BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A van filled with explosives crashed into the U.S. Embassy annex in east Beirut and blew up today, severely damaging the six-story building and reportedly killing 23 people and wounding 60, including the U.S. ambassador.

The Christian-owned Voice of Lebanon radio said the casualties included people inside the annex compound and outside, but it did not give a breakdown of the victims' nationalities.

U.S. State Department spokeswoman Sondra McCarty said she had received reports that Ambassador Reginald Bartholomew walked out of the compound and was being treated at a hospital for minor injuries. Lebanese military sources said the ambassador had sustained head and chest injuries and was in intensive care.

About 90 minutes after the explosion, a man telephoned the Beirut office of the French news agency Agence France-Presse to claim responsibility on behalf of Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War — the same group that claimed responsibility for the suicide car-bomb attack on the former U.S. Embassy in west Beirut on April 18, 1983, that left at least 63 people dead, 17 of them Americans.

The wreckage of the vehicle used in the attack lay about five yards from the main entrance to the annex building, inside the compound. The Dodge or Chevrolet van apparently exploded only a yard from the annex entrance.

One diplomat on the scene said: "Our guards shot at the car and tried to stop it, but it got into the compound and exploded right here" — pointing to the spot in front of the entrance.

The building did not collapse, but there was severe damage to the ground floor, and considerable damage to the other five stories. The embassy recently moved some of its offices and personnel to east Beirut for security reasons.

Damage from shrapnel could be seen 500 yards away from the building. Three bodies were being carried away from the scene. U.S. Marine guards said there were about 20 wounded. But the military sources reported 23 killed and 60 wounded.

It was unclear how many were Americans and how many Lebanese.

The announcement attributed to Islamic Holy War said today's attack was carried out "to prove we will carry out our previous promise not to allow a single American to remain on Lebanese soil."

No member of Islamic Jihad has ever been identified. Lebanese and American officials have said there may not actually be such a group, and that the name may be used by many individual attackers or small independent groups.

In Washington, State Department spokeswoman McCarty said: "Apparently a car did approach the embassy, went through the gate and blew up ... the embassy annex. There was some severe damage. There are injuries and deaths, but we have no figures now. As of right now, there are no known American deaths. Our security people there are coordinating the evacuation. The Lebanese armed forces are assisting."

Cholla nuisance for farmers

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

It's spelled c-h-o-l-l-a, but the Texas pronunciation is something like CHOY-ya. However you say it, it means nuisance for the cattleman.

The cholla is a die-hard cactus plant, covered with thorns from top to bottom, that reproduces feverishly because of the large quantity of seed it produces each year.

"I've tried pulling them up, chopping them down, burning them," Hereford's Charles Hoover admitted. "I even took a chain saw to them."

Wednesday, Hoover was one of a crowd of 15 or so gathered to witness the initiation of a test plot at the Whitest Trust farm north of Hereford. Jack Lyons, a DuPont sales representative from Amarillo, treated the heavily-infested pasture with Velpar, a chemical not yet labeled for use on cholla.

Lyons said the experiment, which should prove that Velpar will kill the cactus in two years, is to determine the cost efficiency of the treatment and help put cholla on the label.

The chemical is applied to the plant in measured "squirts" of four cubic centimeters each. A cholla plant gets one squirt for each foot of canopy diameter, with most plants needing two or three squirts of the bright purple formulation.

The local U.S. Soil Conservation

Velpar might kill problem plant

Service Office which sponsored the demonstration, is interested in the success of the chemical for a variety of reasons. For starters, helping the landowner with rangeland management is something SCS workers feel is an important part of their job.

"Cholla really competes with grass," explained District Conservationist David Webster. "It uses water, and cuts down on the grazing efficiency of the pasture."

The SCS will also use the plot to determine the cost per acre of killing the cholla so it can take steps to qualify the treatment for a cost-sharing program. As much as 75 percent of the cost of application could be reimbursed the landowner through such a program.

Velpar is applied near the base of the cholla plant. Each rain carries the chemical farther down into the root system of the plant. Velpar works by interrupting photosynthesis, the food manufacturing process of the plant.

"You essentially starve it to death," Lyons pointed out.

Lyons said he used about one and a half quarts of the solution on the one-acre test plot to treat a total of 150 feet of canopy diameter. At 6½ cents a squirt, the test plot cost roughly $19.50 to treat.

"We're looking at the grazing management end of it," explained Ernest Moravec of the SCS office in Amarillo. "With just a few plants on the land it's not worth it to kill them. But where it is heavily infested, a lot of the grass is not being used. The cholla is competing with the grass for nutrients and moisture."

Lyons said late winter or early spring is the best time to apply Velpar.

Death row inmate firebombed

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A Death Row inmate was in fair condition today after he was seriously burned in a firebombing incident at the Texas Department of Corrections Ellis I Unit, authorities said.

Calvin J. Williams, 24, a black condemned to death for the 1980 murder of a Houston travel agent, suffered second-degree burns Wednesday when a flammable liquid was thrown on his legs and matches and a homemade bomb tossed into his cell, prison spokesman Phil Gurthrie said.

Williams was flown from the prison near Huntsville to Galveston's John Sealy Hospital for treatment.

The bomb, which did not explode, added a new twist to months of violence in the Texas prison system, where more than 280 inmates have been stabbed, including 13 fatally, this year.

Listed in fair condition today

Gurthrie said the incident, the second attack on Williams in the past 17 months, appeared to stem from a grudge between the victim and his attackers.

"The victim is black and the suspects are white, but we are more inclined to look at this as personal animosity rather than as a racial or gang-related incident," he said.

Gurthrie identified the two suspects as Warren Eugene Bridge, 24, and James Michael Bridle, 29.

Bridge, a Georgia drifter, faces death for the Feb. 10, 1980, slaying of a 62-year-old Galveston convenience store clerk.

Bridle was sentenced to die for the Feb. 24, 1980, killing of a South Houston man. Officials say the Californian has belonged to a white supremacist prison gang, the Aryan Brotherhood, and wears the swastika and lightning bolt tattoo of the group.

The bomb, about the size of a soft drink can and equipped with a fuse at one end, was removed from the cell by a prison guard and later detonated in the prison yard by officials from the Fort Hood bomb disposal squad, Gurthrie said.

There were no reports of further injuries in the 8 a.m. attack.

Williams, convicted of the June 2, 1980, strangulation of Emellie Anderson, was stabbed April 20, 1983, after refusing the homosexual advances

More than 108,000 remain idled by strike

DETROIT (AP) — Stepped-up strikes by the United Auto Workers kept 108,000 General Motors Corp. workers on the street today and idled more than 1,000 people in related industries, but the stoppages had little apparent effect at the bargaining table.

