

Juco bill needs scrutiny

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Hereford-area residents are being urged to take a close look at a bill pending in the Texas Legislature that could lead to Deaf Smith County being annexed into the Amarillo College district—even if county voters turn down the annexation.

House Bill 1039 is currently on the calendar and could be pulled down for a vote in the house at any time, according to State Rep. John Smithee.

The bill would allow for an election in the existing junior college district and in the adjacent service area it wishes to annex.

A majority vote of all voters in the election would allow the annexation, even if the voters in the area under consideration for annexation turn down the measure.

The bill has picked up a nickname, "Pac-Man," because it would allow an existing district to "gobble up" an adjacent area whether it wanted to be "gobbled up" or not.

Currently, law allows an area to be annexed only if the voters in the proposed area approve the proposal.

"I would vote against the bill as it is worded now," Smithee said Tuesday afternoon in a telephone interview from Austin. "I don't like the thought of one area taking over another in this fashion. I am opposed to it philosophically."

Smithee said the only way he could favor the measure would be to maintain the current system, where the annexation must be approved by the voters in the annexation area, or a requirement to build a campus in the new city or county being served.

"If Amarillo College were to expand into Deaf Smith County, they would have to put a full campus in Hereford," Smithee said. "That's the only way I could support it."

"If something like this passes, then people would want to do the same thing with hospital districts and school districts. I am totally philosophically opposed to this."

However, the bill went wanting for a Senate sponsor for quite some time before Sen. Hector Uribe decided to carry the bill in the state senate.

State Sen. Teel Bivins (R-Amarillo) said this morning that the bill is not scheduled for a Senate hearing until next week.

those that oppose it than those that want the bill."

Bivins said, however, he has not decided which way he would go if the bill did come up on the senate floor.

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce board of directors and legislative affairs committee is urging residents to consider the bill's merits and to quickly contact Smithee and State Sen. Teel Bivins about feelings on the proposal.

"The chamber is very concerned about this because this would allow us to be annexed whether or not we want to become part of the taxing district," said chamber executive vice president Mike Carr. "We are very concerned about this bill and everyone needs to be aware of the ramifications of the bill if it passes."

"Right now, we can be annexed if we want to be. The rules are in place if they want us in there."

Carr said the chamber is not grinding an axe against Amarillo College, pointing out AC's role in the new Hereford Educational Learning Center and the Community Education program AC has had in Hereford for many years.

While concrete figures could not be provided by Amarillo College despite repeated requests by the Brand and by local officials, the college is making a sizeable profit on the offerings in Hereford. Some estimates range up to $50,000.

AC officials Tuesday said that tuition and fees may actually be lowered for Deaf Smith County residents who took AC offerings here if the county were annexed into the AC district.

If Deaf Smith County and the portions of Potter and Randall counties not in the AC district were annexed, the AC district tax base would be expanded by about 60 percent.

"With only three weeks left before we adjourn, and with all of the other things we need to consider, I doubt that it even comes up on the floor," Bivins said.

"Even if it comes up, I don't know if it would pass. Probably, it will have considerable opposition for the same reasons that people in Hereford and other areas would oppose it. I think there are more of

New residents in Hereford won't have to scramble around for information, thanks to a newcomer's service started by the Retail Merchants Committee and the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

"Many businesses have discounts, coupons or some type of additional information in the kit," Henry said. "We want to include all of the agencies and service clubs and have information about our United Way agencies, so people can see they can be involved in the community quickly."

"We didn't have a newcomer's club anymore, so this filled a void. It was a way of saying we're glad you're here, this is our town, and give them some general information about our community."

Most of the newcomers' names and addresses are obtained from churches and other contacts in the community, Henry said.

About nine months of work has gone into the project, which has already reached 20 new families in Hereford in the past month, according to Lajeane Henry.

Much of that preparation time went into compiling a "shopper's guide," pointing out various types of goods and services available here.

Abortion case hearing begins

WASHINGTON (AP) - The politically charged battle over abortion reaches a Supreme Court showdown today as the justices hear arguments in a Missouri dispute that has seized the nation's attention.

Demonstrators, "pro-life" and "pro-choice" activists and hundreds of would-be courtroom spectators planned to gather outside the court's Capitol Hill building today, enlivening the normally tranquil scene.

"I expect it will be an extraordinary day," court spokeswoman Toni House said.

Missouri officials and the Bush administration are urging that today's case be used to overturn or curtail the court's landmark 1973 decision that women have a constitutional right to abortion.

Tight security was ordered today. Police lines were to keep demonstrators off court property, but 50 members of a group calling itself Oppression Under Target told the court of their plan to engage in civil disobedience that could lead to their arrest.

Inside the courtroom, Ms. House said, "We have no reason to believe the conduct of this oral argument will be any different, any less respectful than any other."

Even if the court rules on the Missouri abortion regulations narrowly, the decision will be viewed as a barometer of the current justices' commitment to the 16-year-old ruling in Roe vs. Wade.

Justices added to the court under former President Reagan have strengthened the conservative wing, which is skeptical of the wisdom and continued vitality of the landmark decision.

The justices will take their initial vote in the Missouri case Friday, discussing their views and beginning the process of drafting and redrafting opinions to accompany the announcement of the court's decision, expected by July.

In an attempt to sway the justices, Americans in record numbers have been writing and telephoning the court to express their views. Tens of thousands of letters arrive each day, and the court's two switchboards were so flooded with calls that a rarely used third board had to be activated.

