Buchanan gets Bush's goat again

By JOHN KING
AP Political Writer

President Bush is seeking peace with Republican voters after a three-state primary sweep that still stung of protests. Democrats had almost as many winners as primaries, but set the stage for a feisty battle over economics between Paul Tsongas and Bill Clinton.

Tuesday's coast-to-coast balloting spread victories among four of the five Democratic candidates, a week before the 11-contest Super Tuesday battle for 783 convention delegates.

Former California Gov. Jerry Brown squeaked out a remarkable win in Colorado, qualifying his low-budget campaign for federal matching funds.

Iowa Sen. Tom Harkin won Idaho's tiny caucuses and led a sampling of Minnesota caucus precincts. That put him in the winner's circle, but didn't give him the significant breakthrough his struggling campaign needed.

Nebraska Sen. Bob Kerrey came away winless.

GOP challenger Patrick Buchanan technically didn't win either, but also heard no reason from voters to end his conservative rebellion. Bush won in Georgia, Maryland and Colorado, but Buchanan scored 36 percent in Georgia and 30 percent in the others, signaling continued unrest in the Republican ranks.

"We have done it again," Buchanan said. "I think King George is getting the message."

The president confirmed as much, beginning the day by apologizing for breaking his 1988 no-new-taxes pledge and ending it by pleading for party peace.

Tsongas, the former Massachusetts senator, won convincingly in Maryland and Utah, and in a random sampling of Washington caucus precincts.

Clinton, the Arkansas governor, picked up his first primary win in Georgia and looked ahead to the nine Southern contests in the next week.

Clinton shaped the contest as a two-man race. "Next Tuesday, you will have a clear choice now between two Democrats," he told a Miami rally. He called his Georgia victory with 57 percent one "of rather staggering proportions."

Clinton portrayed Tsongas as an advocate of retooled Reaganomics because of his support for a capital gains tax break, relaxation of antitrust laws and looser corporate reporting guidelines.

Tsongas saw it otherwise. "We can appeal to Democrats, Independents and thoughtful Republicans," he said.

Tsongas had been expected to win Colorado. But Brown, who spent much of last week in the Rocky Mountain state hammering away on environmental themes, eked out a narrow win, with Clinton and Tsongas just behind.

"This is a race between the tortoise and hare," Brown said. "We're not the rabbit jumping out in front. We're the tortoise moving slowly, building each week a larger base of small voters and committed supporters all over this country."

The volatile results were the latest grambings from a dissatisfied electorate. Exit polls showed high anxiety over the economy and Bush's economic stewardship. Four in 10 Democratic voters said they wished they had another choice; 80 percent of Buchanan's Maryland voters said they would defect and vote Democratic in the fall—a forboding sign to the White House.

For Democrats and Republicans alike, the crowded calendar now turns South, including high stakes and high cost contests in the giant states of Texas and Florida.

Bush was heading to Florida today, and Clinton already was there to campaign before moving on to South Carolina, which holds its primary Saturday.

Tuesday's results suggested both nominating contests would drag on longer than each party had hoped.

"This is going to be a long haul," predicted Tsongas, who looked forward to home-region contests in Massachusetts and Rhode Island on the Southern-dominated Super Tuesday.

The numbers were bleakest for Kerrey.

The Nebraskan failed to gain one delegate Tuesday, but vowed to press on.

Juniors open bee Thursday

The Deaf Smith County Spelling Bee gets underway Thursday as fourth and fifth graders compete for the junior bee championship. The bee starts at 3 p.m. at Deaf Smith County Library.

The winner of the junior division will be eligible to compete for the county title Friday, joining sixth through eighth-grade contestants in the spell-off beginning at 3 p.m. Prizes will be awarded the winner and runnerup in each division, said O.G. Nieman, county bee director.

Anna Witkowski, last year's county champion will be back as a seventh grader to defend her title. Jantzen Louder, last year's junior winner, will also be competing for the county title.

Thursday's junior bee contestants include: Cindy Bedolla, Shannon Walker, Jessica Martinez and Tiffani Cabezuella of Bluebonnet school; Jonathan Montgomery, Cinda Rico, Jessica Mejia and Kitt Wimberley of Shirley school; Jennifer Palacios, Lisa Conway, Tan Nguyen and Robin Bell of West Central; Shannon Revell of St. Anthony's Catholic School; Carey Lyles of Nazarene Christian Academy, Brit Hall of Community Christian School; and Amy Perrin of Walcott School.

The junior bee champion will receive a $50 savings bond from First National Bank, and the runnerup will receive a $25 award from West Texas Rural Telephone Cooperative.

The winner of the county championship Friday will advance to the Regional Bee, sponsored by the Amarillo Globe-News and West Texas State University.

Richards applauds AG action

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards says the felony indictment of a nursing home corporation in the deaths of two patients puts teeth into state efforts to ensure patient safety.

"The governor talking about it is not enough," Richards said Tuesday, the day after Attorney General Dan Morales announced indictments against a corporation and individuals.

"I cannot applaud Dan Morales enough for what he is doing ... It says this is not just talk, this is not just rhetoric but now we're getting serious," she said.

Morales on Monday announced indictments against Texas Health Enterprises, Inc. of Denton. The corporation owns the Amarillo nursing home where the two patients were under care.

Texas Health Enterprises is the third-largest nursing home corporation in the state, and the ninth-largest in the nation, Morales said. The corporation also operates homes in Iowa, Oklahoma, Michigan and New Mexico.

Morales said the action marked the first time the state has indicted a major nursing home corporation under a law against injury to elderly people and invalids. The attorney general's office said the law was strengthened in 1989 to make it easier to bring such charges, by adding the word invalid.

One indictment against the company alleged injury to an invalid; one, injury to an elderly person; and 13 that the corporation tampered with a government document, the attorney general's office said.

The attorney general alleges that corporate officers falsified and fabricated records related to in-service training of nursing home employees.

The company said in a statement that it expected to be exonerated, along with its employees.

Lawyers argue workers' comp law

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - State and labor lawyers once again have squared off over the fairness of the Texas workers' compensation law.

Now, it's a waiting game until the 4th Court of Appeals rules on the constitutionality of the law that a Maverick County judge declared unconstitutional last year.

"I think the trial judge was lured into crossing that line and making himself a super-legislator," said attorney Shannon Ratliff of the group Texas Association of Compensation Consumers, which backs the new law.

Ratliff said state District Judge Rey Perez was wrong in declaring the law unconstitutional.

But plaintiffs' attorneys who filed a lawsuit challenging the law argued Tuesday in support of the May 1991 ruling by Perez of Eagle Pass. The attorneys contend the law lowers disability benefits for many injured workers and restricts employees' access to jury trials.

The appellate court is not expected to rule for several weeks.

Much of the questioning by the seven-member panel revolved around jury trial access, and whether that access is a "fundamental" right under the Texas Constitution.

"A right to a trial by jury, do you consider it to be fundamental or non-fundamental?" Justice Alfonso Chapa asked one lawyer, then repeated the question throughout the hearing.

Ratliff said the new law may not be perfect, but he said legislators created a good law that provides for equality in workers' compensation disputes around the state.

"I think they have seriously tried to take care of the injured worker," Ratliff said. "The system is working."