The UAW wound down a 13-hour negotiating session for a national contract Wednesday night with a statement saying "virtually no progress was made" despite the widening of the labor conflict earlier in the day.

The talks apparently bogged down after the UAW offered a proposal Tuesday on wages and job security and the company gave its response.

Before dawn Wednesday, the UAW, which had struck 13 GM plants over local issues at midnight Friday, struck four more, raising the number of strikers from 62,000 to 92,000.

Another 16,000 GM hourly workers at 18 plants in five states have been laid off because of the strike. Several hundred are members of the United Rubber Workers union and nearly all the remainder belong to the UAW.

Fifteen of the struck sites are assembly plants, and that has caused a backup of parts in GM's vast components system.

"It won't be long until it really

Negotiations bogging down

hurts them," said Scott Merlis, an automotive industry analyst with Shearson Lehman-American Express.

Merlis estimated that GM was losing $150 million a week and that the longer the strikes last, the more it will cost to get the giant company moving again.

"They've shut down 40 percent of the company, but it's the most profitable 40 percent," said David Healy, an automotive industry analyst at Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. in New York.

For the first time, the strikes have begun to touch businesses outside GM.

Two trucking companies said they were furloughing hundreds of workers because they were running out of cars to ship, and a supplier of plastic trim and panels said it was losing $300,000 a day from the strike.

Anchor Motor Freight and Fleet Carrier Corp., two Pontiac, Mich., area car haulers, said Wednesday their layoffs would total more than 500 by the end of the week if the strikes continue.

Testing Begins

Jack Lyons, a chemical company representative from Amarillo, treated a one acre plot of cholla Wednesday during a Soil Conservation Service-sponsored demonstration. The SCS is doing a cost evaluation and hopes to include the chemical killer in its cost-sharing programs.

Board's makeup complimented

AUSTIN (AP) — The new State Board of Education is a big step toward making Texas' public school system one of the nation's finest, Gov. Mark White says.

"What we've tried to do is build in this 15-member board all of the life experiences necessary for bringing this school system into preeminence," White said Wednesday after appointing the new members.

"I wanted a board dedicated to improving our schools and ensuring that every student, from the wealthiest to the poorest district, receives fair and equal access to the best education this state can provide. I have every confidence that these board members will dedicate themselves to that goal," he said.

The new board members, who must be confirmed by the Senate, replace the current 27-member elected panel which got repeated criticism from White and the Select Committee on Public Education.

Although it reverts to an elected panel in four years, the new board will implement the sweeping reforms enacted by the special session of the Legislature this summer.

Cult town recruits Houstonians

HOUSTON (AP) — A controversial religious cult in Oregon that recently renamed a town after its head guru has gathered 18 new recruits from Houston's "streets and breadlines" to help populate its city, a group spokesman says.

The destitute residents, recruited from "the streets, the parks and the food lines," boarded a bus Wednesday night to head for the Rajneeshpuram in central Oregon, said Swami Deva Ullas.

The commune is named after the group's spiritual leader, Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh.

"I want to get away from violent people," drifter Art Schoenthal told Houston television station KHOU before he boarded the bus. "These are the first people to really care. These people really care and understand."

Residents of the Wasco County, Ore., town of Antelope haven't been so happy with the cult.

Some say commune members have taken over the area's politics, and political leaders fear that commune members may take over elected positions in the county during the November elections.

Funeral home probe requested

AUSTIN (AP) — A consumers' organization and a group representing elderly citizens are demanding new regulations from the state Board of Morticians and a statewide investigation into pricing practices of funeral homes.

The Consumers Union and the Gray Panthers on Wednesday also accused the board of failing to make certain funeral home laws are being followed.

"If funeral homes are violating the law, then it's the duty of the board to act. Since the board has been unwilling on their own initiative to act, we are filing a formal complaint and a rule-making petition outlining what we believe would be appropriate action," said Carol Barger, an attorney for the Consumers Union.

The board first came under fire last month after failing to discuss at its regularly scheduled meeting a report prepared by board member Grady Baskin Jr.

Souvenir hunt led to arrests

GAMBELL, Alaska (AP) — Five tired but smiling American sailors said they were glad to be back on American soil today after a week in Siberia, where they were taken by a Soviet warship that seized their supply ship during a souvenir-hunting jaunt.

The seamen, released Wednesday in a rendezvous between an armed Soviet icebreaker and a Coast Guard cutter in the Bering Sea, were not harmed during their detention, said Tabb Thoms, skipper of the 120-foot Frieda K.

With his crew by his side, Thoms spoke to a mob of reporters and villagers Wednesday night after the freed vessel beached on Gambell, located on St. Lawrence Island about 50 miles east of the rendezvous site where the vessel and crew were freed earlier in the day.

Thoms said he and the crew piloted their ship to the rendezvous, where Coast Guard Capt. Jack Billington met with the commander of the Russian icebreaker Aisberg in the wheelhouse of the Frieda K to sign documents turning over the crew and vessel to the Americans.

Immigration bill snag encountered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of a landmark immigration bill say House and Senate negotiators have hit a stumbling block that threatens to kill the legislation they want to get through Congress before next month's adjournment.

After making headway for several days, the conferees were unable to reach a compromise Wednesday on a provision designed to prevent job discrimination against legal aliens. But they offered to keep talking on Thursday to break the impasse.

"We are at a sticking point," said Sen. Alan K. Simpson, R-Wyo., the chief Senate sponsor of the measure, after debate dragged on more than five hours.

Rep. Dan Lungren, R-Ill., a leading sponsor in the House, said he feared the failure to agree on the matter threw the future of the legislation into question.

"This is a major stumbling block," Lungren said. "There are some who want to use this to kill the bill."

Japanese minister visits Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Japanese Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe today starts a four-day official visit to Mexico, marking the increasingly important commercial and diplomatic relations between the two nations.

The trip has been interpreted as a sign of Japan's growing interest in Latin America. Abe will meet with President Miguel de la Madrid and Foreign Minister Bernardo Sepulveda during his visit.

In a brief statement, the Mexican Foreign Ministry said during Abe's conversations with Mexican officials he will "analyze aspects of the international situation" and "evaluate the current state of the relations between Mexico and Japan."

In diplomatic circles here it also has been mentioned that the Japanese official will be interested in learning the Mexican point of view about the Central American conflict.

The topic of Mexican petroleum exports will be of prime interest during the discussions about commercial ties, since Japan imports all its crude oil while Mexico is the world's fourth largest exporter.

"The geographical position of our countries — both on the Pacific Ocean — encourages such trade," Maria Ramon Beteta, director-general of the state oil monopoly PEMEX, said during a 1983 visit to Tokyo.