"Many people have indicated they've been asked to call by televangelists," Ms. House said. "These people believe we are conducting a public opinion survey. We are not."

Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist refused to allow radio and television coverage of the proceedings.

The Roe vs. Wade decision is based on the constitutional right to privacy. The court said a woman's decision to have an abortion during the first three months of pregnancy must be left to her and her doctor.

The court said states may interfere in the abortion decision during the second trimester only to protect the woman's health, and may take steps to protect fetal life only in the third trimester - 24 to 28 weeks into the pregnancy when the fetus can survive outside the womb. Recent scientific advances have called into question some of the cutoff points in the decision.

Under Roe vs. Wade, state authority to regulate abortions after the first trimester was not made absolute.

Lucille Ball dies suddenly today

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Lucille Ball, the zany, wide-mouthed redhead who reigned for more than 20 years as the queen of television comedy, died today, a week after undergoing emergency heart surgery. She was 77.

The excitant star of "I Love Lucy" and similar situation comedies that continue in syndication around the world died at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, where she underwent surgery to replace her aorta and aortic valve April 18.

"The death occurred suddenly and without warning. She experienced a full cardiac arrest. Her response to surgery over a week ago was excellent and she had been improving constantly," said hospital spokesman Ronald Wise.

Miss Ball had been bothered by a variety of maladies over the last several years, including a heart attack and minor throat surgery in 1988.

"Lucille Ball is the greatest woman clown in the world," fellow comedian Milton Berle once said. "In fact, she is one of the great clowns of all time, male or female."

Miss Ball's singularity as a comedian was matched by her talent as a show-business entrepreneur. She and her former husband, the late Desi Arnaz, established one of TV's first major independent studios.

Desilu, as their production company was called, made some of the top comedy shows of the 1950s and '60s, including "December Bride," "Our Miss Brooks" and "Make Room for Daddy."

As testament to their value as prime-time stars, Miss Ball and Arnaz signed an $8 million, non-cancellation, two-year contract with CBS in 1953 - the largest in television history at the time and a figure scarcely any TV star can touch 36 years later.

The actress was last seen introducing the "Young Hollywood" production number with Bob Hope at the 61st Academy Awards ceremony March 29, receiving a standing ovation. Looking svelte for her years in a fashionable slit skirt, she seemed to be in good health and laughed freely throughout a brief routine with Hope.

Her last series - "Life with Lucy," co-starring frequent s-kick Gale Gordon - was carried by ABC at the start of the 1986 season. But the show, Miss Ball's first series in 12 years, was canceled after less than two months when it drew spectacularly low ratings. The actress "felt terrible. ... It really devastated her," daughter Lucie Arnaz said at the time.

Miss Ball also played a bag lady in the 1985 TV movie "Stone Pillow," considered one of the most challenging roles of her career. She was hospitalized for dehydration when it was over, but the movie was a minor critical and ratings success.

Despite her remarkable popularity, Miss Ball was one of the few stars in television's golden age who did not go on to have an extensive theatrical film career.

Her timing, wails and pratfalls made the "I Love Lucy" show one of the most popular in television history.

Bridge clubs and bowling teams changed their meeting nights to watch Lucy Ricardo and her sidekick, Ethel Mertz (the late Vivian Vance), come up with another harebrained scheme to drive their long-suffering husbands, Ricky and Fred, to desperation.

A Chicago department store changed the night it stayed open because shoppers were staying home in front of the television.

Miss Ball's real, onscreen pregnancy marked a milestone in television, and an estimated 44 million viewers - more than watched the inauguration of President Eisenhower - tuned in on Jan. 19, 1953, the night Lucy Ricardo delivered Little Ricky. Her real son was born just four hours before the previously filmed show was broadcast.

Miss Ball remained a worldwide favorite through the breakup of her 20-year marriage to Arnaz, who played husband Ricky Ricardo in "I Love Lucy."

Miss Ball was born on Aug. 6, 1911, in Celeron, N.Y., the daughter of an electrician and a concert pianist.

Tape records Valdez wreck

VALDEZ, Alaska (AP) - A light drizzle was falling and a breeze blew across Prince William Sound when Coast Guard Cmdr. Steve McCall radioed the grounded Exxon Valdez for a damage report.

"Ah, not at the present time, Steve," the tanker skipper replied in a deep, slow voice.

"Joe Hazelwood here. A little problem here with the third mate but we're working our way off the reef. We've, ah, been holed and we're ascertaining right now, we're trying just to get her off the reef and we'll get back to you as soon as we can."

Two hours later, the magnitude of the spill became clear to McCall when the tanker reported that 138,000 barrels - about 5.7 million gallons - of oil had been spilled into the water, according to transcripts of radio conversations released Tuesday.

McCall, who had been roused from bed in the early morning hours of March 24, told Hazelwood to "take it slow and easy" after the skipper said he was trying to dislodge vessel from the reef.

"You know, I'm telling you the obvious, but take it slow and easy, and we're getting help out as fast as we can," McCall said.

"We're in pretty good shape right now, stability-wise, and, ah, trying to extract her off the shoal here," Hazelwood answered. "You can probably see me on your radar, and, ah, once we get under way, I'll let you know, do another damage control assessment."

"Before you make any drastic attempt to get away, make sure you don't you know, start doing any ripping," said McCall. "You got a rising tide, you, another, about an hour and a half worth of tide in your favor, ah, ah, once you hit that max, I wouldn't recommend doing much wiggling."

