Lawyer to view local TRLA situation

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

An investigator with the Legal Services Corporation has responded to citizen requests to visit Hereford and listen to complaints about the local office of Texas Rural Legal Aid.

Wendell Wyly, a staff attorney with the LSC's Washington, D.C. Office of Compliance and Review, is scheduled to arrive in Hereford Thursday afternoon and meet with the public through Saturday. Wyly has spent the past few days meeting in San Antonio with TRLA officials in charge of the local office.

Contacted this morning TRLA's office in San Antonio, Wyly said he has not formed an opinion about the political attitude in Hereford regarding TRLA.

"I'll be there to find out what the complaints are," he stated. "We'll determine if they are valid and what we can do about them."

"I haven't been to Hereford," he added. "So I can't comment on the atmosphere there regarding TRLA."

Meanwhile, a citizens petition drive in connection with alleged political activities of the local legal aid office was to have been concluded tonight so that copies of the signed petitions could be hand delivered to Wyly when he arrives.

While the petitions have supposedly been circulating for the past two weeks, it has only been since Sunday that participants have identified themselves and offered comments to the media. Betty Martin of Louise's Dress Shop in Sugarland Mall told the Brand Tuesday she is one of several Hereford residents who fear TRLA activities discourage new industries from locating in the county.

The petition lists eight separate demands of the Legal Services Corporation, including that Hereford's TRLA office be forced to serve equally the poor of all races. "They need jobs and individual legal help more than social reform," the petition states.

Wyly said he is not sure of what his schedule will be during the three days he is here, but that he will make his time available to anyone who wants to meet with him. On Thursday, Wyly is scheduled to meet at 5 p.m. with the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

Lubbock to host pesticide hearing

Area farmers will have a chance to comment in person about the Texas Department of Agriculture's proposed pesticide safety regulations by attending a TDA hearing Thursday in Lubbock.

The hearing is one of just three taking place in the state following TDA's published report of the regulations in the Texas Register. The meeting is planned for 2 p.m. at the Lubbock Civic Center.

Deaf Smith County Commissioners, without waiting to see if the regulations go into effect as written, Monday voted to make the county regulated under TDA herbicide use guidelines and banned the use of butyl ester 2,4-D during the cotton growing season.

The new regulations are the result of a year-long study by the TDA, beginning when a Pesticide Use Task Force was appointed in November of 1983. The Task Force conducted interviews with farmers, aerial applicators, chemical company representatives, farmworkers and environmentalists before writing the regulations.

King's Manor dinner set Thursday

The annual Founders Day Dinner at King's Manor is scheduled Thursday night with Willia P. Wright Jr. of Abilene as the guest speaker.

The dinner will be held in the Lamar Garden Room beginning at 7 p.m. The dinner is sponsored by the King's Manor Founders Association and all members of the association are invited. Interested persons may attend the dinner by purchasing a $25 annual membership.

Wright is an oil company jobber in Abilene and widely known in the field of photography. He has taught photography at two Abilene colleges. He will present a computerized slide program on China for the program here.

School enrollment down slightly

Three fewer students were enrolled in the Hereford Independent School District Monday than were signed up a week earlier, the HISD weekly report indicates.

A total of 4,848 youngsters were enrolled in the school district at the beginning of this week. At this time last year, 4,918 were on the HISD rolls.

Broken down by primary schools, there were 527 students at Alkman, 547 at Northwest and 458 at Tierra Blanca. West Central paced intermediate school enrollments with 394 while Bluebonnet had 342 and Shirley 318.

La Plata and Stanton Junior High Schools had 567 and 592 students, respectively. At Hereford High School, 901 youngsters were signed up as of Monday.

Stolen Thunderbird recovered

A 1984 Ford Thunderbird stolen last month from Hereford Ford Lincoln Mercury Inc., 201 W. First St., has apparently been recovered, Hereford police reported this morning.

A suspect in the case was being held in Lubbock County Jail Tuesday afternoon as a prisoner of the Lamesa Police Department. According to the local report, the young man and his father are suspected of operating a vehicle theft ring.

The Thunderbird has a retail value of more than $14,000. It was taken from the local lot during the morning of Oct. 3.

Meanwhile Tuesday, Hereford police looked into three incidents of minor theft and one apiece of domestic disturbance and vandalism. One arrest was made on a warrant charge.

Clubs to comment on school renovation

To help board make decision

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Members of 28 local service, study and other varieties of clubs are to be asked their opinions about how the school district should spend its $1.4 million allocated for capital improvements.

In the next few weeks, Hereford Independent School District officials are to appear in pairs at the club gatherings. Information accumulated from those encounters is to be used by the school board when it finalizes its renovation and construction plans.

Among the projects being considered are renovations of Shirley Intermediate, Stanton Junior High and Hereford High Schools. Other possibilities include establishment of media centers at three elementary schools, additions to La Plata Junior High School and an indoor, poor-weather athletic practice facility south of Whiteface Stadium.

Citizens' opinions are especially being sought about the proposed consolidation of the two junior high schools. The La Plata structure would host all HISD seventh and eighth graders while Stanton would become part of HHS, which would add ninth graders to its ranks.

It has been estimated by district officials the junior high revampment would initially save HISD around $140,000 per year. In order for the change to come about, however, around $200,000 would have to be spent on additions to La Plata and Stanton.

A seven-and-a-half-minute filmstrip has been made to help with the club presentations. It was shown Tuesday evening during a regular meeting of the HISD board of education. Several school district personnel helped make the visual aid, including Dan Dudley of HHS and administrator Mal Manchee.

In preparation for dispersement of capital improvements funds, board members Monday agreed to have Lubbock architect Herb Brasher draw up plans for remodeling of Shirley. The decision is non-binding, stressed Bill Townsend, board president.

In other business Tuesday, HISD Superintendent Harrell Holder announced the average daily attendance during a recent four week period was 4,568. That figure is crucial in determining state funding, which is partly based on the "ADA" for that October period.

Dr. Holder said the October ADA proved more than budgeted. Though he described the 96.3 percent attendance as "excellent," Holder noted the percentage was higher during the first four weeks of school.

In order to encourage youngsters to go to school in October, an incentives program was established to award perfect attendance. Helping with the project were three area restaurants which contributed free coupons for approximately $4,000 worth of food.

Eighty-five percent of the district's students managed to attend school every day in October, Holder reported. He claimed it is difficult to gauge, however, if the incentives program had any effect on attendance.

No decision was made on whether to approve a proposed sex education - or "emotional and physical development" - course at the intermediate-school level. The curriculum committee, chaired by Marilyn Culpepper, is to recommend a specific plan for attack at the next school board meeting.

Board members approved nominations for a 15-member textbook selection committee, which is to have Holder as its chairman.

Among the books up for consideration this year are science and math offerings for elementary students, according to Marc Williamson, assistant superintendent for instruction. He called the textbook selection process "a monumental task" and expressed appreciation for the work being done.

Buffalo directors dwell on Stewart Dike

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Despite at least two board members feeling the issue did not merit such attention, the Buffalo Lake Water District board of directors had another spirited discussion of the controversial Stewart Dike at Tuesday night's regular meeting.

The legality of the dam, a matter yet to be resolved between the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Texas Department of Water Resources, has also become a source of contention between the water board and FWS. The TDWR, according to refuge manager Rodney Krey, twice told FWS it did not need an amended permit to reconstruct the dike.

"Then all of a sudden they said we needed one," Krey told the board at Tuesday's meeting held at the refuge center south of Umbarger.

