

Peace Talks Failing

Reagan Recalls Habib

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today summoned home his special peace ambassador, Philip Habib, as reports circulated that Habib had failed in efforts to persuade Israel to withdraw its anti-aircraft missiles from eastern Lebanon.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said Habib would return Thursday and meet with Reagan "about the progress and future of his mission in the Mideast."

An administration source said that it was possible Habib would return to the Mideast in hopes of defusing the Lebanese crisis.

But in Tel Aviv, Israeli Radio, quoting a government source, said Habib told Prime Minister Menachem Begin to day that Saudi Arabia had failed in its efforts to persuade Syria to remove its missiles from the Bekaa valley in eastern Lebanon.

Speakes said Habib would meet with Reagan on Thursday or Friday. Habib's shuttle mission, which has taken him to the capitals of Lebanon, Syria, Israel and Saudi Arabia, began three weeks ago.

"The president believes this is an appropriate moment to receive first-hand Ambassador Habib's views and to discuss with him the future of his continuing mission," Speakes said in a statement.

But he said no timetable had been drawn for Habib's possible return to the Mideast.

The administration source said officials "are pleased that the ambassador has met with a measure of success in preventing the outbreak of hostilities in the Mideast."

"We believe good progress has been made and we are hopeful that the processes initiated will enable us to achieve the long-range solutions we are all seeking."

County Purchases Property

Courtroom Work Tabled

By BOB NIGH
Managing Editor
Despite a presentation of some 90 minutes by 22nd District Judge Wesley Gulley, Deaf Smith County Commissioners Tuesday tabled action on proposed modifications to the district courtroom until more detailed information can be obtained.

Judge Gulley is asking for remodeling to the courtroom due to various problems he contends are present there, most conspicuously noise.

In other matters, the court agreed to a modification of the county's CETA contract, agreed to pay for part of the cost of paving a parking lot for the tax appraisal district, purchased a piece of property, and amended the policy concerning the Bull Barn.

Judge Gulley spent some time before the commissioners, reporting problems with the courtroom. He indicated that noise interference greatly hampers the effectiveness of the court, citing wind noise, an ineffective sound system, and difficulty in hearing translated proceedings, as major problems.

In a nut shell the judge told the commissioners, "the goal is to improve the audio-comprehensive characteristics of the district courtroom in order to insure effective administration of justice by overcoming existing severe restrictions of the ability of people in the courtroom, be they parties to the proceedings, the judge, the jury, a witness, the attorneys, or spectators, to hear and understand what is being said and asked. The goal, simply stated, is for justice to be served by everybody in the courtroom being able to hear and understand the words spoken."

Other problems with the courtroom cited by Judge Gulley included "poor sight lines," "inadequate work area," and "security problems."

Deaf Smith County CETA coordinator Loretta Kindsfather presented the modifications to the CETA contract to the court. Ms. Kindsfather was accompanied by James Barrington of the Amarillo CETA office, who discussed the present program and what it holds for the future.

"The contract is being modified at this time to bring us back to total funding for the year," Ms. Kindsfather said. "It was also made in order to start our summer program June 1."

Deaf Smith County Tax Appraisal District Chief Ap

praiser Fred Fox got the okay from the commissioners for them to pay part of the cost of paving a parking lot for the district. Fox will check with school and city officials as well to see if they will contribute to the cost of the project.

The commissioners voted to purchase a piece of property near the courthouse for future use. The property in question is the Dick Walker sheet metal building, which is located across the street from the courthouse. At present R&R Refrigeration is housed

Jet Crash On Carrier Kills 14

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A radar-jamming jet crashed during a night landing on the flight deck of the USS Nimitz, killing 14 people and injuring 45, Navy officials said today.

The EA-6B Prowler, an electronic warfare jet, crashed into other aircraft and touched off a fire on the deck just before midnight Tuesday about 60 miles off the Jacksonville coast, said Lt. Cmdr. Ken Pease, a spokesman at the Navy's Norfolk, Va., Naval Station.

Although initial reports had said 10 crewmen had died, Pease confirmed that 14 perished in the accident and 45 suffered injuries.

The accident did not affect the 1,092-foot ship's nuclear propulsion system or the navigational ability of the world's largest warship, said Nick Young, a spokesman at the Jacksonville Naval Air Station.

Shipboard firefighters extinguished the blaze, Young said.

Shortly after 7 a.m. EDT, the Nimitz was still off the Jacksonville coast while the injured were being taken ashore, Pease said. He added that the carrier, accompanied by the destroyer USS Mooseburg, was to head back to its home port at Norfolk, and arrive sometime Wednesday.

The names and conditions of the victims were withheld until relatives could be notified, but Lt. Cmdr. Dale Knee said 10 victims brought to the Naval Regional Medical Center here were in "very serious" and "very critical" condition.

Most suffered second- and third-degree burns and some had lacerations and internal injuries, Knee said.

The injured crewman were treated first in the carrier's medical department and a number of them were transferred by helicopter to a medical station at the Navy's Jacksonville facility, Young added.

Navy officials weren't sure how seriously the carrier was damaged, but Young said initial reports indicated the one EA-6B and four F-14 aircraft were destroyed and three A-7 aircraft and one SH-3 helicopter sustained major

Gas Prices Won't Rise This Summer Thanks to Saudis

NEW YORK (AP) — Motorists taking to the road for summer vacations won't have to worry about higher prices at gasoline pumps and might find some bargains, thanks to the failure of the OPEC cartel to eliminate a market glut of oil, U.S. analysts say.

Price wars already have broken out in some areas, with competition especially intense throughout the Midwest.

Saudi Arabia once again turned out to be the motorists' friend. The Saudis refused Tuesday to increase their oil prices and forced other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to accept a price freeze for at least six months. The Saudis also declined to join 10 of the 12 other oil ministers in deciding to cut petroleum output by at least 10 percent, starting June 1, in an attempt to relieve the global oversupply. The excess supply is calculated at 2 million to 3 million barrels a day.

Iran and Iraq, whose exports are growing as their war stagnates, joined the Saudis in not agreeing to the reduction.

The Saudis, whose average daily oil production is 10.3 million barrels, have taken credit publicly for flooding the market with oil as a means of gaining price stability and stemming inflation in the United States and other Western countries where they have substantial investments. They also recognize their

Coleman Elected Treasurer

Bruce Coleman of Hereford has been elected treasurer of the Texas Council of Community MHMR Centers and will serve on the board's executive committee.

After being elected as a director, Coleman was elected as treasurer at the board's April 25 meeting in Austin.

A county commissioner of Deaf Smith County, Coleman is a longtime board member of the Amarillo MHMR Center and has served in various capacities since 1973.

He has held the offices of vice-chairman and secretary-treasurer, and was for three years the chairman of the board of trustees of the Amarillo center. Coleman has represented the Amarillo region as a delegate to three National Council conven-

Grand Jury Indicts 4 In Insurance Scheme

HOUSTON (AP) — A union official named with House Speaker Bill Clayton last year in the original Texas Brilab indictments has been indicted anew by a federal grand jury, along with two other labor officials and a businessman.

L.G. Moore, regional director of the International Union of Operating Engineers, and Houston Port Commissioner John Garrett were named Tuesday in one of two indictments.

Moore and Garrett each face one count of conspiracy and three of racketeering. They are accused of conspiring to influence the awarding of health insurance contracts to the city of Houston and a local union.

Named in a second indictment Tuesday were Sherman Fricks, business manager for Pipefitters Union Local 211 and a former secretary-treasurer of Texas AFL-CIO, and Harold Grubbs, education director for the local Pipefitters. Each faces one count of conspiracy and one of bribery.

Moore's case last year was separated from that of Clayton and two Austin lawyers who were named in the original Texas Brilab indictments.

The three other men were acquitted last October, but Moore has yet to come to trial.

As in that case, Tuesday's indictments centered on a fictitious California insurance consulting firm set up by FBI undercover agents. The agents and informant Joseph Hauser, a twice-convicted insurance swindler, made bribery offers to government officials introduced to them by labor leaders.

In the latest indictments, the defendants were accused of participating in a plot to get the union and the city to switch their health insurance policies from Republic National Life of Dallas to the Prudential Insurance Co.

The city did make that change, but records indicate the decision was not influenced by the alleged conspirators.

The Moore-Garrett indictment named two unidentified Louisiana residents as unindicted co-conspirators. The indictment says the two met in late 1979 and discussed "working a deal" in Houston through an unidentified city councilman.

The grand jurors said Moore later phoned an under-

Coal Industry Gets UMW Ultimatum

WASHINGTON (AP) — The soft coal industry is facing an ultimatum from the United Mine Workers president to offer a contract package acceptable to miners or face a walkout by union leaders that could prolong indefinitely the 2-month-old strike.

Protracted contract bargaining by the union and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association has thus far failed to resolve differences between labor and management.

With coal stockpiles dwindling, union president Sam Church issued his ultimatum Tuesday after a two-hour negotiating session in which the three-man BCOA team offered counter proposals to the contract demands the UMW made last month.

The UMW demands were shaped in strategy talks held after rank-and-file miners overwhelmingly rejected a tentative agreement in March.

Church planned to confer with his 39-member bargaining council again today and then face industry representatives in a noon showdown at the downtown Washington hotel where the two sides have been meeting since negotiations on a new contract opened formally Jan. 22.

New strike-related violence was reported Tuesday, when a non-union mine was fired on in Naugatuck, W.Va. Trucks and equipment were extensively damaged by gunfire during picketing by UMW members, but no injuries

Leave Him Alone!