Hazelwood responded that "major damage has kind of been done and we kind of rock and rolled

Lottery fever running rampant

SNOW SHOE, Pa. (AP) - Hundreds of truckers and other travelers got off Interstate 80 looking for Easy Street. Even the winners of a $46 million prize took a chance on tonight's North American record $100 million lottery jackpot.

"You got to dream," said Daniel Moellring, of Clayton, Ill., a trucker who bought five Super 7 tickets in this central Pennsylvania town Tuesday.

Dreams abounded in Pennsylvania as $24.35 million in lottery sales Tuesday topped the state's single-day record and brought the total sales since Thursday to $67.26 million. Sales of the dollar tickets end about two minutes before the 6:59 p.m. drawing.

Because of the huge crush of sales, lottery official Michael Keyser said the number of winning tickets, if any, would not be known until Friday.

But Kenny Kelly, a trucker hauling commercial carpets, had no doubts at a truck-stop restaurant on the Allegheny Plateau.

"I've got the winning ticket. I've been praying," he joked. Even Donald Woomer and Linda Despot, a Hollidaysburg couple who won a $46 million jackpot in 1987, got caught up. Woomer said he bought 100 tickets for this week's Super 7, but he's not crossing his fingers he'll win.

"Nobody would want to play anymore if we won again," he said.

In Super 7, players pick seven numbers between 1 and 80. If all seven of those numbers are among the 11 selected, the ticket wins the jackpot. Lottery officials put the chances of having the only winning ticket at one in 9.6 million.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, April 26, the 116th day of 1989. There are 249 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On April 26, 1986, the worst nuclear accident in history occurred at the Chernobyl plant in the Soviet Union as an explosion and fire sent radioactivity into the atmosphere. At least 31 Soviets died as a direct result.

On this date:

In 1607, an expedition of English colonists, including Capt. John Smith, went ashore at Cape Henry, Va., to establish the first permanent English settlement in the New World.

In 1785, the American naturalist and artist John James Audubon was born in Haiti.

In 1865, John Wilkes Booth, the assassin of President Abraham Lincoln, was surrounded by federal troops near Bowling Green, Va., and killed.

In 1900, seismologist Charles Richter, who devised the earthquake-measuring scale that bears his name, was born in Hamilton, Ohio.

In 1937, planes from Nazi Germany raided the Basque town of Guernica during the Spanish Civil War.

In 1964, the African nations of Tanganyika and Zanzibar merged to form Tanzania.

In 1968, the United States exploded beneath the Nevada desert a 1-megaton nuclear device called "Boxcar."

In 1980, Iran announced the American hostages had been taken from the U.S. embassy and would be scattered among different cities and towns to thwart any future attempts to rescue them.

In 1983, a national commission released a scathing report on the state of American education, calling for sweeping measures to combat what it called "a rising tide of mediocrity" in schools.

In 1983, the Dow Jones Industrial Average closed above 1,200 points for the first time.

Ten years ago: President Jimmy Carter sent Congress his legislative blueprint for a windfall oil profits tax, arguing the tax was needed to bar the oil industry from reaping what he termed a "huge bonanza."

Five years ago: President Ronald Reagan and his wife, Nancy, arrived in Beijing to begin a 5 1/2-day visit to China. Jazz pianist Count Basie died in Hollywood, Fla. at age 79.

One year ago: Vice President George Bush locked up the Republican presidential nomination with an easy win in the Pennsylvania primary. Massachusetts Governor Michael Dukakis won the Democratic contest.

Today's birthdays: Actress-comedian Carol Burnett is 56. Guitarist-songwriter Duane Eddy is 51. Singer Bobby Rydell is 47. Rock musician Gary Wright is 46.

Thought for today: "Belief in progress is a lazy man's creed ... It is the individual counting on his neighbors to perform his task for him." - Charles Baudelaire, poet, 1821-1867.

Task force wants more financial disclosures

AUSTIN (AP) - Members of a special task force that examined campaign financing in Texas say they believe the Legislature will enact some reforms this year.

The panel on Tuesday recommended stricter reporting of campaign contributions and tougher penalties for violations. But it stopped short of recommending limits on how much money could be given to politicians.

"The people need to know where the money's coming from, and who's receiving it. That's germane to making a political decision," said Secretary of State Jack Rains, who chaired the Governor's Task Force on Campaign Finance Reform.

Rains, a Republican, said opposition from several groups put that goal out of reach for now.

"The bottom line is that the most we can hope for in this legislative session is meaningful campaign finance disclosure. If we bring the financing of campaigns out of the smoke-filled back rooms, we'll go a long way toward removing the stench of special-interest influence," Rains said.

Rains and other task force members said they expect the Legislature to act this year.

"I believe we have a consensus on this and will get some meaningful reform," Rains said.

Two lawmakers who served on the task force, Sen. Don Henderson, R-Houston, and Rep. Ric Williamson, D-Weatherford, agreed.

"I think the chances are pretty good that the recommendations of the task force, along with some other recommendations ... will pass," Williamson said.

The task force's recommendations included:

- Establishing a computerized system to collect campaign finance reports and make it easier to learn who gives how much and to whom.

- Increasing fines for late filing of reports from $100 to $100 a day up to $1,000, or 10 percent of the total amount raised during a reporting period, whichever is greater.

- Identifying the controlling entity of political action committees to give a better picture of which special interests are donating.

- Requiring individuals who contribute more than $25,000 a year to file reports.

