Saterfield resigns as jail administrate

BY KIM THOGMARTIN

Staff Writer Charles Saterfield tried to recall the changes he implemented at the Deaf Smith County Jail since coming here July 20, but he had trouble remembering them all.

After a little more than six months and two sheriffs, Saterfield is giving up the local jail administrator's post and returning to his old job in Canadian. "I came here with a lot of ambition, a lot of goals", he said Monday as he and his wife Vicky took a

His resignation, tendered to Sheriff Joe Brown not quite two weeks ago, became effective today, "I'm through with the jail business," he said

"I hate to leave here," added his wife. "I really liked Hereford." Vicky had been working as a beautician at King's Manor Beauty Salon.

"I made history in Deaf Smith County," he explained. "I was the first jail administrator the county has had." Former Sheriff Travis

According to Saterfield, the jail was in poor condition security-wise. "We took out the fire hazards," he said. "There were often too many mattresses in a cell and paper and plastic items lay-ing around. There was not a: routine cleaning plan when I came."

The new intercom system was installed while he was there though Saterfield gives the county commissioners credit for getting those plans underway. "I did make sure the speakers were recessed into the walls, which is what jail standards require. They were going to hang them on the outside of the wall."

Reagan's Chicago visit 'official'

By JAMES GERSTENZANG Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) Ronald Reagan, traveling the country as a full-fledged presidential candidate, is working at winning once again the support of bluecollar laborers.

Two days after declaring his candidacy for re-election, the president was traveling to Chicago today on what was considered an official, rather than political, trip to speak to the 1984 convention of the concrete and aggregates industry.

Reagan's address was aimed at emphasizing the progress achieved during his first three years in office in putting "the inflation monster in a cage."

In his speech, Reagan plan-ned to stress that working people can feel the result of his program of budget and tax cuts with greater purchasing power, because the rates of inflation and interest have been trimmed.

The economic theme reflected the belief by Reagan's political advisers that it is a key issue working in his favor, as a result of risng economic indicators and the now-falling rate of unemployment, which reach-ad a post-Depression high of 0.8 percent during the reces-

Because there were no overtly political events on Reagan's schedule today, the cost of the trip was being carried by the U.S. treasury,

The president is likely to leave Washington four to six times a month during the period leading to the Republican National Convention, which will meet in Dallas next August.

On Monday, he drew repeated cheering and standing ovations from 4,000 religious broadcasters - his audience for a speech extoll-ing the emotional issues of key concern to his conservative supporters.

Making his first public appearance as a 1984 presidential candidate, he told the convention of the National Religious Broadcasters that he wears as a badge of honor the "indictment" he received for declaring 1983 as the Year of the Bible. The American Civil Liberties Union had criticized that declaration.

"I've been told that since the beginning of civilization millions of laws have been written. Taken all together they have not improved the Ten Commandments one bit," Reagan told the group, whose members produce

Reagan, who backs a constitutional amendment permitting voluntary prayer in the schools, also told the broadcasters:

"I know one thing I'm sure most of us agree on. God, source of all knowledge, should never have been expelled from our children's classrooms ... I think Americans are getting angry. I think they have a message and Congress better listen."

By CLIFF HAAS Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) -

President Reagan is kicking off his sales campaign for an approximately $925 billion, red-ink budget for the 1985 fiscal year with a White House meeting of Republican legislators.

The budget for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1 will not be submitted to Congress officially until Wednesday, but the president summoned GOP members of the House and Senate today for a discussion of the spending plan which is expected to project a deficit of $180 billion.

While details of the budget have not been revealed publicly by the administration, its outlines have leaked out steadily for the past several weeks, including:

-A request for about $305 billion in military spending authority, about an 18 percent increase from the current

-Startup money for an $8 billion manned space station. -Net domestic spending cuts of $4 billion to $5 billion.

-Tax increases, through the closing of various loopholes, of about $8 billion.

-More money for the Environmental Protection -About a 6 percent increase, about $200 million, in the Justice Department's budget, primarily to strengthen crime fighting activities.

Meanwhile, Reagan's call for bipartisan talks on trimming $100 billion from federal budget deficits remains on hold while congressional Democrats await the details of the budget and any new ideas Reagan has to offer for cutting the record deficits which are projected to remain at about $200 billion a year without action. House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., remained skeptical of Reagan's invitation for talks, which have

No meetings are expected until after the president sends his fiscal 1985 budget to Congress on Wednesday.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Monday that the administration was "prepared to sit down and negotiate" and he insisted the president's offer was "no ploy." O'Neill, however, said, "He's (Reagan) playing the game of ... pass the buck to the group you invite down (to the White House) so it's

Asked if he thinks the talks are a "phony trick," O'Neill replied, "My opinion."