The original permit was issued in

Some feel issue unimportant

1974 for construction of the small holding dike on the west end of the lake. The dike was later damaged by a flood, and Krey began reconstruction two years ago after the drained lake and land surrounding it were turned over to FWS as a wildlife refuge area.

Board member Charlie Johnson has contended the FWS should file an application for an amended permit. But FWS, apparently not wanting to give in so easily, has hired a solicitor to battle it out with TDWR attorneys.

Johnson has claimed those negotiations have taken too long. Tuesday night he challenged the board to get involved in the dispute.

"This is a conflict that we're very much in the center of," Johnson told his fellow board members.

"But it hasn't been given to us to resolve," responded Deaf Smith County board representative Garth Thomas.

Enoch Henderson, who several times asked that the discussion be tabled pending word from the FWS solicitor, finally relented and suggested that Johnson and board president Ted Abrahamson draft a letter stating the board's concern to Charles Nemir, executive director of the TDWR.

Abrahamson later distributed copies of a letter he mailed late last month to Ellis Klett, FWS Assistant Regional Director in Albuquerque. The correspondence was in response to a letter from Klett, read at the October meeting, suggesting that relations between the water board and FWS might be strained if the board continued with its objections to

Stewart Dike. Abrahamson, in essence, told Klett the board does not plan to take any action on the matter "unless requested to act by the Texas Department of Water Resources." He did point out to Klett, however, that the failure of FWS to file an amendment to the water permit "demonstrates your unwillingness to abide by the laws of Texas."

In other business, Krey reported on progress toward completing camping and picnic facilities at the lake area, and how FWS plans to spend the recent $338,000 congressional appropriation announced last month by Rep. Jack Hightower.

Krey also told board members a report by the Bureau of Reclamation which will suggest how to repair the main dam at the lake is expected to be issued "any day now." The BOR's report was due out in September, but the process was slowed because of a needed environmental assessment.

Schlueter says no tax hike coming

AUSTIN (AP) — The legislator who wrote the 1984 tax hike says there'll be no need for an encore in 1985.

Although economic forecasts indicate budget writers face a tight squeeze, House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Stan Schlueter said Tuesday the 1985 Legislature will force the budget to balance without dipping into taxpayers' pockets.

Any temptation to raise taxes was probably killed on election day, he said.

"If there ever was a possibility of a tax bill in the House, that pretty well eliminated that situation," Schlueter, D-Killeen, said of the election, which saw the defeat of several lawmakers who voted for the 1984 tax increase.

That hike added $4.8 billion to state taxes over three years. The money goes to education and highways.

Schlueter's optimistic forecast came after his committee — which gets first shot at tax bills — was given a fairly pessimistic peek at state spending. Estimates have shown the state could be as much as $1 billion short of money for 1986-87.

Parker indictments challenged

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Attorneys defending a state senator charged with four felonies have asked to challenge the makeup of the grand jury that returned the indictment as well as what they say are mistakes in legal documents.

Tom Hanna, a defense attorney for state Sen. Carl Parker, told visiting State District Judge Perry Pickett of Midland Tuesday that six grand jury members had connections with a case in which the Port Arthur Democrat was a defense attorney.

Pickett recessed the hearing Tuesday afternoon without making a ruling and told attorneys to come back to court today.

Parker represented Bernard Fleener, a former Port Arthur deputy school superintendent, in an official misconduct case and testified for him in a subsequent federal suit.

"We are not here today to question the grand jury system," Hanna told Pickett. "We are not here to question the way grand juries are selected. ... A good system can occasionally misfire."

Hanna argued that Parker did not know beforehand he was being investigated and thus could not challenge the makeup of the Jefferson County grand jury that indicted him Sept. 11.

Woman receives death sentence

HOUSTON (AP) — Pamela Lynn Perillo, a hitchhiker who helped rob and strangle a Louisiana mechanic, has been ordered for the second time to be executed.

Ms. Perillo, 28, was sentenced Tuesday to die by injection for the Feb. 24, 1980, killing of 26-year-old Bob Skeens, an auto mechanic from Houma, La.

She and Karla Faye Tucker, who hacked a man to death with a pickax as she and a friend stole his motorcycle, are the only two women under death sentences in Texas.

Ms. Perillo was found guilty in 1981, but that conviction was overturned on appeal because a prospective juror was dismissed for saying he would have difficulty in assessing the death penalty.

Perillo's co-defendant, James Michael Briddle, 28, is on death row for killing Bob Banks, 30, of Houston. Skeens was visiting Banks at the time of the killings.

Both men were strangled with a rope.

Baby Fae back on respirator

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (AP) — Baby Fae, who had been breathing on her own, is back on a respirator and being fed intravenously to preserve strength for the struggle to keep her tiny body from rejecting the baboon heart she received 19 days ago.

The month-old baby's anticipated rejection attempt began Friday and intensified Monday, when she began receiving a second drug to combat her immune system's attack on the foreign organ, Loma Linda University Medical Center spokeswoman Patti Gentry said Tuesday.

Baby Fae, the longest-lived human recipient of a heart from another species, was "active and alert" and responding to the new drug, Ms. Gentry said.

The new drug, lymphocyte immune globulin, was being given intravenously along with cyclosporine-A, another immunosuppressant, and infant formula. Oral feedings were suspended "to reduce stress on her intestinal tract," Ms. Gentry said.

The second drug was introduced Monday because Baby Fae was not responding adequately to the cyclosporine, said hospital spokesman Richard Schaefer. Diminished heart function and urine output have resulted from the rejection, officials said.

Nearsightedness surgery working

ATLANTA (AP) — Surgery to correct nearsightedness by making tiny slices in the cornea of the eye, a procedure hotly debated in ophthalmological circles, improved the eyesight of all 435 people in a government study, a researcher said today.

Seventy-eight percent of the people who underwent the surgery, called radial keratotomy, gained vision of 20-40 or better, and complications were minimal, according to Dr. George Waring of Emory University in Atlanta.

However, it was difficult to predict which patients would benefit most from the operation, added Waring, who described the study's findings at the American Academy of Ophthalmology's annual meeting.

"This variable outcome is one of the major problems facing the patient and surgeon who are considering radial keratotomy for the correction of myopia," the study said.

Nearsightedness, or myopia, is caused by a slightly misshapen cornea, the clear front portion of the eye.

President Marcos opponent slain

ZAMBOANGA CITY, Philippines (AP) — Mayor Cesar Climaco, a vocal and longtime opponent of President Ferdinand E. Marcos, was shot and killed today by a gunman who fled into a field of tall grass and eluded scores of officers searching for him.

The popular 68-year-old mayor, described by one opposition figure as a "pillar" of the nation's anti-Marcos forces, won a race in last May's national parliamentary elections but refused his seat because he did not want to step down as mayor of Zamboanga City, 540 miles southeast of Manila.

In Manila, news of Climaco's death was flashed on the government's television station, and Marcos promptly ordered acting armed forces chief Lt. Gen. Fidel V. Ramos to personally handle the investigation of the killing as Climaco's opposition colleagues voiced outrage.

Climaco has recently been critical of the military and police in Zamboanga for allowing the city's security situation to deteriorate.

Shuttle crew captures second stray satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Shouting "I've got it!" free-flying astronaut Dale Gardner corralled the stranded Westar 6 satellite today, making it 2-for-2 for Discovery's spacewalking salvage crew.

"It's perfect ... beautiful," Gardner exclaimed as he speared the satellite's engine nozzle with a lance-like locking pole.

A magnificent television picture from the spaceship showed Gardner slowly approaching and then snaring the slowly-spinning target against a backdrop of the blue, cloud-mottled Earth and its horizon.

