after he stalked a deer for hours during the bow season only to watch a man jump from a pickup truck and shoot it with a gun.

"That bow-and-arrow fellow was really mad, and not so much because he lost the deer, but that anyone could kill with a gun out of season," said Don Vance of the Arizona Game and Fish Department. "He gave us a description of the other fellow and the pickup's license number and a conviction followed."

Other tipsters call to settle a score.

"We may be talking about ex-girlfriends, ex-wives, ex-buddies," Pursley said in a telephone interview from his office in Santa Fe. "A guy may have sat on something for 20 years that his friend did to him and he never really truly forgave him for..."

"An ex-girlfriend is a fairly typical situation. They have a falling out and she decides she not only could use the money but she might get even with the rascal to boot."

And then there was the mental patient who turned in a staff member at a state facility for killing hawks. The offender, Pursley said, promised "...never to kill one again...because they tasted horrible."

The cash-for-information formula has drawn some criticism. "Some people feel it is not American to be a stool pigeon," Pursley said. "There are some individuals that feel this is not the American way and that it is kind of a big brother tactic."

Number of Rabies Cases In Texas Down This Year

DALLAS (AP) — The number of confirmed rabies cases in Texas has dropped about a third this year, and a state health official speculates that a bill passed by the Texas Legislature could help squelch the spread of the deadly disease.

Experts have confirmed 299 cases through April 1981, compared to 436 during a similar period in 1980, said Dr. William Bilderback of the Texas Department of Health in Austin.

"As we see it, a good number of diseased animals just aren't being reflected in those numbers," he said Thursday. "People are destroying them rather than spending the time or money to have them tested."

Bilderback noted that about five cases go unreported for every one that has been confirmed.

All the lawmakers' measure lacks is Governor Bill Clements' signature. But some angered Texans have complained that counties would be able to regulate pet owners just too much.

The proposal hands counties at least limited power in controlling rabies, allowing them to impose up to 180-day quarantines on movement of animals from areas with confirmed cases.

The measure also would require vaccination and restraint of domestic, carnivorous animals. "They've given us some real strength," Bilderback said. "We're way out in front for the first time. It gives us control techniques."

The disease is a virus that attacks the central nervous system and causes paralysis. A person who comes in contact with a suspected rabid animal must undergo a painful series of shots in the abdomen.

A broad region surrounding Abilene accounts for the heaviest chunk of this year's cases, Bilderback said.

"Unfortunately, there have been a lot of exposures in that area, too," he said. "Those have come either through bites or accidental exposure."

Efforts to track and control the deadly disease are hampered by the sheer size of the sprawling Lone Star State, he said.

In 1979, an outbreak of rabies that ravaged Texas' wildlife was the worst spread of the disease in the state in 25 years.

Pole Position Proves Important in Indy 500

Tragedy Due In Big Race?

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It's a cliché applicable in all sports, to the slugger who hasn't homered in a week or two, the receiver who hasn't caught the bomb for a few games — and the race-car driver who hasn't come close to a checkered flag.

"He's due," they say. But in Indianapolis, as each Memorial Day draws closer, as each Indy 500 approaches, the phrase takes on a more sinister meaning.

In a sport where defying death is a way of life, the Indy hasn't had a fatality since 1973. That was the firestorm year.

On May 12, Art Pollard crashed in practice and died.

On May 28, Salt Walther crashed as the 33 cars roared down the main straightaway for the start of the race. It precipitated a 12-car pileup. Eleven spectators were injured by flying debris and flaming, spraying fuel.

On May 29, rain washed out the race with the cars about one lap away from the start.

On May 30, they finally ran it — and halted it after 133 of the scheduled 200 laps because of still more rain. In the 57th lap, though, the car driven by front-runner Swede Savage, swerved into the inside wall at the end of the fourth turn and exploded. A rescue vehicle, racing toward the crash scene, struck and killed a mechanic. Savage died about five weeks later.

That was a watershed year here, too. Speeds, which had been steadily climbing, were reduced by new restrictions and other safety factors were built into the racing machines and the track they run on.

Johnny Rutherford had set a qualifying speed record in '73 at well over 198 miles an hour. It took just four years for Tom Sneva to surpass it. And just one year after that, in 1978, Sneva burst through the 200-mile-an-hour barrier with a four-lap qualifying speed of better than 202 mph.

It dropped back down into the high 190s for the next two years. Now it's back up in the stratosphere again. Bobby Unser won this year's pole position (inside on the front row) with an average speed of 200.546 mph.

It is understandable, then, why many of the hundreds of thousands of people who jam this speedway on Sunday will be holding their breath as the 33 cars shriek their way through the main straight and into the narrow first turn. The race isn't won on the first lap — all the veterans know that and they tell it to the rookie drivers over and over again — yet each year at least one car seems to try and snake its way through the pack before the first 2 1/4-mile lap is completed.

That's when the tragedy seems to occur. That's when Rutherford, in only his second Indy in 1964, was lucky to escape the first-lap inferno which claimed the lives of Eddie Sachs and Dave McDonald.

There are 10 rookies in the field this year, just as there were a year ago, when the most serious injury was a broken leg suffered by Bill Whittington when he hit the wall trying to avoid another crashed car.

No Progress Seen, Baseball Strike Looms Thursday

NEW YORK (AP) — Ray Grebey, chief negotiator for the 26 major league baseball owners, had planned to spend today on the campus of tiny Kenyon College in Ohio.

Kenyon is his alma mater and Grebey's son is graduating from the school this weekend. But the commencement will have to be held without the proud father. Grebey was scheduled instead to spend the day again bargaining with Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, in the continuing stalemate which could lead to a baseball strike after games of next Thursday, May 28.

Miller and his negotiating team met for 90 minutes with Grebey and league presidents Lee MacPhail and Chub Feeney on Friday, and both sides reported no progress. After the morning session, the union chief flew to Washington with attorneys Don Fehr and Peter Rose for a two-hour-long talk with William Lubbers, general counsel for the National Labor Relations Board.

Lubbers is considering the players association charge of unfair labor practice against the owners. The union has asked for an injunction, forcing management to open its financial books. If one is issued, it could delay the strike. A ruling on the matter is expected Tuesday, just three days before the players' May 29 deadline.

The players claim that management has complained about the high cost of operating under the free agent system and uses that argument to justify the imposition of compensation. The union said if the free agent system has created financial problems for the clubs, the owners should be forced to open their books to support their claims of exigency.

Meanwhile, management remains committed to compensation, a plan whereby teams signing ranking or premium free agents would turn over a professional player as a replacement to the free agent's former team. The union claims that such a step would substantially affect the bargaining power of the players and is opposed.

The players have expressed a willingness to accept some form of compensation but are opposed to management's formulas for determining whether a free agent qualifies as a "ranking" or "premium" player.

The issue was the only question left unresolved a year ago when the two sides battled down to the wire in another labor crisis. A management-player committee was established to study the question with the understanding that if no resolution of the question could be found, management held the option to unilaterally implement compensation for the 1981 re-entry draft. As part of the contract agreement, however, the union also had the right to strike before June 1 if the owners chose to use that option.

Federal mediator Kenneth Moffett has sat in on talks with the two sides all week and is expected to remain at the negotiations as the strike deadline approaches.

COLLEGE

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Big Eight Conference has extended by one year a penalty against Colorado University, thus preventing the Buffaloes from playing in any post-season bowl games until after the 1982 season.

Colorado was placed on two years probation after the university's football program was found guilty of 62 violations over an 11-year period.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Does it really matter where a driver starts the Indianapolis 500? Does a front-row start provide that much of an advantage in an automobile race that lasts 500 miles and takes more than three hours to run?

Historically, yes. The pole-position starter has won 11 of the previous 64 runnings of the world's richest automobile race, and the car starting from the second spot on the front row has carried the winner 10 times.

The next-best starting spots for eventual Indy winners have been the outside of the front row and the inside of the third row, with six victories apiece. No other starting position has had more than four winners.

There's a logical reason for this, of course, since the starting spots toward the front of the 33-car field are awarded on the basis of four-lap qualification speeds. And the better cars, with the better drivers, usually log the better speeds to get the better spots.

Thus it's no mystery why Bobby Unser is starting Sunday's race on the inside of the front row. He was consistently the fastest driver in practice all month and grabbed the pole position with a qualifying average above 200 mph.

Unser, the oldest driver competing this year, already has two Indy victories under his belt and will be trying to match his younger brother, Al, as a three-time winner.

Mike Mosley, a veteran of 13 previous Indy races, has never finished higher than third, but he qualified in the middle of the front row. A.J. Foyt, the only four-time Indy winner, will start on the outside of the front row.

Both winners in 1979 and 1980 — Rick Mears and Johnny Rutherford — started from the pole, and no winner since Rutherford in 1974 has started farther back than fifth. That can't be much comfort to a handful of fast drivers who for one reason or another are starting well back in the lineup this year.

Mears, who figured to give Bobby Unser a battle for the pole position, had to settle for an eighth-row start in the 22nd position — which has provided two previous winners — after he aborted his first qualification attempt with car trouble. Just ahead of him is Danny Ongais, another lead-foot who missed his chance for the pole when his car failed to start. His 21st starting position has provided only one previous Indy winner.

Next to Ongais is Tom Sneva, a two-time pole winner who had this year's fastest qualification speed. Sneva missed a chance for the pole because the car wasn't in the original line to qualify two weeks ago. His starting spot, 20th, has had two previous winners.

No final-row starter has ever won the race. The farthest back any previous winner has started is 28th, Louis Meyer in 1936 and Ray Harroun in the initial Indy race in 1911.

Wadkins, Halldorson One Shot Back Texan Tops Tourney

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Keith Fergus can explain why he's leading the Memorial Golf Tournament at the midway point after finishing no better than 15th in his three previous attempts.

"I've learned more about these greens. I've adjusted to them. You've got to be careful. I have a better feel for them," said the 27-year-old Texan, a non-winner in more than four PGA Tour seasons.

Fergus proved his point in the second round Friday in Jack Nicklaus' $400,000 event. He needed only 30 putts on the slick, undulating greens of Muirfield Village. And that performance included a three-putter on the eighth hole, where he double bogeyed.

"Sure, I was upset. But you just have to go on," he said.

Fergus did. He solved the back nine for a four-birdie display that produced a 68.

His 36-hole total of 139, 5-under for two trips around the 7,116-yard course, gave him a one-shot lead over Larry Wadkins and Dan Halldorson. Wadkins shot 72, while Halldorson had a 70 Friday.

Only 15 players in the invitational field of 91 could break the difficult par despite two days of almost ideal golfing weather.

In fact, the midway cut of 152 was the highest this year, one more than the Tournament Players Championship.

Nicklaus, one of those in a challenging position at 143, understood it.

"As the golf course dries out and gets faster," he said, "it's not as long. You hit through the fairways and catch the rough. Your ball runs over the greens and catches the fringe."

The unusually nice weather did not benefit some of the sport's big names.

Masters champion Tom Watson stood at par of 144. Bruce Lietzke, the No. 1 money-winner this year, had 74-149. Hale Irwin, fourth on the money list, made the last two rounds with 74-150. Gary Player missed the cut, shooting 75-154. So did reigning U.S. Amateur king Hal Sutton with 77-155 and defending champion David Graham at 75-156.

Mark Hayes, the first-round leader with a 67, skied to a 75 and was three shots off the lead at 142.

Fergus' round was laced with seven birdies, all of them from 10 feet or closer, two from 6 inches.

The winner of more than $250,000 in the past 2½ years, Fergus said: "I played well in the Colonial last week. I have a little more confidence now. And confidence is the thing."

Halldorson closed fast and Wadkins opened fast on their way to their second-place tie.

Halldorson, a 29-year-old Canadian, birdied three of the last six holes. He came within 2 inches of holing an eagle approach shot on the last hole.

Wadkins, the 1977 PGA champion, birdied four of five holes in one stretch on the front side, but caught four bogeys on the back nine to drop from the sole lead.

Kathy Hite Leads Fem Corning Classic Field

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — Kathy Hite says her swing improves with pressure, and that may be why she finds herself leading the $125,000 Corning Classic with two other little-known members of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

"I was on the leader board after two rounds once last year, but I pulled an 'El Choko,'" she said Friday after her 2-under-par 70 tied her with Patty Sheehan and Cathy Morse with 36-hole totals of 3-under-par 141.

"I've been working on my swing and it's working especially under pressure. This is gratifying and important."

The leaders, all winless on the LPGA tour, were the last starters among the 71 pros who sought the $18,750 top prize over the 6,286-yard Corning Country Club course. The 72-hole event ends Sunday.

The 32-year-old Hite, who has never finished a tournament higher than 10th, did not think she would be this close to the top.

"I thought minus-3 would be in the top 12, so not near the top. But the wind was blowing the ball all over the place and making playing conditions very difficult," Hite said.

Sheehan dropped back to 75 after tying a course record with 66 in the first round, while Morse settled for a 73. There were several momentum changes that saw JoAnne Carner, Kathy Postlewait and Bonnie Bryant all had a run at the lead and came up short.

Carner, Postlewait and Bryant shot 71, 72 and 70, respectively, and were tied a stroke off the pace with Jan Ferraris, who had a 70, at 2-under-par 142.

Carolyn Hill, Joan Joyce and Debbie Austin were bunched at 143, with Kyle O'Brien, Therese Hession and Nancy Lopez-Melton four shots back at 145.

Hill shot the day's best round, a 5-under-par 67.

Lopez-Melton started at 69 but took 40 strokes on the front nine and struggled to salvage a 76. There were more laments than success stories as many of the pros succumbed to what Sheehan called "the second-day blahs."

"It seems like the first day and the last day of a tournament are really exciting, but the days in between are sort of blah," she noted.

Sheehan, 24, was 8-under after making an eagle-3 on the No. 2 hole, but had five bogeys and a double bogey against two birdies in the final 15.

Postlewait was 4-under after 10 holes, as were Bryant after 15 and Carner after 17. But each slipped to 2-under by the end of the day.

Morse 25, a fourth-year pro, was 4-under and 1-over at different points in the same round before finishing with a 73. She had six bogeys, a double bogey, seven birdies and four pars in the round.

"After two or three holes, we knew a relatively high score would keep us in the tournament," Morse said. "I felt like I threw away a lot of shots, but I am still in it and have as good a chance as anyone to win."

Kids, Inc. Baseball

The Kids, Inc. summer programs include some competitive action in the girls' leagues.

In Minor League Softball, the Angels are leading the standings with a 2-1 won-lost record. Three teams are just a game behind at 1-1. They include the Giants, Cardinals and Brave. The Yankees have a 1-2 record.