The Texas Legislature passed the business-backed workers' compensation reform bill after two special sessions in 1989. Then Gov. Bill Clements signed the measure into law, and it took effect Jan. 1, 1991.

The new system relies more heavily on an administrative process to determine benefits.

Under the old system, businesses complained of high workers' comp insurance rates and blamed those rates on the cost of litigating disputes in court. But labor groups and attorneys for injured workers blamed the high premiums on unsafe businesses and greedy insurance companies.

Despite Perez's ruling in trial court, the new system remained in place during appeal because the judge did not issue an injunction preventing it from operating.

Assistant Attorney General Joe Pitner argued Tuesday the plaintiffs in the case—several workers and the Texas AFL-CIO—had no standing to pursue the suit. Pitner also said the new law generally provides more money to injured workers more quickly than the previous system.

"The new law is a vast improvement over the old law," he said. Under questioning by Chapa, Pitner said a common law jury trial is not a fundamental right if an employee waives that right in order to be covered by a workers' comp system providing for an administrative and appellate dispute process.

Bill Whitehurst, an attorney for the Texas AFL-CIO, said the right to a jury trial is a fundamental constitutional right.

He attacked the new system for relying on the American Medical Association Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment in a "rigid and mechanical system based on impairment" that he says does not take into account a person's age, training and the job market.

He also said the Legislature did not seek AMA advice on how to use the guides and said the guides no longer are in print.

Ratliff, though, cited trial testimony from experts who said the guides were being used properly and said the guides are readily available. Whitehurst also said the new law reduces attorney involvement for workers, but not for employers or insurance companies.

"This act has shut down the plaintiffs' workers' compensation system in this state," he said. "It is literally shut down."

"I think the trial judge was lured into crossing that line and making himself a super-legislator," said attorney Shannon Ratliff of the group Texas Association of Compensation Consumers, which backs the new law. Ratliff said state District Judge Rey Perez was wrong in declaring the law unconstitutional. But plaintiffs' attorneys who filed a lawsuit challenging the law argued Tuesday in support of the May 1991 ruling by Perez of Eagle Pass. The attorneys contend the law lowers disability benefits for many injured workers and restricts employees' access to jury trials.

News Digest

World/National

ACROSS THE USA - Democrats had almost as many winners Tuesday night as there were primaries and caucuses, propelling a muddled field into the all-important Super Tuesday contests. President Bush lost one-in-three primary votes to a persistent Pat Buchanan.

WASHINGTON - The exit polls explain how there could be four winners and no gold medal. Black turnout was small but concentrated in Bill Clinton's favor. High-income voters' turnout was big and gave Paul Tsongas a lift. Young people and environmentalists gave Jerry Brown's campaign a Rocky Mountain high. President Bush's support was widespread but cratered with disaffection.

WASHINGTON - Outnumbered Republicans are urging quick Senate passage of a Democratic tax cut for the middle class so President Bush can veto it and clear the way for a compromise more to his liking.

UNITED NATIONS - The Bush administration is urging the United Nations to seize billions of dollars in frozen Iraqi assets if Baghdad continues to defy cease-fire terms that mandate the destruction of its unconventional weapons.

NEW YORK - Like a hands-on corporate manager, John Gotti was there, in person, to oversee the hostile takeover that prosecutors say lifted him to the top of organized crime in America, according to testimony at his trial.

NEW ORLEANS - Hundreds of thousands of merrymakers closed out Mardi Gras with the traditional burst of debauchery in the French Quarter - the final note in a Carnival season marked by bitterness over an anti-bias law.

AGDAM, Azerbaijan - Police say they have recovered the bodies of 120 Azerbaijanis killed as they fled an Armenian assault in Nagorno-Karabak, and commonwealth military forces halt their pullout from the disputed region after being attacked by Armenian guerrillas.

WASHINGTON - Boris N. Yeltsin is returning to Washington for a mid-June summit with President Bush but the election-year timing makes it unlikely he'll get major financial help for Russia's faltering economy.

Texas

AUSTIN - Televangelist Robert Tilton today is expected to continue his fight to keep state officials from reviewing financial records of his Word of Faith Outreach Center Church.

DALLAS - Thousands tune in daily to the Rev. Robert Tilton for advice on matters spiritual and material. Sometimes, however, the sermon's message gets a bit muddled. Even so, Tilton's energetic style makes up for the lack of biblical teachings. There's even a Tonight Show-quality orchestra and a church that looks more like Caesar's Palace than a sanctuary.

AUSTIN - Gov. Ann Richards says the felony indictment of a nursing home corporation in the deaths of two patients puts teeth into state efforts to ensure patient safety.

DALLAS - They are huge and expensive and rich in delegates - politically critical. And they wouldn't have it any other way. Texas and Florida, the never-bashful bookends of the South, now assume center stage for Super Tuesday.

DALLAS - Union leaders say the 5,000 bus drivers who have been on strike for two years against Greyhound Lines Inc. can go back to work even though the strike will technically continue.

CORPUS CHRISTI - A vigorous South Texas measles outbreak is probably more extensive than reports indicate, but health officials believe they are finally getting it under control.

SEGUIN - A retired postal worker has been awarded $120,000 in damages in a lawsuit he filed against a doctor who left a surgical instrument inside the man after an operation.

ROBERT TILTON

Televangelist's church features glitz, glamour and big TV ratings

DALLAS (AP) - Backed by a "Tonight Show" quality orchestra and a Caesar's Palace-like stage - or pulpit - complete with Romanesque columns on each side, Sunday morning at the Word of Faith World Outreach Center has the look and feel of a frenetic Las Vegas show.

The Rev. Robert Tilton takes center stage, along with a 60-plus member choir, featured songleaders and assistant pastor the Rev. Don Clowers.

For the first hour and a half during a Sunday service in late February, musicians, singers and two video testimonials from church members dominated the service.

By the time Tilton took over, the tithes - collected in wastebasket-size paper buckets - were in. Then, the "name-it-and-claim-it" style sermon began.

Tilton, who has refused to give interviews and often speaks only through his lawyer, J.C. Joyce of Tulsa, Okla., is a tall man with an ever-present grin and graying hair.

Though the point of his sermon isn't always clear, the audience generally responds approvingly with applause and "Amen."

He peppers his message with such rambling statements as: "When someone tries your faith in a court, first of all it's something you cannot see, but it can produce evidence what you can see."

"...A person that doesn't have faith cannot see what you say you saw. Something like that."

Both Tilton and his wife, Martha "Marte" Tilton, are expected to appear in federal court in Austin Wednesday to ask a judge to extend a restraining order against the state. The order, if granted, would continue to bar the state attorney general's office from access to the financial records belonging to the couple's ministry in the Dallas suburb of Farmers Branch.

The state is investigating the ministry for possible fraudulent fund-raising practices.

For the first hour and a half during a Sunday service in late February, musicians, singers and two video testimonials from church members dominated the service.

"...A person that doesn't have faith cannot see what you say you saw. Something like that."

According to the television ratings service Arbitron, Tilton's "Success-N-Life" - the companion program to Tilton's "Sunday Morning Live" television show - is seen in about 200,000 households daily nationwide. The show is carried by 115 stations in 93 markets across the country.

It features testimonials of those who say Tilton's ministry changed their lives and asks viewers for contributions.