"You do good work," commented his space-walking companion, Joe Allen, who had captured another wayward satellite, Palapa B2, on Monday.

Gardner latched onto Westar just 8 minutes after he cast free of Discovery's open cargo bay to cross a 35-foot chasm between the two spacecraft. He was propelled by spurts of nitrogen gas from his rocket backpack.

Allen attached a tether to Westar and then gripped an antenna on the top, holding it steady so that Gardner could attach a berthing collar on the bottom.

Together they would lower the satellite into the bay and latch it next to Palapa for return to Earth on Friday.

Allen's mount was a change worked out to make it "a heck of a lot easier" to secure the satellite than the unplanned muscle job they were forced to use in placing Palapa in the bay on Monday.

The spacewalkers, as they did with Palapa, still had to manhandle Westar through some maneuvers, but with Allen rooted on the work station, the task was easier.

In contrast to Monday, Gardner was able to work outside the craft instead of in the bay. He showed his pleasure when he commented, "I've got all the world in which to work here. This is no problem." He added, "Boy, what a view," as he took a quick peek at the globe below.

As Gardner worked, Allen tipped or rolled Westar according to his companion's bidding.

After stabilizing Westar, Gardner began maneuvering the 21-by-7-foot package toward Allen, whose boots were planted firmly in a foot restraint on a "cherry picker" work station mounted on the end of the shuttle's 50-foot robot arm. Astronaut Anna Fisher controlled the arm movements from a post inside the cabin.

Maneuvering the 1,200-pound payload was no problem in the weightlessness of space, even though man and machine were racing around the globe at 17,400 mph.

Restaurant shootings trial testimony ending

DALLAS (AP) — As testimony drew to a close in the worst murder case in Dallas history, jurors were told that the defendant is a dangerous sociopath who could be expected to kill again.

Abdelkrim Belachheb pleaded innocent by reason of insanity in the shooting spree that left six people dead and another wounded at Ianni's Restaurant and Club early June 29.

Belachheb faces life in prison if convicted of murder and attempted murder. If the jury finds for the defense, he could be committed to a mental institution.

State District Judge Gerry Meier scheduled final arguments for 9:30 a.m. today. The case was expected to go then to the jury after a two-and-a-half week trial in which the defense tried to portray the Moroccan native as a brain-damaged paranoid who didn't know right from wrong at the time of the shootings.

Assistant District Attorney Norman Kinne called witnesses who have portrayed Belachheb as a "man on the make" who became angry after he was rebuffed by a female patron at Ianni's nightclub.

Defense attorney Frank Jackson tried to discredit prosecution testimony, arguing that insufficient psychological testing was done on the defendant and that he was not tested for brain damage.

But state witnesses stood firm in final testimony Tuesday.

"This man has a diagnosis of alcohol abuse, sociopathic personality and narcissism," said Dr. Clay Griffith, a Dallas psychiatrist. "You can expect that this man is going to commit more murders and assaults ... no matter where he is. He's going to be dangerous."

Griffith also called Belachheb a "liar" who showed no signs of brain damage and no remorse for what he had done.

A Boston psychiatrist testified last week that Belachheb suffered periodic "psychotic episodes" stemming from past severe head injuries.

Dr. Sheldon Zigelbaum said that Belachheb was in an "altered state of consciousness" the night of the killings.

In contrast to defense witnesses who said Belachheb suffers periodic memory losses, Tuesday's witnesses said Belachheb remembered details down to the type of drink he had at the bar before the shootings.

In a last-ditch effort to discredit the prosecution's rebuttal, Jackson called a New York psychiatrist as a character witness to say that the prosecution's star witness, has a bad reputation among colleagues.

Dr. Abraham L. Halpern, president of the American Board of Forensic Psychiatry, said that Dr. James P. Grigson "should not be believed regarding his conclusions about the mental conditions of a defendant in a criminal trial."

Grigson, a Dallas psychiatrist, testified that Belachheb is a "severe sociopath" without a conscience.

Grigson told the eight-woman, four-man jury this week that Belachheb was functioning normally the night of the shootings and had faked psychiatric examinations and memory losses to show he was insane.

Grigson also discounted other psychiatric findings as "subjective," saying psychological tests given the defendant were not designed for a "criminal mind."

In earlier testimony, witnesses said that Belachheb admitted the shootings shortly after they occurred and knew he had done wrong.

Mohammed Benali, an acquaintance of Belachheb's, said the defendant went to his home immediately after the shootings and said he had just "shot a bunch of people."

SCHOOL

Larry Wartes, assistant HISD superintendent, reported nearly $1.85 million in property taxes were gathered for the school district in October. That represents 61 percent of the total owed and Wartes felt it was an "exceptional" collection rate for the first month.

Two resignations were accepted by the board Tuesday: Louisa Boyce from Aikman Primary School and Nelva Swopes from Stanton. Added as replacements were Velma Arroyos at Aikman and Janice Faulkner at Stanton.

Cotton Grower Comments

Deaf Smith County farmer Raymond Schlabs was one of just two farmers who commented during Monday's county commission meeting. The court later voted to respond to pleas from a delegation of Parmer and Deaf Smith County farmers and ban 2,4-D use during the summer months.

African group wanting conference on famine

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — The Organization of African Unity is calling for an international conference on ways to combat the famine that is killing hundreds of thousands of Africans and threatening "continental catastrophe."

The OAU's acting secretary-general, Peter Onu, said it was "absolutely necessary" to convene a meeting of experts from Africa and the rest of the world so they can "share their experience with us."

Onu, a Nigerian, made the appeal Tuesday as he delivered a report on Africa's current problems to delegates at the OAU's 20th summit.

The secretary-general's statement followed a call last week by M. Peter McPherson, a top U.S. aid official, for a meeting of donor nations, including the Soviet Union.

McPherson estimated 7 million lives are at risk in Ethiopia alone and famine conditions are expected to worsen in Niger, Mali, Chad, Sudan and Kenya. A senior Western envoy has estimated 900,000 Ethiopians will have died by the end of 1984. Onu told OAU delegates: "The experts tell us that food supply and agricultural production recorded sharp declines in their growth rates from 3.7 and 3.4 percent in 1981 and 1982, respectively, to as low as 0.2 and 0.4 percent for 1982 and 1983."

"Even if statistics do not have much meaning to us, what we do know is that hundreds of thousands of people are dying because we are no longer able to produce our own staple foodstuffs," he said.

"We are told 36 member states of the OAU are facing critical food problems," said Onu, whose organization has 50 members. He said that 27 of the 36 are considered by the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization to be dependent on outside food aid.

In an apparent reference to a burst of media coverage the Ethiopian famine has received in recent weeks, Onu said the African drought and famine problem has "received wide international discussion and attention."

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor;

M. Stanton Eavns, in one of his columns, stated that Ronald Reagan's real opponent was not Walter Mondale, but the national media.

Patrick J. Buchanan, in one of his columns, reported that about a dozen of his friends listened to the Kansas City debate analyses by the media heavies incredulously, having difficulty believing that the debate could be awarded to Fritz Mondale even "on points."

This is leading up to the fact that I find it incredible that, knowing we are amply exposed to the TV networks and their views, our local press would print such a political cartoon as appeared in the November HEREFORD BRAND. I can see no purpose in it other than "trashing" the President. Since THE BRAND supported the Reagan-Bush candidacy, I am puzzled about its being printed.

As to the cartoon printed the following day - what's its point? I realize that it is negative toward the President, but does the cartoonist wish our Marines were still in Beirut?

Since I matured in the olden days, far ahead of the "Flower Children" era, I will use the closing form taught to me by my English teachers.