Mondale keeps attacking

Reagan heading for Farm Belt

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

President Reagan is heading into the Farm Belt today after moving this week to help debt-ridden farmers, as Walter F. Mondale attacks him on the environment and says the president "put a 'for sale' sign on our public lands and a 'for rent' sign on our wonderful beaches."

Reagan's trip to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, today capitalizes on a series of presidential actions in the past week that may aid farmers, including his move Tuesday to increase federal loan guarantees for farmers and to defer repayment of some government loans.

While the Democratic presidential nominee was on the West Coast sharpening his "Fighting Fritz" attacks on Reagan, Vice President George Bush was stepping up his rhetoric too, saying the Democratic ticket — which trails badly in most recent polls — was desperate and collapsing.

"These kamikaze attacks are nothing more than the politics of desperation of a campaign going down in flames," Bush said Wednesday night in Columbus, Ohio.

Besides his move on farm loans, Reagan may have helped himself among Midwestern farmers with his move last week raising limits on grain sales to the Soviet Union. And his rejection of the steel industry's request for import quotas may also please farmers, who had feared quotas would prompt retaliation against U.S. farm exports.

Campaigning on opposite coasts Wednesday, Reagan and his challenger provided contrasting imagery in describing Reagan's first term.

"There is a new mood in the country these days. Uncle Sam is seeming mighty, jaunty," Reagan said in Waterbury, Conn. "I see our country today and I think it is springtime for America."

Mondale, in San Francisco criticizing inaction on toxic waste, acid rain and other environmental threats, said: "Come see America, Mr. President, and see what you've done to it and what you refuse to do to protect this country. ... Take a trip with me and see what your policies have done to America."

At an outdoor rally that drew thousands of people in downtown San Francisco, Mondale received the endorsement of the Sierra Club, the first time in its 92-year history the 200,000-member environmental group has backed a presidential candidate. He also picked up the support of Friends of the Earth, another environmental group.

In Chicago on Wednesday, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, Geraldine Ferraro, warned to the environmental theme, too.

"Where other presidents have worked to clean the air, help the poor and pass the ERA, Ronald Reagan has fogged the air, helped the rich and passed the buck," she said.

Until after elections

Environmentalists claim issues on hold

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — From acid rain and toxic waste dumps to coal leasing and wilderness preserves, energy and environmental issues are on hold, and environmentalists say it's no accident.

"Certainly they're on hold, until after the elections," said Marion Edey of the League of Conservation Voters, the environmental movement's political action committee. "The Reagan administration has been trying to hold them off."

Environmentalists are opposing President Reagan's re-election, contending that his first term has been a disaster both in dealing with existing environmental problems and preparing for the problems of the future. They say the predominant environmental issue is Reagan himself. But Reagan has been giving them little ammunition of late, prompting the league to tell voters in its campaign literature "not to be lulled into a false sense of security."

With seven weeks to go before the November election, the environmental issue was highlighted Wednesday when Walter F. Mondale received the Sierra Club's first-ever presidential endorsement.

Reagan has defended his environmental record as "one of the best kept secrets in Washington." During one of his weekly radio addresses in July, he described himself as an environmental pioneer who as governor of California worked to help cleanse Los Angeles of smog, requiring the strictest auto emission standards in the nation. "Obviously neither the problem in California nor those nationally have been solved," Reagan said at the time. "But I'm proud of having been one of the first to recognize that states and the federal government have a duty to protect our national resources from the damage of pollution that can accompany industrial development."

However, the first 2½ years of Reagan's presidency were marked by controversy over the president's interior secretary and director of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Interior James G. Watt, who had said mineral and energy resources of the public holdings in the West were needed to build America, resigned after making a tasteless joke about handicapped and Jewish members of the commission investigating his coal-leasing program.

And EPA Administrator Anne M. Burford left the administration amid congressional investigations into mismanagement at the agency.

Their successors have drawn far less criticism. Interior Secretary William P. Clark has kept a low profile and met with environmental critics, something Watt refused to do. EPA Administrator William Ruckelshaus is the "good guy" of the Reagan administration for environmentalists, who say he has not received the necessary support from the White House.

The administration has been conspicuously absent during debate on major environmental bills.

The budget authorization for the Clean Air Act, for example, expired in 1981. Money to implement the permanent portions of the law is kept flowing only through a series of waivers of budget law.

While Congress is pressing to expand to $10.2 billion the $1.6 billion Superfund, which runs through next September, the administration has asked that action on the measure be delayed until after the election. The EPA says the administration will support reauthorization next year, but studies are still under way to determine what changes are necessary.

Within EPA, the administration is still struggling to overcome the effects of the Burford period.

Under Mrs. Burford, the administration made sharp budget cuts that limited the agency's ability to enforce environmental laws, research pollutants and help states set up anti-pollution programs. Ruckelshaus managed to restore some of the money, but it is still below the funding level during the final year of the Carter administration.

The Interior Department reeled under controversy during the Watt reign, over accusations that he wanted to drill for oil in wilderness preserves and his decision to impose a moratorium on land purchases for the National Park System, except in emergency cases. His efforts were shot down in Congress, however, and Clark has made no effort to renew them. But some important public lands decisions, such as the coal leasing, have been put off until next year.

The administration has moved, however, to speed the process of getting lead out of gasoline and limit the use of the pesticide ethylene dibromide.

But critics charge that the actions were forced on EPA by public demand.

Look homeward

Look homeward, America. Frenetic travel is distracting only while it lasts. Where you are is nothing any more.

In an era of instantaneous communication and mach three transportation nobody is more than half-a-second from anywhere.

Look homeward, America. Sociologists have been urging you to "stand alone." Peer pressure on school-agers has coaxed, "Get your own apartment."

Most any day's guests on Donahue are preoccupied with self and selfishness: "My identity, 'I'm worth it,' 'I've got to be me' separate vacations individual recognition, independent careers.

So now all the new evidence relating to emotional stress and physical distress confirms that our nation's number one killer is "loneliness."

Non conformity, for its own sake, makes unhappy people — rootless, restless, shiftless.

Independence has been touted as essential to modern marriage. Independence is the world's worst reason for marriage.

The herd instinct is deep in our animal ancestry. The tribal culture "bunched us" for good cause.

Historically, the Oriental family epitomized filiality. The young were always home for dinner. Until East met West and shattered that and scattered them.

While history tends to romanticize "explorers," they were mostly itinerant misfits. It was the homesteaders who made us strong.

America's early immigrants flocked. In unfamiliar neighborhoods but among familiar people they found strength eventually to elevate themselves into society's mainstream.

The labor union was a surrogate "family."

So if we are agreed that the chronic mental ill of our century in loneliness, let's challenge the presently prevalent motivation for going it alone.