This infant male antelope, estimated to be about one week old by local game Warden Chuck Cospser, was picked up by a well-intending family recently. Cospser cautions citizens about such a move due to a possible fine and to possible harm to the animal. The antelope was taken by Cospser to the Boys Ranch zoo today. (Brand Photo)

Game Warden Says Leave Animals Alone

Chuck Cospser, local Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Game Warden, has issued a plea to area citizens not to pick up young wild animals.

Cospser visited the Brand Wednesday morning, displaying a one-week-old male antelope which had been picked up by a local family within the past few days.

"They saw it alone, and thought it was starving, so they just picked it up," Cospser said.

The Game Warden said that young animals are frequently left alone on the range while their mothers go off a short distance and feed. "People will come along, see the animal, and think its mother has abandoned it," he said.

Cospser said compassion for the animal is the main reason for picking it up. "But, I haven't seen a deer or antelope yet that didn't look like it was starving," he said.

Cospser said that there is a law prohibiting such action, and that offenders caught picking up wild animals can be fined up to $200. "If you see an animal, no matter how fragile you think it looks, don't pick it up," he said.

Cospser was enroute to Boys Ranch this morning with the young antelope to place it in the zoo located there.

"There's not much way to find its mother now, even if I took it back to where it was picked up," he said. "And, I'm not sure the mother would take it back anyway."

Change of Venue Ordered in Trial

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A state district judge Tuesday ordered a change of venue in the trial of two brothers charged with the Christmas 1980 slaying of a policeman after six days passed without one juror being seated.

Judge H. Bryan Poff Jr. earlier had turned down defense attorneys' request for a venue change. "It (jury selection) sounded good the first two days, but the last four days it's moved downhill," Poff said. Poff said he was considering moving the trial to Fort Worth.

Victor Gutierrez, 24, and his 20-year-old brother Guadalupe are being tried separately from 17-year-old Ernesto Gutierrez and Urbano Jaramillo Flores, a Mexican national who is believed to be 16 years old.

Patrolman Barry Joe McGuire, 26, was shot to death after he stopped a car for a routine traffic violation Christmas night.

2 Africans Die In Fiery Crash

MOULTON, Texas (AP) — Officials say a light plane probably lost power just before it hit a television antenna, dropped a wing, and grazed a mobile home, crashing and killing two South Africans and injuring two other men on board.

A woman inside the mobile home and two children playing outside were not injured in the Tuesday afternoon crash, officials said.

Officials speculated that the six-passenger single engine plane lost power shortly after takeoff from Moulton Municipal Airport.

Killed were P.R. Erasmus of Christiana, South Africa, and Dr. S.L. Minne of Pietersburg, South Africa, according to Texas Department of Public Safety trooper Darrell Cobb.

Minne's body was charred beyond recognition, he said.

Pilot John Watson, a Devine, Texas, resident, was burned over about 20 percent of his body, but was walking around at the scene, Cobb said. His condition was not immediately known.

Dr. Hermann A.W. Venter of Oudezwaans Kraal, South Africa, apparently was injured only slightly, Cobb said.

The men had been looking at cattle at a ranch near this town and were returning to San Antonio, which is about 70 miles away, officials said.

Private Charged With 2 Slayings

NEW YORK (AP) — A white Army private already charged with slaying three blacks in the "22-caliber killings" in Buffalo has been indicted in the December stabbing death of a dark-skinned man in Manhattan and the wounding of a black on the same day.

District Attorney Robert Morgenthau said Tuesday that Joseph G. Christopher also was under investigation in the four other "Midtown Stabber" attacks on blacks that occurred Dec. 22. Three were fatal.

"These were horrible crimes that involved innocent bystanders, pedestrians and riders on the subway," Morgenthau said.

He refused to say whether the attacks were believed to have been racially motivated.

Christopher, 25, became a key suspect in the attacks in Manhattan and the Buffalo area after he reportedly bragged to nurses at Fort Benning, Ga. about the slayings. At the time, Christopher was in Army custody charged with attempted murder in the stabbing of a black soldier and was being treated for a self-inflicted razor wound.

Authorities say they also were investigating whether he was involved in four other killings in the Buffalo area — two of which involved taxi drivers who had their hearts cut out — and one in Rochester.

Morgenthau said the Manhattan indictment was based "on testimony of people at the scene" of the incidents. And he said a lineup was held two weeks ago in Buffalo and seven witnesses to the New York City attacks viewed it.

All the Manhattan stabbings occurred within eight hours in the afternoon or evening of Dec. 22. Three of the stabbings were in locations crowded with shoppers and a fourth was near Pennsylvania Station. All four of the men who died were stabbed once in the chest.

Christopher was held in Buffalo on the three murder charges and was expected to be brought to New York for arraignment within a few weeks, Morgenthau said.

Horse Race Gambling Bill Dies

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Craig Washington's horse race gambling bill died Tuesday, but Washington was smiling as he unhitched his stick horse and ambled back to his desk in the House.

Horse breeders and others who want legalized pari-mutuel wagering in Texas had what they wanted — a voting record showing where to put their campaign money in 1982.

The House tabled the bill by Washington, D-Houston, 91-50, in the first straight-up legislative rollback on horse race betting since the late Sen. V.E. "Red" Berry revived the issue 20 years ago.

Shortly before the vote, Washington told the House he had 65 sure-fire votes.

For two decades, legislative committee chairmen and presiding officers had spared lawmakers the political anguish of voting on the highly volatile issue.

But Washington is well-liked and has more stroke than most other legislators. Washington defended Clayton at Clayton's political corruption trial last year, and Clayton named Washington speaker pro tem.

"This bill is on the floor because people who believe in horse racing have labored 20 years to get a vote in one house of the Legislature. ... The process ought to work for them, too. They ought to know where you stand on horse racing," Washington told the unusually solemn House.

Things started out humorously enough. Rep. Ralph Wallace, D-Houston, appeared at a back door of the House chamber with a trumpet and blew the call for post time. Rep. Arnold Gonzales, D-Corpus Christi, handed Washington an orange and green stick horse for "a running start." Washington tethered the toy to a brass pole near the front rostrum.

But from then on, things were dead serious.

"As long as there have been two people with horses, who loved their horses, ... there has been horse racing. There is going to be horse racing, whether legal or illegal, and there is going to be betting," Washington said.

He said his bill was full of protections and restrictions and claimed it would bring gambling out in the open, eliminate "shady characters" from Texas race tracks and pump $35 million a year in taxes into the public schools.

The bill would have allowed horse race gambling only in counties where voters decide in local option elections that they want it.

"Gambling is taking place already. We are just turning our heads," said Rep. Bennie Bock II, D-New Braunfels, a supporter of the bill.

Rep. Frank Tejeda, D-San Antonio, said legalizing gambling with the state as a partner in the proceeds would just produce more gamblers.

"Texas is the star of the Sun Belt, and legalized gambling had no part in it," Tejeda said.

He dismissed the argument that legalizing pari-mutuel wagering would put an end to illegal betting.

"It has been shown time and time again that when a state legalizes gambling, illegal gambling flourishes and will increase threefold and fourfold," Tejeda said.

Rep. Gene Green, D-Houston, said old-timers recall that when Texas had legalized horse race betting in the 1930s, people would spend money at the tracks instead of paying their bills.

The Legislature legalized pari-mutuel wagering in 1933 by means of a rider to the general appropriation bill, but Gov. James V. Allred led a successful fight to outlaw horse race gambling in 1937.

From then until 1961, when Berry — a retired gambler appeared on the scene, horse race betting was not a serious issue. Since 1961, the Legislature or the political parties have authorized several non-binding referenda on the subject, with varying results.

Voters rejected horse race betting in referenda conducted during the 1978 primary elections.

After Tuesday's vote in the House, Phil Strickland, executive director of the Texas Baptist Christian Life Commission, issued a statement praising the result.

Strickland called the decision "a victory for the poor because gamblers are disproportionately drawn from the poor who are particularly susceptible to the lure of a fast dollar."

He said it also was "a victory for already overburdened law enforcement officials because organized crime has always inhabited the backwaters of legalized gambling."

The record vote indicated support for the bill came largely from the southern half of the state, including Houston and El Paso. Blacks, Mexican-Americans and Republicans tended to divide along regional lines.

Austin's Flood Damage Toll Rises; 10 Dead

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Mayor Carole McClellan says Austin will seek a presidential declaration of disaster to repair homes and business ravaged by surging flash floods that killed at least 10 people and wreaked damages in the "multimillions."

Red Cross workers Tuesday began conducting a door-to-door damage survey in flood-damaged areas of Austin that they said should be finished sometime today. A preliminary Red Cross damage survey listed 450 homes destroyed or damaged and 45 businesses destroyed or suffering major damage.

Owners of eight businesses several blocks west of the Texas Capitol estimated damages adding up to $2.9 million. Assistant Police Chief George Phifer said residential and business damage figured into the "multimillions."

Mrs. McClellan met with state disaster relief officials Tuesday to seek the declaration of disaster, which would guarantee low interest federal loans and grants for homeowners or businessmen whose property was damaged or destroyed by the flooding. "Nobody can tell me how long that will take, possibly a week," said Mrs. McClellan.

An aide to Gov. Bill Clements said a request for federal funds would be issued as soon as local officials complete surveys needed for documentation.

Nine bodies were recovered in Austin, where authorities said four other people were missing and presumed dead.

A 10th victim of the Central Texas flooding, 66-year-old Morris Graves, was found in nearby Burnet County, a sheriff's department spokesman said Tuesday.