Sincerely yours,
Mary E. Williamson
Hereford, Tx, 79045

Dear Mrs. Williamson:

Our policy on letters to the editor is not to respond unless we are requested to do so. Since the questions are addressed to Brand policy, we feel an answer is appropriate.

While this newspaper is listed in press directories as having an "Independent" political policy, we do not restrict our news columns to only one view. We realize some of our readers are amply exposed to the liberal views of network tv and national media, but we still feel obligated to present some of those opinions to our readers.

Personally, I did not like the cartoons to which you refer, but I'm sure some readers with strict Democrat Party views may have considered them humorous. We supported the Reagan-Bush ticket in our personal column, but we strive not to impose our views throughout the newspaper.

Freedom of the Press belongs to the people, not just to folks who publish newspapers.

(Incidentally, I appreciate your contribution to the "letter-closing" question which I posed on the Al Dziuk and Garth Thomas letters. Since I also matured ahead of the "flower children", I will close with: Sincerely yours, O.G. Nieman, Publisher.)

Ann Landers

One day at a time

DEAR ANN: I read about fortune-tellers in your column years ago and paid little attention. Then one of my friends went to a "trance medium." For $40 this woman recited several incidents from her past and present and also predicted the future.

My friend assured me the trance lady was upbeat and positive and I had nothing to worry about. I called for an appointment, drove to the hotel room where she worked and gave her $40.

She went into a light trance and proceeded to tell me several things that would happen during the next 10 to 20 years. Most of the future she predicted was pleasant but one omission was particularly upsetting. When she awoke from her trance she asked if I had any questions. "What about children?" was all I could ask. I was 24, newly wed and had always wanted a family. She closed her eyes for a minute, then informed me that she didn't see any children in my future.

Ann, I was devastated. I cried all the way home and lived with a kind of aching sadness for the next year. I talked to several friends about it and their reassurances gave me some comfort. I promised myself if my story had a happy ending, I would share it with your readers to forestall other eager beavers from jumping into the same kind of trouble.

Thank God, I now have a happy healthy, wonderful 8-month-old son. But believe me, my pregnancy was filled with anxiety and fear. For heaven's sake, if there is anyone out there who is tempted to go to a fortune-teller, save yourself the money, needless worry and pain. What will be, will be. Don't interfere with the Maker's natural scheme of letting life unfold one day at a time.—A Fox On All Prognosticators.

DEAR POX: Those gazers are awfully good guessers. Thanks for shattering their crystal balls.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a problem. Can you please help? There is nobody I can ask. I am 15 years old and have a 12-year-old girlfriend. She claims she is pregnant. Can this really be? We only had sex once. Can a girl be pregnant the first time? We were just seeing what it was like after watching a movie on cable TV. We are too young to be parents, aren't we? Please hurry with your answer. I need to know if it's possible and what to do.—Trouble In Metroplex

DEAR METROPLEX: It IS possible for a 12-year-old girl to become pregnant the first time she has sex. You should both tell your parents at once and decide together on the best course of action for all concerned.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Here's the perfect solution for the woman whose husband refuses to take a shower.

I know the type. That slob will never take a shower unless his wife makes it interesting or fun. I suggest that when SHE takes a shower she invite him to join her.

No man will turn that down!—An Original Thinker In Michigan

DEAR MICHIGAN: Your "original" thought was shared by at least 500 others. Thanks to all who wrote. The suggestion is certainly worth a try.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious—lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Annual Smoke-Out

It's once again time for non-smokers to encourage the smokers to quit the cigarette habit for a day. The American Cancer Society says that the risk of developing lung cancer is 10 times greater for smokers than for non-smokers and that if the number of smokers was reduced by half, 75,000 lives would be saved each year. In cooperation with the society, Mayor Wes Fisher proclaims Thursday as the Great American Smoke-Out and urges non-smokers to 'adopt' a smoker. Witnessing the signing is Kee Ruland, chairman of public education for the local Society.

Charles II was crowned King of England and Scotland in 1651. His coronation came two years after his father had been executed by the parliamentary court.

First Cub in 25 years

Sandberg named MVP

By NICK GERANIOS Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — It had been 25 years since a Chicago Cubs player was voted Most Valuable Player in the National League. Second baseman Ryne Sandberg, who led the Cubs to their first baseball title in 39 years, has ended that bleak spell in a big way.

Sandberg received 22 of the 24 first-place votes cast by a Baseball Writers Association of America panel to become the first Cub MVP since Ernie Banks, who captured the honor for the second consecutive year in 1959.

"It really is an honor to receive the award, but without a doubt I'd rather be wearing a World Series ring right now," Sandberg said Tuesday night after the announcement.

The Cubs won the National League East title but never made it to the Series because they were defeated by San Diego in the league championship playoffs.

Sandberg, who also had two second-place votes, totaled 326 points in the balloting, easily outdistancing first baseman Keith Hernandez of the New York Mets, who finished with 195. Batting champion Tony Gwynn of the San Diego Padres was third with 184 points. Hernandez and Gwynn each had one first-place vote.

Chicago pitcher Rick Sutcliffe, a free agent after winning the Cy Young Award earlier this month, finished fourth with 151 points and Cub left fielder Gary Matthews was fifth with 70 points. Chicago catcher Jody Davis was 10th with 49 points.

Atlanta outfielder Dale Murphy, the NL MVP each of the past two years, finished ninth this time with 52½ points.

"There's no question this is the biggest thrill of my career," Sandberg, 25, said by telephone from a ship in Mexico, where he was on a cruise with other members of the Cubs and team executives. "I'm a little bit amazed."

Chicago Manager Jim Frey was not amazed.

"I've said for the last couple of months I thought it was a one-horse race," Frey said by telephone. "Nobody in the league is deserving of the award more than Ryne Sandberg."

Sandberg batted .314 with 36 doubles, 19 triples, 19 home runs, 84 runs batted in and 32 stolen bases as the Cubs captured the NL East, their first title since the team won the pennant in 1945.

Coach on scrimmage Tuesday

Whitefaces show improvement

Hereford girls basketball coach Larry Sowers said today that the Whitefaces showed signs of improvement in their scrimmage with Panhandle and River Road Tuesday, but that his team still "has a long way to go."

Hereford won the scrimmage, in Amarillo, 62-38.

"We played pretty good," Sowers said. "We've still got a lot of work to do, though. Right now, we're still at a point where we haven't made up our minds about what we're supposed to do."

Sowers said his team improved offensively from a week ago when the Whitefaces scrimmaged Sudan and Canyon in Canyon.

Regular season opens for both boys and girls next Tuesday when Hereford hosts Levelland. Junior varsity games begin at 4:30 p.m.

with the girls varsity game to follow at 6 p.m. Boys play at 7:45 p.m.

The boys team will scrimmage at Canyon Saturday.

Although the girls team still may have a lot of work to do before Tuesday, Sowers said he felt the Whitefaces would be ready.

"We've just got to make up our minds to do what it takes," he said again, "especially on defense and rebounding."

The coach added that the Whitefaces are facing one of the toughest schedules ever. The girls have scheduled Levelland, Dimmitt, Clovis and are to take part in the Levelland tournament this year. These games are in addition to their District 3-5A games.

In a basketball scrimmage, free-throw shooting is not a part of the contest except on shooting fouls.

TENNIS

TREVISIO, Italy (AP) — Tim Wilkison and John Sadri won first-round matches in the $75,000 City of Treviso tennis tournament.

Wilkison, seeded second, downed Pascal Portes of France 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, while the third-seeded Sadri, breezed past Ricky Meyer 6-3, 6-4.