- Requiring that loans to a campaign be fully collateralized, and that loans be covered as contributions.

- Reporting personal money a candidate gives to his own campaign.

- Identifying contributors' occupations and employers.

Pam Fridrich, executive director for Common Cause in Texas, said capping campaign contributions without controlling campaign spending wouldn't be meaningful reform.

"We're in favor of more meaningful disclosure. The public does need to have better access to the figures, the money that's coming in and going out of political campaigns," she said.

"Of course, Common Cause eventually really wants campaign contribution limits and spending limits and ... we do need some kind of public financing incentive for candidates to operate within those limitations. We'll work for that in future years," she said.

Man freed after 21 years in jail

ARCADIA, Fla. (AP) - A former fruit picker enjoyed his first taste of freedom today after 21 years in prison because a judge said perjury and prosecutorial misconduct got him convicted in the deaths of his seven children.

"I don't feel freedom yet," 53-year-old James Richardson said Tuesday following an eight-hour hearing in the DeSoto County courthouse where he had been sentenced to death in 1968.

"I guess it's going to take a while to get use to it, but I'm going to keep trying to make that step."

Retired Circuit Judge Clifton Kelly, assigned to review the case by the state Supreme Court, freed the black man who was convicted by an all-white jury after agreeing with defense attorneys that prosecutors allowed perjured testimony and withheld evidence.

Although the state has 10 days to order a retrial, Janet Reno, a special investigator assigned to the case, said it will be closed.

Richardson was released in the custody of attorney Ellis Rubin, who took him to his condominium near Daytona Beach.

After Richardson was freed, his wife, Annie Mae, cried on the courthouse lawn, threw her arms up and said "Thank you, thank you."

"Right now I feel fine," Richardson said. "Within my heart, I knew that these great men were going to get me out - they weren't going to let me stay in there."

In addition to Rubin, he was referring to attorney Mark Lane, whose 1971 book "Acadia" raised questions about the conviction in the October 1967 poisonings.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Speedy:

I saw you on the golf course and am happy you're back in the swing of the game. We have a common appreciation of the game, and we share something with everyone else-it's called freedom.

I'm free to work, worship, speak and think--free to choose a lifestyle of my desire and likes. But this word "freedom" can't be separated from the word "careful," or "watchful."

We consider the word freedom along with the expression of fear. In the dictionary, fear has two meanings. The kind of freedom we would like to enjoy is freedom with fear.

A fearful freedom. I mean a freedom with respect for others. A freedom which is considerate of others. We have fear for the law of this land and the authorities who govern. When we do away with this fear, we abuse our freedom. The fear we want to have is a fear or respect for human beings. If we lack the proper kind of fear, wouldn't it be said that God is angry with us?

There have been examples of freedom without fear written in the newspapers and shown on TV. For example: oil spill in Alaska, killings in Matamoros, Mexico, 94 killed at a soccer game, etc. Have we gotten fear out of the picture? No, the lack of fear produces fear.

To explain, remember the dictionary mentions that "fear" has a twofold meaning. The lack of the proper fear produces a painful feeling, or condition of being afraid. It's this fear that is difficult to face up to without help.

It becomes a battle of nerves. Sort of reminds me of the Gideonites--300 warriors against the enemy, which numbered thousands. It takes faith to battle out the wrong fear and gain the right kind of fear-- a fearful freedom that is healthy.

We all have that common bond and I believe we can continue to do so by restoring our faith in days to come. We will always have a Heavenly Father who understands our fears. Hope you had a good game Sunday afternoon. If you didn't, have no fear, restore your faith and the game will get better.

A fearful frielva,
Jesse Grijalva

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last January, it was two years since our daughter Karen died. I know that a great many people wanted to ease our pain, Ann, but I could not believe some of the insensitive remarks that we encountered.

I have written a message for all the people who mean well, but have no idea how inappropriate some of their comments are.

PLEASE
PLEASE--don't ask me if I'm over it yet. I'll never be "over it."

PLEASE--don't tell me she's in a better place. She isn't here.

PLEASE--don't say "at least she isn't suffering." I haven't come to terms with why she had to suffer at all.

PLEASE -- don't tell me you know how I feel, unless you have lost a child.

PLEASE -- don't tell me to get on with my life. I'm still here, you'll notice.

PLEASE--don't ask me if I feel better. Bereavement isn't a condition that "clears up."

PLEASE -- don't tell me "God never makes a mistake." You mean He did this on purpose?

PLEASE -- don't tell me "at least you had her for 28 years." What year would you choose for your daughter to die?

PLEASE -- don't tell me God never gives you more than you can bear--who decides how much another person can bear?

PLEASE -- just say you are sorry.

PLEASE -- just say you remember her if you do.

PLEASE -- let me cry when I must.

--Rita Moran, a member of The Compassionate Friends (Miami)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last year my husband ordered a well-known, high-class magazine through the Mega-Buck Sweepstakes. He decided not to renew the subscription because he didn't have time to enjoy it.

The company called long distance several times and tried to persuade him to renew. He told them at least seven times that he did not want to renew and to please stop bothering him.

A few days ago, we received a letter saying they are turning the matter over to a collection agency. This could mean ruining our credit, which is much more valuable than the $7.95. What can we do?--K.V., Coffeyville, Kan.

DEAR COFFEY: We contacted the Direct Marketing Association's "Mail Order Action Line." They said it was probably a computer glitch. Write to them with complete details and they will take care of it. The address is: Mail Order Action Line, 6 East 43rd St., New York, NY 10017.