Auto dealers along Shoal Creek, which swelled from its banks and left a strip of damage through the city, reported 565 cars lost or damaged in the flood.

George Lowrance of Lamar Volkswagen said 125 cars from his lot were damaged. The fate of others is unknown.

"We've got some cars that are just flat gone. We have no idea where they went," he said.

Officials of the National Flood Insurance Program said they would open an Austin office Wednesday to begin processing claims.

However, the president of an Austin real estate and insurance firm said few residents carried flood insurance.

"I'd be surprised if 2 percent of them have insurance," said Jack Puryear, who offered a "guess" that as many as 10 to 15 percent of the people in the flood plain may have had insurance.

Soviets Suspend Manned Shots

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has suspended manned shots while its experts decide on the next step in exploring space, scientists said today.

"In coming months, there will be no such flights. After we analyze everything, we will adopt a decision," said Alexei Yeliseyev, head of space mission control.

"We must now analyze all work done in the preceding five years, then determine what should be done," Yeliseyev added at a press conference on the last of nine missions in the Intercosmos series.

He made it clear there were no immediate plans to replace the orbiting space station, Salyut-6, with a newer version of the space lab, Salyut-7.

"Salyut-6 will continue for a long time to be able to accept crews on board," Yeliseyev said. "It has been switched to pilotless mode and will continue carrying out a number of scientific experiments."

He declined to give a launch date for Salyut-7, saying only that such a space station may be sent up if scientists determine that it is needed.

Yeliseyev said the Soviet space exploration program will continue to rely on orbiting stations with changeable crews and using manned and unmanned space ships to supply them.

Soviet crews have worked as long as 186 days aboard the Salyut-6 "with no changes in the body that would prevent flying longer," he said.

President Praises New Army Officers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, his Memorial Day vacation ended, is back on the road today, telling the nation's newest Army officers that they are the "guardians of our freedom, protectors of our heritage."

Barely 12 hours after returning to the White House, Reagan planned to leave again, this time for commencement exercises at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

While at his ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif., Reagan put the finishing touches on a speech promising greater encouragements to boost the volunteer army while sharply criticizing the critics, who remained unidentified, of a strong national defense.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes, outlining the speech, said Reagan would tell the graduating cadets:

"Those shrill voices that would have us believe the defenders of our nation are somehow the enemies of peace are as false as they are shrill."

Speakes said Reagan, who opposes a renewed military draft, would offer support for the current volunteer force, a strong National Guard and a strong reserve.

Reflecting this, he said, Reagan felt that "adequate pay increases" were necessary and called recent salary boosts "a step in the right direction."

Reagan's budget request for fiscal 1982, which begins next Oct. 1, retained the Carter administration's request for a 9.1 percent pay increase. Reagan also has asked for an additional 5.3 percent increase beginning this

July 1 and costing $420 million this fiscal year.

West Point, nestled in a bend of the Hudson River, was founded in 1802 as a training academy for military officers and later evolved into a school for engineer-soldiers. This year's graduating class totals 906 cadets, including 58 women.

The commencement address, Reagan's first presidential speech on military issues, was worked on last week and on Air Force One as the president flew to California on Friday at the start of the holiday weekend.

Speakes characterized the speech as "a call for leadership on the part of the graduating cadets and a strong national defense and an appeal for patriotism."

In the speech, the cadets were described as "guardians of our freedom, protectors of our heritage ... the keepers of the peace."

Reagan returned to the White House on Tuesday evening, his sunburnt cheeks giving evidence of the hours he spent on horseback patrolling his 688-acre mountain ranch and clearing brush felled in a March storm that dropped eight inches of snow on the Santa Ynez Mountains.

Reagan was outdoors each day from about 10 a.m. to about 4 p.m., horseback riding for about one hour each morning and doing his yardwork for two to three hours each afternoon, Deaver said. There was a 1½-hour break for lunch with first lady Nancy Reagan.

The president's own description of the vacation, shouted to reporters as he boarded Air Force One at the Point Mugu Naval Air Station in Oxnard, Calif., was "beautiful."

3 Fires Reported To Hereford VFD

The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department was kept busy over Memorial Day weekend with three fires, according to Fire Marshall Jay Spain. All three of the fires occurred on Saturday.

One blaze began in a couch of apartment No. 22 of The Eldorado Arms Apartments on 427 N. 25 Mile Ave. F.C. Buckley is the resident of the apartment. Firemen were called to the scene at 4:37 p.m., where they found water and smoke damage in four other apartments in addition to No. 22. The fire was out by 7:05 p.m.

A house fire was reported at 4:22 a.m. Saturday at 701 Knight. The owner of the house is Joe Garza. Firemen left the house at 5:58 p.m. Spain said that one room was badly burned. The cause of the fire is under investigation.

A truck fire was reported at 5:36 p.m. Saturday at the Allsup's on East Park. The owner of the truck is Mary Alvarez of Amarillo. Firemen were able to extinguish the flame by 5:54.

Two false alarms were reported at 4:18 p.m. and 10:19 p.m. Monday.

cover agent and told him the Houston contract was about to be locked up but that another $10,000 was needed to pay two other councilmen.

Undercover agents say they later met with Moore and Garrett and gave Garrett $5,000 in cash. The indictment says Garrett called a city councilman's secretary and left the coded message, "Five-sixths rod steel has arrived."

Four days later, the indictment says, Garrett told Moore he planned to ask a city councilman to pick up the money the next day.

No city councilmen were named in the indictments, and Mayor Jim McConn said previously a city investigation turned up no wrongdoing.

However, during last year's Brillab trial, transcripts of secretly recorded conversations showed that Houston City Councilmen Homer Ford and Jim Westmoreland and former councilman Frank Mann were to be offered $10,000 each by undercover agents to facilitate the switch in insurance companies.

The three councilmen denied knowledge of any such offer.

"I was not personally involved in any wrongdoing," Westmoreland said, reiterating his statements from early in the federal investigation.

Asked if he was relieved, Westmoreland said, "I didn't expect to be (indicted), so there is no relief at all."

The indictment involving the union insurance contract says Hauser gave Grubbs $2,000 to be split with Fricks and later gave each man $2,000. It also said that on two separate occasions, two undercover agents gave Grubbs $4,000 and $4,912.

The indictment says later Grubb called Hauser to tell him the pipefitters' local would accept the Prudential policy. The annual premium for the contract was estimated at more than $5 million.

damage. The Navy is investigating to determine the cause, he said.

At 91,000 tons, the Nimitz is the world's largest warship. It returned to Norfolk last May after a six-month tour in the Mediterranean that stretched to nine months because of the seizure of hostages in Iran and the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

It was diverted to the Indian Ocean, and it was from the deck of the Nimitz that the abortive hostage rescue mission was staged.

The jet, one of the A-6 family of bombers, electronic warfare planes and tanker aircraft, has a history of crashes. A-6 aircraft throughout the continental United States were grounded briefly early in 1980 after seven crashes in three months killed a total of 14 fliers in different parts of the world.

The suspension affected 312 planes including the EA-6B radar-jamming planes, A-6E medium-attack bombers and the KA-6D tanker.

Normal flights resumed two days later, in March 1980, after the Navy conducted an "in-depth safety study."

Larry Compton, general superintendent of Marrowbone Development Co., said the mine came under "heavy fire" about 12:30 a.m. He said a portable generating unit worth about $8,000 was badly damaged, as were two 50-ton rock trucks and a private vehicle owned by a mine guard.

Bullock said the payments were made to help reimburse registration activities from February 1, 1980 through January 31, 1981.

Payments to the state's larger counties include: Harris County, $111,286.40;

Because of earlier disturbances, a court order limited the number of pickets at the mine to three. However, police, company officials and union members agreed that there were about 100 pickets at the mine early Tuesday.

The strike in the coalfields of Appalachia and the Midwest entered its 62nd day today.

Habib's only comment to reporters after his meeting with Begin was that "the diplomatic effort continues."

The administration source called the Israeli Radio report "hard line" and said American efforts "are definitely not at a dead end" in hopes of preventing an outbreak of open warfare over Israel's threats to use force to take out the Soviet-made ground-to-air missiles if they are not withdrawn by the Syrians.

the cartel's first since June 1978 — means OPEC oil will remain in the range of $32 a barrel — the Saudis' price — to $41 a barrel — Libya's price. U.S. analysts say the decision means pump prices will remain stable or decline.

"Saudi Arabia will have to cut back in order to cure the so-called glut," said Constantine Fliakos, an analyst with Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc. in New York. Without such a cut, he said, "You basically will see flat prices, but there may be some declines."

John Lichtblau, executive director of the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, said some countries might base their cutbacks on sales levels before the glut, meaning the real reduction might be well below the 1.5 million barrels-a-day estimate. Lichtblau, however, did not foresee price reductions at the pump.

"The market won't permit price increases, politics won't permit price decreases, so you end up freezing the price where it is," Lichtblau said.

The OPEC countries produced about 25.2 million barrels a day in March, the latest month for which figures were available. Saudi Arabia provided 9.85 million of that.