In girls' T-ball, the Angeletes are off to a 3-0 start, while the Cubettes are 2-1. The Cardinals are third and 1-2, and the Brave have an 0-3 mark.

More than 100,000 cubic feet of water, a second pour unseen through tunnels at Niagara Falls, generating electricity for the United States and Canada.

Ready for Spring Game

Whiteface receiver Grady Brown hopes to be hauling in some catches like this Tuesday night when the Hereford football team holds its spring Maroon-White scrimmage. Coach Don Cumpton will divide the squad into two teams Monday, and the spring game starts at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Whiteface Stadium. The freshmen will engage in a scrimmage at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday. Cumpton gave the team a holiday break Friday through Sunday, and only a light workout is scheduled Monday evening. (Staff Photo by Mauri Montgomery)

Longhorns Trounce BYU In Regional Baseball

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas, bidding for a record 21st appearance in the College World Series, and Lamar, seeking its first trip to the Omaha, Neb., tournament, match 1-0 NCAA Central Regional baseball records Saturday night.

The Longhorns, No. 5 in college baseball, trounced Brigham Young, 11-4, Friday night after Lamar — a Beaumont, Texas, team loaded with New Yorkers and Kentuckians — had edged Stanford, 6-5.

Lamar appears to have the edge against Texas as its star righthander, sophomore Tony Mack of Lexington, Ky., was rested.

Joe Pantaleo went six innings with the victory over Stanford, with freshman reliever John Senes throwing three scoreless innings.

Texas, however, used top pitcher Tony Arnold, 16-0, in beating Brigham Young.

Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson, whose 1975 team won the CWS, said Lamar has its "best pitcher going Saturday night (Mack). He threw a one-hitter against us earlier this year, so it won't be easy."

Texas, a three-time national baseball champion, surged to a 6-0 first inning lead on six hits — four of which never left the infield — a walk, stolen base and wild pitch.

The Longhorns scored three runs in the eighth to clinch the game, with shortstop Spike Owen's bunt, his third infield hit of the game, the key play. Mike Zatopek also had three hits, including a triple, for Texas.

Brigham Young ripped Arnold for 10 hits, including two each by Kenny Clayton, Wally Joyner, Scott Pugmire and Ralph Baldenegro, but Brigham Young Coach Gary Pullins said, "They (Texas) played great defense behind him and made some great plays when Arnold needed them."

Texas was flawless in the field until Owen made two errors on the same play in the last inning, but his miscues were not costly.

Lamar slammed six hits off freshman Brian Myers in 1-23 innings for six runs, which was just barely enough as Steve Cottrell no-hit Lamar for the final 6-13 innings.

John Elway, who started at quarterback for Stanford as a sophomore in 1980, laced three singles and beat out a bunt for a 4-4 performance.

"I know one thing — I would rather be a sky diver than be a pitching coach in the Pac-10," said Lamar Coach Jim Gilligan, whose squad was outthit 11-6, but won.

Only 500 spectators saw Lamar and Stanford play, but 6,300 packed Disch-Falk Field for the Texas-Brigham Young game. It was the largest crowd of the season for Texas, and the 6,300 did not include those who perched in trees and on cars after they shut the ticket windows.

Soccer, called football everywhere except in the United States and Canada, is the world's leading sport. The International Football Association estimates there are more than 16 million players in at least 300,000 football clubs in 150 countries today.

Two ethnic groups make up the population of Belgium, the Dutch-speaking Flemings in the north and the French-speaking Walloons in the south.

Except during the Civil War, passports were not needed to enter or leave the United States until 1918.

If You Want To Make Machines, TSTI Can Make You A Machinist

Industry in the Panhandle area needs machinists. Existing companies have jobs available now, and new companies will be bringing more work for machinists to this area in the future.

In fact, industry is so concerned about finding machinists that a number of local companies have donated the money and equipment to start a machinist training program this summer at Texas State Technical Institute.

If training as a machinist appeals to you, here are two things to consider. If area companies are willing to support the program with their money, they will certainly be interested in hiring its graduates. And if TSTI provides the training, the training will be good.

TSTI is now accepting applications for enrollment in the first class. To apply, or to get more information, contact the Registrar's Office by calling (806) 335-2316 Ext. 217, or by going to the Resource Center, 1400 Avenue F on the TSTI-Amarillo campus. Application should be made before registration for the summer term begins on May 27.

Blyleven Making Points With Tribe

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Bert Blyleven feels right at home in the American League — and his pitching shows it.

"I'm back where I enjoy pitching and where Dave (Cleveland Manager Dave Garcia) gives you the opportunity to do your own thing," says the veteran right-hander.

Blyleven continues to show his gratitude with sharp performances, and Friday night pitched his sixth straight complete game with a 7-3 decision over the New York Yankees. The bearded hurler didn't allow a run after the third inning, yielding just seven hits and striking out eight, while gaining his 162nd lifetime victory.

Blyleven, who has one of the greatest curve balls in baseball, started his career with the Minnesota Twins and was acquired by Cleveland during the off-season in a trade with the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League.

In other AL action, it was Oakland 6, Toronto 2; Texas 6, Seattle 2; Baltimore 4, Detroit 2; Boston 7, Milwaukee 3; Minnesota 7, Kansas City 0 and Chicago 9, California 5.

Bo Diaz collected three RBI to pace the Indians' offense. He broke a 3-3 tie in the fifth inning with a sacrifice fly and singled home two more runs in the seventh.

Blyleven, 6-1, had only one shaky inning, the third, when he gave up three runs.

A's 6, Blue Jays 2

Rickey Henderson singled, stole second and scored on a single by Dwayne Murphy in the eighth inning to trigger a four-run rally and lead Oakland over Toronto as the A's stopped an eight-game losing streak. Winner Rick Langford, 5-4, pitched an eight-inning game.

Henderson's two-out liner to right field in the eighth was just the third hit off Toronto starter Dave Stieb. After Murphy's base hit, Jim Spencer walked and Wayne Gross was hit by a pitch to load the bases, and Tony Armas followed with a two-run single.

Jackson Todd replaced Stieb, 3-5, and Mitchell Page greeted him with a run-scoring single.

Twins 7, Royals 0

John Castino knocked in three runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly and Jerry Koonsman scattered six hits to lead Minnesota over Kansas City in Billy Gardner's debut as the Twins manager. The victory snapped an eight-game losing streak for Minnesota, which announced the firing of Manager Johnny Goryl at a news conference shortly before the game. Koonsman, 2-6, had lost five straight decisions, but he allowed only three Kansas City runners as far as second base and only two of the Royals' hits made it to the outfield.

Rangers 6, Mariners 2
Buddy Bell belted two homers and drove in four runs and Danny Darwin pitched a four-hitter as Texas defeated Seattle. Bell led off the second inning with a homer to give the Rangers a 1-0 lead. He then capped a four-run scoring burst with a three-run homer in the third.

The Mariners pulled off a triple play in the eighth inning. With runners on first and second, shortstop Rick Auerbach snagged a line drive by Mario Mendoza and then stepped on second and threw to first to complete the second triple play in the AL this year. The A's were the first AL team to do it this season.

Orioles 4, Tigers 2
Ken Singleton drove in two runs with a homer and a single as Baltimore defeated Detroit. Singleton's homer, his ninth of the season, was a two-out shot off Detroit starter Mill Wilcox, 5-4, that snapped a 2-2 tie in the eighth.

Winner Scott McGregor, 5-1, who now has won his last five starts, gave up seven hits in eight innings before getting relief help from Tippy Martinez.

Red Sox 7, Brewers 3

Dwight Evans drove in three runs with a two-run homer and a single, raising his batting average to .358, and Jim Rice lined a two-run homer, leading Boston over Milwaukee. John Tudor, 2-1, scattered six hits over 6-3 innings for the Red Sox, who snapped the Brewers' six-game winning streak and stretched their current winning streak to five.

"I'm not a .358 hitter," Evans said. "I really don't know what kind of hitter I am because I've only been using the style I'm in now since the All-Star break last year. I'm just trying to go up the middle and use the whole field."

White Sox 9, Angels 5

Greg Luzinski knocked in four runs with two homers to lead Chicago over California. Luzinski gave the White Sox a 1-0 lead with his leadoff home run in the second inning off Ken Forsch, 6-2, and later keyed a four-run ninth with a three-run homer that helped the White Sox put the game away.

Britt Burns, 4-2, overpowered the Angels with eight strikeouts through five innings, but then had to leave the game when his back stiffened. Three relievers took over for Burns, with Ed Farmer gaining his fifth save.

Lea Wins for Montreal

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

You can call him "No-Hit" Charlie Lea or you can call him "No-Run" Charlie Lea. Opposing National League batters probably aren't calling him anything that kind these days.

Lea, who hurled a no-hitter and a four-hit shutout against the San Francisco Giants in his previous two outings, blanked Chicago on four hits over seven innings Friday, extending his stretch of scoreless innings to 281-3 as the Montreal Expos defeated the Cubs 6-3.

The 24-year-old right-hander is 41-3 innings shy of the club record held by Woodie Fryman. He might have come even closer but was lifted after seven innings when he developed a blister on the middle finger of his pitching hand.

Elsewhere, the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Cincinnati Reds 4-2 in 12 innings, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phillies 3-1, the New York Mets trounced the St. Louis Cardinals 9-3, the San Francisco Giants outlasted the Houston Astros 6-3 in 15 innings and the San Diego Padres turned back the Atlanta Braves 5-2.

Lea's earned run average, which was 10.13 before he started his current scoreless streak, dipped to 2.25. He retired 14 consecutive batters over one stretch.

Center fielder Andre Dawson made two fine plays to help preserve Lea's string of zeroes. Dawson also smashed his 11th homer and a pair of singles and Chris Speler delivered a three-run double in the second inning to put the Expos ahead 3-0.

Dodgers 4, Reds 2

Dusty Baker, who homered for Los Angeles' first run in the first inning, delivered a tie-breaking two-run single in the 12th to give the Dodgers a 5½-game lead over Cincinnati in the NL West. With Doug Bair pitching, Derrel Thomas drew a leadoff walk, advanced on a wild pitch and held second as Rick Monday beat out a bunt. Bill Russell sacrificed and Ken Landreaux was intentionally walked before Baker's game-winning single.

Giants 6, Astros 3

Barrell Evans delivered a tie-breaking two-run single with two out in the 15th inning and scored on Jerry Martin's single. The same twosome — Evans' triple and Martin's single — put the Giants in front 3-2 an inning earlier but Houston tied it in Alan Ashby's bases-loaded sacrifice fly.

Evans' game-winning hit came off Bobby Sprowl, the seventh Houston pitcher, after the Giants loaded the bases against Joaquin Andujar on a walk to Johnnie LeMaster, Enos Cabell's single, Larry Herndon's grounder and a walk to Jack Clark.

Padres 5, Braves 2

Terry Kennedy belted a two-run double as San Diego handed Atlanta its fifth straight setback. Kennedy's double came off Tommy Boggs, who lost for the seventh time in a row since winning on opening day, in the third inning following a walk to Gene Richards and the second double of the game by Broderick Perkins. The Padres also scored on RBI singles by Ozzie Smith and Tim Flannery and a sacrifice fly by Luis Salazar. Claudell Washington homered for Atlanta's two runs.

Pirates 3, Phillies 1

Hot-hitting Mike Easler rapped a triple and a tie-breaking single and rookie Pascual Perez earned his first major league victory with a six-hitter. Easler tripled in the fifth inning and scored on Phil Garner's sacrifice fly. The Phillies tied it in the seventh on Manny Trillo's homer but the Pirates scored twice in the bottom of the inning. Bill Madlock singled and stole second, Jason Thompson walked and Easler and Omar Moreno delivered RBI singles.

Mets 3, Cardinals 3

Pat Zachry overcame a shaky start to snap a personal five-game losing streak and post his first triumph since April 19 on a five-hitter. Trailing 3-1 after three innings, New York scored four runs against loser Silvio Martinez and Jim Otten after Joel Youngblood doubled to start the third.

Stearns singled home the first run after Dave Kingman and Lee Mazzilli walked. Otten walked Hubie Brooks to force home the tying run, Mazzilli scored on Doug Flynn's double play grounder and Stearns came home on a wild pitch.

American Red Cross: Ready for a new century.

The Local Red Cross will be celebrating its 100th birthday with an open house at the Red Cross office Sunday, May 31 from 2-4 p.m. Red Cross teaches individuals, families, and communities to avoid emergencies; prepares individuals, families, and communities for those emergencies that cannot be avoided; and helps individuals, families, and communities cope with crises when they do come. The local chapter is helping to improve health by teaching classes such as home nursing. Above Red Cross volunteers and assistant director of nurses, Minnie Guillen help Westgate resident Arthur Tiefel in therapy. The volunteers are Dorothy Betzen, left, and Auline Dettmann.

Today's Red Cross aims to meet specialized community needs. It teaches adapted aquatics for the physically or mentally handicapped, counsels veterans in prison, instructs those who care for the homebound, offers courses in Spanish, and sets up guidelines for helping young people who may be termed status offenders or youth at risk. Presently in Hereford, the local Red Cross chapter is teaching clients at the Hereford Satellite Work Training Center first aid and CPR. The clients are instructed every Monday morning by Betty Henson, executive secretary. Pictured above are clients (left to right) Debbie Schumacher, David LeGates, and Royce LeGates receiving first aid instructions from Mrs. Henson.

This year, the American Red Cross will celebrate its 100th birthday. It will be a time for commemorating a long and brilliant history of volunteer service. It will also be an occasion for thoughtfully assessing the problems and challenges that lie ahead. On the local level, a birthday celebration and open house will be held at the Red Cross office, 101 Ave. E, Sunday, May 31 from 2-4 p.m. Birthday cake and punch will be served by Red Cross volunteers. Above Alice Gilleland, secretary, works with Lottie Wertenberger, chairman of the Uniformed Volunteers, on the celebration party.

President Ronald Reagan recently designated March, 1981 as Red Cross Month, "a month when every citizen is asked to join, serve, and contribute in the same example of unselfish spirit that has characterized the Red Cross since its founding a century ago." A program being locally sponsored by the Red Cross this summer is a course in CPR. The course is being taught by Dana Barber at the City Pool.

Red Cross volunteers from La Plata Junior High School provide assistance to the local chapter in needed areas. Under the supervision of Sharon Charest, the students hold various fund raising events giving their proceeds to the local chapter. They recently

Red Cross Chapter Joins In Celebration

Elaine Taylor works with local students at the city pool teaching advanced lifesaving. A lot of Americans will make some acquaintance with the Red Cross in the course of their lives. Some will take a swimming or lifesaving course or give blood. Others will learn about parenting, home nursing, or CPR. A few may help out in a disaster or try to make emergency contact with a serviceman overseas. The local Red Cross offers a disaster program, service to the military and their families, community health and safety, youth services and community volunteer programs.