Within the last year, the "Success-N-Life" household share has increased 53 percent and Tilton is rated 12th among the top 20 syndicated religious shows, according to Arbitron.

Tilton's message is not much different from other TV ministries. He, like other televangelists, suggests to the faithful that their requests and prayers will be answered.

Tilton's practice of encouraging viewers to make "vows of faith" and promising that God will give them wealth in return first came under national scrutiny after he was featured in a segment on ABC's "PrimeTime Live."

On Wednesday, several church members are expected to show their support for Tilton and his wife when they appear in court.

The sprawling Word of Faith Church was built in the late 1970s. Ushers sporting red blazers greet churchgoers and guide them to cushioned folding seats.

One of the church's two entrances forces the visitor to walk through a Book Center featuring wall-to-wall videos, books and religious tracts that members can check out without charge. Donations are accepted.

Tilton's lawyer denies newspaper reports that the church receives $100 million annually. He declined to say how much the church receives in donations from the 8,000-member congregation.

Tilton's church and related companies are titleholders on 16 pieces of property in Farmers Branch worth a total assessed value of $15,503,710, city records show.

Kreig clarifies statement

Marian Kreig, one of two persons attending the Hereford City Commission meeting Monday night to discuss the city budget, reports she was misquoted on part of a statement she read.

Mrs. Kreig complained that the city was spending money on the golf course that could be better used in other departments. She called the golf course and park improvements "pleasures" that are not as needed as other city services.

She was then quoted as saying, "As a non-golfer, I do not wish to pay for the golf course." This statement was incorrect, Mrs. Kreig said today. "What I said was: As a non-golfer, I do not wish to pay for any additional pleasures for such a few."

Mrs. Kreig said she realized that the golf course is city owned and must be funded, but added that she believes golfers could pay another dollar or two on fees, thus allowing that saving to be used in other city departments.

Mardi Gras closes with bitterness

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Hundreds of thousands of merrymakers closed out Mardi Gras with the traditional burst of debauchery in the French Quarter - the final note in a Carnival season marked by bitterness over an anti-bias law.

The dispute over the ordinance, which could force elite, century-old parade clubs to integrate and admit women, seemed far from the minds of revelers who jammed the city for Fat Tuesday, the day before Ash Wednesday and the start of Lent.

"Unity, baby, Unity. They'll get it together," New Orleans-born Lillian Davis said as she watched the parade of the mostly black, all-male Zulu Social Aid and Pleasure Club.

At 12:01 a.m. today, police on horseback moved through the French Quarter to send the revelers on their way.

The anti-bias law, scheduled to take effect next year, bitterly divided city leaders and raised fears of racial violence during the celebration. But no major problems were reported along Tuesday's parade routes, and arrests for the Carnival season appeared to be down, said Lt. Sam Fradella, a police spokesman.

Two women were found dead Tuesday morning, but police did not know whether the apparent slayings were related to Mardi Gras. The bodies were found in separate areas downtown. Neither victim was immediately identified.

Fire Chief William McCrossen said the crowd was at least as big as in past seasons, when the unofficial tally was well over 1 million. The city will weigh the huge piles of trash left behind to gauge just how successful the party was.

Harmony was the order of the day as Mayor Sidney Barthelemy, who is black, delivered the traditional toast to Rex, the King of Carnival.

In the French Quarter, hundreds of people, many in elaborate costumes and others barely dressed, walked up and down Bourbon Street. Hotel and restaurant balconies filled fast for the yearly ritual - men encouraging women to bare their breasts, rewarding those who do with strands of colorful plastic beads.

There were reminders of the controversy. A balcony was draped in black and hung with a sign that read, "Thank You For Killing Mardi Gras, Dorothy Mae Taylor." Ms. Taylor is a city councilwoman and author of the new law.

In protest of the law, two all-male, all-white clubs canceled their parades, including the 135-year-old Mistick Krewe of Comus, which traditionally holds the final procession on Tuesday.

And Rex toasted his queen in front of a hotel rather than at the exclusive Boston Club because club members refused to play host to the ceremony in protest.

The law would deny parade permits to clubs, or krewes, that exclude people because of race, gender, religion, nationality or sexual orientation. It is especially irksome to secretive old-line krewes with invitation-only memberships reserved for men from the city's oldest families.

Two independent polls taken in January showed a vast majority of whites and a smaller majority of blacks opposed the ordinance.

Hearing held in Austin court

AUSTIN (AP) - Televangelist Robert Tilton today is expected to continue his fight to keep the state from obtaining financial records of his Word of Faith Outreach Center Church.

U.S. District Judge Sam Sparkes will hear arguments on whether to extend Tilton's temporary restraining order against Texas Attorney General Dan Morales.

That temporary order is hindering Morales' legal team from investigating allegations of fraud against the Farmers Branch-based church, located north of Dallas.

A preliminary injunction today could further bar the state from the records investigators want.

Tilton's attorney, J.C. Joyce of Tulsa, Okla., Tuesday said Morales' pursuit of the records is nothing more than harassment of a religious organization.

"It's not a business to start with," said Joyce. "It's just a church."

Both Tilton and his wife, Martha "Marte" Tilton, are expected to appear at today's hearing. Joyce said some church members are chartering buses, to Austin to attend the hearing as a sign of support.

Sparkes granted Tilton the temporary restraining order Feb. 7 after Morales ordered Word of Faith to produce 55 types of financial, marketing and administrative records.

The matter stems from a probe Morales launched last year to learn whether the church has violated charitable practices and committed fraud in its fund-raising activities.

The U.S. Postal Service, the FBI and the Internal Revenue Service also are investigating Tilton's ministry.

In response to a civil suit filed in Austin last month by prosecutors wanting access to the records, Tilton's attorney filed a federal lawsuit contending harassment and violation of the First Amendment.

Joyce said he is suing the attorney general's office in federal court because of the constitutional issues involved.

Tilton, whose office has referred all questions to Joyce, said Feb. 22 that his lawsuit was an effort to counter accusations of deceptive trade practices.

Help reduce diabetes by eating properly

COLLEGE STATION -- Practicing sound eating habits is important for all Americans, but research suggests good nutrition is especially vital to blacks when it comes to diabetes.

Black Americans have one of the highest rates of non-insulin dependent diabetes--60 percent higher than Anglo Americans, according to the American Diabetes Association.

"While celebrating Black History Month this February, black Americans may want to make it a point to get a checkup to determine if they're diabetic," said Dr. Mary Kinney Bielamowicz, nutritionist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Diet has always been important in diabetes management, but new research has shown that specific foods can significantly influence long-term diabetes care," she said. "Fiber-rich foods like whole grains, legumes and vegetables are good choices because they tend to reduce blood sugar and blood-fat levels."

These foods also are believed to be effective against heart disease and kidney disease that can result from diabetes if left untreated. Blindness, limb amputations and even death also can occur from diabetes complications.

Latest statistics from the Centers of Disease Control show that about 14 million Americans--more than 800,000 Texans--have diabetes, and half of them have not been diagnosed. Each year more than 700,000 diabetes cases are diagnosed nationally, and at least 150,000 persons die because of the disease and its complications.

Studies show that one in four black males between the ages of 65 and 74 has diabetes, and one out of every four black women over 55 is stricken with the disease.