Houston Woman Wins Texas CowBelles Beef Cook-Off

EL PASO, Tx — A Houston woman, Mrs. Helen Worden, has taken first place honors in the Texas CowBelles Beef Cook-Off. Second place in the contest, held in El Paso recently, went to Mrs. Jean McQueen of Lubbock. Five finalists in the contest were selected from more than 200 entries submitted. The contest is sponsored annually by the Texas CowBelles, with support from the Texas Department of Agriculture and several cattle organizations. Mrs. Worden was awarded a cash prize and will advance to the National Beef Cook-Off, scheduled September 24-25 in Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Her winning recipe is called "Beef Medallions, Paramount." It's prepared from a cut of beef eye-of-round. Says Mrs. Worden: "It's a recipe that can easily be adapted to diets of low sodium and low cholesterol by using margarine or cooking oil (in place of butter) and by substituting sodium-free bouillon and salt." Mrs. Worden and her husband own a ranch near San Felipe where they raise thoroughbred cattle. She also serves as a member of the Board of Governors of Rice University. Mrs. McQueen and her husband are brokers for a Lubbock commodities firm. Her recipe is called "Imperials," created by Mrs. McQueen and her husband. As second place of the cook-off, Mrs. McQueen is an alternate from Texas to the national competition. The Texas Beef Cook-Off is one of several events held here this past weekend. Other activities included the Beef Cattle and Consumer Meat Seminar and the International Youth Meat Identification Contest.

President of DSC Republican Women's Club Cited For Work

Jane White, president of the Deaf Smith County Republican Women's Club, was honored recently at a special "Tribute to Women" by the Texas and National Federations of Republican Women. Mrs. White was singled out for her work in the local Hereford club, which was begun in 1980. She was the organizer of the telephone "get out the vote" effort. Mrs. White is also active in many community organizations and was a charter member of the Deaf Smith Hospital Auxiliary. The Texas "Tribute to Women" was held at the Driskill Hotel in Austin. The event culminated the TFRW's Legislative Day. State awards were presented by the former First Lady of Texas, Nellie Connally, with Betty Rendel, NFRW President, doing the national honors. Austin Mayor Carole McClellan presented the Key to the City to Betty Rendel and Cathy Smyth, president of the TFRW. Other special guests attending the Tribute included: the Hon. George Strake, Secretary of State; Mrs. Fran Chiles, GOP National Committeewoman; the Hon. Amadee Turner, member of the European Parliament, plus a host of Texas legislators and GOP Party leaders. The Texas Federation has over 10,000 members, making it the largest political women's organization in the state.

No Place for Little Girls

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We live in Eau Claire, Wis. Our city has a very active and successful men's physical fitness center at the YMCA. In this all-male atmosphere of steam baths, saunas, sun lamps, whirlpools, and showers after strenuous exercise, it follows that a great deal of nudity and sometimes coarse language is commonplace.

Frequently we see fathers bring their young daughters into this place. They walk freely throughout the entire facility. I would say the little girls are between two and three years of age.

As a person who goes there often I resent the invasion of my privacy. I also wonder if children that young might be affected by what they see and hear. I've complained to the Y, but they say there is nothing wrong with it. What do you say? — S. In Eau Claire

DEAR S.: I say there's plenty wrong with it. Little girls don't belong in the shower rooms of the YMCA, and I hope something is done about the situation soon. When I lived in Eau Claire, 27 years ago, the Y management was excellent. What happened? I suggest they check with Peoria, Ill. The YMCA there is one of the best.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is for "Obsessed at 41 in Macon" and the woman who said you were wrong and backed him up. She signed herself, "Bolstered in Burlington."

The brouhaha was about the man who enjoyed taking pictures of his wife in the nude. He claimed he wanted them for when they are both older, so they would have a record of how beautiful she was. "Macon" insisted it was a wonderful hobby — something they could do together. You didn't think it was such a hot idea.

My husband and I were married for 10 years. He, too, was into nude and strip-tease photography. At first I thought it was weird, but he convinced me it was "art." I was a small-town hick. What did I know? Taking provocative pictures of me in the nude was his favorite sport. He had thousands — in various poses and positions.

One day the rat walked out on me and our kids and took the pictures with him. The court ordered him to pay child support, which he didn't want to do, so he threatened to circulate the pictures and swear they were taken before we were married.

I had to go through the county attorney to get those pictures back. It was extremely embarrassing. So stick to your guns, Annie. No woman should pose for pictures she would not like to see on Page 1 of her local newspaper. — Too Trusting

DEAR T.T.: Thanks for the back-up. I hope those camera buffs (pardon the pun) will take heed.

DEAR ANN LANDERS:

ROYAL TREATMENT--OR THE BUM'S RUSH?

One Sabbath as Jesus was in the home of a member of the Jewish Council, the Pharisees were watching Him like hawks to see if He would heal a man who was present who was suffering from dropsy.

Jesus said to the Pharisees and legal experts standing around, "Well, is it within the Law to heal a man on the Sabbath day, or not?" And when they refused to answer, Jesus took the sick man by the hand and healed him and sent him away.

Then He turned to them: "Which of you doesn't work on the Sabbath?" He asked. "If your cow falls into a pit, don't you proceed at once to get it out?"

Again they had no answer. When He noticed that all who came to the dinner were trying to sit near the head of the table. He gave them this advice: "If you are invited to a wedding feast, don't always head for the best seat. For if someone more respected than you shows up, the host will bring him over to where you are sitting and say, 'Let this man sit here instead.' And you, embarrassed, will have to take whatever seat is left at the foot of the table!"

"Do this instead—start at the foot; and when your host sees you he will come and say, 'Friend, we have a better place than this for you!' Thus you will be honored in front of all the other guests!"

"For everyone who tries to honor himself shall be humbled; and he who humbles himself shall be honored." Luke 14:1-11

Cleanliness-Defense Against Roaches

Good housekeeping and a wary eye are the best defense against one of the most common of all household pests—the prolific and wily cockroach that's been around for over 350 million years.

German and brownbanded roaches which prefer to live indoors are ugly, dirty and often laden with germs. So are their bigger cousins, American and smokey brown roaches that occasionally wander in from outdoors. The Texas Pest Control Association, celebrating Pest Control Month in June, notes that roaches are prodigious breeders that can multiply in a flash. A single German female, for example, can produce 400,000 offspring in a single year.

It cautions homeowners to examine carefully every cardboard box and paper bag brought home from the grocery store. It's a favorite place for indoor varieties to lay their eggs and a primary cause of home infestations. A bag or box should be disposed of immediately if one or more egg capsules are found. They resemble a miniature suitcase, about 1/8 inch in length and each contains about three dozen eggs.

Roaches are nocturnal, normally hiding by day and feeding at night. They munch away on anything organic from grease and leftover food to the insulation on wiring and wallpaper glue. Sometimes called "waterbugs," they prefer warmth and dampness in a kitchen, bath or basement.

Good housekeeping is necessary in controlling them. Dirty dishes left in the sink overnight and crumbs on the floor are an open invitation to roaches to feed and breed.

One of World's 'Most Dangerous Walks'

DENALI NATIONAL PARK, Alaska (AP) — The ascent of Mount McKinley, a looming, snow-covered giant that is North America's highest peak, is "basically a walk," depending on the route to the summit.

"Of course it may be one of the most dangerous walks in the world," adds Bob Gerhard, chief mountaineering ranger for Denali National Park, just south of the 20,320-foot mountain.

That danger was highlighted last week with the report of the death of a Columbia University graduate student in a glacial crevasse, and the rescue of a fellow climber at the 8,400-foot level.

Another climber is missing on the mountain, and there have been two other rescues since the climbing season began in April with nearly two dozen people challenging the peak.

In 1980, eight people died on Mount McKinley. At least 659 tried for the summit, and Gerhard said "it looks like there'll be at least that many" before this season ends in August.

There have been a few successful winter ascents, but most climbers try for the top in summer — if one can use the word summer in connection with temperatures hovering around zero at the summit, snow and winds that often vary between 70 and 100 mph.

"It's always winter up there. I was on the summit on the Fourth of July one year and it was below zero," said Paul Denkwalter, who runs a mountaineering equipment store in Anchorage. To those in Anchorage, 135 miles south of the mountain, McKinley appears as a soft pyramid on the horizon.

Denkwalter, who ascended McKinley in 1971, said the 15-mile West Buttress route — which requires no rock or rope skills — is considered the "tourist" climb, adding, "It's a lot of work too."

About two-thirds of the climbers are Americans, but others come from nearly every European country, Japan, Taiwan, Korea and many communist-bloc nations, Gerhard said.

Over the years, requirements imposed on climbers have varied — expeditions once needed certification by park officials and mountaineering clubs. This year climbers merely must register, which helps the National Park Service keep track of them.

"I figure the average smart climber will continue to carry a radio," Gerhard said of the decision to drop a rule that climbers carry radios. "Those who climb without a radio are basically choosing the option that if they get in trouble they may be there forever."

In any case, Mount McKinley is not the stuff of a Sunday stroll. Climbers need gear which would be used only in winter in other parts of the United States, and the altitude and weather are formidable foes.

Climbers unaccustomed to high altitudes must beware of the low atmospheric pressure and reduced oxygen. The low pressure can cause altitude sickness, in which body nitrogen is released as gas bubbles that block veins and arteries and collect in the tissues, causing vomiting, pain and paralysis.

The mountain is always covered with snow and ice, temperatures can drop to 30 below even in summer, and high winds — and accompanying wind chill — pose a significant threat. Last year, 27 climbers were hospitalized for frostbite.

"If anything, it (the wind) is worse than the cold. You can't hide from it," said Denkwalter.

Gerhard said even experienced climbers get into trouble on the peak, which was first scaled in 1913. "Some of the best are dying on Mount McKinley," he said, adding that short of closing the mountain, he doesn't know how to make it safer.

Most expeditions take 2½ to 3 weeks, although two veteran climbers went from 10,000 feet to the top in 19 hours in 1979. The size and cost of expeditions vary.