Fischbacher-Rusher Vows Read

An arrangement of pink gladiolus, pink carnations and ivory spider mums flanked St. Anthony's Catholic Church altar Friday evening during a candlelight ceremony uniting Miss Tammy Sue Fischbacher and Joseph Duane Rusher.

The Rev. Norman Boyd, associate pastor, officiated the nuptial ceremony.

A unity candle arrangement of pink candles, miniature carnations and greenery completed the altar decorations.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Fischbacher of 430 Fir. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Rusher of 237 Ave. B.

Serving as the bride's matron of honor was her sister, Kim Fischbacher. Acting as best man was the groom's cousin, Dean Bauer of Sugar City, Colo.

Others attending the bride were Mrs. Brenda Lee and Miss Glenda Rusher, the groom's sisters.

Guests were escorted to their seats by Ben Meiwes, Ronnie Brorman, both cousins of the bride, Jim Chocone, the groom's uncle from Trinidad, Colo., and Darrell Huseman.

Wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Johnny Cloud. Offering accompaniment was Mrs. Morris Hacker on the organ and Miss Rebecca Rudd on the violin. The bride's wedding selections included "That's The Way," "Peace Prayer of St. Francis," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was presented in marriage by her father. She wore a formal wedding gown of ivory silesta chiffon trimmed with chantilly and venise lace. The Victorian neckline featured a stand-up collar and sheer embroidered yoke outlined with a flounce of lace. Long fitted sleeves were cuffed with chantilly lace ruffles topped with venise lace. Falling from an empire waistline, the sunburst pleated skirt, edged with a lace ruffle, formed a chapel length train.

A picture hat, trimmed with a flounce of chantilly lace and silk flowers, poufs of illusion and chapel length streamers adorning the back, accented the gown.

She carried a silk bouquet of ivory and pink roses, mauve miniature carnations, and pink flannel flowers with pink and ivory streamers made by the bride's mother.

As an heirloom, the bride carried her grandmother's rosary, and wore matching diamond earrings and necklace which were a gift from the groom.

The bridal attendants were gowned in formal dresses of ivory embroidered English net over pink taffeta. The sleeveless dresses featured a Victorian bodice with a high neckline and flounced yoke. The tiered-look skirts gathered onto a natural waistline, and they each carried a bouquet of ivory daisies and pink miniature carnations, also made by the bride's mother.

Wedding guests were invited to the Knights of Columbus Hall afterwards for a reception and dance. Registering guests was the bride's cousin, Miss Cindy Meiwes.

The four-tiered wedding cake, decorated with Jonathan and David porcelain bride and groom figurines, was served from a table decorated with a brass punch bowl and serving pieces. A brass candelabra, the bride and bridesmaids bouquets also served as decorations.

The wedding cake was served by Miss Jana Grimsley and Miss Synda Moore.

The groom's cake depicted a bowler throwing a ball at pins to represent the groom's favorite hobby. Mrs. Dickie Brown of Earth served this cake.

Punch and coffee were served by Miss Kimberly Finney of Plainview.

Mrs. Tommy Albracht assisted with the reception.

For a wedding trip to Acapulco, Mexico, the bride chose to wear a yellow pant suit with matching jacket.

The couple will make their home in Hereford after May 27.

The bride is a 1979 graduate of Hereford High School. She attended West Texas State University, majoring in computer information systems. She is a member of Who's Who is American Colleges and Universities, and a member of Epsilon Delta Pi Computer honor society. She is presently employed by Contract Software Services in Amarillo.

The groom is a 1978 graduate of Hereford High School. He is currently employed by Barrett and Crofoot West.

Out-of-town guests represented Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico.

Wedding Date Set

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Umsted announce the engagement of their daughter, Lea Ann, to William T. Fraser. He is the son of Jon George Fraser and Rose Ann Smith. The couple plan to exchange wedding vows June 20 in First Church of the Nazarene. The bride-elect is a 1979 graduate of Hereford High School. She attended Bethany Nazarene College in Oklahoma and West Texas State University. She is presently employed by Hereford State Bank. The prospective bridegroom is a 1977 graduate of Hereford High School. He is currently employed by West Texas Rural Telephone.

SOCIETY NEWS

Mrs. Kenny Fangman Honored with Shower

A baby shower for Mrs. Kenny Fangman of 619 Star was held Saturday afternoon at the E.B. Black House.

A centerpiece of a miniature paper umbrella surrounded by stuffed toy animals and yellow chrysanthemums decorated the serving table. The colors of yellow, green and peach were depicted in the arrangement.

The honoree's sisters-in-law, Sheri May and Mary McCracken, both of Amarillo served refreshments of decorated cake, cheese and crackers, mints, punch and coffee. Party favors were gum drop pacifiers.

The honoree was presented with a corsage of baby socks.

Special guests present were the honoree's mother, Nancy Black of Vega; the honoree's mother-in-law, Elsie Fangman of Vega; the honoree's grandmothers, Fay Carr and Mable Eads, both of Amarillo; and the honoree's sisters, Annette Brigance of Odessa, and Sharon Hughes of Amarillo.

Hostesses for the baby shower were Sherri Greer and Vonna Kinsey, both of Vega; Kerri Steiert, Charla Schlabs, Karen Martin and Angeline Reinart, all of Hereford.

Believe it or not...

This bullet had my name on it at one time!

A deranged cowboy once vowed to part my hair with it gunslinger style, if he caught me running around with another ugly hair-do. But after he took one look at the hair style I got that day from # 9 to 9,

he gave it to me saying, "You've renewed my faith in man's ability to create beauty and style. Keep this silver bullet and stay beautiful." There's only one thing that bothers me though. Just who was that masked man anyway? Sure, he convinced me to change to a more beautiful appearance. But, the bullet wasn't anything other than a cheap imitation MADE IN JAPAN.

Couple to Celebrate Wedding Anniversary

The J.C. McCrackens will be honored at a reception in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday, May 30 from 6-8 p.m.

Hosting the reception will be their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Pat McCullough of Wichita, Kans.; and the four McCracken grandsons, Clay and Don McCullough of Wichita, Kans., and Mike and Jay McCracken of Roswell, N.M.

John Clayton McCracken and Dessie Mae Stelle were married May 30, 1931 in Hereford at the home of her parents. Her family, pioneer residents of Groom, moved to Hereford in 1923. She attended West Texas University where she majored in music.

later teaching piano in Canyon and Hereford.

McCracken was a native of Iowa, growing up in Sioux City, and later attended the University of Nebraska. He came to Hereford in 1929 and was associated with the West Texas Equipment Co. until 1935, when he and a partner formed the Davis-McCracken Farm Machinery Co.

The couple are members of the First United Methodist Church. McCracken is a member of the board of trustees. Both are active in church and community affairs.

The couple invite their friends to attend the celebration but ask that no gifts be given.

'A Star is Born'

By LOUISE WALKER
County Extension Agent
"A STAR IS BORN"

Look for me this Friday, May 29 on Bedford Forrest's Farm and Ranch program on Channel 7. I will be on both the 6:30 a.m. and 12:00 noon program.

Yes, this is a new experience for me - my television debut. Both programs will be live. If I blow it on the first one, I have a second chance.

My subject matter will be on recycling clothing and home furnishings. I will show a few items I have recycled. I have been giving this program to Extension Homemakers Clubs this month. Westway Extension Homemakers gave me advice on what to use and what to leave home.

Yes, I'm apprehensive about my new adventure. I wonder if I'll make it on time. Being at the TV station by 6:00 a.m. will be no easy chore. I'm not accustomed to rising and shining at 3:00 a.m. of course, I could spend the night in Amarillo but I don't always sleep well in a new bed (Guess that's a sign of age).

Of course, I probably won't sleep the night before anyway. I'll be afraid I'll oversleep and miss the TV show. I have missed a radio program once - only because I forgot it (Guess that's a sign of age, also).

Many of you know I had a goal to lose 20 pounds by Bedford's Show. I've lost 17 pounds in 2 1/2 months. Reckon I can lose the other 10 pounds in 6 days? Ha! Guess I could on Dolly Parton's diet! Trouble with that I usually stay on a diet 2-4 hours. Oh, well, I'll wear something dark (it's more slenderizing) and I'll hold my breath. And everyone remember television cameras just naturally add pounds.

See you on TV.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

DOROTHY LAMOUR
...to appear in 'Barefoot in the Park'

Dorothy Lamour to Perform At Country Dinner Theatre

Dorothy Lamour, familiar to millions for her singing with the Big Bands and on radio series, for her sarong in jungle movies and her jaunts with Bing Crosby and Bob Hope in seven "Road" pictures, is adding more lustre to her stardom with across-the-country stage performances.

The actress-singer is appearing in the stage spotlights at Amarillo's Country Square Dinner Theatre in Neil Simon's hit play "Barefoot in the Park." Opening night is set for Wednesday, May 27, with performances Tuesday through Sunday evenings through June.

Born in New Orleans, Dorothy Lamour launched her career on the stage by winning the finals in a contest to select "Miss New Orleans." She was 14 but had listed her age as 17. Later Herbie Kay, bandleader, discovered her and then recommended her to Rudy Valee, with whom she sang at major hotels. Then came radio and movies.

Some of the popular radio personalities she worked with were Nelson Eddy, W.C. Fields, Lionel Barrymore, Don Ameche and Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy.

For the movies, in addition to the "Road" pictures with Hope and Crosby, Dorothy Lamour has had roles opposite such co-stars as Anthony Quinn, John Wayne, Henry Fonda, Fred McMurray and James Stewart.

During World War II she sold $300,000,000 worth of War Bonds and became known as the "Bond Bombshell." It was also during the war that she met and married Air Force Lt. William Ross Howard. The couple had two sons. After 35 years of a marriage, which friends say was one of the happiest in Hollywood "if not the world," she became a widow in 1978. Since her husband's death, she has done game shows and television specials and toured with "Barefoot in the Park."

Winner of Stain Glass

Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met Thursday evening at the First National Bank for a birthday party and dinner. During this time, members drew a name to be announced as the winner of a stained glass item in a project the chapter sponsored. Winner of the drawing was Mary Riley, secretary at West Central Elementary School. Shown presenting the hanging stained glass are (left to right) Sharon Bodner, Mrs. Riley, and Roberta McNeese. Mrs. Bodner and Mrs. McNeese are service co-chairmen for the sorority chapter.

Sorority Celebrates Birthday

Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met Thursday evening at the First National Bank. Being AIMs birthday, members celebrated with the theme "Reflections of Our Golden Treasures."

Following the dinner, door prizes were won by Donna Grady and Charla Edwards.

A short business meeting followed at which time it was revealed on June 16 the chapter will have a city-wide ice cream social at the home of Mary Jean Gore, 148 Centre, at 8 p.m.

Mary Riley, secretary at West Central School, was the winner of a drawing for a stained glass hanging and secret sisters were revealed with members drawing for new secret sisters before adjourning.

Members present Thursday were Roberta McNeese, Mardell Robinson, Tricia Britten, Susan Shaw, Glenda Nigh, Patsy Douglas, Michelle Brisendine, Ginger Wallace, Donna Grady, Susie White, Connie Matthews, Charla Edwards, Terri Lasing, Debbie Donaldson, Mary

Brinkman, Janie Street, Kay Williams, Shera Hammett, Sharon Bodner, and two former members, Nancy George and Cindy Walker.

HHS Class of '41 Announces Plans

The Hereford High School graduating class of 1941 will hold their 40th year class reunion Saturday, May 30. A table has been reserved at the Mid-Plains Pioneer Association luncheon, scheduled at the Bull Barn, for members of the class who wish to participate in the Pioneer Day celebration.

Registration will begin at 2 p.m. in the north room of the Community Center. Registration fees of $10 per person for evening activities and $3.50 for the meal can be paid at this time. The afternoon activities will consist of greeting and visiting time. Refreshments will be served. Members of other classes of HHS are also invited to come at this time to visit and renew old acquaintances.

At 7 p.m., a dinner, catered by the Caisson House, will be served at the American Legion Hall in Veterans Park. Donald Henslee will be master of ceremonies.

Teachers present will be recognized and Raylan Evans will give a memorial for deceased members of the class.

A dance will follow with live music by the Caisson Kids. For those who do not care to dance, room will be set aside for visiting and listening to the music.

Alumni of the 1940 and 1942 HHS classes in the area are invited to attend all of the activities. Theme of the reunion is "Denim and Diamonds."

Correction

It was incorrectly stated in Friday's edition of the Hereford Brand under a picture titled "HHS Cheerleaders" that Carol Smalts was chosen as HHS cheerleader. It should have read Jill Pickens. The Brand regrets this error.

Hereford CowBelles Tour DSC Museum

Hereford CowBelles met at Caisson Barbecue House for a luncheon Tuesday. After a short business meeting they proceeded to the Deaf Smith County Museum where Lois Gilliland gave a guided tour.

A special guest at the luncheon and tour was Tammy Northcutt, recipient of the showmanship award for showing her steer for 4-H in the junior livestock show.

The next scheduled meeting for Hereford CowBelles will be Sept. 15. Members will leave Hereford at 10:45 a.m. for Amarillo to have lunch at Steak and Ale to be followed by a guided tour by Jim Peterson of the Texas Cattle Feeders new headquarters building.

The CowBelles voted to have an entry in the parade for the upcoming Town and Country Jubilee in August. There will be an in-store beef promotion for Father's Day in June with Nancy Josseland chairman.

Members were also reminded before adjourning that reservations should be made now for the mid-year meeting in Denver in July.

Melinda Williams To Receive Degree

Melinda Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wuerlein, will participate in Wartburg College's 129th Commencement in Waverly, Iowa today. She will receive her Bachelor of Arts degree along with 212 other recipients.

Wartburg alumnus Kathryn L. Koob of Jesup, Iowa, a former Iranian hostage and a member of the U.S. International Communication Agency, will be the speaker at the 2 p.m. ceremony.

Trophy Recipients

Tammy Northcutt was a guest Tuesday afternoon at the regular meeting of Hereford CowBelles. She was guest at a luncheon at Caisson's Barbecue House and for a tour of the County Museum. Miss Northcutt is recipient of the showmanship award for showing her steer for 4-H in the junior livestock show recently. Violet Reinauer (left) is shown presenting Miss Northcutt with the trophy.

North Hereford EH Club Attends Craft Workshop

North Hereford Extension Homemakers Club met Thursday with Roberta Campbell hostess for a salad luncheon and craft workshop.

Emphasis of the workshop was on wheat straw weaving and old folk art used by the Egyptians as a decorative trim for clay pots.