Biologically, sociologically and in a primal sense it does not make sense.

The young, over-eager to bolt the nest, fly the coop, make it on their own, assert their individuality — promptly flock to one of the kookie cults where each can feel a part of "a family."

Interesting... Television, in spite of itself, reflects the universal hunger for "family," for "belonging"; "Dynasty," "Dallas," "Falcon Crest."

Look homeward, America. Coexist with technology. The new horizon in medicine is "Home care." Push back the walls of Desmond Morris' human zoo.

We have a second chance to homestead Walton's Mountain. Let's do it.

We who severed the apron strings to our own detriment — we might even get our own parents back!

Now You're Cookin'

By LISA BALL
Staff Writer

Retirement never really came for Mildred Fuhrmann.

In December, 1981, when she retired from her work as a legal secretary, Mrs. Fuhrmann took on another type of work. That of being a volunteer.

"I always wanted to do volunteer work, but wasn't able to with working full-time," she explained. "When I retired, I saw so many things that needed to be done and I just couldn't see myself sitting around."

She is actively involved with the Clothes Closet, a part of Operation Good Shepherd. The closet, located at Wesley United Methodist Church, houses clothes that individuals have donated and which the volunteers then sort and hang.

Mrs. Fuhrmann attended the first organizational meeting for Operation Good Shepherd and started helping with the Food Pantry at First Baptist Church. Today, however, most of her time is spent with the Clothes Closet.

She is also co-chairman with Betty Owen of the blood drive.

"We get out all the advertising and try to get the committees working to call people who have given blood before," she said. "We call about 100 or more people."

She began working with the blood drive when she signed up for that particular committee through the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, another organization she is involved in.

In addition, Mrs. Fuhrmann is the president of Friends of the Library.

"We purchase items for the library and pay for all of their films," she explained.

The upcoming book sale is part of the fund-raising activities the group sponsors to raise money for the library.

"I enjoy just watching everyone come in and browse at the book sale," she said. "Some people stay for hours."

She and her husband, Ronald, participate in the Merry Mixers Square Dance Club, too.

"I'm not too good," she laughed, "but we really enjoy it."

Another dimension to Mrs. Fuhrmann's volunteer work is church activities. She works with United Methodist Women and has been actively involved in Camp Farthest Out for the last 17 years.

"We met the first weekend in August near Happy," she said. "It's really good to be able to get away and have a closer walk with the Lord."

She is also a member of CFO's council ring.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuhrmann are members of First United Methodist Church and "try to take part in everything that goes on at the church." They are active in the Homebuilders' Sunday School Class and participate on the board.

Before retiring, Mrs. Fuhrmann was a legal secretary for 23½ years with Witherspoon-Aikin and Langley.

"I really enjoyed the work and I just love shorthand," she exclaimed. "I would really like to give shorthand lessons. I'm very proud to be a legal secretary."

She said that one of the most important things she learned was that clients' business is confidential.

"You never divulge anything outside the office," she elaborated.

MILDRED FUHRMANN

"I especially enjoyed meeting all of the people," Mrs. Fuhrmann continued. "I met so many nice people that are friends today."

"I also enjoyed working with my boss. He was important to me and I was important to him."

While working as a legal secretary, she tested for and attained the status of Professional Legal Secretary.

"You have to study for six months or more before you take the test and it covers six different areas including legal terminology, dictation and typing, the law library and judgment situations," she explained.

In conjunction with her job, she was a member of the Deaf Smith-Castro County legal secretary association.

Mrs. Fuhrmann did not simply work at the office during those 23½ years, however. She also raised seven children who each graduated from Hereford High School.

Stanley is a graduate of the University of Texas and currently lives in San Antonio; Glenda is a graduate of UT and lives in Poughkeepsie, N.Y.; Larry graduated from UT and lives in Dallas; and Wanda, who also graduated from UT, lives in North Hollywood, Calif.

Joel graduated from Texas Tech and resides in Dallas; Nedra is a senior this year at UT; and Naomi lives in England and is married to Glen Devers. They have two children, Rachel, 2¾ and Jonathan, 16 months.

Mrs. Fuhrmann also really enjoys sewing, reading religious books and cooking. She is learning to oil paint and has done a little toe painting in a class she enrolled in.

Both she and her husband, who has worked at George Warner Seed Company for over 25 years, enjoy house plants and their garden in the backyard.

The recipes she shared are her favorite whole wheat bread and banana punch which several friends have borrowed and really liked. The bread freezes well, she said. Just put it in plastic bags after it has cooled and freeze. The punch is easy and one that is good to make ahead of time.

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

Makes three 9x5 loaves or three dozen rolls.

- 2 Tbsp. yeast
- 3 C. warm water
- ½ C. corn oil
- ½ C. molasses
- 2 tsp. salt
- 1 beaten egg
- 8-9 C. whole wheat flour

Sprinkle yeast into warm water and stir until dissolved. Add the oil, molasses, salt and egg. Blend well.

Add ½ the flour and beat until smooth. Work the remaining flour in with your hands.

Turn dough out onto a lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic.

Place dough in oiled bowl and turn to oil all sides of the dough. Cover with wax paper and a towel. Set in a warm place, free from drafts, until double in bulk, about one hour or longer. Punch down.

Divide the dough into thirds and shape it. Place in well-oiled pans and let rise in a warm place until nearly double in bulk.

Bake at 425 degrees for 10 minutes and then at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Remove immediately from pans and set on racks to cool.

BANANA PUNCH

- 4 C. sugar
- 6 C. water

Boil sugar and water for five minutes and cool.

In blender, mix:

- 5 bananas
- 1 can frozen lemonade
- Juice of two lemons
- 1 can frozen orange juice
- 1 large can pineapple juice

Combine blender mixture with sugar and water. Freeze.

When ready to use, thaw until it is slushy and then mix with one quart ginger ale.

Texas boasting more farms

COLLEGE STATION — Farming in Texas is continuing to expand, according to recent figures released from the 1982 Census of Agriculture.

The U.S. Census Bureau defines a farm as any place from which $1,000 or more of agricultural products were sold or normally would have been sold during the census year.

The number of individual or family farms in the state rose 5.7 percent from 1978 to 1982 while the U.S. total fell 1 percent. At the same time, family farm acreage fell 5.4 percent in Texas and 4.7 in the U.S., notes Dr. Forrest Steglin, agribusiness economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

A major item of interest from the census data was the increase in smaller farms, in both Texas and the nation, says Steglin. Farms of one to nine acres increased 43.3 percent in Texas and 24.1 percent nationally, while those of 10 to 49 acres jumped 47.3 percent in Texas and 14.7 percent in the U.S. Farms in 50 to 179 acres increased only 2.6 percent in Texas while all categories of larger farms decreased except for those of more than 2,000 acres, which showed a 1.0 percent increase.