In Europe, Gerhard notes, most climbers carry insurance to pay for rescues and there are more and better-equipped rescue units. "A rescue on McKinley, there's nothing certain about it," he said. "We don't go out and initiate rescues. We don't have a rescue team or rescue organization as such."

Most rescues — there were 16 in 1980 — are done by climbers or private or military helicopters. But the use of helicopters is limited because only special choppers can operate close to the mountain at higher elevations.

Other routes, like Cassin Ridge on the southeast face, and the South Face, are more rarely attempted.

Most climbers leave from Talkeetna, 60 miles from the peak, where two rangers run a station for climbers. Most climbers are flown to Kahiltna Glacier, just outside the park boundary at 7,000 feet. That's the start of the West Buttress route, where Gerhard says "you may see 100 other climbers along the way."

Other routes, like Cassin Ridge on the southeast face, and the South Face, are more rarely attempted.

Man Collects 17 Old Hudsons

MCALLEN, Texas (AP) — George Gillespie's "auto showroom" is something of a time warp, a place where Calvin Coolidge, Al Capone and Babe Ruth might feel at home.

Gillespie located and bought 17 venerable Hudsons, and restored and housed them in an unusual museum. There's even a corner parts department.

"We wanted it to look like an old car dealership," said Gillespie, co-owner of an import company specializing in Mexican onyx.

He found a neon sign that once flashed outside the local Hudson dealership in this Rio Grande Valley city and hung it out front.

Since the museum opened in May 5 on the main expressway, travelers have pulled off to marvel at the collection and reminisce about their own days behind the wheel of a Hudson.

The last Hudson rolled off the line in 1957 after the company merged in 1954 with Nash Kelvinator to become American Motors.

"The Hudsons were in a class with the better Oldsmobiles," said Gillespie, who drove one for many years. "They were great highway cars. It would drive all day long and had a large radiator. It outrode Cadillacs."

Gillespie and his nephew, Gordon Gillespie, searched the country for the cars. They read ads in antique car magazines and found several models rusting away in backyards.

At least one other man has a larger collection in Indiana but not all his cars are restored, the nephew said.

The hobby, the elder Gillespie said, started two years ago when he restored one car and displayed it at his import office.

Before his collecting ended, Gillespie acquired models dating from 1927 to 1957, including a pair of 1955 identical Hudson Hornets once owned by a husband and wife in Joplin, Mo. "One of them was in driving condition but the brakes were weak. On the other, the engine had to be rebuilt," he said of the duotone, green models.

Several 1930s black sedans sit "on the lot." Their wide bodies, running boards and center-opening "suicide doors" fill the imagination with scenes of fleeing gangsters and tommy guns.

The 1927 Phaeton is in mint condition, having come from a doctor who drove it in parades. Its blue paint job is not original, although the Gillespies tried to stay as authentic as possible.

"Most of the early models were black. We thought that wouldn't show up very well inside," said the nephew.

A rare model is a 1937 Terraplane pickup truck that originally sold for $535.

A magazine ad from the period priced a 1938 six-passenger sedan, similar to Gillespie's, at $775.

Old Hudsons are advertised for sale today in car enthusiast magazines for up to $13,000.

Sharing space at the admission-free museum are Gillespie's extensive collections of pre-Columbian artifacts, antique coins and other collectibles acquired during his 22 years in the Air Force.

"I wouldn't put a price on it," he said of the collection. "You won't find collections like that in any museums around here."

A curio shop in front of the showroom hopefully will pay for museum upkeep, Gillespie said.

The importer-collector says he never thought of selling his items or donating them to an existing museum.

"You know, the city of McAllen — it's my city so I can run it down a little — but it's kind of a cow town," he said. "I wanted this to be an educational thing, for the children to come and learn."

Denier

When a housewife buys a spool of "50 denier" thread she is paying Julius Caesar an indirect compliment. Caesar introduced the coin "aureus" or "denier" into France. Fifteen-hundred years later, King Francis I established the weight of this tiny coin as the standard measurement of his budding silk industry. Today, denier is a numbered system to describe the fineness of yarn. The higher the number, the thicker the yarn.

The remains of mammoths that roamed Alaska thousands of years ago are so perfectly preserved in the ice that scientists can identify by their stumps the plants which the mammoths ate.

Marijuana Seized in Coastal Waters Doubles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Coast Guard shifted its drug detection activities to Florida over the past three years — which opened the way for more illegal traffic along the Texas Gulf, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said Saturday.

A report from the General Accounting office, an investigative arm of Congress, indicated that the Coast Guard seized 104 tons of marijuana in Texas coastal waters in the 1979 fiscal year but in 1980 — when patrols were reduced because of the Cuban sea lift — only 34 tons were seized.

"When Cubans flooded into the country last year, Coast Guard patrols off the Texas coast declined. This gave the smugglers free rein to set up routes and supply lines into Texas," Bentsen said.

In the first three months of this year, almost 60 tons of marijuana was seized, more than twice that in the year prior to the Cuban sea lift.

In its fight to control drugs, the Coast Guard has concentrated its limited resources in the past few years on Florida, "where most drugs are smuggled into this country," Bentsen said. "This leaves the way clear for the smugglers to move to other places, including Texas."

If Congress expects the Coast Guard to play an effective role in combatting illegal drug trafficking, it must either provide more resources or reduce Coast Guard responsibilities in other areas, he said.

The Coast Guard has also been made responsible in recent years for such additional things as the prevention and cleanup of oil spills, boating safety and search and rescue, Bentsen said.

"Yet they have not been given the tools to do the job adequately. From 1969 to 1979, for example, the number of Coast Guard cutters actually decreased from 339 to 246," he said.

According to the Coast Guard, the street value of marijuana seized in the Gulf waters almost doubled from 1978 to 1981. The Coast Guard seized $1.2 billion worth of marijuana in the 1978 fiscal year and $2.3 billion in the current fiscal year.

Until 1977, Mexico was the principal supplier of marijuana smuggled into the United States, but spraying paraquat, a herbicide, on the Mexico crop diminished the role of a supplier.

It improved Colombia's situation as a marijuana supplier, however, and to the increase of maritime smuggling and the decrease of overland smuggling. Predictably, illegal activity on the Texas coast began to occur, the GAO report said.

The Coast Guard now seizes 15 to 20 percent of the marijuana smuggled into Texas by sea, the GAO reported.

WE MUST ENDURE
By Bob Wear

IT IS NOT always easy to keep on keeping on, but this is just exactly what we must do. This is to be done as intelligently as possible, but "we must endure." Even when there is not much encouragement, we must keep trying; because we cannot afford to give up.

THE WAY along which we move will be easier some days than it is other days; our burdens will be lighter some times than they are at other times; the encouragement we receive will be greater in some situations than it is in other situations; but "we must endure." The most satisfying results will be realized from our steady, consistent best efforts. In accepting the fact that this spirit of perseverance is a basic element in meaningful living, we will have come to terms with life.

SETBACKS will occur. More than once, in some ways, it will be necessary for us to begin again. There will be some failures, and we may not be able to overcome all of these; nevertheless, "we must endure." A failure, now and then, does not mean that we are a failure. It is important that we know this, and with this knowledge, we must maintain the spirit of an on-going life. We must continue to try, to plan, to live, and to hope; using the best available guidelines.

THE VICTORY will not be perfect, but will be sufficient; because much of the victory is in patient endurance with good cheer. This is real accomplishment, and is much better than the hurt and the loss experienced by the impatient who feel overwhelmed; and either give up or blow up. Many promising possibilities for a worthwhile life have been realized because people have endured patiently.

REGARDLESS OF obstacles and difficulties, we must continue to try. We may have to change attitudes and methods, and it may be necessary to alter plans; and, occasionally, capable assistance may be needed. This is all part of the normal life procedure, and it works.

OUR RESOLUTION must be strong; and it will be, if we protect it as we should and can. When the resolution is expressed in knowledgeable behavior, it will be very well rewarded.

Complete Coverage of Texas' Leading Area in Cattle and Agriculture

Poultry Exports at Record; Further Increase is Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poultry exports have been at a record level and are getting larger, the Agriculture Department says.

Last year, according to the department's Foreign Agricultural Service, shipments of poultry products — which include meat, eggs and live birds — rose to a record value of $569.1 million, up 45 percent from $391.6 million in calendar 1979.

A further increase is expected in 1981, perhaps an additional boost of 25 percent to 30 percent, according to department experts.

The increase in poultry exports comes at a time when sales of U.S. commodities overall is booming. Those rose to a record of $41.3 billion last calendar year, up from $34.7 billion in 1979.

Although the figures for poultry are overshadowed by the traditional leaders such as wheat, corn and soybeans — exports of grain and grain products, for example, totaled about $18 billion last year — the exports are important to those who produce eggs, chickens and turkeys.

The actual quantities of poultry items climbed sharply in 1980 as well as their cash values, the agency's annual report showed.

For example, exports of "young chickens" or broilers were reported at 257,214 metric tons last year, a value of about $293.5 million. In 1979, the shipments were 182,348 tons, a value of $195.5 million.

Turkey exports, at 34,049 metric tons, were worth $46.2 million, compared to 22,685 tons and $37.1 million in 1979, the report said.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds.

Exports of eggs in the shell for table use rose to 52.9 million dozen worth $34.7 million last year, compared to 1979 shipments of 18 million dozen valued at $11.9 million.

Shipments of live baby chicks were reported at 33.7 million birds valued at $44 million. In 1979, exports of 28.9 million chicks were worth $37 million.