"With the invention of the threshing machine the straw weaving became almost a lost art," stated Mrs. Campbell. "It has been revived by the British in the last 20 years," she concluded.

Other crafts discussed were Christmas decorations and quilting.

Peg Hoff, president, presided for the business meeting and plans were finalized by the club for a booth in the Town and Country Jubilee scheduled in August.

Those attending were Edith Higgins, Peg Hoff, Hazel Ledbetter, Naomi Brisendine, Evelyn Crofford, Martha Lueb and Roberta Campbell.

This was the club's last meeting until September.

Women's Golf Assoc. Announces Tourney

Juanita Sims, president of the Hereford Women's Golf Association, has announced that the Ladies Invitational Tournament will be held Thursday, June 4.

Local members are requested to sign up with Mike Horton, club pro immediately as the tournament has a limit of 40 teams.

Chairman of the tourney is Cindy Horton. Karen Marsh and Sherri Sargeant are acting hostesses. Arvella Lauderback, Denise Smith and Shorty Roark are in charge of refreshments.

Registration will be at 7:30 a.m. with coffee and doughnuts served at that time, followed by a shot-gun start at 8:30.

Following completion of play a luncheon will be held at the Country Club with winners receiving awards in their perspective flight.

Sabotage

Sabotage is the deliberate destruction of property with intention of damaging a system. The word dates from a French railway strike of 1930 when workers destroyed the wooden shoes (sabots) that held the rails in place.

Ann Landers

Getting the Record Straight

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was astonished to read in your column that you believe it is a MYTH that cats suffocate babies by lying on their faces. Please alter your advice at once. That new mother should be told it CAN and HAS happened.

We are a family of cat lovers. But we have had problems with our cats wanting to lie on our pillows at night. Half the time they end up on our faces. Of course, they get moved off promptly. But a tiny baby would be unable to get a cat off, and the result would be suffocation.

A friend of mine had the misfortune of losing a newborn this way. So please, Ann, set the record straight as soon as possible. - C.S. From Muncie, Ind.

DEAR MUNCIE: I have been seeing cats in my sleep ever since that letter appeared. Persians, Angoras, Siamese, Cheshires, Manxes, alley cats - oops, I mean "domestic short-hairs."

Hundreds of readers have written to say, "It happened to my aunt, my sister, my cousin, my neighbor, my best friend." All these people can't be fibbing. It must have happened to somebody.

The myth part is that the cat smells milk on the baby's breath, jumps up to get some and suffocates the baby in the process. It is conceivable that a cat could lie across the face of an infant and smother him to death, but I don't believe it happens very often.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My parents hate my boyfriend's guts. We have been going together for two years and plan to marry soon.

Last month my dad said, "I can't stand the sight of that creep. I don't want to see him around here anymore." So I moved out of the house and went to live with my girlfriend.

Mom begged me to come home after 10 days - said she'd stick up for me, but she hasn't kept her word. Now it's starting all over again, and I have to sneak around and lie to see my fiance.

I am 20 years old and have a good job. My fiance is burned about this and says after we are married he wants nothing to do with my folks because they tried to ruin our lives. - Advice Wanted In Kentucky

DEAR KEN: You give no clue as to why your father despises your fiance. Such intense hatred doesn't just appear out of nowhere.

One thing, however, is clear to me. Eventually you must choose between your parents and the guy. I hope you make the right choice.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Someone wrote and complained about not being able to buy an American flag anyplace. K-Mart had them under the comic books and Sears said, "Look in our catalog."

As a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars I would like to let people know they can purchase flags at the VFW post. In our town, has initiated a program with the bank to install wall mounts and flagpoles at cost.

Anyone who is having trouble purchasing an American flag should contact their local VFW or the American Legion. - G.L.B., Grand Island, Neb.

DEAR G.L.B.: I should have thought of that myself. Thanks for the assist.

Parents, what should you do if your teenager is having sexual relations? Ann Landers' new booklet, "High School Sex and How to Deal With It-A Guide for Teens and Their Parents," give non-sense advice on how to handle this delicate situation. For each booklet, send 50 cents plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Rayburn M. Strange Receives BA Degree

Rayburn M. Strange of 119 Fir in Hereford received a bachelor of arts degree from Austin College during commencement ceremonies May 17.

Dr. Joseph Duffey, chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH), addressed the 259-member graduating class during ceremonies which ended the 131st year of Austin College. Duffey, whose speech was titled "To Be a Patriot," received an honorary doctorate of humane letters degree from Austin College. Formerly the assistant secretary of state responsible for education and cultural affairs for the United States, he recently was awarded the Order of Leopold II for distinguished service by the government of Belgium.

Austin College, a liberal arts college with a student enrollment of 1,190, also presented honorary degrees to Dr. Daniel M. Garza, the director for the Mexican-American Presbyterian Ministries located in San Antonio, and Dr. Abner McCall, nationally-known educator and retiring president of Baylor University in Waco. Dr. Robert W. Bohl, pastor of First Presbyterian Church in Fort Worth, presented the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class.

Austin College, the oldest college in Texas still operating under its original charter, is affiliated under a covenant relationship with the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

Nothing beats the smoked flavored taste of something from the grill... and no grill can beat the fun, convenience and economy of a versatile gas grill.

Gas Grilling is versatile. You can sizzle a steak, grill a burger, smoke a ham, barbecue a bird, roast an ear, even bake a potato. You can cook many different foods a variety of ways, many at the same time on a versatile gas grill.

Gas Grilling is delicious. You get that great outdoor smoked flavor without the charcoal mess. No lighter fluid is needed and a gas grill requires very little clean-up. There's no wait either, because gas grills reach cooking temperature... fast.

Gas Grilling is economical. You can cook a full family meal for just pennies. Gas grilling costs less than a third of what it would cost on an electric grill and less than a tenth of the cost for charcoaling. A national survey proved it.

Gas Grilling is cooler. It keeps the heat out of the kitchen so your air conditioning won't have to work so hard. That's important during the summer... plus a gas grill is the perfect meal-maker for any season of the year.

And, Gas Grilling is now 20% off. Buy now and you'll save 20%. The purchase price has been reduced 20% but only until August 1, 1981... and you have eight styles and sizes to choose from, with all the features to make grilling fun, convenient and economical.

L'Allegra Officers

Selsey Metz Named 'L'Allegrian of Year'

A "Kid Party" was the theme for L'Allegra's installation and luncheon held Thursday in the home of Selsey Metz. Mrs. Metz was selected from letters of nominations written by club members as the "1981 L'Allegrian of the Year."

Excerpt from the letters were read at the meeting. The presentation was made by last year's recipient Kitty Gault.

President Kathy Allison called a brief business meeting. Mrs. Gault gave a report from the committee working on L'Allegra's history for the book on Deaf Smith County History.

New officers were installed by the president and they are as follows:

Carmen Flood, president; Karen Payne, vice president; Janice Conkwright, recording secretary and reporter; Lynne Carlile, treasurer; Naomi Schroeter, assistant treasurer; Glenda Kennan, historian; and Kathy Allison, parliamentarian.

Members enjoyed visiting and revealing their secret pals with a gift exchange. Twenty-seven club members were present.

Recipient of Award

Selsey Metz, left, receives a silver platter from Kitty Gault in recognition of Mrs. Metz being named the 1981 "L'Allegrian of the Year," Thursday evening during the club's regular meeting. Mrs. Gault was the recipient of the award in 1980. Mrs. Metz was selected from nominations made by fellow club members.

Kiwanis Make Donation

The Whiteface Kiwanis Club recently donated $586 to the Kristi Holmes medical fund established at the Hereford State Bank. The donation was raised through a garage sale sponsored by the Kiwanians. Ronald Fuhrmann, Kiwanis treasurer and George Ochs, president, made the presentation to Mrs. Nell Rhoton at the bank. From left to right are Ochs, Mrs. Rhoton, and Fuhrmann.

Satellite Center Competes In Texas Special Olympics

Clients from the Hereford Satellite Work Training Center will be traveling to Austin today to compete in the Texas Special Olympics Field and Track events. Nine clients from Hereford will attend.

With 6,000 other participants in the Olympics, all the nine clients except one will compete in one field and one track event. Roger Garcia will compete in pentathlon, which is five events.

Traveling with the clients will be Pat Salas, assistant director of the center; Gloria Ramirez, CETA worker; and Norma Conards, assistant director with the Dimmitt Satellite Center.

This year's Olympics slogan is "Let me win, but if I cannot win, let me be brave in the attempt."

Eunice Kennedy Shriver is the executive director of this year's Olympics.

In Memory of Veterans

Members of American Legion chapters across the nation will be placing small flags on the graves of American veterans this weekend, continuing a tradition of honor begun shortly after the end of the Civil War. The local legion chapter has placed over 400 flags on the graves of veterans in local cemeteries. The flags will remain in place through traditional Memorial Day, May 30. Placing the flags here were (from left) Garth Thomas, Carlos Vaughn, and Ira Ott. (Brand photo).

Memorial Poppy Day To Be Held May 27

The Hereford Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will be promoting a Memorial Poppy distribution Wednesday, May 27. This will mark the 51st year for the project. Memorial poppies are made by disabled veterans in the V.A. Medical Centers over the United States.

The poppies that are distributed in Hereford are made in the V.A. Hospital in Temple, Texas. The patient is paid by the American Legion Auxiliary, and in many cases this is all the patient is able to earn.

The local unit will have headquarters in the First National Bank on Main Street. Members will go out from there to other areas of the city.

All money received in this promotion, after expenses, is used in the program of assisting the veteran and his family.

Mrs. Ira Ott is serving the unit as poppy chairman this year. She asks that all members or interested persons make themselves available to aid in this worthwhile project.

Poppy Day in Hereford is May 27. Wear a Memorial poppy in memory of the veteran who gave his life for your freedom and the living veteran who needs our assistance in making a better life for himself and his family.

Red Cross Update

By BETTY HENSON Executive Secretary
Come wind, fire, or high water, the American Red Cross has been helping to relieve suffering for 100 years. It's disaster mission dates back to 1881 when supplies were sent by rail and horse drawn wagons to help families left homeless by fires in Michigan. In 1900 and 1905 the Red Cross received official recognition as the nation's primary volunteer disaster relief agency. The Deaf Smith County Chapter received its charter from Congress in 1918.

Since that time the Red Cross in Deaf Smith County has been active in helping people over the entire world. Today, the Red Cross expends approximately $30 million annually to help victims of disaster that occur on an average of once every 14 minutes. Thousands of volunteers and trained disaster specialists form a system that includes disaster preparedness, planning, mass sheltering, feeding, emergency medical aid, and casework services.

The Red Cross also does many other activities - first aid training, home nursing training, Water Safety training - all training sessions aimed at helping people become more safety conscious and know what to do in any emergency.

We hope the next 100 years for the American Red Cross and the next 63 years for the Deaf Smith County will be as productive as the past years.

At Wits End
By ERMA BOMBECK

When it comes to respect in this country, there's nothing to equal the American Headache.

It ranks right up there with penicillin, hot chicken soup and Mt. Rushmore.

You want to leave a party early? Announce you have a headache.

You want to cancel a meeting with the tax auditor? Phone in a headache.

You want to go to sleep on your honeymoon? Retire early with a headache.

The headache is one of the last great mystiques in the world. Why? Because no one ever questions them, or tries to cure them. There is absolutely no substitute for it.

If you can't go shopping because your stomach hurts, the reaction is, "Of course you can. You probably just need a laxative."

If you don't feel like going to Aunt May's funeral because you have a throbbing pain in your lower back, you're told, "You're just bored. Get your coat and you'll forget about it."

If you don't feel like going to bed because you are experiencing blinding spots before your eyes, you're assured, "Close your eyes and you'll never notice them."

But, if you can't possibly leave on a vacation because you have a headache, everyone advises, "Go lie down. We'll talk when you're feeling better."

Women everywhere are indebted to Winona Haslipp of London who invented the headache in 1813, quite by accident. Winona was the mother of eleven children. One night as she was blowing out the candles, she hit her head on a shelf holding pewter mugs. When her husband yelled, "Aren't you coming to bed?" she announced, "I have a headache." When she reached the top of the stairs, she was amazed to see that he had gone to sleep.

The story spread like wildfire. Within days, every woman in London was banging her head on a shelf holding pewter mugs and shouting, "I have a headache." The phrase not only earned Winona a page in history, but 136,000 write-in votes for Queen.

A widower was telling me a few weeks ago he broached a delicate subject to his 13-year-old daughter when he told her perhaps they should go shopping for a training bra. She turned on him and shouted hysterically, "Dad! Please! I have a headache!"

He said he understood.

They say it. But they don't. Not really.

Hereford Music Club To Sponsor Recital

The Hereford Music Study Club will sponsor Jill Paschel, piano and French horn, in a recital at the First Baptist Church at 3 p.m. Sunday, May 24.

Miss Paschel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Paschel. She began her study of piano in the sixth grade and has studied with Evelyn Hacker for seven years.

Guest performer for the recital will be Renee Latham, string bass. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Latham.

The program will include Prelude and Fugue No. 6 by Bach, Sonata Pathetique by Beethoven, Mozart Concerto in A, and Prelude in G minor by Rachmaninoff.

Also, Miss Paschel will perform Allegro Spiritoso by Senaille on the French horn.

Miss Latham's selection will be Allegretto by Dragonetti.

Miss Paschel will be attending state contest with her French horn in June.

She has earned seven superiors in the local music festival and two Gold Cup awards. She has also won seven superiors in the National Guild auditions.

Miss Paschel is a member of the Honors Band and the High School Orchestra. She has been a member of the National Honor Society for three years and was selected to be in Pegasus.

The piano student is a member of the Superintendents Advisory Committee.

Other activities include teaching a five and six year-old class of Mission Friends at the First Baptist Church and working at the Deaf Smith County Library.

She plans to major in music at West Texas State University where she recently received a $200 brass and piano scholarship.

Accompanists for the Sunday recital will be Cindy Vaughn, Joan Latham and Kimberly Sims. A reception will be held following the program.

Early canal

Ancient Egyptians first dug a canal in the Isthmus of Suez about 4,000 years ago. It linked the Nile with the Bitter Lakes in the Isthmus and the Red Sea. Called the "Canal of the Pharaohs," it served Egypt's rulers for more than 1,000 years.

Hereford Study Club met Thursday evening in the home of Virginia Winget for installation of officers and a barbecue dinner. Installing officers was Mrs. Winget. She used a western theme. Those installed were: (left to right) Mrs. Winget, installing officer and parliamentarian; Gracie Shaw, vice president; Elizabeth Cesar, secretary-reporter; Norma Jolly, recording secretary; Inez Witherspoon, treasurer; and Morgan Cain, historian. Not pictured is Helen Spinks, president.