Olympians pro-boxing debut

Card competitive, promoter says

By ED SCHUYLER JR. AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The pro debuts of six Olympic boxers at Madison Square Garden is "as competitive as any card could be hoped to be," says Dan Duva, sounding like the promoter he is.

"I agree 100 percent these matches are as competitive as possible," says Cool Hand Luke Lecce, who will box in a six-round lightweight bout against Meldrick Taylor of Philadelphia, who was the Olympic featherweight champion at Los Angeles.

All six opponents for the Olympians Thursday night have winning records, but they are relatively inexperienced as pros and most of them have had fewer actual fights than the Olympians have had.

There are also questions about how serious the "opponents" are about boxing.

One of them, Mike Evans of Los Angeles, is a former top amateur wrestler, who is actor who has had parts in a few television series and is seen as a champion fighter on a televised beer commercial. On the commercial, he says to a young opponent after a sparring session, "Hey, you'll get your chance."

Evans will get his chance at national attention as a boxer when he fights a six-round bout against Tyrell Biggs of Philadelphia, the Olympic super heavyweight champion.

Evans has a 3-1-1 record, with one knockout. His loss was on a first-round knockout by Rickey Reece Aug. 26, 1983, at Los Angeles.

"Once I got hit by an experienced fighter, I had enough sense to stay down and say, 'Hey, I'm not ready,'" Evans said Tuesday at a news conference for the "opponents."

Lecce, of Pittsburgh, has a business degree from Duquesne University. He has a 14-2-1 record, with eight knockouts, but lost his last two fights on a decision and on a ninth-round knockout by Charlie "White Lightning" Brown April 5 at Atlantic City, N.J.

But Chuck Nelson, Lecce's manager, said Lecce wasn't here just for a payday — the opponents will get from $3,500 to $5,000 each. "Luke is nobody's lunch meat," said Nelson. "He didn't come here to be an opponent."

In three other six-round bouts,

Mark Breland of New York, the highly publicized Olympic welterweight champion, with a 110-1 amateur record, with 74 knockouts, will box Dwight Williams of Syracuse, N.Y.; Pernell Whitaker of Norfolk, Va., the lightweight gold medalist, will meet Farrain Comeaux of Nederland, Texas, and Evander Holyfield of Atlanta, a bronze medalist as a light heavyweight, will box Lionel Byarm of Philadelphia.

Breland is getting $100,000; Whitaker, Holyfield and Biggs are getting $75,000 each, and Taylor is receiving $50,000. Their opponents are being paid from $3,500 to $5,000 apiece.

For fourth time

TCU back SWC tops

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — If The Associated Press Southwest Conference Offensive Player of the Week award was a traveling trophy, Texas Christian's Kenneth Davis would have retired it.

Davis earned the accolade for the fourth time this season for another awesome performance that included three touchdowns, including a 75-yard run, and 203 yards rushing in a 27-16 victory over Texas Tech. It was his third game over 200 yards this year, an SWC record.

The AP's defensive Player of the Week is University of Houston cornerback DeWayne Bowden, the slowest member of the Cougar secondary. His teammates never let him forget it.

"They always rub it in about my speed but as far as I'm concerned, I know how to play pass defense," the Bay City senior said. "They always tease me about it. They ask do I want to race. I tell them no because I don't want to surprise them."

Davis is deceptively fast for a player weighing 200 pounds, the Tech defenders discovered.

"Is he ever amazing?" asked TCU Coach Jim Wacker. "We keep thinking week after week that someone is going to shut him down. He definitely has given us a lifetime of big plays this season. And he has thrown some pretty good blocks, too."

A four-round bout will match Virgil Hill of Los Angeles, the silver medalist as a middleweight, against Pedro Montero of Franklin Square, N.Y.

Williams is 7-1, with two knockouts; Comeaux is 10-0, with six knockouts; Byarm is 9-1-2, with four knockouts, and Montero is 5-6, with one knockout.

Byarm is called the "Brown Bomber" because he bears an amazing facial resemblance to the late Joe Louis.

Whitaker's fight will be taped for showing, while, in order, the Holyfield, Whitaker, Biggs and Breland bouts will be televised live.

Davis, who has 1,368 yards and has already broken Jim Swink's single season rushing record at TCU, needs three more yards to tie Swink's career TCU rushing record of 2,618 yards.

"I don't know what to say about records and such but it is fun running for touchdowns," said Davis.

Bowden saved his surprises for the Texas Longhorns last week.

They included a pair of interceptions, one of which he returned 62 yards for a touchdown that helped ice a 29-15 upset victory. The other theft initiated an 80-yard Houston touchdown drive.

Bowden is the third Cougar defender to be selected this season for the AP honor.

Bowden now has nine career interceptions and four have been at the Thompson uncertain about ranking

Georgetown highlights basketball poll

NEW YORK (AP) — In college basketball, there is only one way to be acclaimed No. 1, and Georgetown Coach John Thompson knows it isn't by voting. He thinks, though, that polls have a place.

"They're a lot of fun for the sporting public," Thompson said during a recent news conference. "They should be done because people enjoy them."

The teams settle the issue of which is really No. 1 by facing off in the NCAA Tournament, which Thompson's Hoyas won last spring. Based on that achievement and the return of two-time All-American center Patrick Ewing and several of his teammates, Georgetown was a solid choice for No. 1 in an Associated Press preseason poll announced Tuesday that was devoid of some familiar names.

North Carolina, ranked No. 1 much of last season, finished 21st in the voting, marking the first time in a dozen years that Dean Smith's Tar Heels failed to make the preseason list.

And, UCLA didn't get a single vote, the first time the Bruins have been overlooked in the preseason since Coach John Wooden took the Bruins to the Final Four in 1962.

Also absent were Houston, a Final Four participant the last three years; Virginia, a Final Four surprise last season, and National Invitation Tournament champion Michigan.

Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell did not agree with the pollsters regarding North Carolina, suggesting that "anybody who says Carolina isn't going to be good is full of malarkey. I still pick them No. 1" in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"We really do have some fine young players," said Smith. "We don't know how well we'll do as a team. I think it's safe to say that we're just a big question mark."

Junior guard Michael Jackson, one of the returning stars from Georgetown's 34-3 club, agreed with Thompson in attaching no particular significance to the preseason balloting.

"As long as we're winning and we're happy with ourselves, that's all we need," Jackson said. "We don't think of the media attention and the rest of it as something that affects us."

Georgetown garnered 55 first-place votes and 1,248 points in easily outdistancing Illinois, which got four first-place votes and 1,044 points. DePaul had three first-place votes and Indiana had the other to place third and fourth, respectively, and Oklahoma was fifth.

The balance of the Top 10 included, in order, Duke, St. John's, Memphis State, Washington and Southern Methodist.

The second 10, in order, was Nevada-Las Vegas, Syracuse, North Carolina State, Louisiana State, Virginia Tech, Arkansas, Louisville, Kentucky, Kansas and Georgia Tech.

USFL franchise relocates again

Breakers make move to Portland

By BOB BAUM AP Sports Writer
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — First they were the Boston Breakers, then they were the New Orleans Breakers. Now, meet the Portland Breakers.

The most-traveled franchise in the United States Football League made it official Tuesday when Commissioner Chet Simmons announced the Breakers would move to Portland — their third home in as many seasons.

The move was made even though the team will be playing in Civic Stadium, an aging but recently refurbished structure that seats just 32,500 — far below the USFL's required capacity of 50,000.

Simmons and Breakers' owner Joe Canizaro said the size of the stadium would be adequate — temporarily.