Officials said Asian and Caribbean countries were the major markets for chicken parts, with Japan, Hong Kong, Singapore, Jamaica and the Leeward-Windward Islands leading the way.

Shipments of whole broilers also rose sharply, with Iraq and Egypt "by far the leading importers" last year, the report said. The Middle East also was a big market for chicken parts.

Other major markets for whole broilers included Venezuela, Saudi Arabia, Mexico, Romania and Nicaragua.

Looking at the turkey market, the report said Egypt and West Germany together took 65 percent of the U.S. turkey parts exported last year. Nigeria also was a major market.

Leading markets for table eggs included Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Hong Kong and the United Arab Emirates. Top buyers of U.S. hatching eggs were Canada, Mexico, Trinidad-Tobago, Jamaica and Argentina.

Approving Plans

The presidents of five Texas agricultural organizations and a representative from the National Live Stock and Meat Board met recently to give final approval of plans for implementing a voluntary 25-cent-per-head beef promotion program in Texas, beginning July 1. The leaders (left to right) are Joe Hathoot of Texarkana, Livestock Marketing Association of Texas; R.L. Bliss of Tulla, Texas Cattle Feeders Association; Roy Wheeler of Pleasanton, Independent Cattlemen of Texas; James Mullins of Corwith, Iowa, chairman of the Beef Industry Council of the Meat Board; John Cargile of San Angelo, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers; and Carrol Chaloupka of Dalhart, Texas Farm Bureau.

Beef Promotion Program Set

On July 1, 1981, the Texas cattle industry will implement a voluntary 25-cent-per-head beef promotion investment program.

Under the new system, 25 cents will be collected on cattle and calves sold through participating markets, packers, dealers and order buyers. The funds will be remitted entirely to the Beef Industry Council of the Meat Board for use in national programs of research, education and promotion.

Endorsed recently by five Texas organizations, the investment plan is designed to generate additional funding needed for aggressive beef market development.

The organizations initiating the 25-cent investment are the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Assn., Texas Cattle Feeders Assn., Texas Farm Bureau, the Independent Cattlemen's Assn. and the Livestock Marketing Assn. of Texas.

At a meeting May 6 in Irving, Tex., these groups agreed to put the investment program in motion and also to form a beef promotion coordinating committee which will oversee the implementation of the entire effort.

23-25 Million Bushels of Corn Saved

LUBBOCK, TX — Commodity Credit Corporation will not sell 23 to 25 million bushels of the government-owned corn that is now stored in the Texas High Plains. This volume has been designated for use in disaster programs only, according to a USDA announcement.

No decision has been announced about the disposition of the balance of the CCC corn. Grain Sorghum Producers Association (GSPA) is urging CCC to state that it will not be sold in this area. It has been estimated that the release of the grain here could cost High Plains grain sorghum producers $100 million in lower prices.

This grain was originally destined for the Soviet Union, intercepted by the embargo and purchased by CCC. It was shipped from the northern Corn Belt with the government paying all costs of transportation, storage and interest to have it relocated in High Plains storage facilities.

USDA's indecision and failure to make a clear statement regarding the amount, quality and disposition of the grain have fostered rumors and distrust in both buyers and sellers and kept prices depressed throughout the winter and spring months. In general, feedlot grain buyers are buying only enough grain to fill their immediate needs and waiting for the release of the CCC corn to lower prices.

The frustration and uncertainty and their effect on the market are shown in the following incidents.

CCC has sold at least one million bushels of corn at a discount, because it was considered "not storable" when it arrived in Plainview, Texas.

One elevator operator reported that his sales of grain were cut in half because his feedlot customers were buying the CCC corn instead. Another said, "It has cost my elevator $100 thousand this week."

High Plains grain buyers are being advised against buying grain because the expected release of the CCC stocks will lower the price.

Texas Cattle Feeders Association has advised all area feedlot operators to appeal to their congressmen and USDA to have the grain released.

The cattle-feeding area of the High Plains is a grain deficit area — that is, more grain is consumed than produced. The deficit is filled with grain shipped from the southern Corn Belt — Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri. Although production costs are much higher on irrigated grain from the High Plains, it can compete because freight costs must be added to the price of imported grain. The grain production economy of this area is based on that fact.

GSPA commends the USDA action which seals the 23 to 25 million bushels for disaster use only and will continue to work for a fair policy on the balance.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, there are over 104 million civilian workers in the United States.

The man with the ball always draws a crowd, and this sequence of action photo's from the Whiteface scrimmage Tuesday is indicative of the hard hitting that took place. Jeff Coupe (22) of the White team hits the hole at left, meets more resistance from the Maroon's Gilbert Rodriguez (44), Jay Hodge (42) and Joe Castillo (15) before being stopped in the photo at right. The Maroon team won the contest by a close 13-6 score, and Coach Don Cumpton was pleased with the effort of the squads. The game ended a three-week period of spring training, and the team puts on the pads again in August. (Staff Photo by Mauri Montgomery)

Maroon Herd Wins Spring Game, 13-6

By SPEEDY NIEMAN

Quarterback Shannon Ritchie connected on a 50-yard pass play to Arnold Villegas to launch a scoring drive, and Wayne High darted around right end from three yards out to give the Maroon team a close 13-6 win in the Hereford Whiteface spring football game.

The teams had battled to a 6-6 deadlock in the first half of the annual Maroon - White intra-squad contest. A large crowd watched the climax of the spring workouts during a pleasant evening at Whiteface Stadium.

The Maroon team opened the scoring in the second quarter when Ronnie Collier sliced off right tackle, cut back to his left and raced 40 yards for the touchdown. The conversion kick was no good.

The White team, after threatening in the first period, drove to the tying score just seconds before the first half ended. Jeff Coupe got things rolling with a 25-yard scamper.

The White almost stalled and was fighting the clock as the second quarter drew to a close. Quarterback Matt Collier found Kerry Beard in the end zone on a 9-yard scoring pass with just seven seconds left in the stanza. The extra-point kick was blocked.

The teams battled on even terms in the third period until Ritchie spotted Villegas streaking down the sidelines and hit him on a 50-yard play. That put the Maroon team on the White's 30-yard line, and good gains by High and Villegas got the ball to the five.

Villegas plunged into the end zone, but a motion penalty wiped out that scoring effort. A couple of plays later, however, High sailed around right end and cut just inside the marker for the go-ahead touchdown.

The White team, quarterbacked by Alan Wartes, tried to rally in the fourth period but the efforts fell short. John Phibbs broke on a 23-yard run on one drive, but a fumble moments later killed that march.

Robert Martinez started another White march with a 20-yard burst up the middle, but another fumble kept the Whites from sustaining the drive.

Defensive standouts were difficult to pick in the closely-fought scrimmage. Aubrey Hieburg and Bruce Clark, two returning starters, anchored the Maroon's defensive wall along with Ken Gosper and Robert Martinez. Mike Hill and Tony Yosten made some fine plays in the secondary.

Watson, Floyd Kite Top Field

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Tom Watson, Ray Floyd and Tom Kite, the three most consistent players in golf this season, top the field for the $400,000 Kemper Open.

There's no assurance one of the three will take the $72,000 first prize, but their records insist that they'll be among the prime contenders in the 72-hole chase that begins Thursday on the hilly, 7,054-yard, par-70 Congressional Country Club course.

Floyd, winner of consecutive titles in Florida earlier this season, hasn't finished lower than 12th since late January. Kite was seventh last week in the Memorial, and that was his worst in a month and a half. Watson won the Masters and seems to be in the hunt in every event he enters.

The three, all of whom play their best on the more difficult courses, have won five tournaments this season and have combined money-winnings of $631,000.

Floyd, enjoying the best season of his 19-year career, has finished in the top 10 in nine of 13 starts. Kite is nine of 14 and Watson, tied for third last week in the Memorial, is eight of 13.

They face an international field of 156 that lost a little quality to a wedding in Pensacola, Fla. Bruce Lietzke, the leading money-winner this year, was married Tuesday night to Rose Nelson, Jerry Pate's sister-in-law, and will not be here. Pate, Ben Crenshaw and Bill Rogers all were members of the wedding party, and also are skipping this event.

Ron Streck, winner of the Houston Open, withdrew from the field Wednesday. Lee Trevino and Keith Fergus, the Memorial champion, also are absentees.

John Mahaffey is the defending title-holder.

Other standouts include two-time U.S. Open champ Hale Irwin, Tom Weiskopf, Lanny Wadkins and Johnny Miller, winner of two titles this season.

Australian David Graham tops the foreign field that also includes South African Gary Player and Isao Aoki of Japan.

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by CBS.

Ongais May Need 6 Months To Heal From Race Injuries

By LINDEL HUTSON
Associated Press Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It may take four to six months for veteran race car driver Danny Ongais' fractured right leg to heal, a spokesman for Methodist Hospital says.

Asked if the injuries would keep Ongais out of a race car for the duration of the healing process, spokesman Fred Price said, "I can't say for sure, but that's a pretty good guess."

Price also said Tuesday that additional surgery may not be required for Ongais, 39, injured seriously when his Interscope racer slammed into the third-turn wall during Sunday's Indianapolis 500.

"It's a day-by-day evaluation," Price said of Ongais, who was listed in serious but stable condition Tuesday following his third round of surgery.

"Right now, we say no, but we said no Monday," Price said. "We have to wait and see how the leg heals. There's no definite answer to that question right now."

Ongais, the former drag racing champion from Hawaii, underwent four hours of additional surgery Monday night to repair veins in the leg. The additional surgery was needed, Price said, because "physicians noticed circulation in his right leg was not good and another vein graph was necessary."