How much do you know about pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, crack, speed and downers? Think you can handle them? For up-to-the minutes information on drugs, write for Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Faught named as HHS girls' coach

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Dickie Faught, AAA Coach of the Year at Brownfield in 1988, has been named the new girls' basketball coach at Hereford High School, it was announced today by Athletic Director Don Cumpston.

Faught, 31, had a 74-25 won-lost record as head girls' basketball coach at Brownfield the past four years. His team won the 3A state championship in 1988 and finished as bi-district champs the past season.

"I think he's one of the up-and-coming girls' basketball coaches in the country," Cumpston said of Faught. "We're very fortunate to get a man of his caliber, and we had a lot of good applicants."

In addition to being named as varsity girls' basketball coach, Faught will be the assistant athletic director in charge of girls' athletics.

With the selection of Faught, HHS now has new coaches in both boys' and girls' basketball. Jimmy Thomas was named last week as the new boys' basketball coach. Thomas will be coming from Big Lake, where he was head basketball coach at Reagan High.

Before taking over as head girls' basketball coach at Brownfield in 1986, Faught had served as a varsity basketball assistant and as varsity golf coach. He went to Brownfield in 1982 as a freshman basketball and football coach. His other coaching experience was at Klondike High School, where he had a 30-16 record as head boys' basketball coach. His overall varsity record as a basketball coach is 104-44.

A graduate of Angelo State University, Faught was the salutatorian of the Union High School class of 1976. He and his wife, Terri, have two children, Dustin and Derek.

Faught was named the South Plains AAA Coach of the Year in 1988, and the Amarillo Globe-News selected him as the Texas AAA Coach of the Year in 1988.

Unhappy Pelluer to skip Cowboys' mini-camp

IRVING (AP) - Quarterback Steve Pelluer says he will skip the Dallas Cowboys mini-camp scheduled to begin today because his contract expired in February and he does not want to risk an injury while he is negotiating for a new contract.

Pelluer also hinted that he believes his future may be with some other team since the Cowboys selected UCLA quarterback Troy Aikman as the No. 1 selection in the National Football League.

Aikman already has signed a six-year contract valued at $11.037 million.

Pelluer, last year's starter, earned $302,500 in 1988 and has not been under contract since February.

"I've always thought I'd like to finish my career here. But I need to start. I still consider myself the starting quarterback," said Pelluer, who will spend the next three days visiting his brother in Idaho.

"I just cannot see myself being a backup and being content to be a backup for the rest of my career," he said. "I'm not conceding the job, but if they aren't going to treat me like a starter, there are others out there that will."

Joe Courge, Pelluer's agent, said he spoke Tuesday with Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson and made "zero progress" toward reaching an agreement.

Firing home

Fidel Ceballos rares back for a pitch during Tuesday's game against Borger at Whiteface Field. Ceballos earned his third win of the year in the Herd's 9-0 victory.

Rangers roll over Tribe

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

What would a manager take from his No. 7 and No. 9 hitter. How about seven hits, six RBIs and four runs scored?

Bobby Valentine got that Tuesday night from Pete Incaviglia and Steve Buechele as the Texas Rangers extended their best start ever with an 11-7 victory over the Cleveland Indians. Texas, 14-4, had 19 hits.

Incaviglia was batting .203 and has not been much of a factor as the Rangers compiled the best record in the majors. Valentine dropped him to seventh in the batting order. Buechele hit ninth.

"My job is to play hard and do the job, whether I'm hitting fourth, seventh or ninth," Incaviglia said.

Incaviglia was having trouble respecting himself before the first four-hit game of his career - two singles, a double and a triple.

"Four hits brings my confidence back," Incaviglia said.

He scored three runs and drove in two in boosting his average to .246. Buechele had four RBIs from a single, double and triple. Buechele and Incaviglia each knocked in two runs during the Rangers' five-run fifth inning, which snapped a 5-5 tie.

Elsewhere, it was Boston 11, Chicago 0; Milwaukee 10, Minnesota 4; Kansas City 5, New York 3; Detroit 5, Seattle 2; Oakland 3, Toronto 1, and Baltimore 8, California 1.

Bobby Witt, 3-0, allowed seven runs on seven hits in five innings. Reliever Brad Arnsberg pitched four scoreless innings for his first career save, yielding two hits. Red Sox 11, White Sox 0.

At Boston, Roger Clemens beat his nemesis, pitching a three-hitter to break his five-game losing streak against Chicago. Jim Rice, Ellis Burks and Rich Gedman homered. Brewers 10, Twins 4.

At Milwaukee, Bryan Clutterbu-ck's first major league victory was easy thanks to two homers apiece from Glenn Braggs and Paul Molitor and one by Gary Sheffield.

Royals 5, Yankees 3

At Kansas City, Bo Jackson hit his fourth home run in six games and major-league-high seventh. Kevin Seitzer also homered and singled in a run, Frank White had an RBI double and Bob Boone added a run-scoring single.

Tigers 5, Mariners 2

At Detroit, Frank Tanana pitched six-hit ball for eight innings to snap his 11-game winless streak and Matt Nokes broke a tie in the sixth with a three-run homer.

Herd scores 9-0 win over Borger

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

There were no last-minute heroics, at last, for the Hereford Whitefaces in Tuesday's 9-0 win over Borger at Whiteface Field.