Researchers believe that the high incidence of this disease in certain populations, which includes Hispanics and American Indians, may be rooted in genetics as well as ethnic dietary habits and environment.

According to Bielamowicz, national studies found that diabetes is prevalent among blacks because of these reasons:

-Obesity, one of the risk factors for diabetes

-Hypertension, another risk factor for diabetes, also has a high incidence among blacks.

-High cholesterol and low-fiber diets are more common among blacks than whites.

-Medical care is not sought by blacks as often as it is by whites. Also, blacks are less likely to ask to be tested for diabetes when they do visit a physician.

Diabetes symptoms are blurred vision, excessive tiredness, weight gain or loss and wounds or scratches that don't heal, Bielamowicz said. Even if symptoms do not exist, physicians recommend that high-risk individuals get a blood glucose test at least once a year and follow up with appropriate medical care.

"In most cases, symptoms can be controlled by weight loss, good diet and exercise," she said. "Carrying around extra weight can lead to a host of difficulties--it's a drain on energy and can cause heart and lung problems."

About 90 percent of the people with diabetes develop the non-insulin dependent type in adulthood (after age 23) where the body is unable to properly use some of the insulin produced by the pancreas, which causes glucose to build up in the blood. In insulin-dependent diabetics, the pancreas either stops or does not produce enough insulin to meet the body's needs.

Since the body produces glucose from the foods consumed, eating right is the first step in controlling diabetes, Bielamowicz said. Cutting down on fat, salt and sugar is important.

Because the majority of people with non-insulin diabetes are overweight, most are advised to lose extra pounds, Bielamowicz said. Even slight weight losses have dramatically improved blood-glucose levels by helping the body use its own insulin more efficiently.

"Whether you have insulin-dependent or non-insulin-dependent diabetes," Bielamowicz said, "contact your doctor for a referral to a dietician who can help design a meal plan that will match your eating habits to your diabetes management goals."

PARIS (..) - The French press is ridiculing Culture Minister Jack Lang for honoring Sylvester Stallone for excellence in the arts.

The "Rambo" and "Rocky" star was named an officer of the Order of Arts and Letters on Feb. 21, becoming one of four Americans to win the honor this year. The others are Warren Beatty and directors Martin Scorsese and Oliver Stone.

The satirical weekly Le Canard Enchaîné ran a cartoon showing Lang, waving some medals, clutched in the fist of a giant Rambo.

Bernard Pivot, a literary critic, described the award as ridiculous and said Stallone represents the worst of American cinema.

Girls' state tourney set to start

AUSTIN (AP) - Three top-ranked teams, and another with a perfect record, are among the 20 schools who will compete this weekend for the five vacant state high school girls basketball crowns.

All five champions will be new title-holders, as no defending champs earned spots in the 42nd annual tournament, sponsored by the University Interscholastic League.

Play begins Thursday with the Class A, 3A and 4A semifinals, while the 2A and 5A semis will be played Friday.

All five title games will be held Saturday. The three-day tournament will be played at the University of Texas' Frank Erwin Center.

Only five of last year's 20 semifinalists return. Notably absent are 1991 champions Amarillo Tascosa, Levelland, Tulia, Abernathy and Nazareth.

"I think we're beginning to see more parity throughout the state in girls basketball," said Duncanville coach Sandra Meadows, whose team joins Yoakum, Winnsboro, Marion and Georgetown as 1991 tournament teams returning.

"The turnover from last year is proof to me. Those teams not back are not just one shot in the pan state tournament teams. It speaks very well for girls basketball in Texas. I think it's going to be a great state tournament," Meadows said.

Duncanville, a four-time state champion, was atop the final Texas Association of Basketball Coaches poll at 37-1. Meadows' team plays 27-7 Plainview Friday at 7 p.m., the last semifinal game.

That winner will face either San Marcos, 28-4, or 29-6 Sugar Land Dulles in Saturday's final.

One of the toughest brackets is Class 4A, where all four teams are ranked among the top 10.

Kaufman, 27-7, is set to face 32-2 Georgetown at 7 p.m. Thursday. That game will be followed by 28-4 Westlake taking on 31-2 Canyon Randall, a four-year-old school.

Six-time Class 3A champion Canyon is a semifinalist again, but at 28-8 it has the worst record of the semifinalists. Canyon's Thursday afternoon opponent is 33-1 McGregor.

The other Class 3A semifinal pits No. 1 Winnsboro, 35-3, and 31-5 Yoakum. They are scheduled to tip off Thursday at 2 p.m.

Marion, ranked atop Class 2A at 34-2, faces 25-7 Dublin in Friday's second game. But first on the court will be Lovelady, 32-5, and 29-5 Panhandle.

In Class A, Claude, 33-2, knocked off 12-time champion Nazareth en route to its semifinal game against 32-4 Brock. Their 8:30 a.m. Thursday battle is the tournament's first game.

Other Class A semifinalists are 35-0 Celeste, the state's only undefeated team, facing 32-4 North Zulch.

Cycling club being started

A bicycling club is being started in Hereford, and the first meeting of the club will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at Northwest School. A ride will follow, weather permitting.

The aim of the club is to get people together for regular rides, Donny Henson said. People of all ages are welcome.

For more information, call Henson at 364-0787 or Gary Billingsley 364-3410.

WIBC meets Thursday

The Hereford division of the Women's International Bowling Congress will hold its annual meeting Thursday. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Reddy Room at SPS offices.

Herd freshmen whip Dalhart

Hereford's freshman baseball team beat Dalhart's junior varsity 13-6 Tuesday in Dalhart.

Gregg Kalka pitched all five innings of the darkness-shortened game. He allowed three earned runs, struck out 12 and walked two.

Hereford's offense scored three runs in the first and second innings and four in the third. The Herd was led by Jacob Lopez, who went 2-for-4 with two RBIs, and Michael Marquez, who scored three runs.

The only other sports event involving a Hereford team scheduled for Tuesday--a dual match between the Hereford tennis team and Palo Duro in Amarillo--was canceled because of Tuesday's rain.

Pampa advances to regionals

Pampa, the District 1-4A boys' Pampa (32-2) will meet Everman basketball champion, beat Brown- (29-6) at a time and site to be announced. Everman beat Andrews wood 86-59 Tuesday in Wichita Falls to move on the Region 1-4A finals. 58-51 Tuesday.

Thigpen to get work in spring

By The Associated Press

Bobby Thigpen has a new manager and a new pitching coach this spring. The Chicago White Sox reliever also has a new schedule.

Thigpen set a major league record with 57 saves in 1990, but slumped to 30 saves last season after getting limited work (10 innings in 10 games) in spring training.

"I'm not going to comment on what was done before, but he'll be stretched out, maybe four innings or more," manager Gene Lamont said. "He's going to pitch more than 10 innings."

That's fine with Thigpen. "I don't mind stretching it out," Thigpen said. "It might help. Last year, I threw a lot on the side. That was the thought, anyway. Maybe it wasn't enough. I'm not going to blame anybody."

Thigpen may have to share closing duties this season with Scott

Radinsky, who had eight saves in 15 opportunities last year.

"If Rad pitches the eighth, maybe he'll stay and pitch the ninth," Lamont said. "That's one luxury we have. If you've got two guys who can save games, if somebody gets hurt you don't have to go out and hunt for someone."