Simmons said the league granted a waiver of the rule because of other factors, especially the size of the television market in the Portland area. Portland's market is the 21st largest in the country and is larger than seven National Football League and six USFL markets.

However, Simmons emphasized the waiver is only temporary and Canizaro said team officials will begin immediately to promote construction of a domed stadium.

Capacity crowds at Civic Stadium would be an indication that a bigger stadium is needed, Simmons said.

Canizaro, a real estate developer in New Orleans, said he was involved in the development of the Superdome and is convinced a domed facility could be built in Portland if the Breakers are successful.

Simmons appeared at a crowded news conference with Canizaro, Oregon Gov. Vic Atiyeh and several officials of the team and the city.

The arrival of the USFL marks Portland's first venture into professional football since two disastrous seasons with the old World Football League.

"I find this is an extraordinarily important day for the United States Football League and the city of Portland," Simmons said.

"I believe we're getting a terrific sports market and are opening the entire Pacific Northwest to the league, and that is something I have coveted."

Canizaro also praised Portland

ASU place-kicker goes for NCAA mark Saturday

By WALTER BERRY AP Sports Writer

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona State place-kicker Luis Zendejas, two points away from becoming NCAA football's all-time leading scorer, says he is tempted "to do something different" to break the record here Saturday night.

"Some of the guys are saying I should kick the points left-footed," the right-footed soccer-styler said. "But you know what I really want to do? I want to score on a two-point conversion."

Or, "We fake the field goal and the holder throws a pass to me. Wouldn't that be great? I'd break the record and score my first touchdown all on the same play."

Zendejas has 355 career points — one behind former Pittsburgh running back and Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett, who set the record from 1973-76.

The 5-foot-9, 186-pound senior scored 14 points on three field goals and five conversions last Saturday in a 44-10 win at Oregon. The effort enabled him to move into sole possession of second place ahead of former Army running back Glenn Davis, who compiled 354 points from 1943-46.

The Sun Devils, 4-5 overall on the season, host hapless Colorado State (3-7) in a non-conference game

Saturday night. They close out their schedule Nov. 24 in Tucson against archrival Arizona.

An Associated Press All-America selection in 1983, Zendejas entered this season just 61 points shy of Dorsett and appeared a shoo-in to break the record.

But after he missed a potential game-tying 27-yard field goal in a 6-3 loss to Southern Cal here Sept. 22, fans began to have doubts.

"It would have been easy to say, 'OK, I can't do it.' But I took the other attitude," he said. "I told myself there was no way I was going to miss it. I was always positive."

Moriarty, Duhe outstanding players

NEW YORK (AP) — Running back Larry Moriarty was named the American Football Conference offensive player of the week and linebacker A.J. Duhe of the unbeaten Miami Dolphins won the defensive prize.

Moriarty gained 117 yards on 29 carries as the Oilers beat the Kansas City Chiefs 17-16 for their first triumph in 11 games this season and their first in 24 games on the road.

Duhe had nine tackles and an assist as the Dolphins squeaked by the Philadelphia Eagles 24-23.

NBA roundup

Former North Carolina star bombs Chicago with 45 points

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer
Michael Jordan is quickly proving to the rest of the National Basketball

Association that there is little he doesn't know about scoring and dazzling crowds.

Learning to play defense against other NBA stars may take a little while, however.

The 6-foot-6 rookie from North Carolina scored 45 points, including 16 in the decisive fourth quarter, and hit 18 of 27 shots from the field Tuesday night to lead the Chicago Bulls to a 120-117 victory over the San Antonio Spurs.

Afterward, however, he admitted, "I still need a little help from my friends."

Jordan was referring to the switch Coach Kevin Loughery made on defense, taking the rookie off high-scoring George Gervin and giving Orlando Woolridge the assignment.

"I was having some difficulty, but the move was called for and turned out to be even more important because I was able to double-team Gervin and not worry about Gene Banks, who was my assignment," Jordan said.

Jordan's few problems on defense pale in comparison with the show he put on at the other end of the court.

His 45 points was the most by a Bulls player since Dec. 22, 1982, when Reggie Theus scored 46 against the Boston Celtics.

Rockets 106, Cavaliers 98

Houston remained the NBA's only unbeaten team with a victory over Cleveland, the league's only winless team.

The Rockets, 8-0, did it with balanced scoring as Lewis Lloyd had 20 points, rookie Akeem Olajuwon 19, Ralph Sampson 17 and John Lucas and Robert Reid 16 apiece.

Nuggets 122, Suns 110

Surprising Denver won its fourth in a row and stayed just 1½ games behind Houston in the Midwest Division by beating Pacific-leading Phoenix.

The game was tied 84-84 going into the fourth quarter, but NBA scoring leader Alex English scored 18 of his 38 points in the final 12 minutes as the Nuggets pulled away.

Bucks 110, Hawks 99

Sidney Moncrief scored nine of his 27 points on fourth-quarter free throws as Milwaukee stayed tied for first place with the Bulls by winning at Atlanta.

The Hawks, who got 21 points from Dominique Wilkins, went ahead 87-86 early in the final period, but were outscored 14-3 down the stretch.

Mavericks 101, Blazers 94

Dallas overcame a 32-15 deficit by outscoring Portland 60-38 in the second half.

The Mavericks trailed 74-67 going into the fourth quarter, but Dale Ellis scored 12 of his 18 points and Mark Aguirre seven of his team-high 21 in the final 12 minutes.

Mychal Thompson and Jim Paxson scored 25 points apiece for the Trail Blazers.

Bullets 103, Knicks 92

Washington got five points from Gus Williams during an 11-0 fourth-quarter streak that broke open a close game against New York.

Williams, who led all scorers with 21 points, ended the rally that gave the Bullets a 90-77 lead with a three-point play and a layup.

Bernard King led the Knicks with 18 points.

SuperSonics 109, Warriors 92

Tom Chambers and Ricky Sobers combined for 11 points during a 16-3 Seattle rally that overcame Golden State.

The Sonics led only 88-87 with nine minutes left, but by the 4:14 mark, they had a 104-90 margin.

Chambers led Seattle with 26 points, while Eric Floyd paced the Warriors with 19.

Nets 99, Clippers 90
New Jersey led most of the way but had to defuse a late Los Angeles rally.

The Nets never trailed after the first quarter and led by 11 early in the second half, but the Clippers cut the deficit to 85-83 with less than four minutes left.

But a three-point play by Micheal Ray Richardson put New Jersey ahead by five and Los Angeles never got close again.

saying the support shown since his arrival here last week is what convinced him to make the move.

The news conference was held under a "Portland Breakers" banner. Canizaro said he would not change the team's nickname unless there was overwhelming fan interest in doing so.

Canizaro paid $8 million to purchase the then-Boston Breakers a year ago and move them to New Orleans last season. He has said he lost $5 million in the Superdome.

Citing the unwillingness to take on the market established by the NFL Saints, Canizaro decided to either move the team or merge it with the Birmingham Stallions after the USFL owners decided to switch from a spring to fall season effective in 1985.

The Breakers' owner called Portland a "big league city," citing the success of the Trail Blazer National Basketball Association franchise.

expense of the Longhorns. He had two interceptions in last year's 9-3 Texas victory.

Bowden's improvement at the corner coincides with an overall team improvement that started following an embarrassing 30-28 loss early in the season to Louisville, Coach Bill Yeoman said.

"His confidence has grown and right now he's what you'd call an over-achiever," Yeoman said. "What I mean is he's a good athlete but not a great athlete. He just goes and gets things done."

Yeoman pointed to a sack of Texas quarterback Bret Stafford as an example.