The number of Texans citing farming as their main occupation rose 6.5 percent while the U.S. figure was down 2.7 percent.

Texas farmers had an average age of 52.4 years as compared to the U.S. average of 50.5 years, with a sharp increase in farmers 65 years old and older, Steglin points out.

Farms averaged 707 acres in Texas in 1982 compared to 439 for the U.S. average.

Farms boasting a lot of woodland increased 10.5 percent in Texas during the four-year period but fell 2.4 percent nationally while farms of mainly pastureland and rangeland increased 8.4 percent in the state and 1.6 percent in the U.S. Irrigated acreage declined almost 20 percent in Texas while the national irrigated acreage fell only 2.7 percent, notes Steglin.

The increase in market value of agricultural products sold by Texans from 1978 to 1982 did not keep pace with the U.S. average, says Steglin. The Texas market value increased only 8.1 percent while the national increase was 23.1 percent. The average market value per Texas farm increased 2.5 percent while the national averaged jumped 24 percent during the four-year period.

Regarding the market value of certain crops, Texas grains were up almost 50 percent while cotton and cottonseed fell almost 33 percent. Vegetables and melons were up about 23 percent while the value of nursery and greenhouse products skyrocketed 69.5 percent.

The market value of Texas livestock and poultry increased 6.1 percent during 1978-82 compared to the national gain of 18.1 percent.

By value of sales, only 2.7 percent of Texas farms had a volume of $250,000 or more in 1982 while almost 51 percent had sales of less than $5,000. These figures dispel the notion that Texas farmers are big marketers, points out Steglin.

The program for the meeting was a "Name That Tune" game conducted

Speaking

Betty Huggins, state president of CowBelles, spoke and presented a slide show concerning the club and its upcoming activities during the CowBelle meeting Tuesday at the Hereford Country Club.

Hereford CowBelles host state president

The members and guests of the Hereford CowBelles gathered at the Hereford Country Club on Tuesday for their monthly meeting and luncheon.

The meeting was called to order by Charmayne Klett, president, and Nancy Josserand read the invocation. Peaches Reinauer introduced her guests from Melbourne, Australia as Mrs. Gwen Cornish, Mrs. Joelle Lucas and her son, Michael Lucas.

Klett introduced the guest speaker, Betty Huggins of Junction, who is the state president of the Texas CowBelles. Huggins presented a slide show entitled "The CowBelle Story in Slides" which was made by the Golden Spread CowBelles and Elaine Mies, a local member of the Hereford CowBelles.

The presentation informed members of the various activities that CowBelles are involved in such as educating the public on the nutritional values of beef, education in schools, participating in booths at county fairs and state teachers conventions, helping in 4-H and making a beef by-products kit. The film also showed how the beef promotion committee plays a major part in promoting beef in local supermarkets, selling beef gift certificates and promoting the state and national beef cook-offs.

"Promoting and educating the public on beef is the main purpose of CowBelles," Huggins stated. She also informed members of a "Short Course in Beef" being offered Oct. 4-5 at Texas A&M University to better educate members about beef.

Huggins gave a report on the national beef cook-off. First place was awarded to Tennessee, second place to Arkansas and third place to Michigan. She also announced that the CowBelle Fall Convention would be held in conjunction with the Texas Cattle Feeders Association Convention at the Villa Inn in Amarillo on Oct. 21-23.

Following Huggins' speech, a short business meeting was held. Klett reported on the CowBelle Continental Ball to be held Oct. 20 in Amarillo at the Hilton Inn. A door prize will be given away and there will also be a dinner dance. Tickets are on sale for $200 per couple, with proceeds going to help support beef promotion. Tickets are available to anyone interested in going as well as CowBelle members. For further information, contact Charmayne Klett at 364-7264.

The treasurer's report was submitted by Francis Berry. All members voted to send Sandra Lane, Sophie Richardson and Mildred Garrison as delegates to the 1984 fall convention.

The next meeting for the club is set for Oct. 16 at the Hereford Cattle Commission. Lunch and a short meeting will follow. Afterwards, all members and guests are invited to attend the sale.

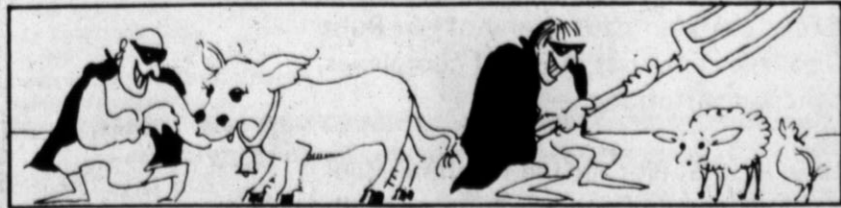

Anyone interested in joining Hereford CowBelles may contact Klett.

R. Russell Brown to be speaker

R. Russell Brown of Canyon will be the guest speaker during the Hereford Art Guild's initial meeting of the season at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the

Received positive response

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After reading your response to the widow who found life "joyless and dismal" a year and a half after the death of her husband, I felt compelled to write.

Two years ago I came home from work and found my sister dead from a drug overdose. (She was 42 and I was 31.)

After months of trying to deal with my anger at my sister for leaving me, with my guilt at not having been able to save her, and, even more important, with my rage at God for letting it happen, I sought help through the Yellow Pages of the telephone book. I found numerous organizations and-or groups designed to help people endure the grieving process and adjust to a new life after losing a spouse or a child. But nowhere did I find an organization that could help someone who had lost a sister or a brother.

I was lucky enough to be able to put myself back together, but I must tell you that the emotional trauma of seeing my sister's body is still with me. After all this time I feel the hurt and the pain and the sadness.

Is there a group that might help a person who has had an experience such as this and can't get over the anger and pain? Or can you recommend a book? I'm still angry with my sister, with God and myself.—Nightmare Revisited In Mississippi

DEAR FRIEND: I am going to recommend a book I mentioned in this column several months ago. More than 225,000 copies have been sold. Never have I received such a positive response to a book in all my years of writing. Many have told me they are reordering because they want a copy for a friend or relative and don't want to part with theirs.

Those who have read this book can't thank me enough. It tells, in simple, understandable language, how to overcome adversity and grief, how to handle anxiety and the pain of living. It gives strength and courage to those who are struggling to stay sane. For those who want a copy of "Living Through Everyday Crisis" by Ann Kaiser Sterns, write to Thomas More Press, 223 W. Erie St., Chicago, Ill. 60610. Price is $8, which includes postage and handling.

Got those wedding bell blues over cost...guest list...what to wear...and other details? Ann Landers' "New Bride's Guide" will help. For a copy, send $2.00 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (37 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Wouldn't it be nice if stores had a department where you could complain about their complaint departments.