At Sarasota, Fla., pitcher Ben McDonald agreed to a one-year contract with the Baltimore Orioles for $355,000.

McDonald, the Orioles' first-round draft pick in 1989, is eligible for arbitration next year so he didn't want to get into a salary squabble this year.

"I'm going to arbitration after this year, so why worry about it?" said McDonald, who was 6-8 with a 4.84 ERA last season. "There wasn't any point. I just want to play baseball and not worry about all that."

At Clearwater, Fla., pitchers

Tommy Greene and Pat Combs, shortstop Kim Batiste and outfielder Ruben Amaro agreed to terms with the Philadelphia Phillies.

That leaves the team with seven unsigned players - pitchers Kyle Abbott, Jose DeJesus and Jason Grimsley; infielders Dave Hollins and Mickey Morandini; and outfielders Braulio Castillo and Julio Peguerc.

At Scottsdale, Ariz., Oakland manager Tony La Russa said Bob Welch will not pitch in an exhibition game for at least two weeks.

Welch, a 27-game winner two years ago and 12-13 last year, has been bothered by a tender left knee.

"He's scheduled to pitch live batting practice for the first time tomorrow," La Russa said Tuesday. "We want him to throw batting practice five or six times. He'll still have time to be ready for the season."

Franco focusing on defense

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. (AP) - Julio Franco, last season's American League batting champ, says the Texas Rangers won't be relying on hitting in the West division race.

"Defense and pitching will be the keys to this team," he said Tuesday. "We're working hard on our defense in spring training."

Franco's focus is on fielding. He has made 46 errors in three years.

"I know I can swing the bat," said Franco, who hit .341. "My defense needs to get better."

Franco believes new shortstop Dickie Thon will help.

"Last year we had three or four different shortstops and that made it hard," Franco said. "Each shortstop is different. You have to know how he likes the ball thrown to him and get your timing down. I'd like to work with one shortstop."

Franco is pacing himself through early workouts, because of a mild case of tendinitis that developed in his knees during the off-season, which he obviously spent doing lots of weightlifting.

"The knees are okay. I just ice them every day after practice. They're just a little sore sometimes."

Franco was to be examined Wednesday in Fort Lauderdale to determine if there's any damage to his knees.

The Rangers' exhibition opener is Friday in Bradenton against the Pirates. The World Champion Minnesota Twins visit Port Charlotte Saturday afternoon.

Former UT athlete Appleton dies

AUSTIN (AP) - Scott Appleton was remembered by his ex-roommate as a fierce competitor who had overcome his drug problems and "was real happy with his life and where he was going."

Appleton, a tri-captain of the Texas Longhorns' 1963 national champion team and the school's first Outland Trophy winner, died Monday night of heart failure. He was 50.

McWilliams, also a tri-captain of the 1963 squad, said he last saw Appleton at a ceremony honoring the 1961 Texas team during this past season. McWilliams said he had no idea Appleton was sick.

"That's kind of like Scott, he wasn't the type to talk about his problems. Every time I've seen him he's been real up. He came up to me four or five times to say 'Boy isn't this great,'" said McWilliams, now a UT associate athletic director who resigned as football coach after five seasons in December.

"I've got great memories about him. For three years there were probably not too many things we didn't do together. Every time you were around him, he always wanted to compete. It didn't matter if it was pitching quarters or flatfoot jumping, he just was a great competitor."

"Around the coaches, he was real quiet, but around the players he was real mischievous. He was always doing something to you," he said.

After his career, Appleton struggled with alcohol problems. But McWilliams said Appleton worked hard to overcome his troubles and, since becoming a minister, Appleton spent six years in the NFL with the Houston Oilers, San Diego Chargers and Oakland Raiders. But he is best remembered for his standout career at Texas from 1961-63.

In 1963, Appleton won the Outland Trophy, was an All-America tackle, and was the nation's lineman of the year.

As a prep player in his hometown of Brady, Appleton led his team to the state football finals three of his four years. As a senior in 1960, the team won the title.

In 1986, Appleton was enshrined in the Longhorn Hall of Honor.

Del Rio signs with Vikings

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Jack Del Rio's departure to Minnesota leaves the Dallas Cowboys with only one middle linebacker on the roster: one, like Del Rio, left unprotected by Plan B.

Del Rio, the Cowboys' leading tackler last season, signed Tuesday as a Plan B free agent with the Vikings. Former Cincinnati defensive end Skip McClendon also signed with Minnesota.

"Any time you lose a good player, it's going to have an effect," Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson told The Dallas Morning News. "Although I'm disappointed, that's part of Plan B. We knew the risk. I can understand him leaving."

Darrick Brownlow remains as sole middle linebacker for Dallas. But the Cowboys left Brownlow unprotected, gambling that the second-year player would stay put.

Strongside linebacker Ken Norton, who played some in the middle last summer, is currently without a contract.

Del Rio accepted a two-year deal from the Vikings worth $1.25 million. He received a $150,000 signing bonus and salaries of $500,000 in 1992 and $600,000 in 1993.

Rebels win what may be Tark's last game

LAS VEGAS (AP) - No book on Jerry Tarkanian can be closed.

If Tuesday night was his last game as a college basketball coach, "Tark The Shark" closed his career atop the record book.

The man who was synonymous with UNLV for the past 19 years has rescinded the resignation he submitted last summer, but he still accepted the gifts and honors bestowed on a man leaving the game when the sixth-ranked Runnin' Rebels beat Utah State 65-53.

The 18,000-seat Thomas & Mack Center became the site of an emotional farewell from a man who is the winningest coach ever by percentage, and for the school and city he brought to the highest level of college basketball.

"The ceremony was really beautiful," Tarkanian said of the 30-minute presentation which featured a 10-minute video recounting the highlights of the past 19 years. "I feel good. It was a beautiful ceremony because they included so many people. It was special to see the support from the fans and community."

Tarkanian, who has rarely been at a loss for words, especially in recent weeks when a battle with school president Robert Maxson escalated, had to walk away from the microphone as he addressed the crowd.

"I want to thank everybody for 19 wonderful years," he said before taking a sip of a drink. "I can't talk." He walked away as the cheers reached their highest level of the night. After his wife Lois spoke for a few minutes, Tarkanian returned to the microphone to thank his current and former coaching staff and players.

Tarkanian's lawyers won't allow him to talk of any possible action to get his job back, but Maxson has said it's a closed matter because the resignation was binding.

The claims and counterclaims between the pro-Maxson and pro-Tarkanian camps reached their zenith this week as the final drew near. The crowd was definitely on the side of Tarkanian.

Players, coaches and fans - even those on the famed "Gucci Row" at court-side - wore black and silver T-shirts with "Tark" across the front and "2" on the back. That's the number the school retired in Tarkanian's honor.

Many others in the stands and throughout the city wore shirts which had "Keep Tark" on one side and "Fire Maxson" on the other.

Tarkanian took the NCAA to the Supreme Court over due process in an investigation of his program, only to lose and eventually be penalized with sanctions that kept the Runnin' Rebels out of postseason play this year.

Tarkanian didn't address any of the controversy at a postgame news conference, but he did present an interesting idea when asked about his future plans.