Helen Spinks Installed President of Club

Helen Spinks was installed as president of the Hereford Study Club Thursday evening during a ceremony in the home of Virginia Winget.

Additional officers installed were Gracie Shaw, vice president; Elizabeth Cesar, secretary-reporter; Inez Witherspoon, treasurer; Norman Jolly, corresponding secretary; Morgan Cain, historian; and Mrs. Winget, parliamentarian.

Using a western theme Mrs. Winget installed the officers. She presented the president with a replica of a western hat, the vice president with a dinner bell, the secretary and treasurer with money bags, the corresponding secretary with a head-dress, the historian with a small camera, and the parliamentarian with a small rifle.

Following the installation, members enjoyed a western style barbecue dinner. The club presented Mrs. Winget with an appreciation gift for her years of service to the club.

Mrs. Evelyn Kirby served as co-hostess.

Putting You in the Picture
Reading, Basic to the Human Needs

By Jo Ellen Jorde
There is one thing that is really fun that is legal, non-fattening, safe and inexpensive. You can be transported to faraway lands, acquire knowledge in any area, be treated to a good joke or acquire good companions and inspiration - all by reading a book.

Reading is fundamental or basic to the needs of a human being if he or she is to operate in our modern world. It also can be fun and that's very important for young people to learn, if they are going to want to read.

The schools have come to realize this.

In 1610 the astronomer Kepler predicted that Mars had two moons. Both miniscule, they were not discovered until 1877 by Asaph Hall at the United States Naval Observatory in Washington, D.C.

pleted three distributions, where every grade school child had the opportunity to be the proud owner of a new book of their very own choice.

This program, begun in Hereford in 1978, is one approved by all of the principals. According to Volunteer School Director, Glenda Gerles, the children have really enjoyed the books and the school administrators have stated how nice it is to have a program which is presented by parents and other caring people from the community.

Mrs. Gerles announced that Mary West would assume the responsibilities as R.I.F. Director next year. Mrs. West and her husband, Joe, have two grade schoolers, Jill at Aikman and Dale, a sixty-grader at Bluebonnet. Mary has been involved with reading motivation programs for many years at Bluebonnet and assisted Mrs. Gerles with the over-all program this past year. She stated that she feels the R.I.F. program is especially good because it is equally beneficial to all of the children.

Mrs. Gerles and Mrs. West attended the State School Volunteer Association meeting in Dallas this past February. They were able to share ideas and skills with volunteer program leaders from throughout the state.

Mrs. Gerles states that she is looking forward to the opportunity to work with the school administrators in developing the use of volunteers to answer many varied needs including testing, assisting with the shuttle buses and tutoring.

She expressed her thanks to all who have been involved with School volunteerism this past year and most especially to Bobby Boyd for being such a great support during her first year as volunteer program co-ordinator.

This summer we urge you to help a child by involving them in the local library reading programs or sharing some very special time by reading to them or setting aside a family reading time. This can be one of the most important gifts you ever give a young person. Remember, we say most by being models! Have FUN - READ!

Matthews Wins National Golden Spur Award

LUBBOCK — Watt Reynolds Matthews, who represents two of America's most respected ranching families, has been named recipient of the 1981 National Golden Spur Award.

The award is made annually to an individual who has brought distinction to the ranching and livestock industry. The individual must have made significant contributions to that industry in both humanistic and scientific ways.

The award, a gilded OK spur encased in a crystal presentation piece created especially for the occasion by Steuben Glass, will be presented Sept. 18 in Lubbock at a National Golden Spur Award and Prairie Party.

Making the award are the American National CowBelles, the American Quarter Horse, National Cattlemen's, National Wool

Crowers, Ranching Heritage, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers and the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers associations.

A National Golden Spur Livestock and Money Symposium will precede the presentation and prairie party. Ranch Day at the Ranching Heritage Center of the Museum of Texas Tech University will follow Saturday, Sept. 19. All weekend events are open to the public. Tickets are available through the Ranching Heritage Association.

Matthews manages for his family the Lambhead Ranch and the J.A. Matthews Cattle Co. at Albany, Texas. He is internationally known for his work in historic preservation.

For 123 years, the Matthews and Reynolds names have been synonymous with the development of the ranching industry in the

W.R. MATTHEWS

American West. Together they established or occupied more than 25 ranches, beginning in 1858 when the J.A. Matthews family founded the Stephens County Ranch in Texas. A year later, B.W. Reynolds' family settled on the Cantrell Ranch in Stephens County.

On Christmas Day of 1876 Sallie Reynolds married J.A. Matthews, and her account of the family life in the book, "Interwoven," has been highly acclaimed for its historic accuracy of frontier life. Sallie Reynolds Matthews this year was posthumously inducted into the Cowboy Hall of Fame of Great Westerners.

Watt Matthews' uncles and grandfathers blazed cattle trails to New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas, Utah, California, Montana and North Dakota, beginning in 1865. They continued driving cattle up the trails as far as the Canadian border to 1902.

Watt Matthews has been a director of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association since 1966. This year he was made an honorary vice president. He served two consecutive terms as director of the American Hereford Association and has been elected to that association's Hall of Fame. He is honorary chairman of the Ranching Heritage Association Board of Overseers and has been a member of that organization since its founding in 1969. He also has served as a director of the Cowboy Hall of Fame.

For 50 years he has been a director of the First National Bank of Albany, and he has been Roundup chairman for the West Texas Rehabilitation Center of Abilene, Texas, for 21 years. He has been president of the famous Fort Griffin Fandangle since 1968. Fandangle Samplers have been presented as far away as Washington and England. The outdoor musical is presented the last two weekends in June on 30 acres of land, with a hillside accommodating 1,600 people nightly. The land is leased for a $1 a year by the J.A. Matthews family.

Sudanese Wheat Team Tours DS Facilities

The Sudanese Wheat Trade Team, composed of two Sudanese officials and a U.S. Wheat Associates, Inc. marketing specialist from Egypt, made a quick tour of Deaf Smith County facilities Thursday as part of a nationwide tour which began the first of the month.

Leo Witkowski of Hereford, executive committee member for U.S. Wheat Associates, Inc., and Ross Wilson of the Texas Wheat Growers Association accompanied the foreigners on the county tour.

Included in the Sudanese entourage were Ahmed E. Ahmed, Assistant Inspector of Wheat & Flour Division of the Sudanese Ministry of Cooperation, Commerce & Supply, and Ali E. Hassan, Director of Supply for the Sudanese Ministry of Cooperation, Commerce & Supply.

They were guided on the tour of the United States by Hassan Abdel Ghaffar, Marketing Specialist with U.S. Wheat Associates, Inc. of Cairo, Egypt.

While in Hereford Thursday the Sudanese visited several local elevators and local wheat, sugar beet, and corn facilities. Other U.S. cities visited by the team included Washington D.C., Lincoln, Nebraska, Kansas City, Wichita, and Manhattan, Kansas, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, Amarillo, and Houston, Texas.

The team is scheduled to leave Houston for London May 23 and depart from there back home to Khartoum, Sudan on May 24. The tour was sponsored by U.S. Wheat Associates, Inc. and the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Foreign Agriculture Service in cooperation with local organizations.

Budget Cuts Throwing Farm Bill into 'State of Turmoil'

COLLEGE STATION — Approval of the Reagan Administration spending limits by the U.S. House of Representatives and Senate has thrown the Agriculture Committee's deliberations on the 1981 Farm Bill into "a state of turmoil," says Dr. Ronald D. Knutson, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Before the setting of the spending limits, the Agriculture Committees had agreed on producer-oriented policy packages which would have cost in the range of $5-$6 billion in government outlays, he explains.

"Agriculture's share of the approved Reagan spending limits, however, was set at only $2.4 billion for commodity programs. More than $1 billion of this likely is going to have to be spent on dairy price supports," Knutson says.

Realities of the implications of the spending limits are just now striking home with members of the Agriculture Committees, and the implications have not yet filtered down to most producers, he contends.

"The stage is now set for some intense soul-searching — and perhaps an overt struggle — among producer commodity interests over how the smaller spending pie is to be divided," he says.

Ag Secretary Urges Increase of Exports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary John R. Block says farmers must increase exports or fail.

"Let's face it," Block said in remarks prepared for delivery today to the Delta Council of Cleveland, Miss. "We really don't have any other direction to go. Producers in Illinois and Mississippi and many other states are capitalized to produce for exports.

"We have the equipment, the technology and the ability to produce. Unless we take the incentive to build a strong world market, we won't be able to survive, other than at the continued grace of the federal government. I don't want that for my future."

Block reiterated that he will be working to boost exports wherever possible and will be "looking at the world market situation with an emphasis on providing a climate in which the U.S. producer can expect to compete" on an equal and fair basis.

"We'll be looking at developments in other nations that could lead to greater restrictionism and instability in the European market," he said.

Block said he was certain this will be discussed in Rome at a meeting of the World Food Council, which he plans to attend later this month.

Peach Crop to Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nine-state Southern peach crop is expected to produce 656.5 million pounds, an 11 percent increase from last year's harvest, the Agriculture Department says.

Larger crops are expected this year in all nine states except North Carolina, the report said.

"South Carolina, at 370 million pounds, is up 4 percent from last year due to an excellent fruit set in nearly all areas," it said. "Georgia prospects are also excellent with the crop forecast at 135 million pounds, 13 percent above 1980. Prospects for Alabama, Arkansas and Texas are much improved from a year ago."

Food For Thought

Gerald McCallum

A dear departed friend, Arnold Paulson, who was a victim of cancer, devoted his life to finding answers to the economic dilemma of this nation. An economist and businessman from a small town in Minnesota, he was convinced that the nation's prosperity (or lack of prosperity) was directly related to the economic welfare of the nation's farmers and ranchers.

I have heard "Red", as his friends called him, say on many occasions that if parity prices for agriculture commodities only meant prosperity for agriculture producers, then he could care less what happened to the farmer. "However, that is not the case," he said. "Equitable prices for agriculture production is a national responsibility because every American benefits when farmers make a profit."

Dr. Leonard Schruben, professor of agriculture economics at Kansas State University, compared the U.S. economy with that of the oil rich Arab nations. "The United States is wheat-rich," he said, "and while higher prices for wheat might contribute a trifle to higher bread and pastry costs, it would return much, much more in national income."

Dr. Schruben pointed out that in some years as much as two-thirds of our wheat is exported, and the income from that exported wheat is very valuable to the nation to purchase our oil needs from the O.P.E.C. countries. "We as a nation," he said, "are being faced with some hard choices. One is the fact that petroleum has to be paid for in hard money. If we don't have the hard money, the price of oil in terms of dollars will have to go much, much higher as inflation ravages the base of our currency. Wheat is a very important international commodity on which we depend as a nation to earn for us that which it takes to buy commodities we must import, like oil. I don't know what price the Arabs pay for oil to run their automobiles, but wouldn't it be foolish of them to hold down the price of oil to us so they could operate their automobiles cheaper?"

"To me," Schruben said, "the Arabs doing that with their petroleum would be the same things we are doing as a national policy. That is, holding down the price of our wheat so our bread will be a penny a loaf cheaper when we could earn from our wheat so much more in terms of heating our homes, generating our electricity, running our automobiles, and keeping our factories producing. It is simply short-sighted to hold down the price of wheat and give foreign governments and buyers such a real bargain."

Vegetable Farmers

Should Watch Trends

COLLEGE STATION — Along with weather, insects and other problems, farmers must also consider consumer demand. That's certainly the case with vegetables.

"It's important for farmers to keep up with the ever-changing trends in consumption of individual

When asked by a reporter of the Kansas City Star the difference in a surplus and a reserve of wheat, Dr. Schruben replied, "A surplus becomes a national asset when people get the heck scared out of them and fear they will not have enough bread to eat."

It is time that we take seriously the comments of Arnold Paulson and Dr. Schruben, not as farmers nor because of farmers, but as Americans and because of America. If all people in rural America who are more keenly aware of the value of a prosperous agriculture (school teachers, small businessmen, doctors, lawyers, merchants, and laborers) would immediately contact their Congressmen, and Senators, and demand that the new farm bill now being written would address parity returns for all agriculture production, then perhaps 1981 would see a reversal of the "cheap-food policy" which benefits foreign buyers much greater than it benefits the American consumer.

That is food for thought.

U.S. Cotton Expects Rebound

WASHINGTON (AP) — Early indications point to a sharp rebound in U.S. and world cotton production in the coming year, the Agriculture Department says.

But the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said Monday that the supply and demand situation for the 1981-82 marketing year that begins Aug. 1 will depend greatly on world economic and weather conditions in the next few months.

Even so, the experts say a world cotton harvest next year of 68.9 million bales is possible.

Cotton production in the 1980-81 year now is estimated at nearly 65.5 million bales, an increase of about 300,000 bales from indications a month ago, the agency said.

Despite the increase, cotton production this season still is expected to be slightly less than the crop of almost 65.7 million bales in the 1979-80 year.

All the increase in global cotton output was the result of an upward revision to 12.4 million bales in China's crop, the report said.

Total foreign cotton production was put at a record of 54.3 million bales, compared with about 51 million bales last year.

The 1980 U.S. cotton harvest, at 11.1 million bales, was unchanged from the estimate last month. Last year's U.S. crop, which was stricken by drought, was less than the 14.6 million bales in 1979.

World cotton use in 1980-81 was estimated at a record 66.2 million bales, slightly more than the 65.6 million used last season, the report said.

With use exceeding production, cotton inventories at the end of the 1980-81 season are expected to be drawn down further to about 21.3 million bales by Aug. 1, compared with about 21.9 million on hand a year earlier.

Looking at the U.S. potential, the report said a 1981 harvest of 13.5 million bales is possible because planting conditions "have been very favorable" and prospects now point to above-normal yields.

"Prospects for China and India appear particularly good at this point," the report said. "In addition, the Soviet Union is expected to produce another large crop, although smaller than last year's record."

The fortunes of U.S. cotton producers, like many other farmers, are tied securely to exports and what happens elsewhere in the world market.

U.S. cotton exports this season are expected to be about 6 million bales, down from the 9.2 million of 1979-80. Some recovery, possibly to about 7 million bales, is in the works for 1981-82, according to the latest projections.

China has been a major U.S. customer and what happens there can have substantial impact on the outlook for American producers.

"Chinese production of cotton yarn and cloth has risen significantly in recent years, although a cutback in capital construction could limit textile growth from 1982 on," the report said. "Chinese yarn and cloth production forecasts show increases of about 6 percent in 1981, compared with a 10 percent increase during 1980."