"I felt good about it," said Hereford coach T.R. Sartor. "We played good defense, we had some good hitting, and our pitchers threw strikes. That's what it's going to take in the playoffs, and we played playoff-type ball today."

Pitchers Fidel Ceballos and Russell Backus held Borger to four hits and Hereford turned three double plays to hand Borger its 16th loss of the year against only two wins. The Herd, No. 3 in the state, is now 18-2-1.

Hereford put the game away early with four runs in the top of the first. Glenn Parker, who had walked, scored on a bases-loaded wild pitch for Hereford's first run. He was followed by Keith Brown, who had doubled to left, who scored on a fielder's choice grounder by Russell Backus; Roger McCracken, who scored on another wild pitch; and Backus, who scored on a double to right by Clint Cotten, whose hit fell unseen in front of the Bulldogs' right fielder.

Hereford added two in the second when Jared Victor led off the inning with a single to center, stole second and went to third on an overthrow. Jason Scott scored Victor on a sacrifice fly to right.

Parker reached on an infield single, stole second, and scored on a single to center by McCracken for a 6-0 lead.

In the fourth, Scott went to third on a three-base error by the Borger left fielder, then scored on a double to right by Parker. Parker stole third, then scored on Brown's single to right. Brown came home with the game's final run on a double to right by McCracken.

"We played about as good as we're capable on defense," Sartor said. "When you turn three double plays, man, that's something. Our pitchers did a good job. Fidel was a little shaky early, but that was the first time he's been on the mound in a while. He spotted his pitches well, as did Russell. They mixed in their fastball and curveball and threw strikes, and that's all you can ask."

Allison bows in state net semifinals

Kristie Allison of Hereford was defeated in the semifinals of the Region 1-4A tennis tournament in Brownwood, losing a 6-3, 6-2 match to Lowery of Brownwood.

Lowery went on to win the regional title.

Today in Brownwood, Hereford Naomi Grijalva is in the Region 1-4A golf tournament. Grijalva was the District 1-4A medalist. The tournament continues through Thursday.

Dodgers, Astros triumph

By The Associated Press
 Move over Orel, Tim Belcher is starting a streak of his own.
 Belcher pitched his second straight shutout Tuesday night as Los Angeles beat Chicago 4-0, spoiling the party to celebrate the 75th anniversary of Wrigley Field.
 Belcher has a ways to go, though. Last season, Orel Hersher had 59 consecutive scoreless innings to break Don Drysdale's major league record by one inning.
 "He pitched a helluva game," Dodgers manager Tommy Lasorda said. "We had a chance to get some more runs, but as it turned out he pitched some kind of a game."
 Belcher, 2-1, allowed five hits, walked one and struck out seven. He also shut out Cincinnati 6-0 on four hits in his previous start on April 18.
 "They got themselves out a couple of times," Belcher said. "Obviously, I'm in a good groove, but I did not pitch as well tonight as I did against Cincinnati."
 Elsewhere in the National League it was San Diego 1, Pittsburgh 0; Cincinnati 6, Montreal 1; New York 2, Atlanta 1; San Francisco 4, St. Louis 0, and Houston 4, Philadelphia 1.
 Belcher, 12-6 as a rookie in 1988, had one shutout last season, a 6-0 victory over Houston on Sept. 20.
 "He pitched a good game, he's got a good arm and a good fastball," Cubs manager Don Zimmer said. "But you can't give the pitcher all the credit. We're just not hitting."
 While the Cubs weren't hitting, Belcher was.
 He provided all the runs he needed with a two-run double to cap a three-run second inning against Scott Sanderson, 1-2.
 Mike Marshall led off the second with a single and continued to second on right-fielder Andre Dawson's error. Mike Scioscia reached when shortstop Domingo Ramos booted his grounder for an error.

 John Shelby doubled to score Marshall and after Alfredo Griffin struck out, Belcher doubled to right-center to make it 3-0.
 Belcher also singled in the sixth while Eddie Murray had three hits, including a pair of doubles. Murray also had a sacrifice fly in the ninth.
 Astros 4, Phillies 1
 Mike Scott pitched a four-hitter and Glenn Davis hit a two-run homer as Houston beat Philadelphia in the Astrodome.
 Scott, 3-1, had a shutout until the seventh inning when Darren Daulton hit his fifth homer of the season.
 Davis hit a two-run homer off Ken Howell, 2-1, in the first and scored from first in the sixth on Kevin Bass' double.
 Howell allowed four hits in seven innings and struck out a career-high 10.

Padres 1, Pirates 0
 Eric Show allowed six hits in eight-plus innings and Mark Davis got the last three outs for his 10th save in 10 opportunities as San Diego edged Pittsburgh at Three Rivers Stadium.
 Reds 6, Expos 1
 Paul O'Neill snapped a sixth-inning tie with a three-run homer as Cincinnati beat Montreal.
 O'Neill's second homer of the season came off Dennis Martinez, 1-1, and put the Reds ahead 4-1 in the sixth.
 Tom Browning, 3-1, allowed seven hits, including Tim Wallach's homer.
 Giants 4, Cardinals 0
 Don Robinson allowed four hits in seven innings and singled to key a three-run third inning, leading visiting San Francisco past St. Louis.

Celebrating Red Raider Day

Tech coaches preview teams at Raider event here

Texas Tech fans from Hereford and the surrounding area received an update on the Red Raiders' athletic programs and other aspects of the university at the annual Red Raider Day on Tuesday at the Hereford Country Club.