"If I'm not coaching, I'll run for Board of Regents," he said, referring to the publicly elected body which runs the state university system.

UNLV finished its season with a 26-2 record, one which gave Tarkanian a 509-105 mark in his years there and a 625-122 record overall. He was second among active coaches to Dean Smith on the victory list and now stands 10th all-time.

The Runnin' Rebels finished with a perfect 18-0 Big West record with the win over Utah State (15-11, 9-8).

This year's team finished the season with a 21-game winning streak and the home streak reached 47 consecutive games.

UT running up scores for attention

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas coach Tom Penders admits he's been running up the score on his opponents lately, but he says he has a good reason.

"We've jumped way up in both polls. I wish it wasn't that way but we have to concern ourselves with that because the league doesn't get the respect it deserves," Penders said Tuesday.

Although still not among the AP Top 25, the Longhorns have moved much closer. After receiving only 10 votes two weeks ago, Texas got 50 points in this week's poll placing it 31st.

The Longhorns fell from Top 25 consideration before Christmas, but their late season attempt to bury their opponents may help them climb back into the poll.

With time running out for teams to jockey for position in the NCAA Tournament, Penders has kept his starters in until the game's final seconds, averaging 18.5 points more than their opponents in their last four games.

Texas, which has won its last eight games, is 20-9 overall and atop the Southwest Conference at 10-2. The Longhorns were the 26th team in the Nov. 24 poll, but plummeted in the following weeks.

Penders waited until the final 12 seconds against Baylor before clearing his bench. Texas subs also didn't shed their sweats until the final four seconds of a 22-point win over Texas Christian and the waning moments of a 20-point victory against Oral Roberts.

"Whatever they were trying to prove, I hope they accomplished it," Baylor's David Wesley said Saturday after Texas' 97-67 victory over the Bears.

The victory against Baylor was Texas' 20th - considered the mythical magic number for a tournament invitation. The Longhorns also could earn an automatic berth by winning the SWC postseason tournament next weekend.

So, it's not the bid Penders is concerned with as much as where Texas is placed in the bracket.

"It's become evident to me that margin of victory does count in seeding," he said.

But Penders also offers other reasons for keeping his starters on the floor late in the game.

After the Oral Roberts and Baylor games, he said he feared quick strikes by opposing offenses which he said both teams were capable of doing because neither emptied its bench.

Penders also wants his players to be comfortable with several different lineups. He often has called this year's team his deepest at Texas and wants to be able to use a variety of combinations in the postseason.

An alignment change was forced early in the season when star forward Dexter Cambridge was suspended by the NCAA for 16 games causing a big hole in the middle. Now, center Albert Burditt is hobbling, but not expected to miss any games.

Texas will get a chance to woo more votes with two network televised games this week. On Thursday, ESPN will broadcast the Longhorns' game against the Owls.

ABC is carrying Texas' regular season finale against Texas A&M, which should be a preview of the first round of the SWC postseason tournament.

Buckeyes exploit Michigan's youth

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - It took 31 seconds for Michigan to show that the Wolverines can still look like just a bunch of 19-year-olds.

The 18th-ranked Wolverines played fast and loose with the ball three consecutive times in the second half. Fifth-ranked Ohio State converted the turnovers into three baskets during a 10-0 run, leading to a 77-66 Big Ten victory on Tuesday night.

"I'll tell you, you'd better beat Michigan right now because they're going to be a great team," Ohio State coach Randy Ayers said.

In other top-25 games, it was No. 6 UNLV 65, Utah State 53 and No. 7 Arkansas 106, No. 23 Louisiana State 92 in overtime.

For all but those 31 seconds,

Michigan stayed right with the more-experienced Buckeyes. No one in the capacity crowd at St. John Arena would have guessed the Wolverines were first-year players after they forged a 36-32 lead at the half and were up 57-52 with 6:50 to play.

That's when things got nightmarish for Steve Fisher's team.

"We were holding our own until we had those three straight turnovers," the Michigan coach said. "That was the critical point of the game."

After Michigan pulled to 64-61 with 3:57 left, Chris Jent added the finishing touch with a 3-pointer that put the Buckeyes out of reach.

"The turning points were the three steals and Chris' 3-pointer," said Jim

Jackson, who had 25 points, 13 rebounds and six assists. "Those plays came from our defense."

Well, partly - for those 31 seconds, the Wolverines treated the ball as a foreign object.

Ohio State trailed 57-52 after Jimmy King's layup off an assist from Jalen Rose with 6:50 remaining that capped an 8-0 run. But Ohio State took the lead for good in part because of Michigan's generosity.

The victory moved Ohio State (20-5, 12-3) within a half-game of first-place Indiana, which visits Iowa tonight.

Chris Webber led Michigan (17-8, 8-7) with 17 points and 12 rebounds.

No. 7 Arkansas 106, No. 23 LSU 92 Lee Mayberry made a school-record nine 3-pointers and scored a career-high 35 points as Arkansas rallied from a 15-point halftime deficit to win a key Southeastern Conference game.

Mayberry scored 23 points in the second half, including a 3-pointer that tied it at 87 with 1:19 remaining and sent the game into overtime.

His two straight baskets in overtime got Arkansas (23-6, 12-3) off to a 93-87 lead. Todd Day added 27 points, including 19 in the second half, as the Razorbacks took a one-game lead over LSU in the SEC West.

Shaquille O'Neal, who had 11 points and seven rebounds in the first half for LSU (18-8, 11-4), finished with 21 points and 14 rebounds.

Top picks come through in clutch

By The Associated Press

Top picks make top plays. Just look at David Robinson and Danny Manning.

Robinson, the first pick in the 1987 NBA draft, made a layup with 1.4 seconds remaining Tuesday night, lifting the San Antonio Spurs over the Minnesota Timberwolves 103-102.

Manning, whom the Los Angeles Clippers selected first overall in 1988, found Ken Norman with a pinpoint pass to set up the winning basket in a 117-116 victory at Miami.

Robinson's basket saved San Antonio a major embarrassment. The two points were the Spurs' only points in the final 3:25 as they blew a 17-point lead before winning. The All-Star center had 25 points and 11 rebounds.

Thanks to a pass from Paul Pressey, Robinson got the ball with enough room to beat Thurl Bailey for the decisive basket.

"Paul made sure I got the ball in that situation," Robinson said. "Both he and Sean (Elliott) made good passes to get the ball into me, and I just laid it in."

The win was the fourth straight for the Spurs, who are 14-7 since Bob Bass took over as coach for Larry Brown. They held Minnesota's Tony Campbell, who played only 14 minutes, without a point. He is averaging 18.4.

Like Robinson, Manning made the clutch play. But his was an inbound pass to Norman for the big basket.

It was not all Manning contributed. He had 30 points, 12 in the fourth quarter.

Glen Rice had 30 points for the Heat.

Also on Tuesday, it was Utah 123, Golden State 101; Portland 105, the Los Angeles Lakers 101; Indiana 103, Chicago 101; Seattle 111, Denver 92; Phoenix 112, Houston 107 in overtime; Washington 106, Orlando 93; and New York 102, Dallas 83.

Jazz 123, Warriors 102

At Oakland, Karl Malone scored a season-high 44 points and Golden State had just 40 first-half points, a season low.