"He got blocked to the ground, got up and made the tackle," Yeoman said. "That's what I mean, he gets things done."

Bowden also traces the team's and his improvement to the Louisville game.

"At the start of the year, let's just say that we were only playing two or three quarters per game," Bowden said. "We weren't playing in the fourth quarter but when we started trying to play 60 minutes, we got better and better each week."

Christian author to speak this weekend

Keith Miller will speak on his newest book, "The Scent of Love," at First Presbyterian Church on Friday at 7:30 p.m., Saturday at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., and on Sunday at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Miller is perhaps best known as the author of the book "The Taste of New Wine," published in 1965. An oil-entrepreneur-turned-author, his experience in business management blended with his own spiritual thirst, resulting in a direct, honest approach to faith.

In 1950, he graduated from the University of Oklahoma with a bachelor's degree in business administration. He subsequently studied theology at Berkeley Divinity School in New Haven, Conn., and received graduate degrees from Earlham School of Religion in Richmond, Ind., in theology and the University of Texas in psychology-counseling.

Throughout the past 20 years, Miller has addressed national denominational meetings of the Disciples of Christ, American Baptist Convention, United Methodist Men, Congregationalist, and the Southern Baptist Pastors. He was also the speaker at the preaching series of the General Convention of the Episcopal Church, as well as the New England Evangelistic Association's annual meeting in Boston, Mass.

At one time, he was the only layman to have appeared on NBC's national radio series, "The Art of Living," and he also spoke with Billy Graham and Oswald Hoffman at the national Congress on Evangelism held in Minneapolis, Minn., in 1971.

He has led seminars at numerous churches, colleges and seminaries, and weekend conferences, and at several pastor's conferences including the New England Pastor's conference. He has spoken at the American Management Association graduate school and at the Young President's Organization.

In addition, he has also spoken at numerous national Christian singles' conferences. In 1980, Miller was the keynote speaker at the first national convention of the Anglican Church of New Zealand.

He has continued to write and lecture, and is deeply committed to communicating about the Christian life. He was a regular columnist in Faith At Work magazine and has written numerous magazine articles.

Of NBC for the season

CBS wins week big, moves ahead

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite an atypical week caused by election coverage, CBS provided a typical result with another weekly victory and a return to its familiar position as the season's frontrunner in the Nielsen ratings.

Led by "Dallas," "60 Minutes" and the first installment of the miniseries "Ellis Island," CBS moved past NBC, which had led since its World Series broadcasts in early October.

For the seven weeks of the season, CBS has averaged a 16.9 rating to NBC's 16.6 and ABC's 15.2. CBS has won the prime-time ratings derby the past five seasons, while NBC has finished third for the last decade.

Weekly figures released Tuesday by the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed that CBS, with seven of the top 10 shows, averaged a 17.7 rating. ABC was second with a 14.9 rating and NBC had a 14.1 rating.

A rating measures the percentage of the nation's 84.9 million homes with television watching any given minute of prime time.

It was NBC's misfortune that election night fell on Tuesday, preempting the network's popular series, "The A-Team" and "Riptide."

"My guess is that if the election were held on Wednesday night (ABC's strongest night), NBC would have finished second and ABC third," said Mike Eisenberg, CBS' director of audience measurement.

CBS was the favored network on election night, but the three-network ratings declined 24 percent from 1980 and were well off a typical Tuesday night of entertainment programming. All the individual hours of the networks' election coverage finished in the bottom half of the week's 75 shows.

The nation's first choice for the week was "Dallas," in which Donna Reed was making her first appearance as the Ewing family matriarch, Miss Ellie. With a 26.2 rating, CBS' prime-time serial maintained its lead over rival "Dynasty" for the season. The ABC soap had a 25.7 rating last week.

For the week ending Nov. 11, CBS' "60 Minutes" was third, Part One of "Ellis Island," the saga of American immigrants in the early 1900s, was fourth and CBS' "Cagney & Lacey" fifth.

American Legion members attend fall convention

Members of Hereford American Legion Post 192 took part in the 18th District of the American Legion, Department of Texas, annual fall convention held in Amarillo Saturday. James Jesko was chairman of the credentials committee with Robert Lohr also a member.

Grant Hanna, as chairman of the Resolution Committee, presented the committee's report to the convention. One resolution read was in support of the Texas sesquicentennial in 1978. Legionaire Hanna also gave the response to the welcoming address.

Other local delegates were Past Department Sergeant-At-Arms Carlos Vaughn and Commander Mary Williamson.

A mini-college on the Legion and its programs was given by the Assistant Department Adjutant Jim Landers who also was the speaker for the banquet.

The next convention will be held in the spring of 1985 at Vega. The 18th District includes most of the Panhandle.

At race tracks, the favorite wins fewer than 30 percent of all horse races.

CowBelle Of The Year

Charmayne Klett, right, received a charm pin from Mildred Garrison during Tuesday's CowBelle meeting for being chosen CowBelle of the Year for 1984. Klett is the current president of the organization and has served in other local capacities as well as beef promotion delegate. She will be serving soon on the state level of CowBelles, the board of directors.

Abundant Life

Bob Wear

IT IS ESSENTIAL that all of us try to learn the difference between helping, when we can help, and meddling in the affairs of others. It is right to help, when we can and when the help is acceptable; it is a mistake to be presumptuous and pushy to the extent that we are found meddling in the lives of other people.

MEDDLING IS to interest ourselves unnecessarily or impertinently in that which pertains to other folk, to interfere in their personal life situation.

WE MUST zero in on the things with which we must be properly concerned and leave other things alone.

We must not overload ourselves every day by letting ourselves be concerned about things that are none of our business. It is possible to make this overload even heavier by permitting ourselves to be concerned about the things over which we have no control, about which we can do nothing. If and when we do such things, we are making ourselves incapable of doing our possible best with the things which comprise our business, and the things of justified interest over which we do have some control.

OF COURSE, there is a justified and proper area of concern about others, but it is well-defined and circumscribed; we must respect all boundaries and limits. We must do this for our well-being and for the well-being of others. Thus, we can make sure that we are not "meddling." This will leave us better able to help, when there is justified need for the help we may be able to give.

IF WE CONCENTRATE on the things which are rightfully our business, and establish the best priority system, putting first things first, we can enjoy a reasonably successful living experience.

Homemakers vote to give memorial

Young Homemakers of Texas met for their regular meeting Nov. 6 in the home of Linda Ward.

Melinda Heuson, vice-president, called the meeting to order. The group discussed plans for the food boxes to be given to needy families for Thanksgiving. The group is also planning to participate in Wesley United Methodist Church's annual Craft Bazaar on Dec. 1 at the Community Center.

The club elected to give a memorial to the American Heart Association in memory of one of the club members' husband, David York.

Ward read a devotional and the meeting was adjourned with refreshments following.

The next meeting will be at La Plata Junior High. The program will be given by Shelly Schilling on color analysis. Anyone wishing to come please call Linda Ward at 364-6112 or Brenda Mewis at 578-4312.

Hotline Established

Problem pregnancy hotline established Friday night

Hereford's first Problem Pregnancy Hotline was established Monday night during a public meeting on abortion. Janie Banner, at 364-7626, will be available for over-the-phone counseling and assistance.

Banner has counseled over 350 women via a hotline and through a counseling agency in Lubbock. She urges anyone who is faced with an untimely pregnancy to call her before making a decision which may affect that person the rest of their life.

All calls will be completely confidential and a name does not have to be given.