Activities included a golf scramble, social hour and dinner. Head football coach Spike Dykes, head men's basketball coach Gerald Myers and women's assistant basketball coach Lindon Weese gave updates on their programs, and athletic director T. Jones told about changes and improvements in the overall program.

Weese told the crowd that women's basketball is more accepted at Tech than women's basketball is at many other schools. "A lot of places don't accept women's sports like they do men's sports," Weese said. "We are treated with respect and we appreciate it."

"We were third in the conference last season with just one senior, and we are ready for October 15 (beginning of workouts) to get here."

Myers said the Red Raiders have signed eight recruits for next season.

"We had a pretty decent team last year, but we lost a lot of close games," the veteran coach said. "I think our recruits are going to be 1,000 percent better than the one we signed last year."

Myers said he needed more players like Hereford native Keith Kitchens, who starred for Myers' teams in the mid-70s. "We need more players like Keith, who was always ready to win. If you have anyone like him around here, let us know."

Dykes said he was "tickled to death" with his 1989 recruits, including Hereford defensive end Brad Smith.

He reviewed the 1988 season, and told the crowd that his team "called in the hole card when we were 1-4 after the Arkansas game."

The Raiders came back to finish 6-6, capping the season with a 45-42 loss to highly-ranked Oklahoma State in Tokyo.

Dykes said the Red Raiders will return an "experienced offensive nucleus from a great offensive team," gone is quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver, who was a second-round draft choice of the San Diego Chargers, but was confident that Jamie Gill would be a capable quarterback next season.

Dykes said the defense "had the best attitude this spring that it has ever had," and said the kicking game should be strong.

"It's refreshing to know how you people support Texas Tech athletics," Dykes said, "with your presence and your money. Without you folks we have no program. We have a fine group of young people you can be proud of who are going to have a good education and be a great football team."

Gaining special recognition at the dinner was Windy Nicklaus of Amarillo. Nicklaus was the captain of the first Tech football team.

In the golf scramble, two teams carded a 11-under score of 60. Winning first on a scorecard playoff was the team composed of Coach Lindon Weese, Chip Guseman, J.A. McWhorter and Wade Easley. The other team was composed of Coach Rudy Maskew, Ron Weishaar, Max Moss and Speedy Nieman. Charles McDowell won the longest drive prize, and Coach Gerald Myers won the closest-to-the-pin award.

The Trend Is Growing And So Are We!

S&L crisis may benefit credit unions

By CYNTHIA PUCKETT
 Globe-News Business Writer

Credit unions may be profiting from the savings and loan crisis through rising membership and share deposits, said Terry Young, a spokesman for Texas Credit Union League.

"S&Ls are reporting a pretty large decline in deposits. I think what's going to happen is credit unions are going to get S&L money," Young said.

"No one has a tracking method yet to see where all those dollars from savings and loans are going, but there are not that many options."

A credit union is a not-for-profit financial institution typically formed by employees of a company, a labor union, or a religious group and operated as a cooperative. Credit unions may offer a full range of financial services and pay higher rates on deposits and charge lower rates on loans than commercial banks.

"Credit unions are not like banks and savings and loan associations, which lend money to earn a profit," Young said. "We don't do that."

Credit union earnings are given back to members in the form of lower loan interest rates, he said.

In Texas, credit unions are regulated and insured by two entities: the National Credit Union Administration for federally chartered credit unions, or the Texas Share Guaranty Credit Union for state chartered credit unions.

Of the 1,023 credit unions in Texas, 16 are in Potter County. There are currently no credit unions in Randall County, Young said.

Membership in Potter County credit unions rose 7 percent from 1986 to 1987 and rose an additional 2 percent from 1987 to 1988, with a total membership of 57,969 at the end of 1988.

Statewide membership rose to more than 4 million members for the first time in 1988, with a year-end membership total of 4,075 million.

Nationally, membership in credit unions rose 4.23 percent from 1986 to 1987, and rose almost 6.3 percent from 1987 to 1988, with a total membership nationwide of 60,000,000 at the end of 1988.

Credit unions were founded in the United States 80 years ago to provide small loans to the average working person. The principle was based on European cooperatives in which people with a common interest pooled their money to help each other during times of trouble.

What is believed to be America's oldest credit union, the Amarillo Postal Credit Union, was founded in 1931 and is still going strong, according to its chairman of the board, E.L. Baker.

Members can get home improvement loans and new cars at interest rates lower than those of banks or savings and loan associations — loans that the members often might not get elsewhere, lending a loyalty to the credit union among members, he said.

credit union's 1,600 plus members. Twenty-five percent of Texas credit unions offer loan services exclusively, Young said, which are similar to many offer share draft services, which are similar to checking accounts, with no fees attached and low or no minimum balances required, he said.

"That's the beauty of the credit union," Baker said, explaining that a few years ago when S&Ls were paying a higher rate of interest, members of the Amarillo Postal Credit Union kept their deposits in the credit union out of loyalty.

"We're a pretty close-knit group," Baker said of the

Accent on Health

Amid continuing controversy about the health threat of pesticide residues in apples, the Texas commissioner of Health has said that much of the information being offered the public has been, "at worst, misleading, and at best, incomplete."

Dr. Robert Bernstein has said that the strictly regulated use of Alar (chemical name, daminozide), until its federally scheduled discontinuance on July 31, 1990, should pose only "negligible risk" to consumers.