By comparison, U.S. textile mill demand remains slack at an estimated cotton use in 1980-81 of about 5.8 million bales, down from 6.5 million last year. Textile mill use could recover slightly next season to around 6.1 million bales, officials said.

World spot prices of cotton dropped again in April as mills "continued guarded buying," the report said. "The slowdown in world textile demand and the cost of financing cotton stocks are dictating minimal inventories even as prices become relatively favorable."

Pellet Herbicides

Recommended Now

COLLEGE STATION — With good odds for a spring rain, ranchers can use pelleted and granulated herbicides to control range brush.

Three pelleted and granulated herbicides are registered for use on rangeland — 10 percent picloram pellets (Tordon 10K), 10 percent and 20 percent tebuthiuron pellets (Graslan 10P and 20P), and 5 percent and 10 percent dicamba granules (Banvel 5G and 10G).

"Because these are applied to the soil surface, moisture is necessary to move the herbicide into the soil," explains Dr. Tommy Welch, range brush and weed control specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "Thus Tordon 10K and Graslan should be applied before an expected rain while Banvel should be applied in spring or early summer (before July 1)."

Tordon 10K pellets can control pricklypear, huiache, whitebrush, redberry juniper, macartney rose, hawthorne and sumac. Apply 20 pounds of Tordon 10K pellets per acre or 3/4-ounce per 100 sq. ft. for pricklypear control. Increase the rate to 30 pounds or 1 ounce for huiache (small undisturbed plants), whitebrush and macartney rose and 40 pounds or 1 1/2 ounces for redberry juniper, hawthorne and sumac.

Graslan pellets are currently registered for use on post oak, blackjack oak, winged elm, whitebrush, running live oak, blackbrush and sand shinnery oak, says Welch. Use 10 pounds per acre of the 20 percent Graslan pellets to control post oak, blackjack oak, winged elm, running live oak and blackbrush but only 5 pounds to control whitebrush. Five to 7 1/2 pounds of the 10 percent Graslan pellets will control sand shinnery oak.

Banvel 5G or 10G can be used to control common or eastern persimmon. Welch recommends one level teaspoonful of Banvel 10G or two level teaspoonfuls of Banvel 5G per inch of trunk diameter of the plant to be treated.

Graslan pellets are only available for aerial broadcast application through Elanco Products Co. approved aerial applicators, ground broadcast application or individual plant application while Banvel granules are registered for individual plant treatment of eastern persimmon.

"Research and demonstration works have shown that these pelleted and granulated herbicides provide good to excellent control of specific brush species," says Welch.

Forecast: Dependable weed control in corn with Banvel herbicide

Whenever pigweed and other problem broadleaf weeds appear, ask for Banvel** herbicide.

Banvel gives effective, economical broadleaf weed control in nearly every stage of the corn growing cycle. Banvel tackles your toughest broadleaf weed problems: pigweed... smartweed... cocklebur... and many more.

Pre-emergence or early post: Banvel, applied at rates up to one pint immediately after planting or until corn is five inches tall provides effective control of many tough annual broadleaf weeds.

Post: Or apply Banvel at the 1/2 pint rate anytime after weeds appear but before corn is 36 inches tall.

For most effective, economical control, apply Banvel early! Applying Banvel when weeds are small — less than 3 inches tall — stops the weeds when they are most easily controlled and also lessens chances of damaging sensitive crops nearby.

Ask for the herbicide strong enough to control the tough to control broadleaf weeds — Banvel herbicide.

Soybean Prices Don't Get Increase Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the drought-reduced U.S. harvest last year, soybean prices have not risen nearly as much as many producers had expected. One big reason is that Brazil and other producers of oilseeds have stepped up production and are supplying some of the demand that would have gone to U.S. producers. Another is that Western Europe, a big buyer, has not ordered as many U.S. soybeans as had been expected. A report issued Wednesday by the Agriculture Department's Foreign Agricultural Service cited another reason why U.S. soybean producers — who rely heavily on foreign markets — are becoming a bit more concerned these days: palm oil, which is produced in several tropical countries, including Malaysia, the leader. Soybeans are crushed or milled into two basic products — a high-protein meal and oil. A few years ago, when palm oil could be imported more cheaply than what soybean oil cost, manufacturers of margarine, salad dressing and many other food products turned heavily to palm oil.

That triggered demands from U.S. producers for tight import restrictions and other measures. But palm oil imports peaked in 1975 and have declined since then. Recently, palm oil delivered to West Coast ports cost about 28 cents a pound, compared with 23 cents a pound for soybean oil in the Midwest. However, on the international market palm oil is a growing item, according to department analysts. "Although the oil palm is native to the African continent, the base for production has shifted to Asia and Oceania," the new report said. "Extensive new plantings have occurred in those areas, often by landholding government agencies and often with international financial assistance."

Moreover, countries that import vegetable oil are showing "continued interest in palm oil," with India, Pakistan and the Soviet Union "making substantial increases" in their imports, it said. The soybean marketing situation is much more complex than its relationship to palm oil production, but in the competitive world market every factor is important and often bears upon the prices American farmers eventually get for their beans.

An earlier report on the supply and demand for soybeans and soybean products showed that U.S. oil exports in the marketing year that began last Oct. 1 are expected to total about 1.75 billion pounds, down 35 percent from 2.69 billion pounds in 1979-80. Exports of whole soybeans, by comparison, are expected to decline 13 percent from last season. The U.S. soybean oil stockpile carried over last Oct. 1 into this marketing year was 1.21 billion pounds, according to the report. By this Oct. 1, it is expected to be about 1.91 billion pounds. Early projections for 1981-82 show little improvement in the soybean oil situation, with exports currently projected to rise to about 2.0 billion pounds.

Block May Criticize European Moves

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Agriculture Secretary John R. Block visits Europe next week, he is expected to express official U.S. displeasure over apparent moves by the European Community to dump surplus grain on the world market.

Also, he plans to tell a meeting of the World Food Council that the United States expects other nations to share in the load of carrying international grain stocks. Block is scheduled to leave Saturday on two-week trip to Europe, including meetings Tuesday and Wednesday with European Community leaders in Brussels.

A background report made available Thursday to reporters outlined some of the key items that Block intends to discuss with European farm leaders. The United States supports expansion of the Community to include Greece, scheduled to become the 10th member this year, the report said. Membership also is pending for Spain and Portugal. "However, the United States is concerned about protectionist tendencies that are surfacing as nations struggle with energy, inflation and payment problems," it said. "If this trend toward export subsidies and import restrictions is to be turned around, the United States and the European Community must take the lead."

The background report on Block's trip came as Jim Billington, president of the National Association of Wheat Growers, warned that the United States "should keep a vigilant watch" on European Community wheat trade practices. "Supply pressure from a potential record European wheat crop could prompt excessive EC subsidies to increase export sales," Billington said in a statement issued here.

Block will be accompanied on the trip by his wife. Others will include Undersecretary Seelye Lodwick and his wife, and five other department officials. "This would weaken world prices and could be used to displace U.S. sales to traditional customers at a time when the Reagan administration is establishing agricultural export expansion as the cornerstone of its farm program," he said.

More than a thousand ranchers and landowners are expected to attend the gathering, McBride noted, making it possibly the largest, most comprehensive conference for ranchers ever held in the Southwest. Pre-registration packets can be obtained by writing to IRR, P.O. Drawer 1849, Uvalde, Texas 78801, Justin McBride said.

that other nations should share responsibility for carrying world stocks," the report said. That would be consistent with previous U.S. policy since the council was created by the World Food Conference, held in Rome in 1974.

Block's itinerary also calls for visits with farm leaders and U.S. officials in London, Paris, Bonn and The Hague before returning to Washington on June 4.

Ranchers' Roundup Set For August in Del Rio

The ranching industry will take many turns during the next few years as government policies and the world economic climate changes. These and many other ranching-related problems will be discussed in length at the International Rancher's Roundup set for August 10-14 in Del Rio.

Three days of general and concurrent sessions have been scheduled, according to Deaf Smith County Extension Agricultural Agent Justin T. McBride. McBride said the first and last days (Aug. 10 and 14) will be devoted to touring, progressively managed ranches in Southwest Texas and northeast Mexico. "The remaining three days—the heart of that week—will consist of daily general and concurrent sessions," McBride said.

Pre-registration packets can be obtained by writing to IRR, P.O. Drawer 1849, Uvalde, Texas 78801, Justin McBride said.

Crop insurance May Be Extended To Tree Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two agencies of the Agriculture Department have agreed to look into the possibility of extending federal crop insurance to tree farmers.

The Federal Crop Insurance Corp. and the Forest Service will conduct long-range pilot studies to see if such an insurance coverage is feasible. The project is supposed to begin by 1983.

Officials said the agencies will measure the risk involved and collect additional actuarial information from private forestland owners and others who have investments in forest resources.

The Forest Service also will collect and provide information on timber stand growth, yields and losses.

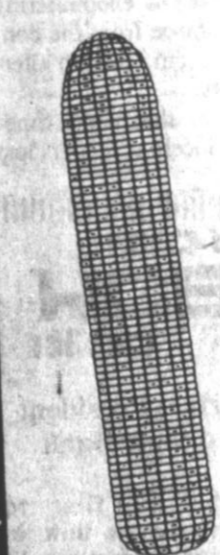

Agricultural representatives from Mexico, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa will be present to discuss their respective nation's ranching problems and what types of help they need from U.S. producers. Developing and maintaining foreign markets will be highlighted along with the long-term outlook for the ranching industry as affected by government policy and world-wide economic changes.

"Information presented during this conference will help ranchers better analyze and solve their problems," said Justin McBride.

McBride emphasizes that pre-registration for the Roundup is June 30. Participants will be charged only $125 and couples $150, if received by the deadline. After that date, all registration fees increase by $50.

McBride points out, however, that tax-deductible registration fees for the Roundup are much less than similar types of agricultural conferences while providing a larger, more broad-based approach. All registered participants will also receive a

SG HYBRIDS

SG-Y850R MID-LATE GREENBUG TOLERANT HYBRID GRAIN SORGHUM
 High yields, stress tolerances, standability and green bug tolerance make this hybrid very much in demand. This hybrid has been on the market for several years and its popularity has increased tremendously during that time. It is still one of the best hybrids for this area. The release of this hybrid is the culmination of several years of sorghum breeding, field trials, green house and caged evaluation. New the end result — a better hybrid for our customers.

SG-860 MID-LATE GREENBUG TOLERANT HYBRID GRAIN SORGHUM
 This is one of the most promising hybrids we have observed. Excellent standability, large heads, and top levels of greenbug tolerance make this an all-around great hybrid. A strong competitor when growing conditions are tough, and a real yield winner when conditions are good — this hybrid will make a lot of new friends. For the best in yield and field, try SG 860.

SG 141
 A big rugged, hearty hybrid corn that is capable of tremendous yields, excellent standability and fast dry down which makes it your best hybrid.

SG 2325 — SG 2451
 Two excellent white-corn hybrids.

RILLCOT-COTTON SEEDS
 Several different varieties to choose from (all of which are early maturing and adapted for this area). We have the DRYLANDER 289, and the BALE BUSTER NO. 1 to suit all your needs.

SG 696
MID-SEASON GREENBUG TOLERANT HYBRID SORGHUM
 This is high yielding hetero-yellow endosperm hybrid with medium maturity and high levels of greenbug tolerance. Good stalk strength, standability, MDMV tolerance, and high test weights make this an outstanding hybrid.

SG 688
MID-EARLY GREENBUG TOLERANT HYBRID SORGHUM
 This yellow endosperm hybrid offers great greenbug tolerance and improved yield levels in a medium-early maturity which blooms in 50-52 days and matures in 97-100 days, which makes it a consistent champion where the growing season is short or the moisture is limited. It has a good tolerance to MDMV, anthracnose and greenbugs.

*(These hybrids are not tolerant to Biotype E Greenbug.)

Cotton Farmers in Critical Time of Season

LUBBOCK — Planting of the 1981 cotton crop on the Texas High Plains is progressing rapidly under generally favorable conditions. But already, cotton farmers in the area are much like the resident of a downstairs apartment who has been awakened by one shoe tossed onto the floor of the apartment above, and now waits anxiously for the other shoe to drop. The farmers know that this is the time of year when needed rains are often accompanied by high winds and hail. Resulting damage may range from a few punctured leaves to destruction of the stand, necessitating replanting.

Since the High Plains has a short growing season, cotton farmers who have suffered hail damage must decide quickly whether to save the damaged stand or replant, noted Dr. James R. Supak, area cotton agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Unfortunately, the extent of damage and potential yield loss is usually difficult to evaluate until several days after a storm," Supak said.

The best procedure for dealing with a hail damaged cotton crop is to provide immediate protection against blowing sand, wait three or four days and evaluate the damage, and decide if the remaining stand (an average of at least two plants per foot of row without too many skips) is adequate to make an acceptable yield, the Extension agronomist recommended.

The appearance of new leaf tissue four or five days after injury is a good sign that the plants will recover. But if the stems are bruised and this new tissue is turning black, it indicates that the plants are unable to supply adequate moisture to sustain growth and will probably die. This condition frequently occurs when the storm is followed by a period of low humidities, high temperatures and strong winds. "In this case, replanting will be necessary," Supak said.

Loss of the terminal bud does not necessarily mean the plant is doomed, he noted. "As long as at least one undamaged bud remains, the plant can recover fully. If, however, the plant was cut off or heavily damaged (shattered stem) below the first leaf buds, it has no chance of recovery."

The final part of the evaluation process is estimating how many plants will survive and whether their spacing constitutes an adequate stand. To do this, the Extension specialist advised farmers to count the number of plants likely to survive in 25 feet of row at various spots in the field. Numerous research studies have shown that if at least two plants remain per foot of row and if skips greater than two feet in length occur on less than 15 percent of the row, then the stand is adequate to produce optimum yields, he said.

"Cotton is an extremely hearty plant with a tremendous capacity for recovery from injury, especially if it occurs fairly early in the season. A May planted crop with damage often has a better chance of producing a good yield of well developed seed and fiber than a June-planted crop."

In most years, the last practical date for replanting cotton in the northern counties of the Texas High Plains is June 10 and in the southern counties June 15-20. Early maturing, determinate varieties should be used for June plantings.

Experienced cotton farmers and research scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock generally agree that the worst time to decide the fate of a damaged crop is on the day following a storm, the agronomist said.

"They suggest that producers first concentrate on protecting the damaged crop from further injury by blowing sand," Supak said. Frequently, a day or two after a hailstorm, high winds accompanied by blowing sand wipe out a damaged but acceptable stand of cotton, he noted. The first priority following a storm is to run a sandfighter, rotary hoe or other equipment to prevent sand damage, he stressed.