Battered Herd squad to meet Lubbock in Friday night game

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

Compare percentages between Hereford High School football coach Jerry Taylor's injured players list to that of American casualties in World War II, and a person will see that the football team has the higher number.

More than one-fifth of the Hereford Whitefaces have been hurt heading into this Friday's Hereford-Lubbock football game at Lowery Field. And the figure has Taylor baffled.

"We're in about the same condition we were in," he said Tuesday. "I'll tell you, I don't know what we're going to do."

And Hereford faces a team that is in good health, Lubbock coach Henry Galindo said.

Hereford quarterback Mike Scott, who saw some action against Palo Duro last week, is one of nine players listed as questionable for Friday's game. Scott still is very sore, according to Taylor, and joins players David Parsons, Dago Valdez, Dennis Chandler, Chet Bunch, Chris Rowton, Freddie Gamboa, Albert Tijerina and Danny Castillo on list of players who are not full speed.

"At present, I plan to withhold David Parsons from the Lubbock High game entirely," Taylor said Tuesday. "He was having a hard time jogging yesterday (Monday)."

Taylor said Valdez probably would play, but only at intervals. Chandler and Bunch are "somewhat ready," Taylor said, explaining that mentally the pair was ready to go, but that he still had some questions about the twosome's physical preparedness.

Rowton dislocated his thumb in Monday's practice but probably will play. Tijerina is to play a little more than he did against Palo Duro, Taylor said, but Gamboa and Castillo will not suit up for the game.

Taylor listed Tijerina and Chandler as probable starters, however.

To add insult to injury - or injuries - the Whitefaces are 0-2 overall and 0-1 in 3-5A action. Taylor knows there is no difference between the records of Lubbock High and the Herd.

"If I were Lubbock High, I'd be chomping at the bits to play us," he said. "I believe Lubbock High feels this week is a good chance to end its long losing streak."

Lubbock has lost 24 consecutive games. The Westerners last beat Hereford in 1979 by the score of 7-6.

"Hereford is banged up a little bit," Lubbock coach Henry Galindo said, "or they probably wouldn't be 0-2. I was able to personally scout them last week (against Palo Duro), and we believe they have one of the best 0-2 teams in the state."

Galindo said his Westerners have not moved the ball well in their previous two outings, a 21-6 loss to Lubbock Dunbar and a 36-0 setback to Coronado. Offensively, he said, the Westerners would attempt to attack all areas of the field.

"We've passed pretty well, so I imagine we'll be passing some more," he said. "Our quarterback has looked pretty good."

Lubbock's quarterback is senior Tommy Gonzales, one of 18 returning lettermen. Gonzales has completed 12 of 25 passes for 185 yards in 1984.

The most likely candidate to be on the receiving end of Gonzales' areals Friday is tight-end Alvin Hargers, a 6-4, 210-pounder. Hargers was a District 3-5A honorable-mention selection last year as a junior.

"We're going to have to go right at them," Gonzales said. "They're so quick outside."

"I don't think Hereford has a ma-job weakness."

Lubbock lines up in a slot-I formation on offense and a 2-5 defensive alignment.

"Hereford sends all the receivers out on a pass," Galindo said. "So we're going to have to cover five players."

Pressure for both teams to win to stay out of the league cellar is building, and the coaches are aware of it. Galindo certainly isn't throwing in the towel just yet, and neither is Taylor.

"You know, pressure does funny things to us all," Taylor said.

Hereford's varsity record now is 1-2 in district play.

A. In order to cover all the bases of basic maintenance, how about beginning with an oil filter wrench and drain pan for oil changes, a sparkplug wrench and gapper for plug maintenance and a tire pressure gauge - use it often! Also, add some very basic tools you'll use a lot in different maintenance areas. A crescent wrench and a good assortment of straight blade and Phillips screwdrivers are musts. A socket wrench set, pliers, box of open-end wrenches and a funnel will be a big help. You might even want to invest in a hand-operated grease gun (that job isn't as difficult as you may think), as well as a radiator flush kit. That's just a start, but should keep you in business for a long time.

Ali said to have Parkinson's disease

NEW YORK (AP) — Three-time former world heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali has been diagnosed as having minor symptoms of Parkinson's disease and not a fatal illness, his doctor said.

And the charismatic and controversial ex-boxer has vowed to overcome his undiagnosed problem.

"I'll whip this thing. I'll whip it," Ali promised Wednesday, adding he was not frightened by the prospect of fighting the disease.

"I'm not scared. They could tell me tomorrow, 'Ali, you have cancer of the heart, you've got six months to live.' I'll say I'm glad," the 1960 Olympic gold medal winner said. "I had a good life and was good to people and I'll be glad to meet Allah."

Ali was given test drugs at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center earlier Wednesday "to see if it helps him and how much it helps him," said Martin Ecker, a diagnostic radiologist consulting on Ali's case.

"He's not in any danger. It's not a fatal disease," said Ecker, medical director of Ali's boxing management company. "You don't die from what he has and I feel very optimistic that what he has can be controlled by medication."

The 42-year-old ex-boxer said that his slurred speech and slow body movement could be the result of his boxing career.

"I've been punched a lot of times," he said. "I've been in the boxing ring now for 30 years and taken hard punches in fights and also in training preparing for the fights, so there's a great possibility something could be abnormal."

Ali underwent five days of tests at the Manhattan hospital this month before leaving Sept. 11 for a brief trip to Europe. He returned Tuesday for more tests and treatment.

He said while it was possible boxing had caused his problems, he never regretted his ring career because of the good it had allowed him to bring to other people.

"I'm glad I've been charitable all my life. I'm glad I gave away a lot of money. I'm glad I helped a lot of poor people," Ali said. The boxing great said he expected to be hospitalized for two more days.

Chases Harris, Brown

Payton likely to be No. 1 rusher soon

By JAMES LITKE AP Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — In three days, Chicago Bears running back Walter Payton figures to supplant Franco Harris as the National Football League's No. 2 career rusher. Next month, he might become No. 1.

The prospect of climbing to heights no man, including standard-setting Jim Brown, has gone before, has Payton sounding very philosophical.

"Once, they said people would never reach the moon, and there were times when you would have been stoned for saying that," Payton said Wednesday, preparing for Sunday's showdown with Harris and the Seattle Seahawks.

"But that goal was proven obtainable. You don't set your sights for goals that can be accomplished. You set your sights for goals beyond your reach," he continued, "and that way you accomplish more than you would have thought."

Brown, who retired at age 29, set the NFL standard of 12,312 career rushing yards in just nine seasons with the Cleveland Browns. Payton, 30, entered this, his tenth season, trailing that mark by 687 yards and Harris, 34, a 12-year veteran, by only 325.