The first surgery occurred Sunday soon after the crash when doctors repaired a compound fracture to the leg and left forearm, and mended arteries, Price said.

Ongais underwent the second operation earlier Monday for a 6-inch tear to his diaphragm.

"Then several hours after that surgery, doctors noticed that his right leg was not receiving proper circulation," Price said.

Members of Ongais' family and his Interscope racing crew have kept a vigil at the hospital. Ongais remains in the intensive care unit and "has no telephone, no television," said Price. "He's conscious; he's alert."

Rangers Mark Up Another Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver keeps designating Terry Crowley as the Orioles' designated hitter, so Crowley decided he'd better start hitting.

"I was surprised I was in the lineup. I've been struggling and I give credit to Earl for sticking with me," Crowley said after snapping an 0-for-10 slump with a solo homer and a three-run shot that powered the Orioles to a 6-4 victory over the New York Yankees Tuesday night.

"Sometimes a hitter has a tendency to think a little too much," said Crowley, who went hitless over the weekend in Detroit. "In Detroit, I was probably thinking too much about that short porch in right field."

In other American League games, the Chicago White Sox downed the Oakland A's 4-1, the Texas Rangers edged the Minnesota Twins 2-1, the Cleveland Indians beat the Boston Red Sox 5-2, the Milwaukee Brewers whipped the Detroit Tigers 7-3, the Kansas City Royals nipped the Seattle Mariners 5-4 and the Toronto Blue Jays trimmed the California Angels 8-4.

Crowley's homers were his first of the season. His first triggered a three-run fourth inning that erased a 2-0 deficit and his second wiped out a 4-3 New York lead in the fifth. Both came off rookie Gene Nelson.

"We checked many reports before the game," Weaver said, "and decided that Nelson was not a power pitcher. Terry is one of the best breaking ball hitters in baseball."

"Hitting is my business," said Crowley. "I'm not around here for anything else. When we lost a doubleheader on Sunday I felt it was my responsibility. It's the designated hitter's responsibility to hit some home runs and drive some people in. I haven't been doing a good job until this point."

It was the 12th triumph in 15 games for the Orioles, who have beaten the Yankees in nine of their last 11 meetings dating back to last season. Sammy Stewart yielded one hit over the final 41-3 innings to pick up the win in relief of Scott McGore.

Oakland reliever Bo McLaughlin was knocked unconscious when hit in the face by a line drive off the bat of Harold Baines in the eighth inning and was removed from the field on a stretcher. A hospital report said McLaughlin was struck below the left eye and there did not appear to be any damage to the eye, although his face was badly swollen.

"He winked at me and said he was okay," said catcher Mike Heath.

Rangers 2, Twins 1

Pat Putnam crashed a solo home run in the second inning, Mario Mendoza singled home a run in the fourth and Ferguson Jenkins pitched out of a seventh-inning jam as Texas won its fourth game in a row. The decisive run came when Leon Roberts walked, went to third on Jim Sundberg's single and scored on Mendoza's single. It was the 15th RBI for the Rangers' shortstop, one more than he had all last season with Seattle.

Indians 5, Red Sox 2
Mike Hargrove keyed a five-run third inning with one of his three singles as Cleveland jumped on Dennis Eckersley for six hits and all its runs, one unearned, before the Boston right-hander settled down.

Duane Kuiper started the inning with a single. One out later, Rick Manning and Jorge Orta singled for the first run. Hargrove lined an RBI single, Andre Thornton doubled and Ron Hassey singled for three more runs. The fifth run scored on a throwing error by second baseman Jerry Remy.

Rookie catcher Rich Gedman hit his first major league homer for one of the Boston runs.

Brewers 7, Tigers 3
Jim Gantner fouched off a seven-run first inning with a single and capped it with a two-run double while Pete Vuckovich notched his fifth consecutive victory.

Gantner's single and a double by Charlie Moore ignited the big first inning and a bloop single by Cecil Cooper scored the first run. After a walk to Gorman Thomas loaded the bases, Ben Oglivie hit a sacrifice fly and Roy Howell lined an RBI single. Robin Yount's sacrifice fly, Mark Brouhard's single and Gantner's double produced the other runs.

Royals 5, Mariners 4
Lee May's two-out pinch single in the eighth capped a two-run Kansas City rally. Shane Rawley replaced Seattle starter Glenn Abbott to open the eighth with the Mariners on top 3-2 and gave up a leadoff single to George Brett, who had four hits and raised his batting average to .309. Brett raced all the way to third on a wild pitch and scored the tying run on Frank White's single. After John Wathan singled, May singled White home with the lead run.

Amos Otis hit his second home run of the season in the ninth to provide what turned out to be the winning run.

Blue Jays 8, Angels 4
Barry Bonnell rapped out four hits and drove in four runs with a double and a three-run homer while Otto Velez had a two-run homer and Ken Macha added a two-run single. Bonnell doubled a run home in the first inning and slammed his homer in the third.

Houston Astros Pull Victory Over San Diego Padres, 1-0

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Two years ago, Kent Tekulve of the Pittsburgh Pirates was one of the hottest relief pitchers in baseball.

But something snapped near the end of the 1980 season, and he couldn't win for losing.

"There were times I was wondering if I would ever stop losing," he says.

Tekulve dropped seven games at the end of 1980 and three more at the start of this year. That all ended Tuesday when the skinny, bespectacled reliever pitched two scoreless innings in a 6-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

"It's a good feeling," said Tekulve, who had 31 saves and 10 victories in 1979 and 21 saves and eight victories before going into his horrendous slump beginning last Aug. 8.

Tekulve came in with the Pirates trailing 4-2 Tuesday and allowed two hits in the seventh and eighth innings. The Pirates rallied for four runs in the top of the ninth and Enrique Romo nailed down the decision for Tekulve.

In other NL action, it was Philadelphia 7, New York 5; Montreal 4, St. Louis 3 and Houston 1, San Diego 0. Two games were rained out — Los Angeles at Atlanta and San Francisco at Cincinnati.

Mike Easler's leadoff double triggered Pittsburgh's four-run ninth and Omar Moreno singled across the lead run for the Pirates. Easler doubled and scored on a single by Phil Garner. An RBI single by Willie Stargell later tied the score before Moreno singled across the lead run with two out. Bill Madlock's single brought across an insurance run.

Phillies 7, Mets 5

Lonnie Smith slapped a tie-breaking RBI single in the ninth inning, and another run scored on first baseman Dave Kingman's third error of the game, boosting Philadelphia over New York.

Bob Boone got things started with a one-out single and took third on Greg Gross' single. Smith then singled to snap a 5-5 tie. Pete Rose later hit a one-hop grounder to Kingman and the first baseman let the ball glance off his glove for an error as Gross scored.

The winner was Ron Reed, 1-0, who pitched two perfect innings of relief, while Tug McGraw pitched the ninth for his fourth save. Neil Allen, 3-2, was the loser.

Expos 4, Cardinals 3

Warren Cromartie's RBI single capped a two-run rally in the seventh inning, leading Montreal over St. Louis. Jerry White started the seventh with a single, advanced to second on Chris Speier's sacrifice and scored one out later on an RBI single by Tim Lincecum off reliever Jim Kaat, 2-1.

Rodney Scott then pushed Raines to second with a single and Cromartie brought him home with a single.

Steve Rogers, who pitched the first seven innings, earned his fifth victory in eight decisions, with relief help from Woodie Fryman and Elias Sosa, who gained his third save.

The Expos had a 4-8 record on their recent road trip before winning two straight at home against the Cardinals.

Astros 1, Padres 0

Rookie third baseman Joe Pittman, getting his first major league start, clubbed three hits, including a run-scoring triple in the seventh inning, to lead Houston over San Diego.

Pittman got into the lineup because Art Howe, the NL's leading hitter, suffered a hamstring pull in Friday night's game. Pittman responded with singles in the third and fifth innings and a triple in the seventh, scoring Alan Ashby, who had singled.

Pittman's game-winning hit came off loser Juan Eichelberger, 4-3, who had yielded only three hits prior to the fatal seventh. Ashby drilled a single to right field and raced home with the winning run on Pittman's powerful triple, his first in the majors, that bounced on the right field wall.

Pittman Records Firsts; Ryan Reduces His ERA

HOUSTON (AP) — While rookie Joe Pittman was recording a series of personal firsts, something else quietly was happening in the Astrodome Tuesday night in Houston's 1-0 victory over San Diego.

Nolan Ryan, possibly more relaxed and definitely more effective this season, quietly pitched seven more scoreless innings to reduce his National League-leading ERA to a minuscule .098.

Appreciation for his efforts this season also seems to be small.

"He's gone out there real quiet and pitched some excellent games," catcher Alan Ashby said. "He's pitched seven shutout innings, then seven shutout innings, then seven shutouts with one run, and not too many people have noticed it."

Ryan, 4-2, got San Diego's attention Tuesday night, holding them scoreless until Pittman, ticketed several times this season for a trip back to the minors, could punch-out a seventh inning triple to drive in the game's lone run.

Ryan earlier referred to himself as the Astro's forgotten man, but he added he liked it that way.

"I don't like the attention, but it doesn't bother my pitching," said Ryan. "I just like to come out and do my job. I'd rather the other guys get the attention. We've got plenty of pitchers on this team who deserve the attention."

Ryan appears more relaxed now.

"There doesn't seem to be anything different, but I certainly think there's less pressure," Ashby said. "He doesn't appear to pitch any different. He just seems more in command."