Nadine Behrends and Dr. Tim Revell were also present at the meeting, which drew a crowd of over 200 people, to answer questions from the audience. The program included a one hour filmstrip "Assignment Life" which is the second in a series being sponsored by Pro-Family-Pro Life.

The organization is non-sectarian and is dedicated to keeping the community informed on family-related issues.

Anyone interested in joining Pro Family-Pro Life may call Michelle Brisendine at 364-5299.

Pointers on shopping presented

"Cooking For One or Two" was the program presented by Susan Raney, assistant county extension agent, when members of Cultural Extension club met Friday in the Energas Flame Room. Mildred Lewis served as hostess.

Ms. Raney explained that knowing how to shop was important and gave several pointers on how to master the food market. They included shopping at off peak hours and when one is not hungry and looking for long shelf life foods.

Winnie Wiseman gave a reading for the opening exercise entitled "Mother Nature and Father Time Conspire" and roll call was answered with "My favorite hamburger dish."

Bertha Dettman presided over the business session when Edith Hunter, nominating committee chairman, gave a report from her committee of officers that had been chosen for the new year.

They include Nell Pope, president; Tillie Scott, vice-president; Elizabeth Conway, secretary; Bertha Dettmann, treasurer; Fannie Townsend, reporter; and Jewell Hargrave, council delegate.

Members were urged to attend the annual family Thanksgiving dinner scheduled at 6 p.m. Nov. 16 in the Flame Room.

The next regular club meeting will be a Christmas luncheon Dec. 14 in the home of Ms. Conway.

Others attending were Vernis Parsons, Carrie Mae Doak, Marie Thames and Jewel Rogers.

Cabbage Patch doll cake patterns received by club

"Wishes" was the poem read by Carol Odom when members of Sugar Works Cake Decorating Club met Thursday evening in her home.

During the meeting, members shared patterns for Cabbage Patch doll cakes and also received a pattern to make a white dough round ruffled Christmas tree ornament.

The group received a Wilton year-book for 1985 and also several candy recipes for Christmas.

Before the close of the meeting members discussed a project for the Hereford Satellite Work Training Center and problem areas concerning cake decorating.

Melinda Gamez was welcomed as a guest by those present. They included Ms. Odom, Sue Rogers, Paula Gamez, Sherry Davis and Mary Lou Abendschan.

Martha Schueler will present a program on candy demonstrations at the next meeting scheduled at 7 p.m. Dec. 13 in the home of Paula Gamez. Anyone wishing to attend is ask to call Ms. Gamez at 364-3141.

Leaders propose five new sites

HOUSTON (AP) — Efforts to bring a planned seven-ship Navy task force to Houston are being opposed by people who fear the vessels may contain nuclear weapons, a Galveston woman says.

A coalition of private and public officials begins meetings this week with a seven-member Navy site selection committee to push for consideration of five sites in the Houston-Galveston area. But another group is being formed to discuss whether nuclear weapons will be placed in the area, said Esther Gourley, a member of a Quaker group in Galveston.

"The Navy has a policy neither to confirm nor deny if the ships are carrying nuclear weapons, but we are almost 90 percent sure there will be nuclear arms," Ms. Gourley said.

At least 17 other Gulf Coast cities are vying for the Navy base, and the Southeast Texas area is not guaranteed to get the site.

A volunteer manager for the technical panel writing the proposal for the five Houston-Galveston sites, Olympic swimmers, practicing for their events, swim close to 10 miles a day and also have several hours of weightlifting.

In high diving, one of the most colorful of Olympic events, it is estimated that some contestants reach a speed of 50 miles per hour when they hit the water.

In Olympic water polo there are seven men on a side, one being the goalkeeper. The rules say the ball can be propelled by only one hand.

Manager Dave Johnson of the New York Mets, a .261 lifetime hitter, still connected for 43 homer runs for the Atlanta Braves in 1973.

Soviet woman describes plight

WASHINGTON (AP) — A mysterious postcard arrived one day in the mail, ordering Alexandra Finkelstein and her husband to report to authorities in the Soviet Union.

The card made no reference to the Finkelsteins' request for permission to leave their homeland. But underneath the stamp was "a handwritten note that had 600 R, meaning rubles, crossed two times," a reference to the cost of the couple's exit visas.

"I sat down, I took my cigarette and step-by-step, the realization came that it must be permission to leave," she said. "I was afraid to believe it. I thought it must be some kind of mistake. I was just in shock."

Thus ended the 13-year-long ordeal of the Finkelsteins, Soviet Jews who until last December had been denied permission to emigrate.

The plight of the so-called "refuseniks," who like the Finkelsteins are often dropped from their jobs, subjected to arbitrary searches and harassed by authorities, recently has drawn the attention of U.S. officials.

Refusenik is the anglicized term of the Russian "otkaznik," which applies to Jews barred from emigrating.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz said last month that Soviet persecution of its Jewish population, the third-largest in the world after the United States and Israel, "seems to be getting worse."

The situation for Soviet Jews appears "very grim," Shultz said in an appearance before the National Conference on Soviet Jewry, which also sponsored Mrs. Finkelstein's tour to the United States.

Mrs. Finkelstein, a 40-year-old marine biologist, her husband, Eitan, a physicist, and their 10-year-old daughter are among the dwindling number of Soviet Jews permitted to emigrate in recent years.

In 1979, the Soviet Jewry Research Bureau said 51,320 Jews left the Soviet Union, with most going to Israel. That number plummeted to 1,321 in 1983, and about 700 so far this year.

The Soviets claim that all Jews who wanted to emigrate have already done so, but Shultz said it is known that thousands have applied for visas and have been turned down. The Soviets estimate there are 1.8 million Jews in their country, but some Western demographers contend that figure is low.

Mrs. Finkelstein said she had no idea why her family was granted exit visas. "No reason was given. None," she said.

Despite their advanced degrees, Mrs. Finkelstein said she and her husband could not find suitable work where they were living in Vilnius, Lithuania, Finkelstein's native area. Mrs. Finkelstein had moved from Moscow because authorities had prevented the couple from living together in the capital, she said.

To support the family, Mrs. Finkelstein said her husband took a series of jobs as a driver, photographer and teacher.

Although they left Lithuania for Israel immediately after the visas were approved, Mrs. Finkelstein said she constantly relives experiences of the last decade and grieves for her friends and relatives still in the Soviet Union.

"In a way, I am (homesick) because I left so many friends there ... It is so painful because we are free ... it is sometimes unbearable," she said. She added: "Once you have felt the aura of freedom, you cannot forget it."

Anti-Semitism is virulent and omnipresent in the Soviet Union, said Mrs. Finkelstein. "Anti-Semitism has become so dangerous, so poisonous because the state is planting it from the highest level," she said.

There are only 74 synagogues, or roughly one for every 25,000 Jews; the teaching of Hebrew is prohibited; Jewish religious texts are not produced in the Soviet Union; and many Jewish cemeteries have been converted to other uses.

At the same time, Jews are unable to blend into the society because their internal passports are stamped "Jewish," Mrs. Finkelstein said.

"You're branded as a Jew, but you're not allowed to practice your faith," she said.

Mrs. Finkelstein said she believes the Soviets will ease restrictions on Jews only in response to public pressure from abroad.

"I still believe that if the pressure is so persistent ... at least we can save the refuseniks, but it will be a very serious battle," she said.

George Gershwin played his "Concerto in F," the first classical composition in jazz, at New York City's Carnegie Hall in 1925.

A chartered Spanish airliner exploded on takeoff from the Canary Islands in 1972 and 155 persons aboard were killed.

The communists took control of Laos in 1975 and declared an end to its 600-year-old monarchy.