Malone also had 11 rebounds and went 12-for-12 from the free throw line. In one stretch, Malone scored 15 straight points.

Suns 112, Rockets 107, OT

At Phoenix, the Suns overcame 34 points, 15 rebounds and seven blocked shots by Hakeem Olajuwon. Tom Chambers scored seven of his 17 points in the first 3 1/2 minutes of overtime, and Jeff Hornacek's 3-pointer with one minute left clinched it.

Knicks 102, Mavericks 83

At New York, Patrick Ewing scored four points, his lowest output this season and more than 19 points below his average. Still, with Charles Oakley getting a season-high 17 and both Xavier McDaniel and John Starks scoring 18, the Knicks led all the way in handing the Mavericks their 15th consecutive road defeat.

Dallas' last road victory came on Dec. 23, 1991, at Houston.

Pacers 103, Bulls 101

The Pacers handed the Bulls just their fourth loss in 30 home games. Reggie Miller scored 23 points and Chuck Person added 22 as the Pacers overcame a 22-point deficit.

Tech women's coach gets 4-year contract

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Texas Tech women's basketball coach Marsha Sharp will have to wait to go shopping.

First, her No. 15 Lady Red Raiders (21-4, 11-1 in the Southwest Conference) will attempt to wrap up their first SWC regular season championship tonight at home against Texas A&M (15-11, 7-6).

Then Sharp can go out and spend some of her $75,000 salary, which was announced Tuesday as part of a new four-year contract for the winningest coach in Lady Raider history.

"We have got business to take care of against Texas A&M," said Sharp, who is in her 10th season as Tech's coach. "But hopefully after that, there may be a big shopping trip. We may clear some stores out."

Tech president Robert Lawless and athletic director T. Jones announced Sharp's new pact at a news conference. Lawless said Sharp, 39, has "no peer in terms of women's basketball coaches" because "she is the best coach in the country."

Preparing for event

Karnival Krazy, an annual event held at St. Anthony's School, has been scheduled in April. The sixth grade students in Beckie Fry's class have begun painting Christmas yard signs to be sold at the carnival. Putting the first coat of paint on one of the yard signs is, from left, Staci Betzen, and Tamara Diller.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have had herpes for about three years. I never slept around with a lot of women. I now know the importance of wearing a condom ALWAYS. Recently I told my girlfriend about it and she understands, but would like to know what chance she has of catching herpes. I have been told that if I wear a condom, she might not catch it. I told her until the sores go away, we won't do anything, and she agreed.

Can herpes be spread by touching with your hands? Is it only confined to your sex organs? Are people still looking for a cure? Please send us some information.

DEAR READER: Anyone who has herpes has an obligation to tell his or her sexual partner. It is wise to abstain from sex when sores are present. That is the time when the most viruses are present and it is most likely to transmit the disease. The viruses are in the blister formations.

But you are never free of the herpes virus. It rests dormant in nerves that supply the skin area, and when activated for any reason, multiplies and travels along the nerve fiber to the skin area. You can shed some viruses even when no sores are present. That is why you are correct in saying you should ALWAYS use a condom.

But there are other reasons why your girlfriend may not be at risk. The absence of a history of herpes or signs of herpes does not mean a person has not been infected. A high percentage of individuals have silent herpes simplex. It is sufficiently common that there is a fair chance that she could have been infected at some time earlier. In that case, she is already infected and cannot be infected again. The way to tell is to have an antibody test to see if there are antibodies to genital herpes. It is now possible to separate antibodies caused by genital herpes from antibodies to oral herpes.

I am sending you my new Special Report 116, Do You Have Herpes?, for more information. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/116, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

Herpes simplex is not always confined just to the lips or the genitals. It can involve the eyes and even the brain. It can involve the hands, most often a finger. If there is a break in the skin, the herpes virus may enter and cause a localized area of herpes simplex that can be confused with a bacterial infection.

Yes, the search for ways to prevent and cure herpes goes on. The key will probably be in learning how to kill viruses that are in the dormant stage to prevent recurrences.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am over 65 years old, and for the past two years I have been troubled with numbness in the two fingers next to my thumb of my left hand. My thumb is not affected. At times I get a stiffness in my left arm between my wrist and elbow. I get a tight feeling in my left shoulder when I raise my left arm over my head. I have gone to a doctor and was given very small pills that did not help me. What do you suggest?

DEAR READER: See a neurologist. Your story sounds like entrapment of nerves to your hand, as in carpal tunnel syndrome. Nerves to the hand are squeezed in the wrist area and cause such symptoms. This can also cause pain in the forearm or even into the shoulder. The speed of nerve impulses through the nerves can be measured to determine if they are compressed or not. One also needs to look for other areas of entrapment that can occur—in the neck or shoulder.

If it is the carpal tunnel entrapment, rest, splinting or even injections of corticosteroids may help. Otherwise a rather simple operative procedure can relieve the pressure.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Day of Prayer Friday

Gracie Shaw, Charlotte Patzold and Eloise McDougal, members of Church Women United, look over the agenda for Friday's World Day of Prayer Service at St. Anthony's Church. The informal service will be held from 12:15-12:45 p.m., and everyone in the community is invited to join in fasting and prayer.

World Day of Prayer is Friday

Church Women United will host fasting and prayer Friday in observance of the World Day of Prayer at St. Anthony's Church in Hereford.

All men and women in the community are invited to the informal service. The theme for the service is "Caring For All Creation."

Eloise McDougal of Hereford, a national leader in church Women

United, said 170 countries will be observing the 105th annual World Day of Prayer this year.

"We are challenged to make the necessary changes in our lives to restore and heal the resources of this planet," she said. Persons attending the service are asked to donate what they would have spent for lunch to CWU, who will use the funds gathered across the world Friday to help third-world countries.

Many travelers lose vacation time to illness

The World Health Organization estimates that 20 to 50 percent of international travelers will develop traveler's diarrhea (TD) while vacationing this year.

This intestinal infection is caused by bacteria, viruses or parasites in contaminated food or water. While it can occur at any time, it usually strikes within the first week of travel and lasts an average of three to four days.

More than 20 different germs can cause TD. But up to 70 percent of cases are associated with the bacteria Enterotoxigenic Escherichia coli.

There are three types of TD. Simple TD, accounting for more than 50 percent of cases, usually lasts a few days and often causes nausea, vomiting, abdominal cramps and low-grade fever.

More serious is dysentery. Symptoms are bloody diarrhea, high fever and severe abdominal pain. Chronic TD—the least common but most serious type of TD—is often associated with loss of appetite, fatigue, low fever, vague abdominal pain, bloating and nausea and may last several weeks. Both dysentery and chronic TD should be treated by a physician or infectious disease specialist.

The risk of developing TD often depends on the country visited, with increased incidence occurring in developing countries where sanitation is poor. According to the 1990 International Travel Health Guide, high-risk destinations include Mexico, the developing countries in Africa, South and Central America, the Middle East and Asia. Medium-risk areas are Southern Europe and the Caribbean islands. Northern Europe, North America, New Zealand and Japan are considered "safe" destinations.

Weather may also contribute to the risk of developing TD. When the rainy season begins in the tropics, for example, many lakes and rivers overflow, washing dried fecal matter into waste supplies.