"Delay the critical examination of the damaged field until three to five days after the storm to insure a more accurate estimate of how many plants will survive," Supak urged. He advised farmers to inspect the entire field to determine if the damage is uniform or more severe in a certain area. It may be that only part of a damaged field will require replanting, he noted.

He recommended that farmers closely examine the plants to determine the extent of leaf loss, stem bruises and the number of buds remaining that are capable of starting new growth.

"If as much as 25 percent of the leaf tissue remains, including portions of damaged leaves, and the stem is not badly damaged, the crop has a good chance of recovering and producing a near-normal yield," the Extension agronomist said. On the other hand, if it is totally defoliated and the bark on the stem is stripped or broken, recovery will be slow and many plants will die, he said. "Unless extreme moisture stress develops, summer irrigation of late planted cotton is generally not profitable. If watering is necessary, alternate furrow irrigation is recommended. An early watering of a late planted crop will not hasten crop maturity. In fact it will tend to have the opposite effect. Likewise, late applications of nitrogen fertilizer also encourage vegetative growth, delay fruit set and maturity," Supak said.

The application of foliar fertilizer on hail damaged crops is not recommended, the agronomist advised. The leaf area of hail damaged cotton plants is generally too limited for foliar applied fertilizer to be much benefit, he said.

Red River Water Use Documented

AUSTIN, Texas — Use of surface water in the Upper Red River Segment for other than domestic and livestock purposes has been documented in a report prepared by the Texas Department of Water Resources, according to an announcement by the department. The segment consists of (1) the Prairie Dog Town Fork Red River and its tributaries from the New Mexico - Texas State boundary to the Texas - Oklahoma State boundary at longitude 100 degrees west, whereupon the stream is known as the Red River; (2) the Red River and its tributaries within the State of Texas from longitude 100 degrees west downstream to its confluence with the North Fork Red River; (3) the North Fork Red River and its tributaries from its headwaters downstream to the State boundary at longitude 100 degrees west and (4) the Washita River and its tributaries from its headwaters downstream to the State boundary at longitude 100 degrees west. The report was prepared for publication subsequent to field investigations of water usage in the segment covering all or portions of Roberts, Hemphill, Wheeler, Gray, Carson, Potter, Oldham, Deaf Smith, Randall, Armstrong, Donley, Collingsworth, Parmer, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Hall, Childress, Cottle, Hardeman and Willbarger Counties, Texas.

Publication of the report from information gathered during field investigations marks the commencement of the adjudication process in the Upper Red River Segment. Several such adjudications have been undertaken since the passage of the Water Rights Adjudication Act of 1967. The report consists of a 208-page book and a 25-page appendix of aerial photographic mosaics and is available for inspection at TDWR offices in Austin and Amarillo, or at the offices of the County Clerks in Deaf Smith, Gray, Collingsworth and Swisher Counties, Texas.

Copies of the investigation report and of the appendix, or portions thereof, may be obtained by contacting Permits Division, Texas Department of Water Resources, Stephen F. Austin State office Building, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711 and by payment of costs as follows:

- (1) $20.00 plus 5 percent sales tax for the complete report without appendix;
- (2) $60.00 plus 5 percent sales tax for the complete appendix only, with all maps and plats reproduced by the Ozalid process;
- (3) $0.38 plus 5 percent sales tax for a single page of the report and
- (4) $2.50 plus 5 percent sales tax for a single map or plat of the appendix reproduced by the Ozalid process.

The prices quoted above include postage and handling and are subject to change due to possible increases in printing cost. Repayment is required on all orders.

The Texas Water Commission, the judicial arm of the TDWR, will commence hearings at 2:00 p.m., Monday, August 31 in Amarillo Municipal Building, Room 305, 509 East 7th in Amarillo. Dockets listing claimants and the time and place for each evidentiary hearing will be sent to each claimant of record. Claimants who do not appear and present evidence in support of their claims will, in all probability, lose any water right to which they may be otherwise entitled.

All persons claiming a water right of any kind to impound, divert and use State water within the Upper Red River Segment for other than domestic or livestock purposes are required to complete and file a sworn claim of water rights with the Department on or before Aug. 21. Persons who have not received forms for the filing of these claims and wish to do so may obtain forms and information by writing to the Department at the Austin address.

Hearings are part of a one-time statewide evaluation and inventory of water rights required by the Water Rights Adjudication Act which became law in 1967. At the initial hearing, jurisdiction will be considered and the adjudication process will be explained, with time set aside for questions. After all hearings are completed, the Commission will enter an order determining water rights in the segment based upon the evidence received at the hearings. The Commission's determination will be filed in a district court in the basin for court approval.

Conservationist Warns Of Poisonous Plants

At least 75 plants that grow in Texas are poisonous and can cause death, illness, or extreme discomfort to people, a local conservation leader warned this week.

Tom Cunningham, district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, at Hereford, said parents should be concerned because many of the plants are common in flower and vegetable gardens; in ornamental landscaping; and in range, pasture, or forest lands. Bulbs, roots, seeds, leaves, beans, stems, or berries may contain poison, depending on the species of plant.

"Chewing, swallowing, or otherwise contacting the toxic parts of these plants, trees, and rubs takes a heavy toll," Cunningham said. "Each year health services report that about 12,000 children are poisoned or injured by these sources."

"In fact, we have already heard of two children in Texas ages 2½ and 3, who ate deadly silverleaf nightshade berries earlier this year," Cunningham continued. "Thanks to a concerned parent who took the plant to an SCS office for identification, a doctor was alerted and he treated the children successfully."

Cunningham said the beautiful oleander bush is one of the most poisonous plants in Texas and is grown all over the state. It contains a deadly heart stimulant similar to the drug digitalis that is so strong that a single leaf can kill a child. People have died merely from eating stems speared on oleander twigs and roasted over a fire.

Jimsonweed, sometimes called thorn apple and stinkweed, grows almost everywhere and causes many poisonings. Growing from 2 to 5 feet tall, it has large leaves and white funnel-shaped flowers. All parts are poisonous, especially seed and leaves.

Dieffenbachia, or dumb cane, is a beautiful house plant grown in millions of homes, but merely biting its stalk can cause swelling of the mouth and tongue that can be deadly. It is called dumb cane because of its power to strike its victims speechless. The stalks contain needlelike crystals of calcium oxalate that become imbedded in the tissue of the mouth and tongue causing severe swelling and pain.

Castor-bean seeds are also deadly. Each seed contains enough ricin, a powerful blood poison, to kill a child.

Mescalbean, or mountain laurel, is also dangerous. It has a poison bean with a hard coat. If it is swallowed whole there may be no ill effects, but if chewed or crushed it can be lethal.

Other common plants in Texas that have poisonous parts include poinsettia, mistletoe, elephant ear, larkspur, azaleas, lantana canana, yew, oaks, water hemlock, poison hemlock, poison ivy, poison oak, and poison sumac.

"More detailed information on these and other plants can be secured from health and plant authorities," Cunningham said. "However, SCS offices in our state's 201 soil and water conservation districts are trying to cooperate fully with the National Safety Council in keeping the public alerted to poisonous plants."

Cattlemen Must Be Market Conscious

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

"Texas cattlemen, who more than 100 years ago, trailed their cattle north to better markets set an example for today's cattle raiser," says Dr. John Hopkin, head of the Department of Agricultural Economics at Texas A&M University.

"I'm not advocating resumption of cattle trailing," Hopkin says, "but I am saying we need to find ways of doing a better job of marketing."

"And by marketing, I don't mean color ads on television and magazines extolling the merits of choice beef."

"Such ads are all right and have their place but the beef industry also needs to research what the consumers really want and then produce that product. Reliable research on consumer demand is not cheap, but it is a whole lot less expensive than ignoring the issue, as Chrysler can tell you."

"There are indications the beef industry is encountering price resistance from the consumer and some shift to alternate meats."

"Yet, at the same time, some producers or feeders lost money on the cattle they sold."

"This says several things to me: we need to find ways to produce what the consumers want, at a price they can afford and one at which the producer can make a profit."

"Research by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station indicates that many consumers want leaner beef, of good quality, at cheaper prices."

"A lot is being said about the need for changes in market grades to reflect the presumed shift in consumer tastes toward leaner beef.

"If the present criteria for U.S. Choice pushes cattle feeders to overfeed cattle in order to make 80 to 90 percent of their lots grade choice, something will have to give."

"What is giving, in some instances, is government grading. An increasing number of packers and retailers are moving to their own grades, based on degrees of finishing which vary from medium-good to high-good."

"But grade names are not the important issue. What is important is that the system be sufficiently precise that it accurately describes the product, and that it be sufficiently simple so users can understand the grades and buy what they want."

"The combination of concern over cholesterol, higher costs of feed grains, and new techniques for tenderizing beef, warrants a reconsideration of beef grades."

The whole structure of cattle marketing is in flux. Ever since the demise of the central livestock markets, increasing concern has been expressed over the limited bidding that might occur for feeder cattle, particularly, but for fat cattle from small feedlots, as well.

One new dimension in marketing particularly designed to generate increased bidding is electronic or computer marketing.

Experiments and demonstrations are being conducted to assess the feasibility of electronic marketing for feeder cattle, fat cattle and cows.

Judy Landers Fit

by Fred Bronson

Judy Landers was a New York state champion high school gymnast—but she gave up the athletic world for show business after she won a role in a milk commercial that her sister suggested she try out for.

Judy stars as Stacks, one of BJ McKay's seven female truckers, in NBC-TV's "BJ and the Bear." Judy's sister is Audrey Landers, who plays Afton Cooper in "Dallas." Audrey is two years older, but many people mistake the sisters for twins.

"Audrey has always been my 'big sister,' and she's my best friend too. She's always protected me and made the decisions for the two of us. Our relationship is the same today as it was when we were little girls."

Audrey was a professional actress by the time she was 13, while Judy was content to excel in gymnastics. That all changed when Audrey suggested to a reluctant Judy that she try out for a milk commercial. Judy agreed after she made certain she wouldn't have to recite any lines.

The milk commercial was fun, so Judy admitted to herself that she really did want to be an actress. "My mom introduced me to Audrey's agent, and he said I was perfect for a guest role in a series, so he sent me to see the producers of 'Whatever Happened to the Class of '55?' and they cast me as 'Wanda the Bod.'"

Other guest starring roles soon followed, including a running role in the "Vegas" series. She's only acted once with sister Audrey, in a pilot for a comedy series, but she would like to work with her sister again soon.

POLLYANNA

Hayley Mills stars in the title role of "Pollyanna," a film feature to be telecast during a special three-hour presentation of "Disney's Wonderful World" SUNDAY, MAY 24. The telecast will include the 1932 Academy Award-winning animated short subject, "The Three Little Pigs."

"Pollyanna," based on Eleanor H. Porter's novel set in 1912, centers around Pollyanna Whittier, an orphan, who arrives in the town of Harrington to live with her iron-willed Aunt Polly Harrington, the richest woman in the community.

A perpetually cheerful child, Pollyanna offers numerous sunny hints to her troubled elders and manages to win over even the town's gruffest citizen with her Glad Game philosophy. (Closed-captioned)

SPFX: THE EMPIRE STRIKES BACK

Mark Hamill, who originated the role of Luke Skywalker in the hit film "Star Wars," and continued the characterization in "The Empire Strikes Back," will appear in the rebroadcast of "SPFX: The Empire Strikes Back," MONDAY, MAY 25 on CBS-TV.

Special effects, the technology that frees an audience's imagination for full flight and can turn a cinema dream into instant reality, will be saluted—and some of its magic will be revealed—in the hour-long special starring Mark and featuring a special appearance by R2D2.

How things are made to fly—from flying carpets to Darth Vader's Imperial Starship—is demonstrated during the show.

CBS REPORTS: NURSE, WHERE ARE YOU?

Jan Mason, left, a nurse at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, talks with CBS News Correspondent Marlene Sanders about the critical shortage of nurses in America's hospitals, in CBS Reports: "Nurse, Where Are You?," THURSDAY, MAY 28 on CBS-TV.

"Nurse, Where Are You?" reveals that less than half of the nation's 1.4 million nurses stay in hospitals, in part because the pay is better elsewhere than the $14,000 a year the average hospital staff nurse earns. And fewer people are entering the nursing profession.

The broadcast reveals that the public perception of nurses as, in the words of one staff nurse, "bedpan carriers and waitresses," is far from the truth.

ABC Wins Race With New Movies

NEW YORK (AP)—Drawing big audiences for several first-run programs, including a made-for-TV movie called "The Best Little Girl in the World," ABC won the networks' weekly ratings race for the first time in a month, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

ABC tied CBS, the No. 1 network in the recently completed 1980-81 season, in last week's competition. CBS finished first the three previous weeks.

ABC listed five of the 10 highest-rated programs in the week ending May 17, and compiled an average rating of 17, compared to 16.2 for NBC—runnerup for the first time since early March—and 15.4 for CBS.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 17 percent of the nation's homes with television were tuned to ABC.

Your Man," which finished seventh, but most other first-run specials and movies broadcast during the week were only moderately successful.

"Ladies and Gentlemen... Bob Newhart, Part II," on CBS was No. 26 for the week, with the concluding installment of NBC's two-part miniseries, "The Starmaker," 32nd. Part I was in 38th place.

CBS' broadcast of the Canadian production, "Escape from Iran," was 33rd.

CBS and ABC each had two shows among the week's five lowest-rated. The latest production in CBS' "Body Human" series was No. 51, followed by "B.J. and the Bear" on NBC, an ABC movie, "The Longest Yard," a CBS presentation of the classic "Les Miserables," and "Those Amazing Animals" on ABC.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated shows:

Movie: "The Best Little Girl in the World," with a rating of 25.5 representing 19.8 million homes, and "Three's Company," 24.2 or 18.8 million, both ABC; Movie: "Meatballs," 23.6 or 18.4 million, NBC; "Too Close for Comfort," 22.4 or 17.4 million, ABC; "TV's Censored Bloopers," 22.3 or 17.3 million, NBC; Movie: "Stand By Your Man," CBS, and "Hart to Hart," ABC, both 21.6 or 16.8 million; "60 Minutes," 21.4 or 16.6 million, CBS; "Laverne and Shirley," 21.3 or 16.5 million, ABC, and "Little House on the Prairie," 20.7 or 16.1 million, NBC.