In a related development, some House Democrats, led by Reps. Tony Coelho. D-Calif., chairman of the House Democratic campaign committee, and David R. Obey, D-Wis., have discussed the idea of giving Reagan the "line-item veto" he requested last week in his State of the Union address. Reagan wants the authority to hold down government spending by vetoing individual items in money bills instead of the entire bill, as he Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said that at Reagan's request he will be reconsidering his opposition to the line-item veto.

"I do not presently support it, but I will re-examine it,"

Meantime, Congressional support for the U.S. Marine tinues to erode, with two Republican senators breaking from the Reagan administration's determination to keep a high profile in the region.

Sens. Slade Gorton, R-Wash., and Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., had both voted last fall to keep the troops in Beirut until April 1985. But Monday, Gorton said he could not support Reagan's present position "except for a short time." And Simpson said keeping the Marines in Lebanon "will become a terrible political liability" if the administration's policy is not changed.

"If I had my way, I would bring them out in the morning," said House Speaker O'Neill on Monday. "I would get them out soon, right away, immediately, now."

Mother gives birth to girl

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - A woman gave birth by emergency Caesarian section after she was critically burned and her 4-year-old son was killed in a fire that raged through their apartment only two days before they were to move.

The woman's husband threw their 1-year-old daughter to safety and escaped with minor burns Monday morning while trying to get back into the apartment to help his pregnant wife and son, authorities said.

Brenda Smith, 24, was in critical condition early today at the Parkland Burn Unit in Dallas with third-degree burns over 90 percent of her body, hospital officials said.

Anita Landrum, Mrs. Smith's mother, said the family had lived in the apartment for three months, but planned to move Feb. 1 to an apartment in Fort Worth. Her daughter was eight months pregnant, she said.

The Caesarian section was performed at Arlington Memorial Hospital at 10:06 a.m. Monday, nine minutes after she arrived at the hospital and about 30 minutes after she and her son were pulled from the burning apartment, officials said.

The baby, named Tanya Renee, was in serious to critical condition at John Peter Smith Hospital in Fort Worth. Bryan Smith, 4, was pronounced dead at Arlington Community Hospital.

Latham was abducted Friday afternoon as he inspected a car crossing into Del Rio from Ciudad Acuna, Mexico. Authorities speculate the four men in the vehicle forced him into the car after he saw money and jewelry that were taken in the armed robbery of a jewelry store.

Customs officials said passenger processing at all border checkpoint stations nationwide would be stopped for one minute at 2:30 p.m. CST today in honor of the slain inspector. Conroy said flags at Customs stations would be lowered to half staff at that time to begin a week of official mourning.

Bishop named Archbishop

NEW YORK (AP) - Pope John Paul II has chosen Bishop John J. O'Connor, a former Navy admiral who helped draft a pastoral letter condemning nuclear war, to head the influential Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York, the nation's fourth largest.

Informed church sources said Monday the appointment of O'Connor, now spiritual leader of the Diocese of Scranton, Pa., would be formally announced today. He succeeds Cardinal Terence Cooke, who died Oct. 6.

As head of the Archdiocese of New York, the American church's richest, O'Connor will lead 1.8 million Catholics, fewer only than Chicago, Boston and Los Angeles. He also takes over supervision of the Military Ordinariate, which oversees chaplaincy services for the 2 million Catholics in the armed forces.

O'Connor is also head of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops' committee on social justice and world

Before becoming bishop of Scranton only seven months ago, O'Connor had served as auxiliary bishop to Cooke in heading the Military Ordinariate.

Forces in Congress renew attack

WASHINGTON (AP) - Groups and congressmen opposed to the MX missile, alarmed by the collapse of nuclear arms control talks with the Soviets, are gearing up for a renewed campaign against the intercontinental weapon program.

But they are still considering what uniform strategy to follow in their attack on the MX, which already is well into development and has been successfully test-flown twice.

The most ambitious plan under discussion would be to take back the $2.1 billion that Congress gave the Pentagon last November to buy the first 21 of a planned 100 missiles, as well as to deny the up to $4 billion in additional production money that President Reagan is expected to seek in his budget for the 1985 fiscal year.

Other critics have suggested the more limited approach of having Congress forbid the Pentagon from spending any appropriation unless approved by the president elected in November.

drill held, Saterfield claimed. "Personnel must be trained on evacuation precedures. We had one, and I planned to holding them start quarterly."