But Harris' contract squabbles with the Pittsburgh Steelers diffused what should have been a season-long drama and changed it, instead, into a lopsided confrontation.

Harris held out for more money while missing all of training camp, subsequently lost his job in Pittsburgh, and ended up in Seattle. Playing sparingly for a passing team while getting his legs back, Harris has managed just 59 yards in two games in a Seahawk uniform.

"They're (the Seahawks) more concerned about winning (than Harris' chase for the record) and doing their things," said Payton. "It might have been different if he'd still been in Pittsburgh."

Payton, meanwhile, has churned out 350 yards on the ground in three starts and catching 11 passes for 54 more yards to steal Brown's top spot in the all-time combined yardage category last with 15,656.

When the Bears visit Seattle, Payton will face Harris for just the third time, this time just 34 yards behind the man he chased in his mind's eye all during the off-season.

"When I said I wanted to catch Franco this season it was a motivational tactic more than anything else. I had just gone through (arthroscopic) surgery on both knees and while I worked, I used that for my training and to keep my mind real strong," said Payton. "It worked."

But Payton will have reason to use the images of both Harris and Brown even after he gets to the top of the rushing list.

He needs one more 1,000-yard rushing season to match Harris' eight; 27 rushing touchdowns and 38 total TDs to erase Brown's marks of 106 and 126, respectively.

'E.R.' top show

ABC wins television ratings week

LOS ANGELES (AP) — CBS no doubt is hoping it has another "M-A-S-H" on its hands after the first-place ratings debut of "E.R.," its hospital emergency room comedy.

The new series was the No. 1 show and CBS had six shows in the Top 10 for the week ended Sept. 16. Nevertheless, CBS fell to second place in the Nielsen ratings as ABC regained first place. NBC was third.

CBS would not be remiss in comparing "E.R." to "M-A-S-H." It has somewhat of the flavor of a civilian equivalent and its star, Elliott Gould, plays a doctor as irreverent as his role as Trapper John in the movie "M-A-S-H."

ABC was the top network for the week despite having only two shows in the Top 10. The network placed eight shows in the next 10. NBC also had two shows in the Top 10.

ABC's highest-rated show was the seventh-place movie debut of the new fall series "Hawaiian Heat." The network's Monday Night NFL Football was tenth.

The movie premiere of NBC's new "Miami Vice" series was second and its coverage of the "Miss America Pageant" tied for third with CBS' "60 Minutes."

No other new shows made the Top 10.

ABC won the week with a network average of 14.1 in the A.C. Nielsen Co. survey. CBS was second with 13.7, and NBC was third with 12.6. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute 14.1 percent of the homes with television were tuned to ABC.

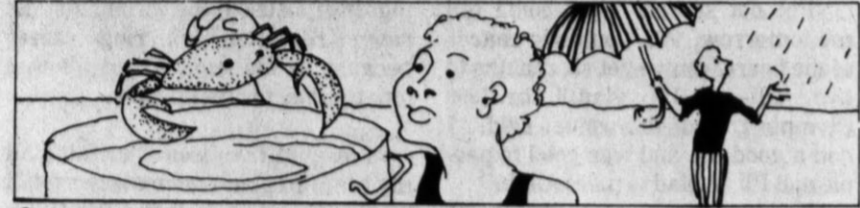

The lowest-rated show of the week was the NBC pilot "Cracker Brothers." The bottom five in descending order were: CBS' "Airwolf," CBS' "Saturday Morning Preview," CBS' "AfterMASH," ABC's "Ripley's Believe It or Not," and NBC's "Cracker Brothers."

CBS remained on top among the evening news shows. ABC was second and NBC third. The ratings: CBS 11.7, ABC 9.7, NBC 9.2.

Here are the week's top 10 shows:

1. "E.R.," CBS, a rating of 23.0 or 19.5 million households.
2. Movie—"Miami Vice," NBC, 22.8 or 19.3 million.
3. "Miss America Pageant," NBC, 22.1 or 18.7 million.
3. Tie—"60 Minutes," CBS, 22.1 or 18.7 million.
5. Movie—"Some Kind of Hero," CBS, 19.5 or 16.5 million.
6. "Cagney & Lacey," CBS, 19.4 or 16.4 million.
7. "Hawaiian Heat," ABC, 19.1 or 16.2 million.
8. "Newhart," CBS, 19.0 or 16.1 million.
9. "Kate & Allie," CBS, 18.9 or 16.0 million.
10. Monday Night NFL Football, ABC, 16.8 or 14.2 million.

Should calves be wormed?

COLLEGE STATION — Worming and implanting of steer calves have been touted by many as a paying proposition, but just how good are these practices?

A study conducted last fall on the Heine Bade farm in Dewitt County shows that using growth implants does pay but that worming is questionable.

Dr. L.R. Sprott and Dr. David Bade, beef cattle specialist and forage specialist, respectively, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, conducted the study which involved four treatments of nursing calves: one implant, no implant, one implant and a worming agent, and one implant followed by another in 90 days. Ralgro implants and Tramisol worming agent were used.

Steers that received at least one implant had an increase in average daily gain of just over two-tenths pound compared to non-implanted steers during the first 90 days, points out Sprott. There was little difference in average daily gain among implanted steers and those that were both implanted and wormed.

After the first 90 days of the study, half of the previously implanted steers were given another implant, which increased average daily gains by almost four-tenths pound compared to the original group of non-implanted steers and by just over two-tenths pound compared to steers that originally received one implant.

What does all this mean in dollars and cents?

The greatest return—$35.40 per head—came from re-implanting steers after 90 days when compared to those receiving no implant, Sprott points out. When compared to steers receiving only the first implant, those that were re-implanted increased returns $20.40 per head. Implanting once versus not implanting increased returns $15 per head.

The study clearly shows that implanting steer calves, preferably twice (every 90 days), can greatly increase profits on sale day, says Sprott. Worming could help worm-infested calves but is not likely to be a profitable practice in healthy calves, he adds.

Kazoos come in all shapes and sizes. They are shaped like French horns, bugles, trombones, Groucho Marx cigars. There is even one, with a little tower on top, made like a submarine. The One and Only Original Kazoo Co. Inc. of Eden, N.Y., is the only company in the United States that makes all-metal kazoos. The company's best customer? Japan.