TV BACKSTAGE: Charlene Tilton credits the Bible, her mother and her "Dallas" family with helping her overcome the heartbreak that has shadowed her ever since she was born. "Life hasn't been easy at all," she says. "You could go so far as to say I've had it rough, very rough. And, you know, it's been that way from the beginning." Her father abandoned the family before Charlene even had a chance to know him. "I never knew him, that's true," she says. "He dumped us only a couple of months after I was born." Life without a father left Charlene with deep emotional scars, especially when it came to relating to other men. "I had to face all sorts of personal difficulties, and had so much to overcome in my life. I grew up with the notion that men couldn't be trusted." Industry sources report Alan Alda of "M*A*S*H" gets $5.6 million a year for his acting, directing and writing skills. Carroll O'Connor of "Archie Bunker's Place" gets a reported $5.3 million yearly for his starring role and job as script consultant.

Agencies Say 'Clean Up Act'

by Scott Hesse

It was an incredible meeting. But the results were even more astounding. The presidents of all three networks—ABC, NBC and CBS—went down to Boca Raton, Florida in early April to plead with the advertisers, at the convention of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, to join the networks in their fight against the Coalition for Better Television—a consumer group demanding less sex, violence and profanity on network TV. The Coalition threatens boycotts of programs that glorify sex and violence on television, and of the advertisers who support them.

"This is terrible!" cried the networks. "Won't you advertising agencies join us in our fight against these people who want to censor our programs?"

"No," was the message from the agencies. "Your programs are bad, and you don't deserve it."

A number of the ad executives at the meeting took great offense at the networks.

"They are trying to get us to join them now," said one executive, "but he noted that these same network executives were nowhere to be found when the networks hiked their rates 16-18 percent in recent years."

An advertising man quoted by Christy Marshall in Advertising Age said, "I don't want censors like the Moral Majority, Jerry Falwell or any of them. But I don't want 'Three's Company' either—and that's what I get. The networks program offensive shows, pure trash, and they expect us to defend them."

Fred Pierce, ABC president, tried to remind the advertising agencies how much they "owed" the networks for past favors, saying that network TV support was "crucial to you when you had problems in children's advertising."

The agencies weren't buying that line either.

"They all spoke too long, and on the same topic," said one.

"It was rude. They used our platform for their sales pitches," said another.

Meanwhile, there are reports the networks may try to impose a "morality tax," a higher ad rate for spots run in family-oriented viewing, according to a press release from Don Wildmon of the Coalition for Better Television.

Wildmon said the coalition's campaign against advertiser support for programs featuring sex, violence and profanity is working, and the networks "are acting like immature, spoiled brats for taxing clean programs."

TV Shows Banished

Now that the networks have unveiled their schedules for next fall, some of the more controversial shows are being banished. "Soap," "Charlie's Angels" and "Vegas" on ABC, "White Shadow" and "Enos" on CBS and "Lobo" and "BJ and the Bear" on NBC have all been cancelled (along with some wholesome shows like "The Waltons" on CBS, "Those Amazing Animals" on ABC, and "Brady Brides" on NBC). While the ratings obviously killed off the wholesome shows, could the networks have had the Coalition for Better TV in mind when they decide to axe the others?

'Upstairs, Downstairs' Returns

NEW YORK (AP) — "You're Marsh! Jean Marsh!" the small, bent woman chirped. She was already several steps past the actress, who turned to acknowledge the greeting, for that is what it was. "Get them to bring that show back," the woman said before continuing on down West 44th Street. "We loved it."

It's been four years now since "Upstairs, Downstairs" completed its run of 55 episodes on public TV's "Masterpiece Theater," and Jean Marsh — Rose, the downstairs maid — is still recognized on the street. Her work since "Upstairs Downstairs," the series Miss Marsh created with Eileen Atkins, has been confined largely to the stage, though she has appeared in several motion pictures, including "The Eagle Has Landed" and Alfred Hitchcock's "Frenzy."

"People do recognize me now and then," says the actress who won an Emmy for her part in "Upstairs, Downstairs," "though often all they can remember is Rose."

"Upstairs, Downstairs" returns to "Masterpiece Theater" in encore July 19, with five weekly episodes drawn from each of the series' five years. Jean Marsh, who lives here most of the year, may be as busy today as ever, as the recently appointed artistic director of the Actors Conservatory Theater at Adelphi University, as an actress in the yet-to-be-released motion picture, "Goliath Awakes," with Donald Pleasance and Christopher Lee, and as a writer of some promise.

"I write all the time," she says. "In fact, one of the reasons I'm going to Los Angeles — she was about to leave for the West Coast to complete work on "Goliath Awakes" — "is I've got quite a lot of things to sell."

The best of what she's written, she says, is a treatment for a TV series "set in America, in the past, starring two women."

"I read a lot," Miss Marsh says, "and I know more about America's past than the present. I think observers, like me, sometimes know more about a place than the people who have lived there all their lives. People are always surprised because I know so much about the Santa Fe Trail, or Lewis and Clark."

"Upstairs, Downstairs" was created, at least partially, out of personal experience. "I come from a working class background," says Miss Marsh, who was born in London, "and I think

Sound Country

In answer to all our readers who have asked about the new Willie Nelson album with David Allen Coe: This is a repackaged LP, which was recently released as Willie Nelson and Friends At The Longhorn Jamboree, although the sound is said to be changed on some tracks.

"The Storm Within My Heart" is not a single, as many readers have asked. It's only on this album, with Willie's other tunes, like "Night Life," "Man With the Blues," "Rainy Day Blues" and others.

David Allen Coe cuts include "Ride Me Down Easy," "Fuzzy Was An Outlaw" and several others.

The album is packaged as Willie and David and is available for $6.95 postpaid on album, eight track or cassette from Southridge Music, 2231 Hough Road, Florence, Alabama 35630.

News Top Country Hits of the Year." This new awards program was a first ever national tribute which recognized and paid tribute to the songwriters of country music hits... and not just the artists who recorded them.

Nine of the cuts on Earl Thomas Conley's Blue Pearl album are songs that he has written. These include "Silent Treatment" and "Fire and Smoke," both single hits.

The tenth song on the album, "This Time I Hurt Her More Than She Loves Me," was written by Earl with Mary Louise Larkin and was a hit single a few years back for Conway Twitty.

In the meantime, Twitty is hitting with a two-sided chart single, "You Are The Dreamer" and "Rest Your Love On Me."

Offshore Gas Resource Potential May Be Less Than Estimated

HOUSTON (AP) — An independent study group says there is indication the potential for domestic offshore natural gas resources is lower than earlier estimates.

At the same time, however, the Potential Gas Committee, in its biennial evaluation of exploration and drilling activity, says current data indicates geologic formations below 15,000 feet hold more resources than previously estimated.

The committee discussed the trends while estimating the nation's potential natural gas resources, exclusive of proved reserves, at 913 trillion cubic feet at the end of 1980.

The new estimate is 106 trillion cubic feet below the 1978 estimate but the committee said about one-fourth of the decrease can be attributed to transfers from potential resources to proved reserves through drilling and discovery.

Since the early 1960s, the committee has evaluated the potential for production of natural gas from conventional domestic sources. The more than 100 members include representatives of the natural gas industry, federal and state agencies, and academic institutions. Most are geologists and petroleum engineers engaged in exploration and drilling in every producing region and frontier area of the nation.

The 1980 estimates, the committee reported, reflect significant shifts in the pattern of distribution of estimated potential supply when compared with the 1978 report.

"For the lower 48 states 29 percent of the potential is estimated to lie at depths between 15,000 and 30,000 feet, compared with 32 percent of the potential in 1978," the new report said.

"In spite of the decrease in the total estimated potential for the United States, the estimates for this deeper drilling, below 15,000 feet, have also been increased in terms of the actual estimated volume from 199 trillion cubic feet in 1978 to 240 trillion cubic feet in 1980."

The committee said the increases in the estimates are the result of increased focus on exploration for deep targets and are made possible by better geophysical information and by the results of exploratory drilling in the deep portions of the sedimentary basins.

"Also for the lower 48 states," the committee said, "20 percent of the total potential is estimated to occur offshore as compared to 26 percent in 1978. This represents a decrease in the actual estimated volumes from 216 trillion cubic feet in 1978 to 157 trillion in 1980."

The committee said the decreases in offshore areas of the lower 48 states were greatly influenced by the activity in the Gulf Coast region in terms of exploration, development of proved reserves and production and by disappointing results of offshore explorations in the Baltimore Canyon area of the Atlantic.

Alaska's share of domestic potential natural gas resources was said to have dropped from 19 percent to 16 percent the past two years.

"This reflects a decrease in estimates of Alaskan potential from 189 trillion trillion feet in 1978 to 145 trillion in 1980," the report said.

The study group said the Alaskan decreases result from disappointing results in offshore areas, especially in the Gulf of Alaska, and re-evaluation of the potential of certain onshore basins.

On deeper resources, the committee said there has been a very definite increase in the number of wells drilled below 15,000 feet.

"In 1977, there were 472 wells drilled below 15,000 in the entire United States, including the offshore regions," the committee said.

"In 1980, the API Quarterly Review of Drilling Statistics lists 712 wells drilled to depths below 15,000. In each of the years 1978 and 1979, between 600 and 700 wells were drilled."

The potential supply of natural gas from the Eastern region that includes the Appalachian basin and all the Atlantic Seaboard except Florida was dropped from 121 trillion to 86 trillion cubic feet.

"This is primarily a result of indications of a reduced natural gas potential from the U.S. Atlantic offshore region," the committee reported.

The group said that of 23 tests drilled in the Baltimore Canyon area and six in the Southeast Georgia Embayment area significant hydrocarbon shows were indicated in only five wildcats, all within a few miles of each other about 100 miles off the New Jersey Coast.

"While the natural gas potential of the Atlantic continental margins is diminished, industry indicates by decisive actions that the expensive search for economical accumulations of new reserves in the region will continue," the committee said.

The formal report by the committee that operates through the Potential Gas Agency at the Colorado School of Mines will be released in June.

Phil Pastoret

Rabbits and beer drinkers have one thing in common — they're all full of hops.

Recall when they judged a watch by the number of jewels, and not by how long the battery lasts?

Turn signals indicate whether the car ahead is to go left or right, unless we're following our wife.

Ma Bell wants us to reach out and touch someone — for the money to pay for the toll calls, perhaps?

Some men like to spend an evening in the basement — others do so because the frau is entertaining her bridge club.

The punch line is what his spouse always delivers in an argument that started out as a joke, says our much-beloved neighbor.

HOCUS-FOCUS

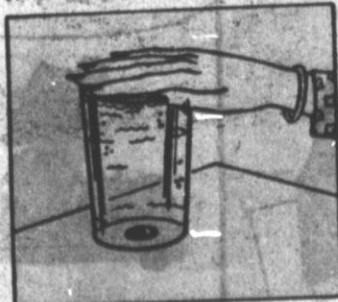

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with these below.

Junior Whirl

by Hal Kaufman

● DEAR HAL: What dessert do you suggest for an emotional occasion? Pie a la mood. What shows should foot doctors avoid? Double feel-ures. What should one take up if constantly stepped on? Stomp collecting. What kind of shoes are advised for trappers? Low furs.

NOW YOU SEE IT,
NOW YOU DON'T!

It's no trick to have money disappear, but here is a way to harness its elusive qualities for the amusement of friends. Ask someone to place a small coin on a flat surface. Place a tumbler filled with water over the coin. Remove the tumbler once or twice to show that the coin is still there.

Now, place your hand over the tumbler, as shown above, and ask guests to look through the glass for the coin. To all outward appearances the coin will have disappeared.

● Murky Math! If 18 more than double a certain number is equal to three less than triple that number, what is the number? Answer quickly.

● Let Us Spray! Find an insect in each of these sentences: 1. Sing nature's praises. 2. The swan trumpeted. 3. Her wrap hid her face. 4. Each new term I tense up.

● Sum Fun! Take your age, add 7, double the result, add 16, double again, divide by 4, and subtract 15. You are now back to your age.

FINAL TOUCH! To top off this graduation scene, draw connecting lines from dot 1 to dot 2 to dot 3 and so on.

Our Story: CAMELOT IS BESIEGED BY MORDRED, KING ARTHUR'S HALF BROTHER. THE STORY OF THE NEXT THREE MONTHS IS ONE OF COURAGE AND COWARDICE, OF TREACHERY AND SELF-SACRIFICE. THE DETAILS WE WILL NEVER KNOW, FOR THE ARCHIVES WERE DESTROYED DURING THE 'GREAT SACK'.

BUT IT IS RECORDED IN ONE OF THE EPICS THAT GALAN AND HIS TWIN SISTERS, KAREN AND VALETA, ARRIVED SAFELY IN IRELAND WITH THE OTHER CHILDREN OF CAMELOT.

WHAT A STRANGE LAND IT IS, WITH ITS SEVEN KINGDOMS AND GREAT ELK AND HILL FORTS CROWNING EVERY KNOLL. NO GOTH OR HUN EVER VENTURED HERE. INSTEAD, THE NATIVES FIGHT HAPPILY AMONG THEMSELVES, BURYING THEIR FALLEN WARRIORS STANDING UP TO FACE THE "ENEMY."

© 1981 King Features Syndicate, Inc. World rights reserved.

BECAUSE THEY ARE CHILDREN OF A FAMOUS PRINCE, GALAN AND THE TWINS LODGE WITH RORY MOR, HIGH KING OF ALL IRELAND. THE TWINS ARE NOT IMPRESSED WITH THE ROYAL CITADEL OF TARA. "IF THIS IS ONE OF THEIR PALACES," KAREN WHISPERS, "I WOULD HATE TO LIVE IN A HOUSE."

RORY MOR IS A BEAR OF A MAN. "UNDER MY ROOF YOU WILL LIVE AS WE LIVE," HE EXPLAINS. "YOU WILL WEAR OUR CLOTHING AND LEARN YOUR LESSONS FROM DAWN UNTIL MIDDAY. AFTER THAT WE WILL HUNT, ALL OF US, IN IRELAND; WOMEN EVEN FIGHT WARS. AFTER SUPPER YOU WILL SLEEP." THE TWINS ARE SUDDENLY HOMESICK.

BUT GALAN EXPLORES THE BUILDINGS OF TARA, AND IN ONE OF THEM HE RECEIVES A GREAT FRIGHT. "HELP ME," CRIES THE VOICE FROM BELOW.

A Salute to the Grads! Hereford High School, Class of 1981!

There's a challenging and exciting world awaiting all of you, our community's distinguished Graduates! You've completed a very significant phase in your young lives and now bigger and better experiences lie ahead. Whatever path each of you may venture on, always remember that the friends and neighbors of your community will be behind you with continued support. We're proud of the accomplishments you have achieved up till now, and even prouder of the challenges you're sure to meet in the future. We'll be rooting for you every step of the way...for your future is also ours. Congratulations and continued success, Grads!