He also played a role in new policies adopted by the county commissioners. For example, room and board charges for work release prisoners were upped from $2.50 to $7.50 a day. He also helped implement a policy suggested by commissioner Bruce Coleman to place trustees to work on public improvements.

Because of the facilities he had to work with, Saterfield was not able to do everything the Jail Standards Commission is asking for. Those would have come with the planned jail renovation. "I separted misdemeanors and felons, to the best of my ability. I couldn't always do it under the current conditions, but I made an effort."

He explained that first offenders should be held separately from those who have prior convictions, and work release prisoners should also be segregated.

Despite the problems he found when he came here, Saterfield refuses to point a finger at McPherson over past jail policies. "If he did not care, he would never have searched for a jail administrator. Since 1979, and that's as far back as I have found records, Travis had been meeting with the commissioners court and asking them for help. He couldn't do it all, and he understood what was needed for the jail."

Saterfield said Brown asked him last Monday to reconsider his resignation, but by then he had already taken the job as a patrolman in Canadian and made plans to move. 'My resignation has nothing whatsoever to do with the people of Deaf Smith County," he said. "And I have appreciated the support and understanding of the ty judge." "I have put my heart and soul into this job, and I've tried to make it a little better than when I came," he con-Crime-Of-The-Week

Speaking of Sports

By STAN GODEK Sports Editor

Within a week's time sports enthusiasts have been subjected to two dull performances by the National Football League. The Super Bowl was a blowout, then, Sunday's Pro Bowl put everyone to sleep.

The NFC romped the AFC, 45-3, in Honolulu. Enough said about these overpaid brats.

One event which did live up to all its pregame hype was the NBA All Star game. The East opened up an early nine-point lead, the the West came storming back to lead by 17 in the third quarter, the East fought back to take a 10-point advantage in the fourth period, but the West put on a scoring spree and sent the game into overtime.

The East finally won the game, 154-145, without the services of Moses Malone, who sprained an ankle. The 154 points was an All Star record, and the 299 combined points was also a record. Denver was definitely the land of the giants Sunday. But there's another all-star classic scheduled to take place today in East Rutherford New Jersey. The National Hockey League will unleash all its warriors, to do battle with sticks and pucks. Not that the Hereford community really cares about this northern sport, (why, none of the major networks are even telecasting the game) but the game should feature the most dominating athlete in his or her sport.

At 23, Wayne Gretzky has shattered more than 31 NHL scoring records. Of any athlete, Gretzky really earns his $1 million per year salary. Sunday Gretzky had his 51-game consecutive point-scoring streak ended. The previous record was also held by Gretzky. It won't be long before all the records he breaks will be his own.

Granted, as a televised sport, Hockey leaves much to be desired. But as a spectator sport, it is one of the most exciting events in the athletic realm. Well, considering the nearest NHL team to Hereford is the St. Louis Blues, you'll just have to take my word for it.

A sports legacy came to an end this week as Minnesota Viking head coach Bud Grant decided to call it quits after 17 years. Only Dallas' Tom Landry has been at the helm longer than Grant's tenure with the Vikes.

If you count Grant's 10 years as head of Winnipeg of the Canadian Football League, he would be the winningest professional coach of all time, second only to the Bears late George

One final note - good luck to Hereford's varsity basketball teams in Amarillo tonight. Both AHS's boys and girl cagers lead the District 3-5A standings.

Security is tight for Winter Olympic Games

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia - Tanks and soldiers toting automatic weapons patrolled the streets as security tightened this week in preparation for the Winter Olympic Games. Since the massacre at the Munich Games in 1972, the Olympic movement has become more and more security conscious.

Yugoslavia is determined to guarantee safety for the athletes, Olympic officials, media and thousands of visitors, and has mounted a display of military presence.

Members of civilian defense units, roughly the equivalent of the National Guard in the United States. regularly stand guard at all Olympic venues, major hotels, press centers and office buildings.

The presence of the soldiers might seem threatening to Americans not used to heavy military presence on a city street. But there are no clear signs of interference, and the guards are generally cooperative with those carrying proper credentials for admission to a secured area.

And the show of force is partially just that. "The cartridges are empty," confided a man connected with the security system who asked that his name not be used. He quickly added: "But there are live shells in the barrels."

So the troops do not want to cause trouble, just prevent it. Sports writer Mike Clark of the Associated Press had a gun jabbed in his back by an officer when he was in a group of reporters which wandered too close to International Olympic Committee headquarters. The officer said nothing, but Clark said there was no need for words. "He was speaking the universal language."