How to Avoid

While travelers have no control over weather, they can take steps healthy:

- *Avoid foods likely to contain living bacteria, such as:
  - raw vegetables, raw meat, raw fish
  - tap water/ice
  - unpasteurized milk
  - dairy products
  - unpeeled fruit
- *Stick to hot or bottled beverages, such as:
  - soda
  - beer
  - wine
  - tea
  - boiled water
- *Use bottled water for brushing teeth
- *Try to prepare your own food; if you don't have access to a kitchen, eat in clean restaurants.

Treatment

Despite how careful a traveler may be, TD can still occur. To help recover, drinking enough "safe fluids" to avoid dehydration is important. Eating salted crackers, bouillon, soup, or rice water (cooked rice diluted with extra water and some added salt) may be effective. It's also advisable to eliminate caffeinated beverages, liquor and unpeeled fruit and vegetables from the diet.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a drunk driver. Late one night last September, a police officer saw me run two red lights. She pulled me over to the side of a busy street and arrested me for driving while intoxicated.

I had never been arrested before. I had never seen the inside of a lockup or been fingerprinted. I felt degraded and humiliated. It was awful. I could only think that this stupid policewoman had no business hassling a respectable person like me.

I am writing this letter to publicly thank her for possibly saving my life and preventing me from causing the injury or death of others.

In accordance with Connecticut law, my driver's license has been suspended for 90 days. I can't drive to work. I can't drive to do my marketing. I can't drive anywhere. And I can't stop thinking about all the other times I pulled up to my favorite bar, tanked up on premium beer and then became the self-designated driver from hell.

Many times I don't remember how I got home. I can't figure out why I was never arrested before. Some might say my luck finally ran out. Actually, my good fortune is just beginning. After several months of sobriety, I am thinking more clearly and acting more responsibly than I ever have in my entire life.

I'm taking it one day at a time. I now know that alcoholism is a powerful disease. Its deadliest symptom is denial. I had no idea I was an alcoholic. I thought I was simply a misunderstood guy who drank a little too much but not enough to get into trouble. Members of my family are still confused by my former behavior. Even though they saw me when I was loaded it never occurred to them that I had a serious problem.

Continuous recovery means I won't be drinking an alcoholic beverage for the rest of my life. The thought of never drinking again scares me, but the thought of EVER drinking again terrifies me. So I will continue to get help. I now have the strength and clarity of mind to ask for it.--Windsor, Conn.

DEAR WINDSOR: Thank you for a letter that may wake some people up. You didn't say, but I have an idea you found Alcoholics Anonymous. Good luck and God bless.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had a very special pen pal during Operation Desert Shield. We exchanged letters two and three times a week. In his last letter, he sent me $300 so I could come visit him when the war was over.

Unfortunately, he never wrote me after that. I think he must have lost my address. Can you help me find him?--Becky in Crystal Springs, Mass.

DEAR BECKY: It could be that your pen pal was married or possibly engaged and he sent the money to ease his guilt—or heaven forbid, he was killed in action. Whatever the reason, I hope you will put him out of your mind and get on with your life. It wasn't meant to be, dear.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The etiquette maven strikes again. In a recent column you said a divorced woman should have her mail addressed to "Mrs. Martha Jones." WRONG! She should be addressed by her maiden name plus married name, "Mrs. Smith Jones." "Mrs. Martha Jones" is NEVER correct. Just plain Martha Jones is permissible.--V.L., Chicago, Ill.

DEAR V.L.: According to Letitia Baldrige, the premier authority on etiquette in America and whose books are considered "gospel", a divorced woman should go by her first name and her ex-husband's last name as "Mrs. Martha Jones." Or, if she prefers, she can return to her maiden name. That should settle it.

New Arrivals

Cathy and Robert Chase are the parents of a daughter, Kelsie Morgan, born Feb. 21 at Amarillo's Northwest Texas Hospital. She weighed 7 lbs. 10 oz.

Grandparents are Janet Guthrie of Amarillo, Ronnie Chase of Borger and Leonard and Betty Bartels of Hereford. Great-grandparents are Lillian Guthrie of Amarillo and Frieda Bartels of Hereford.

Living will discussed by Jackson

Jerrye Jackson presented a program concerning the legal aspects of being a widow and the need for a living will when members of Cultural Extension Homemakers Club met Feb. 28 at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

Nell Pope offered a prayer and Naomi Hare led the pledges to the flags. For the opening exercise, Fannie Townsend read "What A Volunteer Is."

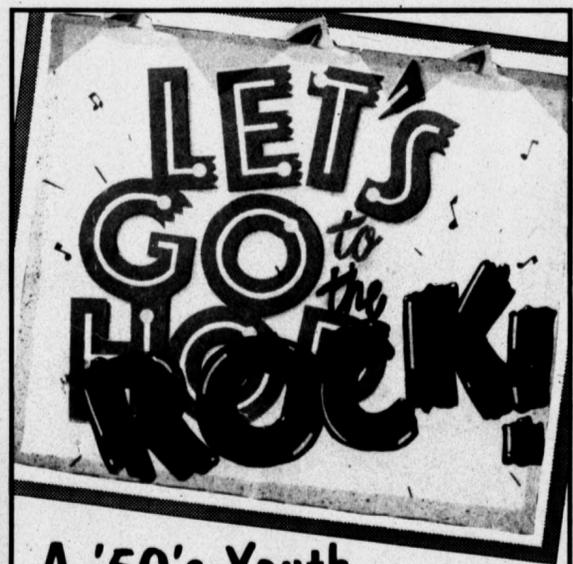

During the business meeting with President Perry Keyes presiding, Townsend read the minutes of the previous meeting which were approved. Byrdie Fellers gave the treasurer's report and communications were ready by Keyes and Townsend.

Townsend reported on the exhibits which were featured at the recent Annual Appreciation Luncheon. She also announced that Nikki Messer and Jeff Carlson won honors at the recent Houston Livestock Show.

Winnie Wiseman reported for the telephone committee. Vernis Parsons stated she had sent two cards for the cheer committee.

Jewel Hargrave, in the absence of council delegate Wilma Goettsch, gave the council report. She reminded members of the tickets that need to be sold for the upcoming quilt to be given away.

Members present were Parsons, Daisy Steele, S.T. Walton, Nell Pope, Hargrave, Fellers, Jewel Rogers, Wiseman, Hare, Edna Marrell, Keyes and Townsend.

Growing rhubarb discussed

Billee Johnson gave tips on raising rhubarb in the home garden when members of the Bud to Blossom Garden Club met recently at the Hereford Garden Center.
 Johnson explained that rhubarb should be planted in the fall using an abundance of fertilizer. The plant needs clay and sandy soil and has to freeze during the winter months. It can be planted thick and makes a good edging. It should not be picked the first year. Johnson also recommended that the plant be cooked with apples and strawberries. Rhubarb punch may be made when the plant is too stringy to eat.
 Roll call was answered with "vegetables I plant in my garden." Maria Escamilla presented the conservation series entitled "A Kitchen Garden in Containers."
 During the business session, club members made plans to attend the District I Spring Convention to be held in Lubbock.
 Johnson and Escamilla served refreshments to Phyllis Brown, Mildred Fuhrmann, Naomi Hare and Ursalee Jacobsen.