"I want to make it clear that the Texas Department of Health (TDH), as always, is deeply concerned about Texans' consumption of possibly hazardous food products. However, in view of all the evidence TDH has amassed, it appears that the public threat of Alar has been greatly exaggerated," Dr. Bernstein said.

Dr. Bernstein explained that much of the debate which led to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) 1990 ban on Alar use on apples was spurred by public response to a report by the Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC). In the report, the council stated that 90 percent of the pesticide attributable cancer risk to children could be traced to Alar and one of its chemical constituents, UDMH. The report calculated risk levels 100 times higher than did a similar, but more thorough, EPA study.

"First of all, the NRDC calculations were based upon very rough estimates drawn from tests on animals," Dr. Bernstein said. "And second, the report's estimates of Alar's potency as a cancer cause were rejected by an independent scientific advisory panel as long ago as 1985.

"To be fair to the NRDC, I want to say that even though we feel its report was scientifically flawed, we agree with the council's general recommendations on how to improve food safety," Dr. Bernstein said.

The commissioner added, however, that he also agrees with the EPA's definition of "negligible risk." The term means that, while it may be impossible for anyone to avoid all risk of cancer from a given dietary source, any additive to a food source is unacceptable if it poses a risk of cancer for more than one additional person per million persons exposed.

Dr. Bernstein further noted that reports show usage of Alar in the apple industry has dropped from 40 percent of apple crops in 1985 to about five percent today. A recent EPA test showed that less than two percent of apples contained detectable amounts of the chemical, none of which approached EPA tolerance levels of 20 parts per million. Therefore, the present risk to the public from consuming apples is considerable less than one cancer instance per million, and is dropping rapidly.

Membership drive underway

The Hereford Community Concert Association is still conducting its annual membership drive which concludes Friday.

The CCA is offering the public the opportunity to see four live, professional concerts at the lowest possible cost to the membership.

Membership dues are priced at $15 for adults; $7.50 for students; and $40 for a family.

Memberships are offered only during the campaign. They may be purchased at CCA campaign headquarters located at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office, 701 N. Main St. Office hours are 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The four performances scheduled during the concert season include "A Broadway Celebration", "The Dallas Brass", "The Lincoln Mayorga" and "Carroll McLaughlin and Bill Marx."

For further information, call Ann Meyer, CCA membership drive chairman, at the C of C office, 364-3333.

The most critical rule on starting solid food, according to baby feeding experts at Beech-Nut Nutrition Corp., is to start with single foods, not combinations or mixtures. Starting with a single food lets you check the baby's reaction and find out exactly which foods agree with your baby.

Andrea Borden sang "Grandpa" as her talent entry during Saturday night's Miss Hereford Scholarship Pageant held in Hereford High School auditorium. The 13 contestants displayed talents ranging from humorous skits, a magic act, twirling, singing, and dancing, to playing such instruments as the violin and piano. At the pageant's climax, Wendy Connally was crowned the 1989 Miss Hereford while Jill West and Brenna Reinauer were named first- and second-runners up, respectively.

Man Caught With Classified Information

Claims information regularly published

Neighbors today were surprised to learn Melvin Kline, a seemingly quiet, well-mannered man was making extra money with classified information. When questioned earlier this morning, Kline professed surprise that everyone wasn't using the classified section to earn extra income and get rid of unwanted items. "It's common," he said. Recent studies tend to bear Kline out. Consumer Data Service reported that over 85% of the public read the newspaper and over 80% of those read the classifieds. Kline claimed widespread use was being made of the classified information. "But you have to act quickly," he remarked. "If I have something to sell, I can be in the paper by tomorrow. I do that a lot now," he confessed. "With classified, whether I'm buying or selling, I can reach a large market instantly. And it's easy... just pick up the phone."

When asked if price mattered at all, Kline stated he was in possession of Consumer Data Service documents that indicated newspaper readership increases as income increases. "The more money they make, the more they read the paper," he said, "and I can prove it."

Asked for a last comment, Kline replied "No matter what you're looking for, a new job, a great car, merchandise, or even a home, take a long look at the classified section."

Local confesses he profited from classified information in newspaper

"Sure, I've made some money from classified information, but so can anyone who reads the paper."

The information's all there." Response Analysis Corp. studies indicate the public does exactly that, with 98% preferring the newspaper over radio and 68% preferring the newspaper instead of TV.

Kline was last seen in the company of an unidentified man carrying two outboard motors.

Consumer Groups Storm Local Grocery Stores!

Stores point finger at newspaper

Today saw one of the largest consumer responses of the week to offers made by local grocery stores for discounted prices. Across the city, shoppers were redeeming coupons cut from the local paper in record numbers.

"We know any offer we make will be highlighted most by the newspaper," commented a grocery store spokesman. "Our goal is simply to inform the consumers that these discounts are available. We are confident they will respond if they see it in the paper." His statement was backed by recent Consumer Data Service reports that indicated grocery store ads triple volume on discounted items and double volume on regularly priced items. It also revealed grocery ads are read by well over 70% of newspaper readers.

Grocery store representatives unanimously agreed that newspaper advertising was the only way to get immediate consumer response. One grocer remarked, "Most people read the paper, and a bunch of those readers clip our coupons. It's that simple." His comments reflect the well-known Manufacturer's Coupon Center report which stated that over 80% of all families use coupons.

"When consumers want more for their money, they always go to the newspaper," a grocery official said. When pressed by reporters for the best offer he could make for the consumers he replied, "Look in the paper, it's all right there. Green leaf lettuce, two heads for 79¢... with a coupon of course."