"They are not here to frighten you out of your wits." said an official who also requested his name not be used. "We don't want a repetition of Munich's Olym-

The display of available security here has included strings of riot-control vehicles with water cannons riding through the downtown area, groups of soldiers at seemingly isolated spots late at night and the civilian police.

There are metal detectors to walk through and airportstyle luggage conveyors to check bags at the entrance to every major entrance at an Olympic facility.

Night patrols routinely stop cars after certain hours.

There is a high wire fence around the Olympic Village, where the more-than 1,500 athletes will be housed. And the guards at the gates do not let go of their Kalashnikov automatic weapons.

Officials here are reluctant to discuss the details of the security system and no figures are avaialable for the number of people involved in guarding the Games. estimated, Residents however, that the security force is about triple the nor-

Atkins to head Golden K Clu

The new Kiwanis Club of Hereford - Golden K was officially organized Thursday morning at a coffee in the or Citizens Center. Some 60 men of the community were in attendance. Final steps in the club's organization were directed by Aubrey Irby, international president, who explained the functions of the various officers of the club, the methods of administration, and of operating community service programs. Dr. I.M. Atkins was named president of the club. Other officers are Homer Garrison and Al Daniels, vicepresidents; Calvin Edwards, secretary; and C.L. Stovall, treasurer. Directors include R.N. Fuqua, Clinton Jackson, Cecil Lady, Marcus Lathem, Scat

Russell and Homer Thomas. Dean Herring, chairman of the sponsoring committee of the local Kiwanis Club, was in attendance as the new club was formed. Weekly meetings of the Kiwanis Club of Hereford - Golden K will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Senior Citizens Center.

The first act of the new club's board of directors was to appoint a special committee to arrange for a charter night to be held Wednesday,

April 11. The new club is one of n.ore than 8,000 such groups located in 77 countries and geographic areas around the world. The total Kiwanis clubs meet weekly for fellowship, inspirational programs, and summary reports

DEAR READER - Your son may have an inherited metabolism defect. A good place for him to start is with a heart specialist. Some university medical centers have lipid (fatty acids) programs to study such people. New research indicates that a combination of medicines often has a greater effect. Lopid may be used along with a medicine that blocks the absorption of cholesterol from the intestine

Student says

Defendant pointed gun POLLY'S POINTERS

RICHMOND, Texas (AP)
- A Texas A&M University student who says he saw Eliseo Moreno firing shots into a body testified that the man accused of killing six people in a spree of terror last fall threatened him and pointed a pistol at him.

Tony Caspar, 26, testified Monday he was cooking supper in his College Station apartment Oct. 11 when he heard "a couple of popping noises" from his neighbors' home. He said he looked out his window, saw the flash of gunfire and heard two more shots.

Caspar said he went to the doorway of the apartment where Juan and Esther Garza lived and saw Moreno with a gun in his hand. 'He was firing shots into a body I couldn't identify," Caspar said. "I made a sort of strangled noise and then I started back to my apartment. I got about two steps."

Moreno, 25, is on trial on a charge of capital murder in the slaving of state trooper Russell Lynn Boyd, 25. Boyd was shot to death shortly after the Garzas were killed on a state highway south of College Station.

Moreno pleaded innocent. His attorneys had filed papers stating their client would plead innocent by reason of insanity, but lawyer Dick Tindal said Monday doctors could find no evidence that Moreno was not sane.

Boyd was killed after stopping Moreno on a routine traffic violation, officials said. The trial, the first Moreno has faced in the Oct. 11 slay-

Lost dogs trust scents

DEAR READERS - Pointers for lovers of dogs, lovers of grated cheese, and lovers of gardening lead off our roundup today. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — If you lose your dog or he runs away, try this. Take off your jacket or shirt or any piece of clothing that has your scent, and put it down on the spot where you hast saw your seent, and put it down on the spot where you hast saw your pet. If nothing serious has happened to the dog, he is likely to return to that spot and lie on your clothing, waiting for your return. Likewise, if you leave your pet at a friend's house while you're away, leave a piece of clothing with the dog. The pet will be much less likely to run away looking for you. — MRS. J.

DEAR POLLY — Here's an easy way to have grated cheese at your fingertips when you need it. Buy a four-pound cheese at your fingertips when you need it. Buy a four-pound block of cheese and grate it all at one time. (A food processor is a must!) Put the grated cheese in a freezer container and freeze. (A large zip-style plastic bag is great.) It's easy to knock loose a quantity of cheese and have exactly what you need when you want it without the mess of grating it each time. - LAURA