Pittman made his first major league start at third base, replacing Art Howe, the National League's leading hitter, who suffered a hamstring pull in Friday night's game, ending his hitting streak at 23 games.

But the Astros didn't lose any offense, because Pittman responded with three straight hits off Padres' starter Juan Eichelberger, 4-3, who had yielded only three hits prior to the fatal seventh.

Ashby drilled a single to right field and raced home with the winning run on Pittman's powerful triple, his first in the majors, that bounced on the right field wall.

"Juan did a hell of a job," Padres' manager Frank Howard said. "Their man was just one man better. It was a classic hookup between two quality major league pitchers. It was just one of those games where whoever loses deserves a better fate."

Sports in Brief

BASEBALL

NEW YORK (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates pitcher Jim Bibby was named National League Player of the Week and Greg Luzinski of the Chicago White Sox edged Boston's Dwight Evans for American League honors.

On May 19, gave up a single to the first man he faced and then retired the next 27 batters in a 5-0 shutout over the Atlanta Braves. On May 24, he extended his consecutive out streak to 32, nine short of the major league record, as he hurled seven innings in a 7-1 victory over Philadelphia and homered for the game-winning RBI.

While Luzinski, in his first AL season, hit only .348 for the week ending Sunday, May 24, he slugged at a .913 pace while compiling a .609 on-base percentage. His eight hits included four home runs and a double for a total of 21 bases, while driving in 12 runs, including two game-winning RBIs. He added two homers in each of two games.

Evans continued his torrid pace with a .464 mark in the last week with a pair of homers, 20 total bases and six RBIs.

Baseball Strike May Be Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Major league baseball players, precariously standing on the edge of a strike deadline, were thrown a lifeline Tuesday by National Labor Relations Board general counsel William A. Lubbers.

Lubbers issued a complaint charging major league club owners with an unfair labor practice, withholding financial information necessary for the players union to conduct meaningful bargaining talks.

Lubbers said he would ask the full board today to request that the owners to turn over financial data voluntarily and, barring that, would act on the players' request that the NLRB seek an injunction in federal court ordering the owners to release the financial data.

If Lubbers, as expected, recommends that the board seek an injunction, the threatened May 29 strike likely could be postponed without the players giving up their right to strike no later than June 1 if they are to strike at all during the life of the basic agreement.

"Theoretically, a judge could grant the injunction within 24 hours, said NLRB spokesman Thomas Miller. "And all we really want is to beat the strike deadline."

Earlier this week, Mark Belanger, Baltimore Oriole player representative and member of the Executive Board of the Players Association, held out hope that the court order would end the strike threat.

"If we get injunctive relief, we would consider not striking," Belanger said.

Negotiators for the players and the club owners have been arguing for 16 months over the question of compensation for free agents.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The much-discussed redistricting process has begun in earnest as the Legislature winds down towards a June 1 adjournment deadline.

Last week both the House and Senate approved plans, somewhat different, to redraw congressional boundaries for the next ten years in Texas. A conference committee will probably be named to work out a compromise.

Redistricting is regarded as a partisan process, but defining just what forces are at work is most difficult.

Although the House has a majority of Democrats, its congressional redistricting plan is generally thought to be unfavorable for at least three Democratic congressmen: Jim Mattox, Jack Brooks and Bill Patman, and it creates three new congressional districts which liberals believe are likely to be won by Republicans.

The Senate plan also weakens Mattox, who will probably be challenged next election by State Sen. Dee Travis.

Left out in the cold are minorities, who may file suit to have a district built to be won by a black or Mexican-American.

What appears to be climaxing is a political struggle between conservatives and liberals, for want of better labels, which cuts across party lines. Insiders say the three new districts could be won by a conservative of either party.

Less controversial was the plan approved by the Senate to redraw its districts. The House was expected to approve the plan for itself sometime this week.

Traditionally, the House and Senate each redistrict themselves, and the other chamber concurs. The final congressional plan, however, is reached jointly in conference committee.

Construction Fund
The House easily passed Speaker Bill Clayton's proposed constitutional amendment to fund construction at 17 colleges and universities.

The bill also requires the University of Texas and Texas A&M University systems to share the Permanent University Fund with all institutions in those systems and raises bonding capacity from 20 to 30 percent.

An amendment by Rep. Don Rains will assure building construction for the 17 higher education institutions outside the PUF with an $80 million annual appropriation.

HEALTH Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. Plagued by bad breath

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 33-year-old healthy woman plagued by chronic bad breath. Toothpaste and mouthwash don't help. I read about cleaning your tongue so I scraped and brushed my tongue like the devil and I still have bad breath. I heard that people often have bad breath because of trouble with their stomach. I do have a nervous stomach. Please send me any information you think will help me solve this problem.

DEAR READER — I'm glad you learned about cleaning the tongue. It is just as important to clean the tongue each time you brush your teeth as it is to clean the teeth. Many people do not realize this. It is a simple matter to brush the tongue and look in the mirror to be sure you have gotten it clean. Food tastes better, too, if you do this.

I have tried to make the point before that bad breath is a symptom. It can be caused from dental problems and anyone with this problem should certainly see his dentist and tell him about his breath problem. There are dental problems you cannot handle yourself even if you take great care in washing your teeth. Some people need dental treatments to get rid of infectious processes around the teeth.

Beyond dental problems are disorders of the sinuses or throat. You may need to see an ear, nose and throat specialist. Incidentally, breathing with the mouth open at night dries out the mouth and tongue, allowing bacteria to multiply and causing a foul breath on arising.

These causes include chemical imbalances in your body. That is why fad diets and starvation can cause people to have bad breath. Stomach disorders do not cause bad breath unless you have food trapped in the lower esophagus. But various medical problems, including certain disorders of the lungs, can.

Mouthwash, breath deodorants and the like may provide very temporary relief, but if the problem is a chemical imbalance or infected sinuses or any number of other causes, don't expect too much help from those highly advertised products.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have heard of taking syrup of Ipecac to induce vomiting. Are there any side effect of this drug? If so what? Is the drug dangerous to take?

DEAR READER — Physicians have suspicious minds so I must ask you why you want to know. If you are thinking of taking it to induce vomiting for weight control, forget it. Induced vomiting can lead to problems. If you are a young girl, your inquiry makes me wonder if you are obsessed with being thin and are well on your way to anorexia nervosa. If my hunch is right, better see your doctor and get your concept of proper body weight into proper perspective.

Syrup of Ipecac in very small doses is used to help loosen up the secretions in the respiratory tract and lungs. That is why it is used in cough medicines. It takes 15 times this amount to induce vomiting. I would consider using enough to induce vomiting something that should be done only by a physician under special circumstances, such as in poisoning.

DEAR DR. LAMB — A lady tells my wife who suffers from arthritis that she should not eat oranges or drink orange juice. I would like to hear your comments on this.

DEAR READER — I'll restrain myself. That is pure nonsense. Many people think there are special diets for arthritis. And since many forms of arthritis are incurable it provides a field day for an unending list of ridiculous recommendations. Gouty arthritis can be helped with a diet but medicines are usually more important. In all other forms of arthritis the important point is to get enough of all healthful nutrients. If a person is overweight, reducing to normal weight is desirable.

A balanced diet certainly includes fresh fruits and vegetables. Orange juice is an important source of vitamin C. And vitamin C is important to connective tissue and healing. It won't cure arthritis but it is an important part of a well-balanced diet to maintain good health. Tell your wife to enjoy her orange juice and other fresh fruits and vegetables.

POLLY'S POINTERS Polly Fisher Drapery samples

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I have many old books of beautiful drapery samples that I've been planning to throw out. Do you or any of your readers have any ideas on what to do with these samples? They are of many different textures and weaves. — J.M.

DEAR J.M. — Your fabric samples could be a gold mine of raw material for any number of craft projects. You could make some beautiful patchwork fabric by piecing together the swatches in either a random or planned pattern. Depending on the character of the final fabric, this could be used for anything from table coverings and bedspreads to skirts and jackets. The weight and texture of the samples you use will determine the most appropriate use of the finished fabric.

If the samples are large enough, they could be used to make small items like doll clothes or book covers. If you don't care to pursue any of these projects yourself, you might call the occupational therapy department of a local nursing home or hospital to see if they'd be interested in using your samples. Children's groups such as the Girl or Boy Scouts might also like to have these fabric swatches. I'm looking forward to hearing other suggestions from our readers. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When blowing out a candle, hold your finger directly in front of the flame. The airflow around your finger will extinguish the flame without blowing drops of hot wax onto the table. — MR. M.

DEAR POLLY — When I get magazines containing craft projects I'd like to make in the future, I write the correct page number and name of the project on the front cover of the magazine. Later, when I decide to make a certain item, I can easily find which magazine contains the directions without leafing through all of them. — LYNETTE

DEAR POLLY — We all know that long distance phone rates are cheaper at night. To take advantage of these rates without inconveniencing the people you're calling, remember these simple guidelines: When placing a call from east to west, call at or after 11:00 p.m. your time. When calling from west to east, place the call in the morning, shortly before 8:00 a.m. — M.E.O.R.

DEAR POLLY — I bake my own bread and store it in the freezer. As soon as the loaf has cooled, I slice the entire loaf before freezing, so that I can remove only what I need at any one time. — ELEANORA

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer should help mothers who have little girls' hair to curl on a busy school morning. A perfect way to iron those wrinkled hair ribbons is to run them through the curling iron, as it does a perfect job in just seconds. This also works on ribbons and belts on dresses. — JANET B.