TEXAS WATER COMMISSION

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON APPLICATION FOR WASTE DISPOSAL PERMIT

VALLEY VIEW ENERGY CORPORATION, HEREFORD GENERATION STATION, 4100 First National Bank Building, Dallas, Texas 75202 has applied to the Texas Department of Water Resources for a permit (Proposed Permit No. 02711) to authorize the disposal by irrigation and evaporation of sanitary wastewaters and utility blowdown wastewaters from an electric power generating station at a volume not to exceed 70,000 gallons per day to the playa. The applicant proposes to construct and operate an electric power generating station. The plant will be comprised of a manure fired boiler for a steam driven turbine generator with a nominal output of 45 megawatts. Wastewaters are to be either evaporated or beneficially used on-site, or they are to be sent to a playa lake for evaporation or used as irrigation water on adjacent farmland. Solids will accumulate in the on-site evaporation ponds for the estimated life of the generation station. Sanitary wastewaters are to be treated and discharged to the playa. No discharge of pollutants to the waters of the State is authorized.

The plant site is approximately five miles northeast of the City of Hereford and immediately south of U.S. Highway 60 in Deaf Smith County, Texas. The plant site and irrigated fields are in the watershed of Tierra Blanca Creek which flows into Buffalo Lake; thence to Lake McSpadden; thence to Palo Duro Club Lake; thence to Lake Tanglewood; thence into Prairie Dog Town Fork Red River in Segment 0207 of the Red River Basin.

A Hearings Examiner of the Texas Water Commission will conduct a public hearing at 10:00 a.m. - Wednesday, October 24, 1984

Amarillo City Hall - City Commission Chambers
509 Seventh Avenue - Amarillo, Texas 79101

to receive evidence on the conditions, if any, under which the permit may be issued, and determine whether State Certification in accordance with Section 401 of the Federal Clean Water Act may be issued. This hearing will be held under the authority of Sections 26.020, 26.021 and 26.028 of the Texas Water Code, as amended, the Rules of Procedure of the Texas Water Commission and the Rules of the Texas Department of Water Resources.

The record of this proceeding will include evidence and testimony taken at the public hearing. The hearing may be continued from time to time and place to place, if necessary, to develop all relevant evidence bearing on the subject of the hearing. The Texas Water Commission reserves the right to schedule or reschedule hearings as it deems necessary. Further information concerning any aspect of the application, if available, may be obtained by writing Robert M. Rogan, Staff Attorney, P. O. Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711, Telephone (512) 475-6943. Information concerning any procedures of the hearing may be obtained by contacting Kaylene A. Ray, Hearings Examiner, P. O. Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711, Telephone (512) 475-1339.

Persons desiring to protest the granting of this application may file written protests with the Commission at least 8 days prior to the hearing date and shall serve copies of the written protest on the applicant and all designated parties, if any. The written protest shall: show the name and address of the protestant; identify the pending application; state the basis of the protestant's interest and any relevant facts and conclusions; describe the location of the protestant's property relative to the application; and propose any amendment or adjustment to the application which, if made, would result in withdrawal of the protest. Persons desiring to present information relating to the application must appear at the public hearing either in person or by representative and present such information, subject to all applicable rules of evidence. Information offered in written form without the writer's presence will be noted by the Commission but will not be considered as evidence since the right to cross-examine is absent. No person will be admitted as a party to the proceeding unless the person complies with Commission Rules which require a justiciable interest and attendance at the hearing either in person or by qualified representative.

Issued this 13th day of September, 1984.

State shortfall could hit $1.7 billion

AUSTIN (AP) — A 1985 state tax hike is avoidable despite a depressing economic forecast from Comptroller Bob Bullock, says Gov. Mark White. Bullock said Wednesday that the state could find itself as much as $1.7 billion short over the next two years. He said the state would be $200 million short even if state spending does not increase and there is no inflation or increased demand for state services. White said the Bullock forecast is a clear challenge to state agency heads. "What it does do is point out the increasing necessity for each of our state agencies to refine their budget requests to the absolute essentials," he said. "I think the people of this state want to see the elimination of waste in every agency."

The governor has told agency heads not to expect increased budgets from the 1985 Legislature. Asked if a tax hike can be avoided, White said, "I would hope to be able to avoid that. I know that's the goal of every member of the Legislature that I've talked to." "There are some that have higher hopes for it than others," he added. Bullock said state income for 1986-87 now looks more promising than it did earlier this year, "but from what the Legislative Budget Board is telling us about the state's spending needs, we may still be a couple of hundred million short of what we'll need, not even counting inflation or the higher demand for state services because of population increases."

Texans were hit with a $4.6 billion tax increase this year. That hike — the first in 13 years — will pay for education reforms and highway improvements. Included was a one-eighth of a cent increase in the state sales tax and a doubling of the 5-cent gasoline tax. Speaker Gib Lewis said the Bullock report produced no new news. "It's the same thing and figures comparable to what we have been looking at all the time," he said. "All it does is simply reinforce what I have been saying all along. The citizens of Texas have no reason to expect anything more or less from state government than they ask of themselves or the private sector." "If you don't have the money you tighten up your belt and make do with what you have," said Lewis, adding he is "opposed to any new taxes."

"The taxpayers have supported the proven needs of our public education and highway systems. But I don't think they want, or should be asked, to support another general tax increase to support bigger state government," he said. Bullock's report said "the worst of state's economic problems are now in the past; however, economic conditions are such that the state is unlikely to experience the rapid growth revenue trends of the 1970s." Bullock said the state would see a 14.6 percent drop in oil tax revenue and a 4.7 percent decline in natural gas tax collections. He predicted a 19.8 percent increase in sales tax receipts and a 35 percent hike in motor fuels taxes.

Judge Michael McSpadden rapped

AUSTIN (AP) — State District Judge Michael McSpadden said he was trying to teach a defendant to "be responsible" by jailing him for not saying, "Yes, sir," but state appeals judges say the judge went too far.

The record clearly reflects that, rather than acting as a trial judge should act, Judge McSpadden, instead, acted much like a military drill instructor might act when dealing with a raw recruit," said Court of Criminal Appeals Judge Marvin Teague.

But the court said Wednesday it could not grant the relief requested by Michael Washington, who wound up with a 30-day jail sentence imposed by McSpadden. The court did, however, indicate Washington stands a good chance of winning with a different type of appeal.

Washington went to McSpadden's court on March 29, 1983, to plead guilty to burglary. A plea bargain in the case would have placed Washington on probation for four years. After the guilty plea, McSpadden questioned Washington. "Let's have a 'yes, sir,' every time you say 'yes,' I want a 'sir' behind it. Do you understand that? Or you are not going to get probation ... you are going to get 30 days," the judge told Washington.

In later questioning, after replying with "yes, sir" several times, Washington dropped the "sir." McSpadden said, "Let's have a 'yes, sir.' I swear to God, how long does it take you to listen?" Washington later again dropped the required "sir." McSpadden ordered the 30-day jail stay as part of Washington's probation conditions.
